Berger remains critical

LAKE MARY — Dustin Berger remains in critical condition at Orlando Regional Medical Center, a hospital spokesman said this morning. Berger, who fell from the back of a pickup truck on Friday night, was unable to attend his graduation at the Orlando Arena last night.

Hospital spokesman Josie Sosa said that Berger's condition had not improved during the last 24 hours, but she did not know if any surgery had been planned or was needed.

The Florida Highway Patrol said they are still investigating the cause of the accident.

Marder to address waterfront plan

SANFORD — The Sanford Historic Downtown Waterfront Association will hear of the Waterfront Development Plan Tuesday June 15. City Planner Jay Marder will be the guest speaker at a SHDWA meeting.

Marder has been leading the development of the waterfront area with citizen as well as steering committee input over the past several months.

He will be presenting color-coded maps and handouts, compiled from the series of meetings, many of which were attended by SHDWA members and leaders. The focal point of his discussion is expected to center on an overview of the project, and the specific areas where the plan will be concentrating in the initial phases.

Among the handouts will be a narrative, written by Ed Preston, the planning facilitator who compiled most of the ideas envisioned and implemented by the groups. The document is presented as Sanford being seen through the eyes of a visitor 20 years in the future.

Marder is also to give an update on the subcommittee's progress in producing prototypes of attractive signs which are being considered for placement along the waterfront.

The SHDWA meeting will be held at First Street Gallery, 203 E. First Street in downtown Sanford beginning Tuesday morning, June 15 at 8 a.m.

Bank on high fees

Local bank charges average a bit higher than state's

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Fees charged by local banks for a variety of services are slightly higher than those revealed in a statewide survey and vary from bank to bank.

Consumer groups claim Florida bank customers pay higher checking and saving account fees than customers in 22 other states surveyed. Only fees charged in the District of Columbia were higher.

The survey revealed Florida consumers with interest-bearing checking accounts paid fees averaging $9.76 a month compared with $7.56 average in other states surveyed. Fees for bounced checks averaged $23.35 per check compared with $18.35 elsewhere, according to a report released Tuesday by the Florida Public Interest Research Group in Tallahassee.

One of the reasons fees in Florida are higher may be attributed to the convenience offered customers including extensive use of Automatic Teller Machines (ATMs) and branch banks.

In a telephone survey this morning of six banks serving the Sanford area, bank fees varied. The annual percentage yield on interest-bearing checking accounts ranged from 1.76 to 1.78 percent. Sun Bank, Barnett Bank and First Union Bank required a $1,500 minimum daily deposit to avoid service charges. Seminole National Bank and First Seminole Bank requires a $1,000 minimum daily deposit while Southern Bank in Lake Mary does not require a minimum daily deposit.

County dividing $2.3 million in grant money

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County Community Development will be dividing up $2.336 million within the next two months, to be distributed to various agencies in the county.

"We took the proposal before the County Commission Monday afternoon, said Principal Planner Buddy Balagia, and they authorized us to publish a list in the local papers of those agencies we have suggested for funding for 1993."

The timetable for the next steps has now been approved by the commission. The first move will be to publish lists of organizations seeking financing, on June 17.

"We will be asking for input at that time," Balagia said, "and then, we plan to hold a hearing on it June 24. Once we get everything organized, we'll take it back to the county commission at the July 27 meeting for final consideration."

Organizations seeking financial help through the Community Development Block Grant Program were required to submit their requests by March of this year. No additional requests are being accepted.

"The money to be allocated for 1993 is higher than we've ever had before," Balagia said. "Last year, we only received $1,986 million." The money is provided by the U.S. department of Housing and Urban Development.

"We give it out in grants for a variety of projects," he said. "They include low income housing, senior centers, streets, paving and ORLANDO — With the theatrical pizzazz of a Broadway production, the Lake Mary High School class of 1993 made their final curtain call on the stage of the Orlando Arena last night.

From the corners of the darkened arena, giggles and hoots of nervous graduates echoed noisily from the vomitoria as young men in black and young ladies in red caps and gowns waited to march to their appointed seats.

Parents shifted in their seats alternatively fanning themselves with the program prepared to guide them through the proceedings and checking the readiness of their video recorders.

Friends and other supporters cheered at the slightest hint that the ceremony was set to begin.

SANFORD — The sun had barely risen above the eastern stands at Thomas E. Whigham Stadium at Seminole High School when the graduation candidates, robed in white gathered across the field.

Parents, friends and other well-wishers cheered and called out from the stands with the enthusiasm of a crowd of Seminole football fans.

Though the dew had not yet dried on the grassy field, temperatures approached 80 and programs for the event were quickly transformed into fans.

A half hour before the ceremony got underway, nearly every seat was taken in the orange and black facility. Some tried to push against the chain link fence that separates the stands from the field. Cameras flashed. However, fans were asked to move on so that more could come in. Still, by the time the ceremony began, there were no seats left to fill.

Deputies' wild chase ends in 8 charges for man

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — What started as a speeding stop, ended in a busy night for two Seminole County sheriff's deputies Monday. Eight charges were eventually filed against Kevin Todd Lippman, 29, of Altamonte Springs.

The first deputy reportedly clocked Lippman's vehicle at 33 miles per hour in a 25 mile per hour residential area in Altamonte Springs, and attempted to stop him. When Lippman's car eluded the officer, another deputy seeing a car matching the description gave chase.

The arrest report indicated Lippman's vehicle fled on S.R. 436 to Interstate-4, where it collided with a guard rail. When the second deputy approached, Lippman reportedly fled down the embankment into the I-4 area.

After the deputy stopped Lippman, he said a light broke out during which Lippman grabbed his flashlight and hit him repeatedly, as well as biting him on the left forearm.

With the assistance of the first deputy who arrived during the fight, and by using his baton, the deputy eventually managed to subdue Lippman and place him in handcuffs.

A subsequent search of his vehicle reportedly uncovered what officers labeled as a "crack can and crack stem" used in connection with drugs.

Lippman was charged with aggravated battery on a law enforcement officer, driving with a suspended/revoked license, reckless driving, possession of drug paraphernalia, attempted auto burglary, fleeing to elude a law enforcement officer, and violation of driver's license restrictions.

The deputy and Lippman were taken to the hospital for treatment of their wounds and released.

Lippman was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility.

Eatery accused of discrimination

MIAMI — Joe's Stone Crab, a historic restaurant which has been a gathering spot on Miami Beach since 1913, has been accused by federal authorities of discriminating against women in hiring practices.

The Miami district office of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission announced Tuesday it has filed a federal lawsuit. The suit claims since October 1988, the restaurant has intentionally discriminated by failing or refusing to hire women to wait on tables.

The suit also accuses Joe's Stone Crab of using "word-of-mouth" hiring practices and subjective employment interviews, which had an adverse impact on hiring women as waitresses.

The suit says the agency seeks an injunction prohibiting the restaurant from engaging in discriminatory employment practices and backpay for all aggrieved women.

Lascivious behavior brings arrests

MILTON — Seven weekend arrests for lewd and lascivious behavior at beaches where police have received complaints about homosexual activity have prompted Santa Rosa County commissioners to put on hold a proposed anti-nudity ordinance.

Commissioners had been planning to consider emergency passage of such an ordinance as part of the county's campaign to force nudists to cover up or clear out of an isolated area of Santa Rosa Island near Navarre Beach, about 20 miles east of Pensacola.

But Chief Sheriff's Deputy Wes Cummings told the panel nudity is less a concern than complaints about homosexual men soliciting straight men for sex and gay sexual activity on beaches and in public parking areas.

For years, as many as 200 people a day had been sunbathing in the buff at a beach adjacent to property owned by Eglin Air Force Base. This weekend the Sheriff's Department began patrolling there and elsewhere in the Navarre Beach area using all-terrain vehicles in order to discourage nudity.

TV company files under Chapter 11

JACKSONVILLE — The company that owns Jacksonville television station WNFT-47 has filed for protection from creditors under Chapter 11 of the U.S. Bankruptcy Code.

WNFT will remain on the air and continue to operate as usual while the company reorganizes its debts in bankruptcy court, a company statement said.

Krypton Broadcasting of Jacksonville, owner of WNFT, and Krypton Broadcasting of Fort Pierce, owner of television station WTVX in Fort Pierce, filed a voluntary petition last week in federal bankruptcy court in Palm Beach County.

Krypton made the filings in response to an involuntary bankruptcy petition filed on May 7 by several program syndication companies that are Krypton's creditors.

WNFT was the lowest rated of six Jacksonville stations, averaging only 1 percent of the 430,000 television households in the market and 2 percent of all sets in use.

11-year-old charged with manslaughter

AVON PARK — An 11-year-old was charged with the death of his younger brother after prosecutors concluded the boy was old enough to be responsible for the shooting.

The fifth-grader was charged Tuesday with manslaughter in the death of his 7-year-old brother and aggravated assault after he had earlier threatened a 13-year-old neighbor over a missing Nintendo game. Assistant State Attorney Steve Houchin said.

The youngster, who turns 12 July 6, told Avon Park police officers he didn't know the gun was loaded. But prosecutors say that doesn't relieve him of responsibility for pointing the revolver in his brother's direction, closing his eyes and pulling the trigger.

Prosecutors say they wrestled for weeks over the decision to file charges against a boy so young. But the deciding factors included the earlier threat to the neighbor and the reckless handling of the gun, prosecutors say.

"He knew right from wrong, and he knew not to point the gun and pull the trigger," Houchin said.

The brothers were alone in the home playing a computer game when the elder went to his mother's room to look for some clothes. He found a .32-caliber pistol on the floor of the closet.

He told officers he didn't know the gun was loaded but wanted to practice firing it. He extended his arm toward the floor, closed his eyes and pulled the trigger. He said he didn't realize it was pointed at his brother.

When he opened his eyes, he found his brother in the pool of blood. He dropped the pistol to the floor and ran to find his grandmother, crying, "I just shot him."

Prosecutors might not have filed charges had the boy simply been playing with the gun and pulled the trigger by accident, Houchin said.

Presbyterian assembly

Group supports gays in military, backs Boy Scout ban

By DAVID BRIGGS
Associated Press Writer

ORLANDO — Presbyterians backed the move to let homosexuals serve in the military but said the Boy Scouts can continue to exclude gay leaders and scouts.

Delegates to the 205th General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.) defeated by a vote of 302-192 late Tuesday a resolution urging Presbyterian churches where scouting programs meet to allow homosexuals.

Moments later, the delegates voted 268-226 to urge President Clinton and Congress "to end all discrimination on the basis of sexual orientation in the U.S. military." They also condemned Colorado's anti-gay rights law.

Wendy A. McNich-Ruenzi of the Presbyterian of the Cascades in Portland, Ore., urged the delegates "to consider our hypocrisy" in opposing discrimination against homosexuals except when it hits home at local churches.

But Marie Armstrong of Colorado said she applauded the Boy Scouts of America "for having the courage to stand firm in their decision." And she added, "I only wish the Presbyterian Church would take such a stand."

The votes on homosexuality-related issues came a day after the assembly reaffirmed the church's ban on the ordination of homosexuals but authorized a three-year study of the issue.

In other business, the 2.8-million-member church early today took a step toward closer cooperation with eight other Protestant denominations.

Under the proposal, churches would keep their own denominational structures and ordination processes but would create "covenanting councils" that would promote unity through shared liturgical services and ordination ceremonies.

The plan will be sent to regional presbyteries and local churches for study while the national church works out the details. The final plan will require approval by the General Assembly and individual presbyteries.

The African Methodist Episcopal Church and the International Council of Community Churches have approved the plan. The other churches in the proposal are the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church, Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), Christian Methodist Episcopal Church, Episcopal Church, United Church of Christ and United Methodist Church.

Women charged with diverting $1 million from Vero Beach bank

By The Associated Press

VERO BEACH — A bank trust officer and her daughter-in-law are accused of diverting more than $1 million in trust funds.

Linda Darlene Jones, a trust officer at the Beach Bank from January 1991 to October 1992, illegally diverted $1.07 million from the accounts of the bank's trust customers, according to a federal criminal information filed Tuesday in Miami.

Her daughter-in-law, Karen F. Jones, caused $937,500 of those funds to be diverted into accounts for herself, her relatives and a family business, Jones Parrot Jungle Inc., of which Karen Jones was an officer, the complaint says.

The two women, whose ages were not available, are to surrender to the FBI in Ft. Pierce on Thursday, prosecutors in Miami said.

Also Tuesday, federal officials in Jacksonville announced an indictment against the former head teller at the Sun Bank of Ocala. Dolores Ramsey, 51, of Summerfield, is charged in the embezzlement of $257,000 from the bank.

Ramsay, who is free on $25,000 unsecured bond, is accused of embezzling more than $100 between December 1987 and December 1991 and causing a false entry into bank records.

Her trial is set for July 26. She faces up to 60 years in prison and a $2 million fine if convicted.

Top woman Navy's highest-ranking female gets new position

By The Associated Press

PENSACOLA — The Navy's senior female admiral says she envies the opportunities for young women entering the Navy now but has no regrets about her own career, which is taking another turn.

Rear Adm. Louise Wilmot will receive an award and perform her final duties Friday as vice chief of naval education and training before assuming her new position next month as a commander of the Philadelphia Naval Base.

Throughout her 29 years in the Navy, Wilmot has championed women's issues. She was confident the military would drop restrictions on females flying combat aircraft and serving aboard warships as ordered by Defense Secretary Les Aspin on April 28, but unsure it would happen during her career.

"If you believe in the justice of a matter, you have to stay with it," Wilmot said in an interview in Sunday editions of the Pensacola News Journal. "You're not in this for the short-term victories. You're in it for the long haul."

She has been second in charge of the Navy's biggest on-shore command, headquartered at the Pensacola Naval Air Station, for the past two years. Before coming here she was commander of the Orlando Naval Training Center.

Navy Man sentenced in sex case

By RON WORD
Associated Press Writer

JACKSONVILLE — With a national debate raging on whether homosexuals belong in the military, a petty officer has been sentenced to seven years in prison for raping an 18-year-old seaman in one of two recent Navy homosexual assault cases here.

Petty Officer 2nd Class Albert Ruggiero was sentenced Tuesday after being convicted last month of assaulting the sailor during a drunken off-base Christmas party in Jacksonville.

Groups favoring an end to the ban discounted the importance of the two cases and accused opponents of trying to smear all homosexuals. But opponents urged advocates of change to take note.

The Navy League of the United States, a group of retirees and civilians opposed to Clinton's plan, cited the Jacksonville cases as a warning.

"What this shows is that homosexuals cannot be expected to remain celibate while on active duty in the military," said retired Adm. John Dalrymple, executive director of the Navy League. He said allowing gays to serve openly would make the situation worse.

The Navy does not keep statistics on the number of homosexual assaults prosecuted, but a Navy spokesman, Lt. Cmdr. Brad Goforth, said they are rare.

Circuit Judge Robert M. Foster, at the request of prosecutor Marc Hardesty, exceeded the sentencing guidelines of 5½ years and imposed a seven-year term because Ruggiero was the victim's direct Navy supervisor.

"The defendant is a dangerous, violent criminal," said Hardesty, who added the victim, whose name has been withheld, was hurt both physically and mentally by the rape.

Defense attorney Gonzalo Andux said he would appeal the verdict and sentence. Ruggiero did not make a statement in court.

Bert Byers, a Navy spokesman, said no decision has been made by the Navy on whether to court-martial Ruggiero.

Jacksonville, with three large Navy bases, 41,000 Navy personnel and a large number of civilian workers and military retirees, has been hostile to the Clinton administration's plan to end the military ban on gays.

The cases of Ruggiero and that of Airman Apprentice Michael A. Thompson, convicted of sexually assaulting a shipmate on the USS Saratoga, have heated the debate about lifting the ban.

Ruggiero was convicted of raping the victim, whom he supervised at Cecil Field Naval Air Station. The assault happened at a mobile home off the base.

After suggesting they go outside to sober up, the victim testified, "He jerked my arm behind my back and he pulled my pants down."

He said Ruggiero then sexually assaulted him.

In the Ruggiero case, potential jurors were questioned about their views on gays in the military by defense attorneys. Of the six chosen, three said the ban prohibiting homosexuals from serving in the military should remain in place.

In the other case tried in mid-May, Thompson, was sentenced to 30 months in a military prison for sexually assaulting another sailor Feb. 5 aboard the aircraft carrier USS Saratoga. Thompson was convicted in a court-martial of forcible sodomy and being drunk and disorderly.

He also was sentenced to forfeit all pay and benefits during his imprisonment, a reduction to the lowest pay grade and a dishonorable discharge.

Outside the courtroom Tuesday, Bob DeGroat, who described himself as a concerned citizen, removed a jacket to reveal a T-shirt reading "Keep the Ban on Gays in Place."

Convicted prostitute Kathy Willets is released from jail

By The Associated Press

FORT LAUDERDALE — Convicted prostitute Kathy Willets was released from prison after serving less than six months of a 3½-year sentence for violating her probation.

Willets, 34, left prison Tuesday after being jailed in November. She was jailed after, among other things, showing up intoxicated at the probation office.

She and her husband, Jeffrey Willets, 43, gained notoriety in the summer of 1991 after they were charged with operating a brothel. Jeffrey Willets, a former Broward Sheriff's Office deputy, sometimes videotaped his wife's encounters from a closet in their bedroom.

One of their clients was former Fort Lauderdale Vice Mayor Doug Danziger, who resigned in the wake of the scandal.

Jeffrey Willets, who prosecutors said was his wife's pimp, served 364 days in jail and was put back in jail in September after he tried to choke Kathy Willets during a fight.

While in jail on that charge, he tried to hire inmates to beat up a boyfriend of Kathy Willets'. The probation violations got him a total of six years in prison.

He was released in early May and is working as a doorman at a strip club near Pompano Beach.

Also released on Tuesday were 678 pages of records that were seized by police at the Willetses' Tamarac home in the summer of 1991.

The records include letters to Kathy Willets from potential clients and datebook entries kept by her husband.

The datebook includes notes on Kathy's sexual encounters and her stripper work.

Earlier this year, one set of the records kept by the Willetses, including a client list and a videotape of Kathy Willets and Danziger having sex, were released over the objection of an attorney.

Most of the names in the records released Tuesday were blacked out. Broward Circuit Judge John Frusciantone ruled only the names listed in the prosecution's initial evidence list could be made public.

Kidnapped toddler has arrived home

By LISA ALCALAY KLUG
Associated Press Writer

SAN FRANCISCO — A 3-year-old boy returned to his Petaluma home Tuesday after a four-month ordeal in which his father, who claimed the toddler was the victim of satanic ritual abuse, fled with him to Florida.

"I know it's not over yet, but it is a tremendous relief to have him back and to know that he's safe again," said Barbara Blalock, little Alex's mother.

"We'll have to go to trial and I'm sure the accusations are not going to stop just because Alex is home with me," she said. "But we're ready to face that now."

An informant contacted Florida police who arrested the father, former tennis pro Peter Tscherneff, on Sunday. He is being held without bail on a $500,000 warrant.

Tscherneff, also of Petaluma, was taken into custody at a hotel in the seaside town of Stuart in Martin County, north of Palm Beach.

He appeared in court in Florida Tuesday but asked for additional time to decide about extradition, said Deputy District Attorney Sam McKee of Sonoma County. Tscherneff is expected to appear in court again Wednesday, McKee said.

According to Deputy Courtney Hundley of the Sonoma County Sheriff's office, if Tscherneff waives extradition from Florida on felony charges of child concealment, he would be brought to Sonoma County within a week. Otherwise, proceedings could take up to 90 days.

Judge sentenced teen to pregnancy tests

By The Associated Press

LARGO, Fla. — A judge sentenced a teen-ager to pregnancy tests every 60 days after the woman pleaded guilty to delivering a baby boy she later tossed in a closet.

Tabatha Turner, 19, pleaded guilty Tuesday to manslaughter and culpable negligence in the baby boy's death.

Circuit Judge Claire K. Luten sentenced Turner to 15 years' probation, which included a pregnancy tests every 60 days or proof that she is using substantial birth control, such as Norplant, the five-year birth control method that is implanted under the skin.

"I can't mandate that she can't get pregnant," Luten said. "But if she should become pregnant, I want her to get help right away."

Turner showed no signs of pregnancy and denied ever giving birth to the boy.

After delivering the infant herself at home on Jan. 27, 1992, she had stashed the 7-pound boy under some clothes and wrapped in a sheet in a closet, where he died.

Luten also ordered that Turner receive psychological counseling, get her high school equivalency certificate and complete parenting classes for raising her 2-year-old daughter. She also recommended that Turner's entire family receive counseling.

Psychologists for the defense say it was Turner's fear of her mother's reaction to a second baby that caused her denial.

When she got pregnant at age 16 with her first child, according to court records, her mother was very unhappy about it and warned her not to get pregnant again.

Then when her menstrual cycle stopped in 1991, she ignored it.

But the next day, Turner continued to bleed heavily and went to the hospital. Doctors said she had given birth, but she continued to deny it.

Doctors told her family to go home and look for a baby. They found the infant, still attached to the umbilical cord, in the closet.

Help for Hopper preserves history

Plans have been progressing for over two years to refurbish Hopper School. The building, at 11th Street and Pine Avenue in Sanford is not only historically significant, but ideal for use as a community center.

Hopper, or Harper as it was once known, was built in 1917. It was originally a high school and later a grammar school for black students during segregation.

The school closed in the early 1980s, and is showing the wrinkles and creaking joints of old age.

As a community center, it will serve the people of the Goldsboro area as well as the entire city. Plans call for its use as a cultural arts center, recreation facility, vocational training operation for older youth and a museum for educational resources.

The rebuilding project is another step in the historic preservation of an important part of Sanford's past.

Charles Rowe, president of the Goldsboro Community Improvement Association has been leading the drive to obtain financial as well as community support. A number of people are helping him, and some money has been obtained, but more of both are still needed.

Hopper is already listed as one of the focal points in the Florida Black Heritage Trail, and is promoted throughout the state as one of the places to visit in Sanford.

Rowe deserves to be commended for his perseverance in continuing to drive for the completion of this project. The members of the CIA who are working hard at his side also deserve applause.

Hopper needs the help of everyone. It is a project worth concern and involvement.

Helping Hopper will contribute to preserving a landmark of historic significance to the black community and the entire city.

Do it yourself

In reference to the article "Lawyers warn, Don't Do It Yourself" May 27, I wish to comment. If the author of this article is implying you can depend on lawyers to do it right; you can't. The first lawyer I hired for an adoption skipped; money gone! The second lawyer was secured to form a Subchapter-S corporation, he forgot to file the exemption with the IRS and that put me in a higher tax category up there with Chrysler and Dupont. My accountant discovered that error. The third lawyer was to do a probate on a simple piece of property that my father willed to my mother. That was two years ago and that is not completed. I think he forgot about it.

As far as the statement; property might be excluded from a trust, he failed to mention the Pour-Over Will that is drawn after the trust is funded. This places property accumulated or excluded from the trust, at the time or after its formation, into the trust automatically when the person dies.

In desperation, I started preparing my own documents and file them. They're done correctly and with great care. Problem solved! The money I've saved gave me a trip to California. How did I do it? I bought college texts for paralegals and Black's Law Dictionary and used them. My computer completes forms offered in programs like Personal Lawyer and I can copy others I need from books. The library and Sphinx Publishing Company have multiple books on "how to" and include the forms for people like you and me.

Testing Clinton's right-turn signal

Is President Clinton turning back from the trendy liberalism that almost sunk him and coming back to the muscular moderate views that got him elected? He says so. I hope so. But we were deluded once. How will we know?

He has made some good first steps. He got his budget victory in the House by pledging to fix it in the Senate. His appointment of David Gergen to the presidential pantheon augurs well. I've worked with Gergen on and off for a long time. He is a serious man who believes in the Democratic Leadership Council theme that Clinton ran on: There is a healthy new politics waiting to be born that is neither liberal nor conservative.

But Gergen can only help sell the program if Clinton returns to that idea. No one could sell the unsealable liberal stuff Clinton has been peddling. So I offer here some tests by which we can judge our president.

CLINTON SHOULD:

- 1) Take the lead on the budget. Come up with a bold "Clinton II" plan instead of arguing about each spending and tax cut. The original idea of $2 in spending cuts for every $1 of new taxes was in the right direction then, and now.
- 2) Quietly ask Professor Lant Gulinjer (alias the Quota Queen, the Princess of Proportionalism, the Duchess of Diversity, the Vicar of Victimization, the Czarina of Cseparatism) to withdraw her name from Senate confirmation as chief of the Justice Department's Civil Rights Division. Clinton ran against quotas.

3) Push hard on the North American Free Trade Agreement, staring down Ross Perot, who is manic and mindless about it. Long term, NAFTA can do more for the American economy than a deficit deal, and it's not just about trade and tariffs. It's about what kind of neighborhood we will inhabit.

4) Ask Peter Tarnoff to recant or resign. Tarnoff, undersecretary of state for policy, told reporters that America is now too poor and unmotivated to be a steady big-time global power. Clinton has done fairly well on foreign policy and shouldn't let the State Department fall under the influence of retreatists and declinists.

5) Be cautious on the health-care plan. The American axiom is, "If it ain't broke, don't fix it." There are corollaries: "If it is broke, do fix it," and "If it's partly broke, partly fix it," and "If it's partly broke, use government to fix it only as a last resort." Our health-care system (the world's best) is partly broke. So partly fix it with as little government as possible. And tell Hillary Rodham Clinton to stop trashing the medical industry; it's not un-American to make money when you heal people.

6) Ask Mrs. Clinton -- if she continues to speak out about the erosion of values in America -- to stress those realms where government has undermined values: welfare, crime, quotas and education.

7) Move now, not later, on his signature idea of welfare reform, redeeming his pledge to "end welfare as we know it." Move now, not later, to redeem his pledge to put "100,000 more police on the street."

8) Appoint a program czar, or two, to bolster the few DLC types in the White House. Gergen is not enough. Clinton needs heavy hitters to deal with the nitty-gritty of legislation, ready to face down liberal congressional barons.

Schools must teach respect

It happens in public, not behind a closed office door. There is no "he said/she said" dispute about the facts. Everybody can see what's going on. Friends, classmates, teachers.

A boy backs a girl up against her junior high locker. Day after day. A high school junior in the hallway grabs a boy's butt. A sophomore on the playground grabs a girl's blouse. An eighth-grade girl gets up to speak in class and the boys begin to "moo" at her. A ninth-grader finds out that her name and her "hot number" are posted in the boy's bathroom.

It's all quite normal, or at least it's become the norm. This aberrant behavior is now as much a part of the daily curriculum, the things children learn, as math or social studies. Or their worth in the world.

This is the searing message of another survey that came spilling out of the schoolhouse door last week. This one, commissioned by the American Association of University Women confirmed the grim fact that four out of five public school students between ages 8 and 11 -- 85 percent of the girls and 76 percent of the boys -- have experienced sexual harassment.

That's if sexual harassment means -- and it does -- "unwanted and unwelcomed sexual behavior which interferes with your life." That's if sexual harassment includes -- and it does -- sexual comments, touching, pinching, grabbing and worse.

The girls in schools are the more frequent targets of the more serious verbal and physical assaults. They suffer more painful repercussions in their lives, their grades, their sense of well-being.

But the notion that "everybody does it" is not far off the mark. If some 81 percent of the students in the AAUW survey were targets, here's another figure to remember. Some 69 percent -- 68 percent of the boys and 52 percent of the girls -- admitted that they had done unto others what was done to them.

In public spaces in public schools, nearly every student is then a target or a perpetrator or a bystander -- or all three in turn. The vast majority have been up close and too personal, with sexual harassment. Yet we are still grappling with how it happened and how to change the school house and hallway.

In Minnesota, the agent of change has been a fistful of lawsuits. In California, a new law was passed that allows expulsions. Elsewhere, schools are looking for a magic bullet, a one-day workshop, a ten-point program.

But cultural change requires more than a crash curriculum; there is no quick fix in the creeping court system. Indeed Mary Rowe of M.I.T., who has studied harassment for over a decade, has learned that the vast majority of students won't bring their stories to any formal grievance procedure, let alone a courtroom. They won't tattletale.

For a host of reasons, she and others, like Nan Stein of Wellesley College, have come to believe that the schools need a wider range of choices to fill the space between doing nothing and suing. They need teachers who see and say no to harassment in class. They need designated adults in schools who can listen and help. They need to help students address each other directly and honestly. Indeed in one tactic, a student is encouraged to write a personal letter to the classmate who hurt her, maybe unwittingly.

A school culture of sexual harassment exists in a wide and troubling social context, but change ultimately rests in the hands of the students themselves. After all, not all boys will be boys. Not all girls follow the leaders.

So, these days, when Nan Stein goes into a school, she says, "I talk a lot about courage." She thinks the role that everybody plays, the bystander, as pivotal. "Kids have to learn to speak out, to make moral judgments. I tell them not to be moral spectators."

Sexual harassment is, as Stein says, an older cousin to bullying. Students who understand the dividing line between teasing and bullying, can learn the line between sexual play and harassment. They can draw that line.

The most powerful tool for the everyday garden-variety misery of name-calling, body-pinching, and sexual bullying that turns a school hallway into a gauntlet may not be a lawsuit. It may be one high school senior walking by who says, "Don't do that, it's gross." It may be one group of buddies who don't laugh at the joke.

In our society, the courts are the last-ditch place for resolving conflicts. The schools must become the place for teaching basics. Like respect and courage.

It happens in public, not behind a closed office door.

USDA promoting new uses for farm products

WASHINGTON -- Funding advertisements for Japanese-made underwear is not how the Agriculture Department usually promotes American farm products abroad.

But ever since USDA created the Market Promotion Program in 1986, it has given scores of private companies -- foreign and domestic -- a total of $400 million to, quite literally, advertise their "wares" overseas. In particular, the program provided $1.6 million to a leading Japanese underwear manufacturer last year so the company could advertise its briefs in Japan.

USDA has justified the underwear subsidy, which caught the eye of Sen. Thomas A. Daschle, D-S.D., as an incentive for the Japanese company to use American-grown cotton in its underwear. Daschle calls the entire MPP an "international corporate slush fund" that helps pay the advertising budget of a so me enormously profitable corporations but does virtually nothing for farmers.

More galling to Daschle, however, is the fact that over the last three decades, on average, USDA has paid farmers to stop farming 40 million acres of productive land per year. During the 1980s, it cost taxpayers an average of $13 billion per year to idle that land, according to USDA figures. Last year, those costs reached $12 billion.

Daschle, chairman of the Senate's Subcommittee on Agricultural Research, is pushing for a slice of those costs to be plowed into a revolutionary new program at USDA that's commercializing agricultural products for new industrial uses. The problem is that the Alternative Agricultural Research and Commercialization Center, an independent entity within the USDA running the program, had only $10 million to spend on developing new uses for crops with diminished markets this year.

So on one hand USDA is pouring billions of dollars into idling these crops, and millions more promoting odd products like Japanese-made underwear. But on the other hand, it's short-changing a program that has serious potential to develop new markets for struggling farmers.

"It makes more sense to find new uses for farm crops that will increase demand and price for that crop, than to grow the crop for a market that no longer exists and pay a subsidy to store the surplus," Rep. Tim Penny, D-Minn., told our associate Ed Henry. Penny sponsored the legislation to create AARC, and his congressional district is home to what many observers consider to be the most innovative "new use" for farm products.

It's called "NewStone," a unique composite material that looks like marble but cuts like wood and is four times harder than oak. It meets all specified conditions for interior applications and meets most requirements for exterior application, and can be used to make furniture, flooring, wall paneling and picture frames -- at half the price.

Most importantly, it is made from soybeans and recycled newspaper. Fifty pounds of paper and one bushel of soybeans is needed to make 22 board feet of NewStone material. So, besides the benefits to farmers, consumers and businesses, the new use will also be very friendly to the environment. For example, 40 percent of all garbage dumped in landfills consists of waste paper that could be used to make NewStone.

The USDA has justified the underwear subsidy.

Watering restrictions may be extended

By MICK PPRIPAUP
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The lack of rainfall may bring about added restrictions to lawn and garden watering, according to the St. Johns River Water Management Board of directors, which met this morning in Palatka.

Presently, SJRWMA restricts watering between the hours of 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. throughout the Wekiva River Basin, which includes all areas of Seminole County.

Early this morning, SJRWMA's public awareness director Pat McSweeney said, "We are asking the board to consider lengthening that time period until 6 p.m. each day until the present water shortage ends."

"We aren't at the critical stage yet," he said. "But we need to begin exercising additional cautions to prevent any serious problems."

McSweeney indicated that if the shortage increased, he may ask the board to consider the possibility of additional restrictions, such as allowing persons to water their properties based on the odd-and-even restriction used in the past.

Under that condition, people would be allowed to irrigate based on whether they had odd or even house numbers, and an odd or even numbered calendar date.

"If we have to go to some additional changes," McSweeney said, "that one would probably be the easiest, rather than basing it on the last number on your driver's license, the date of your birth or something as ridiculous as that."

"We want to keep it as simple as possible, and this method will work if we can get the full cooperation of the people," he added.

The watering restrictions do not apply for persons who have the reclaimed water lines for irrigation.

Sanford's Program Coordinator Bill Marcus expects the SJRWMA board to approve the extension. "While it is designed to help save more water," he said, "it is actually common sense."

He explained, "If they extend the no-watering time from 4 until 6 p.m., what's the difference. It's still usually in the 90 degree temperature range at that time, and water will just evaporate and not be useful in irrigating plants or lawns."

Marcus said the best time to water a lawn, regardless of what type of watering a person has, is in the early morning hours. "If you wait much later," he said, "the water won't do what you want it to, and you are just wasting it."

If the additional two hours of restricted time is approved today, it is expected to become effective by the end of the week.

Judge orders Haitians freed from Guantanamo

By CATHERINE CROCKER
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK — More than 150 AIDS-infected Haitian refugees and relatives held at the U.S. naval base in Cuba could be free within weeks now that a federal judge has ordered their release, advocates say.

There was no immediate word from the Clinton administration on whether it would appeal Tuesday's ruling and block the camp's closing.

"The Haitians' plight is a tragedy of immense proportion, and their continued detainment is totally unacceptable to this court," wrote U.S. District Judge Sterling Johnson.

The 158 refugees were stopped at sea as they fled their homeland. Immigration officials have ruled they have valid claims for political asylum, but they have been held more than 18 months because U.S. policy bars immigrants infected with HIV, the AIDS virus. Most have tested positive for HIV; a few are relatives of those who did.

The judge said the Bush and Clinton administrations have shown "outrageous, callous and reprehensible" behavior in failing to provide adequate medical care for the refugees, who live in a shantytown surrounded by barbed wire at Guantanamo Bay.

Johnson said the place is "nothing more than an HIV prison camp."

"The detained Haitians are neither criminals nor national security risks," he said. "Some are pregnant mothers and others are children. Simply put, they are merely the unfortunate victims of a fatal disease."

Michael Ratner of the Center for Constitutional Rights, which represented the refugees, said the camp could be closed in a few weeks if the government doesn't appeal. Ratner said the refugees will probably join relatives in the United States or receive help in finding housing.

White House spokeswoman Dee Dee Myers had no immediate comment on the decision, which came on the same day that Haiti's army-installed prime minister was stripped of power. The military remained in control.

A spokesman for the Justice Department said the solicitor general would decide in the next few days on an appeal. The New York Times reported today.

Thousands of Haitians have been allowed to enter the United States on political asylum requests since the ouster two years ago of Jean-Bertrand Aristide, Haiti's first democratically elected president.

Johnson had previously ordered the government to release more than 50 Haitians with full-blown AIDS to the United States for treatment.

His ruling on Tuesday came on a lawsuit filed on the refugees' behalf in March 1992. A two-week trial was held this March.

In his decision, Johnson gave a grim description of conditions at Guantanamo.

"They live in camps surrounded by razor barbed wire. They tie plastic garbage bags to the sides of the building to keep the rain out," he said. "The Haitian detainees have been subjected to pre-dawn military sweeps as they sleep by as many as 400 soldiers in full riot gear."

Johnson also said the Haitians' constitutional rights were violated because lawyers were not allowed to give them legal advice.

Utilities don't expect power supply problems for summer

By RAJU CHEDIAUM
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI — Florida's electric companies expect to generate enough power to meet the state's needs and are prepared to meet weather-related emergencies, utility officials say.

"If everything is running and we don't have equipment malfunctions, we're in great shape even if we have an unusually hot summer," said Roh Spinka, spokesman for the Florida Electric Power Coordinating Group, which counts 37 of the state's 57 utility companies as members.

But if the state sees a string of 100-degree, rainless days and a number of power plants break down at the same time, utilities could be overextended, Spinka said. Companies could counter by buying power from neighboring states and shutting off power for short bursts of time, said Dale Thomas, a spokesman for Florida Power and Light, the largest utility company in Florida, operating in 37 counties.

The last time utilities did that was three years ago when Florida had the coldest winter in 50 years.

The peak power consumption will be in August, when Floridians consume 30.723 megawatts of electricity, Spinka said Tuesday. He added power companies are capable of generating 34.146 megawatts for the month.

A 90-day outlook from the National Weather Service calls for a 60 percent chance of above normal temperatures between June and August and about average rainfall — between 20 and 30 inches — for most of the state, said Robert Molleda, a meteorologist at the Miami office.

People should cut down on their electricity use anyway, officials say.

While people use the most power between 4 p.m. and 8 p.m. — cooking dinner, taking after-work showers — they should turn off lights that aren't in use, set the thermostat at higher temperatures and take other cost-saving measures, said Ron Blush, a spokesman for the Florida Power Corp. in St. Petersburg, the second largest utility in the state which serves 32 counties.

When service fees are charged, Barnett and First Union charge $14 with no per check charge; Sun $7, 35-cents per check; Seminole National, $5, 25-cents per check; First Seminole, $12, no per check and Southern Bank $7, no per check.

Southern Bank currently charges $20 for a bounced check but is increasing the fee to $25 later this month. Barnett and First Union charge $27.50 for each bounced check, the remaining three banks surveyed charge $25.

David Simon, consumer advocate for the consumer group said on average, Florida banks require a $1,200 minimum balance to avoid service fees on interest bearing checking accounts. However, the average elsewhere is $1,023 and as little as $433 in New Mexico and $550 in Minnesota.

The Florida accounts had a minimum balance to earn interest averaging $692, compared with an average of $571 in the other states and minimums as low as $200 in Maine and $250 in California, according to the survey.

John Milstead, executive vice president of the Florida Bankers Association said fees have increased because banks face rising costs, including costs of federal deposit insurance, bankruptcy and loan losses during the economic slump, and compliance with regulations that consumer groups demanded.

"Floridians drive a Cadillac in terms of banking service. Users have to pay the costs of those services," Milstead said.

Sieve Joy, vice president of First Seminole Bank said Florida consumers do get convenience in the number of branches and ATM which some northern banks do not offer.

"When I've traveled up north," Joy commented, "I don't see nearly the number of ATMs and (bank) branches that we have here. Florida may have overdone it in the past few years, however."

moles. In four separate criminal cases, Paterson is charged with a total of 42 sex related counts based on allegations by former band students. A hearing is scheduled today on a motion by Paterson's attorney J. Cheney Mason, who represents the teacher in the pending criminal matters, to consolidate the cases for administrative management.

In the civil case filed late last week in circuit court, Paterson is attempting to clear the title of his home which has been up for sale since late February. On February 16, the father of one of the boys sued Paterson in federal court for damages as David Doe, on behalf of his son listed as John Doe to conceal his identity.

The following day, the elder Doe filed a lis pendens which encumbers Paterson's property. The father claims any of the teacher's assets, his house, for example, might be used to pay damages if he wins the federal suit.

Paterson listed his three bedroom home for sale with a Longwood real estate company on Feb. 26 for $98,600 with an assumable mortgage. Paterson's attorney in the federal case, J. Larry Hanks alleges the lis pendens was found during a title search after a couple agreed in May to buy the home for $95,000. The lien against the property was discovered when a title company did a search prior to the issuing of title insurance. Further, the suit claims the deal fell through because the prospective buyers did not want to wait for the lien to be removed and were fearful of becoming involved in litigation.

U.S. Magistrate Judge David A. Baker found at a May 20 hearing the federal court had no jurisdiction to dissolve the lis pendens filed in Seminole County, but would order the lis pendens to be of no effect in the federal tort action. Hanks states Baker admonished Doe to proceed with the case without a lawyer could subject him to serious liability, such as a slander of title suit which Paterson filed last week.

Doe filed a second lis pendens May 25.

Hanks states the filing of the second lis pendens was done, "not only intentionally and maliciously, but was so outrageous, mean-spirited, devoid of any common decency and designed to cause harm and injury to (Paterson)." He indicated if the court allows, Paterson will also seek punitive damages against Doe.

Paterson, who was suspended without pay from his Lakeview Middle School teaching position after he was arrested on the sex related charges, resigned in May. In the suit to clear the title, the attorney claims since the house sale fell through Paterson "has been placed in a serious financial predicament" including having to hire an attorney and the court costs necessary to attempt to clear the lien. Along with the $95,000, Paterson is seeking to recover his attorney's fees and court costs.

Lake Mary graduates say goodbye to childhood

Lake Mary—

School flashed across the huge video screens both above the center of the arena and behind the stage.

Throughout the ceremony student-produced videos drew cheers and applause as the year's successes were reviewed in bright color and accompanied by popular music.

When the Class of 1993 finally entered the arena, the sound was deafening, but softened to near-reverent tones as administrators and class leaders bid farewell to the graduates, each in his own way.

"I want to recognize a class that has done much for the school and the world," said Principal Don Smith amid more hoots and hollers from the crowd.

Nicole Ludsen, one of the top graduates, encouraged her classmates to go out into the world and use the wisdom, morality and education they had gained in high school to take on the adult world.

"We have become adults at graduation," she said. "We must now go out into the world."

Valedictorian Mark Neri said he could only guess what lay ahead for the graduates.

"But we are prepared," he said. "We have been given firm moral values and we know that after high school we will be able to face the challenge."

Finally, class president Sara Davis thanked the faculty for preparing them for the challenges ahead and thanked friends for helping her form memories for the future.

"I hope our paths will bring us together again," she said.

and the crowd spilled out alongside the stands.

There were cheers from the teary-eyed audience as Destiny, the school's show choir, performed "Remember the Dream," the class song.

Honored guests from the community and the school district sat respectfully in folding chairs before the stage where they would hear the addresses of the top graduates and laud the confirmation of diplomas on the class of 1993.

The three students chosen to represent the senior class, David Eckstein, Cherise Scott and Trung Vong, sent their fellow graduates to the world with words of hope and encouragement.

"We will remember the good times," Eckstein said. "They will become a part of us forever, no matter where we go."

He noted that the group that started out four years ago as "excited, overwhelmed" freshmen had grown together to a tightly-knit group that celebrated one another's victories and successes.

Scott compared their lives as a winding road, littered with trees.

"We can see where we have been and what we have left to go," she said. "We have worked so hard, and we have so many dreams yet to be reached."

Scott encouraged her fellow graduates to be individuals and not "who the world wants (us) to be."

Vong bid the class to be strong on their "journey toward the undiscovered country."

"The future," he said "awaits us. The future is of our own making."

He said he prayed that God would watch over and bless the Seminole High class of 1993.

Before diplomas were conferred on the graduates, the senior class president Richard Peterson presented a color printer, "to further promote technology" as a gift to the school on behalf of the class.

Principal Gretchen Schupker sent the graduates into what she called a world of "ecological and economic uncertainty" with the challenge to go out and make a difference for themselves and for their children by using the gifts and knowledge they have been given.

"It is my sincere prayer," she said, "that you will use the gifts of your Creator to make a difference."

Quoting Ralph Waldo Emerson she noted, "this time, like all other times is a very good one as long as we know what to do with it."

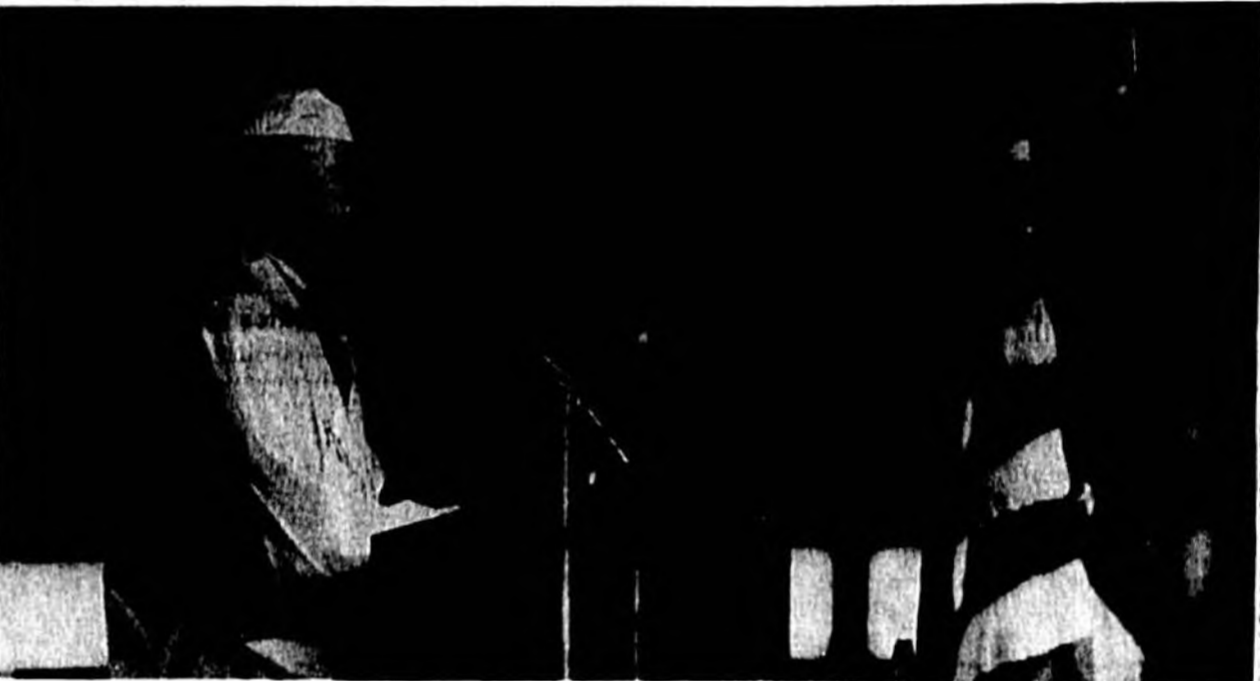

Anthony Sanders will be senior class president next year.

Prostitutes resist AIDS infection despite exposure

By PAUL RAEURN
AP Science Editor

BERLIN Some prostitutes who have had frequent sex with carriers of the AIDS virus have remained free of infection for up to eight years, according to a new study.

Studies suggest that a peculiarity of the women's immune systems gives them a natural immunity to the disease, said Dr. Frances Plummer of the University of Manitoba, Canada, and the University of Nairobi, Kenya.

Further studies of that natural immunity might suggest ways to artificially boost immunity in others to protect them against disease, researchers said.

We believe we've identified a group of women who in a statistical sense should have been infected with HIV. But they're not," Plummer said Tuesday at the Ninth International Conference on AIDS, HIV and the Virus that Causes AIDS.

Plummer said he found the apparent natural immunity in only 24 of the 263 Nairobi prostitutes studied since 1985. They have been free of infection for two to eight years, he said.

Susan Wilson of the University of London said she has been investigating such apparent natural immunity in the hope of devising a drug that would mimic it and protect against AIDS.

In other studies presented at the conference, researchers at the U.S. Centers for Disease Control found that American high school students were failing to use condoms to prevent AIDS.

In a survey of 12,272 students in 137 schools, the researchers found that nearly half of sexually active high school students used condoms for birth control. But they failed to use them to prevent AIDS in other means of birth control, they said.

The survey found a high degree of sexual activity among students. Two-thirds of them said they had had sexual intercourse by their senior year, and the CDC's Janet Collins of them, 18 percent said they had used a condom the last time they had sex, but that figure dropped to 19 percent for couples using birth control pills to prevent pregnancy.

That suggests that students understand the importance of using birth control but don't understand the value of condoms in preventing AIDS, the survey found.

The disease prevention issue is not high enough on the agenda to use the condom in addition to the birth control pill," Collins said.

Nevertheless, the findings of the study were encouraging, she said, because "it shows we can get young people to use condoms."

In another study, Patricia A. Sweeney of the Centers for Disease Control found that 88 to 98 percent of teenagers in homeless shelters, medical clinics and correctional institutions were sexually active.

A high proportion of adolescents are at risk of HIV through sexual activity, Sweeney said.

Rates of HIV infection ranged from near zero for teenage boys at adolescent health clinics to 3 to 6 percent for boys and slightly under 1 percent for girls in homeless shelters, Sweeney said.

The comparatively high rate for homeless boys reflected the fact that some of them were gay, she said.

In Plummer's study of the persistently infection-free prostitutes, he found no differences in their sexual behavior from that of the prostitutes who did become infected.

He did, however, find that those who had natural immunity shared certain characteristics of what are called the MHC-1 histocompatibility antigens. These antigens are involved in, among other things, the body's ability to recognize and reject foreign tissue.

Preventive health care is said to be worth the cost

By CAROLE FELDMAN
Associated Press Writer

HYATTSVILLE, Md. Daniel Cruz, 11 months old and crying vigorously, is a good example of why children should visit their doctors for regular checkups. Often something unexpected turns up.

Daniel was found to have an ear infection, a fairly common childhood ailment. But it just as well could have been something more serious or could have developed into something worse.

On that point, pediatricians can agree. Preventive health care pays off.

If we get children immunized, we could expect to see a virtual elimination of a number of preventable diseases, said Dr. Robert L. St. Peter, coordinator of children and school programs for the U.S. Public Health Service's Office of Disease Prevention and Health Promotion.

In the long run, we can look at changes in children's behavior that would reduce injuries, nutritional and emotional, he said. Even further down the road, we could see significant reductions in cancer rates, heart disease rates, stroke.

President Clinton and Hillary Rodham Clinton have said their health care reform package will include some form of preventive care as a basic benefit. Still to be determined are things like the patient's share of the cost.

The promise of insurance coverage for well child care is sure to be one of the selling points of the Clinton plan.

Less than half of private insurance plans now cover regular checkups or immunizations for children, St. Peter said. Those that do sometimes have big deductibles and co-payments that act as a deterrent for parents.

There's no dispute that a dollar spent now on preventive care will be several dollars saved in the long run.

Dr. Howard A. Pearson, president of the American Academy of Pediatrics, ticks off the statistics compiled by the group.

$1 spent on immunizations saves $10 in treatment for childhood diseases.

$1 spent on prenatal care saves more than $10 in caring for low birth weight babies.

$1 spent to educate parents on ways to keep their children healthy provides untold dividends in preventing illness.

At the Belcrest Road Clinic in Prince Georges County, Md., a steady stream of parents and their children arrive for immunizations and pediatric checkups.

Barbara and Oscar De Aza, now to the area, saw something about the clinic on television and brought in their 10½-month-old daughter Jamie. She needs a checkup, and I thought she would need shots," Mrs. De Aza said.

The clinic was an inexpensive option for the De Aza family. Fees are on a sliding scale based on a person's ability to pay.

Lake Howell has 23 athletes earn scholarships

From Staff Reports

WINTER PARK — Lake Howell High School continues to send student athletes on to college in remarkable numbers with unparalleled frequency.

This year, 22 members of the Lake Howell graduating class of 1993 have received scholarships to continue their athletic careers at the collegiate level. A 23rd athlete will receive aid based on academic achievement but plans to participate in his sport as well.

In 1991, 25 Silver Hawks received scholarships. Last year, 28 Lake Howell graduates were awarded full or partial grants in aid to participate in athletics at the collegiate level.

Once again, members of the Lake Howell football team lead the college-bound Silver Hawks, 11 garnering scholarships to play next year. Over the last three years, a total of 40 Lake Howell football players have received scholarships.

Heading this year's group are defensive end Trevor Pryce and tight end Rob Stanton.

Pryce, a second-team Class 5A All-State selection by the Florida Sports Writers Association, is headed to the University of Michigan while Stanton, a third-team pick as the designated hitter to the FSWA's All-State baseball team, is going to Clemson University.

Running back Torey Demps and defensive back Coogan Mitchell are both going to Teikyo-Westmar University in LeMars, Iowa. Ryan Foley, a defensive end, is headed to Benedictine in Atchison, Kansas.

Three Silver Hawks — offensive lineman Jon Hammond, defensive lineman Chris Polhamus, and linebacker Jason Anderson — have accepted scholarships from Central Methodist College in Fayette, Missouri.

Offensive lineman Craig McGee has committed to Cumberland College in Williamsburg, Kentucky. Defensive lineman Louis Greco is headed to Clarion State University in Clarion, Pennsylvania. Offensive lineman Troy Poulin is going to Bethel College in McKenzie, Tennessee.

 Seminole Community College's Robert Franklin capped a record-setting season by being named a third-team All-American by the NJCAA.

SCC's record-setting Franklin named to third team by NJCAA

By DEAN SMITH
 Herald Sports Writer

SANFORD — Supposedly, good pitching beats good hitting and vice versa.

Seminole Community College pitcher Robert Franklin spent much of the last two years proving the first half of that equation right, breaking records that were set when junior college hitters were still handrepped by wooden bats.

Earlier this week, the National Junior College Athletic Association recognized Franklin's efforts, naming him to the third squad of its Division I All-American team.

"That's great," said SCC head coach Jack Pantellas when informed of Franklin's selection. "I can't understand why he didn't get drafted."

Franklin, from Scranton, Penn., was one of two Florida players honored by the NJCAA. Outfielder Chris Pearce of North Florida Junior College in Madison was a first-team selection.

In his two years at SCC, the 20-year-old Franklin broke Raider career records for strikeouts (166), games started, and complete games while tying the career record for most wins (18).

This season, Franklin (6 feet, 230 pounds) posted an 11-3 mark with 103 strikeouts. His strikeout total is a new single-season mark while his win total is one shy of equalling the SCC record.

Franklin collected 26 strikeouts in back-to-back starts, fanning 15 in a 5-1 win over Broward Community College on Feb. 21 and 11 in a 7-2 victory over Valencia Community College on Feb. 25.

The old single-season strikeout mark of 100 was set by Apopka football and Orangewood Christian baseball coach Chip Gierke in 1970. Former Lyman High School standout Bobby Meadows held the former career strikeout mark of 165.

Franklin is the fourth All-American selection in SCC's history. The other three were Cleveland Indian general manager John Hart, former Montreal Expo and Texas Ranger standout Larry Parrish, and Florida Southern College Division II All-American Frank Caclatore.

Fla. Manor tightens Chase race

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Would the real Florida Manor team please stand up?

For the second time in three weeks Florida Manor knocked off the first place team in the Sanford Recreation Department Men's Tuesday Night Spring Slowpitch Softball League at Chase Park, pounding Monroe Harbour 14-3.

Two weeks ago Florida Manor had handed ABB Power Distribution its second loss of the season, then turned around the following week and lost to Wheelch & Howard (which had a losing record at the time).

All it took last night was one inning for Florida Manor to turn the game into a rout as they broke a 0-0 tie by scoring eight runs in the bottom of the third inning and went on to win their third game in four starts.

The other two games Tuesday night featured victories by teams that entered the night on two-game losing streaks.

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — When the Orphans fell behind 11-5 in the sixth inning, it looked as if their five-game unbeaten streak was going to come to an end in the Sanford Recreation Department Men's Tuesday Night Spring Slowpitch Softball League at Pinchurst Park.

Then Don Baldwin took the rest of the Orphans on his shoulders, driving in five runs over the next two innings to carry his team to a 13-11 victory over Mobilite Corporation.

Baldwin got a six-run sixth inning started with a three-run inside-the-park home run and then, after Mobilite scored a run in the top of the seventh to take a 12-11 lead, followed a single by Chuck Cornetto and an error on a grounder by Duke Ferrato with a two-run

Hopkins expands lead the easy way

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Through little of its own, Hopkins Meat Packing pulled out to a two-game lead in the Sanford Recreation Women's Slowpitch Softball League Tuesday night at Fort Mellon Park.

Undefeated Hopkins Meat Packing remained so after Maynard forfeited its game to the league leaders. Myer's Tree Service then handed Papa Joe's (the team closest to Hopkins in the standings) a 13-1 setback in a game stopped after six innings by the 12-run rule.

Suzanne's Oyster Reef capped the evening by ripping Vicky's Permit Service 18-6 for its first win of the season.

Beer: 30 had the night off.

Hopkins Meat Packing (6-0) leads the seven-team field with Papa Joe's, Beer: 30, and Myer's Tree Service all tied for second at 4-2. They're followed by Suzanne's Oyster Reef (1-4), Vicki's Permit Service (1-5), and Maynard (0-5).

Myer's Tree Service struck for two runs in the top of the first inning and led the rest of the way. A six-run outburst in the top of the sixth turned the game into a rout.

Rhonda Forstar was 4-for-4 with three runs scored and three RBI to lead the 21-hit effort of Myer's Tree Service. Debbie Ziegler contributed two doubles, a single, two runs, and an RBI. Cindy Campbell doubled, singled, scored a run, and had four RBI.

Linda Kenny hit three singles and scored twice. Sheri Peterson had three singles and two RBI. Dolores Gallo collected two singles, two runs, and two RBI. Stelle Norvell singled twice and scored twice.

RAINES GAUGE

Tim Raines is a Sanford native and Seminole High School graduate now playing for the Chicago White Sox. His stats are for the 1993 season in the first column, personal-best season totals in the second column and current career totals (including 1993 games) in the third column.

Raines hit a home run (his sixth of the season) and a single in five at bats Tuesday night, but his effort was squandered in the White Sox's 6-4 loss to the Detroit Tigers.

Disqualification hands Street Stock win to Lawrence

Special to the Herald

BARBERVILLE — Chris Lawrence chased Shane Williams long enough Saturday night to end up with the win in the first leg of the four-race McDonald's Super Summer Street Stock Shootout at Volusia County Speedway last Saturday night, June 5.

Williams finished first but was disqualified when he couldn't make weight after the race, handing the victory to Lawrence, who finished second.

In other main events at the half-mile oval:

- Guy Thomas of Jacksonville won the Late Model Division.
- Cam Gibson took his second checkered flag of the season in the Volusia Performance Late Model Stocks.
- J.D. Clark was the winner in the J.L. Hags Auto Body Hobby Stock class.
- Jerry Gilliard won the Ranken's Repair Mini Stock race.

Editor's note: Results were not received this week from New Smyrna Speedway or Orlando Speedway.

- Dennis Cormican won the Pate's Drywall/Benny's Racing Tires Florida Modifieds main event.
- David Clegg was first over the start/finish line in the Kinco Windows and Doors Sportsman feature.

After taking the lead from Jeff Miller on the ninth lap, Williams ran out in front of the rest of the pack for the rest of the 100-lap feature. Meanwhile, Lawrence was working his Budget Mobile Homes Camaro from the outside of row three, passing Miller's Froggy's Salon Camaro on lap 25 to pull into second.

That's the way the race ended, Williams lapping nearly all of the 20-car feature field to finish ahead of Lawrence and Miller. Todd Stevens drove his way up from his ninth-position start to finish third behind Lawrence and Miller after Williams' disqualification.

Rounding out the top five in the Street Stock feature were Scott Laughlin and Robert Young.

Bruce Baker, running strong in third during the early laps of the race, ended up finishing 18th after his transmission locked up. Ray Fulford, running as high as fourth, ended up 13th after his right front tire went down on lap 80.

Thomas has been planning on becoming a regular at Volusia since track officials decided to bring back the Late Models after a year away from the track for the power machines. Saturday night's win in his Billy Bob's of South Daytona Special firmed up that decision.

"Volusia County Speedway is a fun place to race," said an excited Thomas after his victory. "It's a great track."

Thomas didn't have an easy time of it, though, racing with a rearview mirror full of Orlando's David Rogers, who settled for second behind Thomas.

"He (Rogers) is the toughest around right there behind me," Thomas said. "David's fun to race against. He runs a tough, clean race."

Behind Thomas and Rogers came Tony Ponder of DeLand, Ronnie Burkett, and Eddie Martin.

Ponder had trouble with a tire going down on his Steel & Post Late Model Stock for the second race in a row, opening the door for Gibson to win his second Winston Racing Series feature. It was also marked just the third time Ponder had not taken the checkered flag in the premiere division.

After Gibson came, in order of finish, Mike Hunter of DeLeon Springs (the feature winner of a couple of weeks ago), Ponder, Wayne Lockett, and John Michalowski.

Clark started in the fifth position in the Hobby Stock main event, but didn't take long to claim the lead in the 15-lap feature, protecting his position atop the division's points standings at the track.

Humphrey's offseason of discontent continues

By PAUL NEWBERRY
AP Sports Writer

Bobby Humphrey supposedly has his life in order and is ready to resume his NFL career after a sordid offseason. Whether he'll resume it with the Miami Dolphins, however, may be another story.

The running back has yet to sign a new contract with the Dolphins and he skipped the team's preseason camp this month. Humphrey's attorney said Tuesday he has gotten the green light from Miami officials to start negotiating with other teams.

Not so, said the Dolphins. "There's a disparity in what they believe Bobby should be paid and what we believe he should be paid." Dolphins spokesman Harvey Greene said Tuesday. "Since that's the case, we told Bobby, 'Why don't you talk to other teams and see if they're willing to pay that same amount you feel you should be getting.'"

"In a sense, we're trying to prove our point that our offer is what the market will bear for Bobby, not what his agent believes. It's a way of proving to his agent that we are making a very fair offer and the money he's seeking is unrealistic."

Humphrey's lawyer, Hycal Brooks III of Birmingham, Ala., said that's not what he was told by the Dolphins. He said Miami general manager Eddie Jones specifically gave him permission to see if other teams are interested in a running back who led the Dolphins with 54 receptions for 507 yards and was second in rushing with 471 yards as Miami won the AFC Eastern Division.

"The fact of the matter is that Mr. Humphrey is accepting offers from other teams," Brooks said, "and quite frankly if we get a good offer we would have to give it serious consideration."

Neither side would discuss the specifics of the negotiations, but there's more to it than dollars and cents.

For one thing, Humphrey, as a fourth-year player, is not eligible for unrestricted free agency; the Dolphins would have to agree to a trade. Then there is the matter of Humphrey's personal life and how that will affect his bargaining power.

His year of discontent began with a Jan. 31 arrest in Columbus, Ga., on cocaine possession charges after a scuffle with a former University of Alabama teammate. Just more than a week later, he suffered a minor wound when he was shot in the thigh by a friend near his hometown of Birmingham.

Brooks said Humphrey, who was Alabama's all-time leading rusher, has gotten his life back on course.

"A couple of months ago Bobby, in an attempt to get closer to his father, really turned his life around," the attorney said. "He became a born-again Christian. He attends the Faith Apostolic Church here in Birmingham and is really enjoying it. Last weekend, he was up in Delaware for a church convention and was just an enthusiastic as anyone could be. He's very happy living a Christian life."

Humphrey attended the Dolphins spring minicamp and convinced the team he can still contribute.

"We saw for ourselves that he's fine," Greene said. "Physically he seems to be functioning at 100 percent. Really, there don't seem to be any problems in that regard."

"There's no question we want Bobby back. We consider him an integral part of the team as long as the other problems are resolved."

Greene would not discuss the criminal case other than to say he expects it to be resolved soon without any sanctions being handed down by the NFL.

Cook of the Week

Mama Mia! Bring on the delicious Italian cuisine

By RENÉE KEITH
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — John Cozzolino hails from Brooklyn, N.Y., however, he is extremely proud, and rightfully so, of his Italian heritage. At 76 years young, John's accomplishments and contributions throughout his life are, at the very least, impressive.

John moved to south Florida seven years ago, eventually settling and making his home in Sanford, eight months ago. "I would come down to Florida periodically and I just grew to like it here," said John. He also commented on how much he missed his daughter Cora, who is an English educator in Miami. John also has a son, Ralph, who is the vice president of a non-evasive diagnostic equipment corporation. He is the proud grandfather of four and the great-grandfather of one. Still, considering everything, the move to Florida has turned out to be a very positive one.

Now John looks at how well his own children have done with their lives and careers and sees a great future in store for his own grandchildren. He is an ardent believer in the home and parents being the greatest foundation for the youth of today. "Children learn about values from examples, from the environment they live in," he said.

Over the years, John has racked up a very impressive list of accomplishments and career moves. He served his country during World War II and is a very proud Pearl Harbor survivor. John's past, in the working world, includes a 10-year career with the New York state division of law enforcement as a narcotics investigator. He is also a retired registered pharmacist. However, after moving to Miami, he became employed with the veterans administration as a part-time pharmacist for two years.

John is fluent in four languages and is quite knowledgeable when it comes to various wines. "In vino veritas" in Italian means "There is truth in wine," according to John. He explains "It was felt a person would speak the truth when they had a glass or two of wine."

When it comes to cooking, he says he learned most of what he knows from watching his father.

John believes that "cooking is both an art and a science. If you love to cook you will do well and this love will show." The same theory applies if one dislikes cooking.

John not only loves to cook, but he also puts love into everything he prepares and serves. "Many times friends will call me when they're on short notice for something quick and delicious," said John.

John's Chicken and Sausage Specialty is a really a delightful and very different way to prepare chicken. In most everything John prepares, fresh herbs and spices are used, as well as only using olive oil when a recipe might otherwise call for a cooking oil. His food is healthy in that he uses plenty of vegetables and of course plenty of pasta. So, as John would say "enjoy."

Microcook seafood with great results

Fish and seafood can be easily prepared in the microwave with great results. The very short cooking time, approximately four minutes per pound for fish, eliminates much of the odor of fish cooking which many find objectionable.

A recipe very similar to this one was a favorite at Stouffer's restaurants some years ago. The sauce also contained diced seeded cucumber.

SALMON LOAF WITH LEMON AND DILL SAUCE

MICROWAVE MAGIC

MIDGE MYCOFF

- 1 Tbs. butter
- 1 cup celery, finely chopped

Ingredients for sauce:
1/2 cup mayonnaise
1/4 cup sour cream
1 Tbs. lemon juice
1 tsp. dill
1/2 tsp. salt

Thoroughly combine all ingredients. Refrigerate. Make sauce first, then place butter, celery, and onion in 2-quart measure. Cover with wax paper. Microwave 1 1/2-2 minutes on 100 percent power. Stir. Add salmon and remaining ingredients. Blend well. Smooth top of loaf. Microwave 6-8 minutes on 100 percent power. Allow to stand five minutes before turning out on serving platter. Serve with sauce. Flounder is a fish readily available here. Fresh is always best, but frozen can be good.

  - 1/4 cup mayonnaise
  - 1/4 cup Parmesan cheese
  - 1 tsp. lemon pepper seasoning
  - 1 Tbs. peprika

Cooking shrimp in the microwave oven is the quick odorless way. Be sure not to over cook. Remember standing time allows for completion of the cooking process.

MICROCOOKED SHRIMP

- 1 lb. shrimp
- Place single layer of shrimp in the bottom of a 10-inch pie plate. Cover with plastic wrap. Microwave 3 1/2-5 minutes, depending on size of shrimp, on 100 percent power. Rearrange halfway through cooking. Shrimp will be opaque, when cooked. Allow to stand 2-3 minutes, before draining. Shrimp are ready to be eaten, or chilled for shrimp cocktail.
- Shrimp for four is a meal-in-one recipe. Serve with a salad, crusty bread and your dessert specialty. A special meal!

SHRIMP MADELINE

- 24 medium shrimp
- 3 Tbs. butter
- 3 Tbs. green onions, finely chopped
- 2 Tbs. green pepper, finely chopped
- 2 Tbs. celery, finely chopped
- 1/4 cup butter

- 1/2 lb. mushrooms, cut diagonally
- 4 Tbs. lemon juice
- 2 Tbs. Worcestershire sauce
- 2 Tbs. parsley, finely chopped

Melt 1/2 cut butter in pie plate for 45-60 seconds on 100 percent. Add sauteed vegetables, shrimp, mushrooms. Microwave, covered with plastic wrap 4-5 minutes on 100 percent power, stirring after two minutes. Add remaining ingredients. Heat 30 seconds on 100 percent. Serve shrimp and juice over cooked wild or herbed rice.

Fresh Berries With Creamy Orange Sauce

Strawberries are the best

By MARIALISA CALTA
NEA Food Editor

When it comes to strawberries, a 17th-century gentleman quoted in Izaak Walton's "The Compleat Angler" (1853) is quoted as saying: "Doubtless God could have made a better berry, but doubtless God never did."

That about sums it up for strawberries. Bon appetit!

FRESH BERRIES WITH CREAMY ORANGE SAUCE
3 ounces cream cheese, softened
1/3 cup undiluted frozen orange juice concentrate (see note)
1/3 cup milk
2 tablespoons orange-flavored liqueur (such as Cointreau)
1 pint fresh strawberries, hulled, rinsed and drained
Place cream cheese, orange juice concentrate, milk and liqueur into blender or food processor fitted with a metal blade. Process until smooth.
Slice berries and divide them among 4 dessert dishes. Spoon sauce on top of fruit and serve.

Note: This recipe also works well with blueberries, or a mixture of strawberries and blueberries. Maria Golen, a student at the New England Culinary Institute in Essex, Vt., made a delicious version of this recipe with apricot puree substituted for the juice concentrate, and suggests other substitutes such as orange marmalade or apricot jam.

Yield: 4 servings.
Recipe from "The 5 in 10 Cookbook," by Paula J. Hamilton (Hearst Books, 1993).

GLAZED STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE TART

Crust:
1 cup all-purpose flour
1 tablespoon sugar
1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
5 tablespoons butter, cut into 8 pieces
1/4 cup plus 2 tablespoons milk

Filling:
1 pint strawberries, rinsed and hulled
1/2 cup strawberry jelly
1 tablespoon dry red or white wine or water
1 cup whipped cream (optional)

Preheat oven to 425 degrees.
In a mixing bowl, whisk or stir together flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Use your fingers or 2 knives or a pastry blender to cut in the butter until mixture resembles coarse meal. Add milk and stir to make a soft dough. (This can also be done in a food processor.)

Using floured hands, turn dough out onto a lightly floured surface and knead 6-8 times, until smooth. Press dough into a 9-inch tart pan or pie plate, pressing the sides above the rim and, if using a pie plate, fluting the edges.
Bake crust for 8-10 minutes.

JOHN'S CHICKEN AND SAUSAGE SPECIALTY
1 pound sweet or hot Italian sausage
1 chicken, 2-3 lbs, skinned and cut into pieces
1 bell pepper, green or red, cut into strips
2 medium onions, sliced
3 large cloves of garlic, minced
1 cup red Burgundy wine
3 bay leaves
10 ounces Italian plum tomatoes
8 ounces slice mushrooms, canned or fresh
Salt and pepper to taste.
First fry skinned chicken in olive oil. Add and fry sausage cut into 2 or 3 inch pieces. Then add until golden brown. Crust will puff somewhat during baking, but prick bottom with a fork if it puffs up unevenly. Let shell cool at least 10 minutes before filling; it should be slightly warm when berries are added.

Slice berries vertically, from point to hull. Arrange slices, overlapping, to completely cover bottom of tart shell.
In a small, non-aluminum saucepan, heat jelly with wine just until jelly melts. Brush warm glaze generously over berries.
Refrigerate at least 30 minutes or up to 4 hours before serving. Serve with a dollop of whipped cream, if desired.
Yield: 8 servings.
Recipe from "Cheap Eats," by Brooke Dojny and Melanie Barnard (HarperPerennial, 1993).

STRAWBERRY SOUP
1 pound fresh strawberries, rinsed and hulled
1 cup apple cider or apple juice
1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon
2 tablespoons honey
1 tablespoon sugar
1/8 teaspoon grated nutmeg
1 cup heavy cream
3 tablespoons port wine
strawberry slices and sour cream, for garnish

In a food processor fitted with a metal blade, puree the strawberries thoroughly. Add the cider, cinnamon, honey, sugar and nutmeg, and pulse to mix. Remove to a bowl and chill until ready to serve. Just before serving, whisk in the cream and wine. Serve in chilled bowls and garnish with strawberry slices and sour cream.
Yield: 8 cups.
Recipe from "Heartland," by Marcia Adams (Clarkson Potter, 1991).

STRAWBERRY ICE
cups fresh strawberries, washed and hulled
2 cups sugar
1 1/4 cups fresh-squeezed orange juice
1 cup fresh-squeezed lemon juice

In a blender, or food processor fitted with a metal blade, puree strawberries, working in batches if necessary. In a large bowl, combine puree with sugar, orange and lemon juice. Let stand at room temperature for 2 hours. Pour into a 9-inch-square pan and put in freezer. (At this point, the ice can be finished in an ice cream machine, following manufacturer's instructions.)
When mixture is frozen about 1 inch on all sides of the pan (this takes about 1 hour), transfer to a mixing bowl and beat with electric mixer until mushy. Return mixture to pan and freeze again for about 45 minutes, until slightly frozen. Transfer back to mixer bowl, and beat again. Return to pan and freeze until firm. (You can make this a day in advance; freeze, covered with plastic wrap, overnight.)

sliced onion, garlic and sliced bell pepper, tomatoes* and Bay leaves. Don't forget salt and pepper to taste.
Let this simmer for 40 minutes, then add the sliced mushrooms and continue at simmer for an additional 20 minutes.
This recipe when served with cooked white rice, using the sauce over the rice is quite delicious. Serve with a mixed green salad and good fresh Italian bread.
Beverage of choice is red wine.
*When adding tomatoes, hand crush to smaller pieces.
Also several potatoes, cut into small wedges, may be included when tomatoes and wine are added.

Recycled presents make better stories than gifts

DEAR ABBY: I have been a widower for four years. Last Christmas, my daughter gave me a toaster-oven, brand-new, in its original box. When I removed it from the box, I found a card wishing my daughter and her husband "a long and happy marriage." They were married six years ago.

Abby, how do you and your readers feel about recycled gifts?
J.D.D., MONTGOMERY, ALA.
DEAR J.D.D.: If the gift has never been used, it should be accepted as a brand-new one. However, some are not. As to my readers' feelings on the subject, let me share the experiences of some whose letters I have saved for some time. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: What would you do if you received an electric coffeemaker for a wedding gift that not only looked as though it had been used, but didn't work? There was no warranty coupon with it, either. I took it to an electrical appliance repair shop and was informed that the model was so old there were no available parts for it.

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: For my 25th wedding anniversary, I was given a beautiful party and bra set — pink satin trimmed in lace. I knew I would never wear it, so I took it to the store whose name was on the box, hoping to exchange it for something a little more practical. I was advised that the merchandise had not been purchased at that store. I tried another store. Same story. I finally gave up. (It's still in my drawer.)

HARTFORD, CONN.
DEAR ABBY: I once received a handsome purse for my birthday. It bore a well-known label, but looked a little shopworn. The zipper was jammed, so I took it to a shoe repair shop where they got the zipper to work. There I found a coin purse with a dime and two pennies.

MRS. F.S.A.,
SCOTTSDALE, ARIZ.

DEAR ABBY: I received a book for Christmas from a friend I'll call Louise. When I opened the book, out fell a note that read: "Louise, this best seller really is a waste of time. If you don't want it, give it to someone you don't care for." (Signed "Nellie.") My name is...

NANCY, HARTFORD, CONN.

DEAR ABBY: I heartily agree with you concerning the correct way to face when struggling to past people who are already seated in my row at the theater or in church.

It may be easier for the late arrivals to turn their backs to those who are already seated, but I would much prefer having a stranger's navel withing a foot of my of my forehead than having his bottom within an inch of my nose.

Bronchial asthma a chronic disorder

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm looking for suggestions on activity-induced asthma. The person involved is a 14-year-old female distance runner who is on prednisone for pre-activity preparation, an inhaler twice daily, and a second inhaler just prior to running. She also uses a mask. I'm certain all this has helped, but results are still marginal. Breathing difficulties set in about one mile into the run. Do you have any suggestions for physical or mental preparation?

DEAR READER: Bronchial asthma is a chronic lung disorder, marked by episodic attacks of difficulty breathing because of airway obstruction: spasm of the muscles lining the bronchial tubes, coupled with excess mucus secretions. Asthma can be triggered by a variety of factors, including infection, allergies, extreme stress, exposure to cold air, and -- in some cases -- exercise.

Exercise-induced asthma, a condition that is achieving widespread recognition, is believed to be due to the effects of rapid breathing. As air moves faster in and out of the bronchial passages, it causes the bronchial muscles to constrict, leading to an asthma attack. For obvious reasons, this disorder restricts optimal sports performance.

I gather from your question that the patient, an adolescent runner, persists in having symptoms (cough, breathlessness and fatigue), despite what appears to be appropriate treatment. Specifically, she is using prednisone (cortisone pills), an inhaler (to release bronchial spasm) and an oxygen mask when needed. Because this combination does not do the trick, some alterations are in order.

First, let me urge you to have the youngster examined by a pulmonologist, who will test her (to measure her breathing capacity) and offer suggestions that are individualized for her case. Second, I am concerned about her continued use of prednisone. Although helpful in treating asthma, the chronic administration of this drug causes dangerous side effects, including diabetes, osteoporosis, weakness and a susceptibility to infection. She would be better off, in the long run, not taking it. The doctor might prescribe a cortisone-inhaler instead; this is safer (because the medication is not absorbed by the body) and, if used four or five times a day, may prevent asthma attacks.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

Robert Frost wrote: "The brain is a wonderful organ. It starts working the moment you get up in the morning, and does not stop until you get into the office." Well, I don't know that this applies to everyone, but I do know a doctor who said the same thing, except that he replaced "office" with "bridge table."

What does your brain make of today's deal? West leads the diamond king. You duck one round, win the diamond-jack continuation and draw trumps, finessing the spade queen successfully. Then you cash three club tricks and cast aside with your last diamond. West goes in with the queen and switches to a low heart. With the contract on the line, do you finesse dummy's jack or put up the king?

North's response of three spades was a limit raise, though devotees of Drury would employ that useful convention instead. In Drury, following a third- or fourth-hand opening of one heart or one spade, a response of two clubs shows a maximum pass with at least three-card support. It allows the auction to stop in two of the major if the opener has made a tactical opening bid with limited high-card strength.

At first glance, it is a straight guess in hearts. But if you think back to the auction, you will know the answer. West passed as dealer, yet he has already shown up with the spade king and the K-Q-J of diamonds. That makes nine points. With the heart ace as well, he would have opened the bidding. So you should finesse dummy's heart jack.

Don't forget what an opponent didn't do.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
June 10, 1993

In the year ahead there is a strong chance you might become involved in two different endeavors that will be profitable as well as be labors of love.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If your motives are unselfish you won't be looking to take bows today for the impressive things you'll do for others. Your humility becomes you. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you to understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, P.O. Box 4465, New York, NY 10163.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) One of your best assets today is your ability to get your points across to friends without appearing like a know-it-all. What you say will be noted and applied.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Being first will be important to you today, because you'll be doing it for the right reasons. Your motive is to overcome challenge for challenge sake.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your presence has an uplifting effect on others today, because friends and associates will instinctively know you're an ally upon whom they can depend when the chips are down.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Today you might hear others do a lot of talking about their intentions and plans, but you're likely to be the one who'll let your actions speak louder than your words.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Let your heart rule your head in your involvements with loved ones today. This is one of those days when you could make more good things happen by being more loving than logical.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If there is something special you can do today you know will bring joy to a member of your family, give this matter top priority. Both the giver and the receiver will be gratified.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't be surprised today if members of the opposite gender find you more charismatic than usual. The unique qualities of your character will be showing and glowing.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Stay on top of developments today which could be meaningful to you materially. Tomorrow might not offer the same type of opportunities that exist today.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) A friendly smile and a few kind words will be more effective than assertiveness is today. Try to humor, not harass persons in your charge.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't deprive others of the satisfaction of doing nice things for you today, even if you didn't request their help. Be a joyous receiver and a cheerful giver.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You have a wonderful way about you today that makes new acquaintances feel you really want them as friends. It's effective, because it's sincere.
