Escape attempt thwarted

By Joe DeSantis
Staff Writer

SANFORD — Officials at the Seminole County jail and U.S. Marshals thwarted a bizarre escape attempt Wednesday in which a federal prisoner apparently had plans to make a break for freedom by inserting a handcuff key into a body cavity.

On Wednesday detention deputies received a tip that Richard Magotti, being held on federal bank robbery charges and awaiting a court appearance in Seminole County, planned to make his getaway by faking an illness on the way to court that he hoped would result in a trip to a local hospital.

A body cavity search and x-ray failed to produce any evidence of a hidden key and Magotti, 44, was placed in Special Management and a Level 1 suicide watch. Thursday, Magotti was removed from his cell for transport by U.S. Marshals and a second strip search and body cavity examination was conducted, producing a handcuff key hidden in the prisoner's rectum. Magotti is expected to face additional charges of attempted or planned escape filed by the Marshall's office.

Magotti is currently serving a 16-year sentence at the Federal Penitentiary in Atlanta for a conviction in Ft. Lauderdale in 1988. The former Longwood resident was transported to the Seminole County jail Tuesday in preparation for a scheduled court appearance in federal court in Orlando.

U.S. Marshals declined to comment on the case as the investigation into Magotti's escape plan continues.

Schools in violation of truancy law

By Bill Kerns
Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County is among 24 school districts statewide which have not yet complied with a 1997 law that links drivers licenses to student attendance, according to state officials.

The law, designed to keep truant students in school, provides for students who have 15 unexcused absences in a 90-day period to be denied licenses or have their licenses suspended.

Two dozen out of the state's 67 school districts have not provided the state Department of Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles with the names of students between age 14 and 18 with excessive unexcused absences, as well as their social security number, dates of birth and gender.

Although the law was passed in 1997, the deadline for providing the initial information was in Jan. 15, 1999. Other Central Florida school districts not in compliance include Orange, Brevard and Lake counties.

Seminole County school district administrators said that the names have not been reported because of computer software difficulties.

"We put in a new software system and we're getting that online," Gaines said. "When it comes to generating data and attendance records, we are making sure See Schools, Page 2A

Seniors delight audience with song, dance and jazz

Where else but in Sanford could a 60-year-old minister perform on the same divinely decadent stage with two leggy chorus lines?

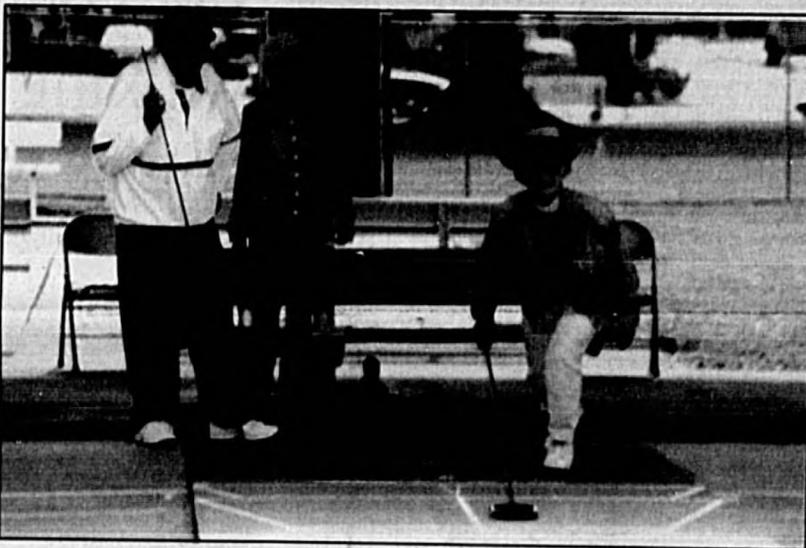

J.D. Segroves, pastor of the Central Florida Church of Longwood, did just that Thursday night at the Sanford Civic Center. He won a bronze medal for singing

For results from Thursday's events, see pages 4-5A.

"Yesterday, When I was Young." The leggy chorus lines - the Floradorables and the Fab Follies Girls - were gold medal winners, proving to everyone that in the Golden Age Games not even a minister with a golden voice can beat great pairs of dancing legs.

Segroves was the final act in perhaps the best talent show in the 25 year history of the Golden Age Games.

"The laughter in here tonight ought to tell you that life's just as much fun at 60 as it was when we were young," Segroves said. "Wasn't this great?"
Indeed, it was.

From the Rockettes of the Ages to the jazzy Forest Haven Rhythm Band playing "Bye Bye Blues," the Civic Center was hoppin' for a couple of hours. James and Susan Tasciotti, 85 and 82 years young, performed "Santa Lucia" until the audience of 200 or more laughed until they cried. Bravo.

John Locke won gold for playing "Suwannee" on the harmonica, and Patricia Calvin gold for singing "Second Hand Rose."

Forensic science assisting police in investigations

By Joe DeSantis
Staff Writer

SANFORD — Advances in forensic science are helping investigators with the Seminole County Sheriff's office breathe new life into a 26 year-old unsolved murder. A clay image reconstructing a likeness of the victim has been completed and hopefully will spark new interest in helping bring closure to the case.

In 1973 the body of a young woman was found in Altamonte Springs near SR 434 south of SR 436. Law enforcement officials have long suspected she was murdered and her body was dumped there, a victim of "Crazy" Joe Spaziano of the Outlaws motorcycle gang. The skull and skeletal remains of the victim were found beneath the decomposed body of Laura Harberts. Spaziano was convicted of killing Harberts and was originally sentenced to death row. Three years ago a key witness in the case recanted his testimony in the case and Spaziano's charges were reduced to second-degree murder. He has been removed from death row.

"No one witnessed the murder of the unknown girl," said Investigator Ray Parker. "During his trial there was sworn testimony that said he did it."

"After 26 years there is still a family missing a daughter or a sister or a niece, wondering what happened to her. Maybe this use of forensic science will help bring closure to the family of the missing girl."

Using the victim's skull, jawbone, and nose cartilage as a rudimentary model, crime technician Anne Coy, a graduate of the Federal Bureau of Investigation's Forensic Facial Imaging Course in Quantico, Va., has completed the reconstruction of the woman's face that forensics experts say is 90 percent accurate. They estimate the girl was 14-17 years old at the time of her death.

"We use foam pieces to complete the skull reconstruction and insert mannequin eyes to complete the model," explained

Before and after. Using original skull parts, left, found 23 years ago, Seminole County Sheriff's office crime technician Anne Coy recreated the facial image of "Ginger," above, hoping to help identify the victim of an unsolved murder law enforcement officials believe is connected to "Crazy" Joe Spaziano and the Outlaws motorcycle gang.

It took her about two-and-a-half days to complete the clay image that investigators have

that all the data is accurate." Gaines said there has also been confusion over how to report the attendance information to state officials. "That may be the case with a lot of districts statewide," said JoAnn Carrin, spokesperson for the Department of Education. "We don't know yet." Miami-Dade County told the Department of Education that it has not released the information because it fears violating a federal law that prohibits the release of student information without parental consent. No other school district in the state has raised privacy rights as an issue. "Miami-Dade is the only district that has said they are not going to comply," Carrin said.

The Department of Education said that federal law allows schools to share student information in matters involving juvenile justice initiatives. Gaines said that privacy rights have not been an issue in Seminole County, in regards to compliance with providing truancy data to the state. "If they (state officials) ask for the information then we're obligated to report it," Gaines said. Gallagher has asked that the school districts not in compliance with the 1997 law report their reasons for the delay by Nov. 12, and that the districts provide an anticipated date for coming into compliance. "If there are issues about reporting the data that need to be discussed, it will be brought before the (state) Cabinet and a Legislative committee," Carrin said. In addition to the 24 school districts who have not met the law's requirements, a University of Florida lab school in Gainesville has also failed to submit the required information to state officials. Since January, 1,867 students statewide have received suspension orders for their drivers' license in the school districts that are in compliance with the 1997 law. "It provides a good deterrent to skipping school," said Seminole County School Board Chairman Larry Furlong. The state is not able to withhold funds from school districts over the matter.

Recent tests have shown the toluene levels to be within safe drinking-water standards, and free from odor. "People would not have been drinking this water, anyway," said Donna Watt, Sanford's finance director. The city settled for $57,000.

The city's insurance carrier, the Florida League of Cities, will pay $32,000 toward the settlement, said Watt. Watt said the city buried debris on the land by mistake, thinking that they were on adjoining city-owned land. However, Watt said the city only buried vegetation.

"We were clearing off a lot where vagrants lived, and there was a lot of vegetation," Watt said. "We thought we were burying it on our own lot." The city does not know why a drum used to store chemicals was on the property, Watt said.

Let your fingers do the walking — 10-digit dialing comes to Central Florida

By Bill Kerna
Staff Writer

SANFORD - Mandatory 10-digit dialing will begin next month in Seminole, Orange and Osceola counties.

Residents in the tri-county area have been using the "321" area code along with the "407" area code since April 1, as part of an overlay plan. Use of the "321" and "407" area codes becomes mandatory Dec. 1, when 10-digit dialing will be used for all local calls.

Residents in Brevard County began using the "321" area code on Nov. 1, during a "per-missive dialing period." After Oct. 1, 2000, use of the "321" area code will become mandatory in Brevard County. Once implemented, Brevard County residents will retain seven digit dialing for all local calls.

All areas affected by the "321" area code currently also use the "407" area code. The "321" area code designation was decided in February, following discussions with federal officials by the state's Public Service Commission.

"It was apparent to us after the hearings we conducted in Brevard County that the residents and businesses there wated this particular combination of numbers because of its strong identification with America's space program," said Commissioner Julia Johnson.

The Public Service Commission said that 3-2-1 reflects the countdown-rich tradition of Florida's space coast.

To insure that business and residential telecommunications requirements are met, consider the questions and responses that follow:

Why do we need a new area code?

At the beginning of 1999, the Florida Public Service Commission (FPSC) decided that the Central Florida Region required a new area code to supplement the existing 407 area code due to an unprecedented demand for telecommunication devices including additional lines, cellular phones, pagers and fax machines. The FPSC approved an area code overlay.

What is an area code overlay?

An overlay occurs when more than one area code serves the same geographic area. 321 will be the second area code added to the Central Florida Region already served by the 407 area code.

What areas are affected by the new 321 overlay area code?

All of Orange, Osceola, Seminole, and parts of Lake and Volusia Counties (excluding Deltona and DeBary) served by the 407 area code will be impacted.

The Florida Public Service Commission granted an exception to customers served out of the DeBary exchange in Volusia County. Can you explain this exception?

BellSouth customers served out of the DeBary exchange with 407 prefixes beginning with 516, 574, 575, 586, 601, 668, 731, 860, and 968 will not be included in the overlay plan. These customers will retain the 407 area code and be permitted to dial 7-digits for all local calls within that exchange. Local calls made outside the DeBary exchange, but that are within the overlay boundaries will require 10-digits. Ex: Calls from DeBary to Sanford or Lake Mary will require 10 digit dialing (area code + 7 digit telephone number)

Will it be necessary to dial 10-digits for local calls in the 407 Central Florida Region Overlay area?

Yes, mandatory 10-digit dialing becomes effective December 1, 1999. All local calls will require that the area code plus the 7-digit telephone number be dialed to complete the call. Local calls between Orlando (407/321) and Clermont (352) will also need to be dialed using the area code plus the 7-digit telephone number. Consumers assigned 407 will keep the same numbers while requests for new or additional telephone service will be assigned numbers out of the 321 area code number pool sometime after January 1, 2000. Dialing of special services that use 3 digit numbers (411, 911) remain unchanged.

Will telecommunications equipment have to be reprogrammed to make and accept ten digit calls?

Yes, most telecommunications equipment such as fax machines, modems, PBX systems (consult your PBX vendor) or telephone equipment with automatic dialing capability will require modification. If in doubt consult the owner's manual supplied with the equipment or refer to the appropriate equipment vendor/supplier. Numbers stored on services like Call Forwarding, Speed Calling, Call Selector, and Call Block will also require reprogramming.

Will security alarms have to be reprogrammed?

Any questions should be referred to your alarm vendor/supplier.

Will there be any change to the way long distance calls are dialed?

No, these calls will continue to be dialed using "0" or "1" plus the area code and number. If you use "1010 dial around codes," you may continue to do so.

Will any telephone rates go up as a result of the 321 overlay?

No

Redefining sportsmanship during the Golden Ages

Each year for one marvelous week in November, Golden Age Gamers come to Sanford to refine sportsmanship.

Many are the sons and daughters of the Great Depression, soldiers, sailors and pilots from World War II, architects and champions of Post War America.

Some were hungry, perhaps homeless. Separated from family, needed to fight on the sands of Iwo Jima or the frozen turf at the Battle of The Bulge. Women who raised children with their husbands off to war.

Golden Age is a reward, and it shows each and every moment in the tournament of games that range from bocce, badminton and bowling to cycling, canoeing and golf. Throw in cribbage, dominoes and pinochle, too.

The weather, of course, is perfect. God's way of saying, "Play on, friends."

A husband and wife in their mid 80s shoot baskets at the Salvation Army Gymnasium. A son finishes a race his 80-year-old dad could not complete three years ago. He wins a bronze medal in cycling. A mother and daughter are tennis partners at Sylvan Lake Park. Who says that youth is wasted on the young? Not this week.

The Games provide a valuable lesson for the young. Children watch and listen. Children learn. At the Games, they discover the beauty of sports and games. No one bites. No one throws a club or racket. No one expects freebees at Dillard's.

Golden Age Gamers show more enthusiasm than $10-million-a-year professional athletes. They're happy to be able to play games they may have missed out on in their youth. They've walked the extra mile, taken another lap in the swimming pool.

As the last Golden Age Games of the 20th Century are being played out this weekend, it is important to plan for their continuation in the 21st. There are more seniors than ever before in America's history. How can we not honor and appreciate them?

Sanford has been the gracious host of the Golden Age Games since 1974. Thousands have traveled from throughout the United States to be in the granddaddy and grandmother of senior games. This year's participants are wearing colorful 25th Golden Games Anniversary T-shirts.

Sanford shines during Golden Age Games Week. The men and women from the City's Recreation Department are extraordinary ambassadors of good will. So are the many volunteers who chart times and records.

It's fitting, too, that the Golden Games will be followed by next weekend's Sanford Heritage Festival. Chubby Checker is the headliner. Chubby's a Golden Ager, you know. Next year, the Games organizers may add a Checker competition. Get the twist?

Sunset is no time to still be angry

...but we are still angry. And we are still angry because...

Ephesians 4:26

The rage of the 1970s has subsided, even good people to lose control. We're seeing frightening things happen each day. On the road. At work. Inside the home.

Mental health experts say that stress is causing a staggering amount of drug abuse, unhappiness, road rage, suicide, family abuse and much more.

Pastors and counselors are spending more time than ever with those who have gone over the edge and with those who have been victimized. The big question, of course, is: How can it be prevented?

The best answer, I believe, is contained in eight words of advice from Dr. John A. Dalles, pastor at Wekiva Presbyterian Church in Longwood. "Worship regularly, serve eagerly, give generously, live worthily."

Those who are angry might consider the advice from Ephesians, Dalles said. "Do not let the sun go down while you are still angry." Scripture's directives are good news for those who will hear, believe and act upon them. The Spirit-filled life is life at its fullest.

Pastor Dalles said he was close to a heart physician who was in his mid-50s and was extremely successful.

"He was at the peak of his career," Dalles said. "When this doctor found out that he needed a heart transplant, he became very angry."

"The doctor who had been so loving and caring suddenly was snapping at those who worked with him and with members of his own family," Dalles said.

"While at the hospital where the doctor worked, I asked him why he was doing this to the people who loved him the most. He told me that he was behaving as badly and angrily as he could so that no one would miss him. What he said a chill through me. Then and now."

As he and other clergy administer to the spiritual healing of stressful parishioners, Dalles says he asks them to seek help from spiritual-directed physicians who understand the variety of disorders that cause depression and anxiety. Many of those who are about to go over the edge have treatable biologically based problems.

"The most any family member or good friend can do is to be forgiving and loving for those who are showing signs of stress of anger," Dalles said.

"This is where they have to show their unconditional love. To keep seeing the good in others and to believe that soon they will be well."

Generally, there are signs that family members or co-workers observe in someone that is about to crack. The key is to recognize the problem before he or she may be having. Stress at work, home or even at play may cause a serious loss of control.

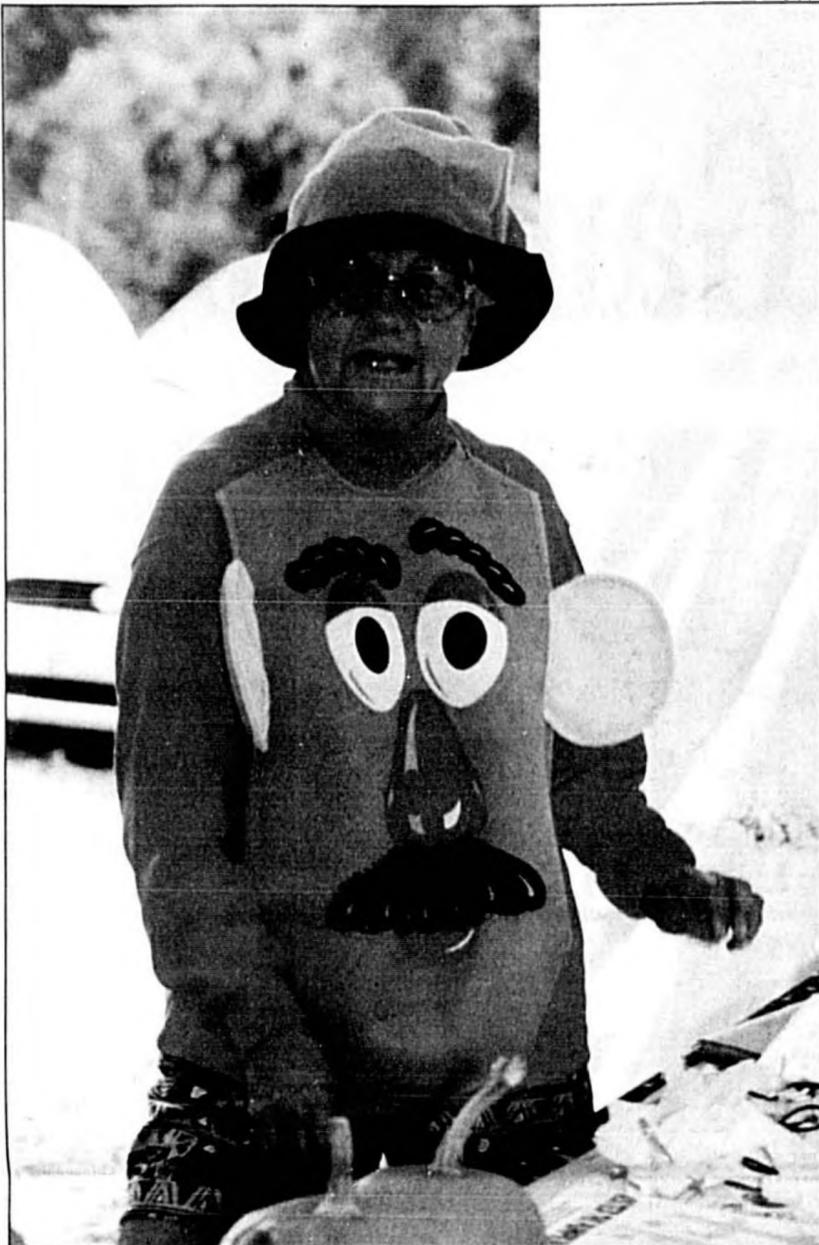

"We must be careful and be watchful," Pastor Dalles said. "One person's anger can lead to another's. If a man is angry about an issue, he may form a group of people to be angry, too. What's important is to control our anger, our frustrations and our setbacks."

"We do that," he said, "through prayer and by reading the Bible. There are a number of Biblical passages that deal with anger - starting with Ephesians 4:26 and James 1:19."

Chanukah event is Dec. 4

Chabad of Greater Orlando will host its Grand Menorah Lighting and Chanukah Gala at Church Street Station, in the Church Street Market Courtyard, Saturday, Dec. 4, at 8 p.m.

In years past, Chabad has held a Grand Menorah Lighting at the Altamonte Mall. After last year's event, it was evident attendance had grown too large for the mall's capacity. Statistics have shown American society has become more understanding and accepting of Chanukah as a recognized calendar event.

"With that in mind, it seems most appropriate to host such an event in the open arena of a public city street where all people can celebrate together," said left Bander, one of the chairmen on the Chanukah committee.

The event will include a Menorah lighting, greetings from dignitaries, donuts, hot latkes, dreidels, balloons, live music, Chassidic and traditional dancing, Chanukah gett, Grand Menorah Display and Israeli entertainer Yoel Sharabi.

Lowering the risk of falls by seniors

Richard H. Middleton, Jr.,
Special to the Herald

Thanks to vast advances in general healthcare, dietary education and preventive medicine, Americans are living longer, healthier and more productive lives. A routine diet of physical activity is essential to enhance these advantages. No age group benefits more from a well balanced exercise program than seniors, who are most at risk for serious injury resulting from falls.

In a recent CNN Interactive story, Dr. Mary Tinetti, chief of geriatrics at the Yale University School of Medicine, stated that one out of every three Americans over the age of 65 falls at least once a year, with 10 percent incurring injury serious enough to limit their ability to function independently.

Citing a May 1999 study published in the Journal of the American Medical Association (JAMA), falling injuries among the elderly are on the rise. And among these injuries, fractures are the most serious consequence of falls, with hip fractures causing the greatest health problems and greatest number of deaths.

According to the National Center for Injury Prevention and Control, most patients with hip fractures are hospitalized for two weeks, and many may not be able to return home or live independently, increasing the likelihood of moving into a nursing home or relying on assisted living.

Such dramatic changes in a person's quality of life can have an even more profound effect than just physical trauma. Without a supportive network of family and friends providing assistance, patients who leave the hospital generally do not fare as well and many may also suffer from depression.

It is critically important to understand what factors contribute to falls in order to decrease the likelihood of injury. Such variables include visual impairment, medications that may compromise balance and perception, and a lack of vital minerals and calcium.

Though falls may not always be preventable, there are a few important steps that can be taken to reduce the dangers:

- Begin a regular and balanced exercise program.

Weight programs that develop muscles, or exercises such as Tai Chi or Yoga which can help improve balance and reduce fatigue, are some of the most helpful.

- Increase home safety. A few basic home safety tips, such as using non-slip mats in the bathtub and shower, taping down throw rugs, using handrails on all staircases, wearing supportive non-slip shoes, and improving lighting throughout your home, can reduce the risk.

- Have your doctor or pharmacist review your medication. Some medications, or even combinations of medicines, could impair a person's sense of balance by making them drowsy or light-headed. Consult with your doctor about the possibility of lowering the dosage of such medications.

- Modify your diet to include more essential vitamins.

As we grow older, the benefits of a regimented diet increase our chances of walking away unscathed from a mishap. Eating right and taking vitamin supplements such as calcium can keep muscles and bones strong.

By following these simple guidelines and remaining perceptive to the potential risks in our environment, seniors can easily lower the risk and severity of traumatic falls. Sports car champions return to Daytona

Special to the Herald

DAYTONA BEACH - The team of John Hotchkis Racing presented a formidable challenger to the competition in the Rolex 24 Hours at Daytona from 1986 to 1991. That championship team - the drivers and the cars that captured podium finishes at Daytona International Speedway - have reunited to run the high banks of Daytona once again at this weekend's Historic Sportscar Racing (HSR) weekend.

Thursday was the first day of practice in the third annual Bromos Continental Histories. Drivers John Hotchkis Sr., John Hotchkis Jr., Jim Adams and Bob Kirby were joined by veteran actor Paul Newman, a sports car enthusiast and skilled driver, in putting the team's GTP cars through their paces.

"This team ran every Daytona (sports car endurance race) from 1968 to 1991 when the team shut down," said Skip Schinsing, team manager. "All the people on our team were people that were associated with the team throughout the years. Everybody is familiar with each other and we all work well together and that's what's fun about our team."

Team Hotchkis will be running two 1986 Porsche 962s, a 1990 Chevy Spice and a 1973 Porsche 911 RSR throughout the weekend of vintage racing.

Along with seasoned drivers, young racers are taking part in the weekend of speed that is HSR. Thirty-four year old Chad McQueen, son of the late Steve McQueen, is actively pursuing an HSR ride. McQueen is scheduled to drive the No. 48 Porsche 908 that his father drove to victory at Sebring in 1970 and is hoping for even more seat time at Daytona in other classes.

"It gives me goose bumps," said McQueen about taking the wheel of his father's famous ride. "I remember when he got the car, I was a little kid. It's nice to see that they run these cars. They don't just sit in a museum. That just puts a smile on my face."

McQueen tested in Daytona in 1990 for Porsche and is anxious to reacquaint himself with the world-famous superspeedway. "It's quite a big place getting up on those banks. Growing up I spent time in Sebring and LeMans. The history here is phenomenal, but when you're out on those banks you can't stop to think about that. It's just a neat track, it's so unique."

Along with great racing action on the track, guests to Daytona International Speedway will enjoy a fantastic vintage car display as part of the weekend's activities. The exhibit will feature more than a dozen champion sports cars that have achieved success at the Rolex 24 Hours of Daytona. Spectators will be treated to a wine and cheese reception on Saturday from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. The reception will also feature a motorsports-themed art show and a jazz band.

Tickets are available at the gate for $10 Friday, $15 Saturday and $20 Sunday. For information and weekend race results, log on to the Speedway's web site at www.daytonaintlspeedway.com.

Bears roll into Regional semis

Cortney Bliss (No. 4) had a big match as the Winter Springs Bears routed West Orange, 15-1 and 15-8, in the Class 6A-Region I Quarterfinals on Tuesday and will be counted on heavily when the Bears take on Tallahassee-Leon in the regional semifinals on Saturday.

Winter Springs girls head to Tallahassee; Cross Country teams set for district runs

By Dean Smith
SPORTS EDITOR

WINTER SPRINGS - There will be an invasion of Bears in Tallahassee this weekend and the Leon Lions better be on the look out.

The Winter Springs High School girls volleyball team will make the four-hour trek to the state capitol to battle the Lions in the Class 6A-Region I semifinals on Saturday at Leon High School.

The Bears have been awesome in advancing to the third level of the state playoffs, romping to the district championship and crushing West Orange High School from Winter Garden in impressive fashion, 15-1 and 15-8, at home on Tuesday.

Winter Springs now has a record of 28-3 and is ranked No. 2 in the state in the FHSAA Class 6A State Poll, trailing only undefeated Olympic Heights (29-0) from Boca Raton.

On Tuesday, the Bears blitzed the Warriors (20-6) in the first game, but had to rely on the hitting of senior Cortney Bliss and the serving of senior Kris Dedelow to pull away to a 10-3 advantage after West Orange had closed to within 5-3.

The Warriors still did not give in, closing again to within 12-8 before Amanda Gilliard served out the quarterfinal win for coach Kim Vach's squad.

If Winter Springs can win this match and then continue on to win three more matches, it would join the girls basketball team and girls track team as state champions in the very young history of the school.

Also on the Saturday prep schedule will be the cross country district races.

The Class 6A races will be held at Cypress Grove Park on Holden Avenue in Orlando.

The Lyman boys and Winter Springs girls figure to be the favorites after dominating the Seminole Athletic Conference meet last week.

Doug Brown and Ben Alper finished 1-2 in the boys' race for the Greyhounds as they easily outdistanced runner-up Lake Howell, while Amy Giles and Morgan Pike went 2-3 for the Bears behind winner Belinda Bargmann of Lake Brantley, which finished third behind Lake Mary in the girls race.

Coach Mike Gibson's Lake Mary boys have been improving every week and the veteran mentor has high hopes for his young team that features only one senior, Caleb Smith, among his top 19 runners.

Smith is the best with a time of 17:32 and leads Junior Tema Kudakwashe (17:39), Junior Chris Catchings (18:04), sophomore Jon Maingot (18:09), Junior David Quinones (18:14), Junior Ken Marshall (18:15), Junior Matt Fraser (18:29), Junior Jon Ingalls (18:35), Junior Justin Catchings (18:43), freshmen Ryan Pasconi (18:45) and William Barnett (18:54), sophomores Carter Burks (20:19) and Derek Trauger (20:37), Junior Alex Joseph (20:46), sophomores Ryan Yadav (21:14) and Andrew Staggs (22:16) and Juniors Chris Fraser (22:28), James Waldrop (22:45) and Daniel Walker (22:54).

The district meet will begin with the girls race at 9 a.m. and will be followed by the boys event at 9:45 p.m. There will be an open race at 10:30 a.m., with the Awards Ceremony set for 11 a.m.

Cost to attend the meet is $4 and to get to the Park, which will also host next Saturday's Regional Meet, take I-4 West and exit at South Orange Blossom Trail (Hwy. 441) and go south to Holden. Turn left on Holden and the park will be on the right just before reaching Orange Avenue.

Solar Bears win two of three, head to Utah this weekend

Special to the Herald

ORLANDO - The Orlando Solar Bears won two of their three contests last week with the Detroit Vipers and Houston Aeros to improve to 6-2-1 on the 1999-2000 International Hockey League (IHL) season.

With 13 points, the Solar Bears are now tied for third in the IHL's Eastern Conference. This week, Orlando travels to Salt Lake City games with the Utah Grizzlies on Friday and Saturday.

On Tuesday night at The Palace of Auburn Hills, the Solar Bears rallied in the third period to claim a 4-3 victory over Detroit, Karlsson.

Right wing Dean Sylvester's fourth goal of the season at 4:58 was the game-winner. Sergei Vyshedkevich and Jeff Williams picked up the assists on Sylvester's game-winning, power play goal.

For the game, Orlando out-shot Detroit by a 43-19 margin. Solar Bears netminder Corey Schwab stopped 16 of 19 shots on goal to improve to 3-1-1 on the season. Orlando was a season-best 3 for 10 on the power play, while holding the Vipers to 1 for 7 with the man advantage.

Prior to Friday's home contest with the defending Turner Cup champion Aeros, the Solar Bears National Hockey League (NHL) affiliate - the Atlanta Thrashers - traded Corey Schwab to the Vancouver Canucks for a conditional Dick in the 2000 Entry Draft.

Goaltender Scott Langkow stepped in for Schwab and stopped all 29 Aeros shots on goal, earning his second shut-out of the season and helping Orlando win its third straight game by a 1-0 score. Recently acquired center Gary Shuchuk scored the contest's only goal and his first with the Solar Bears at 5:48 of the third period. Right wing Bob Lachance and left wing Sylvain Cloutier picked up the assists on Shuchuk's game-winning tally.

For the first time this season, an opponent out-shot Orlando as Houston claimed a 29-22 shot advantage. The Solar Bears went 0 for 3 on the power play, while holding the Aeros to 0 for 5 with the man advantage. Houston netminder Frederic Chabot stopped 21 of 22 shots on goal in the losing effort.

Upsets keep standings tight in Lake Mary

By Dean Smith
SPORTS EDITOR

LAKE MARY - The final two undefeated teams in the City of Lake Mary Parks and Recreation Department Men's Fall Friday Night Slow Pitch Softball League saw their hopes of an unbeaten season come to a crashing halt at the Lake Mary Sports Complex last week.

Blue Haven Pools started the night of upsets as it scored 13 runs in the bottom of the first inning and defeated Budweiser/Signal Zero, 21-19, despite the loser's scoring no fewer than two runs in each of the five innings in which it batted.

Nice 'N Easy also saw its winning streak end at four as Gaylon Black Ford, which entered the game with no wins, had an answer for a 10-run Nice 'N Easy second inning, scoring nine runs in the bottom of the fourth inning to win 22-21.

The final game of the evening saw Hill's Gang move back into contention with a 17-5 drubbing of winless Lunch Box Bagels.

Those three games came on the heels of a relatively uneventful October 22nd when Budweiser/Zuma Beach topped Hill's Gang, 11-8 and Nice 'N Easy crushed Lunch Box Bagels, 16-4. The only close game found Blue Haven Pools taking advantage of a six-run third inning and a five-run fifth inning to hold off Gaylon Black Ford, 14-12.

Budweiser/Signal Zero and Nice 'N Easy are still tied for the league lead as both have 4-1 records, but Blue Haven Pools (4-2) and Hill's Gang (3-3) are very much in the hunt. Gaylon Black Ford (1-4) and Lunch Box Bagels (0-5) trail.

Tonight at the Lake Mary Sports Complex, Budweiser/Signal Zero takes on Gaylon Black Ford at 6:30 p.m.; Blue Haven Pools plays Lunch Box Bagels at 7:30 p.m.; and Nice 'N Easy battles Hill's Gang at 8:30 p.m.

In action from October 30th: Late Model - Normally when David Rogers' #11 TM Ranch Monte Carlo starts on the pole, the real race is for second. With Jack Cook's Bob's Space Racers #96 and Bobby McClelland's Fairway Jeep #99 in the field, we were in for a real race.

David got his usual great start and easily led the first 10 laps. It was clear from last week's Governor's Cup Race that Cook and McClelland both had cars with the potential to run with the #11.

Rogers' car started to fade slightly and Cook took advantage of a restart to get to the second spot. Cook pulled to the outside and battled Rogers to the line for the lead. Cook had the faster car and won the race by several lengths. Rogers held off a hard charging McClelland for second. Jeff Emery placed fourth ahead of rookie Travis Kittleson who had his first win at Orlando Speedworld on Friday night. ... This was GREAT racing!

SARA Late Model Sportsman/Coke Limited Late Model - David Logan set fast time in qualifying over 31 other first class cars which were on hand to compete. The fastest of the bunch were Larry Osteen, Duane Dempsey, Mike Williams driving Bobby Sears' #9, and Mike McCreary with 10 other cars within a couple of tenths! Jason Boyd qualified 18th but let's not count him out! Several crashes marred the first half of the event, but on lap 50 the order was Osteen-Logan-Dempsey-Williams and Sawyer.

On lap 55 there was a multi car wreck and Randy Dye and Bryan Washburn were two of the cars in it as well as Sawyer.

Williams and Chris Lawrence crashed three laps later but were able to continue from the back. By the restart, Jason Boyd with LeRoy Porter spotting had moved up through the field on the outside and taken the lead.

Boyd leads Osteen till a massive wreck on the front straight collects the #45 of Sonny Hughes and a bunch of others. Mike Williams gets the hard charger award as he also is passing like crazy coming from behind. After the restart on lap 82, it was clear that Boyd had the fastest car. He went on to get the win followed by Osteen, Dempsey, McCrary and Logan.

Modified - Jerry Symons put the #66 Gene Kelley Roofing on the pole in qualifying, but had his work cut out for him holding off Tom Root's #19 and the Korpe/Walker #112 driven by Mike Fritts. Robert Ham's #52 was a factor, but slightly off from his normal dominant performance.

The first 30 laps were caution free, with the running order Symons, Root, Hamm and the #29 driven by Friday night's winner Tank Tucker and Fritts.

Fritts got by Tucker on the restart and started really moving up. Fritts made contact with Root, and this would flair up after the race. The last 10 laps were mostly single file with Fritts pulling off a strong second place finish. Jimmy Winks put Jim Flynn's #57 into the 5th spot. Sportsman - Again a good field of cars.

John Nusbaum started on the pole and got out front early. Doug Samions and Daytona's Randy Newby fought hard for the second spot. When it was over that's how they finished with Nusbaum getting a much deserved win.

Mini-Stock - Tim Clark won the championship and the race with a great effort holding off several top cars. A great battle developed between Bob Doxie and newcomer Jim Wear from Ocala for second place. Steve Griffin's great looking #3 finished fourth and young Adam Bulmeier was fifth.

Bomber - This sounds like a broken record. The Chevy guys all ran about equal, but had nothing for Jim Wintersteins #13 Oldsmobile. Starting from the back the best handling car on the racetrack blasted by every Chevy for his fifth win in a row.

"Tear me down, cry all you want, this Olds is just too legal and fast," was Jim's comment in victory lane last week so he did this week...guess what he was legal!

Strictly Stock - Nitram Kram (Mark Martin) started the #8 up front but was quickly overtaken. Here's the inside scoop... The #33 of Scot VanAlstine is a ton faster than everybody else. He starts last every race but could win in five laps...Hey Scot! time to think about moving up.

Dusty Downer did a good job of chasing the winner for second over the hard charging #3 of Richard Boulton and #6 of Mark Martin.

Prior to Saturday's matchup with Houston, Atlanta made another roster move involving the Solar Bears by recalling Jason Botterill - the team's 1999-2000 scoring leader. Houston netminder Robert Esche made 19 saves to deal the Solar Bears only their second regulation loss and first shutout of the 1999-2000 season by a 2-0 score. Center Mark Frer called both Aeros goals, scoring at 17:56 of the first period from defenseman Mark Ferner and at 14:36 of the second period from right wing Sandy Moger.

The Solar Bears were outshot for the second consecutive game, 25-19, after out-shooting their opponents in their first seven contests. Orlando goaltender Scott Langkow made 23 saves in the losing effort. For the game, both clubs were 0 for 2 on the power play.

Both games this weekend at The "E" Center are scheduled for 9 p.m. faceoffs and can be heard live on WWN2-AM 740 with "The Voice of the Solar Bears" John Dyer calling the play-by-play.

HOROSCOPES

Friday, Nov. 5, 1999

Creative endeavors are likely to dominate the greater portion of your time in the year ahead. Because of your innate talents for transformation, your chances for succeeding are excellent.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) All your well intentioned plans could quickly go by the boards today if you fail to get organized early. What could have been a productive day for you may be one of spinning your wheels. Get a jump on life by understanding the influences that'll govern you in the year ahead. Send the required refund form and for your Astro-Graph predictions by mailing $2 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Be sure to state your Zodiac sign.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Even though you are a glib, charismatic talker, make certain what you're trying to promote today is not selfishly motivated. Others will see through your ploy and you'll be the loser.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) There is a strong possibility you could spend far more than you should today unless you are well disciplined and budget-minded. Being cognizant of this fact should be sufficient.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Learn by observation today if you are unsure about something new in which you're presently involved. By stepping back and letting others lead the way, you'll prosper with them.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Persons who are not directly involved may mean well, but there's a chance they could confuse things and stir up complications. Keep them out of your affairs today.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Pandering to your feelings could prove to be very unprofitable for you today. Make certain you don't allow your emotions to override your logic and common sense in all commercial matters.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) In all partnership arrangements today, you must make the pursuit of the goal a common cause. Otherwise, if the parties involved are not good team players, you'll fall short of your mark.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Although it might be bold measures that need to be called into play today to overcome a static development, your moves must be well thought out or you may regress instead of recover.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) This may not be one of your luckier days for gambling or taking chances, so squelch any inclinations to do that which you wouldn't normally do in order to score quickly.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Take ample time today to weigh and balance all of your alternatives when it comes to anything important. Your first thoughts could border on being rash or impulsive.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you irresponsibly talk about things today that should be kept under wraps, someone who is anything but your friend may be listening. This person could use it against you later.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) An inclination to be either extravagant or spend good money after bad could be quite strong in you today. Be extra careful about how you manage your resources at this time.

WIN AT BRIDGE

The man with the big mouth

By Phillip Alder

In England, this is Guy Fawkes Night. Fawkes and his cohorts tried to blow up the Houses of Parliament on this date in 1605. Why didn't they succeed?

North made a limit raise, showing some 11 support points with four-hoped he could make. He didn't adopt a more scientific route, because he didn't want to help West with his opening lead. And, obviously, a diamond would have killed the contract immediately, but the top of his heart sequence was West's logical start.

With 11 top tricks, declarer is looking for the 12th. This appears to require West to hold either the diamond ace or club queen, and South to guess which. Yet the percentage play, after drawing trumps, is to cash the king and ace of clubs, in case the queen drops, then to lead toward the diamond king. As you can see, this doesn't work here.

However, on the first round of trumps, East naively signaled with the encouraging diamond nine. This was particularly daft in a slam contract, when partner rated never to win a trick. Assuming that East was a trustworthy opponent, not a bluffer, South eventually — and successfully — relied on the club finesse.

One of Guy Fawkes' gang wrote to a good friend who was a Member of Parliament, telling him not to attend the Opening of Parliament. Well, every MP had to hear the king's speech. There could be only one reason why he would receive such a warning. So the MP told the guards to search the basement of the House before the king arrived, and the Gunpowder Plot was foiled.

ASK DR. GOTT

Parents should be there for tests

DEAR DR. GOTT: Do parents have a right to accompany their children during medical testing procedures? I realize that some parents could get in the way, and doctors don't want hysterical parents complicating their work, but it seems to me that a calm parent could soothe a frightened child, while making sure everything being done to the youngster was needed.

DEAR READER: I agree. I believe that the practice of parents accompanying their children for testing is appropriate — and many doctors encourage this involvement. Naturally, in certain circumstances — such as during surgery — parents are prohibited from being present, but they certainly can be nearby.

Parental presence is, as far as I know, not a right. However, physicians are obligated to explain procedures to parents. In my view, children should never be subjected to testing or surgery until the parents have been given a detailed and understandable explanation of what is to be done, the benefits and possible complications, and why the tests and procedures are being recommended.

In hospitals, rules often limit when and how long parents can stay with their children. Fortunately, these rules are surprisingly flexible and can be bent to suit individual needs. Pediatricians ordinarily welcome dialogue with parents on this issue.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have been told that burning plastic in a fireplace can be harmful to health. My husband doesn't believe this and does it all the time. Who is correct?

DEAR READER: The practice can be harmful. Plastic is made from oil, and burning it liberates fumes and vapors that can be dangerous if inhaled. Many of these hydrocarbons are carcinogenic. Moreover, they cause air pollution and may be associated with chronic pulmonary disease.

Some plastics are highly flammable. In addition, plastic residue may stick to the inside of a flue and, over time, build up a combustible char — like creosote — that will ignite and cause a chimney fire.

I suggest that your husband consider more appropriate methods for plastic disposal, for example, he could recycle it — along with metal and glass — thereby becoming more environmentally responsible.

DR. GOTT

PETER GOTT, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My husband splintered a rib in an accident several years ago. Will it get worse if he keeps rough-housing with the guys at work?

DEAR READER: Once a rib is fractured, it will heal in about two months, as will any other normal broken bone. Although healed rib fractures can produce occasional pain, I doubt that your husband will be harmed by "rough-housing with the guys" — unless, of course, he is unlucky enough to break another rib.

Long-lasting marriages are built out of daily courtesies

DEAR ABBY: "Still Dating," the woman and her husband who have incorporated good manners into their marriage, have my support. I encourage them to continue, regardless of what their daughters think.

My wife and I have been married almost 42 years. We still hold hands in public and exchange brief smooches. I open doors for her — both to buildings and cars — and I also help her out of the car. I do little things "just because," like bringing her flowers or small pieces of costume jewelry. It gives me great pleasure.

Let their children learn by observation a good lesson in chivalry, gallantry, and just plain good manners. They'll see, in about 10 years, how fortunate they are to have such loving, devoted parents.

the loss of your loving mate. It's clear that yours was a very caring union. Although chivalry may no longer be universally practiced, it isn't dead yet. And it should be nurtured wherever it appears.

Read on: DEAR ABBY: So many women today say, "I can open my own doors. I don't need a man."

Well, let me tell you something: When a man opens a door, he holds a chair or a coat, he's telling you he feels you are a woman worth the effort. The least you can do is to smile and say "Thank you."

I am 88 years old and enjoy every courtesy a man pays me. Some time ago, I entered an elevator, and a gentleman took off his hat and asked if I wanted the main floor. I said, "Yes, thank you." When we left the elevator and approached the heavy front door, he hurried to hold it for me. I thanked him again, and then I heard him say, "Well! It's been a long time since a woman thanked me." I said, "How kind of you. These doors are so heavy." He smiled from ear to ear. He felt good and so did I.

One day at the mall, a boy about 7 was opening a large, heavy door as a woman got there. As he held it, she sailed right through without even looking at him. When he held it for me, I said, "Thank you so much. These doors are heavy." His face lit up and he said, "Yes." I added, "Oh, you are the dear man today." He stretched up about 3 inches with his chest out. Even little guys like to be thanked.

A woman who learns to be gracious will be surprised at the perks.

HELEN IN SACRAMENTO

DEAR HELEN: You said a mouthful, Sister!

STILL MISSING HIM, TARPON SPRINGS, FLA.

DEAR STILL MISSING HIM: I offer my sympathy for

Dear Abby

Have a belt on your birthday

I know that birthdays can be hard at the best of times.

Birthdays are about celebrating who you are and what you are now, even if it's an older, larger shadow of your former self. Remember, it's your day to be all that you can be, or something like that. Walk proudly into that department store and say, "I'll take that belt!" And when they tell you it's a hold-down strap for a roof rack, just say, "I knew that!" and wear it proudly.

Red Green

Why not treat yourself to something nice — that's what it's really all about. Shoes, for instance. You know that pair of black, steel-shanked work boots with the quick lace-up loops and the padded collars you've had your eye on?

Well, what are you waiting for? You go, guy! But don't stop there. How about a new pair of suspenders, or if you're the "continental" type, how about a new belt? You've stretched your old one so badly it looks like leather dental floss. Get one that fits you the way you are.

Like the toaster, for instance. Bread without a toaster isn't toast, no matter how dry it is.

The point is, like it or not, technology is part of our lives, and it's here to stay. I'm not telling you to embrace it, or marry a robot or anything like that, but don't be afraid of it. Master technology; don't let it master you.

Start simple. Change the batteries in that remote control. Set the clock on your VCR. Ask a 9-year-old what a 200-Mhz Hitachi CPU with an NEC Power VR 2nd Generation graphics processor is.

Believe me, the answer isn't pretty — but you'll be glad you did.

Be like without all the gadgets and doodads we take for granted today.

Weekend worriers: Well, here it comes. Two days, and then the big weekend camping trip with all your buddies.

No kids. No lawn to cut. No responsibilities. And no way you're going to be allowed to go. Because you still haven't told her about it. She's going to blow a head gasket when you do. Why do men leave things like this till the last minute? I know we like to cover our backsides and say we're spontaneous, but I think it's something else.

We're either afraid of our wives or ashamed of ourselves. Or maybe you go away sometimes just so she will realize how much she wants you and needs you and misses you. But don't stay away for too many days, or she might realize how much she really wants you and needs you and misses you.

Quote of the Day: "When my son was 18, he thought I knew nothing. When he turned 21, he was amazed at how much I'd learned in three short years."
