AROUND THE CLOCK

Don't miss the Lions Club Fourth of July fireworks show. They have a grand finale planned that will bring a lump to your throat and a thrill to your heart.

Clockwatchers will be interested in the one man art show that is on display in the Savanna room of American Federal in Orlando because the artist is none other than erstwhile Sanfordite Larry Loring, new Rev. Canon Leasing of the Cathedral Church of St. Luke. Those who know Larry will remember his artistic leanings when he was here. Later, he was in the display and decoration department of Ivey's in Orlando. His seminary training elevated him to the priesthood of the Episcopal church however his artwork still is a strong love. Viewers are amazed at the variety of styles and media the artist uses, but as may be imagined, the subject matter has a strong religious and Christian implication.

Realization of a long-time ambition is an experience that too few of us enjoy. We share the happiness, however, of a friend who does George Pittard, after working and who do mean working for many months on a "dream project" of his, has announced the opening of his camp for boys, Camp Moki, George and his wife, Jean, have been ardent workers with children for many years. Perhaps George's Camp Moki is an outgrowth of Jean's Happy Acres Kindergarten, but at any rate, the clockwatchers are happy that football official and boys' friend, as well as our, has reached a goal — realized an ambition.

The idea of using the small plot of ground at French Avenue and Seminole Boulevard as a beauty spot to welcome visitors to the lakefront hasn't been abandoned. But at an asking price of $25,000! Somebody just HAS to be dreaming! Too small for profitable use for a commercial venture, the piece of real estate could be an attractive place for low, colorful plantings — appealing to all who pass, inviting them to stop. Let's hope that this idea of the beautification committee comes into full being — and soon.

Figures recently released from the Office of Economic Opportunity, concerning Job Corps training contracts issued to business corporations, educational institutions and community organizations, indicated training of out-of-school, out-of-work, "underprivileged" young men and women, 16-21. In the past 30 days contracts totaling $17 million to train 7,500 unemployed were issued — an average of $7,000 for each student. Some contracts run as much as $1,000 per pupil. For that much money, one could get a four-year college education at some of the best universities in the country. Stated objective is to give these students a "basic education" give them work skills to make them employable, working citizens and taxpayers. At these costs, we need a heck of a lot more taxpayers.

Stephen Leach, Seminole High School senior, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Leach, is one of 32 talented high school students from 13 Southern states attending the summer mathematics program at FSU. The institute will run through July 29 and is supported by the National Science Foundation. The students are studying math, earth sciences, astrophysics and bio-chemistry and will learn to program the IBM high speed electronic computer.

Casselberry Eyes Complex Site

By Barry Laws
Casselberry city council Monday night set into motion the wheels of government to annex a parcel of land just north of Seminole Plaza, presumably to be the site of a new Montgomery Ward store.

The property in question was described as that "small complex, to include a retail outlet and auto service store, has a cost estimate in the neighborhood of $1 million.

In other action, the council granted a city license to the Club Juana, nightclub recently taken into the city by annexation of a block of Fern Park property on Hwy. 17-92, just south of SR 486. Granting of the license will allow the Club Juana to engage in Sunday sales of beer and package goods.

MIAMI (UPI) — A Navy reconnaissance aircraft was dispatched today to take a close look at an easterly wave dumping heavy rains from coastal Cuba to the Gulf of Honduras.

Vernon Dunn appeared to complain of the "sorry looking spectacle" of two of the islands on Highway 192 in Fern Park.

The main band of showers associated with the wave covered most of eastern Cuba and extended as far westward as the Florida peninsula.

Seminole Hospital Not OKd

With the federal Medicare program for the elderly becoming effective Friday, local participation still was a moot question today. Seminole Memorial Hospital—the only such facility in the county—was awaiting word whether we have been approved. Administrator Robert Bessner said that.

Bessner added that of the 100 hospitals in Florida all but 87 have been approved. Seminole Memorial Hospital board of directors was in agreement on the Medicare program except they disagreed with one provision, holding that pay patients should be accorded the privilege of the choice of "room mates."

Next session of the Seminole Hospital board of directors is not scheduled until July 12. James W. Murray, regional assistant commissioner of the Social Security Administration, told a regional conference at Atlanta, according to United Press International, that "the broadest possible presentation of the program) will be made to the American people as the final consideration of Medicare proceeds."

Argentine Prexy Ousted

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — President Arturo Illia left the Argentine "White House" today, escorted by a group of civilian supporters who shouted "death to dictatorship" and "death to civil militarism." Illia was accompanied by Justice Minister Miguel A. Zavala Ortiz.

It was not certain immediately whether Illia was leaving the White House voluntarily or under military orders, nor was it clear where he was going. The press had announced earlier that Illia resigned Monday night. It had been reported that Argentine's dominant military leaders had given him until 8 a.m. to get out of the White House and had threatened that he leave Argentina.

The general and the admiral were believed to have returned in the afternoon to the White House and had resumed their duties as usual. Illia left the official residence at 7:30 a.m.

The military crisis that has been simmering here for weeks came abruptly to a boil early today. Three admirals led the national capital and took up positions around the "White House," an Army colonel took command of the Federal police. Corps commanders, controlling troops outside the capital, took charge of provincial governments and police departments. Civilian supporters of the president clashed with troops guarding the "White House," and were quickly dispersed by soldiers and police. There was no report of casualties or arrests.

Troop moved members of Illia's staff out of the "White House" but made no effort to oust the president himself. Apparently authoritative reports said Lt. Gen. Juan O'Gara, a former commander of the army, would be installed as president.

No Signs Of Peace, Rusk Tells Allies

CANBERRA, Australia (UPI) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk told Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO) foreign ministers today there were no signs of peace in Vietnam despite U.S. efforts to seek a negotiated end to the fighting. He vowed the United States would stay there until the Viet Cong halt their war of aggression.

Rusk addressed a closed group of the defensive alliance following secret talks with British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart. The alliance was set up in 1954 as the Asian counterpart to NATO and NATO pact, and recent developments in the Geneva disarmament talks. But he declined to elaborate on details of the session. Two members of the eight-nation alliance who are in disagreement with the challenge to communism in Vietnam, said non-participating observers to the meeting.

France maintained a strong stance against military action in Vietnam. The United States would stay there until the Viet Cong halt their war of aggression. The alliance was set up in 1954 as the Asian counterpart to NATO and NATO pact, and recent developments in the Geneva disarmament talks. But he

CDR. RICHARD S. HOPPER recently assumed duties as executive officer of RVAH-9, currently embarked at sea aboard USS Ranger operating with Seventh Fleet. Cdr. Hopper's experience in heavy attack aviation includes piloting AJ Savage, A-1H Skywarrior and RA-6C Vigilant. He is married and has one son.

'We Thank You' Verse OK'd For Kindergarten

CHICAGO (UPI) — Mrs. Esther Watne's kindergarten class at Edwood School in De Kalb, Ill., was free to recite its "instant verse" of thankfulness today.

U. S. District Court Judge Edwin A. Robson refused to ban recital of a "we thank you" verse which two protesting parents said was a prayer. The request for a permanent injunction against recital of the verse was made by Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Despain of De Kalb. They said the recitation violated the constitutional rights of their five-year-old daughter.

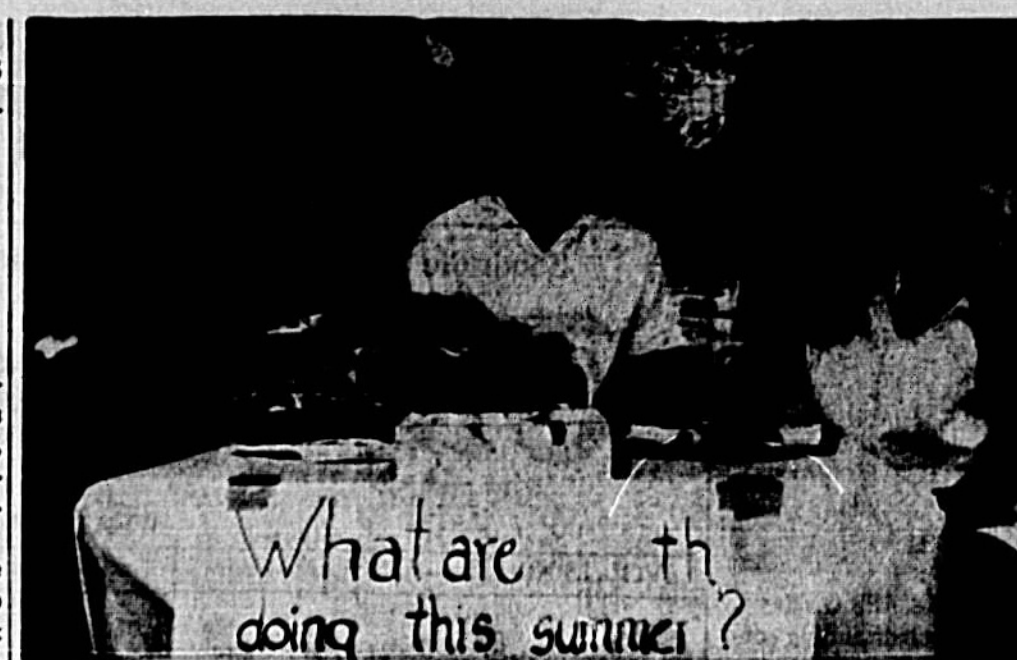

Robson did not agree and said "the purpose and primary objective of the verse was not religious." He ruled that Mrs. Watne, 63, was "exercising her pedagogical function of making the pupils a socially acceptable person" by having the class recite: "We thank you for the flowers so sweet. We thank you for the birds that sing. We thank you for everything. We thank you, God, for ever." She said the Despains had objected to the use of the word "God," so it was dropped. The revised version, contained Mrs. Watne, was to a prayer, but "a moment of learning, grace and manners."

The verse was OK'd for kindergarten.

Red Oil Supplies Hit Once Again

SAIGON (UPI) — U. S. Navy and Air Force planes struck Communist Vietcong oil storage facilities another day of raids against oil tanks. A major ground action was reported today, but U. S. Marines were unable to track down a battered Viet Cong battalion in the marshy lowlands along the coast north of Hue. The Vietcong pushed the death toll in the four-day operation to 94.

Elsewhere, a record number of American units saw a 9 p.m. through jungles and hills looking for Communists but succeeded in making only light and sporadic contact with the elusive enemy.

The largest operation was "Nathan Hale" which reached division level Monday when a Marine battalion of from 1,200 to 1,500 men joined Air cavalrymen and paratroopers of the 1st Airborne Division in a push through the central highlands 250 miles southeast of Saigon.

At least two battalions of North Vietnamese regulars are believed operating in the area and the U. S. forces have killed 600 so far in more than a week of scattered fighting. A U. S. division is normally composed of about 16,000 men and in terms of numbers this is one of the largest operations of the war.

In the air war, U. S. jets pounded supply and communication facilities in North Vietnam with 85 missions, and raked guerrilla hideouts in the South, a spokesman said. North Vietnamese gunboats brought down one Navy A-1H Skyhawk jet in the Monday raids. On the political front, military leaders turned down appeals for moderation from senior church officials and insisted that the struggle against Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's military government must be pushed with more street demonstrations. He also defied orders from his church superior, Thich Thin Khiet, who is head of all the nation's monks, to halt a 30-day hunger strike protesting Ky's government.

Parcel Post Hike Looms In Action By Lawmakers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House passed today a bill to increase the rate and weight limits on parcel post packages and to raise parcel post rates by about eight cents a parcel.

The House approved the measure by voice vote after months of debate. Opponents who said it would wreck the Railway Express Agency, a major competitor of the government in parcel postage handling.

An amendment was approved which would open post office jobs to say REA or railroad workers who became unemployed as a result of the extended limits.

The bill would allow, between first class postage, handling of packages up to 50 pounds weight and 100 inches combined length and girth.

Other congressional news: The Senate passed by voice vote a bill to "White House three bill liberalizing rules under which citizens may sue the federal government. They would require the government to pay court costs when it loses a claim; permit out-of-court settlements by the government; and impose a structure of limitations on federal suits against individuals.

Plenty Of Activity For Young

By Donna Estes
Plenty of activity is on tap for young people in the city of Longwood these days with Little League baseball, summer recreation at the school, chess instructions and tournaments at Ernie Faylor's place of business on Church Street and last, but not least, a ball at "The Cave" on East Lake Street.

The school recreation program for students of first through sixth grades is conducted under the able direction of Mrs. Nell Brading, music teacher, and James Barone. Activities at the school are scheduled Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Fridays, from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. and students skate at State City on Mondays from 9 until 11 a.m. and swim at Land O'Lakes Country Club in Casselberry on Wednesdays from 8:30 until 10:30 a.m. Nominal admissions are charged for both activities.

Next place in town for the teenagers is "The Cave," a small teen club which opened Friday night and is being operated by a group of young men who call themselves "The In Crowd."

Admittance to the club is afforded only to young people who can prove they are at least 16 but no more than 19 years old. Live music for the dances is provided by "The Crowd," featuring Danny Hall on bass.

Water Safety Is Urged By County Health Unit

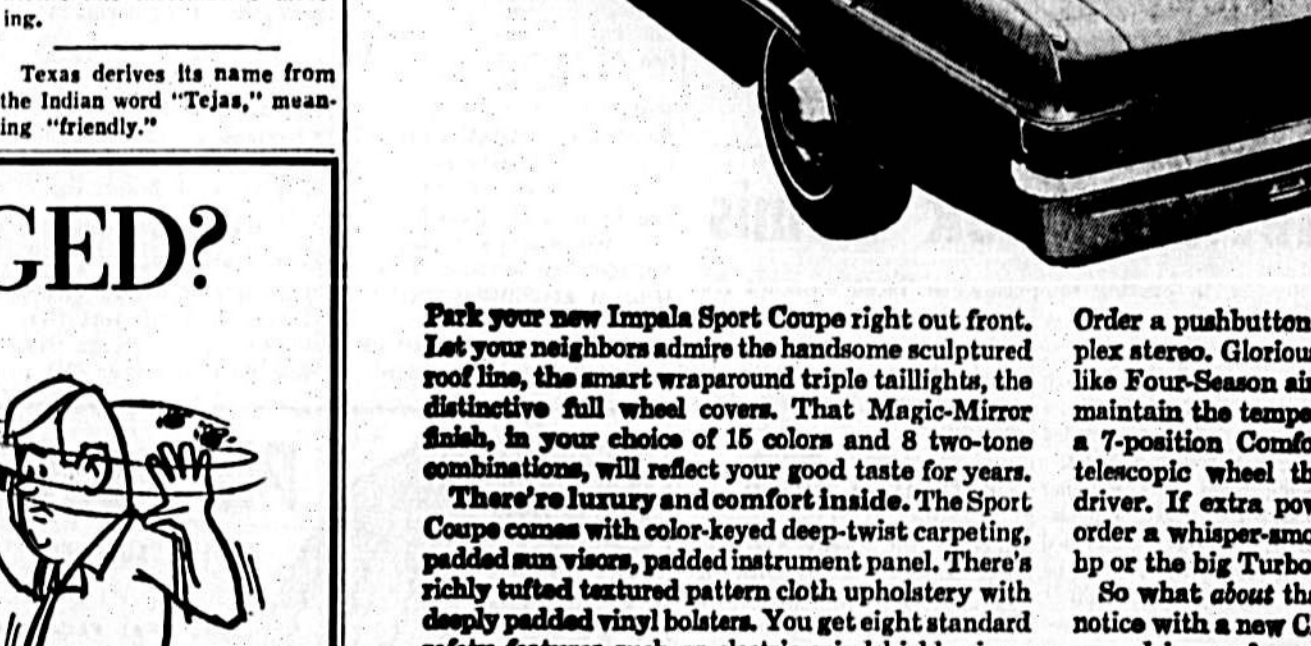

"Drowning is one of the major causes of accidental death in the United States today," said Doctor Frank Leone of the Seminole County health department.

Wear U.S. Coast Guard approved life jackets when boating or water skiing. Don't panic in emergency situations. Stay away from water during storms. Never swim alone. Do not exceed your limitations as a swimmer. Take lessons from an accredited instructor before engaging in skin-diving. Learn artificial respiration or mouth-to-mouth breathing. Dr. Leone also pointed out that water safety is not limited to public bathing and recreational facilities. The large numbers of home swimming pools and portable water facilities have added responsibility for home owners and parents to practice water safety.

"Many tragedies could be avoided," he said, "by practicing common sense rules of water safety."

Accidental drownings are not always the result of sport or play. There are many instances each year of small children drowning when left unattended in the bathtub or when they fall into an open well or cistern. Dr. Leone urges everyone to be careful when using public and private recreational water facilities this summer, and to practice water safety the year around.

Miss Marjorie Ann Wilson became the bride of John R. Phillips, Saturday, June 4, in a ceremony at the southeast chapel of Ramstein Air Base, Germany.

MRS. JOHN R. PHILLIPS

Specials indicated it was the first American wedding they had attended and found it interesting for, while similar, each of the countries have varying customs pertaining to weddings.

According to the Status of Forces Agreement, the couple had to be married by German law as well as American law. The German law requires a civil ceremony which is normally followed by a church service, therefore, they were first married at 10:30 a.m., June 4, in the Rathaus (City Hall) of Ramstein village in a civil ceremony arranged for by the Quartermaster (Major).

Mr. Phillips is the son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. John H. Phillips of Ramstein Air Base, Germany.

Chaplain (Major) Calvin C. Cooper performed the 3 p.m. ceremony in a setting of palms, greenery, floor vases of mums, gladioli and pansies, and a stiletto floor candle. The open bible on the altar was blessed by a large center piece of mums and two seven-branch candelabra.

Mr. William Esque, organist, presented nuptial music with Mrs. Calvin C. Cooper singing "I'll Be True to You" and "The Lord's Prayer" and during the service, "The Lord's Prayer" while the couple knelt at the altar.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of champagne silk, long fitted sleeves and scalloped neckline. A single strand of pearls was a gift from the groom.

Her veil of illusion tulle fell from a white satin bow. She carried a white Bible, a gift purchased by her mother in Bethlehem, topped with a black orchid and cascade of white rose buds and stephanotis.

The Mayfair home of Mrs. F. D. Scott was the setting Friday for a bridesmaid's luncheon honoring Miss Bonnie Gielow and her bride attendants.

Crystal stemmed glasses and green and white table linens were the dominating color, or scheme used in the home decor, which featured magnificent arrangements of white flowers tinged with green.

added festivity to the occasion as the bride and her attendants were traditionally toasted with champagne.

Mrs. Scott presented the bride-elect with a bride's candle, which she made. Also she presented Bonnie, her mother, Mrs. Walter A. Gielow, and her sister's mother, Mrs. Henry Schumacher, with white carnation corsages.

A 'Soldier' Goes To War... Briefly

BAIGON (UPI) — Red-faced with anger, a brigadier general... David Stucki... military didn't want to hold him. The consulate could do nothing right away. But he had to get civilian clothes; his uniform was taken from him. Some newsmen helped him over the next few days while he made repeated visits to the consulate. Finally, he got a temporary passport and the government is arranging a loan to get him passage home. Standard procedure for stranded Americans abroad. David thinks "maybe they put me in Leavenworth (federal prison)." And he worries about what may happen to the 600 who stayed in Vietnam. "You know, it felt awful good when they took it away from me. It made me feel useful and needed."

Swiss Women Get Vote Right

BASEL, Switzerland (UPI) — Basel is the first German-speaking canton province of Switzerland which has granted women the right to vote. By a vote of 13,113 to 9,141 Basel's male citizens approved a change in the cantonal constitution authorizing females over 20 years of age to take part in cantonal elections and referendums. Basel joined the French-speaking cantons of Geneva, Vaud and Neuchâtel in departing from the Swiss tradition that women should tend their children and homes and stay out of politics. In federal elections as well as voting in the 21 other cantons, women still have no voice. An amendment to the federal constitution which would have given women the vote was defeated seven years ago by a 51 margin. No new attempts have been made to promote country-wide female suffrage. The licenses have been on sale since June 15.

Fish License Renewal Due

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The director of the State Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission warned that persons caught fishing without a 1962-63 fishing license after July 1 will be subject to arrest. Director O. E. Fry said wildlife officers will start a strict check Friday on all fish licenses. The licenses have been on sale since June 15.

Lions' Fun Fair Slated Monday

Sanford Lions Club Fourth of July Fun Fair Monday in Sanford's Fort Mellon Park is expected to be "bigger and better" than ever this year. According to Chairman Howard Flood and President William MacLaughlin. A wide variety of rides, food, games and fun activities are planned from 1 p. m. to dark, including a big fireworks display that is expected to be "fabulous, with a special grand finale that will light up the sky." The pyrotechnics are being sponsored by Chase and Company, Florida Power and Light, Florida State Bank, Sanford Atlantic National Bank and Western Auto Associate Store and will be handled by Jay Warrick. Playing for dancing, listening and entertainment on the grounds during the late afternoon hours will be "The Continentals," popular Sanford rock-and-roll dance band, featuring Charles (Chuck) DeMorse, lead guitar, Larry Stead, rhythm, Danny DeMorse, singer, Louis Simmons, drummer and James McLaughlin, bass guitar. The fun fair will be held at Fort Mellon Park, 1115 S. Magnolia Ave., from 1 p. m. to dark. Admission is free. The Lions will give away a color television set, two transistor radios and 100 one-year passes to the Ritz Theater. In conjunction with the Fun Fair, the Sanford recreation department Little League will hold a chicken barbecue and two all-star baseball games, climaxing the season. Proceeds of the Fun Fair will benefit the Lions Club Blind Fund and help support programs for the glaucoma clinic, the hearing center, the "seeing eye" dogs, free eye glasses for seniors planning to attend from the needy and other programs.

More Students Going To College

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — For the first time in Florida's history, at least one of every two high school graduates is going on to college. The statistics are being reported by the Florida Department of Education. The number of students going to college in 1961 was 52,079, or 71.73 more than the 46,204 who graduated a year ago. Of the 51 per cent who will continue their education this year, nearly half will enroll in junior colleges, the superintendent said.

Beauty Blossoms

Long before the First Lady decided it was time for America to beautify the highway, a farmer in Louisiana launched his own highway beautification project. What he did proved that beauty is not only better than ugly but that it can be good business. Eight years ago, E. R. McDonald of Newell, La., began promoting the idea of relieving the dreary monotony of the drive along Great River Road in Tensas Parish. He set an example by planting oak and pine trees, myrtle, roses, tulips, pansies, anemones and other spring flowers beside the road. The idea caught on and soon, the story goes, even the humblest homes along the highway were ablaze each spring with flowering beauty. McDonald started plants to those who couldn't afford them. Tourists who formerly sped through the area on the way to New Orleans began to slow down to look at the display, to stop and spend some time—and some money. They went home and told others about it. Last spring, more than 100,000 people from all 50 states and 25 foreign countries came to visit. One owner of a general store reported he had as many customers in one day as he used to have in three months. It was all started by one man. And his name wasn't Uncle Sam.

True Gauge Of Pride

The other day an army chaplain got out of his car and delivered a message to a Cleveland, Ohio, mother telling her that her oldest son, 19, had been killed in action in Vietnam. "I hope and pray he did not die in vain," she exclaimed. The message is delivered often, these days. And often the involuntary reaction must be similar, because no one loves war and no one welcomes death. To all of these we would say, with deep respect and sympathy, what a stranger wrote to the Cleveland mother: "No one who wears the uniform of this country dies in vain. There are many ways for a boy to die in vain—by accident or disease, through crime. Proceeds of the Fun Fair will benefit the Lions Club Blind Fund and help support programs for the glaucoma clinic, the hearing center, the 'seeing eye' dogs, free eye glasses for seniors planning to attend from the needy and other programs.

Thought For Today

"It is he who made the earth by his power, who established the world by his wisdom, and by his understanding stretched out the heavens."—Jeremiah 51:15.

Bruce Bissot -- Ray Cromley Political Notebook

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Swedish studies show the Soviet Communist party and government are not the party and government of the peasant. A strong Soviet self-perpetuating elite class is growing. These studies by a key Swedish Ministry of Defense specialist in Russia reveal that in the Soviet Union: Inheritance taxes are strongly weighted in favor of the wealthy. Progressive taxation stops at a low level. Inherited wealth may thus be expected to play a larger role in Russia as time goes on. The wage structure is highly beneficial to government and party officials. Much financing in the Soviet Union is accomplished by indirect taxes on food and consumer goods. These taxes hit the little man harder than the man with a high salary. There is progressive income taxation. But the progressive principle stops at an income level much higher than that of the average man. A special tax schedule for automobiles and other luxuries has the same easy tax principles built in. The intelligentsia and higher government and party officials receive many other benefits. They are allowed large plots of land for their own cultivation. They receive special sick-leave benefits and generous housing allowances. High-salaried officials thus can easily accumulate considerable unearned income. Higher education is becoming increasingly expensive. The wealthy groups in the Soviet Union are favored in educating their children. Higher officials frequently have access to special scholarships for their youngsters. Their sons and daughters are rapidly assuming a more and more dominating position in the universities, compared to their small numbers in the population. Statistics indicate that the Communist party in the Soviet Union is now dominated by workers. Party functionaries are energetically cultivating it. As a result, de Gaulle's attitude in Europe. If it does, the effect on the U. S. position in Europe and the world may be great. So much of the U. S. press has for so long dismissed de Gaulle as a vainglorious one-man regime that it is difficult for Americans to view him otherwise even when conditions change. At this stage he is a formidable leader with a purpose. He will be held in high esteem by the Soviet Union. He would replace these warring blocs with a "reconciled Europe," organized around a new center. President de Gaulle does not dismiss the U. S. as we dismiss him much of the time. "France," the general said again in Moscow last week, "does not underestimate the importance of the U. S. in the treaty and the pacification of the world." But clearly the French President agrees with the Soviets that the desirable course for them now is to rebuild a Europe "independent of U. S. influence." It is this belief that led to de Gaulle's official visit to Russia. The road to peaceful co-existence in Europe, in his view, lies through Moscow. The first step, he feels, is for the two nations to begin co-operating where they can—without waiting for a general settlement of all the problems on which Europe still does not agree. Informed observers expect this co-operation to begin with scientific collaboration, possibly including an agreement on joint exploration of space. Soviet leaders expressed delight that the Moscow meeting will be only the beginning. It was decided this week "to hold regular consultations in the future." An American diplomat, the President and most of the Congress are finding comfort in

Helen Fuller Says: We Missed The Bus

WASHINGTON — U. S. officials are minimizing the importance of French President Charles de Gaulle's current state visit to the Soviet Union. State Department spokesmen dispense the possibility that anything significant will come out of it. Objective reporters on the scene, Americans and Europeans, mainly disagree. The ground for growing Franco-Soviet cooperation is fertile, and both General de Gaulle and the Soviet leaders are energetically cultivating it. As a result, de Gaulle's attitude in Europe. If it does, the effect on the U. S. position in Europe and the world may be great. So much of the U. S. press has for so long dismissed de Gaulle as a vainglorious one-man regime that it is difficult for Americans to view him otherwise even when conditions change. At this stage he is a formidable leader with a purpose. He will be held in high esteem by the Soviet Union. He would replace these warring blocs with a "reconciled Europe," organized around a new center. President de Gaulle does not dismiss the U. S. as we dismiss him much of the time. "France," the general said again in Moscow last week, "does not underestimate the importance of the U. S. in the treaty and the pacification of the world." But clearly the French President agrees with the Soviets that the desirable course for them now is to rebuild a Europe "independent of U. S. influence." It is this belief that led to de Gaulle's official visit to Russia. The road to peaceful co-existence in Europe, in his view, lies through Moscow. The first step, he feels, is for the two nations to begin co-operating where they can—without waiting for a general settlement of all the problems on which Europe still does not agree. Informed observers expect this co-operation to begin with scientific collaboration, possibly including an agreement on joint exploration of space. Soviet leaders expressed delight that the Moscow meeting will be only the beginning. It was decided this week "to hold regular consultations in the future." An American diplomat, the President and most of the Congress are finding comfort in

Dr. Crane's Worry Clinic

Peter and Paul were a unique pair of brothers. They seemed as devoted as Biblical David and Jonathan. But one day a driver killed one of them, maybe on purpose. For some reason speed up deliberately when they were on a squirrel or other animal a-bred, hoping to strike it. It was a terrible accident. He walked around in frustration, not wanting me to pet him or stroke his back, which he previously had relished. For two days he didn't act like himself. He'd be down but then get up and look like the identical twins. Then he finally "adopted" me and wanted to stay close by. And their mother was a superb huntress, for she soon brought in two moles for their food. Then she added 3 chipmunks, plus many farm mice and rats. And she also caught 2 snakes. One snake she had bitten through its head and killed it before she left it with the kittens, unharmed, so they could play with it. She also brought in a couple of brown thrushes, so Mrs. Crane didn't feel happy about their loss. He'd be down but then get up in a few moments to seek a new resting place. His brother Paul was the cat which had accompanied Mrs. Crane and me to our lake when we went fishing. Paul then plunged in, of his own volition, and swam out to the boat, so I lifted him out of the water. For several days he never fought over their food. But Paul was struck by an automobile and killed. It occurred while the grandchildren were visiting, so we had a sorrowful day. And a next day the children were home, with my wife accompanying them. That's a cruel trial, girls, so beware of such girls!

17 Given Diplomas

Seventeen student officers and enlisted men were awarded diplomas upon graduating from the Integrated Operational Intelligence Center (IOIC) training facilities of the Naval Air Station. The IOIC facility trains personnel in the operation and maintenance of the automatic data processing equipment, which they will utilize aboard the Navy's attack carriers. The courses, of varying length, are provided so that they all conclude at the same time, thereby providing an opportunity for all students to work together in a "team training" environment at the conclusion of their training. In this group three different courses ranging from eight to ten weeks were represented. Combined, the students received over 7,500 hours of training during their stay at IOIC. Men receiving diplomas and congratulations from Cdr. Dean E. Webster, commanding officer of Reconnaissance Attack Squadron 3, were: Photographic Interpretation Operators Eusebio G. Giron, David G. Giron, Barry E. Humphrey, Eusebio G. Giron, John H. Ulvey, PTC, and Burney H. Huff, PTC; Electronic Evaluation Operators Lt. Clifford S. Benner, Lt. Ronald T. Meaza, Lt. Donald G. Timpon, Lt. (jg) Steven G. Albers, Ensign Louis M. Blackwell, Richard W. Tolson, RDC, and Ronald L. Reed, DDC, and Storage and Retrieval.

Boy, she's got everything, Dad. Four on the floor, three deuces, slicks, duals, traction masters, big swinger tach, spinners, metal flake flames, lake plugs, and the sweetest California rake in sixteen counties.

This is a language called "licensing." Automobile dealers know how to speak it. Because 18.1% of all used-car purchases in 1965 were made by the under-25 set. And economists predict that the teenage market will influence the spending of $30 billion in 1966—and buy more cars than ever. If you want to reach this rich teenage market—how do you get your message across? Easy. Just about three-fourths of all adults under thirty read the daily newspaper. 90% of all people who will buy a car this year read the daily newspaper. So if you want to sell cars (or anything else) to the teenage market (or to anybody) turn to the newspaper reading public first. Dollar for dollar, newspapers are your best advertising buy. Newspapers speak everybody's language.
