SCC To Receive $6 Million Anniversary Gift

By Paul Schafer
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole Community College will receive what college President Dr. Earl Weldon calls "an excellent twentieth anniversary gift." More than $6 million in Public Education Capital Outlay Funds has been appropriated by the state Division of Community Colleges for an Adult Education building, school officials learned late Friday. SCC will observe its 20th anniversary Wednesday with day long activities, most open to the public.

The $6 million allocation comes after a 6-year wait. "We've been on the (Division of Community College's) list for funding of this project for more than six years," said Andrew J. Vavreck, SCC Vice President for Business and Administrative affairs. He said the two-story building will house 30 classrooms, and occupy 66,000 gross square feet. SCC's Adult Education Program is housed in the portable classrooms built when the campus opened two decades ago this fall. Vavreck said January 1, 1987 is the target date for construction of the building. Developmental, leisure-time, high school equivalency, migrant, and English for foreign language speakers are classes among those offered in the adult program. The building will be located between the baseball fields and Hospital Road on the 170-acre campus, according to SCC Vice President Dr. James Sawyer. Weldon said the 17 portable classrooms were built in 1966 at a cost of $85,000. He said the new building, which will be the 13th permanent campus building, "is certainly needed."

"We're looking forward to the continued growth of this area, and that should mean growth for us," Weldon said. Weldon said the amount appropriated for the building is $6.228 million. Vavreck added that $377,000 has already been spent in planning the building. When the college opened for classes in the fall of 1966, 700 students enrolled, above expectations. Since then, increasing population and interest in higher education has swelled enrollment to over 20,000, with an estimated

High Court To Hear Indian Bingo Case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court took action in three cases today in rulings affecting governmental symbols, cable system operators and Indian laws. The Court let stand today a ruling that a New Mexico county seal depicting a cross and the Spanish phrase, "With This We Conquer," violates the constitutional separation of church and state. The Court also rebuffed efforts to reinstate a 20-year-old rule requiring cable television companies to carry local stations on their systems, but agreed to decide if state and local gambling laws apply to Indian reservations in a case that threatens a key source of income for many Indian tribes.

The justices will hear arguments next term from California officials, who are challenging a 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruling that exempted the Cabazon and Morongo Bands of Mission Indians from state gambling restrictions. The court's action in the case coincides with congressional efforts to address the growing tribal bingo industry. The House has passed legislation regulating reservation bingo and recognizing it as a legitimate source of revenue. The Senate is scheduled to begin considering the bill later this month. The ruling in the case will also affect reservations within Florida, most of which conduct bingo games and sell tax-free cigarettes.

The justices denied an appeal by the Board of County Commissioners of Bernalillo County, which had challenged a 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruling barring use of the symbol which the county argued reflects the region's cultural heritage and in no way endorses Christianity as an official religion. "The use of crosses and spiritual mottos on state and local government flags, seals and coats of arms is quite common in the United States," the appeal said. "Application of the 10th circuit's reasoning on a national scale would require the purging of all benign references by local governments to the historical role of religion in American life." No citizen objected to the seal until 1980 when Al Friedman, a self-professed atheist, filed suit in federal court to prevent its use. A district court upheld use of the seal which it called "more a historical symbol than a religious expression." But the appeals court disagreed, finding that the seal "conveys a strong impression to the average observer that Christianity is being endorsed." The seal contains the words "Bernalillo County" and "State of New Mexico" around the outer edge. Within the border appear the words "Con Esta Vencemos" against a blue sky, a Latin cross over four blue mountains and eight sheep on a green plain. The justices, over the protests of the National Association of

Kurt Waldheim

Waldheim Happy With 'Convincing' Election Result; Jews Feel Slap

VIENNA (UPI) — President-elect Kurt Waldheim is confident his convincing election victory will put to rest allegations of Nazi war crimes and leave the door open to him in the United States. But hardly anyone else is. The former U.N. secretary-general's election Sunday to the presidency — a largely ceremonial post — was denounced by some Jewish political and religious leaders in Israel, West Germany and the United States. Israel summoned its ambassador in Vienna home "for consultations" today in a response to Waldheim's election. Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir made the decision after meeting with Prime Minister Shimon Peres. It was not immediately clear whether Ambassador Michael Elizur, stationed in Vienna for three years, would return to the Austrian capital or if his recall would be permanent. In New York, the World Jewish Congress — Waldheim's chief accuser — said it would continue the investigation into its charges Waldheim was involved in Nazi war crimes in World War II.

Austrians clearly tired in recent weeks of the charges against Waldheim that seemed to brand Austria as a nation of unrepentant Nazis, and they grew angry at the hostile opinion abroad. Latent anti-Semitism emerged. Swastikas were drawn on the posters of both candidates and the tiny Jewish community of 7,500 was deluged with hate mail. "The election was calculated anti-Semitism," said Austrian Jewish community leader Leon Zelman. "What Waldheim did is to

Shave Beards Or Else, Guardsmen Told

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Bearded Coast Guardsmen have six days to shave their faces clean or face the wrath of their new commandant. Adm. Paul Yost, commandant for 10 days, issued an order banning beards for all Coast Guard personnel by June 15. "All Coast Guard men will be clean-shaven, with the exception of neatly trimmed and military-appearing mustaches," the order said. "I desire our military personnel to present a neat and professional appearance," said Yost, a 35-year Coast Guard veteran. The Coast Guard is the last American military branch to ban beards. The Coast Guard, which performs search-and-rescue, navigation and boating safety services during times of peace, is governed by the Department of Transportation. The Navy, under the Defense Department, imposed a ban on beards last year.

Licenses Face 'Sunset'

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Florida's regulatory structure setting standards for doctors, dentists, osteopaths and optometrists will no longer exist after Oct. 1 unless the Legislature is called into a special session and enacts a new law. In its rush to adjourn the 1986 session at 3 a.m. Saturday, the Legislature failed to reach agreement on professional standards for those groups. Current law setting up the state's regulatory structure for doctors, dentists, osteopaths and optometrists will "sunset" on Oct. 1. Senate President Harry Johnston refused to rule out the possibility of a special session to set up a new structure to regulate the professions. Before adjourning Saturday, lawmakers did manage to work out a $16.5 billion budget for the state and agreed on reforms for the insurance and civil liability systems. The House voted 94-20 to approve the spending plan late Friday, and the Senate followed on a 38-2 vote just minutes later.

Shuttle Panel Suggests Major NASA Overhaul

By William Harwood
UPI Science Writer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A sharply critical report from the Rogers Commission today called for a sweeping overhaul of NASA's seriously "flawed" management and safety programs to prevent a repeat of the Challenger disaster and ensure a safe return to space.

The long-awaited report, formally presented to President Reagan today, said the Challenger accident could have been avoided and that America's space program must end its reliance on the shuttle as its sole means of carrying heavy payloads into orbit. "Our objective has been not only to prevent any recurrence of the failure related to this accident but to the extent possible to reduce other risks in future flights," commission Chairman William P. Rogers said in a preface to the report, the result of a four-month investigation.

The 256-page document, complete with dramatic photographs, charts and diagrams that chronicle the grim details of Challenger's brutal destruction, called for NASA Administrator James Fletcher to report to Reagan in one year on progress made in satisfying the commission's recommendations. As expected, the commission blamed the Jan. 28 disaster on the rupture of a fuel segment joint in Challenger's right-hand solid-propellant booster rocket and blamed NASA and rocket maker Morton Thiokol Inc. for glossing over a clear history of deep concern about the safety of O-ring seals in the joints.

It listed management problems contributing to the accident and said, "The Commission concluded that there was a serious flaw in the decision making process leading up to the launch." The report's recommendations include a completely redesigned booster joint, establishment of a new safety office to monitor key systems, independent review boards, study of crew escape systems and improved internal communications.

The report ruled out sabotage or any other shuttle system failure as a contributor to the accident.

"Even the most cursory examination of (O-ring) failure rate should have indicated that a serious and potentially disastrous situation was developing on all solid rocket booster joints," the report said. "Not recognizing and reporting this trend can only be described (as) a failure of the program to preclude an avoidable problem. If the program had functioned properly, the Challenger accident might have been avoided."

The report described the disaster as "an accident rooted in history." "The testimony reveals failures in communication that resulted in a decision to launch 51-L (Challenger) based on incomplete and sometimes misleading information, a conflict between engineering data and management judgments, and a NASA management structure that permitted internal flight safety problems to bypass key shuttle managers," the report said.

'...if the (shuttle) program had functioned properly, the Challenger accident might have been avoided.'

The report's release now kicks off an intense investigation by Congress. Rogers is scheduled to testify Tuesday before the House and Senate and Fletcher will testify Wednesday on NASA's reaction to the report. "The report, which commended NASA on past "spectacular achievements," was dedicated to the seven astronauts who lost their lives that cold morning in January. The commission did not address how the shuttle fliers may have died but it did say they had no warning of the explosion that claimed their lives.

"There were no alarms sounded in the cockpit," the report said. "The crew apparently had no indication of a problem before the rapid breakup of the space shuttle system."

Killed were commander Francis "Dick" Scobee, co-pilot Michael Smith, Judith Resnik, Ellison S. Onizuka, Ronald McNair, satellite engineer Gregory Jarvis and Christa McAuliffe, a New Hampshire high school teacher and the first "ordinary citizen" to fly aboard a shuttle.

Family members were briefed on the report by Rogers last week. June Scobee, wife of Challenger's skipper, said she was reserving judgment on the report until she has read it in its entirety.

The commission, formed by Reagan on Feb. 3, was sharply critical of NASA's decision-making process, blaming slipshod communications and the role of engineers at NASA's Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Ala., as contributing factors to the accident. The booster program is managed at Marshall.

"The commission is troubled by what appears to be a propensity of management at Marshall to contain potentially serious problems and to attempt to resolve them internally rather than communicate them forward," the report said.

NATION IN BRIEF

Fear Of Chemical Explosion Keeps 300 From Homes

SAN ANTONIO (UPI) — Fear that a burning chemical-laden freight car might explode kept about 300 people from their homes today, a day after 22 cars of a Missouri Pacific train derailed and slid down a creek bank, officials said.

The burning car, loaded with butadiene, was one of 22 filled with chemicals that derailed shortly before 1 p.m. CST Sunday. Five tankers ignited, initially forcing about 1,700 people from their homes, officials said.

One man suffered burns, and four people complained of eye irritation and breathing problems.

The derailed cars slipped down the bank of Salado Creek, which feeds into the San Antonio River, and workers quickly constructed two earthen dams to prevent the chemicals from spreading, officials said.

Delayed Computer Work Costly

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Army officials agree with congressional conclusions about what caused years of delay in the development of three major computer systems, but they dispute estimates of $250 million in military waste.

Investigations conducted by the House Appropriations subcommittee on defense and the General Accounting Office blame the Army's lack of computer expertise for program cancellations, cost overruns and project delays.

The Army, however, insists that the problems cost $110 million instead of the $250 million cited by Congress.

Rep. Bill Chappell, D-Fla., chairman of the defense panel, said investigators found the Army wrote poorly designed contracts, conducted lax work reviews and tried to "go too far, too fast in developing high-risk technology."

Irwin Continues To Improve

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI) — Former Apollo astronaut James Irwin, who suffered a cardiac arrest while jogging Friday, regained consciousness and spoke with his family, but was still disoriented, doctors said.

Irwin, 56, who became the eighth man to walk on the moon during the 1971 mission of Apollo 15, was upgraded from critical but stable condition to serious but stable condition on Sunday.

Irwin was removed Sunday from a ventilator used to assist his breathing, but remained attached to a cardiac monitor, said nursing supervisor Betty Hagge.

Irwin, who suffered heart attacks in 1973 and 1977 and underwent bypass surgery between the two attacks, collapsed while jogging Friday on a street corner near his Colorado Springs home. A fire department rescue team used a defibrillator to shock his heart back into action.

Esquivel Executed In Texas

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (UPI) — Without a display of remorse or fear, Rudy Ramos Esquivel was executed by injection today for the murder of an undercover narcotics officer, calmly telling his friends to "be cool" and "stay close."

Esquivel, 50, died at 12:21 a.m. CST, becoming the third man executed in Texas in as many months. He was the 14th person put to death in Texas since it resumed capital punishment in 1982 and the 59th in the United States since the Supreme Court reinstated the death penalty in 1976.

Esquivel was convicted of killing Houston police officer Timothy Hearn, 28, on June 8, 1978, during a shoot-out. He claimed police officers had tried to plant heroin on him and said he felt no remorse for the shootings.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Surviving Beached Whales Not Expected To Live

ORLANDO (UPI) — The last five survivors among a pod of 27 false killer whales that beached themselves last week in the Florida Keys were eating small amounts of squid and herring but were given little chance of lasting for long.

Four of the sea mammals perished Saturday night at Sea World's Marine Science and Conservation Center at Long Key, leaving three alive at the facility about 65 miles northeast of Key West.

Two other whales were being treated at Sea World of Orlando, spokeswoman Donna Donoghue said Sunday.

Whales can contract pneumonia by inhaling water through their blowholes while beached. Internal organ damage also is common in beached animals due to pressure, which is not experienced in the weightlessness of water, on the animal's body, Donoghue said.

Murder Trial Ends In Hung Jury

BARTOW (UPI) — Homer Ernest Manns is headed for a second trial on charges of kidnapping, raping and killing a 4-year-old Polk County girl following a jury's inability to reach a verdict.

The victim's mother, Belinda Edmondson, ran from the courtroom in tears when Polk Circuit Judge Edward Threadgill Jr. announced there would be another trial. He scheduled a pretrial conference for June 17.

Eleven members of the all-woman jury voted to convict Manns.

"The poor state attorney didn't have any evidence," the lone holdout juror said, one hour after 17 hours of deliberations ceased Saturday night. "How can you believe a man who changes his story?"

The girl was discovered missing Nov. 9 from the couch on which she slept in her grandparents' trailer. Manns was arrested the next day in Hillsborough County.

The child's body was in a shallow grave beneath an orange tree 400 yards from her grandparents' home. An autopsy showed she had been raped and had died of a stab wound to the chest.

Terrorism, Fallout Deter Students

MELBOURNE (UPI) — A combination of nuclear fallout and terrorism is blamed for the first vacancies in the 16-year history of a community college humanities summer study program in Europe.

Of 85 students who signed up for May 7 to June 1 travel through Brevard Community College's Study Abroad in Humanities, only 45 students made the trip, said instructor Jim McNamara.

And while those who returned from the trip Saturday told other students leaving July 3 they should not be afraid, they had stories of anti-Americanism to share with their followers to Europe.

Gas Prices Going Up

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The average price of gas has gone up more than 7 cents a gallon since bottoming out in April, and the rise is expected to continue as retailers try to "get well" after months of dropping prices, an industry expert said.

Prices have swung wildly this year, reaching a high of $1.22 a gallon in January and dropping to a low of 89.96 cents a gallon in April. Industry watcher Dan Lundberg said Sunday in his biweekly survey of gasoline prices in all 50 states.

Lundberg said the average price for all grades is currently 97.08 cents per gallon, which "still represents a drop of 24.37 cents per gallon since the first of the year."

But the average price of all grades of gas rose more than a cent and a half in the past two weeks, he said, and a similar rise can be expected by the July 4 holiday.

The prices are going up nearly as fast as they went down to the April 25 low, indicating that "dealers are doing their best to get well after months of declining margins," Lundberg said.

While the average retail price has risen 1.54 cents since the last survey, the price dealers pay for the same gasoline has gone up only 0.79 cents, Lundberg said.

Retailers, Lundberg said, are using the difference to improve their operating margins.

"Overall operating margins have risen to 11.43 cents per gallon, which is what stations pay their bills with," he said. "At the beginning of the year, the margin was 14.48 cents per gallon."

Self-serve stations, which account for 77 percent of retail sales, posted an average price of 84.75 cents per gallon for leased regular gas. Unleaded regular is averaging 90.65 per gallon, meaning there are still prices at or below $1 a gallon, Lundberg said. Premium unleaded gasoline is averaging $1.04.10.

Lundberg attributed the steady rise in gas prices — 5.5 cents a gallon since Memorial Day — to a public that is "reluctant to travel abroad, meaning increased driving."

And despite the recent price increases, gas is still cheap enough to "provide a strong incentive to increased driving," Lundberg said, with consumption up by 2.4 percent.

Bay Of Pigs Battalion Leader Freed

MIAMI (UPI) — Ricardo Miguel Montero, one of only two prisoners from the 1961 Bay of Pigs invasion force still held by the Cuban government, was released and flown to freedom, vowing to "continue to fight communism and Fidel Castro."

Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., initiated the negotiations with Havana that led to Montero's return Sunday.

The battalion commander in the ill-fated Brigade 2506 was sentenced to 30 years in prison for his role in the 1961 invasion authorized by President John F. Kennedy.

Montero, 61, arrived aboard a chartered jet at Homestead Air Force Base, south of Miami, where he was greeted by his parents and two brothers.

"I have felt emotion, I have felt anxiety, I have felt like the school graduate who wants to start working but feels nostalgic at what he leaves behind," he said.

Montero, who appeared healthy and spoke mostly in Spanish, said he was glad to be reunited with his family and vowed: "I will continue to fight communism and Fidel Castro."

One of Castro's oldest enemies, Montero reportedly refused to wear a prison uniform during his sentence.

Kennedy, in a phone call from Washington, welcomed Montero, praised Castro's "humanitarian gesture," and vowed to work for the release of other political prisoners in Cuba.

Montero was one of 1,189 CIA-trained soldiers captured during the abortive invasion at Cuba's Bay of Pigs. Castro released all but nine prisoners the following year in exchange for $53 million in food and medicine from the U.S. government.

The only remaining veteran of the invasion force still being held in Cuba is Ramon Conte Hernandez, who led an anti-communist political group. Six others were released after the main invasion force was freed, and one died in prison.

Kennedy began working for Montero's release 16 months ago. Cuban officials in Washington met with Kennedy aides last week and told them Castro was ready to release Montero, said Kennedy adviser Gregory Craig.

Craig flew to Havana to negotiate the final release Wednesday and accompanied Montero back to Miami aboard a chartered plane.

"I stressed to Cuban officials there that the most important thing that the government of Cuba could do would be to restore the immigration and refugee agreement that was suspended in December 1984," Craig said.

The Cuban government suspended that agreement after the first broadcast to Cuba of U.S.-financed Radio Marti.

Fairness Of Tax Plan Challenged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Critics anticipating today's full Senate debate of the tax reform bill say the plan is a lopsided contest for economic relief between America's rich and its middle class.

Sen. George Mitchell, D-Maine, said Sunday he would offer amendments to boost the measure's top tax rate and make the plan more beneficial to the middle class.

But Senate Finance Committee Chairman Bob Packwood decried efforts to further tax the wealthy and insisted the elimination of shelters exploited by the rich would balance their savings from lower rates.

No votes on the plan were expected until later in the day.

Mitchell and Packwood appeared Sunday on CBS's "Face the Nation," where Mitchell said the Finance Committee's plan "would benefit the very poor by taking them off the tax rolls and the very wealthy by giving them enormous tax cuts, while the middle class gets very little."

"For example," Mitchell said, "President and Mrs. Reagan will get a $24,000 tax cut under this bill. Middle-class families who earn between $30,000 and $40,000 — that's the heart of the middle class in America — they'll get a $130 tax cut."

His argument was echoed by Rep. Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., who was instrumental in the House passage late last year of a similar tax reform plan. Gephardt said a final bill must "really help the middle class."

Packwood, R-Ore., was adamant in his defense of the current plan. He called the rate structure of the 15 percent and 27 percent brackets "the absolute glue" holding the package together for bipartisan support.

He dismissed efforts to tax the wealthy at more than 27 percent in order to cover the cost of maintaining Individual Retirement Account deductions, which 28 million American households have used to save as much as $2,000 a year.

The committee plan would eliminate IRAs for anyone covered by a private pension plan — a provision that has sparked much of the opposition.

Gephardt said he disagreed with Mitchell that IRAs should be saved because "80 percent of the benefits from IRAs go to people making over $35,000 a year."

"It is very much an upper-income deduction, not a middle-class, middle-income deduction," agreed Packwood. "I will not consider raising the rates so that those who have IRAs can continue the deduction."

Pressed to explain why he would not tax the wealthy more, he replied curtly, "Does that give you some psychic pleasure, just for the sake of doing it?"

The lawmakers agreed tax reform along the lines already espoused by the House and Senate will encourage growth, with Mitchell saying it "will unleash a new surge of economic opportunity."

Under the Senate bill, a married couple would start paying the top rate of 27 percent at $29,300 annual taxable income. A single person would pay that rate from $17,600.

Mitchell has argued that the rate structure should not have middle-income taxpayers and millionaires at the same top rate. An aide said Mitchell planned to propose a three-rate structure of 15 percent, 27 percent and 33 percent.

AT&T Strike In Second Week

WASHINGTON (UPI) — AT&T enters another business week today saddled with a nationwide strike that has strained its operations, with strikers promising louder protests and a federal mediator carving a larger role in the dispute.

Kay McMurray, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, said he would meet again today with negotiators for American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and the striking Communications Workers of America.

AT&T spokesman Herb Linnen said both sides met with McMurray during the weekend to discuss a new contract for 155,000 workers, and the company "took into consideration some ideas that were brought forth."

CWA spokeswoman Francine Zucker said pressure was mounting on AT&T. "I'm sure the company doesn't want to go into another business week facing the problems it's facing," she said.

The strike has strained operator-assisted phone service and has halted production in 11 of AT&T's 24 manufacturing plants in 17 states.

CWA President Morton Bahr said any talks would not alter plans for other unions such as the Air Line Pilots Association to join rallies and marches this week in cities from Los Angeles to New York.

SANFORD REPORT: Temperatures soared near the 100 degree mark over the weekend in Seminole County. In Sanford, the research station recording 97 degrees F. on Saturday and 96 degrees on Sunday at the University of Florida's Agricultural Research and Education Center in Sanford.

Scattered showers gave only temporary relief. The Sanford Sewage Treatment Plant recorded .1 inch of rain for entire weekend, while the research center on the other side of town registered none.

NATIONAL REPORT: Severe thunderstorms that smashed Denver buildings with a tornado reached from the southern Rockies to the Southeast today, hurling heavy rain that prompted flash flood warnings in Texas and Louisiana. The rain was heaviest in southern Texas, where five inches fell over Zapata County during a two-hour period Sunday night. Highway 83 through the county was blocked by high water in several places, officials said. Flash flood warnings covered southern Texas and southwest

Louisiana. Thunderstorms were reported today from the Rockies across the southern Plains and east to the Carolinas, the National Weather Service said. Storms Sunday produced tornadoes in Colorado, New Mexico and Wyoming and hail as big as softballs in Carpenter, Wyo., the National Weather Service said. The Denver twister touched down Sunday afternoon in the southeast part of the city. Witnesses said the tornado skipped over a field, then tore into the Fairway Convenience Center, where it damaged roofs, and crossed the street and hit the Market Place mall, damaging six more buildings. One man suffered leg lacerations when the high winds sent glass flying into his legs as he tried to run away from the tornado, officials said. Michael Abbondanza, owner of a pizza parlor in the Market Place, said most of the damage occurred in unoccupied stores. "The funnel cloud didn't stay down more than a minute," he said. "It was pretty awesome, blowing debris 300 yards into the sky."

'Witches' Brews Parental Wrath

PACIFIC, Mo. (UPI) — The parents of a fourth-grader, insisting elementary schools should not teach children about witches, cults and Satan, have asked the school board to ban books containing such subjects.

Kevin and Roberta Brouk specifically asked the school board to remove the "Counterpoint Reader" and another book entitled "Witches" from the district's libraries and classrooms.

Officials of the 3,500-student Meramec Valley R-3 School District plan to make a decision this week on their request.

The Brouks dismissed opponents' arguments raising the issue of censorship.

"They're saying we want to censor books and take away rights from children," said Kevin Brouk. "But what place does teaching children about witchcraft and cults and Satan worship have in our educational system?"

Man Reportedly Announced Attack Intentions

A man who allegedly battered a Lake Mary policeman by hitting him with the door of his van reportedly told his ex-wife, "Watch this, Maggie," before the attack began.

Police reported they had been called to the Lake Mary Pub at about 6:10 p.m. to settle a dispute between two men. When police went with one of the suspects to his van so he could get his identification, the man allegedly grabbed the open door of the van and slammed the door into an officer's shoulder.

When the man was told he was under arrest he allegedly struggled with police and kicked another officer in the stomach before two officers pulled him from the vehicle. He had to be carried to a patrol car and once inside the car reportedly beat his head against a window, a police report said.

Steven T. Darter, 32, of P.O. Box 639 Geneva, has been charged with battery on a police officer and resisting arrest with violence. He has been released on $1,000 bond.

HOMEGROWN

A 32-year-old Casselberry woman surrendered to City/County Investigation Bureau agents at about 7:55 p.m. Friday to face charges of cultivation and possession of over 20 grams of marijuana.

Agents reported the woman was not home on May 28 when they, with a warrant, searched her home at 2100 Howell Branch Road 355-D and reportedly found 17 marijuana plants growing in addition to containers of dried pot and seeds.

The suspect telephoned an agent on May 31 and made arrangements to surrender at the Seminole County jail on Friday, an arrest report said.

Marisa Claire Payne has been released on $1,000 bond.

COKE AT HOME

City/County Investigation Bureau agents, with a warrant, searched a Longwood home and arrested a 24-year-old man in whose bedroom they reported finding 28 grams of cocaine and drug paraphernalia. A small quantity of marijuana was also reportedly found.

Tony Joseph Meyer, of 875 Pasadena Ave., was charged, at 7:40 p.m. Friday at his home, with trafficking in cocaine and possession of cocaine and marijuana. He was being held without bond.

BOARD WIELDING

PLANT TOSSER

A 45-year-old man who allegedly hit a woman with a board and threw a potted plant inside Sunshine Liquors, 1610 W. 13th St., Sanford, was arrested there at 11 a.m. Friday.

Sanford police reported the man allegedly threatened to kill Rita Moore, and a clerk at the store came to her defense before police arrived.

Henry Vertis Banks of Umattilla has been charged with aggravated battery, disorderly intoxication and criminal mischief. The criminal mischief charge was added after he allegedly damaged a window of a police car. He was being held in lieu of $8,000 bond.

RESTROOM COCAINE

An Altamonte Springs policeman, who checked inside the men's room at the Hotline Bottle Club, State Road 436, at about 3:15 a.m. Saturday, charged a man with possession of 28 grams of cocaine and drug paraphernalia.

The policeman said the man was in an open stall with another man and the suspect charged was holding a bag of white powder. Tests showed the powder to be cocaine, a police report said.

The man who allegedly had tried to hide the bag from the officer was arrested but the other man in the stall was not charged.

Kenneth George Ledford, 32, of 120 Meadow Field, Longwood, was being held in lieu of $2,000 bond.

ROCK IN CAR

A man stopped by Seminole County sheriff's deputies after they saw three suspected drug dealers run from the area of his car when the deputies approached has been charged with possession of cocaine.

When the man's car was stopped on North at Marker streets near Altamonte Springs at about 7:40 p.m. Friday deputies reported seeing a bag of "rock" cocaine on the driver's seat of the vehicle. A second bag was reportedly seen in the console of the car.

Phillip K. Drummond, 20, of 3420 Dawn Court, Lake Mary, has been released on $1,000 bond.

DUI ARRESTS

The following persons have been arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving under the influence:

—Louis A. Klein, 38, of 308 Edgemon Drive, Winter Springs, was arrested at 2:50 a.m. Saturday after his car failed to maintain a single lane on Seminola Boulevard, Casselberry.

—Rodger Erwing Webb, 43, of 623 Grovewood Ave., Sanford, at 10:15 a.m. Friday after his truck crossed the center line of U.S. Highway 17-92 at State Road 434. Other drivers reportedly had to take evasive action to avoid a collision.

—Robert L. Russell, 64, of Montezuma Hotel, Sanford, was jailed at 6:12 p.m. Friday after his car was clocked traveling 20 mph in a 45 mph zone on Celery

JAIL FIRE

Seminole County sheriff's deputies are investigating a fire that was set in Cell 28 of the Seminole County jail at about 4:25 p.m. Friday. The fire was confined to that cell and, according to a sheriff's report, was extinguished within five minutes.

There was no reports of injuries. The fire was apparently set with matches and was in the cell of inmate Carol Brightwell, 22, of 101 Larkspur Drive, Altamonte Springs.

BURGLARIES & THEFTS

Two women in separate incidents reported having wallets taken from their purses in shopping carts at two Publix markets.

Anita G. Nuzzo, 42, of 110 Lynhurst Drive, Longwood, reported to sheriff's deputies that her wallet disappeared after she directed two men to the location of the beer in Publix at Hunt Club Corners in Apopka at about 2 p.m. Friday.

Her wallet contained $200 cash.

Helen Pearsall Wright of 2622 Caymon Way, Casselberry, reported that her wallet, which was stolen while she was shopping in the Butler Plaza Publix on State Road 436, Casselberry, at about 11 a.m. Friday, contained $45 cash, a sheriff's report said.

About $300 cash was taken by a burglar who entered from the roof the concession area of American Soccer Center, 1719 State Road 419, Longwood, at about 1:15 a.m. Friday.

The Highway Victims ...?

When Congress decided in 1974 to impose a 55-mph speed limit on the entire United States, it ran afoul of a legal technicality known as the Constitution. This document reserved certain powers to the states and among these powers was the authority to regulate state and local highways. To get around this impediment, Congress merely wished aloud that no one drive faster than 55 mph and then decreed that any state allowing higher speeds would be subject to loss of its federal highway aid.

All 50 states plus Puerto Rico duly submitted to this pressure and enacted 55-mph speed limits. Now, for the first time since the double nicker became a nationwide reality, the feds are imposing the sanction. The announced victims are Arizona and Vermont and their sin, according to Transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole, is inadequate enforcement of the 55-mph limit. For this, Mrs. Dole is proposing to withhold up to 10 percent of federal highway funds due each state.

In fact, erosion of the 55-mph limit is hardly confined to Arizona and Vermont. The Federal Highway Administration and the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration recently released a study showing that nearly half of all highway and freeway traffic monitored during 1984 exceeded 55 mph. And 34 of the 50 states reported increases from 1983 to 1984 in the number of vehicles exceeding the speed limit. If anecdotal evidence is worth anything, many drivers are going faster yet today.

So, Mrs. Dole's decision to pick on Arizona and Vermont could be a portent of things to come for other states. Or, it could merely reflect the tiny congressional delegations that give Arizona and Vermont minimal influence in power-charged Washington.

In any case, it is obvious that more and more Americans are effectively repealing the 55-mph speed limit with their right feet. Why? Presumably because the energy crisis — the original rationale for lower speed limits — seems long-since gone or at least in lengthy abeyance. Then too, there is new evidence suggesting that highway, and especially freeway, safety is less determined by whether the speed limit is 55 mph or, say, 65 mph than by whether most of the traffic proceeds at a similar speed. This is part of the reason the Highway Patrol in some states is recommending that speed limits be increased to 65 mph on 1,300 miles of rural freeways in their states.

Secretary Dole is only doing her job by exercising the one sanction the law provides for states that slack off on enforcing the 55-mph limit. But shouldn't the Transportation Department and Congress be focusing as well on whether it really makes sense for urban freeways and the lonely stretches of Arizona desert?

And while Washington ponders that question, it might consider as well whether the proper remedy for spotty enforcement of speed limits is a cut in the highway funds most states need to keep roadways properly maintained as a matter of safety.

It's A Different Ball Game At White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A White House spokesman had a "baptism of fire" when he recently pinch-hit for deputy press secretary Larry Speakes.

In an interview, deputy White House press secretary Edward Djerejian, who previously fielded questions at the State Department, says it's a different ball game at the White House.

"You have to dance on your feet," he said, in responding to the scattergun questions of White House correspondents.

"It's a unique experience. It's fundamentally different from the State Department. In the State Department, you can easily get away with 'no comment' or 'I don't have anything for you on that.'"

"The briefings there are more formal," said Djerejian.

"Here (at the White House) if you use a 'no comment', reporters will say, 'Oh you mean the president doesn't know about that.'"

"At the White House, you are more obliged to answer the questions," he said. "The questioning is across the board. ... It's more difficult."

Speakes has two other deputies, Peter Roussel and Albert Brashear, who also backstop him, and who have been of "tremendous help" to Djerejian.

At one point, Djerejian quipped, "You've got to want to be a masochist to want to do that," meaning perform at the White House podium and speak for the president of the United States.

Still Djerejian is philosophical and in tune with reporters when he says, "There is no such thing as an indiscreet question, only an indiscreet answer."

Djerejian says the State Department has a more careful, organized clearance process. "It's more structured."

White House spokesmen have sometimes winged it in the past, but mostly they get their information from the morning staff meeting with chief of staff Donald Regan, who lays out the day for them, and from others. Regan and national security affairs adviser John Poindexter see the president most often and are privy to his thinking.

Djerejian said he will still resort to no commenting, and "incur the wrath of the press corps," rather than mispeak.

Except on the rarest of occasions, White House press briefings are not televised.

From the standpoint of the press office, which bars the coverage, it would expose the irrepressible press and their impossible questions.

From the standpoint of reporters, live coverage of press briefings would expose the number of questions the administration refuses to answer or sidesteps and "the best defense is offense" sarcasm of those who are doing the briefing.

On the other hand, a White House press spokesman has a heavy burden — to speak for the president, and to speak authoritatively for the government of the United States.

Such a duty has its pitfalls, and it demands incredible patience, resilience, and agility.

But press secretaries who come into the office have a club and a protective society, handing down the book of clichés that are supposed to dispose of difficult questions. A common answer is "not to my knowledge" or "I haven't discussed that with the president," or "I haven't heard the president discuss it."

Soviet Leadership In Dark

It is clear that the people of the Soviet empire cannot expect to be part of an Information Age. The new, younger, supposedly more modern and enlightened Soviet leadership has revealed itself as utterly opposed to the free flow of information to Soviet citizens, the population of the Soviet satellites, or the wider world. Only the existence of abnormal levels of radiation in other countries caused the Soviet regime to release any information at all about the Chernobyl nuclear disaster. Weeks after the disaster, the Soviet and non-Soviet worlds have been permitted to learn only fragments of the grim truth.

Why? Because a totalitarian state cannot exist with a free flow of information. Soviet paranoia about the release of uncontrolled information extends to rigidly limiting access to copying machines. Free access by Soviet citizens would mean widespread distribution of underground literature. The same fear of uncontrolled release of information is inhibiting the USSR's use of computers in non-military areas.

The American people are fortunate that they have access to information about nuclear power and other technological developments. Nevertheless, the information situation in the United States is far from ideal.

The deficiency in Americans' access to information shows up in the approach to news used by the major media, news magazines, commercial television and radio networks, and taxpayer-funded National Public Radio.

One cannot listen to the news broadcasts or read Time or Newsweek without realizing that there is a disturbing uniformity of interpretation. Since it came under new ownership, U.S. News & World Report, which had a distinctive conservative voice, has joined the pack.

In the media, one finds liberal orthodoxy on every public question. The same mind-set governs the interpretation of events in the nation and the world at large, though the American people often have views markedly at variance with the thematic directions from the major media.

This situation ought to concern the American people very much. Americans are fortunate that a variety of viewpoints can be found if one digs out specialized journals in libraries and listens closely to local press voices.

A Thirst For COLA

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Never has Social Security's "sacred cow" status been more apparent than during the current maneuvering among politicians over a pending cost-of-living adjustment, or COLA.

Virtually all of those involved — Republicans and Democrats, liberals and conservatives — are so terrified that they will be perceived as being on the "wrong side" of the issue that they are about to abrogate a federal statute enacted specifically to control COLA growth.

Prior to the early 1970s, Congress had no formal procedure to adjust Social Security benefits to enable recipients to cope with inflation. Instead, increases were sporadically authorized on an ad hoc basis.

In 1972, legislation was enacted to regularize the process and eliminate the inequities involved in the earlier informal procedure. Social Security payments were automatically linked to the Consumer Price Index.

The law specifies, however, that retirement benefits will be increased only in years when the inflation rate is at least 3 percent, a provision based on the reasonable theory that small cost-of-living changes do not justify new rates.

That 3 percent threshold was irrelevant throughout the first decade after the law went into effect in 1975. Double-digit inflation in the late 1970s and early 1980s required large annual benefit adjustments.

Indeed, there has been a COLA increase in every year since the law was enacted.

But last year's inflation rate of 3.1 percent barely topped the cutoff and plummeting oil prices make it extremely unlikely that the 3 percent threshold will be reached this year. In fact, inflation during the first four months of the year stood at an annualized rate of minus 2.3 percent.

Most economists expect the rate to rise by the end of the year, but they are forecasting a total annual increase of only about 1 to 2 percent.

That clearly would not justify a COLA increase next January. But members of Congress of all political persuasions, fearful of antagonizing the nation's 37 million Social Security recipients, are moving to nullify the law — temporarily if not permanently — to authorize an unwarranted increase.

The White House, supposedly a bastion of frugality under President Reagan's leadership, has prematurely capitulated on the issue by announcing that it will not oppose such legislative action.

Nobody wants to deprive the country's elderly people — especially those who are infirm, incapacitated or impoverished — of the retirement benefits to which they are entitled, but there surely is no cause for suspending the law in this case.

Arturo, Alfonso, Adolfo

As you may have heard, the Nicaraguan contras have reorganized themselves again.

After three weeks of bargaining behind closed doors in Miami, the fractious leadership emerged with a new power-sharing agreement. It is designed to strengthen civilian control over rebel operations and to end factional feuding that has hampered both the war against the Sandinistas in Central America and the campaign in Washington to wring more aid out of the U.S. Congress.

This is the third or fourth such shake-up in the last four or five years. Whether it works depends on whether the contra leaders are able to put aside political and personal differences, as they have pledged, to work for the common cause.

On their record, and in the estimation of many who know them best, the prospects are not too bright. I am indebted for much that follows to one who knows them very well indeed — Edgar Chamorro, himself a contra leader until late 1984.

The best-known and most respected of the present leadership is Arturo Cruz. A prominent banker, he worked for the Sandinista revolution and played a key role in gaining foreign support for it. For a time he was ambassador to the United States, until he resigned to protest the authoritarian drift of Sandinista policies.

But Cruz has never disowned the revolution itself. He is open to a political settlement with the Sandinistas. Cruz was almost the opposition candidate in Nicaragua's 1984 presidential election, but pulled out at the last moment under pressure from Washington, which wanted to discredit the election.

Cruz has been used and, according to Chamorro, he knows it. But he remains a decent, principled man. It was his threat to resign from the contra directorate that forced the latest stab at reorganization.

"He is the cleanest of all these people," says Chamorro. "If there is a political solution, the only contra that would be acceptable inside Nicaragua would be Arturo Cruz."

Cruz's ally on the three-man contra directorate, Alfonso Robelo, is not so easy to peg. A businessman opposed to the Somoza dictatorship, he was a member of the first revolutionary junta. He broke with the Sandinistas over their Marxist policies and Cuban connection.

Amnesty Group Shouldn't Celebrate

By Jack Anderson
And
Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — In 1961, British lawyer Peter Benenson was shocked to hear of two students in Portugal who had been arrested for drinking a toast to liberty at a local bar. Benenson decided the world needed a special organization to investigate and publicize governments' violations of human rights — and Amnesty International was born.

"We are ambivalent about the 25th anniversary," was the wry comment of one Amnesty International official. As she explained to our associate Lucette Lagnado, the fact that the organization still exists is hardly cause for celebration; it means that governments are still killing, torturing and harassing their citizens for the mere act of opposing or criticizing the regime in power.

Have conditions gotten any better in the quarter century that Amnesty has been stubbornly calling the world's attention to state-sponsored abuses? "The only difference between now and 1961," the Amnesty official said, "is that a person need no longer feel that nothing can be done."

For while Amnesty International hasn't turned back any holocausts, it has had more modest successes, obtaining the release of victims on an individual basis. While they pursue the individual cases with persistence and some success, the "Big Picture" is constantly changing through forces over which they have no control. "It is always dynamic," one AI veteran explained. "Some countries go up, then they come down. They have a sharp incidence of torture and abuse, then there is a relaxation, and then it gets bad again."

One recent victory was especially gratifying to us. It concerned Lu Hsiu-Lien, a Taiwanese feminist and Harvard Law School graduate whom we wrote about three years ago. She was jailed after speaking at a human rights rally in 1979, and though seriously ill, she was held in deplorable conditions.

Our report prompted the Taiwanese government to improve the conditions of Lu's incarceration, we were told. But it was Amnesty International's patient prodding and years of appeals to the regime that finally secured her release a few weeks ago.

Unfortunately, there are many more cases that AI has been working on for years without success. The organization's admirable refusal to give up the fight is about all the victims have going for them; eventually, perhaps, it will be enough. Here are some of AI's toughest clients:

— In the Soviet Union, Tatyana Semyonova Osipova, a 37-year-old computer specialist, is in a labor camp for engaging in "anti-Soviet agitation and propaganda" and "malicious disobedience." Her crime was that in 1977 she joined the Helsinki Monitoring Group, formed to check on Soviet compliance with the Helsinki Accords. She helped to document Soviet violations and was arrested in 1980: Sentence: five years in prison plus five years' internal exile. But she joined in protests and hunger strikes in the camp, and had several years added to her sentence.

— In South Africa, Thozamile Gqweta, 34-year-old president of the South African Allied Workers' Union, was arrested in February 1985 and has been held since then on charges of high treason. In 1981, two of his relatives died in a suspicious home fire. A week later, police opened fire at their funeral and Gqweta's fiancée was killed.

— In Vietnam, Nguyen Chi Thien, 53, is indeed a hard case. He has spent 23 years in prison because he refuses to stop writing poetry. He was first arrested in 1958 when he tried to establish a literary magazine in Hanoi. He was sentenced to two years at hard labor for "trying to discredit the regime by romantic poetry." He has been in and out of jail ever since. After one 13-year stretch in a "re-education camp," he was pardoned in 1978, only to be re-arrested the next year for slipping a manuscript to a foreign diplomat.

No. 1 Lendl Blocks Pernfors' Upset Trail

PARIS (UPI) — Swede Mikael Pernfors' performance in the French Open, including his loss to Ivan Lendl in the final Sunday, showed he can play with the best in the world.

Pernfors, unseeded and hardly known in his own country, forged at trail of upsets before falling 6-3, 6-2, 6-4 to No. 1 seed Lendl Sunday.

A pro for less than a year, he was ranked No. 163 only a few months ago. Coming to Paris, Pernfors was No. 27 but still overshadowed by countrymen Mats Wilander, Stefan Edberg and Anders Jarryd.

Pernfors took the hard route to gain the final, defeating Edberg, Boris Becker and Frenchman Henri Leconte in the semifinals.

"It feels great," said Pernfors, a two-time NCAA champion whose two years at Seminole Community College and two years at the University of Georgia has left him with a southern accent. "I'm capable of beating almost anybody in the world. That makes me feel great."

Pernfors said he felt like sitting in the stands in the second set when Lendl began a streak of winning nine games that gave him a 3-0 lead in the third set.

But pushed on by the crowd, Pernfors battled back to take a 4-3 lead in the set.

"He is very steady and has an

Tennis

incredible passing shot," Lendl said.

Said Pernfors: "I was never really that nervous. Confidence-wise, I think this is going to help me a lot. I felt good about having played so well against him."

"I'm going to take a week off and think about it, and then prepare for Wimbledon."

Pernfors' agent, Richard Howell of Atlanta, said the youngster showed poise in his third-set rally.

"This was no fluke," Howell said. "He's capable of going very far in Grand Slam tournaments. I think he'll be a contender here next year.

"He has surprised me. I thought it would take him a year to get here. What I saw today was, he lost the big points. That's a credit to Lendl, but it's also a sign of it being his first Grand Slam final."

"He's got nerves of steel, but this being his first Grand Slam final, it had to affect him a little. I think in the long run it will be better that he did not win this tournament. Then people won't expect too much out of him."

"It took somebody like Lendl to beat him."

FRENCH FANS AGAINST LENDL
PARIS (UPI) — Two weeks earlier the match could have been played on an outside court and attracted a couple of hundred spectators.

Instead, a noisy sellout crowd of 16,500 jammed Roland Garros Stadium Sunday to watch Ivan Lendl battle an unseeded Swede, Mikael Pernfors, for the French Open Championship.

It was a setup that Lendl almost couldn't win, and he emerged an angry victor following his 6-3, 6-2, 6-4 triumph over Pernfors.

"They were against me since the warmup," Lendl said of the crowd. "By the third set you don't even worry about it."

Playoff: Adcock vs. Cardinal

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer
Adcock Roofing and Cardinal Industries will dig in and go at it one more time to decide the winner of the Sanford Little American League.

The one-game playoff between the two American League powerhouses, who both had 13-2 records for the regular season, will be held Monday night at 5 at Fort Mellon Park. The winner goes on to play National League champion Sunniland in the Sanford City Series.

For the second time in five days and the third time this season, Adcock pitching ace Mike Maples and Cardinal mound marvel Anthony "Redman" Roberts will go head-to-head.

In Wednesday's game, Maples tossed a two-hit shutout as Adcock forced Monday's playoff with a 2-0 victory. Roberts allowed just one hit but Adcock Roofing pushed across two runs, both scored by Arthur "Jap" Polk, after walks and good baserunning.

Monday's pitching duel will be the rubber match between the two righthanders. The first time the two squared off, Roberts fired a no-hitter and struck out 14 as Cardinal downed Adcock, 10-2.

If neither team can get its bats going, the difference could be in which pitcher has better control. Adcock Roofing, though, is hoping to get some offensive production from the likes of Tony Holley, Al Holt, Maples, Polk and Corey Williams.

Cardinal is looking for Roberts to lead the offense as he did all season and needs production from Britt Henderson, Leroy Kitt, Willie Williams and Matt Wilks as well.

ALL STARS ANNOUNCED

The Sanford Recreation Department recently announced its Little National and Little American League all-star teams for the upcoming tournament season.

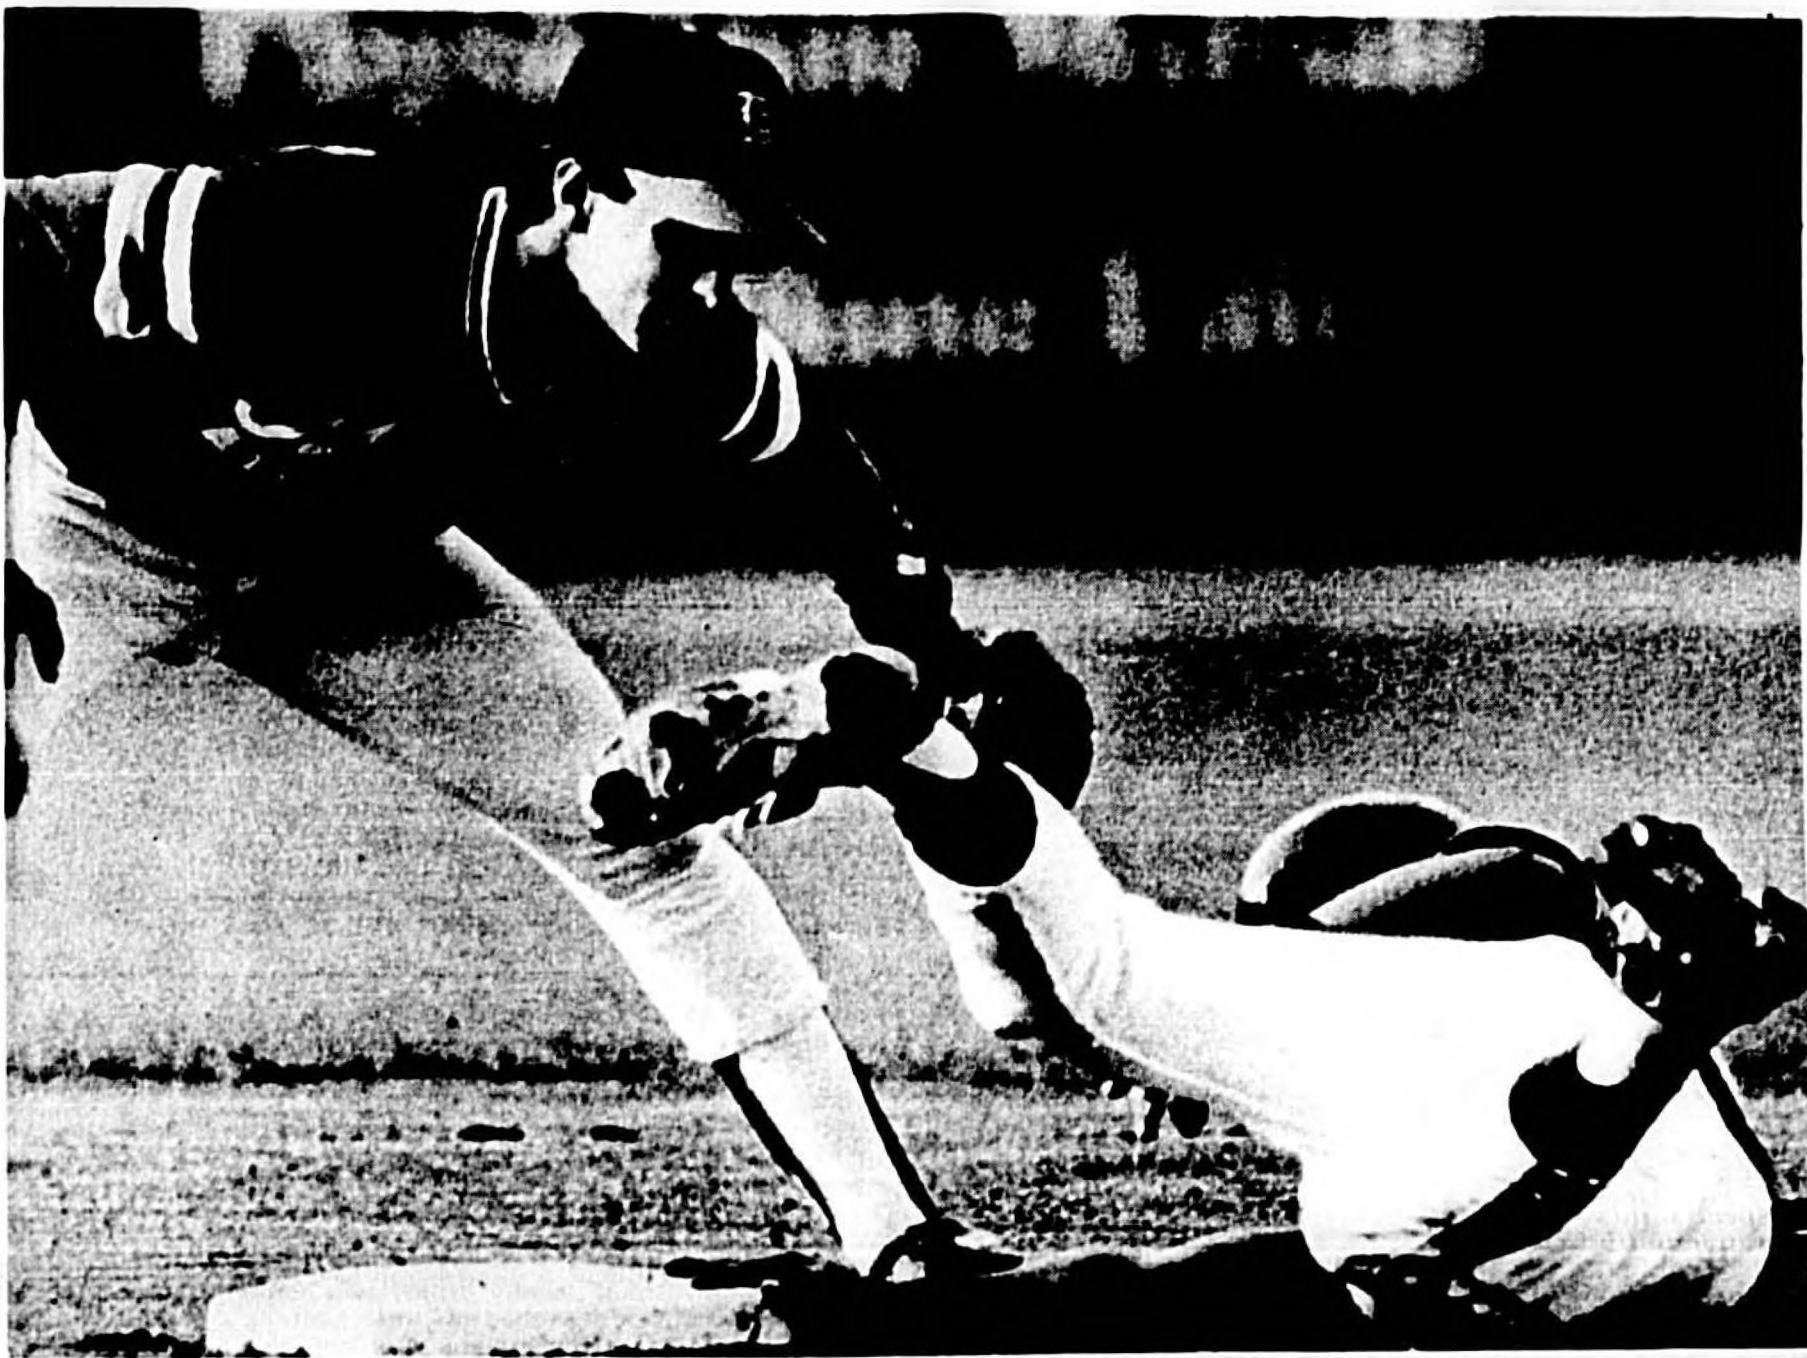

The National League team is looking to return to the glory days which saw it go to the state tournament two consecutive seasons, 1982 and '83. National League champion Sunniland placed five players on the all-star squad including David Dunn, Telly Cain, Quinn Byrd, Ned June and Tyrone Chiberton.

The remaining five teams in the league placed two players each on the team. They include Jimmy Caraway and Lorne Jones of the Railroaders; Corey Bennett and Mathew Parker of Rinker Materials; Demetry Beamon and Mike Thomas of Poppa Jay's; Richard Anderson and Mike Dillon of First Federal; and Bernard Sparrow and Teco Livingston of D.A.V.

The American League all-stars were Sub-District champions a year ago but fell short in the district tournament. Adcock Roofing and Cardinal Industries, who tied for the regular season title, placed four players each on the squad.

All-stars from Adcock Roofing include Tony Holley, Al Holt, Mike Maples and Corey Williams while Cardinal Industries' selections include Anthony "Redman" Roberts, Britt Henderson, Leroy Kitt and Matthew Wilks.

Atlantic Bank had three selections including Neville Fuller, Donte Jones and Tyrone Williams while Jermaine Hartsfield and Bill Kerns were chosen from Seminole Ford. Sun Bank placed Tony Duncan on the team and Seminole Petroleum's selection is Ric Perez.

Miami's Joe Nelson, left, slaps the tag on Florida State's Jose Marzan on an attempted steal of second base.

AWS Sweeps Altamonte

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer
Anyone who figured the Apopka-West Seminole Big League baseball team wouldn't be strong without Mike Davis and Tim Oxley figured wrong.

Without Davis, the team's catcher and one of its top hitters, now a member of the Kansas City Royals organization, and Oxley, the team's top pitcher, on vacation, AWS still proved it had the firepower to be a force as it swept a doubleheader from Altamonte Sunday afternoon.

Manager Richard Coffey's Apopka-West Seminole squad ran its record to 11-0 for the season and returns to action Tuesday against Maitland.

In Sunday's opener, Apopka-West Seminole rode the pitching of Ken Chappelaine and Kevin Bass and the hitting of Mark C. Ivey and Mike Hinde to a 5-4 victory over Altamonte.

Apopka-West Seminole broke a scoreless tie in the top of the third when Coffey drilled a two-run homer off Steve Shakar. Apopka-West Seminole made it 4-0 in the top of the fifth on RBI singles by Hinde and Mike Brown.

In Sunday's second game, Apopka-West Seminole fell behind, 5-0, after three innings but scored more than enough in the top of the fourth. A 12-run outburst in the fourth gave AWS a 12-8 victory.

Hinde started the inning off by reaching on an error and Bass then unloaded a two-run homer. Brown followed with a double and Chappelaine reached on an error. Brown scored on Tim Bruehl's base hit and Matt Morgan followed with a single to load the bases.

Coffey then stepped up belted a double to drive in Chappelaine and Bruehl to tie the score at 5-5. Apopka-West Seminole took a 7-5 lead when King ripped a two-run single. Hinde's base hit drove in the eighth run of the inning and, after a walk to Bass, Brown smacked an RBI single to make it 9-5. Chappelaine then doubled in Bass and Bruehl made it 12-5 with a two-run double.

FSU Ousts Miami, Faces Arizona

OMAHA (UPI) — Florida State coach Mike Martin says never mind that a national championship is within reach, he is taking in stride tonight's College World Series title game against Arizona.

"This is what we've been working for for years," Martin said. "We're going to go out and play a baseball game, we're going to play our guts out, but we're not going to put extra pressure on ourselves."

Riehl Lewis combined with Doug Little on a five-hitter to beat Miami 4-3 Sunday to eliminate the Hurricanes and set up the championship. Florida State, 61-12, plays Arizona, 48-19, at 7:10 p.m. Miami finished 49-17.

"Sure, tomorrow's game is a big game. But these guys know that there are about 2 million people in New York that don't really care," Martin said.

Baseball

Martin said Mike Loynd, 20-2, would pitch against Arizona. Loynd was the loser in Arizona's 9-5 win over the Seminoles Friday.

Loynd, who has a 5.14 earned run average and 14 strikeouts through 14 innings of series pitching, will try to tie the all-collegiate record of 21 wins in a season set by Alan Fowlkes of NCAA Division II Cal Poly Pomona in 1980.

Lewis, who has two saves and two wins in the CWS, is the series' top pitcher with an 0.59 earned run average and 21 strikeouts. Little, 9-4, worked into the ninth inning, allowing five hits while striking out three. Lewis relieved after Little walked the leadoff batter in the ninth, and struck out two.

Florida State took a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the first when Jose Marzan tripled and scored on Luis Alicea's sacrifice fly. Miami tied the game 1-1 in the second when Chris Howard scored from third as Seminole first baseman Marzan dropped a throw. Howard had reached on a single.

The Seminoles scored twice in the second. Ed Fulton doubled and scored when Miami third baseman Kirk Dulom overthrew first on a Barry Blackwell grounder. Blackwell went to third on Dulom's fielding error and scored on Joe Nelson's bunt.

Celtics Fly By Rockets

Bird's Triple Double Paves Way For Boston

BOSTON (UPI) — Larry Bird turned the clinching game of the NBA Finals into a private display of his talents Sunday, leading the Boston Celtics to their 16th NBA championship with a 114-97 victory over the Houston Rockets.

To cheers of "Larry, Larry," the league's three-time Most Valuable Player scored 29 points, grabbed 11 rebounds and handed out 12 assists. Bird, who also hit two 3-pointers, was named MVP of the championship series for the second time in three years.

"I was never so pumped up as I was today," Bird said. "I was so happy when my shots went down. I'm privileged to have been on three world champion teams, but this is the best one."

"He's the best," Houston's Jim Petersen said. "I've never seen anyone who could dominate a whole team all by himself."

The victory was Boston's 82nd of the season, the most ever by an NBA team. Their combined regular-season and playoff mark of 82-18 is the third-best in league history.

Kevin McHale added 29 points, 21 in the first half.

withered in the afternoon heat at steamy Boston Garden, where temperatures exceeded 80 degrees. Ralph Sampson, booed by the sellout crowd of 14,890 crowd each time he touched the ball, missed his first six shots, did not score until 2:07 remained in the first half and finished with 8 points.

"I thought he'd come out and play really hard," said McHale, who was assigned to Sampson. "So I thought hard about it all last night and decided not to give him anything."

Sampson was ejected for fighting in Game 5 in Houston, which the Rockets rallied to win.

"You never know what happens in a situation like that, whether he's down or responds very big, it (the fans reaction) was very tough on him," Bird said.

Sampson said the Rockets defeat was their own fault.

"We beat ourselves, we took ourselves out of the game," he said. "I didn't have a good game at all," he said, then made a promise to Houston.

"I'd like to say to the city of Houston, stay with us baby, we'll be back."

Houston center Akeem Olajuwon picked up his fourth foul at 9:45 of the third quarter but totalled a team-high 19 points.

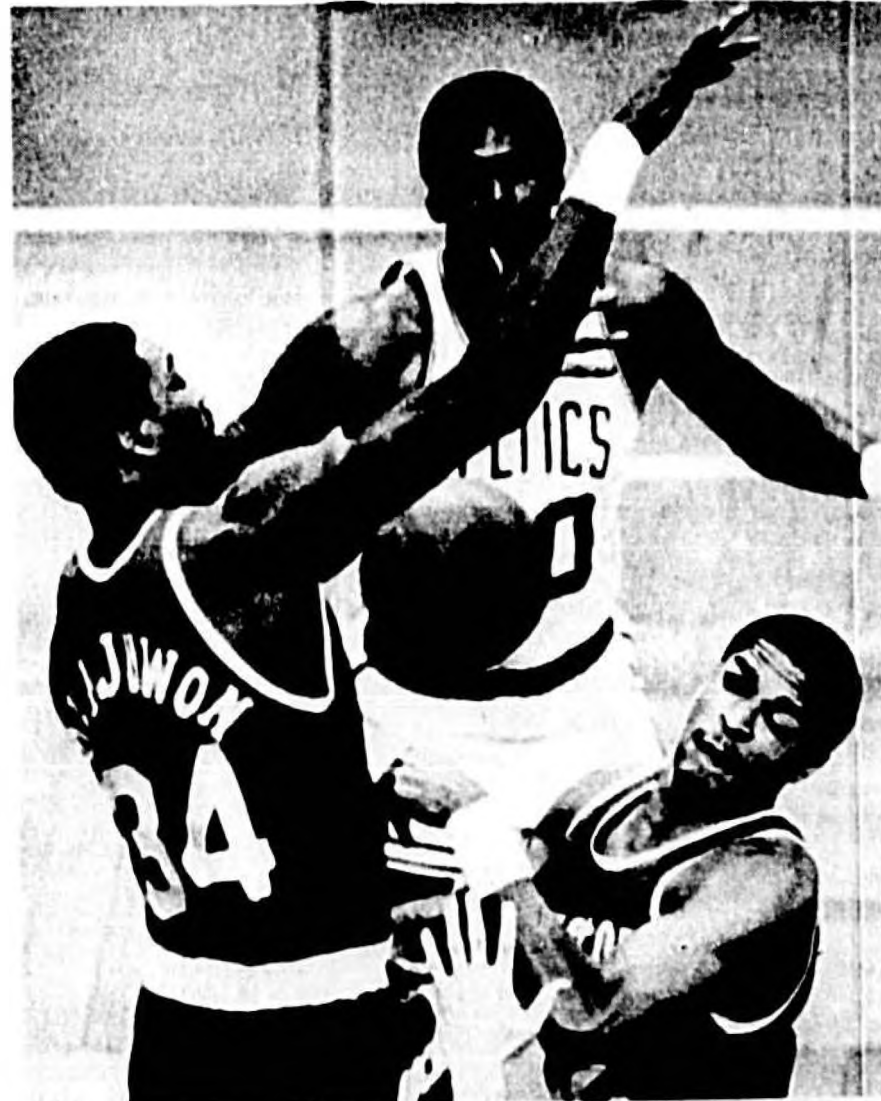

With their 41st consecutive home victory, the Celtics finished the season with a 50-1 home-court record, the best in league history.

Boston, winning its third NBA title since Bird's arrival seven years ago, never trailed, jumping out to early leads of 14-6 and 20-9. An 11-0 Houston run cut the margin to 22-21 but after the teams exchanged baskets, Boston scored the final 7 points of the first period. Houston committed 11 turnovers in the quarter, which resulted in 13 Boston points.

The Celtics led 31-28 early in the second quarter when McHale and Bird combined to score all of Boston's points during a 13-2 surge that broke the game open.

McHale hit on two lay-ins and Bird converted two free throws and a 3-on-1 fastbreak layup before Jim Petersen's short hook. McHale netted his third tap-in attempt on a rebound. Bird converted a technical foul called on Houston coach Bill

Youmans 1-Hits Phils; Raines Belts Slam

MONTREAL (UPI) — Floyd Youmans' one-hit victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Sunday was a case of addition by subtraction.

Youmans, pitching without his curvball, allowed only an infield single to Glenn Wilson in the fourth inning — and also poked his first major-league homer — to spark the Expos to a 12-0 triumph over the Phillies.

The right-hander, who improved to 5-5, pitched the first complete game of his career, striking out eight and walking seven. His home run was a two-run blast in the second inning.

Youmans was told earlier in the week by manager Buck Rodgers and pitching coach Larry Bearnarth to abandon his curvball for a game and to throw fastballs and changeups.

"I guess the strategy really paid off," Youmans said. "It really helped me. Over the last few days, I was really working hard on my changeup."

Wilson's hit came without controversy. The outfielder hit a grounder up the middle and easily beat second baseman Al Newman's belated throw to first base.

Tim Raines hit a grand slam and Hubie Brooks chipped in with a two-run homer as the Expos tagged Mike Maddux, 0-2, with the loss. The Phillies used four pitchers, including outfielder Greg Gross, who hurled the eighth.

In the eighth, Raines connected with Herm Winningham, Newman and Mike Fitzgerald on base for his third career grand slam and fifth homer of the season. A switch-hitter, Raines has hit all five homers from the right side of the plate.

Orioles Drive Yanks 'Batty,' Lacy's 3 Homers Lead Romp

United Press International

Too bad Sunday wasn't Seat Cushion Day at Yankee Stadium.

The New York Yankees and Baltimore Orioles treated a Bat Day crowd of 52,021 to the longest nine-inning game in American League history. The 4-hour, 16-minute affair was less painful for the visiting Orioles, who blasted the Yankees 18-9.

The game's duration, which did not include a 40-minute rain delay, broke the old mark of 4:11 set July 10, 1983 by Milwaukee and Chicago. The major-league record was set by Los Angeles and San Francisco Oct. 2, 1962, a game that lasted 4:18.

"I've been in this league going on 15 years. I've played in 10,000 of them (games) just like it," Orioles catcher Rick Dempsey said. "It feels the same as if it was 2-0. You just take your hacks and look to finish. The way things were going, it didn't look like it was going to.

"You just hope you get a hit every time up and everybody else hits a line-drive out in the game and you go home."

Sparked by Lee Lacy's three home runs and six RBI, the Orioles took a three-game series sweep. The Yankees fell for the seventh time in their last nine games.

Lacy's three homers gave him five for the season. It was the first time the 37-year-old veteran has hit three homers in a game during his 14-year career.

"Any time you hit three homers, it feels great," Lacy said. "The thing that has kept me in the big leagues this long is that I know how to stay within myself. I'm capable of hitting the ball to all fields. If I get a ball that I can drive and hit it out, that's great."

Lacy powered solo shots in the first and sixth innings. He slugged a two-run blast in the fourth and added a two-run single in the seventh. The Orioles collected 22 hits.

Lacy's sixth-inning homer gave Baltimore a 7-1 lead. The Yankees rallied with five runs in the bottom of the inning, before the Orioles replied with a seven-run seventh to take a 14-6 lead.

Ken Dixon, 6-3, earned the victory for the Orioles. Ed Whitson, the first of five New York pitchers, fell to 4-2.

Larry Sheets also had a home run for the Orioles, his eighth. Mike Pagliarulo connected for his 14th for the Yankees.

Seattle second baseman Harold Reynolds makes the relay to first for a double play. The Mariners dropped a 5-4 decision to Texas on Sunday.

Twins, Kent Hrbek homered, and Randy Bush doubled in two runs to pace the Twins' 13-hit attack. Portugal, who dropped his first five decisions, improved to 2-6. The loser was Bret Saberhagen, 3-6.

Brewers 7, Red Sox 3

At Milwaukee, Tim Lary won for the first time since May 5 by scattering seven hits. Ben Oglivie drove in three runs for Milwaukee. Leary, 4-5, received relief help from Mark Clear and Dan Plesac, who picked up his fourth save. Mike Brown, 4-2, was tagged with the loss.

Rangers 5, Mariners 4

At Arlington, Texas, Pete Inaviglia stroked a one-out, bases-loaded single in the 10th to score Curtis Wilkerson and give the Rangers their seventh straight victory. Loser Karl Best, 1-1, hit Wilkerson to open the inning. Mitch Williams worked out of a bases-loaded jam in the top of the 10th to improve to 5-0.

Thurmond Three-Hits Braves

N.L. Baseball

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Atlanta manager Chuck Tanner often uses superlatives to describe his own players. Sunday, he lavished them on the opposing pitcher, Mark Thurmond.

"He pitched like Lefty Grove and hit like Mickey Mantle today," Tanner said Sunday after watching the San Diego southpaw hurl a three-hitter and drive in four runs in a 4-1 victory over the Braves.

Thurmond, 3-4, yielded only a fourth-inning homer to Rafael Ramirez, a fifth-inning double to Bruce Benedict and a ninth-inning single to Billy Sample in notching his second complete game of the season.

After throwing a one-hitter on April 30 against Montreal, Thurmond was unable to last into the fifth inning in his last three starts.

"The main thing is I haven't been getting down on myself," Thurmond said. "If you lose hope, you lose everything."

Thurmond again received an intentional walk, but Kruk was tagged out and Templeton advanced to second when Atlanta pitched out on an attempted squeeze play. However, Thurmond followed with a single to score Kennedy and Templeton.

"We respected him up there," said Benedict, the Braves' catcher. "The first time up he hit a slider and the second time was a ### fastball. He made contact with the ball and found a couple of holes. You gotta give him credit."

Thurmond has six RBI and is hitting .300 this season. Joe Johnson, 6-5, pitched 5 2-3 innings and surrendered all four San Diego runs.

In the Padres' second, Marvell Wynne singled and stole second. After Terry Kennedy and rookie infielder John Kruk struck out, Garry Templeton was walked intentionally. Thurmond then doubled to left-center for a 2-0 advantage.

Ramirez homered in the fourth, but San Diego scored twice in the sixth. With one out, Kennedy singled and stopped at third when Kruk doubled.

Templeton again received an intentional walk, but Kruk was tagged out and Templeton advanced to second when Atlanta pitched out on an attempted squeeze play. However, Thurmond followed with a single to score Kennedy and Templeton.

IN BRIEF

Tway Scrambles Past Wood, Wins Westchester Classic

HARRISON, N.Y. (UPI) — Bob Tway needed four tries to play his way onto the PGA Tour, and now that he's there, he's fast building himself a reputation.

"It was just a matter of time," said Willie Wood, runner-up to Tway Sunday in the $600,000 Westchester Classic. "I was surprised he wasn't on the Tour earlier than he was. But the qualifying school is just one week, and sometimes that one week is not your week."

"But there was no doubt he could play. He's showing that now."

Tway made scrambling pars at the 16th and 17th holes of the Westchester Country Club Sunday, then hit a sand wedge within two feet for a birdie at the 18th to edge Wood by a stroke and win his second tournament of the year.

Although Tway has been on the tour only 18 months, he already has won $505,641, including his first-place check of $108,000.

Tway, 27, fired a 67 on a day that started out hot and humid at the Westchester Country Club and finished with a brief, heavy rainstorm. That gave him a 72-hole total of 12-under 272. Wood, without a win in his three years on the tour, shot 66 Sunday for 273, including a birdie at the 18th that helped put the pressure on his former Oklahoma State teammate.

Denmark Thrashes Uruguay, 6-1

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Something's rumbling in Denmark.

In a performance that combined elegance with finishing power, the Danes galvanized the World Cup Sunday with a 6-1 thrashing of Uruguay.

Now Denmark, appearing in its first World Cup, must be considered an even weightier candidate to win the tournament. It joins Argentina, Brazil and the Soviet Union as the early power brokers.

In another Group E game Sunday, at Queretaro, West Germany rallied past Scotland 2-1 to all but eliminate the Scots from the opening round for the fourth consecutive World Cup.

Iraq also was practically assured banishment, losing 2-1 to Belgium in a crudely played Group B game at Toluca.

Today, France meets Hungary at Leon, and Canada faces the Soviet Union at Irapuato.

LPGA: Inkster's Lead Holds Up

MALVERN, Pa. (UPI) — Juli Inkster shot her second-highest round of the year Sunday, and still cruised to her second victory.

Inkster shot a final-round five-over-par 77, and took a three-shot victory in the $450,000 McDonald's Championship at White Manor Country Club. The round was her worst since an opening-day 79 in the UVB Classic last month, but her eight-stroke lead after three rounds gave her plenty of margin for error.

"I feel kind of down I shot 77," said Inkster, who had a 72-hole total of seven-under 281. "I feel like I let the gallery down, and I let myself down. But I still played three good rounds of golf and deserved to win."

Williams Bribery Trial Begins

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The sports bribery trial of former Tulane basketball star John "Hot Rod" Williams starts today, with prosecutors trying to prove a cocaine deal mushroomed into a scheme to fix two Green Wave games.

Williams' first trial ended in a mistrial and dismissal of sports bribery charges last August. An appeals court reversed the dismissal of charges and ordered the pro hopeful to stand trial again.

Late Surge Lifts SMU At NCAA

INDIANAPOLIS — When the Southern Methodist men's team wins a national track and field title, it waits until the last second to do it.

The Mustangs wrapped up their second championship in four years Saturday at the 65th annual NCAA Division I track and field meet with 18 points in the last two events. SMU's late rally gave the Mustangs 53 points to win by one point over Washington State, the leader through most of the final day of competition.

The University of Texas took the women's team title with 65 points. Alabama was second with 55 and Texas Southern third with 47.

Meanwhile, it was rough going for a pair of Seminole High graduates in Saturday's finals:

•Cliff Campbell, a freshman at Auburn University, was second in his qualifying heat in the 400 meter dash with a time of 45.43 but he did not place in the finals. If Campbell had repeated his prelim performance, it would have been good for fifth place. Washington State's Gabriel Tlaoch took first with a meet record time of 44.30.

•Frank Barnett, a freshman at Arizona University, made it to the finals in the 110 meter hurdles but he too did not place. Barnett's time in the finals was 13.78 and it took 13.66 to place. The University of Alabama's Keith Talley won the event with a time of 13.36.

Another former Seminole County great didn't fare too well in the NCAA meet. Schowonda Williams, a 1984 Lyman High graduate, qualified for the finals in the 100 meter hurdles but didn't place. Williams' specialty is the 400 meter hurdles but she fell in the prelims in that event and did not qualify.

Southern Methodist pulled off the remarkable victory when the 4x400-meter relay of Harold Spells, Rod Jones, Roy Martin and Kevin Robinson blazed a winning 3:01.62, and decathlete Sten Ekberg earned second-place honors behind Washington's Mike Ramos.

The Mustangs' finish was similar to 1983, when they pulled off a victory in the 1,600-meter relay to shade Washington State 104-102.

"We knew we had to win the mile relay to win it, very similar to our situation in 1983," SMU coach Ted McLaughlin said. "It wasn't a first happening but I'd rather not have any more like it. These finishes are making me old before my time."

Hawks Seize Rockledge Title

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer
The American Dictionary defines a hawk as a bird of prey with strong claws adapted for seizing.

The Seminole Hawks, like their high-flying namesake, have done quite a bit of preying and a good deal of seizing the past four weeks. The Hawks, Seminole Softball Club's 12 and under all-star team, soared to their fourth straight tournament title and ran their record to 18-0 this past weekend by winning the Rockledge Tournament.

The Hawks will have only a scrimmage with Rockledge this weekend before continuing their quest for a berth in the ASA National Tournament the weekend of June 21-22 as Seminole hosts its own softball complex.

As they have been doing since the tournament season began, the Hawks dominated both offensively and defensively at Rockledge, outscoring their opponents 53-12 in four straight wins.

"A combination of super defense and heavy hitting in the early part of the tournament carried us to the championship," Hawks' manager Larry Risse said.

Seminole opened the tournament by crushing Miami Davie, 29-4, and followed with a 13-2 rout of Hollywood Hills. The Hawks made it three straight with an 8-5 win over Conway.

Conway battled back through the losers' bracket for a rematch with the Hawks, but Seminole prevailed once again, 3-1, in an intense defensive battle.

In the final, the Hawks picked up an unearned run in the first inning on a three-base Conway error, then added two runs in the third and held on for the win.

Seminole, Christa Schroeffel drove in the first run with a sacrifice fly and the second run scored on Kristy York's single.

Two players who were members of last year's Hawks squad that went to nationals, Kat Foldeak and Tanya Lewis, had the top batting averages for the Hawks. Foldeak hit .700 (7-10) while Lewis, younger sister of Lake Howell High standout Tammy Lewis, had two doubles and drove in eight runs to go along with a .545 average (6-11).

Mishelle Davis, younger sister of Lake Brantley High's Mike Davis, had a productive tournament as she was 6-12 (.500) with a grand slam homer and 10 RBIs while Renee Sanville also hit .500 (6-12) and drove in seven runs.

Christine Risse not only was the winning pitcher in all four games, but she hit .555 (5-9) with two RBIs. Connie Bonaventure hit .454 (5-11) with a home run and Leighann Schroeffel had two hits in three at bats, one being a two run homer.

Manager Risse said the defensive leaders for the Hawks included Nicole Gorzka in right field, Maria Montalvo in center, Lewis in right, Foldeak at first base and Davis at shortstop.

Davis was voted the tournament's Most Valuable Player, the second time she has received that award in the Hawks' four tournaments.

The Seminole Softball Club's 10 and under all-star team, the Seminole Starlings, came away with second place in the Rockledge Tournament with powerful Pembroke Pines taking first place.

Fitch and McHale ended the run at 6:08 with a pair of free throws for a 44-30 Boston lead.

The Celtics led 55-38 at halftime, out-rebounding the bigger Rockets 30-16 in the first half. Houston also shot just 15 of 40 (38 percent) from the floor, which negated the importance of Boston missing 10 of its 21 free throws in the half.

Boston switched the defensive assignments on the Rockets guards, with Dennis Johnson taking 6-foot-8 Robert Reid, who had a 14.8 average in the first five games of the championship series. Reid scored just 2 points in the first half, when the outcome was decided.

Boston coach K.C. Jones said: "The defense was sensational. We knew we had three things to do: One, have Robert (Parish) do better on Olajuwon. Two, keep them off the boards to some degree. Three, limit their break and slow them down."

In the third quarter, Boston expanded its lead to 21 points on four occasions as Houston shot just 30 percent and Boston took a 82-61 lead into the final quarter.

The Celtics scored the first 7 points of the final quarter for their biggest lead of the game.

With 2:20, K.C. Jones emptied the bench and the Celtics embraced each other, thrusting their fists into the air and waving towels. With 39 seconds left, the team's starters left the court and headed for the dressing room where they started pouring champagne on each other before the game was over.

As Bill Walton entered the locker room he shouted: "World Champs. Larry Bird."

...Lendl

"I thought I'm going to fight until I die just so I can win. It can work two ways. It can work that it knocks somebody down but it can also work to pump a person up."

"I tried to take it a positive way. I looked at it that I want to win so badly because you were hating me from the beginning."

Asked his opinion of why the crowd was against him, Lendl replied, "I don't know. Next year I will hire someone to do a survey while I am playing."

"I think it may be because of (Yannick) Noah. We've been rivals since we were 14 and they think I'm challenging him."

The fact he was meeting an unseeded player appearing in his first Grand Prix final, rather than a more toughened rival such as Mats Wilander or John McEnroe, didn't have an effect on Lendl's thinking.

"You've got to be very careful," he said. "You can't underestimate anybody. He won six matches on clay to get here. To beat six guys is not an accident. You have to play well to get there."

Similar to the attitude a day earlier of Chris Evert Lloyd when she won the women's crown, and despite the fact he was seeded No. 1, Lendl took the stance that coming to Paris he had been considered an underdog by most observers.

"Two years ago (when Lendl won the French for the first time) there was McEnroe, Noah, Wilander, (Andres) Gomez and then it was mentioned that Lendl was playing too," he said. "This year Noah and Wilander were favorites. I am No. 1, so I was in the running too."

"At the beginning of the tournament not many people would have put money on me. As I said before, I came here to win seven matches and I succeeded. I am very happy about this. I don't think it is easier if you are expected to win. It doesn't matter if you are seeded or not. It depends on how you come out."

Aquino Alleges Marcos's Wealth Pays For Violent Protests

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — President Corazon Aquino today charged that ousted ruler Ferdinand Marcos has used "enormous wealth" he allegedly plundered from the nation to finance demonstrations against the government.

At least 16 people were hurt and homemade bombs were found in Sunday's clash between Marcos loyalists and the new government.

Aquino, reacting sharply for the first time to the rowdy protests by Marcos supporters, issued a statement saying she "felt anguished by the trouble created by loyalist demonstrators" marching to the presidential palace Sunday.

She said the march came shortly after she had moved to a house near her office.

"These loyalist troubles are caused by the deposed president's urgings to his followers here, conveyed by telephone and other means" from his exile home in Hawaii, Aquino said.

"It is also clear that ill-gotten money buys demonstrators."

"So I truly deplore the ways in which (the) former president continues to foment trouble in this ravaged country using his enormous wealth of which only a small portion was publicly made known when the U.S. Customs Service in Hawaii investigated their cargo," Aquino said.

Soviets Admit Drug Problems

MOSCOW (UPI) — In a rare admission that a drug problem exists in the Soviet Union a Communist Party youth newspaper said police are losing the battle against resourceful addicts in southern Russia.

The Komsomolskya Pravda newspaper said Sunday drug addicts have raided poppy fields in the Ural mountains and outfoxed policemen by hiding drugs in tooth paste tubes or disguising them as medicine.

On some occasions, addicts have turned the poppy fields of southern Russia into virtual "shooting galleries" littered with discarded needles and bloodied gauze.

Guards have been placed in the fields to prevent theft of poppies, which sell for up to $140 a sack — half the average monthly wage for Soviet workers.

The article also gave a rare look at drug-culture jargon Soviet style — to get high is to "cook herbs," and pushers and addicts from outside the local area are known as "tourists."

"What would you say if wine flowed from the water pipes in the kitchen. That is how I see the availability of drugs in our region," the newspaper quoted police investigator A. Gushchin as saying.

Iran Seeks To Mediate In Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Shiite Moslem Amal militiamen and Palestinian guerrillas exchanged tank, artillery and mortar fire as an Iranian delegation arrived for talks aimed at ending the bloodshed, which has claimed 85 lives in two weeks.

Four people were killed and 17 wounded Sunday in fighting between Amal and Palestinian guerrillas trapped in the Sabra, Shatila and Burj Barajneh refugee camps — the most serious violation to a truce announced by Amal for the Al Fitr Moslem holiday Thursday.

The fighting began shortly before the Iranian delegation arrived and raged unabated most of the day.

The Iranian delegation — headed by Iranian Deputy Foreign Minister Mohammed Ali Besharati — was to meet Palestinian and Amal militia commanders today.

Political sources in Beirut said they believed Besharati would try to mediate a political agreement to end the 15-day-old Amal-Palestinian war, which has left 85 people dead and 438 wounded.

Hostage Anderson's Brother Dies

OCALA, Fla. (UPI) — Glenn Anderson, whose younger brother is one of five American hostages being held in Lebanon, died of cancer aboard an air ambulance flight bringing him from New York hospital to his home in Florida.

Anderson, the 46-year-old brother of hostage Terry Anderson, died Saturday afternoon shortly before the air ambulance landed at the Ocala airport.

"He was trying to hold until Terry was released. He couldn't hold any longer," said another brother, John Anderson.

Terry Anderson, 38, was kidnapped from a Beirut street March 16, 1985, by members of the pro-Iranian Islamic Jihad.

Glenn Anderson videotaped a tearful, 60-second message to the kidnappers last Tuesday in which he said he was dying of cancer and pleaded for the release of his brother, the Middle East bureau chief for The Associated Press.

Anderson, whose father died three months ago of cancer, is survived by his wife, Jean, his seven children, his two brothers and two sisters, Peggy Say and Judy Blouin, both of Batavia.

Say told reporters last week the State Department had authorized her to travel to Beirut to meet with Lebanese President Amin Gemayel.

"I think the main thing is that it's something that I have not done, and until I do that, I'm not going to be able to say that I've done everything I could do to help Terry," Say said.

work out the feelings of thousands of former German Army soldiers and say, "I am one of you."

The 67-year-old Waldheim, backed by the conservative People's Party, received 53.9 percent of the vote in the runoff election, becoming Austria's first non-Socialist president since the war. Socialist Party candidate Kurt Steyrer got 46.1 percent.

"I am very happy the results are so convincing. ... I will be a president for all Austrians," the slender, 6-foot-3 Waldheim said during victory celebrations Sunday night.

The man once called "the diplomat's diplomat" was asked if he expected the victory to halt the allegations of Nazi war crimes that dogged him since March and that he maintained were politically motivated.

"Oh yes, certainly," he replied. "There's no proof. I don't understand why they don't stop it."

"The public has not accepted these allegations," he said.

The World Jewish Congress has accused Waldheim of participating in Nazi atrocities against Jews as well as Greek and Yugoslav partisans while a lieutenant in the German Army from 1942 to 1944.

He denied the charges, but the accusations and documentation prompted other nations to launch investigations.

Recently discovered documents of the U.N. War Crimes Commission, an international investigative panel whose mandate expired in 1948, listed Waldheim as a "Class A" suspected Nazi war criminal and accused him of "murder" and "putting hostages to death." The U.S. Army also called him a suspected war criminal.

Attorney General Edwin Meese was considering a recommendation by his Justice Department's Nazi-tracking unit to bar Waldheim from the United States under a law denying entry to suspected war criminals.

Waldheim, once the world's No. 1 peacemaker as U.N. secretary-general from 1972 to 1982, said he is confident he will be allowed to enter the United States at will.

...Shuttle

Challenger was launched at 11:38 a.m. EST when the temperature was 38 degrees, a record for a shuttle launch, despite a unanimous recommendation to delay from Thiokol engineers worried about the effect of cold weather on the boosters.

The decision was overruled by company managers under pressure from NASA and the commission said the frigid weather played a role in the failure of O-ring seals in the joint that ruptured along with other factors, including assembly problems.

Congressional leaders said last week they will sharply increase their oversight of NASA in the wake of the Challenger disaster.

Among the commission's recommendations were:

- Complete redesign of the shuttle's booster fuel segment joints and establishment of an independent review board to oversee the operation; NASA already has set up such a board.

- Complete overhaul of NASA's management structure with the emphasis on accountability and an increased role by astronauts in the launch command chain.

- Establishment of a safety organization within the agency to report directly to the administrator.

- Study of astronaut escape systems and improved landing margins. This study already has started.

- Improved communications to ensure critical information makes its way to top managers. The commission was especially critical of management and communications at Marshall and said NASA should eliminate a "tendency" at the Alabama rocket center toward "management isolation."

- Establishment of a realistic flight rate that can be supported by the resources available to NASA. The commission said NASA was "stretched to the limit" trying to attain the current flight rate.

"Unlike other agencies, our failures are immediately visible, our failures endanger lives and property, our latitude for error extremely narrow," Fletcher said in a statement.

"Where management is weak, we will strengthen it," he said. "Where engineering or design or process need improving, we will improve them. Where our internal communications are poor, we will see that they get better."

The Rogers report was milder than some commission members wanted, sources said, but it called for fundamental changes in the shuttle's role in America's space program.

"The nation's reliance on the shuttle as its principal space launch capability created a relentless pressure on NASA to increase the flight rate," the report said. "Such reliance on a single launch capability should be avoided in the future."

Critics have charged NASA and Congress made a fundamental judgment error early in the shuttle program when they decided to eliminate unmanned rockets in favor of the billion-dollar spaceplanes.

In the wake of the accident, the Air Force already has proposed buying new Titan 34-D7 boosters to supplement the shuttle and the commission report is sure to spur construction of more throw-away rockets for use by NASA.

The commission said the roots of the Challenger disaster go back to the original design of the booster joint and charged NASA "did not accept the judgment of its engineers that the design was unacceptable, and as the joint problems grew in number and severity NASA minimized them in management briefings and reports."

The report said, "NASA and Thiokol accepted escalating risk apparently because they got away with it last time."

"As tests and then flights confirmed damage to the sealing (O) rings, the reaction by both NASA and Thiokol was to increase the amount of damage considered 'acceptable.' At no time did management either recommend a redesign of the joint or call for the shuttle's grounding until the problem was solved."

Commission member Richard Feynman described NASA's decision making with respect to the joint problems as "a kind of Russian roulette" and the report was critical of Lawrence Mulloy, chief of the booster program at Marshall, for repeated signing waivers on the joint to clear shuttles for blastoff.

"The waiving of launch constraints appears to have been at the expense of flight safety," the report said.

As for the now-famous launch-eve debate between NASA engineers at Marshall and those at Thiokol's plant in Brigham City, Utah, the commission blamed both NASA and the rocket maker for recommending Challenger blastoff despite engineering concerns.

"The commission concluded that the Thiokol management reversed its position and recommended the launch of (Challenger), at the urging of Marshall and contrary to the views of its engineers in order to accommodate a major customer."

The commission was sharply critical of NASA's management structure because word of the crucial teleconference was never passed on to Arnold Aldrich, manager of the shuttle program, and Jesse Moore, associate administrator for space flight, who had the final authority to recommend blastoff.

"The decision to launch the Challenger was flawed," the report said. "Those who made that decision were unaware of the recent history of problems concerning the O-rings and the joint and were unaware of the initial written recommendation of the contractor advising against the launch at temperatures below 53 degrees Fahrenheit."

campus Wednesday, but activities will go on throughout the day. Sawyer said the campus will have an open house for the public throughout the day.

"We'll have a large birthday cake in the student union at 11 a.m., and a faculty art exhibit will be presented as well," Sawyer said.

The SCC drama department will also present the comedy play "Alone Together" at 8 p.m.

In addition, the SCC Board of Trustees and Weldon will host a special reception to mark the anniversary for invited guests from 5 p.m. until 7:30 p.m. in the Fine Arts Building Wednesday evening.

Earlier this year, the college received a resolution from the State Board of Community Colleges recognizing SCC's 20th anniversary.

SCC was approved by the State Board of Education as a junior college in February of 1965. That same year, the state legislature appropriated funds for the school, which opened with the fall term of 1966. SCC has been accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools since 1969.

Woman Who Fled Husband's Abuse Says 'Don't Go Back'

DEAR ABBY: In March I read a letter in your column from a parent whose daughter had actually been beaten to death by her boyfriend.

I am enclosing photos of myself following the brutal beating I received from my husband of 11½ years. It was the first time he had physically harmed me, although he had threatened me with a knife several times. These last five years I lived in terror of him, but didn't know how to get away without getting myself and my three children killed.

The assault occurred in a public place at 3:30 p.m. I asked him to meet me there because I was going to tell him I was leaving him, and I thought it would be safe. I was wrong. He nearly killed me. In addition to severe body pummeling, I suffered a broken nose, a blow-out fracture of my right cheek, severe eye damage, broken teeth, contusions and numerous hematomas on my head, which became swollen three times its normal size!

Your advice, to file charges and run as though your life depended on it, was good.

I ran to a shelter provided by the Women's Advocates — a rape crisis and intervention group. I also pressed charges. He was sentenced to an indefinite term not to exceed 10 years. He must serve 120 days at a correction facility, where he will be evaluated; then there's a possibility that he will be released.

He offered to give me everything I wanted in the divorce if I would drop the charges against him. I refused. I am glad I stood my ground because now it has been publicly validated that wife beating is unacceptable.

Abby, you have my permission to use my name and publish these pictures. Do whatever is necessary to let women everywhere know that they do not have to tolerate physical abuse! Urge them to contact the Women's Advocates or other local crisis intervention groups.

Don't back off, and above all, never go back!

RAE BRENNAN, AMERICAN FALLS, IDAHO

DEAR RAE: I cannot publish your pictures, but I can tell you that I and my staff were horrified by them. The damage to your face and body defies description.

Thank you for sharing your story and reinforcing my advice to "run from an abusive mate as though your life depended on it — because it does."

Now, a word to all girls: Under no circumstances should you tolerate a rough shove, a punch, a slap, a twisted arm or any kind of physical abuse from a boyfriend. It's a clear signal that his uncontrolled anger could eventually escalate into more severe punishment.

Most women remain in abusive relationships because they are financially dependent. So, girls, complete your education — learn a trade or a profession so you can support yourselves and will never be forced to tolerate abuse because you can't afford to leave.

DEAR ABBY: I am a mature, intelligent, sensitive woman of 33. I am also a woman who has been approached by total strangers who say, "My, but you have a pretty face." (I know I have a pretty face.)

The message is obvious. What they don't say is, "Too bad you're so fat — why don't you do something about it?"

Well, I know I am fat. And I have tried to "do something" about it all my life, and I am sick of it. I am not lazy. I am active, healthy and I eat more sugar and fat than I can metabolize, but eating is one of the joys of living.

I am single by choice and by no means am I lonely or man-hungry. I am satisfied with myself the way I am, and need to know what to say to strangers who walk up to me and tell me what a pretty face I have.

FAT AND SASSY
DEAR FAT: Say, "Thank you."

Beauties And Beasts Dunk To Benefit Deaf And Blind Kids

Macho men and bathing beauties will get dunked to raise money for the Jake-Allen Center for Deaf-Blind Children, Zellwood, on June 21-22 and June 28-29 in the Flea World dunk tank.

The muscle men are from Health Connection in Altamonte Springs, and the models from Barbizon School of Modeling. The macho men will take the dunk tank perch the first weekend, June 21-22, and the models will do the same on June 28-29.

The Jake Allen Center for Deaf-Blind Children is a residential learning center for children who are multi-sensory impaired. Susie and Mike Allen founded the center two years ago and named it after their first born son, Jake, who is without hearing and vision. The Jake Allen Center is also the base for outreach programs for deaf-blind children all over the state of Florida.

Aashiah Gahandi, Lake Mary, is a resident of the Jake-Allen Center for Deaf-Blind Children. Every morning he does his morning stretches with help of Nancy Barrett, his intervenor.

The dunk tank action starts at 9:30 each day as part of the Great Dunk Tank Extravaganza on Flea World's Aisle B. Flea World is located on Highway 17-92 between Orlando and Sanford. There is no admission or parking charge.

No Estrogen Cream To Combat Facial Hair

DEAR DR. GOTT — My father, 73, has been taking Cardilate for 15 years. For five years, he also has taken a medication to dilate his blood vessels. Is it possible for these medicines to be taken in a way that bypasses the stomach?

DEAR DR. GOTT — Cardilate belongs to the class of nitrate drugs used to treat angina; it is not reported to cause chronic stomach problems. A blood-vessel dilating drug may cause upset stomach, however, so you might want to check with your father's doctor about this.

Nitrates are available as dermal patches, chewable tablets and in sublingual forms, as well as in the standard tablet form. DEAR DR. GOTT — I tried to obtain estrogen-containing cream to combat facial hair. The pharmacist in my local drugstore had never heard of it. Is it sold over-the-counter or by prescription?

DEAR DR. GOTT — Neither. Your pharmacist is correct. To my knowledge, no reputable drug company manufactures estrogen cream to combat facial hair. Estrogen cream for vaginal use is available by prescription and should be administered under medical supervision. Beware of unscrupulous con men who advertise hormone creams to do this and that. The products are fraudulent.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I eat ice all the time, four to five trays a day. I'm 42, 135 pounds, female, don't smoke and am happily married. I picked up the ice habit about two years ago. Will this cause any harm to my esophagus or stomach? Does it indicate the presence of a more serious problem, like iron deficiency or cancer?

DEAR DR. GOTT — Some people enjoy crunching on an ice cube now and then, but five trays a day seems to be excessive. Your ice eating may be taking on the form of a compulsion. Pica is a condition characterized by a compulsive craving to eat certain non-food items, such as laundry starch, clay, dirt, chalk or ice. Pica may coexist with a dietary deficiency.

so I urge you to see your doctor for a complete examination — and make sure you mention the ice habit.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I'm an elderly lady who used to have to put an extra blanket on her feet at night. Now they get so hot — day and night — that I have to run cool water over them.

What's going on?
DEAR READER — You may be suffering from either a circulatory abnormality or from a nerve malfunction called neuropathy. See a doctor for a thorough evaluation.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
Have you watched tennis lately? A rally ends with either a winning shot or an error. In today's deal, did the defender hit a winner or did declarer make an error?

South grabbed East's diamond king with his ace and led the spade queen. Since East was in no hurry to take that trick, he allowed the queen to win. A second spade was played to the 10, and now East won his jack. He led a heart, which was ducked to West's queen, and another heart was played to the jack and king. South let East's king hold that trick. Although one more heart played would give declarer the chance to put in the nine for his ninth trick, East was having none of that. He returned a club. Try as he might,

South could not find a way to take more than eight tricks.

Yes, East made a nice play when he held off taking the spade ace, but it was the declarer who had a chance to hit a winner but missed the ball instead. At trick two, South should have simply led a low spade from his hand and played low from dummy. East might win the jack and play hearts as before, but now declarer can win the second heart and overtake his spade queen with dummy's king, assuring enough tricks for the contract. And if East allows that small spade played from dummy at trick two to win the trick, declarer simply plays a low spade right back to his queen, assuring the ninth trick whether or not the defender ducks again.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY JUNE 10, 1986

A stronger and more independent you will emerge in the year ahead. You will now fend for yourself in situations where you used to rely on others. You'll perform better in the process.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) In a commercial situation today, you may feel you're the giver and the other guy is the taker. Your counterpart will hold the same view. Strangely enough, each could be right. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker set instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, Box 1846, Cincinnati, OH 45201.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your competition might try to litter your path with obstacles today. But if you keep a cool head, you can push the debris aside and come out the victor.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You won't get much sympathy today if you paint yourself into a corner and then try to blame another while the dripping brush is still in your hand.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) In competitive involvements with friends today, the score mustn't take precedence over the relationship. If you lose, go down with dignity.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your ambitions can be fulfilled today, provided what you hope to gain for yourself will also be shared with others. Selfish aims will be thwarted.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You'll be lucky in competitive situations today. But if you lord your win over others, they'll do all they can to turn your victory into a humbling experience.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Straightening out complications for others is your cup of tea today. But you might not get a passing grade for managing your own affairs.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) In your personal relationships today, you will be the one who sets the mode of behavior. People you treat kindly will be good to you in return.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) It's imperative to protect your career interests today. If you don't, someone might try to claim rewards that you have earned.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Make haste slowly where your new romance is concerned. Only time will tell if this person is all that he or she appears to be.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Authority figures who toss their weight around will be disdainful to you today. Be careful you don't use the same tactics when dealing with those in your charge.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If your ego is permitted to enter the picture today when discussing something with a pal, you might feel impelled to use a burst of anger to cover up your lack of knowledge.

Tobacco Trial Focuses On Youth-Directed Ads

By Beth Powell
OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Attorneys for a woman whose snuff-using son died of cancer plan this week to finish testimony aimed at proving that U.S. Tobacco Co. enticed young people to buy dangerous products that could have been made safer.

U.S. Tobacco attracted young users through advertisements that featured athletes who appeal to young people and by giving them free snuff samples in a calculated plan to create loyal — addicted — customers for life, attorneys say.

The attorneys contend that those methods led to the tongue cancer that killed Sean Marsee in 1984. The youth's mother, Betty Marsee of Ada, Okla., who filed the $147 million product liability lawsuit against U.S. Tobacco, said her son used the company's Copenhagen brand snuff for six years before his death.

Advertising is a key part of the trial, which also has included technical testimony about the relationship between snuff and the type of mouth cancer that killed Marsee.

nicotine to create addiction to snuff.

The company used a "graduation process," which consists of starting customers on weak brands of snuff and graduating them to the strongest brand, Henningfield said. The same method, he said, is used in the laboratory to create and study addiction in animals.

Marsee's attorneys also have presented a series of commercials featuring former Dallas Cowboys football player Walt Garrison and other athletes who say such things as "I think going smokeless is the only way to go" and recommend snuff "for real tobacco pleasure without lighting up."

They also brought to court snuff users who told the federal court jury that U.S. Tobacco gave them free samples through the mail and at rodeos when they were 12 and 13 years old.

U.S. Tobacco attorneys have countered that the advertising claims do not apply to Marsee because he never used the products featured in the ads. He started with chewing tobacco manufactured by another company and then began using U.S. Tobacco's Copenhagen brand snuff.

Testimony showed that Marsee did not use Skoal and Happy Days, which were described by Henningfield as U.S. Tobacco's starter products.

Henningfield, who contributed to the recent surgeon general's report on health hazards of smokeless tobacco, said he learned about the company's methods by reviewing U.S. Tobacco memos.

The graduation process works so well, attorney George Braly contends, that Copenhagen — U.S. Tobacco's strongest brand — does not need to be advertised extensively.

He says company officials know that as users become addicted they will want more nicotine and turn to Copenhagen because — as one poster promises — "it satisfies," meaning, Henningfield explained, that it supplies more nicotine.

Jurors also were allowed to watch a high school driver's education film produced by U.S. Tobacco as a public service.

The film featured professional auto racer Harry Gant, who drives a car called the Skoal Bandit and appears in Skoal commercials.

Braly said the film is one method the company used to reach people under the age of 18.

U.S. Tobacco attorneys said the film was produced as a public service and is not an advertisement.

Fears That Southern Baptists' Meeting Could Become 'Armageddon In Atlanta'

By David E. Anderson
UPI Religion Writer
ATLANTA (UPI) — Some Southern Baptists are calling this week's annual meeting of the nation's largest Protestant denomination "Armageddon in Atlanta" — the final pitched battle in an epic struggle between fundamentalists and moderates for control of the denomination.

It is a decade-long battle with roots in theological issues and repercussions in the secular world of politics and its outcome could alter the historic shape of the 14.4 million-member denomination and determine the church's image and identity until well into the next century.

The focus for the 45,000 to 50,000 delegates, known as messengers, expected to gather in Atlanta for the June 10-12 meeting will be — as it has been since 1976 — on the election of a president.

Each of the feuding factions in the church has as its candidate a popular and prominent Southern Baptist personality.

Representing the fundamentalists will be the Rev. Adrian Rogers, pastor of Bellevue Baptist Church, Memphis, Tenn., a one-term president in 1979-80 who declined the traditional second one-year term.

Opposing Rogers on behalf of the moderates will be the Rev. Winifred Moore, Amarillo, Texas, currently first vice president of the body who lost a bid last year to unseat the incumbent, the Rev. Charles Stanley of Atlanta.

Although the power of the presidency is sharply limited by the denomination's historic stress on the conscience of the individual believer and the almost absolute autonomy of the local congregation, the president does hold one key appointive power that can determine the shape of the denomination: the 54-member Committee on Committees.

The Committee on Committees then nominates two persons from each of the 27 state conventions to serve on the Committee on Boards, which in turn, nominates persons to serve on the denomination's 26 national boards, commissions, agencies and seminaries.

Moderates, while insisting the Bible is the inspired word of God, are more open to the use of modern critical tools and more willing to allow individual Baptists in conscience to reach their own interpretative conclusion.

The battle, often marked by flamboyant rhetoric, charges of heresy and overt and covert political organizing and campaigning in a secular fashion, reached such a fever pitch that last year's meeting in Dallas approved appointment of a 22-member "peace committee" to probe the causes of controversy and recommend possible solutions.

The peace committee will make a report to the Atlanta meeting. While it has adopted statements on the theological diversity in the church and a statement on political activity, with recommendations. It is unclear whether the committee has arrived at any breakthrough solutions that would bring a truce.

The committee, made up of representatives from both sides of the dispute, immediately issued a call for the factions to "cool" their rhetoric and end the overt politicking. While the last year has seen more temperate language and the politicking more covert, it has not slowed the fundamentalist campaign.

For some observers within the denomination, that has created an edge for the fundamentalists going into the Atlanta meeting.

Most of the critical controversy should be packed into Tuesday's opening session, which will see the election of the president, the election of the nominated Committee on Boards and a proposed change in the convention's By-law 16 to allow a one-by-one challenge to nominations for the Committee on Boards.

Last year, a controversial interpretation of the by-law by Stanley — a leader of the fundamentalist forces — led to pandemonium during the meeting and the subsequent filing of a federal suit charging the convention had violated the rights of messengers.

A federal judge later ruled the court did not have jurisdiction.

Probing The Depths For Education

HONOLULU (UPI) — Laura Mae Duffy says she has no apprehension about descending 1,000 feet into the ocean near Hawaii in a mini-sub on a trip that organizers say will make her America's first "teacher in inner space."

"I'm a diver," said the science teacher, who is single. "In fact, I find myself a lot calmer under water."

Duffy plans to climb into a tiny submersible Monday and become what is believed to be the nation's first classroom teacher to make a deep-ocean dive.

The two-person submersible Makali'i will carry Duffy and a pilot to go down to 1,000 feet to study precious coral beds off the southeastern tip of Oahu.

The "Teacher in Inner Space" project, patterned after NASA's teacher-in-space program, is intended to focus attention on the oceans around Hawaii as a resource for teachers and a career opportunity for students.

"It's the first time I'll ever have made a dive and been dry," Duffy said. "In fact, I have to wear socks because the hull gets a little cool."

Once inside the steel-hulled 5-ton submersible, which has about the same amount of space as the front section of a compact car, Duffy will play a role in the research operations as well as act as her students' eyes and ears.

She will watch through three small portholes to describe the marine environment and narrate the operations of the sub for the benefit of students who will view a videotape of the dive later.

Duffy also will tell the pilot where to move the sub's robot arm and what samples to pick up and place into a collecting basket for later use in student projects and scientific research.

Organizers say that if Monday is a sunny day, Duffy will be able to see the twilight world of the pink coral beds off the Hawaiian islands.

When fish or other objects come into view during the half-day dive, the Makali'i's powerful searchlight will be turned on.

"I'm really excited about looking for the animals," Duffy said. "I know there's an octopus

Chopper Crash Probe Continues

SUTTON, Mass. (UPI) — The crew of a helicopter hired for Jordan's King Hussein did not indicate any problems before the chopper crashed Friday in the fog and rain of central Massachusetts, killing all four crewmembers, a federal investigator says.

Dennis Jones, a National Transportation Safety Board investigator, said Sunday he heard all the tower recordings pertaining to the crash and talked with other pilots in the area.

The Sikorsky Aircraft helicopter was one of four placed at the disposal of Hussein.

Hussein To Meet Reagan For Peace Initiative Discussion

King Hussein of Jordan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan, long frustrated by the political deadlock in the Middle East, has scheduled a meeting today with King Hussein of Jordan, considered a key player in any peace negotiations.

Hussein, on an otherwise private visit to the United States to attend the high school graduations of his twin daughters and undergo a physical checkup, was expected to review the peace process and U.S.-Jordanian relations.

The hourlong meeting was to be his first with Reagan since the February collapse of a yearlong effort by Hussein to develop a joint framework with Palestine Liberation Organization Chairman Yasser Arafat for peace talks with Israel.

Long regarded by the administration as a central figure in any peace negotiations, Hussein in recent months has concentrated instead on issues of Arab unity, including his own relations with Syria, as U.S. officials have worked to remove a territorial dispute between Egypt and Israel as one of the most major stumbling blocks to restarting of the peace process.

En route to the United States, French officials said Hussein told French President Francois Mitterrand in Paris that he was "personally optimistic" about the prospects for easing tensions in the Arab world intensified by the Iran-Iraq war.

While the administration expects no dramatic results from Hussein's discussions with Reagan, or Vice President George Bush or other officials during his visit, which includes a trip Thursday to Capitol Hill, his visit, however, could influence the next steps the United States takes in the Middle East.

Since the breakdown of the Hussein-Arafat initiative, that involvement has been limited and kept to a low profile.

In the last several weeks, however, there has been speculation — played down by the State Department — of a possible diplomatic mission to the region by Secretary of State George Shultz.

In addition, Bush is scheduled to make a trip in late July and U.S. officials are awaiting a final decision — and possibly a signal from Hussein — on whether Jordan will be on the itinerary along with Israel and Egypt.

The U.S. role in the Middle East was at the heart of a razor-thin vote by the Senate last week to uphold a $265-million sale of missiles to Saudi Arabia that Reagan portrayed as critical to American credibility among moderate Arab states like Jordan. Last fall, under pressure from Congress, Reagan shelved a proposal to sell Jordan $1.5 billion to $1.9 billion worth of warplanes, missiles and other U.S. weaponry.

Congress barred any such sale of arms to Jordan until March 1 of this year unless Hussein opened direct peace talks with Israel. Although Hussein compared the move to "blackmail," the deal was put on hold to avoid the same type of foreign policy embarrassment Reagan narrowly escaped on the Saudi arms deal.

Members of VIP United Way Luncheon Entertained By Kids They've Assisted

By Jane Casselberry Herald Staff Writer

Five children singing God Bless America entertained members of a United Way VIP luncheon Thursday in Altamonte Springs and showed those attending how involvement in community programs affects their lives.

Sue Vanice, director of education at Sanford Child Care, introduced the five Sanford children from Community Coordinated Child Care, an agency of the United Way of Seminole County. The children included Mario Madison, Chanthara Saysavanh, Jennifer Angle, Miguel Torres and Trivianna Graham.

They have been chosen to represent the children benefited by the 4-C program and will be featured in this year's United Way campaign and promotional literature. The multi-racial group of children was inspired by the United Way's national poster, which features a black girl, an oriental boy and a white girl.

The 4-C program provides day care for children from low-income families enabling parents to work rather than stay on welfare. Twenty-one centers are currently serving Seminole County children through 4-C's.

As the nearly 100 county business executives attending the luncheon sat down after the Pledge to the Flag, they heard the voices of the children singing the well-known song and the adults joined in. Later, Trivianna entertained the group with a song in Spanish.

Richard Anderson, president of Barnett Bank of Central Florida NA, sponsor of the luncheon, was guest speaker.

Seminole United Way President John Knapp explained how the executives can involve their companies in the United Way campaign by allowing payroll deductions, having in-house campaigns, and corporate gifts.

Al Stimac, 1986 campaign chairman, presented a campaign film featuring John Denver.

This was the second year the motivational VIP lunch has been held. Attendance totaled 102 as compared to 74 last year, according to a United Way spokesman.

S. African Squatters Riot, One Dead

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (UPI) — Thousands of rival conservative and radical blacks fought today in the strife-torn Crossroads squatter camp, torching dozens of shanties, burning a relief center and leaving hundreds homeless. At least one person was killed.

Residents said dozens of shanties were set afire in the radical-controlled section of Crossroads, a muddy settlement of wood, tin and plastic shelters 10 miles from Capetown. Forty-four people were killed, hundreds injured and 30,000 left homeless at Crossroads during a weeklong battle for control of the camp last month.

A police officer on the scene said at least one person died in the renewed fighting but residents said the death toll already was higher.

Five Red Cross workers who were taken hostage by radicals in the early stages of today's fighting managed to escape, witnesses said, but relief agencies ordered all their workers to leave immediately.

Estimates of the size of the two factions varied but police said about 11,000 men were involved in the fighting.

Witnesses said thousands of young radicals, known as the "comrades," squared off against conservative fathers, calling themselves "the fathers" or the "wildoekie," on the southern edge of the original Crossroads camp early today.

The conservatives back the government's policy of moving new squatters to the camp to a black township 10 miles away. The conservatives contend the settlement is overcrowded and have refused to allow those who have been made homeless to rebuild their shanties at Crossroads.

Witnesses said supporters of the conservatives arrived at Crossroads from a nearby township in buses, cars and taxis to join the battle.

Police had tried to separate the two forces with a line of armored trucks but an officer on the scene said the conservatives broke through their line to attack radicals in the Zolani refugee center.

They said tents and buildings used to house more than 2,000 of the homeless were destroyed in the attack. Police also said the burned buildings included a major relief center.

About 3,000 shanties were torched in last month's battle, which ended May 16, all of them in the newer, radical-controlled sections of the settlement.

The radicals, living in community halls, tents and out in the open have rejected pressure from the government and from the conservative squatters to move about 10 miles further from the city to the new township of Khayelitsha.

Relief agencies, partly funded by donations from the American, British and West German governments, have refused to cooperate with the government in pressuring the refugees to move to Khayelitsha.

The new violence came after weekend unrest raged in at least 30 black townships across the country, killing at least 24 people.

More than 1,600 blacks have been killed since black unrest erupted in September 1984 to protest apartheid — the white minority government's policies of racial separation.

Officials said Sunday a parliamentary committee would meet early this week to reconsider two bills that could give Law and Order Minister Louis Le Grange sweeping new security powers.

One of the proposed laws would give Le Grange the right to declare an emergency in any "unrest area."

You Can Sip Soviet Water, But Don't Kick Up The Dust

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet health officials have declared the Dnieper River safe for boating, fishing, swimming and drinking but warned sunbathers at river-side beaches against doing anything to stir up dust, citing the possibility of radiation contamination.

Yuri Izrael, chairman of the state committee for monitoring the environment, said tests taken on fish caught in the Dnieper River, whose tributaries flow past the damaged Chernobyl reactor, showed "no traces" of higher radiation.

"Yes you can and should swim and fish, especially when the weather is so good," he told the Communist Party newspaper Pravda Sunday.

But health authorities warned people not to lie directly on the ground or play football and volleyball at riverside beaches to avoid contact with potentially contaminated dust.

Pravda said there was hourly monitoring of the water supply for the city of Kiev, 80 miles south of Chernobyl. The city of 2.5 million people takes its water from reservoirs supplied by the Dnieper, which winds its way through the Ukraine to the Black Sea.

Radio Moscow said health authorities have issued assurances that all Black Sea summer resorts, which cater to millions of Russians, are free of contamination.

The radio said work to entomb the Chernobyl reactor was continuing and that workers involved in the decontamination work have been offered pay raises to compensate for the danger. No details of the pay raises were announced.

Soviet officials said 26 people have died as a result of the April 26 accident at the Chernobyl nuclear power plant, which sent a radioactive cloud floating across parts of the eastern Soviet Union and western Europe.

On Saturday, Ukrainian health officials said the beaches on the Dnieper river were safe to use but advised beachgoers not to kick up dust or lie directly on the ground.

Beaches along the river are generally dust and grass slopes rather than sand beaches.

"It is not recommended to play football and volleyball on the beaches at the moment, because the dust is kicked up during the playing," the evening newspaper Isvestia said Saturday.

"One more thing — it is recommended to eat on the beaches only in special places, also observing the rules of hygiene," Isvestia said.

The newspaper also said the water supply for Kiev was, at present, safe, but that deep wells were being dug in case of contamination. Soviet officials have warned that heavy rains could cause a runoff of contaminated soil into the Dnieper and eventually into the water reservoirs feeding Kiev.
