A message from U.S. Congressman Mica

By John Mica
SPECIAL TO THE HERALD

Dear Friend:

As we conclude the work of the 105th Congress, I wanted to report to you on some of my activities as your member of the U.S. House of Representatives.

National issues including keeping our federal budget balanced, upcoming education and transportation, keeping our commitments to our veterans, national security and tackling our serious drug abuse epidemic have occupied a great deal of my time and effort during the past months.

While we have made some progress in each of these areas much more must be done in the future. Applying common sense and a cost-benefit analysis to federal programs has helped me to be successful in undertaking several national legislative initiatives. These include redefining veterans' preference, expanding health care to our retired military and veterans and their dependents and improving the quality of our national Head Start education program. Additional detail are included in this newsletter on each of these accomplishments.

At the local level a number of community based projects have kept me busy. At the top of the list is improving local traffic congestion, preserving some of our diminishing local natural and historic resources and launching a drug awareness and illegal narcotics enforcement program. These activities are also detailed in this report.

With an every growing population in Central Florida we never seem to fall short on challenges to keep up with demands and needs for our infrastructure, roads, schools and government services.

During the coming 106th Congress, we have a number of serious issues to address. More than 40 million Americans do not have access to affordable health care. Many people who belong to HMOs have experienced serious problems in securing care. Preserving Social Security and improving Medicare and Medicaid are also on our national legislative agenda. Hopefully we can tackle some of these major problems and also find a way to allow all citizens to keep a little more of their hard earned dollars and savings without sending more to Washington.

Quite a challenge, but I believe we have come a long way in a short time in improving our federal operations. I look forward to working with our local community, state and national leaders to improve our lives and future.

John Mica is a member of the U.S. House of Representatives and represents much of Seminole County.

Rinehart Road, has been funded but is awaiting design.

Hoke is preparing a trails map for each of the county's cities. The map will show possible linkages to the county and regional trails. She hopes to gather city representatives together for a work session. "This is a practical way to do it," said Hoke. "You don't want to have trails leading to nowhere and not have things linking up. Sometimes it just a matter of making sure (a) corridor is left for the purpose of a trail. It might not even come in for 10 or 15 years. I just want to make sure that we're not blocked."

"It's kind of an ambitious plan," she said.

Congressman John Mica delivered an address through his report from the U.S. Congress regarding the state of Seminole County and Central Florida.

Why not just buy more buses with transit funds?

Buses, like cars, will be stuck in traffic gridlock have limited capacity, and add to pollution.

What is the future of light rail?

Since 1992, the number of communities seeking federal funding for light rail and commuter rail projects has increased from 29 to 172. These communities include: Atlanta, Austin,

Baltimore, Charlotte, Cleveland, St. Louis, Houston, Kenosha, Rock, Louisville, Memphis, Milwaukee, Nashville, New York, Norfolk, Philadelphia, Colorado,

A Quiet Walk for a Quiet Talk...

It's time for a breather every now and then...a time when one can listen to birds sing, breathe fresh air, and crunch leaves underfoot. What an appropriate opportunity to have a peaceful communion with our Heavenly Father and to contemplate His reassuring power in our complex lives.

In Psalm 143:4-6 David says, "So my spirit grows faint within me; my heart is parched and dry."
 within me is dismayed...I meditate on all your works and consider what you have done. I spread out my hands to you; my soul thirsts for you like a parched land."

Worship in your local church or synagogue each week and learn of God's power in your life; take the time to meditate upon our Creator in His world. Go for a quiet walk for a quiet talk with God.

Changes

begin three years earlier in 2000.

Interstate 4 Widening

The Florida Department of Transportation is completing engineering studies to add an additional lane to Interstate 4 from Highway 436 to downtown Orlando. Using the abandoned High Occupancy Vehicle lane and inside median will provide additional traffic flow in our most congested area. Currently the FDOT is also completing studies for providing sound waffling along residential portions of I-4 to deal with noise as traffic increases.

Interstate 4/S.R. 46A Interchange

After more than a decade of delay, construction has begun on a new interchange at Interstate 4 and S.R. 46A. This project is scheduled to be completed in December, 1999. It is my pleasure to work with local and state leaders to help expedite this interchange project and to participate in its ground breaking ceremony.

Auto Train

Plans are underway to replace the outdated and inadequate Auto Train facility in Sanford. The new terminal will be designed to accommodate more passengers, local commuters, light rail and bus service. I am working with Auto Train, Amtrak, FDOT and local authorities to complete initial plans for this project.

U.S. 17/92 and S.R. 498 Overpass Preliminary Engineering and Final Design

The intersection of U.S. 17/92 and S.R. 436 carries more traffic than any other intersection in the Orange/Osceola/Seminole Tri-County region. New funding will provide for an environmental assessment, preliminary engineering and final design for a Grade Separation Structure at the intersection to relieve congestion, reduce accidents and enhance air quality.

U.S. 17/92 Widening (Volusia Co.)

U.S. 17/92 is a two lane north-south roadway serving the cities of West Volusia County and providing a connection to Interstate 4. The Florida DOT is completing the design and purchase of right-of-way for widening, but no monies are available for construction. New monies from the transportation bill will help fund the construction.

Trails Program Expands

Our Cross Florida Trails Program has made progress with additional federal assistance. Trails for hiking and foot traffic are becoming a reality in many of our Central Florida communities. It was my honor to receive recognition recently for my legislative work from the Florida Rails to Trails Association at their annual conference in Miami.

Cross Seminole Trail Connection

The Cross-Seminole Trail is a fully multi-use trail including all non-motorized user groups accommodating alternative transportation. This project would complete the "missing link" to the Florida National Scenic Trail by connecting Spring Hammock Preserve with the Econ River State Forest. This new funding will provide a pedestrian overpass over State Road 434 and a 6 mile trail segment to make the critical link to Downtown Oviedo and Winter Springs. Design and Construction of Pedestrian Overpass over I-4 for the Florida National Scenic Trail

The purpose of this project is to provide a safe pedestrian overpass of Interstate 4 for the connection of the Florida Natural Scenic Trail (FNST) and the Seminole Wekiva and Cross Seminole Trails. This bridge would connect multiple resource areas, providing for a recreational facility anticipated to have over 25,000 users per month.

Light Rail

Working with Central Florida's local and state officials, plans to build the first 14.7 miles of a light rail system are making progress. While the initial leg is planned for the congested tourist corridor, a regional system will eventually connect most of our area's work and activity centers. We have secured 55 percent federal funding and 25 percent State dollars to supplement private and local contributions to underwrite construction of this first phase. Volusia County is now conducting preliminary studies for future service and participation. A review of the Highway 436 and Maitland Boulevard corridors future fixed transit needs is also underway. While service to Seminole and Volusia County residents is still years away, this first leg is critical to developing any future regional fixed mass transit system.

Orlando-Sanford International Airport

Construction is now underway to install an Instrument Landing System (ILS) at Orlando-Sanford Airport. This ILS system should allow aircraft to land and approach from over a less populated area and assist with noise abatement. It should be activated by mid-1999.

Here are frequently asked questions surrounding light rail in Seminole County as listed in Congressman John Mica's report from Congress.

The need for light rail in Central Florida

Does Central Florida need light rail?

Central Florida has only a few North/South and East/West major highway arteries. More than 174,000 vehicles now use I-4 daily, and by the time its maximum allowed widening is complete, I-4 will be packed to capacity.

Last year 43,000 new cars were added to our Central Florida roads. Millions of future additional tourists and new residents will jam all local routes. Simply building more roads will not solve the problem. Are fixed transit systems successful?

Yes, here are a few examples:

• Dallas, TX--Ridership is over 40,000 daily, 8 percent above initial projections

• Portland, OR--Light rail ridership increased 60 percent since its opening 12 years ago.

• Sacramento, CA--Annual ridership grew from 14 million passengers in 1987 to over 25 million passengers today.

Are light rail systems efficient?

Yes. The light rail system will carry as many as 12,500 passengers an hour. That's as many as a six lane highway will hold but at a fraction of the cost and in a fraction of the space.

Won't a fixed transit or light rail system block traffic?

Light rail vehicles will cross intersections in less than 30 seconds. That's less than the average time Central Floridians wait at traffic signals now!

What about air pollution?

Automobiles are huge contributors to high levels of air pollution. Electronically powered light rail trains will improve future air quality by diminishing reliance on the automobile and the bus. Will light rail be noisy?

No. A passing light-rail train makes a little more noise than a car. The horns on the car and the light rail vehicle are about the same--80 to 88 decibels.

Will light rail affect property values?

Historically, light rail has increased property values along its right-of-way at an average return on investment of 8:1. This is because both business and residential investors recognize the value of greater accessibility.

Where will the first leg of the system be located?

The system begins at Sea World on I-Drive and stretches 14.7 miles to downtown Orlando.

Why have the first leg in the I-Drive region?

The initial route contains one of the densest traveled tourist corridors in the United States. Approximately 35 million tourists visit Orlando each year. The I-Drive Corridor contains 20,600 hotel rooms which play host to a large number of these visitors.

Currently, 1 million people a year visit the Convention Center which is included on the first leg of the light rail system. These highly traveled areas contain the ridership for a successful system.

Will local taxpayers subsidize light rail in the I-Drive corridor?

The system will be financed through a joint effort with the Federal government providing 55 percent, the State 25 percent, and Local and Private partners providing the remaining 20 percent of the contributions.

In fact, local businesses will contribute approximately $39 million along with the Convention Center which set aside $58 million to address its transit needs. Property owners in the I-Drive area created their own taxing district that now finances a bus and trolley system. Universal Studios, not in the district, currently contributes a half million toward that system annually.

Since buses and trolleys are being stalled in traffic gridlock, a fixed light rail system will be constructed with financing by local participants on a pro rata and land use share basis.

The light rail system is subsidized, as all transportation is subsidized. For example, public parking garages now cost taxpayers between $9,900-$11,000 per space to build.

Will Central Floridians use light rail in the future?

Yes, 72 percent of Seminole County residents and 90 percent of Southwest Volusia residents work outside of their counties. Their daily commute takes them to and from downtown Orlando, Florida and Orlando Regional Hospitals, Orlando International Airport, the tourist corridor and other activity centers to be served by light rail.

Nearly all foreign visitors and a majority of U.S. visitors now come from areas serviced by fixed transit systems.

When will future extension of light rail be constructed?

Work on the first 14.7 mile segment is planned to begin in 1999, with operations beginning along I-Drive by the end of 2001, and operating to downtown Orlando in 2003. The connection of the Southern leg to the Airport or Northern Route could be completed by 2007. Any further additions will only be made if the ridership grows to demand added service, and with local consensus.

Who will approve any future fixed transit routes?

The Volusia and Orlando Metropolitan Planning Organizations, the LYNX Board, and local officials will decide the alignment. Why not spend all money on the building of more roads?

Federal gas taxes of 18.4 cents per gallon are returned by law to the states with a restriction that 80 percent is spent for highways and 20 percent for mass transit.

Why light rail and not some other technology?

Light rail systems are not only more reliable, but can be built faster and at a lower cost than any other form of existing exclusive-right-of-way mass transportation. Highways are more expensive per mile, monorail systems cost more to build and operate, and shared-right-of-way commuter systems won't meet Central Florida's long term needs.

If we compare cost per mile, light rail costs $40 million per mile, while a people mover system would be over $100 million and maglev costs are estimated to be $125 million per mile. Light rail is the most cost-effective choice.

Is it cost effective to build a fixed transit system versus more roads?

Per mile, Light Rail is the most cost-effective alternative.

• GreenWay "Missing Link": $237 million for 5 miles (4 lanes), or $43 million per mile.

• Interstate 4: $1 billion for 25 miles (2 additional lanes), or $40 million per mile.

• Light Rail: $600 million for 14.7 miles (equivalent to 6 lanes), or $40 million per mile.

Seminole County Greenways, Trails & Bikeways Conceptual Master Plan

Goals

Provide for greenways, trails and bikeways as a vital element to maintain and improve the quality of future development and community revitalization efforts throughout Seminole County. A coordinated program will result in:

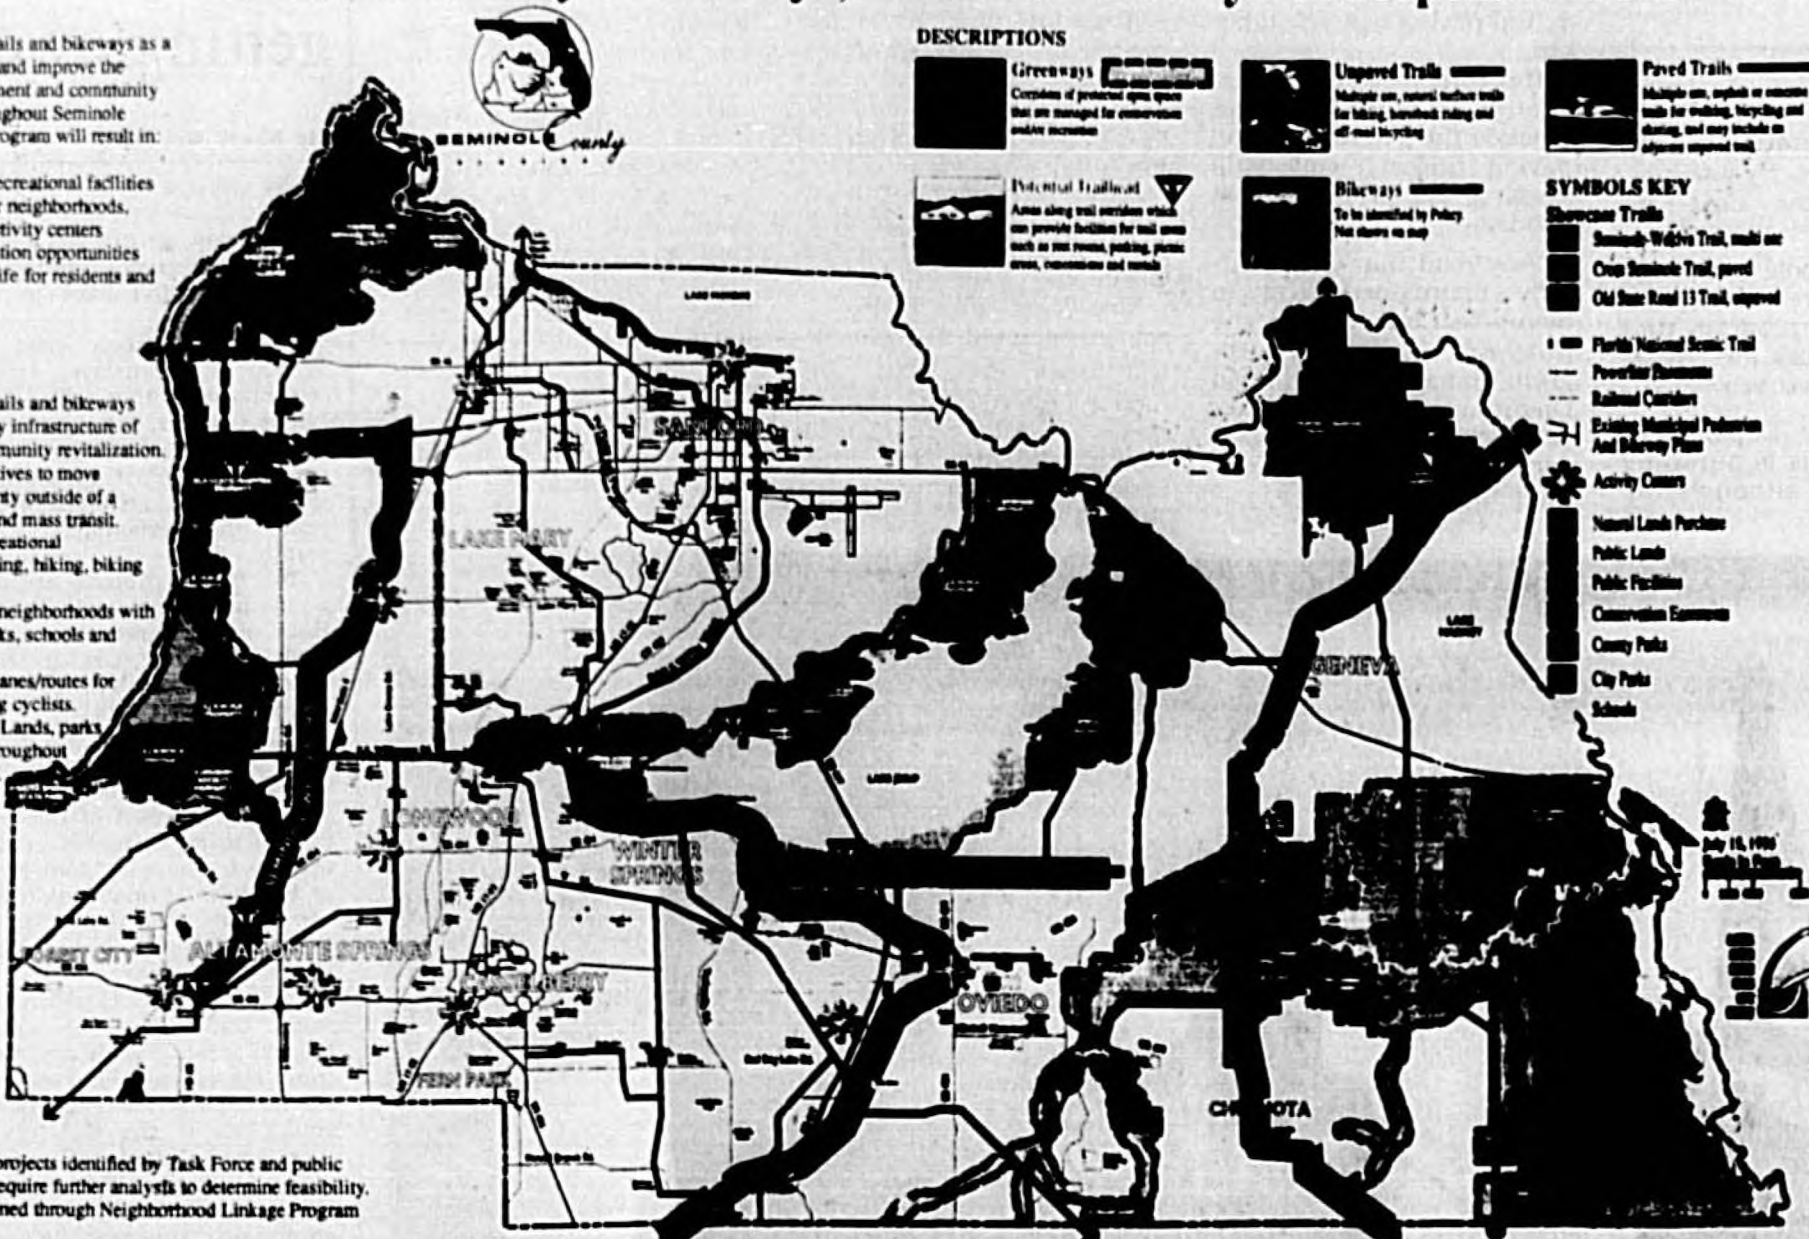

- Increased multi-use recreational facilities
- Linkages between our neighborhoods, schools, parks, and activity centers
- Alternative transportation opportunities
- Enhanced quality of life for residents and business

Objectives

- Plan for greenways, trails and bikeways as part of the necessary infrastructure of development and community revitalization.
- Provide viable alternatives to move around Seminole County outside of a personal automobile and mass transit.
- Provide increased recreational opportunities for walking, hiking, biking and equestrian users.
- Revitalize or enhance neighborhoods with linkages to nearby parks, schools and activity centers.
- Provide on-road bike lanes/routes for commuting and touring cyclists.
- Connect large Natural Lands, parks and activity centers throughout the County and region.
- Protect greenway corridors which will preserve and connect important natural resources.
- Encourage private industry to integrate greenways, trails and bikeways into development planning.

Lots of changes on the way in county transportation

By John Mica
SPECIAL TO THE HERALD

Legislation
In 1993 during my first term in Congress, the State of Florida received 72 cents for every dollar in federal gasoline tax sent to Washington. This year as the six year formula for distributing national gas tax proceeds was revised, we were able to ensure that Florida and every state received back at least 90.5 cents for every dollar sent to Washington. This new distribution provides Florida with an additional $400 million dollars annually for each of the next six years. As a member of the U.S. House Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure, winning this fairer return was an important step in securing funding to meet our State's highway and mass transportation needs.

St. Johns River Bridge
With additional federal revenues, our Florida Department of Transportation has been able to include widening of the St. Johns River/1-4 Bridge in its five year highway improvement plan. The $14 million federal dollars that I obtained for 1999 initial planning and engineering work will keep the project moving forward. We have requested the assistance of our State Legislators to pass a resolution allowing the replacement project to qualify for advanced funding under our revised federal funding law. That action could allow the 1-4 bridge construction to

Airport officials proceed with expanded service plan

By Bill Kerns
STAFF WRITER

SANFORD - Orlando Sanford Airport officials are trying to bring in domestic air service, despite objections from officials in Lake Mary.

Lake Mary commissioners have concerns about noise at the airport, and representation on the Sanford Airport Authority Board.

Lake Mary Mayor Greg Meador and commissioners Thom Green and Gary Brender want the city to be represented on the airport authority board.

The nine member board consists of two Sanford residents and seven regional members.

"The airport will not truly be a regional airport until there is true regional representation," Lake Mary commissioner Thom Green said.

Sanford Mayor Larry Dale said the airport authority board does strive for regional representation. But, he said the board can not guarantee a seat to every city that wants one.

The Sanford Aviation Noise Abatement Committee has been meeting monthly for two years to address concerns such as stopping late night commercial repetitive training, balancing the traffic flow, having preferential runways and arrival/departure routing, and creating helicopter arrival/departure procedures.

The noise study is ongoing. Preliminary studies on noise at the airport showed that the noise is well within tolerable levels.

Green disagrees, comparing the noise level to I-4 during rush hour.

The airport's second Instrument Landing System, commissioned for operation in the spring of 1999, will also ease noise concerns. The Instrument Landing System will provide navigational assistance for aircraft landing of the main runway during poor weather.

The Longwood City Commission recently voted in favor of regularly scheduled domestic service at the Orlando Sanford Airport. But, Mayor Rusty Miles also said he would write to Sanford city commissioners in favor of broadening the representation at the airport authority board.

The importance of votes in favor of regular domestic service is so the resolutions can be packaged and presented to possible carriers, as a sign of regional support, according to Sanford City Manager Tony VanDerworp.

Representatives from Sanford Airport Authority and Orlando International Airport Authority are communicating primarily through the Metropolitan Planning Organization.

VanDerworp and Orange County Chairman Mel Martinez have said there is enough potential domestic business for the Orlando Sanford Airport to be part of a regional transportation network.

Companies such as AAA, CBIS, and Dixon have inquired about the future

ording to airport officials.

availability of scheduled domestic service out of the airport. The service could complement domestic service at the Orlando International Airport by servicing niche markets and smaller volume carriers, VanDerworp said.

The cities of Altamonte Springs, Casselberry, and Sanford have passed resolutions or letters of support. So have Seminole County, the Private Business Association of Seminole, Inc., the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, the Greater Orlando Chamber of Commerce, the Seminole County Convention and Visitors Bureau, and the Greater Seminole County Chamber of Commerce.

County is on the road to recovery

By Bill Kerns
STAFF WRITER

More than 400 county dirt roads may receive paving within the next six years.

The Seminole County Commissioners are investigating a $7.5 program that would pave 426 dirt roads over the next six years.

The County's Department of Public Works is pursuing the program, although the actual paving has yet to begin.

The commission is investigating whether they can quicken the pace of the road paving project, while still keeping the program cost effective.

"Any road that is a regularly maintained road in Seminole County is in the program," Ira Barrow, program manager for the Road Operations division of Public Works, said. "It's a very aggressive program for our division."

According to a study conducted by county road operations, the county will save money on maintenance over the long term by pursuing the road paving project. The study ranked roads into 14 different categories to show construction feasibility.

Nine years after the project is completed, the county will break even with the money spent for paving roads. After that, the county will save more than $500,000 per year on maintenance and other expenses for having completed the project, the study said.

By October, Public Works hopes to start the program by seeking permits. The department will begin paving roads when the permits are complete, Barrow said.

Among the roads to be paved in Sanford are Mellonville Avenue from Oak Way to Pine Way, 28th Street from Sanford Avenue to South Park Avenue, and Palm Way from Mellonville Avenue to a dead end.

Here's the trail to getting away

By Shari Brodie
STAFF WRITER

Someday, getting from one side of Seminole County to the other won't have to be done in a car.

There may soon exist a system of greenways, trails and bikeways that will allow hikers, bikers, skaters and equestrians to traverse the county, without impacting the already jammed major arteries that criss-cross the county.

Three major projects are already underway and Ginger Hoke, senior greenways and trails planner, sees, in the future, a web of ancillary interconnecting trails.

The county has made a good start on what it calls its "showcase" projects.

A 3-mile section of the 14-mile Cross Seminole Trail opened to the public in May of last year. Construction of the Phase 1 of the 14-mile Seminole Wekiva Trail is due to begin this year.

The Flagler Trail, which bisects the Little Big Econ State Forest gets heavy use from hikers and horseback riders. Plans for expansion could link it the St. Johns River, near Geneva.

The Seminole Wekiva and Flagler trails run north and south; one the west side of the county, the other on the east side. The Cross Seminole Trail runs primarily east-west, in the center of the county.

Hoke is working diligently to see that land is saved to build connecting trails.

"Trails are the 'in thing' right now," said Hoke. "Everybody knows that if we don't get them in now that we might not be able to get them in because development comes in."

Timing and coordination are the key to Hoke's job. In a short three months since took over the trail planner's position, she has seen to it that maps have been updated to better reflect the possible recreation corridors. If she can keep up with plans for road building and other development, she said she can often get the resources necessary to enhance the system.

"The timing is good," she said. "Ten years ago would have been even better but the timing is still good."

Hoke recently learned of plans to widen Upsala Road from State Road 46 to U.S. Highway 17-92. She said trail design and construction could be included in that bid request.

The Upsala Road trail would serve as a connection between Sanford's Riverwalk and the Cross Seminole Trail, via a trail along Rinehart Road. A portion of the trail, from Lake Mary Boulevard to County Road 46A, is nearly complete.

While the showcase projects are designed to handle a larger volume of users, a connecting trail doesn't have to be elaborate, said Hoke. In some cases, wider sidewalk strategically placed will suffice.

The goal of the trail system is to link recreation areas with urban areas, such as business centers and neighborhoods.

"In a lot of these (plans), one of the biggest goals is to make sure the schools are connected to the trails," said Hoke.

Planners have thus far utilized abandon rail beds and powerline easements for land to build trails.

In one example of coordination with new construction, a trail will be built through the new residential/commercial development at the southwest corner of Lake Mary Boulevard and Interstate-4 (formerly L & L Acres Ranch). A pedestrian bridge, over Lake Mary Boulevard, to the Heathrow International Business Center, is planned but not yet funded. Another pedestrian bridge, from International Parkway in the IIBC, to Karl Wright, Chairman of the Sanford Airport Authority, helps dedicate the new Don Knight Lane to Knight, a long-time Sanford businessman.

The new road is one of many that will be springing up in Seminole County in the near future.

Improved road should enhance property value

By Bill Kerns
STAFF WRITER

SANFORD - The city of Sanford is working with Seminole County on proposed gateway corridor standards for Lake Mary Boulevard and State Road 46.

The city is hoping that tough standards will attract quality development and enhance property values in the area, according to Jay Marder, director of engineering and planning. Public hearings may be held within the next two to three months, when a zoning ordinance could be adopted, according to Marder.

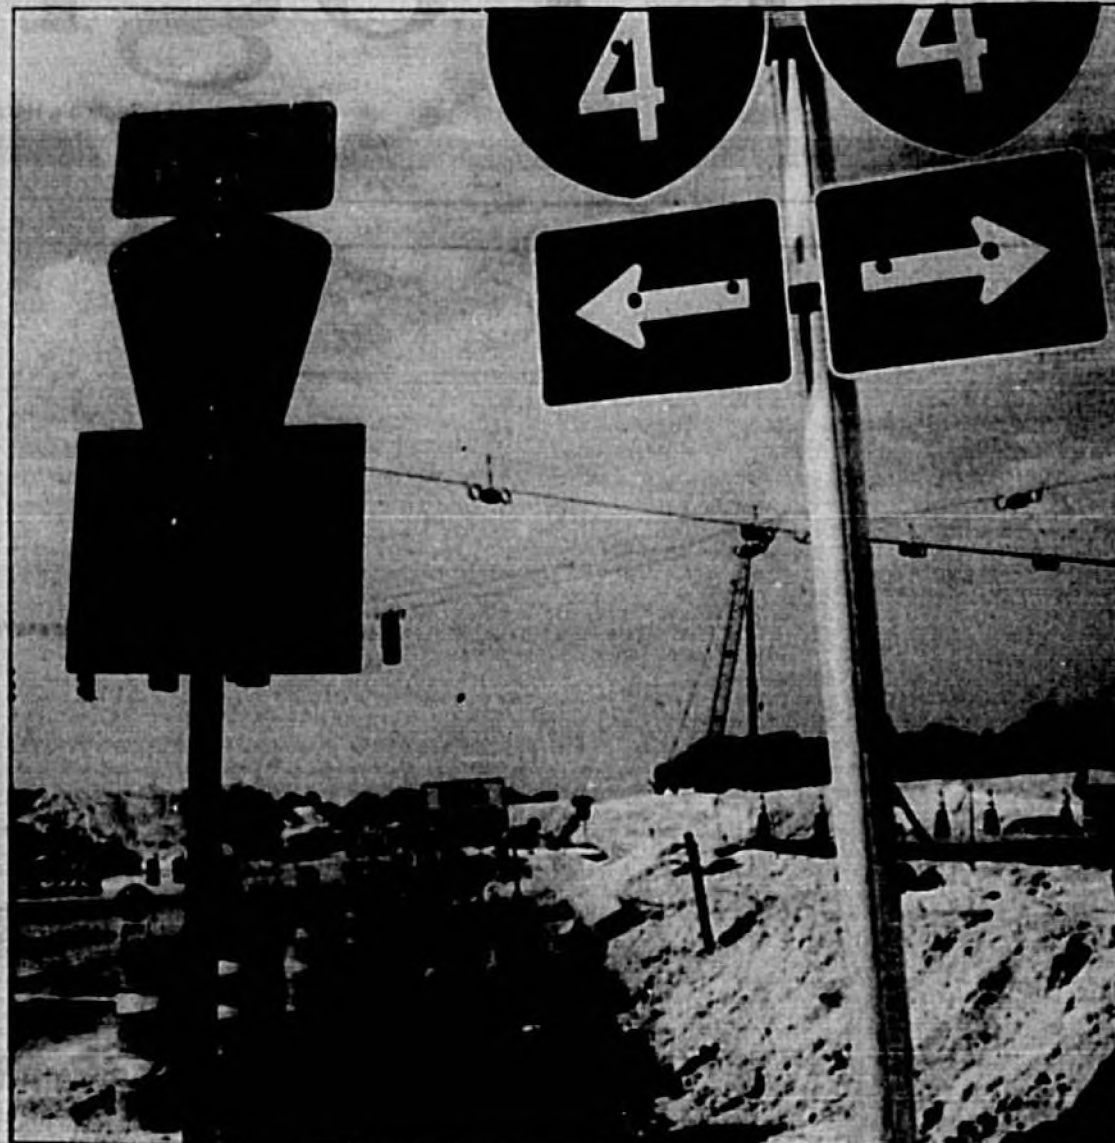

The proposed building setbacks at Lake Mary Blvd. and at SR 46 would require a minimum 50 feet from the right of way, although Marder said small businesses would have some flexibility under an ordinance.

Officials are hoping to ensure cross access between developments, Marder said.

Ground signs under the proposed standards would have a maximum height of 15 feet. The standards would require an enclosed sign base and a brick planter. Sanford's current regulations allow ground signs of up to 25 feet. Existing Lake Mary regulations set a maximum height of 15 feet.

Officials would like to avoid the excess strip and retail commercial signage seen on US Highway 17-92, according to Andrew Van Gaale, associate planner for the city.

At the SR 46 gateway corridor, a 25-foot street-side landscape buffer would be required. Two rows of canopy trees with one live oak would be staggered every 40 feet. At Lake Mary Blvd., a 15-foot landscaped buffer would be required. One live oak would be planted every 40 feet.

Officials want to have uniform design standards, Marder said.

Service areas and mechanical equipment would be screened and oriented toward the rear of the property on Lake Mary Blvd. and the SR 46 corridor.

New or relocated utility lines would be placed underground at Lake Mary Blvd. and the SR 46 corridor.

City officials are reviewing issues such as uniform buffer and entrance features, the appearance of the city's main entrance roadways, property values, and flexible height and entrance treatments.

1998 a record year for Orlando Sanford Airport

Growth expected to continue at a steady pace

By Bill Kerns
STAFF WRITER

SANFORD - Last year the Orlando Sanford Airport received the highest ground transportation and airfield revenue in its history, while coming to terms with rapid growth.

For the fiscal year ending Sep. 30, 1998 the Sanford Airport Authority made a net income of $218,000, including $408,362 in ground transport revenue and $412,125 in airfield revenue. Assets at the airport have increased more than $7 million since the previous fiscal year, to $35 million.

The challenge for the airport, according to Sanford Mayor Larry Dale, is to continue to grow, offsetting the loss of Britannia Airlines to the Orlando International Airport. More than 20 percent of the airport customers last year came from Britannia Airlines, airport officials said.

Operating revenues at the airport were just under $3.4 million, down from $3.6 million the previous year. Operating expenses at the airport were more than $3.1 million, down from just less than $3.4 million the previous year.

Domestic terminal revenue was $220,026, up from $200,051 the previous year. Airport officials said domestic terminal revenue is not expected to change in the coming year, despite the loss of Nations Air to the Daytona International Airport.

Fuel service revenue decreased to $11,562 from $649,785 the previous year. Airport officials said this income will increase as Jet/Aire continues to use the airport authority's fuel tanks.

Sun Pacific International and Wainwright's Vacations announced new scheduled-charter services to Orlando Sanford Airport last year as the facility continued on its latest growth opportunities.

Projects planned to add safety, service

By Bill Kerns
STAFF WRITER

SANFORD - The Orlando Sanford Airport is continuing to grow, adding new projects that will enhance safety and service for passengers.

The airport recently opened a new runway, an air cargo building, a Seminole County Sheriff's Office hangar, and an Airport Fire Station. The airport is also preparing a new Instrument Landing System for operation later this year.

The 3,500 foot, touch-and-go runway is constructed primarily for aviation flight training. The runway is located 4,300 feet from the airport's main runway.

For six months, the runway will be used primarily by pilots in training with smaller planes, according to Airport Director Victor White.

The runway will create separation between large commercial jets and general aviation aircraft. It also will reduce congestion on the airport's main runway, White said.

After six months, the airport plans to build a taxiway next to the new runway. Interior taxiways will allow for increased traffic. Lights will be installed on the runway, allowing for night flights, White said.

The $12 million Aircraft Rescue and Fire Fighting Station accommodates 12-18 firefighters. The station maintains three drive-through bays and an elevated observation tower. It is designed to accommodate future expansion as the airport grows, officials said. The Instrument Landing System provides navigational assistance for aircraft landing on the airport's main runway during poor weather. It is commissioned for operation in the spring of 1999.

Airport officials are working with the Federal Aviation Authority to adjust the altitude that airplanes fly when the enter the airport's airspace. The airport is trying to make the airspace more compatible for airlines of different sizes that are moving at different speeds, White said.

Herald Photos by Tommy Vincent

Planes, trains, automobiles...there's plenty of ways to move in and about Seminole County and one of the most popular is the Romance Cruise Line that leaves Lake Monroe daily, entertaining hundreds of people from in and around the county. The ship cruises from the lake up to the St. Johns River.

County on road to traffic recovery

By Bill Kerns
STAFF WRITER

SEMINOLE COUNTY - Seminole County is working on a deadline to finish millions of dollars in road projects.

The county's so-called penny tax will end Sep. 30, 2001. Millions of dollars in road projects are under way, with funding from the tax approved by voters in 1991.

Seminole County collects a 1 percent sales tax, and uses it for road improvements and other projects to benefit the county's transportation system. Residents will vote on whether to continue the surtax in 2001.

According to county officials, before the penny tax was approved the county and cities lacked sufficient funds for the county road system.

So far, the county has completed more than $113.5 million in projects under the ten year road building program. More than $34.3 million in projects are under construction, and more than $185.8 million in projects are in the design phase.

Future projects to be funded through the ten year road building program include Lake Mary Blvd. from Markham Woods Road to Interstate-4, Red Bug Lake Road from State Road 436 to Eagle Circle, Jewett Lane in Sanford, Eden Park, Douglas Avenue, Bunnell Road, and Sand Lake Road.

Projects under construction include

County Road 427, from SR 436 to US Highway 17-92, at a projected cost of $24.5 million, plus $290,000 for landscaping. The Chuluota Bypass from CR 419 to Snowhill Road is under construction at an estimated cost of $3.1 million.

Tuskawilla Road is under construction at an estimated cost of $6.7 million, plus $85,000 for landscaping. Rinehart Road in Lake Mary is under construction. The CR 46A/I-4 Interchange is under construction, through the Florida Department of Transportation.

Construction projects in design include Airport Blvd. from US 17-92 to SR 46, with an estimated cost of $23.1 million, plus $130,000 for landscaping. Lake Drive from Seminola Blvd. to Tuskawilla Road is in design with an estimated cost of $16.1 million, plus $175,000 for landscaping.

C-15 North of SR 46 is in design, with an estimated cost of $7.1 million, plus $80,000 for landscaping. Chapman Road from SR 426 to SR 434 is in design, with an estimated cost of $8 million, plus $161,000 for landscaping. CR 419 from the East Limits of Oviedo to Second St. in Chuluota is in design with an estimated cost of $4.1 million, plus $160,000 for landscaping.

CR 419 from Lockwood Rd. to East Limits of Oviedo is in design with an estimated cost of $7.4 million, plus $60,000 for landscaping. CR 427 from US 17-92 to Lake Mary Blvd. has an estimated cost of $15.6 million, plus $245,000 for landscaping. Tuskawilla Road from East Lake Drive has an estimated cost of $15.6 million.

CR 46A from Country Club Road to Rinehart Road has an estimated cost of $10 million, plus $105,000 in landscaping. CR 46A from Old Lake Mary Rd. to Country Club Drive has an estimated cost of $9.4 million, plus $130,000 in landscaping. CR 46A from Rinehart Road to Orange Ave. has an estimated cost of $4.8 million, plus $70,000 in landscaping.

Dodd Road from Red Bug Lake Rd. to Howell Branch Rd. has an estimated cost of $11.5 million, plus landscaping of $150,000. Douglas Ave. at the Markham Woods Intersection has an estimated cost of $5 million. Grantline Rd. from SR 46 to CR 46A has an estimated cost of $7.9 million, plus $140,000 in landscaping.

Howell Branch Rd. from Lake Howell Rd. to SR 436 has an estimated cost of $7.4 million, plus $40,000 in landscaping. Lake Emma Rd. from Sand Pond

Rd. to Longwood Hills Rd. has an estimated cost of $12.4 million, plus $145,000 in landscaping.

Silver Lake Drive from Lake Mary Blvd. to SR 46 has an estimated cost of $12.4 million, plus $85,000 in landscaping. Wymore Rd. has an estimated cost of $7.9 million, plus $60,000 in landscaping.

Traffic still isn't a pleasant thought in certain parts of the county, but many improvements are on the way to make it easier.

County school kids earning top marks all over state

South Seminole students Shauna Isaacs and Sule Taylor recently went to Walt Disney World and won the Black American Achievement Board Game Tournament. They led their school to a win over 60 schools from all over the country.

These kids at South Seminole Middle School in Casselberry earned top honors at a recent state competition where students were tested on ity. The intersection of S.R. 434 with S.R. 426/C.R. 419 experiences sub-standard operating conditions in the peak hour. The intersections of C.R. 419 and Mitchell Hammock Road with Lockwood Boulevard are approaching capacity.

These studies have shown that unless major road improvements are constructed traffic problems will continue to increase in the future.

Seminole County isn't known for being the largest in the state, but it is home to some of the finest athletes anywhere. Already in the 1998-99 school year, the Lake Brantley girls cross country team (leading the pack in the county championships) and the Winter Springs girls basketball team have won state titles. The Lake Mary girls program won a state record 3 championships last season, and, as of press time, Lake Howell and Lake Mary girls soccer teams were at the state Final Four in Tallahassee.

"...LASIK has changed my life!"

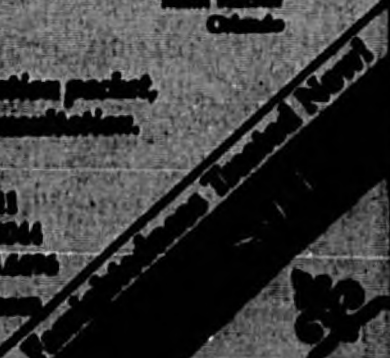

"I started wearing glasses in the 6th grade when I couldn't see the chalk board. For the past 18 years I have depended on contacts or glasses to do everything from drive, watch television and play sports. LASIK has changed my life! I can now see leaves on trees and can go to the beach without worrying about losing a contact. The best thing is ... my vision keeps getting better!"

Millions of dollars may be on the way for airport

By Bill Kerns
STAFF WRITER

SANFORD - The Orlando Sanford Airport could become the host site for a trade zone with millions of dollars in commerce.

The Sanford Airport Authority is applying for a federal grant that would create a Foreign Trade Zone, with businesses at the airport and area industrial parks cooperating in an increasing amount of trade. The airport authority is working with the Seminole County Economic Development Department. The airport authority will be the grantee of the zone. The Foreign Trade Zone is a joint project between Seminole County and the airport.

The airport authority is proposing that 17 sites be included in the zone, with a total of 2,181.85 acres. The sites are all industrial parks, plus land in the airport itself. Some of the land is vacant, while some of the land has already been developed.

Companies such as Siemens, Rocoton, and Pharo Technologies have expressed their support for the zone.

The Sanford Airport Authority has obtained over 40 letters of support from local land owners who will be part of the zone. The airport is seeking letters of support from government officials.

"It's standard to ask for support," Sanford Airport Marketing Director Ray Wise said. "We go to Mayors, congressmen, and usually the response is positive. This is an important part of economic development in the county."

The application to the Department of Commerce is more than 75 percent complete. The airport is hoping to have the application ready in March.

"That's our goal," Wise said. "There's a lot of detailed work and research involved."

After the application is complete, approval could take 6-12 months.

Bus service lynx area to future expansion

SPECIAL TO THE HERALD

Seminole County is home to more than 340,000 residents. With another 7,500 people expected to settle here in 1999, it is one of the fastest growing areas in Central Florida. And increased growth means increased traffic and a greater demand for mobility and transportation alternatives.

Lynx, the Central Florida Regional Transportation Authority, serves Seminole County, as well as Orange and Osceola Counties, with a vast array of transportation services including regular and express bus service, car and van pool programs, stranded motorist assistance, and paratransit services for residents with disabilities.

Currently, Lynx operates six bus routes in Seminole County primarily along the most congested corridors. Aras such as Highways 17-92 and State Road 436 receive the most coverage. However, Lynx buses also serve the City of Sanford including Seminole Towne Center, Oviedo with connections to the University of Central Florida, Altamonte Mall with connections to Maitland Center, and Downtown Orlando with connections from 17-92.

Provided that funding is in place, Lynx plans several service improvements for our area within the next two years. Among these are additional routes, increased frequency and enhanced amenities. Recommendations for improved service frequency have already been made for all existing routes in Seminole County.

Sanford residents may see a new route to the Sanford Orlando International Airport from Seminole Towne Center with connections to Seminole County Health Services. Lake Mary may also experience improved mobility with a new circulator route running from Seminole Towne Center through the Lake Mary residential areas and business corridors. Other planned service improvements include a cross-town route extending the length of Forest City Road, connecting Altamonte Springs, Forest City, Longwood and Winter Springs.

Since 1997, Lynx has constructed three large bus stop, called SuperStops, that serve as transportation hubs in areas with several intersecting routes. Already in use at places such as the University of Central Florida and Colonial Plaza Marketplace in Orlando, SuperStops are planned for Fern Park and Downtown Sanford. Lynx officials are planning for the Sanford SuperStop to interface with a regional intermodal station near the Sanford Amtrak Station.

With Lynx's increasing ridership (it has doubled since 1992), the agency also recognizes the need to add more shelters and benches within its 50-plus route network. The possibility of adding more informational kiosks at customer waiting areas is also being discussed. Lynx officials say they are constantly looking for ways to provide customers with information and better ways to get from point to point. They believe doing this will not only improve mobility for Seminole County, but for our region as a whole.

School bus safety comes first

Seminole County school buses transport thousands of children all over the county each year and safety is always the first priority.

It'll be a long wait for Seminole County light rail

County commissioners Grant Malloy and Carlton Henley took time out in Longwood to go over proposals for the Seminole light rail that might be years away from completion.

By Russ White
Staff Writer

SEMINOLE COUNTY - Light rail may be light years away from Seminole County, if and when Orange County gets on track. Seminole and Volusia counties will try to hook on. That would be the year 2010 if some Seminole County officials get their way.

It may be never if other officials get theirs. No one can be sure what will happen in Seminole unstructured simultaneously. The Orlando/Orange County system could be in use by 2002. "The good news is that we all agree light rail is a viable alternative," said Hood, who testified before the House subcommittee on transportation appropriations. Despite lobbying by Orange County's top officials, Gov. Jeb Bush is not allocating many dollars to the Central Florida light-rail system, choosing instead to put money into road and port improvements in the Tampa area.

It bothers Seminole County officials and residents that the horrible I-4 traffic will get much worse before a light-rail system is even on the planning board. There could be a snag if the Orlando project doesn't include an International Drive segment and a leg of the system to the airport. One federal government official has warned officials here that the system that has been studied for 2 years is the one the Feds support. Any changes might make the Feds pull the money.

Rep. John Mica, who has championed the light-rail project, said that he believes it would be possible to have both the downtown and airport rails to be construction simultaneously. The Orlando/Orange County system could be in use by 2002. "The good news is that we all agree light rail is a viable alternative," said Hood, who testified before the House subcommittee on transportation appropriations. The majority of the county's residents have jobs outside the county - although many new jobs became available as new companies moved into Seminole.

A train that may one day run north into Seminole County would provide an alternative to cars destined to Orlando's largest employment center. Downtown has almost 7 million feet of leasable office space - enough for 55,000 people.

Seminole County Chairman Carlton Henley said he opposed light rail when he won a seat last year but in recent months allowed Commissioner Grant Maloy to explore the San Diego light-rail system. Maloy was encouraged by much of what he witnessed.

The whole idea is to keep studying light-rail, to stay up on what is happening in other jurisdictions," said Commissioner Randy Morris, who champions light rail. "We know we won't have it until 2010 but we have to stay informed."

Commissioner Dick Van Der Weide said that he for light-rail only if the system is along Interstate-4. He said he fears too many tie-ups on county roads if the CSX route is chosen.

Both Mica and Hood are optimistic that there will be light-rail, and that one day the system will extend north. They are certain there will be federal money and remain hopeful Jeb Bush will also help. They say he is cautious now because he is new in office.

The purpose of this study to evaluate the transportation impacts of alternative future land development scenarios which can reasonably be envisioned to occur within the Chuluota Special Study Area by the year 2010. The study evaluates existing and projected traffic operating conditions on roadways within and around the special study area for each of the alternative land use scenarios and compares the transportation impacts of the four land use scenarios. The need for the study is based on the findings of an initial traffic im-act analysis conducted by staff as part of the Chuluota Special Area Study and comments received from the Local Planning Agency, other local governments and community residents. The thrust of these concerns was, and still is, whether or not varying intensities and densities of projected land use within the specific study area will have a significant impact on the need for roadway improvements and on other important outstanding transportation issues in the area.

Historically, it has been a goal of Seminole County to preserve the rural area of east Seminole County. The stated objective was to protect and maintain the rural character and lifestyle of the area, not to reserve it for future urban development.

Due to the development pattern of the urban area, Chuluota's position relative to major employment and shopping centers, natural land features and the layout of the arterial and collector road system most of the trips to and from the study area are distributed to and from the west and south. It is estimated that approximately 68 percent of the trips with an origin or destination within the study area are traveling to or from the west via County Road 419. While some of these trips are satisfied in the Oviedo area, many continue on to the west and south. Previous evaluations of A.M. Peak Hour directional traffic counts and turning movement counts at key intersections in the Oviedo area indicate that traffic produced east of Oviedo is primarily attracted to shopping and work related opportunities south and southwest of the old town center in Seminole and Orange counties.

Approximately 60 percent of the traffic entering Oviedo from the east are southbound with the remaining 40 percent westbound in the AM Peak Hour. The evaluation of A.M. Peak Hour counts at the intersections of State Road 434 with State Road 428, Mitchell Hammock Road and McCulloch Road for traffic leaving the city indicates that about 60 percent of the traffic is southbound traffic with most of the remaining traffic westbound.

About 30 percent of the trips with a trip end within the study area are traveling to-or from the south. Most of these trips use C.R. 419, however, Fort Christmas Road also provides secondary access. Many of these trips continue south to State Road 50 and the East/West expressway. The remaining 2 percent to 3 percent of the trips with a trip end within the study area are headed to or from the north via Snowhill Road, which provides access to State Road 46. There is no access across the St. Johns River east of the study area.

The traffic assignments indicate that 40 percent to 45 percent of the estimated and projected traffic on the major roadways within the Chuluota study area are through trips with both origin and destination outside of the study area. The through trips utilize capacity that otherwise might be reserved for future development within the study area. This is another indication that there are a large number of longer regional trips, which must be accommodated outside of the immediate area.

Only a small fraction of the trips using study area roads have both origin and destination within the study area. This is due to the limited number of opportunities to satisfy shopping and job related travel desires in the study area.

The impetus for the transportation problems in the Oviedo/East Seminole area is rapid, sustained growth and development. The area has one of the most active housing markets in the Central Florida region. This growth is stimulated by the area's proximity to the University of Central Florida, regional employment centers, access to the Greene-Way toll road, environmental amenities, and low housing costs.

The number of single family dwelling units in the Oviedo/East Seminole area increased by 98 percent from 1990 to 1997. Employment increased by 46 percent over the same time period. As single family dwelling units are projected to increase by another 4,484 from 1997 to 2003 and by 2010 it is projected that single family housing will have increased by 70 percent. Employment is also projected to increase 91 percent and 120 percent from 1997 to 2003 and 2010, respectively.

The development pressures in and around the area are driving the need for transportation system improvements. In general, traffic tends to increase at a rate equal to or greater than the growth in population and housing. However, traffic counts on specific roadway segments may also be affected by other factors, such as, new or improved roadways in the area. In the Oviedo/East Seminole area, the GreeneWay, McCulloch Road, Lockwood Boulevard and Red Bug Lake Road were widened or constructed during this time period.

In the Oviedo/East Seminole area traffic at selected locations increased from 1990 to 1997 as indicated below:

*S.R. 434 north of McCulloch Road increased by 46 percent.
*Mitchell Hammock Road east of S.R. 434 increased by 118 percent.
*S.R. 434 north of S.R. 428/C.R. 419 increased by 15 percent; and
*C.R. 419 east of Lockwood Boulevard, increased by 128 percent.

Previous transportation studies by Oviedo and Seminole County have shown that the increased travel demands generated by growth and development have had, and will continue to have, a significant impact on the roadways in the area. State Road 434 from the Orange County line to Mitchell Hammock Road is at capacity. See East, Page 18A

Transportation study addresses concerns of rural residents

FROM STAFF REPORTS

The recently completed Chuluota Small Area Study, done by Seminole County to determine the need for a change in urban services in a traditionally rural area, included an overview of transportation needs in east Seminole County.

In December, the county published a final report on the transportation analysis of this area. The following information was contained in that report.

Seminole County needs to do some catching up

Everyone is playing transportation catch-up.

Commissioner Grant Maloy

"I prefer to call it keeping-up"

Commissioner Randy Morris

By Russ White
Staff Writer

One of the smallest counties in the state but no longer the bedroom community it was a decade ago, Seminole County has some catching-up or keeping-up in the transportation department.

Hundreds of dirt roads need to be paved, major thoroughfares need to be widened, the computerized traffic signal system upgraded and services for the disabled and elderly expanded.

County residents who work in Orlando or Orange County consider Interstate-4 to be "a heart attack" in the morning and another in the evening. They say the major challenge at the start of the new century is to unclog I-4.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Steve Harriett said that the primary concern of county residents is neither drugs nor assault or robbery but traffic enforcement. The county's roads aren't just clogged, they are dangerous. "We've got more cars and more problems," Harriett said.

Another concern to residents in the Lake Mary area is the noise from aircraft arriving and departing Orlando-Sanford Airport. Air traffic continues to increase at the airport - now one of the busiest in the state.

Meanwhile, there's heated debate as to whether light rail will alleviate the I-4 nightmare or be a waste of billions of dollars. Even if light rail became a reality, Seminole County wouldn't come on track until 2010.

In his successful campaign for the County Commission last year, Carlton Henley said the right approach to gridlock was to build roads and not be concerned about light rail, he said construction costs for light rail would exceed $1.2 billion and that ridership would not pay for operating costs.

Traffic, traffic everywhere. This back-up on State Road 434 is typical of what many Seminole County citizens deal with every day. It is one of the major issues facing Seminole County as it heads into the new millennium.

...A County on the Go

Traffic on State Road 46 is troublesome around the Amtrak Auto Train Station in Sanford.

Herald Photos by Tammy Vincent

Lake Monroe and many of the other popular lakes and rivers are popular sites in Seminole County as recreational boaters fill the waters on weekdays and weekends alike. But, make sure to look out for alligators.

County

to voters with a picture of a light rail train running over a tax payer. He told the voters that incumbent District 4 commissioner Win Adams wants a train but that he says build roads.

Voters elected Henley over Adams, and Henley became the commission chairman. He is well aware of the county's transportation needs as are each of the men on the commission.

"Everyone is playing transportation catch-up," says Seminole County Commissioner Grant Maloy. "There have been tremendous improvements in the southern portion of the county," Maloy said. "Howell Branch used to be terribly backed up; now it's a breeze. But the Alafaya Trail is awful - beyond bad."

Ask anyone who has to drive on State Road 434 and State Road 436 and they'll say those roads are also awful - beyond bad. Motorists hardly regard U.S. Highway 17-92 as a boulevard of dreams. It's hazardous and ugly - accidents waiting to happen.

Commissioner Randy Morris prefers to say the county is "keeping-up" rather than catching up in transportation. "There's a big difference between the two," he said. "Twenty years from now this county will have far less worries than those that surround it. The citizens had the wisdom to approve a 1 cent sales for transportation needs. We're doing all we can to keep up with demands."

Morris, the former Chairman of the Metro Planning Orlando, said the I-4 situation can only get worse - as will traffic on Routes 434 and 436. Morris is a supporter of light-rail but realizes Seminole won't hook on until 2010. Of more significance today is the beginning of the $127 million St. Johns-1-4 Bridge project.

"There isn't any one answer to the transportation issue," said County Commissioner Darryl McLain. "There are many pieces to this puzzle. A good many are I-4 related. For some time we've been trying to attract businesses here to allow our citizens to live here and work here."

McLain is excited about the transportation projects in District 2 such as State Road 46 A being widened to four lanes, the 46 A/I-4 Interchange being built and preparations being made for an I-4 Bridge connecting Seminole and Volusia counties. "Each of these projects is part of the overall solution," McLain said.

The GreeneWay toll road gives Seminole County residents a quick but costly sprint to Orlando International Airport. Most people prefer to pay the tolls than drive I-4, however. Satisfying, too, is that there are no billboards along the GreeneWay. Drivers like it that way.

Appealing Lake Mary Boulevard is one of the best planned roads in the county. But it also experiences heavy traffic in the morning rush hours as drivers go in the direction of I-4. The new Route 46A/I-4 Interchange should help.

As more business comes to the county, more residents will work near their homes and not have to travel I-4 into Orange County or Orlando. At the same time more people may begin to drive from Volusia through Seminole and into Orange.

Transportation and growth go hand in hand

Transportation is the key to growth in Seminole County.

Seminole County is experiencing rapid growth, and the transportation concerns that come with growth. Traffic jams are a routine experience, especially for residents who commute to Orlando on Interstate 4. Improving the roadways is the key to Seminole County experiencing growth that also improves the quality of life for residents.

The I-4/St. Johns River Bridge is currently overburdened with more traffic than it was designed to handle. Construction on the I-4/St. Johns River Bridge could begin in 2000. The U.S. Congress has earmarked $128 million for the project.

The expansion of the I-4 bridge from four lanes to six, with three going in each direction, may include a center track for light rail and commuter lanes. Congress is spending $14 million for initial planning and engineering work this year.

State and federal lawmakers are working to pass a resolution allowing the I-4/St. Johns River Bridge project to qualify for advanced federal funding.

A new terminal is being planned to replace the Auto Train facility in Sanford. The terminal will be designed to accommodate more passengers, local commuters, light rail and bus service. Officials from Auto Train, Amtrak, Congress, the Florida Department of Transportation, and local authorities are working together to complete initial plans for the project.

The intersection of U.S. Highway 17-92 and State Road 436 carries more traffic than any other intersection in the Orange, Osceola, and Seminole County region. Officials are working to relieve congestion, reduce accidents and enhance air quality at the intersection. New funding will provide for an environmental assessment, preliminary engineering and final design for a grade separation structure at the intersection, officials said.

Construction on a new interchange at I-4 and State Road 46A is scheduled to be completed in December, 1999.

Sanford and Seminole County officials are hoping that tough gateway corridor standards for Lake Mary Boulevard and SR-46 will attract quality development and enhance property values in the area.

The Seminole County Commissioners are investigating a $7.5 million program that would pave 426 dirt roads over the next six years. Any road that is regularly maintained in Seminole County is part of the program. Nine years after the project is complete, the county will save more than $500,000 per year on maintenance and other expenses.

County residents will soon have better access to recreation facilities and nature preserves.

The Cross Seminole Trail will connect Spring Hammock Preserve with the Eron River State Forest. Federal funding will provide a pedestrian overpass crossing State Road 434 and a six-mile trail segment to make the link to Downtown Oviedo and Winter Springs.

A pedestrian overpass of I-4 is under design to connect the Florida Natural Scenic Trail and the Seminole Wekiva and Cross Seminole Trails. The bridge would provide for a recreational facility anticipated to have more than 25,000 users per month, officials said.

With traffic increasing on I-4, SR-434, and SR-436, officials in Orange County and Orlando are investigating the possibility of a light rail system to ease congestion. The Orlando/Orange County system could be in use by 2002. If the system does become a reality, Seminole County would not likely join the light rail system until 2010.

Growth at the Orlando Sanford Airport presents a delicate balancing act between economic progress and residential concerns over noise.

A new Instrument Landing System is being installed at the Orlando Sanford Airport. The ILS system will allow aircraft to land and approach from a less populated area, reducing noise for residents near the airport. The system is scheduled to be activated this year.

Airport officials are campaigning to bring in domestic air service. Orange County Chairman Mel Martinez has said there is enough potential domestic business for the Orlando Sanford Airport to be part of a regional transportation network. Companies such as AAA, CBIS, and Dixon have inquired the future availability of scheduled domestic service out of the airport.

The Sanford Aviation Noise Abatement Committee has been meeting monthly for two years to address concerns such as stopping late night commercial repetitive training, balancing the traffic flow, having preferential runways and arrival/departure routing, and routing helicopter arrival/departure procedures.

The noise study is on going. Preliminary studies on noise at the airport show that the noise is within tolerable levels. However, Lake Mary City Commissioners are still concerned.

Members of the Lake Mary City Commission, as well as Longwood Mayor Rusty Miles, want to expand representation on the Airport Authority Board. The board currently consists of two Sanford residents and seven regional members.

Sanford Mayor Larry Dale said the board does strive for regional representation. But, he said the board can not guarantee representation for every city that wants a seat on the board.

The Orlando Sanford Airport had the highest ground transportation and airfield revenue in its history last year. The airport faces the challenge of continuing to grow, despite the loss of Britannia Airlines to the Orlando International Airport. More than 20 percent of the airport's customers came from Britannia Airlines last year, officials said.

The airport recently opened a 3,500 foot, touch-and-go runway that will be used primarily by pilots in training. The new runway is located 4,300 feet from the airport's main runway. It will create a separation between large commercial jets and general aviation aircraft, reducing congestion on the main runway.

Central Florida is among the fastest growing regions in the nation. The question is not whether Seminole County will continue to improve, but how the growth will affect residents. Improved transportation is the key to ensuring that economic growth in Seminole County also enhances the lives of residents.

WIN AT BRIDGE

A multifaceted deal

Toby's deal occurred during a national championship in South Africa. It is like a diamond, with many facets — something close to the hearts of many South Africans. And if you can conquer these questions, how did one South win all 12 tricks in four hearts? Can West make the slam? What is the best contract, the one in which West maintains his lead?

In this contest, West leads the tenacest, two hearts was an Ace tenacest, which succeeded a hand being in playing-trick terms, but didn't guarantee a touch of defensive values.

Understandably, West was pestered to find that he couldn't defend six hearts. After making the heart ace, he tried the diamond ace, but South ruffed, established dummy's spade suit, and scored 1200.

One defender did the "impossible" — not making a trick to the trump ace — because West led the heart ace at trick one and East discarded a club. So one guarded this, so the result became established. The penalty cost West his trick, giving South all 12.

The West can make five diamonds. Suppose North leads a heart. West wins, draws trumps ending in hand, and advances his grade. North wins with the ace and ends with a spade in dummy's hand, on which West scores a trick. Now declarer ruffs a spade, crosses to dummy with a trump, and leads the final spade, discarding another club. North must return a spade, allowing declarer to ruff in the dummy and to capture his last club.

So, the par contract is seven diamonds doubled by West. This goes to 600, giving North-South plus 200.

Families turn out for Italian Night

It was obvious that a lot of activity was going on at the Sanford Woman's Club on Feb. 19. Cars lined both sides of Oak Avenue around dusk and clusters of friends gathered on the sidewalk. Some were hugging while others were standing around with broad smiles on their faces. They seemed like a group of real happy campers.

The aroma of good food wafted out of the clubhouse and Mama Mia! there was a rush to get inside. A long line was already formed and tables of happy-looking diners were downing strings of al dente spaghetti drizzling with thick meat and tomato sauce.

Along with the spaghetti, diners savored crisp garden salad, crunchy bread, beverages and sorbet with almond cookies. Everybody seemed to enjoy the food as well as the warm hospitality of the club's charming hostesses.

The club was tastefully decorated by Betty Colbert and Jane Morgan with arrangements of colorful flowers, festoons of garlands and green and red Italian flags. The servers wore red checked aprons and floated throughout the club catering to their guests.

Several families showed up for a night out on the town. Marty Colegrove, past president who was on the ticket detail, showed up with her family, husband Richard, son, Sanford Attorney Rick Colegrove, his wife, Collette and their daughter, Audrey, 4. Pettie Audrey danced through the doorway while patting her full little tummy. She loved the Italian feast.

A.A. "Mack" McClanahan, Sanford City Commission tender, arrived with his wife, Candi, and several family members. They milled around with other guests and agreed this was the place to be on the beautiful Friday night.

Buck's Catering supplied the spaghetti sauce and helping with other kitchen duties were Ralph Pezold, Roger Bowen and Dr. Robert J. Smith.

Polly Pezold was in charge of servers, DeLore Lash was in

According to Viola Frank, chairman, over 200 were served during the appointed hours. She said, "We had a real good turnout. Real good."

Temple leads annual Prayer Breakfast

Just Push (Just Pray Until Something Happens) was the theme of the seventh annual prayer breakfast held by Evergreen Temple No. 321 and Grace H. Brewer Past State Presidents Club of the Improved Benevolent Protective Order of Elks Of The World.

This event was held on Saturday, Feb. 20 at 8:30 a.m. The community gathered to Just PUSH and pray.

The master of ceremonies was Bro. Melvin Philpot with a medley of favorite hymns coming from the console under the leadership of the talented hands of Gloria Williams. Musical renditions were by Kaylla Mobley, Rebecca and Stephen Brown, Mary Debose and Sally Saunders. A drama presentation of "Melodies of Heave" was performed by the Evergreenettes Praise Dancers.

After a delicious breakfast, the speaker of the hour, Rev. Leonard J. Wilson, pastor of St. Matthew Baptist Church was introduced by Deacon W.C. Cummings. As Pastor Wilson spoke he gave food for Christian enrichment. He reminded the audience to push when we pray and to keep on praying and something will happen in our lives. The message with spiritual power was well received.

LITERARY GROUP REVIEWS 'RUTH'

Fran Morton is a lady of many hats, three of which she wore to the February meeting of the Literary Group of the Sanford Woman's Club held at the clubhouse. Fran, president of the group, served as hostess at the last minute when Charlotte Knowles, scheduled hostess, became ill.

Fran also presented the program by giving a beautiful review of The Book of Ruth from the Bible. According to Libby Boyd, Fran told "of Ruth's loyalty to her mother-in-law and her love for Solomon's son, Boaz." Fran also gave the historical background of the story, as well as the customs of the times.

Libby Boyd, secretary, read a letter from Ginger Herridon, formerly of Sanford, who spoke to the club at the January meeting. She expressed her pleasure at attending the meeting.

Fran and Bunnie Logan, co-hostess, served refreshments to the members who also enjoyed a discussion of books they are reading.

Sudden weakness or numbness. Slurred or loss of speech. Sudden loss of vision or sudden blurred vision. Sudden headaches. Keep aspirin handy to reduce symptoms while you're waiting on emergency vehicles.

Most people don't think of crime as being seasonal. In the case of cons and scams, it really is. And the season is upon us.

Lake Mary Chief of Police Richard Beary and Sgt. Linda Belfiore were the special guests at the February meeting of the Lake Mary AARP. March and April, Chief Beary warned, is when the con artist and scammers come south.

The "Travelers", as they're called, like the construction scam. They knock on your door. They're in the neighborhood, they say, working on someone else's house and they have materials left over. They're willing to reshingle your roof, repave your drive, or something in that vein, for an unbelievably low price. The roof job might consist of just a thin, badly applied, coat of tar on your roof. The important thing to remember is "If it's too good to be true, it is." Legitimate contractors will never come knocking on your door asking for your business.

Sometimes, the travelers lure you outside your home on the pretext of being from the power company. They want to show you the trees they're cutting in or near your yard. When they get you outside, a partner goes into your home and steals everything that can be carried out. If someone comes to the door purporting to be from the power company or a tree company you didn't call, call the police immediately. They would rather you be safe than sorry.

Charity phone calls are one way that scam artists come straight into our homes. Yes, the AARP members that explained the four most popular scams. She also gave out a booklet "How Senior Citizens Can Prevent Crime". Crime is a frightening problem for seniors, but you can learn how to reduce your chances of becoming a victim. You have to be alert and know what's going on around you. You have to be cautious. And you have to be self-confident.

In your home, use your locks on your doors and windows, not just when you're out, but when you're home. Alarm systems can be very helpful. If all your exterior locks aren't deadbolts, change them. If you're not sure whether or not your home is safe, call Sgt. Belfiore and she will come to anyone's home in Lake Mary and do a safety inspection. If you live in the county, the Sheriff's Department will come in and do an inspection for you.

Some ways to stay safe are common sense. Never put your address on your keys. Don't keep large sums of money in your house. The bank really is the best place for your money. Watch your mail. If you don't have a lock box, don't mail checks from your home. Watch your garbage. When you get checks or offers from credit cards, shred them or tear them to small pieces before you throw them away.

If someone calls you, telling you they're conducting a survey over the phone, they may or may not be legitimate. Play it safe. Don't give out personal information over the phone. NEVER give out your social security number, your credit card number, your bank account number, any personal information. If you get persistent, harassing phone calls, it is against the law. Call the police.

When you're not home, make your house look like someone's there. When you're home, never let someone know you're home alone. If you're going out and you'll be gone for a long time, don't leave your answering machine on if it's the kind that some charities do solicit money by phone, but not many. If someone wants you to donate money to their cause, tell them to send it to you in writing. Legitimate charities will. Sometimes, especially after an officer has been shot, scammers call people asking for donations on behalf of the force or the family. The Florida Police Chiefs Association does not solicit money over the phone. The local law enforcement agencies do not solicit money over the phone. In Lake Mary, some people have been called by scammers saying they were from the Lake Mary police. They ask for a cash donation to be put in your mailbox and a police car will come pick it up. This isn't the Lake Mary Police Department. These are thieves, pure and simple.

The State Patrol also doesn't solicit over the phone, but their union, the Police Benevolent Association does. When you donate money to them, you are doing so to support their union activities, so be aware of that.

A scam that has taken in many people is the bank examiner scam. Someone calls you, claiming to be a police officer and asking for your help. They suspect a teller of being a thief. They ask you to make a large cash withdrawal so that they can check the honesty of the bank employee. The thieves end up with your cash. If someone calls you with this story, call the police.

You've won a prize, the caller says. It's a great prize and all you have to do is pay the shipping, handling or taxes up front and then they'll mail you your prize. Hang up and call the police. When you really win something, you don't have to pay for any part of it up front.

And if you do get taken, don't be ashamed to call the police and tell them what happened. It helps them keep up with the kind of cons that are being pulled and it might help them catch the thieves.

Linda Belfiore gave out a "Help Spot Cons" pamphlet to beeps through the number of calls on your machine until it lets people record. If someone calls and gets a lot of beeps, they know you're not home and haven't been for a while.

Don't go out alone. Tell someone when you're going out and when you'll be back. Always take a well lit route. Park in a well lit area. Avoid parking near vans, work trucks or cars with tinted windows. Lock your car doors always. Check your car before getting in. Remember, a little preparation and a lot of caution can keep you safe.

Wife is suspicious over her husband's change in routine

DEAR ABBY: I must disagree with your advice to "Miserable in Indiana" to improve her self-esteem, get into shape and seek counseling for her irrational jealousy. Abby, here's a woman whose husband is suddenly going to work early, paying more attention to his appearance, ignoring his wife's requests for more attention and better sex, and offering no explanation for his sudden change in routine. She has every reason to be suspicious.

If he isn't having an affair, he most certainly is flirting with the notion.

DEAR BEEN THERE: How damning you make the "evidence" appear. Read on for another view!

DEAR ABBY: In your reply to the woman who was worried about her husband going to work early and dressing well for a factory job, you missed one possible explanation.

He may be trying for a promotion! If he's the type of person who would want to keep his quest a secret until he had results, that could explain his change in behavior and his unwillingness to talk about it.

You missed the boat, Abby. Her accusations aren't "pushing him away." He has already left.

Lake Mary showcases local bands

By Alex Kane
HERALD STAFF WRITER

The Battle of the Bands is a well-known tradition, famed in Oscar-worthy movies such as Bill and Ted's Bogus Journey. On Thursday, February 18, at Lake Mary High School, there was not a Battle of the Bands.

On Thursday, February 18, seven bands took the stage at the Lake Mary Showcase of the Bands. The event had no winner, and therefore was no battle.

The evening opened with Fortunate Few, the youngest of the bands, which featured (unlike most ska bands) a trumpet player dancing about wearing dress pants, a jacket, and a bright orange shirt. With lead singer and guitarist, Matt Kamm and Nathan Almon on trumpet, Fortunate Few opened the evening on an upbeat note.

As with most events taking place at a high school, someone had a laser pointer, and, following Fortunate Few, Kenny Mossori, one of the MC's, pointed to his forehead, and dared the owner of the laser pointer to hit him right there.

The next band up was Dogmatic. Lead singer Scott Schaffer opened by saying, "We like two kinds of music...Country and Western." Opening up with a Blues Brothers reference, it only got better. Dogmatic was, in fact, not a country band, but a punk/emo/alternative band, and a great one at that. Featuring Schaffer, Charlton Hutton, Kevin Grellman, and Nick Benedetto, Dogmatic was one of the best bands of the evening.

Doctors have recently found that prolonged exposure to excessively loud music can cause permanent hearing loss. With that transition in mind, Trauma took the stage next. Inspired by such bands as GWAR and Metallica, Trauma was the absolute loudest band of the evening, and again one of the best. Sadly, their set started late, and they did not get to finish their set, and the sound stopped right in the middle of a spectacular guitar solo. Still, Trauma's Erik Walker, Carl Brochi, Chris Taylor, and Mike Gamble put on a great show with a lot of energy.

As they left the stage, one of them walked up to the microphone and declared, "Maybe some of the money you paid to get in here will help pay for a new sound system." It was a very rock 'n roll thing to say.

Ragamuffins, a ska band, took the stage. The highlight of their set was a ska cover of the oldies song "Earth Angel." Glen Welch, Colby Quisenberry, and James Plante deluged their cheering section.

The next band up was Kafka. There are many positive things to say about Kafka, but during the next act, as the members of the band returned to their seats, the lead singer KICKED THE BACK OF MY SEAT! While they may be musically talented, Jordy Cuyler, Tim Bojanowski, Justin Sena, and Adam Sanabria also do not apologize when they KICK THE BACK OF MY SEAT!

For instance, which had its own distinct style, with a lead singer playing the acoustic guitar. Also putting on an impressive show in spite of technical difficulties were Jacob Keiner, Chris Zabriskie, Chris Peters, and Joey Zujus. Peters' back-up guitar playing was some of the best of the evening.

The final band of the evening was Pinstripes. Appearing on stage with two members wearing bright red cowboy hats, another in a tam, another wearing a white cowboy hat with a bandanna around his neck. Pinstripes was as aesthetically confusing as they were musically gifted. The ska/reggae songs of Brent Chesaneck, Dave Torres, Giovanni Spattazza, Ross Gentry, Lance Jordan, and Guy Herring were a terrific conclusion to the evening, and they showcased their talents on guitar, trombone, and drums with the final song, which was completely instrumental.

The evening was entertaining, and a lot of great bands got to show their stuff to a responsive audience. (They put the 'rowdy' in crowd (Minus the 'y,' not every play on words can work out perfectly.) The evening was a success.

Lazrus Mitchell, with Resource Officer Barnes, earned Student of the Year honors at Crooms Academy.

Crooms Student of Year came a long way

By Marva Hawkins
CORRESPONDENT

Crooms Academy's student over comes obstacles and proves that someone can achieve if he desires to.

Lazrus Mitchell entered Crooms Academy in 1993 as a sixth-grader. He was living in Sanford with his sister, nephew and ailing grandmother. He was a very respectful and responsible young man who often missed school to take care of his grandmother. His reasons for being out of school were very admirable, but it was the responsibility of the school to report his absence to HRS on a regular basis.

Jim Horton was appointed as a mentor for Lazrus. As an HRS worker he became very involved in his educational process, however, Lazrus' attendance did not improve. Lazrus was sent to New York to live with relatives which didn't prove to be successful.

After returning to Sanford he still didn't want to attend school, so after much encouragement by the resource officer Barnes, he entered Crooms Academy. Although there was hesitation from the admissions office he has gotten serious about completing his education. This has proved to be a huge success for the school and Lazrus, says Principal Dr. Bernadette Hardy-Blake. He has excelled in his academics and his attendance has been better than ever.

Lazrus says that despite all of the obstacles placed before him, he now knows that he can achieve goals he has set for himself. He says he also knows that the key to achieving his success is to have a good sound education and that it begins at Crooms Academy. Lazrus was honored with the Student of the Year award for his dedication and commitment to his future. Crooms Academy salutes Lazrus Mitchell.

Local physicians are updated on new medicines, procedures

SPECIAL TO THE HERALD

Orange City family physician Mark Webster, D.O., Sanford family physician Gary Snell, M.D., Lake Mary family physicians Dennis Abraham, M.D. and Ken Fraser, M.D., Deltona family physician Fred Weigand, M.D., recently attended the Florida Academy of Family Physicians' 77th Family Practice Weekend at Disney's Coronado Springs Resort in Lake Buena Vista, with 330 other family physicians.

The purpose of this meeting was to update family physicians on new medicines, procedures and thinking as they relate to patients they see in their offices each day. This meeting featured nationally renowned speakers providing information on allergies, antibiotic resistance, cancer, herbal remedies, pain management, podiatry, and other topics.

The specialty of family practice was officially recognized in 1989, with a certifying board that requires recertification every seven years. In 1996, it became the first specialty with residency training programs in all 50 states, with more than 11,000 residents in 452 programs.

FAFP has over 3600 members and is a constituent chapter of the American Academy of Family Physicians, representing nearly 88,000 family physicians.

Family physicians are trained to provide continuing and comprehensive health care for the individual and for the family.

The scope of family practice encompasses all ages, both sexes, each organ system and is uniquely defined within the family context.

Continuing medical education is a vital requirement of Academy membership. Bylaws require that all members must complete a minimum of 180 hours of approved continuing education every three years to retain membership.

The 77th Family Practice Weekend offered 12 hours of education intended to result in better quality health care for Floridians.

Get fit for spring, fight cancer

SPECIAL TO THE HERALD

The barbecue grill creeps out of the garage, the picnic basket and cooler make their way to the front of closet, and your bathing suit, shorts and sundresses find themselves at the top of your drawer—whether you like it or not. Spring is near, and while its arrival generally brings warmer weather and enjoyable outdoor activities, many of us wish we had some extra time to lose our winter waistlines before shedding our sweaters. But it's never too late to start becoming more conscious of the foods you eat (or don't eat enough of) and getting regular exercise.

Losing weight is easier for some people than others, as evidenced by the diet fads and pills we see in magazines and on the shelves of the store every day. But eating a healthy, low-fat diet and getting regular exercise throughout the week is something everyone can benefit from, whether it helps you lose 20 pounds, 5 pounds, or just to make you feel better overall. The American Institute for Cancer Research offers some simple tips on losing weight the healthy way, and getting yourself fit for spring.

Exercise is a key factor in long-term weight loss for a few reasons. Through regular exercise, you force your body to use more calories than it takes in and draw on stored energy, or fat, for its fuel. In the beginning, mainly water and lean muscle protein are lost, but as weight loss continues, your body will burn more fat and less protein. Physical activity helps you burn fat instead of lean muscle protein by increasing your metabolism. Try a daily walking regimen, gradually extending the length and distance of your walks over time, or participate in community athletic events such as walks and runs sponsored by various charities, which are popular in springtime. Perhaps you can join a softball or volleyball league. Being on a team can sometimes give us the extra motivation we need to get our daily dose of exercise.

When it comes to food, try not to focus on counting calories and fat grams, but instead on a more balanced diet with an emphasis on a variety of plant-based foods. Fruits, vegetables and whole grains are naturally lower in fat and calories, and are crucial to overall good health. Pay special attention to what you snack on, since this is where unnecessary, fatty foods can sneak into your diet. Snack on raw veggies, fresh fruit, air-popped popcorn or pretzels. If you're one that normally craves something sweet after a meal, try fresh fruit instead of a rich dessert. Changes that may seem small can also add up, like switching to skim or 1 percent milk from whole milk and using chicken stock instead of oil or butter when cooking.

Health experts recommend a gradual weight loss of one to two pounds a week, so don't get frustrated or give up if you're not losing weight as fast as you'd like. You didn't gain the weight overnight, and you're not going to lose it overnight, either. A slow and steady pace will help you shed body fat while building muscle, which will make it easier to keep the lost weight off. And while you're on your way to losing those unwanted pounds, you'll feel better about yourself, better about spring, and maybe even a little better about the bathing suit awaiting you in your top drawer.

Blonz: Stop taking calcium pyruvate

DEAR DR BLONZ: I take 500mg of a brand of calcium pyruvate every day as an appetite suppressant. The bottle suggests that I take six times this amount. It also directs me to consult my physician if I am nursing or pregnant. I asked my physician if she felt that I could continue to take calcium pyruvate if I were pregnant. She knew of no adverse reactions to this supplement. Can I count this supplement toward my daily calcium requirement? In your opinion, is it safe to take 500mg daily during pregnancy? — J.P.

DEAR J.P.: I would stop taking the calcium pyruvate. First, calcium pyruvate is not an appetite suppressant — or at least, I was unable to find any research that shows this. There were a couple of small studies in the early 1990s that used volunteers with high blood cholesterol levels. Researchers found that high intakes of pyruvate — the equivalent of over 55 of your capsules per day! — did not lower subjects' blood lipids, but did result in weight reduction. Not much has happened since then, but now it appears that calcium pyruvate is being "discovered" as a new miracle weight-loss pill. All I can say is: "Here we go again!"

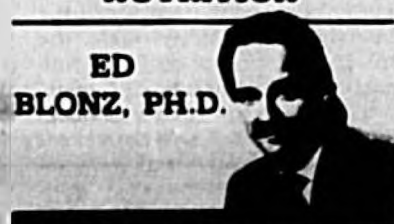

A second point is that calcium pyruvate is not a great source of dietary calcium. Aside from the fact that it is expensive, the calcium pyruvate compound is less than 20 percent calcium by weight. That means that your 500-milligram capsule contains less than 100 milligrams of calcium.

Third — and perhaps most importantly — unless you are specifically advised otherwise by your health professional, periods of pregnancy and nursing are not good times to go on weight-loss diets.

DEAR DR BLONZ: I have always wondered how the X-ray security machines in airports affect the vitamins packed in my hand luggage. Do the machines destroy the nutrients' effectiveness? I hope you can help me. — H.L., Thorofare, N.J.

DEAR H.L.: The security machines used in airports will not have any effect on your vitamin and mineral supplements, or on any medications that you might have in your luggage.

DEAR DR BLONZ: During the cooler months, I like to have hot milk as one of my daily milk servings. Does heating milk destroy its calcium or protein content? — J.S., San Diego

DEAR J.S.: Heating milk does not affect its calcium content, and unless it has been heated for extended periods, there will only be a negligible effect on its protein content as well. Flavor, however, would likely suffer, as would some of the vitamins — most notably riboflavin (vitamin B-2), thiamin and niacin.

Staying power puts fun back into fitness

SPECIAL TO THE HERALD

Poor endurance can take all the fun out of physical activity for many children.

Children who are generally inactive can tire quickly when exercising. "Providing children don't have asthma or other medical conditions, tiring quickly means they're probably working too hard for their level of fitness," said Dr. Marta Fiorotto, a scientist at the USDA/ARS Children's Nutrition Research Center at Baylor College of Medicine.

Fiorotto believes that overexertion can trigger a negative cycle. "Children who tire easily may not develop skills, and poor skills increase frustration and lead to discouragement. Discouraged children usually quit trying," said Fiorotto, an assistant professor of pediatrics.

Children can be helped to reverse this cycle. The key is improving endurance.

"Children can be taught to pace themselves," Fiorotto said. "They should be able to talk while exercising. If they're too breathless to talk, they should slow down. If they can sing, they're not working hard enough," she said.

Keeping the right pace permits sufficient oxygen to reach muscle cells to burn body fat as fuel. "Most children have enough body fat to fuel prolonged periods of physical activity," she said. "But if they surpass their level of fitness and their muscles can't get oxygen fast enough, the body compensates by burning more of its supply of glycogen, a form of carbohydrate stored in muscle tissue." Prolonging glycogen is key to delaying tiredness.

"Children who don't tire quickly tend to exercise more, which leads to improved cardiovascular fitness and even greater endurance," Fiorotto said.

There is little doubt that regular physical activity makes children healthier. "Exercise builds strong muscles, which promotes good posture and strong bones, and burns calories, which reduces body fat and improves both self-confidence and body image," Fiorotto said. Active children who become active lean adults also have less risk of diabetes, hypertension, cardiovascular disease, and some cancers.

Fiorotto recommends that children do some type of vigorous activity such as swimming, biking, in-line skating, or running, three to five times a week. Children need to get their heart rate up for at least 20 minutes to improve cardiovascular fitness.

"Once children don't tire as quickly, they can concentrate on learning basic skills and having fun," said Fiorotto. By teaching children to pace themselves and encouraging them play outdoors or participate in sports, parents may turn "I can't" attitudes into "I can."

Briar/BBM Corp., Vantare tied for Industrial Softball lead

By Dean Smith
SPORTS EDITOR

SANFORD - It's never over until it's over. That old saw from Yankee great Yogi Berra has never proved truer than in the City of Sanford Recreation and Parks Department Polar Bear Industrial Slow Pitch Softball League. Briar/BBM Corporation was cruising along with a 4-0 record and had hardly been challenged after the first three weeks of the season. Then came week 4 and a forfeit that raised the leaders' record to 5-0. Week No. 5 proved to be a different matter, however, as Briar/BBM Corporation was humbled 20-4 by Bundy/S&H and then let a 17-8 lead get away as Matthews Associates rallied for its first victory of the year, 21-20. Russell Steede's two-run double in the bottom of the seventh inning capping the Matthews Associates comeback on February 19th. While Briar/BBM Corporation was having its troubles, Vantare got back into the picture, in fact, taking over first place on Feb. 19th. Vantare knocked off Bundy/S&H 15-10 on Feb. 12th and then got a forfeit from DATA-MAX on Feb. 19th to improve to 6-1.

But the lead was short-lived as Friday night at Pinehurst Park, Briar/BBM Corporation rebounded from last week's sweep to slam Vantare, 13-1. In the other game played last night, Bundy/S&H pounded DATA-MAX, 14-1. Please see Industrial, Page 38

MANZ NAMED FLORIDA PLAYER-OF-THE-WEEK

SANFORD - Jeannie Manz, from Lake Mary High School, has been named the Florida Junior College Softball Player-of-the-Week. The freshman outfielder is hitting .500, including two home runs, one triple and three doubles, has scored 12 runs and driven in 14 in her first 10 games as a collegian.

was sharp throughout. He struck out seven and, in the rocky third inning, he picked two runners off of first base.

Other than the two errors, the only balls hit by the Falcons to reach the outfield were a trio of fly balls to right field. The Lions had somewhat more success against FAA pitcher Jose Torres (1-1), collecting eight hits. But Oviedo had only slightly more success scoring runs, stranding seven runners (four in scoring position) on base.

On three separate occasions, the Lions had runners in scoring position and only one out, but could not score a run. Holmes provided the first run when he doubled home Jerod Goodwin in the top of the third inning.

Grayson gave Oviedo a little breathing room in the fifth inning when he launched a shot over the 30-foot screen in left field and off the building across the way.

Contributing hits for the Lions were Brett Murphy (double), Javier Alvarez (two singles), and Lubrano and Kenny Starling (one single each). Grayson also had a single to go with his home run.

Oviedo will put its perfect 7-0 record on the line Monday night when the Lions host the Daytona Wolves in a 7 p.m. game at Paul Miller Field.

Tony Corrao led the way as his grand slam in a six-run second inning gave the Rams an 8-0 lead.

Corrao ended the game 2-for-3 with his home run and four RBI. Other leaders in an 11-hit Lake Mary attack were Matt Allegra (2-for-4 with two doubles, two RBI) and Rob MacCione (2-for-3).

Bucich led the Wolves (7-3), going 2-for-3 with a double.

Hoffler and Smith have hit the big shots.

Forward Chad Parsons has been quietly consistent and Jamarl Turner provides strong defense in the back court.

Turner and forward Justin Kane are underrated, but, along with Parsons and Hoffler, they don't seem to mind playing in Reggie's shadow.

It's a complete team that wasn't even together last season when the Silver Hawks won their first ever district with Reggie and four other seniors.

Nothing against that team, but this year, the Silver Hawks seem to finally have what it takes to go the next step.

It also helps to have one of the roughest guys in the county that is sure to be rocking tonight against an out-of-town team that wasn't bring many fans.

Lake Howell's is a story of a team that caught every bad break when they came along, but stepped up when it was time to do it.

That's the mark of a winner.

Last Second Shot: Lacrosse season just started and, at the Oviedo-Lake Mary classic Thursday, a new rule came into effect that makes no sense.

For hundreds of years, ever since the game was invented by Indians, it is at the end of regulation resulted in sudden death overtime.

Now that's changed. There are two four-minute periods now and that takes away from the excitement of overtime.

Lacrosse isn't like soccer where teams can go months without breaking a tie.

on impact player," said SPCC coach Rick Hill. "He has high energy and is a very hard worker. We are looking forward to getting him to our place and getting started."

Lytle said that making the decision to attend SPCC was not very difficult, since both his coach and parents were behind him all the way.

"This is a culmination of Coach Hill's hard work and dedication since he was four-years old. This is such an exciting time for us and I am so proud that Chris is going to school on a full scholarship," Lytle's mother, Barbara said.

"We want to thank the Sanford Recreation and Babe Ruth leagues for everything they have done for us," Lytle's father, Charlie added. "Without their support and great influence of people like coach Forsythe and Rick Ferguson, this dream may not have become a reality for Chris."

Before he can begin his college career, Lytle has one last season at Sanford. He is very excited about what the season could hold for them and if Lytle has anything to do with it, he just could go off to college on a state scholarship.

seven-hour bus ride to make it to class Monday morning.

Such is life in Florida high school sports. And, believe it or not, the Fighting Seminoles were among the lucky ones.

The Lake Mary girls soccer team, by way of losing in the district finals, have gotten to know the Gulf Coast area very well, playing three games out of the area to reach its second straight state championship game (Saturday night in Tallahassee). It isn't a new experience for the Rams who had to do the same thing last year on the way to winning the state title.

Winter Springs' girls basketball team won the state championship last week with an even more arduous journey. Being a Class 3A school, the Bears have to compete in an even broader region than most. After losing in the district finals, the Bears had three straight trips to south Florida to make it to another trip to Lakeland for the FHSAA State Championships.

The Bears said they just sat on the bus, studied and tried to invent cheers. Fortunately, for them, they got to use them.

No word yet on the Lake Howell boys who won an emotional, electrifying victory Tuesday in which the Hawks came back from 10 down with two minutes to go to pull out a win over powerful Edgewater. The next day, it was onto the bus for a long drive to Gonales (near Pensacola) to play Tate High School. The Silver Hawks won handily and caught a break so they'll be at home tonight (Saturday) for the chance to go to Lakeland for the first time.

They aren't the only road warriors in Seminole County. Every winning team has to eventually embark on a long road trip that features a lot of long hours seeing nothing but Dairy Queens, Waffle Houses and, for the less fortunate, South of the Border billboards.

It's part of playing for a successful team in a big state. At least all the athletes have to think about are the bus rides and who their roomies will be when they get to their destination.

Sometimes, the person with the most responsibility and worries is the person who never even has to take the trip.

Each of the seven Seminole County public schools in the FHSAA (Seminole, Winter Springs, Lake Mary, Lake Howell, Lyman, Lake Brantley and Crooms) have an athletic director who has to take care of planning for lodging, buses, food and, most importantly, fund-raising.

It's a full-time job, not counting the time spent sitting at the door taking tickets, lining fields and, sometimes, coaching.

With limited amounts in athletic budgets, it takes a salesman to get the job done.

Mike Powers has been the athletic director at Seminole High School for the past two years. It is his responsibility to arrange for his teams' travel and the responsibilities are enormous. First, there are the costs to transport teams and the money in the athletic budget.

Each school gets an allotment of $10,000 at the start of the year, but it doesn't last long.

"Our allotment ran out in January," Powers said. "The rest comes out of the athletic budget. The allotment also goes towards non-athletic activities like school field trips.

"For a football game, we not only have to take the football team, we take our band, the Dazzlers and the cheerleaders. It adds up."

To use a Seminole County school bus to transport an athletic team, the cost is fairly reasonable: $14 per hour from the time the bus leaves the impound area until its return. For trips outside of the area, the cost increases to $10 per hour, plus 85-cents per mile.

If you take the $10,000 budget and divide it by $14 an hour, that leaves 715 hours for the buses alone. Considering the amount of athletic teams in the county and the fact that for a football game alone, it's about five hours per bus, the allotment goes quickly. For instance, for Seminole to travel just down the road to Lyman High School for a football game, figure six buses times five hours times $14 per hour, and the total comes to $1,176.

And that's for one of the 'Noles nearest rivals.

Where does the rest of the money come from? The athletic department budget.

Now you know why every time you go to a game, cheerleaders are trying to sell programs in the parking lot, people are selling raffle tickets and schools have to sell season tickets.

When it comes to regional or state play, the schools are reimbursed for bus expenses by the Florida High School Athletic Association, but hotels and food are still out-of-pocket and comes either from a team account or the school booster club.

But for the long trips, the schools still have to find charter buses since asking anyone to spend nine hours on an old yellow bus is beyond expectations.

Seminole ran into a problem when its girls basketball team needed to get a bus on one day's notice for the trip to Pensacola. Although the county has contracts with dozens of bus companies, all of them were in Daytona Beach for Speed Week at that time.

After lots of searching, Powers was able to find a bus which led to Seminole's late exit from school.

Once they get on the bus, there has to be somewhere to go.

"We are always looking for discount room rates," Powers said. "We always like to go to nice restaurants and we can usually find a deal at a place like a Quincy's or a Golden Coral. We don't want to eat fast food because they need energy for the games. A lot of times we can negotiate for coupons.

"You have to be a salesman."

There are a few easy solutions to the problem of the schools' travel. One district is given a number of seats in District 6. The way it works is that, every other year, the odd-numbered district champs (like Seminole this year) are sent on the road for the remainder of the regionals unless they are playing a district runner-up. Next year, in a similar situation, the 'Noles would play at home.

Powers has a bit of a solution to the constant travel, even though it still might cause lost classes.

"Why not have regional sites," he said. "Instead of a Final Four, have a Sweet 16 in Lakeland over the weekend. They'd miss less school and have less travel time."

And remember, Seminole County is lucky. It is in the center of the state. Key West High School has one of the state's best baseball teams, but is located almost three hours from Miami alone and the state tournament is in Tampa.

It takes fundraising, hustling, and a lot of sore butts, but when the state championship banner goes up, no one ever seems to complain.

No-no for Lubrano

Oviedo nine improves to 7-0; Lake Mary wins Raminole Classic crown

By Tony DeBormier
CORRESPONDENT

MELBOURNE - While baseball is, in essence, a team game and logic dictates that it is impossible for one player to win a game all by himself, sometimes a player steps up and does something extraordinary.

On Friday afternoon, for example, Paul Lubrano tossed a no-hitter while Larry Grayson homered and Justin Holmes hit an RBI double to help the Oviedo Lions blank the Florida Air Academy Falcons, 2-0.

The win is Oviedo's seventh consecutive without a loss to open the season.

"It was a learning experience for all of us," said Oviedo coach Kenne Brown. "We're a young, relatively inexperienced team and this is the longest road trip we'll make all year. I was curious to see how they'd respond."

"We didn't come off the bus as ready to play as I would have liked, but we were able to stay focused enough to beat a good team on their field."

The key to the Lions being able to pull out a win despite their distracted state was the work of Lubrano, who retired the first five batters he faced and did not allow a Falcon base runner past first base.

Of the six FAA hitters to reach base, three drew walks. Prince Fielder, son of Major League Baseball slugger Cecil Fielder, accounted for the other three circumstances. Twice he reached base on Oviedo errors and he was hit by a pitch.

Except for the third inning, when he walked the first two batters he faced, Lubrano (2-0)

HAWKS AT HOME TONIGHT

CASSELBERRY - Jamaal Turner and the Lake Howell Silver Hawks will host Vero Beach High School in a Class 6A Boys' Basketball Regional Championship tonight at 7:30 p.m. The winner will advance to the FHSAA State Championships at The Lakeland Center next week.

Breaks come at right time for Silver Hawks

CASSELBERRY - It isn't often that a team that ended the regular season with four straight losses comes within a game of a state Final Four bid.

That's the way it is with the Lake Howell boys basketball team that hosts Vero Beach tonight (Saturday) for a right to go to Lakeland.

Two weeks ago, the Silver Hawks looked dead. After a devastating last-second loss at home to DeLand on Senior Night, when an off-balance shot at the buzzer ended the regular district season, the Hawks still had a three-game stretch of non-district games to finish out the regular season.

They didn't win any of them. If ever a team came into the district playoffs on a downslide, it was the Silver Hawks, who had suffered enough heartbreak already by that time.

There was the mid-season loss at DeLand when they were outscored 20-1 down the stretch after building a big lead in the third quarter.

There was the awful feeling of watching the DeLand Miracle at home.

But give the Silver Hawks credit. A veteran team featuring four senior starters, they came back. Coach Steve Kohn never lost hope, nor did his players, who had to overcome a serious mental block before facing DeLand on a neutral court in the district finals.

It took Lake Howell's first big break of the year, when backup Justin Smith tipped in a game-winner at the buzzer to give the Hawks the district title and, most importantly, home court advantage for the first round of regionals.

They needed that home court advantage against powerful Edgewater, the defending state runner-ups and a team that gave the Silver Hawks another bad memory. Last year, the Eagles eliminated Lake Howell in the first round of regionals.

Back and forth the teams went before a raucous crowd at Lake Howell Tuesday, before the Eagles pulled away. The Silver Hawks trailed by 10 with two minutes to go.

Steve Kohn said he felt his team was dead.

So did team-leader Reggie Kohn.

So did the underrated Brad Hoffer. More on him in a minute.

Anyway, this time the miracle went Lake Howell's way. Reggie Kohn, who had slumped earlier, started hitting 'three's'.

Edgewater missed free throws.

Amazingly, the Silver Hawks, who hadn't caught a break all season until DeLand, caught a break. Hoffer hit a long jumper with a second left to put Lake Howell ahead and the Silver Hawks held on.

Then, after a nine-hour bus ride one night later, the Silver Hawks went to the Panhandle to trash Tate High in Gonzalez.

Now they are one game away from the State Championships.

And if they get there, there's a good chance for Lake Howell-DeLand IV.

The peppy Bulldogs have benefited from an easy draw and may be waiting at The Lakeland Center.

But now, the Silver Hawks aren't so shell-shocked. They've learned to win.

Reggie Kohn has been the hero all season. But now

SANFORD - It was 7:30 p.m. on a cold, dark night two weeks ago when a weary group of girls, followed by a caravan of parents and fans, embarked on a long, arduous journey that had a great chance of ending in disappointment.

The Seminole girls basketball team, one night after a win to advance to the regional finals and after an entire day of taking classes, climbed aboard the bus that would take them most of the night to Pensacola, host of the regional finals and Class 6A powerhouse Washington High.

After arriving at the motel about seven hours later, then trying to catch up on meals, sleep and maybe a little game preparation, the Fighting Seminoles took the floor Saturday night.

It wasn't even close.

SANFORD - Seminole High School has turned out some of the best baseball players to come from the County over recent years.

The season has barely started and already that tradition is carrying on.

Chaz Lytle has signed a scholarship with South Florida Community College in Avon Park to play baseball and earn a college education.

"I'm really excited about this opportunity," Lytle said. "It's a first year program with a new coach and I'm really looking forward to helping to build a winning tradition there."

While at Seminole, the left-handed Lytle has been a major part of the pitching staff as applicant for the Seminole County Sheriff's Office said the men offered an undercover agent money—in exchange for sex or oral sex.

During this operation, Tracy Williams (32) and Diana Knight-King (34) were charged with procuring another for prostitution and assignment to commit prostitution and with strong arm robbery when they pulled and twisted an agent's arm and hand, attempting to take $30.

Sgt. Tony Fannin of the Sheriff's Office said that similar undercover operations take place regularly in the county. He said the arrests at Sassy Merlot's occurred near midnight. There was no resistance by anyone at the club.

There have been a number of arrests at Sassy Merlot's which opened a year ago when the county was in the process of strengthening its adult entertainment code. The county's new public decency ordinance put an end to completely nude dancing in any of the existing clubs.

"Break the rule and there will be arrests," said Chief Deputy Steve Harriett of the Sheriff's Office. The rules were broken Thursday, Fannin said. "The dancers made contact with patrons, straddle danced and took off their bikini bottoms."

The arrests came on the same day that Circuit Judge Seymour Benson threw out a complaint from adult entertainment industry attorneys, who argued last October that a petition by the Seminole County Citizens for Decency contained bogus names (one of them being Buck Naked).

Benson said that the county was never served papers, and he thus dismissed the suit.

School raises money for leukemia

By Kellie Werner

Correspondent

OVIEDO - The Naval Junior Reserve Officer's Training Corps at Oviedo High School once again has taken on a project to benefit the community.

This time, the student groups paired with the Olive Garden restaurant and the National Leukemia Society to raise money for local victims of the disease.

Through its efforts on the Pasta for Pennies campaign, the Oviedo ROTC raised more than $2600.

"We became involved when our principal Mr. Robert Lundquist asked me if we were interested in working on the Pasta for Pennies program," said Col. Joseph Nardo. "We do as many fund-raisers as we can each year and since this was one charity we hadn't worked with before, I told him we'd give it a try."

They did more than try. In fact, they raised more money than any other high school that has taken on the project.

"We were so excited and couldn't wait to get started when Col. Nardo asked us if we wanted to do it," Cadet Ensign Christina Callin said. "Right away we wanted to raise $10,000, but after the first week we had to revisit our goal. We were pleased with what we were able to accomplish."

Pasta for Pennies is a very simple program.

Starting the first week in February of each year, buckets are delivered to the schools and placed in each classroom, office and department. The teacher in the classroom is responsible for collecting the money for an entire month. At the end of the campaign, the money is totaled and the teacher who collects the greatest amount is treated to a lunch for himself and 35 of his students at the Olive Garden.

At Oviedo, the teachers didn't just put the buckets in their classrooms. They offered many incentives to their students for using their extra change to help those with the blood disease.

"The teachers really spear-headed the campaign," said Cadet Lt. Alia Rabah. "Some gave candy and trinkets to students for donating. Others offered to match whatever the classroom collected. One teacher, Rick Eckstein, even offered to foot the bill for each of his students to go to Olive Garden instead of just the 35 if he won.

Eckstein, did win the contest among the faculty. His classes raised more than $500 through strong campaigning and even holding a car wash with the money going into the bucket. He has promised to fulfill his end of the deal and will be taking each student in his six classes to the restaurant for lunch.

Two teachers, Anna Hollis and Amy Jacobs, raised more than $300 each.

Col. Nardo's corps take on many projects of this nature every year.

The ROTC is most known for its involvement with the Toys for Tots program. For the past five years, Col. Nardo's students have collected more toys than any other school, pooling the support of the faculty, the students and the community.

Next up for the cadets is Walk for Life at the University of Central Florida in March to benefit cancer research. The corps will participate in the opening ceremonies and will also sponsor a booth for the event. The ROTC will donate its contributions in honor of long-time Oviedo resident Margaret Parton, who died of cancer.

Col. Nardo, the driving force behind the ROTC's giving efforts, always gives the students a choice as to whether or not they want to undertake a project and they have never turned him down.

"The Navy and Marines have a very strong emphasis on community involvement," Col. Nardo said. "And I try to pass that on here. In my opinion, that is a key element that is missing from a lot of ROTC programs."

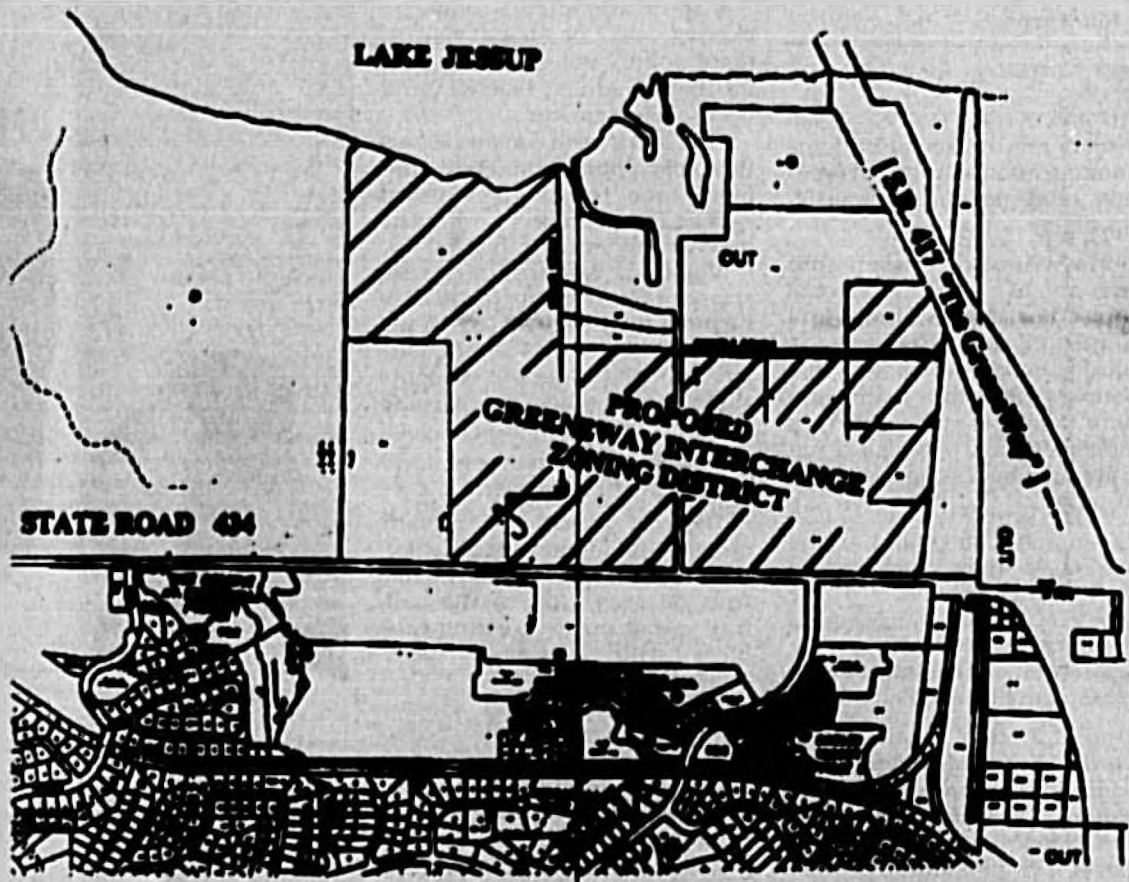

"Sometimes I feel that I ask a little too much of the cadets, forgetting that they are students first. Giving to the community is just something that has been instilled in me since my years in the Marines and I hold that in very high regard."

Our Views

A work in progress

Since 1908, the Seminole Herald (called the Sanford Herald up to 1998) has served Sanford and Seminole County, bringing residents news about the community. In the interest of our readers, the Herald continues to make improvements and changes in the newspaper to better respond to the community's needs and requests.

During the past several months, the Herald has redesigned its front page and instituted minor changes in the format of news presentation. In addition, the editorial and opinion page has been revamped to offer a cleaner, newer look, and a schools page has been added in the weekend lineup. In the next few months, we plan to expand several areas of news coverage including a detailed weather page provided through AccuWeather, a television guide, and more sports and state news. Also, the Herald has decided to, once again, include names in the daily police reports. Readers have expressed the need to know what is already public record. The Herald will provide that information as a public service beginning in mid-March.

The Seminole Herald welcomes and appreciates comments and suggestions from the community. Please contact us through our email at aheditor@aol.com, fax (407) 323-9408, or call (407) 322-2611.

Recycling in Sanford

You have finally done something right when you brought in Florida Recycling - what professionals these men are.

For instance, now one doesn't have to walk next door to retrieve their garbage can. They are put back where they find them.

They don't play football with your citrus.

They don't go down the alley like they are chasing burglars.

When they pick up yard waste, they empty all containers.

"They" refers to both the driver and the man on back, who are spilling me after so many years of abuse.

They pick up everything on recycling day, unlike the city manager's crew who would throw to the four winds what they didn't take. Many times I would have to go all over the neighborhood to pick up the trash.

It was useless to go to the former City Manager, who would sit and smile, and send a "white shirt" out to tell me what I could put out. Once I had out back a Bougainvillea, which has thorns, and the "white shirt" informed me that they yard waste is not picked up.

Under former City Manager, Pete Knowles, you were able to get things done. I don't know the present one so I cannot comment on him.

The City of Sanford should send there employees to Florida Recycling - what professionals these men are.

A fond farewell

I have heard that today is Shari Brodie's last day. It is too bad that the Seminole Herald is losing someone of her caliber. She is the primary reason that I subscribe to the "Seminole Herald." I will miss her wonderful environmental articles. Please wish her well for me.

I was greatly distressed today to learn that Friday will be the last day for Shari Brodie at the Seminole Herald. She will be sorely missed by those of us who have appreciated her in-depth articles on the real, not the artificial, Florida. Her exceptional fine journalism skills show through in her search-for-the-truth approach in all of her articles. This is a tremendous loss for the Herald.

Shari, we wish you well in your new job and we'll miss you so much.

City puts greed ahead of hungry residents

By Kristian Eberwein

Hey, city hall put human needs before profit! As one of the many working class citizens of the city of Sanford, I am appalled at the local residents and politicians, whom are speaking out against the proposed soup kitchen, which would be built in the city's "historic district." They have put their own greed and special interests in the way of the general welfare of the community.

The proposed soup kitchen would not only serve the area by feeding the areas homeless, but also a savior for many working class families who may run short of money at the end of the month. Residents of the "historic district" such as Linda Kuhn, with the silent approval of Mayor Larry Dale argue against this soup kitchen because it would "promote crime" and lower the value of their property investments. They are concerned with only their own greed and profit, and ignore the needs of the lower and working classes whom they pretend to speak for.

My Two Cents

Eighteenth century social activist FJ Proudon state, "private property is theft." This statement becomes a reality as the business interests of a small group of residents and our land mogul mayor attempt to steal the food from mouths of starving children so they may line their own pockets.

Kuhn also added the concern of added crime as a result of the soup kitchen. The assumption that homeless or lower class people are inherently criminals or drug addicts is both classiest as well as racist, and is an absolute disgusting statement of belief.

Businessman Bart Rush claims that "those" people need to be fed, but not here. It's time for Sanford to take a stand, and be responsible for the community's problems. All cities try to pawn their problems off onto neighboring towns, but these problems belong to no one town, but to all of us.

The time for us to stand up and take on this responsibility is long overdue. Mr. Rush. We cannot simply ignore these social phenomena and wait for someone else to handle it. The betterment of the human condition supersedes profit, and is all of our responsibility.

There have already been offers by citizens in support of the soup kitchen to work with police and city officials in order to keep the kitchen an environment that the entire community can enjoy. The working class majority of Sanford is speaking out. As far as the politicians, whom support the minority of property investors, if they cannot support the general will, perhaps they have outlived their usefulness, and need to be replaced.

Venus, Mars and the 10-point spread

By Sara Eckel

The CEO needed information, and he needed it now. So he went to the one place he knew he could get it — the mallroom. Poking his head into the narrow chamber, the CEO asked the question that had been preying on his mind: "So, what's the score?"

I witnessed this exchange several years ago, while working at my old job. It was pleasing to see the equalizing effect that sports had on those men. At that moment, they ceased to be men of rank and title. What power there was belonged to the guy in the mallroom — they were, after all, the ones who know the score.

The incident also left me feeling slightly envious, for there is no female equivalent to the Big Game. Sure, there are plenty of women who are interested in sports — as well as some die-hard fans — but it's rare to see women standing the intense urgency sports inspire in so many men. The kind of urgency that has well-known employees shouting out scores in the middle of an office or party guests bawling a hapless hostess to turn on the television so that no one has to let more tantalizing interiors with leaping ahead of every foul ball or jump shot.

Our culture treats sports very seriously. Local arenas devote a quarter of their budgets to giving us the scores. Schools pour funds into uniforms and playing fields while less noble pursuits like art and drama dwindle on a shoestring. And when a sports hero like Michael Jordan returns, the event is treated with all the solemnity of a departing head of state.

I do not begrudge my brethren the pleasures of fandom, but I find the reverence with which we treat sports a little absurd. These are, after all, games. Just like the ones we played when we were kids — chess in the Classroom, Spin the Bottle, Space Invaders. Sure, it's big business, but so are a lot of things we don't take half as seriously, like fashion shows and romance novels.

So if watching sports is nothing more than a frivolous way to pass the time, why is it afforded so much more respect than the above-mentioned pursuits? My only conclusion is that we take sports seriously because men are interested in sports.

FOCUS ON WOMEN

And that is why men at the office can choose over point spreads without jeopardizing their credibility. But should a woman express a mere feminine interest — make-up, Oprah, her kids — she risks being branded a lightweight.

The sports women like are considered dross. I love the glitzy drama of figure skating, but if I mention this to a male friend, he'll look at me with pity and then return to the serious business of watching grown men hurl foreign objects through space.

Women are partially responsible for this. Many of us have bought into the general attitude that says that if women like it, it's dumb. We make fun of our old cheerleading days, apologizing for our dusty Carpenters albums and feel guilty if we spend too much time gabbing on the phone.

Of course, the world is full of men who don't like sports and women who don't like romantic comedies. The point is not to make pot Venus/Mars analogies. It is simply to say that if a guy wants to spend a Saturday afternoon sitting on the couch drinking beer and watching the game, that's fine. He's worried hard and he's entitled. Just don't scoff at me when I engage in pastimes that are equally mindless.

Tres gray = bad day

By Ben Wattenberg

Consider "Sweden," home of the Euro, the highly publicized and controversial new currency for 11 member states of the Euro-zone of the European Union. Is it good for Europe? Is it good for America? It's good for both. But Wattenberg adds, the last new currency will not extract Europeans from the deep ditch they are in, which has no parallel in all history, and from which there is no apparent ready exit.

I notice the Euro. I can live with it even if it becomes "a conspiracy in the dollar," and I could live with that even if I understood what it means. But I do know that Sweden sits in Europe, one of the poorest, least-developed land masses of the world, and now the site of one of the great and hopeful ideas of our time. For centuries the ancestors of today's Swedes lived on a tiny patch of regularly falling, each other. A common coin may well encourage further unity, diminishing any chance of regional "chain-belted" trading zones is good for America, period.

But a further case to make — that Sweden will become a major competitor to the United States. Why? Principally because of wealth and size.

Today Sweden has a per capita income of about $24,000 and a gross national product (GNP) of $240 billion.

Tres gray = bad day

That is not as high as the American $24,000 or $21.1 billion, but by any global standard it is high.

But the reported size of Sweden is, at best, highly misleading. It is said that the new Euro, with 200 million people "to support" the United States' with 260 million people.

The United Nations has just published the 1998 edition of World Population Prospects, one of the great demographic reference works. At my request, the U.N. Population Division did a special run for the aggregate of the 11 nations of the Euro-zone.

The Total Fertility Rate (TFR) in Sweden — that is, the average number of children born per woman over the course of her child-bearing years — is 1.28. That is incredibly low, lower by far for a large group of countries than anything the world has seen since the advent of serious abortion. However, the rate has declined for more than 20 years and has declined in the 1990s.

The "young number" in demography is 1.21, which is the "replacement rate," the 2.12 if two parents want to replace two children. If a child is produced for children who don't survive to their own reproductive years, then, child mortality, a population decline, and so forth, — in a general downward trend.

The current TFR for Sweden is 1.28 percent better the replacement rate. This means population loss. Within 20 years 600-650M. Sweden will be losing women.

The population projection for Sweden in 2020, based on constant rates, is 6.6 million, 25 percent less than now, and spinning further downward. On theory — only in theory — such a projection does not hold up with any population growth but zero population.

By contrast the American TFR in 2000 is estimated at 1.28 children per woman — below replacement, but not by much — and 40 percent higher than Sweden. We talk in about a million and a half people per year. That yields a population of 300 million by 2020. The American population grows from slightly less than Sweden's today (240 million) to substantially more (300 million).

The key point is not that the American market will be larger than Sweden's. Even 200 million people is substantial, particularly when they are wealthy.

But what if Sweden's population fell like in the decades to either way.

In 1990 the average age in Europe was 31 years. Today, it is 35. By 2020, it will be 40. Today, 25 percent of Europeans are older than 60. In 2020, it will be 29 percent. Two guys.

Many decades ago, the premier French demographer Alfred Sauvy glumly and accurately predicted that Europe would become a continent of "old people in old houses with old ideas." He could have added, "with old young people to pay their pensions or take care of them."

There are two plausible solutions. One is mass emigration from Africa, both Sub-Saharan and sub-Saharan — that is, young blacks and Arabs heading to, and paying taxes for, old Europeans. The other is a solid increase in European fertility.

Unlike pliant America, modern European nations have not been built on immigration. Even in America, at least toward descendants are also built. In Europe, they are far harder. It would be odd to see naturalized citizens in a continent of old people.

Trying to increase fertility is a modern dilemma, with an apparent way to do it. But in Sweden they had better come up with something more than the Euro.

Volunteer pledges dedication

SPECIAL TO THE HERALD

WINTER SPRINGS - Viola Sanchez pledged to "get things done for America" during a swearing-in ceremony at Community Care for the Elderly (CCE) last week, as she and 12 others became AmeriCorps members.

The new recruits have been assigned to Project R.E.L.I.E.F., a pilot project that gives family caregivers time off while volunteers stay with their frail loved ones. Caregivers often burn out or suffer illnesses of their own while trying to cope with the rigors of 24-hour-a-day bathing, feeding and monitoring.

"I like to help elderly persons. I feel good when I am helping," said the Winter Springs resident. "I've worked with elderly people at my church and visit nursing homes. This is another way for me to help."

AmeriCorps, sponsored locally by the Florida Commission on Community Service and the Florida Department of Elder Affairs, builds stronger communities through service to others. "Volunteerism and community service has helped build our country. You are building an important page in history," said Fred Sanguillano, executive director of the Florida Commission on Community Service.

Community partners in R.E.L.I.E.F. for Orange and Seminole counties are Community Care for the Elderly, Senior Resource Alliance and the Florida Department of Elder Affairs. The new AmeriCorps members join other CCE volunteers already serving as companions and sitters.

Allen said she has a list of elderly persons who call her regularly. She said she likes to drive one or two of them at a time, allowing them her full attention. "Sometimes we just drive over to the waterfront at Port Mellon Park," she said. "We'll get out and sit in the sunshine."

When she was growing up, Allen said she adored her grandmother and thinks about her often when she is with her newly acquired "family" of grandmothers and grandfathers.

One of five children, Allen grew up in what she said was "a very loving home." Her dad was a foreman at a flower farm in Midway and her mother was the first black florist in Sanford.

Allen graduated from Crooms Academy and received her college education at Bethune-Cookman College and the University of Indiana. She began her teaching education in 1951 at Ocala Elementary. She also taught at Forest City and Altamonte elementary schools.

Her 28-year-old son, Larry Allen, is a Bethune-Cookman graduate now employed as an accountant.

Shirley Allen, the 1998 Martin Luther King honoree in Sanford, said she feels she has been blessed in her life. She treasures the experience of having met Dr. King and the opportunity to do what she can to help others be comfortable and at peace.

Orsma said to his knowledge those plans have fallen by the wayside. "I've been here four years and I haven't heard anything about it."

The recently completed section of the Cross Seminole Trail is adjacent to the S.R. 434, but the paved trail does not fit the description of an environmental greenway.

East of the highway, S.R. 434 is still two lanes, but Orsma said the Florida Department of Transportation has plans to widen that portion to downtown Oviedo. The agency is awaiting direction from the city, which is trying to decide how to deal with historic properties in the path of the widening project.

Orsma said that if Oviedo does not reach a decision on its own "the state will decide," enforcing its powers of eminent domain.

Orsma said Winter Springs had hoped to finalize a joint planning agreement with the county and Oviedo, so the issues of development in the interchange area could be dealt with smoothly, but Oviedo opted to pursue a separate agreement with the county. Winter Springs has not begun work with the county on its joint planning agreement.

The zoning hearing Wednesday will be followed by hearings by the City Commission, on the zoning change and the related comprehensive plan amendment, on March 23 and April 12. The plan amendment and zoning change will be transmitted to the Florida Department of Community Affairs for review.

The hearing begins at 7 p.m. at Winter Springs City Hall, 1195 E. State Road 434.

domestic to Sanford, White said.

Pan American Airlines would begin non-stop flights three times a week to Newark, N.J., continuing to Portsmouth, N.H., White said.

If the flights are successful, White said Pan American Airlines would possibly expand to daily service. The next step would be to have flights between Sanford and Atlanta, as well as Chicago, White said.

The agreement would give the Orlando Sanford Airport the long-sought prize of regularly scheduled domestic passenger service. Recent studies and surveys of area travel agencies show a "strong demand" for scheduled domestic service from Sanford, particularly to Atlanta, New Hampshire and Chicago, White said.

The Orlando Sanford Airport currently has more than one million international passengers from British charter flights, White said.

Integrating terminal facilities have prompted the airport's officials to add domestic flights, White said.

Airport and city officials called state legislators for $25 million to improve the joint-use domestic and international terminal, White said.

"We want to have gates for other domestic or international use," White said. "The money is needed to improve the apron where all the planes park."

The airport has received $5.5 million from the state in the past two years for expansion. The airport has used about $1 million for additional parking and building improvements, and $500,000 for ramp repairs. Airport is asking for an additional $12 million from the state for expansion.

If the state approves the most recent request, the joint-use domestic/international terminal would be built to accommodate seven domestic airplanes at a time and 750,000 passengers annually, White said.

The terminal would be designed to handle some of the overflow traffic from the international terminal, White said.

The Sanford facility will be able to service at least three of Pan American's 737-300 aircraft and have 15 employees, White said.

Sanford Mayor Larry Dale said airport officials have also had discussions with other airlines who are interested in regularly scheduled domestic service out of the airport.

"We've had discussions with a lot of people," Dale said. "We are going to bring scheduled domestic service to Sanford."

Because of the demographics of our location, we're in a very good position. Domestic service is inevitable."

Officials from First Airline will tour the Orlando Sanford Airport's facilities on Monday. First said airline officials hope to meet with Orlando Sanford Airport officials this coming week.

"Cost-wise it's much more efficient to operate out of Sanford," First said.

First Airline, established in 1988, has five airplanes based at the Orlando International Airport. The airline offers service to New York, N.J., San Juan, Puerto Rico, and Aguadilla, Puerto Rico.

White said airport officials have yet to discuss details such as lease agreements, contract terms, or payments with First Airline.

The airline would bring 7-8,000 people to the Orlando International Airport, First said.

"Our service would expand if we come to Sanford," First said. "It would be more cost-effective to operate out of Sanford."

The move would bring 20 new jobs to Sanford, First said.

"We would need to hire at least one mechanic," First said. "We would also hire baggage handlers, ticket managers, and others."

Now the truth about women

March has been designated by women as Women's History Month. The history of women began with Eve in the Garden of Eden.

The ten most important women in the world since Eve are the Virgin Mary, Teresa of Avila, Cleopatra, Queen Elizabeth I, Queen Isabella I, Jeanne d'Arc, Marie Antoinette, Eleanor Roosevelt, Marie Curie and Golda Meir.

Roosevelt leads the American-born most important women's top ten. She is joined by Betsy Ross, Martha Washington, Florence Nightingale, Susan B. Anthony, Dr. Mary McCleod Bethune, Harriet Beecher Stowe, Clara Barton, Helen Keller and Jacqueline Kennedy.

The ten most important women alive today probably aren't as important as they think they are. Madeleine Albright would be an exception. Rosa Parks another. We recently lost two magnificent women - Mother Teresa and Barbara Jordan.

Jeannette Rankin was the first woman member of the U.S. Congress. Hillary Clinton may become the first ex-First Lady to serve in the Senate. No woman has ever been president or vice president. Elizabeth Dole wants to change that in 2000.

Although women have spent most of the money in this county, Susan B. Anthony is the only one to be pictured on a coin. She was on the Susan B. Anthony silver dollar. Many women are on U.S. postage stamps. Marilyn Monroe is one of them. Ella Fitzgerald another.

There have been many wonderful women in history. Louisa May Alcott, Jane Austen, Charlotte and Emily Bronte, Pearl Buck, Wills Cather, Nora Zeale Hurston, Dorothy Parker, Katherine Anne Porter, Margaret Mitchell, Gertrude Stein, and poets, Marianne Moore, Emily Dickinson, Sara Teasdale, Mary Angelou.

A Who's Who of African-American women would include: Dr. Mary McCleod Bethune, Maya Angelou, Shirley Chisholm, Barbara Harris, Barbara Jordan, Gwendolyn Brooks, Rosa Parks, Phyllis Wheatley, Leontyne Price and Ella Fitzgerald. Sorry, Oprah.

An infamous list of American women include Tonya Harding, Linda Tripp, Janet Cooke, Lorena Bobbitt, and Patti Hearst. Barbara Walters joins the list the second she airs her interview with Monica Lewinsky.

The U.S. Census Bureau has files of statistics concerning women. Women who were full-time, year-around workers earned 74 cents in 1997 for every dollar earned by men - a significant improvement over the 57 cents they received in 1973. Between 1951 and 1997, the proportion of American wives who worked nearly tripled - from 23 percent to 62 percent.

Today, 83 percent of the nation's women ages 25 and over have at least a high school diploma and 22 percent have a bachelor's degree. The proportion with a high school diploma is just about the same as that of men. But the percentage of men with a bachelor's degree was 27 percent more.

There are an estimated 100 million women in the U.S. Please see Russ, Page 2A 138.2 million women and girls in the U.S. and 132.7 million men. Women outnumber men 20.2 million to 14.2 million at ages 65 and older - and 51,000 to 11,000 among centenarians.

In 1998, 58 percent of women 18 years old are over were married, 21 percent had never married and 11 percent each were widowed and divorced. The estimated median age for a woman to get married was 25. In the 1960's the average age was 20.

Women live to an average age of 79, men to 73. Projections for 2010 show life expectancy for women will be 81 years, men 74. This proves that the longer women work at it they will keep on living longer than men.

There are six states where males outnumber women: Alaska, California, Hawaii, Idaho, Nevada and Wyoming. Go figure.

Pan Am heads to Sanford

By Bill Kerns

SANFORD - Pan American Airlines has agreed to move its maintenance facilities from Fort Lauderdale to Orlando Sanford Airport within about 60 days and begin the first domestic passenger service from the airport by late spring.

Kiwi Airlines, with five planes currently operating out of the Orlando International Airport, is also considering moving its domestic service operations to the Sanford Airport to reduce its operating costs, according to Kiwi Airlines Sales Manager Hal East.

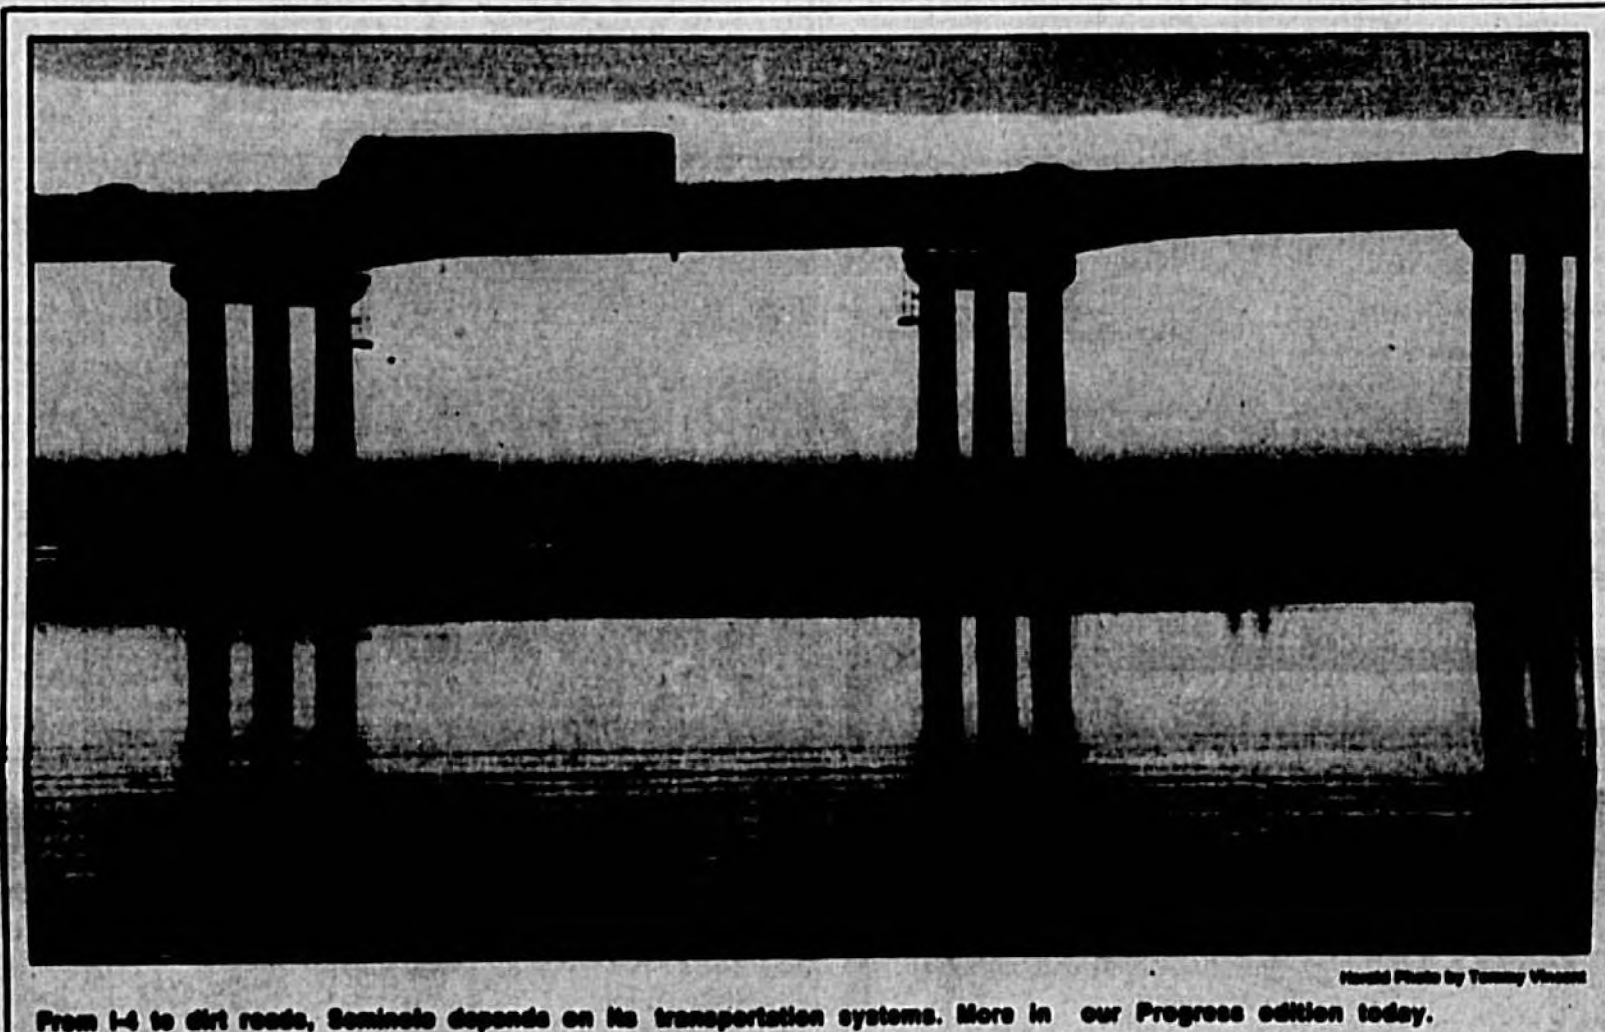

Victor White, executive director of the Sanford Airport Authority, said there is a verbal agreement, but not a formal agreement, with Pan American Airlines. He said an agreement with Kiwi Airlines is not as close to being formalized, and that airport officials have yet to meet with anyone from the top management of Kiwi Airlines.

"We met with (Pan American President) David Fink this week and shook hands," White said. "We just faxed the agreement to them a couple days ago. We don't expect any difficulties."

Under the verbal agreement, Pan American Airlines would rent a building from the Orlando Sanford Airport to use as a line maintenance facility, Mechanics, and possibly some pilots and flight attendants would be moved from Fort Lau-

Daly pulls out of Longwood race

By Bill Kerns

LONGWOOD - Jim Daly has decided to drop out of the race for the Longwood commission seat left vacant by Ron Sargent, throwing his support behind Judy Putz.

Daly will serve as the campaign manager for Putz. Longwood is holding a special election for the District 2 commission seat following the resignation of Sargent. Dan Anderson is also campaigning for the seat. The election will be held April 27.

"I've been giving this a lot of thought," Daly said. "After speaking to members of the Republican Executive Committee, I've decided to throw all my support to Judy Putz. She's a winner, and she'll make a fine commissioner."

Putz and Daly are both members of the Republican Executive Committee.

Daly said he wanted to set the record straight concerning his education, as well as rumors that his company was once in breach of contract with the city of Longwood.

Daly said he did not earn a bachelor's degree from the University of Michigan, as earlier reported. He said he earned a bachelor's degree in business administration from Cleary College, in Imlant, Mich. in 1981. He said he attended the University of Michigan from 1957-58, and also attended Wayne State University for two years.

Daly also said he attended the University of Detroit Law School, but did not earn a degree.

Daly said he is "a little incensed" at "rumors and innuendoes" that his company, TSD Systems, had once fallen in breach of contract with the city of Longwood.

TSD Systems provided computer network support for the city from 1985-97, Daly said.

During the spring of 1997, one of the computers developed a software related problem. The city brought in an outside consultant to examine the computer, voiding the warranty, and the consultant made an erroneous analysis, Daly said.

"Out of 40 or 50 machines, there was a problem with one computer," Daly said. "We did everything we could. We had technicians backing up the systems in the city monthly."

When a TDS Systems technician shut down some computers at City Hall during lunchtime to do a backup check, a receptionist said she had lost her work. She called the purchasing department, and the technician was asked to leave, Daly said.

Two days later, Daly said he met with then City Manager Sheldon Smith and other city

Interchange could shape city's future

By Shari Bredie

WINTER SPRINGS - The shape of the future of State Road 434 and Winter Springs will be discussed Wednesday at a planning and zoning public hearing.

The city wants to create a "GreenWay Interchange Zoning District," rezoning 260 acres of property west of the toll road for high intensity commercial and residential development.

"Basically, we want to take advantage of commercial opportunity," said Thomas Grimsa, with the city's community development department-planning division.

The property owner, the Casacella family trust, has requested the zoning change on the land at the northwest corner of S.R. 434 and the GreenWay. The project is appealing to the city, said Grimsa, because the intersection affords great transportation accessibility to the area.

The state road is currently being widened, to the toll road, to four lanes. With the city's plans for a town center near the intersection of S.R. 434 and Tusculum Road, Grimsa said he foresees a corridor of commercial development.

"All along 434 is going to be commercial," said Grimsa. "That's our desire."

Only one property owner has requested the zoning change, said Grimsa, but the opportunity is open to anyone along the road.

The Casacella tract surrounds a parcel of unincorporated land which contains several homes near Clifton Springs and an undeveloped county park at the former Hiley's Fish Camp. Grimsa said the owner of approximately 75 acres in that enclave has filed for annexation

Her love and drive wins Allen Dr. King Award

SANFORD - When Shirley Allen was a college student, she was invited to spend a few days with a classmate in Birmingham, Ala. While there, the two women went to hear a talk by Dr. Martin Luther King.

Allen said she got to meet Dr. King and shake his hand.

That was 38 years ago, but the message of the evening is fresh in Allen's heart. "Dr. King taught me about humanity of life," Allen said. "He made the supreme sacrifice. We can't help but be better people if we do the things he told us to do."

Allen, a Sanford native who retired from her career as a teacher and administrator in the Seminole County School System, has spent the last year doing volunteer work. She drives the elderly to the doctor's office or bank or just for a ride in the sunshine.

Last month, she received the 1999 Martin Luther King Award for her contributions to the community. The award has been given to outstanding Sanford citizens for 13 years. Shirley Allen, friends say, is a most worthy recipient.

"It fascinates me how much I can learn when I am with the elderly," Allen said. "I love to listen
