An MP guard flanks the landing struts on a B-24 bomber on the island of Iwo Jima.

This figure is 73 percent greater than the 664,000 head of cattle reported in a new bulletin released this week by the Engineering and Industrial Experiment Station of the University of Gainesville.

The bulletin, entitled "An Inventory of Hides and Skins in Florida," and written by Fred W. May, research engineer of the engineering college, claims that 40,000 hides were shipped from Florida during 1944, according to information obtained from hide dealers and packing plants.

Thereafter the unit has been as advertised, even handling heavy equipment for one River crossing. During its busiest period, December to April, the company had 26 trucks on the road on a daily average.

River Engineers Find Way To Check Mississippi

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE Associated Press Science Editor
MCKESSBURG, Miss.—The Mississippi River this year pours down its power reaches its second greatest recorded flood and there has been serious damage.

The results indicate that for the first time engineers have sought out with the Father of Waters to avert repetitions of great disasters fought since 1730.

Army Engineers have won a major victory by curbing a deluge so great that had it been running into Lake Erie, it would have raised that lake more than seven inches daily for weeks.

For months the men of the Mississippi River Commission, under Brig. Gen. Max C. Tyler, fought for high stakes, not only in lives and property, but in the war effort. This river has been one of the nation's great highways for war distribution of gasoline and oil. A single barge steamer pushes up river in one day 2,000,000 worth of gasoline, equivalent to about six to nine loaded freight trains.

Delivers Its Goods
The river also delivered to the sea more than 2,200 new ships, landing craft for troops built in inland fields, jet-tray, escorts, rising high of buoyancy tanks, a score of fleet submarines floated down in drydocks, and tankers and ocean-going craft.

A greater future is indicated by the river traffic in peace by the fact that the controls which averted disaster this year also make it possible to maintain a 12-foot-deep channel with the equipment formerly needed to hold nine feet in low water.

This year, tributaries contributed to create such a large flood, to make the great Mississippi flood. Among them the Ohio had one of its largest rises of record and the Red and the Tensas had their largest floods of known history.

The Mississippi was cut off by six great cutoffs, the continuation of years ago. The cutoffs were made by the river cutting through the levees, the river cutting through the levees, the river cutting through the levees, the river cutting through the levees.

Lawn Mowers—Prewar Versus Postwar

Will Curry isn't falling for those pictures of a postwar life of ease. He was sweating over his lawn mower the other day, when somebody shows him pictures of a mower that runs under its own power.

"Sheesh," says Will, "I like a lawn mower that gives you some backtalk and exercise. It gets the old blood circulating and works up a wonderful thirst. Then," Will adds with zest, "there's nothing in the whole world that tastes as good as a cheerful glass of beer!"

From where I sit, there's a lot of good sense in what Will says. A little honest effort never hurt anybody. And there should be more to our post-war plans than how to make life comfortable and easy.

Outdoor work—work you do with your hands and your back—ought to be part of everybody's post-war plans. And on a hot day, as Will says, there's always that sparkling glass of beer as a reward!

A BANKER appraises the South

THESE FACTS about the South are from a speech made recently in New York by ROBERT M. HANES, President, Wachovia Bank and Trust Company, President, Association of Reserve City Bankers, and past President, American Bankers Association and North Carolina Bankers Association.

Resources: The South produces 95% of the nation's cotton... 90% of the tobacco... 75% of the natural gas... 60% of the crude petroleum... 50% of the bituminous coal... 40% of the lumber... 47% of the wood pulp... 12% of the iron ore, and 26% of the electric power output. The South has 80% of the active cotton spindles and manufactures 90% of the nation's tobacco products and 26% of its paper and paperboard.

Industry: From 1900 to 1939, the value of the South's industrial production increased 700% as compared to a 366% increase for the states outside the South.

Agriculture: The intensified need for food and raw materials has forced improved methods, diversification and intensive cultivation in agriculture. Farm mortgage debt has been greatly reduced and the farmer has learned new techniques and better farm management. In 1943, the South accounted for 40% of the national farm crop income.

Transportation: The South has 81,475 miles of railroads, 350,000 miles of modern highways, 21 airlines, and excellent ports, harbors and inland waterways.

Banking: In 1910, the South's banking resources were $3,275 million; today they are $23 billion. Savings deposits have increased from $575 million to $3 1/2 billion; and life insurance in force from $3 1/2 billion to more than $30 billion.

War Production: The war production program has brought new and diversified industry to the South, developing a large supply of skilled labor. The South is a land of mild temperatures, ample rainfall, abundant sunshine and long growing seasons. Its people are not crowded together in large cities, but scattered in smaller cities and towns, where living and working conditions are more attractive. They are supported partly by industry and trade and partly by agriculture. This pattern fits perfectly into the current trend of dispersal of large industries.

The speculation of his eagle mind hovered above their ignorance of him, and he was just and generous and kind and whimsical and grim.

He had an erudition hard to match, a pride upon whose point he often ran, quicksilver wisdom difficult to catch, the ironic mask of Man.

About his mouth there was a smiling hid that gave the death could never turn to stone, and when he lay lowered down the coffin lid I heard a trumpet blown. WILLIAM ROSE BENT.

The Ration Board

The rationing of food, gasoline and other commodities in Seminole County has not been without its problems, inconveniences and headaches for all of us. No one hates to stand in line any more than the average American, or to be told by someone else what he needs and what he can get along without, or to be restricted in any way in the use of things to which he has become accustomed. But how much more difficult and unpleasant for all of us could the ration program have been if it had not been handled fairly, honestly and intelligently.

Seminole County owes a debt of gratitude to the Seminole County Ration Board, H.C. DuBose, R.B. Wight, M.S. Wiggins, E.B. Randall and Lieut. W.R. Dougan, as well as to the members of the Tire Panel, Mr. Wight, Roy Holler and Porter Lansing, and the members of the Gasoline Panel, Mr. Wiggins, Glenn Lingle, W.A. Patrick and John Newell, for the time and impartial consideration they have voluntarily given to the problems of rationing.

And to A.B. Peterson, secretary of the Ration Board, goes a major share of the credit for the orderly and efficient handling of the enormous volume of details incident to providing each and every family in Seminole County with a fair share of the limited supplies available for this county's use during the war. It was a monumental task which he was given and that it could be handled at all without a complete breakdown of the machinery of distribution is one of the miracles of the age in which we live.

Only one who has been through the offices of the Ration Board, seen the extensive filing system, witnessed the books in which records are kept of millions of ration coupons, and thumbed through the countless rules and regulations from Washington with their almost daily changes which pertained to the operation of 137 food stores, 93 restaurants, 139 service houses and several hundred other miscellaneous businesses, to say nothing of 24,000 food consumers, 23,000 users of fuel oil, and over 5,000 automobile owners, can appreciate the size to which this biggest business in Seminole County had grown.

The danger of making mistakes must have been ever present. The chances of favoritism must have been constant and the opportunities for graft must have been enormous. That the office has been conducted here for the better part of three years to the complete satisfaction of the general public and with an absolute minimum of criticism and complaint reflects great credit on the members of the board and the entire personnel of the organization.

However objectionable were some of the inconveniences on the home front, they might have become unbearable had the Ration Board not functioned in the manner in which it did.

Using Up Reserves

When one member of a family becomes seriously ill at first the family lives as it did before, financially speaking and draws on its bank reserve to finance the emergency. As weeks drag into months, the reserve dwindles and the family cuts down on the cost of daily living for the well folks.

It has to stop adding to the bank balance, and even with the reduced standard of living—cheaper food, less clothing, only the most necessary replacements, no improvements—with all this reduction it still finds the reserve disappearing. Now it is right up against it. The income does not cover all the necessary buying, and luxury purchases are only a memory.

When the patient finally starts to get well, house and family are shabbily clothed, everything needs paint, plumbing, wallpaper. There are holes in the rugs and debt at the bank. The family is happy, but it has to start at scratch to build up again. It will take a long time, and comes hard on everyone.

That's what happens to a nation at war. With the fighting over, despair turns to hope. But shelves and cupboards are empty. Coal? Textiles? There were reserves of these at first, and of food, and leather for shoes. But war eats up reserves. Lumber, paper, steel have gone into its insatiable maw.

Patience and constructive effort are more needed now than ever. It's not quite cricket to bowl out all authorities for every shortage. Most of them are doing the best they can. War itself is to blame.

Yugoslavia Lucky When It Comes To Food

By William B. King AP newsmaster

BELGRADE — Yugoslavia began her postwar planning when peace was only a forlorn hope and the revival of dismembered and dream.

The same forces which made possible the seemingly impossible guerrilla war are working today to rebuild Yugoslavia economically and politically.

Concerning food, Yugoslavia has been luckier than most countries. The areas of greatest devastation and need are the Adriatic ports where UNRRA ships discharge relief cargoes, while the areas cut off by destroyed communications are natural food producers.

Without UNRRA there would have been starvation, but without the Yugoslav will to recover, UNRRA's job might last indefinitely.

Immediate needs are food and motor transport, long range needs are farm and industrial machinery, locomotives and rolling stock.

The first winter of peace will be a test both for UNRRA and Yugoslavia. The mountain roads will be blocked by snow. Food reserves will be practically nonexistent, now the main staple diet for most, will disappear.

One important economic factor stands out in postwar Yugoslavia. Confusion proceedings against collaborationists, economic saboteurs and "enemies of the people" have put a large portion of industry and business in the hands of the government.

Critics of the regime have charged this was a program to nationalize industry and business by court procedure. Be that as it may, there is no doubt Yugoslavia had her full share of collaborationists who profited from trade with the occupiers while the Partisans fought in the woods.

The government is working hard, and with apparent success, in reorganizing and operating these confiscated industries just as it moved aggressively to put unused land into cooperative cultivation. Yugoslavia has not the political stresses of other European movements and differing political groups, the resistance movement is the government. The government is the one which was planned in the forests by the military operations by the Partisans.

Youth For Christ Movement Is Going On Holy Crusade

By WILLIAM J. CONWAY AP Newsmaster

CHICAGO — The Youth for Christ movement, a religious revival that spread to North America as a contemporary of jitterbugging and bobby sox, is going abroad.

The organization, still relatively new, already is functioning in 500 communities, conducting rallies attended regularly by 500,000 young people. It was reorganized recently to prepare for domestic and foreign expansion.

The Rev. Torrey Johnson, the movement's 35-year-old president, plans to lead a force of 25 workers to Great Britain, Scandinavia and Germany next winter.

"Our firm conviction is that as goes Germany, so goes Europe," he says. "Hitler demonstrated that the German youth will follow leadership. Unfortunately, he gave them the wrong kind. We propose to give them a Christian leadership with all the idealism of American democracy."

The tall, curly-haired clergyman is confident, but he expects opposition.

"There are a number of forces competing for youth," he says. "One is secularism—indifference to God. Then there are materialism and communism. The future belongs to youth. As go the youth, so go the nation and civilization."

Seated at his desk at headquarters of the organization, now called Youth for Christ International—Johnson concedes he is "astounded" by its swift growth. It sprouted spontaneously shortly before the war in the form of scattered and uncoordinated

OLD CLOTHES FOR EUROPE

Friday night meetings designed to win and boost young people for Christ. Some of the early sites were New York, Detroit, Philadelphia, Indianapolis and Hartford.

Johnson, pastor of Chicago's Midwest Bible Church, joined the youth movement in May, 1944. Weekly gatherings here attracted 3,000 young citizens to the church, and Johnson has even more to the larger Moody Church. The fast-moving program featured short sermons, prayers, trumpet solos, remarks by speakers, business executives, and athletes converted to the cause—two dozen on the average—came forward.

Special rallies brought a capacity crowd of 23,000 to the Chicago Stadium in October, 1944, and 10,000 to Soldier Field last May. Newspapers reported these phenomenal numbers. Johnson, a fluent preacher who speaks the language of youth, was described as "another Dwight L. Moody in the making" and "a second Billy Sunday."

The movement is non-denominational and international—willing to cooperate with all who are willing to cooperate. It pays its own way with free will offerings and donations from interested business men.

While this novel sawdust trail was branching out since 1944, a temporary coordinating organization was formed. This year the leaders met late in July to plan the organization on a permanent basis, and chose Johnson as president. They named Richard Harvey of St. Louis first vice president and selected 10 regional vice presidents, one for each major geographical division of the U. S. and Canada.

For the next 12 months they fixed a $200,000 budget, and planned expansion, city by city, and one farm neighborhood to another, with the ultimate goal of girdling the globe.

Johnson, who obtained a Baptist minister but operated his Midwest Baptist Church for 12 years as an independent institution, holds a doctor's degree, but favors informality and fancy bow ties. He's brisk as the breezes of his native Windy City.

He discusses the projects ahead earnestly and optimistically. "We expect God to open the door for us," he says.

In 1928 Egypt declined the offer of John D. Rockefeller, Jr. of $10,000,000 to help establish a museum for her antiquities.

During 1944, there were 2,000 deaths in grade crossing accidents—a seven per cent increase over 1943.

During 1944, 4,000 OPA price assistants made 4,800,000 calls upon merchants.

Civil Service To Limit Applicants To War Veterans

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 22. (Special) Until further notice the United States Civil Service Commission will not receive any applications for employment in the Federal service except from those veterans who have the right to have examinations re-opened for them.

The Commission has taken this step, according to a statement issued today, in order to make sure that any vacancies which develop in the Federal service will be filled either by returning veterans or by persons who are about to be or have been separated from other positions in the Federal service.

"The Federal Government as an employer," stated the Commission, "must set the example in providing the members of the armed forces who are coming through our separation centers today with the maximum possible opportunities for employment."

"Also the Federal Government is determined not to put itself in a position where it is discharging persons in one part of the Federal service and, at the same time, hiring persons from the outside to fill similar positions in another part of the Federal service."

Where the supply of returning veterans and the supply of persons involved in reductions in force in the Federal service are not sufficient to fill vacancies, the Commission's officials, both in Washington and in the field, have been authorized to lift the ban on receipt of applications. In certain occupational areas such action will be taken very promptly after the Commission's field officials have had the opportunity of appraising the situation which confronts them as a result of the cessation of hostilities.

"It would be a complete waste of time, energy and money for the Commission to continue to appoint persons who are outside of the Federal service and who are non-veterans if the needs of the service can be met by returning veterans and those who are on the Federal payroll," the Commission pointed out. "All of our resources must be available for the orderly handling of reductions in force, the prompt transfer of persons who are laid off to other agencies which may be looking for persons with their qualifications, and the administration of the Veterans' Preference Act of 1944."

Nurses Perform Essential Service

By W.V. Blitting Touchton Drug Co.

Doctor's orders must be heeded if recovery from illness is to proceed normally. On one point, he is absolute; the patient must have constant care.

The trained nurse is essential to first rate care. She is skilled, confident and tireless. Her quick eye notes every change in condition, her ready brain interprets the patient's changing needs.

Nurses are at a premium, of course. Thousands are overseas. Those who remain on duty on the home front are more valuable than ever. When the doctor recommends good nursing service, he knows exactly how precious and valuable this service is. Follow the doctor's orders, both in the matter of nurse's care and in the matter of medication.

Shoppers Paradise Post-War Butcher Tennis Star Gives Seen As Returning Shop To See Many Improvements Credit For Rise Before Christmas

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26—(AP)—"I wish I could see the things I would have seen when I was in the butcher's shop," said a young man yesterday, looking at the display of clothing in the window of the biggest authority in the city on the clothing trade. ### Florida Cattle Industry Seeks To Improve Meat

... has arranged for the preparation and posting of live stock placards illustrating the economic losses resulting from improper handling of animals. It is a recognized fact that both weight and quality of meat may be seriously affected by rough handling of stock in transit from farm to market center, and while in the yards awaiting sale, and movement to the packing plants.

"This campaign undertaken by Dr. Knapp is very important to the improvement of the position of our live stock industry. It is very much in line with the long-time efforts of Nathan Mayo, Commissioner of Agriculture, to build up and improve that industry. The Commissioner's interest, it will be recalled, has been given emphasis within the last few weeks through Budget Board approval of plans for reconstruction of live stock show rings at several points throughout the State. This construction will provide the best of facilities for handling live stock and should have a beneficial influence throughout the entire Florida industry.

"Live stock markets operated in connection with the State Farmers' Markets System are spotted advantageously throughout Florida, serving Arcadia, Bonifay, DeFuniak Springs, Quincy, Goodno, Palatka, Plant City, Jay, Teala and adjacent territories. Independent markets and other facilities are also available at other points throughout the State.

"With hundreds of head of cattle and hogs being handled through most of these centers at each sale, the importance of the campaign being conducted by Dr. Knapp is easily visualized. We feel that it should have hearty support from all concerned.

Reports from various production centers indicate, said Director Wilson, that preparations are going forward for substantial plantings of Fall vegetable crops.

"Celery seed beds at Sanford are doing well, also cabbage and cauliflower," according to the State Farmers' Markets director. "The canning of guavas and peaches continues at Titusville.

"Increased trucking is indicated for this Fall at Palatka. The same is true at Fort Pierce where farmers are reported planting more pepper and eggplant seed beds than formerly."

Hal Gregg Got His Start In California

DUROCHER SEES FINE FUTURE FOR STRIKEOUT ARTIST GREGG

By FRANK ECK

AP Newsfeatures Staff writer

BROOKLYN.—Leo Durocher chuckles ever time Hal Gregg wins a game for the Brooklyn Dodgers. It was a tipy who pitched Gregg would become a better pitcher than Bill Vosselle, the six-foot-four hurler who won 21 games as a freshman with the Giants last season.

"Right now Gregg is one of the best pitchers in the National League," said Manager Durocher after Hal had won his fifth straight victory by pitching a shutout, his first in the major leagues. "I always contended that Gregg would be greater than Vosselle. It looks like Hal has finally arrived. He has learned to control his curve and is a fine competitor."

Until Gregg, a six-foot-11, inch right hander from Anaheim, Calif., recently ran afoul of the champion St. Louis Cardinals, he had not together a brilliant string of 44 innings during which he yielded only one score run. His record showed 15 victories and 7 losses. The Cards beat him 4-0, as Ken Burkhardt stole a Brooklyn bat with four hits.

Gregg, who hadn't thrown a ball in a game until he was 18, just missed the Hall of Fame when he lost the Braves, 2-1, a double by former teammate Joe Medwick, in the eighth ruined a no-hit game.

Gregg got his start with the Fullerton, Calif., Firemen in 1929. A buddy of his was a member of the team and one day he got Gregg to pitch. He never pitched more than a few innings that year but the next season Brooklyn scouts saw potentialities in this strapping 195 pounder. He attended a Dodger baseball school and in 1941 Gregg was with Olean, N. Y., in the Pony League. He advanced to Santa Barbara in the California State League the next season and in '42 he broke even in 22 decisions pitching for Montreal. Last year he won 16 for the Bums.

Gregg, one of the workhorses of the league, figures to be one of the stars of the season. Vosselle, the league's strikeout leader this season, Gregg showed 109 strikeouts in his first 100 innings.

Gregg should become Brooklyn's first 20 game winner since 1941 when Kirby Higbe and Whit Wyatt both won 22 victories in hurling the dodgers to the pennant.

This is all the more remarkable because Gregg was born with a Sacroiliac back. And just before he decided to try his hand at pitching he aggravated his spine by working in a California feed mill. But a bone was grafted from Gregg's hip and he now has plenty of backbone, as National League hitters will attest.

RURAL COMMON SENSE
By Spada-Johnson

PROMISE OF FUTURE IS TO BE REALIZED BY WORK AND ENERGY

While the future may not turn out to be as rosy as some have dreamed and hoped for during the long war, it nevertheless is bright with promise if we take advantage of the possibilities to be offered, the things we have learned, and if we attack the problems of peace-time with even a fraction of the vigor and determination that we exercised to surmount the difficulties of war.

Nearly everybody has been working as hard as possible during the past four years to achieve the goals and get the war tasks done, but the coming of peace does not mean that it's time to revert to old and inefficient and non-progressive ways and ideas. It is necessary to "keep on your toes," as athletes say, and be ready and alert, energetic and imaginative. Agriculture will have its reconversion the same as industry, although it may come more slowly. Adjustments must be made. Problems many of them serious, will have to be solved. We have learned much about better nutrition and have profited from this knowledge with better health, we have developed new and more efficient methods of working, we have seen the value of electricity, and have the promise of using many things that were developed for war to make our living in peace-time more comfortable and satisfying. The field for improvement of farming and rural living is open, and it is up to all rural people to forge forward in peace-time progress to realize the benefits that await them.

But, everyone should be assured continued effort, initiative, co-operation, and imagination are going to be necessary to realize many of the things which so many people have looked forward since 1941. There is much promise in the future, and the extent to which that promise is realized depends largely, as it always has, on the will and energy of those who wish to profit from it.

The war, with its tragedy and strain and destruction, is over. It is up to everyone to move forward now, progressively and constructively, to the more satisfying ways and goals of peace-time.

More Comfortable and Satisfying

While the future may not turn out to be as rosy as some have dreamed and hoped for during the long war, it nevertheless is bright with promise if we take advantage of the possibilities to be offered, the things we have learned, and if we attack the problems of peace-time with even a fraction of the vigor and determination that we exercised to surmount the difficulties of war.

Nearly everybody has been working as hard as possible during the past four years to achieve the goals and get the war tasks done, but the coming of peace does not mean that it's time to revert to old and inefficient and non-progressive ways and ideas. It is necessary to "keep on your toes," as athletes say, and be ready and alert, energetic and imaginative. Agriculture will have its reconversion the same as industry, although it may come more slowly. Adjustments must be made. Problems many of them serious, will have to be solved. We have learned much about better nutrition and have profited from this knowledge with better health, we have developed new and more efficient methods of working, we have seen the value of electricity, and have the promise of using many things that were developed for war to make our living in peace-time more comfortable and satisfying.

Mole Cricket Bait Is Expected Here

A shipment of mole cricket bait is expected to arrive at the Sanford State Farmers Market for free distribution to local growers on about Sept. 1, it was announced today by County Agent C.R. Dawson.

Terms will be the same as last year with those receiving the bait paying for transportation and freight in advance of distribution by applying at the county agents office. Growers must furnish their own bags for the bait.

Distribution of bait will be at the rate of 30 pounds per acre or 120 pounds per level bed. The bait will probably be better than that used last year because of the increase in the amount of bait distributed at the rate of 10 more pounds of poison per 100 pounds of bait.

Florida Has the Natural Resources that Could Be Turned to Varied Manufacturing Enterprises!

Raw materials can be processed into glass, plastics, leather, paint, pottery, all of the products and by-products of the lumber industry, abound in Florida.

Florida's sands and clays, its deposits of ilmenite, zircon and rutile, the products of its fields and forests offer a glowing opportunity to the industrialist who wishes to profit from this happy combination of tremendous natural advantages and ready access to great local, national and international markets. Florida is only a matter of hours away from vast West Indies and South American markets. The time to investigate and act is now. Florida's industrial empire is coming into its own.

FLORIDA POWER & LIGHT COMPANY

The Industrial Development Department of Florida Power & Light Company is pleased to furnish information on a number of Florida's industrial sites. For a general list of these sites, please write to the Industrial Development Department, Florida Power & Light Company, Box 1300, Miami, Florida.
