State Installing Safety Rail At Osteen Bridge

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

TALLAHASSEE — The emergency installation of a complex safety guard rail system for the Osteen Bridge was ordered by Walter Revell, Secretary of the Florida Department of Transportation (DOT) today and construction of a new bridge was given "No. 1" priority in the Fifth District.

County Commissioner Sid Vihlen and Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce Manager Jack Horner in a telephone interview from Tallahassee reported that state crews began work this morning developing and installing a system of steel pilings and the guard rail to avert another tragedy. Ten days ago, five persons were killed as a van careened through the bridge's wooden guard rail into the St. Johns River.

"Secretary Revell said his department is working toward an April, 1975, bid letting for construction of the bridge and related approaches and indicated the DOT professionals are working looking into all available funding, both federal and state," Vihlen said.

Horner added that the DOT, in the face of criticism likely to develop over the department's failure to act before lives were lost, heeded requests of the C of C, Vihlen, Rep. Eugene Mooney (R-Casselberry) and other civic leaders to order the immediate installation of the interim safety measure.

Vihlen said Revell assured that the new Osteen Bridge project holds a priority on the state level. He said that plans to secure construction funding, estimated at $3.3 million, will be done-tailored with the completion of engineering plans and all related environmental approvals.

Approval for the safety railing, a complicated engineering feat whereby a steel eyebeam will be placed at the top of the bridge to connect to the new steel guard rails and be tied underneath the structure, was pushed through by Fifth District DOT Engineer Bill Benedict, Vihlen said.

Civic, political and chamber leaders began a major push for the new bridge and the interim safety steel railing less than a week ago.

"I'm personally reassured that the DOT top administration is aware of the critical need and I feel we do have the ear and the interest of the department," Vihlen said.

"Secretary Revell gave us a great deal of his time, explained his operation in detail and told us how seriously he feels about the five deaths that occurred 10 days ago," Vihlen said.

Seminole county officials and civic interests have actively pursued a new Osteen Bridge for more than 15 years and each gubernatorial candidate through the 1960's and in this decade, during campaigns, have promised to replace the antique structure.

The bridge's dilapidated condition and extreme hazard was emphasized 10 days ago when five lives were lost.

Vihlen, Mooney and the C of C spearheaded a concerted move for a new structure after the traffic tragedy by appealing directly to Gov. Reubin Askew and Revell.

Vihlen told state officials last week that the new bridge "has been put off long enough," insisting it was time for the state to reshuffle priorities to give the problem the immediate attention it deserved.

Mooney as chairman of the Seminole Legislative Delegation also brought pressure to bear at the state level.

Fishing Adventure May Be Last

By BOB LLOYD
City Editor

Mrs. Dorothy Jordan, 72, of Winter Park, got her first "plane" ride just before midnight Saturday and it's one ride she won't forget.

Mrs. Jordan and her 84-year-old fishing companion, John E. Smith, also of Winter Park, were plucked by a rescue helicopter from their 16-foot boat marooned in a mass of water hyacinths on Lake Jessup near Black Hammock Fish Camp.

Both retirees told sheriff's deputies and Oviedo emergency unit crewmen they "weren't scared" when they found their boat blocked by the wind-whipped hyacinths about 5 p.m. when they tried to head for the fish camp with their catch of four speckled perch.

Fishermen on shore 100 yards away heard the pair's calls for help but were unable to get to their boat with an airboat because of the tightly packed hyacinths.

The Sheriff's Department was notified and during next six hours rescuers tried to pull the boat to shore with a winch but a rope that they had attached to the boat became dangerously frayed.

Sheriff John Polk said off-duty Oviedo policeman Kelly Fore was dropped into the fishing boat with a portable radio from the hovering Orange County Sheriff's Department Rescue One helicopter and as the temperature dropped into the mid-50s on the wind-swept lake, the anglers were hoisted into the 'copter in a basket-type stretcher and ferried to shore.

Seated in an emergency van after the rescue, Mrs. Jordan told officers, "We had wrapped up for the night." Using a sheet of plastic and a beach umbrella to shield them from the wind, the elderly fishermen had resigned themselves to a night on the water.

As she returned Polk's jacket, also dropped from the 'copter, and gulped down a cup of hot coffee Mrs. Jordan commented on her "first plane ride" and noted that in her 15 years of fishing in the area she had been blocked in by hyacinths once before. "We got out that time. But today those bonnets just packed in and we couldn't move."

Smith said he's ready to go fishing again but Mrs. Jordan wasn't so positive she was ready.

Smith was reunited with a son at fish camp following the helicopter rescue.

Fish camp personnel retrieved the boat Sunday when winds shifted the hyacinths.

Chief East - 'Lawyers Don't Reduce Crime'

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Altamonte Springs Police Chief Justus East laid a stinging indictment on the legal profession today, charging the major concern of many lawyers is not to reduce crime, but to foster its increase so they can make more money.

East with four other Seminole County police chiefs endorsed the Florida Bar Association special committee recommendation that the municipal court system be retained.

"The educated policeman can see the inadequacies in the county court system and the law, and can see what is happening between attorneys and clients—the wheeling and dealing, the plea bargaining between the defense lawyers and the prosecutors," East said.

He gave the plea bargaining aspect in county courts as his major reason for opposing the phasing out of the municipal court system. He said plea bargaining, as such, very seldom takes place in city court.

The elimination of the city courts in favor of a county system is not a good move, agreed Casselberry Police Chief John Govoruk. "Our Judge (former assistant state atty. Newman Brock) metes out justice in a fair and impartial manner," he said.

"Most offenders, who hire attorneys to represent them, throw cases out of court, the proposed change would be fine," said Oviedo Police Chief Ken Triplett, contending city cases now transferred to the county are dismissed or not prosecuted without notification to the city.

"Ninety per cent of city cases going to the county courts are not prosecuted," Triplett said.

"Most offenders, who hire attorneys to represent them, throw cases out of court, the county would not get their cases transferred to deliberately write legislation with built-in loopholes.

"There are good attorneys and there are others whose capability I question," East said.

East's comments came on the heels of reported remarks by Seminole County Bar Association President Neil Julian in the Sunday Herald.

Julian said many young police officers today because of their general age (under 30) lack law enforcement. He said there is a tremendous resentment among law enforcement officers today that no one knows how to render justice, but a police officer. "They think judges are too lenient. They think search warrants are terrible — a pain in the neck. They pay lip service to the law, are arrogant and abusive to their authority," Julian, a former Sanford policeman said.

"My feelings are neither strongly for nor strongly against the judicial system," Hennigan said. Admitting there are problems with young police officers such as Julian noted, Hennigan added that 80 per cent of problems with the young officers are found and corrected.

"The other 10 per cent are either phased out of law enforcement or leave law enforcement of their own accord," Hennigan said.

Hennigan said that compassion and common sense are acquired by experience and cannot be taught to any human being. "The young officer has to get out on the road and learn and it is the supervisor's job to sit on the ones who get out of hand," he said. "Fundamentals can be taught in the classroom. Experience must be gained on the street," he said.

"I'm sure there is some truth in Julian's comments," Karcher said, "but I think he is generalizing. Certainly every individual is different and officers are human beings."

"A feeling I try to inculcate into my officers," Karcher said, "is that it is their duty to observe and charge with violations of a law. It is up to the court to adjudicate. Once the matter is before the court, an officer must maintain an objective attitude."

Sanford Police Chief Ben Butler was not available for comment.

Blackout Threatened, Emergency Plan Laid

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — State, local and federal authorities have begun preparations to counter possible power blackouts in case an extortionist carries out his threat to dynamite more transmission line towers in the Portland area.

Portland General Electric Co. and Pacific Power and Light, major city-based utilities, have all reserved combinations-powered and steam plants to provide extra electricity if needed.

City officials asked for approval to order overtime shifts for workers already converting a civil defense shelter into a communications center for emergency services.

"What we probably face is an outage where the entire area might be totally without power for a few hours up to a day or two," said power administrator Don Hodel.

Since Sept. 26, 11 transmission towers have been dynamited in the Portland area.

Harvester Assists Boaters, Farmers

A commercial tugboat is scheduled to arrive at Sanford Wednesday or Thursday with a state-owned Hyacinth Harvester from Astor. The harvester will be docked in Sanford's lakefront marina until next Monday when in a demonstration for state and federal officials it will be used to clear the harbor of the pesky water weeds.

Delbert Euga, local member of the state Advisory Council of Conservation, said today area farmers are showing interest in the nutrient-laden hyacinths that will be removed while the harvester is at the harbor.

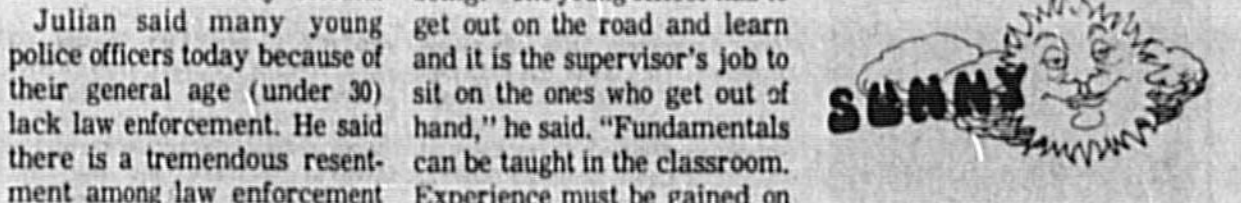

"One farmer is asking for 100 truckloads to spread over his fields," Euga said. The hyacinths are cut into the soil by discing and used as fertilizer and soil stabilizer, he said.

Euga said the county will provide five acres of land near the Osteen Bridge (SR 415) on the St. Johns River where the harvester will eventually be installed to remove the waterway-choking hyacinths as they float downriver from Lake Jessup and other lakes.

Drainage Bond Forum Tonight

Sanford city commissioners will present plans and data on the proposed $8.5 million drainage bond issue at a public forum tonight at the lakefront civic center. Starting at 8 p.m., the forum will feature city officials and engineering consultants who will answer residents' questions on the bond issue, on the Nov. 5 referendum ballot, that would finance a citywide system of storm drainage interceptor mains.

City commissioner A.A. McClanahan will speak against the bond issue and Mayor Lee Moore and commissioners Gordon Meyer, John Morris and Julian Stenstrom will speak for the bonds.

Ford Campaigning In Truman Tradition

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford left here last week as he joined into seven close associates that he sounds like a Harry S. Truman on the campaign trail. And if Ford hasn't given Democrats much help yet, he's trying.

Facing heavy odds in attempting to resist an erosion of Republican strength in Congress, Ford is using more strident, more Truman-like rhetoric as the campaign progresses. Apparently by design, Ford became increasingly partisan last week as he joined into seven close associates that he sounds like a Harry S. Truman on the campaign trail. And if Ford hasn't given Democrats much help yet, he's trying.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Aliens In Switzerland

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — Swiss voters have decisively rejected a proposal to deport 540,000 foreigners in the next three years.

Nearly 70 per cent of those voting in Sunday's referendum rejected the constitutional amendment. The vote was 1,689,870 to 878,739. A similar proposal four years ago came much closer to success, with a 46 per cent affirmative vote.

The amendment was proposed by a right-wing group called the National Action Against Over-Foreignization of People and Homeland. It would have set a limit of 500,000 foreigners living in Switzerland by Jan. 1, 1978.

This would have meant expulsion of 540,000 non-Swiss, most of them farmhands, unskilled industrial laborers, street cleaners, dishwashers and waiters. About two-thirds of these are Spaniards and Italians attracted by better pay than they can get at home.

CIA Involvement Denied

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — The United States Embassy today denied Viet Cong allegations that the Central Intelligence Agency is involved in demonstrations against President Nguyen Van Thieu and accused North Vietnam of a "crucially obvious attempt to exploit the dissent." The American statement said the United States "does not encourage, nor does it support in any way, any political faction in Vietnam. These accusations are utterly groundless and totally false." Several hundred students and children who marched with anti-Thieu demonstrators in Saigon on Sunday burned a police jeep and stoned the National Assembly building, smashing the ornate glass doors.

Democracy Restoration Asked

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — South Korea's biggest opposition party called today for the formation of a parliamentary committee to study revising the martial law constitution and restoring democracy and human rights. The proposal, aimed almost daily demonstrations by churchmen and students demanding the restoration of democracy, has little chance of passage since the sponsoring New Democratic party holds only 60 of the 219 seats in the National Assembly. But it was a direct defiance of President Chung Hee Park's warnings that challenges to the constitution he put through two years ago will not be tolerated.

Grain Deal With India Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — While cutting grain sales to Russia, the United States soon may provide grain to India under a new Food for Peace agreement, Andrew J. Mair, coordinator of Food for Peace in the State Department, said he is certain a grain agreement with India is coming up, but doesn't know how much the U.S. will supply. Meanwhile, Treasury Secretary William E. Simon announced the Soviets will be allowed to buy one million tons of corn and 1.5 million tons of wheat, but they agreed to make no further purchases in the U.S. market this crop year, which ends next summer.

AREA COUNCIL AGENDAS

County

The Seminole County Commission Tuesday night is expected to take action on a request by Sanford attorney Jack Bridges asking for a "rehearing on the revocation of the certification of Seminole County Disposal, Inc."

"I'm not asking them to rehear the merits of the entire case tomorrow," Bridges said today. "I just want them to take up this case."

Bridges said that his clients intend to comply fully with the county ordinance governing refuse collection, including providing a contract for the company's services.

Certification to operate in the county was revoked last Tuesday by the county commissioners at the third ex-

School Board

The Seminole County School District staff will present two reports at the board meeting Wednesday dealing with requests of W. Elementary School parents and re-opening of Woodland school.

The staff will prepare the recommendation of the request of Longwood Hills their children attend Woodland opens, to re-open Longwood school remainder of the year. Two weeks a group of parent Highland Hills have their children at the Woodland school as possible recommendation to decision on this issue.

The size of the school building is also a consideration. The board directed to affirm priorities and recommendations of the necessity of additional property, paid at Lake Brantley Hill and reclaiming some area at the Seminole High site.

Seminole County Commissioner Greg Drummond, with a request of school board participation in a disaster program being planned year.

President Ford

FOTOMAC, Md. (AP) — President Ford drew back his golf club for a practice shot Sunday when an Irish setter named "Jake" happened by and lay down 10 feet in front of him.

The sequence repeated itself several times before Ford got off a few shots — which "Jake" promptly bounded after. The pesky pooch was finally led away and Ford got down to business with his golf pro Les Elder, Rev. Leslie C. Arends, R-III, and a local businessman.

Ford Backs Rocky

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is standing by his nomination of Nelson A. Rockefeller, declaring, "I'm still convinced he would make a good vice president."

Ford, fielding questions from five newsmen aboard Air Force One late Saturday, was asked whether any conservative Republicans had urged him to withdraw the increasingly controversial nomination.

"I wouldn't say anybody seriously," the President responded, implying that such advice had been received.

Standing in shirt-sleeves in the aisle of the plane as it brought him home from a campaign trip to Louisville, Ky., Ford held what amounted to an informal news conference.

Ford said he expected Rockefeller's nomination to be confirmed before the President's planned trip to Japan next month. This would mean he would be out of the question since Ford tentatively plans to leave the country Nov. 17 and Congress does not return from its election recess until the following day.

Meanwhile, Rockefeller was described by one anonymous source as "a man who has great experience, tremendous ability."

County

The Seminole County Commission Tuesday night is expected to take action on a request by Sanford attorney Jack Bridges asking for a "rehearing on the revocation of the certification of Seminole County Disposal, Inc."

"I'm not asking them to rehear the merits of the entire case tomorrow," Bridges said today. "I just want them to take up this case."

Bridges said that his clients intend to comply fully with the county ordinance governing refuse collection, including providing a contract for the company's services.

Certification to operate in the county was revoked last Tuesday by the county commissioners at the third ex-

School Board

The Seminole County School District staff will present two reports at the board meeting Wednesday dealing with requests of W. Elementary School parents and re-opening of Woodland school.

The staff will prepare the recommendation of the request of Longwood Hills their children attend Woodland opens, to re-open Longwood school remainder of the year. Two weeks a group of parent Highland Hills have their children at the Woodland school as possible recommendation to decision on this issue.

The size of the school building is also a consideration. The board directed to affirm priorities and recommendations of the necessity of additional property, paid at Lake Brantley Hill and reclaiming some area at the Seminole High site.

Helping People Is What UF Is About

Next Thursday the United Fund of Seminole County Inc. has a Victory Dinner planned for the Sanora Club House on Airport Boulevard. Whether it lives up to its billing or takes on the trappings of a wake depends entirely on you. For you and the services you receive and require of the participating agencies are what the United Fund is all about. It is "People Helping People" which, when you strip away all the frills and distractions is what life is all about.

And it is no idle slogan, not a public relations gimmick or a play on words. It is the work and goals and aspirations of 65 participating agencies which each year provide a wide variety of health, character building and family services for tens of thousands of men, women and children in Seminole, Orange and Osceola counties.

It is the United Fund, for instance, that supports the Boy and Girl Scout organizations, the Red Cross, Salvation Army and Sanford's Good Samaritan Home, among others. It is also the United Fund that provides the fiscal muscle for the Mid-Florida Center for Alcoholics, the Central Florida Sheltered Workshop and the Children's Home Society.

The virtues are, of course, many and for the individual who grows weary of continually having to turn away solicitors for this and that, it has the added advantage of being a one-shot campaign which saves campaign costs, time and our patience.

But if it saves you time it also requires the investment of a great deal of time of a great many volunteers, many of whom are your neighbors, people from all walks of life who give not only of their personal wealth but of the most precious commodity of all their time. They collect money only once a year but they spend many months in behind the scenes toil setting goals, organizing campaigns, budgeting funds and providing community planning. It is a 12-month job that comes to a climax Oct. 24 at the Sanora Club House where, appropriately enough, the "victory dinner" will be "Dutch treat."

Their work has been made even more difficult this year because of the state of the economy. We're sure that many people will find themselves unable to contribute as much as they did last year, or would prefer this year. No matter, for the United Fund to succeed we must all participate to the best of our ability whether our contribution be $1, $10, $100 or $1000.

If we all participate it will be a success. The Fund has compiled a "fair share" guide for those able to participate on that basis. But if it is only a suggested contribution, feel free to give more or less, but give.

Check your wallet and then check your heart. It may be the most rewarding investment you ever made. Why? Because it will be in people.

No Escape

Workers at a Chrysler Corp. parts depot in N.Y., have punctured a favorite daydream — the one where there is a three-day "holiday" weekend every week. After an experiment at working a four-day week, with 10-hour work days, the employees voted to go back to their old five-day routine.

Long weekends wear thin, it appears, especially when the kids are in school Monday through Friday. What clinched the vote, we'll bet, is that Chrysler workers discovered what happens to idle hands around the house on weekdays. They push vacuum cleaners and do dishes: that's what. A man might as well be down at the plant.

BERRY'S WORLD

Here's a new world's record you won't find in your current Guinness.
According to Oil & Gas Journal, the world's deepest hole, a gas well, has been drilled in Wabasha County, Ohio. Lone Star Producing Co.'s Bertha Rogers bottomed at 31,441 feet. Lone Star also drilled what was formerly the world's deepest hole at 30,050 feet.

Cost of the record hole is reported to be around $5 million — or a little under $19 a foot.
Described as a small gasser, Bertha Rogers initially tested at four million cubic feet a day in July. But since then, says the company, the well has lost pressure.
Maybe the Chinese are siphoning it off at the other end.

Kissinger Architect Of Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON — For the past five years, U.S. foreign policy has been almost totally dominated by one man — Dr. Henry A. Kissinger. Inside sources, with secret documents to back up their story, have told us how he has manipulated the diplomatic strings. Throughout the Nixon years, Kissinger steadfastly maintained to inquiring reporters that he never recommended policy to the President unless his views were solicited. He merely presented "options," he vowed, and left it to the chief to make the decisions.

It was said President Nixon would retire to the solitude of the Lincoln sitting room or to his secluded office in the White House annex, where he would pore over his options. After much agonizing and scratching on yellow legal pads, he would emerge and announce his momentous decisions.

This is not, according to our sources, how it happened. They say Kissinger seldom failed to give the President his personal recommendations and Nixon seldom failed to take the advice. As a former Kissinger associate put it succinctly, "Nixon agreed with Henry on the things he knew about, and he trusted Henry on the things he didn't know about."

The pattern was set early in 1969 when Nixon gave the National Security Council staff a pep talk. After a few general remarks, according to several eye witnesses, he nodded toward Kissinger. "Henry and I are going to end the war," the President said, with a shy smile. "We want you fellows to take care of the rest of the world."

Our sources say Nixon then launched into furious and vulgar assault on the State Dept. Foreign policy was going to be handled by the White House, he declared, and not by "striped-pants faggots" at Foggy Bottom.

There was a collective gasp from the dozen NSC staff members. President Nixon, with his penchant for saying the wrong thing at the wrong time, had forgotten that the majority of his audience had come to the White House from the foreign service.

Thereafter, Kissinger set up his own private State Dept. in the basement of the White House, where he directed every aspect of the decision-making machinery.

He presided over the National Security Council, which determined overall policy. He controlled the supersecret Committee of Forty, which plotted covert activities. He also headed the Washington Special Action Group, which assembled to make crises.

The secret minutes show that Nixon seldom attended these crucial meetings but waited for Kissinger to fill him in. The two men conferred together frequently.

Sources who occasionally were called into their private meetings say Nixon and Kissinger apparently didn't engage in deep, intellectual discussions. They talked about world issues in terms of personalities and they were often vulgar, ripping into foreign leaders with crude, sometimes cruel, remarks.

When Kissinger traveled abroad, he kept the President informed with cryptic personal messages. Only the two of them understood the messages.

Kissinger's personal memos and talking papers guided Nixon on the Vietnam War, the invasion of Cambodia, the South Vietnamese invasion of Laos, and scores of other initiatives around the world.

Our sources could recall only one major issue on which Nixon vetoed Kissinger's recommendations. That was the decision to bomb Hanoi and mine Haiphong Harbor in May 1972.

In that instance, Nixon overruled all of his chief advisers, including Kissinger.

Kissinger's denunciation of foreign policy has continued into the Ford Administration. Indeed, President Ford scarcely been sworn in before he assured the world that Henry Kissinger would stay on. The Nixon before him, Ford leans heavily on Kissinger for foreign policy guidance. Our sources say, in fact, that Ford has not overruled Kissinger yet.

But defense attorney Richard Marx and court-appointed receiver David Hughes said the four do not have $4.5 million. Securities and Exchange Commission attorney Michael Stewart says the defendants could be placed on a payment schedule.

The crowning touch would come when Nixon called in his Cabinet or other associates to brief them on his foreign policy decision. As he spoke to them, he invariably consulted a "talking points" paper prepared, of course, by the ubiquitous Dr. Kissinger.

FOOTNOTE: Kissinger has some brilliant diplomatic achievements to his credit, including temporary peace in the Middle East, detente with the Soviet Union and rapprochement with mainland China. But there have also been a few disasters, such as the India-Pakistan war, Chile, Cyprus and the aborted "Year of Europe."

Legal Fees Expensive 'Medicine'

If the doctors who treated ex-President Nixon's plebeitis were to sock their patient with a bill of some half-million dollars, there would be cries of indignation, and not all of them from taxpayers concerned that the tab would eventually be passed on to Uncle Sam.

No one seems upset by the fact that the legal costs facing a number of former associates of Mr. Nixon are up in that stratospheric range.

The services of a man who saves your life or your health would seem to deserve a greater reward than those of a man who saves you from jail (and sometimes doesn't). Yet for some reason we are more outraged by a high fee charged by a skilled physician than by the much higher fee usually commanded by a member of a prestigious law firm.

Watergate has not only been a blot on the legal profession, with more than two-score of those involved being lawyers, it has also been a financial bonanza.

According to AP writer Harry F. Rosenthal, former secretary of commerce Maurice H. Stans' legal bill for his 48-day trial in the Vesco case was $380,783. That of his co-defendant, former attorney general John N. Mitchell, was $22,246, plus $72,944 for expenses.

These tabs are being picked up by a trust fund handling money left over from Richard Nixon's 1972 re-election committee. At latest report, the committee had spent or owed $1.9 million in legal costs.

The just-begun trial of the five highest-ranking figures in the Watergate cover-up, of which Mitchell is one, is expected to rack up legal costs of several million dollars.

Friends of H.R. Haldeman, former White House chief of staff, are trying to raise $400,000 for his legal expenses. John Ehrlichman says he'll need $300,000.

Two Watergate figures avoided some of this problem, however. Bernard L. Barker and Eugenio R. Martinez, indicted in both the Watergate break-in and the "plumbers" operation, declared themselves paupers.

True, they were convicted and went to prison but so have most of those who spent tens of thousands of dollars on their defenses and appeals in various other Watergate cases. If a surgeon's scalpel slips, at least you can sue him for malpractice. But if a lawyer fails to win your case, his bill still remains payable in full.

Today the continuing regard for the environment and property value are of uppermost concern to the citizens, and as such all are in agreement over the vital need for a sewer system. Letters To The Editor

Dear Sir:
Thank you for your fine article of October 14, covering the situation of Lakes Florida and Adelaide. A job well done.

In response to Mayor Floyd's statement that we should have taken action when the entire sewage treatment package was first proposed. We did. In fact we called a meeting of Lake Florida residents, invited the appropriate city officials and held an open discussion. Many misconceptions were clarified and citizens' complaints were for the most part resolved or at the least a compromise was reached.

Today the continuing regard for the environment and property value are of uppermost concern to the citizens, and as such all are in agreement over the vital need for a sewer system. No one opposes the system, the opposition has been to the methods which have been used; such as dumping nutrient-filled clay into the lake, the unneeded pushing out of trees involved... one of those same service stations is now in a contest with 200 others within his chain; and if he sells enough gasoline, he will receive a brand new Oldsmobile. Well, as long as the contest is being the lowest priced merchant in town, I'll help him in his quest for a new car. (And when he tools around town in it, I can claim credit for providing him with at least one of the wheels, or something!)

Speaking of politics... this one takes an awful lot of courage. Donald Webb of Lakeland, an American Party Candidate, has decided to oppose Doyle Conner in the race for Agricultural Commissioner. Conner will be facing a re-election opponent for the first time in 14 years. Conner reported his campaign fund at $8,974 in contributions and $6,536 in expenditures. Webb reported he received $25 in contributions and had no expenditures.

Just to give you an illustration of the gimmicky

Arabs Just Playing At Our Game

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The United States is currently sending emissaries around the globe to preach the cause of brotherhood in the marketplace, and there probably has never been a better example of missionaries abroad who haven't a church at home.

The idea of the inventors of dogmatic capitalism, purring gently for "shared commodities" reminds one of the remark attributed to Jacques De Lorena: "Beware of him those days when he receives communion."

The nation, after all, wrote the rules for modern international trade—and all the rules are hardened. If you got it, flaunt it. No one has ever accused Yankee businessmen of being soft on morality.

Undeniably, there is urgent reason for the U.S. movement toward multilateral reasonableness. The Bank of England reports that the oil exporting countries have amassed a cash surplus of $25 billion so far this year, while several industrial nations face bankruptcy and most third world peoples court disaster.

Yet the United States, unapologetically, simply has little credence in the debate over sweet moderation. President Ford said that no sovereign people can allow "their policies to be dictated, or their fate decided by official rigging and distortion of commodity prices" in other nations. This is a nice thought but considering the source, is highly suspect. Ambrose Bierce once wrote that the "hardest tumble one can make is to fall over his own bluff." The world knows that a U.S. preaching trade justice is a U.S. asking others to do as it says, not does.

Moreover, Ford does well to keep the nation out of any principled talk against commodity influencing. The country has for decades used its goods to muscle in on the policies of other societies. U.S. food, as illustration, has long been used to buy favors from or thwart a level of foreign countries. As recently as last summer American diplomats told the Bangladesh government that unless it stopped exporting certain goods to Cuba it would be ineligible to receive easy payment loans for American food. Reluctantly, Bangladesh obeyed.

Even America's mercy food, certainly as important as oil in the present discussion of international ethics, has often been packaged with suggestive strings. Until recently almost one-half of the nation's Food For Peace shipments went to Southeast Asia, hardly an area of famine. Now much of it goes to Chile and Egypt, also nations far from the verge of starvation.

Weekend Traffic Kills Four

At least four persons were killed in weekend traffic accidents, including a Bradenton man who died when he was thrown through the window of a car that went out of control in Sarasota County, officials say.

State troopers said Jack L. Smith, 29, was killed Sunday when the car in which he was riding rolled through a ditch after the driver lost control on State Road 720.

Officers gave the following details of these fatal accidents:
Early Sunday, David M. Allen, 20, of Tallahassee was killed after his car went out of control and struck a culvert along side S.R. 375 in Leon County.

Edna E. Narworth, 65, of Crawfordville died late Friday after the vehicle in which she was riding ran off S.R. 365 in Wakulla County and struck a house.

The identity of an accident victim in Polk County was withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Firm Can't Pay POW Refunds

MIAMI (AP) — Officials of a company that allegedly defrauded 300 investors, including former Vietnam POWs, cannot repay $4.5 million as ordered by a federal judge, spokesman says.

Calling the sale of industrial development revenue bonds "a horrible and vicious fraud," U.S. District Judge Charles Walter ordered refunds of three officers and a salesman for the company, R.J. Allen and Associates of Fort Lauderdale.

But defense attorney Richard Marx and court-appointed receiver David Hughes said the four do not have $4.5 million. Securities and Exchange Commission attorney Michael Stewart says the defendants could be placed on a payment schedule.

MIAMI (AP) — Officials of a company that allegedly defrauded 300 investors, including former Vietnam POWs, cannot repay $4.5 million as ordered by a federal judge, spokesman says.

Calling the sale of industrial development revenue bonds "a horrible and vicious fraud," U.S. District Judge Charles Walter ordered refunds of three officers and a salesman for the company, R.J. Allen and Associates of Fort Lauderdale.

But defense attorney Richard Marx and court-appointed receiver David Hughes said the four do not have $4.5 million. Securities and Exchange Commission attorney Michael Stewart says the defendants could be placed on a payment schedule.

House Group Considers O'Malley Ouster Again

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — For the second time this year, a Florida House committee is meeting to consider impeachment of an indicted Cabinet member.

House Speaker Terrell Sessums, D-Tampa, created the latest impeachment committee shortly after the indictment of Treasurer Thomas O'Malley Friday. Sessums instructed the panel to meet today.

Meanwhile, Republican treasurer candidate Jeffrey Latham, his chances to beat O'Malley in the Nov. 5 Election suddenly and sharply boosted, announced he would hold a news conference today in the Capitol.

O'Malley was indicted on one count of perjury and two counts of receiving $50,000 in unauthorised compensation to affect his decisions on insurance matters and state treasury deposits.

"They're serious charges," said Rep. James Redman, D-Plant City, the impeachment committee chairman. "They should be looked into."

Other members of the committee are Reps. Ralph Haben, D-Altoona, vice chairman; Granville Crabtree, R-Sarasota; Ed Fortune, D-Pace; and Carl Ogden, D-Jacksonville.

The first impeachment inquiry was called in April when whether to impeach him. "I haven't begun to fight yet," O'Malley said after he was arrested in Miami Beach and released on $7,500 bond.

A House committee voted 3-2 in 1973 to impeach Lt. Gov. Tom Adams for using state employees for personal jobs, but the House voted to censure Adams rather than impeach him.

It takes a two-thirds vote to impeach a Cabinet officer, which would immediately suspend him from office and allow the governor to appoint a temporary successor.

If the House committee does vote to impeach O'Malley, Sessums has said he will ask Senate President Louis de la Parie, D-Tampa, to join him in calling a special session of the legislature to vote on O'Malley's impeachment.

Bevis agreed with the staff at first but said in the end, "I support this and find no problem with it. This should provide a better understanding for the public and certainly should be helpful to the commission in arriving at the most equitable decision for all concerned."

He said his fear of manpower problems had been lessened by a careful reading of PSC rules, which showed that the staff members could continue in an advisory capacity after testifying.

The rules provide that the staff members do not represent either party in a case but testify "solely on behalf of the general public interest."

Public Role Asked In PSC Rulings

TALLHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — The public should be allowed to question Public Service Commission staff members about their recommendations, PSC Chairman Bill Bevis says.

The proposal by Public Counsel Frederick Karl was scheduled to come before the commission today, along with his requests to open more PSC records to public examination.

Bevis sent Karl a letter last week opposing the proposal to allow Karl and utility attorneys to question PSC staffers about recommendations they make to the commission at the agenda conferences where decisions are made.

The present rule allows only commissioners and staff to speak at such meetings.

Karl objected that he should be able to challenge statements that he knows were not supported by evidence in the case. The PSC staff objected that this would make the agenda conferences extremely long and time consuming.

Bevis agreed with the staff at first but said in the end, "I support this and find no problem with it. This should provide a better understanding for the public and certainly should be helpful to the commission in arriving at the most equitable decision for all concerned."

He said his fear of manpower problems had been lessened by a careful reading of PSC rules, which showed that the staff members could continue in an advisory capacity after testifying.

'Drink' Program Tonight

TALLHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Florida public television stations will broadcast a 20-minute statewide program on alcoholism tonight immediately following the national TV special, "Drink, Drank, Drunk."

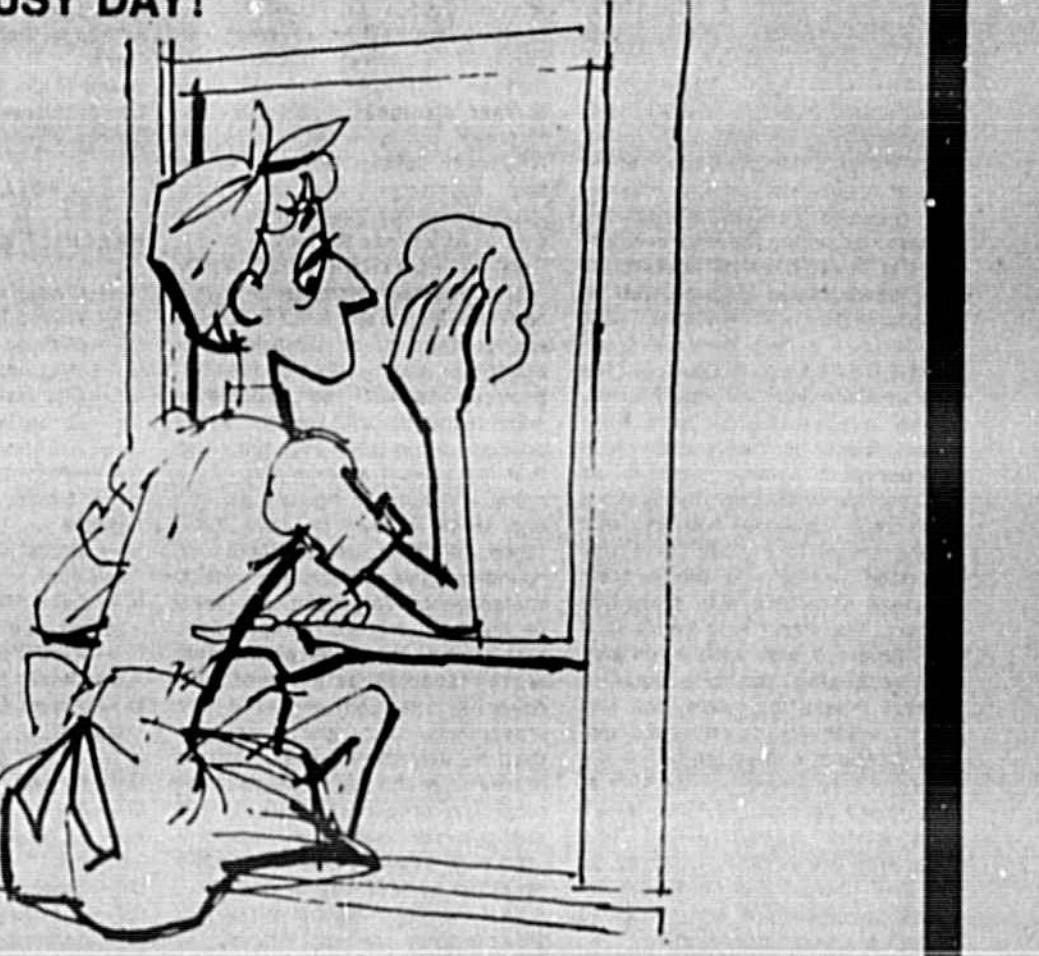

The national special, starring Carol Burnett, E.G. Marshall and the team of Joseph Bologna and Renee Taylor, is designed to provide information and help for the families, friends and employers of America's estimated 10 million alcoholics.

It is composed of dramatic and comedy vignettes, original music and discussions of the drinking problem by people who have lived through it.

The Florida segment will feature the Swisher family in Tallahassee and a counseling session the family had at the Alachua County Mental Health Center.

DEAR ABBY Pregnant Girl Refuses To Wed

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My daughter graduated from college. With honors, yet, but listen to what this dumbbell did. She moved in with her boyfriend with the understanding that if they both decided they were right for each other they would get married. Now she thinks she's pregnant, but she has not told her boyfriend because she wants him to marry her for HERSELF — not because there is a baby on the way. Have you ever heard of such stupidity from a college graduate?

Thank God we don't live in the same city because I keep thinking of things I'd like to say to her and it's getting harder and harder to keep my mouth shut.

I wish I could talk some sense into that girl's head. She never misses your column. Maybe you can.

TEARING MY HAIR

DEAR TEARING: Your daughter hasn't asked me for any advice, so I'm not about to give her any. But I have some for you. Quit tearing your hair over a grown daughter of legal age who is determined to live her life the way she wants to. It's her privilege. Right or wrong.

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of two children under five. I was married, but it didn't work out.

For a year now I have been going with a very nice and lovable older man. My only bad break is that he is married and living with his wife.

He says he loves me very much and one day will marry me, but right now he feels sorry for his wife and he can't talk divorce to her or she will crack up. (She's not very strong. They have five kids.) He tells his wife he's working late and comes over here for supper nearly every night. My kids call him "Daddy," but they're confused because when they go to bed at night their "Daddy" is here, but he's never here when they wake up in the morning.

I have no one to talk to about this. My mother would never understand. Please advise me.

IN LOVE

DEAR IN: I think you're wasting your time. Get smart and say goodbye to this part-time "Daddy." Look for an unattached man your kids can say "Good night" and "Good morning" to.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing this in utter disgust for the way guys are starting to dress now. It makes me sick to my stomach to see men walk around in platform shoes and midriff blouses with their navels showing! What on earth would make a man want to dress that way?

Are people so taken in by the weirdo fashion designers that they will buy anything as long as it's new and considered "in"? I don't mind a little imagination in men's wear, but some of these flowered shirts and feminine looking duds are ridiculous. Men don't look like men anymore.

Now that I got this off my chest, I feel better.

EMALE

DEAR FEMALE: Not ALL men are buying the above-described attire. And as for your complaint about men not looking like men, could it be because some WOMEN look like men?

CONFIDENTIAL TO "L" WITH A LULL: Yes, for every problem there IS a solution — even if it's only learning to live with it. When you pick a lemon, make lemonade.

Uplifting, Funny: Godspell A Must

By JEAN PATTERSON
Women's Editor

Need a lift? A shot for the soul? Godspell can give it to you. Playing at Annie Russell Theatre, Rollins College, Thursday through Saturday at 8 p.m., with a special benefit show Sunday, this modern musical adaptation of the Gospel of St. Matthew is fast paced, entertaining and inspiring. A jubilant presentation of Jesus, some of his disciples and such Biblical characters as the woman taken in adultery, the prodigal son, the Good Samaritan, through soft rock songs and dances, Godspell has appeal for young and old alike, regardless of religion.

The energy and exuberance of a talented cast is highly infectious, almost guaranteed to sweep the audience along in the upbeat portrayal of the life and death of Jesus. Mostly lively, sometimes raucous, this production shows why the show is still running in New York after its smash success opening off-Broadway in 1971.

Godspell was conceived and adapted by a young student, John Michael Tebelak, and its songs are by an equally young man, Stephen Schwartz. The Godspell cast album won a Grammy Award for Best Score and became, in 1972, the only cast album on the charts. Day by Day, a hit single, and several other songs from the show have been recorded by major groups since.

OVER THE FIELD, THROUGH THE WOODS

Griese Booted In Miami 9-3 Win

MIAMI (AP) — Quarterback Bob Griese's self-confidence despite his erratic passing paid off in the closing seconds Sunday when he led the Miami Dolphins to a touchdown that beat the Kansas City Chiefs 9-3.

Coach Don Shula called the passing effort "as poor as I've seen it," but said he never considered replacing Griese. Griese's off-target fourth down pass killed one drive on Kansas City's three-yard line, and an interception ended another march at the Chiefs' seven.

Miami possession at the Chiefs' 28 in the third period, but the Dolphins couldn't capitalize. Foley said the Dolphins expected to block some punts after films showed the Chiefs spread their receivers too far and didn't have enough blockers.

Tampa QB Shut Off

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — It started out looking like another superb night for Tampa quarterback Freddie Solomon. But from then on, it was all Louisiana. The Ragin' Cajuns scored on a two-yard run by quarterback Barry Pollard in the first quarter, and two fourth-quarter field goals by Rafael Septine.

Basketball Pro Chart

SAN DIEGO CONQUISTADORS ABA — Western Division 1973-74 (finish: W 37, L 47 — 4th place tie)

Surprisingly, the Conquistadors made the playoffs last season, beating Denver in a one-game playoff for the first berth in the West after tying with the Nuggets for fourth place during the regular season.

Surprising because they did it with three rookies — Caldwell Jones, Dwight Lamar and Tim Bassett — in the starting lineup. Surprising, because they did it with the worst defense in the league (115.7 points a game, compared to their offensive average of 113.2, best in the ABA). Surprising, because they did it with a coach — Walt Chamberlain — who often gave the appearance of not caring and mistreated his players.

Surprising because they played their home games in a meagre 3,200-seat arena that often was not filled, certainly no inducement for winning (this season, they'll play in the 15,000-seat San Diego Sports Arena).

Long Distance Runner Needs Courage, Skill And 'Mace'

By IRA BERKOW The Herald Services The sun's morning rays were already growing warm as they spilled in an orange stream across the East River, and then onto the concrete promenade where Kathy Switzer ran.

Kathy couldn't scream; the sound was caught in the pit of her stomach. "Gimme your money," she said. "I'm gonna cut you."

had to get the hole pointed in the exact direction. She touched the can. And now everything went fantastically slow, like in a dream sequence. She brought the can up, spraying all the way. She remembers seeing the stream come out losers and two of them bowed to other ranked teams.

Later, the Amateur Athletic Union carried her and other women from competing with men (she had run distance on her college team, too). She successfully fought that ruling, with the help of others. In 1972, she was running in the Boston Marathon again, but this time legally.

Kathy Switzer has been striving since the Boston Marathon of 1967 to earn a place for herself and other women athletes in the male-dominated sports world. She feels warm, even in athletic events, she always looked at as women first and athletes last, by officials, some participants and many other spectators.

She heard her neck, coming from some distant place, saying, so absurdly rational in this monstrous moment, "But you can plainly see I have no money."

The footsteps were coming closer behind her. She did not turn around this time. Just another case of fragile male ego, she said to herself. Men often pass her, she believes, because they don't like the feeling of running behind a woman.

Kathy received national attention when she became the first female to run in the Boston Marathon, in 1967, when she

NFL Cards Alone In Unbeaten Ranks

By ALEX SACHARE AP Sports Writer And there was one ... tally.

The surprising St. Louis Cardinals are now the only undefeated team in the National Football League — the Minnesota Vikings and New England Patriots were knocked out from the ranks of the unbeaten Sunday — and Coach Don Coryell is enjoying his team's success to the fullest.

"The pressure of being unbeaten doesn't make any difference from a coaching standpoint, but I like it," said Coryell, in his second year at St. Louis since leaving San Diego State. "I wouldn't be in the business if I didn't."

Quarterback Jim Hart sparked the Cards to a 31-13 lead early in the fourth quarter, and they withstood two one-yard touchdowns runs by Houston's George Amundson for the victory.

Hart capitalized on a pair of Oiler fumbles and threw touchdown passes of six and 40 yards to Earl Thomas in a 1:32 minute span of the second quarter to spark the Cards.

Meanwhile, the Detroit Lions dropped Minnesota from the list of the unbeaten, upsetting the Vikings 20-16, while New England's balloon finally was burst by Buffalo 30-28.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, October 22, 1974

By CARROLL RUGHTER

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A most adverse day and evening to force any issues at all. Concentrate upon doing your own job well without making abrupt or dramatic changes, and give a smile of encouragement to those who feel discouraged.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Don't go off on a foolish tangent when more of value awaits your attention. Investigate an appealing new venture. Make right preparations.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Improve relations with co-workers and those who assist you in some community matter. Don't overwork, or you'll regret it. Safeguard health and be happier.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Plan time wisely so you can get into the work ahead of you and also enjoy amusements. A creative talent may take longer than expected.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You may not agree with a close friend's suggestions, but discuss your ideas quietly, and you reach your own conclusions. Use diplomacy.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Plan time wisely so you can get into the work ahead of you and also enjoy amusements. A creative talent may take longer than expected.

THAT'S YOUR SIGN! Your adviser does not see eye to eye with a new contact. Make your own decisions.

PICES (Dec. 22 to Jan. 30) Know all the facts before deciding on a matter where adviser and associate do not agree. Learn by listening carefully.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will always look at both sides of any problem, question, and then come to a firm decision. This is the key to the success in their career, or work in educational fields. The innovator is also in this chart, but on a practical basis. Religion is a must early.

THE STARS IMPLE, they do not compel. "What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!"

Basketball Pro Chart

SAN DIEGO CONQUISTADORS ABA — Western Division 1973-74 (finish: W 37, L 47 — 4th place tie)

Surprisingly, the Conquistadors made the playoffs last season, beating Denver in a one-game playoff for the first berth in the West after tying with the Nuggets for fourth place during the regular season.

Surprising because they did it with three rookies — Caldwell Jones, Dwight Lamar and Tim Bassett — in the starting lineup. Surprising, because they did it with the worst defense in the league (115.7 points a game, compared to their offensive average of 113.2, best in the ABA). Surprising, because they did it with a coach — Walt Chamberlain — who often gave the appearance of not caring and mistreated his players.

Surprising because they played their home games in a meagre 3,200-seat arena that often was not filled, certainly no inducement for winning (this season, they'll play in the 15,000-seat San Diego Sports Arena).

College Football Weekend Normal (?)

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer After four upset-filled weeks, college football scenes returned to normal Saturday.

Indiana's Lee Corso and Colorado's Mallory could not compare the 12 teams directly, but they had some thoughts, anyway.

Fullbacks Wayne Bullock and Russ Korman split four touchdowns as Notre Dame touched down on the ground-gainer in Big Ten history.

Griffin's 16th consecutive 100-yard regular-season game, one short of the national record held by Oklahoma's Steve Owens. Griffin also passed the century mark in the Rose Bowl last Jan. 1, but that doesn't count in the NCAA record book.

BOOK REVIEWS

THE PIRATE by Harold Robbins, Simon & Schuster, 408 Pages, $9.95.

There was ever a book that mixed formula writing and top talent, this seems to be a classic example. "The Pirate" has sex, intrigue, suspense, racism, action and timeliness — everything needed for book sales and a potential movie.

That takes care of the product. Now for the producer: the author obviously has polished talent or he couldn't have combined all those ingredients into a readable work that isn't stumbling all over itself. And this book is readable — at best excitingly and at worst embarrassingly.

There are two dominant characters and several other figures of almost equal strength. All the characters complement each other and are carefully meshed by Robbins so that their relationships add to the color and magnetism of the story.

TV Takes Look At 'Lush' Life

NEW YORK (AP) — The Public Broadcasting Service tonight is airing "Drink, Drunk, Drunk," a one-hour look at the lush life. It's a must-see viewing for anyone concerned about the major disease called alcoholism.

Produced by WQED in Pittsburgh and hosted by Carol Burnett, its main emphasis is on helping families and employers of problem drinkers spot the symptoms of alcoholism and suggesting how to best cope with alcoholics.

But the heavy booter might also do well to watch it, if only for a very funny, yet razorsharp sketch about an alcoholic and his nondrinking, nagging wife. It was written by the husband-and-wife team of Joe Bologna and Renee Taylor.

They're contestants in a game show, "You Waste Your Life," in which the ceaselessly cheery m.c. (Ron Carey) notes the game is played for high stakes: "You can lose your wife, your family, your house, your self-respect and your dignity."
