GERMANY ISN'T PEPPED UP BY AID TENDERED

Newspapers Of Berlin Pessimistic About Permanent Benefit From Arrangement

Persons who wish to know exactly how it feels to "borrow" an airplane and go for a 30-minute ride in the skies without even as much as an instructor on hand to tell what to do in case the motor stalls should spend a few moments in conversation with R. J. Reel, local used car dealer and aviation enthusiast, who yesterday afternoon made his first solo flight.

Mr. Reel, who, because he and his five sons have taken up aviation during the past two months, is called the "daddy of the flying Reels," amazed several of his friends and two members of his family by going to the Lakeland aviation field and taking Pilot Goring's speedy Kinner powered biplane for a half an hour, and then making a perfect landing.

YEAH?

PETER SCHAAL

When a month ago nine out of ten of the experts were dumfounded when they had seen the man who had won the German champion, that steps forward and knocks down a boy for a loop. There is a head-ache a few days after the fight. There are just as many head-aches this morning for I doubt if any sportswriter or expert in the world that the tiny Mickey would earn a draw with the big Jack Sharkey. Sharkey is a 2 to 1 favorite you know. The material on this fight which we found but one man who said Mickey to win, none even said a draw. We claim that the moral victory in our prediction yesterday that Walker would win over Sharkey, was almost according to Grant Rice, who said Walker eight, Sharkey seven, but agreed with the majority of the judges because Sharkey's punches were far superior to those of his tiny adver-

to talk baseball though, the Mack's athletes, by virtue of their 7 to 3 victory over the Indians yesterday, practically secured the pennant race. They are now nine full games ahead of Washington, and 53 games left to play. Each team will have to play 100 ball games to win the pennant. The Yankees are breaking even, in that they have won their 11th game and lost their 11th. The Athletics are now in the lead, having won their 14th game and lost their 14th. The Athletics have won their 14th game and lost their 14th. The Athletics have won their 14th game and lost their 14th.

Girls' Diamond Ball Outfits Will Clash. Manager Rayborn put his Girl Diamond Ball team through a hard practice session last night and states that they are now in shape to meet all comers. This team will clash with Rhett Smith's proteges tonight. According to E. H. Cellum this is the first time that two Sanford girls teams have met in a game, and a good crowd is expected to be on hand to give them encouragement.

SHARKEY IS HELD TO DRAW IN GORY GO WITH WALKER

35,000 Fans See Rough-house Affair Which Surprises "Experts". EBRETS FIELD, Brooklyn, N. Y., July 23.—(A.P.)—Jack Sharkey, Boston heavyweight, adopted war-like measures a trifle too late last night and was held to a draw by his smaller but courageous opponent, Mickey Walker, in 15 indecisive rounds of rough-house battling.

Outfought for the first ten rounds by an opponent he figured to beat decisively, with every physical advantage in his favor, Sharkey was forced to put on a two-fisted drive in the last four rounds to get so much as an even break. The outcome was distinctly an upset, for Sharkey crawled into the ring a three to one favorite to whip the chunky, barrel-chested New Jersey Irishman.

The Robins lost a grand chance to catch up with the Cards when they split a double bill with the Pirates. They lost the first game 10 to 6 because Joe Shantz got into trouble in the sixth, walking four men, hitting one, allowing a hit, and being two errors made back of him. Six runs came over, enough to win the game. The second was a 3 to 2 affair won by the Robins. Heimach did the hurling in that game, holding the Pirates to nine well scattered hits while his mates pounded Ruby Kremer for hits and three runs in the second.

WALKER TERNED GREAT FIGHTER BY FORMER GQB

Sharkey Says He Laid Off Too Long, With Inevitable Result. BROOKLYN, July 23.—(A.P.)—Somewhere between New York and Boston last night Jack Sharkey sent his powerful car flying through the night, disappointment biting into his heart again, but his lips sealed and his mind comparatively tranquil.

He was racing home to his family in a fashionable suburb of Rostin, restless to get away with in an hour after chunky, hon-hearted little Mickey Walker held him and his 29-pound weight advantage to a draw in fifteen rounds. But before he went, he remarked contrast to the walk-er dressing room, Sharkey quietly and dispassionately relieved his mind of his thoughts.

"I was a better fighter four or five years ago, when I was fighting fourteen times a year, than I am now," he said. "I laid off too long and it hurt me. But I'm not going to try to take any credit away from Mickey.

Walker surprised even his most enthusiastic backers by the effectiveness with which he carried the fight to Sharkey throughout most of the first ten rounds. Except for a bad time in the fifth, when Mickey slipped while off balance and bounced to the floor, then suffered a nasty gash over his left eye, the Irishman outwaded Sharkey and scored repeatedly with short blows until he began to tire in the last few rounds.

Walker leaped inside Sharkey's leads and cuffed and clobbered the Bostonian. Jack handed the smaller foe with comparative ease in the clinches but he was wild, especially with his right. Sharkey, with everything to lose by the way he fought, put up one of his uncertain performances and his heavyweight ambitions again sustained a blow. The Boston sailor not only was wild and unable to decide just how to cope with his persistent opponent, but he was golly of questionable tactics. At several stages.

FINNY BEING OLD SUPERIOR ROAD LIENS

and Mr. Kooman represent the interests of the bondholders' Protective Committee. DeCottas and Spencer handled the plan of the case, with D. W. Spencer as legal counsel.
Commenting on Judge Wright's decision, Mr. Wilson said today that the City's next course of action had not been decided upon at the present time. He said that Mr. Wilson expressed the opinion that the Sanford City Charter is in shape to secure a decree from the Supreme Court that any other law be known, and that there is a possibility that the action may be taken to the higher court.
According to Mr. Spencer, the litigation set up in his client's name were, briefly, that the tax certificates issued by the state and county were foreclosed in the suit, and superior liens to those held by the City for street paving against the property.

Asking what the general effect on Sanford property and taxpayers would be, Mr. Spencer said that "if the Court holds at a final hearing that the state and county taxes and liens are superior to City paving assessments, which course is indicated by the overruling of the City's demurrers, the effect will be that the City will in all probability lose considerable money spent in paving, and that private individuals can buy state and county tax liens, enter suit in which the City will be made party defendant, and thus relieve the property of paving assessments."
The only remedy, he said, which the City can employ to protect itself would be to buy the land in as a foreclosure sale and bid enough to pay the tax plus foreclosure costs, and become owner of the property in order to realize the paving costs and all expenses involved in each case.
Judge Wright issued an order allowing the City until the next rule day in September time to answer the allegations as it may be advised.

The might be a scene from the sidewalks of any of our larger cities during the hot summer months as a matter of fact, it shows a group of future citizens of Chicago enjoying a temporary relief from the heat wave.

Heat Wave In West Sends Mercury To Figures Above 100

KANSAS CITY, July 24.—(A.P.)—Willing heat sent temperatures rocketing above the century mark again yesterday from the Rocky Mountain States to Oklahoma.
In Kansas, where the sizzling wave produced a maximum of 111 degrees Wednesday, freak storms accompanied high temperatures yesterday.
A hot wind which scoured the vegetation in its path had cooled the mercury to the 100 mark at 5 A. M. yesterday at Emporia, Kan. Thunderstorms which produced no rain visited Southern Kansas, one of them launching a bolt of lightning which fired a 58,000 barrel oil tank at Humboldt.
Temperatures were only slightly lower in the more than a score cities of the state which reported marks ranging from 100 to 111 Wednesday.
In Montana, where records of 50 years were surpassed by temperatures ranging up to 104, in Colorado, and Utah, no marked relief was felt.
An early promise of rain in Oklahoma faded and Altus achieved 104 degrees.
Government weather observers professed to see the possibility of temporary respite soon. They expected drier and cooler air to sweep down across the sweltering southwest.
The respite, however, will be only temporary, they warned, as conditions over the Canadian Rockies promise an early return of smothering heat.

WARHOUSE BURNS

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 24.—(A.P.)—Flames starting in a junk firm's warehouse yesterday caused damage estimated by the firm, Klumpner Brothers, at $25,000. Firemen succeeded in containing the flames to the four-story building.

Martial Law Now In Force On Bridge Involved In Frauds

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 24.—(A.P.)—Governor Murray yesterday declared martial law on a strip of land comprising the approach to the toll bridge over the Red River between Durant, Okla., and Denison, Tex., which has been the seat of a controversy recently.
The governor said his intention was to forestall any contemplated action to remove obstructions leading to the Oklahoma entrance to the toll bridge of the Red River Bridge company. He said he Bridge company threatened to remove the obstructions.
The Oklahoma approach to the bridge has been closed to traffic since July 16, when Governor Murray, "tired" of the delay in opening a free bridge built by the states of Oklahoma and Texas paralleling the toll structure, ordered highway employees to remove barricades obstructing the toll span.
Governor Sterling of Texas, ordered Texas rangers to the Texas approach of the free bridge with instructions to keep barricades up until a federal court injunction obtained by the bridge owners was vacated.

Tennessee Governor Victim Of Accident

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 24.—(A.P.)—With four stitches across his head, the result of an automobile accident near Lawrenceburg yesterday, Governor Horton was ordered to bed by his physician upon his arrival at the executive mansion.
He will be forced to remain away from his office the remainder of the week, although his injury was described as not serious.
Accompanied by Richard H. Lyle, commissioner of institutions, the governor was enroute to Bolivar on a business trip when the prison car they were using skidded on the wet paving while rounding a curve and crashed into a telephone pole.
Within the next few days, the big plane will leave the East River with Colonel Lindbergh at the controls and Mrs. Lindbergh seated in the rear cabin with her hand on the sender's key and ear phones upon her head.
It is expected the test will be made with the Pan-American Airways radio station at San Juan, Porto Rico, a strong station at sufficient distance to indicate how closely the Lindbergh ship can be in touch with civilization once it is in its way into the barren ocean.
Colonel Lindbergh may also conduct a test with the San Juan station, but it is believed Mrs. Lindbergh will make the main test as she is to be the plane's radio "man" and it is more important

NEW YORK, July 24.—(A.P.)—

There is only one more major step to be taken in preparation for the Lindberghs' vacation flight to the Orient, due to begin next week, and that is to be taken by Mrs. Lindbergh.
The big low-wing monoplane rides at anchor at North Beach, its flight capabilities with the fluids which have replaced its wheels fully tested; its compass swung, its navigation instruments checked and its radio installed.
But still the powerful radio must prove beyond all doubt that it can reach out from the vast wild places of the north and tell a waiting world that all is well.
Engineers have tested the radio and found it good, but they are professionals of technical experience. Now it must be tested by the fingers of the one who will use it in actual flight across the Arctic circle.
And that one is Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, daughter of Dwight W. Morrow, who, in a brief period, has learned not only the duties of wifehood and motherhood but also has found time to become an expert pilot, navigator and radio operator.
With the next few days, the big plane will leave the East River with Colonel Lindbergh at the controls and Mrs. Lindbergh seated in the rear cabin with her hand on the sender's key and ear phones upon her head.
It is expected the test will be made with the Pan-American Airways radio station at San Juan, Porto Rico, a strong station at sufficient distance to indicate how closely the Lindbergh ship can be in touch with civilization once it is in its way into the barren ocean.

Of 2 Boys In Death

WATCHDOG, July 24.—(A.P.)—County officers yesterday were attempting to learn the home addresses of two men and one woman held in the Wayne county jail on charges of fatally injuring County Solicitor James Hilton Johnson Wednesday.
Sheriff Warren said one of the men and the woman in the case gave their names as Mr. and Mrs. William C. Devers. He said a marriage license found in their automobile showed they were married in Mayport, Ky., Feb. 21, 1924, and that the marriage license was issued to Miss Catherine Hallmark.
The sheriff said yesterday the couple had given their names after their arrest Wednesday night as Mr. and Mrs. William C. Devers. The second man who the sheriff said Wednesday night told them his name was Andrews, yesterday gave his name as Norman.

Dullness Of Stock Exchange Explained

NEW YORK, July 24.—(A.P.)—The New York Evening Post said it has learned on good authority yesterday that the secret of the recent dullness of the stock market was that the big bulls and bears had been requested to take a vacation.
Trading in the stock exchange despite the unsettling developments abroad, has fallen off this week to the lowest levels witnessed since the spring of 1926.
About 25 big operators are said to have received letters requesting them to refrain from spreading the market during the European crisis. The letter is believed to have been sent out either by the stock exchange or a group of prominent bankers. No confirmation was available.

Petition Is Asked For Sale Of Real Estate

MIAMI, July 24.—(A.P.)—A petition for authority to sell real estate holdings of the late William Jennings Bryan in order to convert remaining assets into cash was filed in probate court here yesterday by attorneys for W. J. Bryan, Jr., Beverly Hills, Calif., and Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, Miami, executrix of the estate.
Judge W. P. Blanton issued a citation to all heirs returnable September 7, to show cause, if any, why the petition should not be granted.
W. E. Walsh, attorney who filed the petition, said that while it apparently was the desire of Mr. Bryan that the property be sold, there was no authority in the will for his executor to sell and they therefore were unable to transfer title.

Very much in the international eye just now is Secretary of the Treasury Andrew J. Mellon, who is shown above with his son, a student at Cambridge, England. During the course of his conversations with European leaders regarding president Hoover's debt reparation plans, Secretary Mellon found time enough to make a flying visit to his son's college.

ing immediate consideration of Senate messages, coupled with the suggestion that the gas tax bill be made a special order, beginning at 3:15 o'clock. Mathews of Duval beat this move single-handed.

"Since the bill is not officially before the House," he said, "we cannot act on it. I hold the report of the committee is out of order and move that it be sent back for further consideration."

Caldwell of Santa Rosa, occupying the chair as speaker pro tem, put Mathews' motion and it carried, thus shutting off consideration of the bill at the afternoon session.

Mathews and other representatives opposing the bill, said at the special meeting of the rules committee that the gas tax measure could never become a law at this session.

"Both the rules of the House and the constitution," Mathews said, "provide that a bill must be considered on three separate readings or successive days. The gas tax bill will come up for first reading when the House opens Senate messages tomorrow. It must then go over until Saturday for second reading and the Legislature is scheduled to adjourn at noon Saturday. So today's action means the death of the bill."

"But this situation has existed for 97 days," countered Robineau of Dade. "Do you think we can settle it in a few minutes?"

"Most of us know how we're going to vote," Lewis answered.

The speaker's reply drew a hot answer from Robineau, who rose to a point of personal privilege to deny that any one could determine his vote on any measure.

"I may have voted against certain legislation being crammed down my throat," Robineau said, "but my previous decisions have not closed my mind against these matters."

This exchange was followed by a series of talks by members favoring a speedy termination of the Legislature as a means of avoiding the financial collapse of the state government.

Chairman of Volusia urged the House to accept the Lewis compromise plan.

"A financial collapse is not only possible," he said, "but is imminent unless revenue is raised to meet the state's obligations. Our institutions of higher learning, the common schools, and the various departments of the government must stop unless the money is provided."

Wood of Liberty, Lee of Highlands, Mrs. Fuller of Orange, Harris of Madison, Dunn of Pinellas, Black of Alachua and Kendall of St. Johns wound up the debate, preceding an effort to get a runoff vote on the Lewis compromise, talking on both sides of the question with the majority urging rejection of the plan.

The first clash of the day between opponents and advocates of a 97-day gas tax came in the viva voce vote to call the roll on the Lewis plan. The motion was defeated by an overwhelming majority and the House dissolved as a committee resumed its work on the extension.

The afternoon session was closed by the second and third reading of the bill. The rules committee will report on the bill tomorrow.

Are American wives happy? They ought to be, according to the wife of Albert Einstein, who recently visited this country and had some opportunity of observing at first hand modern American methods of running the home. The American housewife is almost entirely free from the slavery and drudgery with which European women have to contend.

Frau Einstein, in a recent interview published in Good Housekeeping, declares that labor-saving machines, taken for granted here but almost unknown in the Old World, have freed thousands of women from the strain of overworked lives. Such devices as gas stoves, electric irons, kitchen cabinets and central heating plants seem almost miraculous to the wife of the man who formulated the theory of relativity.

"When a European thinks of America, he often thinks of a nation and a people enslaved by machines," she writes. "But during my American journey, I saw the machine serving a great purpose in the lives of the people. Machines and instruments of life are created by men, and they never belie their human origin. They were made to serve, and they are serving. They have made possible a new orientation of the housewife toward home, toward her individual life, and the life of the community.

"The remarkable utility and inexpensiveness of all the contrivances which are important in the life of the housewife personally, to my mind, the American soul as certainly as does the great world of culture and politics."

Machines, Frau Einstein says, make life in America infinitely easier and more comfortable than it is in Europe. "It is only when we have fulfilled easily the physical requirements of living that we can be released for personal development, mental and spiritual," she explains. "In ancient civilizations, the aristocracy was so released through the work of slaves. In America today the machine is beginning to serve the same purpose of release, but for the whole people.

"The German housewife, unless she leaves everything to her servants, is the slave of her house and the constant, monotonous problems of everyday existence. She has no leisure, no time for the fulfillment of the higher mission of life, because the duties of her household make such great demands upon her. The American arrangement of homemaking and housekeeping, however, means liberation for the housewife, a new solution to her problems, a new release for her body and spirit. She can breathe freely; she has freedom, time and space, even if she has no servant."

Such things as vacuum cleaners, electric washing tubs, fridges, electric irons, heaters, stoves, toasters, waffle irons, floor polishers, and countless other articles, which American inventive genius have made possible to practically everyone, are now largely taken as a matter of course in this country; whereas, in Europe they are seldom seen, except in the homes of the very rich.

WASH VERSE FOR TODAY

OUR PROSPERITY—Beloved, above all things that thou art, prosper and be in health, as thy soul prospereth. I rejoice greatly when the sun comes and testifies of truth that is in thee, even when I walk in the truth—John 2:3.

PRAYER—"Thou, O Christ, all I want; More than all else—I find."

A WASHVERWOMAN

Wanted to see her, summer afternoons, along the narrow, grassy plot, her arms piled deeply with crisp, snow-white clothes, always pausing when she reached that spot between these two tall buildings, to step this street to let their shadows fall.

When she paused as if to rest, and so to bind to a wheel of years, she took a groove of dull-days, suddenly, to night with neither smiles nor tears, but with no magic lift—the dream makes its moments sought but what they seem.

Waiting For Prosperity

Something on business conditions a little different from the usual optimistic surveys, which have been reporting every day for several years that business recovery and prosperity are just around the corner, is found in an article by James A. Dalton, industrial editor of Motor, published in the American Architect. The Polyanna predictions of most economic authorities are doing more to retard business conditions than almost anything else, he believes.

As a result of these reports from specialists who are supposed to know, many business men are just marking time waiting for something good to happen, a something which according to Mr. Dalton, is not likely to happen for several years, or until these same men quit waiting for kind providence to step in and take care of them. The best solution for economic ills now as always, is a sincere desire for hard work regardless of the nature of it.

"It's time to face the facts about the depression. And when they are faced they are not so dreadful. They merely indicate that the conditions which will prevail for the next few years will be like those which prevailed from 1907 to 1914," Mr. Dalton says. "The average citizen is on the verge of panic. He has no one upon whom he can rely to advise him. He is fearful of disaster worse than is likely to befall. Frank acceptance and dissemination of the facts, interpreted with utter honesty, will dispel gloom rather than engender it."

No sudden business recovery can be expected, Mr. Dalton says, because there are no great national shortages to be supplied. The construction industry, he says, is overbuilt, agricultural income will show no great increase and foreign trade can be expected to offer but slight help. Public works can have no great expansion, he says, because federal, state and municipal governments are hard pressed for funds.

"But why despair?" he writes. "Even after nearly two years of acute depression the wealth, the buying capacity and the actual purchasing volume of the United States are so far above those of every other country that there is no possible basis of comparison. The conditions which will prevail for the next few years are comparable to those which existed from 1907 to 1914, with the vital difference that the Federal Reserve System has made impossible money panics similar to those of the past. Ample funds at unprecedentedly low interest rates are available to any sound credit risk for any legitimate enterprise which offers a reasonable chance of success."

People must realize that the prosperity which followed the war will not return for years, this expert says. He advises people to stop waiting for prosperity to come and to strive to adjust themselves to changed conditions. The most efficiently managed firms are still making money in spite of the hard times, he points out.

THE PHILIPPINES AND ECONOMICS

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR

In his 1930 report, Gov.-Gen. Dwight F. Davis paints a picture of relative stability in the Philippine Islands during a year which encompassed other nations with business stringency. He accounts for this state of things by the islands' "free access to the enormous American market" in special circumstances. "The financial, political and social factors which would have followed the loss of this market," adds the Governor-General, "can hardly be estimated."

Here is the reason for the present slackening in the demand of certain Philippine products: the complete autonomy. To give an example do the Philippines export to the American market that of their total exports the United States buys 75 per cent. In 1929 the ratio was about 15 per cent. Quite obviously any sudden break in the present political relation between the two areas would make a dent in this quota. For there seems to be reason to believe that the protective tariff system of the United States would then be immediately invoked against Philippine sugar, dairy products, vegetable and cotton seed oil and other products which come into direct competition with the same commodities produced on American soil.

In fact, by a curious twist, the main agitation for immediate independence heard nowadays comes from those producing groups which are affected by Philippine competition. Not that they love the Philippines more; they love Philippine products less, and wish to have them treated as foreign and therefore taxable. Hence they have very vocal during the recent tariff debates. All manner of proposals were made to gain relief from trade restrictions to immediate autonomy.

It was thought that if these proposals should have been carried out of hand it would have a demoralizing spectacle to see the United States restrict its Philippine trade to the controversy which has resulted in the Euzkarian case as a time when access appeared to be as near at hand as it ever was, which would have been a great help to the Philippines. It may be said that the restrictions are regrettable and would tend to produce economic depression and the islands as well.

In spite of the fact that officials of such of these organizations cannot that they will continue to operate independently of the government, they are through their committee work in the islands that will have had an influence on their economic situation.

The islands are not to be considered as a separate group of industrial and agricultural interests. A responsibility even greater than the political responsibility has arisen out of this economic tie. When war-time sugar fetched twenty cents a pound, the United States' economic

The announcement that our new battleship numbers are to be assigned for a temporary period is a serious matter. It is a serious matter because it means a work of reorganization, of a new construction in the navy, of a new type for us, and the fact that they had to be built to a definite tonnage limit put a pronounced weight saving that constituted important innovations in design. "This is a whole new situation," according to Admiral Rook, the chief constructor of the Navy, "since for the designer, and since naval architecture at its best can never exactly forecast the behavior of a new type, the performance of the first ships of the class was awaited with some eagerness."

It proved to be surprisingly satisfactory. "The expectations of the designers," says Admiral Rook, "were fulfilled. The seaworthiness of the vessel proved excellent." It was natural, however, that service operation of the ships should indicate minor defects or ways in which they could be improved. Their tendency to roll heavily in no new discovery, since it has been reported for some time that they

Since several of the 10,000-tonners are to be assigned to the yards for replacement of their superstructure, it is assumed that the Navy should at the same time undertake to lessen their rolling tendencies, now that actual service operation has shown the improvement to be desirable. It is no real criticism of their designers—in fact, in a way it may be a compliment. It is suggested that their motion may be attributable to the fact that the efforts to save weight in the first vessels were so successful. So much care and ingenuity was devoted to keeping within the 10,000-ton limit that the first two ships actually came out no less than 900 tons under the allotted total.

Through the generosity of A. M. Clark of Ocoee, Frank R. Roy and George Walker the American Legion has purchased its property on Plant Street with the addition of eight water oak trees. Six of the trees, which were set out Tuesday, were placed on the front and west side of the Legion property and two were placed on the lot adjoining on the east. This east lot is to be furnished with playground equipment this fall.—Winter Garden Journal.

CHANNEL MARKERS

IN THE earlier days this country, spending the family budget used to be a hazardous business. It was only by harsh experience that a householder learned to steer clear of bad bargains and come into port with his money's worth.

There were snags and shoals aplenty. Inferior goods and unscrupulous merchandising methods made the channel dangerous. "Let the buyer beware" was an accepted slogan of trade.

Fortunately for millions of consumers, this condition has wholly changed in these recent years. The channel has been cleared. Today advertised, first-class goods of known value are for sale in every city and hamlet. The buyer knows he can trust such products. He reads the advertisements to his profit, chooses the commodities he needs, and makes his purchases with the knowledge that he will get full value for his outlay.

The advertising campaign of this newspaper points the way to satisfaction. If you make it a habit to read them daily you will save money, and save time.

PARTY HINTS

Here is a delightful way of distributing the gifts at the party—wrap them up in a paper bag for that matter.

Give a huge bouquet of garden flowers of every color to the guest of honor and tell her to search about the house until she finds a package to match with every flower in the bouquet she holds. The name of the donor should be written on a narrow slip of paper and fastened to each flower.

Wrap the packages in different colors of tissue or crepe paper and hide about the rooms, back of cushions, in drawers, on shelves, under the sofa and any place that is not too difficult to find.

The gifts should be chosen according to the needs of the baby and mother for whom they are intended. If baby's layette is already large, then a shower of dainty toilet articles will be as lovely and as welcome as you can be.

There are never too many things for baby's bath.

Softly tinted wash cloths and towels, attractively wrapped bars of pure castile soap, soft sponges cut in amusing animal shapes, talcum powder, hand painted jars to hold the dusting powder, hot water bags, bottles of pure olive oil to baby's skin, floating toys for his bath, a small electric stove for heating his bottles—all of these make useful gifts for the young King or Queen of the household.

Kellogg Named As One Of Executors Of Henderson Will

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(A.P.)—Dr. John H. Kellogg, head of a college and sanitarian that the late Mrs. Mary F. Henderson believed would promote "race betterment" and "biological living" was named an executor of her rich estate in a codicil filed yesterday in the District of Columbia Supreme Court.

Kellogg is consulting a law firm here on the multiple wills of the Missouri senator's widow, who disinherited an adopted granddaughter and named Miss Frances and Henry N. Arnold of New York principal heirs, in the most recent of her seven known "last" testaments.

Attorneys whom Kellogg asked to telephone him late yesterday said that he was simply "inquiring into the situation." Speculation rose, however, on the possibility that the doctor might initiate steps to probate a will of July 15, 1927, in which Mrs. Henderson bequeathed the bulk of her estate to an endowment fund for the Battle Creek college.

Mrs. Beatrice Henderson Wholesale, the foster-granddaughter, remained silent, but attorneys said action by Mrs. Wholesale was the signal for which others were waiting to begin a legal battle over the Henderson millions.

The codicil filed yesterday directed the executors—Kellogg, Adolph T. Hoehling, former associate justice of the District of Columbia Supreme Court, and B. C. Kirkland of Battle Creek—to pay, in cash, Mrs. Henderson's Japanese private secretary, $300 every January for 10 years.

In a will of last April the dowager set aside $200,000 for Shima, half of it in trust.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., July 24.—(A.P.)—Four convicts who escaped from the Missouri penitentiary had been rounded up yesterday, two of them being under arrest in Florida.

Earl Anderson and Orville Butner, serving 25 and 10 years, respectively, for robbery, were returned to the prison early yesterday. They were captured 18 miles from here after making a break from the prison farm Tuesday night.

Officials are making arrangements to return R. E. Miller of Jasper county, and Harry Wellman of Osark county to the prison from Orlando, Fla., if authorities in that state do not prosecute them for an offense there. The men escaped July 15 by kidnapping a state prison guard and commandeering a state automobile.

If the men are tried and convicted in Florida officials of this state will place a "hold over" on them to return them here after serving whatever sentence Florida imposes upon them.

Miller and Wellman are being held in Florida on a charge of robbery and kidnaping while armed. Wellman was arrested under the name of James Harris and Miller was posing as Charles Terrill.

By Hawks In Flight To Cuba And Back

By covering the 1405 miles between Havana and New York in six hours 59 minutes yesterday, Hawks beat that flying time record of the broker by 54 minutes.

On his return trip Captain Hawks made better time on each of the three hops than he had going down, and took less time to refuel.

He made the 607 miles from New York to Wilmington in two hours 44 minutes; getting down and in two hours 15 minutes, returning to the Wilmington-Miami hop of 656 miles in three hours 34 minutes going down and three hours 29 minutes coming back; the Miami-Havana hop of 240 miles in one hour 15 minutes going down and one hour 12 minutes returning.

He remained on the ground at Wilmington and Miami a total of 32 minutes on the southern flight.

The chronology of the trip flight was as follows: New York, 3 A. M.; arrive Wilmington, 5:44; leave Wilmington, 6:01; arrive Miami, 9:57; leave Miami, 9:52; arrive Havana, 11:15; leave Havana, 12:33 P. M.; arrive Miami, 1:45; leave Miami, 2:09; arrive Wilmington, 5:29; leave Wilmington, 5:45; arrive New York, 8:03.

Yesterday's 2806-mile round trip flight was the longest Captain Hawks had ever attempted in any day, but when he stepped out of his monoplane he insisted he was not tired.

"I'm just a little deaf and awfully hot," he said.

He said he ran into severe rain storms coming back, which tore the canvas along the entire front of his wings. Concerning his speed, he said:

"I averaged 197 miles an hour for the round trip and 206 miles an hour for the Havana-New York flight. The fastest hop was from Wilmington to New York, when the average was 230 miles an hour."

He said Associated Press figures for the various stages of the round trip flight were correct.

A committee of city officials, and his wife were among a crowd which was on the field to greet him. He left for New York by automobile, after saying he had no plans for other flights.

By yesterday's flying Captain Hawks brought to 30 the transcontinental and inter-city records he had established in the United States, Canada and Europe in two years.

guard the county a 275 ballots, making one soldier for less than 10 votes. Some citizens of the county objected vigorously against bringing in the troops, saying the situation had not produced any smoke let alone fire.

The troop move came quickly behind the sudden active participation of Governor Bilbo into the campaign. Until Wednesday the governor had been on the sidelines, chafing at the bit, stopped by two of his friends being in the lists of governor's candidates and each demanded his support.

His rein was released Wednesday when he mounted the platform of the Patrons Union, and announced that his friend, Lester Franklin, had withdrawn from the race and called on the populace to vote for George T. Mitchell. The governor plans to spend the remainder of the campaign pushing behind Mitchell.

Many of the candidates were planning to go to the Neshoba county fair next week for the last big fest before election. There they will make another gallant attempt to arouse the voters and get their minds off the price of cotton.

Chancellor Brüning and Foreign Minister Curtius of Germany, while President Hoover's policy as it has materialized in the seven-power conference, is tremendously appreciated by Germany, and this can only be the beginning of financial and economic aid to the Reich.

The Americans, reaching the hope where the Germans were staying last night found there not only the chancellor and the foreign minister, but also Undersecretary of State von Bülow, the finance ministry's expert, Count von Krosigk, Carl Melchior, German banker, and Herr Schmitz, director of the German Trust, who is considered one of Germany's best economists.

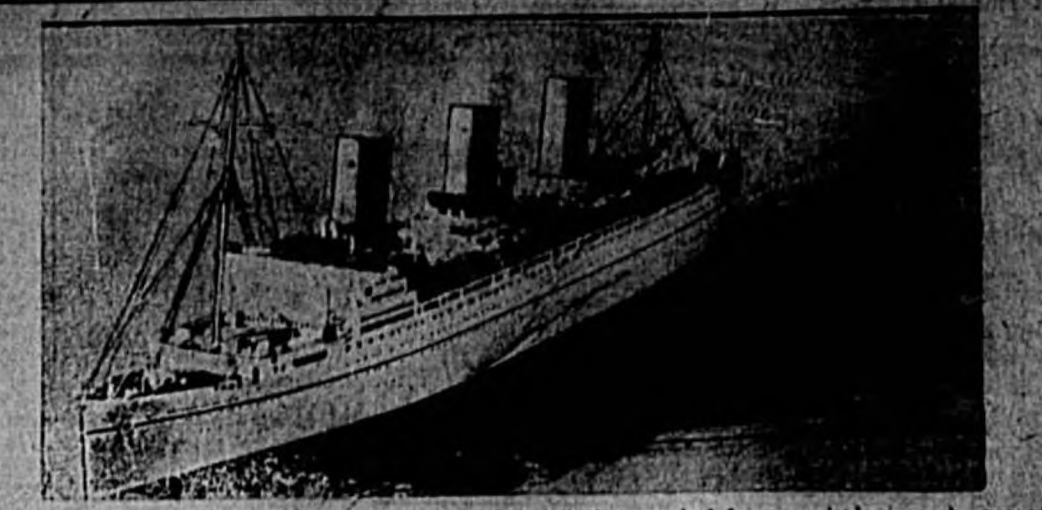

Germany's needs, beyond those taken care of by the seven-power conference, were once again discussed. Chancellor Brüning and his delegation firmly believe, it was learned from good authority, that loans to Germany can only come from private sources, American and other.

By noon Monday Secretary Stimson is expected to be again on his way out of Germany.

In a declaration last night defining the attitude he had adopted throughout the seven-power conference, Premier Laval of France said there would be no peace in the world until confidence reigned between the French and German peoples.

This confidence, he declared, had been brought considerably nearer as a result of the last three days of conversations.
"I believe I have taken the proper course," he said. "The gravity of the financial and economic crisis in Germany caused President Hoover to make his recent proposals. The interested powers agreed to a year's moratorium on reparations and France accepted it on the lines laid down at Paris with Secretary Mellon and Ambassador Lodge of the United States."
The adoption of the Hoover proposal also settled temporarily Germany's budgetary difficulties until such time as the measures proposed by Chancellor Brüning take effect.
"But during the past few weeks you have served to show the sharpness of the crisis and its dangers. What could, and what ought, the French government do? It ought at the same time to safeguard the interests of our country and to observe the obligations of international solidarity.

"We have avoided no single conversation. We have participated in the London conference in spite of the risks to which it could expose us. If the negotiators at this conference did not solve definitely the problem of the German crisis, they had the wisdom not to go outside the general outline for the discussion which was laid down in advance.
"Will the measures which have been adopted or recommended prove sufficient to withstand the evil? We must hope so. As to the remedies which will act more profoundly, they require precautions and preparations of a technical nature. That will be the task of the committee which will be appointed by the world bank for international settlements.
"These remedies demand, above everything else, an evolution of a political and moral nature. I venture to say that the conversations between the French and German ministers are leading us to a policy composed at the same time of prudence and boldness which will end in confident collaboration with Germany.
"There can be no credits without confidence. There can be no confidence in the world until harmony reigns between our two great peoples. In that lies safety. In that lies peace. And it is thus that all nations which are united with us in bonds of friendship understand the situation.

Your Handwriting And What It Tells
By JANET WINTON

A LION THAT'S A LAMB
"Dear Janet Winton: Could you please tell me why my writing has that certain swing to it and why I can't close my 'a,' no matter how hard I try?
G. S. F."

Open "a" is usually a sign of talkativeness. When found in a handwriting that indulges in extravagant flourishes and curls, this trait is intensified and becomes effusiveness.
Persons of your type are sentimental and imaginative. They live in a dream world in which they are the heroes. And though they move through life confidently, their self-assurance is just a little too exaggerated to be genuine. They are inclined to boast and brag. And they exhibit other traits which are not always in the best of taste.
Pronoun "I" is surprisingly modest for such a script, revealing that he isn't quite so sure of himself deep down. Naturally of a fanciful turn of mind, he constantly imagines himself to be what he is not.
Like the Pekinese who barks a larger, stronger dog into intimidation, your backslapping, beautiful ways are mostly bluff too. Underneath you are quite a nice fellow, affectionate, jolly and amiable.

*can't close
& I try*

FAMILY TRAITS IN SCRIPT
"Dear Janet Winton: All my relatives on my mother's side of the house write just as I do. On my father's side they write large but plainly. M. M."
Then you must favor your mother's side—if not in looks, then in natural endowment. For it is these inheritances which decide in large measure what our tendencies will be.
Plain writing is a sign of honesty and steadfastness of character. You are of a practical turn of mind, too, shown in lower loop formations. These, it will be observed, are longer than up-

*On my father
my legs, but*

and that you are kindly disposed is also shown in the consistent style of the writing and in letter "t," which is the altruistic form for this letter.

The larger writing of your father's side is an indication that they are not quite so industrious and saving as your mother's side. These members of the family occasionally indulge in extravagance. They conform and are good family men and women, but somewhat more restless and aspiring.

Man Ends Sailing
Trip Around World
12 Minutes Tardy

VILLEFRANCHE, France, July 24.—(A.P.)—Pirates, head hunters and a sultan were among the hosts of William Albert Robinson of Boston, on a world tour in his 32-foot ketch, Swamp, which sailed into Villefranche harbor yesterday.
His grandmother, Mrs. Ida Kniffler of Milwaukee, was waiting for him with a basket of sandwiches when he arrived at 4:22 P. M., just 12 minutes behind his schedule, after having left New London, Conn., in June, 1923.
"Albert," his grandmother said, "I've never known you to be so late. Where have you been?"
And this, while on the way to a bath, was the story Robinson told: Fifteen days out from India, the mariner landed at Makalla at the end of the Mohammedan feast of Ramadan. There he saw charging mobs, with silver scimitars being stopped by the sultan's guards just before death blows were about to be struck.
Robinson twice was captured by pirates in Arabian ports.
He sailed up the Sepik river in New Guinea 300 miles in order to see cannibals and friendly tribes of head hunters who were forced to get a head a day in order to retain their tribal status.

To Look Jail Break

JOLIET, Ill., July 24.—(A.P.)—The new state penitentiary at Stateville was guarded today by highway police for the second time in three days as prison officials waited for the breaking of a convict alarm they heard was in the making.

Late yesterday afternoon Warden Hill broadcast an alarm which hurriedly mobilized highway policemen. The policemen surrounded a hastily assembled force of extra prison guards.

The "prison grapevine" had brought to Hill, he said, word that some of the 2100 convicts planned to revolt at 4 P. M. and had obtained ammunition and explosives from outside. The "prison grapevine" working in the yard were marching back to their cells without incident.

Tuesday when a smaller force of police and extra guards was rushed to the penitentiary with machine guns to prevent an expected afternoon outbreak, Warden Hill said he had heard rumors a wholesale break had been planned.

The warden announced last night after the men had been locked in their cells they would not be released from there except for meals and brief recreation periods, until the penitentiary had been searched. Says, alderg hammers, hoes and other tools used in convict labor are missing, he said, and it is feared they are being hoarded for the planned insurrection.

Hill said it would take at least 10 days to search the institution.
