Saudis Work On Oil Deal

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI)- A leading Arab economist said Sunday Saudi Arabia likely will hike its oil prices by up to $4 per barrel and trim production by $1 million barrels a day if other oil producers agree to freeze their prices for the rest of 1980. Marwan Iskandar, editor of the Beirut-based weekly newsletter an Nahar Arab Report and Memo, said such a package deal is the logical outcome of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries ministerial meeting opening in Algiers June 9. Saudi Arabia, the world's leading oil exporter and provider of nearly 24 percent of U. S. crude imports, has led efforts to restore pricing unity within OPEC in the face of sharp increases by hardliners, such as Libya and Iran. But, said Iskander in the current edition of the newsletter, Saudi Arabia's own $2 price increase earlier this month, bringing its oil to $28 a barrel in an attempt to reduce the pricing gap with others, "was a

Red Glow On Mountain

Leaves Experts Puzzled

Mount St. Helens is heating spots on the summit into a red glow, but scientists say they were wrong in reporting the formation of a "lava dome" in the crater and now say they don't know what the mountain will do

"The red glow is there. It is caused by molten rock nagma, but it is not sitting in the crater. It's there some place in the mountain," said Tim Hait, geologist for the U.S. Geological Survey. Sightings of a brilliant incandescent light in the crater were first reported Thursday by aerial obser-

Further observation, however, led scientists to say Sunday the glow was not caused by the actual presence of lava in the volcano's crater but by rocks heated by gas-releasing magma just beneath the surface.

Muskie's Barking May Become Meow

Few American secretaries of state have inherited as intimidating an array of difficulties as that confronting Edmund S. Muskie when he assumed office. Crises in Iran, Afghanistan, the Middle East, Central America and the Caribbean were unfolding against a backdrop of eroding American power and influence.

If Muskie was intimidated, it didn't show. He growled convincingly when the French declined to. boycott the Summer Olympic Games in Moscow. He lobbied hard, and with some success, for stepped up defense efforts by this country's NATO allies so that the United States could divert some of its forces to the Persian Gulf should that become necessary.

Moving on to Vienna, Muskie labeled the new Soviet diplomatic initiative on Afghanistan for what it was - a wholly transparent effort to win recognition for its client government in Kabul while enlisting the United States, Pakistan and Iran as diplomatic co-conspirators in the subjugation of the Afghan people.

Most importantly, Muskie apparently minced no words in his three-hour private meeting with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. Underscoring the blunt language of his earlier public remarks. Muskie made it clear that the United States remains completely unreconciled to Soviet aggression in Afghanistan.

The Muskie manner was in sharp contrast to the low-key, ever-conciliatory style of his redecessor, former Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance. But, of course, it will take more than gruff talk to repair the cumulative damage the Carter democracy' in Cuba. Perhaps these refugees administration has inflicted on American foreign will provide a valuable new perspective on policy. And President Carter, not Muskie, will surely remain the chief architect of that policy. Western Europe's fizzling response to lympics and for the imposition of full economic sanctions against Iran is a measure of just how much repair work has yet to be accomplished.

To give Mr. Carter his due, he has made a start with his decision to end a public preoccupation specifically aimed at those Third World with the American hostages in Iran. Muskie returned from Europe just in time to hear President Carter reiterate opposition to anything more than the most marginal increase in U.S. military strength.

Measured against that reality, the refreshing effectiveness of an American secretary of state who barks instead of meowing will evaporate in a

Why are there more than 60,000 Cuban refugees here and at military bases in Arkansas, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin while none have sought asylum in Nicaragua, Jamaica or Trinidad and Tobago?

If President Carter had a firm grasp on foreign policy, he might have scored a major propaganda coup by offering to share the recent flood of emigres with the nations of Central and South America, Africa and the Caribbean that view Cuba as a model of social, economic and political enlightenment.

Police found three bullet holes in a nearby awning, arrested Viera and made the charges against him. Jackson said he wasn't worried at first, but when realized the gun was real and became "very scared." Star Yankee pitcher Ron Guidry, feeling a sense of comic relief when he found out Jackson was not hurt, joked, "Now every time somebody shoots off an M-80 in the stands,

Horner, Braves Hammer Dodgers

The Los Angeles Dodgers found out Sunday what the Atlanta

Braves' inanagement has known since the season started it's difficult to make Bob Horner "knuckle" under. Horner, who refused to adhere to management's order that he report to the minor leagues earlier this season after a slump, demonstrated the form that had produced 56 home runs in his first two big league seasons by belting a pair of knuckleballs for home runs in leading the Braves to a 9-5

The 23-year-old third baseman, batting only .120 with one homer prior to the game, belted a knuckle-curve off Dave Goltz for a two-run homer in the third inning and hit a knuckleball off reliever Charlie Hough in the seventh for another homer. He also drove in a run with a sacrifice fly in the fifth. Horner, bothered by a bad back, was in the lineup for only his 16th game of the season and was playing for the first time in 13 days. He was taken out of the game after six innings when

Horner's hitting and two RBI by Dale Murphy withstood a two-run homer by Los Angeles' Steve Garvey and a three-run Phila shot by Dusty Baker. Diego 7-6, Montreal beat St. Louis 7-6 in 12 innings, Pittsburgh Sutter (8) and Blackwell. Wrouted New York 13-3, Chicago beat Philadelphia 5-4 and San

Chironomus crassicaudatus

The Sanford lakefront, plagued by black blind mosquitoes (midges) periodically for the past 10 years, is now enduring a different insect. This insect is another type of blind mosquito - a chironomus crassicaudatus - commonly known as the "Big Bottom" midge.

It is bigger and broader in all respects than the black midge. It is green striped and, like its cousin, the black midge, doesn't bite. At this point the green striped "Big Bottom" is more prevalent than the black midge in Lake Monroe and no one knows exactly why. Dr. Arshad Ali, who has been researching and studying the black midge at the Agriculture, Research and Education Center of the University of Florida on Celery Avenue, suspects the "Big Bottom's" prevalence may have something to dow with the fact the lake level is considerably lower this year than at the same time a year ago. The lower lake level is primarily due to the lack of rainfall in comparison with the same

"The lake has undergone tremendous changes in water quality and level," Dr. Ali said. "It is up slightly now, but last year's level at this time was higher because we had had more rainfall," he said. Dr. Ali said he first saw the "Big
