ROOVER GIVES TALK TODAY AT VALLEY FORGE

Avers Initiative And Inventiveness Of American People Can Subdue Depression

VALLEY FORGE, Pa., May 30.

(AP)—President Hoover today portrayed a United States in the midst of another Valley Forge of depression which can be overcome through the "inventiveness, the resourcefulness, the initiative of every one of us."

On the ground where George Washington and his men suffered bitter deprivations, in the winter of 1777-78 before those very walls stimulated their fight for freedom, the president said, in a memorial day address:

"The American people are going through another Valley Forge at this time. To each and every one of us it is an hour of unusual stress and trial. You have each one your special cause of anxiety. So, too, have I."

But he expressed the conviction that no one who reviews the past can doubt that this, like a score of similar experiences in our history, is but a passing trial.

He warned however against the "easy path to every panacea" as a way out of depression and scouted the claim that "the source of all wisdom is in the government."

"The revolution of which Valley Forge was the darkest but perhaps the most glorious moment," he said, "was fought not alone for national independence, but also to retain for the individual an independence from 'the despending restraints of government.'"

"We are still fighting this war of independence," he asserted, "and we know that the source of wisdom is in the people, that the people can win anew the victory."

Out of Valley Forge of individuals and national careers, he said, are born new insights, new sympathies, new powers and new skills.

"Sirens still sing the song of the easy way for the moment of difficulty," the president said, "but the common sense of the common man, the inherited tradition of an independent and self-reliant race, the historical memories of Americans who glory in Valley Forge even as they glory in Yorktown—all these tell us the truth for which our ancestors fought and suffered, the truth which echoes upward from this soil of blood and tears, that the (Continued on Page Five)

Mothers Of World War Dead Will Be Honored By France

PARIS, May 30.—(AP)—The American Gold Star Mothers and war widows now on pilgrimage in France will be the honored guests at the Memorial Day commemoration today at Suresnes Cemetery just outside Paris, where lie 1536 of the A. E. F. dead.

Owing to its nearness to the French capital, Suresnes will witness the principal ceremony of the American national holiday, but at all battlefields burial grounds delegations of Americans and French will decorate the graves and conduct simple and soldierly services.

The American colony at Paris, with Ambassador Edge at its head, will pay tribute to both the French and American war dead in a brief ceremony at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier just before noon. Prior to that, at the American Protestant church of the Holy Trinity, the memorial service held on Memorial Day of 1918, when the Germans Christianized Paris and the city was under bombardment, will be repeated.

By Charles MacFarland, president of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in the United States, and the Rev. Joseph W. Cavanaugh of the American Church in Paris, will make special visits to the cemeteries at Belleau Wood and the Oise and Aisne to decorate the graves of chaplains and Y. M. C. A. workers who died in the war.

In former years, the actual decoration of the graves at Suresnes will be carried out by French soldiers returning from Suresnes and other battlefields of the Aisne and Oise, and by the American Red Cross.

CROWLEY FIGHTS COPS FOLLOWING HIS CONVICTION

Makes Sudden Lunge As He Is About To Be Led From Court

MINNEOLA, N. Y., May 30.

(AP)—Francis Crowley, 19, yesterday was convicted of murder in the first degree for the slaying of Patrolman Frederic Hirsch—a verdict which carries the death penalty.

As he was about to be led from the courtroom, Crowley, with one hand cuffed to a deputy sheriff, made a sudden lunge which police interpreted as an attempt to obtain the officer's pistol. The courtroom was thrown into turmoil.

A policeman's fist knocked Crowley to the floor, officers and court attendants rushed forward and women screamed.

Crowley, on his feet again in a moment, was taken to the jail by a mob of police. Screaming with rage he battled the officers, and was knocked to the floor again. He was pinned down with several officers upon him.

SENATE WILL DISCUSS RACE BILL MONDAY

Watson, Horne Apologize For Fist Fight Staged On Floor Of House Last Evening

TALLAHASSEE, May 30.

(AP)—The Senate today postponed until Monday consideration of the governor's veto bill legalizing racing and pari-mutuel wagering while the House spent the day in a futile effort to reach a compromise over the gasoline tax distribution bill which has despatched the House three days.

Representatives Watson, Hillsborough, and Horne, Madison, shook hands and apologized to each other and the House for their fight on the floor last night. The Senate passed a substitute chain tax bill providing for a graduated tax of 5 to 50 dollars annually.

Representatives J. Tom Watson of Hillsborough county and H. C. Horne, Madison county, last night fought with their fists on the floor of the House. The encounter followed ejection of Watson from the floor during the afternoon session.

Both Watson and Horne were bleeding from blows on the head when Speaker Clay Lewis separated them after more than a dozen members had tried futilely for several minutes to stop the fight.

Horne was taken from the chamber but Watson after being bandaged with a handkerchief continued his argument for five minutes when the House adjourned, virtually in confusion.

The fight started as Watson spoke to a point of personal privilege in regard with what he termed an attack by Horne on his integrity. Horne objected to the trend of Watson's talk.

Domestic Troubles Among Negroes Feature Friday's Municipal Court

Municipal Judge R. W. Ware's Police Court session yesterday afternoon was featured by lengthy hearings of three different cases of domestic troubles between negroes.

Gene Robinson, alleged white bootlegger whose apartment in the Welaka was raided by Chief of Police Williams and several deputies on Thursday afternoon, pleaded guilty to two charges; parking a car on the wrong side of the street, and possessing spirituous, vinous and malt liquors. Judge Ware fined him $20 and 30 days on the streets, suspending the latter sentence on condition of good behavior.

Wesley Tucker, colored man, charged with disorderly conduct on a complaint made by his wife, pleaded not guilty, but was fined $10, and 45 days on the streets, the latter sentence being suspended on condition that he does not appear in court on a similar charge in the future. Tucker and his wife engaged in a battle of words several times during the hearing, the woman screaming profusely that "I'll throw you out and I'm telling you, I ain't going to live with no more." Tucker has been in court on five different occasions as a wife-beater.

Eddie Hill, colored, charged with disorderly conduct in another domestic quarrel, was fined $10 and 30 days on the streets. The street sentence was suspended on condition of good behavior, and a promise not to appear in court on a similar charge. Hill, a short, squat negro, had considerable difficulty in quieting his wife, who insisted on quelling the two to the cell. Judge Ware was kept busy continually ordering the two to calm down. The negro said that his wife came at him with an axe, after aggravating him and trying to get him mad, while the woman said she did not attack her husband.

James Hardy, colored, charged with disorderly conduct on still another case of domestic trouble, was fined $10 and sentenced to 30 days on the streets, the latter sentence being suspended on condition of good behavior.

Wesley Livingston and Eugene Edmond, white men, charged with petty larceny, each fined $10 bonds for their appearance. One of Anderson Bradley, charged with petty larceny, was committed to the county court house. Bradley is a negro.

Marler Delivers Patriotic Day Talk At Park Exercises

"The supreme lesson of Memorial Day is spiritual," said the Rev. F. M. Marler, of the First Christian Church of Sanford, who, speaking before approximately 300 persons who had gathered at Central Park this morning to observe National Memorial Day, delivered the address of the day.

The Rev. Marler's address was based on "The Meaning of Memorial Day," and in a few brief, but powerful words, he drew a picture of the origin of the Day; its sacredness and richly endowed sentiment, and enlarged on three points, Obedience, Magnanimity, and Self-Sacrifice, which he declared were among the three greatest lessons to be learned from the observance of Memorial Day.

The program was under the joint sponsorship of members of the United Spanish American War Veterans and the American Legion. It opened with a parade in which the following line and order of march was observed: Chief of Police Roy G. Williams, leading, as marshal; motorcycle escort composed of police officers; National Guard firing squad; G. A. R. and Confederate Veterans in automobiles; the U.S.A.W.V., and members of the Auxiliary; members of the Campbell-Lessing Post of the American Legion, and the Auxiliary; and the Boy Scouts.

At the park the following program was heard: Invocation by the Rev. Wm. P. Brooks Jr., of the First Baptist Church; vocal solo, "America, the Beautiful," Mrs. Arthur Brannan; address of the day by the Rev. F. M. Marler; poem, "Flanders Field," read by Mrs. C. H. Smith; placing of wreath upon monument; volley from rifles in the hands of National Guardsmen; taps sounded by a Boy Scout bugler, and a benediction by the Rev. Brooks.

PROGRAM FOR GRADUATION IS MADE KNOWN

Commencement Exercises At Seminole High Will Embrace Interesting Events

Outstanding members of the religious, musical, and scholastic life of Florida will appear on the program of events which, beginning tomorrow night with the Baccalaureate Services, and ending Friday night with Commencement exercises, ring down the curtain on one of the most successful years of progress at Seminole High School, since its doors were first thrown open to students in 1926.

The Rev. H. Irving Louttit, pastor of Holy Cross Episcopal Church, Sanford, will deliver the annual baccalaureate sermon; members of the Rollins College Conservatory of Music, both faculty and pupils, will assist the piano pupils of Mrs. Fannie Strimbridge Munson at the annual recital which will be heard on Monday night; and Dean W. J. Matherly, of the University of Florida, declared to be one of the most outstanding educators of the South will deliver the commencement address on Friday night.

The graduation class of 1931, eighty-one in number, is expected to be in attendance at all the events on a crowded week's program, and, with its officers and sponsors, will be the guests of honor throughout the week.

The Baccalaureate Service will be held at the auditorium of the school tomorrow night, starting at 8:00 o'clock. The school orchestra will offer a processional on the opening number of the program, and the Rev. Carroll Watson of the First Methodist Church will deliver an invocation. The audience will sing the hymn, "Ancient of Days," and the Rev. J. B. Root, of the First Congregational Church will read from Scripture. A quartet, composed of H. W. Rucker, B. C. Moore, J. M. Stinephor, and F. S. Lamson, will render several vocal selections. The Rev. Louttit will deliver the sermon of the evening, followed by benediction by the Rev. F. M. Marler, of the First Christian Church.

Monday night at 8:15 o'clock, more than 20 pupils of Mrs. Fannie Strimbridge Munson's piano class will play at the piano.

According to the scribe of Troop Number Five, Sanford Boy Scouts of America, the patrol spent a busy week, beginning last Thursday, not only hiking to the Scout camp on Silver Lake where it cleared away undergrowth and repaired bath houses, but also engaging in merit badge tests and passing swimming examinations.

Thursday afternoon the members of the troop hiked to the camp where they "cleaned up" the grounds. A short period of water sports, during which several boys passed their First Class swimming tests, followed. At "mess" period, first and second class cooking tests were also passed, following which there were running races and more swimming. Gilmer Steele's team won the "captain the flag" water game over Ralph LeMoine's team.

Friday night was the regular meeting night, and a large attendance was reported. The following program was carried out during the meeting: Assembly call; recital of the Lord's Prayer; recital of the pledge to the flag and the Scout oath; roll call; collection of dues; meeting of patrol leaders; weekly announcements; 30-minute drill period; and dismissal.

Scout activities locally have been given added impetus by the re-formation of a district council which finds at its head, S. H. Hightman, and as its secretary, Sam Dighton. Many chamber building events are being planned to provide clean, wholesome amusement and recreation for the boys in this city during the summer months, according to Hightman, and it is expected that another scout troop will be formed shortly.

PROBLEMS OF CHURCH UNION

Deliberations Of General Assembly In Montreal Continue

Montreal, N. C., May 30. (AP)—The problem of church union with other churches of the Presbyterian faith held a prominent place in yesterday's deliberations of the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States.

The movement for union with the Associate Reformed Presbyterian Church was described by the Rev. S. L. Morris, Atlanta, as "growing very rapidly."

Another movement for union with four other denominations brought an announcement that a joint meeting of the representatives of these churches had recommended the holding of a conference.

The four bodies in this group are the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, the United Presbyterian Church of North America, the Reformed Church in America (Dutch), and the Reformed Church in the United States (German).

A special committee was appointed by the Rev. C. M. Richards, of Davidson College, N. C., chairman, to take under consideration the proposals for union and to report back to the assembly next week.

This committee will have before it overtures from seven Presbyterian churches, one from the United Methodist Church, and one from the Episcopal Church.

The Rev. R. C. Betts, Columbia, S. C., brought greetings from the Associated Reformed Presbyterian Church, saying he could report "advisedly" that a feeling in favor of a closer relationship between his church and the Southern Presbyterian body "seems to be growing."

MEMPHIS, May 30. (AP)—A plan of action intended to bring the relations between the city and its congregations, as adopted yesterday by the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A.

Introduction of the plan of the general council of the church, setting up a system of boards of mediation to attempt to solve potential difficulties, brought the first debate in the assembly session. Offered by Dr. Cletand B. McAfee, New York, as a means of placing responsibility for settling such questions, the plan was attacked by the Rev. W. A. Powell, Doshoboken, Pa., who contended that the plan would not solve the problem for the ministry, and by the Rev. C. F. Van Horn, Honey Brook, Pa., who charged that virtual domination of ministers by a hierarchy of bishops was threatened.

Horns stepped out in front of his desk. "What I have said is true, and you know it," Watson shouted, pointing his finger at Horns as he advanced toward him, continuing to speak. "If you say it is not, you're speaking an untruth."

"Why don't you call me a liar, then?" he asked, removing his glasses. The men sprang at each other before nearby representatives could reach them. They clinched, each yelping the other.

They fell over on the desk of Representative McRory, Seminole, as their colleagues bunched in on them in an attempt to separate them.

It was several minutes before they could be separated. Still protesting their rights, they parted. Horns's friends leading him from the chamber.

Watson was ejected earlier in the day during debate on the gas tax division filibuster. He returned to the night session after settling his difficulties with Speaker Lewis.

Watson was pleading for an "end to this nonsensical filibuster" at the time the fight started. He continued to plead along this line afterward and up to the time of adjournment.

During the early part of his address, Watson named Horns as the man responsible for failure of the tightly bound majority and minority groups to effect a compromise on the gasoline tax distribution bill.

When Watson, one of the fieriest orators of the House, sought to assist Representative Mathews, Duval, and Robinson, Dade, in the filibuster, he was ruled out of order several times by the speaker, but refused to take his seat.

"Mr. Watson, I shall have to order the sergeant-at-arms to remove you," Lewis warned. "Have him come ahead," Watson shouted above the turmoil that developed as representatives, nerve-worn from the three-day deadlock, voiced comment.

"Have the sergeant come ahead and take me out," Watson thundered. Speaker Lewis ordered Watson ejected. He went readily, with the sergeant-at-arms.

A few minutes before, Representative Mathews challenged the majority bloc to throw him out of the chamber as he denounced a ruling on parliamentary law by Speaker Pro-Tem McKenzie.

The majority succeeded in extending time of adjournment from 5 o'clock until 7:55 o'clock, one minute before time to convene a night session. Mathews holding the floor on a matter of personal privilege through five and one-half hours argument, asked that women be cleared from the chamber for five minutes. The request was granted.

Graft Charged In City's Regime By Ohio Jurors

(Continued from Page One) were charged with bribery only, in connection with a county land purchase. They were: County Commissioner Albert Cooper, former County Commissioner Wade C. Christy and Griffith Jones, former Police Chief K. H. Powell, Thomas Ryan and Joseph Hanon, the latter two former owners of land sold to the county.

Attorney David Sherman was charged with bribing a grand jury witness. Bond for the accused men was fixed at amounts from $500 to $4500. Court officials said the indicted group probably will not be arraigned until the week of June 8, when the cases probably will be set for trial.

Shortly after the grand jury reported, a petition was placed in circulation asking the court to suspend the prosecutor from office.

After presenting the indictments the grand jury requested that it be kept in existence and given broader powers to investigate the utility companies here.

All of the indictments were the outgrowth of charges and countercharges between Prosecutor Thomas A. C. Blinn, vice president of the Ohio Edison company, Harry Engle and several others.

HOOVER GIVES TALK TODAY AT VALLEY FORGE

He attacked an "specious" what he termed "the alluring substitute" of government assistance found in the belief that "everybody collectively owes each of us a living rather than an opportunity to earn a living."

The victory won at Valley Forge he saw as a moral one which kept alive the spark of liberty in the lowest hours of the revolution.

"Without such victories," he exclaimed, "the life of man would descend to sheer materialism."

Lacking the inspiration of such action, he said, mankind could claim "no distinction higher than the beasts of the field, that sing no song, dream no dreams, inspire no hope and grasp no faith."

Judge Will Charge Jury In Asheville Bank Case Monday

ASHEVILLE, N. C., May 30. (AP)—Arguments of three more attorneys and the charge of Judge M. C. Barnhill today remained to be delivered before the case of three former bankers and public officials charged with diverting the public credit to aid the Central Bank & Trust company will go to the jury.

The arguments will be completed in three hours, but Judge Barnhill has indicated he probably will defer his charge until Monday. This case, the second to be tried of a large number involving 27 defendants as the aftermath of bank failures in this vicinity last fall, will be the last to be tried at the special term of court which opened Apr. 27.

Another special term has been called for July 13 to try other cases, including those against Col. Luke Lee, Luke Lee Jr., and E. P. Charlet, a Lea employe, of Nashville, charged with conspiring with two of the Central Bank & Trust company's officers to defraud the bank out of more than $1,000,000 before it closed Nov. 20.

That night, Crowley, first hunted in connection with the slaying of a New York policeman and of Virginia Brannen, a dance hall hostess, was sitting in a parked machine with 16-year-old Helen Walsh.

Hirsch with Patrolman Joseph Yodice stopped at the car and asked to see the driver's license. Just what followed was contradicted in the testimony of the state and defense, but Crowley admitted he shot and killed Hirsch.

The state contended the killing was done deliberately and that the officer had not even drawn his gun. Crowley testified, however, the officer attempted to shoot, that his gun missed fire and only then did Crowley fire in self-defense.

After the shooting Crowley disappeared to be heard from again the following day when a policeman was thrown about a rooming house where police were informed he and the Walsh girl were hiding.

Crowley ignored a police demand to surrender and siege was laid with hundreds of police posted in the street, at windows and on roofs. In a gun battle, Crowley exchanged shots until his ammunition was exhausted, then gave up the fight.
