Kirchhoff Still Favors Old Hospital Renovations

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

The proposed plan by the Seminole County Commission to lease-purchase a $7 million, 100,000-square-foot administrative services building on county-owned property at Five Points "is not a bad deal for someone," County Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff told fellow delegates at the Wednesday night meeting of the Council of Local Governments in Seminole County.

But he added that he and County Commissioner Sandra Glenn supported the less expensive way of acquiring the space county government needs—renovation of the former county hospital at a maximum cost of $2.7 million. The county already owns the hospital. Kirchhoff said the 113,000 square feet of space at the hospital would be sufficient for county growth in operations until 2000 and more than sufficient parking space is already provided there.

On the other hand, Kirchhoff said by his calculations the Five Points proposal would cost $27 million over the 30 years before the county would have ownership of the facility. Under the plan someone else would build the new facility and lease it to the county.

Asked for more explanation why County Commissioners Bob Sturm, Robert G. "Bud" Feather and Barbara Christensen had opted for the new facility, Kirchhoff said apparently they wished to have a more centrally located and more modern building.

"You are going to have to say that faster," said Lake Mary Mayor Walter Sorenson, who added after the meeting that the explanation "doesn't wash."

Kirchhoff said another argument favoring the Five Points construction is that the county wouldn't have to put the money up all at once.

"I think the hospital renovations are the least expensive way to go," he said.

Kirchhoff also asked the city representatives to write letters to the Seminole County Legislative delegation favoring the county's proposed legislation to legalize last October's library bond referendum if they agree with the need for libraries. He said the county will call another referendum on the issue if it must, but he predicted the result of a second election would be the same as the last one—the voters will approve, he said.

Kirchhoff noted that 31-year veteran Supervisor of Elections Camilla Bruce has retired, adding Mrs. Bruce's replacement, Sandy Goard, will do a good job. The County Commission will support her, he said.

In reports from the other delegates, Winter Springs City Commissioner Burley "Buck" Adkins said that Winter Springs' application for federal funding to connect to the interceptor line to Orlando's Iron Bridge regional sewer plant was turned down because the city does not own a utility plant. Adkins said the good news from Winter Springs is that the city is in the final stages of negotiating to purchase the privately-owned water and sewer utility operating in the city.

Altamonte Springs City Commissioner Lee Constanline said City Manager Jeff Etchberger's resignation becomes effective March 25. He said the city is advertising in several publications for applicants for the position and the last day for applications is April 15. A new manager should be in place by May 15 or 16. An interim city manager will be selected by March 15, Constantine said, but it will not be a current department head.

Casselberry Mayor Charles Glascock reported that the city's new city hall will be dedicated in special ceremonies within the next few weeks.

Sorenson said Lake Mary is experiencing something of a building boom. He said that all lots in the Cardinal Oaks subdivision were sold out in three weeks.

Longwood Mayor June Lormann said her city is requiring persons who hold garage or carport sales to get city permits. And Oviedo Mayor Bob Whittier said Oviedo is in the process of selecting a new building official since the long-time official, Bud Claxton, is retiring because of ill health.

Knowles: Wait For Lawmakers

Sanford City Manager W. E. "Pete" Knowles urged a wait and see attitude be taken by the Council of Local Governments on two issues of importance to both city and county government in Seminole Wednesday night.

The issues he was referring to were: special legislation calling for county taxes to be levied on city and unincorporated areas residents alike in a fair and equal manner. He also urged the city and county officials watch closely the proposed state law requiring local governments to have state-certified building inspectors.

Speaking before the Council of Local Governments in Seminole County, Knowles said that the question of fair and equal taxation may be a moot one until the Florida Supreme Court rules within the next few months on a Palm Beach County case.

Noting the 4th District Court of Appeal has certified a case—Palm Beach County vs. the city of Palm Beach—to the high court, Knowles said any move for legislation on the double taxation issue should be delayed until the high court ruling is given, which could be three or four months away.

If the Legislature took action now it could cause confusion, he said.

A committee composed of city and county officials, which studied the double taxation issue, noted that court decisions used the words "real and substantial" to describe the services which the county government must provide to city residents.

The Sanford city manager also urged the city representatives to encourage their local city councils to write congressman asking that the federal revenue sharing program be extended beyond its September, 1983 expiration date.

Zoo Preliminary Report Says Facility Needs More Exhibits, Space

By Michael Beha
Herald Staff Writer

The Central Florida Zoo needs more space and more animal exhibits to draw more people and an Orlando park would provide both, a preliminary report by a University of Central Florida professor says.

The report, prepared by Dr. Peter Gillett, of UCF's Institute for Tourism Studies, said the zoo is drawing about 1/4 the people that other zoos in the United States attract and is situated on about 1/4 the land area that the average zoo occupies.

The zoo, located on U.S. Highway 17-92 near Sanford, occupies 21 acres compared to the 66 acres at the average zoo and draws about 117,000 people annually compared to the 460,000 average attendance at other zoos.

The zoo currently has 98 mammals in 36 species, less than the 235 mammals in 60 species that most zoos have, the report says.

But further expansion of the zoo is limited, Executive Director Al Rozon has said, because of the low marshy land that surrounds it.

An alternative location, Orlando's Turkey Lake Park, would solve the space problems and be closer to more people in Central Florida, according to the preliminary report. Turkey Lake Park has about 90 acres available to the zoo, plenty of room for necessary expansion, the report says.

By moving the zoo to the park, the number of people who live within 12 miles of the zoo would increase by more than 250,000.

Currently 158,731 people live within 12 miles of the zoo. About 429,000 people live within 12 miles of Turkey Lake Park. The zoo could draw more of those people if it relocated to Turkey Lake Park and beefed up its mammal collection, the report states. About 464,000 people would have visited the zoo in 1981 if it was in Orlando. About 117,000 people visited the zoo in 1981.

By 1986, the zoo's turnstiles would register 538,000 visitors at Turkey Lake Park and by 1995 about 600,000 people would visit the expanded zoo, the preliminary report states.

And as attendance increases, revenue should increase as well, the report says. The $550,000 taken in this year could climb to $1.8 million in 1986 and $2.13 million in 1995.

Newman Brock, president of the zoo's board of directors, said board members heard a 3 1/2-hour presentation from Gillett Monday night and are waiting for the professor's final report. A recommendation on where the zoo should be located is expected with the final report, which zoo board members expect to receive in two weeks.

The report was requested after Orlando officials offered the park, which has had declining attendance since 1978, as an alternative location for the zoo. When the site was offered, Brock said, the zoo board felt obligated to study its feasibility.

But Brock said the board has made no decision on moving the zoo. He said the topic is included on the board's next board meeting later this month.

Construction In Summer Seen

First Heathrow Project Sections OK'd By Board

The long-awaited Heathrow development near Lake Mary should make the jump from the drawing board to construction later this year, an official with Paulucci Enterprises said today.

Preliminary plans for the first two sections of Heathrow were approved by Seminole County's Planning and Zoning Board Wednesday night and now will be presented to county commissioners for final approval of those two sections of the 1,268-acre development.

The sections approved for development are a 37-acre parcel which will have 25 one-acre lots and a second 37-acre parcel which will have 62 1/2-acre lots. Paulucci Enterprises officials said the company would ask to use septic tanks for sewage disposal on both sections. A waiver will be needed on the second parcel because the lots are less than 1/2 acre.

The development has been in the planning stages for more than 10 years and when completed its 4,325 units will make it one of the largest housing developments in Florida. Tom Stevenson, director of real estate operations for Paulucci Enterprises, said today.

Stevenson said the company hopes to begin marketing the first two sections of the development to quality builders by this summer and expects houses to be ready for occupancy by early in 1984.

The development, located west of Interstate 4 and north of Lake Mary Boulevard, was the subject of a legal battle between Seminole County and Lake Mary officials.

That legal battle only recently came to an end. In October 1982 Lake Mary city commissioners dropped their court fight to annex the development into the city.

The city annexed Heathrow in July 1977 at Paulucci's request after the firm missed a deadline for the beginning of construction in the planned unit development.

But the annexation was challenged by Seminole County Commissioners who said the annexation created two enclaves: one, a piece of Lake Mary completely surrounded by the county and the second, a piece of the county completely surrounded by Lake Mary.

A panel of circuit court judges ruled in favor of the county's claim and an appeals court reaffirmed the ruling.

Stevenson said no timetable has been developed for the remainder of the project. Further development will depend upon the success of the first two parcels.

Heathrow will be a self-contained secure development, Stevenson said.

Property has been set aside in the development for construction of a school, fire station, sheriff's station and a small commercial center for specialty shops.

The Planning and Zoning Board also approved the rezoning of two lots in Mobile Manor, a trailer park near Longwood, for construction of a duplex.

Barry Burton, 112 Magnolia Ave., said he wants to put the duplex in to replace the trailer he has been living in.

The board approved the request over the objections of several residents and the county's engineering staff. The engineering staff said no further re-zoning should be allowed in the park until the substandard road is improved.

The board also approved preliminary plans: —For Dikewood Village, a planned unit development near Casselberry, which will have 122 lots on 40 acres.

—Sabal Chase at Sabal Point, a development with 37 houses proposed for construction in Sabal Point.

—Bay Lagoon Unit 2, a development by Continental Homes which will develop an abandoned borrow pit into the subdivision off of E.E. Williamson Road between Lake Mary and Longwood.

IN BRIEF

Social Security Bailout Gets Bipartisan Support

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A $165 billion bill to heal Social Security's ills by tax increases and benefit cuts is headed for the House floor, its prospects boosted by a surprisingly strong bipartisan endorsement from the Ways and Means Committee.

The committee voted 32-3 Wednesday for the financing bill that includes payroll tax hikes, a six-month benefits freeze, a first-ever benefits tax and a requirement that new federal workers join.

Still to be decided is the touchy issue of raising the 65-year retirement age. The committee bill combines payroll tax hikes and a reduction in the basic benefit for new retirees next century to erase Social Security's long-term debt.

But House leaders will allow separate floor vote on whether to substitute a retirement age increase, which conservatives favor, or a straight payroll tax increase proposed by liberals.

EPA Plan 'Unacceptable'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan's offer to provide more secret Environmental Protection Agency documents is being received cautiously by one congressman investigating the agency. Others say flatly it's unacceptable.

Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes, who made the offer at a press briefing in California, said the documents will be made available to the committees under the same kind of terms the White House reached Feb. 18 with Rep. Elliott Levitas, D-Ga., chairman of another House subcommittee investigating EPA.

The administration agreed to give Levitas' subcommittee access to the documents with procedures to keep what the agency calls "enforcement-sensitive" portions confidential. The administration can initially censor portions of the documents, but the subcommittee can gain access after following the proscribed procedures.

Hundreds Flee Lava Flow

KAPANA, Hawaii (UPI) — Kilauea Volcano, spewing fire fountains 300 feet high, paved a downhill street in glowing orange lava today, forcing hundreds of people to flee their homes and drawing a crowd of onlookers to watch "the greatest show in the world."

Civil Defense officials said all 50 families in the hillside Royal Gardens subdivision were evacuated. Many stood on coastal roads watching the 25-foot-high, 500-foot-wide lava wall as it tumbled at 30 feet an hour down Queen Avenue. The home nearest the lava was 300 feet.

The molten rock which had spilled over a trough 3 miles from the volcanic eruption charred trees and brush as it meandered down the hill. The lava had been puddling in the trough for two days as a result of a Jan. 3 eruption.

NATIONAL REPORT: A ferocious storm that battered California winds and waves moved into the Southwest today, threatening to dump a foot of snow on the Arizona, Colorado and California mountains and whip up severe thunderstorms en route to the Plains. Thousands of Californians Wednesday fled a deadly combination of rain, high winds, floods, mud slides and pounding surf that turned historic piers to kindling, luxury homes into driftwood and caused an estimated $303 million damage. At least 19 deaths have been blamed on the six-day West Coast storm. Avalanche warnings were posted in central Idaho, where 22 inches of snow has fallen since Monday night. Up to a foot of snow was expected to blanket the mountains of Southern California, Arizona and Colorado today as skies began to clear over the coast and the bad weather moved inland. New England was doused with heavy rains that turned to sleet and snow in the mountains. More than an inch of rain fell at Providence, R.I., and Concord, N.H.

A smiling Dick Fess, president of the Lake Mary Chamber of Commerce, shaves off the beard Mayor Walter Sorenson has sported for the past six years so the two can start out equal in a beard-growing contest as part of the chamber's 60th anniversary. Above, Sorenson as he looks sans beard.

Chamber's Pioneer Days A Hair Lifting Experience

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

Lake Mary Mayor Walter Sorenson lost his six-year-old beard Wednesday afternoon in a challenge from Lake Mary Chamber of Commerce President Dick Fess. And off came the mustache, sported for some years by Larry Strickler, Sanford's Southern Bell Telephone Co. office manager, at the hands of David Jostwick of NCR.

It was all part of a beard-growing contest in preparation for the chamber's 60th anniversary pioneer days parade and celebration on May 14. In Sorenson's case, he had to shave off his beard to participate. All those planning to enter the beard-growing contest are to show up at City Hall at 8 p.m., Monday, faces cleanly shaven. Then the contest will begin.

Prizes are to be awarded May 14 for the neatest and the longest beard.

Fess, who had unsuccessfully challenged Sorenson in his bid for a fifth term as Lake Mary mayor in December, assisted Sorenson in the "face off", staged at City Hall at 3 p.m. Wednesday. Fess first clipped Sorenson's beard with electric clippers and then shaved part of the remaining whiskers with a straight razor before Sorenson called a halt and completed the job with an ordinary razor.

An athlete, who especially enjoys running, Sorenson shaved last some six years ago after breaking some facial bones during an athletic contest.

Strickler last offered to grow a beard if his Sanford Chamber of Commerce committee lost a contest in a membership drive. He said Wednesday that he was willing to fulfill that beard-growing pledge until he could participate in the Lake Mary Chamber event. He was somewhat surprised when Fess insisted that his moustache had to go Wednesday afternoon.

Jostwick, using the same electric clippers, removed the lip hair for Strickler.

Two Seminole Men Arrested On Drug Charges

Two men arrested by Seminole County undercover agents in separate drug busts Wednesday are free today on bond.

Deputies said Scott Allen Burnside, 22, of 1512 Classic Drive, Longwood, was arrested in the T&Y parking lot, U.S. Highway 17-92, Longwood, at about 8 p.m. Tuesday allegedly after having earlier discussed the sale of cars and drugs at Mackenney Auto Sales, U.S. Highway 17-92, Fern Park.

During a conversation with narcotics agents in the business office of the car lot where he worked, Burnside reportedly sold the agents some LSD, according to an arrest report.

Burnside was arrested and charged with the sale of LSD and held on $10,000 bond which was later reduced to $3,000.

In a separate case, James Vincent Insalaco, 32, of 1915B Ash Circle, Casselberry, was arrested at 2:49 p.m. Wednesday after agents reported finding several marijuana plants growing in his apartment. He was charged with cultivation and possession of a controlled substance, and possession of drug paraphernalia. He was later released on $8,000 bond.

DERAILMENT PROBED

Railroad investigators were continuing their investigation today of a Monday afternoon derailment of two freight cars and a caboose at a crossing on State Road 46 just outside Sanford.

No one was injured when the last two freight cars and the caboose of the 19-car train slid off the rails as it travelled at 5 mph across the level crossing which is guarded by safety barriers.

"There may have been a little bit of dirt on the track after the rains which caused the accident," according to Clayton W. Shiver, Train Master and Road Foreman of Engineers for Seaboard Systems Railroad, which operates freight services from Sanford.

It is possible that sand from nearby earthworks for the road and bridge being built over the tracks could have been washed on top the rails making the rear cars and caboose "skid" off the rails set low in the road, Shiver said.

The two derailed cars and the caboose were disconnected from the rest of the train which continued on its journey to Winter Garden.

Rush-hour traffic backed up as railroad supervisors and workers used special equipment to get the cars back onto the tracks.

"The crossing was clear within less than an hour and we apologize for the inconvenience to motorists," said Shriver.

The train was not travelling on the main line but on what is called a yard line which runs parallel to the main line.

"We are using the track today. It is safe to use and engineers have been renewing the lengths which were damaged," Shiver said. "I would certainly think that we are in the area of $1,000 to $2,000 damage to the track."

GRAPEFRUITS GRABBED

Someone apparently likes the grapefruits hanging on Herman Eplin's tree in his yard at 410 Oak Drive, Sanford.

Instead of just taking one or two, someone swiped 60 of them, which Eplin values at $100, at unknown times between February 26 and Tuesday.

WELL EQUIPMENT DAMAGED

Vandals caused $1,288 worth of damage to some deep well equipment on a construction site at Moore Street in south Seminole County between February 23 and Tuesday, says a sheriff's report.

The property, owned by the American Housing Association, was on Lot 29 and 30. Thieves also stole a $250 water storage tank.

DUI ARRESTS

The following people were arrested in Seminole County and charged with driving under the influence (DUI):

- Spencer Green, 38, of Sorolla Court, Orlando, was arrested after being involved in an accident at 10th St. and Mulberry Avenue, Sanford, at 12:23 a.m. Wednesday.
- Michael J. Apazeller, 28, of Akron, Ohio, was arrested after the car he was driving was seen going down State Road 15 at 12:29 a.m. on Wednesday without any lights.
- He was also charged with driving on a suspended license and attaching a tag not assigned to him.

Legislators Confident Gas Tax Plan Near Passage

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Clermont Sen. Richard Langley managed through a parliamentary maneuver to block legislative approval of a transportation tax increase plan, but Senate leaders say the setback is only temporary.

A package of increases in license tags and taxes on gas, jet fuel and heavy trucks worked out by a conference committee was accepted by the House Wednesday night and sent over to the Senate.

Langley contended the Senate would be violating its rules if it took up the plan, and Rules Chairman Dempsey Barron of Panama City was forced to agree. Acting on Barron's recommendation, Senate President Curtis Peterson ruled shortly before 2 a.m. today that the conference committee report could not come up for a vote.

The conference committee will return to work, with legislators confident some version of a transportation tax increase package will be passed and sent to Gov. Bob Graham.

The Legislature convened in special session at noon Tuesday to try to comply with Graham's request for an extra $250 million for state road resurfacing and bridge repairs and taxing authority for local governments with transportation needs.

Boy's Kidnapper Hunted

VERO BEACH (UPI) — About 50 FBI agents and sheriff's officers pursued several "good leads" today in hopes of quickly finding a blond, blue-eyed 4-year-old boy kidnapped from his home Tuesday.

Authorities, expressing concern for the boy's welfare, gave only a few details about the kidnapping and the investigation after the case was first reported Wednesday.

The FBI released a picture and description of the missing boy, who officers said is the son of a "prominent" Vero Beach physician. They declined to release his identity or that of his parents.

Authorities say they do not want a repeat of the tragic 1981 abduction of another Florida boy, 6-year-old Adam Walsh, whose severed head was found in a canal two weeks later. Police said publicity in that case may have affected the actions of the kidnapper.

Boody Case To The Jury

MARIANNA (UPI) — The jury was expected to begin considering a verdict today in the trial of Dr. Frederick Boody, who says hallucinations about baby-killer Christine Falling and burning books drove him to attempt suicide twice and accidentally set his home on fire.

Boody, 30, testified calmly for an hour Wednesday in his own defense of felony charges of arson and insurance fraud and two misdemeanor counts of giving false information to police. If convicted, he faces a maximum sentence of 20 years in prison on the felony charges and 120 days in jail on the misdemeanors.

Boody told jurors he suffered from manic depression which caused the hallucinations. He is now taking medication to control the mental disorder, the physician said.

Armed Israeli Civilians Raid Palestinian School

YATTA, Israeli-occupied West Bank (UPI) — Jewish settlers in pursuit of youths who stoned an Israeli car burst into a Palestinian school today and held Arab students at gunpoint for an hour, a school official said.

There were no reports of casualties during the incident at a secondary school in the village of Yatta, near Hebron.

"Stones were thrown at an Israeli car and its passengers got out and fired in the air to disperse the demonstrators," an Israeli military source said. "The demonstrators fled in the direction of the school and the Israelis went in after them."

Today's incident was the latest in escalating violence in the occupied West Bank. On Tuesday, Palestinian news reports said Jewish settlers entered the Yatta school and took two Palestinian students to a military police station. An Israeli military spokesman said the Jewish settlers fired in the air Tuesday to disperse Palestinians who barged their car with rocks. An official at the Yatta School said the two Palestinian students still were in custody.

OPEC Cut Won't Lower Cost At Pump

United Press International

OPEC's anticipated $4 a barrel price cut will not affect the cost of American home-heating oil and gasoline — now below $1 a gallon in some places — but consumers could get a break if the cartel drops their price below $30, analysts say.

Weak world oil demand has already forced refiners to cut retail gasoline and heating oil prices to levels consistent with $30-a-barrel oil and put the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries under intolerable pressure to reduce its crude prices.

Oil specialists generally expect OPEC to lower its base price by $4 to $30 a barrel within the next few days in a bid to avert a full-scale price war and to put a floor under world oil prices. A barrel contains 42 gallons.

"There have been many misleading predictions from economists and government officials that a reduction in OPEC's official prices would mean a windfall for the U.S. consumer," said analyst Dan Lundberg of the Los Angeles-based Lundberg Survey that tracks pump prices nationwide.

He said the move would arrest the recent decline in retail gasoline prices and motorists probably would not see further reductions. Should OPEC opt for a price rollback to $28 or $29 a barrel, however, "then the consumer could look forward to a continuing decrease in petroleum product prices."

The average retail price for regular leaded gasoline at cash-discount pumps has fallen below $1 a gallon to 90.28 cents in Seattle, 95.26 cents in Dallas, and 99.58 cents in Los Angeles, the Lundberg Survey shows.

Homeowners who come up with cash are paying less than $1 a gallon for home-heating oil in parts of Philadelphia and New Jersey, industry sources said.

The average U.S. pump price for all four grades of gasoline plummeted by 9 cents from the end of December to $1.1395 a gallon on Feb. 25 when Lundberg conducted the most recent 50-state survey.

He said the steep drop at the pump reflected falling crude oil prices on the international spot market, where oil is sold to the highest bidder in transactions viewed as an accurate indicator of future OPEC pricing.

The average retail home-heating oil price fell 3.5 cents to $1.194 a gallon in January — the latest data available from the Bureau of Labor Statistics — from $1.229 a gallon in December.

Since late January spot prices for home-heating oil have skidded almost 6 cents to 73 cents a gallon and regular leaded gasoline has fallen more than a nickel to 76 cents a gallon in New York harbor, said Al Bassano, editor of the Oil Buyers Guide in Lakewood, N.J.

"On the spot market 75 cents a gallon is roughly equivalent to the high $20s or $30 a barrel for OPEC oil," he said.

"The consumer is the last in the world to feel any price relief, but there is still room for prices to move down if OPEC cuts back to $28 or $29 a barrel."

Which Killed 1, Hurt 12

Gas Leak Caused Apartment Blast

GREENVILLE, N.C. (UPI) — Fire Department officials say a propane gas leak in a laundry room may have caused the explosion at an apartment complex that killed a college student and injured 12 other people.

The Wednesday explosion, which was heard 3 miles away, crumbled the 10-apartment building into a 15-foot-high pile of rubble. It also threw a woman into a tree, tossed debris into trees 75 feet tall and shattered windows more than 100 yards away.

"I heard the explosion and then the ceiling collapsed," said John Felton, 23, one of the East Carolina University students who lived in the building.

The former football player from Edenton said most of the ceiling fell around rather than on him, allowing him to run barefoot down a glass-strewn hall. Eventually he put on shoes and headed outside.

The scene there was even worse. Felton said he rescued a man trapped under a propane gas tank spraying fuel skyward. He said he was "just going crazy" trying to help others when rescue squads rushed him to the hospital for treatment of his cuts and abrasions.

Fire Chief Jenness Allen said leaking propane gas in a laundry room apparently caused the explosion, although a formal investigation was under way to determine the exact cause. Police Chief E.C. Cannon said foul play was not suspected.

Stuart Sloan, like Felton, lived near the unit of Village Green apartments that was destroyed. He said he helped rescue one woman sandwiched between two floors in the rubble.

"It was a pile of apartment," the bearded English major from Jacksonville said. "Another guy and I had flashlights and we were shining them into the pool when we spotted a foot under a mattress. When we pulled him out he was dead."

The dead man was identified as David Martin, 21. Authorities say the Raleigh native was thrown into the empty pool and buried by rubble.

Six of the 12 injured were admitted to Pitt County Memorial Hospital, two of them in guarded condition. Hospital Information Director George Hedrick said Richard Seabolt of Durham successfully underwent surgery for head injuries and a lacerated liver, while Scott Cumby of Burlington was suffering from bruised lungs.

Health Care For The Unemployed

HOUSTON (UPI) — Adam Levy, 37, married and the father of four children, was laid off at Hughes Tool Co. last Oct. 20. His health insurance coverage ended at midnight the same day.

"I started having stomach trouble a couple of months after I got laid off," said Levy. "I had been putting it off. It had gotten so bad until I was going to borrow some money to go see a doctor."

Then Levy, who was struggling to support his family on his $168 bi-weekly Texas unemployment benefits, heard the Harris County Medical Society was organizing doctors to give medical care at no charge to jobless who had lost health insurance.

Levy called the advertised phone number. Medical society secretaries answered, initially screened his complaint to be reasonably sure he qualified, then turned him over to other staff who referred him to a doctor.

Levy was not alone in a city where joblessness jumped to 9.1 percent in January because of the extended downturn in the oil industry.

The program started Feb. 14 and the first week the Medical Society received more than 3,500 qualifying calls. The response was so overwhelming, the staff called in the Medical Society Auxiliary, wives of doctors, to help.

Now, in the third week, calls are still coming in at a heavy rate. The society has started getting calls from other medical societies asking how the program was organized.

"This is not an original idea," said Medical Society spokesman Dan Finch. "But for some reason we've gotten the publicity."

"It was simple. We already had a referral service for newcomers. We have a computer with all 4,500 Harris County doctors on it. We just built on that."

Dr. Joel Reed, president of the Medical Society, said that when he sent a circular in late January asking doctors if they would participate, response was strong.

"We received such an overwhelming response (1,000 initially, more later), we knew we had a winner. We went ahead and fed those names into the same type of computer program as our regular referral," Reed said.

Reed also received a favorable response from the Harris County Pharmaceutical Society, Harris County hospitals and laboratory operators.

Shirlee McKee, president of the pharmacists, has organized many of them to provide medicine at cost and Reed said hospitals and labs were working on a one-to-one, case-by-case basis with doctors to offer free care to the jobless.

One problem the doctors had was selectivity. They only wanted to handle the unemployed who "normally were in the private sector for care" and were not regular welfare recipients and not old enough for Medicare or Medicaid.

Dr. Ben Portnoy, one of the participating physicians, said most doctors quietly carry regular patients who cannot pay over difficult times, but he said a program like this helps the medical profession's image as well as people.

Plan To Weaken Pollution Rules Blasted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Environmental Protection Agency is now under fire for plans to weaken soot and dust pollution rules that a clean air coalition says will cause more Americans to die each year from respiratory illness.

The coalition of nine groups — ranging from the League of Women Voters to the United Steelworkers of America — leveled the charge Wednesday in a scathing letter to EPA Administrator Anne Burford.

They accused EPA of ignoring scientific evidence and moving forward with air pollution rule revisions that will cause Americans to take more soot and dust into their lungs, increasing their chance of severe respiratory ailments.

"The weakening of the health standards is planned despite analyses prepared for the agency showing that hundreds of extra deaths and thousands of extra illnesses each year would have to be anticipated from the weakened standards," the coalition declared.

In a separate letter to Mrs. Burford, the American Lung Association called the plan "unacceptable public health policy," adding that the group "is not aware of any scientific basis" for such a major policy change.

EPA spokesman Richard Hoffman said the agency's plan for revising the soot and dust standards is not yet finished, although the EPA staff recently completed a "comprehensive review" of relevant scientific data.

Hoffman also said the agency's Clean Air Scientific Advisory Committee, composed of outside experts, unanimously recommended a "range" of pollution standards that could "as much as double" soot and dust levels.

U.S. Oil Imports At 11-Year Low

NEW YORK (UPI) — U.S. crude oil imports dropped below 2 million barrels a day last week and hit an 11-year low, the American Petroleum Institute reported.

In the week ended Feb. 25, crude imports fell to 1.8 million barrels a day from 2.4 million barrels daily the week before and 2.7 million barrels a day in the same week last year, the oil industry trade group said Wednesday.

Analysts cautioned that last week's sluggish import rate could reflect the delayed arrival of a tanker.

Crude oil imports were at their lowest level since 1972 when the bottom for the year was 1.4 million barrels a day in the week ended July 1, the API said.

Crude oil inventories dropped to 363.6 million barrels last week because of reduced imports from 366.9 million barrels the week before and 379.8 a year ago.

U.S. refineries cut back operations to 66.1 percent of capacity last week from 66.4 percent a week earlier but outperformed the 65.8 percent rate of a year ago.

Gasoline stocks held steady at 249.9 million barrels — unchanged from the prior week — but trailed the 255.2 million barrels on hand a year ago. Gasoline inventories remained below the Energy Department's average range for this time of year.

Gasoline production eased slightly to 5.9 million barrels a day from 6 million barrels a day in the preceding week and matched the year-earlier rate of 5.9 million barrels a day, the API said.

Supplies of distillate, used primarily for home-heating oil, slipped to 148 million barrels from 151.7 million barrels in the previous week but were higher than the 143.6 million barrels in storage a year ago, the API said. Distillate stocks are within the DOE's average range.

Distillate output averaged 2.2 million barrels a day in the latest week vs. 2.1 million barrels daily a week earlier and 2.4 million barrels a day in the comparable 1982 week.

Risk-Taking In The Middle East

Risks must be taken by all parties if peace is to come to the Middle East. These risks are not easily undertaken, yet the risks of peace are less than the risks of war.

President Reagan showed the way. He told the American Legion, "This administration is prepared to take all necessary measures to guarantee the security of Israel's northern borders in the aftermath of the complete withdrawal of the Israeli army (from southern Lebanon)."

Of course, there is a risk if it means a large commitment of American troops, as Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., said. There is a risk now, with 1,200 American Marines stationed in Beirut. There would be a greater risk, and it would take at least 10,000 men, if the American zone of peacekeeping were to be extended south to the Israeli border.

There was a 7,000-man U.N. peacekeeping force (called UNI-FIL) on the Lebanese side of that border when the Israelis invaded Lebanon last June. Israel said the U.N. forces did not keep the peace. Certainly the U.N. forces did not stop the Israeli army. They were hopelessly outnumbered and made no effort to resist the invasion.

It would be different with an American peacekeeping force. We have no doubt that the Marines or the Army could do the job.

In light of our president's initiative, the Israelis can no longer use border security as an excuse for keeping their occupying forces troops in Lebanon.

And they do not need to continue supporting the renegade Lebanese Mayor Sa'ad Haddad, whose personal army has, under the Israeli aegis, recently expanded its zone of control in southern Lebanon to include Sidon.

Haddad is wholly a creature of the Israelis, and he acknowledges no allegiance to the government of Lebanon. If Beirut is ever to assert its legitimate authority over Lebanese territory, Haddad cannot continue to claim southern Lebanon as his fief.

The Reagan statement was a signal that our government is prepared to tighten the screws to bring about a quick and complete Israeli withdrawal from Lebanon.

Such a withdrawal is a necessary precondition for any meaningful peace negotiations in the region. The Reagan Mideast peace plan, put forward last September, has been stalled until we can persuade the Israelis to end their occupation of half the territory of their weakest Arab neighbor.

The peace plan is still alive, despite the fact that it was immediately rejected by the Israeli government of Prime Minister Menachem Begin.

It calls for King Hussein of Jordan to enter into negotiations with Israel on behalf of the Palestinians with a view to ending the Israeli occupation of Arab lands on the West Bank and the Gaza Strip, lands seized in the 1967 war. Hussein has hesitated and obviously cannot move until the Israelis withdraw from Lebanon and the Palestine Liberation Organization gives him the go-ahead.

The Palestine National Council, meeting for the first time in more than a year in Algiers, recently avoided any outright rejection of the Reagan peace plan.

PLO leader Yasser Arafat is obviously willing to take the personal and political risks involved for him in pursuing the Reagan option.

But the PLO is not willing at this point to designate Hussein as its representative in negotiations. And the PLO is not yet willing to recognize the existence of the state of Israel and accept its sovereignty within its pre-1967 borders.

Individuals who go joyfully to war shrink back at the risks of entering the jaws of peace. That's true for Arab and Israel — and for Americans too. But there is no safety for any of us if we are frozen in fear.

BERRY'S WORLD

"One thing I'll never be able to figure out is why some grown-ups don't like winter storms."

By Jane Casseberry

Seminole County can be justly proud of the young people who represented the county at the Central Florida Fair in Orlando and the youth organizations helping build their character and skills.

Far from the stereotype many have of today's youth as pampered and lazy or escaping into drugs and alcohol or otherwise getting into trouble, these hardworking kids voluntarily chose to devote many months personally raising steers and rabbits.

There is a big investment of time, effort, money and love that goes in rearing their animals to show at the fair. Sometimes it pays off with recognition, ribbons, trophies, prizes and a good price at the steer auction for those lucky enough to win.

But win or lose, through their experience they have gained attributes and qualities that better prepare them for life and will make them a better man or woman.

This year for the first time a Seminole County youth had the Grand Champion in the Youth Steer Show and the honor went to pretty Christie MacLeod of Oviedo, a member of the Future Farmers at Lyman High School. This was the fourth year that the 14-year-old had entered a steer in the fair, following in the footsteps of her older sister, Heather.

For Heather, 17, and a senior at Lyman, it was her fifth and the last year to enter the steer competition. Her steer won in its weight division and competed against her sister's for the Grand Championship. Although proud and happy for her sister, it had to have been a disappointment for Heather to have the goal which she has worked toward for so long and so hard elude her.

When Heather acquired her first calf from her family's ranch to raise for the fair, she was breaking new ground, for she was the first Seminole County youth to enter a steer. There were no 4-H steer clubs in the county then so she entered under the Orange County 4-H the first year.

Since then there has been a growing interest among county youth in 4-H and FFA, as new clubs were formed and the youngsters gained experience in herdsmanhood and showmanship and knowledge of the various breeds.

There is also a growing interest among 4-H'ers in rabbits and horses. While development has gobbled up much of the rural areas in the county, many boys and girls have become interested in getting back to the basics of country living.

Textile Industry Trends

To understand what hinders economic recovery in the United States, it is necessary to make a case by case analysis of the nation's principal industries.

One industry that is suffering is the textile industry, which creates employment for more than 2 million Americans.

The textile industry is in trouble. William Klopman, president of the American Textile Manufacturers Institute, recently spelled out some of the difficulties and causes of them.

Mr. Klopman noted, for example, that net sales on textiles were down more than $7 billion from 1981 and employment dropped almost 70,000.

The root problem is that the U.S. government isn't sufficiently vigorous in defending American economic interests. The European Economic Community recently negotiated an agreement with Hong Kong which rolled back textile quotas. However, there haven't been any rollbacks in the U.S. agreements with Hong Kong, Korea and Taiwan. This means the American textile industry and its employees will suffer.

The critical problem, however, is with Communist China. Mr. Klopman reported that imports from the People's Republic grew 25 percent in 1982. "Imports from China," he said, "are the equivalent of more than 70,000 jobs and a payroll of $700 million."

Walter S. Montgomery, Sr., chairman of the board of Spartan Mills, is another industry leader who has addressed this situation. Writing in Textile Industries, Mr. Montgomery said that "Red China, which is now the world's third-largest textile-apparel supplier, may present the greatest threat to our industry." He said that "There is ample evidence that Red China is flooding the market with cloth."

One difficulty in stopping this flood of exports is that influential people in the U.S. government regard the American textile industry as expendable, though it is the nation's largest industrial employer. They think that the U.S. should sacrifice the industry, if necessary, in order to maintain good relations with Communist China.

From the ivory tower position of the international strategist, that may seem a good idea. But what about the loss of profits and jobs? The earnings of the American textile industry (net sales $41 billion, down from $48 billion in 1981) are an important part of the country's economy. And if the 800,000 textile industry jobs are sacrificed for international political reasons, where do those displaced workers find jobs? There is no possibility that this number of workers can be retrained and find jobs with high tech industries.

The administration and the Congress would do well to give consideration to these questions.

Wilson Gave Hit Man Orders To Kill

WASHINGTON—The murky world of ex-CIA agent Edwin Paul Wilson was one of constant intrigue and murder-for-hire. His indictment for plotting murders in prison isn't his first encounter with assassination.

According to my own lengthy investigation of Wilson, he ordered the liquidation of at least a dozen onetime associates, including his former business partner, Frank Terpil, himself an ex-CIA man and a flamboyant cutthroat in his own right. "Hit" lists traced to Wilson also included one of my reporters and ex-President Carter's rambunctious kid brother, Billy.

Since he was tricked into the U.S. Marshals' clutches from his Libyan hideout, Wilson has already been convicted of smuggling arms and explosives to Libyan dictator Muammar Qaddafi. He is now on trial for another explosives incident. He also faces charges that he offered $1 million for the murder of a Libyan dissident and $1.2 million for the murder of two federal prosecutors and six former associates who testified against him.

My associate Dale Van Aita, whose own name was on one Wilson hit list, located the man who was supposed to rub out Billy Carter. The killing, intended to punish Billy for reneging on a deal with Qaddafi, was to have been accomplished by sending the presidential brother a literally explosive oil painting.

Another Wilson enforcer has come forward and traces his ex-boss' assassination orders back to 1975. He asked that his identity be protected, so I'll just call him Hit Man.

He was hired by Wilson to investigate three employees who had disappeared one weekend with some important files. Wilson found dozens of canceled checks indicating embezzlement, and told Hit Man: "Take care of the files, and then I want the S.O.B. dead." He was referring to the ringleader, an elderly man.

So the hired gun, armed with a .38 accompanied by a sidekick carrying a lead pipe, waited outside the ringleader's Virginia apartment. But the assassins chickened out at the last minute, went to a bar and got thoroughly drunk.

Hit Man then lied to Wilson the next day, telling him they had been unable to find the old man. He subsequently stalled Wilson until the kill order was forgotten.

Hit Man's next target was Douglas Schlachter, whom Wilson once treated like a son, but who apparently got too big for his britches. As Hit Man remembered it, Schlachter decided to "ease out of the operation." Schlachter and a former high CIA official began "talking openly about murdering Ed and taking over."

Hit man added: "Because I was the one that Ed trusted the most, they wanted me to call him in London and lure him back home so that we could kill him."

Hit man put through the call, arranged to meet Wilson at Dulles Airport — and promptly told him all about the plot. Wilson, he said, handed him a wad of cash, appointed him his bodyguard and said: "If any of those [expensive deleted] even looks like he's going to do me harm, I want you to blow him away." Wilson promised the hit man protection from the law, saying: "Nothing's going to happen to you. I'll take care of the consequences."

Wilson then set up a meeting with Schlachter at a restaurant in downtown Washington. Hit Man's orders were to wait outside; if the conversation didn't go well, Wilson would signal Hit Man as they emerged from the restaurant, and Schlachter's doom would be sealed.

But when they came out on the street,

Warnings Do Panic Patients

By Kathleen Klein

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A physician at Thomas Jefferson University believes warning labels required on some new drugs by the Federal Food and Drug Administration have led to unnecessary abortions and meritless lawsuits.

Dr. Robert Brent, chairman of pediatrics at Jefferson Medical College, said the situation stems from a mandate that most new drugs marketed since 1966 contain a package insert warning: "This drug has not been proven safe for pregnant women and children."

"This throws them into a panic," he said of pregnant women who assume the drug is harmful, "when in reality the risk is so small that it is not even measurable."

"You can only simplify to a certain extent and then simplifications become inaccuracies," said Brent, who recommends the FDA expand the blanket warning in package inserts.

"We don't go far enough to help people think this through. It's a matter of relative risk," he said.

Faye Peterson, a spokeswoman for the FDA, said the agency is required by law to provide physicians with the best available safety-related information on a drug so doctors can weigh the benefits against possible adverse effects when prescribing the medication. She said drugs cannot be tested in pregnant women.

Brent, who discussed the problem in a recent issue of Contemporary Obstetrics and Gynecology, said many lawyers use the disclaimer on the package insert in court cases to try to prove a particular drug causes birth defects. He said that leads some doctors to recommend therapeutic abortions for women who took the drugs before they realized they were pregnant.

Brent could cite no statistics to link the FDA disclaimer to an increase in malpractice lawsuits or therapeutic abortions.

"I can only tell you anecdotes" involving calls from patients alarmed about drugs they had taken after reading the warning in the package insert or in the Physicians Desk Reference, he said.

Twenty years ago, said Brent, "I never heard of a malpractice suit involving malformed babies. But litigation involving malformed infants is in the thousands now."

The average woman is exposed to 13.5 drugs during pregnancy, he said. "Yet, research has shown that drugs and chemicals account for less than 1 percent of all congenital malformations."

Wilson glanced in Hit Man's direction and shook his head no. "I don't know what happened between them, but it saved Doug's life," said Hit Man.

Wilson next became disenchanted with Terpil, a friend from CIA days, who had been the original contact with Qaddafi. Several Wilson associates speculated that there may have been nothing specific, that Wilson simply felt compelled "to screw every person who ever became a business partner of his."

At any rate, Wilson told Hit Man to kill Terpil — and for once Wilson would be in on it himself. Hit Man followed Wilson and Terpil as they drove toward Terpil's home near CIA headquarters in Langley, Va. But their car got a flat tire, and Wilson managed to signal the trailing assassin to keep going, that the hit was off. Wilson never released the order. (Terpil and Wilson broke up after they both jumped bail; Terpil was last reported hiding out in Beirut.)

The macabre footnote to Hit Man's story of aborted assassination is that he and Wilson eventually had a falling-out.

The hit man and his family were threatened by Wilson, and his was one of seven names that showed up on a list found on his apparent successor.

VIEWPOINT

Power Balance Sought

By Stewart Slavin

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — India replaces Cuba as chairman of the world's non-aligned nations next week at a summit expected to herald a dramatic shift from the movement's pro-Soviet tilt to more even-handed relations with the superpowers.

Leaders of the 97 nations that call themselves non-aligned — or free from superpower military pacts — convene for a five-day meeting Monday amid the worst turmoil affecting member countries since the group was formed in 1961.

The agenda is weighted by the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan, the Iran-Iraq war, the Vietnamese occupation of Cambodia, the Palestinian issue, conflict in South-West Africa and aftermath of Argentina's war against Britain over the Falkland Islands.

The draft declaration prepared for the summit by host India blamed both the United States and the Soviet Union for fomenting the world's unrest, though neither superpower was named.

At the last summit in Cuba in 1979, the United States came under repeated attack and Premier Fidel Castro, then chairman of the movement, infuriated moderate countries by describing the Soviet Union as a "natural ally" of the non-aligned nations.

The new draft agreement was viewed by diplomats as a victory for the moderates, such as founding members Yugoslavia, Egypt and India, and as a return to the principles of non-alignment.

"Yugoslavia rejects all attempts to reorient the movement and wants to keep some kind of equidistance between the blocs," said Yugoslav president Mijka Ribicic, who will take part in the summit.

Castro, Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak, Afghanistan's Babarak Karmal, King Fahd of Saudi Arabia, Argentinian president Reynaldo Bignone, PLO leader Yasser Arafat and Mohammad Khadafi of Libya are among the heads of state expected to attend the summit.

Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, who takes over chairmanship of the movement, said issues are more complex and numerous than when her father, Jawaharlal Nehru, helped open the first summit in Belgrade in 1961.

"The main feature of rival power blocs trying to assert and enlarge their spheres of influence at the expense of small and weak nations remains," she said, "and the issues are essentially the same — reduction in international tensions and better living standards for the poorer two-thirds of the human kind. Attitudes are sharper now."

The prime minister said the summit would try to forge greater economic cooperation among the developing nations to make them less reliant on the industrial world.

On the political front, the draft declaration urges the United States to adopt a "constructive position" and negotiate with Nicaragua. In another reference to the United States, it calls for "support for the people of Puerto Rico to determine their own future."

Cogeneration Could Mean Big Savings For Nation's Utilities

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A congressional report suggests that financially strapped utility companies can reap major savings by developing "cogeneration" energy systems that combine the production of electricity and heat.

Cogeneration systems create both electrical and thermal energy from the same energy source — usually a turbine or diesel engine producing electric power and giving off waste heat at the same time.

"Cogeneration could have a very large technical potential in the United States ... by the year 2000 in the industrial sector, with much lower potential in the commercial, residential and agricultural sectors," the Congressional Office of Technology Assessment stated in its report.

The study was requested by three House committees to evaluate the "economic, regulatory and institutional barriers" to the development of cogeneration systems by utilities, industries and businesses.

Cogeneration, congressional researchers found, "could contribute significantly to reduced costs and greater planning flexibility for electric utilities." It also could increase "energy efficiency in industrial facilities, commercial buildings and rural and agricultural uses."

Such systems recapture otherwise wasted thermal energy, using it for space heating, industrial process needs or water heating.

But use of cogeneration is limited by several factors, including the status of regulations on the price utilities must pay for cogenerated power, and legal obligations of utilities to "interconnect with cogenerators" — often at industrial plants.

The most common cogeneration system is the automobile, which simultaneously provides power to move the vehicle, run its electrical system and heat its passenger compartment.

The study noted that cogeneration is an old and proven technology. Between the late 1880s and early 1900s, oil and gas-fired cogeneration systems at industrial plant sites were used throughout Europe and the United States.

But as utilities began to provide far cheaper and more reliable electric service, industry shifted away from generating electricity at plant sites.

By 1950, generation of electricity on plant sites accounted for 17 percent of total U.S. electricity production. By 1980, that figure had dropped to 3 percent.

The technology assessment report recommends that research efforts for cogeneration focus on developing high "electricity-to-steam" systems that burn solid fuels cleanly. Research also should center on advanced combustion and conversion systems such as gasifiers and fluidized beds, the study said.

Researchers found that costs for commercial cogeneration systems tend to be 20 percent to 40 percent lower per kilowatt than central station generating capacity.

"Also, the relatively small unit size and the shorter construction lead times of cogeneration systems means substantial interest cost savings during construction," the report added.

Farmers May Get More Time To Pay Taxes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Internal Revenue Service and a congressional committee are offering solutions to two complicated tax questions facing farmers who enroll in the government's new crop reduction program.

The House Ways and Means Committee has endorsed a bill to give some farmers more time to pay income taxes on surplus crops they receive from the government through the payment-in-kind program.

The surplus crops will be turned over to farmers who enroll in the program, which is intended to eliminate price-depressing crop surpluses by taking large amounts of land out of production. Participating farmers will be permitted to use the crops any way they wish, including selling the commodities.

Shortly after the committee's unanimous vote in support of the legislation, the Internal Revenue Service issued a ruling to prevent federal estate taxes from being used to penalize the heirs of farmers who join in the payment-in-kind program.

The full House is scheduled to consider the income tax matter next Tuesday, just three days before the March 11 deadline for farmers to enroll in the payment-in-kind program.

The bill would delay any income tax payments on crops received from the government until after farmers have sold those crops. Under the current law, tax payments would be required in the same year the crops were turned over to farmers, not in the year of the sale.

In its ruling, the IRS held that farmers who participate in the payment-in-kind program and other land diversion programs would retain their status as "active farmers," as well as the special consideration that classification brings.

Not All Are Ready To Flee Times Beach

By Tom Uhlenbrock
TIMES BEACH, Mo. (UPI) — With most homes abandoned and rubble everywhere, Kevin Johnson says it's easy to see why nearly everyone is ready to wipe Times Beach off the map.

But Johnson remembers better times, and he and his family are among the holdouts who plan to stay and fight the government buy-out because of deadly dioxin contamination.

"I love it down here," Johnson said. "I grew up down here. As a kid, I'd go down and swim and fish in the river."

"It does look rather dismal now. Before the flood, there wasn't all this garbage. Before, there were green fields."

Johnson lives in a two-story white house with his parents and four brothers and sisters about two blocks from the Meramec River. Like all the other structures in town, the house was damaged by December floods and trash is still piled in the front yard.

But Johnson, a 22-year-old assistant manager at a fast-food restaurant, said his family is accustomed to the flooding.

"In '79 it got up to the ditch by the road," he said of the floodwaters. "In '55, it got to the kitchen door. This was the first time it's gotten this bad in 100 years. But it doesn't bother us at all, really."

What does bother Johnson is the furor over an unseen danger. Government tests showed many streets in Times Beach are contaminated by dioxin.

Johnson said he remembers in the early 1970s when Russell Bliss, a waste hauler, sprayed the streets with waste oil to control dust. The oil, which Bliss had obtained from a defunct chemical company, was laced with dioxin.

"I was riding my bike out here in the stuff," Johnson said. "I don't glow in the dark or have green spots."

"I've heard all the stories about bald squirrels and I've never seen a bald squirrel. I see rabbits in the fields, and we've always had dogs and cats."

The federal Centers for Disease Control believes dioxin causes skin rashes and other ailments in humans and is a potent cause of cancer in animals. Two days before Christmas, the CDC recommended Times Beach be evacuated.

When further testing showed high levels of the chemical, the Environmental Protection Agency announced it would allocate $33 million from the Superfund to buy the town's homes and businesses.

An estimated 800 families and 12 businesses could be relocated by the buy-out. Acting Mayor Sidney Hammer said most will agree to sell. "I really don't think they're going to be offering enough for a lot of these places," Johnson said. "Our house is two stories with four bedrooms and a garage. They'd have to offer us pretty much to replace it."

Times Beach never was prime real estate. Because it sits hard by the Meramec on a flood plain, many homes are of the "clubhouse" variety and appear to be worth no more than $20,000 to $30,000.

"I don't think they would have gotten all the people out if it hadn't been for the flooding," Johnson said. "The people left and then the EPA came out with the warning and most of them didn't come back."

Although more than 500 truckloads of flood debris were removed because of the health hazard, little else was done to clean up after the flood. Houses that were swept off their foundations still sit jammed against trees. Overturned cars and trailers litter lots and a police car patrols the town to ward off looters.

Missouri officials said the square-mile tract of land may be used as a riverside park once the buy-out is complete, structures are razed and the dioxin eliminated.

"Before the flood there were over 2,000 people here," Johnson said. "It's hard to estimate how many of them would like to stay."

"But we'd like to stay. This was a pretty nice town once. This area's my home."

RR Retirement System In Trouble

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The railroad industry is mulling over an administration alternative to save the railroad retirement system from insolvency that calls for the states to take over unemployment insurance.

Budget director David Stockman presented the alternative at a hearing of the House Energy and Commerce subcommittee on transportation.

The hearing was on legislation proposed by Rep. James Florio, D-N.J., as the result of a labor-management package to ensure the railroad retirement system will remain solvent in the new fiscal year that begins Oct. 1.

Stockman said the plan does not go far enough, and depends too much on federal funds. He also declared the administration will strongly oppose attempts to attach the railroad package to the Social Security compromise working its way through Congress.

The railroad retirement fund was replenished just two years ago, but the work force has dropped by one-third to 388,000 since then because of the recession. Without legislative action, the fund will not have money to pay full benefits on Oct. 1, and benefits could drop by 40 percent or about $150 per retiree.

"This is probably a worse problem than the (Social Security) retirement system," Stockman said.

The labor-management package calls for raising another $8.3 billion over six years through a 2.25 percent worker contribution increase and a 3.5 percent management increase and through cutbacks in benefits, such as postponing a cost-of-living increase.

"In agreeing to recommend such tax increases, the railroads have stretched themselves to the limit," William Dempsey, president of the Association of American Railroads and Charles Hopkins Jr., chairman of the National Railway Labor Conference, said in a joint statement.

Stockman said the package is "a constructive, sound starting point and should be accepted." But he said, "I believe the package is too small."

The $8.3 billion figure "produces solvency only with the most optimistic estimates of unemployment," he said.

Furthermore, 54 percent would come from the federal government, either through general fund subsidies or loans. "Frankly, that is just too much," he said.

Seminole's Jimmy Smith hustles home with the first run as Mainland third baseman Henry Garris waits for his center fielder (rear) to round up Greg Hill's RBI single.

Wild Pickoff Attempt Dooms 'Noles

Prep Baseball

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor
Somewhere it is written... "More high school baseball games are lost by unwarranted pickoff attempts than any other way."

After Seminole High lost a 4-3 decision to Daytona Beach Mainland Wednesday afternoon, that inscription could have been etched into the dirt near third base.

Seminole pitcher Andy Griffith sailed a pickoff attempt over third base with two outs and two strikes on the hitter which allowed Henry Garris to romp home from third base with the deciding tally in the top of the seventh inning.

Sanford's Jimmy Smith singled sharply to left field to give the Tribe hope in the bottom of the inning, but Kevin Smith lined out to center field two outs later stranding J. Smith on third base.

The Seminoles and the Bucs finally got together Wednesday after two days of rain kept the game from being played. The victory upped the Mainland record to 6-1 and 1-0 in the Five Star Conference. Seminole fell to 2-4 and 0-1.

The Tribe hosts Seabreeze Friday at 7 p.m. Seminole coach Bobby Lundquist will go with sophomore right-hander James Hersey as the 'Noles try to pick up their first conference victory. Lundquist received some help as left-hander William Wynn and shortstop Bruce Franklin joined the team after basketball season ended.

Mainland, which won the district last year, returns just three starters from that team, but that trio—Tim and Todd Phillips and Henry Garris—accounted for all of the Bucs' runs, four of their six hits and all three errors.

Seminole jumped on lefty starter Dane Johnson for one run in the first inning as Jimmy Smith coaxed a walk, moved to second on Griffith's ground out and scored on Greg Hill's line single up the middle.

Hill, a 6-5 right-hander, started for the 'Noles and kept the Bucs in check until the third. Garris, the hero of last year's district with a long home run, singled, moved up on a walk to Todd Phillips and took third on a passed ball. John Moak then chased him home with a deep fly to center field. The Tribe averted further damage when third sacker Tony Cox smothered a hot one-hopper and turned a double play.

Sanford regained the lead in the bottom of the fourth as Kevin Smith singled and moved to second on a one-out walk to Paul Griffin. Jeff Vanzura grounded out to third, moving the runners up a base.

Center fielder Greg Carter followed with a looping single over shortstop to plate Smith and Griffin for a 3-1 advantage.

Mainland picked up a run in the fifth on a double by Garris and an RBI single by Todd Phillips. Coach Bobby Lundquist pulled Hill in favor of Griffith after Phillips' single. Griffith got out of the jam when second baseman Kevin Smith made a great diving stop on a ball hit to his left and scrambled to his feet to throw out the batter. The next hitter lined out to shortstop.

Griffith retired the Bucs in order in the sixth but ran into immediate trouble in the seventh by walking Tim Phillips on a 3-2 pitch. Pinch-hitter Tim Upton sacrificed Phillips to second which brought up the dangerous Garris. Pitching carefully, Griffith walked him on four pitches.

Todd Phillips followed with a sharp single to left field which was hit too hard to plate his brother. Seminole pulled its infield in and Moak completed with a sharp two-hopper to Kevin Smith. The junior juggled the ball, however, and his only play was at first which allowed Tim Phillips to score the tying run.

With two outs and a 2-2 count on Scott Huntley (hitless with a walk in three trips to the plate), Griffith gunned his pickoff attempt four feet over third baseman Tony Cox's head to send Garris home with the tie-breaking run.

Acebo Slugs Oviedo, 7-2

Oviedo baseball coach Howard Mable knows defending state champion Tampa

Catholic is good, but he didn't expect a one-man battering ram when he took his Lions to Tampa Wednesday.

Ernesto Acebo slugged two home runs and a double as TC whipped the Lions, 7-2, in prep 3A baseball action.

"He had a career against us," said Mable. "That guy (Acebo) really put on a show."

Tampa Catholic ripped three homers off Oviedo starter Chris Kessinger while building a 7-0 lead through six innings. The Lions got on the board in the seventh when Kessinger and Scott Gastley singled and Larry Grayson walked. Kessinger scored on a wild pickoff throw to third base while Gastley came around on a ground out to shortstop by Skip Cooper.

Silver Hawks Snap Slump

In other prep play Wednesday, Lake Howell's Silver Hawks snapped a six-game losing skid by dropping Spruce Creek, 9-6, at Lake Howell.

Ron Gardner continued to swing a hot bat for the Hawks with his second home run this week. Billy Norton stroked two hits while freshman Jeff Poindexter had two raps including a double.

Junior Van Golmont went the distance for the Hawks, allowing nine hits but shutting down Spruce Creek over the final three innings. Lake Howell, 2-7, hosts Lyman, a 4-1 winner over Seabreeze Tuesday, in a key Five Star Conference game Friday at 3:30 p.m.

Satellite Tries To Erase Lipstick Smear Against Evans Tonight

There's an old saying, probably popularized by NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle, that some preliminary contest is really the little match and everything after will be down hill for the winner. It came about when the AFC teams would finally get past each other and then destroy the NFC team for the Super Bowl. You notice Pete hasn't said much the past two years.

Anyway, that saying could apply tonight when two excellent 4A girls' teams take the court at the State Tournament at Winter Park High School. Coach Dorothy Starbird's Evans Trojans, 29-0 and ranked second in the state, battle a well-disciplined 27-1 Satellite Scorpions' team which thrashed Lake Howell in the regional game. Tipoff is 8:30 p.m.

Sam Cook
Sports Editor

The pairing is a natural. The lone lipstick smear on coach Pete

Ballard's girls was put there by Evans. "They beat us by 11 points at their place," recalled Ballard after his Scorpions whipped the Lady Hawks. "We came out flat. Just played a bad game. We'll be ready next time."

Ballard was true to his word. Satellite snapped Fort Lauderdale Dillard's 46-game winning streak in the sectional to earn its trip to the final four. Dillard, of course, was defending champion.

The Trojans' trip to state is a moving one for veteran coach Starbird. Year after year she has put excellent teams on the floor, only to lose out to Edgewater or some other power to keep the Lady Trojans from a state trip.

Tonight's matchup is the first final four appearance for Starbird and her girls will probably make the most of it. Senior Ava Anderson is the Trojans' hotshot. The aggressive 5-9 forward is averaging 19.9 points and 11.9 rebounds per game. Valerie Seay, a 5-4 dynamo, runs the Evans' attack from point guard. Cynthia Williams, a 5-8 sophomore, contributes 11.8 points and almost

Kowboys Hold Off Jesuit, 59-56

TAMPA (UPI) — Kissimmee Osceola beat Tampa Jesuit 59-56 in a high school basketball playoff Wednesday, but the game was played in a closed gymnasium after the first half erupted into a furious brawl.

A squadron of some 50 Hillsborough County Sheriff's deputies and Tampa Police officers cleared the Jesuit High School campus Tuesday night after a free-for-all broke out in the bleachers.

Authorities told the teams the second game must be played without their fans.

All-America guard Jimmy McCrimmon hit several clutch baskets down the stretch as the Kowboys, hampered by forward Frank Ford's foul trouble, went to a controlled attack in the second half to beat the Jesuit club.

With Ford sidelined during the first half with three fouls, 6-6 center Terry Rupp continually beat the Kowboys inside. He scored 17 first-half points to keep Jesuit close, 32-30, at halftime. Osceola, 34-0, took only 15 second-half shots but made 10 while building an 11-point lead midway through the third period. The lead grew to 14 points on two occasions as a box-and-one defense rendered Rupp helpless in the third quarter. Rupp finished with 27 points but only two in the third. Rupp's buzzer basket made the final count three points. McCrimmon finished with 17 points to lead the Kowboys. Sophomore Dennard Ford added 14 while Kenny McGee added 14. Ford, a 6-3 senior, was held to just 10, his lowest output of the year.

Prep Basketball

Osceola hosts Gainesville Buchholz, a 10-point winner over defending champion Ocala Vanguard, in the sectional tournament Saturday. Tipoff is 8 p.m.

Howell Off And (Win)ging; Patriots Boast Pitching Ace

Lake Howell's girls softball team is off to a good start, winning three of its first four games. The Lady Silver Hawks have eight of 10 starters hitting .300 or better while Lake Howell has rolled up 34 runs in four games.

Outfielder Erin Duffy leads the team in hits with seven in 13 trips to the plate. Duffy has also scored five runs and knocked in three. Catcher Judy Millholen, outfielder Sheila Dixon and second baseman Sandy Gillies all have six hits apiece while shortstop Mary Johnson has five in two games and Eileen Thiebauth and Rose Fry have four hits apiece.

Johnson and Thiebauth lead in RBI with four apiece and Johnson and Millholen lead in runs scored with six apiece. Dixon and Duffy have tallied five times apiece while Gillies and Duffy have knocked in three runs each.

"For the early season, we look surprisingly good," Lake Howell coach Jo Luciano said. "Most of our starters played in winter leagues and came out ready to play."

Completing the starting lineup for the Lady Hawks are Stacy Carpenter in right field, Barbara Heim on the mound and Tammy Hamrick at third base. Bench strength comes from Cherie Green, Tammy Johnson, Beth Saunders, Joy Weaver, Jennifer Wallace, Rene Kelly, Christy Tibbitts, Ava Gardner and Mary Meier.

"We're hitting the ball and running the bases well," Luciano said. "If we keep minimizing the errors, we'll become a strong defensive team too."

The Lady Hawks host West Orange

Prep Softball

today at 4 p.m. at Summerset Field. Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots should be contenders this season, according to first-year coach Sally Jenkins. The Patriots are 0-1 so far, losing a 5-3 decision to Boone.

"We have one of the strongest outfields I've ever seen," Jenkins said. "Our pitcher is pretty strong too. She has played varsity for three seasons and can usually go seven innings."

Lake Brantley's outfield includes Amy O'Brian, Dana Gebhart, Robin Cross and Debbie Cook. Gebhart was 3 for 4 against Boone while Cross had two hits and O'Brian smashed a two-run double. All four outfielders hit well and are sound defensive players.

Tiffany King is the Lady Patriots' pitcher and also the team's power hitter. Kim Longhouser is the catcher while the infield consists of Marcia Daubert at third base, Theresa Stever at shortstop, Kyndahl Menendez at second base and Sherry Asplen at first base. Angie May is the designated hitter. Asplen, only a freshman, used to play baseball in the Altamonte Springs Little League.

Bench strength comes from outfielder Laura Davis and infielders Rhonda Vazquez and Kelly Allen.

"This is an excellent group of kids," Jenkins said. "They really work hard and they play well together."

Lake Brantley goes up against Lake Mary Monday at Lake Brantley at 3:30 p.m.

eight boards. Lorrie Bouchard and Yvonne Manuel complete the cast.

The game could turn into a battle of point guards as Satellite's Sherri Kaminski is also very polished. The 5-6 senior is averaging 14.3 points along with almost 10 assists per outing. Linda McGowan, a 6-1½ senior, is a solid inside player who jumps very well. She'll need the altitude to compete with the power game of Anderson and Williams, both are very physical.

Val Mercado (10.6), Karen Kroen (10.5) and versatile Becky del Rosa (6.6 and 5.6 rebounds) complete the starting five. Julie Ketterer is the top sub.

Tonight's winner goes against Friday's victor between 26-3 Jacksonville Ribault and tournament-tested Miami Northwestern.

In other games today, Gainesville P.K. Yonge takes on Pahokee in 2A at 2 p.m., defending champion Ocala Vanguard battles Fort Lauderdale Stranhan at 3:30 p.m. in 3A and Hastings takes on Tampa Preparatory at 7 p.m.

Friday's games are defending 2A champ Clearwater Central Catholic vs. Pensacola Catholic at 2 p.m., Marianna vs. St. Petersburg Boca Ciega at 3:30 p.m. in 3A, Laurel Hill vs. Fort Lauderdale Westminster Academy at 7 p.m. and the Ribault-Northwestern clash at 8:30 p.m.

On the junior college scene, Lake City, the state's top-ranked team and 12th nationally, takes on Broward North as the State Junior College Basketball Tournament opens at Stetson University. Lake City, 27-3, coasted to the Mid-Florida Conference title.

Seminole Community College coach Bill Payne will handle the North All Stars Saturday against the South Stars. Payne was selected for the position in just his first year as a JC coach.

Sorry to hear about the passing of Eunice Smith. Mrs. Smith was a great booster of Lake Howell High School and especially the Lady Hawk Invitational Basketball Tournament. She died after a long battle with cancer. Her daughter, Sonya, was a standout athlete for the Lady Hawks for four years. Her husband, Ray is also very instrumental in the Howell program. Mrs. Smith will be missed. She was a great little lady.

Fenning's 4 Ropes Tie Up Tribe, Rams' 8-Run Third Makes It Easy

By CHRIS FISTER
Herald Sports Writer

Lake Mary's Lady Rams rebounded from a 15-14 loss to Crooms Tuesday by thrashing Seminole High's Lady Seminoles, 20-2, Wednesday in a five-inning contest at Sanford's Fort Mellon Park.

Andrea Fenning roped four singles in four trips to the plate and knocked in three runs to lead the Lady Rams to their first victory of the young season against two losses. Seminole fell to 0-3.

The Rams broke on top early with four runs in the top of the first. Fenning and Cindy Herman each singled and Lake Mary benefitted from four Seminole errors.

The Rams went ahead, 6-0, in the second inning thanks to two Seminole errors and a key single by Fenning.

Seminole scored a run in the bottom of the second as Cynthia Barber reached on an error and later score on another Lake Mary miscue. The Rams committed three errors in the second inning, but, after that Lake Mary played sound defense and didn't commit any more errors in the game.

The big inning for Lake Mary was the top of the third. The Lady Rams sent 13 hitters to the plate and came away with eight runs on four hits and took advantage of seven Seminole errors. Lisa Santulli and Fenning each ripped run-scoring singles in the frame while Lisa Gregory and Terri Blayne also singled as Lake Mary took a commanding 14-1 lead.

Seminole had runners on first and second with only one out in the bottom of the third, but Lake Mary stymied the Tribe's rally as second baseman Herman scooped up a grounder, relayed to shortstop Lisa Simkins who completed an inning-ending double play with a shotgun throw to Gregory at first.

Lake Mary responded with three runs in the fourth with clutch hits coming from Karen DeShetler, Herman and Fenning. The Rams made it 20-1 in the fifth as Gregory and Beth Watkins each collected a hit.

Seminole loaded the bases in the bottom of the fifth and scored one run when Dee Goebelbecker walked, but Seminole could not score enough runs to evade the 15-run ("slaughter") rule.

Robyn Christensen picked up the pitching victory for the Rams while Watkins finished in relief. Combined, they allowed Seminole just five hits and walked only three.

Behind Fenning, Herman and Gregory had two hits apiece for Lake Mary. Herman scored four times while DeShetler scored three runs. Terri Hardy had two hits for the Lady Seminoles while Goebelbecker was one for one with two walks.

Lake Mary hosts Osceola today at 4 p.m. at Seminole Community College while Seminole travels to Oak Ridge next Tuesday for a 4 p.m. game.

Lake Mary's Cindy Herman ducks in with a run as Seminole catcher Winnolia tries to control a wild throw from the outfield. Herman singled and scored four runs as the Rams pounded the Tribe, 20-2, in the first softball meeting between the two schools.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

SCC's Payne Will Coach North Stars Against South

Seminole Community College basketball coach Bill Payne will coach the North against the South in a Junior College All-Star game Saturday at 5 p.m. at Stetson University in DeLand.

The day's events begin with Stetson's game against Baptist College at 2:30 p.m., followed by the All-Star game at 5 and the JC State Championship at 7:30.

James Anderson of Santa Fe, Tony Watson of Central Florida, William Davis of St. John's and Emanuel Gordon and Mike Jacobs of Valencia are among the players on the North All-Stars. Only Ricky Sutton, an alternate, was chosen from Payne's 20-12 SCC team.

Duda Raps Moccasins' B

Oviedo's Sammy Duda rapped two hits including a double to drive in two runs as the Seminole Community College Raiders nipped the Florida Southern B team Wednesday in baseball action at SCC.

The victory improves coach Jack Pantelias' squad to 6-10 for the year. SCC hosts Central Florida today at 3 p.m.

Joe Patitucci also had two hits for SCC which was shut out for seven innings before adding a run in the eighth and four more in the ninth for a one-run decision. Greg Todd, who batted out Barry Thompson in the seventh inning, picked up the victory.

Juniors To State Friday

The Sanford Recreation Department Junior League basketball All-Star team advanced to the Florida Junior League State Tournament via a 38-37 overtime victory over Merritt Island.

Sanford will play East Volusia at 4 p.m. Friday in the opening round of the state tourney.

Reggie Bellamy led the All-Stars against Merritt Island with 20 points while Sammy Edwards added eight and Dwight Brinson tossed in the winning free throw.

Morley Finishes 6 Back

WINTER SPRINGS — Oviedo High School sophomore Cheryl Morley fired a first and second round total of 150 to finish tied for fifth, six shots behind winner Nancy White in the Winter Springs Women's Open at Big Cypress Country Club. The tournament was completed Wednesday after being delayed by rain on Tuesday.

Morley had rounds of 73 and 77 over the 144-par course. Nancy White fired a 70 and a 74 to take a three-stroke victory over another amateur, Miami's Mary Beth Zimmerman.

Magic's 34 'Steals' Show

It wasn't billed as the "greatest show on earth," but Wednesday night's game between the Los Angeles Lakers and Milwaukee Bucks featured a magician and a juggler. Magic won.

"If Nellie isn't the best, he's right up there," said Los Angeles Coach Pat Riley after his counterpart, Don Nelson, used a patchwork lineup but saw his Bucks lose to Magic Johnson and the Lakers 127-117 at Milwaukee. "He's done a great job juggling his lineup and dealing with all these injuries."

Johnson scored a season-high 34 points and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar added 30 to pace the Lakers.

Nelson's job has been complicated because Milwaukee centers Bob Lanier and Dave Cowens, both out earlier this season, are sidelined again. Swingman Junior Bridgeman, who only recently returned to action, reinjured his left ankle Wednesday night and played only eight minutes.

Alton Lister, who started at center for the Bucks, had a career-high 27 points against Abdul-Jabbar. Sidney Moncrief had 21 and Marques Johnson 16.

"If there was ever a time I needed Junior, it probably was tonight," Nelson said. "I had some matchup problems. He sprained the same ankle and will probably be out five to seven days. I had hoped to get him 20 to 25 minutes."

In other games, New Jersey bombed Houston 124-85, Dallas stopped Seattle 108-105, Phoenix defeated San Antonio 110-106, Denver beat Golden State 128-108, and Portland edged San Diego 104-102.

Golden Wedding Anniversary

Mr., Mrs. W. H. Duncan Feted

Mr. and Mrs. W. Hugh Duncan of Sanford celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Feb. 13 with a reception at the Woman's Club of Sanford hosted by their five children and grandchildren. Over 175 guests called during the appointed hours, 3 to 5 p.m.

The couple were married Feb. 10, 1933 in Canon, Ga. They later moved to Orlando and then to Sanford where they have made their home for 47 years.

During this time they have been active in the First Baptist Church where Mr. Duncan sings in the choir and is a deacon. He is honorary lifetime member of Lions International and is past district governor of the organization. Formerly Seminole County Justice of the Peace, Mr. Duncan is owner-operator of Florida Patient Aids, Sanford.

Mrs. Duncan (Lenora), a homemaker, is a member of the Garden Club of Sanford. She has traveled extensively with her husband to Lions' events and is recognized for her sewing and designing expertise.

For her anniversary reception, Mrs. Duncan chose a pale blue georgette dress fashioned with an accordion-pleated skirt. The bodice featuring a ruffled neckline was embellished with blue sequins. A corsage of yellow roses and pompons and silver sandals completed her costume.

The clubhouse was decorated with potted palms, baskets of gold carysanthemums, yellow roses and gold candelabra holding lighted gold tapers. The refreshment table, overlaid with an exquisite cutwork cloth, was centered with a five-tiered cake embossed with yellow roses. Accenting the cake was a five-foot candelabrum with 13 gold tapers, yellow tulips, gold chrysanthemums, grapes, kumquats and croton leaves.

A large Ficus Benjamin tree graced one corner of the reception area. The guest registry table held a four-branched candelabrum with gold candles and gold leaves.

Children and grandchildren hosting the reception were Mr. and Mrs. Winter Kimes, Columbia, S.C.; Mr. and Mrs. Dale Duncan, Mt. Pleasant, S.C.; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bordeaux, Greensboro; Miss Debra Duncan, Columbia; and Billie Duncan, Sanford.

Mrs. William Wray greeted guests at the door. Mrs. Grady Duncan presided over the guest registry. Mrs. Lowell Tripp was among the floating hostesses. The cake was cut and served by Mrs. Bob Wright, Mrs. Emily Kimes and Mrs. Howard Edwards. The couple's grandchildren, Kathy, Lisa and Betsy Mimes poured the punch.

Other out-of-town relatives attending were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Edwards, Mrs. Sue Barnes, Mrs. Bill Colson and Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Whitney, all of Columbia; Mrs. Horace Massey and the Rev. Eldon Massey, Canon; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Prather, Eiberton, Ga; and Mrs. Peter Auger, Illinois.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Hugh Duncan

Widow Insulted At Date's Suggestion

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow, 60 years old. I look no more than 50 — at least that's what everybody tells me.

I have been a widow for two years, after being married for 35 years to a wonderful man. A friend asked me if I would go out to dinner with a friend of hers. She said he was an attractive widower, age 63, whose wife had died two years ago.

I accepted, and we found we had a lot in common — same interests, religion, etc. We laughed and talked and had a lovely evening. I really enjoyed the gentleman's company and felt so comfortable with him.

When he took me home

Dear Abby

he spoiled it all by asking if he could "stay over." I imagine! To me that was an insult. What makes a man think that because he takes a woman to dinner she will let him stay over? Lots of my women friends tell me that's all the men want these days. I just can't get over the shock!

Now I won't go out with any man. I will just live along with memories of what men used to be — gentlemen who had some respect for women.

INSULTED
DEAR INSULTED: Please don't judge all men by the one who insulted you. There are still some gentlemen around.

DEAR ABBY: Please let us know if we should send a thank-you note for a check we received as a wedding gift that was returned twice to us marked "N.S.F." (It finally cleared.)

NEWLYWEDS IN NEW CASTLE, PA.
DEAR NEWLYWEDS: A gracious thank-you note would be doubly appreciated after a double bounce.

DEAR ABBY: Having

recently reached the "single" status, I am in a quandary over how to answer the question, "Are you divorced or widowed?" Either way, it is a very painful and unpleasant subject, and I don't care to discuss it.

I realize that this is a "natural" question, but I would like to know how to politely refuse to reply without offending, or provoking curiosity, suspicion or any leading questions. I am a very private person.

I do not like to lie, but I have done so in order to avoid disclosing my past. I realize this is wrong, and one day I will be caught and embarrassed.

I've tried to come up with a suitable solution, but I have been unsuccessful. Any help you can give me will be appreciated.

NEEDS HELP
DEAR NEEDS: You need more help than I can give you in a letter if you are unable to respond to the "natural" (by your own admission) question, "Are you widowed or divorced?"

To be divorced is nothing to be ashamed of. Neither is having been widowed. To try to sidestep this question is unrealistic and childish and is bound to provoke suspicion.

Answer truthfully. Then should a question follow that you feel is either painful or prying, respond, "If you don't mind, I'd rather not discuss it."

DEAR ABBY: I want to vigorously protest "The Calorie Counter's Prayer" published in your column. To degrade and make a mockery of one of the most beautiful of the Psalms is almost unforgivable.

If it's laughs from morons you want, I suppose you'll get a few, but to the vast majority of your readers it was a major indiscretion on your part, and I think an apology from you is in order.

THOMAS E. WHALEN,
BRONX, N.Y.

Chemotherapy Benefits In Leukemia Treatment

BOSTON (UPI) — Children who recovered from an acute form of leukemia suffered fewer dangerous relapses if they received preventive treatment with chemotherapy and radiation, an international study said today.

Of 600 children who recovered from acute lymphocytic leukemia, 91 percent did not suffer a second bout with the deadly cancer of the blood-forming tissue, doctors reported in the New England Journal of Medicine.

Without preventive treatment, about 50 percent of those children would have developed leukemia of the central nervous system, which acts as a sanctuary for the disease and is difficult to reach with drugs, they said.

The study compared the effectiveness of chemotherapy with the drug methotrexate, which kills the malignant cells, versus cranial irradiation, radiation of the brain and spinal cord to destroy the diseased cells' ability to reproduce.

One of the study's authors, Dr.

Martin L. Brecher of Roswell Park Memorial Institute in Buffalo, N.Y., said chemotherapy was preferred for most children because it was more effective in curbing relapses in the bone marrow, which is much more lethal than a relapse in the nervous system or testes in males.

"In patients with standard risk, the (methotrexate) method gave extra bone marrow protection. However, in increased-risk patients, radiation was still preferable in terms of its ability to curb central nervous system leukemia," he said.

Radiation has more side effects, which include a markedly lower IQ of younger children, he said.

The 634 children under 20 years of age studied from 1978 to 1979 received the same initial treatment but were divided into two groups for the "prophylactic phase" to prevent relapses in the bone marrow, central nervous system or testes of males. Thirty-four children were disqualified from the final group studied.

"Children with a central nervous system relapse can be cured whereas, apart from children given bone-marrow transplants, virtually no children who have a bone-marrow relapse while receiving chemotherapy are cured," the doctors wrote.

"Thus an isolated central nervous system relapse does not carry as grave a prognosis as does a bone marrow relapse or testicular relapse."

The worst side effect of the drug was mouth sores.

About 1,800 children in the United States suffer from acute lymphocytic leukemia, which affects the bone marrow, lymph nodes and spleen. It appears suddenly with cold-like symptoms but quickly affects the system's blood-clotting ability and the immune system's defense against infections, leaving the child susceptible to infections, bleeding, and hemorrhaging.

Children with the disease have a 35 percent to 50 percent survival rate.

Pope Is Pushing For Church Unity

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (UPI) — Pope John Paul II wasted no time on his arrival in Central America and confronted one of the most burning religious issues of the region — a Catholic Church divided by the winds of revolution.

In an address to 63 Central American bishops shortly after arriving in San Jose at the start of his Central American tour Wednesday, the pope erased all doubt that he would make his position clear on the controversy.

The pope was on an eight-day trip to a region where churchmen and faithful are divided between conservatives who see a traditional role for priests and nuns and those who say religious workers should help remedy social injustice.

"The internal unity of the Church calls for prompt and sincere obedience to the teachings of the shepherd," the pope said, referring to himself.

His comment was a stern reminder that five priests in Nicaragua have defied his orders to step down from their positions in the leftist Sandinista government, while other priests and nuns have taken up revolutionary causes.

The pope also told the bishops that the church's "primary and undeniable mission is to preach," another reference to his opposition to political roles for priests and nuns.

Before the pope left Rome, Vatican sources said one of the main reasons for the trip was to underscore this stance.

John Paul is expected to repeat his stand when he travels for a day to Nicaragua Friday and meets with members of the ruling Sandinista junta.

But the most prominent religious leader in the government, Foreign Minister Miguel d'Escoto, a Maryknoll priest, will not be in Nicaragua and the other priests in the government have reportedly agreed not to meet the pope.

On the issue of political involvement by the Church, the pope has been criticized for practicing what some call a double standard.

The critics say the pope does not want political roles for the Church in Central America but insists the Church in his homeland of Poland be involved in a dialogue with the government.

Under the Catholic Church's code of canon law, the observant are prohibited from political roles unless they have permission from local bishops in extraordinary circumstances.

The Sandinista government contends their country is going through extraordinary times and they need the priests in government. The pope, obviously, does not agree.

At Least 13 To Rock In Jamboree March 12

Plans for the Rock 'n Roll Jamboree to be held at Lakeview Nursing Center on Saturday, March 12, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. are progressing well.

Thirteen residents have volunteered to rock in wheelchairs. They will be relieved periodically by volunteers, but there will be constant rocking and rolling. City commissioners will take their turns also.

The public is invited. There will be clowns entertaining and painting faces, a white elephant sale, bake sale, crafts, kissing booth and wheelchair races.

Anyone wishing to help may call June Miller at Lakeview, 322-8707. All proceeds will go to the American Heart Association.

Wall Street Enjoys Another Record Day

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Dow Jones Industrial average smashed its third record in four days of trading, buoyed by unexpected news from Washington that January's leading economic indicators made the biggest jump since 1950.

The Dow, which reached a record 1,130.71 Tuesday, closed up 4.35 Wednesday at a new all-time high of 1,135.08.

Analysts said the blue-chip issues represented in the Dow, which had led the pack in Tuesday's trading, took a back seat to a broader range of stocks.

"The market is much stronger than the averages," said Michael Metz of Oppenheimer & Co. "It's definitely broadening."

The Dow, which closed above 1,100 for the first time last Thursday, has gained more than 350 points since the bull market began in August.

Advances led declines by more than 2-1 among the 1,976 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape. Big Board volume was about 112 million, up from Tuesday's 103 million.

The Commerce Department's report that leading economic indicators had jumped 3.6 percent in January was the big news of the day for the market. The rise was the biggest since 1950, and higher than most analysts had expected.

Treasury Secretary Donald Regan's statements that the administration had underestimated the economic growth potential for 1983 also helped push prices up.

Analysts said there were still plenty of potential investors who had yet to join in the market and could provide fuel for a continued climb. "There's a lot of cash on the sidelines that will tend to cushion any decline," Metz said.

Hugh Johnson of First Albany said he saw little evidence most investors were ready yet to cash in their profits.

"What I'm seeing is an increase in people who are afraid they'll sell stocks too soon," he said.

Expectation that lower oil prices will help control inflation and cut interest rates created the optimism behind the surge.

"People are beginning to assess the full impact of reduction in energy prices," Johnson said. "We could get recovery without resurgence in the rate of inflation, at least for the next 12 months. Most people have revised downward their estimates for inflation by about half a percent to about 4.2 percent."

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Friday, March 4, 1983

YOUR BIRTHDAY March 4, 1983 Knowledge and expertise you've acquired over the years, yet have never been able to use to your fullest advantage, will be expressed in several successful ways this coming year.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Even though you may have a lot of interesting things to tell today, be careful not to dominate the conversation. Give everyone equal time. Order now: The NEW Astro-Graph Matchmaker wheel and booklet which reveals romantic combinations, compatibilities for all signs, tells how to get along with others, finds rising signs, hidden qualities, plus more. Mail $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y., 10019. Send an additional $1 for your Pisces Astro-Graph predictions for 1983. Be sure to give your zodiac sign.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Unless the other party is directly involved, it may be wise today not to discuss your confidential business or financial matters. Keep mum.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your judgment in career situations today may not be up to its usual high standard. Be careful not to make snap decisions based upon sketchy information.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You could be mentally restless today and it might be difficult for you to follow your ideas through to a practical conclusion. Concentrate! Concentrate!

CANCER (June 21-July 21) Try to accept others for what they are today. Don't attempt to make them over in your own mold. This could lead to a discouragement on your shortcomings.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Sideslip discussing family problems today which have a tendency to put everyone on the defensive. It could spoil what should be a pleasant day.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be very explicit today if you are having others perform work or services for you. Don't omit even the smallest details.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Relax and enjoy yourself today, but also take care not to become involved in fun pursuits which might have costs that might not be too obvious.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Unless you are extremely conscious of your behavior, you could unintentionally come on too strong today and make others feel uncomfortable.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Information passed on to you today by persons who are supposed to be "insiders" may not be too reliable. Take what's said with a degree of reservation.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you are eating out with a friend today where each is expected to pay his or her own way, don't be too penny-conscious when the bill comes.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Small factors could take on extra significance today in career situations. Try not to be careless about little things which could hurt your image.

Reader Fears A Degenerated Disk

DEAR DR. LAMB— I am a 26-year-old female, 5 feet 2 and weigh 173 pounds. I would like to know if you could send me some information about a degenerated disk. Is there any treatment for it and if so what kind?

I injured my back about three years ago. The first doctor I saw wanted X-rays but I could not afford them. Later when I went back he could find nothing wrong. My back is not getting any better so I went to a neurosurgeon. He said he thinks I have a degenerated disk.

I had the X-rays last week but they did not show anything. He has me on some medicine but it does not seem to be helping.

Was I right or wrong in going to see a neurosurgeon? I don't know whether he wants to do surgery or not until I go back to see him.

DEAR READER— If you do have a degenerated intervertebral disk, it is fine to see a neurosurgeon. They do disk surgery if it is needed. You could also have seen an orthopedic specialist. A good place to start is with your family doctor because some back pain is not related to the spine or back muscles at all. You can have referred pain to the back from the colon, or other abdominal organs.

Ordinary X-rays are often of limited value in finding a degenerated disk. Special X-rays such as myelograms that inject dye into the spinal column so the displaced disk can be seen are often used. So is the CAT scan.

It is difficult to advise you without a definite diagnosis of what is causing your back pain. It could be muscle spasm for a number of reasons.

If you do not have an acute condition, such as a recent flare up from a ruptured disk, it is possible that you need some good exercises for your abdomen and spine. But you should not do these exercises during the acute phase without your doctor's approval. Many young people have backaches because of weak abdominal muscles. So do a number of older people, too.

Being overweight may be a factor in your case as well. I'm sending you The Health Letter 13-10, Backache and What To Do About It, which outlines the conservative treatment for backaches and the lifestyle to follow to prevent them.

DEAR DR. LAMB— A cousin of mine who is very health conscious drinks all of his liquids at room temperature. He claims that since one's body is 98.6 a cold drink of anything is a shock to your system. Since he is always imposing his theory on his friends I'd like to know if there is any validity to his claim.

DEAR READER— Not much. Fortunately the liquids are quickly warmed and, of course, they mix with the contents of the stomach. Very hot liquids or food may be a bigger danger, as they irritate the delicate lining of the throat and particularly the esophagus.

Now, a lot of really cold liquid in the stomach, such as ice water, can chill the under side of the heart enough to cause the T waves in an electrocardiogram (ECG) to change. This doesn't mean it damages the heart.

But I have seen enough acute heart attacks in young, rather healthy individuals who got very hot, as in playing football, and then drank a lot of cold liquids, to discourage drinking a lot of cold water or other cold liquids in that situation.

WIN AT BRIDGE

that finished second in the 1982 Reisinger.

The bidding and opening lead were the same at both tables. Both ducked the spade, won the continuation and ran off dummy's seven diamonds. East discarded the six and eight of clubs, two hearts and two spades. Root ducked four hearts and one spade. Now he led to his ace of hearts to come down to a three-card ending. He knew East still held two spades so had therefore come down to a singleton club.

Was it a small one, the jack or the king? Root decided it was the king, led to dummy's club ace and made his 11th trick with the queen. It wasn't too tough a play for Root. East had made a vulnerable overall. Note that if East had held on to two clubs, Root would have thrown him in with the spade king for an end play.

At the other table, Norman Kay made one of his standard genius-type plays. He put the king of spades on Edgar's queen at trick one. South ducked and Norman shifted to a heart to kill the end play, hold declarer to 10 tricks and win the board.
