Sheriff Wants To Put Jail Inmates To Work

Herald Staff Writer

Talk about killing two birds with one Sturm sometime this month to discuss stone. Seminole County Sheriff John Polk thinks he has found a way to cure, 1) his problem of overcrowding at the county jail, and 2) the local manpower shortage resulting from cutbacks in a federal jobs program — put prisoners to work.

The idea has gotten tentative approval from Circuit Judges Kenneth Leffler and Joseph Davis Jr. as well as the county commission. All that remains is to work out the details of how many prisoners would perform.

The sheriff's proposal is a partial response to severe overcrowding at the jail, a situation which has gotten so bad that many inmais are forced to sleep on mattresses on the floor. Things become even more acute Friday through Sunday

The House Budget Committee will begin drafting a budget resolution Monday, three days after the Senate approved Reagan's requested $36.9 billion in spending cuts for the next

Chairman James Jones, D-Okla., held private meetings with committee Democrats Thursday and Friday aimed at reaching a consensus on spending reductions. Although Jones was still working on the package he will recommend Monday, he said it will include a $600 million Pentagon reduction that would come from cutting waste. The Senate made no reduction in military spending.

Interviews with committee members indicated Democrats will try to restore some funds for nutrition, education, health and energy programs.

Sunbelt Meets Cornbelt

'Goodies' Swap Delights Students

By CINDY MOOY Herald Staff Writer

They sent a box of oranges to their new friends and got back a can of dog food. But Josie Yeisley's fifth grade class at Geneva Elementary School considered the can of Alpo and other items they received last week a fair exchange.

The class has been corresponding with another class of fifth graders in Crete, Neb., since last October. The two classes were matched up-both are in small, rural towns-as pen pals through the Weekly Reader Writing Pals program.

After exchanges of letters, Mrs. Yeisley's class in Geneva sent a box of Florida citrus-oranges, grapefruit, tangerines, lemons-to Jan Morgan's class at Crete Elementary School in January as a sample of Geneva's in-

Last week, Mrs. Morgan's class sent the box back to Geneva, but filled with items representative of Crete and

Along with the dog food (there is an Alpo plant in Crete), came packages of grains from Crete Mills (bulgar wheat, soy bulgar, corn flour, corn meal, corn soya milk, brewer's grits, corn kibbles, corn flakes, export feed) with pictures of the mills; a University of Nebraska Cornhuskers cup; pencils from Farmland plant in Crete; matches from the local bank; copies of the Crete High School and 'Crete News' newspapers; soybeans, potatoes, radishes, an apple, Crete High School girls basketball team;

and, for the teacher, a set of steak knives from the Farmland plant.

Though one group of children knows orange groves, palm trees, tourists and sunshine, while the other knows cornfields, college football and snow, matched grade by grade and town size for town size, they are learning they have much in common though separated by hundreds of miles.

Writing about their families, friends and schools, the students have found common interests like football, friends, farm animals, and it seems, said Mrs. Yeisley, everyone has a horse.

Mrs. Yeisley said only one of her students had ever been to Nebraska and many of her students have never been very far from Geneva.

Besides the knowledge of how other Americans live, Mrs. Yeisley is particularly pleased with the enthusiasm for letter writing that the cultural exchange has brought out in her students.

"It's been a great stimulant for writing," Mrs. Yeisley said. "This is the best class of letter writers I've ever had."

Though they receive a grade for writing letters, "Some of them do it on their own," said Mrs. Yeisley. "I have some students who usually won't do other work without being pushed who have written long letters on their own."

"They really look forward to the letters. When the package came, but without the letters, they were excited about the box, but they said 'where are the letters?"

"When letters did arrive the day after package of marigold seeds to plant along the package, "they couldn't wait until with the name of their new pen pals. they were handed out," Yeisley said.

Each of the students have one pen pal they exchange letters with regularly. Mrs. Yeisley said one student was a little disappointed after writing a long letter of several pages, then only receiving a very short one in return, but she told him to write back and encourage his pen pal to

Three other classes at Geneva are also corresponding with schools in other small towns across the country. Peggy Packard's fourth graders have exchanged pictures and letters of themselves and their communities with a fourth grade class in La Farge, Wisc. The third graders in JoAnne Wilson's class have exchanged letters, pictures, Christmas and Valentine cards with a third grade class in Minot, N.D.

Pam Ashby's fourth grade class went a step further with a class of fourth graders in Eyota, Minn. They have been sending cassette tapes back and forth along with pictures. Each student in both classes wrote reports on some aspect of their town or state, then each made five minute recording on the tapes. Mrs. Ashby's class plans next to give first hand accounts of the space shuttle on the next tape and will include a recording of "Blast Off, Columbia," a country music song written by Jerry Rucker, the father of one of Mrs. Ashby's students.

In time, the classes may exchange marigolds-each class receives a

Reagan Is 'Satisfactory' But Running Slight Fever

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Reagan was in "satisfactory" condition Saturday with a slight fever, following removal of "dormant blood" from his wounded left lung, doctors report.

Dr. Benjamin Aaron, the president's surgeon, said Reagan's "recovery to date has been remarkable," but characterized Friday, when his temperature fluctuated between 99 and 102 degrees, as "a little bit of a setback."

Aaron, however, said there is still a "very real possibility" that Reagan could be back in the White House next week. He said, "This fever may set him back a day or two."

Doctors used a tube Friday to remove some blood particles Reagan had been coughing up from his wounded lung. Afterwards, he was reported to be resting comfortably.

Dr. Daniel Ruge, Reagan's personal physician, said the president has been put back on a "broad spectrum antibiotic" at George Washington Medical Center, pending the results of specific cultures.

Brady Off The Critical List

WASHINGTON (UPI) - "Press secretary at the White House," the recovering Jim Brady replied when asked by a doctor what job he had,

Brady, wounded in the attempted assassination of President Reagan, uttered the six-word response Friday from his bed at George Washington Medical

It was a good day for Brady, who underwent a 61/2hour brain operation Monday, that climaxed with doctors removing him from the critical list. He remained in intensive care, however.

Dr Robert Kobrine, a neurological surgeon, said it could take up to a year to determine if there is any impairment in Brady's capacity to function normally.

"I like to think that under the very best circumstances he could end up with no mental impairment," Kobrine said. "It's certainly too early to tell what his motor function will be like."

He said, "I can foresee a scenario where his mental capacity will be normal."

Toxic Bullet Didn't Explode

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The FBI has determined that the undetonated "exploding bullet" removed from President Reagan was done so without any of its toxic material leaking into his body.

The conclusion was made late Friday and immediately relayed to Reagan's physicians, lifting concerns that the president could face additional

Officials said if the lead aside, a primer used in blasting caps, had entered the president's system it could have sickened him. But there was no danger of it being fatal.

The bullet was extracted from Reagan's chest after Monday's assessination attempt. But the FBI did not determine it was a "Devastator" bullet until early Friday, following strong suspicions the previous day. FBI spokesman Jim Price said an analysis of the flattened bullet taken from Reagan's chest showed that its tiny cannister of lead axide was in tact.

Atlanta Victims Buried

ATLANTA (UPI) - Friends and relatives of the latest two victims of Atlanta's child killers gathered for separate funerals Saturday as authorities still sought to determine how one of them died.

Eddie Duncan, 21, a retarded black man whose death police say is part of the 20-month-long string of the least 22 murders, was to be buried following a late morning funeral.

Services for Timothy Hill, 13, a friend of Duncan, were planned at a different church early this af-

A source close to the investigation revealed Friday that some of the 24 missing and murdered children were known to frequent an abandoned house in the northwest part of the Atlanta considered a homosexual rendezvous.

Police work is not all chasing murderers and drug dealers. Frequently, the job can be downright tame. Just ask Sanford patrolman Carlos Monti.

It was about 4:45 p.m. Monday when Monti was called to the Handy Way at 1415 E. Celery Ave. where a man had reportedly stolen a toothbrush.

Monti got a description of the getaway car and set out in pursuit. Upon catching up with the alleged toothbrush bandits, Monti searched the car and occupants. But alas, no toothbrush was found.

Linda Hearsey, the 27-year-old Handy Way Clerk, conceded that she had not actually seen the suspect steal the toothbrush, but she swore she saw him leave with one in his hand, Hearsey told Monti that the store's toothbrush inventory was such that she couldn't tell for sure if any of the toothbrushes were missing.

Spend More Money On Robots

Researcher Tells Government

Tesar said the robot is cheaper than a man-hour by a factor of three. Robota can also carry heavier loads, move at higher speeds and work under more hazardous conditions than man, Robots can put in longer hours than man and they have a life expectancy of 10,000 hours between overhauls. By comparison, a car's life expectancy is 2,000 hours.

"The robot could be considered our new slave class," he said. There are disadvantages, too.

"They are terribly energy intensive. In some tasks, like a soap press to compress soap bars, linkage-type machines are more efficient," he said. "They are terribly imprecise relative to the linkage machines, although they compete well with a human.

"They can't write, they can't throw it is inconceivable for robots to throw or catch things accurately," Tesar said. The kinds of tasks robots already are performing well are spot welding, painting, picking up and placing things. Robots can do anything that requires a simple decision. Its "brain," or microcomputer, depends on sensors and vision (usually a television camera) for its decisions. While a Swedish firm manufactures a robot with $-1,000th of an inch accuracy in repeated activity, the best robots in the United States are 20, 30 and 40-1,000th of an inch. The best nonropotic industrial machines perform at 1-1,000th of an inch with high technology countries like accuracy.

"It would be a big mistake to oversell robot technology," said Tesar. "But we can't oversell robots as an industry. What we want to engender is more excitement in the robotics field." By 1990, industrial robots should represent a $3 billion-a-year industry. Tom Binford, of Stanford Research Institute, estimates that by the year 2000, one third of all jobs now done by humans will be done by robots.

Tesar is aware of the opposition to robots from labor unions and replies by pointing out that robots are mancontrolled.

"Let's keep the human coupled to the job," he said.

But Tesar said the robot is more reliable and durable than man and will increase productivity - ultimately broadening economic opportunity and raising the standard of living.

He is concerned about the lack of government leadership in the development of new technology, pointing to the Reagan Administration's decision to gradually eliminate $180 million in equipment money for university laboratories as well as science

He doubts that private industry will step into the breach and support longterm research at the universities in the same way government has.

"I believe the universities will move to the Department of Defense - there is no alternative," he said, "Even DOE might not be able to support the technology research we need. The DOD has purpose and mission, but to have it in that narrow a band is not good."

The Pentagon already is looking at robots to assemble nuclear warheads. defuse bombs and repair nuclear submarines. And Tesar said, "In the future, robots will be doing more and more of the fighting."

President Survived Assassin But Couldn't Escape Carson

President Reagan survived the bullet of a would-be assassin Monday, but even on his hospital bed he couldn't escape Johnny Carson.

Commenting on the former actor-president's call for cuts in federal subsidy of the performing arts, Carson quipped, "that's the strongest attack on the arts since he signed with Warner Brothers." And he added, "I'll bet he's up and around now."

1 Reagan's For Gun Control

President Reagan's step-daughter Patti Davis, an ardent support of gun control legislation, begs to differ with her father. Says Patti in the April issue of McCall's magazine, "The climate that has evolved in this country is crazy; people are getting robbed, raped, shot for no reason."

McCall's interviewed the 28-year-old actress earlier this year, long before her father was shot by a would-be assassin. In the interview Patti concluded: "I know his reasoning is 'If a criminal wants to get a gun, he's going to get one, gun control or not. I don't agree with him."

Magazine Attacks Falwell

Penthouse is embroiled in a $10 million legal battle with the Rev. Jerry Falwell, head of the Moral Majority, over an interview with him published in the magazine last month. But that didn't stop the magazine from devoting two pages in its April issue to Falwell. This time it ran verbatim a letter which it said had been sent by Falwell to his supporters.

It pleads for "gifts of $25, $50 or even $75" for a legal war chest to fight the magazine. Falwell contends he granted the interview to two writers who deceived him in saying they were working on a book and for a London newspaper. Said Penthouse in a brief note above the letter: "We believe the contents speaks for itself."

Many country fans were shocked to see Willie Nelson's bare face during his rendition of his Oscarnominated song "On The Road Again" at the Academy Award ceremonies this week.

'Snortin' Norton Losing Snoozing

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) - Disc jockey Larry "Snortin" Norton isn't doing much snoring these days.

Since 10 a.m. March 19, he has foregone all but the most minimal shut-eye to become the Guinness Book of World Records' most durable broadcast insomniac ever.

For all but two hours a day, he has spun records, run ads and joked with WGRQ-FM's listeners to benefit the Easter Seals campaign because businesses pledged to make donations for every hour he stays on the air. He hopes to raise several thousand dollars through pledges from local businessmen and donations from amazed listeners.

On Thursday, he broke the official Guinness mark of 14 consecutive days on the air, set in March 1979 by Bill Tinsley, a disc jockey at WATN in Watertown, N.Y.

"I'm in my second wind," Norton, sounding surprisingly alert, said after breaking Tinsley's mark. "The television crews are real disappointed I'm not on the floor."

Norton plans to continue until 10 a.m. April 8, amassing 20 days on the airwaves.

Norton accumulates his alloted five minutes an hour sleep and crawls into bed at the station for about two hours

Crisis Management Obviously Needed

Organizing a crisis-management team created a crisis in its own right within the leadership of the Reagan administration. It appears to be settled, but it was not very well managed.

Regrettably, the bruised feelings of Secretary of State Alexander Haig are not the only damage. President Reagan made it a point when he took office to anoint Mr. Haig as the chief spokesman and adviser on foreign policy. The president has now reiterated that this is true — even though he has picked Vice President George Bush to coordinate the government's response to an international crisis or national emergency.

Mr. Haig still has the president's confidence, and no doubt will be speaking out on foreign policy issues with the same strength we have heard up to now. But having lost an embarrassing battle for turf within the official family, it is less certain whether he will continue to command the image of authority that added a valuable measure of force and credibility to his policy statements.

This is a price Mr. Reagan will have to pay for his decision to give the vice president a responsibility which Mr. Haig thought should be his own. Mr. Bush is eminently qualified by experience and by the authority of his elected office to fill the assignment, but only time will tell whether the structure Mr. Reagan envisions for crisis management is going to work smoothly, and thus whether giving Mr. Haig less than a dominant role will have been worth the price.

The president himself, of course, is the ultimate crisis-manager in any administration, just as he bears final responsibility for foreign policy regardless of how it is presented to the world. Mr. Reagan is not the first president to face domestic quarrels in the way cabinet members, security advisers, intelligence officials, and others provide information and advice he needs — whether under the pressure of crisis or in the development of overall policies.

Strong personalities are a plus for heading executive departments and agencies, but every president in recent times has had to take innovative steps to deal with the tendency for some sides and cabinet members to overshadow others. Regardless of organization charts, presidents to some extent must play it by ear.

To say that Mr. Haig's outspoken style has become a problem for Mr. Reagan is to overlook the role that the president's own decisions have played in setting the stage for the fuss that broke into the open recently. The relatively low profile assigned to National Security Adviser Richard V. Allen in the foreign policy structure may have had more than a little to do with the choice of Mr. Bush for a job in the White House, which security advisers have filled in other administrations.

Mr. Haig did not help matters by going public with his lack of enthusiasm" for the presidents choice. His candor can be respected, but the furor he created should remind him that sometimes discretion really is the better part of valor even for a former general serving as a secretary of

The tension and tempers brought to the surface in this affair could be considered a dry-run in crisis management for the Reagan team. It appears to have settled who will be doing what in case any of the foreign problems now on the horizon should develop into a genuine crisis. From that standpoint, it can have a positive effect for

Around

Last week I was bemoaning the fact that I had been attacked — by several bugs that wouldn't seem to let go.

It can get pretty bad when Spring Fever strikes to such a degree that the sound of sleep is all you can hear.

But things are different this week.

It is spring for a fact and the Easter Bunny is getting rehearsed to lead the annual famous parade just two weeks.

Members of the Pilot Club of Sanford herald Easter every year with the sale of perfectly gorgeous decorated eggs resting on a small box filled with candy eggs. Proceeds from the sale of these eggs go toward the club's scholarship fund as well as other charitable endeavors.

The eggs are on sale at both Flagship Banks in Sanford, the Sanford offices of Dr. Richard Dougherty or by calling Sue Stevenson.

Spring comes in various forms and for the volunteers serving in the Retired Seniors Volunteer Program (RSVP) of Seminole County their 1981 Recognition Luncheon was a longawaited spring fling.

Oh, to follow in the footsteps of vivacious Margaret Williams. She's the 88-year-old RSVP volunteer who would put most girls half her age

Spring is in the air, for sure, when you notice crisp white Priscilla curtains flapping in the gentle April breezes on an outside clothesline. And how about that young couple moseying along the road holding hands? It's the season when "The Love Bug will Bite You if You Don't Spring is much more — such as Mona Walker in a straw hat passing out magnificent roses. But Mona said she didn't grow them.

This week I also noticed an elderly man, stooped for his years, loaded down with fishing gear and walking toward Lake Monroe. Two young, impish boys tossed stones at each other in the background. A curvaceous girl in a bikini was sprawled out on a lawn basking in the first days of springtime.

I may never know the monetary side of personal wealth, but this week I really know what it is to feel rich - truly rich.

I have hand picked over three dozen roses from the garden that I have hand cared for. A lot of effort has been involved, but the results are well worth it all. "Rewarding" is the word.

Concern And Greed In Atlanta

It seems that nearly everyone in the United States wants to help the families of Atlanta's murdered children and the police who are searching for their killer or killers.

But, sadly, a few people simply want to help themselves.

Assistance of all kinds has been flowing into Atlanta.

The federal government has provided $1.5 million to aid in the search for the murderer or murderers of at least 20 black children and another $979,000 for related programs.

Two of the world's highest-paid entertainers - Sammy Davis Jr. and Frank Sinatra — donated their time and talents to raise $100,000.

David Duke, a one-time member of the Ku Klux Klan and a full-time white supremacist, donated $1,400 toward the reward.

Countless Americans have volunteered their advice in person and by telephone, telegraph and mail. More than 13,000 psychics have offered their insights to the police. In Chattanooga, Tenn., some 1,000 people attended a rally to denounce the Atlanta

In Washington, D.C., a Catholic priest took up a collection for the bereaved families.

In Philadelphia, a grandmother is campaigning to get residents of her city to wear green ribbons in sympathy for the victims. In Rhode Island and South Carolina, state legislators asked their governments to offer

At the U.S. Capitol, black and white lawmakers have introduced legislation king an extraordinary appropriation for Atlanta's task force on missing and murdered children. All of this concern is heartwarming. It demonstrates that we can become one people, that we aren't always the narrow, selfish, inner-focused "me" generation that social commentators say we have become.

The prayers and symbolic support are much appreciated. So in the money.

Most of Atlanta's murdered children came from families of modest or meager means.

Many came from single-parent homes. Many of the children were accessible to their killer because they were out in the streets, looking for a chance to earn an extra dollar by selling car deodorizer or carrying groceries to shoppers' cars. A few of the families could not even afford the funeral expenses. At least one has had trouble paying rent. The investigation is expensive, too. And additional expenditures may have to be made. For example, school courselors say that Atlanta's children are suffering great psychological stress and that extra efforts must be made to keep them mentally healthy while the crisis continues.

Amid this outpouring of grief and concern, it seems preverse to discover evil and greed.

Yet, two men were arrested in Atlanta in connection with a fraudulent fund-raising scheme purporting to help the murdered children's families. In truth, the plan would have helped no one but the fund-raisers

Elsewhere across the country, others will inevitably attempt to reap selfish profit from the Atlanta tragedles. Others will take up collections without authorization. Many wellmeaning people will be victimized.

Watch Out."

JEFFREY HART

It's The Real Roots

It is always tremendously exciting for me to come across a new and important author, a writer who did not exist for my own consciousness yesterday but who must form part of my aesthetic landscape.

There has just come to my desk a new novel called "The Chaneyville Incident" by David Bradley, a 3-year-old black writer and college professor of remarkable talent. His novel is what "Roote" might have been if Alex Haley had been able to write.

in "The Chaneyville Incident," Joseph Washington, a young black historian, seeks to find out the truth about the deaths of his slave grandfather and his moonshiner father. He uncovers the previously little known existence of an underground railroad for escaping slaves in central Pennsylvania and a rich fabric of stories concerning it. The climactic story concerns 13 slaves who escaped northward, hotly pursued, and were about to be recaptured. Rather than return to slavery, they asked to be killed, and were.

By focusing on this story, Bradley means to construct a powerful parable about slavery, and he succeeds in doing so with enormous richness of detail and narrative power.

He has a fertile and amusing intelligence, and one of the things he does so successfully is weave into his narrative discursive-sections, little essays really, in which the seemingly insignificant and mundane features of experience produce a kind of luminous insight,

"America is a classed society," writes Bradley, "regardless of the naive beliefs of deluded egalitarians, the frenzied efforts of misguided liberals, the grand pronouncements of brain-damaged politicians. If you doubt it, consider the sanitary facilities employed in America's three modes of public long-distance transportation: airplanes, trains and buses.

"America's airports are built of plastic and aluminum. They gleam in the sun at noon, glow, at night, with fluorescent illumination.

They are reached most conveniently by private autos, taxicabs, and 'limousines' ... The companies that operate airplanes are known by names that reek of cosmopolitan concerns: American, National, United, Trans World, Pan American. The average domestic fare is on the close order of two hundred dollars, and the preferred mode of payment is via 'prestige' credit card — American Express, Diners Club, in a pinch Carte

Blanche. The sanitary accommodations, both in the airport and on board the plane, are almost inevitably clean. Soap, towels, and toilet paper are freely available ... Most significantly, the faucets turn. The sinks drain. The Johns flush ...

"America's train stations are built of granite and brick, smoked and corroded from 'he pollution in city air. Their dim, cavernous hallways sigh of bygone splendor ... The sanitary facilities associated with rail travel are somewhat less civilized than those associated with travel by air. In the station there is usually only one central rest room for each sex, that one poorly attended ... Perhaps 50 percent of the johns are operable at any one

"America's bus stations tend to lurk in the sections of town in which pornographic materials are most easily obtained ... The preferred mode of payment is cash ... The sanitary accommodations are much in keeping with the rest of the scene. Inside the station, the rest rooms are of a most doubtful nature; usually they are wholly or partly closed for repairs ... The on-board accommodation is hardly better. The john, which is not even supposed to flush, is merely a seat atop a square metal holding tank ..."

The central subject of David Bradley's book is grim enough, slavery and violent death. But he has a very sharp eye for social observation, and he writes with, often, genuine

Fish swimming around in glass tanks affect people in divers ways. Basically, you either dig them or you don't.

The Reagan administration apparently doesn't.

It was revealed recently that the president's budget-cutters had drained off $250,000 needed to keep the National Aquarium open in the coming fiscal year.

In consequence, it now appears that the 108year-old aquatic life exhibit will be closed by the end of September.

This is the sort of economizing up with which Mike Kirwan would not have put.

Not for nothing was he known as the fish's best friend in Congress. It was his quixotic dream to adorn the capital with a new $20 million National Fisheries Center that he envisioned as the Taj Mahal of oceanariums.

Had it ever gotten off the drawing-board, this many-splendored, three-story complex would have made the existing 60-tank facility seem like a guppy bowl by comparison.

Its, ah, high-water mark was reached in 1962. Congress authorized $10 million for fish edifice work that year. But President Kennedy's desk - he signed the legislation within 10 days of its passage - was as far as the project got.

After a period of backing and filling, hemming and hawing and second thoughts about actually appropriating the money, the aquarium finally fell victim to President Nixon's Vietnam War moratorium on construction in the capital.

Kirwan having died in the interim, the plans were never revived. But while they were sloshing around in Congress, they engendered some of the 20th Century's soggiest debate.

This was before Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., began handing out "Golden Fleece Awards" for what he regards as notable specimens of federal extravagance. So Proxmire merely dubbed Kirwan's piscatorial proposal the "fish folly of 1962."

The redoubtable Rep. H.R. Gross, R-Iowa, suggested that "members of the finny tribe might be offered an opportunity to share the swimming pool in the new $100 million House office building."

Some lawgivers ridiculed Kirwan's pet as a "gold-plated fish hotel" and the ever-vigilant Sen. Frank Lausche, D-Ohlo, noted that it had "no relationship to the national defense"

But Kirwan resisted all efforts to pull the plug.

"The family that fishes together stays together," he philosophized in his inimitable

WASHINGTON— If the city of Detroit tries to demolish Harold and Bernice Kacsynski's home, its bulldozers may have to face off against an Army tank. That's how strongly the Kaczynskis feel about the city's proposed move to wipe out the small, blue-collar neighborhood of Poletown to give General Motors room for a new Cadillac plant.

Harold Kaczynski if 65; his wife is 59. They bought their modest home 15 years ago for $4,500, after being kicked out of their old home to make way for another GM factory. The city has offered them $11,500 for their home, but after 15 years of improvements and inflation, Bernice Kaczynski says it's "not a good

The tank? Bernice says she'ds going to borrow a friend's semi-tractor and haul the World War II tank from a nearby monument to put in the front yard. "My husband was in the Army, she told my associate Tony Capaccio. "He knows how to use it." The Kacrynskis, of course, aren't the only people who would be displaced by the city's condemnation proceedings. Their house would be only a small part of a vast parking What GM is after is 465 acres - which would effectively obliterate Poletown. The takeover would destroy 1,000 homes, more than 100 small businesses, 16 churches, two schools and a hospital. Some 3,500 residents would become displaced persons.

So why is the city doing this to Poletown? The answer seems to be that Detroit, which has been the big automakers' private fieldom of more than half a century, will do anything to please General Motors. And GM is playing its usual high-handed game: If the city doesn't acquire title to the 465 acres by May 1, GM has implied that it will pick up its marbles and go somewhere else.

The Kaczynskis don't question Detoit's. need for a new auto plant, but they and their neighbors do question the haste with which the city is moving to kowtow to GM.

For instance, the law requires an "environmental impact statement" before a project like GM's can be approved. But last fall, when Jimmy Carter badly wanted Detroit's votes, the federal government granted the city an unprecedented walver which delayed the required statement.

This didn't keep the Michigan Environmental Review Board from appraising the statement, and the board's conclusion was devastating. The state body found the plan "incomplete, indefensible and misleading," and added: "The impact on the elderly resulting from the forced displacement is the most serious social problem." Meanwhile, GM's gargantuan appetite for land has been called into question. Plans drawn up by Washington architect Richard Ridley show that the Cadillac plant could get by with a lot less space, saving most of Poletown's homes in the process.

Detroit officials are unimpressed. "Why would we want to buy land we don't need?" asked Emmett Moten, the city economic development chief. Why indeed? The only answer seems to lie in Detroit's official view that "what's good for General Motors is good for the country" - and especially for Detroit. A report last October by the Detroit planning commission spelled out the plantation system that has ruled Detroit for decades. There is no assurance," the report said, "that GM would revise its criteria even if specialists found that the project would be feasible on a smaller amount of land." One of the biggest obstacle to GM's land grab - aside from the Kaczynski's tank - is the federal assistance that Detroit is counting on for the Poletown plant. The city is hoping for $130 million from Uncle Sam to prepare the 465 acres for GM.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development recently gave conditional approval to a crucial grant of $30 million. But there is serious question whether the HUD grant will actually be made if another $14 million isn't forthcoming from the Economic Development Administration - an agency whose very existence is threatened by the Reagan administration's budget cutters.

Program is a self-supporting program, within Florida Statutes, which grants total authority for this program. The prohibition exists regarding the use of any but self-generated funds. This places the Motor Vehicle Inspection Program in a rather unique status.

Very few public service programs are self-supporting, and the M.V.I. Program is completely self-supporting. Florida Statute 325 governs the M.V.I. Program and section 325.24 (2) states: "All funds received by the department for inspection certificates shall be deposited in the general revenue fund of the State through the treasurer."

Chapter 325.25 entitled "Budget: Administration" - states, in it's entirety, "The department shall submit a budget of the cost of administration of this part to the governor as chief budget officer for approval by the legislature.

The Motor Vehicle Inspection However, said budget shall not exceed the funds derived from the sale of inspection certificates. The Legislature shall advance such funds as may be necessary for the implementation of this part."

> For fiscal year 1979-80, the sales of M.V.I. certificates amounted to $2.44 million. Total funds expended by the Bureau of Motor Vehicle Inspection amounted to $1.1 million which, in a purely business sense, then placed $1.34 million dollars into the general revenue fund for whatever use the State may designate. In other words, the Bureau of Motor Vehicle Inspection makes a

> Should the M.V.I. Program be discontinued? Consider the following:

1. Loss to general revenue direct from certificate sales would be a minimum of $1.34 million dollars.

2. Loss to participating counties would be a minimum of $15.437 million dollars just in revenue.

3. Loss to local economies of funds would be in excess of $12.9 million dollars, which would be a result of the 1,300 + inspectors unemployed, saying nothing at all about the additional burden of possible welfare and other relief to the unemployed.

4. Loss of untold millions of dollars in equipment and real property which would immediately become useless.

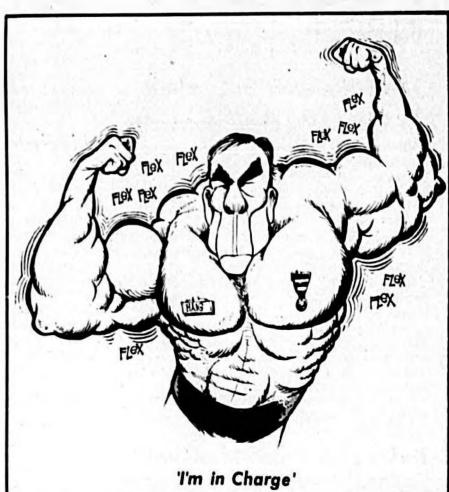

During fiscal year 79-80, approximately 6.5 million vehicles were inspected. Of these, 1.9 million were rejected. The primary rejections were 442,000 for tires, 420,000 for brakes, and 328,000 for steering problems. Additional revenue is generated by these rejections. For the most part, people do not effect repairs until they are forced into it.

Therefore, these 442,000 rejections for tires generate $530,400.00 in sales taxes, if only one tire at $30 was purchased to comply with the inspection law. If only two wheels on a vehicle were repaired as a result of the 420,000 brake rejections at a cost of $75, the sales tax generated would amount to $1.26 million. A sampling of the steering repairs indicates a cost of $165 is average for ball joint repair. With the 328,000 rejected for steering, the additional amount generated would be $2.16 million in sales taxes. House Bill 101 would repeal Florida Statute 325. Ask your legislator to vote "no" on the issue of House Bill 101.

With the known cutback of federal funds, as advocated by the President, it makes little sense to eliminate a program which not only costs the taxpayers nothing, but generates additional revenue at what could be a critical period in the very near future.

Seminole Legislators Support Controversial Reforms

The Florida Legislature is to convene this coming week and two items sponsored by local legislators are certain to be controversial.

One is Sen. John Vogt's bill calling for a constitutional amendment limiting the number of state employees to one percent of the state's estimated population. Vogt, D-Melbourne is a member of the Seminole Legislative delegation.

A favorite of State Rep. Bobby Brantley, R-Longwood, would return the state's Public Service Commission to an elective body.

The Florida Chamber of Commerce in its bi-monthly "Legislative Hotline" noted that the senate leadership favors an elected PSC.

"However, the House Regulatory Reform Committee, has already voted down House Bills 81, 100 and 127. One bill provided for merit retention with subsequent elections and the other two provided for a five-member elected commission for four-year terms," the Hotline said, adding "Whether the issue will be resurrected in the House depends on the strength of the Senate's com- Atlantic University.

Subsequently she received her bachelor's degree in Allied Legal Services and Public Administration from the University of Central Florida in 1978 and was awarded a Master's degree in management from Rollins College in February, 1980. She is working toward her doctorate in public administration.

The U.S. Chamber of Commerce has published a "Letterwriter's Guide to Congress" which would be helpful to any citizen who wishes to communicate with his federal legislators.

The following are the guidelines suggested by the national chamber:

- Write on your personal or business stationery, if possible. And sign your name over the typed signature at the end

- Be sure that your return address is on your letter, not just on the envelope. Envelopes sometimes get misplaced before the letter is answered.

- Identify the subject of your letter clearly. Give the name of the legislation you are writing about. Use the appropriate House and-or Senate bill numbers, if possible.

- State your reason for writing. Your own personal experience is your best supporting evidence. Explain how the legislation would affect you or your family, business or profession - or what effect it would have on your state or community. - Avoid trite phrases and sentences.

Cliches make your letter appear to be part of an organized "pressure" campaign - and, thus, minimize the impact of your message. - Be reasonable. Don't ask for the impossible. Don't threaten. Don't say, "I'll never vote for you unless you do" That will not help your cause; it may

- Be constructive. If a bill deals with a problem that you admit exists, but you

Reagan's Economics Reverse Past Policy

believe that the bill takes the wrong approach toward solving that problem, explain what you believe the right approach is.

 Don't pretend to wield vast political influence. Write your Member as an individual, not as a self-appointed spokesman for your neighborhood, community or industry. Unsupported claims of political influence only cast doubt upon the views you express.

- Don't become a constant "pen pal." Quality, rather than quantity, is what counts. Don't try to instruct your Members on every issue that comes up. And don't nag them if their votes do not reflect your thinking every time. Remember, each Member has to consider all of his or her constituents and all of their points of view.

 Concentrate on your own delegation. Your district's Representative and your state's Senators cast your votes in Congress and went to know your views. Don't undertake writing to all 435 Representatives and all 100 Senators, who cast their votes in the interests of other districts and other states.

position on the issue in reply. As a constituent, you're entitled to know how and why your Members feel as they do.

- Consider timing. Try to communicate on a bill while it still is in committee. Your Senators and Representative usually will be more responsive to your views at that time rather than later on when the bill has already been shaped by a committee.

- Thank your Members if they please you with a vote. Everybody appreciates a complimentary letter - and remembers it. On the other hand, If they displease you, don't hesitate to communicate your displeasure - that, too, will be remembered.

The members of Seminole's congressional delegation are: U.S. Reps. Bill McCollum, R-Altamonte Springs, and Bill Chappell, D-Ocala and U.S. Sens. Lawton Chiles, D-Lakeland, and Paula Hawkins, R-Maitland.

The address for McCollum and Chappell is: Hruse of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515. The address for Chiles and Mrs. Hawkins is: United - Ask your legislators to explain their States Senate, Washington, D.C. 20510.

By EUGENE MCALLISTER Special To The Herald President Reagan's economic program, unveiled last month represents a remarkable reverse in federal policy. The tax cuts, spending reductions, and regulatory reforms are all based on the belief that the answer to our economic ills lies in a stronger private sector. Federal intervention is out, the free market is in.

The Reagan proposal consists of $53.9 billion in FY 1982 tax cuts, $44.2 billion for individuals and $9.7 billion for business. The personal cuts are beneficiaries of inland waterways, airports, and Coast Guard services. The cuts range from food stamps to civil service retirement, from student loans to daily price supports, from unemployment insurance to the business oriented Export-Import Bank. The muted criticisms received thus far suggest that the administration has succeeded very well in its desire to spread the cuts around.

Central to the Reagan plan is the desire for more savings, investment, and economic growth. The tax proposals are designed to increase both also discourage the use of economically inefficient tax shelters.

The accelerated depreciation proposal, by permitting a faster writeoff of the costs, would increase the rate of return on investment in buildings, machinery, and other equipment. A greater return will lead to more investment which will in turn lead to faster and more efficient economic growth. Critics of the tax cut charge that is too large. They claim that it will bloat the federal deficit and that it will put too much money in the hands of the attractiveness of work and saving but pressure on prices but also make it easier for the Federal government to finance the deficit without creating

> Finally, regardless of the size of the deficit, we cannot have greater inflation unless the Federal Reserve unduly increases the nation's money supply. Federal Chairman Paul Volcker, with the support of the new administration, has vowed to maintain a tight control on the money supply.

program. Unlike so many past policies, both Democratic and Republican, the Reagan program is not a quick fix but a longer term plan for prosperity. The target date is not next month or even six months from now but rather several years into the future.

Furthermore the Reagan administration has shown a greater confidence in the market than any administration in nearly fifty years.

Many of the spending cuts, such as Amtrak, synthetic fuels, and the Export-Import bank, were based on free market economic principles. The tax cut is completely lacking special deductions or credits aimed at encouraging or discouraging government selected activities.

The Reagan proposal is an extraordinary step in the right direction. Undoubtedly Congress will alter the tax proposal and fall to enact some of the spending cuts. The size and nature of the changes will depend in part on the president's political skills.

However it is critical that the Reagan administration maintain a consistency in its dealings with Congress and Wall Street. It was the lack of this consistency which created many of the Carter Administration's problems. Fortunately it appears that the Reagan team has a very sure and strong notion of what it wants and how to get there.

(Mr. McAllister is a Walker Pellow in Economics at The Heritage Fame achieved by cutting all tax rates by 5 percent in 1981, 10 percent in 1982, 10 percent in 1983, and finally 5 percent in 1984. The business tax cuts take the form of a faster, and much simplified depreciation allowance on investment in physical capital.

As he pledged during the campaign, Reagan also intends to cut federal spending deeply. For FY 1982 the administration offers $41.4 billion in onbudget cuts and another $5.7 billion in off-budget program cuts. It further plans to raise $2 billion by charging the the resources available for investment and the incentives to invest.

The theory behind the program is that the cuts in the tax rates, by increasing the reward for work, saving, and investment will thus cause taxpayers to work and save more. For example, right now someone in the $36,000 tax bracket would pay 43 cents in taxes on each additional dollar he might earn. Under the Reagan plan, by 1984, he would pay only 32 cents on each additional dollar. The eleven cent difference would not only increase the consumer. According to opponents, both of these outcomes will lead to higher inflation.

There are several rebuttals.

First, although the tax cuts are large, the administration also offers a largely off-setting spending cut. The net effect, after the revenue feedback of the tax cut, could very well be a smaller deficit.

Secondly, the Reagan administration anticipates that a significant portion of the tax cut will be saved. This would not only weaken the consumer demand

Third Skeleton Unearthed At Weeki Wachee Homesite

WEEKI WACHEE, Fla. (UPI)-Skelctal remains of a third body have been uncovered at a rural homesite where law enforcement officials suspect between four and six young women have been buried.

The operator of a backhoe uncovered bones in the litter-strewn backyard of William Mansfield, a convicted sex offender, Friday afternoon and deputies with masonry trowels and paint brushes moved in to carefully excavate the sandy soil from around the skeleton.

The skull had not been uncovered by late Friday, but Hernando County Sheriff's Maj. C. E. Crosby said the remains were believed to be those of a female.

Mansfield, 56, was sentenced to 30 years in prison in November for sex crimes involving young girls. His 25year-old son, Billy, is in jail in Santa Cruz, Calif., awaiting trial for murder of a 30-year-old woman whose body was found alongside a roadway Dec. 7.

Crosby said the elder Mansfield is not a suspect in the death of the three victims, but said his son, is a prime suspect in the death of at least one of them.

"I couldn't get away from it," recalled Monica, who once watched at least five hours of TV daily. "My homework wasn't getting done. I just forgot about all my friends."

Said David, a 10-hour-aday addict, "Once I got hooked on it, I couldn't get off. I just watched any

Director Patty Rebek, whose first class graduated this month, said the behavior modification technique used in the program worked to help the children "develop an interest in activities outside of TV."

The five-week course uses a "point system" based on rewards for not watching TV. Points are taken away for each program watched, and are added for participating in outside activities - simple things like visiting friends, playing games, doing household chores or school homework.

When a certain number of non-TV points is accumulated, the children are rewarded with some type of treat, such as a family outing or increased allowance.

"We feel we've got a good chance of making it Sunday night," launch director George Page said late Friday.

Flight test manager Donald Slayton said things were looking good for the scheduled April 10 launch of John Young and Robert Crippen on the maiden 36-orbit flight of the new rocket plane.

"We've got a lot of work left to do, but it's going pretty much on schedule," said Slayton, one of the original seven Mercury astronauts. "I think things are looking good."

But while Slayton said he had "a lot of confidence" in the April 10 date, he cautioned there always is the chance that some new problem might appear and disrupt flight preparations.

The countdown includes 73 hours of scheduled work, but there are three long "holds" interspersed to give workers some rest time or, if necessary, time to catch up on lagging

Greyhounds Tip Seminole For Five Star

Lyman's Lady Greyhounds nipped Seminole 82-80.5 Friday in the Five Star Conference Track Meet held at Longwood.

Seabreeze had little 'rouble in the boys' portion of the meet, rolling up 86 points to 50.5 for second place Seminole. The Lady Tribe set two records in its rush for the title.

Talented Tony Hardy breezed to the 330-yard hurdle mark in 46.3. The time, however, is considerably off Hardy's 45.2 earlier this year.

Brenda Davis picked up the other record when she scooted the 440-yard dash in 49.2.

Hardy added the long jump (18-feet-314) to her other first place. She anchored two relays (440 and mile) across the line ahead of the field too.

Lyman received top spots from senior Sheila Sincoski, (880-yard run), and Schowanda Williams in the 220-yard dash. The Greyhounds placed heavily in several categories to provide the 112 point difference.

For the Seminole boys, Steve Grace leaped 6-feet-41/2 to take honors in the high jump. The Tribe's swift mile relay team of Ralph Byrd, Jim Voltoline, Vince Edwards and sophomore Mike Wooten (L) 5:26.4: 3. Ryter (LH) 5:29.2. also grabbed first place in 3:29.1.

Ivie Fails To Bloom For Giants

By United Press International The turnultuous career of Mike Ivie with the San Francisco Giants took another turn for the worse Friday. Ivie, the slugging first baseman who twice walked out on the club last year, received the news from manager Frank Robinson that he would not be starting for the Giants on Opening Day next Thursday, Enos Cabell, acquired during the off-season from Houston, will be in the lineup at first.

Under the terms of his contract with the Giants, Ivie can refuse a trade or

Railroaders Power Show Flourishes

The Railroaders, defending Sanford city champs, continued to take advantage of the long ball Friday and defeated pre-season favorite Sunniland Corporation 11-5 in the Sanford Little National League.

It was the second win without a loss for the Railroaders.

First Federal also boosted its record to 2-0 with a 15-5 win over Clem Leonard Shell and that sets the stage for a Monday battle between the two teams. They will square off at 5 p.m. at Bay Avenue Field.

Father Guides Son To 6-1 Lightweight Record

'The Champ' Playing Real For Ruiz

By BRITT SMITH Herald Staff Writer

This is a the story of a kid and his dad who share the same game, the same enthusiasm, and the same dream. And if you think you've heard the story before, you're only partly right. Because "The Champ" was fiction. Reverse the characters — son as determined fighter and father as his loving guide through the rough-and-tumble world of the ring and you can catch the real show right here in Sanford.

The two prominent players in this sporting tale are Manny Rivera-Ruiz, a 16-year-old Hispanic kid from Queens, New York who has his heart set on being "champeen" of the world, and his father at the harsh neon lights from a cold Mike, 41, who fills his days selling real estate and helping his son realize a

We'll call them M&M.

Manny didn't take up boxing until November, but already has an impressive 6-1 record, five of them by oneround knockouts. At 5-foot-8, 130 pounds, he is quick with his hands, light on his feet, and can send an opponent to the canvas with either fist. He is a natural lefty in a spot not overly blessed with good southpaws. He is also Hispanic and the boxing world is already full of them.

But no matter. M&M are convinced that Manny will be lightweight or welterweight champ (depending on how fast he grows) by his 20th birthday. "He's a natural," his dad winks, "It's only a matter of time. You'll see."

But unless you're interested in long odds, you wouldn't mortgage the ranch on that. Peace in our time might be a better bet. It's not that Manny can't fight - he might someday even be great. But boxing is hip deep in good prospects who will get no further than Palookaville. Between Manny and a world title are years of bruising work and invisible punches.

The hardest thing about prize-fighting, the old saw goes, is picking up your teeth with a boxing glove on. Whatever else the sport is, it has never been accused of being genteel. Boxing is your elementary school of hard knocks. Do all your

be fighters training in somebody's garage and he offered the use of his facility.

It's not exactly Madison Square Garden, but it will do. The walis are gray cinderblock, decorated with a couple of fight posters and a training schedule for other members of the post team. A crude ring has recently been constructed. Before that, unwary fighters found themselves flat on their backs, looking up concrete floor.

"You can bet it made them pay attention." Dougherty grins.

Every afternoon around 5:30, someone tunes in a disco station on the radio and things begin to jump. For three hours the room is filled with the warring sounds of leather thudding against flesh, the whir of rope being skipped, and the rat-a-tattat stacatto of fists being thrown in a flurry at the speed bag.

It seems somehow inevitable that Manny would wind up in a place like this. His family tree contains more athletes than some countries' Olympic teams. Mike, a native Puerto Rican who moved with his family to the U.S. when he was 12, had a dozen or so fights "mostly in the gym" back in the mid-50s. But other people's fist kept obstructing his view of the action, so he stepped outside the ropes to become an avid student of the game and sometimes coach.

Four of his brothers were top-ranked fighters in Puerto Rico. Another was a decathalon finalist in the Puerto Rican Olympic trials in 1951. And the star of the family-Mike's nephew, Jesse Vassallo - was a double gold medal winner in the 1979 Pan American Games as a swim-

Manny was lured to the sport by the charisma of Ali and now patterns himself after featherweight champ Wilfredo Gomez who has a 32-0 record, all by knockouts. While living in New York, homework and you're still liable to get a Manny would frequent the Broadway Gym and watch the pros work out. Once, So what is Ruiz doing? Manny Rivera-Ruiz and his father Mike: sharing the same dream of boxing glory.

"I thought he would train for a while and then quit," he says. "It's hard work, but he seems to like it. He would do it 24 hours a day if I would let him."

Mike says the first time he saw Manny train seriously "I knew he could make it. He has natural talent. Within three days, he was hitting the bags (heavy and speed) like a pro. He definitely has a future in boxing."

The way M&M see it, Manny will fight a couple of times a month for maybe the next two years and turn pro when he has 75 bouts under his belt. (His next fight is

'Manny's a natural. It's only a matter of time. — Father Mike Ruiz

April 18 at the South Orlando Boxing Club on Orange Avenue). But Mike isn't going to push him. No vacarious seeking through his son the fame and glory he never achieved on his own.

"If he needs three years, or if he wants to quit tomorrow, that will be all right with me," he says. It's kind of hard not to believe him.

As a father-manager, Mike is more protective than he has a right to be. He made Manny give up football (he played defensive end at Oviedo and South Seminole High for two years) "because I thought it was too risky. Then he got interested in boxing." Mike pauses to reflect on the irony of the situation. "Maybe I should have left him in football,"

So far, he has been lucky. Manny hasn't gotten hurt in the ring. But sometimes his youthful zeal overwhelms his brain. That's what happened March 14 at the state Golden Gloves tournament in Tampa and it cost Manny his first defeat. He was riding a 6-0 streak and was flying so high he had to punch down at his opponents. At the Golden Gloves regional contest in Orlando a month before. Manny had taken out the Jacksonville regional champ-Richard Laster who had more than 50 fights to his credit-with one punch 21 seconds into the first round.

Manny loves to tell the story. "It was beautiful. The guy came out and threw a couple of lefts, you know, just to get his distance." Neither landed. "I just sat there and waited on the second one. When his arm came out - POW! - I caught him with a hard straight left right on the chin." Laster got a close look at the canvas for 10 seconds and Manny hadn't even broken a sweat.

But just before the state contest, Manny came down with the flu. For 10 days he didn't train. He gained three pounds and had to compete in a heavier weight class. He refused Mike's advice not to fight. "I thought I had enough strength," he recalls. "I didn't."

The ring of the bell for the opening round had barely died away before Manny was breathing hard. And by the third round, his arms were so weak he couldn't have knocked a sick cat off a picket fence. He was an easy target and the referee stopped the fight. Manny was naturally disappointed in his showing. The limelight had never been so bright and he wanted to do well. "It was a dumb move," he admits. "Real dumb."

Granted. But there was something to be learned in defeat. M&M discovered that Manny's defense isn't what it should be. But then, when you've been knocking everybody out, who cares about defense? It was also painfully apparent that Manny had developed a nasty habit of dropping his left hand before throwing a punch with it. They're working on it.

"He has everything else," Mike quickly adds, "the spreed, the punching power, the movement. All he needs to do is polish his defense, get some experience and he'll be ready for the pros."

What that will mean is trips to Tampa and Miami for some early exposure, then on to Detroit, Chicago, New York and Las Vegas where the big money beckons. Of course, M&M won't be the only ones lured by the siren's song of Fame and Fortune. Hustlers, chislers, and suckerpunching boxers desperate for a shot at a fortune are all a part of prize-fighting lore. But Mike (who says he will continue to manage his son if and when he turns pro) insists that he has been around long enough to avoid getting hit below the belt.

Manny appears unconcerned. He's as certain of success as a kid is of Santa Claus. He expects the money to roll in much like his opponents have gone outquickly. Manny says he won't hang on like Ali, "I'll make a million and retire," he says. He actually seems to

He is already grooming himself for the role. A good-looking kid with hard, lean features, curly black hair, and deep-set brown eyes, Manny is fond of fashionable clothes and gold around his neck. He is charming and articulate, unlike many boxers whose brains have been scrambled from the jarring of too many stiff labs. Consider that at 16, Manny already has his high school equivalency diploma and is enrolled in a vocational program at Seminole Community College specializing in electrical engineering.

More than a few SCC females apparently find all this quite appealing. "Go ahead and tell him how many there are," Mike grins, taking obvious delight in his son's popularity, "Tell him about

Andrews: We Were Ball Players, These Guys Today Are Athletes

George Andrews is 79 years young. He was better than a ,300 hitter for his career in professional baseball.

So, when George tells you something - as he did Tuesday evening to the members of Wes Rinker's Dugout Club - you better listen.

"Most of these guys these days have no rhythm," insisted Andrews. "Their feet are too wide apart. Hitting is rhythm and when you're straddled too far you have no rhythm.

over 100 runs. But the next year, he bats .230," pointed out the former Florida State League swatter.

Like most veterans observers, Andrew saw a difference between now and then. "These guys playing baseball today are athletes," sneered Andrews. "We were ball players." Does that meke any sense to you? It makes a lot of sense to me.

would definitely snort if you tried to compare today's athletes with yesterday's ball players.

Andrews feels that the steady honing of those skills is a much better way to great athlete — with limited experience - and turn him into a ball player. Take Dave Winfield for example.

Winfield was a great two-sport athlete at the University of Minnesota. With the intensity to win of college athletics — especially Bill Musselman's basketball program — how much time do you think Winfield spent on baseball? No doubt he grew up playing the game like the rest of us. But on a college level, where do you think the emphasis was - a money making basketball arena or a baseball field.

When it came around to drafting time following Winfield's senior year, the 6feet-6 standout was not only drafted in baseball and basketball, but football as well.

Yes, Dave Winfield is an athlete. He opted for Ray Kroc's hamburger money and signed with the San Diego for a bundle.

Well, it seemed like a bundle until he met George Steinbrenner. George makes everything seem small.

And George isn't a very popular

Gillis-Led Rally Falls Short, Metro Survives Five Star

It was your typical all star game Friday night between the best (?) of the Metro and Five Star at Seminole Community College.

The best players didn't show up. Among the missing were Deland's Fred Hinson (tornup knee) and Seabreeze's Rodney Williams and West Orange's Ronnie Thorton - whereabouts unknown.

Five Star Coach Joe Pigotte called a tifneout and set up a play for Neal Gillis, who carried the Five Star the second half.

After various futile manuevers, Gillis finally got the ball 25 feet away. His shot rimmed the basket with five seconds left.

Seminole's Steve Grace grabbed the rebound, but misfired on a short bank shot to send the Metro home with a victory.

Gillis tossed in 21 points to lead all scorers. He was effective from the 20-foot range and on some tantalizing drives to the basket in this rough-and-turnble

Bulls Knock Knicks In Overtime; Kings, Lakers Setup 'Must' Game

CHICAGO

By United Press International Thanks to dramatic victories on the

The first of the second second road, the Portland Trail Blazers and the Los Angeles Lakers go back home Sunday for deciding mini-series games. But the New York Knicks will once again be watching on television.

It was the Chicago Bulls who performed better when it counted Friday night, and they came away with a 115-114 overtime victory over the Knicks at Chicago to end their series and set up the Eastern Conference semifinal openers Sunday: Chicago at Boston and Milwaukee at Philadelphia.

Rickey Sobers hit two critical baskets in the final 30 seconds of regulation to keep the Bulls in it, and in the overtime period the Knicks blew their best chance when Ray Williams could sink only one of three foul shots with 41 seconds left.

The Bulls got 37 points from Reggie Theus and 25 from Artis Gilmore, while Campy Russell scored 29 for New York.

"Let's savor this victory," said Bulls" coach Jerry Sloan, "We'll talk about Boston tomorrow. I'm very excited about this. It's the biggest victory I've ever had."

The 76ers secured their spot Thursday by erasing Indiana.

Determining the Western Conference semifinal matchups will have to wait until after Sunday's third games at Portland, Ore., and Inglewood, Calif., as Phoenix and San Antonio watch intently. The Trail Blazers eked out a 124-119 overtime heart-stopper in Kansas City, Mo., and the Lakers came back strong for a 111-106 triumph over the Rockets in Louston.

The Suns will play the Portland-Kansas City winner, and the Spurs go against the Los Angeles-Houston victor.

The key Portland players in the extra five minutes were Bob Gross and Mychal Thompson, who hit on three free throws in the final 12 seconds. Thompson finished with a season-high 40 points, and guards Kelvin Ransey and Billy Ray Bates added 26 each.

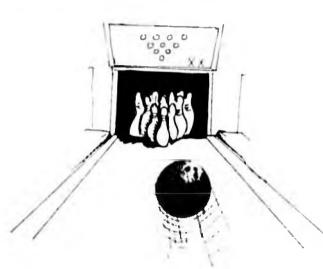

Thompson came through, sort of, earlier when he hit one free throw with no time left in regulation to tie the game 112-112. But he had two more chances coming and missed both of them. Undaunted, Calvin Natt converted a three-point play 17 seconds into overtime to put Portland in front for good,

Scott Wedman led the Kings' attack with 33 points, with Otis Birdsong adding 30 and Ernie Grunfeld 22.

Los Angeles' Kareem AbdulJabbar didn't exactly contain Houston muscleman Moses Malone, who had 33 points, but Abdul-Jabbar had 27 points and 17 rebounds for his part, Leading the Lakers' deadly fast break was Earvin "Magic" Johnson, who had 15 points, 18 rebounds and eight assists.

The Lakers ran off to a 30-8 edge in the first seven minutes of the third quarter and never looked back, although Calvin Murphy came off the Rockets' bench to lead his team.

He stressed that pipelines are environmentally superior to other modes of transportation.

Mobile Home Anchoring Recommended

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich, - Mobile homes provide practical, affordable housing for millions of Americans, but they require special protection from high velocity winds, warns Foremost Insurance Company, the nation's leading insurer of mobile homes.

Due to their elongated design and light weight, mobile homes can collapse, roll over or become airborne when subjected to very high winds. A mobile home tie-down system, consisting of steel straps, tensioning devices and ground anchors can effectively prevent or reduce this damage. All new mobile homes are required by law to be equipped with built-in tle-down straps.

Foremost, which insures over 800,000 mobile homes nationwide, has noticed a significant decrease in mobile home wind damage in the last several years. The trend is attributed to growing use of tie-down anchoring systems, improved construction standards and passage of mobile home tie-down legislation in many

INSTALLATION

Proper installation of a mobile home tiedown system is essential for maximum effectiveness. A study sponsored by the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration reported that many mobile home owners never connect their tie-down anchors properly or don't use anchors of adequate strength. Foremost recommends that the system be installed by an expert, since special tools may be needed to do the job correctly.

The proper tie-down equipment plus installation fees, can cost between $150 and $350, depending on the size of the mobile home, maximum wind speeds in the area, and local

A tle-down system is the best way to prevent or reduce wind damage to a mobile home. However, several other wind protection measures can further reduce the danger when used in conjunction with a mobile home tiedown system.

POSITIONING

Place your mobile home on its lot so the end faces prevailing winds. Proper positioning will greatly reduce the area of the mobile home exposed to the wind. Check with your local weather service to find out the direction of prevailing winds in your area. Just remember that proper positioning, without the use of a tle-down system, provides only a moderate degree of protection.

WINDBREAKS

Natural barriers such as trees provide excellent protection as windbreaks. Although the remote possibility of a wind-felled tree always exists, the wind protection advantages far outweigh the danger. A row of trees, the higher the better, placed in a path perpendicular to prevalling winds, offer the best protection.

OTHER SHELTER

A properly tied-down mobile home can withstand winds up to 90 mph, which are not uncommon in most hurricanes. However, it's always best to seek other shelter during very severe weather such as a hurricane or a tornado since high tides or heavy rains can cause flash flooding, especially in low-lying or

Many mobile home park operators provide shelter for park residents. If other shelter is not available, contact your local chapter of the Civil Defense for more information on public shelters during catastrophes.

Eye Protection Needed From Farm Chemicals

When working with fertilizers, pesticides and any farm chemicals, you may suffer a severe eye injury - and possible blindness unless you wear appropriate eye protection, warns the National Society to Prevent Blindness, Florida Affillate.

"More than half of all agricultural eye injuries over the past few years involved chemicals, according to reports from hospital emergency rooms," pointed out Edward C. Gelber, M.D., Chairman of the Eye Safety Committee of the Florida Affiliate.

"Ninety percent of eye injuries could be prevented with the use of proper protective eyewear and safety precautions," Gelber stressed.

"Whenever you handle fertilizers, pesticides, chemical cleaners and solvents, wear goggles fitting snugly around the eyes, with hooded vents to keep out liquids," Gelber advised. A face shield placed over the goggles provides maximum protection from these caustic, toxic and often flammable sub-

The Society also offers these safety tips: - Study the product's label for correct use and observe listed precautions.

- Understand thoroughly how to operate all equipment prior to use.

- Always store pesticides in original containers, keeping them tightly closed. - Carry at least five gallons of plain water on tractors and other farm equipment.

Should any chemicals reach the eyes, flush them with water instantly, holding the eyelids open, and continue for at least 15 minutes. Then seek immediate medical attention.

"Delaying treatment increases the likelihood of vision loss," Gelber cautioned. repeated several times, "Never put anything but water in the eyes;

salves or ointments can complicate first aid and later medical treatment."

Highly concentrated liquid (and gaseous) fertilizers can inflict serious injuries. Of special concern is anhydrous ammonia, a gas pressurized to liquid state and used to boost crop production. One of the most damaging substances to the eye, anhydrous ammonia begins destroying cells and tissues within seconds of contact. In addition to carrying at least 5 gallons of water on the tractor, nurse tank and applicator, all anhydrous ammonia users should keep a plastic squeeze bottle of water in a shirt pocket to flush the eyes immediately, in case of contact with anhydrous. Many eye injuries occur when pressurized anhydrous ammonia is transferred from bulk containers to smaller tanks, a process equipment every day," Gelber said. "Just one minor defect - a weak point in a hose, faulty valve, a worn fitting - and eyesight may be threatened."

Anhydrous ammonia and its potentially blinding effects are vividly depicted in a film called "For the Rest of Your Life." A dramatization of an accident with anhydrous illustrates the dangers, the safest handling procedures and the proper eye and face protection equipment. The film is available on loan from the National Society to Prevent Blindness, Florida Affillate, 3741 Neptune Street, Tampa, Fla. 33609

The National Society, established in 1908, is the oldest voluntary health agency nationally engaged in preventing blindness through community service programs, public and professional education and research.

Extending Deadline

The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) is not unreasonable in its income tax filing requirements. Although the filing deadline for a 1980 individual tax return is April 15, 1961, taxpayers are given the opportunity to file at a later date. To receive an extension, taxpayers need only file IRS Form 4868

(Application for Automatic Extension of Time for Filing U.S.

Individual Income Tax Return) with the IRS on or before April

The extension form must include a projection of tax liability and the actual amount of estimated payments and tax withholding that have been made to date to offset the current tax liability. If the projected tax liability is more than the estimated payments, a check or money order for the balance must be enclosed with the extension request. The taxpayer filing for an extension should include his Social Security

Number on the check or money order for identification pur-

Properly completed, this extension is automatic and allows the applicant an additional two months to file the return. A aignificant benefit of an extension is the additional time it allows taxpayers to elect certain tax-saving benefits. For example, when a taxpayer receives an IRS extension and files a tax return after the April 15th deadline, he can establish and-or make a deductible contribution to an Individual Retirement

Account (IRA) plan up to the extended deadline. It is important to note that while this extension ensures that the

Peter Bukur repairs a saxaphone at his Sanford shop in 1960. The price of a musical instrument overhaul in 1948 was $12.50 compared to $150 for the same job today.

The now-retired Mr. Music Man of Sanford, Peter Bukur, right, closed up shop after 60 years of repairing musical instruments. He holds one of the few trumpets remaining in his shop after selling most of his merchandise.

Music More Than A Business

Herald Staff Writer

Recently, a young boy needed a lubricant for his band instrument. He went to Bukur's Music Shoppe on Cedar Avenue in Sanford, peeped in the window and, much to his dismay, found the store empty. The boy always bought his music supplies at Bukur's and so had many other people for many years.

At the age of 76, Bukur retired after 60 years of making music more than just his business. He is retiring with the satisfaction of a man who went to work at the age of nine. left his native land at 16, learned a trade, opened his own business and won respect as a fine craftsman.

He was honored last year with a plaque from the Seminole Education Association for "service to the school children of Seminole County" and he served as the first president of the Seminole High School Band Association which he helped to organize.

His son has been the band director at Sanford Middle School for 24 years and both children and grandchildren have been involved in high school bands.

He learned to make musical instruments from scratch as a teen-ager right off the boat from Transylvania in 1921 and since has made it his business and his pride to take out the dents, repair the parts, and shine and lacquer instruments for musicians all over the state.

"No matter what condition it came it," Bukur said, "when it left the shop it was like new."

He learned to "do the job right" as a young apprentice for eight years with the H. N. White Co. in Cleveland (now King Musical Instruments). "We'd get a licking if the job was not done right," Bukur said.

Over the years, he has seen the cost of a complete overhaul for a musical instument increase from $12.50 when he started in his business in 1948 to $150 for an overhaul today.

As an apprentice Bukur learned to mold, shape and assemble the trumpets and trombones that were all handmade at the Cleveland company. Many of the "Big Bands" of the 1920s and 1930s had their horns custom made at H.N. White.

Bukur met star of the era Benny Goodman, Harry James and Jimmy Dorsey when they came into the factory asking for a especially designed instrument.

Taken in by his surroundings, he learned to play the clarinet and the saxaphone. In the 1920s, he formed his own five-man band that played at dances in Cleveland. Those were the days, Bukur said, when the instruments business was booming because Vaudeville shows and theaters had orchestras in the theater pits that needed instruments. Bukur also designed two trumpets for the company himself during the 21 years he worked there, the "Liberty" trumpet and the "2-B" trumpet. The youngest of nine children, Bukur left his farmer father in Transylvania at the age of nine to find work in Bucharest. At age 16, after working as a bus boy, two older brothers already working for the music company in Cleveland sent him the money to come to America. Traveling alone, the trip took 48 days, largely because transportation was poor through Europe, torn by World War I, and because he missed his boat.

Three days after arriving in Cleveland and a bout with the mumps, he was at work in the trombone factory. He made $16 a week, paid $5 for board and eventually paid back his brothers for his passage to the United States.

In 1925, Bukur started taking his vacations in Florida after his brother told him "I have a nice girl for you" there. She was Anna Bucurel of Sanford and a year later they were married.

As vaudeville died and orchestras in theater became a thing of the past, the musical instrument business slowed and became seasonal in the mid-1930s, so the Bukurs lived part-time in Florida. In 1942, the family moved to Sanford permanently and Bukur worked for the U. S. Navy.

In 1948, the Bukur Music Shoppe was opened in a building behind the Bukur home with father and sometimes son repairing and selling musical instruments. Mrs. Bukur worked in the store also as bookkeeper, sales clerk and sometimes instrument cleaner.

All that remains in the shop today after its sale are a few rusted and bent trumpets soon to be sold and a few of the tools Bukur made himself for hammering out dents in Sousaphones and such.

Retired only a short while, Bukur said he is "just trying to get organized" and used to the idea. He and his wife are learning to play the organ and he hopes soon "to play a little golf."

In 1971, he returned to his native land of Romania, or as he still calls it, Transylvania. He is kidded a lot about being from "Dracula country," but he said the legend is all nonsense and he never even heard of Dracula until he came to America.

He said Romania is a "beautiful country," but he has never wanted to go back there to live.

"No, m'am, never. This has been my country for the last 60 years. It is the greatest," Bukur said. "If you want to make something of yourself, you can do it. You don't have that chance anywhere else."

Club Observes Birthday; Honors Past Presidents

Happy Birthday" was the order of the day Wednesday at the April meeting and luncheon of the Woman's Club of San-

*Guest of honor was the club which celebrated its 68th birthday. A wealth of history is wrapped up in the club's charming clubhouse, as well as the membership during the years, since it was founded in 1913.

The day was also proclaimed as Federation Day in honor of the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs. Representating FFWC was Mrs. W.L. (Phyllis) Wood Jr. of Satellite Beach, who is FFWC's corresponding secretary.

Mrs. Wood gave a delightful review of "Parliamentary Procedure."

Club member Myra Stapelton said, "In a hilarious resume of a typical woman's club meeting, she(Mrs. Woods) slyly taught the listeners a few of the more common errors of procedure and the correct parliamentary procedure to facilitate a business meeting."

Mrs. Wood received a standing ovation from the clubwomen. Another happening at the meeting was honoring the past presidents. Each member's dessert, luscious, rich strawberry shortcake, was centered with a small candle to add a touch of glowing festivity to the occasion.

Past presidents attending who served during the years were: Mrs. Ralph Austin Smith, 1932-34, who also served as FFWC president; Mrs. George Wells, 1959-60; Mrs. W. L. Gramkow Sr., 1961-64; Mrs. Milton E. Smith, 1966-68, who is the present District II Director, FFWC; Mrs. A.O. Payne, 1970-72; Mrs. Jack Burney, 1972-74; Mrs. Robert Karns, 1974-76; and Mrs. Walter A. Gielow, 1978-80.

Club president Mrs. Richard Fowler presided over the business meeting.

Luncheon hostesses were: Mrs. Robert Brown, chairman, Miss Gertrude Fisher, Mrs. S. W. Fleming, Mrs. Gramkow, Mrs Richard Mapes, Mrs. Herbert Larson, Mrs. June Robinson, Mrs. George Drew, Mrs. Robert Joseph, and Mrs. Gordon Sweeney.

The club plans the annual brunch Wednesday at 11 a.m., followed by a card party. Reservations are in order.

The annual CIP brunch will be held May 3, from 8:30 to 1 p.m., at the Sanford Civic Center. Mrs. Fred Gaines and Mrs. Richard Buck are co-chairmen of the food with Mrs. Jack Greene chairman of the tickets.

Congratulations to Jacqueline M. Wade whose grades at Troy State University, Troy, Ala., earned her honors on the Dean's List for the winter quarter.

Sanford's two accomplished dancers, Jacqui Greene and Thom Lake, will be performing at Bob Carr Auditorium, Orlando, on April 26. More info later.

Expect to hear favorable of Pankhurst — a community-oriented organization of about 50 women who compare their services in the interest of younger women as "similar to Kiwanis and Rotary," according to attorney Nikki Clayton.

Pankhurst is spearheading a retreat this weekend at Leesburg and among those taking part that we know of are: Nikki, Donna Patrick, Dr. Marion Keyser, Betty Braun, Dr. George Lindenfeld, Janice Springfield and Dede Schaffner.

African violet enthusiasts are reminded of the African Violet Exhibition sponsored by Jean Norris and the Downtown Sanford Business Association on April 18, at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce building.

For information on entering the show, call Jean Norris.

Jackie Caolo has a charming houseguest, Rene vonDyk, from Holland, who has been visiting for several months and is taking classes at Seminole Community College.

Rene's parents recently visited in the area. Her father is a dentist.

The visit all came about through Jackie's daughter. Susan, who is engaged to a young man from Holland. His visa in this country expired and he had to return to Holland. Later, Susan followed and is working there in an American book store. She met Rene, who wanted to visit America, and you know the rest. Good ole' mom.

Students Attend Presidential Classroom

Mrs. Lyle (Martha) Hall in the American History Department and co-ordinator of the program at Lake Howell High hool, said, "This is the sixth year that students of Lake pwell have participated in the Presidential Classroom for bung Americans Program."

She added, "Only students in the scholastic top 10 percent of junior and senior classes and active in leadership roles in eschool programs and clubs are eligible. This year we had 11 tidents in the program who were able to go to Washington."

For seven consecutive weeks, two students attended the one-ek classes in Washington. Each class had an average of 400 idents from schools not only in the United States, but also om Haiti, Dominican Republic, Prerto Rico and Europe.

A few of the high schools have funds set aside to pay the tion and transportation cost for their students, but most paid are own way, as did the students from Lake Howell.

Steve Pope, a senior and peer counselor at Lake Howell, said was a great honor to be allowed to attend. Good conduct and ability to mix with others are essential requisites.

Steve participated in the fifth week of classes. Each week ers were different speakers, and the programs were planned around the current events in Washington. For instance, the first two students attended a reception for the hostages returning from Iran, and were able to shake hands and speak with them. The week that Steve and Lisa Gergick were there, they attended a reception for Prime Minister Thatcher. Steve said, "It was quite a thrill to see these people who are in the news daily. At the reception I was standing not 30 feet from President Reagan."

The classes were taken on field trips every day. Some of the places they saw were the Supreme Court while it was in session; the Senate while it was in session; the Smithsonian Institute, two trips; The White House; statues, parks, monuments and the CIA building. The foreign students were not allowed to take the tour of the CIA Building, due to security, but were taken on another tour. This was the only place that was restricted to Americans only.

One of the highlights of the trip was meeting the senators and representatives from Florida. Every class met at least one senator and one representative, and had an opportunity to discuss issues related to our state with them.

Steve said, "Everyone is looking forward to the alumni reunion which will be held in Puerto Rico later this year."

"This trip was an exciting experience for me," he added.

"To have an opportunity to meet and exchange views with so many of your peers and to be able to learn first hand about the government of the United States from the people who are doing the work is a priceless lesson — one I will value always,"

The Lake Howell students who took part in the Presidential Classroom for young Americans program were: Merri Simmons, Marcle Levine, Cindy Meyer, Kenneth Feldman, Angeline Rodriquez, Jessie Wood, Suzanne Barton, Christine McAnney, Star Lusk, Lisa Gergick and Steve Pope.

A STAR OF

Laurie Blair, 412, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Blair, 2012 Holly Ave., Sanford, won the Miss Pixie crown, trophy and medallion Sunday in the preliminary Stars of Tomorrow Pageant held at the Nautilus Television Studios, Lake Helen.

Petite Laurie also won the overall "Best Photogenic" trophy in the pageant among the 3-18 years-old contestants, as well as in the Pixie Division.

At age 3, Laurie was proclaimed the "Most Outstanding Pageant Contestant" in the National Miss Hemisphere Contest held at Lake Buena Vista. In December 1980 she was crowned "1980 Holiday Queen," in Orlando.

Laurie has won more than 20 trophies and was featured on National television in December 1980 in the Stars of Tomorrow Holiday Pageant.

Her next stop is the Florida State Stars of Tomorrow Pageant, followed by national competition — if she wins.

Dear Abby

Deal With Facts Of Love Intelligently

DEAR ABBY: I was heartsick, but not terribly surprised, to find birth control pills in my daughter's bathroom. Rhonda (not her real name) just turned 18 and is a senior in high school. She's been going steady with a young man since last summer. Rhonda is an excellent student and plans to start college away from home next fall.

In today's world, what are a girl's chances of being harmed permanently by premarital sex? Rhonda is my only daughter. I love her dearly and never dreamed I would have this problem.

A MOTHER'S PROBLEM

DEAR MOTHER: A girl's chances of being harmed permanently by premarital sex would be infinitely greater were she not taking precautions to prevent an unwanted pregnancy. Many mothers whose daughters have had an abortion or a child out of wedlock would have welcomed your "problem." I am not condoning premarital sex, but when it's a fact, it should be dealt with intelligently and responsibly.

DEAR ABBY: Apparently neither you not PERPLEXED IN N.Y. has ever been to a dance where there was a considerable number of unescorted women. I have, and believe me, the burden on the escort is nothing compared to that of the woman who must sit smiling while those parasites "borrow" her husband.

My husband and I both love to dance, and in the 40 years of

My husband and I both love to dance, and in the 40 years of our marriage we have attended many dances and exchanged dances with other couples during the evening. Now, however, there are increasing numbers of widows and divorcees to be waltzed around the floor, and if my husband danced with each one of them once, it would leave me without a partner all evening, so now we attend dances for "couples only."

While I sympathize with women who don't have husbands, it doesn't follow that I should give up mine.

ADAMANT IN N.Y.

DEAR ADAMANT: Read on for another view:

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow and I love to dance. When I go to a dance alone or with another woman and there aren't enough men to go around, it is torture for me to just sit and tap my toes while others are dancing, so I ask a woman to dance. It's not quite as much fun as dancing with a man, but it beats sitting. Oh, I get a few funny looks, but that doesn't bother me. Do you see anything wrong with it?

I OVES TO DANCE IN HIBBING, MINN.

DEAR LOVES: No. But if two men started to dance together in public, they'd promptly be asked to dance out of the place. Unfair? Yes. But who ever said life was fair?

DEAR ABBY: I agree, the word "hopefully" is woefully overused — and incorrectly at that. It would be much simpler if "I hope" were used instead, because that is what is meant. Another word that is overused is "very." I once knew an editor who told his reporters that he would fire any reporter who used the word "very" — they should substitute the word "damned" instead! But since it was a family newspaper, he blue-penciled all the "damned" before the stories went to the composing room.

DEAR NOVELIST: That's damned interesting - I hope!

An impossible dream? Not at all. Men have already gone to the moon and women will follow. This girl, if she really wants to, may be one of them.

If she really wants to. That word "really" is often the key to success. It may take hard work, courage and time, but if a person really wants to achieve, the chance is that they will. But both men and women need strength in order to succeed - the kind of strength that the church offers. Take a look at the record. You will find that some of the greatest pioneers both on earth and in space have also been churchgoers.

Don't you think there must be a reason for it?

Honoring Your Father And Mother

By George Plagenz

THE FOURTH COMMANDMENT: Thou shalt honor they father and thy mother, that it may be well with thee, and thou mayest live long on the earth. (Exodus 20:12 and Deuteronomy

What does this mean? We should fear and love God that we may not despise our parents and masters, nor provoke them to anger, but give them, and hold them in love and esteem. (From Martin Luther's Small Catechism)

HISTORY: Family Solidarity has always been one of the characteristics of the people of Israel. This commandment would then seem to be superfluous.

It was not, however, directed so much to minor children as to adults burdened with the care of an aged parent. In some societies, helpless dependents were abandoned when they could no longer look out for themselves.

Even up to relatively recent times, an Eskimo tribe would take an aged person along on a fishing excursion, leave him on an ice floe while the tribe went off to fish and then "forget" to come back for him.

Or they would put him in an igloo and shut up all the openings. He would die of cold and suffocation. But this commandment did more than just remind the ancient Israelite of his obligation to his parents. It appealed to his

It is the only commandment which has, as St. Paul noted, a "promize" attached of it - "that it may be well with thee and thou mayest live long on the earth." A stable society, which promotes health and happiness and, by extension, longevity - for its people, is built on strong family ties which this commandment enjoins.

MEDIATION: The promise appended to this commandment is psychologically sound.

Self-esteem, self-respect and self-confidence are foundation stones in the building of character, maturity and an integrated personality. These qualities, which help to promote well-being, grow and develop best in people who are proud of their heritage - the "source" from which they have sprung.

Good feelings toward parents can also result in better

A study at Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine found that of students who later developed cancer, most confessed a feeling of estrangement from their parents.

In rare cases where children can find nothing in their immediate background to be proud of, an examination of the family tree can often locate an ancestor who can be a source of pride and whose memory we can honor and revere.

Young people who have learned obedience to parents also are more likely to be happy in adult life. They adapt better to the demands the grown-up world makes upon them and their frustrations are fewer.

LENTEN EXERCISE: This commandment carries obligation not only for children but for parents. Children will find it easier to honor parents who exhibit honorable qualities.

Ask yourself, "What have I done (1) in my lifetime and (2) lately which would give my children reason to be proud of Epitaphs on tembstones are not common any more, but if they were, what epitaph do you think your children would write for you?

Write epitaphs for your own parents - living or dead. This will get you to concentrate on the qualities about them which you can take pride in.

GRADING YOURSELF: On a scale of five (with five as the highest), how would you grade yourself on keeping this commandment? Circle one number below:

More Evidence On Shroud Presented

TURIN, Italy (UPI) - One of the scientists who conducted tests on the cloth believed by many Roman Catholics to be the burial shroud of Jesus Christ says he has evidence proving it is not a fake and could date back

2,000 years, Swiss criminologist Max Frei, who along with 24 other scientists conducted a five-day series of tests on the shroud in 1978, presented his findings to Cardinal Anastasio Ballestrero, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Turin, Wednesday and they were reported in Italian newspapers today.

The ancient piece of linen, 14 feet, 3 inches long by 3 feet, 7 inches wide, contains the negative image of a bearded man who was crucified, whipped, and stabbed in one side.

Frei's report said he found 56 varieties of pollen on the cloth, including a concentration of types that derive from plants only found in the area of the southeastern Mediterranean

The report said the pollen found on the cloth was more than 500 years old, indicating it was imbedded in the shroud before it was brought to Europe by the crusaders. Frei concluded from pollen tests he conducted in 1976 that the shroud was about 2,000 years old and came from the area of Palestine.

Gun Control No Answer, Experts Say

By SYBIL MITCHELL GANDY And CINDY MOOY

In the wake of the assassination attempt on President Reagan, renewed cries for stiffer gun control legislation are being heard.

But according to law enforcement officers in Seminole County, the answer to violent crimes involving firearms lies with courts, not in gun control statutes.

"According to state law, a judge is required to give a convicted felon using firearms a mandatory sentence of three years in prison," says Sgt. Herb Shea Jr., armorer at the Sanford Police Depart-

But, Shea and others point out, the judicial system tends to circumvent this mandate through the plea-bargaining process. Many times by court date, the defendant's plea is guilty and the sentence is considerably less than three

From what county law officers say, the courts themselves are not using existing laws to the best possible advantage.

"A significant percentage of the felonies involving the use of guns aren't given the three-year mandatory sentence

Springs.

"Stiffer gun control legislation would probably be futile. For instance, no waiting period exists in the Florida statues for purchasing a handgun.

"But no period of waiting could be an effective deterrent here unless it is instituted state-wide or nation-wide. Anyone who desires to buy a gun can simply drive a few miles outside the Jurisdiction of the county," Cook said.

Officials were pretty much in agreement on one point: there is no magic number for mandatory sentencing - not three years, not five years, and not 10. The answer is in the courts, they say, Although Casselberry Police Chief George Karcher declined to comment on gun control legislation or the judicial system in Florida, he did express support for a mandatory prison sentence of some

In 1980, more than 1,387 murders were reported by law enforcement agencies throughout Florida, according to the 1980 Crime In Florida Report issued by the State Department of Law Enforcement.

Eight occurred in Seminole County: 3

Of that state-wide murder figure, more than 60 percent involved the use of firearms. Some 190 occurred among family members — and more than half that number involved spouse murder. "I am personally against plea bargaining to a lesser crime when a firearm is used in a criminal offense," said Seminole County Sheriff John Polk, Without plea bargaining, Polk said, the judges are following the mandatory law,

Polk said he is opposed to gun registration "The honest people are gun never commits a crime, it's the people who have the gun that commit the crime."

The sheriff said he does favor a law the legislature has considered the last few years requiring a 72-hour "cooling off" period between the time of purchase and the pick up of a purchased firearm.

"I think that is a good law," Polk said. Polk said the sheriff's department confiscated 30 weapons in 1980 including handguns, rifles and a few automatic weapons. Polk said the weapons were taken in drug raids and from unlawful hunters.

"The drug people sometimes have automatic weapons," Polk said, "but there haven't been that many."

All "Saturday Night special"-type handguns are destroyed by the department with two witnesses to the procedure. If a weapon is in good condition, the department may use it, Polk said. Most confiscated weapons are melted down or thrown into a river or the ocean, Polk said. He added the department gets rid of weapons no longer

A handgun costing anywhere from $50-$700, may be purchased in a matter of minutes anywhere in the state since Florida law requires no waiting period.

Outlook Favorable For Friday Launch Of Space Shuttle

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) -The countdown for the maiden flight of the space shuttle Columbia moved smoothly today toward the Friday launch that would make John Young and Robert Crippen the first Americans in space since 1975.

A late-hour countdown snag was bypassed and even the weather ppeared to be cooperating. Forecasters' initial outlook called for good conditions at the scheduled launch time shortly after sunrise.

Although Young says he and Crippen are "140 percent" trained for the mission, they had more flight rehearsals in a spacecraft simulator on today's schedule at the Johnson Space Center in Houston.

Today's countdown work included pressurization of helium tanks used to push propellants into the Columbia's twin orbital maneuvering engines and 44 little control rockets mounted in the ship's nose and tail sections.

The start of the countdown late Sunday marked the start of the final phase in the nation's long and oftentroubled effort to get the revolutionary shuttle ready for the ambitious 36-orbit test flight.

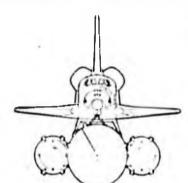

The long sequential series of flight preparations began almost routinely at 11:30 p.m. EST on the signal of test conductor Andy Brown.

Barring delays, the countdown will end when computers monitoring 1,000 different measurements send the signal that will ignite the Columbia's three engines and twin boosters at 6:50 a.m. EST in four days.

The countdown consists of 73 hours of specific jobs, but it has 30 hours and 20 minutes of "hold" periods interspersed in six places to give technicians a rest and time, if necessary, to catch up on lagging

Launch director George F. Page decided to use up some of that "hold" time to recoup work time lost in part when engineers discovered a short circuit in wiring between an electrical distribution device and one of two valves used to control up-and-down vibrations called the "pogo" effect.

The solution was to rewire the pogo system so the valve was connected to the distributor linked to the other

Without a system to dampen the oscillations, they can build up to dangerous levels. Such vibrations nearly ruined the unmanned Apollo 6 test flight in 1968. Surface pieces of the an aluminum honeycomb structure enclosing a dummy spacecraft flaked off under the severe forces and two engines failed.

A National Aeronautics and Space Administration official at the time likened the structure of the rocket to a tuning fork. If you strike it right — in this case by engine thrust fluctuations it will vibrate up and down.

The launch of the Columbia will be America's first manned spaceflight since three astronauts flew an Apollo to an Earth orbital rendezvous with two Soviet cosmonauts in July 1975.

Since then Americans have been grounded while NASA's attention turned to the $9.6 billion shuttle development.

The Soviet Union, meanwhile, has mounted a steady manned spaceflight project and two cosmonauts. Vladimir Kovalyonok and Viktor Savinykh. have been in orbit for three and a half weeks in the Salyut 6 space station.

motorized troops were reported pouring in for extended Warsaw Pact maneuvers in and around Poland and Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev attended a Czech meeting today that warned Poland its neighbors are prepared to stop 'disruption by anybody and anything."

In Washington, a U.S. intelligence source said Soviet military preparations have been raised to the highest possible levels and the "next step from where tney are now is to go to war." The situation is at a "decisive point," he said.

"We are not hiding the fact that our people are following the events in fraternal Poland with disquiet," Czech communist leader Gustav Husak told his party congress in Prague, "The situation in Poland continues to disturb us greatly."

Brezhnev sat in the place of honor directly behind the rostrum listening intently as Husak warned that those creating unrest must understand "our clear standpoint.

"We are watching it minute by minute." Haig said in Jerusalem of the military situation around Poland, characterizing it as "somewhat more ominous" than earlier.

Referendum Urged For 4 New Libraries should be built at an estimated cost of

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer

A consultant who has completed a preliminary study on the library needs in Seminole County is recommending a special referendum be called to seek voter approval for construction of four new full service libraries.

Estimated cost to build, furnish and supply the four proposed new facilities is set at $4.6 million.

The study, being conducted by Richard L. Waters, assistant director of the Dallas (Texas) Public Library, is to be completed and in final form for presentation to the Board of County Commissioners in the next few weeks. Waters conducted a preliminary survey of county library needs in 1974 before the county first contracted for library service with the Orlando Public Library. Seminole went into its own library system with branches in Sanford and Casselberry in October, 1978, based on Waters' recommendations.

The recommendations in the current study, according to Waters should be implemented by 1986.

-In Lake Howell-Tuskawilla he recommends a 12,000 square feet full service facility costing $1,233,000. Until the new library can be built he recommends extended bookmobile service.
