SANFORD, FLORIDA, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 11, 1923

GLADES COUNTY ON HAND IN FLORIDA LEGISLATURE TO EXACT JUSTICE FOR NOLTE

SAY HE WAS DULY ELECTED AFTER NOMINEE INDICTED BANK FAILURE WANT JUSTICE

Other Matters of Importance Relative to Schools and Judges and Taxes

TALLAHASSEE, April 11.—W. V. Chavous was appointed by Governor Hardee to be commissioner of Dixie county succeeding H. M. Wade, resigned.

TALLAHASSEE, April 11.—The house with nothing but unimportant business on general calendar jumped to consideration of local bills and spent the forenoon passing a bunch, several of them of local interest to Hillsborough county.

TALLAHASSEE, April 11.—The senate broke from its regular order at noon and went into executive session to receive communications from Governor Hardee which it is understood would be submitted on the suspensions from office of six officials during the past two years. They were Sheriffs Dowling, Baker, Turner and County Solicitor Pine, County Judge Johnson and County Commissioner Poore. The senate earlier had passed 28 to 0 the measure by Wicker providing for observance of temperance and health day in public schools and relief bill in favor of W. B. Brinkley, Confederate veteran of Columbia county.

No inheritance or income taxes would be imposed in the state under a joint resolution calling for constitutional amendment on the subject introduced by Senator Stokes. The resolution would also exempt for $250 head of families from personal property taxes.

TALLAHASSEE, April 11.—A delegation from Glades county, headed by S. O. Spain, Jr., was here today with the avowed purpose of having the house alone for action of its organization caucus April 2 in expelling its member, Representative Nolte on the grounds that he was not the regular democratic primary nominee. Nolte entered the race following the primary after D. W. Stevenson, primary nominee, had been indicted in connection with the failure of his bank. The delegation grew out of a mass meeting at Moorehaven last Saturday night at which action of the caucus was denounced.

TALLAHASSEE, April 11.—The senate passed a batch of local bills today, and sent a few others of greater importance to their third reading, with indications of final action on them tomorrow.

These included a measure by Senator Phillips substituting electrocution for hanging; one by Mr. Wicker providing for the observance of temperance and health day in the public schools; one by Mr. Stokes providing for a sixth member of the supreme court, and one by Mr. McWilliams to regulate the practice of chiropractic, setting up a board of chiropractic examiners in connection therewith.

The senate waived its rules and passed a measure permitting banks and trust companies to invest a limited extent in the stock of farm loan banks. This measure is understood to include the joint farm loan now organizing at Jacksonville with Comptroller Ernest Amos slated as its president.

TALLAHASSEE, April 11.—A touch of sectional feeling entered the proceedings of the house today when Representative Amos Lewis of Jackson voted strenuous opposition to the passage of a measure by Representative Stuart of Hillsboro, to give his county an additional circuit judge. The bill, supported by Mr. Stuart as absolutely necessary if justice is to be speedily administered in his county, was passed 69 to 8. This, with the passage of another

FOUR PRISONERS IN MATTEWAN ESCAPED TODAY

MATTEWAN, N. Y., April 11.—Four prisoners at Mattewan state hospital for criminal insane escaped today. They overpowered the night watchman, bound and gagged him, robbed him of his keys. They next overpowered the guard who had keys to the garage from which they stole an automobile belonging to the superintendent of the institution and drove north carrying the guard with them as far as Poughkeepsie, sixteen miles north of here where they dropped him.

Airplane Searching For Lost Party in The Everglades

Automobiles Are Believed Mired Down While Crossing Muck Lands

MIAMI, April 11.—An airplane from Miami is scouring the Everglades in an effort to locate seventeen citizens of Fort Myers whose automobiles are believed to have mired down while trying to cross an uninhabited region on route of Tamiami trail. No fears are entertained here for the safety of the party.

measure by Mr. Lewis, giving effect to the constitutional amendment increasing the possible school tax millage to 10, was the principal business of the house, which labored considerably at the start over the reading and adoption of its rules for the session. An amendment to the list, brought over largely from the last session, restrains members from putting their feet on the desks, because of the new furniture, presumably.

The vote on the school tax bill was unanimous. As sent to the senate in amended form, it empowers the county boards of public instruction to call the elections in the special school districts to determine the amount of increase in the millage, or such elections might be called upon petitions from 25 per cent of the voters. Some discussion revolved around the lack of provision that the elections be called for voting on some specific amount, as it stands now, Mr. Lewis explained to questioners, the election will just be called and the voters can name any amount they want the millage lifted to. The amount receiving the majority will prevail as the new levy.

Getting back to Mr. Stuart's circuit judge, Mr. Lewis said that if the right rule prevails, there would be no congestion in the Hillsborough circuit nor in Duval county, which is also seeking assistance. The Tampa merchant and the Jacksonville merchant, he said, ship their stuff to Marianna, where he hauls from, and when litigation is instituted, it is started in Tampa or in Jacksonville, as the case may be. The Marianna merchant is then put to the expense of going to one of those cities to answer the litigation, he said, and such is not fairness between men. There was a law at one time, he said, requiring that suits be entered in the resident county of the party sued. No wonder the Jacksonville and Tampa dockets were crowded, he said, under the circumstances.

Mr. Stuart countered by saying his bill was designed to remedy an existing condition and did not treat with a theory of what might be. Several other members took the floor for the measure.

TALLAHASSEE, April 11.—A joint resolution providing for recall elections on any legislation upon petition of fifty voters from each of the five counties or hundred voters from each of three counties, was introduced in the house by Mercer of Sevannee. The resolution undertakes to give the voters relief from "offensive and objectionable" legislation between sessions of the legislature. Under the rules the measure went over.

HEAD OF REPUBLICAN ARMY WAS LYNCH, WHO DIED TODAY FROM WOUNDS RECEIVED IN ATTACK

During Recent Months He Has Been Real Leader While Eamon Was Figurehead

DUBLIN, April 11.—The death of Liam Lynch, who succumbed last evening to wounds received when he was captured by Free State troops near New Castle yesterday morning will be a serious blow to the irregulars it is believed. Lynch as chief of staff of the Republican army was the man most intimately associated with Eamon De Valera. "The capture of Lynch by soldiers of the free state," says the Irish Times, "inflicted a heavy blow on the forces in arms against it. During recent months he has been the real leader of the Republican extremists. De Valera was a figurehead but Lynch was the brain that kept South Ireland in the present sorry condition of alarm."

FLORIDA WATERWAYS TRAFFIC LEAGUE IS SEEKING WORLD MARKET FOR STATE PRODUCTS

Ocean Going Vessels From Sanford to the Sea and Thence to Markets of the World Will Result

ORLANDO, Fla., April 11.—A deep waterway in the St. Johns river from Jacksonville to Sanford; Ocean going vessels from Sanford to the Sea—and thence to the markets of the world; lateral channels and connecting links for utilizing the navigable waters of Florida from Jacksonville to the Everglades are the outstanding points in the program of the Florida Waterways Traffic League which is now to be vigorously and enthusiastically carried on.

Encouraged by the practical certainty of a favorable report from the Army Engineers representing the United States, to whom the project was submitted several weeks ago, the officers of the Waterways League have completed plans for securing at least 10,000 members of the League.

Official headquarters have been opened in the Orlando Mortgage Loan Building on Oak street and from there the detail work of the campaign will be carried on.

Active officers of the League, which includes S. J. Sligh of S. J. Sligh & Co., as president, Judge W. T. Bland, president of the First National Bank, as Treasurer, and Col. Geo. W. Knight of Sanford, as Vice President, are confident that when the importance of the Deep Waterways to the prosperity of the state is brought home to its progressive citizens the suggested quota of members will be quickly secured.

"It would seem to me" said Judge Bland, "that every up-standing, progressive citizen of Orange county, as well as of the other 14 counties within the so-called zone of the deep waterways, would want to be enlisted as a life member of the Florida Waterways Traffic League."

"A channel in the St. Johns river from Jacksonville to Sanford—which is the first link in our project—made 200 feet wide and 20 feet deep, would give Florida an open way to world markets at all times and would mean quick development of a section just now ready for unlimited expansion."

"It would save millions of dollars to the State producers and shippers of citrus fruits, vegetables and all products of land, forest and factory in lower freight rates, better and certain transportation carriers."

"It would give to our development a new era, new impetus and would open the gateway to millions of dollars seeking investment in Florida's

Standardized Machines Lessen Farmers' Woes

CHICAGO, April 11.—If Farmer Jones loses a nut or belt from his mowing machine, he need no longer crank up the sliver for a trip to town. He may replace it with a similar one from his binder, as a result of the standardization and simplification of farm machinery indicated by a survey just completed by the National Institute of Progressive Farming.

The programs of simplification, as undertaken by leading implement manufacturers, are improving repair and dealer service with resultant saving in time, labor and money for the farmer, the survey indicated.

Figures furnished by Alexander Legge, president of the International Harvester Company, were submitted to the institute as indicative of the lines along which his company has been working for simplification. He said that in 1918 the company made one standard two-horse wagon in 870 types but reduced that to 16 in 1922. Twenty-two sizes of plows also were eliminated, he said. Reports submitted to the institute by other manufacturers showed similar proportional decreases.

One result was that if a machine broke suddenly, the farmer, disgusted by the enforced suspension of arduous work, hustled into town only to find that the dealer could not furnish the needed part. Days of restless inactivity usually followed while the replacement was sent from the factory. This loss of time and labor was costly.

After the world war, where standardization was learned extensively, the implement manufacturers turned their attention to recognition of the benefits of simplification as they would apply to the consuming farmer. Thousands of types were eliminated by incorporating into one machine the good points formerly possessed by several of the same type. The simplified machine was superior to any of the originals, having the best features of all and the objections of none, the survey showed, thus enabling the dealer to have on his floor any standardized type of machine, and to supply parts direct from the stock replacements without sending to the factory.

CONVICT BOSS AT MACCLENNY IS INDICTED

MACCLENNY, Fla., April 11.—John Roldenburg, convict gang boss at the Baker county turpentine camp of State Senator Knabb, was indicted late yesterday by the Baker county grand jury on charges of treating convicts cruelly. The indictment grew out of charges made by Paul Revere, white, seventeen, of Washington, who declared he was flogged as often as twice daily while serving a sentence at the camp for vagrancy. He was leased to Senator Knabb by the county.

MADISON, Fla., April 11.—Former convicts who claim to have been flogged and former guards in the camp where the alleged flogging took place, will testify here tomorrow before the Madison grand jury, investigation into the death of Martin Tabert, North Dakota youth, who died while serving a prison sentence in this state last year. G. Grimson, state's attorney of North Dakota, and Judge J. Kneslaw of that state, who are here to assist in the prosecution, conferred tonight with Florida authorities in regard to the presentation of the case to the grand jury.

The state, it is understood, will contend that Tabert was a victim of a whipping administered at the camp of the Putnam Lumber company at Clara, Florida, and will ask for the indictment of Walter Higginbotham, convict camp boss, who is held on a charge of murder in connection with the case. Higginbotham was brought here today from Dixie county, where the alleged whipping is said to have been administered.

TALLAHASSEE, April 11.—The joint legislative committee set up to investigate the death of Martin Tabert, of North Dakota, under the alleged lash of a convict boss in Dixie county, has not outlined its procedure of work yet, and the indications tonight were that it would not get into swing until the middle of the week or possibly later.

One of the senate members of the committee, John P. Stokes of Pensacola, had not returned from his week end recess yet, although he is expected to come in tomorrow.

MADISON, April 11.—Investigation into the death of Martin Tabert, of North Dakota, a youth while serving a sentence in a convict labor camp 14 months ago was started today by the Madison county grand jury. Walter Higginbotham, boss of the convict camp of the Putnam Lumber Company at Clara, where Tabert was confined, is in jail here awaiting the outcome of the investigation. Higginbotham is charged with murder, the state contending that Tabert was flogged so severely by Higginbotham that death resulted. The state had assembled more than a score of witnesses today.

MIDLAND MEDICAL ASS'N HOLDING REGULAR MEETING HERE TODAY ABOUT FIFTY HERE

Were Guests of Kiwanis Club at Noon-day Luncheon at Valdez Hotel

About fifty members of the Midland Medical Society are meeting here today and those in attendance state that it is one of the best meetings in the history of the society. Many of the medicines did not arrive until late this afternoon and missed the noon-day luncheon tendered by the Kiwanis Club as hosts and members of the Kiwanis, Rotary and Chamber of Commerce being present.

President James Sharon of the Kiwanis Club asked Dr. Brownlee to invoke the divine blessing on the assembly and after all were seated Beau Baunel, the silver throated song leader of the Kiwanis Club led the "Week Song" in which all joined who were able to sing. Mr. and Mrs. Slaughter rendered an instrumental selection on the Hawaiian guitars that was greatly enjoyed.

President Sharon gave the address of welcome to the visiting medical men in his usual hearty style emphasizing the true southern hospitality of Sanford people and voicing the pleasure of all present at having the doctors here for the day.

The response was given by W. Burdette Smith, president of the Midland Medical Association in which he stated that the doctors were glad to be here in the City substantial and promised that they would not carry anything away with them except pleasant memories of Sanford.

R. J. Holly spoke briefly on the subject of "Better Newspapers" and asked for the co-operation of business and professional men in demanding better newspapers and cleaner newspapers.

Dr. Simon was called upon to speak on the subject of "What the State is Doing Toward Mosquito Control" and gave one of the most interesting expositions of the mosquito pest and the system of control that has ever been heard in Sanford. "Mosquito control is not extermination" said Dr. Simon, and he went on to state that many people were confused about the two terms. That mosquitoes had never been exterminated and probably never would be. That they could, however, be controlled and were being controlled in the New Jersey swamps, had been controlled in Panama and other countries and were now being controlled in Perry and other places in Florida where the campaign had been started along systematic lines as laid down by the State Board of Health. He called attention to the fact that the people of the whole state were becoming aroused over this question and yesterday Tampa put on ten new inspectors on the force to look after the containers in the yards and around the alleys. It will take many years to accomplish the control of the mosquito and the work does not show up for some time after it is started as it takes between ten and fifteen years to make a showing against the pest. This problem is a question of economic as well as public health and after the mosquitoes have been controlled the entire community is able to do better work and greater work than they could if the mosquitoes were allowed to flourish. Fort Pierce and other places on the east coast are bunding to control the mosquito and they are fully alive to the necessity of concerted action to lessen the dangers of the mosquito in bringing about epidemics of dengue and malaria every summer.

In an open discussion on the subject Dr. Edwards of Orlando, Dr. Denton of Sanford and Dr. Ossineup of Orlando all gave some interesting details in regard to the mosquito, the ravages of the same and the plans of control. Dr. Brownlee asked for the cost of control and Dr. Simon said it was relatively to the commu-

EDUCATIONAL LEGISLATION

fill successfully the numerous important state offices held by members of the Board of Education, to say that the men who have held these offices have probably not been qualified by training or interest to determine the policies, or to manage the operation, of our educational institutions. Time was when a board of education composed as is ours could function with comparatively satisfactory results, for our schools were much more simple in organization and curriculum than now, and many of the present problems of finance and management were unknown. Education has now become the chief business of the states, and the women of Florida do not believe that this complicated enterprise can be left as a mere incident with a group of officials already overburdened with duties, and relying largely upon one man to keep them informed concerning this great undertaking. This is not a one man—or one woman—job.

Florida should have a Board of Education made up of men and women of affairs, selected from the state at large, because of their fitness for this particular position. They should be men and women of recognized ability and sterling character, breadth of mind and vision, convinced of the importance of education, and willing and able to give time and energy to this great work. No salary should attach to the office except for expenses, thus putting it outside the pale of political spoils.

The public school are entitled to a board of directors who can really function as such, as our institutions of higher learning have their managers in the Board of Control, a body appointed by the governor, and which during its eighteen years of existence, has been markedly free from political favoritism, because no salary goes with an appointment to its membership.

The public schools are largely the guardians of the education, character, and physical, mental, moral and social welfare of our future citizens, and a group of our strongest and best men and women should have this paramount business of the state in charge.

Before this movement was launched it had the endorsement of men prominent in the political, professional and business life of our state. It has also been unanimously endorsed by the Florida League of Women Voters, the Florida Parent-Teacher Association, and the Florida Educational Association.

The Florida Federation of Women's Clubs appeals to the members of the forthcoming legislature to give this matter very careful consideration. It appeals also to all citizens of the commonwealth, men and women, to use their influence and best endeavors to secure the submission of the proposed amendment to the voters of the state, and its adoption by them.

DR. TUPPER'S LECTURE TONIGHT

At the First Baptist church tonight, Tuesday, April 10th, the Rev. Kerr Boyce Tupper, D. D., LL.D., of Philadelphia will deliver his famous lecture, entitled "The Humorous Side of a Preacher's Life." Of this lecture one of the Cautious Bureaus has written, "A finer specimen of real, clean, irresistible wit and humor has seldom been presented on the American platform," and of the lecturer a recent magazine has said, "Dr. Tupper ranks with Hillis as a preacher and with Conwell as a lecturer."

The lecture will be free to the public and a silver offering which it is hoped, will be generous will be taken for the orphan children of Poland.

All Sanford is invited to be present tonight. Let the auditorium of the Baptist church be full of clergymen and laymen and people generally.

The Virgin Islands want a permit to again manufacture rum. They certainly belie their name.

"Crash of brass officially opens the April Follies" says the Jacksonville Journal. We don't just get you on the crash of brass stuff.

Sanford will be cleaned externally and internally this summer and it will be freed from many diseases of the mind and body when the present administration gets through with the cleaning process.

If the government keeps on governing the newspapers we might just as well turn our business over to them and be done with it—that is if they will promise to meet the pay roll every Saturday night.

That penny wise and pound foolish idea of the government in regard to the postoffice service in this country is playing hob with the so-called service of the government. Just another nail in the coffin of government ownership.

That escape of Chapman, the mail wagon artist who got away with a million in New York, and then escaped from the Federal pen reads like a romance. He is probably heading for Florida to "grow up with the country."

A commission of three will control the destinies of the Ku Klux Klan says the latest dope on the order. It does look like the officials could settle their differences out of court and endeavor to follow some of the tenets of the order.

The United States is not in favor of an armed League of Nations says a dispatch from Washington. We would just like to know what the present administration is in favor of and we hope they will find out before the next election rolls round. It would be simply awful if the Republican party did not know where they stood on the League of Nations at election time.

Instead of getting better the post-office service is getting worse and worse and the fault is not with the local postoffice force. They are short of help, they are only allowed to work 25 many hours, they are wound round with red tape until they cannot get real service and the very nature of the present service will not allow a man to give the government the best he has in him. If this is government service, then the postoffice had best be put under private ownership. At any rate we have had our lesson. We do not want any more government ownership of anything.

THE PEOPLE PAY

The tariff has been pouring money into Uncle Sam's coffers at the rate of 400 millions per year. Customs receipts in March were over 62 millions of dollars. Americans pay this enormous amount in increased cost of living. Many good people think the tariff is an ideal way to collect the revenue which the government must have. The people at least get something more for their money than the mere receipt which the tax collector hands them, and they seldom realize the full extent of their payments. Least of all do they realize the amount which the profiteers take from them with the tariff as an excuse. If they did, they would rebel against the system.—Tampa Times.

The corn doctor who used to wear a horseshair watchchain? The old-fashioned gent who used to applaud the trained seal acts? The guys who said automobiles would never be a success? The honeymooners who used to send cards from Niagara Falls? The professor who was going to the moon in a skyrocket? The theatrical manager with the diamond horseshoe necktie 'pin? The young lady who thought it was immoral to use slang? The guy who used to wear heavy woolen underwear in winter? The bird who chirped "No thanks, I'm on the wagon?" WELCOME, MEDICOS

The doctors are with us today and we give them a warm welcome. We believe in the doctors. We are "buddies" because our trials and tribulations are very much like the doctor's and we have much in common. To our mind the doctor is one of the greatest benefactors to mankind and they are entitled to our respect and esteem. We hope they will enjoy their little stay in our midst and while they will be very busy with their own interests they should have time for a little fun while here and we want them to see Sanford and Seminole county before they return to their homes. We are glad to know that these busy fellows are able to get away for a day from their work of ministering to mankind. We are glad that having this day they will spend it in Sanford. We are glad that they will meet up with some of the finest fellows in the world—our own Sanford doctors—and we are glad they will have the opportunity of seeing one of the best cities in the South—Sanford, the City Substantial. Welcome and come again.

BUSY TRANSPORTATION

Secretary Weeks reports that the Panama Canal made a profit of $900,000 in the first two weeks of March, and this is "as much as we ordinarily make in a whole year." It is mostly "domestic business"—that is, shipping between the eastern and western coasts. At this rate, it seems certain that the proposed Nicaragua Canal will be needed before many years, and also, wonderful to say, it may be built from the profits of the present canal. Nobody cares how many canals are built, as long as they pay for themselves and each other. And the more there are, all busily working, throughout continental United States as well as down on the isthmus, the better it will be for American agriculture, industry and trade. The railroads, too, as Secretary Weeks points out, are being offered the heaviest traffic in their history, and are having difficulty in handling it. This means a profit for them and a better future than they have been anticipating. The motor car industry, everybody knows, is booming. Altogether, transportation in this country is in a very thriving condition, and that spells prosperity.—Jacksonville Journal.

CLOSED SEASON TWO YEARS IN FLORIDA

One of the commissioners of Osceola county hit the nail on the head when he officially declared that a fine of one hundred dollars should be imposed upon every man found carrying a gun outside of the hunting season. He asserted that during every closed season there were many who subsisted almost entirely upon the game secured, and that when the open season came there was nothing for the home hunters and no inducements for out-of-staters to spend the season.

The remark was timely. He was a new commissioner and was probably not aware that so little interest in the protection of game in that county during the closed season that the board of commissioners had appointed a "game warden" a man under indictment for illegal shooting; yet that was a fact. Nor did he remember that all cases regarding illegal hunting were nolle prossed at the next term of court.

Those incidents have nothing to do with the proposition of insisting upon a closed season—a genuine closed season. It is claimed by sportsmen who make a practice in hunting in all states of the union that there are but three states who have a game warden who is onto his job, and where his mere order is implicitly obeyed. These are Colorado, Oregon and Washington. In these states the warden has the right to extend or shorten the open season. He can publish a little notice forwarded to all his deputies that because of the overplus of shooting the season on this bird or that game is to be closed next Tuesday, and, although such an order may shorten the season by at least one-half, his ruling is obeyed. Not a native or a visitor violates the order.

Because of this obnoxious of the law there is a good allowance of game for the following season. Some years ago Oregon bought one thousand pairs of Chinese pheasants from a Denver hatchery. These were taken to divers places in Oregon and freed, and an order was issued that for three years not a pheasant should be shot. An obnoxious of that edict resulted in some fine hunting at the expiration of that term of years. If Florida would make a closed season for all game for a term of, say, two years, and make the penalty for carrying a gun into or across or around any field or wood one hundred dollars fine with an alternative of three months in jail, at the end of that two years there could not be found pasture room for the people who would flock to this state and pay their large hunting license fee with the greatest of delight. All of this contingent, of course, upon securing the proper man as a game warden and his selection of good men as deputies.—Palatka News.

THE POSTOFFICE FIASCO

From all reports in the newspapers and otherwise the postoffice business of the United States is about as badly demoralized as it has ever been since it started to function. It is all right to say the Republicans did it and the Democrats did it but the people want to know why it was done and they want to know just why a great country like America can be tied up and practically paralyzed for any excuse whatsoever. And when we say this we include the congress as a whole without respect to any party. If the Republicans were about to adjourn without this appropriation being made why in the summer breezes did the Democrats allow it to be done. The people are suffering from this petty politics and we do not care whether it was Democrats or Republicans who are responsible—that we want to know is what our representatives are doing in Congress when they allow such stuff to be pulled. No other body of men in the world would have allowed such a thing to happen in their own business and if the present Congressmen are not wise enough to attend to our business they should be cast aside and other men put in their places.

Thousands of postoffices are short of help and cannot function because a few butt-headed congressmen forgot to pass the deficiency bill for appropriations before adjourning. Thousands and millions of patrons of these postoffices are losing business and are losing their religion because they cannot get their mail and because when the butt-headed Republicans forgot to pass the bill a lot of butt-headed Democrats allowed them to do it probably thinking it would cast disgrace upon the Republicans and help the Democrats at election time. This is just one of those things that makes the common people mad and that will cause a third party to rise up some of these days and cast the Republican party and the Democratic party into oblivion. They are both so rotten with politics that they are actually senile in their dotage and their adherence to certain lines and rules of the party. They are constantly "stalling" and playing politics and trying to play to the galleries and doing a bunch of childish stuff that a ten-year-old school boy would be ashamed of in his school days. They are doing nothing because the Democrats block the Republicans and the Republicans block the Democrats and they come home thinking they have done something really great. We would just like to whisper in their ear that even the solid South will be broken some of these days and it will not be broken by the Republicans either. It will be broken by a third party that will have some of the good traits of Roosevelt and the statesmanlike methods of Wilson and there will be no petty politics in it and when that time comes there will be something done at Washington besides horseplay. Meantime we suffer for the mail, business suffers, the public suffers all on account of a lot of rotten, petty, peanut politicians in Washington.

LEGISLATURE SPLIT

It followed as "the night the day" that the opening of the legislature would be followed by a "split." Get fifty or a hundred American citizens together for a session on anything and there will be a split. The citizens of this country are good on "having an opinion and sticking to it by gum!" But the legislature seems to be a unit on one of two important matters. The prohibiting of the leasing of prisoners to private operators and the 3-cent-a-gallon tax on gasoline for good roads.

We think this is a hopeful outlook. If the legislature does nothing else but handle these two measures, the one prohibitive and the other constructive, it will have had a monumental session. The state could expect no more of one body of men than to see the good name of the state cleared of a terrible stigma and the foundation laid for the construction in a comparatively short time of a perfect system of good roads all over the state. The legislatures for the last few stick to this program until it is finished, and then be satisfied if nothing of a spectacular nature develops. With the many details of a routine nature that must be handled, this program will be sufficient and the people will be satisfied. Sixty days once every two years is a very short time in which to "fix the destiny of Florida." It simply cannot be done. The makers of the constitution of this state or rather the paper that takes the place of the constitution—understood better than some of our legislators that the body of men called the legislature was not designated to arrange every minute detail of the life of the people.

It was planned to take the lead in constructive things and permit the people to work out all details for themselves. The legislature for the last few years have been legislating too much. Altogether too much. They have been doing so much they hardly know what they have done. They are like speakers who talk "more than they know."

The legislature should get its feet on the ground, take care of a few constructive measures—the two mentioned will be enough to fill a session of two months, with the details that must be handled—and then go home and let the people rest in peace. The meeting of the legislature is a sore spot in the history of the state. The people don't know what to expect. The body does one thing at one session, then the people wrangle over it for two years and the next session either undoes what has been done or add something to it. There is no rest. No satisfactory development on soil grounds. All progress is through the haze of wrangles. Battles seem to mark the path of Florida history.

If the legislature would select a few important measures and be satisfied with handling these in a statesmanlike manner, the state would be far better off. We trust that the makers of the program for the body now in session will have the good sense to hold the new fellows on the ground and that the new fellows will have the good sense to be led until they learn a few things.—DeLand News.

Homesick Elephant.

An elephant in the London zoological garden some time ago went on strike and refused to perform her usual work of carrying children about the place. Some new "riding steps," which were made up of by the little passengers to reach the back of the elephant, were replaced by new ones and when she was led to it for the first time she refused to enter it was thought that she might be making a protest against the removal of the old steps and so these were put in their old place, but still she refused to enter. Soon after this she refused to leave the pen. All other efforts having failed to induce her to be good, it was decided to send her to India for a mahout and he arrived recently. After talking to her soothingly in his native language, and you might say hers also, she allowed him to put a rope around her neck which he used as a stirrup and with this he climbed up on her head and led her through her usual stunts. The animal was presented to the garden by the maharajah of Cooh Behar, and was evidently homesick.

California Likes Willite, Supreme Test Given To Investigate Paving

California long ago found out that Willite was the kind of paving material that would use the largest amount of local material in making roads, would save freight and would last longer than any road material that had ever been tried in that country. The Highway Engineer and Contractor of Chicago, August, 1922, says: "In June, 1919, the Los Angeles County Highway Department decided to build Willite on the Los Angeles Harbor boulevard, over four old earth-fills known as 'Nigger Slough,' which had been upaved for nearly 10 years for the purpose of giving Willite, as they said, 'a supreme test.' County Road Commissioner F. H. Joyner at that time stated that if Willite would stand up under the heavy pound traffic on this road under terrific heat conditions in the summer, no one would need ever have to worry about it elsewhere—that he considered it the heaviest traffic in America. (It runs out to the ship yards). The old earth-fills were about 20 feet high with lakes on each side thereof. This sub-grade was properly prepared and rolled with a 15-ton, 3-wheel roller. Wooden curbs were installed on each side of the road. Willite foundation 3 inches thick was laid thereon, raked, spread and rolled, on top of which Willite 2-inch top course was laid and rolled with 5 and 8-ton tandem rollers until no more compression was shown under the wheels of same. Mineral aggregates constituting about 85 per cent of the Willite mixture consisted of sand from dunes which were found close to the job. The mixing plant was erected there. The sand was so fine that some have termed it 'Hour Glass Sand' and was said to be impossible to use in asphalt paving mixtures.

The enclosed copy of letter under date of Jan. 17th, 1923, tells more about this road. Mr. W. R. Neel, State Highway Engineer of Georgia, has said that, in his opinion, a well graded, well drained Georgia sand clay road makes the best base in the world for a Willite pavement, and we claim it is not necessary to have a stone base, under certain conditions of dirt base, for our 3-inch Black Base and 2-inch top.

If we can build a road in hot California, out of material you would not dare use in any other type of asphalt pavement, have it stand the terrible loads of machinery it has stood (some weighing as high as 52 tons in one load) and take over 12,000,000 tons of traffic which is the ordinary traffic of 20-25 years— isn't that type of road good enough for you?

UNITED STATES MUST LEAD WAY FOR WORLD PEACE," SAYS BRYAN

Miami, April 10.—William Jennings Bryan addressed a vigorous appeal for world peace to an audience of 4,000 persons here and declared that "the United States must lead the way." The United States, he asserted, is the only nation which can achieve a leadership toward lasting peace because no other nation has the confidence of the world.

Mr. Bryan emphasized what he termed the need for a "machine strong enough to take hold of our government and regardless of the party in control voice the desire of a nation's millions for permanent world peace." "The spirit and desire for peace pervades the world," said Mr. Bryan, "but it can't express itself. For this expression it needs an all powerful machine." He suggested that that machine be a league of nations or any league that would arbitrate and iron out arising difficulties.

"The United States is the only nation whose voice is listened to without an ulterior motive. The nations of the world need us and the United States cannot withhold her influence. Other nations must concede our disinterestedness and the voice of the United States must spread the gospel of peace to the world and the League of Nations is the hope of the world for universal peace. Preparedness for war is no curative of war and we must do away with navies and armies."
"I would like to see President Harding call another conference on disarmament and inform the representatives gathered at it that the United States will further reduce not only its navy but its army—and then some as much as any other nation of the world. The same spirit that uses the navies on the sea in war, will use armies on land. Scrapping one's navy doesn't eliminate the danger of another war. The world now knows that there is no hope for it without abolition of a war and we cannot abolish war and prepare for it too."

STEEL COMPANY INCREASES PAY OF 150,000 MEN

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK, April 10.—The United States Steel Corporation today announced a wage increase of 11 per cent effective April 16 for day laborers employed in the manufacturing plants of its subsidiary companies, and an equitable adjustment for other classes of labor in those plants. More than 150,000 employees are affected and the increase, it is estimated, will add approximately one-half a million dollars to the weekly pay roll.

The Republican Iron and Steel Company immediately announced a similar wage increase for its day laborers. The Jones and Laughlin, Bethlehem Steel Corporation later announced an increase of approximately 11 per cent. The Crucible, Youngstown Sheet and Tube and other large independent companies are expected to follow suit.

Three small Middle Western manufacturers previously had announced increases from 40 to 41 cents an hour for common laborers.

Employees of the mining, transportation and miscellaneous properties of the United States Steel Corporation are not affected by the present increase, but was stated at the offices of the corporation that the wage adjustments already had been made or were pending for those groups. Last September the corporation announced an increase of 20 per cent to all employees other than those in the railway service.

Workers Get 40 Cents Hour.
The present rate of pay for day laborers in the manufacturing plants of the corporation is 36 cents an hour. The increase will bring the wages to approximately 40 cents an hour.

The increase in the steel industry closely follows those in the textile, copper mining and certain building trades.

CITRUS FRUITS BY-PRODUCTS

Experts Have Shown How Profits to Growers From Materials Once Waste Can Be Made.
To offset the serious losses in the citrus fruit industry occurring through bruised, undersized or over-sized oranges, grapefruit and lemons usually allowed to go to waste, the bureau of chemistry of the United States Department of Agriculture has investigated methods for getting by-products that will return a profit to the grower. Some of these products require a preliminary expense for equipment, but it has been demonstrated that the investment can soon be made profitable.

Grapefruit juice, which is increasing in popularity, can be easily made if directions for pressing, straining, pasteurizing, clarifying, sweetening and bottling the juice are carefully followed. These directions may be obtained from the department.
A blend of grapefruit juice with loganberry juice has been found popular. Orange vinegar is a satisfactory substitute for apple vinegar and should be made in districts where many cull oranges would otherwise be a total loss. Citric acid is a valuable commercial article which can be made from cull lemons or limes if proper apparatus is installed.

Other by-products from citrus fruits often wasted include candied citrus peel, for use as a confection or by bakers in place of citron, marmalades, jellies, butters and pectin.

FRENCHMAN HAD RIGHT IDEA

Principles of Flying Set Out by Louis Pierre Mouillard Have Been Proved Correct.
Who was the first glider? In supplying an answer there is room for the patriots of many nations to delve in medieval annals. Italy and France have a good case. Jean Baptiste Dame is said to have made a successful glide at Perugia in the fifteenth century, while the marquis of Beaucourt, in the middle of the eighteenth century, skinned across the Seine at Paris.

Details of a convincing kind are, however, lacking. But there is no doubt of the theoretical claims of the Frenchman Louis Pierre Mouillard, who died a quarter of a century ago in poverty at Cairo. In two volumes he set out the principles that should guide man in seeking conquest of the air. To seek to fly by imitating the beating of a bird's wing was not feasible. "Men should imitate such birds as fly with steady wings and avail themselves of the currents of the air."

Ten years after Mouillard was dead (with his dreams of an actual machine unfulfilled) the Wright brothers began the development of his ideas.

ESKIMOS

Canada's mounted police count noses and find only about 2,700 Eskimos living in the Far North, not including Alaska.
The low figure is surprising. Beginning with our first lessons in geography, we have heard so much about the Eskimos that most of us imagined they existed in much greater numbers.

In bidding for fame, the Eskimos have had the additional handicap of never producing a great man.
Despite mediocrity and fewness, the Eskimos have become known in all parts of the earth.
This shows the power of advertising.

PECULIAR WELL

The attention of the geological survey has been called to a peculiar well in Ohio, and has caused an investigation to be made of it. It appears that the well produces both fresh and salt water through two separate pumps. The explanation proves to be very simple. Two water-bearing beds, confined between layers of limestone, occur at this point, one above the other. The pipe of the fresh-water pump taps the upper vein at a depth of 16 feet. The pipe of the salt-water pump touches the lower vein at a depth of 35 feet; and the brine, being heavier than the fresh water, does not mix with it, but remains at the bottom.

MEATLESS DIET IN A HOSPITAL

The experiment of a meatless diet is being tried in the Beth Israel hospital of New York by Superintendent J. Louis Frank. Until recently it was contended by some that meat was the source of vitamins, but this has been recently disproved by Dr. E. V. McCullom, professor of chemistry and hygiene of the Johns Hopkins university. From a medical standpoint it is now asserted that there is nothing inherent in meat that cannot be supplied by fish, milk, eggs and milk products.

Congregationals Win Over Legion

The regular match between the Champs and Legion teams last night was an abbreviated affair, both teams being but two men each. Arrangements were made between the two managers, however, that those four men would play in order that there would be no postponed game, and the result was a victory for the Champs. There was an unconfirmed rumor going the rounds last night that Rousch would meet again with the club officials either today or tomorrow, in a further effort to compromise the existing differences.

CAMEOS MADE BY MACHINERY

Engraving, Such as Was Common in the Earlier Ages, Has Practically Become Lost Art.

The engraving of cameos has practically ceased to be pursued as an art. Modern manufacturers cut stones in large quantities to be used as scarf studs and as settings in liner rings; and in Rome and Paris an extensive trade is carried on in the cutting of such cameos, which are largely exported into England and mounted in brooches.

PLAN FLOODLIGHTS ON TRAIN

Illumination of Route Said to Be in Contemplation by a Leading Railroad System.

Brilliant night illumination of its picturesque transcontinental route is the plan contemplated by a large railroad system in this country, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. The idea, as conceived at present, is to equip the observation coaches of its fast limited trains with a battery of powerful floodlights. These lights would be arranged to cover a range of approximately 100 degrees, with sufficient height and depth to illuminate the canyon, river, lakes and mountains in the vicinity of the right of way, as the train rushes on through the night.

Although thus far the location of the floodlights has been confined to the observation car, certain officials have suggested the advisability of placing them along the full length of the train. Also, further to enhance the effect, it has been proposed to employ lamps or reflectors of various colors, which would undoubtedly yield fairlike scenes, particularly when directed upon snow-covered surfaces. Railroad men in authority have nothing but praise for the scheme, and while eagerly awaiting the completion of the initial floodlighting equipment, have pointed out the fact that there is an additional and practical use of the brilliant lights as a protection against rear-end collisions.

REPORT OF CONDITION OF THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK

Table showing financial details of the First National Bank, including assets, liabilities, and capital.

BANKING POWER OF THE UNITED STATES

How the United States has come to control fifty per cent of the Banking power of the world, and what this extraordinary expansion means.

By OSCAR P. AUSTIN
Statistician, The National City Bank of New York

A modest paragraph that appeared in the annual report of the Comptroller of the Currency, just issued, puts the "banking power" of the United States in 1922 at $50,175,000,000 against $24,341,000,000 at the beginning of the war, $10,685,000,000 in 1900, $5,700,000,000 in 1890, and approximately $2,141,000,000 in 1870. Our share of world banking power is now estimated at approximately 50 per cent, against 27 per cent in 1870. Our banking power in 1922 is more than double that at the beginning of the World War.

What Banking Power Is

What is this mysterious something which we call "banking power" and the equally mysterious factor which we call "credits" which are closely related to banking power? "Banking power" is usually defined as the sum of paid up capital, reserves and surplus, may with safety to their depositors as well as to themselves loan out a certain percentage of the deposits placed with them, and it is this combination of capital, surplus, circulation, and deposits which the business world recognizes as "banking power."

Just what proportion of this grand total of "banking power" is actually loaned out by the banks cannot be stated in exact terms, though the fact that the loans and discounts of all banks in the United States in 1921 approximated $30,000,000,000 at a fixed date, June 30, as against $48,000,000,000 of "banking power" at the same date, at least suggests that approximately two-thirds of the actual "banking power" is in the form of loans and discounts which form the "life blood" of the actively moving industry of the country.

plus, note circulation, and deposits of the banks of the country. The paid up capital belongs to the bank to utilize as it may see fit, so does the surplus and other profits which have not been distributed to the stockholders, so does its own bank notes which are put in circulation, while long experience in banking lines shows that banks

This assertion that the loans and discounts made by the banking power of the country form the "life blood" of many active industries and lines of trade is quite justified. The farmer must have at certain seasons of the year, especially at seed time, harvest, and the marketing period, a much larger sum of ready cash than at other seasons and it is far more convenient and inexpensive for him to borrow this money at interest when he needs it than to keep it in hand for the few comparatively brief periods of the year in which he needs it for current operations. Other producers of domestic materials, the mines, the forests, the fisheries, find it necessary to borrow at certain seasons of the year when the demands upon them are above normal; the railroad and other transportation facilities must borrow at times to meet the unusual demands upon them in traffic activities, needs for new rolling stock, and increased compensation for employees.

In manufactures, however, perhaps more than in any single industry borrowing, the use of money obtained by temporary loans, is an absolute requirement of successful business. Raw materials, which are largely the product of the farm and mine, must be bought, chiefly at home but considerable quantities abroad, workmen must be paid with promptness and regularity, manufactures turned out must be warehoused and await opportunity to sell at favorable rates, and all these features in the activities of the manufacturing industries require large sums of capital and supplemented by still larger sums in the form of loans at certain periods of the year's activities.

Banking Power and Industry

With the life blood which loans have given to these industries, the United States has become the greatest manufacturer and greatest exporter of the world. The people who habitually borrow such proportion of their financial requirements as circumstances may suggest, know the processes by which loans can be made from the banking power, on stocks, bonds, or other similar securities, notes, "acceptances," etc., and so the flow of money into and out of the banks keeps the wheels of industry and business moving.

Even this vast "banking power" of $48,000,000,000 and actual loans and discounts of something more than $30,000,000,000 does not by any means measure the total value of all the circulating media of various sorts constantly passing from hand to hand among the people of the United States. This real circulating medium includes the checks, drafts and other pieces of paper by which business men transfer from hand to hand their claims on the wealth deposited in the banks of the country, for only an extremely small part of the actual business transactions in the United States are represented by actual cash. If a bank makes a loan to an individual based on his note or other security it seldom hands him the actual cash but informs him that the sum in question stands to his credit in the bank and he may check against it as he may desire. He draws checks in payment of the various sums which he desires to pay, sends them through the mails, and the recipient at his convenience passes them into the hands of his own bank or utilizes them in making payments in his own business transactions, and when they get back to the bank on which they were drawn several days later they are charged against the balance created by the loan and represent just that amount of business transacted. In very recent years in which banks have multiplied and the use of the telephone and automobile has put the farmer in close touch with those with whom he does business, the use of the check in the agricultural regions has greatly increased.

Importance of Credit Currency

The business transaction the more certain it is, it will be temporarily represented by a check or other "credit currency." Even these checks when they finally reach the bank on which they were drawn are not used as cash but passed to the "clearing house" in which the claims of the various banks at which they were deposited are offset by those of the bank on which they were originally drawn, and the mere difference supplied in cash.

So it turns out that an extremely large percentage of the actual day-to-day business of the country is transacted by the use of checks, drafts, bills of exchange and other forms of "credit currency" and a very small per cent in actual cash. Studies made by the United States Comptroller of the Currency twenty-five years ago indicated that apparently 90 per cent of the transactions in the cities and larger towns then occurred in the form of credit currency and it is probable that the proportion is now much larger, perhaps 95 per cent.

Since the outbreak of the war there has been an enormous increase in the use of credit which has resulted in more or less inflation throughout the entire world. It has not increased "wealth," but has lent itself to the increase of banking power. Through all of this, the position of the United States has been sound, and today we represent approximately 50 per cent of the banking power of the world, as against 27 per cent in 1870.

The use of this "credit currency" consisting of checks and other pieces of paper utilized in the payment of day-to-day transactions of the country, forms an extremely "liquid" currency which readily adjusts itself to the daily activities of business, and as the life of the check is at the best but brief and its place taken by others representing other similar transactions, the total of the sum thus represented may be not improperly designated as a huge "revolving fund," fluctuating in size and speed of movement from day to day and season to season but representing in these days them this wealth is directed by loans into channels of usefulness. It is brought together in small and large quantities from all classes of persons who do not immediately need it and who do not have the facilities to loan it directly.

America's Banking Power

The "banking power" whose usefulness is thus multiplied by the credit instruments above referred to is far greater in the United States than in any other country. Mullan puts the banking power of the United States in 1870 at $2,141,000,000, out of an estimated world total of $7,766,000,000, our total at that time being slightly less than that of the United Kingdom but vastly more than that of any other single country. By 1890 our total was, according to the same authority, $5,012,000,000, and slightly exceeded that of Great Britain; while Webb, in his Dictionary of Statistics, puts the world's total in 1908 at $45,500,000,000, of which $17,519,000,000 existed in the United States, $11,192,000,000 in the British Empire, and $5,500,000,000 in Central Europe. No estimate of world banking power has been made since the beginning of the war period, since the fluctuations in the values of the respective currencies, especially in recent years, render an estimate for the world extremely difficult. Our own total, which has grown from $3,000,000,000 in 1880, $10,685,000,000 in 1900, $30,000,000,000 in 1910, $24,341,000,000 in 1914, and $50,175,000,000 in 1922, now apparently forms about 50 per cent of the world's total.

The London Stock Exchange Gazette in its issue of May 25, 1922, remarks that the resources of the banks of the United States are now "approximately equal to those of all other states combined."

The relative growth of the "banking power" of the United States as

The United States Treasury, Washington, D. C. which is back of the enormous banking power of the United States of big business perhaps as much as 95 per cent of the total business transactions of the country.

"Credit," says a modern writer on this subject, "rests ultimately upon the fact that many persons possess funds who have no present use for it, and are willing that it shall be employed by others. The banks are reservoirs of credit. In these are gathered claims upon the unemployed wealth of the country and through

...MAGIC NAMES...

The influence of advertising is apparent in every turn of my daily life. I find I cannot disregard it. It is always with me, guiding me in my pleasures and in my duties, telling me what I should eat, wear, and use and what I should buy for my family.

I find that there is on the tip of my tongue a multitude of names the mention of which will bring from some shelf nearly everything that I can use in my daily life and in the daily life of my family.

In every instance that name means a very definite promise and assurance of something substantial and which will make me feel completely satisfied about having exchanged my money for it.

Let me say a few things which these names—these old friends of the newspaper and magazine pages—mean to me.

They mean good taste. For certainly I desire to do the thing that I believe discriminating people have judged best.

They mean convenience. It is not necessary to describe the thing I want. Even the most intimate articles may be purchased without embarrassment since the advertisers have given us handy names.

They mean assurance in shopping. There is no indecision. Even before I enter the shop I know what I want to buy.

And certainly they mean satisfaction. For the advertiser whose product is not good cannot continue to advertise. The fact that I have seen a name repeated over and over again assures me that it stands for a product of quality. In speaking that name to the clerk I know I am asking for the best.

I am a more judicious shopper because I buy advertised goods. I patronize the shop that sells them.
