

Dealing With Bad Swelling Problem

DEAR DR. LAMB — About three years ago my doctor discovered that I have lymphedema and said it had been coming on for many years. This has affected both my legs and my feet. I was finding it more and more difficult to walk. All he prescribed was to lose some weight and to wear measured elastic leotards at all times. I went to an orthopedic surgeon who performed a bunionectomy two months ago. He said he never saw legs that were so badly swollen. In his opinion I should be taking pills for the water, although my doctor won't prescribe them for me. What causes this condition and is there a cure?

DEAR READER — Although lymphedema is simply tissue swelling, it is a fairly complex problem. Most people don't know that in addition to the arteries, veins and the capillaries that connect them there is still another system of circulation. That is the lymphatic system. These tiny little vessels are throughout your entire body. Fluid leaves the capillaries in your circulation to go out and bathe tissues. A good part of it is returned to the circulation through this enormous lymphatic system. These are little tiny channels which are very thin walled. The fluid oozes into them and is gradually collected and returned to the circulation. Whenever these channels are blocked for any reason the fluid begins to back up behind them and produce swelling. This can even occur after surgery or an injury when the lymphatic system is damaged. That's why swelling may be prolonged for months after a fracture or surgery. The lymphatic channels have been cut during surgery. You can hardly make an incision anywhere on the body without cutting through the lymphatic system. The doctors could do to avoid that problem.

Another important factor in posture. You can help prevent swelling of your feet with the problem that you have by lying down and putting the feet above the heart level. You might get a little benefit by taking water pills to cause you to eliminate sodium and water. But because the problem lies in the mechanical mechanism of the lymphatic channel, merely dehydrating your body is not going to solve the problem. That may be why your primary physician has not suggested them to you. You might be wise to limit your salt intake.

YOUR BIRTHDAY

June 23, 1978

Joint ventures proposed to you this coming year by reliable persons will be worthy of a second look. One could be a real winner.

LEAD July 23-Aug. 22: Serious business agreements should not be concluded on a handshake or verbal commitment today. For everyone's sake, put everything in writing.

VIRGO Aug. 23-Sept. 22: There is a strong possibility today that you will underestimate the worth of your services or expertise. If you do, you'll be rewarded accordingly.

LIBRA Sept. 23-Oct. 23: Business and pleasure mix like oil and water today. Don't try to push any transactions on potential prospects you're mingling with socially.

SCORPIO Oct. 24-Nov. 22: Leave well enough alone today, or you may disrupt something that's presently working to your advantage. Erratic changes could be counterproductive.

SAGITTARIUS Nov. 23-Dec. 21: If you find your best interests today to talk about things you hope will happen as if they already have. Should something go awry later, you'd feel foolish.

CAPRICORN Dec. 22-Jan. 19: Left to your own devices, you're quite capable today in situations where you could turn a profit. Matters there where partners are involved are another story.

AQUARIUS Jan. 20-Feb. 19: Do nothing today in opposition to your high standards and ideals. Trying to pull a fast one could severely damage your reputation.

PISCES Feb. 20-March 20: Success is likely today if you maintain a low profile. In instances, where you seek the spotlight, you're not apt to get rave reviews.

ARIES March 21-April 19: A close companion may have some domestic difficulties today and put you in the awkward position of taking sides. Be wise. Hermin stand.

TAURUS April 20-May 10: Praise isn't all that important, but today a coworker might try to take away something you've achieved. Let the boss know you had a hand in it.

GEMINI May 21-June 20: In most situations your logic prevails today, and you do the woman's job. Your grades aren't so nifty in managing your personal resources, however.

Trash collections at residences and businesses in South Seminole County should not be hampered by problems at the Sandhills transfer station, according to Public Works Director Jack Schuder. In recent months, delays at the transfer station have prompted some local haulers to send trucks to other facilities, according to Schuder. Notice of equipment failures are posted at the entrance to the Sandhills facility along with the estimated time the operation will be back in service, according to Schuder. In addition, the conditions at the other transfer stations are also posted at Sandhills.

"They can check there at Sandhills and get a reading there as to what those facilities (Upsala and Oviedo) are doing," suggested Schuder.

Most refuse haulers do not want to send trucks to the other facilities, according to Schuder, because it takes extra time and money.

"We do have a problem," admitted Schuder. "I'm not trying to minimize it. Most of it is from the maintenance of equipment. The second complication is the increase in waste."

Mechanical equipment failure due to age and vandalism have long been a problem at Sandhills.

The county maintains a landfill in Oviedo and two other transfer stations in Upsala and Oviedo where commercial and city trash haulers are allowed to dispose of refuse.

Many haulers have complained that equipment problems at the Sandhills facility have cost them valuable time waiting to dump the refuse they have collected.

Schuder maintains the landfill is unnecessary.

Defense Secretary Warns

'Conflict, Tensions: It's A Fact Of Life'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Defense Secretary Harold Brown today predicted "times and places where U.S. and Soviet policies will conflict and tensions will arise," but said there is no cause for undue alarm about expanding Soviet military strength.

Brown told the Commonwealth Club of California elements of both cooperation and cooperation in U.S.-Soviet relations — a theme of President Carter's recent Annapolis speech — will continue for the foreseeable future.

"It is regrettable and it is not the way we would like the relationship to proceed," said Brown. "But it is a fact of modern life."

The secretary reviewed U.S. defense policies, noting that they have been set in a world in which "we have grown vulnerable to nuclear attack and dependent on others for our economic well-being."

At the same time, however, he said "the Soviet Union is not militarily stronger than the United States" and that U.S. military power and determination as a competitor "will strongly influence Soviet behavior."

Defense sources said Brown's carefully worded speech was drafted with recent charges of incoherence and inconsistency in administration foreign policy statements in mind, and was part of the effort spearheaded by Secretary of State Cyrus Vance to present a more measured view of administration policy.

In strategic policy, the defense secretary said that in the foreseeable future more powerful Soviet nuclear weapons could conceivably eliminate most U.S. intercontinental missiles in a first strike.

Despite this, he said U.S. nuclear retaliatory power — "scheduled to grow" — is large enough now that "it is difficult to see how the Soviets could gain any meaningful advantage from starting such a mortal exchange."

Lake Mary Fires Aide: 'Favoritism'

By LEONARD KRANSDFOR
Herald Staff Writer

Lake Mary City Council's Thursday night vote to fire Building and Zoning Administrator Francis Jenior may face legal obstacles.

The high lies in whether the council can fire Jenior without a formal public hearing. Both sides agree the city attorney will have to make the final determination.

In making the motion for dismissal, Councilman Pat Southward said Jenior did not display a "problem-solving attitude but a problem-creating approach."

Jenior, 65, who has served the city since May 1974 was not at the meeting, but said this morning he had not decided what to do about the council decision.

He added that he was unaware of the accusations and would have to listen to the tape of the meeting.

Clint City Ordinance Number One, Jenior added that he did not believe he could be fired without a public hearing.

The ordinance of August of 1973 "adopts the standards of the Southern Standard Building Code for construction of structures within Lake Mary."

The one section of the building code which refers to the building administrator says, "he shall not be removed from office except for cause after full opportunity has been given him to be heard on specific charges before such chief appointing authority."

City Clerk Sig Pearson noted that the city attorney will have to decide whether the particular section relating to the building administrator was included when the city adopted the ordinance.

Mrs. Southward agreed and added that she would have "no objection to having a public hearing. My only objection," she added, "would be going through my entire monolog like I did last night but if that's what is required, I'll do it again."

If the decision is upheld, the next concern for the city is hiring a replacement for Jenior, according to Councilman Cliff Nelson who serves as Jenior's boss.

Nelson cast the lone dissenting vote for the dismissal while Mrs. Southward, Dr. Bert Perincheff, Lillian Griffin, and Harry Terry voted for it.

Currently there is a part-time employee, Vince Butler, who is assisting Jenior, said Nelson. Nelson added, "Vince can step right in and do the job if he wants to work full-time."

Nelson added that, even if Butler decided to work until the city finds a permanent replacement, it will be beneficial.

"I will be talking with Vince later this morning, but if he decides to work we will not have to look so hastily for a replacement," Nelson said.

At the Thursday night meeting Mrs. Southward noted that she "perceived favoritism on Francis' part, and I don't think there should be any time of favoritism."

Mrs. Southward also said, "it is unusual when he puts in a full day's work."

The one area of favoritism Mrs. Southward cited was Jenior's help to the Nice Day Care Nursery.

The center had wanted to open in a commercially zoned area. According to Mrs. Southward, Jenior helped to get the center established only to have his efforts rebuffed later by City Attorney Gary Massey because of zoning.

Jacqueline McCarran Dancy is being held in Biloxi, Miss., for the New Year's Eve shotgun and strangulation murder of her husband, Coast Guardman Edward Dancy.

Mrs. Dancy was taken into custody for questioning just before midnight Thursday by a detective for the Biloxi Police Department.

The detective had been alerted by the Seminole County Sheriff's Department as part of a nationwide alert. Mrs. Dancy had previously stayed in the Biloxi area.

The detective, according to Sheriff's Department spokesman John Spolski, spotted Mrs. Dancy's picture among the identification cards required for persons working in Biloxi.

Mrs. Dancy was employed as a dancer for a Go-Go club where she was taken into custody. Spolski said Mrs. Dancy, a karate expert, offered no resistance.

"She has refused to talk without an attorney," Spolski said. Detective Bob Simmons is already on his way to Biloxi to transport Mrs. Dancy back to Seminole County; however, an extradition hearing may be required, if Mrs. Dancy refuses to waive the court procedure.

Chief Deputy Duane Harrell said Mrs. Dancy had apparently been working in Biloxi since she left Seminole County in April.

A grand jury handed up two indictments in the murder of the 29-year-old Coast Guardman in April. Charged at that time with first-degree murder was Charles Ira Hackett, 24, of Fern Park and Longwood.

Police officials believe Mrs. Dancy and Hackett plotted to murder her husband for two motorcycles and $50,000 in insurance money.

In a handwritten confession Mrs. Dancy said she alone shot and strangled her husband and made it appear as if Hackett committed the murder. She said she has two living sons on my soul. I confess, I murdered my husband alone and in cold blood," the 39-year-old woman wrote.

The handwriting has been verified as Mrs. Dancy's by Ronald Dick of the Sanford Regional Crime Laboratory, according to court records.

Dancy's body, wrapped in a blanket with his hands and feet bound, was discovered by two men in a ditch at South Sanford Avenue, half mile south of Sanford.

Hackett is being held at the Seminole County jail. His trial was postponed for at least one month Monday at the request of the public defender.

Among the reasons the continuance was sought, according to records, was the defender's belief that Mrs. Dancy's testimony was crucial in the Hackett trial.

Hackett pleaded guilty to burglary charges in an unrelated case and has been sentenced to two years in prison.

The Dancys were living at 612 Prairie Lake Drive in Fern Park at the time of the murder. Dancy was stationed at Governors Island, N.Y., with the U.S. Coast Guard.

He returned to his Fern Park home at his wife's request to attend a birthday party for her Dec. 31, according to investigators.

He was murdered shortly after the party, investigators believe.

"Now I know I have a conscience and I cannot bear to have two lives weighing on my soul. I confess, I murdered my husband alone and in cold blood," the 39-year-old woman wrote.

Communications Reform

Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin, D-Calif., could put a capstone on his legislative career by seeing through to enactment a bill he introduced in Congress.

It would entirely revise the Federal Communications Act of 1934.

The time is right for such legislation. It will be a readjustment of all the special interests involved in the electronic communications industry.

But at all times the public interest must prevail.

Although Van Deerlin has been closely identified with the industry, as a former television newscaster and commentator, he has never lost sight of the interests of the ordinary viewers and listeners.

He is in a good position, as chairman of the Communications subcommittee of the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, to negotiate the best deal possible for the public.

It may be expected that the industry itself and the bureaucrats of the Federal Communications Commission will prove to be the most stubborn and effective proponents to reform.

The themes of the legislation Van Deerlin has drafted are deregulation, competition and modernization.

The FCC was originally modeled on the Interstate Commerce Commission, which was set up in 1887 to regulate common carriers.

But electronic communication is not transportation.

When words are involved, ideas are involved and the issue of free speech inevitably arises.

Cable television, satellite communications, computerized data transmissions — all these technological developments were not dreamed of in 1934.

The present act deals with them poorly, if at all.

Freedom and progress in communications demand congressional action to update the 1934 act.

Senatorial Integrity

The decision of the Senate Ethics Committee to probe the fuzzy financial dealings of two prominent senators is appropriate and welcome.

Under the chairmanship of Sen. Adlai Stevenson III, the committee has risen above its traditional reluctance to delve into the behind-the-scenes affairs of fellow members of the Senate "club."

The Illinois Democrat pledged to "look into all the allegations" involving Sen. Herman Talmadge, a Georgia Democrat, and Sen. Edward Brooke, Massachusetts Republican.

Talmadge has admitted accepting thousands of dollars in unreported "gifts" from constituents and other interests. Brooke has conceded in a Massachusetts probate court case that he misrepresented his liabilities in his divorce proceedings and in mandatory reports to the secretary of the Senate with attention centered upon a $49,000 loan.

The public deserves a full airing — and report. In Boston, Probate Judge Lawrence T. Perera said he was concerned over the question of "integrity" in the Brooke matter.

Senatorial integrity also is a concern of the American people.

By DORIS DIETRICH

Invasion. Or the right to privacy. On occasion, "Dear Abby" is bombarded with letters from irate citizens over the invasion of their privacy. Mail, door-to-door and telephone solicitations seem to seriously plague writers to the columnist. Abby takes personal offense to unsolicited callers of every type. She advocates not answering the doorbell or politely hanging up the telephone when it is one of those "junk calls."

It is understandable that the solicitors have to earn a living. But logic behind some of the calls is nothing more than sheer stupidity. Recently Mother Nature (with apologies to women's libber-er, the nature person) took command and knocked me flat for a few days in a battle for breath.

The telephone was but a few inches from a normally foggy head which medication had accelerated to a further degree of confusion and aches.

On one day, the phone rang seven times between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. — callers obviously reading a well-prepared sales pitch. I was offered everything from asbestos siding to a beauty treatment plan. I would not have been interested in any of the products had I been in the best of health.

A housewife could run herself ragged just answering junk calls during a day. And most of the products and plans on the sale block should be directed to the man of the house.

But the fellows get their share, too. Some of the sales people make their rounds, beginning around 5:30 p.m., and do a jam-up job of interrupting the dinner hour and favorite TV programs.

A few nights ago, the caller said he was from CBS in New York. He was conducting a national poll. I did tell him there were two adults in the house over 18. Then he asked to speak to the man of the house.

"He's taking a shower," I lied. And I would give him no further information. He said he would call in about an hour.

"It's your nickel," I snapped. He called. My husband cut him short with, "We're being entertained (we were watching the tube)." Could he call again the next night around 8? And the phone rang on schedule with the same pitch.

"Are you the same turkey who called last night?" I questioned.

"No, I'm a different one, but for the same purpose," he answered.

"Look, friend, you're spinning your wheels. We just don't give you info unless you can show the proper ID," I quipped.

The caller explained that I could check on the authenticity of the poll by returning a call to the number, he repeated.

I motioned by husband to get on the extension, thinking he would cut the caller short again.

Instead, Friend Husband answered questions for more than 20 minutes on every subject from the Carter administration to world affairs.

An opinion poll? Here's mine — just another junk call — while I was shampooing my hair. My husband will not answer a telephone.

Kemp: A Hot Property

WASHINGTON — Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., leading advocate of a massive slash in federal income taxes, has become one of the hot speakers on the rubber-chicken circuit since the adoption of Proposition 13 in California.

The 2 to 1 vote for a huge reduction in property taxes in the nation's largest state has spurred the tax revolt issue Kemp has been riding hard for the past year or so at the federal level.

"The rush was on even before Prop 13 and we're absolutely swamped now," said a Kemp scheduling assistant, who reports that the Buffalo Republican has already received speaking invitations as far ahead as next May.

Kemp is the principal author of a proposal to cut federal income taxes by 30 percent across the board over a three-year period, a plan which has been heartily embraced by the Republican Party both in Congress and nationally.

"His office is now receiving an average of 20 speaking invitations a week, not counting those in his home district, with about a quarter coming from GOP candidates seeking his help in this year's campaign."

Jeffrey Bell, the former Ronald Reagan speechwriter who upset Sen. Clifford Case in the New Jersey GOP primary the same day Californians approved Proposition 13, credited his victory in large measure to the Kemp tax proposal, which he touted throughout his campaign.

And in the 8th District of Georgia, where Rep. John J. Flynt, a Democrat, is retiring this year, Republican Newt Gingrich may now be moving in front of any of his potential Democratic foes as a result of the tax cut issue.

Kemp, who has his eye on the New York Senate seat now held by Republican liberal Jacob K. Javits and harbors grander ambitions as well, is relating his new-found fame.

"All three television networks called the morning after the California vote, and we just got through talking to Barbara Walters' producers. He's the great side said proudly one day last week. "It's just phenomenal."

Atlanta Mayor Maynard Jackson, in declining against challenging incumbent Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., this year, has not abandoned his senatorial ambitions entirely. Friends say Jackson will probably take on scandal-scared Sen. Herman Talmadge in 1980 if the four-term incumbent runs again.

Jackson ran again in Talmadge once before, in 1968, when he was a virtual unknown, garnering just 22 percent of the vote. If he should succeed in a second try, the Atlanta mayor could become the first black U.S. senator from the South in this century.

JACK ANDERSON

Ex-Health Aide In 'Californiagate'

WASHINGTON — A political corruption case in California, reminiscent of the Watergate scandal, has been covered up by worried state officials. But the cover-up, as in Watergate, is now starting to unravel.

The story began back in 1974 when Earl Brian, with the active backing of then-Gov. Ronald Reagan, resigned as California's top health official to go into politics. The tall, castile Brian conducted a losing campaign to become the Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate.

A number of nursing home owners allegedly were pressured into contributing to Brian's campaign in exchange for paid favors and promises of future ones. They lobbied cash and furnished corporate contributions into the Brian treasury. The Senate Committee on Aging, according to a confidential committee memo, has tentatively found "some 20 possible violations of the federal election law."

Officials or officers of the 1974 U.S. Senate campaign of Earl Brian.

Yet this was discovered three years ago by two investigators for California's health department. Nurses higher-ups responded, however, by obscuring their jobs and ignoring their findings. Other state agencies also looked the other way.

Investigators say Gov. Jerry Brown's men continued to ignore the explosive evidence when Screaking was showing a lot of promise, not to mention other things, for a while there until abruptly cooled — possibly because the weather did.

Before that we were into cramming — record numbers of bodies forcing themselves into phone booths, Volkswagens and similar compact containers. And there are some among us who can recall all the way back to flagpole sitting and goldfish — if you'll pardon the expression —

It's been a little soft recently. Pet rocking never really got moving and after the initial flush from a writhing of glowing numbers, where's the thrill in digital watching?

But a phenomenon is developing in New York (the city obviously can't be all bad) that just might get us back in the maniacal groove again. It has to do with discotheques, with dancing as the least part of it.

Its focus at present is an establishment on the fringes of Manhattan's theater district called Studio 54, a converted theater which has become The Place to while away what remains of a night. Things don't really get moving until after midnight.

In addition to the usual heavy-on-the-decibels music and close-encounter lighting, Studio 54 features waters racing about in gym shorts, a frantically milling mob inside and, on good nights, even more milling outside.

Many feel called to The Place, but few are chosen to pass the zealously guarded rope at the door. Fame helps, but appearance is decisive.

Two attacks by St. Bernard's, "suggest that it's a relatively unknown breed may be a greater hazard than others," according to the study. Winkler said this suggestion was reinforced in a review of four attacks that occurred outside the time frame of his report.

Winkler said that in most of the cases the fatal bites by the dog were inflicted in the head and neck. "Death in these cases was attributed to massive hemorrhage or tracheal avulsion (separation)."

The study indicated that among the more significant factors associated with the fatal attacks was the victim's physical prowess. Except for a case involving a 17-year-old, all the victims were apparently incapable of offering effective defense against a sustained attack. Nine were children under seven years old and one was a 75-year-old woman.

"Dog owners should be made aware that physically incapacitated persons or small children are at some risk if left alone with dogs, especially the larger breeds," Winkler said. He said that while the stimuli that initiated the fatal attacks are not understood, "it appears that threatening behavior may be the most important single factor and should be avoided."

Mania Meccas On Move

It's been a little soft recently. Pet rocking never really got moving and after the initial flush from a writhing of glowing numbers, where's the thrill in digital watching?

But a phenomenon is developing in New York (the city obviously can't be all bad) that just might get us back in the maniacal groove again. It has to do with discotheques, with dancing as the least part of it.

Its focus at present is an establishment on the fringes of Manhattan's theater district called Studio 54, a converted theater which has become The Place to while away what remains of a night. Things don't really get moving until after midnight.

POLITICS IN BRIEF

Health Expert Rep. Rogers Shunning 13th House Term

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Paul Rogers, D-Fla., who has become an expert on health matters in his 12 terms in the House, has announced he will not seek re-election. Rogers, 57, said he had no firm plans after his term is up, but might return to law practice, or go into business, writing or teaching.

Rogers has been chairman of the House subcommittee on Health and the Environment for eight years. His subcommittee now is considering President Carter's hospital cost containment legislation.

Raps Eckerd 'Gimmick'

Lt. Gov. Jim Williams, vying for the Democratic nomination for governor, has labeled as just another political "gimmick" the reported invitation by Republican hopeful Jack Eckerd to Howard Jarvis and Dr. Milton Friedman to consult on the tax situation in Florida. Jarvis led the Proposition 13 fight in California; Friedman was a key proponent. Williams also has challenged Eckerd and his running mate — or any surrogate he names — to debate Florida tax policy and the state budget.

County GOP Blasts PSC Vote

The Republican Executive Committee of Seminole County has unanimously passed a resolution condemning the legislature's abolishment of the elected Public Service Commission in favor of an appointive body, and will spearhead a drive in Seminole County to obtain signatures of voters on a petition to place the issue on the November ballot, according to Republican Party Chairman Bill McCollum.

Tanzler: Poll Looks Good

Democratic Mayor Hans Tanzler of Jacksonville is elated with a poll just in that says registered Democrats who are familiar with all six major Democratic candidates for governor see in Tanzler the man most likely to defeat Republican Jack Eckerd in the Nov. general election. The poll, conducted in-house by volunteer research directors and Tanzler supporters who did the actual field survey work, was taken May 8 through May 26.

Reagan: 13 Tea Party

MIAMI (UPI) — Ronald Reagan predicts California's Proposition 13 is going to affect this country like the Boston Tea Party — it will spark a revolution.

Reagan, who said he's been riding high ever since the voters in California passed the controversial tax cut measure June 8th, told a news conference Thursday people all over the country are ready for some radical tax changes.

The former California governor said movements to cut taxes are already under way in 30 states and many politicians are jumping on the tax limitation bandwagon.

"I think it is an ideal whose time has come," he said.

The 67-year-old Reagan was in Miami to support Al Cardenas, who is running in the Republican congressional primary in Florida's 14th District.

Reagan lashed at "propaganda" arguments by anti-Proposition 13 forces that the measure will do irreparable harm to California because schools will be closed, policemen will be fired and government services will shrink.

"I don't know what the situation is going to be in 1980," the former movie actor said about the new conference. Reagan also hinted he might run for president once more and said the United States should be tougher in its response to Soviet and Cuban aggression in Africa.

ERA Dies In Illinois; Passing Hope Dim

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — The Illinois House has rejected the Equal Rights Amendment for the second time this month and apparently will not take up the controversial issue again, at least until the fall.

Despite last-minute pressure tactics and stalling by pro-ERA forces Thursday, the measure fell two votes short of the 107 needed on a 105-71 tally. It is technically alive because it was put on postponed consideration and can be called any time before a new General Assembly is seated in January.

Illinois is the last northern industrial state that has not ratified the proposed women's rights amendment to the Constitution. Three more states must ratify the amendment by March 22, 1979, unless Congress extends the deadline.

The previous ERA vote came June 7. It fell six votes shy of the necessary three-fifths majority. Supporters scheduled a vote several times but it was delayed a roll call because head counts indicated a vote would be too risky.

ERA supporters, surprised and confused by the loss, said they wanted to regroup before making any decisions. They have several options, including calling a vote again in the House before the scheduled adjournment June 30, introducing an ERA resolution in the Senate, or waiting until the General Assembly meets for its fall veto session.

Democratic House Leader Michael Madigan ruled out a vote before June 30. Asked when ERA might be revived, Madigan said, "Not during the spring session. Absolutely not."

Rep. Corneal Davis, a black Chicago Democrat sponsoring ERA, agreed. "You think I want to talk my heart out for nothing?" Davis asked. "For all I'm concerned, ERA is dead."

Leading ERA foe Phyllis Schlafly of Alton, who was in Arizona Thursday to raise money for anti-ERA legislative candidates, called the vote "a wonderful victory."

"We're winning. I think they lose votes every time they bring it up. Enough is enough. Doesn't the Legislature have anything else to do?"

ERA pressure this month from both sides was intense. Mrs. Schlafly this week accused the Carter administration of telling Chicago Mayor Michael Biardie to line up pro-ERA votes or lose federal money.

Gov. James R. Thompson, though hobbled by a bad back, spent part of his time this week trying to persuade lawmakers to vote for ERA. Lt. Gov. Dave O'Neal at the same time made calls to legislators asking them to vote against it. O'Neal later apologized for embarrassing Thompson.

Rice 'Misquote' Causes Stir

NEW YORK (UPI) — The subject is an ugly one, racism, and Jim Rice finds himself caught in the middle. On one hand, Rice comes out and says there is no racism on the Boston Red Sox today. On the other hand, he's quoted in the current edition of Sport Magazine as saying his progress with the Red Sox was not as rapid as it might've been had he been white instead of black. Rice's statements in the magazine are the result of a spring training interview in March. They couldn't have come out at a worse time as far as he and Red Sox officials are concerned because the club is riding along nicely on top in its division ... and no one wants to rock the boat at this point. Particularly on such a sensitive subject as racism. In the magazine piece, Rice, talking about Fred Lynn's winning a regular job ahead of him three years ago, says, "Race has to be a factor when Fred Lynn can hit .240 in the minors and I can hit .340 and he gets a starting job before I do."

In my personal experience with Jim Rice, I've found him to be honest and completely above-board. I believe he has no personal resentment toward Fred Lynn, nor Lynn against him. Occasionally there is a situation, or a rivalry if you like, as that between Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig, Mickey Vautier and Roger Maris and Hank Aaron and Rico Carty. Everybody likes to outdo the other fellow. Years from now, when they're in their 60s or 50s and get together at some Old-Timers Game, I'm sure Jim Rice and Fred Lynn will talk about the "old days" and have a good laugh over these stories now.

As Boston's designated hitter, Rice leads the American League in home runs and runs batted in and ranks in the top 10 among the circuit's hitters. In Boston Wednesday, Rice said he hadn't read the magazine article but he did have a prepared statement about the story. "I have the highest regard for (Manager) Don Zimmer, (part-owner and general manager) Haywood Sullivan and the entire Red Sox organization," Rice's statement said. "Furthermore, I've always been treated fairly by this organization. There may have been a time through the years when racism was an issue on this team. It certainly does not exist today."

Rice said he considered all his teammates his friends ... (and) he was "deeply hurt" by what he called his "alleged quote" which said he associated with Tiant and Hobson, but wouldn't call them friends. "I'm pretty sure I know what Jim Rice meant there, too. What he was trying to say, I believe, is certainly he's friendly with Tiant and Hobson but that basically he's a loner. Nothing wrong with that."

Rice is absolutely right when he suggests there was a time when the Red Sox were lily white. The first black player they ever brought up was Pumpsie Green, and that wasn't until 1959.

One thing I can't buy is that the Red Sox advanced Lynn more quickly than Rice because of the difference in their color. Both were brought up from Pawtucket late in 1974. Darrell Johnson, managing the Red Sox then, designated Lynn as his regular center fielder at the start of 1975 after Lynn hit .419 in 15 games for them at the tail end of the previous season.

Rice had better figure that Lynn at Pawtucket but batted only .269 in 24 games for the Red Sox at the end of the 1974 season. He started the 1975 season on the bench while Tony Conigliaro tried a comeback in left field, but Rice took over the regular job in June.

The entire situation, I feel, is placed in proper perspective by Larry Whitelide of the Boston Globe. Whitelide covers the Red Sox regularly and is one of the best baseball reporters in the country. The fact he's black is only incidental.

Bench, Morgan Still Out With Injuries

Reds One Back With 5-0 Win Over Giants

By United Press International The Cincinnati Reds are playing with two of their best players, Johnny Bench and Joe Morgan, sidelined with injuries, yet the club remains in close contention.

Led by George Foster and pitchers Bill Bonham and Manny Sarmiento, the Reds downed the division-leading San Francisco Giants, 5-0, Thursday night to move within one game of first place.

Foster drove in two runs with a pair of singles and Bonham and Sarmiento combined on a three-hitter in pacing the Reds to their second triumph in the three-game series with the Giants.

"If we keep winning, we'll be all right," Foster said. "We're starting to play good ball and we're close enough to keep the pressure on the Giants."

Bonham, now .81, gave up only two hits in 6 2/3 innings and Sarmiento took over in the seventh and allowed only one hit the rest of the way for his fourth save. Sarmiento also took over the NL lead in earned run average with 1.94.

(Cincinnati Manager) Sparky Anderson felt he had a better man to bring in, and I don't have any ego problems," Bonham said about being replaced by Sarmiento.

Martin's Job, Guidry Streak On Line

Late Yankee Rally Tops Tigers, 4-2

By United Press International

With Billy Martin's job and Ron Guidry's 11-game winning streak both in trouble Thursday night, the New York Yankees woke up with a ninth-inning rally to defeat the Detroit Tigers, 4-2.

Guidry, looking to tie a 49-year-old club record with his 12th straight victory, trailed, 1-

0, as a result of Ron LeFlore's leadoff homer in the first inning. But Reggie Jackson tied the game 1-1, hitting a Dave Ruzicka pitch into the rightfield stands with one out in the ninth for his 12th homer.

By the time the top of the inning was over, Lou Piniella stood in the go-ahead run off reliever John Hiller and Fred

Stanley and Roy White singled in insurance runs.

Rich Gossage, brought on after Guidry walked the leadoff man in the bottom of the inning, wild-pitched home a run but nailed down his 10th save and Guidry's 12th victory.

"That's the closest I've come to losing a game all year," said Guidry.

In the National League, it was Houston 4, Los Angeles 3; San Diego 2, Atlanta 0; Montreal 2, New York 0; Philadelphia 2, St. Louis 1, and Cincinnati 3, San Francisco 0.

Orlando 10, Brewers 2; Mike Flanagan, 11-4, won his 10th game since May 9 and Eddie Murray and Kiko Garcia drove in three runs each to lead Baltimore over Milwaukee for the Orioles' 10th triumph in the last 20 games.

Angels 4, Twins 2; Ken Landreux and Ron Jackson had back-to-back run-producing singles with two out in the 12th inning to give California its victory. Dave LaRoche, 6-3, worked two perfect innings for the victory.

Rangers 8, A's 2; "Bump" Wills' two-run triple triggered a three-run first inning against 18-year-old Mike Morgan that carried Texas over Oakland. Dock Ellis, 6-3, went seven innings and Morgan, 9-3, gave up six runs in 2 1/3 innings. Bob Stinson, who had homered earlier, doubled across the winning run as Seattle rallied for two runs in the top of the 10th to defeat Chicago. Reliever John Montague, 1-3, picked up the win.

Nancy's Secret? Prayer

HERSHEY, Pa. (UPI) — Nancy Lopez attributes her record-breaking golf game to confidence and prayer.

"I pray a lot. I really do," the 21-year-old rookie said before today's LPGA tournament.

"It makes me feel very confident. I believe in a lot of things and when I believe, I feel more powerful."

Last week, Lopez came from three strokes behind to win the $75,000 Classic in Rochester, N.Y. The victory — her fifth in a row and seventh this year — brought her winnings to $130,198.

She set a record for the most money won by a rookie on either the men's or women's tour and for the most consecutive victories on the women's tour.

Lopez is rated the favorite in the Hersey event, which will be played for the first time on the Hersey Country Club's challenging west course.

The $50,000 tournament attracted a field of only 69 pros, including only 10 of the top 20 money winners, even though the course is rated among the best the women will play this year.

It was the smallest field for any open tournament held so far this year.

The Hersey event and two others share the distinction of being the lowest-paying contests on a tour that features 17 tournaments with purses of more than $100,000.

Lopez is considered the favorite not only because of the small field but also because her long, accurate tee shots should help her tame the 6,000-yard Hersey West Course.

Chuck Barris: 'Game Show Wizard'

Chuck Barris is host and executive producer of "The Gong Show," Mondays through Fridays on NBC-TV. Longtime game-show producer Chuck Barris made his debut as star of his own show last summer, but it wasn't difficult getting the job. He hired himself.

Barris is co-creator, executive producer and now host of "The Gong Show."

Called "the game show wizard" by newspaper columnists, Barris also developed such series as "The Dating Game," "The Newlywed Game," "The New Treasure Hunt," "The Family Game" and "The Game Game."

In addition, "The Gong Show" last season spawned an extra added attraction called "The All-Star Gong Special," which enabled a large number of new viewers to see what all the excitement was about.

Barris was born in Philadelphia and educated at the University of Miami and Institute of Technology. At Drexel, he was on the All-East La Crosse Team.

In 1954, Chuck moved to New York, and a position in NBC-TV's management trainee program. He left, however, and took a job selling teleprinters. Finding that unsuccessful, he dipped into a variety of entertainment-oriented activities including the promotion of the 1957 Johanson-Patterson bout.

In 1959 he was hired by ABC-TV. During his time with the network he was Director of West Coast Daytime Television Programs. In May, 1965, he left ABC-TV to go out on his own.

It was then that he developed "The Dating Game," which was followed by the other shows. At one time he had 22 half-hours per week on the air.

"The Gong Show" is his most recent production and his first experience as a game show host.

Divorced, Chuck Barris has a 14-year-old daughter, Della.

Ready...Aim..They Fire Up History

John Greene of Casselberry is a 2nd lieutenant in the army reserve and like many other reservists he and other members of C company spend weekends conducting war games, firing their weapons and sharpening their military skills.

Unlike other reserve units, however, the uniforms worn by C company are hand-made, and look like something worn 100 years ago. Unit members also purchase their own weapons and the black powder they fire.

Unlike other reserve units, C company, 2nd Florida Infantry, Columbia Rifles, is a reserve unit of the Confederate States of America.

John Greene and 30 other Civil War buffs have formed a unit to preserve a part of history in memory of the Confederacy. They are also the largest Civil War re-enactment unit south of Virginia, claims Greene.

Dressed in replicas of uniforms worn by Southern forces, circa 1863, and trimmed with such authentic accessories as canteens and coat buttons, they meet with similar units throughout the United States to re-enact battles of the Civil War.

Whole families can participate, since women are allowed to be in the infantry as well as serving as nurses. Children can be flag-bearers, drummer boys, life players or powder monkeys in the artillery.

At the age of 16, they can enlist and carry a weapon loaded with blanks.

"There are probably 10,000 re-enactors, plus their families throughout the country," said Greene.

"With so many soldiers on the field, it is sometimes difficult to control all the attacking forces as a major re-enactment." The battles are scripted but it doesn't always work that way. At Gettysburg '77, we (the South) won."

Local members pride themselves as historians and have researched the original 2nd Florida Infantry which fought in many famous battles such as Manassas or Bull Run.

Serving with the Army on Northern Virginia, out of 1,500 original soldiers, only 36 were left at the surrender at Appomattox.

Modern day C company has marched in many local parades and has set up displays of civil war relics in area shopping centers.

Two mock skirmishes are planned for Sanford on the 4th of July along with a display of relics at the General S. Sanford Library Museum.

Volunteers are still being accepted and recruiting information can be had by calling John Greene at 404-723-Vanhees are also welcome — they hope to form a Northern sister unit "so we can have somebody to shoot at," Greene explains.

He Picks The Films Seen In 300 Midwest Theaters

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — Out there in Peoria and Pueblo and Kalamazoo — and that mythical town, Harper Valley — the folks just aren't going to see as many movies as they once did.

And the reason is that Hollywood is ignoring middle America.

That, anyhow, is the theory of one of middle America's most knowledgeable movie men, Phil Borack.

From his home base in Cincinnati, Borack heads one of the largest film booking and buying businesses in the U.S. He picks the films that are shown in some 300 theaters in the Midwest.

He says that for a long time he has felt that there just weren't enough films being made to satisfy his particular clientele. Certainly, there weren't enough of the right kind of films.

"The middle American," Borack says, "doesn't want the sophisticated kind of movie. I enjoyed 'Julia' and 'The Turning Point' but, for the middle American, those weren't his kind of movie."

He'd rather see "Smoky and the Bandit" and "Saturday Night Fever" and even "The Godfather Part II."

So he figured that maybe he should show the Hollywood people the way to go. He decided to make his own movie, as Exhibit A. And he figured that there was a title and the song, "Harper Valley P.T.A." Then he got earlier felt that the hit song, "Ode to Billy Joe," had the potential to make a smash movie. He was very happy when his theory proved out.

So he went out and acquired the rights to the title, "Harper Valley P.T.A." Then he got himself a veteran Hollywood producer — George Edwards — and a screenplay — written by Edwards and Harry Schneider — and a star — Barbara Eden.

He also got enough money through his Midwest contacts to finance the $2 million production. Mostly, he can get that back quickly, through the rights to the title, "Harper Valley P.T.A." Then he got himself a veteran Hollywood producer — George Edwards — and a screenplay — written by Edwards and Harry Schneider — and a star — Barbara Eden.

Phil Borack is not in the movie business for keeps. At least, he doesn't think he is. In fact, there is a strong possibility that "Harper Valley P.T.A." may be his first and last film. It was just too much work.

"I'm not sure I'll do it again," he says. "It's very hard work — there's an ounce

'I know what the people in Middle America want' of my blood in every reel of that picture. And it meant long separations from my wife and my three children, which was hard on me, I'm very family-oriented. But I did it to prove I could do it."

Besides Barbara Eden, the film also stars Nanette Fabray, Louis Nye, Pat Paulsen, Ronny Cox and Susan Swift, the girl who played the title role in "Audrey Rose." It's not a cast to knock them dead on old Broadway, but middle America should like it.

This was the film, incidentally, in which an elephant — painted pink for the occasion — got upset and lashed out with its trunk and knocked Nanette Fabray for a loop. She was seriously injured, but has recovered nicely.

"She's wonderful," Borack says. "She is very enthusiastic about promoting the picture for us. But, I tell you, that experience has sure soured me on elephants — and also on the color pink. I'll have nothing more to do with either of them."

Borack thinks that if the public gets the kind of movies it likes, it will buy tickets and go out to the movie theaters. But that's a big if.

"Still," he says, "I think that movies today are basically stronger than they have been at any time in the past 20 years. I am very bullish about the future of motion pictures."

Borack, incidentally, believes the current rating system is "a farce." He calls it a good idea that has been poorly executed.

"Harper Valley P.T.A." has a PG-rating. That, he says, is OK.

Ask Dick Kleiner

By DICK KLEINER

DEAR DICK: Could you be so kind as to tell me the name of the guy who plays The Unknown Comic on "The Gong Show"? And what shows, if any, that I might know him from? MARGO GALVAO, Victoria, B.C., Can.

The Unknown Comic chooses to be unknown so nobody will know his name. That's the gimmick. Don't tell anybody where you heard it, however — his name is Murray Langston. He's a Canadian and about the only thing you might know him from on the U.S. networks are some appearances he made early in the "Sonny and Cher Show" history.

DEAR DICK: I would like some information concerning the old Charlie Chan movies. In some of them, Chan is played by Warner Oland and in others by Sidney Toler. Which was the original Chan? How many Chan movies did each make? CHIAN FAN, Douglas, Ariz.

Warner Oland — who was Swedish, incidentally — was the original Charlie Chan. His first Chan film was "Charlie Chan Carries On," which was made in 1931. He made 15 films. He died in 1938. Toler took over then, beginning with "Charlie Chan in Honolulu," and would up with the Chan record — 25 films.

DEAR DICK: One of my friends insists that James MacArthur of "Hawaii Five-O" is no longer living. He also claims that the programs now being shown were made before he died. I know positively that she is wrong but I need your help. MRS. H.M. RAPP, Hollywood, Fla.

Mrs. Rapp, you're right. Mrs. Rapp's friend, you're wrong. Jim MacArthur is alive, well and acting every week.

DEAR DICK: Could you tell me if Gil Gerard, who starred in "Killing Time," is in any relation to Lee Majors. His moves, looks and expressions are exactly those of Lee Majors. CONNIE ROY, Richland, Mich.

No relation and I don't see any resemblance myself. Gerard is a comer and soon we'll all know that he and Lee are unrelated.

DEAR DICK: Is veteran screen actor Jack Oakie still alive? If so, how old is he? If not, when did he die? MRS. J. ALLEN, Lake Forest.

Oakie died earlier this year, at 74.

DEAR DICK: How can someone who doesn't know the address of actors or actresses and is a fan write to them. The U.S. Postal Service says you have to have their full address for your letter to be delivered. Please do not print my street and number address in the paper. E.C.G., Huron, Ohio.

Do you realize how funny you are? You want addresses of people, yet you don't want your own to be known. There is really no reason stars should give their addresses out, so perfect strangers — and, perhaps, weirdos and criminals — will know where they live. Write to the stars you admire in care of the TV network they appear on, if they are TV stars, or the movie studio that made their last film, if they are movie stars. Don't try to get home addresses; they have a right to some privacy.

DEAR DICK: As a professional astronomer, who has seen "Star Wars" three times, I think I can settle one of your reader's questions for him and you. Luke Skywalker saw two suns. The scene was done with a double exposure of the rising (or setting) sun. By the way, it is physically impossible for a full moon to appear in the sky next to the sun, since the moon's light is reflected from the sun. May the Force be with you! DR. CATHERINE L. IMHOFF, astronomer, University of Arizona, Tucson, Ariz.

Thank you, and with you on my side, the Force is with me.

HAL LINDEN

TV Tattle

ABC is venturing into an experiment in detente. Starting this fall "Animals Animals Animals," the award-winning news magazine for children will be broadcast in the Soviet Union. Host Hal Linden won't have to learn Russian, however. The series will be translated by the Soviets.

To bust onto the fall ratings with a blast, ABC will rebroadcast 12-hour miniseries "Roots" from September 30. The second airing of "Roots" may have another purpose, though ABC wants audiences re-familiarized with this saga as they'll watch the sequel "Roots: The Next Generations." The 14-hour follow-up will feature Henry Fonda and Richard Thomas.

George Stanford Brown and Lynne Moody will be back from the first show. Air date will be some time in 1979. Harold Robbins, author of the miniseries "79 Park Avenue," will have another of his best-sellers, "The Pirate," made into a four-hour CBS miniseries.

It's a drama about a handsome calculating Arab money baron who ruthlessly seizes and expands his country's multi-million-dollar oil fortune. Italy's Franco Nero will go before the cameras on June 5, in California, in the title role. Ann Archer, Olivia Hussey and Christopher Lee have also joined the cast.

Comedienne Carol Burnett will star in her first dramatic TV role in "Friendly Fire," a three-hour movie to be produced for the 1978-79 season for ABC television. As Peg Mullen, she'll portray a mother whose oldest son is mysteriously killed by "friendly fire" in Viet Nam. She and her husband launch an investigation to find out what really happened to their son.

IT CAN'T BE...?

Maybe being around Archie Bunker's son-in-law did it, but whatever it is, Rob Reiner certainly has aged. So much so that he will be playing an 89-year-old Joseph Bressner in ABC's new five-week comedy series, "Free Country," premiering Saturday, June 24. Reiner plays the dual role as the aged family patriarch who narrates the flashbacks and as the young immigrant who first arrived in the U.S.

Glamorous As An Old Shoe?

Barbara Bach knocked people's eyes out as the ultra-glamorous gal in the Bond film, "The Spy Who Loved Me." So her next is "Force Ten From Navarone," in which she looks as glamorous as an old shoe.

She picked the non-glamorous role for the usual reasons — she didn't want to be typed as just a sex symbol, in the U.S.

Actually, Barbara is a New Yorker, but she had married an Italian and had been in Italy nine years.

But now she is here permanently she thinks, and looking for more things to do. Glamorous or unglamorous, at this point it doesn't much matter.

DRIFTING ...

Jeff Bridges stars as drifter in contemporary Western comedy, "Rancho Deluxe," premiering Wednesday night June 28, on CBS.

... HUSHING

Director Robert Altman is forbidding Paul Newman and his co-stars from uttering even a hint as to nature of their new film, "Quiet," due out in January. The gag order has to do with a Monopoly-style board game to be marketed in conjunction with the picture.

The World Of Darkness For Nocturnal Animals

The National Geographic Special "Strange Creatures of the Night" present bats, owls, hyenas and sightless cave-dwelling salamanders in an extraordinary film made in part with sophisticated night-vision camera devices.

The program airs on the Public Broadcasting Service June 27, (check local listings). Produced by the National Geographic Society and Wolper Productions, the special is being presented on Public Television for the first time by WQED with a grant from Gulf Oil Corporation. Leslie Nielsen narrates.

"Strange Creatures of the Night" received high public acclaim when it aired on commercial television.

It was awarded the Atlanta Film Festival's Special Jury Gold Medal as well as a Chris Statuette from the Columbus Film Festival.

The film explores the behavior and environments of nocturnal animals and illustrates the various ways in which they are adapted for life in the dark.

Hyenas, whose vision enables them to hunt at night as well as during the day, were filmed in East Africa as they attack a baby rhino during a nocturnal hunt.

Also documented on film are Minnesota barn owls whose sensitive eyesight and hearing enable them to locate and capture their prey in total darkness.

Cameras take viewers beneath the earth's surface to a limestone cavern called the Dark Underground Laboratory. Here biologists study totally blind fish, miniature crustaceans and a variety of salamanders-forms of life whose heritage is darkness. Many have lost all skin pigmentation and sight after centuries of adaptation to complete darkness.

"Strange Creatures of the Night" looks at the behavior of bats both in nature and in controlled laboratory environments. An extraordinary sequence shows 30 million Mexican free-tail bats pouring from Bracken Cave in Texas as they begin foraging for the three to four billion insects they consume every night. The fruit-eating, pallid and "flying" bats are also featured.

In Mexico, thousands of cattle fall victim to the bite of the legendary vampire bat. With the aid of an image intensifier, which converts invisible infrared illumination 20,000 times to green visible light, we watch vampire bats drawing blood from the necks and shoulders of cattle.

MINNESOTA BARN OWL

At Yale University scientists conduct experiments to learn how bats' ability to echolocate enables them to function in a world where objects are identified by echo characteristics alone.

In a parallel to the Yale experiments, closing scenes of the film document a blind Veterans Administration employee as he demonstrates a new device being tested for the sightless.

Sonic glasses, designed not for sight but for sound, emit ultrasonic pulses which strike objects in his path and return audible and meaningful echoes.

This intriguing film will be followed by telecast of The National Geographic Special "The Volga" on July 11 on most PBS stations.

'The Fox' Is Back

HOLLYWOOD — It's been almost a decade since Anne Heywood starred in "The Fox," a very controversial and beautiful film about homosexuals. It was in fact, the forerunner of all the movies about homosexuals.

Now, for the first time since that film, Anne Heywood thinks she has another controversial movie. She just finished shooting "Good Luck, Miss Wycheff," from the late William Inge's only novel.

"This one," she says, "is about a spinsterish Latin teacher, staggered by a premature change of life, who is raped by a black athlete — and lives to enjoy it and cultivates a sort of relationship with her attacker."

Karen Black: Every Move Of The Day Is Scheduled

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — It isn't all fun and games, this business of being a star. Sometimes, it can be trying, like on this particular day when Karen Black had to teach her maid how to make wild rice.

And, when you're a woman like Karen Black, who sets herself a schedule and accounts rigidly for every minute, something like teaching the maid to make wild rice throws the whole day off.

"I have to schedule every single move," Karen says. She curled up on the big sofa in her big living room, put on her glasses and squinted at me.

"Everything I do, I have to think of all the consequences, the consequences for me, the consequences for my husband, the consequences for my baby."

"If you don't tell people what to do, they won't do it, and there you are."

She sighed and reached for a piece of banana bread the maid — presumably the one who had to be taught to make wild rice — had brought in.

"Today," Karen continued, "I had planned to do some writing. But my maid likes to talk to me. And I didn't feel like being strict with myself, so I talked. She just wanted to talk — the moultrieur of the cook, nobody ate the beans."

"Anyhow, what I'm trying to tell you is that because of that I am about, she is about to leave for Brazil to co-star opposite Lee Majors in a film for Carlo Ponti called "The Naked Sun."

After that, she says, she will do a film, "Fort Travis," which her husband wrote. She says it's more than that, she has a fascinating face, an exquisite talent, an intelligent approach to a part. She is also somewhat zany.

And, for a while, she's been experiencing the joys of motherhood. She and her husband, writer Kit Carson, have a son, Hunter, who is now two. About the time Hunter was born, they moved into a big house in an older, settled, exclusive section of Los Angeles.

It's a beautiful house, and Karen has slowly made it over, and it has become a fascinating home. But there is one thing about the neighborhood that displeases her.

"I'd like the baby to have more friends around the neighborhood," she says. "He's two years and two months, and he should have a lot of friends. I called up the neighborhood association, looking for kids around here of the same age as Hunter."

But Hunter isn't home too much. Karen takes him with her when she goes off to make a movie, and she is in great demand these days. As a matter of fact, there are four motion pictures in her life at the moment.

One is done — "The Runoff." And she is about to

KAREN BLACK AND SON HUNTER

But that day her career wasn't supermax in her mind. It was her schedule, and the fact that she was off by those eight or nine minutes. It troubled her, because she is a very organized lady.

"I have so much to do and so much I want to do," she says. "That's the price of success. Nobody knows that. When you are successful, you have people working for you, and when you have people working for you, you have to keep growing them in."

She shakes her head.

"I should be writing a song today. I'm writing songs with Paul Williams' brother. I like to write songs, but there is so much else to do. And I like singing, but singing, is always getting wiped out by acting. It's hard to write music. Sometimes it comes and sometimes it doesn't. It's floppier than acting."

But, of course, it was as an actress that she became famous and it is as an actress that she knows her best. So, of course, she continues to act.

"I like to play those funny women, women who don't know they're foolish and make you laugh."

"But someday I'd like to play an active person. I've been playing heavy things lately, some unpleasant people. I'd like to be wonderful for a while."
