Manning Accused Of Filing Fake Accident Report

By Jane Casselberry Herald Staff Writer

A boating accident that happened almost four years ago in Lake County is coming back to haunt Longwood Police Chief Greg Manning, who is already under fire for "unprofessional behavior" in a dispute with City Commissioner Dave Gunter.

City Commissioner Lynette Dennis, who had requested City Administrator Ron Waller investigate Manning's actions in that dispute, said today Waller told her Tuesday he was turning the investigation of the boating accident over to either the Florida Department of Law Enforcement or the State's Attorney Office. A report of the accident, which involved Manning, was filed only in Longwood, not in Lake County where the accident occurred. In addition, statements in the report are being challenged by others involved in the incident.

Although Mrs. Dennis said Manning should be suspended until the accident investigation is completed, Gunter said today he does not think Manning should be suspended unless evidence of a violation of law is found. Gunter said he just wants to get at the truth.

Gunter said his asking Manning for a copy of the accident report was one of the things that triggered the chief's outburst during a break in the commission work session of Jan. 19. Commissioner Gunter and Manning were having a discussion in one of the city offices and when they returned to the council chamber, the chief became irate and began shouting at Gunter. Mrs. Dennis said his actions frightened her.

Copies of the accident report were distributed to commissioners at Monday night's meeting after Gunter had asked Waller for a copy. Gunter said he first learned of the existence of the report from a Longwood resident during his campaign for Larry Goldberg's commission seat.

According to the report given the commissioners, the boat accident occurred on Lake Dora in Lake County and involved the police chief's boat and one owned by Steven M. LeBruno, a Longwood police officer at the time. According to the report allegedly signed by LeBruno as investigating officer, Manning's boat turned left and the momentum carried it into the left side of LeBruno's boat.

Drug Testing Policy Gets Added Support

By Karen Talley Herald Staff Writer

Sanford's two new city commissioners, A.A. McClanahan and Whitey Eckstein, have added their support to a planned drug testing policy for city employees and job applicants. The adoption is expected this spring.

The city commission called for development of the testing policy in November.

If the policy is enacted, the city would be joining a growing number of municipalities with similiar substance abuse policies. While Sanford commissioners acknowledge the legal ramifications of the policy, they are relying on a commitment from counsel to continue monitoring court action related to substance abuse policies in both the public and private sectors.

All five commissioners said this week the policy will be a protective measure for the city's residents, operations and staffers.

"It doesn't matter what lob the employee is doing," said Commissioner John Mercer, "Anytime any of our employees is impaired by drugs or micohol they're definitely not doing their very best for the city, or themselves. It doesn't matter if they're at city hall answering phones. I think it's imperative that all staff are operating to their highest potential."

The city has 344 employees, whose positions range from receptionist to fire fighter. Under the policy, urinalysis testing will be required for staffers suspected of substance abuse and all applicants for city positions. Sanford will pay for the screenings and applicants will not be hired if they test positively, according to the policy.

The American Civil Liberties Union has opposed drug testing programs in court on the grounds they violate Fourth Amendment rights barring unreasonable search and seizure.

"I support the policy, but I'd also like to see more definitive guidelines from the courts about Fourth Amendment rights," Eckstein said. "I frankly don't want to see Sanford faced with a lawsuit."

Couple Robbed In Home

A Sanford couple reported to Seminole County sheriff's deputies they were robbed of over $20,000 in goods in their home Wednesday evening by a gunman who wore a hatchet on his belt.

Earnestine W. Terborg, 54, of 208 Woods Trail, Sanford, told sheriff's deputies she was watching television when the masked gunman appeared in the dining area of her home.

"It's time to turn off your soap opera," the bandit said. According to a sheriff's report the robber, also armed with a handgun, said he was there to rob Mrs. Terborg, not ot hurt her. He said his boss in Miami had sent him to rob her house. He was told there was a large amount of jewelry and cash in the home, the report said.

Mrs. Terborg opened a safe and dresser drawers for the robber, and told him there was no jewelry in the home. He took her $17,500 diamond ring.

Louis J. Terborg, 56, then arrived home and the robber made him lie on the floor and he took Terborg's wallet and watch. The Terborgs were made to go into a bedroom and lie on a bed while the suspect ransacked dresser drawers and a closet. He locked the Treborgs in the closet and left, the report said. In addition to the jewelry he also stole $580.

The robbery occurred between 9:10 p.m. and 10:45 p.m. Wednesday.

Governments Study Joint Waste System

Herald Staff Writer

The idea of a solid waste management system to be shared by Seminole County and its seven cities sparked favorable interest at the Council of Local Governments (CALNO) meeting Wednesday.

The system as proposed would provide income from the waste. Residue ashes could be sold as fertilizer, recycled metal could be sold, and incinerated waste used to generate electricity and steam for sale.

The idea came from Winter Springs Commissioner Phil Kulbes.

The entire council, minus Sanford Mayor Bettye Smith, absent due to illness, supported the idea.

The council will bring a representative from Tampa's system to explain their experience at the next CALNO meeting 7 p.m. March 4 at Oviedo City Hall.

"Tampa is experiencing phenomenal success," said Kulbes. "We need a waste recovery system, because we are going to run out of landfill areas. They're not making land any more land, and landfills foul up the groundwater."

He said the minimum waste for a system to be economical is 500 tons per day, and he said he checked with the county and found there is 700-1,000 tons per day.

Mayor Dick Fess of Lake Mary was in agreement from the start, stating, "I think we should have the expert here at the next meeting, because time is of the essence. The longer you wait, the more it costs."

Council Chairman Nancy Warren, a Seminole County School Board member, said that, coincidentally, she got a call from a public relations representative with American Waterworks Association about the same thing. Mrs. Warren too, was in agreement the concept should be con-

Although County Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff voted along with the rest of the coincil to consider the system, he had a few comments about possible drawbacks.

He said members of the county commission went to Tampa some time back and visited the plant.

"It all sounds good, but pollution control standards make the incinerators very sophisticated and expensive.

In addition, he said the county has 1,000 acres of landfill, much of it unused. And, he said, "Where do you put the plant? Probably along state route 419 or 434 on the south side of Lake Jesup, and there are transportation costs to be considered." The electricity generated, he added, is expensive for power companies to buy. Kirchhoff said the county is required to look at resource recovery for garbage for such things as aluminium recycling. "We haven't reached the mass yet, but we're getting there. The economics just aren't there for this county yet."

One of the first cities to try a solid waste management system, Kulbes said, was Houston, and he added they're still using it. There are a few in Florida, he said.

In other business Wednesday night at Longwood City Hall, the council:

 Invoked $25 dues for each member, which includes the seven cities, the school board and the county. This was in case the council wanted to do lobbying in Tallahassee.

Lake Mary Studies Proposed Charter Changes

By Genle Lindberg Herald Staff Writer

A charter revision committee in Lake Mary is recommending some changes designed to strenghthen the role of the city manager and expand its city commission to six, plus a mayor.

Tonight, commissioners may decide just which charter changes the committee is recommending be put on the ballot for voter approval. And at least one city commissioner says he hopes the public will turn out in force to express its views and give the commission direction.

In addition to recommending an expanded commission, the charter revision committee also suggests requiring the mayor to vote on all issues rather than just in the case of a tie, so the public will have a better understanding of where the mayor stands on all issues, rather than just Another Important recommendation is that the city manager be given fiscal responsibility. He or she would become the city's budgetary officer responsible for compiling an annual budget and presenting it to commissioners. Presently, the mayor is the budgetary officer.

Any charter changesapproved by the commission must be advertised and public hearings held before they go to citizens in a referendum.

Commissioner Paul Tremel said he would like to hear from citizens at tonight's meeting. "I would prefer to hear from citizens now rather than later," he said.

The charter revision committee was formed at the request of Mayor Dick Fess and was approved by city commissioners, according to chairman of the committee, Randy Morris, who presented the committee's recommendations at a commission work session Monday.

Morris said the purpose of the charter revision recommendations is not to lose the "small town flavor" of Lake Mary but to ensure a city government that will be "more effective and thereby more responsive to its citizens.

The interesting thing about Lake Mary's charter is its concern for the right of citizens to petition their government, Morris said, adding that the "small town Intent of Lake Mary's forefathers to provide a bare bones skeletal framework" for their city was different from the more structured, dictatorial city policies evident in other city charters his committee studied, and "we like

"But a stronger city manager form of government is now necessary Morris said, "because it will produce an administrative head who can run a tight ship.'

Being a full-time employee, the city manager has greater hands-on exposure to all branches of city government, personnel and finance and would therefore be able to serve more effectively as chief budgetary officer for the city, according to

Dollar's Fall Far Enough

The value of the dollar has fallen far enough, according to Federal Reserve Board chairman Paul Volcker. Right on, say Japanese and German officials, whose export-based economies have been slowed by the dollar's two-year decline. But, as the non-results of Treasury Secretary James Baker's meeting with Japanese Finance Minister Milchi Miyazawa demonstrate, the Reagan administration is less than enthusiastic about propping up the dollar unless other industrial nations change their economic policies.

Although a precipitous decline in the dollar's value could re-ignite inflation in the United States and lead to global recession, administration economists believe the dollar can fall another 10 percent without damaging the economy. And, if other industrialized nations — particularly Japan and Germany reduce interest rates and stimulate their domestic economies to stabilize their currencies, the United States should be able to reduce its $170 billion-trade deficit significantly. The German central bank took that important step Jan. 22; the administration should insist that Japan do the same before Washington intervenes in world currency markets.

A cheaper dollar makes imports more expensive and U.S. exports more affordable. The overvalued dollar of the early 1980s depressed import prices and squeezed the U.S. products out of the world market. As a result, the United States amassed huge trade deficits and became the world's largest debtor nation, while Japan and Germany accumulated record trade surpluses. In 1986, the Japanese trade surplus was $86 billion; the German surplus was $56 billion. A weaker U.S. dollar and a stronger Japanese yen and German mark should help restore needed balance in foreign trade accounts.

Nevertheless, the United States cannot depend entirely upon foreign governments and a weak dollar to eliminate its trade deficit. Nor can Congress solve the problem by passing protectionist legislation. Congress solutions to concentrate instead on reducing the budget deficit and increasing incentives for citizens and corporations to save and invest.

Without large infusions of capital, U.S.

Without large infusions of capital, U.S. manufacturers will be unable to produce enough exports to balance the nation's foreign trade account. According to Volcker, the United States must increase manufacturing output by 30 percent during the next five years if exports are to match imports.

The overvalued dollar and resulting U.S. trade deficits were the engine of growth for the world economy during the early 1980s. Although our trading partners did not create this advantageous situation, they certainly benefited from it. Now, it is time for Japan, Germany and our other major trading partners to return, the favor and assist the United States in regaining its fair share of world markets.

Adding Confusion

Administration officials now are unable to account for at least $40 million collected to aid the Contra rebels fighting the Nicaragua government. What was supposed to be a covert war, therefore, seems to have become particularly covert for those charged with conducting it.

Persons familiar with the congressional investigation of the Iran-Contra arms deal say that Robert C. McFarlane, former national security adviser, testified he had been told that Saudi Arabia had contributed $20 million, supposedly meant to buy nonlethal supplies for the Contras. Nobody seems to know where it went. Earlier, Secretary of State George Shultz said he had no idea of what happened to $10 million donated by the sultanate of Brunei, even though his State Department had solicited the money.

Department officials knew of a secret Swiss bank account set up to funnel aid to the Contras, but they did not say how the money was employed and did not say why a secret White House account was used rather than normal channels for spending money. If all this seems surprising, then there was the earlier report by the General Accounting Office that it could not trace much of the $27 million voted to the State Department for non-lethal supplies.

the hang of it."

"I was a cardiologist but my heart wasn't in

"I wanted to be a meat-packer but didn't have enough guts."

"I was a jeweler but my timing was off.

"I was a stockbroker before I split."

Finally, she added, "I've decided to become a hair-dresser," but now wonders if that career is permanent.

Well, maybe changing jobs is one way of beating wintertime blahs in Illinois, but I prefer the realistic approach taken by Don Wilson of Bridgman, Maine, where it snows more than it does where he winters in Florida.

"I started out as a draftsman, but ended up coming full circle," Wilson told me. "Then I looked forward to becoming a fortune-teller but I didn't foresee all the difficulties.

"There was a time when I wanted to be a weather forecaster, but something happened to dampen my enthusiasm."

After that came a period "when I thought I'd be a firemen but my wife threw cold water on the idea."

Anyway, he said. "for a few years I was with the Bureau of Indian Affairs, but had strong reservations about the work."

So he decided to be an ear, nose and throat specialist, "but my wife would hear nothing of it.

"Then I thought my future in medicine would be as a surgeon, but I found that I couldn't cut That must have been about the time Wilson discovered that "working at Fort Knox was no golden opportunity."

"While visiting in Florida." he thought about moving to Sarasota and becoming a "uniformed guard at school crossings, but caution demanded otherwise."

"The best opportunity I've found in the matchbook business." he confided. "But when I discussed that with my wife she made some inflammatory remarks."

Incidentally, according to Wilson, his wife "wanted to be a stripper but she just couldn't pull it off."

Perhaps I know now what dampened Wilson's enthusiasm about becoming a weather prophet. He got married.

Work In Year 2000

WASHINGTON — According to Secretary of Labor William Brock, "the jobs of the next 15 years are going to be much more interesting: cleaner, safer, healthler, more productive and, I think, more rewarding."

Mr. Brock presented this image to a group of Washington Post reporters late last November. He also argued that the work place of the year 2000 is going to be sufficiently diverse, "that there will be employment for everyone that wants it and has developed their talents to the degree they can."

One wonders how well Mr. Brock's vision of the future will go down in his home town of Chattanooga, Tenn., which has been steadily losing high-skill, high-pay industrial jobs for 10 years.

Many young Americans are turning to jobs in high-tech industries, computer operations and medical technologies. But openings in these fields aren't sufficiently numerous to make up for the workers displaced from closed industrial operations. High tech isn't a big employer of labor, and many of the job opportunities in these industries are for workers with minimal skills.

Mr. Brock also fails to take note of other disturbing trends, including the flood of unskilled and dependent immigrants into the United States, and the internal migration of farm families to cities where good job opportunities already are slim.

The Post reporters were told that "by the turn of the century the amount of people on assembly lines is going to be under 5 percent." Mr. Brock seemed to think that contraction in industrial job opportunities was a good thing. He said the U.S. would be producing more with fewer people.

Yet, how will the large American labor force be employed in the year 2000? If the present pattern of consumption holds, Americans will continue to purchase a high-level of foreign-made goods and depend on services and energy provided from abroad.

Contrary to what Mr. Brock says, the situation in 2000 — without drastic change in policy and public understanding — is likely to be one of serious unemployment or underemployment.

Phone Privilege Abused

NEW OST SPOKESMON FOR THE PERMOCRATE

By Jack Anderson And

WASHINGTON — Federal workers waste millions of tax dollars a year chatting on government telephones — making appointments with the hairdresser, chortling at dial-a-porn recordings or otherwise abusing the ready availability of free telephones in their offices.

In addition to the enormous cost of the phone calls, the government also loses an incalculable — but hefty — amount in staff time spent on the conduct of personal business or pleasure over Uncle Sam's phones. Interestingly, additional money is wasted by installation and maintenance of unnecessary and unused telephone lines.

Our reporter Tyler Clements obtained the following reports by the various agencies' inspectors general:

— Agriculture. Unofficial phone calls from Washington headquarters buildings alone cost $724,000 a year. Auditors' interviews with employees revealed that department workers erroneously believed that either the government pays a fixed amount or nothing at all for phone service no matter how many calls are made. For pure gall, it would be hard to top one Agriculture employee, who made long-distance calls from home and had them charged to the office phone number.

— Transportation Department.

Sixty percent of all long-distance calls made on agency phones are unofficial. At the Washington headquarters, $3.3 million of the $5.6 million spent a year on long-distance calls was for unofficial conversations. At the Coast Guard Academy, 538 calls costing a total of $4,118 were made from a single telephone. All the calls that could be traced were to personal residence numbers. The Transportation Department has installed a switching system that provides detailed information on phone calls — but it covers only 18 percent of the agency's total calls.

- Commerce. Three out of every 10 phone calls are unofficial, and the cost of these calls is estimated at $3 million a year. The time consumed by these unauthorized conversations amounts to 18,000 staff days a year. Commerce Department employees "used the telephone to conduct personal business with bank card centers, real estate and insurance agents, construction contractors, auto repair shops and other private firms," the inspector general reported, adding: "They even called numbers that provided horoscopes and pornographic messages."

— Defense. Four out of every 10 long-distance calls made by Defense Department employees nationwide were found to have been unofficial, at an annual cost to the taxpayers of $18 million. In addition, the inspector general reported, 5,600 telephone lines in the Washington, D.C., area were unused, wasting $1.1 million a year.

Pacifism Danger For U.S.

By William R. Hawkins

(The author is a policy analyst for the U.S. Business and Industrial Council. — Ed.)

In Zbigniew Brzezinski's new book Game Plan, he warns that "The contamination of strategy by pacifism is the key danger for the United States from crusading arms control." This warning from President Carter's national security adviser has been ignored by the Democratic majority in the House of Representatives. The House version of the defense authorization bill for FY 1987 contains arms control provisions which impose limits on American weapons programs without regard for either military strategy or Soviet actions.

In 1986, the House voted to halt nuclear weapons testing and continue the ban on test of anti-satellite systems. It again voted a ban on the production of chemical weapons. It denied funds to deploy weapons over the limits contained in the unratified SALT II treaty despite repeated Soviet violations. The House also cut President Reagan's $5.3 billion request for the Strategic Defense Initiative by 42 percent to $3.1 billion.

The House provides escape clauses to remove bans if an arms control treaty containing similar limitations is negotiated with the Soviets. Yet, with these House approved limitations, where is the incentive for Moscow to reach an agreement?

Democratic leaders claim that since no agreements have been reached under Reagan, they will move ahead with arms control without a treaty. No agreement has been reached because the Soviets are not interested in a treaty that would reduce arms and lessen the risks of war. Moscow has stalled for time, hoping for a political reversal in Washington which would cripple the Reagan military program without any weakening of Soviet power. In 1986, the House seemed determined to prove the Kremlin's hard-liners correct in their low estimation of American will.

The Senate didn't impose such restraints. The dictates of rational strategic planning require that the restrictions be dropped from the final version to be written in a Senate-House conference.

How To Solve Our Traffic Woes

As a lifetime resident of Central Florida and with 41 years' realtor, building and developing experience in Metropolitan Orlando, I am concerned because I am constantly reading about the traffic problem in Central Florida and particularly on I-4.

I have learned years ago that when there is a problem you need to ask one simple question - "Why?" - that is, what is causing the traffic Jams on I-4? Secondly, it is very simple that what is causing the traffic jams is cars, so we must ask where are the cars going and why. Third, in various studies made during the past several months by many of the major employers south of Orlando, it has been determined that in excess of 60 percent of all the employees who drive to work south of Highway 50 live in either North Orange or Seminole County. Therefore, these commuters have to travel all the way through Orlando every morning going to work and thence all the way through Orlando coming home. They are also travciling in a time frame when everyone else is — rush hours.

To help alleviate present and, more particularly, future problems of this type, it would seem logical that if more of the employment base (that is, the major corporations, etc., that are moving to Central Florida) would locate in Seminole County and the Lake Mary area these new employees would not have to travel through Orlando and back daily but could simply take an access route parallel to 1-4 or 1-4 to work in the morning and they would be travelling in the less-cluttered lane going to work in the morning and, conversely, in the lightest traffic lane in the afternoon and, in essence, this would more equally distribute the traffic on 1-4.

The reason that more than 60 percent of the families live in North Orange and Seminole Counties is because of the many fine housing developments covering all price ranges as well as the very best schools, shopping and health care centers, restaurants, etc. We all know that North Orange and Seminole County (and particularly Seminole County) are the bedroom communities for Orlando.

There are literally dozens of very fine locations in Seminole County, and particularly in the Lake Mary and general Sanford areas, where companies can purchase various commercial, industrial and corporate headquarter locations and in many cases for less money than a location in the built-up Orlando proper area. In other words, everybody wins!

The second idea that should be encouraged and promoted to the fullest by the Orlando Area Chamber of Commerce, the Industrial Development Commission of Mid-Florida and various governmental bodies is to work through the proper authorities to designate the Sanford Municipal Airport as another major air carrier for Central Florida. With the air traffic that is being generated by the almost 300,000 people in Seminole County, the 100,000 people in North Orange County and another 100,000 people in Southwest Volusia and East Lake County — or a total of 500,000 residents - these numbers would certainly indicate that it would be much more economically feasible. save time and be more convenient for these people to depart and arrive at the Sanford Municipal Airport than go all the way south of Orlando.

All the northern portion of Lake County — that is, Leesburg, Eustis, Mt. Dora, Tavares, Umatilla, etc. — could be served much more conveniently and would be many miles closer to a Sanford Airport, Highway 46 runs directly into the Sanford Airport from all the northern Lake County municipalities.

If you measure the distance between the Fort Lauderdale International Airport and the Miami International Airport you will min the distance is only 30 miles. When you measure the distance between Sanford and the Orlando International Airport at Pine Castle, south of Orlando, it is also exactly 30 miles. That is the same distance! If Miami can have an International Airport. I see absolutely no reason why Sanford cannot at least have a national airport to begin with, which would ultimately be upgraded to an International Airport.

In closing, Metropolitan Orlando in the very near future will encompass a population in excess of one million. I do not think it is practical or logical to expect a few major highways to handle all the traffic. The logical and prudent thing to do is to redirect the traffic and make every effort to redistribute and reapportion the major destination points such as employment centers and airports so a person could travel the shortest distance over the least crowded roads from point A to point B.

The two suggestions covered in this letter are the answers to one of our biggest problems that exists in Central Florida and that is the traffic problem. Let's all start thinking and, again, asking the question, "Why?"

Details of Kohl's briefing of the Bundestag leaders were not disclosed because of a blackout on news of the two hostages, chemical company executive Rudolf Cordes and engineer Alfred Schmidt.

The two were kidnapped separately by Moslem extremists a few days after the arrest Jan. 13 of Mohammed Ali Hamadel, a Lebanese Shitte Moslem wanted by the United States in the June 1985 hijacking of TWA Flight 847 that left a Navy diver dead and 39 Americans captive for 17

The government has said the two Germans were kidnapped, apparently by the pro-Iranian organization Hezbollah, in a bid to force the release of Hamadel, the brother of a senior Hezbollah security official.

Cease-Fire Extension Pressed

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — President Corazon Aquino, approaching the end of a 60-day cease-fire with communist rebels, plans to "exert all effort" for an extension despite a breakdown in peace talks.

Government negotiators in the collapsed talks were scheduled to meet today with Aguino, but there were no signs that the talks could resume before the end of the cease-fire Sunday.

The communist-led National Democratic Front formally broke off talks last week and indicated that the rebel group's 22,500 guerrillas are prepared to resume their 18-year-old struggle.

Aquino said in a nationally broadcast address Wednesday that "a great majority" of people she meets expressed support for a continued cease-fire.

Reporter To Leave Iran Today

United Press International

An American correspondent detained in Iran for five days apparently on charges of spying for Israel was ordered to leave the country today and told never to return, Iran's state-run news agency said. Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency and Tehran radio said Wall Street Journal reporter Gerald Seib was ordered expelled following a judicial probe into his case.

An Iranian information Ministry official said Seib was "expelled from Iran Wednesday after a judicial probe of his case ended," the radio and news agency said. The news agency said later that Seib "will be leaving Tehran" today.

The news agency said Seib. 30, was "banned from returning to Iran. In New York, Wall Street Journal Foreign Editor Karen House said that "we have heard the news reports and hope they're true but have not been contacted formally." Seib's wife, Journal correspondent Barbara Rosewicz, flew to Zurich, Switzerland, from Cairo, Egypt, Wednesday, to greet the reporter after his five days of detention in Iran.

At the Seib family home in Hays, Kan., Seib's brother, Paul, said the family would not celebrate until they receive official word of Selb's expulsion from

"We're elated but reserved. We're happy that all this is going on," Paul Seib sald.

In the chapel at Thomas More Prep-Marion, the Catholic high school Seib attended, a prayer vigil continued around a lighted candle adorned with a yellow Selb was among more than 50 reporters invited into Iran to see gains made by Iranian troops in an offensive against Iraq. The reporters were taken to front lines in Iraq then returned to Tehran and ordered to leave the country.

Seib and several others requested visa extensions, but an Iranian official warned that any lournalists who tried to extend their stay "would face serious problems." Seib was arrested in Tehran last Saturday.

Prior to the news agency and radio reports on Selb's expulsion, Iranian Prime Minister Mir Hossein Musavi told the government-run Kayhan newspaper that Selb would be expelled in two or three days.

Kayhan described Selb as a prominent journalist, an indication officials were softening their stand in his case. Officials had referred to him as a "spy for the Zionist regime," an apparent reference to Israel.

The newspaper quoted Musavi as saying Selb tried to gather "unusual information in the war zone" when he visited the front with other journalists last week. It said Seib tried to get information on Iranian "defense positions and their tactical lines" but that it was unlikely he learned anything useful.

National Security Council Data Reveals Conflicts In Testimony

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Contradictions in testimony from key witnesses in the Iran arms-Contra aid scandal are surfacing in National Security Council documents obtained by Congress, a veteran congressional intelligence source Both special congressional committees formed to investigate the matter are reviewing boxes of the documents that include extensive notes by Lt. Col. Oliver North, the NSC deputy fired for his role in the operation, the source said Wednesday.

"I think this is going to be bigger than people thought simply because of the contradictions that are beginning to surface," the source said. "There appear to be contradictions between what testimony was given and what these notes say."

The source spoke on the condition of anonymity but is deeply involved in reviewing classified files and testimony of current and former administration officials involved in the secret sales of U.S. arms to Iran and the scheme to divert profits to Nicaraguan Contra rebels.

While the NSC documents apparently offer no specific evidence implicating any one person or any previously unknown operatives in the scandal, the source said they reveal much in terms of who knew what and when.

Congress Passes Homeless Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Congress, going on record against a pay raise already in effect, is making $50 million in emergency federal money available to help shelter and feed the homeless during the last months of winter.

The House, on a voice vote Wednesday, gave final approval to the $50 million bill, sending the legislation to Reagan for his signature. The White House has not taken a position on the measure, which transfers money from the Federal Emergency Management Agency's disaster relief program into the program for the homeless.

The $50 million bill was approved by the House and Senate, but the Senate attached an amendment disapproving a congressional pay raise, forcing the second House vote on the homeless bill.

With approval of the bill. Congress went on record disapproving the pay raise, but it already had gone into effect at midnight Tuesday.

long fight for a $20 billion clean water law finished in a crushing but not surprising defeat for President Reagan, who twice vetoed what he still calls a "budget-busting" bill.

The legislation became law Wednesday without Reagan's signature when the Senate voted 86-14 to override his second veto of the bill - just one day after the House did the same by a vote of 401-26. The overwhelming approvals far exceeded the two-thirds majorities needed to overcome Reagan's rejection.

The veto was Reagan's 60th, while the override was only his seventh such congressional rebuff. At the White House, spokesman Albert Brashear said the president was disappointed but added: "Congress has

The Gramm-Rudman requires reducing the record federal deficit in stages to zero by 1991, and Congress is pledged to meet its goals. Both Republican and Democratic lawmakers denied the "budget-busting" charges Wednesday

Four teams with a combined record of 66-7-11 will look to grab a spot in the finals of the toughest district in the state in girls soccer. The semifinals of the District 4 Tournament tonight at two Seminole County sites features four of the top 10 teams in the state.

"The toughest thing we have to overcome is Lyman's experience in post-season play," Lake Mary coach Bill Eissele said. "Playing them to two ties gave the girls confidence in their own ability and since those games we've improved."

Senior striker Kelley Broen is as dangerous an offensive player as there is as she scored 24 goals this season and had 24 assists. In her illustrious career at Lake Mary, Broen has scored 81 goals.

The Rams have plenty of offensive firepower beind Broen in sophomore Donna Rohr (18 goals), junior Michelle Mattingly (15) and freshman Crissie Snow (10). Defensively, freshman sweeperback Amy Alexander has had a sensational second half of the season while freshman goalkeeper Tammy Scott allowed just 1.1 goals per game and had eight shutouts.

Lyman coach Laura Dryden said the Lady Greyhounds need to take advantage of their opportunities tonight in

We have to capitalize on our opportunities and win our individual matchups," Dryden said. "We've had a lot of games this year where we've missed out on some good chances. And good chances don't come as easily against teams like Lake Mary."

The last time Lake Mary and Lyman played, the Lady Greyhounds were without senior Karen Abernethy and junior Bonni Steeves. Abernethy has been a key player for Lyman since her freshman year and this year she has moved from defense to midfield to boost Offensively, senior Maye Belle Bryant leads Lyman with 21 goals while "Aber" has contributed 13, junior Randi Huddleston and freshman Dana Boyesen 10 apiece and senior Kim Mitchell nine.

Lyman has a young but aggressive defensie led by sophomore sweeperback Julia Callarman and freshmen defenders Tammy Fulsang and Kerry Musante. Senior goalkeeper Sarah Cobb has had an outstanding season, giving up less than one goal per game with 11

Player for player, there is no team in the district, and probably the state for that matter, stronger than Lake

Brantley. The only blemishes on the Lady Patriots' record this season are a loss and two ties to Lyman. Lake Brantley has pretty much dominated everyone else it has played.

Offensively, junior Julie DelRusso had an impressive year for Brantley with 28 goals and 30 assists. Junior Cara Marien also had an excellent season, adding 19 goals and 19 assists. Other offensive leaders include junior Colleen Lievertz (11 goals, 12 assists) and freshman Beth Schaefer (nine goals, seven assists).

'We'll have all 11 of our starters back for the Melbourne game," Brantley coach Wolfgang Halbig said.

In the game against Bishop Moore, Melbourne's goalkeeper, Leslie Heins was taken out of the game with a bruised kidney. Kaskey's only other experienced mentioned California keeper, Kelley Barnes, took over in goal possibilities along with but Barnes is also the Lady Bulldogs' top Honolulu, Newport, R.I. and

Conner: Sail On

FREMANTLE, Australia (UPI) - Skipper Dennis Conner and his Stars & Stripes crew reveiled Thursday in one of the greatest victories in yachting history, but couldn't stay away from their America's Cup-winning boat.

"We're just going to keep sailing." said Conner, already eying the 1990 regatta. "It's what I enjoy doing."

While hoardes of solemn Australians rushed to the Royal Perth Yacht Club for a last glimpse of the silver prize, Conner and his crew readled for the presentation ceremony Friday and their departure Sunday for the White House.

Australian flags flew at halfstaff after helmsman lain Murray was unable to wrest a single win from the dean of 12-Meter racing finishing his fourth Cup quest.

"We tried as hard as we could," Murray said. "We just weren't good enough."

Conner became the first skipper to lose and then reclaim yachting's treasure when he steered Stars & Stripes Wednesday to a 1:59 victory over Kookaburra III for a 4-0 sweep of the best-of-seven finals.

"We're glad we got our revenge," said tactician Tom Whidden, who was part of Conner's Liberty crew that lost to Australia in 1983, breaking the United States's 132-year stranglehold on the Cup.

"We got the Kookaburras reeling early on in the regatta, and it's just like a prize fighter throwing a few hard punches in the beginning," said the Essex. Conn. yachtsman. "It's hard to come back from that."

Anxious to fulfill his vow of returning the emblem of yachting supremacy to the United States, Conner chartered a plane that will depart Sunday.

In a congratulatory message, President Ronald Reagan invited the team to the White House. Conner will visit the White House before heading to his San Diego home and turning the prize over to the San Diego Yacht Club.

The mournful procession past the trophy spending its final hours in the Royal Perth Yacht Club's red-upholstered case was a sharp contrast to the jubilance at the Stars & Stripes com-

"I could see the way the races were going. They had a much faster boat and far more experience. I just thought we would give them a harder time.

"I can't imagine what we will put in its spot. I wonder, is there life after the Cup?"

The 44-year-old Conner, who defeated 12 other challengers from six countries during the grueling months of competition since October, rounded all 32 marks in the final series ahead, with Kookaburra III only gaining one start.

The location of the next competition will be left up to a committee to be named by the Stars & Stripes syndicate.

"It would be hard not to have it in San Diego," sald navigator Peter Isler. "Those people supported us when others didn't think we had a prayer."

Management Plan For Redfish Gets Green Light

The Governor and Cabinet voted to approve a Marine Fisheries Commission recommendation to implement portions of the commission's comprehensive management plan for redfish upheld last year in a rule challenge hearing.

The new rule for redfish, which takes effect Feb. 12, affects the

These new rules are intended to assist in assuring the protection and replenishment of Florida's inshore redfish resources, and are a part of a comprehensive management package for redfish recommended by the commission that was partially disapproved by a state Division of Agriculture Hearings officer in a rule challenge brought by commercial flahermen.

Provisions of the commission's proposed redfish rule not approved by the hearing officer include prohibiting the sale of native Florida redfish and setting a daily five fish bag limit for recreational fishermen.

The commission has appealed the hearing officer's decision to the First District Court of Appeal. If the commissioner receives a favorable ruling from the court, it will recommend implementation of the rest of the management package for redfish. Currently, there is an emergency 90-day moratorium on all harvest of redfish in state waters that had been requested by the commission to protect redfish this season while legal issues were being resolved.

This moratorium ended at midnight Tuesday and harvest of redfish will again be allowed beginning today through Feb. 28. However, the commission is asking fishermen to limit their catches of redfish during this time to help restore the resource.

Connor Davis, executive director of the commission, said "It would be better if the moratorium could remain in effect through March 1, but this is not possible due to legal

"I feel certain that sport and commercial fishermen who care about the resource will voluntarily limit the number of redfish they keep during this time, and will release the fish alive to the water as carefully as possible, especially the large number of undersized fish."

Coach Charles Steele said lack lock on the SAC title and the top of concentration and intensity has hurt the Lady 'Noles in Seminole, Lake Howell and Lake recent games. He also said Seminole did not get the ball to sophomore forward Liz Long enough in Monday's 67-42 loss to Lake Mary. Long, who averages over 10 points per game, scored only two points and got off just aix shots in the Lake Mary game.

Sophomore guard Adrian Hillsman (20.7 points per game) leads the Seminole attack while junior guard LaShon Cash is the third-leading scorer. Sophomore center Chineta Gilchrist and freshman center Sheri Reddick will be depended on for more rebounding strength, another area Steele said has been lacking in recent games.

Lake Howell, meanwhile, has rebounded from the Seminole defeat with two consecutive wins. The Lady Hawks are 16-3 overall and 4-2 in the league.

The Lady Hawks have a solld backcourt in senior Erin Hankins and junior Tammy Lewis, both averaging in double figures in scoring. Denise Arriola leads the team and county in rebounding while Kelley Grider and Carolyn Kuhl round out the starting lineup.

The 40 boats took off in almost as many different directions. Some went as far south as Puzzle Lake, and others went north towards the Highbanks

With the good fishing conditions, the tournament anglers knew it would take a heavy stringer to win the event. They fished until the last minute, and some barely made it back for the

Oviedo's Dezego Top District Hope By Chris Fister

Herald Sports Writer Class 3A state power Orlando Bishop Moore

is the team favorite but Oviedo's Lions have a number of individuals looking for strong performances Saturday at the 3A-6 District Championships at Oviedo High.

Weigh-ins for the tourney are from 8-9:30 a.m., with the first round of wrestling starting at noon. The first round will be followed by the semifinals and wrestlebacks with the consolations (two mats) starting at 7 p.m. The finals (one mat) are scheduled to begin at 8.

"Bishop Moore is definitely the favorite," Oviedo coach John Horn said. "But we've been wrestling pretty well lately so I think we can take third place. For us to finish any higher, we'd have to have some upsets.'

Along with Bishop Moore and Oviedo, other teams in the district include Kissimmee

lando Jones, Eatonville Wymore Career Education Center and Leesburg. The top four finishers in each weight class advance to the 3A-2 Region Tournament on Friday, Feb. 16 and Saturday, Feb. 14, at Auburndale.

Sean Dezego, a senior, goes into the tournament with Oviedo's top indvidual record at 15-4. Dezego is seeded second at 102 pounds and his top competition figures to be Bishop Moore's Lenny Cisneros. At 109, sophomore Kenny Schrupp comes in with a 13-5 overall record and 4-1 at the 109 division where he was Seminole Athletic Conference champion. Another of the Lions' top performers is juntor Charlie Vela, seeded second at 130. Vela has a 9-7-1 overall record and was fourth in the SAC. "He should make it to regions if he keeps sceola, Kissimmee Gateway, St. Cloud, Or- working hard," Horn said.

Great Gretzky's Sparkling Play Keeps Avis Tag On Hawerchuk

United Press International The night was a microcosm of their careers as Winnipeg's Dale Hawerchuk sparkled in the Winnipeg Jets' victory only to be outdone by Wayne Gretzky in Edmonton's later triumph. Hawerchuk, who could be the pride of the Smythe Division if only Gretzky's shadow didn't reach from Alberta to Manitoba, scored twice in the Jets' 5-3 home decision over the Philadelphia Flyers. His second goal, the game-winner, came unassisted and gave him 600 points for his career. Meanwhile in Minnesota, Gretzky - who always has assured fellow center Hawerchuk gets no better than second-team status for any conference honors - was en route to scoring his NHL-leading 50th goal of the season and setting up three other scores, including the overtime game-winner in Edmonton's 6.5 triumph over the North

In other games, the New York Rangers nipped Washington 3-2. Montreal edged Quebec 4-3. Toronto tipped Los Angeles 5-4, Buffalo beat Hartford 3-1, Chicago defeated Detroit 5-4, and Vancouver ripped the New York Islanders 4-1.

Bergman, UCF Open '87 Friday

ORLANDO - Head Coach Jay Bergman and the University of Central Florida baseball team begin the 1987 season Friday with a 2 p.m. game against the University of West Florida. The contest will be played at the UCF Baseball Complex.

"We've been looking forward to this date for a long time." Bergman said. "We think that we can enjoy the same kind of success that we enjoyed last year (46-13 and state-record 28 consecutive victories) but we must work hard in order to attain our goals."

Following the game with West Florida, the Knights host Armstrong State Saturday. That doubleheader begins at 11

Former Lake Brantley High standout Kevin Bass and ex-Lake Mary High slugger Scott Underwood are reserves for UCF. Bass is a relief pitcher and Underwood plays the

Raiders' Road Woes Continue

Florida Community College's Brad Sellers kept the Seminole Community College bats quiet for six innings before giving way in the seventh inning while earning a 9-3 victory in Mid-Florida Conference baseball Wednesday at Jacksonville.

FCC improved to 2-4. The Raiders, winless on the road, fell to 1-3. SCC travels to Avon Park to play Santa Fe CC

Friday FCC used three, three-run innnings to slip past the Raiders who could not muster any offense until the seventh. Center fielder Chad Sims put Seminole on the board with a two-run homer. Jeff Fortune added a pair of singles.

Gunnarsson Surprises Wilander

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) - Jan Gunnarsson said his straight-set upset Wednesday of top seed Mats Wilander in the U.S. Pro Indoor Tennis Championship was the best victory in his career.

Gunnarsson had not beaten his countryman since 1980, when he recorded a victory in the Swedish Junior Championships.

Gunnarsson, who has won only one tournament and is ranked 57th in the world, ousted Wilander, the No. 4 player in the world, 7-5, 7-6 (7-2).

Knee: Sampson Lost 6 Weeks

HOUSTON (UPI) — Houston Rockets star Ralph Sampson suffered a large cartilage tear in his left knee and must undergo surgery, the club said Wednesday. Coach Bill Fitch estimated the 7-foot-4 forward will be sidelined from six weeks until the end of the season. It was not known when he would have the operation. Sampson was injured during the first quarter of Tuesday night's loss to the Denver Nuggets. He was running down court when his right foot appeared to slip, causing the left knee to buckle.

Salvation Army Topples Pamar

Four players scored in double figures Wednesday night as Salvation Army claimed a 59-47 victory over Pamar in Sanford Recreation Intermediate League action at the Salvation Army gym.

Joe Murphy's 16 points were high for Pamar while Garrick Williams and David Wright tossed in 14 each and Ricky Anderson contributed 11. Sam Ayers poured in a game-high 26 points to lead Pamar, Demetrius Miller added 11 and Anton Reid tossed in eight.

LA's 40-4 1st Period Rips Kings

United Press International For the Sacramento Kings, the memory of one quarter will be one-tenth.

En route to a 128-92 victory Wednesday night, the Los Angeles Lakers outscored the Kings 40-4 in a record-setting first quarter.

The Kings broke the league mark of 5 first-quarter points set by Syracuse at Milwaukee on Nov. 13, 1954, and tied by New York vs. Fort Wayne on Nov. 21, 1956. It tied the record for fewest points in any quarter, set by Buffalo vs. Milwaukee on Oct. 21, 1972.

In keeping track of these marks, the NBA does not include games played before the 1954-55 season, when the 24-second clock was introduced.

"It was definitely a bizarre quarter," Lakers Coach Pat Riley said. "I've never seen anything like it before."

Sacramento missed all 18 of its field-goal attempts in the opening period and did not score until Reggie Theus hit 2 foul shots 9:06 into the contest. The Kings trailed 29-0 at the time and 40-4 after one quarter.

76ers 121, Nets 95

At East Rutherford, N.J., Julius Erving scored 28 points and Roy Hinson added 21 to pace Philadelphia and hand New Jersey its seventh straight loss and 13th in its last 14 contests. It was New Jersey's worst margin of defeat of the season.

Celtics 104, Cavaliers 102

At Boston, Larry Bird scored 29 points and Kevin McHale added 27 to help the Celtics hold off the Cleveland Cavallers. Boston led by as many as 18 points in the first half, but Cleveland, led by rookie Ron Harper's season-high 40 points, twice tied the game in the fourth period before failing. Mavericks 124, Sonics 94

At Dallas, Mark Aguirre scored 15 first-quarter points to lift streaking Dallas to its seventh victory in 10 games.

The report states there were no injuries, but LeBruno, who left the department on a disability in January 1983, said he suffered two broken ribs in the boat accident and Rentfro had cuts and LeBruno, who worked under Manning at the time, said the accident occurred during an outing attended by eight off-duty policemen. He said his boat was dead in the water ready to pull up water skier Longwood Police Officer Don Knight, when Manning swerved close to shore to drop off a skier. He said Manning's craft began to plane above the water and landed on top of the left front side of his boat. He said his $6,500 boat, which was only six weeks old, was "a mess."

LeBruno said less than a case of beer was consumed by the entire group during the day and he did not believe alcohol was a contributing factor in the accident.

State law requires boating accidents with damage over $250 to be reported either to the sheriff's department where it occurs or the Florida Game and Freshwater Fish Commission.

After the accident, LeBruno said Manning told him to fill in his part of the report, and he would take care of it. But LeBruno thinks the report given the commission was not the one he filled in because his name was printed at the bottom and he remembered signing the form he filled out. Also, that type of form was not in use until 10 months after he left the force.

LeBruno developed hypertension and high blood pressure after he was injured in the eye while making an arrest in April 1983. LeBruno filed a workman's compensation suit against Longwood, after the city refused the claim, and won his suit in October 1985.

Because he could no longer work as a policeman, LeBruno was given retraining on computers at Longwood's expense.

LeBruno said he used to think Manning was the best chief around, but had seen some things that made him change his mind: He said he has been told other police officers still working for the city have been told by Manning not to talk about the accident.

"I've been told it's my word against his, but I have nothing to hide," LeBruno said, "I would be willing to take a polygraph test."

Manning said on the advice of his attorney he only has one statement to make.

The statement reads: "I welcome any investigation of allegations of wrongdoing if the procedures and documentation set up by the city are followed.

Mrs. Dennis asked City Administrator Wailer on Jan. 19 to investigate Manning's so-called "unprofessional behavior" and report back as soon as possible. Waller told Mrs. Dennis Monday that he couldn't comment because of litigation.

Gunter has said "Greg began hollering at me and carrying on. He got uptight and created a disturbance, which apparently frightened Mrs.

Mrs. Dennis and Gunter were sworn in Jan. 5 after defeating incumbents Perry Faulkner and Larry Goldberg in the December city election.

Wednesday Waller said he had been told there is a possibility of someone filing a suit over a dispute between Manning and City Commissioner Gunter. Manning confirmed Tuesday he was considering filing a suit, but was "waiting to see how far they (Dennis and Gunter) are going to Manning has been with the police department for more than 14 years and chief for 10 years. He has also served as acting city administrator.

Threat Of AIDS Has Thinned Blood Supply Of Red Cross

DEAR ABBY: As a volunteer for the American Red Cross for many years. I have an important favor to ask. First, let me explain that the Red Cross Blood Bank is practically drained! I am sure the public is not aware of how serious this blood shortage is.

Many people have quit giving blood because they are afraid they might get AIDS from donating blood. This is not true. The fact is that the AIDS virus was found in some of the stored blood that was to be used for transfusions, but that threat is at a minimum since there is a new screening process.

I am enclosing a column that you ran May 7, 1985. After this came out in the Chicago Tribune, we had blood donors standing in line. Please help us

WORRIED VOLUNTEER

DEAR WORRIED: Consider it WHAT IS A GOOD BLOOD

DONOR? A blood donor is good for people who go through windshields and red lights. For somebody with leukemia. For people being operated on. For barefoot kids who aren't careful. For people who are into feudin' and fightin'. For hemophiliacs and daredevils. For people undergoing dialysis while waiting for a kidney transplant. For people who fool around with guns. For little kids who manage to uncap a bottle of something poisonous. A blood donor is good for people who have been badly burned. For new mothers who need transfusions. For new bables who need a complete change of blood supply. For people having open-heart aurgery. For cancer patients. For people with sever hepatitis and wrong place at the wrong time.

A blood donor is good for people who are in a lot worse shape than most people you

A BLOOD DONOR IS GOOD FOR

DEAR ABBY: I have just started dating a very beautiful young woman I think I could care for seriously. She's 27 and I'm 36. I have been losing my hair for the last two years, and while I'm not exactly thrilled with my receding hairline and the little balding spot on the back of my head, I'm not going to lose any sleep over it.

My ladyfriend has been after me to get a hairpiece. At first she said it in a kidding way, then after a while, I knew she was serious. It's gotten to the point where she is saying, "If you skirts, but women can wear really love me, you'll get one." whatever they want. If Al really I have no intentions of getting wants to wear a skirt, he can buy this?

DEAR ABBY: This is to thank you for an article you wrote about a year ago in praise of the National Stuttering Project. I wrote to the address you mentioned, and I was sent information and a local number to call. Since then, I have attended several meetings.

I had been a stutterer all my life, and this group not only helped me to understand why I stuttered, but how to overcome anemia. For kids who fall out of it. If any other stutterers have trees or whatever. For anybody not inquired about the NSP, I any age with bleeding ulcers. encourage them to do so. way of saying thank you, Abby.
ARTHUR, KEN, LESS, BILL, GERI, STEVE AND TERRI

DEAR ARTHUR, ET AL: The National Stuttering Project is a non-profit organization. Interested parties should write to NSP, 1269 Seventh Ave., San Francisco, Calif. 94122. Be sure to enclose a long, stamped (39 cents), self-addressed envelope.

DEAR ABBY: I am an eighth-grader in a Catholic grade school, and ever since I was 6 years old I have worn a skirt every school day of my life. Next year I will be attending an all-girls Catholic high school where I will have to wear skirts for another four years. Who does Al think he is to tell me I can't wear pants? Skirts are impractical and uncomfortable. I detest them. A girl can't run, jump or bend over in a skirt.

Al also said it wasn't fair that men were not allowed to wear a hairpiece. So how do I handle a kilt and move to Scotland.

GREEN BAY GIRL

DEAR ABBY: Before Al Judges women in pants, he really should get himself gussied up in panty hose and high heels and hike around the city for a day and a half. I'm a pants-wearing women who wears a dress only when I have to (funerals and church). I was also the victim of a violent crime, so I wear only shoes I can RUN in! YOUNGSTOWN GRANDMA

DEAR ABBY: Al said, "Very few women look good in pants." The truth is, very few of anybody look good in pants including men. Probably men should wear long skirts to hide their bowlegs, knock-knees, wide backsides, and tummles they can't pull their waistbands up

Cable Reruns Cause Deja View

Increasingly, the cable-TV listings are looking like a cross between a flea-market ad and a trivia contest.

The other night I noticed "Boone" is back. That was a 1984 NBC show about a rockabilly singer. 1 thought Boone was up in television heaven with "Kay O'Brien" and "Lady Blue." But he's on The Disney Channel.

Disney has also dug up reruns of "My Friend Flicka," "Here's Boomer," "Zorro," "The Mickey Mouse Club" and "The Adventures of Ozzle and

In fact, reruns are all over the cable band. "Call to Glory," ABC's sanctimonicus 1984 series about a jet pilot, is on the Lifetime network. "Father Murphy," the 1981-84 NBC series that starred Merlin Olsen as a make-believe priest, is on CBN. And CBN has brought back another unlikely priest: Robert Blake in "Hell Town," the worst network show of 1985.

Here's what's happening. Most cable viewers can now sign up for umpteen satellite-distributed channels, each one broadcasting 24 hours a day. But it turns out there aren't enough new shows to fill 24 times umpteen hours every day. So we're getting old shows.

It's a bonanza for the people who own the rights. Time was when only long-running hit series could find buyers. Now it seems syndicators can sell just about anything that hasn't yet rotted away in the film can.

What a merchandising dream. Millions of Americans are paying to watch shows they could have seen for nothing a few years ago, but didn't because most of them weren't very good.

There's CBS's old "Bring 'Em Back Alive" on CBN. There's NBC's "Riptide" on the USA Network, which also broadcasts NBC's recently canceled soap opera "Search for Tomorrow" in the middle of the night. "Hardcastle and McCormick" now preaches contempt for civil liberties on CBN instead of ABC. Even "Mr. Lucky," which was canceled after less than a year on CBS in 1960, is back on The Nostalgia Channel.

Some old shows are well worth a second look. For example, "Breaking Away" is a wonderful former ABC series that shows up from time to time on The Arts & Entertainment Network. The early "Gunsmoke" episodes from CBS, now being shown Saturdays on CBN, are also pretty slick. They're the ones made before Matt started going off to Hays City every week, leaving stupid Festus In charge of the office.

And It's fun to take another look at "Burns and Allen" and "The Best of Groucho" (CBN), "Mr. Ed" and "Dennis the Menace" (Nickelodeon). "Family" (Lifetime) and "Peter Gunn" (The Nostalgia Channel).

A few old series have actually gone back into production to fill the cable void. USA is making new episodes of "Airwolf" and "Alfred Hitchcock Presents."

In one of the most interesting revivals, the WTBS Superstation is showing "The New Leave It to Beaver," featuring most of the east of the classic comedy that ran on CBS and ABC from 1957 to 1963. The series is practically identical to "Still the Beaver," which was made for The Disney Channel last year.

If virtually every old TV show is destined to come around again sooner or later. I'm hoping a few of my favorites will make it. Let me know if you spot any of these: "Holmes and Yoyo" (ABC. 1976). "The New Land" (ABC, 1974), "The Defenders" (CBS, 1961-65) and "The Best Times" (NBC, 1985). If we're going to relive the past, we might as well enjoy the good parts.

VATICAN CITY (UPI) - Vatican art restorers, halfway through a 12-year project to clean the Sistine Chapel frescoes, are taking the offensive against criticism that they are destroying Michelangelo's Renaissance masterpiece.

For the first time since restoration began in June 1980 to remove blackened animal glues and centuries of oily soot deposits, Vatican museum officials invited reporters onto the high-tech mobile bridge that puts the ceiling within arm's reach.

Standing 65 feet above the chapel's inlaid marble floor, occasionally patting the world's most famous ceiling, the restoration team condemned the growing number of critics hostile to the project, some of whom complain the restoration is making the fresco colors standout like cartoons.

"We are completely without doubts about the work we are doing," said chief restorer Gianluigi Colalucci. "I'm not agitated or worried."

But Colalucci and the other four members of the team clearly are agitated by the critics, especially Columbia University art historian James Beck, who wrote an open letter to Rome's La Repubblica newspaper Feb. 1, calling on Colalucci to stop immediately.

"We will not stop the restoration," said Restoration Director Fabrizio Mancinelli. He said before the team began it had answered to its own satisfaction the questions raised by Beck.

"I don't know why I should do what Beck said." Mancinelli said. "We must take into account that we have had 3,000 scholars and specialists on the scaffolding, and out of all these maybe only 10 have said we should stop work."

Vatican experts decided to start the restoration when they discovered flecks of color lifting from the surface.

The team is hampered, however, by earlier restoration attempts on the ceiling. In 1625 restorer Lagi used "slices of cheap bread or any such lowly stuff' to scrub soot and dust from the frescoes, according to Vatican archives. For particularly dirty areas, he moistened the bread

A three-year cleaning carried out nearly a century later employed stronger stuff - sponges and cheap Greek wine.

The current team is working with the aid of a computer installed on the scaffolding. It allows restorers to retrieve data from a bank of information on the frescoes, transfer that data to charts and graphics and to retrieve color-coded Information they use in their work.

But Beck's chief concern is that the restoration is causing the frescoes irreparable damage. He argues the solvent being used - AB57 - is removing paint and protective layers of animal glues, which he contends Michelangelo himself applied.

Removal of the glues exposes the frescoes to proceeded if we had any doubts?

corrosive elements such as air pollution that did not exist when the work was completed 475 years ago, and will make the works appear "undistinguished and ilat" within a few years, Beck said. It was the darkening of the glues that gave Michelangelo his modern reputation for concentrating on form and line at the expense of color. The initial restoration phase - cleaning the 14 half-dome lunettes above the chapel windows - clearly showepture also had an eye for bright and vivid peppermint greens, saffron yellows and orangey reds.

Mancinelli suggested Beck's criticisms implied the historian did not know enough about fresco painting, a technique in which paint is applied to wet plaster.

Mancinelli admitted that the famous ceiling. which features scenes from the Old and New Testaments, does contain some "a secco" work paint applied after the fresco had dried, usually to correct errors - by Michelangelo. But he said restorers were able to pinpoint such areas easily and that they were not removing such paint.

He similarly dismissed criticism by Beck and others that Michelangeo himself painted a layer of animal glues over the dried fresco to provide subtle shadings not present in the original. "Thinking that Michelangelo could have applied the glue is stupid, sorry. It's impossible," Macinelli said.

"Today when we see the glue it is dark and so it looks like it adds shadings. But when it was fresh it was transparent, a sort of cheap varnish.

"Early restorers used to use varnish to restore color. Now why would Michelangelo have put glues on something already so vivid?"

He cited a more physical proof for the Vatican's dismissal of the glue-varnish controversry.

"Between the varnish and the painted surface of the fresco you find salts," Mancinelli said, explaining that salt crystals were a by-product of leaky roofs and rainwater. Water seepage over time caused salts to leach through the fresco.

"Close study shows the salts lie on top of the finished painting," he said. "They rest between the layer of paint and the layer of glues. This means the glue was applied much, much later."

Walter Persegati, secretary and treasurer of the Vatican museums, said he was mystified by Beck's attack, especially since he had visited the chapel two months ago and complimented the team.

"His letter asks if we're sure Michelangelo himself didn't cover the bright colors with some film, if we're sure what we're doing won't ruin the fresco for the future, and if there is any need to act now - why not wait 50 or 100 years?

"Are we sure we're not ruining the frescoes? You can be sure this is the first question we asked ourselves. And do you think we would have doctors tell me they can't do anything for my pulmonary fibrosis except give me antibiotic shots once a month. I spit up greenish or bloody phlegm every day. I feel helpless about this condition.

DEAR READER - Pulmonary fibrosis is extensive scar tissue in the lungs. When this scar tissue forms, it reduces a person's ability to breathe. There are three approaches that might help you.

First, some of the newer oral antibiotics are more effective than the old drugs, and the dose of the medicine can be altered to sult your needs.

Second, postural drainage will remove some of the infected material from your lungs. For example, by bending over the side of the bed, you can drain the mucus out by gravity. Your doctor can teach you ways in which postural drainage could ald your breathing.

Last, oxygen - from a tank or oxygen concentrator - will enrich the air you breathe and will drive more oxygen into your bloodstream, where you need it. Supplemental oxygen can often make a great deal of difference for patients with chronic lung disorders, such as pulmonary fibrosis and emphysema.

Although the lung disease itself may be untreatable, these measures might help you to breathe and maintain independence.

I'm sending you a free copy of my Health Report on lung discase.

DEAR DR. GOTT - 1 had plantar warts 20 years ago, and after unsuccessful surgery, 1 tried keeping the warts wet with castor oil. They all dropped off in about two weeks and I've had no warts since. My theory is that the oil shut off the air the warts needed to survive. Does this make sense to you?

DEAR READER - The castor-oll treatment of warts is well-established folk medicine. There's no scientific reason why it would work, but I'm not about

DEAR DR. GOTT - The to argue against good results. If the method works, fine. To heck with the theory.

DEAR DR. GOTT - Is the new nicotine gum harmful?

DEAR READER - When used according to directions and with a physician's approval, nicotine gum is not harmful. The manufacturer does note, however, that cases.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

This deal looked fairly simple to declarer. West had overcalled in spades and had led his suit. Of course, there would be no problem if West held the diamond queen, but some care had to be taken if East had it. South would then also need to make a second heart trick. Since West probably held the king of hearts for his overcall, declarer wanted to lose to West's heart king before giving up to the diamond queen - a strategy called avoidance. Declarer times the sequence of glving up tricks so that the dangerous opponent does not come on lead when he can still set the contract. So South played a diamond to the ace and then took the heart finesse.

West grabbed the trick with his king and continued spades. setting up his suit. Of course, declarer held off until the third round of spades and then played the diamond 10. Alas, West showed out and East was just nasty enough to allow the 10 to win the trick. That held our hard-working declarer to eight tricks. Was there an answer? You bet.

Let South play the lack of hearts from his hand at trick two, giving up the chance to finesse. Then, no matter who wins the heart king, declarer can hold up in spades until the third round and take an immediate diamond finesse. Although East can hold off on the first diamond, he must take the second round or lose his trick. Declarer will make his contract and send the hand off to the nearest bridge writer.
