He is married, his wife's name is Violet, and he has eight children, who is a "happy" although his real number is Bascom Jr., and a daughter Evelyn, age four. The Rev. Carlton says a new building is soon to be started on the lakefront for boys 10 to 12 years of age, and there are additional plans for several cottages to replace the larger buildings at the home.

The mysterious man apparently saw him approaching Boucher and believes he got one shot at the prowler before losing consciousness.

The announcement was made by New York Hospital, where Taft is recuperating from the operation of the abdominal wall made last week.

Physicians said the baby's birth was natural but they could not tell if it was premature or how much because Mrs. Cubbage was unable to give them the history of her pregnancy.

Levine's Trial Is Scheduled Aug. 13

The trial of Alex Levine Jr., the Geneva Negro who was involved in an accident in which a Puerto Rican farm laborer was killed last month, was set for Aug. 13 at this morning's County Court session.
In all, over 50 cases were docketed by County Judge Douglas Stenstrom this morning, including the future trials in the case in which M. L. Glinder of South Sanford Avenue is charged with selling alcoholic beverages on Sunday.
He is free on a $1,000 bond and the largest bond posted among the 50 old cases set for trial. Mr. and Mrs. Bill Duskin, who are charged on four counts of gambling, had their trial scheduled for Aug. 18.

Hospital Consultants Awaited

Just as soon as the Seminole County hospital bond issue is approved by the State Supreme Court, a member of the consulting firm of Francis I. Rogers and J. E. Butler, New York City architects, will come to Sanford to go over the entire layout.
That announcement was made today by Elinor J. Moughton speaking for herself and her associate, James Gamble Rogers II, who have been retained to draw up plans for the new hospital which will be located on East First Street.
"We want our consultants to be thoroughly familiar with all aspects of the case," declared Mr. Moughton.
He added that "it is our desire to complete the preliminary sketches as soon as possible so that when and if the bond issue is approved we can begin at once on the working drawings and specifications."
Supreme Court action on the bond issue can be expected any time between now and the end of the month. The necessary briefs were filed over the past week in the Supreme Court for early disposition. County Attorney Lloyd F. Boyle has pointed out that appeals of this nature take priority over all other civil and criminal cases.
Mr. Moughton pointed out that in the firm of Rogers and Butler, he and his associate had re-

Official U. S. Navy Photo Station before turning the command over to Lt. Gerald H. Pearson. The inspection was part of the change of command ceremonies held yesterday, which was Lt. H. H. ## U. S. Soldiers Are In Big Push Area

SPOTLIGHT on the Korean counter-attack. Allied Infantrymen, perhaps including American soldiers, are pushing down Red gains of an to cover the common central front today in what Gen. Maxwell Taylor called "the first resumption of open warfare in two years."
Latest reports cleared by censors said South Korean soldiers hit and overran about 1,500 Chinese Reds in the Kumson River valley.
Taylor, U.S. 8th Army commander, disclosed that the Chinese Reds' massive 10 division offensive this week might last 10 to 20 years flatland the Allies' Kumson bridge. This meant a U.S. withdrawal of up to seven miles and total Red gains of up to 60 square miles.
The 9th American Corps and 2nd Korean Corps were alerted as mopping the Kumson River line the first disclosure that U.S. Infantrymen were in the area hit by the giant Red push.

Sailors Lauded For Blood Gift To Save Life

The quick action of sailors at FASHION 51 of the Naval Air Station here in donating blood for Mrs. W. P. Brooks' comatose ill in an Orlando hospital was praised today by Mrs. Helen Farley, her daughter, and Mrs. E. L. Bauman.
Mrs. Farley in a letter to the staff of the hospital stated that her mother is showing improvement now, but without the help of the men of the station I don't know what we would have done had Mrs. Brooks died.
She wrote that on behalf of her mother and our entire family, I would like to express our deep appreciation for the wonderful response when we asked for donations.
Mrs. Bauman, also in a letter to Robert Bauman, said "When I heard that Elsie Farley's mother was in need of 20 pints of blood I called the chaplain's office to see if some men there would help."
The response was marvelous. I arranged transportation for 12 men who were K. L. Porter, F. E. Flinn, D. H. Schaefer, B. Baxter, D. H. Swanson, J. M. E. Childs, W. F. Hayes, J. W. Whigham, J. Allen, W. C. and W. W. Woodruff all of FASHION 51.
I turned out that was all the blood needed but I certainly have a great appreciation for being so wonderful.
I want to thank Chief Joe Stepp, who sent me the 12 men, and me had six men who would give blood. Mr. E. L. Bauman of Volusia County, who had had his blood given to me, and I would like to have more blood given to me. I can put into words."

Keeping Our Neighbors Happy

A member of the Board of Editors of U. S. News and World Report recently travelled through the same countries which will be visited by Dr. Milton Eisenhower, brother of the President, on his goodwill tour and fact-finding mission. The editor concluded that the good feeling toward the United States which had been built up in these Latin American countries as the result of past programs such as the Good Neighbor Policy, is generally deteriorating.

Some of these countries fear that there will be increased tariffs on goods they produce and such increases might wreck their economies. They resent the lack of attention paid them by the United States and

Costs That Are Worthy

"Control of River a Costly Project," says a headline in the New York Times, referring to the program for harnessing the Missouri River.

And indeed the costs of these great improvements are almost terrifying in their size and demands upon the taxpayer's purse. But there is another side to the picture. Turn it over and look at the cost of not making the improvements.

Add up the cost in lives, injuries, illness, property damage and losses to cities, costs are put together and looked at carefully, cost of doing seems small compared to the cost of not doing.

There is still another point. These great projects often pay for themselves faster than engineers and bankers think they can. Some toll bridges, for example, have been paying for themselves so well that tolls have been reduced greatly or dropped altogether. Turnpikes are another illustration of big projects which pay off. People who travel over these pikes do not give much thought to the cost of the toll; on the other hand the comfort, speed and safety of driving over them more than compensates for the cost.

That is the way it is with most enormous projects. They not only pay for themselves in the ways expected but they develop by-products of usefulness. And it is more comforting to think of vast moneys going for constructive purposes than it is to look upon the sums spent for war.

Making Our Own Weather

Mark Twain's classic remark that "everybody talks about the weather but no one does anything about it," may soon be discredited. While scientists are fumbling about the weather outside, with their rain making devices and schemes, engineers are really doing something about the weather inside the house.

If the prophesies of the air conditioning industry can be taken at face value, home air conditioning units will be as common within a few years as washing machines and home freezers are today. At a recent meeting of business executives held in New York, the president of a company which specializes in making room air conditioning units estimated that one million such units will be manufactured this year.

This is indeed a wonderful country. A humorist who gibes at the futility of attempting what seems to be impossible, as Twain did in his remark about the weather, is always in danger of having someone turn around and succeed in the attempt.

Profit Statements Show Gains

NEW YORK—The first flash flood of profit statements show business earnings after taxes running almost one-fourth better than this time last year.

The first 26 corporations reporting on net income in the second quarter show more than two-thirds of them are outdistancing their profits for the corresponding three months in 1952. The 11 whose second quarter earnings are trailing last year in most cases report only slight drops.

Blockholdings should be happy. Corporations paid out about four billion dollars in dividends in the first half of this year, a gain of four per cent over a year ago.

Still another pleasant report in the day's news. The Securities and Exchange Commission and the Federal Trade Commission join to report that manufacturing companies made a net profit of $1.5 billion in the first three months of the year, a gain of 11 per cent over the first quarter of 1952.

The first 26 corporations reporting so far on their second quarter earnings are widely distributed through the various industries. They are both large and small. Some report for three-month periods ending May 31, but most for April, May and June.

Combined, they made net profits after taxes of $22,720,541 in the second quarter. This is a gain of 23.7 per cent over a year ago.

Heavily weighing the report on the bright side, however, is the big comeback of the steel companies. Three of them report combined earnings in the last three months 21.8 per cent over a year ago.

That, of course, is because in mid-June, 1952, their mills were idled by a strike.

The same weakness in comparisons carries over also into other industries. Some oil companies were struck during part of the second quarter.

Many companies that supply or serve the steel industry suffered from its strike, which extended they wonder why Secretary of State Dulles, who found time to make a trip to Europe and to the Middle East, could not come to their countries for firsthand information about their problems.

The Secretary of State is a busy man and the United States must center its attention on those parts of the world where our problems are most pressing. But it is important for us to retain harmonious relationships with Latin America.

If we fail to give leadership, if we continue to ignore the growing ill-feeling against us in the Latin American countries, we may be in for trouble. The Communists in these lands are bidding their time and adding fuel to the fire. It is to be hoped that Dr. Eisenhower will return from his trip with some concrete suggestions for strengthening the natural and necessary ties with our New World neighbors.

By GORDON DEAN
TODAY'S BIBLE VERSE
Humanity has been trying to learn God's plan for thousands of years. There is in each of us a still small voice ready and anxious to supply guidance. Touch me thy way, O Jehovah, and lead me in a plain path.—Ps. 27:11.

A Montreal news item declares that frog raising is a risky business. We were always told never to jump around too much.

Fathers who are discouraged because their sons reject their advice should not feel too discouraged. Remember Henry Ford's old man wanted him to be a farmer.

We don't like to be a wet blanket, nor do we like to cast gloom, but we just can't help but wonder . . . If the meat tenderizers do all they claim what happens to your stomach when you eat the stuff.

The Miami man who beat three young boys with a lug wrench because they annoyed him has been given ten years in prison, a period of time, we hope, sufficient to impress on him the consequences of his cowardly and brutal attack.

A director of the Smithsonian Institute has discovered that fried potatoes attract more birds than fancy bird feed proving that our feathered friends share a common weakness among us—steak and potato boys.

Do you think that men from the wide-open plains are all honest, have an innate sense of humor, and are basically rugged? Is your idea of a mid-westerner one who is tall and strong and an all-around good fellow and do you visualize an Emsteeper as rather emaciated, slim-cheeked, and slightly on the effeminate side? Do you picture the typical southerner as standing six-foot-two, handsome, a devil with the women, clever with cocktail, and a former half back of Georgia Tech? If you have all these reactions you are slightly provincial and you haven't learned that just as much hair grows on the chests of men in Maine as in Racine, that Oklahoma doesn't have a monopoly on honesty any more than New Hampshire, that the South isn't populated by colonies of Rhett Butlers.

Things are not always pleasant, the mornings may find one suffering from depression superinduced by headache, the outlook for the day may seem dismal indeed, so when you meet someone during the day with a happy smile and a cheerful word it is a rewarding experience. A customer came into the office the other day spreading good cheer, not just because the ad she had placed had brought good results, but because she was built that way, she had the merry, optimistic outlook on life and her manner made everyone catch the spirit. We never saw her before, but thank you, customer, for telling us about the ad, and thank you for your gracious spirit.

Bride Finds Rosy Theories Fade

(Editor's note: A June bride often worries in July that her marriage is already heading for the rocks. In the following article, last in a series, a panel of elderly husbands gives 10 golden rules to help her live happily ever after with the beast of her choice.)

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK—After the honeymoon rainbow fades, a June bride often finds her rosy theory of matrimony is full of more holes than swiss cheese at a picnic of mice.

Everything is going wrong, and the girl wails desperately: "What can I do to save my marriage and my baby?"

It is hard for her to realize that things aren't really as bad as they seem, and that her plight is normal. She doesn't understand the difference between breaking in a husband and breaking in a girl—namely, that a husband has something to say about the matter, in his case.

Trouble is depressed because the bride, in her panic, usually turns for advice to—
A. A sympathetic girl friend, who says, "Honey, everybody knows you're a sweet personality, and couldn't be your fault."
B. A cynical neighbor lady who just working at her own marriage years before and now says, "All men are humbugs."
C. Her lonely mother, who says, "Dear, I warned you that man was below your level. His eyes are too close together. You come home to me. I'll advise you thoroughly."

It takes a pretty level-headed bride, fed all that sugared feminine lullaby, not to end up feeling like a brave, plucky heroine slugged by more misfortune than anybody since Liza skipped from Leekes to Leekes.

Why shouldn't a bride balance the picture by asking some male counsel? A man might tactfully point out to her that her husband, although undoubtedly postmarked by sin and guilt since birth, probably doesn't lie awake at night thinking up new ways to stick pins in her.

As a contribution to the welfare of the bride, IBS model, I asked a panel of weather-beaten old husbands to give me 10 rules—from their point of view—that would help guide a bride to married happiness.

There is no point in thinking up rules for a bride who just feels sorry for herself," one said. "They would help only a girl who really wanted her marriage to work, and thought about them seriously over the years. No man can help a woman in the grip of self-pity, unless he knows her well enough to face her north and boot her from the south."

The other husbands said that was certainly true, even though they wouldn't put it in such robust terms.

After much head-scratching, they came up with 10 rules, which included some purely personal prejudices, such as "Don't try to blow smoke rings at cocktail parties," and "Don't chomp toast at breakfast—men don't like grinding noises in the morning."

Finally, they wedded them down to the following 10 Golden Outlets for Brides:

1. Your husband is neither your father nor the man of your dreams. He is only the man you married. You must face the fact he is a human being and has spent years developing his own personality, re-voluting as it is. By law, he is protected by the Bill of Rights just as much as you are.

2. Don't be hasty about trying to change your husband's small faults. He may go on to bigger ones. Anyway, you'll never learn to live with him if you insist they have to be changed.

3. Great emotions are generally silent, including love. Don't try because your husband takes your love for granted. What is love but a willing grant? You can teach a parrot to say "I love you" all day long—but he won't bring you home a paycheck.

4. Put your home-keeping and the comfort of your husband above every outside interest. Joan of Arc did save France, but—remember? She was a single girl.

5. If you run your house well, you couldn't possibly have the time to run your husband's job well, too. Let him run it.

6. Don't try to make him jealous by telling him how attractive other men find you. He is more likely to envy that you have been here cheaply.

7. A well-tempered husband is usually a good-tempered husband. Never throw to him wild meals at him in a row, unless you want to bring out the beast in him.

8. A man yearns to be proud of his wife. She can destroy that pride most easily by personal in-lidness and by making a fool of herself in public.

9. No matter how small your budget, try to get out together one night a week, even if you only go for a walk and look up and count the stars.

10. Never forget a woman is stronger than a man, and your husband needs your love and loyalty—and understanding even more than you need these things from him. Marriage is a 50-50 deal only over a lifetime. The score varies from day to day. A wife who, no matter how foolish her husband has been, will never make him feel the score is 100-0 against him.

—The members of this committee of 10 advise singlebros to hold out for one other rule.

"A bride should never bet the rent money at a racetrack," he said. "That'll curdle a marriage quicker than anything I know."

French Seize Vital Red City

With French Forces at Lang Son, Indochina (AP) — French union paratroopers today captured Lang Son, within 10 miles of the Communist Chinese frontier, in the boldest raid of the 7-year-old war against the Vietnam. They succeeded in wrecking the chief supply center for all war equipment supplied to the Vietnam by Red China.

A military spokesman said that while the troops were not expected to occupy Lang Son for long, the attack proved the French had definitely abandoned defensive tactics and were changing over to the offensive.

Five thousand paratroopers were dropped from American-supplied Dakota and flying boxcar transport planes in the lightning raid in the enemy's back yard. They quickly took over control of Lang Son, which had been in the hands of the Red-led Vietnam for three years.

The air attack caught the enemy at breakfast. The paratroopers swiftly routed scattered resistance after fighter planes and bombers silenced a group of Vietnam anti-aircraft batteries made up mostly of heavy machineguns.

Apparently the three solid weeks of air attack by French fighters and bombers had caused dispersal of most of the enemy's heavy forces into smaller units.

The sky troops lost no time in completing the partial job of destruction done in air assaults. They blew up huge stores of war supplies and ammunition. They dynamited bridges and temporary spans over the Ky Cua River linking Lang Son with Kwangsi province in Red China. Military installations were leveled. B-26 bombers ripped fresh caps in all
