Plants Causing Headaches For Deputies

"We're having one hell of a time killing 'em," says Sgt. Robert Kunkler of the Seminole County Sheriff's Department. Kunkler was referring to an estimated 10.000 marijuana plants near Chuluota that are so "healthy" that two doses of weed killer won't kill the plants.

The marijuana patch was discovered by the sheriff's department two months ago in a raid that led deputies about a mile through scrub oak and Palmetto Bush. Then, the plants were only inches high, Kunkler said. Deputies found a sophisticated irrigation system set up and empty bags of fertilizer on the site. Since the weed killer has failed, deputies will use a little elbow grease Wednesday morning and literally pull the plants now as tall as five feet high up from the roots, Kunkler said. "We could use a defoliate to kill them but that would also destroy the trees and plants around the site," Kunkler explained. Consequently, an estimated 15 deputies will arm themselves with plastic bags to gather the plants to be burned at the end of the harvest. The marijuana site is about an acre that hosts one plant per inch.

consider the fact that Mills was poor, fatherless, or had a steady job in their recommendation. "Consider Mills entered another person's house through a window by taking the screen off and armed himself with a .410 shotgun not as a defense weapon but offensive weapon," Marblestone said. Earlier Marblestone advocated the death penalty for Mills because of the "heinous nature" of the crime.

"Mills is asking you to spare his life," Marblestone told the jury, "through his counsel and witnesses." His pert mustache and black horn-rimmed glasses giving him a professional appearance, Marblestone asked "Who was there on May 25 to ask Mills to spare James Wright's life? Nobody. Mills made that decision all on his

After explaining the definitions of aggravating and mitigating circumstances in the case, Marblestone asked once more for austere punishment: "Mills killed and shot that man in cold blood and I ask you to show him the same deference and respect he showed Mr. Wright."

Joan Bickerstaff, defense attorney, told the jury Mills' crime was not "so shocking, so horrible, so vicious, so vile that only death can satisfy."

She described Mills' crime as not a case of premeditated murder but a "bungled burglary" where a man was killed.

This is not a case of murder for hire," Ms. Bickerstaff contended. "It is not a mafioso type in gunning down of Mr. Wright. It is not cold, calculated pre-meditated

She appealed to the jurors to grant Mills life imprisonment, where he would serve a minimum sentence of 25 years. The time served would pay for his crime, she contended

"Mills, 22, will spend more time in the state pentitentiary than he has lived," Mrs. Bickerstaff said. "Although it cannot bring back Mr. Wright, that is punishment enough for that type of crime."

With her voice cracking and hands trembling as she flipped over her notes, the young defense attorney looked at the jurors and asked for their mercy on her client: "I believe if you follow the law, you will recommend a

A Smith and Wesson .38 blue steel revolver was stolen from the home of a Sanford man, according to Sanford police. John Kenneth Hollender, 36, of 2553 Marshall Ave., Sanford, told police he discovered the gun missing Saturday from his home. In addition to the firearm, a holster of black waffle weave and a Nikon camera also were taken, for a total value loss of $600. Hollender told police.

Carter To Participate

In Call-In Show In Iowa

ABOARD THE DELTA QUEEN (UPI) - Jimmy Carter is cruising down the Mississippi River, but it's his plunges into the sea of faces at each stop that is turning the unusual working vacation into a success for the beleaguered president.

Carter today was scheduled to participate in a telephone call-in show on a Davenport, Iowa, radio station and again to shake hands with the people who turn out at his stops along the waterway.

The weeklong journey aboard the sternwheeler Delta Queen has turned into a quest to restore the stature of the presidency as well as Carter's publicly stated aim of mustering grass-roots support for an energy program. Asked about the unexpected heavy turnouts thus far on the 659-mile trip from St. Paul, Minn., to St. Louis, Carter said, "I consider it to be a nonpartisan expression of support for the presidency."

Gas Maximums Being Listed

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Energy Department, in an effort to help consumers determine if they are being illegally overcharged at the gas pump, is publishing an estimate of the legal maximum cost of gasoline in 20 metropolitan areas.

The department's Economic Regulatory Administration compiled the list, which estimates the country's highest price to be $1.14 per gallon for Citgo premium in New York and the lowest to be 86.7 cents per gallon for Shell regular in Portland, Ore.

David Bardin, the regulatory administration's director. said he hoped consumers would note service stations that charge well above the estimated price for their area and call the special toll-free hotline set up for reporting

WILMINGTON, Del. (UP) - Seven witnesses had identified the Rev. Bernard T. Pagano as the "Gentlemen Bandit" who staged a series of armed robberies. Now, without warning, the judge told the packed courtroom another man had confessed to the crimes. The stunned spectators gasped in unison.

Tears trickled down the cheeks of Pagano, a Roman Catholic priest whose kind deeds had won the hearts - and the courtroom support — of his parishoners.

Superior Court Judge Andrew Christie delivered the flabbergasting news: a Pennsylvania man had confessed to the armed robberies for which Pagano was being tried. "It's real good news," Pagano, 53, bubbled minutes later during

U.S. Still Lacking Information On Iran

Forty-five thousand Americans living and working in Iran were witness to the months of revolutionary turmoil that led to the overthrow of the shah last January. That American presence included a full diplomatic mission operating out of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

But, as we now know, the depth and intensity of the Iranian revolution caught the Carter administration by complete surprise. And a lack of reliable information about internal developments in Iran contributed significantly to the policy paralysis that crippled Washington's efforts to defend American interests.

It is a safe bet that the intelligence flow from Iran these days is even less reliable. Fewer than 3,000 Americans remain in Iran and most of these are under instructions to maintain the lowest possible profile. The size of the embassy's diplomatic mission has been sharply reduced. Indeed, a dispute between the United States and Iran's revolutionary government over the designated American ambassador has left the embassy in the hands of a charge d'affaires.

All this might not matter much but for signs that instability in Iran is increasing despite the considerable public support for the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini and his plans for transforming the country into a strict Moslem republic.

Although reliable statistics are lacking, the economy apparently continues to deteriorate and there is substantial unemployment. Oil production remains well below pre-revolutionary levels. Chronic public disorders plague Tehran and other parts of the country. Political dissidents of all deological stripes appear increasingly disgruntled and active despite the lack of any semblance of unit or common purpose. Ethnic separatists, including Kurds and Arabs, remain a destabilizing force.

Does any or all of this threaten the ayatollah's the plane's manufacturer or the airlines that fly grip on Iran? And, if so, what would likely follow the revolutionary government should it fail to hold the country together? "The Carter administration has only the most" tenuous answers to these and other fundamental Wilcox PAC. questions about Iran's present and future. It leave us wondering if the next explosion in that strategic country will find Washington even less able to chart a realistic course for American foreign policy.

SST Was Premature

The supersonic transport, the bright dream of commercial aviation adecade ago, has proved itself a technical marvel but a sad disappointment in the for unemployed politicians. all-important profit-and-loss column. The villain is the rising price of aviation fuel that has rewritten the economics of commercial air travel.

During the late 1960s when French, British, American and Soviet design teams translated their SST ideas into working blueprints, aviation fuel sold for 10 cents a gallon. Today, the figure is six times that and climbing.

In the end, only an Anglo-French consortium and the Soviet government proceeded with SST production. Operation of the 16 British-French Concordes has resulted in losses in the tens o millions of dollars.

In any case, Congress decided in 1971 not to fund development of an American SST. In retrospect, this would appear a wise, even visionary, decision.

But some day, commercial air travel at supersonic speeds will be the rule rather than the exception. When that day arrives, the Concorde will be seen for what it is - a bold if premature leap into the future.

Rising gas prices are partly to blame for the proposed transportation budget of $2,903,955 for Seminole County public schools. The school board tentatively approved the budget

Wednesday when it ok'ed the total budget of $75.8 million for the 1970-80 fiscal year. It is expected to adopt the budget on Aug. 27.

Fred Taylor, director of federal programs and transportation for the school district, said the proposed budget represents an increase of $500,000 over last year's budget of $2,376,050. He attributed the increase to "salaries and gasoline."

WASHINGTON (NEA) - Members of Congress investigating two of this year's most serious and highly publicized accidents also must confront the problems created by allowing special interest groups to finance political

Both the manufacturer of the plane, McDonnell Douglas, and the designer of the reactor, Babcock & Wilcox, maintain political action committees that last year donated thousands of dollars to the legislature's campaign committees.

Keep eye on this club. John McKay has laid groundwork for push to contention in club's fourth year. They're maybe still year away, by McKay's estimation. But coming fast enough to be taken seriously. Needed are more stability on offensive line and mature attitude under fire by young guys. Defense at this stage probably ahead of offense. Should better 5-11 record.

OFFENSE

Bucs have hitched their future to Doug Williams, for whom McKay predicts greatness. There's no doubt about his passing arm. This year he can throw to Gordon Jones. valuable addition to receiving corps that already features Morris Owens wide, Jimmie Giles at tight end. Failure of Jimmy DuBose's knee to come around is offset in backfield by newcomers Jerry Eckwood, Rick Berns. And Ricky Bell might finally have full, injury-free season. Bucs brought passel of linemen to camp. Most important addition is Greg oberts, tops in college ball (needs only to learn pass protection). Neil O'Donaghue is placekicker. Rating: C +

DEFENSE

Start with Lee Roy Selmon in that three-man front - and that's some terrific start. He's already among NFL's best. Randy Crowder should be nose tackle. Other end is question mark. Wally Chambers has ability plus bad knee. Bill Kollar is probable answer. Linebacking is stable, with other Selmon (Dewey) revelation in middle and David Lewis starting to gather raves on outside. Deep secondary is also underrated because there are no all-pro names. Corners capably handled by Jerls White, Mike Washington; Mark Cotney is steady strong safety. They're 'got consistent punting from Dave Green. Rating: B

The envelope was postmarked Sycamore, Ill. Inside was a lovely invitation to a brunch honoring Gertrude Fox on her 75th birthday, Aug. 17. The hostesses were her two daughters, Lucille Gilliland of Sycamore, and Betty Jane Bradley of Lake Wales.

More than 75 guests were invited to the "no gifts please" brunch held at Gertrude's home, 1922 Palmetto Ave., Sanford, between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m.

The home was alive with merriment . and happylooking people. An unidentified woman said, "This is just lovely - and the food is delicious."

The buffet brunch was served from a round table in the dining room. Surrounding the punch bowl of citrus punch were trays containing a luscious layered sandwich loaf. carved fresh pineapples arranged with a variety of melon balls and other fresh fruits, colorful assorted vegetables and relishes, homemade cheese rounds and birthday cake.

Assisting the hostesses in greeting, keeping the guest registry, pouring and serving were Mrs. Howell King, Mrs. Charles Hayes, Mrs. J. L. Jackson Mrs. Melvin Wilkins, Mrs. W. R. Fort, Mrs. Herbert Moreland Sr., Mrs. Sue Stevenson, Mrs. Byron Fox, Mrs. Mary Ann Jarrell, Mrs. Volie Williams Jr., Mrs. Charles

Her grandchildren attending the fete were Mrs. Holley Bradley and her children, Bill and Holley from Lake Wales; and Mrs. Patsy Ellis and her children, Carman and Gretchen from Orange Park. There are also two more great grandchildren, six in all.

Gertrude's sister, Mrs. Martha Balse, arrived after the party and remained until Sunday. Other out-of-town relatives and friends also attended. "The girls (daughters) just wanted to honor me," Gertrude said. "They did

Gertrude continued to work as secretary in DeLand and later worked for St. John's Realty in Sanford, from 1957-62. Then she and her husband both real estate brokers, opened the John Fox Realty office on Park Avenue where they remained until retirement

"I swim in the pool every day when the weather permits," Gertrude said. "And my pet project is to start a garden cicle for the girls west of Sanford like Bonnie Schumacher, Connie (Fox) and Sherra (Jones)."

In the past few years Gertrude has been to Europe three times. "I just love going on Mrs. Rogers' Senior Citizens Tours," she said. "We will be going to the Southwest for 20 days in the fall."

She may be 75, but Gertrude has a zest for life. She hugged her guests, thanked them for coming and just kept right on smiling while she thumbed through the guest registry. "Didn't we have a good turnout?" she asked.

Sanford Urged To Sue Altamonte, County

representatives pledged their support to Sanford if additional money is allocated by the Department of Community Affairs this year. "That was like saying 'If you fly to the moon, you can take a trip," Quigley said. He added there is no process in the state agency whereby the allocation can be appealed except through the courts, the assistant city manager said. County Budget Director Jeff Etchberger called Quigley's charges of "collusion" between the county and Sanford "crying over spoiled eggs or spilled milk." Fred Griffith, a budget and management analyst in Etchberger's office, was the county representative at the Tuesday meeting. Etchberger said the county supported the funding for the 4C program for many reasons. Among those reasons are that it benefits people not only in the unincorporated areas but the entire county and because the money combined with a county approved allocation of $15,000 will be matched $8 to every $1 with federal funding.

"We tried to explain to Sanford that the 4C program is an on-going 12 month program while its project is a capital one which can be delayed until January without loss of federal dollars," Etchberger said.

"This money combined with the county money already allocated will generate almost a quarter million dollars in federal funds and will have a tremendous impact on a tremendous program in all ends of the county. The county has placed the 4C program on a high priority," Etchberger said.

"If the funding had been delayed until January, the 4C program would have been jeopardized. Sanford's program will not be jeopardized by delaying it until January," he said.

"We told Sanford we will support its request when additional funds are disbributed in January," Etchberger said, "We will not compete with Sanford for funding
