and their hair. They learned about the physics of bubbles by making their own bubble blower. They also watched as their Senior helper made bubbles and then turned on a light that lit up the bubbles. They learned about magnetism by trying to find out what objects were magnetic. They also learned about chemical changes. The girls used lemon juice to sour milk and watched what happened when they mixed vinegar and baking soda.

The Daisies then talked to the Brownies about the new and exciting things that were waiting for them at their next level. They were most excited to learn that when they're Brownies, they'll be allowed to spend the night at the group camporee.

Right now, all Girl Scouts except Daisies are busy selling Girl Scout cookies at cookie booths all over Central Florida.

Try-Its are the recognitions that Brownie Girl Scouts earn. One of the steps that Daisy Girl Scouts can do when bridging to Brownies is earn a Brownie Try-It. Monday, Feb. 8, Senior Troop 148 held a Brownie workshop for their sister troop of Brownies and for bridging Daisies.

The girls earned the Science wonders Try-It. They learned about static electricity by playing with balloons, paper

Open House To Discuss The Proposed Underground Natural Gas Pipeline Project

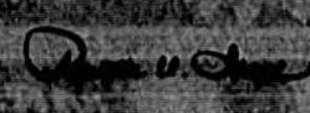

Please join me and members of our team at an open house to discuss a proposed underground pipeline project for supplying clean burning natural gas to the proposed Duke Energy New Smyrna Beach Power Company LTD., L.L.P. plant.

You'll have the opportunity to learn more about the proposed pipeline project and how it may affect you. We'll share with you the most recent information on the project and answer any questions you may have. More importantly, we will have a chance to hear from you about how the project can align with community interests and priorities.

The proposed pipeline project will contribute to the reliability of the power supply system for the state of Florida including the city of New Smyrna Beach. Natural gas provides a reliable and abundant power supply resource with environmentally friendly technology. The project will enable the reuse of water from an adjacent wastewater treatment plant. This project will also enable natural gas to be available for other residential, commercial and industrial opportunities.

Every year I treat myself to the same birthday present: a thorough health checkup.

My birthday serves as my reminder to make an appointment with my primary-care physician for a complete physical exam, and I encourage you to establish a similar tradition also.

We can get so caught up in our nurturing roles that we concentrate on getting our children, spouse or parents to the doctor for checkups and neglect to look after our own health needs. This concerns me, because early detection and treatment play a critical role in fighting disease and preventing additional health problems.

Unlike doctor's appointments made when we're sick and need treatment for a specific problem, this visit gives us a chance to create a plan for improving our health during the next year. It might include having medical tests, such as a mammogram and cholesterol and blood-pressure tests, getting advice on new medications, making lifestyle changes, or asking questions about prevention or treatment plans you've read about.

I have always tried to form a partnership with my doctors. After all, I am the expert on my body, and I need to share that expertise so my physician can make informed decisions about my health. If you don't feel you and your doctor have a good working relationship that promotes your optimal physical and emotional well-being, I suggest you search for a physician you're more comfortable with.

Before my yearly appointment, I make a list of any unusual symptoms I've had, noting such details as when they began, how long they lasted, any physical activity or stress I was experiencing at the time, and what I did to relieve the symptoms. I also make notes about my family's health history and questions I want to ask. Writing this information down increases my chance of having a complete, successful yearly exam. Don't hesitate to take notes when talking to your doctor, and ask which resources are available to help you follow through on his or her recommendations.

When your birthday rolls around, give yourself the gift of a lifetime. By taking care of yourself this way, chances are that you'll be celebrating many more birthdays to come.

10 ways to show love for your child on Valentine's Day

SPECIAL TO THE HERALD

1. Before your child is born, stay away from drugs, alcohol and tobacco.

2. Help your child's early brain development by setting aside time for reading. Even a young baby enjoys the attention and sound of her parent's voice, and children of all ages will benefit from a love of reading.

3. Talk with your pediatrician to be sure your child's health records are up to date, and that he has had all required immunizations. Keep a copy of health records at home.

4. Check your home for potential hazards and remove them. For example, be sure medicines, cleaning supplies and other potentially hazardous substances are inaccessible to children. Remove sharp objects from little ones' reach, remove furniture with hard or pointed edges, and keep small objects away from children younger than 3 years of age to prevent choking. Check with local officials to see if your home or water supply should be checked for lead.

5. Provide safe transportation. Remove rear-facing infant seats from front seats with air bags. Be sure your child's safety seat is properly installed in your car, and that it is the appropriate type for her height and weight. Remember that the back seat is the safest place for healthy children younger than age 12 to ride, and show your love by insisting they buckle up (just like you).

6. Write a list of questions to ask your child's caregivers to be sure the care setting is safe (including transportation), healthy and developmentally appropriate. Does your care provider know of any community efforts or activities that utilize child care settings to provide health and safety information to children, parents and staff? Make a note to get involved.

7. Use plenty of positive words. Encourage your child with phrases like "You can do it," and "You're such a big boy." Nurture his self-esteem and self-confidence by praising a job well done, and show interest in what he is saying.

8. Renew your efforts to monitor your child's activities and provide structure to her day by limiting the kinds and amounts of television she watches, enforcing her bedtime and homework time, and having meals at predictable times. To help her learn to respect her body, set a time to join your child in a physical activity, and offset gifts of candy with healthy treats.

9. Make an extra effort to set a good example at home and in public. Use words like "I'm sorry," "please," and "thank you." Handle frustration and anger in non-hurtful ways and without name-calling. (Avoid unwanted tension and frustration by allowing a bit of extra time for transitions for young children so they don't feel rushed and you don't feel hassled.)

10. Give him a hug. Or a cuddle, pat, secret sign or other gesture of affection your child favors. Try this when your child is angry, argumentative or in a bad mood. And don't forget to say "I love you" to children of all ages!

Strong seat belt laws can save lives

SPECIAL TO THE HERALD

Car crashes are the leading cause of death to children of all races.

Six out of ten children who die in crashes are completely unbuckled. Of those, nearly half would be alive today if drivers had just buckled them up.

Beginning Feb. 14, during National Child Passenger Safety Week, kids across America are calling on governors, legislators and other elected leaders in the 36 states that don't now have strong laws requiring adults to wear seat belts to enact a primary seat belt law.

Despite the fact that the majority of Americans understand the benefits of seat belts and child restraints and all states have a child passenger safety law, hundreds of children continue to die each year because they are unbuckled. Child passenger safety laws aren't enough to protect children. Increasing adult seat belt use is the most effective way to reduce the staggering number of children who are dying needlessly each year.

"From babies still riding on laps and being crushed, to young people being thrown from vehicles, these absolutely avoidable tragedies continue to occur," said Janet Dewey, Executive Director of the Air Bag & Seat Belt Safety Campaign. "We won't get kids buckled up until we get adults buckled up."

The Air Bag & Seat Belt Campaign, a program of the National Safety Council, is sponsoring the state capital visits here and across the country.

Facts

The estimated median age at first marriage in 1997 was 25.0 years for women and 26.7 years for men. The age for women equaled the 20th century high reached in 1997 while the age for men has dipped 0.4 years since it reached a 20th century high in 1996.

There were 114 unmarried men (i.e., never married, widowed or divorced), ages 18-44, for every 100 unmarried women of those ages in 1998. At older ages, however, the ratio reverses, to 146 unmarried women for every 100 unmarried men among 45- to 64-year-olds and 315 unmarried women for every 100 unmarried men among persons 65 and over.

In 1998, 13.7 million persons 25 to 34 had never been married, representing 36 percent of all persons in this age group. The respective totals for those 35 to 44 dropped to 6.8 million and 15 percent.

Woman's club sets Italian Night, Stein named 'Pilot Sweetheart'

The Sanford Woman's Club is gearing up for its annual Italian Night. For 13 years now, the club has prepared and dished up traditional tastes of Italy for the complete enjoyment of the community.

BIRDS VISIT WOMAN'S CLUB

During the March meeting of the Sanford Woman's Club, a highly entertaining program was presented by Michelle "Shelley" LaFontaine, owner of Birds by Michelle in Altamonte Springs.

The personable bird lady arrived with three domesticated birds: a small white cockatoo, named Thumper, a blue and gold macaw, T.J., and a rare scarlet macaw, Corky. Michelle has trained these birds to perform all sorts of feats. For instance, she asked the cockatoo what smoking would cause and the feisty little bird hacked a couple of times. When Michelle asked what too much smoking would do, Thumper fell over, faking death.

The niece of Rose Jacobson and Selma Newman, Michelle told the clubwomen never buy a bird unless you have plenty of undivided attention to give it. She said the macaws live to be from 60 to 100 years old, but never develop mentally beyond a 3-year-old child. She feeds her birds what she eats, from crab claws to mashed potatoes. Although the birds are tame, they can be very vindictive and jealous, she said.

Michelle puts on her bird show in schools and other gatherings. Wherever you see Michelle, you will likely see two or three birds perched on her arms and shoulders. President Bettye Smith presided over the business session and heard routine reports. Jane Morgan, education department chair, reported on the forthcoming Millennium Fashion Show to be held in May. The show will spotlight more than a century of fashions. Move on this later. Libby Prevatt, club rep to Hacienda Girls Ranch at Melbourne, reported on the ranch the girls, who have been abandoned or abused, are in need of various articles. A collection

Citizens saluted during Black History Month

Black History Month gives us the opportunity to commemorate those persons who are dedicated, working citizens in this community.

We must be sure that their work and achievements are known by our present generation. Let us not neglect our duties and give thanks for the success we have accomplished in Sanford and Central Florida through their efforts to help make Sanford a better place in which to live.

We salute the dedication of principal Dr. Bernadette Hardy-Blake and the staff of Croome Academy who strive daily to make the students strong, dedicated and achieving young citizens in this community. Their devotion as leaders in the educational system can create a proud legacy that will forever remain in the hearts and minds of the students.

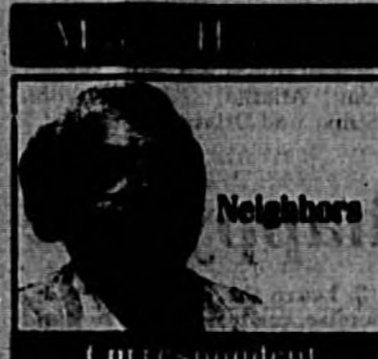

A special salute goes to John W. Thomas, who for the second year is head coach of the Croome Academy Panthers boys basketball team. Thanks also go to the players who have been stars throughout the season and will remain winners even under adverse circumstances.

To help the financial needs of the basketball team has been the alumni of Croome Academy including the classes of the 80s and 1981-1989. Also financially helping have been organizations and individuals who desire this program remain at the school. This program helps to build better citizens among our youth. Keep this program alive! Call 322-2688 or leave a message at Croome Academy 322-5789. Croome boys basketball is 4-5 in the conference district.

AT YOUR LEISURE

An exhibit of computer-manipulated photographic art, entitled Les Barta: Photo Constructions, will be on display at the SCC Fine Arts Gallery, from now through March 12.

Barta, a self-taught artist from Incline Village, Nev., is both a photographer and a computer artist. First photographing a single scene, he then scans the images into a computer, creating a photographic collage from what are now abstract structures. Through the computer, Barta proceeds to realign reality, thus altering the viewer's perception of the object. The artist says of his process, "It becomes apparent that the fixed meaning of things is arbitrary—that things, through the structure of their expression, are carriers of a more fundamental message: that all things are metaphors for the expression of abstract intent. We see, we interpret, we understand through metaphor. It is out common language with the world—our access to the universal."

Gallery hours for Les Barta: Photo Constructions are 9 a.m. through 6 p.m., Monday through Thursday, plus evenings of concerts and theatre performances. For additional information on SCC cultural events, call (407) 328-2039.

Anthony B. Knight, Curator of Education at the Museum of Arts and Sciences in Daytona Beach will address the Matland Art Center Auxiliary on Tuesday at noon. Knight, a writer and performer, will be speaking on "How Democratic is this Culture Thing Anyway?" This talk will explore how the democratic process influences our notion of culture. To reserve a seat call Rita at (407) 330-2181.

The Matland Art Center is a not-for-profit educational institution operated for the benefit of all who live and visit in Central Florida.

The Bacchae by Euripides with a translation by Michael Cacoyannis will be held at the Annie Russell Theatre on the campus of Rollins College. This event will take place Friday through February 27, 8 p.m. on Friday, Saturday, Wednesday and Thursday, 2 p.m. on Feb. 20; 4 p.m. on Feb. 21.

The box office is open from 1 to 5 p.m. during the week. For further information you may call (407) 644-2148. The ticket price for Wednesday, Thursday and the matinee is $11 and $14 for Friday and Saturday nights.

In this classic Greek tragedy, the god Dionysus returns to his birthplace, Thebes, to find that all references to his religious significance have been eradicated. His confrontation with Pentheus, the warrior-king of Thebes, provides the core of this powerful drama about the conflict between the primitive ritual of Bacchus and the authoritarian individualism of Pentheus. The form is classic, the emotions are primitive and the issues as profoundly psychological and socially charged as in some moderns.

Jay mingles with danger, and knowledge is achieved only with risk as Dionysus, the mythic god, embodied in the fragile form of man, combats the beast and unyielding Pentheus. The shocking downfall of Pentheus is a reminder of how far we humans can travel from our humanity.

There will be a talk-back following the play. 20 minutes with audience members can converse with cast, director and designers concerning the play and the production.

Getting to the heart of the matter

From Staff Reports and

U.S. Census Bureau Information

How can you mend a broken heart?

Do you use staples or 4-o silk?

If modern medicine could treat all of the ailments of the romantic heart, hospitals and doctor's offices would be full to overflowing.

Just think about it. There are soft hearts, that are bruised and battered by unrequited love. There are hard hearted people and people standing around with their hearts in their hands. And don't forget about all of those lonely and broken hearts.

The relationship between the heart, a soft, squishy organ, and love, an emotion generally believed only possible in human beings, has been the subject of verse, in poetry and song. It even has it's own holiday.

St. Valentine's Day, the day of hearts and flowers, Cupid and all those other symbols of love. But how did that come to be? There is historic basis for this day of sweethearts.

Edna Barth, in her book, "Hearts, Cupids and Red Roses: The Story of Valentine Symbols," suggests that the celebration is deeply rooted in Roman history, from the third century A.D.

Valentine was a priest with an affinity for young people. He apparently defied a decree, sent down by Emperor Claudius II, which stated that no one could marry or become engaged. Claudius needed all of the young men of the empire to become soldiers. Valentine, being the original romantic, secretly married the couples. He was discovered, arrested, imprisoned and finally put to death, on Feb. 14, the eve of Lupercalia. He was considered a martyr and made a saint.

Lupercalia was an important "pagan" festival held in ancient Rome, before Christianity, on Feb. 15 and "was probably established to ensure good crops, protect flocks and keep animals and owners healthy and fertile," Barth says in her book.

Despite attempts by the church to do away with these old rituals, "memories of Lupercalia as a celebration of mating were handed down" until, in the fifth century, the springtime celebrations attached themselves to the saint's name.

Many of the rituals included dances. On the night before Lupercalia, women wrote their names on paper and put them in a bowl. The men drew names, and these two would be partners at the next day's dance. This tradition continued on into medieval times, when the custom was for young men to pin the name on their partner on their sleeves, wearing it for almost a week. Hence, the saying of "wearing my heart on my sleeve."

But how did the heart get in the picture? Barth says the heart was regarded as the most vital organ of the living being and believed to contain the soul. The mythological god of love, Cupid, could prick the heart of the lover, with his arrow, and bring on a case of loveickness.

And red, which symbolizes warmth and feeling, "is the color of the human heart," Barth says.

So, Cupid's target, the heart, red and full of warmth, came to symbolize the holiday named after a saint.

Valentine fun facts

Niagara Falls has long been considered one of our nation's more romantic places (i.e., incorporated cities, towns, villages or boroughs). But it doesn't have the most romantic-sounding name. Among the contenders for that distinction are Valentine, Neb., whose population was estimated 2,884 in 1996, and Valentine, Texas, at 234.

And so is Loveland, Colo. with a population of 44,923, it is the most populous of the 10 places around the nation that have the word "love" as one of the syllables in their name. The other nine are Lovejoy, Ga.; Loves Park, Ill.; Lovelock, Nev.; Love Valley, N.C.; Loveland, Ohio; Loveland, Okla.; Lovelady, Texas; Lovettsville, Va.; and Lovell, Wyo.

If your valentine prefers flowers, we've got you covered! Some 26,728 florists nationwide piled their trade in 1996, employing 125,631 persons. Is it possible the flowers you buy this year came from Columbia, our nation's leading supplier of cut flowers. U.S. imports of cut flowers from Columbia between January and October 1998 were valued at $312.2 million. Or the flowers could have been grown right here in the U.S.: domestic production of cut flowers totaled $505 million in 1996.

The chocolate and candy you give or receive probably were made in one of our nation's manufacturing establishments. In 1996, 165 such establishments, employing 10,284 people, produced chocolate and cocoa products. These manufacturers shipped $3.3 billion worth of goods that year. Meanwhile, 694 US establishments, employing 52,999 people, manufactured candy and other confectionery products. They shipped $12.8 billion worth of goods that year.

In at least one respect, Pennsylvania and New York could be called the Nation's sweetest states. Pennsylvania has more establishments making candy and other confectionery products (76) than any other state while New York leads the nation in the number of establishments making chocolate and cocoa products (22). The Keystone State, however, leads the way in the number of persons employed in establishments manufacturing chocolate and cocoa products—

4,684—nearly four times more than the next leading state, California, which employs 1,344 in this trade. Illinois, meanwhile, leads the country in employees who make candy and other confectionery products, with 11,514.

Then again, these sugary delights could have been made somewhere outside the United States. Between January and October, 1998, the United States imported $278.8 million worth of chocolate from Canada, more than from any other country. Canada also was the leading supplier of nonchocolate candy to the United States during the same period, with shipments totaling $129.6 million. Though people can buy candy in many places, perhaps the best single retail source is one of the 4,742 candy, nut and confectionery stores located in the United States in 1996.

Marriage and Divorce

During 1996, 2.3 million marriages and 1.2 million divorces took place in the United States. That translates into 6,400 marriages and 3,200 divorces on a typical day.

Between 1990 and 1996, the annual number of marriages dropped by 99,000, while the annual number of divorces fell 32,000.

Nevada was the nation's marriage and divorce capital, racking up the highest marriage rate (88.1 marriages per 1,000 population), as well as the highest divorce rate (8.1 divorces per 1,000 population) of any state in 1995. Hawaii was a distant runner-up in the marriage rate (15.8) while Oklahoma, Wyoming and New Mexico (each at 6.7) tied for the second place in a divorce rate.

Among 18 to 24-year-olds, 21 percent of women and 11 percent of men were married as of 1998. The figures rose to 62 percent and 54 percent for 25-34-year-olds and 71 percent and 74 percent for 35-64-year-olds. For persons 65 and over, the percentage falls to 43 percent for women, but remains statistically unchanged for men.

Kids get crafty at Valentine program, share some secrets of young love

By Jeff Sullinger

ASSISTANT SPORTS EDITOR

SANFORD - Stacy Foster has a secret she wanted to tell.

She and about 50 other school kids were at the North Branch of the Seminole County Public Library Wednesday for a special Valentine's Day arts and crafts hour.

The kids, which hailed from elementary schools from all over the county but, especially, Lake Wales Christian Academy, were using a variety of objects to create the perfect Valentine's message.

Most were for parents and friends. Stacy made hers for her mother and father, but that she had a confession.

Actually, her friends copied the message for her.

The second-grader has a boyfriend. "We won't give out his name, but by all accounts, he's a pretty neat guy, and you'd be able to tell if you saw Stacy's face when she talked about him."

Actually, she also has two boyfriends. "One of them knows I like them and the other one doesn't," she said. "We just talk a lot but we never hold hands. All of the boys and girls at my school get along."

A lot of the other kids at arts and

Local students know their naval history

By Allison English McKee
Indian Trails Middle School

Oliver Hazard Perry, a naval hero of the early American republic, was born August 20, 1785 in South Kingston, Rhode Island and served as a naval officer during the war of 1812. Perry's best known battle was the Battle of Lake Erie, in which he defeated the British. For this defeat he received prize money, was promoted to permanent captaincy, and awarded a medal. Now let me tell you the story of Oliver Hazard Perry and the Battle of Lake Erie.

Oliver Hazard Perry started his naval career at the age of 13 on his father's ship the General Greene. Before the age of 18, Perry served upon many ships. By his 18th birthday, Perry accepted his first command and served in the Mediterranean Sea. When Perry returned to America from the Mediterranean, he accepted command of a ship which enforced Jefferson's embargo on Rhode Island. After his tour enforcing the embargo, Perry surveyed the New England coast on a ship named Revenge. The Revenge ran aground while surveying the coast and she had to be abandoned. Although Perry blamed himself for this mishap, the navy found him not responsible and complimented him for his struggle to save the ship.

"Then why do Americans want to go to Japan, sir?" Perry asked the mate, Samuel Potter. "It's not polite to go to places where you're not wanted, is it? Little did 'Cal' know that almost two hundred years later, he would be most famous for opening Japan to Western trade.

Matthew Calbraith Perry was born in Newport, Rhode Island, on April 10, 1794. His father, Christopher Perry, was also a sea captain. He was determined that his boys would be fine seamen, just as most of the Perrys were. "The Perrys are born to the sea," Captain Perry once told his friend, Samuel Potter.

When Matthew Perry was young, he envied his older brother, Oliver Perry, because "O" was a midshipman. Cal dreamed that he would one day be a great seaman and someday sail overseas to England, China, or maybe even Japan. He became interested in building model ships when his father started building ships, and he passed O's practice drills at home. Cal even won a contest with one of his model ships.

"I'd rather be a tree like that and fight against the wind," Cal said to his grandfather one day while they were taking a walk. "The cat-tails bend any old way the wind blows!" Cal's grandfather replied. "Another fighting Perry!" Finally, in 1809, Cal got his chance. He served on the Revenge, which was commanded by Oliver Perry, Cal's brother. This was the second time he'd ever been out to sea. The first time, he went with his father on the Martha Ann when he was nine. Cal was glad that his brother treated him like a real sailor, but Cal didn't see enough action on

The Navy saw much potential in Perry and rewarded him by giving him command of the gunboat headquarters and later promoting him to Master Commandant. After 18 months at gunboat headquarters, Perry found he so disliked the job that he wrote a letter to Isaac Chauncey, a Naval Captain commanding during the war of 1812. Perry asked if Captain Chauncey would accept him for service in his command. Captain Chauncey responded, "You are just the man I have been looking for." On March 27, 1813 Perry arrived at Presque Isle bay on Lake Erie under the command of Captain Chauncey.

At Presque Isle Bay, Perry's primary responsibility was to build and ready ships. Presque Isle bay was chosen because it had a natural sandbar that protected the ships under construction from attack by enemy ships under the command of British Captain Robert Barclay. After all the ships were completed, Perry took command of a fleet of nine ships. Perry's flag ship was named the Lawrence.

On August 10, Perry took his fleet and sailed westward to Put-in-Bay, an ideal spot to watch for the British fleet under the command of Captain Barclay. Perry's fleet first sighted the British off Put-in-Bay on September 10. Perry and the American ships did not have as good of guns as the British but had more of them. His plan was to use the strong winds that developed that day to close quickly with Barclay's fleet and turn the British long gun range advantage into his own number of gun advantage. Perry's flagship the Lawrence was heavily damaged when it quickly came up close to the British ships. Perry transferred his flag to the Niagara while the British battleship Detroit continued to fire on the Lawrence. While Perry reached the Niagara he closed with the Detroit which was damaged from its battle with the Lawrence and caused the British ships to surrender, thereby winning the Battle of Lake Erie. After the battle Perry wrote his famous letter to his commander General Harrison that stated, "We have met the enemy and they are ours..."

Commodore Perry had several assignments after the fateful Battle of Lake Erie. In 1819, Perry caught Yellow Fever while on the John Adams near Trinidad. He died at the age of 34 and was buried on Trinidad. In 1826, his remains were moved to his home town of Newport, Rhode Island.

that ship, so he asked to be moved to another ship. He ended up on the same ship as his brother, Raymond Perry, who was also a midshipman.

On the new ship, Cal was sailing with Commodore John Rodgers on the President after being on Oliver's ship for almost two years. After several months, he had become the commodore's personal aide. On May 6, 1811 seventeen-year-old Matthew C. Perry rounded up a crew for his first command to take a dispatch to the commodore from Washington, D.C. The men were glad to serve under young Perry. On May 17, 1811, when the commodore had returned, the President was under attack. The President crippled the other British ship, and all of America was so proud that the little Navy ship had defended itself.

Matthew fought in the war of 1812 and was wounded, but a wound could never slow down a Perry. Next, he served as executive officer on the Cyane. With the Cyane, he carried freed slaves back to Africa so they could establish a colony in 1820. The colony later became Liberia. When sails and masts gave way to steam engines, Cal became a captain and took command of one of the first steamships, the Fulton II in 1837. He urged the Navy to build more steamships, and he directed the first school gun practice on board the Fulton II in 1839 and 1840. During this time, Perry was deeply involved in developing the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Maryland. In 1843, Perry went back to Liberia and commanded the African Squadron. It was setup to protect the American settlements that were expanding and to help suppress slave trade. In the next war, Perry helped General Winfield Scott by commanding the squadron that seized Vera Cruz, Mexico from Santa Anna and the Mexicans in 1847.

The President decided that America needed to be friends and be able to trade with Japan, so he tried for the third time to get a letter to Japan's Emperor, Suki Midako. Only this time, he was going to send Commodore Matthew Calbraith Perry. "If anyone can open the door to Japan," said Daniel Webster, "I believe he will be the man." The squadrons of America steam warships reached Tokyo on March 8, 1854. "Old Matt will get the treaty we came for," sailors said. "Nobody can hold out against a Perry." Perry told the princes that trading between nations is a sign of friendship. The Americans had sent crates of American goods as presents to Japan. These presents interested the people, and everyone came to see them. The Japanese also brought gifts for the Americans, including an agreement to sign the treaty of friendship and trade with America. Perry's mission was accomplished on March 31, 1854 when he received the agreement papers.

As Perry sailed for home, he was not in good health. American merchants in China and back home showed great appreciation to him. He received silver from Rhode Island and New York City and a medal was struck in his honor from the merchants of Boston. He went to Washington in June 1855 to prepare a report of his expedition.

Two years later, Matthew Calbraith Perry died on March 4, 1857, in New York City, New York. He had accomplished many things which other people could not, but the greatest was opening the door to Japan.

the team that ended Duvall's 1998 season.

The season opens on Tuesday with a home game against Oak Ridge at 6:30 p.m., followed by a game in Daytona Beach against Mainland on Wednesday at 4 p.m. and the home contest with the Hawks, which will also be Parent Night, starting at 7 p.m.

Duvall was solid against Oviedo, putting down the first six Lion hitters while her teammates mounted a five-run second inning outburst. With one out, Gantt singled, Witte followed with a walk, and Angie Keefe bunted for a base hit to load the bases.

One out later, Crouse was hit by a pitch to force in the first run and Priddy drove in two more with a hard shot over third base. Seminole made it 5-0 when Duvall doubled to left field.

Oviedo, which finished second in the Seminole Athletic Conference to State Champion Lake Mary last year, came back in the third inning.

Tonya Howard and Amanda Tomasetti led off with singles and Nicole Nelson singled one out later to load the bases.

Sarah Reeber then cleared the bases with a booming triple to left. Duvall got out of the inning and the score remained 5-3 until Seminole came up with an insurance run in the fifth inning.

Ginny Carnes, who will share mound duty with Duvall this season, singled and later scored on another single by Moore.

Oviedo threatened in the top of the seventh inning, loading the bases with none out. But Duvall put down the rally with only one run scoring and Seminole had the victory.

this season? In several sports, including girls and boys soccer and football, players are removing their pads and uniforms before the game is over. It's a pet peeve, but is it really necessary for a football player to remove his jersey and pads with a minute left in the game or for soccer players to change their shoes as the final seconds wind down? It can't possibly save that much time.

It just looks bad.

The Patriots defeated Dr. Phillips 4-3 and Lyman 7-4. In other games, Lyman doubled the score on Oak Ridge, 12-6, and Dr. Phillips tripled the score on Oak Ridge, 9-3.

#21 Great Clips Pontiac Sunbird to Victory Lane in the Goody's Dash Series Discount Auto Parts 200.

Elder, from Minneapolis, MN, won in his first appearance at Daytona International Speedway in an 80-lap race slowed by several cautions and three red flags.

"This is a dream come true," said Elder. "I can't believe that I won in my first time at Daytona. It's unbelievable. I see this place and it gives me a feeling I just can't believe."

The first red flag came when pole-sitter Scott Weaver got forced into the front stretch wall, flipped over, rolled onto its wheels and was hit almost head-on by George Crenshaw, who was still moving in excess of 100 miles per hour.

Weaver and Crenshaw were both transported to Halifax Hospital with broken legs.

The second stoppage came when Daytona's Jimmy Foster and Trab Crews both flipped after being hit on the back stretch. No one was injured.

The final stoppage came with five laps left when Danny Bagwell's Ford suddenly veered into the wall and started rolling violently down the front stretch, finally coming to rest after eight rotations.

Bagwell, who was left with only his roll cage intact, crawled out of the car and got shakily to his feet. He was only shaken up.

Kenny Schrader will start from the pole for the NAPA Auto Parts 300 for the Busch Grand National Series today (Saturday) at noon.

The "Great American Race," the 41st Daytona 500 will wrap up Speedweeks on Sunday starting at 12:30 p.m. with Jeff Gordon and Tony Stewart starting on the front row.

Seminole girls may win ugly, but a win is a win

SANFORD - All that matters is getting a win.

That seems to be the slogan of the Seminole girls basketball team which is on a winning roll but continues to triumph despite playing some of the ugliest basketball you'll ever see.

Take Thursday's win over Ocala-Forest in the regional semi-finals.

The Nokes turned the ball over almost every way possible as they blew a nine-point halftime lead against the seventh-ranked team in the state.

Still, they found a way to win.

Last Friday in the district finals, they were 1-of-16 from the free throw line.

Still they found a way to win.

That's how they have played all season. To coach Sylvester Wynn's credit, he constantly has fielded the most frustrating team, at least to other coaches in Seminole County.

If you play Seminole, your players will spend a lot of time on the floor, wrestling around for loose balls and chasing air balls.

Some of the top teams in the area, including Winter Springs and Lake Mary played some of their worst games of the year against Seminole.

Simply, Seminole knows how to take a team out of its game, and that's how they win.

Sure, Seminole had eight losses this year, but only a pair to Winter Springs came to teams below the Class 6A level. It's a tribute to Wynn and Seminole that they play the best in the county and find a way to win.

Playing Pensacola Washington Saturday night won't be easy. They have only lost once all season and the Seminole bus didn't even leave the school parking lot until 7:30 p.m. Friday night, making for a long ride after a long day.

But don't be surprised if Washington doesn't find itself playing its worst game of the year. Also don't be shocked if it's a close game. No one is going to post a big number on the Nokes.

No matter what happens against Washington, next year the Seminoles are downright scary. Senior Night this year consisted of a tribute to Amanda Cook, the team's only senior, Seminole, in fact, has only one junior in the starting lineup.

They also have some experience when it comes to winning in Lakeland. Sophomore Marissa Kendrick was a member of the state champion Lake Mary varsity last year and Melia Mitchell and Janna Mitchell also were in the Lake Mary program.

The junior that is the leader on the court is Natascha Fisher who hit three straight three-pointers Thursday, but other players like Laquon Grayson (Sophomore), Felicia Williamson, Deanna Hurd, Deatre Hill and Cook have stepped up all season in a year when Seminole has a different star every night.

The Nokes are still young and obviously unpolished, but they have beaten everyone they've played on the Class 6A level all year.

Whatever happens against Washington, don't be shocked. But, win or lose, count it as a win.

Tournaments and more tournaments

Baseball, boys and girls basketball, and boys and girls soccer in action

By Dana Smith
SPORTS EDITOR

SANFORD - It may be the dead of winter and it sure feels like it this weekend, but the high school athletic seasons are about as hot as they can get.

Today, the Seminole High School First Pitch Baseball Classic wraps up at Seminole High School and the Lacrosse teams are playing their pre-season jamborees at Oviedo High School.

But on the front page today are the girls' basketball teams from Seminole and Winter Springs, who will earn a berth in the State Championships at the Lakeland Center next week if they can win on the road tonight.

The Fighting Seminoles are in Pensacola to battle once-beaten Washington High School, while the Bears are in Sarasota to take on Cardinal Mooney High School.

If either, or both, teams win tonight, they would play on Wednesday in Lakeland. The finals are set for next Friday.

On Monday and Tuesday, the boys' basketball teams will begin their district tournaments, with Crooms playing at Mount Dora Bible School on Monday night and Lake Brantley, Lake Mary, Lyman and Oviedo playing first round games of the Class 6A-District 3 Tournament at Lake Brantley High School.

Lake Howell and DeLand have byes until Wednesday in the 6A-3 tourney, while Seminole will open play in the Class 5A-District 5 Tournament on Tuesday.

Also on Monday, both Lake Brantley and Lyman will be hosting baseball tournaments (see schedule at right).

The soccer teams, both boys and girls, will return to action on Tuesday.

The girls will be playing the Regional Semifinals with Orange Park coming to Richard Evans Field to play Lake Howell; Lake Mary heading to Tallahassee to challenge Lincoln High School;

Winter Springs traveling to Tampa to take on Catholic High School; and Berkley Prep making the trek from Tampa to play at Orangewood Christian. All of the games are at 7 p.m. except for Orangewood, which starts at 4 p.m.

The boys soccer teams will be playing the Regional semifinals, with Oviedo, which defeated Apopka 8-0 Friday night, heading to Niceville, a 2-0 winner over St. Augustine, and Lake Mary, a 3-1 winner over Dr. Phillips, taking on Tallahassee-Lincoln, setting up a possible double-header with the girls in the state capitol. (A story will appear on the boys soccer in Tuesday's Herald).

Also on Tuesday, the softball, lacrosse and tennis teams will also be opening their regular season schedules.

Seminole senior pitcher Maria Duvall showed Friday night that she has recovered nicely from last year's season-ending injury, hurling a complete game victory and driving in two runs as the Nokes defeated Oviedo 6-4.

Seminole softball squad announces it is ready to win

SANFORD - It may have only been pre-season, but the Seminole High School softball team made a statement that should have the rest of its district reeling.

The Fighting Seminoles won the championship of their Seminole First Pitch Classic Friday night with a 6-4 win over visiting Oviedo.

The victory might not mean a thing in the standings, but Seminole, which struggled for years and finally had a breakthrough season in 1998, might have its best team in years.

Pitcher Maria Duvall, whose season ended early last year when she took a line drive to the face just before the district tournament, is one of the few Fighting Seminole seniors still around from the bad days.

Now, she is talking about bigger things than simply win-

DAYTONA BEACH - Dale Earnhardt continued his dominance on the high banks of Daytona International Speedway on Friday, beating some of the best competitors in modern racing during round one of the 25th Tru Value International Race of Champions series.

Earnhardt, with Bobby Labonte's help, came from behind and passed three-time defending IROC champion Mark Martin on the last lap, capturing the checkered flag in an event which matched 12 drivers in identically prepared IROC Pontiac Firebirds.

Earnhardt's win was his fifth IROC win at DIB and his eighth victory in the IROC series.

"It was exciting," said Earnhardt. "When Bobby Labonte got in there with us and we started cutting together, we came to the front. If it wasn't for Bobby, we probably wouldn't have won the race."

Business

Deciding what to bid

This week brought back many memories to me in our meetings with clients. Several I met with this week were seeking additional resources to allow them to seek out new business. Many small businesses face decisions like this each week as to the size and type of business they will pursue. First of all, most business people will acknowledge, intellectually that business for business sake is not always healthy.

Three factors need to be considered before you seek out some particular contract or order. First, does it fit your company and give you an advantage? Carefully, look at the opportunity and decide if it fits what you do well. All companies have strengths and weaknesses. Be honest with yourself and decide if your strengths give you an advantage over your competitors. Will you be forced to saddle yourself with long-term equipment costs or overhead to fill this order? Are the job costs recoverable within a reasonable term?

Several years ago I was approached by a major retailer to furnish a large order of trees beginning 13 months from then. The conditions of the sale was that we were to grow the item in a different size container than we normally did. The container size that was requested was one that other customers would not be interested in purchasing. The order was in the 6 figures and would be the largest single order we had ever received. I was excited and was busy spending my profits. But, fortunately for me, I had lunch with my mentor in the nursery business a few days later. Over lunch I couldn't wait to tell him of my good fortune and how I was going to use the money to expand. He listened to me carefully and began to ask a few questions. First, he asked did I normally grow that size container? Did I have a market for the crop if the buyer decided to change the contract? I replied that I would have a purchase order for the whole amount (after all I was a good businessman). Then he reminded me that this was real life not a textbook. Yes, I could sue for damages, etc., but in the meantime I would be strapped for cash and stuck with a crop that I couldn't move. Needless to say, after a sleepless night, I decided to pass and concentrate on what I knew I could do. I have never regretted my decision and later heard that the customer pulled some of the actions mentioned by my mentor.

The second factor to consider is, do you have the time? By that I mean, is the customer or client giving you sufficient time and information to carefully prepare a proposal. The old adage of haste makes waste is never truer when you are under pressure. In the construction business I have seen too many mistakes made by firms who didn't take the time to do a proper analysis.

The last factor you should carefully consider, is how does this contract fit into your current work flow? Do you have sufficient resources to handle the work within the terms of sale? Resources include finances, personnel and management.

Businesses have high expectations

SEMINOLE COUNTY - Business confidence seems to be high in Seminole County.

In a random sample survey of 151 people attending the Fourth Annual Growth Report luncheon recently, 84 percent said they expect Seminole County's economy to perform better in 1999 than in 1998.

Fifty-five percent said they expect Seminole County's economy to be somewhat better in 1999 than in 1998, while 29 percent said they expect the county's economy to be much better.

"What we're seeing is that there's still a great deal of confidence in Seminole County," Wayne Weinberg, president of the Greater Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, said.

The survey was conducted by the University of Central Florida's Center for Executive Development. Nearly 450 people attended the luncheon.

None of those surveyed said they expect the county's economy to do either somewhat worse or much worse. Only 16 percent said the county's economy would perform about the same as in 1998.

Nearly half, 46 percent, of the respondents said they expect their company to perform somewhat better in 1999 than in 1998, while 36 percent said they expect their business to do much better. Only four percent said they expect their business to do somewhat worse, and none said they expect their business to do much worse.

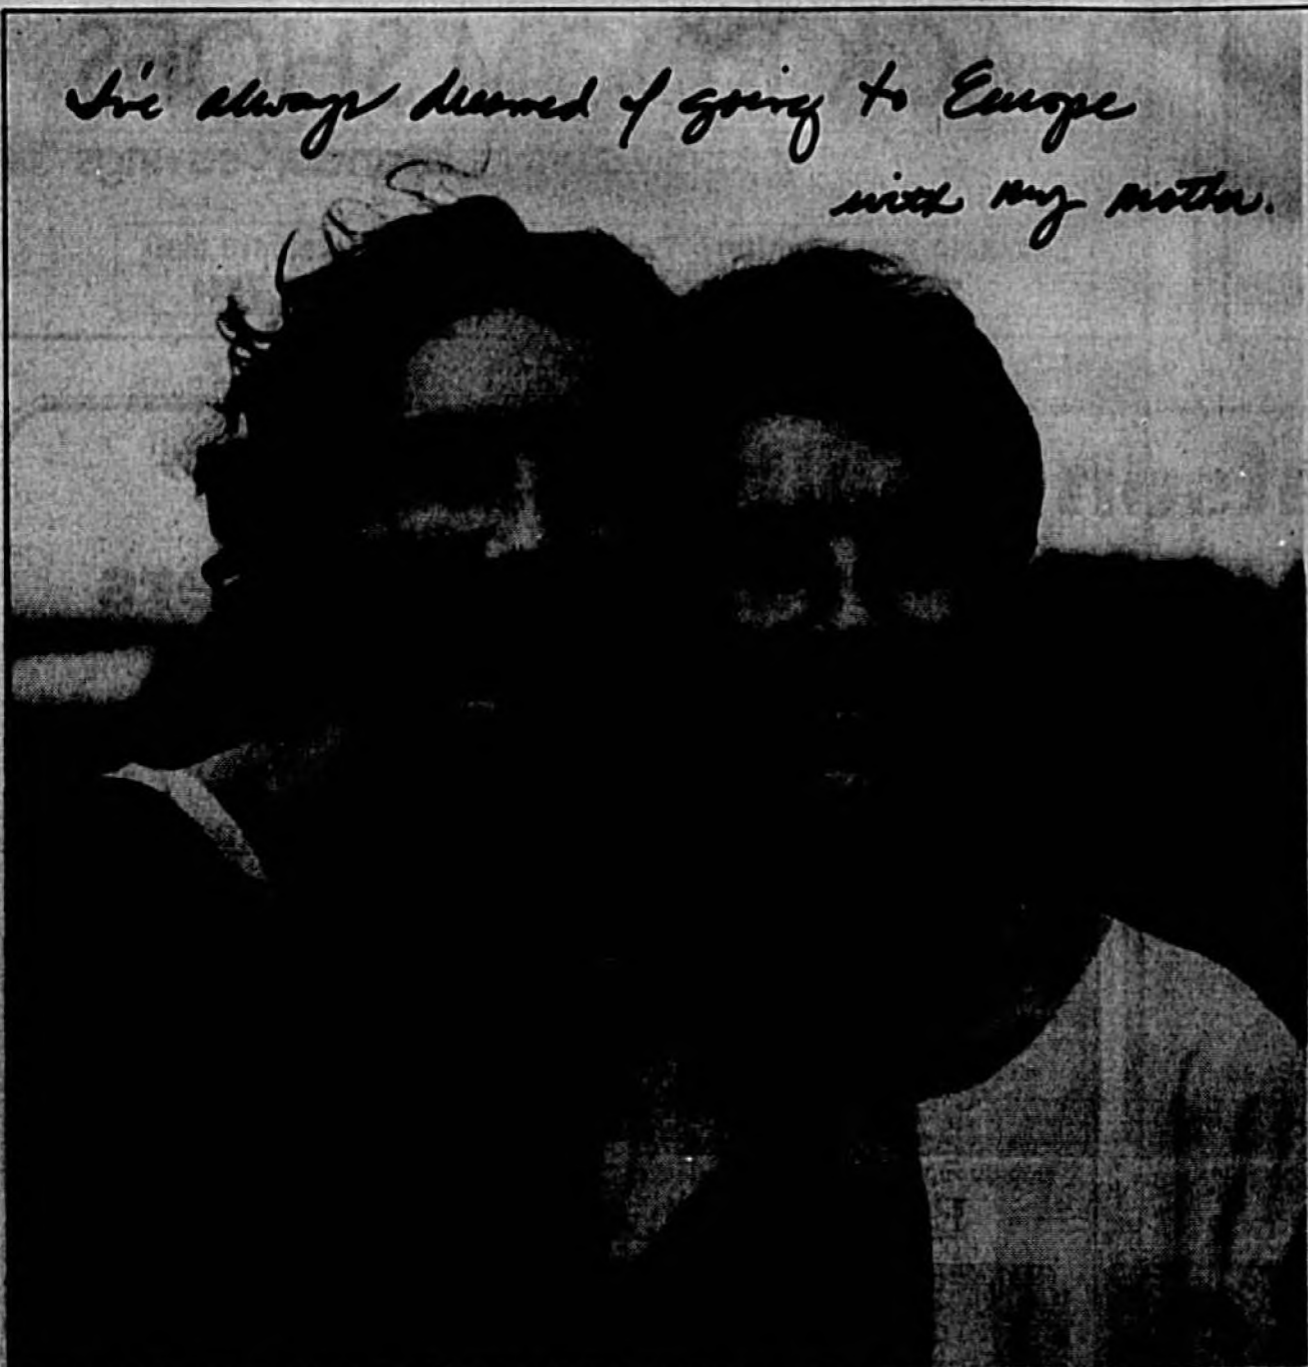

Compared to last year's survey, fewer people expect their business or Seminole County's economy to perform much better, according to Don Hoak, director of UCF's executive MBA program, said.

"While confidence in Seminole County is still very high, there are fewer responses than last year in the Very Much category," Hoak said. "Still, more than eight out of ten think '99 will be a better year than '98 for their business and for Seminole County."

More than half, 52 percent, said they expect Florida's economy to do somewhat better, while 22 percent said they expect Florida's economy to perform much better than in 1998. None said they expect Florida's economy to do either somewhat worse or much worse, while 26 percent said Florida's economy would do about the same.

Fewer of the respondents, 35 percent, said the U.S. economy would perform somewhat better. Only 11 percent said the U.S. economy would do much better. Nearly half, 45 percent, said the U.S. economy would do about the same as in 1998. Nine percent said the U.S. economy would perform somewhat worse.

Only 23 percent said the world's economy would perform somewhat better, while five percent said the world's economy would perform much better. Fifty-two percent said they expect the world's economy to do about the same. Nineteen percent said the world's economy would do somewhat worse, while two percent said much worse.

Business leaders can guide students into real world, job market

Students in Seminole County are gaining lessons beyond the classroom this month. Students have shadowed employees on the job, while people from the community have ventured into the classroom.

Students county-wide job shadowed employees for four hours this month, learning that having reading, writing, and mathematics skills is only the beginning of what it takes to succeed.

A high school diploma or college degree does not guarantee a good job. Building a career takes planning, sacrifice and perseverance. Job shadowing helps students make the connection between school and work.

One of the most common questions teachers face is "when will I ever use this?" Job shadowing lets students know that the skills they learn in school will not be wasted. It shows students that to build a career, they need to have strong character in addition to strong skills.

Teachers also participate in job shadowing. This helps teachers to tell students where the connection lies between education and building a career.

On Friday, more than 1,000 business people from across Central Florida participated in Seminole County's Teach-In. Leaders of the business community spent an hour or the entire day sharing their expertise with students.

Every school in Seminole County had guest speakers whose discussions ranged from the television industry to law enforcement, and even how to land a helicopter.

Members of the business community participated in tutoring students, helping on computers, or teaching an academic subject. They also shared experiences from their hobbies, travels and experiences from their careers.

The strong relationship between schools and the community in Seminole County is not limited to activities in February. Fourteen schools in the county were recently named five-star schools by the state for drawing from the community to improve student education.

Idylwild Elementary School has 15 active business partners, including restaurants that give lunches to students, and others that give T-shirts. The school has a partnership with the Seminole County Fire Department for CPR lessons.

At Lake Mary Elementary School students receive one-on-one tutoring from parents and staff in the Reading Acceleration Program.

At Greenwood Lakes Middle School, the Student Council worked with the Rotary Club of Lake Mary and the Seminole County YMCA to give shoes to the needy during the holiday season.

Parents of Pine Crest Elementary School students are receiving help in learning computers through the school's computer training program. Parents and children are learning basic computer skills at the same time.

Ralph Waldo Emerson said "the things taught in colleges and schools are not an education, but the means of education." A teacher's goal is to instill a thirst for learning. The education from school is only the beginning of a lifelong education.

A teacher can give homework and tests, but it is up to the student to pursue education and build a successful career.

On Ft. Mellon trees

As chairpersons of Sanford's Scenic Improvement Board we wish to clarify some of the remarks in Harold Chapman's letter to the editor dated Jan. 31, 1999 regarding the removal and relocation of the Famous and Historic Trees in Ft. Mellon Park.

Mr. Chapman, as a former member of the Scenic Improvement Board you were made aware that the removal and relocation of these trees were recommended by city staff and endorsed by the Scenic Improvement Board prior to approval by the Sanford City Commission. Back in December, 1997 there was talk that part of Ft. Mellon was being considered for possible commercial development. Because the City wanted to preserve these trees, which were donated by many of our citizens and local organizations, a decision was made to relocate the trees while they were still small and have a better chance of adapting to a new growing site. If delayed until the trees grew larger they would have to be removed at an even greater expense or cut down. Our goal is to save these trees.

The funds allocated for this project were primarily for the upgrading and redevelopment of Tudy Park. Only a minimal amount was budgeted for the relocation of the trees, and since the City of Orlando has volunteered some of their park staff to assist in the relocation cost will be further reduced. The majority of the expenses for the project were for the installation of brick sidewalks and various park amenities.

Relocating these historic trees to Tudy Park, which is located across the street from the Seminole County Student Museum, offers the opportunity for these visiting the site to enhance their historical experi-

The effects of widening State Road 46

By Justin Sapp

The once sleepy local byway through pastoral lands and the Wekiva River Basin may get a couple lanes wider. Feasibility studies are currently underway to add additional lanes to State Road 46 through Seminole and Lake counties. That portion of SR 46 under scrutiny is from I-4 at the Seminole Town Center northward to US 441 in Mount Dora.

The Department of Transportation, our federal agency in the business of building roads, along with Metro Plan Orlando (MPO), an organization of local elected officials responsible for preparing long-range transportation plans, are crunching numbers and contracting consultants to assess the need for expanding SR 46 to accommodate a recent boom in local population and particularly, a complex future growth projection.

The future of SR 46 is based upon information submitted by county officials and projection figures established in part, by MPO. Metro Plan Orlando (MPO) uses a computer-model representation that accounts for population, type of employment, residence-types (single-family vs. multi-family; high-density or low). In a rather complex computer analysis, MPO uses a forecasting model established by the University of Florida Bureau of Economics and Business Research. This model provides the control figures for growth and development. After the computer compares figures establishes the capacity of existing roads, runs growth figures, accounts for area needs, and performs a veritable whirlwind of technical wizardry, the results are spit out. Dave Growsdahl, Director of Transportation Planning with MPO, admits, "Forecasting is as much art as science." He also admits SR 46 is a special case. MPO considers the road an alternative to the proposed major Beltway which was intended to connect Apopka to I-4. Due to relentless outcry from local residents, environmental groups, and other subscribers to the Wekiva River Protection Act, the Beltway proposal was quashed.

Recently, MPO, whose constituents include local county commissioners, requested that the Department of Transportation look into widening SR46. Heather Bradshaw-Ellis, DOT employee and project manager for SR 46 widening and NW arterial feasibility study, is coordinating the information gathered from the specific transportation studies. The DOT, under request by the MPO has contracted a private company, Transportation Consulting Group, to conduct a traffic study and final analysis should be complete by the middle of February. Bradshaw-Ellis claims the study is only in the feasibility stage, but still no public meetings are scheduled to consider public opinion.

SR 46 is indeed a special case when considering future development. The sensitive watershed area which SR46 traverses is supposedly protected by state legislation (Wekiva River Protection Act) designating it to remain rural in character. Besides future water quality, it is important to consider the nuisance bear problem. Last year, seven bears were confirmed killed on the road; this despite bears having ample time to adjust to the low-rise wildlife crossing bridge built in 1994. Studies are still pending as to how the bears will be affected by a larger, and eventually much busier, roadway.

Thomas Eason, a University of Tennessee graduate who is currently completing his doctoral thesis, has recently been hired as the new State black bear Coordinator. The position had gone unfilled for over a year until Eason took the post with the Florida Game and Freshwater Fish Commission. Eason, along with Tim Otmear, chief of wildlife services for Game and Fish, is now organizing data on the 5-6 regions in Florida with significant bear populations. First on the agenda is a tracking study of the bears in the Ocala National Forest around State Road 40 and other local roadways. Through their efforts, Game and Fish plan to gain authoritative information on bears response to roadways intersecting their habitat. This information can then be submitted to DOT and considered for future planning of roadway expansion.

DOT admits this issue should be addressed. Heather Bradshaw-Ellis and DOT staff are working with the Florida Department of Environmental Protection, Game and Fish, and local Water Management officials to address the environmental impact that additional lanes would present. Terry Gilbert, with the Environmental Services Office of Game and Fish in Tallahassee, remembers this same issue when it surfaced in the past. Gilbert recalls, in the late 80s, DOT proposed to 4-lane SR 46, but we recommended against it. Gilbert isn't certain the road can stand again under the pressure of increased development. Gilbert humors to the fact, IDOT is like a slow moving bulldozer. I but in seriousness, adds, regardless of the decision to widen, I know DOT at least needs to retrofit the road for more animal crossings. Terry Gilbert also maintains, the big thing here is habitat fragmentation. What will happen to the bears using this corridor from Rock Springs up to Ocala? We still need to find out if the road expansion would represent a barrier to the animals movement.

For now, DOT is without this related data yet nearly prepared to make a decision regarding the proposed expansion of SR 46. MPO is without regard for this data and seems committed to develop SR 46 in lieu of the failed beltway project.

Suburban sprawl has serious consequences

By Susan Kairys-Courch

The Orlando area is rated number one with populations under 150,000 for Urban Sprawl according to Sierra Club and national statistics.

Urban Sprawl is low-density development beyond the edge of service and employment, which separates where people live from where they shop, work, recreate and educate, requiring cars to move between zones. The consequence of sprawl is traffic congestion, farmland loss, open fields, forests and wetlands, increased flooding, raised taxes to pay for services-police, fire and infrastructure, schools, roads, water, and sewer structure. Worsening air and water pollution. Longer commutes that steal time from family and work. How does sprawl hurt cities? Sprawl robs cities of character, sprawl erodes the city's tax base, sprawl destroys downtown commerce, sprawl undercuts

My Two Cents

property values.

The solutions? Redirecting growth back into the urban areas is essential in creating sustainable livable communities for the long term. Take an overall look at Sanford as an example of city too long polished of character. Redevelopment of our cities is smarter economically and environmentally.

More solutions? Agricultural zoning allows development only on lots of a minimum size and restricts land uses such as large subdivisions that are incompatible with farming and surrounding existing land use. Property owners must realize how they develop the rural land has a direct effect on those living around it and the future resources long term.

A number of communities are purchasing environmentally sensitive land or farmland to prevent development. Tallahassee plans to pay $1 million to buy land that will increase the Rural Legacy Program. Some idea of this may work for the park in downtown Sanford to transform it to a habitat gemstone by which the city surrounds it. Across the country, approaches before policy making bodies on the local, county or state levels are inspired by voter concern. Voters are increasingly turning to the ballot box to halt poorly managed development and champion responsible smart growth when given the chance.

Without responsible leadership of our elected officials and appointed boards to redirect growth, we lose sustainable communities long term. Staying consistent with compliance gives character to cities and preserves our natural resources for our own use and for future generations. The real cobwebs seem to be the ability to create a long term sustainable community plan. If other areas of the country are doing it, we can as well. We need not more of the same, suburban sprawl. It costs us all.

These headlines and their implications are ludicrous. Your own article points out that the lease payments to the city would be based on the gross revenues received by the hotel. Taking into consideration only room rental and excluding restaurant receipts, lounge receipts and any other source of revenue, and further making very modest assumptions as follows: a) a three hundred room hotel, b) seventy percent occupied, c) room rental rates $65.00 per night, d) Three hundred Sixty Five days per year.

Very simple math reflects rental revenue to the City of Sanford for the first year under the proposed lease under which the percentage of gross revenues would apply equals Forty Nine Thousand Eight Hundred Twenty Two ($49,822) Dollars per year. At two percent of gross revenues the rental income to the City equals Ninety

Do the math Recent headlines in your newspaper have indicated or suggested to the reading public that FPA Management and Development has asked the City of Sanford to lease a portion of the Fort Mellon Park site for the sum of seventy ($70) dollars for a period of seventy years.

Nine Thousand Six Hundred Forty Five ($9,645) Dollars. At three percent per year the rental revenue to the City of Sanford would equal One Hundred Forty Nine Thousand Four Hundred Sixty Seven ($149,467) Dollars per year. For the sixty seven (67) years under which the three percent formula would apply, the rental revenues to the City equals Ten Million, Fourteen Thousand, Two Hundred Eighty Nine ($10,014,289) Dollars. Do the math.

Beat a drum
for Gallaudet

The most enchanting basketball game I ever attended was not at the L.A. Forum, Madison Square Garden or any other grand arena.

It was played in a small gymnasium at Gallaudet University in Washington, D.C. Gallaudet, a school for the deaf, offers its students a number of intercollegiate sports including football and basketball. The Gallaudet players, though overmatched by the skill and size of their opponents, are supported warmly by classmates and friends.

Such was the case on St. Valentine's Day nearly 30 years ago. Gallaudet played Southeastern Business College that night. Southeastern, located in downtown Washington, D.C., was expected to win easily.

By the tipoff, there were less than a hundred Gallaudet rooters in the gym but they enthusiastically began cheering - some of it in sign language - for their players. A drummer produced a cadence that would get much louder as the game progressed.

The players did not hear the cheering or the drummer but they surely felt the presence of both. They realized vibrations from the drum. Good vibrations.

Gallaudet's team did not play well in the first half. The officials made what are known as traveling calls. It is difficult for deaf athletes to have the same coordination and agility as those who can hear. They try to make up for this with a great zest.

At the start of the second half, Gallaudet was down by 14 points. The deficit stayed that way until there was only six or seven minutes to play. Gallaudet scored three quick baskets and a free throw and trailed by seven. There were 4 minutes left in the game.

The comeback caused a stir in the students' rooting section. The drummer sounded like 10 drummers and the others made signs and sounds of joy. The players glanced at them and picked up a quicker pace than before.

A jump shot followed by a layup and free throw cut Southeastern's lead to two points with 15 seconds to play.

Calling time, the Southeastern coach warned his players to protect the ball - and to avoid fouls.

A Gallaudet player intercepted a pass near halfcourt and passed to a teammate who drove to the basket and made his shot as a flashing red light - and horn - signaled regulation time had ended with the scored tied. The referee signaled, however, that there was a foul on the play and the Gallaudet player would shoot a free throw.

As the youngster stood at the line, the excitement in the gym reached a crescendo. The drummer pounded feverishly.

Before he attempted his free throw, the deaf player stepped back from the line, held the basketball in his left hand and pressed the index finger of his right hand to his lips, requesting quiet from the rooting section.

He then made the free throw, and was carried triumphantly from the court by his teammates, coach - and the drummer who had joined the group.

I looked at my friend and saw his eyes watering, just as mine were.

Last time we talked, my friend asked if I still heard the drumming.

Yes. I always will.

State investigates bird deaths in Lake Apopka

SPECIAL TO THE HERALD

APOPKA - The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service is investigating the death of a number of fish and more than 200 birds at Lake Apopka, Florida. Found dead since January 24 were 23 endangered wood storks, approximately 200 white pelicans, several egrets, and a variety of fish.

"We're very concerned over the loss of these birds," said Sam D. Hamilton, the Service's Southeast Regional Director. "We are also worried about the many other waterfowl species like herring gulls, and fish that may also be at risk."

Hamilton said that biologists have, based on initial studies, ruled out known wildlife diseases. He added, however, that he wanted to assure the public that the Service was doing everything possible to insure a proactive, positive, and swift response to this threat.

He noted that the bird carcasses were being necropsied and the result should pinpoint the cause of death and hopefully, help identify a solution. The Service is working in cooperation with the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission. Please see Birds, Page 7A office by addressing transportation needs, the needs of local veterans, and education concerns.

"He (McCollum) has always been one of my political mentors," Ariale said.

Ariale said that working for McCollum may help him to serve Oviedo.

"The two do fit very well together," Ariale said of his council seat and position with McCollum. "I will be looking for federal funds to bring back for transportation, parks and recreation, and other areas."

Ariale said he is proud of the City Council's accomplishments during his tenure. He said he is proud of his role in passing Oviedo's conservation efforts, including the purchase of land to serve as a Trailhead where other trails will meet. The land will add more park area for residents, and conservation land for the city, Ariale said.

Ariale and his wife, Susan, have three children. They have two sons, Michael, 9, and Thomas, 6. Their daughter is Catherine, 2.

"We've loved Oviedo," Ariale said. "It's a great place to raise children."

The interview room will be designed to make children feel as comfortable as possible. It will have a two-way mirror so state attorneys and investigators can watch interviews.

"Our hope is to have a place where all the agencies are coming together," Crawford said. "They'll all know what's going on."

Impeach

Velma Williams said she was aware of "ambivalent feelings" of the county's citizens and surely agreed with those who "abhorred" the president's "reprehensible" behavior and conduct.

"I thank God, Almighty that the president wasn't removed from office," Williams said. "All along he has demonstrated and addressed the needs of the major problems in America - race relations. I'm pleased we can all get back to the real deal. Enough of the fears and frustrations."

Sanford Mayor Larry Dale, who frequently flies into other areas of the south, said he was constantly amazed at how angry people were about the president. "They talked about the polls being way, way off. These are people in Mississippi and other places where there are a lot of Democrats. They didn't want him off scott free."

A.A. McClanahan, a former Sanford commissioner who is running for office in March, said he wasn't happy with the results of the Senate voting on Thursday but he was relieved the trial was over. "I'm a former Navy man. I've not been impressed with this president's military decisions," McClanahan said.

Tony Tizio, the chairman of the county's new Council for the Disabled, said he hopes as the president turns all his attention to his duties he will consider issues of importance to the disadvantaged community. "We need his help and that of Congress. They won't be as distracted now. So, I'm pleased the trial is over."

County residents did not seem to be outraged that the president will gloat about his escape or turn on those who had fought to get him out of office. "He's not that stupid," said P.L. Retser of Longwood. "Those stories about payback were probably planted by his enemies not his staff."

Morris said he believes that the citizens of the county should respect Rep. Bill McCollum, who was one of the 13 House Managers presenting the impeachment case to the Senate. "Bill McCollum and Henry Hyde both get A's," Morris said. "The president should have been thrown out of office."

Clinton's exoneration was appropriate and welcome," according to one editorialist, "the end of a made for TV docudrama" to another.

"The trial was a historic experience that no one alive ever experienced," Rose said. "Some of it was fascinating."

The working man and the company CEO looked at it in different ways. We're all better for it being over."

How Seminole deals with the Terms of Impeachment

By Russ White
STAFF WRITER

SEMINOLE COUNTY - There weren't many impeachment celebrations in the county Friday night. Area residents had better things to do. Some went to see the new Mel Gibson movie, Payback. Others said they hoped the president harbored no thoughts of payback.

Bill Clinton was acquitted Friday on two counts of impeachment and will remain in the White House. Clinton apologized and life goes on.

"This thing has gone on 13 months and left most of us with little respect for what the president did and not that much more respect for his accusers," said Sanford Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Ron Rose.

"If I had done anything like he (the president) did, I would have had the integrity to resign," Rose said. "No company head or boss could have kept his job. As the soap opera went on, I'm impressed at how Clinton stayed focused, he did his job well."

Seminole County Commissioner Randy Morris was less complimentary after he heard the president's short apology Friday. "He tried to appear contrite, he gave us the head gestures," Morris said. "It may have been a good day for him but it was a bad one for the presidency."

Oviedo councilman will move to Washington

By Bill Kears
STAFF WRITER

OVIDEO - An Oviedo City Councilman will soon try balancing his elected duties with serving as the Chief of Staff for a senior member of the House of Representatives.

John Ariale will assume the new job with Bill McCollum, R-Longwood, on March 1, while maintaining his home in Oviedo. He plans to serve out his term, which ends in September. But, he will not seek re-election.

"Working for a congressman with the kind of seniority McCollum has is an opportunity I can't pass up," Ariale said. "It gives me the means to serve a much broader constituency, and it will be a wonderful challenge."

Ariale, who has served on the City Council for one year, said that he hopes his new position will not interfere with his City Council duties.

"I will be in-and-out of town more often," Ariale said. "If I start missing meetings on a regular basis I'll have to re-evaluate things. The nice thing is McCollum has a Congressional District office and a Washington, D.C. office. My home will remain in Oviedo."

From 1987 through 1996, Ariale served as McCollum's District Director in Orlando. He left McCollum's office to practice law.

McCollum was a House Prosecutor in the Senate Impeachment Trial. Ariale said he is looking forward to working with McCollum on projects such as reforming social security, the prison industry, and other national issues.

Ariale said he anticipates continuing to serve the local community through McCollum's

Safe house opens for abused children

By Bill Kears
STAFF WRITER

WINTER SPRINGS - Child abuse agencies in Seminole County will soon be able to treat children in a comfortable environment, where investigators can ask questions while making the child feel as safe as possible.

In less than a month, a team of agencies that investigate, prosecute and receive child abuse cases will begin using a house leased by the Seminole County Sheriff's Office to safeguard and question children.

Kids House of Seminole, Inc., made of 15 agencies, plans to open a new house March 9. The house is at 5467 N. County Road 437, near Winter Springs.

The "Kids House" will allow different agencies to interview and treat children in one location, saving children from being interviewed in several locations by different agencies.

"We're really excited," Nancy Crawford, Kids House program manager, said. "This is the best way to handle child abuse cases."

Kids House of Seminole, Inc., is made of 15 agencies. The organization combines the efforts of law enforcement, prosecutors, courts, social service, and mental health agencies in Seminole County.

"All the agencies involved have been looking for a way to do this for a couple years," Crawford said. "This was actually a confiscated house being used by the Sheriff's Office, and they decided they could let us use it. We're actually leasing it for a very low rate."

Kids House will initially be staffed by a Child Protection Team, made of two investigators plus administrative staff. The organization plans to add follow-up counseling and support services for victims and their families.

The organization is seeking funding to offer medical examination rooms with medical staff. The facility will be available for use around the clock, but Kids House does not plan to offer overnight housing for victims.

The facility will be used primarily during the investigative process. Interview rooms will be set up in a less threatening environment than might otherwise be possible. The rooms will have video audio recording. Please see Safe, Page 2A
