

'Believers' Meeting Scheduled To Draw Big Crowd Tonight

Holly Makes Plea For Club Organization Which Will Serve To Build Up Community

Tonight, at 8 o'clock, at the Court House, the men and women of Sanford will meet with the sole idea of getting together in some sort of a club or business organization that will "do something for Sanford." There is much to be done here in the next 12 months but the more getting together will be worth much to the community. The big idea is to have every citizen working for Sanford in some capacity. And the club will endeavor to place them on a committee where they can work out new ideas of their own and also to follow the program mapped out from time to time by the club. This club will not be burdened by rules and regulations, by a membership fee, by useless dues or ancient rulings as to parliamentary law and procedure. It will be simply a working club, doing something for Sanford every day. The work will be mass production rather than class distinctions and if 80 per cent of the citizens will join the organization it is expected to function in no other town in the state. In this city, Sanford needs cooperation, unity, better understanding, friendships, trust, confidence.

The meeting tonight will be held promptly at 8 o'clock by Holly who will introduce the following speakers:

- N. O. Shindler, "Industry";
- Rev. E. H. Browner, "Fundamental Wealth of Our Community";
- Rev. Frank Masler, "Tourists";
- H. J. Lehman, "Agricultural Possibilities";
- Assurance given that the talks will be short and the proceedings rapid though of good fortune in order that the crowd will not be kept longer than one hour. After the talks and a short entertainment feature, the president will be nominated and elected. The president will be empowered to appoint his own officers and committees and this will be given out later. The meeting tonight will be snappy and interesting. "It is for you and your city," said one of the believers.

In a statement prepared for the press, Mr. Holly declared: "There are moments in the lives of men and in the life of a community when the turn of the wheel makes them want or they sink back into oblivion. There is a turn of the tide which if taken at the flood will make you an honored member of society at the peak of good fortune or one of the jobbers with no thought of tomorrow and no aim in life other than the bare existence and a miserable balance. It is up to those who have made a study of Sanford in the past 20 years that this city has reached the point now where it must progress and go forward or sink back into the village class. There is a different feeling in the air, an indefinable something that makes the leaders here believe the turn in the tide is here. Now is the time to get busy and let every man and woman in Sanford do their part in some way to join the great movement forward."

Mr. DeCotte, however, admitted that when he gave an approving opinion on the certificate he had taken Lake's word at "face value" that no similar certificates had been drawn under a Commission resolution authorizing the issuance of similar short time obligations.

Mr. Carson referred to the word "extortionate" as used by the plaintiff in his declaration and asked Mr. DeCotte if he knew of a single instance in which The Herald had charged him with such action. The witness said he could not recall that the newspaper had.

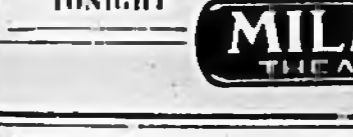

Mr. Carson asked Mr. DeCotte if, in answer to a query by Mr. DeCotte, he had replied, "Yes, I am responsible. I told him (Phillips) to destroy them (the minutes) and he didn't do it." He said he didn't make such a statement.

STENOGRAPHIC REPORT

Q. What cases have you in mind? A. We tried quite a few condemnation proceedings. As an illustration there was one condemnation proceeding where the plaintiff or petitioner, demanded $5000 of the city. I recommended to the city that they pay $250. The case was tried and the jury made an award of $500. There were fifteen or twenty of those cases, and acting upon the report of the board of appraisers appointed by the city, plus such legal judgment as I exercised in each instance, because the case was tried, I advised the city to make an offer in judgment and settlement for a deed in specific amounts. In each and every case the verdict of the jury was less than the amount that the city volunteered to pay. And that would apply to personal injury cases—none of such consequence, however, where we offered to settle for more than any amount recovered. So if my advice is sound, I invite the defendant in this case to point out whereon it (Continued On Page Four) was unshown. That is a matter of their opinion.

Q—Now, Mr. DeCotte—

A—And I wish to say as a matter of personal privilege at this point that at no time during the nearly years practically speaking that I was city attorney did I ever give any advice to the city commission or any officer of the city against the best interest of the city and to the detriment of the city.

Q—Mr. DeCotte, after the Sanford Herald had begun publishing some of these articles apparently derogatory to you, did you at any time have a talk with either Mr. Dean or Mr. Berg, or both of them, as the editor and the manager of The Sanford Herald, with reference to their publication and what the facts of the city matters were?

A—I did on two separate occasions, but, however, voluntarily or because I wanted to.

Q—These two occasions when you discussed the matter of city affairs and your connection therewith with Mr. Dean and Mr. Berg, were they both before or after, or one before and one after, the publications which we have introduced in evidence and upon which this suit is based, if you know?

A—Both were prior thereto, sir.

Q—Both were prior to any of these publications we have read to the jury.

A—Yes, sir.

Q—How did you happen to go and have this conversation with either or both of these gentlemen the first time?

A—First time was at the entreaty and solicitation of Mr. Frank Evans, who was and is now one of the board of county commissioners. I at that time being attorney for the board of county commissioners of this county.

Q—Had you invited any such talk on his part?

A—On the contrary I considered the source of the defamatory matter being circulated by that newspaper with regard to me and my professional activities, and positively refused to grant them an audience or to talk with them regarding any of the matters with which they were charging me with improperly, and it was only after repeated solicitation by Mr. Frank Evans, who represented himself as a mutual friend of the parties concerned, that I reluctantly agreed to go with him to the office of The Sanford Herald for the purpose of a friendly discussion.

Q—Then you went in the office of the Sanford Herald in the company of and with Mr. Frank Evans?

A—The first time, yes, sir.

Q—Who did you find there when you went there?

A—As I recall, both Mr. Dean and Mr. Berg.

Q—Where did you go, in the room there... in the office?

A—Mr. Berg's office was to the rear, slightly, and in the second—behind the first partition. As you go in the office there is a counter, and at that time Mr. Roland L. Dean had a desk behind this counter and in front of the first partition on the north side of that space. Mr. Berg's desk was behind the first partition—or not behind the first partition—in the southwest corner of the front space of the office.

Q—Now in whose office did you—

A—We sat at the desk of Mr. Dean.

Q—And who was present at that conversation?

A—As I recall, both Mr. Berg and Mr. Dean.

Q—And Mr. Evans, and yourself?

A—And Mr. Evans.

Q—Now just relate in detail—

A—I want to say here that there were two occasions, and possibly on one occasion only one of the gentlemen may have been present, but my best remembrance is that on both occasions they were both present.

Q—Will you now detail what was said and who said it at that conference?

A—in effect, when we walked in, Mr. Evans was the first spokesman. He says, "Now," he says, "We all live here together, and I am a friend of DeCotte's, and there is no necessity of having any misunderstanding. I have known DeCotte... I know him favorably," or words to that effect. "I am serving on the board of county commissioners. He is our attorney. I have heard DeCotte criticized on each occasion when charges have been preferred, and I have had an opportunity to talk with those who were preferring those charges and when I ask them to specify definitely the basis for any such charges they have to admit it is hearsay and rumor." I wouldn't undertake at this time to detail Mr. Evans' conversation, but the general trend of it was that rumor and strife and factionalism and bitterness down a community and what we needed was a spirit of co-operation, and he made known that through his instrumentality he had induced me to come here and to talk with these gentlemen, and said to them that I had assured him that I would cheerfully give them any and all information pertaining to the activities of the city and my own activities about which there had been certain derogatory publications up to that time by the newspaper owned and operated by those two gentlemen. And either Mr. Berg or Mr. Dean said they were always glad to talk over matters, and said—which caused me to smile then and now—that they wanted to be eminently fair and it was their purpose to run a live, up-to-date newspaper, to keep prominently before the people all matters of public interest, but under all circumstances they wanted to be fair and they did not want to do anyone any injury, so we sat down for the purpose of smoking the pipe of peace, and we were there probably some five or six hours, and Mr. Evans said, "At the time this newspaper was taking exception, in articles published in their columns, with regard to the sale and disposal of city—certain classes of bonds under the provisions of the city charter can only be sold at the price of not less than par. I explained to the gentlemen that the interest rate—the coupon interest rate of bonds—was a fixed item of interest determined at the time of the initiation of the bond issue; that actual interest which had to be paid for bond money—demand and price—depended on the fluctuation of the bond market, and depended on the supply and demand, and that the actual interest stated in the coupon had nothing to do with the actual burden of interest in the preparation of an approved security. I explained to them that in each and every instance where the bonds of the City of Sanford, Florida, had been sold at a price in excess of par, or for par, that if the actual sale—through sale—of bonds of certain classifications, it was necessary for the city to reject any and all bids received because they could not legally make an award at less than par. I explained to them that at a certain season of the year the prevailing interest rate in the financial world might be less considerably than it would be at some other season of the year... purely a question of the law of supply and demand and the stability of securities. They said they did not understand the manner of payment of the fiscal agency fee in the sale of certain city bonds. I explained to them that where bonds had been advertised for sale in Sanford and bids rejected because the price offered was less than par, that we
