Judge 'Grabs Bull By Horns' To Rid Toxic Chemicals

By BRITT SMITH
Herald News Editor

In a move he described as "grabbing the bull by the horns," Seminole Circuit Judge Kenneth Leffler has given attorneys from the city, the state, and City Chemicals Inc. until Thursday to agree on a schedule for disposing of 3,264 barrels of toxic wastes located on a two-acre site in Sanford.

Leffler said the 12-week period previously suggested by the city "would be ideal," but conceded that "this will have to be a compromise. It may take longer than that."

The state Department of Environmental Regulation has said the site could be cleared within six months. City Chemicals, however, maintains it will take nearly two years — 86 weeks — to do the job.

During a late afternoon hearing Tuesday, Leffler ordered lawyers of the city of Sanford, the DER, and City Chemicals to get together and come up with a timetable for removing the wastes which have been the subject of controversy since they were first discovered on a two-acre site on Jewett Lane and Airport Boulevard eight months ago.

Leffler has set a 4:45 p.m. hearing for Thursday to hear what schedule they have devised.

Saying he didn't know "whether we're making any headway or not," Leffler added, "at least we have some people thinking. I want to put some monkeys on the backs of these people to move."

The judge indicated he plans to put the DER in charge of removing the chemical wastes from the site with City Chemicals paying for the clean-up. However, if the company can show it cannot shoulder such a financial burden, Leffler said he will direct DER to expend funds from the state's Hazardous Waste Management Trust Fund.

"If somebody doesn't like that idea they can take their case to the Fifth District Court of Appeals," he said.

In a letter to Leffler, DER attorney Doug McLaughlin reiterated the agency's position that no trust funds monies should be spent without first determining whether City Chemicals can afford to finance the clean-up, and 2) assurances that the company would be held liable for the repayment of public funds spent on the project.

A hesitant Leffler noted that "if we wait to make a determination that City Chemicals is capable of paying for removal of the wastes, we could be here a long time. I'm not sure we should wait." Leffler has also expressed concern that if he places a lien against City Chemicals for the cost of removing the hazardous wastes, "that could be sufficient to put them out of business and then we'd get nowhere."

While lawyers for the city, state, and City Chemicals haggle over a timetable for removal of the chemical drums, Leffler directed work on a staging area where the wastes will be analyzed and repackaged begin immediately.

City Chemicals attorney Royce Pipkins said construction is already underway.

Women Find Marines Corps Of Opportunity

By DIANE PETRYK
Herald News Editor

What does a young woman do when she's intelligent, but caught in a boring, dead-end job? When she wants to further her education but finds the cost prohibitive? When she needs a little self-confidence?

The answer for three area women was to join the Marine Corps.

And that fit right into the Marine Corps plans because, according to Sanford Marine recruiter Sgt. Ike Moon, the corps plans to double its female membership in three to five years.

Janice Goodwin, 18, and Nancy DeCoste, 19, both of Sanford, are two of Moon's female recruits.

Nancy departs for boot camp in December. Janice is scheduled to leave early next year. Recently the two met with Diane Ward, 22, of Orlando, a new graduate of Marine Corps boot camp at Parris Island, S.C., now on 30-day recruiting assistance leave.

The women discussed their motives for joining the marines and each agreed they view it as an opportunity to further their education, obtain interesting, challenging work and to become financially and emotionally independent.

They also each have friends who think they're crazy.

Why would a woman want to join an organization that prides itself on its macho image, its "rough and tough" reputation, friends asked Nancy.

"You're too sweet and innocent for the big, bad Marines," they told Janice.

"You'll never make it, you're too feminine," friends of Diane predicted.

But Diane did make it, graduating from boot camp July 8. "Some days I asked myself 'Why am I here?'" she said of her boot camp experience. "But I've never been as proud as I am now. It's a terrific feeling when you get out," she said. She's helped Nancy and Janice gain confidence. They now say they have no reservations about their enlistments. There's only excitement written on their faces.

Janice is determined to succeed because, like Diane, she is hoping for a career in avionics — working with the electronic equipment on aircraft.

Janice's father, William Goodwin, of 702 East 29th Street, Sanford, is an electrician working on the space shuttle.

"When I was a kid my father would give me things with wires to take apart," she said. "I guess that's how my interest in the field got started."

Looking even further ahead, Janice sees the possibility of pursuing another interest — veterinary medicine —

Longwood's Chacey Says:

Save 'Gray Water,' Solve Shortages

By DONNA STES
Herald Staff Writer

Longwood City Administrator David Chacey has a suggestion that could conceivably solve Florida's water problems.

"It makes sense to me," Chacey said today. "I'm not an engineer. But, I'd like to try the concept in Longwood."

Chacey said it's a simple idea. Instead of channeling all waste water from homes into sewer systems, "gray" water from baths, showers, laundry facilities, and kitchens (except garbage disposals) would be directed toward a special tank and drainfield on site and percolate into the ground.

Chacey said if this were done, at least half of the water used by a family would be returned to the water table after purification by percolation. At the same time, sewer plants would have to treat only about 40 percent of the waste water now generated by each home. This would be from garbage disposals and toilet facilities.

Then, Chacey said, sewer plants would be able to serve more than twice the households they currently serve, cutting cost of serving households with sewer service by more than half. In addition, sewer plants would no longer have to contend with detergents from laundry water, providing another savings, he said.

Meanwhile, Chacey has encouraged the Longwood City Commission to adopt an ordinance providing an incentive to homeowners to try the idea. The incentive the city administrator is suggesting is a reduction in the city's monthly sewer rates for those using the new method from $7.50 monthly to $6 and a reduction to homeowners connecting to the sewer system from $475 for initial hookup to $375. Chacey said he has met with several developers concerning his proposal and the immediate reaction has been very favorable.

To get approvals from various state and federal agencies, Chacey said would entail a good deal of work lobbying. But this hasn't discouraged him.

"I'm prepared to go to Tallahassee and testify before any committee that bath-water, shower water and hand washing water is not going to harm Longwood ecologically," he said. Chacey said, "We haven't found that septic tank systems are doing anything harmful to the water table" in Longwood.

In fact, Chacey said the idea of the gray water disposal could be taken a step further. It could be retained on a home site in such a fashion that it could be recirculated and used for lawn sprinkling, saving even more the use of fresh water. And conceivably it could be pumped back into the home to be used for flushing toilets.

As yet he has not gathered statistics together to determine what the costs of any of the proposals would be, he said.

Gray water pumped into systems for lawn sprinkling would be purified by the time it got to the roots of plants and grass and should encourage growth, he said.

Chacey said the Homebuilders Association of Mid-Florida, in its quest for relief from the inconvenience of having to use sewer systems has been discussing the concept.

"In Longwood we don't necessarily force someone into the sewer system if he can show good percolation on his property. In some areas full septic systems ought to be allowed."

Chacey said he is a strong advocate of the idea since it would accomplish two important goals of today. First would be water conservation, he said. By this method 60 percent of the water normally entering a sewer system would be retained on premises for re-entry into the ecological water cycle. Secondly, reduction in sewer treatment requirements would mean only 40 percent of present capacity at sewer plants would be used, leaving capacities for growth.

Along the line of tax relief given homeowners who have converted to solar water systems, Chacey said the federal government could be asked, and it should approve, similar tax relief for those using this concept to conserve water.

Chacey used Longwood's two small sewer systems as examples of what the conservation could accomplish.

He said the city's Skylark sewer plant currently has the capacity to treat 200,000 gallons of sewage daily. The plant can serve 600 families, he said. If the new concept were used that plant could serve 1,200 families.

The Columbus Harbour plant now can treat sewage for 110 families. By using the water conservation plan the plant could treat sewage for 220 families.

"I think my plan could work," he said. Noting that the effluent (treated sewage) from most regional plants ends up in the sea, he said by using the gray water concept, half of that water could be percolated back into the water table.

U.S. Jets Down 2 Libyan Planes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two Libyan warplanes attacked a pair of U.S. F-14 fighters over disputed waters of the Mediterranean Sea early today, and were downed by the American jets in a minute-long aerial battle, the Pentagon said.

The U.S. government formally protested what it called the "unprovoked" attack by the two Soviet-built SU-22 jets, which it said occurred "in international air space over international waters in the south-central Mediterranean Sea."

However, a Libyan diplomat in London charged the U.S. fighters violated his country's air space over waters in the Gulf of Sidra covered by a broad territorial claim that is not recognized by the United States.

Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger said a formal protest of the Libyan attack was being lodged through diplomatic channels in Belgium.

The Pentagon said the F-14s were taking part in a 6th Fleet exercise about 60 nautical miles off the Libyan coast when they were approached and fired upon by two Libyan Soviet-made SU-22 fighters. They downed the Libyan planes, and no U.S. casualties were reported.

Weinberger, relying on the official U.S. position on the limits of Libyan sovereignty, insisted the 6th Fleet exercise was not intended to provoke Libyan strongman Moammar Khadafy, who the Reagan administration has labeled a ringleader of international terrorism.

Elephant Gets Support

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Board of Supervisors is often criticized for acting too slowly on matters of government but the county politicians moved swiftly Tuesday giving emergency approval for an elephant to water ski in Marina del Rey.

"This is a first in the county — to let an elephant use the marina," said Supervisor Kenneth Hahn. "It shows the board can do something if we try."

The 3-ton pachyderm named "Bubbles" was towed behind a boat on giant skis as a promotion stunt for the upcoming motion picture "Honky Tonk Freeway," which was filmed in Mt. Dora, Fla.

Testimony Reveals

Murder Victim Was Beaten Before Being Shot

Twenty-four-year-old James C. Bullock — fatally shot in a Fern Park motel last winter — was beaten repeatedly prior to the shooting, but one of the men involved in the killing testified in Seminole Circuit Court today he didn't know the reason for the thrashing.

Opening the second day of testimony in the murder trial of Columbus "Sonny Boy" Edwards, 19-year-old Jackie Lee Poole said that he, his brother, Homer, and Edwards all punched Bullock on that fateful night on Feb. 7 in Edwards' room at the Oak Ridge Motel on U.S. Highway 17-92.

"Did you have any idea what the fighting was about?" Assistant State Attorney Alan Robinson asked.

"No," Poole replied, shaking his head. "Why did you hit Bullock?" Robinson quizzed.

"He and my brother were fighting and I just wanted to break it up," Poole said. The scuffle did stop momentarily, Poole said, but added that it began anew when Homer, 16, hit Bullock in the head with an aerosol spray can. Edwards joined in, hitting Bullock in the head several times and swearing at him, Poole said.

At that point, Homer placed a .25-caliber pistol Edwards had given him earlier to Bullock's head as if to shoot him. "But he put it down and said, 'No man, I'm just jiving,'" Jackie Poole quoted his brother as saying.

Bullock was later shot once in the forehead. Both Poole brothers pleaded guilty to murder charges last month in connection with the slaying and are awaiting sentencing. They, like Edwards if convicted, could receive the death penalty. All are from Altamonte Springs.

Homer Lee Poole confessed to being the actual triggerman in the shooting, but said he thought the gun Edwards had given him was empty.

The prosecution contends that Edwards — angered by Bullock's apparent failure to live up to promises about getting Edwards a job, a car, and an apartment — instigated the fight and planned the subsequent shooting so one of the Poole boys would be the gunman.

Jackie Poole was expected to conclude his testimony this afternoon and be followed to the witness stand by his brother.

During testimony Monday, Seminole County sheriff's detective Jack Cash said that immediately following the shooting, Edwards told him that he and the Pooles found Bullock's body after returning from a party in Orlando.

Edwards later changed his story, naming Jackie Poole as the killer, then saying Homer Poole shot Bullock, Cash said. Edwards denied involvement in the slaying.

Angered at Edwards' scheming, Homer gave police a statement and directed divers to nearby Prairie Lake where a .25-caliber pistol and a box of ammunition were found.

Timothy Mosher, a pawn shop operator, testified that he sold Edwards a box of .25-caliber bullets the day before Bullock's murder.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Government Publishes Papers

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Authorities won a psychological victory today against Solidarity's national newspaper strike by publishing abbreviated editions of the Communist Party and Polish army newspapers.

Long lines stood in front of the few kiosks offering editions of the party paper Trybuna Ludu and the military paper Zolnierz Wolnosci to get the single copy allowed each customer.

In a box on the lower right hand corner of the front page, Trybuna Ludu thanked those who helped print and distribute the special four-page edition and claimed a minor victory over the first newspaper strike in East Bloc history.

"These days are not without Trybuna Ludu despite the intentions of the organizers of this action," The newspaper said.

Solidarity called the strike to protest an anti-union media campaign by the government.

Solidarity had vowed to block printing or distribution of every major daily newspaper in the country, but recognized authorities would make a concerted effort to put out the party paper.

OPEC Divided On Oil Price

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) — OPEC experts met through the night in an attempt to resolve a deep split over a proposal to lower oil's official base price and win back customers enjoying a global surplus of oil. Industry observers said failure by OPEC ministers to agree on a unified price during their multibillion-dollar haggles in the tightly guarded Intercontinental Hotel could touch off a price war among the 13 nations.

Saudi Arabia, which has been charging $4 a barrel below the official OPEC reference price of $36 a barrel, said Tuesday it was willing to increase its price to $34 if the rest of the price-fixing cartel cut their prices to the same level and froze them for a considerable time.

Venezuela, however, said its clients were happy to pay $36 for a reliable supply and vowed not to cut prices despite a worldwide oil surplus that has hurt the highest-priced producers — especially African members.

Iran Hijack Drama Ends

MARSEILLE, France (UPI) — Anti-Khomeini guerrillas surrendered a pirated Iranian missile boat today in exchange for an offer of French asylum to end a six-day sea hijacking.

"We don't want a battle in front of the port of Marseille," Defense Minister Charles Hernou warned the 20 armed hijackers who Thursday sailed the Tarbizan into the harbor and threatened to blow up the 249-foot vessel and 32 hostages.

In tense negotiations, the hijackers released 30 of the hostages, but kept the commander and his first officer on board, vowing to kill them by exploding ammunition on the vessel.

French naval vessels, including a 150-foot fast attack boat, manipulated the Tabarzin to about 4 miles offshore, an offer of political asylum was made, then a navy vessel towed the darkened Tarbizan to Toulon, 30 miles to the southeast as French helicopters hovered overhead.

Iran, already bristling at France for granting political asylum to deposed chief of state Abolhasan Bani-Sadr, assailed France for the latest offer of political refuge, saying it was "tantamount to legalizing piracy."

Troops Accused Of Massacre

ARMENIA, El Salvador (UPI) — It started with a soccer match and ended with the massacre of 42 fans and players of a small-town soccer team apparently by troops of El Salvador's U.S.-backed junta, residents charged.

The Defense Ministry refused to comment Tuesday on the massacre charges made by the Salvadoran Human Rights Commission and confirmed by witnesses who asked not to be identified.

Peasants said government troops roared into the town of Armenia in trucks on the night of July 30, apparently intent on taking revenge against members of a soccer team who brawled with troops after a match.

Third Prize winner Joan Gilbert (right) is awarded Third Prize — a cannister set donated by Gifts by Nan, 228 E. 1st Street. Making the presentation is Nellie Coleman, owner of the store. Other merchandise prizes donated by Sanford merchants were awarded to runners-up in the contest.

Japan Begins Temporarily Blocking All California Fruits, Vegetables

By United Press International
Japan, fearing imported produce might start a Mediterranean fruit fly outbreak, today began temporarily blocking all California fruits and vegetables despite reassurances from the Reagan administration and Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr.

Texas also acted to keep the Medfly out, filing suit Tuesday against the U.S. Department of Agriculture to force it to quarantine all California produce.

Faced with losing two of the state's biggest produce customers, a faction in the California Legislature was organizing to impeach Brown for his handling of the Medfly eradication program.

Brown disputed today's New York Times story that said he had threatened retaliation against Japanese imports if Japan imposed the quarantine on all California produce.

million worth of the state's vegetables and fruit.

"There was no talk about a trade war," Brown told UPI after his telephone conversation with Japanese Ambassador Yoshio Okawara in Washington, D.C.

"I had a very positive conversation with the ambassador and unfortunately the New York Times article gives it a negative twist of trade war which wasn't there," he said.

Japanese officials were expected to meet again today with Deputy Secretary of State William Clark and Agriculture Department officials to discuss restrictions on California fruit, which went into effect at 3 a.m. EDT.

A U.S. Embassy official in Tokyo said the Japanese request was for restrictions — not an outright ban. But it nevertheless would temporarily halt all imports of California fruits and vegetables.

Officials of the Japanese Ministry of Agriculture, Forestry and Fisheries said they would not lift the restrictions on California produce until the import crop could be disinfected — either by fumigation or cold storage.

Brown and his federal allies Tuesday urged Japan to ban only fruit from areas infested with the crop-killing fly and only fruits and vegetables that are hosts to it.

After meeting for nearly two hours with U.S. officials, however, Okawara gave no indication if Japan would change its position.

In a telegram to Japanese Prime Minister Zenko Suzuki, Brown said the eradication effort "is well in hand and our state and federal quarantines completely protect the nation of Japan as well as other areas of the United States."

Republican state legislator Carol Hallett said she would introduce a resolution Thursday to begin impeachment of Brown unless his leadership in the Medfly war changed radically.

Registration Open In Seminole Program For Migrant Children

Registration for 3 and 4-year-old children participating in Seminole County's migrant education programs is being held now through Friday in the trailers at the three Migrant Early Childhood elementary schools, Lawton Midway and Goldsboro.

Due to cutback in state funding, there will be only one 4-year-old program at Goldsboro. Both Lawton and Midway will have 3 and 4-year-old programs, according to program officials. At the present, there will be no Early Childhood program at Hopper.

Children of current migrant workers will be given first priority. Children will need to bring some proof that they have traveled either out of county or out of state in the last 12 months, in addition to birth certificate and physical examination forms.

Jury Awards $25,000 In Arrest Case

It was a three-pronged legal assault — a 31-year-old DeBary woman claiming she was wrongly arrested, assaulted in the process, and falsely imprisoned over three years ago when Seminole County sheriff's deputies seized her two children during a custody battle.

After hearing two days of sometimes tearful testimony, a five-man, one-woman Seminole Circuit Court jury apparently believed most of Christine Ferrara Loving's story and awarded her $25,000 in damages as a result of the incident.

The jury, however, cleared Sgt. Howard Mullen and former deputy John Riggins on assault and battery charges lodged by Loving.

William Colbert, attorney for the sheriff's office, said the verdict may be appealed. Should an appeal fail, Colbert said the judgment will be paid by the office's liability insurance company, Law Enforcement Co., Ltd.

The case began on May 18, 1978 when Mullen and Riggins showed up at Loving's Fern Park apartment to take custody of her two children — Mark and Annette.

According to court records, Loving had moved with the youngsters from Pennsylvania to Florida in violation of a court order. Her ex-husband, Mark Ferrara, was then granted custody of the children, and Mullen and Riggins were instructed by Seminole-Brevard Circuit Judge Richard Muldrew to seize the youngsters and return them to their father.

Loving testified that she knew nothing of Muldrew's order and resisted attempts to take her children until she could confer with an attorney. However, since it was late in the day, she was unsuccessful, and became upset and began arguing with deputies.

The problem was further exacerbated by Mullen's attitude which Loving described as "rude," "abusive," and "un-compassionate."

Not prepared to relinquish custody of her children, Loving told Mullen that Mark and Annette were somewhere outside when in fact they were later found hiding in a closet in the apartment. Loving also asked Mullen what the consequences would be if she refused to comply with Muldrew's order. At that point, she was arrested for failing to aid a police officer. She was also charged with resisting arrest, but both charges were later dismissed.

In her lawsuit, Loving claimed Mullen had no right to arrest her for simply questioning his authority to take her children.

Mullen and Riggins said Loving had to be forcibly placed in a patrol car, but they denied using excessive force in doing it.

Following her arrest, Loving was held for several hours in the old county jail in Sanford, an experience she said felt like "living in another world. It was dark, dirty, the smells were atrocious. They pushed food under the door. It was like a dungeon," she said.

Because her arrest was unlawful, she maintained her imprisonment was also improper.

Loving claimed the affair was so traumatic that she could not sleep for months, had recurring nightmares, felt compelled to move out of her apartment, and suffered great humiliation and mental anguish.

MAN SENTENCED ON FIREARMS CHARGE

A 24-year-old Lake Mary man was sentenced in Seminole Circuit Court Tuesday to one year in jail for his part in a December hold-up at a Longwood service station.

Charles K. Sunson, of Palmetto Street, pleaded no contest to a charge of carrying a concealed weapon in connection with a Dec. 30 incident at a Sunoco station at U.S. Highway 17-92 and State Road 434 in which Sunson reportedly stole several gallons of gasoline at gunpoint.

In other court action, Francis B. Stone was convicted of drunk driving, fleeing or attempt to elude a police officer, and driving without a valid license.

Stone, 23, of the Midway Trailer Park in Longwood, was acquitted of a charge of aggravated assault.

Stone's legal troubles started on June 1 when he was warned by deputy sheriff O.P. Damrow not to drive as he appeared to be drunk. Stone ignored the warning and began to drive home from a Longwood bar.

When Damrow tried to stop the car, Stone reportedly fled and was chased by three police officers. He was finally stopped when, according to a police report, he rammed into a patrol car.

SKATING RINK SUED

An Orlando couple are suing a Camellerry skating rink for damages in excess of $5,000 as the result of an accident at the rink over a year ago.

In a lawsuit filed Monday, Charlotte and Michael Varhol accuse the Semoran Skateway, 1100 E. Semoran Blvd., of negligence for providing Mrs. Varhol with what the suit claims were "defective" skates.

The faulty skates "caused Varhol's right foot to bear to the right which resulted in Varhol losing her balance and falling," the suit said. She sustained a leg injury.

No trial date has been set in the case which has been assigned to Seminole Circuit Judge Robert McGregor.

BIKER BEATEN, ROBBED

A 19-year-old Sanford man was reportedly beaten and robbed Monday night as he rode his bicycle down a Sanford street.

Allan M. Combs of 201 E. 5th St. told police that he was riding down 6th Street about 6 p.m. when two men jerked him off of his bicycle, beat him, stole $26 from him and his bike.

NATION

IN BRIEF

Veterans Groups Studying Nuclear Blast Exposure

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A national veterans group is trying to locate former servicemen who may have suffered health problems as the result of exposure to military nuclear tests.

The National Association of Atomic Veterans announced Tuesday it wants to compile medical histories of these estimated 250,000 veterans, complaining the government has refused to conduct such a study itself.

"We will find all the atomic veterans or their widows and children," said national coordinator Andy Hawkinson. "We estimate that totally, we are looking for almost 1 million men, women and children."

Hawkinson and other spokesmen for the association said the government is not checking the conditions of the ex-servicemen involved in atomic tests because it does not consider their health problems to be service-related.

The Defense Nuclear Agency repeatedly has refused on privacy grounds to release the names of those who participated in the atomic tests in the Pacific and Nevada, Hawkinson said.

George Mace, Maryland coordinator for the veterans group, said the National Center for Disease Control studied 2,500 exposed veterans and found the incidence of leukemia to be 300 percent higher than normal. Hawkinson said there is growing congressional support for legislation that would direct the government to locate and provide any necessary care for the atomic veterans.

Hinckley Transferred

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John W. Hinckley Jr., the man accused of trying to assassinate President Reagan, is back in a Marine brig in Virginia, having undergone a battery of psychiatric tests in North Carolina.

At the request of his attorneys, Hinckley, 26, was transferred Tuesday from a federal prison cell in Butner, N.C., to the Marine base at Quantico, Va.

Hinckley first was taken to Quantico on March 30, hours after his arrest following the gunfire outside a Washington hotel that wounded Reagan. White House press secretary James Brady, a Secret Service agent and a policeman.

Justice Department spokesman Tom Decair said Hinckley was accompanied by four U.S. marshals Tuesday on his hour and 45 minute trip aboard a Marine helicopter from Butner to Quantico.

Military Might Reagan Aim

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — President Reagan, warning the United States is falling dangerously behind the Russians in military might, says he can achieve a major defense buildup and a balanced budget by 1984. Reagan also told reporters he can hold the fiscal 1982 budget deficit to $13 billion and scoffed at news reports, emanating from administration sources, that next year's deficit could go as high as $80 billion.

"We don't know where these shortages come from at all," he said Tuesday after a three-hour meeting on budget matters with Cabinet officers and fiscal advisers.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said the president "is committed to achieving the goal of a balanced budget in 1984. He also is committed to rebuilding the nation's military capability."

Personal Income Registers Highest Rise In A Year

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Personal income rose 1.8 percent in July — the highest rate of increase in a year — mostly because Social Security recipients received a cost-of-living hike, the Commerce Department reported today.

Personal income went up by $37 billion, figured on an annual rate after seasonal adjustment. That was more than twice June's increase and the highest amount since last year's cost-of-living boost showed up in Social Security checks, also in July.

This year's Social Security increase was 11.2 percent, reflecting the heavy inflation that was typical until a few months ago.

The big increase was good news for retailers, who expect to see a lot of the additional money turn up at their cash registers. "Even if we take out the increase in transfer payments, personal income has continued to stay at least constant in real terms over the last few months on average," said Dave Ernst, a private economist with Evans Economics. "I think the recent performance of consumers will continue. In other words they won't stop buying," he added.

The Commerce Department's measure of personal spending for July showed the biggest increase since January — 1.18 percent — reflecting in part the income received in June, which was up 0.7 percent after revision.

The total personal consumption expenditure category accounts for about two-thirds of the nation's gross national product. Economists in and out of government have generally predicted a flat or slightly declining current quarter for GNP, indicating a nearly motionless economy.

Even without the $17.1 billion increase in personal income attributed directly to the cost of living hikes for Social Security and some other government payments, the monthly growth would still have outdistanced June's figure.

The government's measure of personal outlays, a rough measure of spending, has shown steadily increasing strength since hitting this year's low point in April. On an annual basis, the increase for this category in July was $21.9 billion.

Helped by the Social Security increase in July, disposable personal income climbed to $4,828 per capita in July, $131 more than in June.

Dennis Heads Out To Sea With Vigor

MIAMI (UPI) — Tropical Storm Dennis headed out to sea today with renewed vigor, leaving south Florida swimming in nearly 20 inches of rain, and forecasters warned residents along the Carolina coast to prepare for a possible hurricane.

No injuries were reported in Dennis' three-day visit, but forecasters warned the tenacious storm could become more of a threat to life and property in the next few days.

Highest sustained winds were estimated at about 50 mph as it moved off the northeast Florida coast, but forecaster John Hope said "conditions favor slow strengthening of the storm."

"If this occurs, the storm could approach hurricane strength Wednesday," Hope said late Tuesday. A storm becomes a hurricane when sustained winds reach 74 mph.

At midnight, Dennis was centered about 40 miles east of St. Augustine, Fla. It was moving north-northeast at about 10 mph.

Hope urged residents along the coasts of North and South Carolina to "monitor the progress of the storm closely as a threat to those areas will develop today if the storm strengthens and maintains its projected north northeasterly course."

Many south Floridians who were hoping Dennis would help alleviate the state's months-long water shortage got more than they bargained for — flooded streets, power outages, evacuations and snarled traffic.

Over the three days, Dennis dumped 19.83 inches of rain on suburban Kendale Lakes and 18.84 inches on the farming community of Homestead. Both are south of Miami.

Forecasters, meanwhile, were watching a new tropical depression that formed Tuesday in the central Atlantic, 1,200 miles east of the Leeward Islands. Hope said the depression, with highest winds of 35 mph, was expected to move west for several days and could intensify into a tropical storm.

Dennis, which became a tropical storm in the eastern Atlantic Aug. 8, parked itself west of Lake Okeechobee and spawned a down-pour Monday night and Tuesday morning.

Four Persons Named To Senior Citizen Board

By KATHY GRAM Herald Staff Writer

The Casselberry City Council approved four nominations to the Board of Directors of the new Senior Citizen Center. They will join three county appointed members in guiding the centers policies.

In other business Monday night, the council approved a police reserve appointment and a nomination to the Planning and Zoning Commission.

The county appointed members include: Leo Ware, 402 East St., Altamonte Springs; William Hamilton, P.O. Box 427, Oviedo; and Elizabeth Hedmon, 801 Debby Dr., Casselberry.

The council also approved rules and regulations for the center. A handbook provides guidelines for safety, food and drink, conduct, dress code and smoking. The council unanimously approved the handbook and noted that it is still in rough form, open to future improvements.

"It gives us something we can work with until we open our doors the first of September," said

Councilman Tom Embree.

In other business, the council approved the appointment of Yvonne Sue Mellon, 41 Spanish Trace, Altamonte Springs, to the city's police reserves.

The reserves are a volunteer group vested with police powers, designed to fill in for officers when manpower is short. Traffic duties are the only area where the police reserve has no jurisdiction. Mellon was a member of the Casselberry reserves for five months in 1980 and served on the patrol for the Sanford Police Department for six months in 1981.

In other business, the council approved the nomination of Adolph Voge, 2337 Inagua Way, Casselberry. The new board member replaces Frank Lucardano, who resigned in July.

Voge's appointment was effective immediately after council's approval.

Bending In The Wind

When the governors got down to passing resolutions at their conference in Atlantic City, most of the Democrats joined with the Republicans in pledging to work in partnership with the President toward reducing the size of government under a new concept of federalism.

The Democrats did not have much choice. For one thing, Congress did not pass President Reagan's tax and budget cuts solely because of salesmanship by the White House but also because members of Congress sensed that the public is on the President's side. As politicians, governors know which way the wind is blowing.

Moreover, governors have been complaining for years about the way the bureaucracy in Washington tells them what to do. Mr. Reagan's aim is to begin transferring power back to the state and local governments. Vice President George W. Bush, speaking for the new administration at Atlantic City, made it sound even better when he hinted that some of the tax revenue now going to the federal government might also be diverted back to the states.

Yet there was an undertone of uneasiness among the governors as they mulled over the implications of a shift in decision-making from Washington to their state capitols. This means that they and their legislatures would have to wrestle with some of the demands for services which Congress, in its more expansive mood in the past, was eager to satisfy.

It is not likely that the states can scrape together the resources, from federal grants and their own taxes, to take over federal programs without reducing their size and scope. The special interest groups that besieged Congress to defend their programs during the recent budget-cutting exercise would then be camped on the lawns of statehouses.

That is the flip side of Mr. Reagan's federalism, and with it the Democratic governors have sniffed an issue which could save them from abject me-tooism in their support of the aims of a Republican president. They have chosen California's Gov. Jerry Brown, an expert at being on both sides of an issue at the same time, as their spokesman.

So it is left to Mr. Brown to acknowledge that the President's tax and budget cuts are bringing popular acclaim, but to say that Mr. Reagan is also playing a shell game which will only transfer the costs of government to state and local budgets. That proposition may not be as easy to support as the glib Mr. Brown made it sound in Atlantic City.

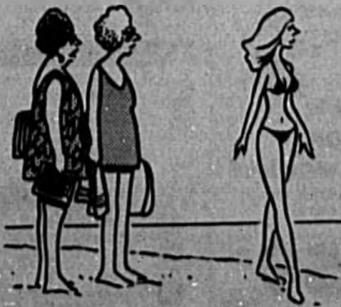

What Mr. Reagan wants to transfer to the states is not the cost of various federal programs, but the power to devise the state's own solutions to problems that need not be a federal concern. How much the states spend on their own programs is something for their governors and legislatures to decide. They will be as cost-conscious as their own voters and taxpayers demand.

Gov. Brown has been a maverick and loner in national Democratic politics up to now. Apparently he has decided, in becoming chairman of the Democratic governors, that he will fare better politically as a team player. His effort to denigrate a Reagan policy that most Americans seem to support makes us wonder how many governors are going to stay on his team through the whole season.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Enjoy it while you can, honey! Before you know it, the big deal will be collecting shells."

By BRITT SMITH

It's an all too common situation — a medical patient, frightened by what ails him and awed by the physician who can cure it, doesn't quite understand what can be a confusing, technical explanation of the malady and the treatment for it.

But the Florida Medical Association (FMA) contends that is no excuse for you to leave your doctor's office without a full understanding of your particular problem, what is to be done about it, and the chances for full recovery.

And while the doctor-to-patient dialogue is important, the reverse also is true. According to the FMA, "You have a responsibility to tell the physician everything about your health picture — the drugs you are taking, your allergies, whether you suffer from any chronic illness, and whether you regularly drink alcohol, etc. The doctors of Florida urge you to be a full partner in maintaining good health.

"In order to do this, you must also understand what the doctor is saying. Discuss your diagnosis and plan of treatment with your physician. When you are given a prescription, ask what it is, what the side effects might be and how and when you should take it.

"Don't leave the doctor's office without asking when you should feel better, how long before you should call back if you are not improving and should you curtail any of your lifestyle habits.

Physicians welcome better informed patients interested in the options offered by modern medicine.

"Since it is impossible for your physician to monitor your health 24 hours a day, you should brief your spouse, relative or a close friend on what is going on. Should you be the victim of a life threatening situation, be it involvement in an accident or otherwise, the more information that can be furnished immediately to an emergency physician, the better your chances of survival.

"It is your responsibility to take care of yourself as best you can — be a full partner with your physician!"

DICK WEST Good Men And True

WASHINGTON (UPI) — From the American Bar Association convention in New Orleans last week came word of an alarming increase in the number of lawyers in America.

ABA head-counters reported a 50 percent jump in the attorney population in the last decade. So steep was the rise, one jocular convention speaker was moved to quote the well-known line from Shakespeare: "The first thing we do, let's kill all the lawyers."

The pertinency of that quotation started me to wondering what other applicable comments the Immortal Bard might have written. So, on the advice of my attorney, I obtained a Shakespearean deposition. The transcript follows:

Q. Mr. Shakespeare, why do we need so many lawyers?

A. "To gild refined gold, to paint the lily, to throw perfume on the violet, to smooth the ice, or add another hue unto the rainbow.

"I have perhaps, some shallow spirit of judgment; but in these nice sharp quilllets of the law, good faith, I am no wiser than a claw."

Q. I see. And what has been the chief upshot of the growth of the legal profession?

A. "There live not three good men unchanged in England, and one of them is fat and grows old."

Q. I hope more survive over here. How can so many lawyers make a living?

A. "Good counsellors lack no clients. God give them wisdom that have it; and those that are fools, let them use their talents."

Q. Speaking of earning a living, what remuneration does the average lawyer receive these days?

A. "Itumeration! O! that's the Latin word for three farthings."

Q. How much are they actually worth?

A. "A joint of mutton, and any pretty little tiny kickshaws."

Q. It recently was alleged that some lawyers deliberately prolog cases in order to collect higher fees. Has that ever happened to you?

A. "So far as my coin would stretch."

Q. What types of cases require the most legal work?

A. "Malice domestic, foreign levy."

Q. The administration is cutting back funds for legal services to the poor. How will lawyers who take indigent cases get paid?

A. "Evermore thanks, the exchequer of the poor."

Q. Will they continue to provide high class service after federal funds are withdrawn?

A. "None will sweat but for promotion."

Q. How would you characterize the current crop of practicing attorneys?

A. "Learned and authentic fellows. Almost as like as eggs."

Q. And what would you say is a lawyer's biggest handicap?

A. "His face is the worst thing about him."

Q. Finally, how can we laymen help generate enough legal business to keep 525,000 lawyers busy?

A. "Let's choose executors and talk of wills."

ABSCAM: The Real Reason For Conviction

WASHINGTON — At a recent dinner, a group of well-read Washingtonians and a group of well-read Washingtonians was asked: What crime was Sen. Harrison Williams, D-N.J., convicted of in the FBI's famous ABSCAM case? Almost in chorus, they answered: "Taking money from an Arab sheik."

That these educated people, who keep abreast of what's going on in the world, should be so woefully misinformed about a headline operation like ABSCAM is not altogether surprising. It is a tribute to the FBI's press agency that people believe an undercover operation of such dubious morality was actually a brilliant, legitimate job of law enforcement.

In fact, Williams did not take a bribe, nor was he accused of doing so. He did not take any money, nor did the government prosecutors suggest he did. They couldn't. Their own secret videotapes showed that when he was offered money by the FBI's undercover ABSCAM operative, he reacted with a horrified "No, no, no, no!"

Williams' indictment — and subsequent conviction — stemmed from an attempt to

WILLIAM STEIF

Knowing How To Do It

Despite the American Bankers Association's TV commercials, it's difficult to feel friendly toward a bank. All that marble and brass and all those forms are intimidation—and they are designed to be.

A woman in federal government, however, has given herself the job of taking the gobbledygook out of banking by explaining to bank customers what their rights are.

Josie Downey, who works for the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.—but who speaks English—has started a free monthly newsletter for consumers. She offers candid and concise explanations of sticky financial situations people get faced with when dealing with a bank.

What happens, for example, if your bank credit-card statement bills you for an item you never bought?

Within 60 days of getting the bill, call the creditor's telephone number or write to explain your version of the mistake. While the problem is being resolved, you do not have to pay (except for the legitimate, undisputed amount you owe on the bill).

Under the Fair Credit Billing Act, you may withhold payment for defective merchandise until it is replaced or repaired if the amount is over $50 and you bought the goods in the state where you live or within 100 miles of your home.

What happens if you leave a bank account dormant for a while?

There may not be any money left. The bank has the right to assess service charges—as much as its rules permit—and you may find your account is empty. The terms are written in the small print that most people fail to read.

In some cases an account is dormant if there has been no activity for a year. And in some states, the money then may become state property.

What happens if you are denied a loan?

Banks must tell you within 30 days whether your application has been accepted or rejected. If it rejects your loan request, the bank must tell you in writing—why and whether information it received from a credit reporting agency or third party led to the denial of the loan. You can then contact the credit agency to find out what it says about your credit record.

One of the most popular features in Ms. Downey's four-page newsletters, which she started in January, was a three-part series on mortgages. It explained what the difference is between a few tenths of a percent interest ($7,000 more over 30 years if you get a $50,000 mortgage at 13.75 percent instead of 13.25 percent, for example). And she explained you must be told all costs of settling on a house before that awesome day arrives.

One feature is a summary of the most frequent questions asked by customers about banking, and the answers. Ms. Downey gets the questions by reviewing the calls made by consumers to the FDIC consumer hotline (800-424-5488).

Many people want to know if the FDIC insures money-market funds just as it does money-market certificates. The answer is no. One service Ms. Downey offers is to let people know of ways they can be victimized. One popular fraud is for dishonest sales clerks to run several sales slips with your credit card and later present them for collection. Don't let your card out of sight.

She also warns consumers never to give out their credit card numbers over the telephone and never to permit a credit card to be photographed.

To those with electronic fund transfer cards to get cash from electronic tellers, Ms. Downey warns never to give the secret code to anyone—including their children.

She also tells consumers to guard the computer keys from the sight of those standing in line behind them while they are punching out their secret code.

Also, be wary of anyone who asks for help with a machine. Sophisticated thieves can steal hundreds of dollars from you in a minute and you won't even be aware of it until your monthly statement comes.

One of the most difficult tasks Ms. Downey says she does is to read consumer protection laws over and over until she understands them and can translate them into ordinary language. She also offers a column each month in Spanish.

If you would like to get her monthly newsletter, write to: Josie Downey at the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., 550 17th St. N.W., Room 31340, Washington, D.C. 20428.

JEFFREY HART New Sense Of Mission

NOTE: Greg Fossedal graduated from Dartmouth College last June and was a leader of the conservative movement on the campus. He has been admitted to Harvard, Yale and Stanford law schools, and he is also an active journalist. Here he reports on the demise of the 60s' ethos among many other members of his generation.

By GREG FOSSEDAL
ANDREWS AIR FORCE BASE, VA: The sun sets, the flag comes down, and the sound of taps cracks out across the green lawns of one of the nation's first military air fields. All over the base, bodies snap to attention and hands salute. Cars stop.

GLENVIEW NAVAL AIR STATION, ILL.: Cleanshaven reserve officers, operating under the Navy's new and stricter rules of personal appearance, report for weekend duty. For the first time in years, many of them will be paid for their service — paid wages they should have received all the time, but never complained for lacking.

WASHINGTON, D.C.: A group of officers is in from the Pentagon for a day's work in the capital. They are in full uniform, again under new orders. Through most of the 70s, they were not allowed to appear in uniform here for fear they would project too high a profile in an era of anti-military sentiment.

Uniforms, salutes, closely trimmed hair — the Reagan administration is allowing, indeed encouraging, the re-militarization of the United States military. To date, the effects on performance, morale, and even recruiting have been stunning.

In the six months since Ronald Reagan took office, the services have met their recruitment goals for the first time since the end of the draft.

There has been quality, not just quantity: only 32 percent of this year's recruits are high school dropouts, as against 67 percent last year.

Re-enlistment figures are up nearly 10 percent. Most of those re-enlistees cite an "improved atmosphere" as the prime motivation for their decision.

To understand fully the importance of such symbolic matters, one must go back to the late 1960s, when the assault on America's military was peaking. As the radical campus movement gained steam, its leaders grew less and less content with merely criticizing U.S. involvement in Vietnam, more and more determined to strike at the root values of the military: values of leadership, sacrifice, obedience. The response of American political and military leaders was to retreat — a decision that has undermined efforts to maintain a competent all-volunteer defense effort ever since.

As the psychology of the '60s filtered down through the officer corps after Vietnam, the services lost all sense of mission. Even the language began to reflect a deterioration of military values: systems management, task integration, and peer support were the code words, replacing duty, honor, and country.

Richard Nixon's rearguard action against these forces was unsuccessful. Modern youths, the theory went, will not tolerate the old, stuffy rules of the services. And so hair regulations were relaxed, uniforms disallowed in Washington, and so on. The focus of the military became not its team mission, but catering to the individual youngsters it now had to attract without a draft.

No one questioned the assumption that young Americans would participate only in a military that became more and more civilian.

induce a fictitious Arab sheik to invest $100 million in a titanium mine. The senator also listened to suggestions that he should help obtain government contracts for the mine.

Senators routinely seek government contracts that will benefit their constituents. He explained under cross-examination: "My friends asked me to perform a role that they said was important to them and their financial well-being. I permitted those feelings of friendship to override my judgment."

It was suggested — but never proved — that Williams owned a hidden interest in the mine. On videotape, he said he was interested in the mine, not that he owned an interest in it.

He also boasted on videotape of his Washington influence. But he was coached to make the boastful statements by the FBI's undercover "sting" man, Mel Weinberg, who insisted this was the best way to impress the sheik.

After a 13-month investigation, FBI officials admitted in a memorandum that they didn't have a case against Williams. This exculpatory memo reviewed by my associate Indy Badhwar was withheld from Williams and his attorneys.

The memo also showed that the ABSCAM investigators were counting on a final trip to catch Williams. For this purpose, one last meeting was arranged with the phony sheik.

The FBI hoped Williams would be induced to make some incriminating move before the hidden cameras. The trap was sprung, but it came up empty. While the cameras ground futilely, the senator emphatically refused the FBI undercover agent's offer of a bribe.

When Williams started to explain that he didn't take bribes, he was cut off by a telephone call. What he didn't know was that another FBI agent and a Justice Department attorney were monitoring the conversation in a hidden room.

They would use the telephone to advise the phony sheik how to manipulate the conversation. They also interrupted the senator when he started to make a statement that might have exonerated him.

Conceded Assistant U.S. Attorney Edward

Plaza under oath: "It was our impression after watching that tape that he (Williams) was going to go on and talk about the difference between his public and his private activities as a senator but was, in fact, cut off by the agent."

At the trial, Williams' attorney, George Koerber, accused the government of bringing the senator back for another, final visit with the phony sheik because the Justice Department knew it couldn't make a case against him.

In response, FBI agent John Good, who was in charge of the Williams investigation, claimed that the government already had an airtight case against the senator and merely wanted to improve on it. Yet Good attended a previous strategy meeting, where it was admitted the FBI had no case.

Footnote: An FBI spokesman said that Good's testimony at the trial "was consistent" with what Good personally believed. It was Good's own opinion as an investigator that he had a case against Williams, even though the prosecutors may have thought otherwise.

Federal Inquiries Aimed At Air Traffic Control Safety

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Three inquiries are under way of the nation's air traffic control system striking controllers contend is unsafe and has drawn private expressions of concern from pilots.

Although the government maintains the skies are as safe now as they were before thousands of controllers walked out 17 days ago, the National Transportation Safety Board said Tuesday it plans a comparative study of pre-and post-strike conditions.

At the same time, Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis announced creation of a three-member task force to evaluate working conditions many controllers have long complained create on-the-job stress.

Lewis also said the Federal Aviation Administration has asked the Flight Safety Foundation, a non-profit international organization supported by the airlines, to do an independent safety study. Lewis said he has confidence in the system, but "we just figure it would make the public more comfortable" to have an outside review.

Safety has been a recurring issue since the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization began its illegal strike Aug. 3.

The NTSB, responsible for investigating civil aviation accidents, said it will study the air traffic control system to gather data for use in future probes.

Although it will not specifically judge whether the system is safe, the board can make safety recommendations, a spokesman said.

"It's going to be an information-gathering project which will provide us with data on pre-strike and post-strike air traffic control operations," he said.

In another development Tuesday, internal documents from the Air Line Pilots Association said fatigue and improper qualifications of controllers have undermined air safety.

The memos were prepared last week by an ALPA committee. Copies of the memos, the contents of which were first reported by the Washington Post, were obtained by United Press International.

An ALPA spokesman contacted late Tuesday said many concerns in the memos have since been addressed to the group's satisfaction.

"As of now, we're still in the position of saying the system is indeed safe," said the spokesman, who asked not to be identified.

In an Aug. 10 memo to ALPA President J.J. O'Donnell, committee chairman

Tom Sheppard said three trends had emerged "which indicate a decreasing level of safety in the present modified air traffic control system."

The factors listed were: "fatigue and improper qualifications" of controllers now on duty, increased military and general aviation flying under visual flight rules (requiring no guidance by controllers) at altitudes below 10,000 feet and the closing of some airport towers "with levels of activity which normally require towers."

Since PATCO began its strike, the FAA has operated the air traffic control system at reduced capacity with supervisory and military personnel and non-striking controllers.

Domestic commercial flights have been reduced to about 75 percent of normal levels, costing the airlines about $30 million a day and forcing them to order widespread layoffs.

Trans-Atlantic flights today returned to normal following a two-day boycott of U.S. flights by Portuguese controllers.

The job action, in sympathy of striking U.S. controllers, forced about 100 U.S.-European flights to take a more northerly route to avoid Portuguese air space, resulting in some delays of up to four hours.

IN THE SERVICE

JACK LEE MARTIN

Jack Lee Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Neal Martin of 144 Roann Drive, Maitland, has enlisted in the United States Marine Corps. Martin will depart September 25 for 11 weeks of recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S.C. Upon completion of recruit training, Martin will be home for a ten day leave before going on for further technical training in a formal Marine Corps school. Martin enlisted for four years with a guaranteed assignment in the Combat Support program. Prior to enlisting, Martin worked for Lucian Poff as a Bee Keeper and is a 1979 graduate of Lake Howell High School.

DERWARD F. MCKINNEY

Spec. 5 Derward F. McKinney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Deward F. McKinney Sr. of Lake Mary, Fla., has arrived for duty at Zircourt, West Germany. McKinney, a computer repairman, was previously assigned at Fort Bragg, N.C. He is a 1973 graduate of Florida Central Academy, Sorrento.

FRANK J. BONGIORNO

Airman Frank J. Bongiorno, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bongiorno of Route 1, Oviedo, Fla., has graduated from the U.S. Air Force missile systems analysts course at Charlotte Air Force Base, N.C.

Graduates of the course learned how to inspect and repair missile systems.

TAMARA L. HARRISON

Tamara L. Harrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard H. Harrison of 3201 S. Park Ave., Sanford, received practical work in military leadership at the Army ROTC Advanced Camp at Fort Bragg, N.C.

The six week training includes instruction in first aid, communications, marksmanship, orienteering, weapons, weapons systems, defensive and offensive tactics, reconnaissance techniques and other areas.

Harrison is a student at Florida State University at Tallahassee.

RAYMOND SCOTT GOODMAN

Kids With Learning Disabilities Get Special Attention In Seminole

By DEE GATRELL
Special To The Herald

Jason, a brown haired, blue eyed, ten year old, is one of five children sitting in a specific learning disability (SLD) classroom with a picture of a turkey on the desk and a colored pencil in his hand. He tries to trace the lines of the turkey without turning the paper about. He finds it difficult to do and is beginning to get frustrated. His teacher walks behind him and tells him not to press down so hard and explains how to trace on the lines without moving the paper around. He tries again.

Jason is one of approximately 1300 children in Seminole County schools, from kindergarten through grade twelve in SLD classes. He is of potentially average or above normal intelligence, who does not perform well in school because of disorders in one or more of the basic processes involved in understanding or using spoken or written language.

He may exhibit disorders in thinking, talking, listening, reading, writing, spelling or math. He may be hyperactive, poorly coordinated, impulsive, distractible, withdrawn, immature or uncooperative. He may have behavior problems, but he is not primarily emotionally or physically handicapped or mentally retarded.

"I call my children with learning disabilities the most maligned children in the school population," said Kathy Driggers, Coordinator for Specific Learning Disabilities in Seminole County. "To have a learning disability is to have a hidden disability," she said.

Mrs. Driggers feels children who attend SLD classes are just as handicapped as children who are legally blind or otherwise disabled. She says the learning disabled child's brain cannot use the information it receives.

"He sees it, but he didn't see it correctly, so therefore he's wrong. So many people do not understand that. Parents and teachers both get upset with the child," she said. The parents will take the child to an eye doctor. When he can find nothing wrong, they will go to an ear doctor. When everything looks okay, they often think the child is being stubborn, she said.

Many parents find that when they tell a person their child has a learning disability, the person often says the child looks as though there is nothing wrong with him. They tend to confuse learning disabilities with retardation.

Thomas Edison, Albert Einstein, and Nelson Rockefeller all had learning disabilities.

In pre-school years it is important for a child to learn to trace, paste, cut, learn songs and rhymes. While it may seem like child's play, it all relates to developing his gross and fine motor control. Some other important things for a child to learn are putting together jigsaw puzzles to see how parts fit. That teaches eye-hand coordination. Putting together Lincoln logs and blocks can help a child with reading readiness, as it teaches a child how to read from left to right. When a child strings beads in a pattern he begins to see relationships in reading patterns. A child must have things in order before he can learn to read. First he must have something concrete, like a picture of a dog. Next comes something semi-abstract, a puzzle of a dog. Then comes abstract, the spelling of the word dog. Some children find it hard to progress from puzzles to symbolic language.

If a child enters school and hasn't developed his gross and fine motor controls, he may need to be tested for the SLD program. The procedure for the testing is usually a referral from the teacher or parent to the guidance office. The guidance department does the initial screening. In grades kindergarten through second grade testing is based on pre-academic skills which include listening, cutting and pasting, tracing, and repeating sentences and words. The person giving the test even watches how the child holds his pencil.

If it is an older child, he'll be given the Wide Range Achievement test which is math, reading word recognition and spelling. If the child scores too high in this test, that automatically eliminates him from the SLD program. In the lower grades the tester will look at the memory tests that are given to the child.

After the screening is completed there is a staff meeting where the parents and teacher talk and decide what should be done. Sometimes the teacher decides to change the child's seat, or have a volunteer study with the child. If this approach doesn't work, the next step is for the child to be tested by the school psychologist.

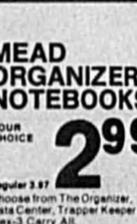

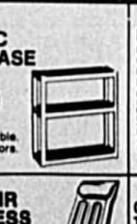

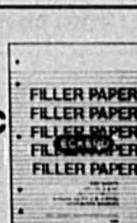

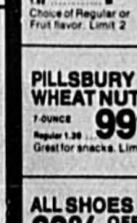

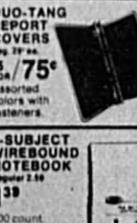

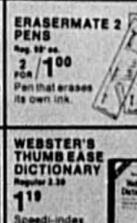

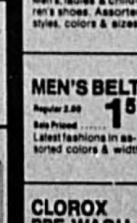

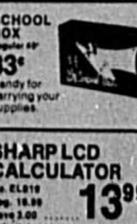

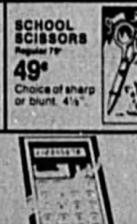

Because the psychologist only comes to the schools once every eight days, this part of the testing takes the longest. When all the tests are completed, there is another meeting with the

...Learning Disabilities

 parents, teacher, and psychologist. If everyone is in agreement, the child is then placed in an SLD class.

Janet Emens is an SLD teacher at Sterling Park Elementary. She has thirty-one students in individual programs. Only three of her students are there for math, the rest have reading problems.

Mrs. Emens' classes range from two to fifteen children at a time. They overlap because of all the individual schedules. An SLD teacher has to work around all the other teachers' schedules in order to get the children into her classroom.

Mrs. Emens said she believes teachers will sometimes put a child from SLD class into a lower category in all his other subjects, because of a mistaken feeling he or she cannot do well in other areas if he or she is considered to have a SLD in one area. But in actuality, quite often a child who does poorly in reading may excel in math.

I.Q. tests aren't always an accurate testing of the child, Mrs. Emens said. She said she knows of one case where the child showed a very low I.Q. but did very well in the classroom. The teacher felt the child was ready to go back into a regular classroom, but had to wait for the child to be retested. When the psychologist tested the child, once again the child tested very low. The psychologist wanted the child placed in an educable mentally handicapped class because of the test scores. The teacher, on the other hand, knew this child could do quite well and insisted the child be placed in a regular classroom.

Mrs. Emens said she believes sometimes a teacher may have more insight into the child, being she spends so much time with him and believes some children freeze during testing. Once she was testing some children and showed them a picture of a doorknob. She asked them if they had ever seen one of these before. Many of them said no.

It is found that if a child can't skip, he may have a reading problem. Skipping, bouncing a ball, walking a balance beam, all these things relate with being able to learn. If a child doesn't know his right hand from the left he won't be able to conceive which way a letter goes. Small children very often haven't developed right or left handedness so they don't know which side is which. But handedness or dominance develops with body muscles in coordination with the brain.

"When I was a child I was told that I would be punished at home if I was punished in school," Mrs. Driggers said. "Whenever I did something with my left hand I was hit and my arm was tied down. To me that was punishment. When I got home I got the hairbrush used on me. Then I went into stuttering and began hating school. When my parents went to school to find out what the trouble was, they were horrified. I was left-handed and all the ink wells were on the right side of the desk. They all agreed that I could keep writing with my right hand but I was not to be punished whenever I did something with my left hand. So this is part of my learning disability," said Mrs. Driggers.

Diane Nye teaches an SLD class at Red Bug Elementary. She has twenty-four students with twenty for reading. She tries to keep the younger children in the smaller classes because she believes they need the most individual attention.

If a family can afford the tuition fee of $225 a month, there is always the choice of sending the child to Harbor School, which is located across the street from Red Bug Elementary. Harbor School consists of a white concrete block building trimmed in blue, set well off the main road. There are six classrooms, a cafeteria, kitchen, diagnostic and administration office. The school was started in 1971 by concerned physicians, educators, civic leaders and people interested in children with learning problems. It is a non-profit organization. They maintain a six to one student-teacher ratio.

"All the children here have experienced difficulty in the public schools system," said Mark Brown, director of Harbor School. "They met much failure and frustration. One of the big reasons is the large classroom situation. These children just can't function in a classroom of 30 to 40 children," he said.

'If you could get more people to see these kids and to work with them, they would not have the idea that all learning disabled and slow learners are retarded.'

All the classes at Harbor School are self contained. Harbor School does not believe in the pod system where children and teachers can hear other students and teachers. According to Brown, California has tried the system and it proved to be a complete failure. He said he believes the children just can't handle hearing other students, other teachers and much distraction. They haven't learned to block out the inappropriate stimuli around them and to focus on what they should be focusing on.

"When the children who suffer from the pod system become adults, then society suffers because they won't be able to take care of themselves as well as they should," he said. Harbor School has all academic studies in the morning when they feel the children are alert and save subjects such as music, art and physical education for the afternoons.

"If you could get more people to see these kids and to work with them, they would not have the idea that all learning disabled and slow learners are retarded," Brown said.

The school isn't governed by any federal grants or state monies, so they feel they can do what's best for the child without any red tape. Each child is given an individualized program. It is believed that each child learns best when his or her strengths and weaknesses are recognized. The child is then challenged at his own level in all academics.

"Children realize they are slower than most children if they are put in a large classroom. By each child working on his own level, it takes away the frustration of trying to keep up with the class," Brown said.

"If a child raises his hand several times and has the wrong answer and another child makes fun of him, of course he won't raise his hand again. They become turned off to school. If they go through years and years of failures and frustration, after a while they just say the heck with this, I don't want to go to school," he said.

The average stay at Harbor School is two years. The goal of the school is to help a child remediate his problems and to go back into the regular classroom and be able to cope, progress and learn. They have to learn to be a good independent worker, to ignore the behavior of others and to block out variables. "These are skills they'll have to have in life. They have to learn to cope with distractions and numbers of people at sometime in their lives," Brown added.

Seminole County has a new chapter of Association for Children with Learning Disabilities, which was chartered in June, 1980. ACLD was founded for the purpose of "defining and finding solutions for the broad spectrum of learning problems." Membership is open to parents, professionals (educational, medical, psychological) and other citizens interested in promoting the education and well being of these children. Anyone interested in getting more information on this group can write ACLD, P.O. Box 623, Fern Park, Fla. 32730.

...Women Marines

through the Marines' veterinary school. But to qualify she must first attain the rank of Sergeant.

Either way, she said, she knows the Marines will offer more interesting work than she found at Burger King and Dairy Queen — jobs she held following completion of her high school equivalency work.

Both Janice and Diane enlisted for four years to obtain the schooling of their choice.

Nancy, who enlisted for three years, said she was going from job to job "just not happy."

She said she tried working as a cashier and as an assembly worker for an electronics firm, among other things.

Diane had a similar experience. Having worked in low echelon jobs at IBM and General Motors and selling electronic equipment for a printed circuit company, she found there was no room for advancement without a college degree.

"But I couldn't afford to continue my education," she said, "it's too expensive." At the same time, it was getting harder and harder to live on the salaries she was being paid, she said.

'I've never been as proud as I am now.'

PFC. DIANE WARD

In the Marines, she said, she'll be studying mathematics and computer systems and has a guaranteed job in avionics. The corps pays 25 percent of the cost of schooling. Meanwhile, a new recruit earns $501 per month while housing, food, medical care and many travel expenses are all paid by Uncle Sam. And according to Moon, Congress is expected to increase military salaries "substantially" before the end of the year.

The women think it's a good deal.

But why the Marines—which advertises itself as an outfit that "builds men"—over the Army, Navy or Air Force?

"The Marines builds men, but not out of its women," Moon said. "The corps is a stickler for women maintaining their femininity."

From her experience, Diane said it's true.

"In boot camp you're told you're not a woman Marine, you're a Marine. But remember you're a woman too."

"In fact, it's mandatory for women to wear eye shadow and lipstick when in uniform."

Nail polish, if worn, must blend with the cord on the Marine's hat, she added.

The three women said they don't object to the make-up requirement and don't see it as an extra burden not placed on men in the corps. Having "shopped around" among the other branches of service, they agreed the Marines offers women the best deal.

"The Navy offers no training in cosmetology and treats you just like another man," Janice said.

They said they prefer the Marines especially over the Army, because its entrance requirements are higher.

"Therefore you're associating with a more intelligent group of people," Nancy said.

Within the Marines, entrance requirements are higher for women who must score three times higher than men on the Armed Services Vocational Aptitude Battery Examination.

Moon said this is because the women Marines are a "small, very elite group."

"We take only the upper-crust," he said.

Additionally, to join a woman must be between the ages of 17 and 28, have a bonifide high school diploma and weight in proportion to height.

In contrast, men are accepted into the Marines if they have completed the 10th grade, he said.

Janice said the high standards of the corps helped convince her dad her joining the Marines was a good idea.

"Before he didn't like the idea," she said. "But now he thinks it's great, if you have to be so good to get in, it must really be something."

"He even offers to go jogging with me to get in shape before boot camp," she added.

Nancy said her parents, Edward and Mary DeCoste, 213 Forest Drive, Sanford, at first suggested she try the Navy or Air Force. But after she explained the Marines, "now they're really excited about it," she said.

Diane assured Nancy and Janice boot camp isn't as horrible as many say, although women do some of the things men do including learning how to fire a rifle, use a gas mask, march and keep up equipment.

"And you'd better learn to make those 45 degree corners when making your bunk," she said.

"While there's rigorous physical training," she added, "boot camp is actually can be more demanding mentally than physically."

The Marine Corps builds men, but not out of its women.

SGT. IKE MOON

"They don't yell at you all the time, like in the movies," she said. "But there is discipline. They break you down to build you up again. At first you don't see the reason for it but it all falls into place after awhile and it helps you become a better, stronger person."

Janice was philosophical about it: "If they make me do push-ups until I collapse, they make me do push-ups until I collapse," she said.

"I need discipline and strictness," she added. "So far I haven't done anything in my life that's been demanding."

Diane, Janice and Nancy agreed women probably go into the service with less trepidation than men because they are barred from combat. And they said they like it that way, although they wouldn't object to a woman in combat if she wants to. And they don't think a woman's presence in combat would distract men so they couldn't perform their duties.

"After awhile they'd be just another Marine," Diane said. "I don't feel I would be competent in combat," Janice said. "I'd be scared to death. But if a woman thinks she can put up with it, let her go."

Although neither of the three said they enlisted to serve their country, they said they think a universal draft—of both men and women—would be a good idea.

"Everyone can give at least one year of their life. Women can serve in lots of capacities even if not in combat," Janice said.

But if the Equal Rights Amendment passes, Diane said she thinks it will be impossible to bar women from combat.

"But I don't worry about that," she said. "I don't think it will happen while I'm in the service." The Marine Corps was the last to allow women in and will be the last to put women into combat.

The idea of women in the Marines in the first place, she said, was to free men for combat.

The three women said they don't worry about losing their freedom in the service, either.

"It's like a 9 to 5 job," Diane said. And although one can be ordered to go anywhere, she said she feels the Marines would be reluctant to send a woman to a hazardous post.

Janice said she thinks the economic security of the service will offer her more freedom than she has now.

"It's better than burger-flipping," she said.

Although neither Diane, Janice or Nancy know yet whether they'll stay in the Marines longer than their initial enlistments, all said they are looking forward to life-long careers. All want independence.

"I want to be able to care for myself and not be dependent on anyone," Nancy said.

While neither ruled out future marriage, Janice and Nancy said right now they'd prefer to be free to travel and not leave anyone behind. (Janice would like to see Australia; Nancy Europe)

Diane, who is divorced, said both parties in a marriage have to be independent.

And once a woman has had a career, they agreed, it would be hard to be without one.

"If he's working 9 to 5 and you're sitting home doing housework, I think that's the most boring thing imaginable," Janice said. "The best way to keep a relationship going is to be busy. It wouldn't work if I felt the guy was holding me back."

When they enter boot camp, Janice and Nancy will join between 5,000 and 6,000 women currently serving in the Marines. This population is expected to jump to about 10,000 in a few years. Although the number of males in the Marines will increase also, Moon said he, for one, thinks women are a great asset to the corps.

"They can do a lot of things better than men," he said. "I've been in the administrative field for 10 years and I'd much rather work with a woman."

"They're more conscientious, neater and easier to train," Nancy and Janice couldn't attest to that. But Nancy summed up their excitement about enlisting:

"I want to leave tomorrow," she said.

LAFAYETTE SIGNAL

Seminole Manager Richard Coffey, whose Broncos compete in the World Series in Lafayette, La., at 8 p.m. Friday, tips his cap to start his signals in Saturday's 8-4 victory over Miami...

Coffey then moves to the left shoulder...

North zone representative Oak Park, Ill. meets zone host St. Bernard Parish at 5 p.m. Thursday in the tournament opener. East zone Puerto Rico plays Lafayette at 8 p.m. Seminole plays the winner of the first game, while Richmond, Cal., who beat Hawaii twice for the West zone spot, meets the winner of the second game.

before switching over to his right shoulder to begin wiping off the sign...

Baseball Goes Extra Innings

NEW YORK (UPI) — Baseball executives have gone into extra innings in their attempt to establish a new playoff system.

It was expected a new format would be announced Tuesday, but Commissioner Bowie Kuhn continued to hold conversations on the matter.

A spokesman for the commissioner's office said it was likely an announcement would be forthcoming today.

Kuhn met Tuesday with American League President Lee MacPhail and National League President Chub Feeney to review the present playoff structure and the options for a new one. A revised format became necessary because the original plan seriously challenged the integrity of the game by encouraging teams to lose intentionally in order to qualify for the playoffs.

"When they get it all sorted out I'm sure it'll be right and I feel when that happens, it'll take some of the pressure off us," Chicago White Sox Manager Tony LaRussa said Tuesday night.

Any proposal to change the approved format for a split season and playoff series between first-half and second-half winners will have to be approved by the Major League Players Association, which represents baseball's 650 players.

Under the current plan, the winners of the first half of the season — Philadelphia and Los Angeles in the National League and New York and Oakland in the American — are assured of spots in a "mini-series" against the second-half winners.

The part of the plan that must be changed is the selection of an opponent if season each division with the best overall percentage would qualify. The flaw is one team would end up in a position where it would be advantageous to lose a game to qualify for the playoffs. Bill Murphy of Bellows Falls, Vt., has the idea the second-place finisher in the first half should play one game against the second-place finisher in the second half to decide who plays the division champion.

Since it's revenue to the owners' and players' pockets, don't be surprised if it's accepted.

Hello

Bucs Acquire Steelers' Furness

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — The Tampa Bay Buccaneers moved to strengthen their defensive line Tuesday, sending an undisclosed draft choice to the Pittsburgh Steelers for veteran tackle Steve Furness.

Furness, 6-4 and 255 pounds, is one of the strongest players in the NFL and led the Steelers in quarterback sacks in 1977 and tied for the lead in 1979 despite missing some playing time.

He injured an ankle during warmups prior to the opening game in 1978 and missed five games. He did not start for the Steelers that year until the 11th game and then broke an ankle in the Super Bowl game against Dallas.

Goodbye

Dolphins Trade Howell

MIAMI (UPI) — The Miami Dolphins traded third-year fullback Steve Howell to Philadelphia Tuesday and put two others on waivers, bringing the team down to the 60-player limit.

Howell, of Baylor, was traded for an undisclosed draft choice, said team spokesman Charlie Callahan.

Put on waivers were Jeff Allen, a defensive cornerback in his second year from the University of California, and Bob Rasp, a free agent linebacker from Lafayette College.

Rasp was hurt last year and was on the Dolphins' injured reserve list.

Playboy Reveals Kentucky Schedule As The Toughest

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI) — A national magazine (Playboy) has rated the University of Kentucky's 1981 football schedule among the nation's toughest. And Wildcat coach Fran Curci would be the last person to disagree with that notion.

"It's been said we have the sixth toughest schedule in the country," Curci said. "And I believe that. It will be interesting for the fans and rough for the players and coaches."

The Wildcats, who began two-a-day contact drills Tuesday, have less than three weeks to prepare for their Sept. 5 season-opener against North Texas State at Commonwealth Stadium.

After a week off, the pace quickens considerably as Alabama and Bear Bryant come to town before UK makes a trip to steamy Lawrence for a game against Kansas. The Cats return home to tangle with Clemson and South Carolina then take to the road once more for matches with Louisiana State and Georgia.

Virginia Tech is the homecoming foe in a night game Oct. 31 before Kentucky winds up the campaign by going to Vanderbilt and Florida and hosting arch-rival Tennessee in the annual season finale.

Five of those squads — Alabama, South Carolina, LSU, Georgia and Virginia Tech — were bowl teams a season ago. Kentucky, as Curci is painfully aware, went nowhere after a 3-8 year which featured four losses in the waning moments.

"On paper, it looks very hard," said Curci, who enters his ninth season with a 44-43-2 record at UK. "We don't seem to have any breathers. The teams we're playing have had tremendous success in the past."

Indeed, Alabama is picked as the Southeastern Conference favorite and Bryant will in all probability become the all-time winningest coach in college history. Georgia returns Heisman Trophy candidate Herschell Walker and quarterback Buck Belue. Clemson is ranked second in preseason Atlantic Coast Conference polls and Florida and Tennessee are always tough.

Even the homecoming opponent, Virginia Tech, is no pushover. The Hokies return 43 lettermen off a team which appeared in the Peach Bowl after an 8-3 campaign.

The Wildcats opener with North Texas State also promises to be a struggle. NTS is coached by former Mississippi State boss Bob Tyler who became very familiar with UK during his years in the SEC.

NFL Roundup

Bergey's Career in Jeopardy

Following the Tuesday cutdown in NFL training camps, Bill Bergey's name remained on the Philadelphia Eagles' roster. Sort of.

With teams having to trim their rosters to 80 players, Bergey was placed on the 4-week injured reserve list by Coach Dick Vermeil to salvage the veteran linebacker's career. Bergey is trying to come back from a bun knee, but the situation is not encouraging.

"He's just not physically ready to play football yet," said Vermeil. "By putting him on the four-week injured reserve list now, it gives him time, I hope, to work his way back to where he is physically able to play well."

On injured reserve, Bergey will miss the first four weeks of the regular season, then must clear waivers before he can be reactivated.

A number of other Eagles were not as fortunate, however. The team waived 10 players, including fullback Mike Hogan, wide receiver Luther Blue and quarterback Steve Encininger.

Hogan started for the Eagles until he was cut in 1979 in the wake of drug charges that were eventually dropped. The team re-signed him last year.

In other news, All-Pro tight end Russ Francis announced his retirement last month, but the New England Patriots officially placed him on the reserve-did not report list. This gives the Patriots first claim if Francis decides to return to the NFL. The Patriots also traded linebacker Ray Costich, who missed the 1980 season with a knee injury, to New Orleans for a draft choice. Among those cut were quarterbacks Brian Buckley of Harvard and Dave Ryder of Tulsa.

The Atlanta Falcons cut running back Bubba Bean, their No. 1 draft choice in 1976. They also cut defensive back Steve Luke, who started for Green Bay before coming to Atlanta, in a trade for defensive back Frank Reed and linebacker Dewey McClain. The Falcons are to receive a high 1982 draft choice if either Reed or McClain makes the Packers — but Reed was cut Tuesday.

Wide receiver Roger Carr signed a multi-year contract with Baltimore after a weeklong absence from training camp.

Denver signed free-agent kicker Fred Steinfurt, who hit 24-of-38 field goals last year for the Broncos.

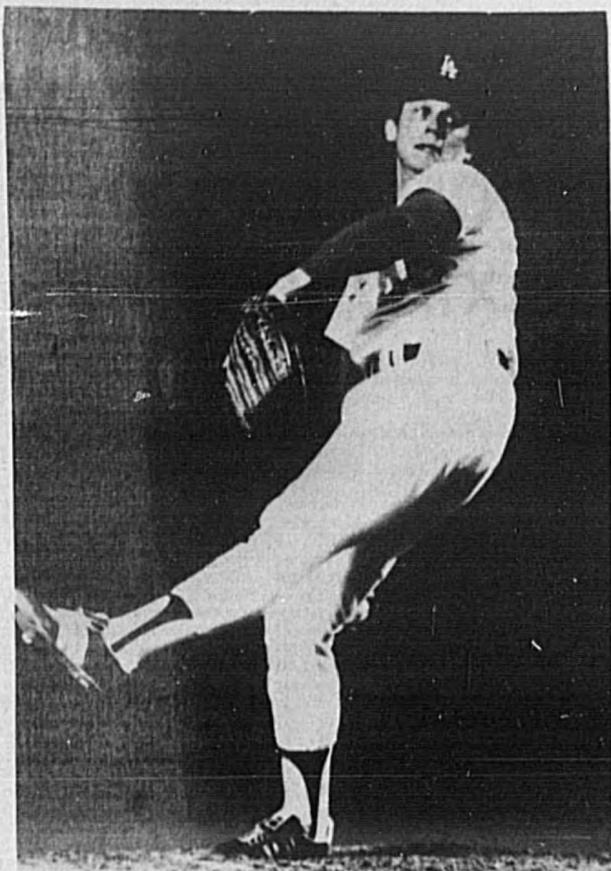

In other moves: Buffalo cut quarterback/punter Johnny Evans, leaving incumbent Greg Carter as the only punter on the team.

TIRELESS TASK

Lake Mary offensive coordinator Fred Almon runs the Rams through some agility drills above, while below, the football players take a drink from the hose. They're not hungry, it has holes in it. Thursday at 5 p.m., Lake Mary's Boosters Club will have a Bar-B-Que followed by an open house at the new high school.

Los Angeles Dodger right-hander Burt Hooton hurled his 25th career shutout Tuesday night. The knuckle-curve artist blanked the Chicago Cubs, 5-0 as Dusty Baker and Ken Landreaux drove in two runs apiece.

Kingman Tips Cubs; Hooton Blanks 25th

By United Press International

When Dave Kingman was reacquired by the New York Mets last spring, many baseball observers felt the club's management had lost its senses.

Kingman had a reputation with his previous teams, the Chicago Cubs, as being "poison," a man capable of long home runs but even longer sulks.

Manager Joe Torre insisted, however, he could handle the moody slugger and, so far he has managed to get quality performance out of his big first baseman.

Kingman hit two more home runs — giving him 18 for the season — and added a run-scoring double at Atlanta Tuesday night to spark the Mets to a 4-0 triumph over the Braves.

"I've been pretty consistent lately," Kingman said. "For the last 20 games or so, I've been pretty productive RBI-wise and that's how I gauge my success in helping the team."

Kingman credits the acquisition of Ellis Valentine for getting him better pitches to hit.

Reds 3, Phillies 1

At Cincinnati, Tom Seaver, 8-2, allowed four hits in 8 1-3 innings and Sam Mejias drove in two runs with sacrifice flies in leading the Reds to victory.

Dodgers 5, Cubs 0

In Chicago, Dusty Baker and Ken Landreaux drove in two runs each and Burt Hooton, 8-4, pitched his 25th career shutout. Giants 4, Pirates 2

Milt May had two RBI singles and three pitchers combined on a six-hitter as the Giants, in Pittsburgh, dealt the Pirates their third straight loss.

Cesar Cedeno had three hits and drove in three runs in lifting the Astros to victory, at Houston. Bob Knepper, 6-2, who was the victor, was one out away from his fifth shutout when Larry Parrish drilled a two-run homer. Padres 4, Cardinals 3

In St. Louis, Luis Salazar drove in two runs with a pair of singles and Ruppert Jones went 3-for-4 and scored twice in helping the Padres snap a fourgame losing streak.

Natural High Lifts Leach, 3-0

By United Press International

It may not have been as exciting as throwing a touchdown pass to a streaking wide receiver but the thrill was there Tuesday night for Rick Leach.

"It's such a natural high I don't believe it," said the former University of Michigan star quarterback after belting his first major-league homer, a three-run blast in the sixth inning, to lead the Detroit Tigers to a 3-0 victory over the Minnesota Twins. "The only thing that can compare to it is beating Ohio State for a chance to go to the Rose Bowl."

Milt Wilcox, 8-5, pitched a six-hitter over eight innings and struck out five in helping the Tigers win their fifth straight. It was the Twins' fifth consecutive loss. Kevin Saucier pitched the ninth to notch his 10th save of the season.

The Tigers' bullpen has not given up an earned run in 30 1-3 innings in the second half of the season.

Leach, who turned down a shot at professional football to sign with the Tigers, remains confident he made the right decision.

"I know I have major-league ability," Leach said. "I know I can play here. I know I can help the team to win, but I haven't much of a chance to do it."

Herald Photo by Scott Smith

Detroit's Rick Leach smacked a three-run homer to beat Minnesota Tuesday. It was the first major-league round-tripper for the former Michigan quarterback.

Yankees 4, White Sox 0

Ron Guidry, 7-3, and George Frazier, who pitched the last three innings for his second save, combined on a six-hitter in New York. Jerry Mumphy singled home a pair of runs. Steve Trout, 6-4, absorbed the loss.

Blue Jays 5, Royals 3

In Kansas City, Mo., Barry Bonnell knocked in three runs and Greg Wells and John Mayberry each scored twice to lead Toronto. The Blue Jays beat the Royals for the first time in four meetings this season.

Brewers 3-4, Rangers 1-8

At Arlington, Texas, doubles by Bill Stein and Buddy Bell highlighted a six-run sixth inning and rallied Texas over Milwaukee for a split of their double-header. Ben Oglivie, who reached his career 1,000-hit mark, blasted a three-run homer in the opening inning of the first game to ignite the Brewers.

Indians 5, Mariners 2

Andre Thornton's pinch-hit seventh-inning homer carried Bert Blyleven, 8-5 and the Indians over Seattle. Thornton's solo shot broke a 2-2 tie and pinned the loss on reliever Bryan Clark, 2-3, in Seattle.

Orioles 6, Angels 5

In Anaheim, Calif., Gary Roenicke doubled in two runs in the second and Doug DeCinces singled in what proved to be the deciding run in the third.

A's 3, Red Sox 2

Bill Campbell uncorked a wild pitch, in Oakland, Calif., with none out and the bases loaded in the 15th, to score Jeff Newman for the win.

LaRussa Accused Of 'Premature' Throwing

NEW YORK (UPI) — Tony LaRussa had just reached the top step of the dugout when he got it full blast from a loud middle-aged fan in the second row.

"You bum," the guy hollered at the harried Chicago White Sox manager. "You said you were gonna throw one of the last games, not THIS one!"

LaRussa heard the blast and saw where it came from but gave no sign. He was too busy with what he had to do. His White Sox had scored four runs in the top of the ninth to go ahead of the Orioles, 7-5, and LaRussa had brought Ed Farmer in from the bullpen to pitch the bottom half of the inning.

Eddie Murray, the Orioles' long-ball hitting first baseman, unloaded on Farmer for his second homer of the game with one on tying the score and that was when the fan let loose at LaRussa.

In the 10th, White Sox second baseman Tony Bernazard put them in front again by singling home Harold Baines and after LaRussa called in Kevin Hickey and the rookie left-hander set the Orioles down one-two-three in the last of the 10th to wrap up an 8-7 victory, LaRussa couldn't resist walking up to the top of the dugout again and addressing the same fan.

"Does that look to you like a club that's trying to throw games?" he called out.

What precipitated that outburst by the fan was LaRussa's published remarks along with those by some of his White Sox players regarding what course of action they might take to cope with the poorly thought out split-season format adopted after the strike.

Under that format, a club like the White Sox could knock themselves out of a playoff berth by winning one of their series late in the season. If it came down to that, LaRussa was quoted as saying, he'd tell his team to lose the games. And some of the White Sox players said they'd throw the games.

For those who don't know Tony LaRussa, he's straighter than a plumb line.

The original story involving LaRussa was written by Bob Markus, an exceptionally capable newspaperman with the Chicago Tribune. Besides being an able writer, Markus is an accurate one. LaRussa elaborated on his remarks later, saying the best way to handle the situation if it ever came up would be for the White Sox to refuse to take the field and forfeit the games.

Undoubtedly, there will be an announcement out of the commissioner's office today to the effect the format for the mini-series has been changed.

In all likelihood, if the same team winds up first in both halves of the season, it will meet the team finishing second in the final half of the season instead of the team with the best overall record. This ... eliminates the problem LaRussa was talking about.

Before Monday night's game with the Yankees, LaRussa was still answering questions about "throwing" games.

"It's a terrible word," he said. "I don't think Bob Markus should be faulted, though. When we talked about the subject originally, I was so strong and so determined about explaining, I'd do anything I possibly could to get my team into the playoff, I don't blame him for writing what he did."

"If someone were to ask me the same thing today," he went on. "Maybe I'd try to be sure the entire picture was presented so everyone understood a little better. I don't want any taint on our game and I don't want any taint on our club. It has a lot of character and I'm proud of that."

LaRussa made it a point to call Bowie Kuhn Monday to explain his position. He told him the same thing he told everyone else.

"We'll never do anything to jeopardize the integrity of the game," LaRussa said. "Naturally, I want our club to win, but ... I have to say the game is more important than the White Sox's chances this year."

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Miami Man, Nephew Face Murder, Kidnap Charges

MIAMI (UPI) — A Miami man and his nephew are being held at the Federal Correctional Institute south of Miami on charges they abducted and murdered a federal witness in a counterfeiting case.

Raymond Leon Koon, 49, was arrested aboard a houseboat near Miami's Haulover Park Monday by U. S. Secret Service agents and North Miami police. Joseph Lester Koon, 32, was arrested last Wednesday by agents on charges contained in a sealed indictment returned by a federal grand jury.

The elder Koon, who was not indicted but charged in a warrant, is being held without bond. Bond was set at $500,000 for his nephew, Joseph.

Both are charged with kidnapping federal witness Joseph Dino in November 1979, killing him and dumping the body in a Collier County lake.

Dino, who lived in north Dade County, disappeared in Hialeah where he had gone for a job interview. He was scheduled to testify against Raymond Koon in a Miami counterfeiting case, authorities said.

Launch May Be Postponed

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Chances of launching the space shuttle Columbia for its second mission on Sept. 30 seemed a little less likely today, but there has been no official postponement yet.

The Columbia's roll-out to the launch pad was delayed four days until Aug. 31 Tuesday, and Space Agency officials and engineers began discussions to determine whether to postpone the launch itself.

"There are no big problems with the shuttle, just a lot of little ones," said Dick Young, a spokesman for the program. "Testing is taking longer than we expected, putting test programs in computers aboard the Columbia is taking longer and the mating of the orbiter to its external tank went over schedule."

An interface test on equipment for the reusable rocket ship's second mission began Monday but was running nearly 12 hours behind schedule by Tuesday night.

Assault On Medfly Resumes

TAMPA (UPI) — A Huey helicopter lifted off shortly after dawn today and resumed the aerial assault on the Mediterranean fruit fly.

The chopper was spraying a layer of malathion-laced bait over a 24-square-mile area in which five of the voracious crop-eating bugs have been found—Florida's first infestation of medflies since 1963.

Spraying began downtown, to beat rush-hour traffic, and moved into the other areas of the zone, state Agriculture Department spokesman Frank King said.

Plans were to finish spraying the area today but King said the weather could put the helicopter in the air again Thursday.

Police Free 7-Year-Old Captive, Arrest Seven

MIAMI (UPI) — Police cracked a seven-day-long kidnapping case in spectacular fashion Tuesday night, freeing the 7-year-old captive unharmed and arresting seven suspects, wounding two of them in a fierce exchange of gunfire.

Police spokesman John Jones said two men were arrested at a west Dade County home and 7-year-old Andrew Martinez of nearby Sweetwater, Fla., was found unharmed in a bedroom. The other arrests were made at two other locations and officers are looking for more suspects.

Police said they moved in when it was learned the kidnapers intended to kill the boy and his grandmother even if their ransom demand of $700,000 was met.

The last two arrests were made at a Miami home, where the men were apparently holed up.

"Detectives following up on information they had acquired knocked on the door and announced they were police," Jones said. "The subjects inside began firing shots at police. Officers returned the fire, wounding the two subjects."

"There was numerous automatic weapons fire at the location and two injuries to the perpetrators," said Sweetwater Police officer Casimir Piwowarski, who assisted in the arrests. "No police officers were hurt and there were no injuries to bystanders."

Jones said after the gunbattle, police surrounded the building and the suspects surrendered. Their names and the nature of their injuries were not known.

Jones said the case began Aug. 11 when four armed men kidnaped the Hernandez boy from the residence of his grandmother, Guadalupe Diaz, 45, who is his legal guardian. Four days later, on Saturday, Mrs. Diaz contacted police and told them the kidnapers were holding her grandson and demanding $700,000 ransom.

"During the investigation it was learned the subjects intended not only to extort the money but also to kill the victim and the grandmother," Jones said.

"When police arrived at one home, one subject surrendered and a second subject was subsequently convinced to surrender," he said. "Both subjects were armed with rifles and other fire arms. The victim was located in the bedroom of the residence in good condition."

Jones said police then tried to arrest two men in a blue van, but they sped away. He said during the chase, the men fired at police but no one was hit.

The five suspects who were identified immediately were Rafael Eusebio Ramos, 21; Albert Hernandez, 30; Elmer Arango, 23; Juan Jose Arango; and Eduardo H. Medina. All were believed to be Miami residents.

Emaciated 3-Year-Old Found

DETROIT (UPI) — A 3-year-old girl who lived in a home described as looking like a city dump is suffering from advanced malnutrition. She weighs 14 pounds — almost 25 pounds under what her normal weight should be.

Rafaela Ortiz was in serious condition today at Children's Hospital.

Hospital officials said the normal weight of a 3-year-old is between 36 and 40 pounds, depending on the child's stature.

Rafaela was taken from her mother's home Tuesday when a social worker discovered her to be "extremely emaciated." Police were called to the home of Caroline Ortiz and compared the rooms to a "city dump."

Ms. Ortiz, 38, was arrested on child neglect charges. Rafaela also had been forced to sit on a potty chair for as long as 10 hours, officials said.

Two men also were taken into custody when officers found them trying to clean the filthy room where Rafaela was forced to stay. Manuel Castillo, 27, and Alphonso Rodriguez, 21, were arrested on charges of trying to destroy evidence.

Five other children in the West Side home, ranging in age from 5 to 13, were placed in the custody of juvenile authorities. Police said they appeared to be healthy.

Social worker Patricia Cook told police the family had been under investigation by the Children's Protective Services unit of Social Services since April.

Survivor Of Fiery Balloon Crash May Have Doomed Companions

HARRINGTON HILLS, Ill. (UPI) — A man critically burned in a weekend ballooning accident may have been responsible for the deaths of his five companions, a ballooning expert said Tuesday.

The Federal Aviation Administration was expected to release an official report on the fatal Saturday crash later in the week.

Tucker Constock, a licensed FAA balloon examiner, said when Harry "Rocco" Evans, 29, DeLand, Fla., jumped from the burning balloon gondola he hampered the pilot's efforts to land the craft.

Evans was in stable condition at Evanston Hospital. He suffered second and third-degree burns on his legs, arms, hands and face.

Evans was one of six men out ballooning Saturday night, when their craft was caught in a sudden updraft and forced into power lines.

Mrs. Constock, of Ann Arbor, Mich., said the accident probably would have been minor if the balloon's pilot had been able to land quickly. Mrs. Constock, founder of the Balloon Federation of America, said it is not uncommon for balloons to hit power lines.

However, the sudden weight loss experienced when Evans, an expert parachutist, jumped made landing impossible and forced the balloon into a second set of power lines.

"My impression is that the reason for the fatal accident was the fact that the passenger jumped out and put the balloon in a hazardous situation," Mrs. Constock said.

"If you hit a power line, the first thing you do is get the balloon to the ground. After they hit, the passenger jumped and the balloon had 70 pounds of free lift and that prevented a safe landing.

"What might have been a page 20 story about a balloon crash became a page 1 tragedy."

Don Connor, of Anderson, Ind., director of the Great Lakes Regional Balloon Championships, said the balloon probably was overloaded and the weight problem prevented the pilot from flying safely.

"I never would have taken that many people up in that size balloon," Connor said. "Maybe two or three and a pilot. From my experience, taking six up there is crazy."

Carl Dimmidie, an investigator with the National Transportation Safety Board said Monday FAA weather officials received a call about an hour before the balloon's takeoff and warned the caller of an approaching storm.

Maria was asked what she wanted most, now that she was home safe and sound. She was unable to form the right words and her father answered, "She wants Donnie (her twin brother)."

The Martins wept and Mrs. Martin halted the news conference with, "That will be all."

When the kidnapper demanded $5,000 cash ransom Monday night, officers provided money from their pockets and notified their wives to make withdrawals from automated bank tellers until the ransom money was accumulated.

Then, 18 Coronado policemen, relief officers and civilian personnel were rushed to the drop site at the old ferry building, where they posed as drunken sailors and winos. Some hid in trees.

Police Chief Jerry Boyd, posing as a relative of Maria's parents, took the money and met a man with a ski mask at the site. Boyd handed over only $1,000 and demanded to see the girl before delivering the remainder. The suspect went to his car two blocks away and returned with Maria, sitting her on a log several paces away from Boyd.

Boyd then asked him for a cigarette and as Edwards moved from the girl to hand it to him, one of the hiding officers scooped up the girl "like a football" and moved her to safety.

Maria had not been physically abused, although she had been on a diet of crackers and water.

The Martins, who had put up a $5,000 reward that was swelled to $12,700 by other contributors, said they never gave up hope that their daughter would be found safe.

Casselberry May Hike Allowances

During its Monday work session, the Casselberry City Council agreed in principle with a resolution to increase the city employee convention allowances per person.

The resolution would allow an automobile mileage increase from 17 cents to 20 cents per mile and an overall meal allowance increase. Breakfasts would go up from $3 to $5, while lunches increase from $4.50 to $6.50. Dinner allowances jump from $6 to $8 said Councilman Bill Grier.

The resolution, titled Ordinance 386, is designed to replace the expired ordinance, which was adopted two years ago. The proposed ordinance will abolish the former requirement that city employees pay hotel expenses from their own pocket if the convention site is within twenty-five miles. It will be presented for final vote Aug. 24.

Councilman Jim Lavigne said the old 25-mile radius proposal should be maintained and added, "I'd go for 50 miles. I can see some potential for abuse."

Councilman Tom Embree disagreed. "I think 50 miles is unreasonable with gas prices the way they are."

The council voted four-to-one in favor of the resolution with Lavigne dissenting.

If approved, the resolution would be adopted in time for the Florida League of Cities convention, to be held at the Sheraton Twin Towers in Orlando, Oct. 21 to Oct. 25.—KATHY GRANT

PUBLIC NOTICE REGARDING DRIVEWAY PERMIT FEES

Effective September 1, 1981 Seminole County will impose a series of new engineering inspection fees for certain categories of approved land development, utility construction, and work authorized by permit in county road right-of-way. Included in these fees will be a charge of $25.00 for review, issuance of permit, and inspection of all residential driveways that will connect to the edge of a county road within the county right-of-way, or $50.00 for commercial driveways.

Permit applications may be obtained and fees paid at the Seminole County Public Works Department, 4304 South Orlando Drive, Sanford, Florida; also known as the County Operations Center on U.S. Highway 17 N.E., approximately four miles south of Sanford. For information, telephone 322-2300, ext. 149.

'Mom, Don't Get Lost Again,' Begs 3-Year-Old Kidnap Victim

CORONADO, Calif. (UPI) — Three-year-old Maria Martin, rescued from a kidnapper after 10 days by a daring police play, sobbed in her mother's lap, "Mom, don't get lost again!"

Donald and Marjan Martin of Provo, Utah, frequently broke down in tears while trying to explain their gratitude during a news conference at police headquarters Tuesday. They became so emotional they had to leave.

Maria was kidnapped Aug. 8 when Mrs. Martin, 40, left her alone briefly behind their motel. She was rescued by police at a ransom drop site and Hubert Gene Edwards, 46, was arrested for kidnapping.

"Our prayers were answered," Martin, 65, said. "I'm breaking up. We are just ordinary people. Rich people — sometimes people want their money — but we are just ordinary people. I just don't understand it."

Maria was asked what she wanted most, now that she was home safe and sound. She was unable to form the right words and her father answered, "She wants Donnie (her twin brother)."

The Martins wept and Mrs. Martin halted the news conference with, "That will be all."

When the kidnapper demanded $5,000 cash ransom Monday night, officers provided money from their pockets and notified their wives to make withdrawals from automated bank tellers until the ransom money was accumulated.

The Martins wept and Mrs. Martin halted the news conference with, "That will be all."

When the kidnapper demanded $5,000 cash ransom Monday night, officers provided money from their pockets and notified their wives to make withdrawals from automated bank tellers until the ransom money was accumulated.

Then, 18 Coronado policemen, relief officers and civilian personnel were rushed to the drop site at the old ferry building, where they posed as drunken sailors and winos. Some hid in trees.

Police Chief Jerry Boyd, posing as a relative of Maria's parents, took the money and met a man with a ski mask at the site. Boyd handed over only $1,000 and demanded to see the girl before delivering the remainder. The suspect went to his car two blocks away and returned with Maria, sitting her on a log several paces away from Boyd.

Boyd then asked him for a cigarette and as Edwards moved from the girl to hand it to him, one of the hiding officers scooped up the girl "like a football" and moved her to safety.

Maria had not been physically abused, although she had been on a diet of crackers and water.

The Martins, who had put up a $5,000 reward that was swelled to $12,700 by other contributors, said they never gave up hope that their daughter would be found safe.

SURPRISE BIRTHDAY CAKE

Rosa Johnson, 801 Bay Ave., Sanford, a participant in the Meals-On-Wheels Program, received a surprise—a cake—when her meal was delivered on her birthday, Aug. 12. The birthday cake was made and donated by Joan Cameron, president of the Cake Arts Society, Sanford. Mrs. Cameron said one of the functions of the society is to provide free birthday cakes to meals-on-wheels recipients.

Birth

Mr. and Mrs. Roger (Debra) Burma, 1505 W. 25th St., Sanford, announce the birth of a son, Troy Christopher, who weighed in at 7 lbs., 7 oz., on Aug. 8, at Seminole Memorial Hospital.
Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Benny Burma and Mr. and Mrs. Art Garrison, all of Tampa.

When you think of a kitchen, do you imagine good smells, warm feelings, happy times and a place where the family gathers? If so, you are in agreement with Darcy Bono. "My kitchen is the heart of my home," she says.

Darcy and her husband John live on Abbott Avenue. They have been married six years and have no children. John is a construction foreman with the Fred George Concrete Corporation and Darcy describes herself as a homemaker and a caretaker of children. "I say caretaker of children," Darcy explained, "because I really do care for them."

"Unfortunately in the six years John and I have been married, we have been unable to have children. So, when a friend of mine needed a babysitter for her children, while she worked, it seemed only natural for me to keep them. Then other friends heard about it and I now keep their children also," she said.

"I enjoy the children and I take pleasure in being a part of all the special things they say and do. They help fill a certain void I have, not having my own," she added.

"The kids feel very important when they get to help in the kitchen. I let them wash vegetables, stir, mix and set the table. They are so proud of themselves when they see something they have helped prepare on the table for lunch," she smiled.

"I like to cook and both John and I enjoy eating. Casseroles and desserts are my favorites. I'm always looking for new and different recipes to try," Darcy said.

In their spare time John and Darcy enjoy boating, skiing, fishing and camping. "We try to take the boat out every weekend and every chance we get," she said.

Darcy suggests involving your children in the kitchen. "You will be surprised at just how much fun it can be," she said.

DUMP CAKE

1 package yellow cake mix
1 can cherry pie filling
1 can crushed pineapple (No. 2 can)
1 cup flaked coconut
1 package sliced almonds
2 sticks butter

In an 8" x 12" baking dish pour pineapple and juice; spread evenly over bottom of dish. Pour on top of pineapple cherry pie filling, spread evenly. Sprinkle cake mix over fruit and spread evenly. Slice butter and place over cake mix covering it well. Sprinkle coconut over butter; sprinkle almonds on coconut.

Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour and 15 minutes or until bubbly.

cream of chicken soup. Pour into casserole dish. Melt butter. Dip each piece of chicken in butter and pack on top of rice. Bake at 350 degrees about 1 hour and 15 minutes of until chicken is done.

SQUASH CASSEROLE

1 package yellow squash
1 small package Pepperidge Farms bread crumbs
1 can cream of chicken soup
1 8 oz. container sour cream
1 carrot
1 onion
1 stick margarine

Wash and slice squash. Boil in water with onion until tender. Drain well. Mix in large bowl, cream of chicken soup and sour cream. Melt stick of margarine, sprinkle in 1/4 package of bread crumbs until moistened by margarine. Pour into cream of chicken and sour cream. Mix well. Grate 1 carrot and mix in. Gently mix in squash and pour into casserole dish. Sprinkle remaining bread crumbs on top. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 to 35 minutes.

PISTACHIO CAKE

1 package yellow cake mix
1 package pistachio pudding (3 oz.)
3 eggs
1 cup club soda
1/2 cup oil
1 teaspoon almond extract
1/2 cup pecan nuts

Mix all above ingredients well. Pour into greased Honda cake pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes. Frost when cake is cooled.

PISTACHIO CAKE FROSTING

1 package Dream whip
1 package pistachio pudding
1 teaspoon almond extract
1 1/2 cups milk

Mix all ingredients until frosting stiffens. Spread over cake.

BAKED UP BISCUIT BAKE

2 pounds ground beef
1 can of ten biscuits
1 can tomato sauce (8 oz.)
1 medium onion
1 1/2 cups medium or sharp Cheddar cheese
1 egg
1 8 oz. container sour cream

Brown beef with onion; add dash of garlic powder, salt and pepper. Drain grease off beef and add tomato sauce. Simmer. In bowl mix beaten egg with sour cream and 1 cup of cheese. Add to beef mixture. Split biscuits in half; place 5 of the halves in bottom of casserole dish, pour beef mixture over spreading evenly. Place remaining biscuits on top to form a crust. Sprinkle remaining cheese on top. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

GREEN JELLO MOLD

1 package lime jello (small)
1 package lemon jello (small)
6 drops green food coloring
1 cup mayonnaise
1 cup sweetened condensed milk
1 number 2 can crushed pineapple (do not drain)
1 package 8 oz. cream cheese softened
2 heaping teaspoons horseradish
1 cup chopped nuts (pecan or walnut)

Dissolve both packages of jello in 2 cups of boiling water. Add food coloring and let cool. In large bowl combine mayonnaise, condensed milk, cream cheese, pineapple, horseradish, chopped nuts. Mix with hand mixer, cream cheese will stay lumpy. Carefully pour in jello, mix together. Pour into mold. Refrigerate until set.

Husband's Month's Leave Smells Fishy

DEAR ABBY: My husband's job requires him to be out of town quite a bit. Everything was going fine with our marriage until last month when he telephoned long distance to say that his company physician had advised him to spend a month away from his work and without any contact with his family!

I tried to reach the company physician to ask him about his advice, but his office informed me that the doctor will not be back until the end of the summer! I suspect my husband is having an affair. Abby, would a doctor make such a suggestion? Do you think a man of good conscience would follow such a suggestion? I need your opinion.

URGENT AND ANXIOUS DEAR URGENT: You give me very few facts to go on, but if you suspect your husband of having an affair, you must have good reasons. The whole thing smells fishy to me, too.

POOPED WITH PESTS DEAR POOPED: You may need some cooperation from your mother and Mike's on Every responsible physician has a substitute doctor covering for him in his absence. The only "covering" I see here is the company physician covering for a pal who needs an excuse to disappear for a month.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 10 1/2 years old, and my problem is a neighbor boy I'll call "Mike." He's 4. Mike keeps coming to my house and he rings our doorbell about 15 times! Then he'll ask if I'm home. If I am, I have to go out and play with him, and if I'm not home he just sits out in front and waits for me.

Sometimes Mike will go in our backyard and play on my swing set without asking anybody. If I tell him he can't swing on my swing without permission, he says he can because his mother said so. What should I do?

DEAR POOPED: You may need some cooperation from your mother and Mike's on this one. First explain to Mike that you can't play with him whenever he feels like it. If he rings your bell when you're not in the mood to play with him, say so. Then have your mother tell his mother that your swings should not be used without supervision. Better yet, they should be locked up, because if anyone is injured on them, the owner could be sued.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: When we have houseguests, we give them their own room, bath, house key and our extra car. We figure it's their vacation, and they should feel free to get up, eat, sleep and come and go as they please.

The question: When friends and relatives invite our houseguests to dinner or whatever, I don't think they should feel obligated to invite us, too.

My sister disagrees with me. What do you think?
FIRST-TIME WRITER DEAR WRITER: It depends on what the invitation is for. If it's a larger party to honor your houseguests, you should be invited. But you need not be invited to accompany them to every coffee klatch, tea, beer bust, tour of the city, shopping tour, zoo, art gallery and museum. There is no "rule." And where no rule exists, common sense should prevail.

By MEDCO

If you develop a sudden pain in the shin while running, should you "run it off" or rest? If that pain is caused by a stress fracture, the answer from physicians, trainers and professional runners alike is rest... and that rest should probably be of several weeks duration. Stress fractures can occur in the bones of the foot and in the two bones of the lower leg, and are caused by abnormal or repetitive forces on bone structures. They typically occur early on in a program of vigorous exercise, or after a significant change in routine, such as wearing a new pair or a different make of shoes. Increasing distance, or using a different route or surface. Stress fractures are quite often not detectable by routine initial x-rays and may only be noted when healing begins. A short rest and a change in the exercise program may save a lot of time - and pain - in the long run.

Southern Cooking

'If It Ain't Got Squirrel, It Ain't Got Soul'

The most creative, delectable cuisines of the world result when one people's cooking influences another's. Many of the distinctive dishes of the South are perfect examples.

For instance, the original settlers of the South were primarily British whose simple cuisine could be described as "meat and potatoes." However, the adventurous slaves from West Africa — Ghana, Liberia, Nigeria and Sierra Leone introduced their flair for bold and flavorful fare and developed a new, exciting cuisine, known today as Southern-style.

A widely celebrated dish with a fascinating history (and one that every Southern state now claims as its own) is Brunswick Stew.

Earlier versions of the stew called for a great assortment of ingredients; native African elements such as okra and hot pepper sauce were introduced by slave cooks. Squirrel was also a commonplace meat in the pot — as one Southern cook remarked, "If it ain't got squirrel, it ain't got soul."

To boost your repertoire of exceptional robust fare, request the free consumer booklet, "Sarah Rawls' Down-Home Recipes." It also provides helpful flavor and dollar-stretching food tips. ### BRUNSWICK STEW

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 chicken (3 to 4 pounds), cut in pieces
2 cups sliced onion
1 can (1 pound) tomatoes, undrained
1 cup chopped celery
1 cup chicken broth
1 teaspoon flavor enhancer
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon dried leaf marjoram, crumbled
1/4 teaspoon dried leaf thyme, crumbled
1/4 teaspoon dried leaf basil, crumbled
1 can (1 pound) whole kernel corn, drained
1 package (10 ounces) frozen lima beans
1 package (10 ounces) frozen whole okra
1 tablespoon cornstarch
2 tablespoons water
1/2 to 1/3 teaspoon hot pepper sauce

In large saucepot melt butter; brown chicken on all sides. Remove chicken and set aside. In same saucepot saute onion until golden. Return chicken to pot; add tomatoes, celery, broth, flavor enhancer, salt, marjoram, thyme and basil. Cover; simmer 35 to 45 minutes until chicken is tender. Add corn, lima beans and okra; simmer 10 minutes longer. In small cup blend cornstarch with water; add hot pepper sauce. Stir into stew; cook 2 minutes longer until gravy boils and is slightly thickened. Yield: 4 servings.

HUSH PUPPIES

1 cup white cornmeal
1 tablespoon flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon flavor enhancer
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
two-thirds cup buttermilk
1 egg, beaten
1/4 cup finely chopped onion
Vegetable oil

In medium bowl combine cornmeal, flour, baking powder, flavor enhancer, baking soda and salt. Stir in buttermilk, egg and onion. In a deep saucepan or deep fat fryer, heat 3 inches of oil to 375 degrees F; on deep fat frying thermometer. Drop batter by tablespoons a few at a time, into hot oil. Fry until light brown, about 2 to 3 minutes. Remove and drain on paper towels. Yield: About 24 hush puppies.

SAVORY FISH CHOWDER

4 cups water
2 teaspoons flavor enhancer
3 pounds cod or haddock filets, cut in 2-inch pieces
1/2 pound fat salt pork, diced
3 large onions, thinly sliced
3 cups thinly sliced, raw potatoes
1 can (13 ounces) evaporated milk
1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce
1/4 teaspoon white pepper

In large saucepan combine water and flavor enhancer; bring to a boil. Add fish; reduce heat; simmer 10 minutes. Drain fish and reserve poaching liquid. In deep kettle fry salt pork until golden. Add onion; cook until tender. Add potatoes and reserved poaching liquid. Simmer until potatoes are tender. Add fish, evaporated milk, tomato sauce and pepper. Simmer 5 minutes; do not boil. Yield: 6 servings.

TUNA-CREOLE PILAF

1/2 cup butter or margarine
1 1/2 cups uncooked, long-grain rice
1 large onion, sliced (1 cup)
1 cup diagonally sliced celery
2 medium-size green peppers, sliced
3 cloves garlic, minced
1 1/2 teaspoons flavor enhancer, divided
1 can (18 ounces) whole tomatoes in puree
1 can (13 1/2 ounces) chicken broth
1/2 cup water
2 bay leaves
1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon cayenne pepper
2 cans (8 1/2 or 7 ounces each) tuna, drained

In a flameproof 3-quart casserole melt butter; add rice, onion, celery, green pepper, garlic and 1 teaspoon flavor enhancer; cook, stirring frequently, until rice is golden brown. Add tomatoes, chicken broth, water, remaining 1/2 teaspoon flavor enhancer, bay leaves and cayenne pepper. Cover. Bake in a 375 degree F. Oven 40 minutes. Remove from oven, stir in tuna. Cover. Return to oven. Bake 10 minutes longer until heated through. Yield: 6 servings.

ORIENTAL PORK AND VEGETABLE STIR-FRY

3 pounds boneless pork shoulder, fat trimmed and cut in 2-inch strips
2 tablespoons dry sherry, divided
6 teaspoons soy sauce, divided
3/4 teaspoon flavor enhancer
1/4 teaspoon ground ginger
4 tablespoons vegetable oil, divided
3 cloves garlic, crushed
3 cups diagonally sliced carrots
2 cups diagonally sliced celery
4 scallions, cut in 1-inch pieces
3 cups shredded fresh spinach
1/2 cup dry roasted peanuts
1/2 cup water
1 1/2 teaspoons cornstarch
1/4 teaspoon sugar

In large bowl combine pork, 1 tablespoon sherry, 2 teaspoons soy sauce, flavor enhancer and ginger; marinate 15 minutes. In wok or large skillet heat 2 tablespoons oil with garlic. Add carrots; stir-fry 2 to 3 minutes. Add celery and scallions; stir-fry 2 minutes longer. Add spinach and peanuts; stir-fry 1 minute longer. Remove from wok and set aside. Heat remaining 2 tablespoons oil. Stir-fry pork until lightly browned, 5 to 7 minutes. In small bowl combine water, remaining 4 teaspoons soy sauce, 1 tablespoon sherry, cornstarch and sugar. Add to wok. Cook until sauce thickens slightly. Return vegetables; heat through. Serve with rice, if desired. Yield: 6 servings.

BRAISED CHICKEN IN LEMON-ONION SAUCE

1 1/2 cups chicken broth
1 1/2 cups chopped onion

1/2 cup lemon juice
3 cloves garlic, finely chopped
3 tablespoons chopped chili peppers
4 tablespoons vegetable oil, divided
1 tablespoon flavor enhancer
1/2 teaspoon ground ginger
1/4 teaspoon ground cardamom
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 chickens (2 1/2 to 3 pounds each), cut in pieces
4 teaspoons cornstarch
1/4 cup water

In large bowl combine broth, onion, lemon juice, garlic, chili peppers, 2 tablespoons oil, flavor enhancer, ginger, cardamom and salt; mix well. Pierce chicken with a fork; add to broth mixture. Cover. Refrigerate overnight. Remove chicken from marinade; reserve marinade. Pat chicken dry. In large saucepot or Dutch oven heat remaining 2 tablespoons oil; brown chicken on all sides. Drain fat from saucepot. Add marinade; bring to a boil. Boil rapidly 3 minutes. Cover; simmer 20 minutes or until chicken is tender. Remove chicken to serving platter. Dissolve cornstarch in water; add to saucepot, stir until mixture boils and thickens. Pour over chicken. Yield: 6 servings.

Brunswick Stew and Hushpuppies have Western African culinary roots.

Almonds add crunch to sandwich.

Almonds Make A Sandwich Extraordinary

Tired of the same old sandwich? Here's a quick and easy recipe, Almond Beef Sandwich Pocket, that transforms an ordinary sandwich into something extraordinary.

The recipe is really an updated version of the conventional Sloppy Joe—only better. It calls for many of the same ingredients—ground beef, tomatoes, onion and garlic—but it gets its special new taste and appetite appeal from flavorings like cumin and cloves and the addition of raisins, cheddar cheese and crunchy California almonds.

Serve hot and steaming in a pita-bread pocket, Almond Beef Sandwich Pocket is an easy-to-handle meal-in-one that's sure to satisfy even the heartiest lunchtime appetites.

It's nice to know, too, that this sandwich scores as high on nutrition as it does on good taste. Because the filling contains almonds—a rich source of protein, vitamins E and B2, magnesium, phosphorus and other important nutrients—you can be sure that you and your family will get an extra serving of nutrition with every bite.

ALMOND BEEF SANDWICH POCKET

- 1 pound ground beef
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 2 cloves garlic, crushed
- 1 can (14 1/2 ounces) whole tomatoes, undrained
- 1 beef bouillon cube
- 1/2 cup warm water
- 1/2 cup raisins
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon each cumin, cloves and pepper
- 1/2 cup blanched sliced almonds, toasted
- 4 pocket bread rounds, or 4 onion rolls
- 1 cup grated Cheddar cheese

In large skillet, brown meat with onion and garlic. Dissolve bouillon in water; add to meat with tomatoes, raisins, and seasonings. Simmer about 20 minutes, stirring occasionally, until liquid is almost absorbed. Stir in almonds. Serve hot on pocket bread, or open faced on onion rolls, topped with grated cheese. Makes 4 servings.

TO TOAST ALMONDS: Spread almonds in an ungreased baking pan or skillet. Place in a 350-degree oven or over medium-low heat on the stove top for 8-10 minutes (depending on the form of almonds that you are using) or until almonds are a light golden brown. Stir once or twice to assure even browning. Note that almonds will continue to brown slightly after being removed from the heat.

Older Kids Can Prepare Easy Snacks

Cooking with a microwave oven is so simple and safe, older kids can create plenty of tasty treats all by themselves.

As with any appliance, it's wise to teach your children the basics of safe operation before letting them use the microwave oven. Gather them together for a mini cooking class in your kitchen and review the fundamentals of microwave cooking. Begin with a "show and tell" demonstration that will familiarize them with all the features and controls of the microwave oven. Then pass along these smart pointers:

1. Always get permission before using the microwave oven, and ask questions if you're not sure about how to use it.
2. Use only the appropriate dishes and utensils. Do not use any metal containers and be sure to remove any forks or spoons before you turn on the microwave oven.
3. Read the recipe carefully and follow it exactly. Check the power setting, cooking time, suggested arrangement of food and special instructions before you begin.
4. Get in the habit of using a potholder when turning a dish or removing food from the microwave oven. Even though a dish may not be hot to the touch, this is a sensible practice to follow.
5. To avoid the possibility of burns, always lift covers on hot dishes with the opening AWAY from you, so the steam can escape safely.
6. Never put non-food items in the microwave and never run it while it's empty.
7. Keep the microwave oven clean. Wipe it off when you're finished cooking.

Give your children an A+ education in microwave cooking, and let them discover for themselves how easy, fast and fun it is to create their own special treats. Here are two simple dishes that are perfect for young chefs. They're from an exciting cookbook, Cooking With Confidence in Your Microwave, by the Microwave Cooking Center of The Campbell Soup Company. To order your copy of the cookbook, send a check or money order for $7.98 for each copy, along with your name, address and zip to: Microwave Cooking, P.O. Box 1468, Maple Plains, MN 55448.

1. Spoon soup over frankfurter in bun.
  2. Microwave on HIGH 30 seconds-1 minute or until hot.

Olive Oil Gives Salads Gourmet Touch

Pure, virgin olive oil as packed today, has been a secret ingredient for gourmets, dating back to Roman days. Salad dressings made with olive oil can vary amazingly. From sweet or tangy, creamy or clear, thick or thin, each dressing adds new flavor, new character, new excitement to any salad. Its unique ability to blend without cooking gives olive oil its magic.

Easily stored, olive oil can quickly become a cooking habit in almost any food preparation. You can work magic for everyday salads too.

CHICKEN, ORANGE AND RED ONION SALAD

- 4 cups diced cooked chicken
  - 1/2 cup diced water chestnuts
  - 1/2 cup sliced pitted black olives
  - 1/2 cup olive oil
  - 3 navel oranges, peeled and sliced
  - 3 red onions, sliced
  - Juice of 1 lemon and of 1 lime
  - 2 tablespoons chopped chives
  - 1 teaspoon salt
  - 1 teaspoon paprika
  - Bite-size salad greens
- Combine chicken, water chestnuts, celery and olives. Pour half of olive oil over chicken salad and toss. Place orange and onion slices in single layer in shallow pan. Pour remaining olive oil evenly over slices. Chill for 1 hour. Combine lemon juice, chives, salt and paprika. Pour half of mixture over chicken and half over orange and onion slices. Toss lightly. Line platter with bite-size greens. Heap chicken mixture in center. Surround salad with alternating orange and onion slices. Chill until ready to serve. (Serves 6)

MUSHROOM SPINACH SALAD

- 3 quarts trimmed young fresh raw spinach leaves, washed and drained
  - 1/2 pound raw mushrooms, sliced
  - 2 hard cooked eggs, sliced
  - 1-3 cup olive oil
  - 1/2 cup lemon juice
  - 6 anchovy fillets, chopped
  - 8 strips bacon, fried crisp and crumbled
- Combine spinach and mushrooms. Chill. Combine sieved eggs, olive oil, lemon juice and anchovies. Mash into smooth mixture. Before serving, pour oil mixture over salad and toss. Sprinkle salad with bacon. (Serves 6)

MARINATED ASPARAGUS WITH RED PEPPER

- 2 pounds baby asparagus, trimmed
- 1/2 cup water
- 1/2 cup fresh lemon juice
- 1/4 cup Champagne vinegar

1/2 teaspoon each minced garlic, ground cloves, ginger, coriander, rosemary and tarragon

1/4 teaspoon salt

Freshly ground pepper

1/2 cup olive oil

Thinly sliced red bell pepper (garnish)

Peel asparagus stalks if desired. Tie into a bundle. Bring water to boil in steamer or bottom of double boiler. Stand asparagus upright in pan. Cover and cook until tender about 4 to 5 minutes. Drain well. Set aside.

Combine lemon juice, vinegar, garlic, spices rosemary, tarragon, salt and pepper in large bowl. Whisk in oil. Add asparagus and toss to coat thoroughly. Cover and marinate in refrigerator 30 minutes. Drain and arrange on platter. Garnish with red pepper.

SALAD DRESSING

- 2-3 cup olive oil
  - 1-3 cup wine vinegar
  - 1/2 tsp. salt
  - 1/4 tsp. pepper
  - 1/4 tsp. garlic salt
  - 1 tsp. oregano
- Mix all ingredients thoroughly. Chill before using. Makes 1 cup.

A luscious peach layer cake, right, salutes the end of the summer season. Eggplant and Pasta Salad is a tasty make-ahead dish for a porch or patio buffet.

Labor Day

End Summer With A Cheer-Up Party

A holiday is always a pleasure since it means a break in the daily routine. But the Labor Day weekend marks the unofficial end to summer, a slightly sad goodbye to the languid and casual pace of the warm weather, and to summer friends at the beach or lake.

A perfect time to have a party! Call it a Closing-the-House party and no one will expect you to have matched paper plates or fancy glasses.

But what you can supply is a great menu. Barbecue, yes, one last one for the summer, and use that special marinade you've been saving for your tasty charcoaled chicken or ribs. And then something different — a delightful pasta and vegetable salad, with eggplant, green olives and tomatoes, colorful and lively with lemon juice and olive oil.

The blessing of this pasta salad is the ease of preparation since it can be made a day or two in advance and safely stored in a sealed bowl in the refrigerator. The exciting flavors get a chance to mingle together. And you get a chance to read on the day of the party.

You can use the same smart pre-preparation routine for dessert, which could be a most luscious three-layer cake built of tangy graham-cracker-crumbs layers and almond-flavored buttercream, and sparked with fresh peaches. Put the cake together the night before. If you store it in a large, sealed plastic-cake taker and refrigerate, it will stay fresh and gorgeous-looking until you're ready to serve it.

What to drink with this late summer bounty? How about old-fashioned lemonade, healthy and refreshing — a perky way to lead into an after meal sing-along with all good friends together.

GONE WITH THE PEACH CAKE

- 1 cup unsifted, all-purpose flour
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 2 1/2 cups graham cracker crumbs
- 3/4 cup butter or margarine
- 1 1/4 cups sugar
- 5 eggs, separated
- 1 1/2 cups milk
- 1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla
- 1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar
- 3 peaches, peeled and thinly sliced
- 1/2 cup chopped pecans or walnuts

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt; stir in crumbs. In large mixing bowl cream butter and sugar; add egg yolks, one at a time, beating well after each. Combine milk and vanilla; stir in alternately with dry ingredients. In large mixing bowl beat egg whites with cream of tartar until stiff peaks form; fold into batter. Spoon batter into three 9-inch greased and floured cake pans. Bake in a 350 degree F. oven 25 minutes until cake tests done. Cool layers in pan 10 minutes. Turn out onto wire rack; cool completely. Spread very thin layer of Almond Buttercream Frosting over one cake layer. Arrange peach slices over frosting. Repeat with second cake layer. Place third cake layer on top of second layer. Frost top and sides of cake with remaining frosting. Press nuts around side of cake.

ALMOND BUTTERCREAM FROSTING

- 1 cup butter or margarine, at room temperature
  - 2 eggs
  - 1/4 teaspoon almond extract
  - Pinch of salt
  - 6 cups sifted confectioners' sugar (1 1/2 pounds)
  - 1 to 2 tablespoons milk
- In large mixing bowl cream butter; beat in eggs, almond extract and salt. Gradually add confectioners' sugar, beating constantly. If necessary, add milk until frosting is of spreading consistency. Yield: 4 cups.

EGGPLANT AND PASTA SALAD

- 1 large eggplant, peeled
  - Salt
  - 1/4 cup olive oil, divided
  - 1/2 cup chopped onion
  - 2 large cloves garlic, minced
  - 2 large tomatoes, cubed (about 2 1/2)
  - 2 cups cooked pasta (shells, bows, etc.)
  - 1 cup chopped parsley
  - 1/2 cup sliced stuffed olives
  - 3 tablespoons lemon juice
  - 1/4 teaspoon salt
  - 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- Slice eggplant 1/2-inch thick; sprinkle with salt, let stand 10 minutes. Press out liquid; cut into 1/2-inch cubes. In large skillet heat 1/4 cup oil; saute eggplant, onion and garlic 10 minutes, stirring, until vegetables are tender. Cool to room temperature. In large plastic bowl with seal combine eggplant mixture, tomatoes, pasta, parsley, olives, remaining 1/4 cup olive oil, lemon juice, salt and pepper; mix well. Seal. Chill several hours, stirring occasionally. Yield: 3 quarts.

Foods Travel Well To And From Picnic

Chances are when you travel on the weekend, you'll carry food along. You might want to bring recipe ingredients for a special party or barbecue you're hosting.

It might be necessary, sometimes, to transport various cheese, meats or breads which you can't find easily in the country.

SPICY DOGS

- 1 pound kielbasa
  - 1 cup vinegar
  - 1/2 cup chopped onion
  - 1/2 cup sugar
  - 1 teaspoon dry mustard
  - 1/2 teaspoon ground turmeric
  - 1/2 teaspoon celery seed
  - 1/2 teaspoon salt
  - 1/2 teaspoon hot pepper sauce
  - 1 tablespoon cornstarch
  - 1 tablespoon water
- In medium saucepan cook kielbasa in boiling water 20 minutes; drain. Slice into 1/2-inch rounds. Place in a plastic container with seal. In medium saucepan combine vinegar, onion, sugar, mustard, turmeric, celery seed, salt and hot pepper sauce; bring to boiling. Reduce heat. Cover. Simmer 10 minutes. Mix cornstarch and water; stir into saucepan. Cook until mixture boils and thickens. Cool. Pour over kielbasa. Seal. Serve hot or at room temperature. Yield: 3 1/2 cups.

ORIENTAL CHICKEN WINGS

- 1 1/2 pounds chicken wings
  - 1/4 cup frozen lemonade concentrate, thawed, undiluted
  - 1 tablespoon teriyaki sauce
  - 1 tablespoon catsup
  - 1/2 teaspoon cornstarch
  - 1 tablespoon water
- Cut away tip of chicken wings at first joint; discard tips. Cut remaining wing sections apart at center joint. In small saucepan combine lemonade concentrate, teriyaki sauce and catsup; bring to a boil. Combine cornstarch and water; stir into lemonade mixture. Cook until glaze boils and thickens. Arrange chicken pieces on broiler pan; brush with glaze. Broil 4 inches from source of heat 4 minutes. Turn, brush with glaze, broil 4 minutes longer, on each side. Cool. Store in a plastic container with seal. Serve hot or at room temperature. Yield: About 14 appetizer pieces.

- ### MUSHROOMS AND ARTICHOKE VINAIGRETTE
- 2 cans (4 ounces each) mushroom caps, drained
  - 1 can (8 1/2 ounces) artichoke hearts, drained, quartered
  - one-third cup olive oil
  - 2 tablespoons wine vinegar
  - 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
  - 1/2 tablespoon chopped capers
  - 1/4 tablespoon chopped chives
  - 1/4 teaspoon Dijon-style mustard
  - 1/4 teaspoon salt
- In a plastic container with seal combine all ingredients. Seal. Marinate 4 hours or overnight. Serve at room temperature.

Lose Stomach Fat To Treat Hernia

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 43-year-old male. Four years ago I quit smoking and have gained 38 pounds. I'm 6 feet tall and weigh 168 pounds.

For the past three years I have been bothered by a hiatal hernia and constantly burn after eating.

Should I have an operation to repair the hernia, or does the hernia repair itself with a proper diet and medications?

Would losing the weight I gained relieve the hernia? I have followed all the directions of my doctor but nothing has helped much.

DEAR READER — I'm sure you understand that your hernia is through an enlarged hole in your diaphragm. We all must have a hole for the esophagus to pass through and join the stomach. A portion of the stomach slides through the hole into your chest and that is the hernia.

The pain you have is probably related to a reflux of acid digestive substances in your stomach backward into your lower esophagus. That area is not protected with a thick mucus cover, as is the stomach, and the acid causes the burning. Now, you can have a reflux and not have any hernia at all. The reflux may be related to a faulty closure mechanism at the junction of the stomach and esophagus.

You also can have a hiatal hernia and not have any reflux. Many people have such hernias and have no symptoms from them. It follows that if you have surgery and correct the hernia you may still have the reflux and the burning. No one can promise you that the surgery will solve your problem. In some cases it does help but usually conservative measures are best.

The things you should do are discussed in The Health Letter number 48, Hiatal Hernia, Esophageal Reflux, which I am sending you.

Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1351, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

One of the things you can do is lose weight if you have excess abdominal fat. Fat inside the abdomen will help push the stomach through the enlarged hole, so if you have accumulated abdominal fat, losing weight will help.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Do facial exercises really help a person look younger? I have been trying to exercise the temporal muscle by joining my teeth in a firm bite, flexing my jaw and temporal muscles hard. Then I place my fingertips on the temple on each side of my face and force my temporal muscles to move in a circular motion.

Instead of helping me look more youthful, could they actually make me look worse? The results have not been very satisfactory for me.

DEAR READER — About the most you can hope for is to maintain the size and strength of the muscles of the face.

That does help some. The skin will stretch with age anyway, but if you let your muscles deteriorate the loose skin will look even more like an empty sack.

I doubt your routine is the best. Try to raise your eyebrows against the pressure of your fingertips. Clench your jaw and open and close while those large jaw muscles are under tension.

Try to work your muscles over your cheeks and under your eyes. Whatever you find that enables you to work facial muscles against resistance is the way to do it for what good you will get. No, they will not make your face worse and may help some.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Thursday, August 20, 1981

YOUR BIRTHDAY
August 20, 1981

Try to establish some type of program for saving this coming year. Tuck a little away each week. You'll be amazed at how much you can accumulate by year's end.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Once you set your mind on a specific goal your chances for success are very good today. However, you're apt to waste a great deal of time getting motivated. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph, Mail #1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Avoid making impulsive decisions in your business dealings today. They could prove expensive. When you take time to size them up, you'll do well.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Timing is extremely important today where your goals are concerned. Failure is likely if you're too impulsive, but success is assured when you're patient and persistent.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't make decisions today based upon emotional premises. They could go awry. Judgments derived from practical analysis won't.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Unexpected changes could temporarily throw you off course today. Fortunately, you adjust well to shifting conditions and you'll quickly get back on track.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You're very adroit today at managing situations which associates find too complex. There's a good chance your talents will be required.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your initial assessment of a situation at work today could be erroneous. After you take a hard second look, however, you'll uncover the flaws.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Once you settle down to the tasks at hand today you'll be quite productive. Unfortunately, you may waste more time than you should before getting started.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your possibilities for material gains today are promising, but they are not apt to be too large, considering the energy and effort you'll expend.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Unfortunately, you may not find reliable helpers today to assist you with a small but significant task. Proceed, rather than wait for aid.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Word very carefully financial commitments you make to others today. You may have one amount in mind, while they'll be thinking of a larger sum.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Normally you're the type who treats others as generously as they treat you. Today you could, uncharacteristically, surprise them by being tightfisted.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

We have not seen George in action for some time, but here he is back with us again. He studied the hand a while before playing from dummy and ruffed in his hand, proceeded to lead a small spade and remarked, "I'm going to let you make your king of spades."

West ducked. He knew he would score his king later on and didn't want any part of George's generosity.

Now George was in dummy. He ruffed dummy's last low heart with his ace of trumps and led his last trump. West could take his king then or later but George was going to get to dummy to discard his four small diamonds on the last two trumps and the ace-king of hearts to come to 12 tricks with five spades, two hearts, two diamonds and three clubs.

There are other ways for South to make his slam, but George was playing in a team match. The other South lacked George's generosity. He tried to make seven and managed to make only five.

Plan A Beautiful And Bountiful Buffet

Give your guests something really special at your next party: you. Instead of shuffling back and forth to the kitchen, plan a beautiful, bountiful buffet, all made in advance. Enjoy your party and your guests.

A few suggestions and recipes from those world-renowned experts on hospitality, the people of Puerto Rico, might help. This menu should serve eight to ten.

AVOCADO BOATS:

1 can (13 oz.) red madrilene consomme
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1/2 cup cold water
1 envelope instant beef broth
4 medium ripe avocados
Lemon juice and wedges for garnish
Heat consomme. Soften gelatin in cold water. Stir into hot consomme along with instant beef broth. Pour into shallow pan and chill until firm.

Halve avocados. Remove pits and brush surfaces with lemon juice. Chop firm consomme finely and heap into avocados. Garnish with remaining chopped consomme and lemon wedges.

Other easy and tasty appetizers might include an assortment of cheeses and crudities (various cut-up raw vegetables) with a dip combining yogurt and mayonnaise flavored with Puerto Rican rum, Tabasco, grated horseradish and curry.

A hot dish should be the star of your show. Serve one made with brown rice and a generous assortment of fish and shellfish.

NEW WORLD PAELLA

1 teaspoon salt
1 bay leaf
1 cup beef or chicken broth
2 1/2 cups water
1 1/2 cups natural brown rice
2 cloves garlic, chopped
1/2 cup chopped onion
1/4 cup chopped parsley
1/4 cup olive oil
1 cup cooked green peas
2 whole canned pimientos, diced
1 jar (11 1/2 oz.) whole clams
2 pounds firm white fish filets, cubed
Seasoned flour
10 small hard-shelled clams, steamed open (or use 10 to 12 mussels)
1 1/2 pounds large shrimp, cooked, shelled and cleaned, tails on

1/4 teaspoon crushed red pepper
Combine salt, bay leaf, broth and water in large, heavy saucepan. Bring to a rapid boil. Stir in rice, cover, reduce heat and simmer about 45 minutes until rice is tender and liquid absorbed.

Red Sauce Base tops grilled chicken.

Basic Sauce For Barbecue, Sandwiches

A basic red sauce for that special barbecue flavor may be used with chicken and meat and even added to a bean dish.

Jazz it up a bit for chuckwagon chicken by adding some currant jelly, garlic and lemon juice. It makes a different form of Sloppy Joe that we'll call Lone Star Joe. These are hearty sandwiches that include potatoes and green pepper in addition to the meat or chicken base.

CHUCK-WAGON CHICKEN

1 recipe Red Sauce Base
1 jar (10 ounces) currant jelly
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 clove garlic, crushed or 1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
1 chicken (3 to 4 pounds), cut in pieces
Make Red Sauce Base. Add currant jelly, lemon juice and garlic; stir over low heat until jelly melts. Place chicken on grill over hot coals; cook 20 to 30 minutes, turning chicken every 10 minutes.

Brush with barbecue sauce; cook 10 to 15 minutes longer, or until tender. Heat any remaining sauce and serve with chicken. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 4 servings.

LONE STAR JOES

1 recipe Red Sauce Base
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1 medium onion, sliced
1 medium green pepper, seeded, sliced
2 cups sliced, cooked beef, chicken or ham
1 cup diced, cooked potatoes, drained
4 hamburger buns, split
Make Red Sauce Base; set aside. In large skillet melt butter; saute onion and green pepper until soft. Add meat, potatoes and Red Sauce Base; stir until heated through. Serve over hamburger buns. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 4 servings.

Red Sauce Base

2 tablespoons salad oil
1 medium onion, chopped (1/2 cup)
1 can (8 ounces) tomato paste
1 cup water
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon Tabasco pepper sauce
1/2 teaspoon salt
Heat oil in medium saucepan; saute onion until clear, about 3 minutes. Stir in tomato paste, water, sugar, pepper sauce and salt. Simmer 15 minutes. This kitchen-tested recipe makes about 2 cups.

Heat oil in skillet. Stir in garlic, onion, parsley and green peas. Stir-cook three to four minutes. Using a slotted spoon, remove ingredients from oil, draining well. Reserve oil in pan for later use.

Stir sauteed ingredients, pimientos and jarred clams into rice. Spread rice mixture in a greased 14-inch paella pan or large, shallow casserole.

Dredge fish cubes in seasoned flour and brown in reserved hot oil. Drain on paper towels. Add fish to rice. Add clams (or mussels) and shrimp. Sprinkle with salad dressing and pepper flakes. Cover. About 20 minutes before serving, place in a 350 degree oven until heated through. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Use cod, haddock, snapper, sole, or for richer flavor, mackerel. Lobster, crab or crayfish may be used, according to taste and budget.

Assorted muffins and a crisp salad may accompany the main dish.

MOCHA RUM PIE

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
one-third cup golden Puerto Rican rum
1/2 cup milk
3 eggs, separated
one-third cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
3/4 cup semi-sweet chocolate morsels

1 teaspoon instant coffee
1/2 pint coffee flavored yogurt
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar
1 1/4-inch baked pie shell

Sprinkle gelatin on rum to soften. Heat milk in top of double boiler, over simmering water. Beat egg yolks, sugar, salt and vanilla until very thick and creamy. Beat a little hot milk into eggs, then stir mixture into remaining milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened (about five minutes). Blend in softened gelatin, rum and chocolate bits. Stir until chocolate melts. Mix in instant coffee until blended.

Remove from heat and chill just until mixture begins to hold its shape. Beat egg whites with cream of tartar until soft peaks form.

Fold yogurt and whipped cream into chocolate rum mixture. Gently fold in egg whites. Spoon into pie shell and chill until firm. Garnish with chocolate curls and extra whipped cream, if desired.

Keep thirsty guests happy with refreshing Rum Runners. To make one drink, combine in jar of electric blender: four ice cubes, 2 oz. 151 proof Puerto Rican Rum, 1 oz. Triple Sec, juice of half a lime, dash of grenadine and a teaspoon of sugar. Process until foamy. Strain into glass filled with crushed ice.

You can be a graceful and gracious hostess with a made-in-advance menu like this one going for you.

Kids Find Magic At Home On The Range

FIRST IN A SERIES

When adults cook, it can be a creative experience. Often, however, it is merely another chore. But to children, cooking is more. It's magic!

A toddler's favorite play area is usually the kitchen; pots and pans his favorite toys. As they grow, youngsters remain entranced by the putting together of meals...the way gelatin sets and puddings go from liquid to semi-solid, the way crisp pasta softens in boiling water, and dough becomes bread after baking. It's entertainment, and it can be educational.

Experts in the field of child development indicate that there is a great deal to be gained by having children participate in the meal-planning and producing process. It can enrich the family relationships and encourage creativity, boost self-confidence and improve coordination. In the kitchen, a child can learn to develop organizational abilities and a cooperative spirit.

Menu planning can be an early introduction to the science of nutrition and the importance of eating well balanced meals. Grappling with measuring cups and spoons can lead to a better understanding of the formidable fractions that plague most fifth graders. The study of recipes and labels can help improve reading skills. And even the tiniest of tots find learning how to tell time easier when they're watching the clock's big hand for the moment that the cookies can come from the oven. Nourish minds as well as bodies.

Of course, there are negatives, too. It is generally faster, neater, and less demanding of one's patience to do it oneself. The rewards, however, are there, and supervision of initial efforts can reap them.

"Yes, I know it would be good for my child to learn to cook, but I don't think he can handle things carefully." You may ask, as do many parents, "How do I begin to teach him to cook?"

Kids can do much more than their parents think, report children's cooking school teachers. Unfortunately, most parents underestimate the abilities of their children. With patient instruction and encouragement, kids can learn to cook at a relatively early age.

The time to start is before the magic fades. The experts advise parents to start encouraging children to do simple things when they are very young and eager. But how do you know what your child is ready to do?

Light dumplings have cheese center.

Dumplings Interesting Side Dish

The puffy, tender goodness of dumplings has long been a favorite in Southern homes. Most often served topping chicken or another favorite main-dish casserole, Cheese Dumplings in Tomato Sauce is an interesting variation of this long-time favorite.

The dumplings, with a surprise center of melted Cheddar cheese, are steamed in a rich stewed tomato sauce. They are a perfect accompaniment with fried chicken (hot or cold), pork chops or as a nice change of pace with barbecue.

To get out of the hot kitchen fast, make the dumplings from biscuit mix which has buttermilk in the mix. Simply stir in milk and shredded cheese, knead and roll out. Cut dough into rounds and wrap around more shredded cheese. Steam for 15 minutes in tomato mixture for a deliciously different side dish.

CHEESE DUMPLINGS IN TOMATO SAUCE

- 3 tablespoons margarine or butter
- 3 tablespoons chopped onion
- 3 tablespoons biscuit baking mix
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon sugar
- Dash of pepper
- 1 can (28 ounces) whole tomatoes
- 2 cups biscuit baking mix
- Two-thirds cup shredded Cheddar cheese
- 1/2 cup milk

Heat margarine in 10-inch skillet over low heat until melted. Add onion; cook and stir until tender. Blend in 3 tablespoons baking mix. Mix in salt, sugar, pepper and tomatoes with liquid; break up tomatoes with fork. Heat to boiling; reduce heat. Mix 2 cups baking mix, 2 teaspoons of the cheese and the milk until soft dough forms. Gently smooth dough into ball on floured cloth-covered board. Knead 8 to 10 times. Roll dough about 1/4 inch thick. Cut with floured 3-inch cutter. Place 1 tablespoon cheese on center of each round. Moisten edge with cold water; gather edge and pinch together to seal securely, forming a ball. Drop dumplings onto boiling tomato mixture. Cover and simmer 15 minutes. 6 to 8 servings.

Of course, your child's age and skill level are the keys. Even a two-year-old is able to try a hand at stirring and adding light-weight ingredients to a bowl. A three-year-old should be able to pour liquids and to stir a cheese sauce mixture into macaroni which you have cooked, for example.

Also, starting children out with nutritious foods, rather than the typical cookie projects, sets an excellent example at the beginning and encourages an appreciation for a variety of wholesome foods. And cooking is a valuable experience for both boys and girls.

By four or five, children can peel oranges and eggs, tear lettuce for salads, wash vegetables, shape hamburgers and cookies, and even stir mixtures on the range. Their hand coordination and attention span is improving at this age, and they can accomplish more advanced tasks.

At about age seven a nationally-known children's cooking school begins accepting youngsters for its classes. By this age, children should be able to cut and chop ingredients, with adult supervision of course. They can also learn to measure and can follow instructions with several steps.

Learning to read opens up a whole new world to a child—and is a big step toward cooking independently. When a child can read simply-written steps of recipes, he is on his way to preparing a whole dish on his own.

By age 12, or sometimes younger, a child should be able to prepare a simple meal completely on his own, if you have cooked along with him since childhood. He has learned many techniques from you, enjoyed the experience, and now has the confidence to strike out on his own. As your child moves into the teen years, the rewards of your efforts can begin to be measured in terms of the easing of your own time in the kitchen. Many teens make a valuable contribution to the family work load by having dinner started when parents get home from work and by cooking some weekend meals.

This series on cooking with children includes a lesson on measuring, kitchen safety, and four recipes specially designed by the Kraft Kitchens as ideal for family cooking projects. The tasks handled by children will naturally depend upon the age of the particular child and his level of cooking skills. But the idea is to have fun, be creative, and then enjoy eating a nutritious meal.

Custard Macaroon Dessert and Citrus Sunburst Pie, right, can be made quickly on the busiest summer day with dessert mixes which cut the preparation time. Elegant Strawberry Party Cream Puffs, left, are suitable for a bridal party or other such event when the peak of perfection is the order of the day.

Serve Up A Tasty Dessert

Nothing can cool off a warm summer evening like a dessert served chilled from the refrigerator. Here are two delicious ideas that are sure to please.

For a heavenly treat, try Custard Macaroon Dessert. Moist coconut is baked into the cake. A smooth pudding is spread on top and then crowned with a rich chocolate, whipped cream frosting.

Pie lovers will find Citrus Sunburst Pie tastes as refreshing as its name sounds. It combines a crunchy nut-and-coconut pie crust with a light as a cloud fruit-flavored filling of whipped gelatin and yogurt.

Developed in the Betty Crocker Kitchens, both desserts can be made quickly on the busiest summer day. They start with dessert mixes which cut preparation time.

CUSTARD MACAROON DESSERT

- 1 package Boston cream pie mix
  - 1/2 cup whipping cream
  - 1/2 cup flaked coconut
  - 1 egg
  - 2 tablespoons shortening
  - 1 tablespoon water
- Prepare Filling Mix as directed on packet. Mix whipping cream and Glaze Mix in small bowl; refrigerate 1 hour. Heat oven to 350 degrees. Grease square pan, 9x9x2 inches. Mix Cake Mix (dry), coconut, egg, shortening and water. Spread in pan. Bake until light brown, 15 to 20 minutes. Cool about 20 minutes. Spread filling over baked layer. Beat whipping cream mixture until stiff. Spread evenly over filling. Refrigerate until chilled, at least 1 hour. 9 servings.
- High Altitude Directions (3500 to 6500 feet): Heat oven to 375 degrees.

CITRUS SUNBURST PIE

- 1 package pie crust mix or sticks
  - 1/2 cup finely chopped nuts
  - 1/2 cup flaked coconut
  - 1 cup boiling water
  - 1 package (3 ounces) lemon-flavored gelatin
  - 1 can (11 ounces) mandarin orange segments, drained (reserve syrup)
  - 1 carton (6 or 8 ounces) pineapple yogurt
- Prepare Baked Pie Shell, 9x1 1/4 inches, as directed on package except — add nuts and coconut with the water; cool. Pour boiling water on gelatin in medium bowl; stir until gelatin is dissolved. Stir in reserved orange syrup. Refrigerate until slightly thickened, about 45 minutes. Beat gelatin mixture on high speed, scraping bowl occasionally, until thick and fluffy, 3 to 5 minutes. Cut up enough of the mandarin orange segments to measure 1/2 cup. Fold cut-up orange segments and yogurt into gelatin mixture. Refrigerate until mixture mounds slightly when dropped from spoon, about 15 minutes. Mount into pie shell; refrigerate until firm, 3 to 4 hours. Garnish with remaining orange segments and, if desired, toasted coconut. Refrigerate any remaining pie.

STRAWBERRY PARTY CREAM PUFFS

- Cream Puffs:
- 1 cup water
  - 1/2 cup butter or margarine
  - 1 cup original pancake mix
  - 4 eggs
- Strawberry Filling:
- 1 package (3-1/2 ounce) vanilla pudding and pie filling mix
  - 2 cups fresh strawberry slices
  - 2 teaspoons orange flavored liqueur (optional)
- Strawberry Sauce:
- 2 tablespoons sugar (optional)
  - 2 teaspoons orange flavored liqueur or orange juice
  - 1-1/2 cups fresh strawberry slices
- Heat oven to 375 degrees. For cream puffs, bring water and butter to a boil in medium saucepan; add pancake mix. Stir vigorously until mixture leaves sides of pan and forms a ball; remove from heat.
- Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Drop by rounded tablespoonfuls onto ungreased cookie sheet. Bake for 25 to 30 minutes or until golden brown; cool.
- For filling, prepare pudding according to package directions. Stir in strawberries and liqueur. Chill.
- For sauce, sprinkle sugar and liqueur over strawberries; let stand about 1 hour.
- To assemble, slice tops off of each cream puff. Fill with pudding mixture; replace tops. Chill. Serve with strawberry sauce and whipped cream, if desired. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 30 cream puffs.

TROPICAL RICE PUDDING

- 1 cup uncooked rice
  - 2 cups water
  - 2 cups milk
  - 1 teaspoon salt
  - 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
  - 2 eggs, separated
  - 1 cup half-and-half (cream and milk)
  - 1/2 cup sugar
  - 2 teaspoons vanilla extract
  - 1 can (16 ounces) crushed pineapple, drained
  - 1/2 cup flaked coconut
- Combine rice, water, milk, salt, and butter in a 3-quart saucepan. Bring to a boil, cover, and simmer about 30 minutes, stirring occasionally. Beat egg yolks; add half-and-half. Stir into rice mixture. Add 1/2 cup sugar and vanilla. Cook about 3 minutes. Cool. Beat egg whites with remaining sugar until stiff but not dry. Fold into pudding. Spoon into serving dish. Spread pineapple over the top. Sprinkle with coconut. Serve cool or chilled. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

MRS. CIPELLI'S CHEESECAKE

- 3 eggs
  - 1 1/2 cups sugar
  - 12 ounces (1 1/2) Ricotta or cottage cheese
  - 1/2 cup milk
  - 2 teaspoons grated lemon peel
  - 5 cups cooked rice
- Beat together eggs and sugar about a minute. Mash cheese slightly and mix with milk and lemon peel; add to egg mixture. Beat or process in blender until smooth. Stir in rice. Pour into a buttered 9-inch square baking dish. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour. Serve warm. Top with lemon sauce, if desired. Makes 9 servings. Or use grated orange peel NOTE: Leftover cake may be covered with foil and reheated at 250 degrees about 30 minutes to restore its original fresh moist texture and delicious flavor.

Ostrich eggs may be eight inches long and weigh three pounds. The newborn chick can be a foot tall.

Hamilton Fights Image

'There He Was In His Suit, Tie'

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)—An image dies a slow, agonizing death. Consider George Hamilton, for years the image of the perfect gentleman, the gloriously stuffed shirt, the upper class snob with delusions of grandeur.

Not long ago, Hamilton was a guest on Johnny Carson's show. He showed up in the show impeccably dressed.

"There I was," Hamilton says, "in my suit and tie. And there was Mac Davis in blue jeans and an open shirt. I had had enough. Finally, I ripped my jacket off, ripped my shirt off and stood there, bare-chested."

(But he couldn't get his cufflinks off so he stood there bare-chested with the shirt dangling from his wrists. Images take a lot of killing.)

Through all the years of that earlier, stuffy Hamilton image, the actor says everybody had the wrong impression of him.

"I believe," he says, "that perhaps the public wasn't even sure there was a real me."

GEORGE HAMILTON

But there was a real George Hamilton, and he was diametrically opposed to the on-screen Hamilton, the in-the-society-pages Hamilton. His close friends knew the real person.

"I always played the—well, the George Hamilton type of role," Hamilton says, "but I wasn't like that at all."

He did impressions. He told jokes. He spoofed and laughed and kidded around. Hamilton wasn't a stuffed shirt to those who knew him and worked with him; he was more of a clown.

The crews laughed with him, and it was Hollywood crewmen who first suggested to him that he ought to try being funny on screen, as well as off.

He took their advice—it was something he wanted to do, anyhow—and that led to Hamilton's second career. He is a comic actor these days, and very successful at it, too.

There was "Love at First Bite," the Dracula spoof, very funny, very successful at the box office. And now there is "Zorro, the Gay Blade," just as funny and probably destined to be another box-office winner.

Next, for Hamilton the comedian—he has one script written with a great title (since the title hasn't been legally cleared yet, it can't be printed). Then there may be a "Love at Second Bite." Maybe a Zorro sequel or a Zorro TV series.

One tip—Hamilton says if a Dracula sequel is made, this time Dracula will be in Las Vegas.

QUOTE/UNQUOTE

What people are saying...

"It's much more dangerous to drive to the beach than it is to go into the water with sharks."

—Eugene Clark, a University of Maryland biologist, claiming that most sharks are normally harmless—and even timid.

"I do spur of the moment things like steam my face over spaghetti whenever I make it."

—Susan Sarandon, actress, on beauty tips.

"Not a day goes by that I don't receive at least one letter asking me what happened to Dave of HAL."

—Arthur C. Clarke, author, on why he decided to write a sequel to "2001: A Space Odyssey," which features Dave, an astronaut, and HAL, a computer.

Clark's new book, "2010: Odyssey Two," is to be published in November 1982. (Del Ray Books).

"I would hate to ever see it disappear."

—Nancy Reagan, U.S. first lady, on the kind of royal pageantry that surrounded the wedding of Prince Charles and Lady Diana.

"Once the players went on strike, the owners said this will be the last players strike in history."

Brent Musburger, sportscaster, on the 1981 major-league baseball strike. (CBS Radio)

"I pay people to say 'no comment' to questions like that."

—Pierre Trudeau, prime minister of Canada, when asked about a rumor that he was thinking about resigning in order to spend more time with his children. (People)

"You should put the perfume on the hot spots. I can tell you a few of those. But others—it's impossible."

—Sophia Loren, on how women should use her line of perfume. (Time Magazine)

"Since I've been able to talk, that's all anybody ever asked me: 'What's it like to be the daughter of Lucille Ball?'"

—Lucie Arnaz, 38, on her famous mother.

Be optimistic. If the horse is stolen, locking the barn will prevent you from taking a loss on what feed remains.

Phil Pastoret

The beanery's coffee urn is filled with all those last drops that a famous brand is good until.

Let KDR sponsor you in a new career. Start part time and be independent in two years or less. Success determined by your effort. Earning potential is unlimited. Call 323-7183 today for an appointment.
