Rev. Rutter Speaks To Over 100 Masons At Masonic Temple

More than 100 of our brethren in the Masonic Temple last night to hear what James M. Rutter, veteran member of the lodge, termed as "one of the most wonderful and inspiring talks that has ever been given in the local Masonic lodge." The speaker was the Rev. Dr. Rutter, of St. Augustine, and his subject was "George Washington the Mason." After being introduced to the audience by District Deputy Grand Master H. Chapman, Rev. Rutter traced the life of Washington from boyhood through his initiation and subsequent term of office as the Master of his home lodge, at Fredericksburg, Va. He praised Washington as the most patriotic citizen of his time, and declared that the Constitution of the United States is "the greatest document ever written by man."

Frank P. Foster was also a speaker on the program, using his remarks to a eulogy of the address made by Dr. Rutter, and interspersing his talk with illustrations of the early days of Masonry in Sanford.

DETAILS OF HUGE UTILITIES CRASH TOLD BY INSULL

Magnate's Son Relates
Tale Of Effort Made
Trying To Save Firm

CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—Samuel Insull, Jr., 32-year-old son of the former utilities magnate, told in a formal court testimony of the final desperate attempt to save two bankrupt Insull companies.

The younger Insull saw a potential in a $70,000,000 year salary of Insull Utilities, Investment Co., and Corporation, Security Company, of Chicago. He returned a week ago from Paris where he saw his father's old partner, George Insull, the elder Insull was fighting his way out of Chicago, in an effort to save the utilities company with the failure of the $2,000,000,000 public utilities company.

Testifying with apparent dignity for accuracy, young Insull recalled in carefully chosen words that in December, 1931, the point was reached where he knew of the declining securities market, the two companies were unable to continue paying additional calls for loans of millions of dollars from New York and Chicago banks.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

THE RIGHT ATTITUDE: Come let us worship and bow down: let us kneel before the Lord our maker. For he is our God; and we are the people of his pasture. —Psalm 95-6, 7.

ADVENTURE

You take a home in a valley with the hush of an inland rain and the South-wind, and a rose-sweet vine for an anchor chain.

But I'll take the roaring typhoon On the road to Nin-a-fu, With a drunken star to steer me, And a feathery, deep-lunged crew.

But I'll take mine in the movies, If it's all the same to you! By Wilfred J. Funk.

November hurricanes may come now and far between but when they do come they land with both feet.

Arthur Brisbane is again in Florida. Just can't keep away from the best climate in the world.

The political mystery of the day is how McAdoo managed to run on a wet platform without skidding.

As disturbing as the synthetic which this country has had is the synthetic repeal it is likely to get.

When the people get through saying for the World War they will be ready to agree with Sherman that "War is hell."

Down in Miami a woman sneezed the other day dislocating her elbow. But it had been called the funny bone long before that.

Florida people gaining fame on Broadway include Buddy and Vilma Ebsen, of Orlando, a dancing team now starring in "Flying Colors."

Great Britain qualifies as the world's champion weight lifter having recently raised a three hundred million pound loan at 3 1/4 percent interest.

Another thing the people can be thankful for about last week's election was that goat gland specialist out in Kansas didn't get elected. He's been grafting for years.

Mayor Dumas receives an invitation to be the guest of E. L. Doherty at the Miami Biltmore Hotel. Stellar golf tournament, big banquet, luxurious accommodations, swimming pools and bathing beauties, waving palms and moonlight all free. Say, this mayor business isn't so bad after all!

Henry Ford, after supporting Hoover, now comes out for free trade. As a matter of fact free trade would benefit Ford, Russia, for instance, could sell its wheat to this country, thus making enough money to buy automobiles from Ford who doesn't have to worry about competition in the automobile business.

In connection with war debts Germany's reparations it is interesting to note that Germany is the largest industrial nation in the world with the single exception of the United States, and that at least one son of the Kaiser German Kaiser is connected with every important political faction in Germany.

President Hoover invites Gov. Roosevelt to discuss war debts with him. For the first time in the history of the country a president invites his successor to confer with him regarding matters of vital international consequence. And for the first time in the history of the country a President-elect announces such a conference. Out of such a conference in so critical a time will come some answer to the war debt problem.

Duval County's Credit

One of the most important and salutary effects of hard times is the increased interest which people manifest in their government. In 1920 only 26,000,000 people voted in the presidential election. In 1924, only 24,000,000 voted for Mr. Coolidge or Mr. Davis. Last week over forty millions cast their ballots for their presidential choice. Similarly the time is not in the far distant past when bond issues were voted on and carried by a mere handful of taxpayers. By far the majority, who might have defeated these issues, did not take the trouble to vote.

That a change has come about in this attitude is indicated by the vote on the proposed bond issue in Duval county for the construction of a new St. Johns River bridge. The question was whether the county should issue $2,500,000 worth of bonds for the purpose of adding to some $585,000 in public funds already available for the construction of a second toll bridge across the St. Johns River. Exactly 9,573 freeholders voted on this question establishing a new record in Duval county politics for the number of ballots cast in such an election.

With so large a number voting and thus evincing an interest in what their future taxes should be, and in view of present business conditions the outcome could not be in doubt. Probably no section of the state is more progressive or ready to do big things than is Jacksonville and the surrounding territory, but the freeholders decided against the bond issue by a 1,489 majority. Realizing that this is not the time to sell bonds or to inaugurate unnecessary construction, they aligned themselves solidly against any further increase in public obligations.

Be it said to the credit of Jacksonville and Duval county that they constitute one of the few bright spots on Florida's financial horizon. Throughout the boom and the years of hard times which have followed, despite fantastic schemes for huge development projects, and even despite some unemployment problems, this metropolitan center of Florida has held its debts down to a minimum and has kept faith with its creditors without defaults or threats of defaults.

By their vote at the polls yesterday Duval county freeholders have again demonstrated that they appreciate the credit of their county and intend to keep it good.

The Red Cross

The work of the American Red Cross goes on every day in the year, but it is only once in a while that it is forcefully brought to our attention what this work amounts to in the course of a year. The Red Cross is always sought for aid in time of disaster, and it is particularly true during the present economic depression that its aid has been needed.

Here are some of its accomplishments during the past year:

"The American Red Cross gave employment relief to 3,000,000 families during winter, spring and summer of 1931-1932.

"Red Cross flour made from farm board wheat, distributed free to more than 2,500,000 families.

"Garden seeds to plant a quarter acre, given free to more than 315,000 families.

"Food, clothing, medical aid, school lunches and milk for children and other necessities to 380,000 families, including aid in mining communities.

"2,200 Red Cross chapters participated in unemployment relief.

"More than 400,000 war veterans and their families were aided by 3,118 Red Cross chapters.

"750 Red Cross public health nurses made 1,335,000 visits to aid the sick and teach health methods. Thousands of unemployed are dependent upon Red Cross nurses in times of stress.

"Red Cross volunteers made 336,000 new garments for the needy.

"The Red Cross also gave relief in 60 disasters during the year several of major proportions, including floods in Mississippi and Louisiana where 50,000 persons were fed and a tornado in southeastern states where 368 persons were killed and aid was given 2,000 injured. More than $250,000 was expended by Red Cross in tornado relief.

In addition to these extraordinary demands upon its resources:

"7,000,000 school children were enrolled in Junior Red Cross.

"72,000 persons were enrolled as life savers.

"69,000 persons received first aid certificates.

"38,000 persons took home hygiene courses.

"Aid was sent in 22 disasters in insular and foreign countries.

"Volunteers made 3,700,000 surgical dressings; transcribed 300,000 pages of braille; served 129,000 persons in canteens and made 54,000 motor calls."

SANFORD, TWENTY YEARS AGO

The Farmers' Improvement Club, of Moore's Station, will have another of its debates on Friday evening, Nov. 22. J. C. Smith and Mrs. W. W. Britt on the affirmative; Mrs. J. C. Smith and J. F. McClelland on the negative. Subject for debate will be "Ambition Does More Harm Than Good." The ministerial body of Pinelake county is agitating the question of a wet and dry election at an early date. Dr. G. G. Thomas, chief surgeon and superintendent of the relief department of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad Company, arrived here in his private car recently on an inspection tour. While in Sanford he was the guest of Dr. Oliver J. Miller, medical examiner for the company, who arranged an automobile trip to Orlando where Dr. John S. McEwen, the company's local surgeon, at that point, entertained the party at dinner. Much to the surprise of many citizens Postmaster Haskins is still on the job just as if nothing extraordinary had happened. The only change noticeable in the general postmaster is the absence of the Tef watch dog that he sported before the late administration. Mrs. I. C. Putnam is expected to arrive in the city this week from Springfield, Mass. where she and Mr. Putnam have been spending the summer. Her many friends will be glad to know of her return and that Mr. Putnam expects to be here about Dec. 15. J. T. McLain, of Geneva, had the misfortune to have a carload of fruit sink in Lake Harney last Friday, and as everyone knows, Mr. McLain is one of the men who "never say die." He succeeded in getting the fruit out of the water and saving part of it. Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Robinson and son, Edward, of Sanford, visited Mr. and Mrs. David Speer at their home in Geneva Monday. The Chase & Company packing house at Geneva is nearly completed. Some packing was done there last week. It is expected that work will begin in earnest in a few days.

WORK FOR 5000 MEN

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Approximately 5000 men are to be put to work soon by state and county authorities as the initial step in making use of the $30,000,000 bond issue for unemployment relief, which was approved at Tuesday's general election.

LET'S WIN THIS WAR

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR

There has been much military talk about combating present economic difficulties. Such expressions as "making war on the depression" have usefully dramatized the need for vigorous and concerted effort to restore prosperity. There is even more justification for the use of military terms to picture the urgent need for relief and prevention of human misery. Such energy, unity and enthusiasm as nations achieve in times of war are required to repel the converging attack of the armies of cold and hunger.

Few are the countries which have remained free from these invaders. And many have felt the forays of those camp followers, discouragement and despair. Still stronger defenses are required for this winter. The damage from these enemies may be heavier than from a war unless even greater sacrifices are made to protect men and women—and children—from their ravages. Such sacrifices should be cheerfully offered. They are far less than those demanded by a war. Even a modicum of the thought and energy and money that went into the World War will win the present struggle. Thought and energy are hard to measure, but the meagerness of the money now being spent on the relief front as compared with the treasures blown away in France from 1914 to 1918 is easy to see.

A survey made by the Monitor of unemployment relief costs in the United States during 1930, 1931 and the first half of 1932 showed actual and estimated expenditures of about $2,000,000,000. Federal relief measures enacted by the last Congress added $2,422,000,000, and relief work since undertaken by local and state governments probably would bring the figure to $5,000,000,000. But in the same period the United States Government spent at least $6,000,000,000 for past future wars. And the United States' bill just for services and materials used in the World War was $32,000,000,000. In 1930 Great Britain paid out, roughly, $360,000,000 for unemployment insurance and poor law relief as against $400,000,000 for national defense purposes. Germany last year reported official military expenditures of $170,000,000 and about $700,000,000 for the relief of its 6,000,000 unemployed. But officially, Germany is almost disarmed.

The world as a whole is pouring $4,000,000,000 a year into armaments. If it can afford that luxury, it can afford whatever is necessary to insure the kind of "national defense" which will safeguard helpless millions from destitution and despair. To a starving man a crust is worth more than a cruiser. And men did starve in "civilized" countries last winter. If there is money for killing, there should be money for saving.

Today nations face losses greater than the taking of territory. The danger will be less apparent, but it is so great that communities and individuals should be galvanized into action to combat it with war-time energy and enthusiasm.

G.O.P. HANDLING OF DEBT IS HIT BY DEMOCRATS

I think it is one of the silliest things ever presented to Congress.

"Personally, I would favor a scaling down of the debts if we could get down the foreign countries tariff walls but it is useless to talk about reduction in armaments because the next war will not be fought with the armaments now in use."

In Jackson, Miss., Senator Harrison, Democrat, asserted that "Congress will not be bound by any commitments of the President, nor in my opinion, will it modify its position in regard to these debt payments."

Saying that Congress alone must settle the debt question, Representative Black (D. N. Y.), in a statement issued here charged that "The presidential activity has been disastrous and impertinent." He added:

"The executive duty is to keep Congress informed of proposed negotiations. In this, Hoover has been at least neglectful."

Both Harrison and Black opposed modification or cancellation. Harrison suggested a special session of Congress if "President Hoover feels that this government should take some affirmative view of the foreign debtors request."

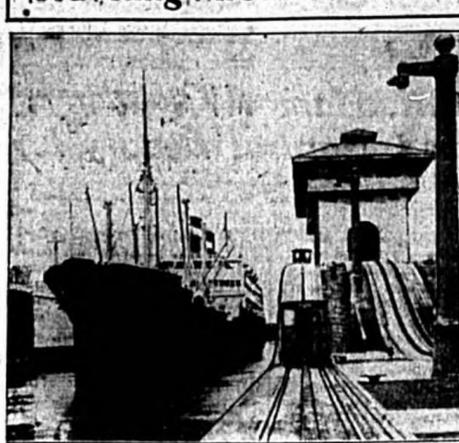

Two other Democratic senators expressed themselves emphatically against cancellation or reduction: Senator Swanson, of Virginia, ranking Democrat on the foreign relations committee, interpreted the Democratic platform as being in opposition to reduction, as well as cancellation, even though the word "reduction" was not mentioned in it, and said "that pledge must be kept."

Senator Fletcher, of Florida, said the debt agreements were solemn instruments that should be lived up to.

"If we had an Andrew Jackson in the White House we would collect those debts," the Florida Senator declared.

Representative Black said that "The invitation to Governor Roosevelt was entirely unnecessary; it is not his function to pass on the questions involved. He has not been giving access to the negotiations to date. Any conclusion he might draw would be premature lacking complete supporting information. Should Roosevelt decide with Hoover, soon he would be engaging with an insupportable budget under criticism of international bankers, while Hoover would be banking in their favor either here or abroad. Moreover, we Democrats do not want to be regarded in the new deal by a coalition with the repudiated."

Traveling Around America

IT LOOKS like the last lap of a scenic railway, but it is really the track for the little electric "mules" which guide down on an liners through the massive locks that are an "elevator duty" down in the Panama Canal. The daylight trip through this greatest inland waterway in the world is included in the route of the fortnightly cruises between New York and California visiting the Central America. From comfortable deck chairs passengers can watch the scenic wonders of the 41-mile trip under and sea how the various locks operate. Not long after the ship leaves Colon, Atlantic terminal of the Canal, little electric engines, called "mules," running along each side of the channel guide the liner through the massive gates of Gatun Lock. In the chambers of this lock the ship is raised by three "traps," 85 feet to the level of Gatun Lake the largest artificial body of water in the world. On the passage across this lake, the trunks of half-submerged trees that were once a forest gleam like silver spars above the surface of the water and shores bright with gaily colored birds drift by. Soon the channel grows narrow and the hills of Cuba Cut appear above the deck. After passing through this Cut the ship enters the Pedro Miguel Locks and the Miraflores lock which lower her to the level of the Pacific. And as if sailing up hill and down again were not sufficiently upsetting to one's ideas of propriety, one finds that Hallock, Pacific terminus of the Canal, is farther East than Cristobal, the Atlantic terminus, and sunsets and sunsets seem to have changed places.
