

How You Can Ease The Pain Of Inflation

By FRANK MACOMBER
The Herald Services

Inflation plays no favorites, so next time you're harrased at the price tag on something, think on what the same item might cost in another land.

The Business International Corp. (BIC) conducted a price survey of 46 major cities around the world and came up with some astounding price differentials, most of them favorable to the United States.

For example, in Jakarta a large tube of toothpaste would cost you $1.47. The same size and brand can be purchased for 88 cents at many U.S. drugstores.

But wait — in Seoul the tube would cost only 20 cents.

Or you are in the market for elegant cars, again don't Jakarta. Luxury jobs like Jaguar or Mercedes are available there at prices ranging from $22,000 to $28,000.

In this country the same Mercedes goes for $31,000 to $39,500.

sky-high prices were Osaka, Kobe, Paris, Dusseldorf, Frankfurt, Zurich, Geneva, Copenhagen, Vienna, Chicago and Brussels.

On the low end of the price totem pole were Belgrade, Buenos Aires, Bogota, Bombay

BIC, whose study was aimed partly at guiding international companies in determining pay and benefits for their overseas executives, used New York as the base city for its price index. Its analysis found that 13 other cities around the world have sell for around $10.

A hefty bar of soap costs 15 cents in Manila, but buy it in Stockholm and the price jumps eight times. In Bombay, dry cleaning costs 42 cents for a dress but 10 times more in Stockholm. (Are you beginning to feel a little rich?)

You, Social Security And Your Earnings

By FRANK CORRICK
The Herald Services

Q. I was forced to retire at age 58. I understand my benefits will be based on what I have earned since 1951. Please explain why my early earnings from 1937 through 1950 are disregarded. A. Social Security benefits are based on average earnings from 1937 or 1951 up to retirement age. It is generally more advantageous to use the period from 1951 on, since wages crutable for Social Security purposes were increased in 1951 and have increased dramatically since then.

Prior to 1951, the maximum wages creditable for Social Security purposes was $3,000 per year. A worker would have paid a maximum of $45 in Social Security taxes from 1937 through 1950. In 1974 the tax is 5.85 per cent on a maximum of $13,200, which amounts to $772.20 in Social Security taxes.

Q. How much money does it take to retire?—Mrs. T.S.

A. Money is a family affair, so naturally there is no set figure. If you can calculate your retirement income and deduct your pre-retirement expenses, you will have a pretty fair guideline for your answer.

Q. If a doctor classifies a person as disabled does that mean he will get Social Security disability benefits?—L.N.

A. Not necessarily. In addition to being disabled, a work requirement must be met. Social Security considers a person disabled only if he is severely physical or mental condition which prevents him from working and is expected to last (or has lasted) for a period of 12 months or is expected to last in death.

Q. A 53-year-old alien has worked in the five years. How long does he have to wait to draw Social Security benefits from the U.S.? Is it necessary to become a naturalized citizen?

A. First of all, five years won't be enough. He has to be in the U.S. for eight years of work (20 of coverage) for those aged 62 or over.

Let's assume you are another three years an eligible at 62. If that's you may draw benefit rest of your life. You have to be a citizen of the U.S. regarding the rules that apply to you.

Questions on retirement are mailed to What Retirement? in this newspaper.

U.S. Products Bargain In Foreign Countries

By JOHN PINKERMAN
The Herald Services

CAMDEN, N.J.—Neil Vander Dussen's time was limited. In less than an hour he would be flying off to Brazil to help Rio government and private companies in their joint efforts to extend and improve telephone service in the vast South American nation.

This trip would reflect many foreign trips being made today by American corporate officials in behalf of RCA, the firm in which he holds a division vice presidency (Government and Commercial Systems) here, and it would also reflect the fact that the present state of the American dollar is making it possible for U.S. manufacturers to compete with foreign firms even on their own home ground.

"I can talk only for RCA," Vander Dussen said in an interview, "but it is obvious that our ability to sell abroad, along with that of many other firms, is one of the significant reasons why there is great improvement in America's balance of payments." (The United States had a $1.2 billion favorable advantage in 1973 balance of payments.)

Vander Dussen's immediate boss supports his view of U.S. business opportunity around the globe. Irving K. Kessler, executive vice president of RCA, with responsibility for several of the company's divisions, put it in plain language. "American products are now a bargain in many foreign countries."

The ability of American manufacturers to compete price-wise is a boon to the economy, Kessler said in a separate interview.

"We always have been No. 1 in quality," he said, "and the monetary situation means we now can go into what once were monopoly areas (Britain, France and Germany) with products that reflect American ingenuity and quality. We not only will compete with them, we will beat them."

As a matter of fact, he has noticed that many other firms are doing more to respond to needs in Eastern Europe, particularly in Poland and Czechoslovakia. There is a lot of TV activity in the big cities of those countries. Their engineers are very competent, but they don't have enough of them, and we can help there as well as with products."

Regarding China, Vander Dussen said one of the vital missions of U.S. business is to find the right people and make the right impression. "Business must be done in an atmosphere of mutual confidence," he said.

"All this takes time, we must convince them that they can trust American companies. And, don't forget, the opportunity is worth the effort—the big population (150 million) means there is a big market there."

A lot of it. In nationwide fuel economy tests, motorists' cars were tested before and after a tune-up. Results showed that a tune-up with new Champion spark plugs saved, on the average, a gallon of gasoline in every tankful. Considering that 3 of every 5 cars on the road need a tune-up right now, tune-ups alone could save you millions of gallons of gasoline each week.

Tune-ups benefit us in other ways, too. Quicker acceleration for safer passing. Dependable starts. Plus a substantial reduction in emissions. See your mechanic regularly for a Champion tune-up. Once a year or every 10,000 miles.

We've got your plug.

Youth Center Drug Probe Launched

By BOB LLOYD
City Editor

Charges of marijuana use by employees of the Sanford Youth Center and the firing of a state Division of Youth Services employee hours after he made the charges have prompted two state investigations.

Seminole State Atty. Abbott Herring, ordered by Gov. Reubin Askew to probe the allegations, said today his report will go to Askew next week. DYS officials, also investigating, said results of the month-long probe could possibly result in suspension of one or more of 16 local DYS employees.

Investigators have given lie detector tests to two DYS employees, while four others have exercised their constitutional rights not to take the exams, officials said. "I'm a lid of marijuana for $20," the probes were triggered when former DYS employee Johnell Jackson, of Geneva, complained to Askew's office and to DYS officials in Tallahassee about his March 28 firing.

"The governor is concerned with the administration of the center and any improper conduct by state employees," Herring said, noting testimony has been taken from a number of detention center personnel. Jackson, a 25-year-old former Seminole County jailer and father of four small children, was employed Jan. 18 as a child care worker at the detention center, and worked the mid-night shift.

He told the Herald he went to sheriff's detectives March 28 after "four or five" co-workers at the detention center admitted they were using marijuana and drugs, and one employee offered to sell him "a lid of marijuana for $20."

Jackson said he gave deputies a sworn statement and was told to make the marijuana buy. Details of his statement were leaked from the sheriff's office to detention center officials and he was told "resign or be fired" when he returned to work six hours later.

Today, Sheriff John Polk admitted he was the "leak," but said he hoped others would call him with similar charges against his own department.

Polk said he called Sanford local DYS head Robert Ritz to discuss the charges. Ritz, contacted today by The Herald, said he called his supervisor in Orlando, and that the supervisor in turn called detention home supervisor Kurt Bensingler.

Bensingler was in juvenile center today and could not be reached for comment.

"When I got to work Bensingler knew all about what I

About jails, and the money it takes to build 'em.

By now you must have heard of Orange County's Sheriff Mel Colman's request for additional jail space. (He calls it a "residential prison," however.)

"We gonna move Monday," declared W. P. Ball, owner of Ball Trucking Co., Inc., 802 W. 12th Street, Sanford. "This launch of the city by that name in the agitating again don't even know what they're going to strike for."

Independent Owners-Operators Association president James Killingsworth said the strike is being called for 12:01 a.m. Monday because truckers received no relief from the state legislature following the January strike which paralyzed some areas of the nation's commerce.

Truckers say they want the price of fuel rolled back and frozen at the May 1973 level, cutting an average of 28 to 30 cents per gallon; an audit of major oil companies for the past three years; lower uniform license plates fees; and speed limits raised to 65 miles per hour.

Ball said his truckers were not grumbling about fuel prices or the lower speed limits, even though they don't like them.

"I'm not opposed to our local requests for additional space and facilities.

"I do believe, however, that the cost should not be saddled exclusively onto the pocket-books of the Seminole County taxpayers."

By the way, when Senate President Mallory Horne visited the Herald a few months back we pinned him on this exact situation as applied to the Juvenile Detention Center and asked whether there were any state funds available?

He responded that there were, and more than likely the county could be reimbursed.

Question—Have any of the county commissioners taken the initiative and followed through? Or is this going to be another example of where there are state funds available but this county does NOTHING about getting its share of them? Just asking, neighbors.

Dairy Owner Cries 'Frame'

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

GENEVA—Mrs. Margaret Cammack, a principal owner of the Fairglade Dairy here, today charged state Health Department officials with "a frame up, a rigged deal" in tagging her dairy with having "bloody milk filters."

State health officials Thursday said they hoped placing two blood-encrusted milk filters from the Geneva Dairy and another Florida farm on a Senate committee's table in Tallahassee Thursday got the point across that they need to inspect milk processing plants.

"The state health department is attempting to place our dairy in the middle of its battle with the Fairglade Dairy, taking the filter without notifying anyone that he was there. "He got the sample and ran," she said.

She said the inspector found flecks of blood in the filter, insisting this is not uncommon. "This fight between the two state departments has been going on for 10 years," Mrs. Cammack said, "and we the dairy industry have been having dual inspections by both departments."

"The Seminole County Board of Health ran a sample recently and found the milk at our dairy had a very low bacteria count. This is what is important," she said, adding "cows that have just freshened often show a little blood which the filter catches."

Normally dairy owners are notified of problems so they can be corrected, she said. "If inspectors had ever milked a few cows they would know that blood flecks are not unusual from a newly freshened cow. The problem with my health department inspectors is that while they have studied books they have no practical experience," she said.

Calling the health-agriculture departments dispute "a hot issue," Mrs. Cammack said all that is being accomplished is that dairies are being given bad publicity."

Sen. Julian Lane, a Tampa dairyman, speaking of the blood stained filters said in Tallahassee Thursday, "You could find that stuff anywhere you looked."

Health officials have charged that the Senate committee reneged on an agreement to give them sole authority to inspect milk processing plants.

Closeted Panel Mulls Impeach Evidence

WASHINGTON (AP) — Stocked with facts and sworn to secrecy, members of the House Judiciary Committee have begun to consider evidence in its historic inquiry into possible impeachment of President Nixon.

During a long, closed briefing Thursday, the committee received a detailed account of events leading up to the Watergate break-in of June 17, 1972, and a thick pile of supporting facts.

Members said the staff presentation reached no conclusions and did not relate directly to any presidential conduct.

"It was strictly background," said Rep. John Conyers, D-Mich. "It was all familiar, nothing new," added Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif.

Both acknowledged, however, that the information presented Thursday links up facts brought out in later sessions in a pattern that would make it pertinent to the impeachment investigation.

The committee is scheduled to hold three more closed sessions next week, all devoted to Watergate and the ensuing efforts to cover it up. Five other areas of presidential activity involved in the inquiry will be dealt with in following weeks.

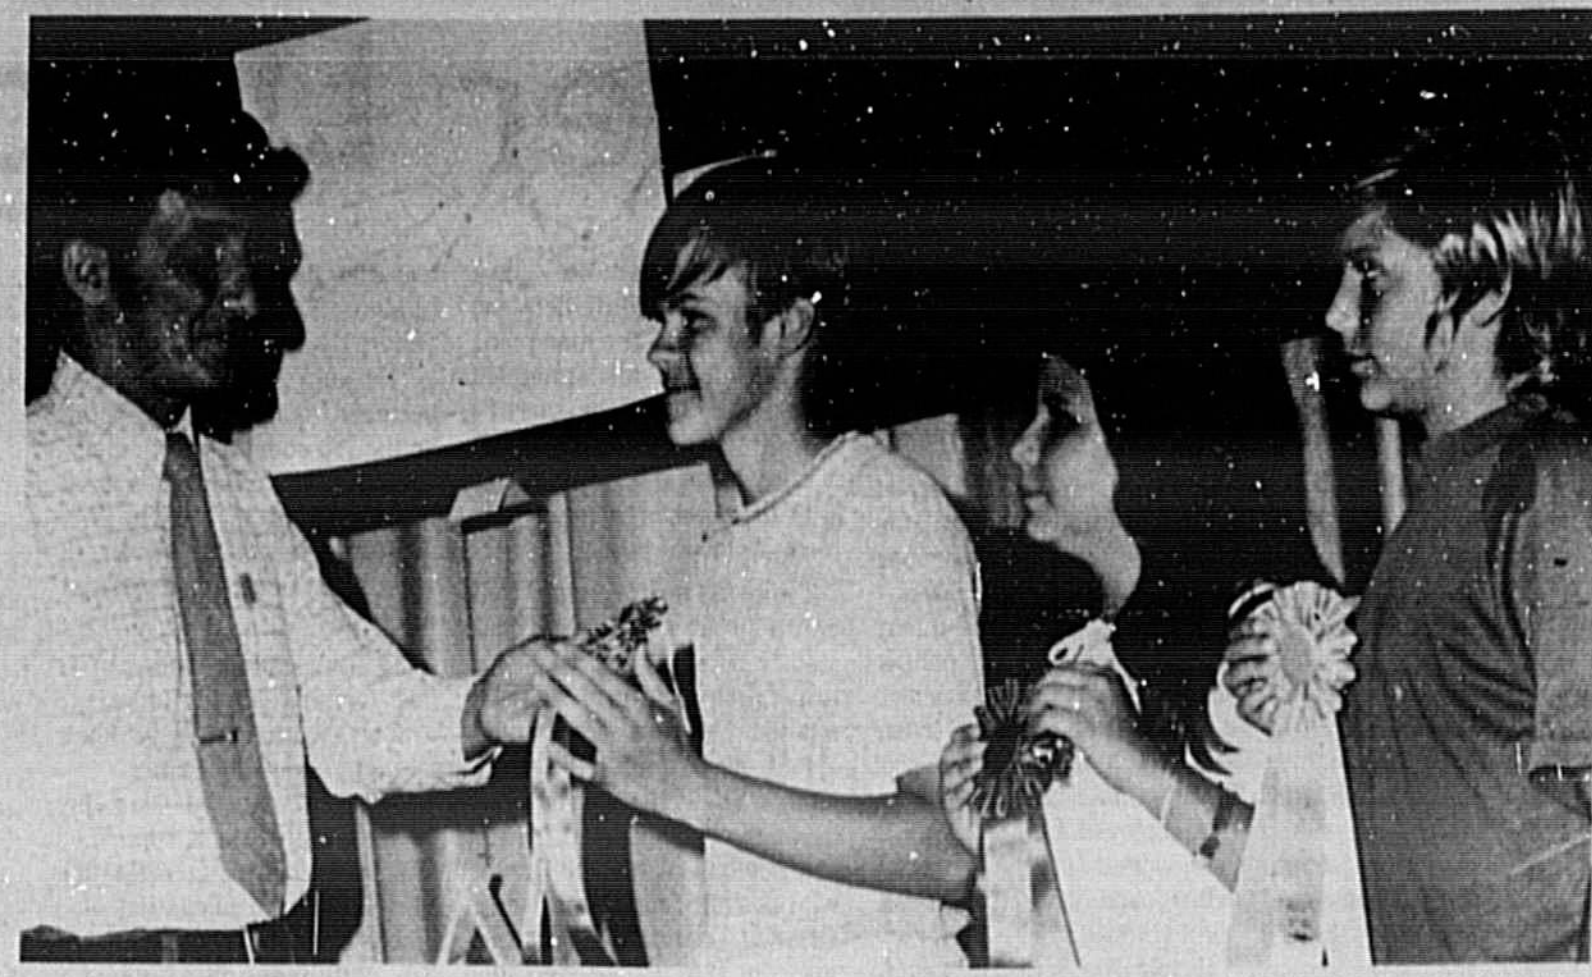

In his opening statement, Committee Chairman Peter J. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., said the committee was acting under a resolution passed by the House "by a vote of 419 to 4" authorizing and directing it "to investigate fully and completely whether sufficient grounds exist" to impeach President Nixon.

"We are proceeding under the mandate of that resolution. 'I don't need to stress again the importance of our undertaking and the wisdom, decency and principle which we must bring to it."

"We understand our high constitutional responsibility. We will faithfully live up to it," Rodino said.

In his opening remarks, Rep. Edward Hutchinson, ranking Republican on the committee, said:

"The power of impeachment is one of those great checks and balances written in our Constitution to ameliorate the stark doctrine of the separation of powers. But the impeachment of a president is more drastic, for it can bring down an administration of the government. The Constitution itself limits the scope of impeachment of a president to treason, bribery or other high crimes and misdemeanors."

Transcripts A Major Setback Newspapers Seek Nixon Resignation

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — There is agreement among some of the nation's top corporate executives that President Nixon's chances of remaining in office received a major setback because he released the Watergate tape transcripts.

But only a few of the executives questioned felt Nixon should resign. Most said they thought he would be impeached and should see the impeachment trial through to the end.

A dozen top corporate officials were questioned at an off-the-record discussion for newsmen at the regular biennial meeting here of the Business Council, a group of some 80 business leaders who advise the government on economic matters.

Only two of the dozen executives questioned refused to comment on the President's problems resulting from release of the transcripts; the other 10 all said they believed the tapes had hurt his chances in one degree or another.

An executive of a Midwest-based corporation said he thought people in his home city were shocked by what the transcripts revealed about the President's character.

"In my city, people believe that a man speaks directly and means what he says. The deviousness revealed by the President in these transcripts has done him a lot of harm," he said.

Another executive, however, said that while the White House conversations were not flattering to the President, they did not prove a crime. "We still believe in this country that a man is innocent until proven guilty, and that will only be decided at a trial," he added.

A third executive, who said he voted for Nixon, wondered aloud when the Watergate revelations would end. "There's just one thing after another, and there always seems to be something else," he said.

Although most of the executives felt that the House would impeach the President, the majority declined to predict the outcome of a Senate trial. They seemed unsure whether an impeachable crime could be proven.

Only one of the dozen executives said he had read most of the transcripts. The others said they were too busy or insufficiently interested to spend the time, although all said they had read excerpts.

The executives were about evenly divided as to whether Nixon could continue to govern effectively. Two said the administration had demonstrated effective leadership, despite the Watergate problems.

Among executives attending the two-day meeting are Richard C. Gerstenberg, chairman of General Motors Corp.; Edgar F. Kaiser, chairman of Kaiser Industries Corp.; G. William Miller, president of Tectron Inc.; Donald M. Kendall, chairman of PepsiCo Inc.; and David Packard, chairman of Hewlett-Packard Co.

Crossing Crash Hurts Two

LONGWOOD—A Longwood woman injured Thursday night in a train-car collision, the second in the city in three weeks, was listed in fair condition today at Florida Hospital North, Altamonte Springs.

Betty Widdis, 34, of Old Dixie Highway, and her 12-year-old son Kevin were injured when a southbound Seaboard Coast Line freight train struck their car about 7:15 p.m. at the Palmto Avenue crossing that is marked only by a stop sign, according to Longwood police patrolman Michael Fisher.

Hospital spokesmen said Kevin Widdis was treated and released.

April 21 an Amtrak passenger train sliced through a car at the SR 434 crossing injuring an Altamonte Springs woman and her daughter.

Julie Reese, 34, was listed today in fair condition at Florida Hospital North.

Her 15-year-old daughter Julie has been released, spokesmen said.

The SR 434 crossing in Longwood is marked by flashing warning lights.

Kreskin Gunter To Speak At Celebration At FTU

"The Amazing Kreskin" will present a performance at 4 p.m. Wednesday in Florida Technological University's Village Center Assembly Room.

The Tennessee, which supported the 1972 presidential bid of Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., said "President Nixon must be painfully aware that he has lost the most desperate and dangerous gamble of his political career."

"Resignation would be the honorable course for President Richard Nixon," the Tennessee editorial concluded.

U.S. Congressman Bill Gunter will be featured speaker Sunday at 2 p.m. at the Good Samaritan Home 28th anniversary celebration and mortgage burning to be held at West Sanford Free Will Holiness Church at Ninth and Mulberry.

Mother Ruby L. Wilson is president and founder of Good Samaritan Home as well as pastor of the church. The home was begun as a ministry by the church members to provide care for the sick and the elderly.

The original wooden structure was replaced in 1972 with the present modern concrete facilities with the support of the community and foundations.

In December, 1973, construction costs were reported as $129,815. Of this amount $70,815 had been paid by contributions and the only liability was a bank loan in the amount of $10,000.

A generous grant from the Elythe Bush Foundation of Orlando has made it possible to pay off this mortgage and complete the unfinished portion of the interior.

The Good Samaritan Home will hold an open house Sunday for the public in honor of the celebration.

Sanford Student Convicted

An 18-year-old Seminole High School student has been convicted of four counts of aggravated assault and one count of leaving the scene of an accident with injuries by a Seminole Circuit Court jury hearing evidence in a Jan. 4 Seminole Plaza parking lot incident.

Daniel Floyd, whose mother caused a mistrial March 25 by speaking to two women jurors, had been charged with second degree murder.

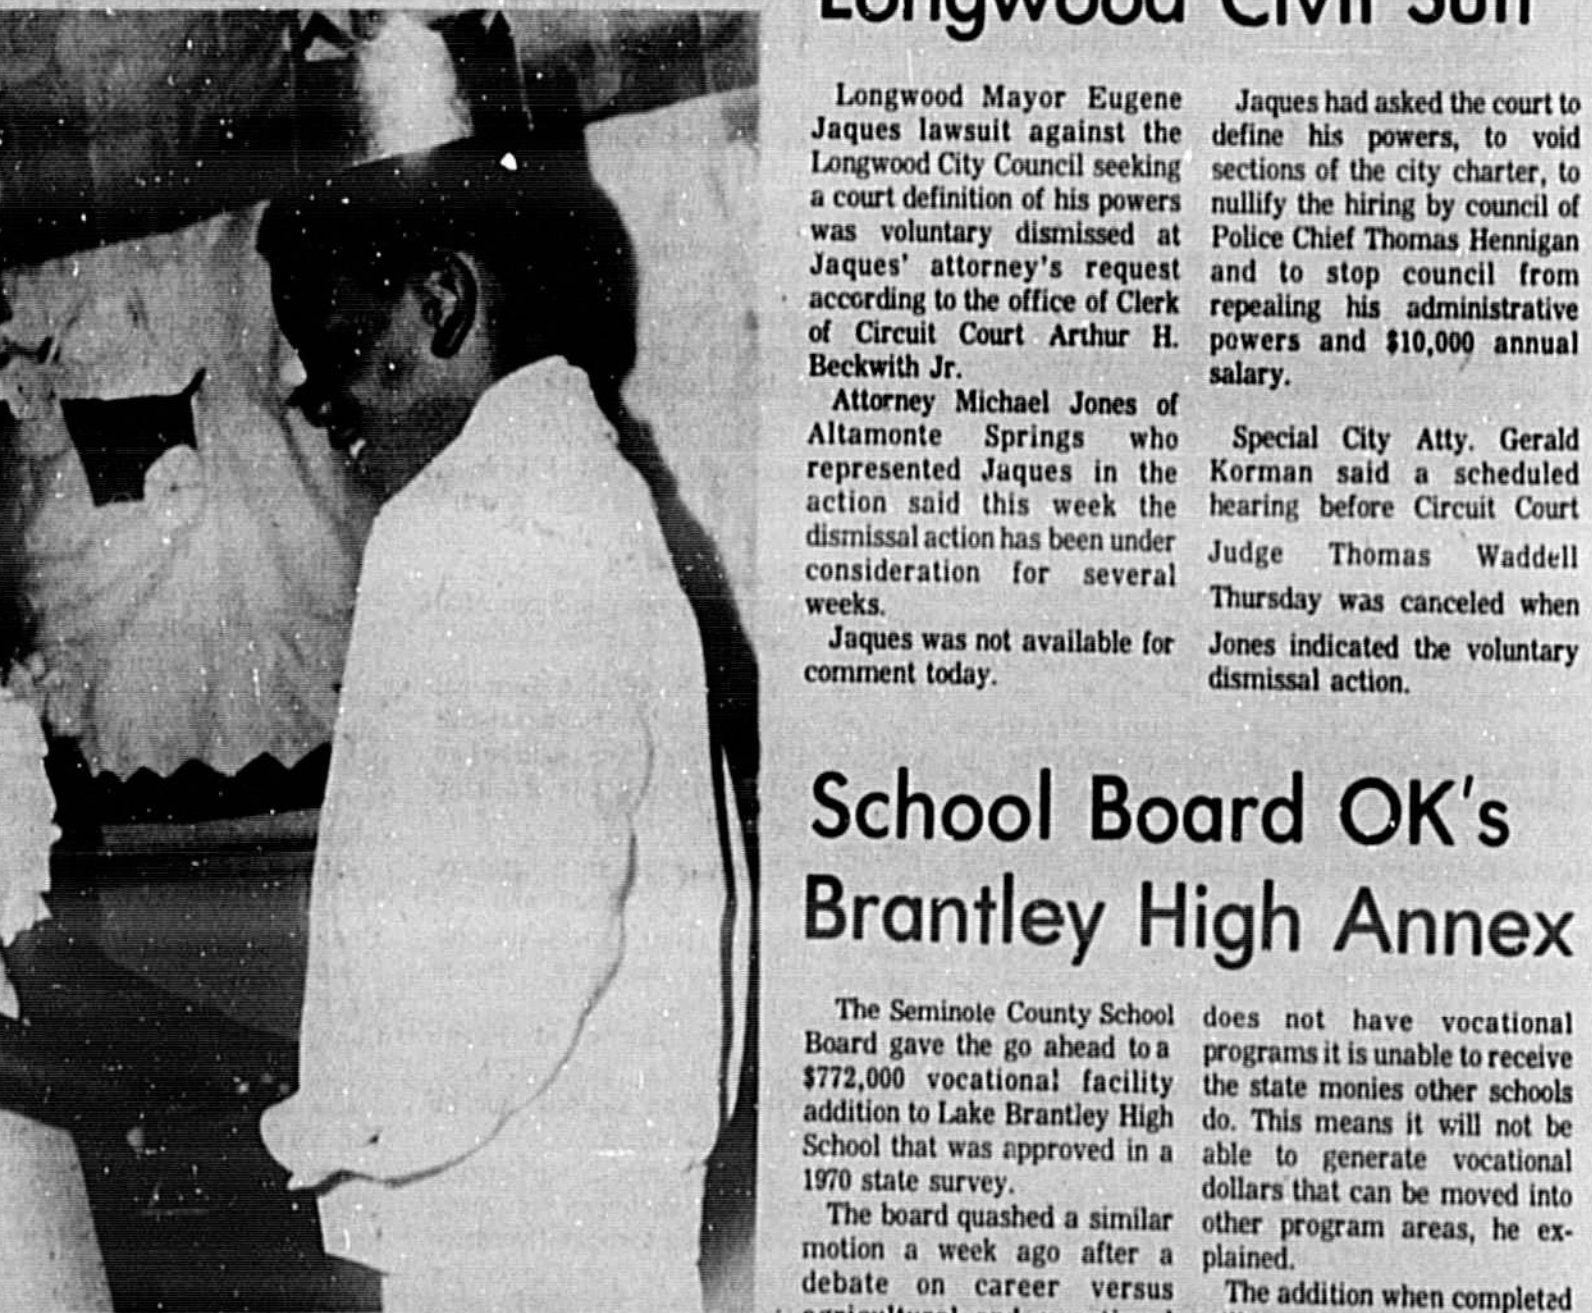

Circuit Court Judge Robert McGregor late Thursday ordered Floyd, 113 Jinkins Circle, Sanford, to remain on bail pending a presentence investigation by the parole and probation commission.

Floyd was charged with running down four men with his 1964 Falcon station wagon, injuring one of them seriously after a fight in the parking lot.

CofC Opposes National Agency

The Board of Directors of the Maitland-South Seminole Chamber of Commerce, on the recommendation of its Legislative Action Committee, has voted to oppose the establishment of a Consumer Protection Agency at a national level.

The House has already passed a bill to establish this agency and the Senate Commerce Committee has approved similar legislation. The Senate bill will now be considered by the Senate Government Operations Committee, which shares jurisdiction over the CPA legislation.

The Chamber's decision was based on the opinion that this agency could offer little new protection to the consumer. Already in existence are agencies and legislation designed for consumer protection.

The board concluded an additional agency, by increasing confusion and uncertainty, would escalate the costs of doing business which would far outweigh any small benefit derived for the consumer.

The Board of Directors of the Chamber also opposes government funds being expended for political campaigns. Although the consensus of the Committee and the Board of Directors seemed to be that

Chile Nearing End Of Marxists' Fate

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — After eight months in power, Chile's military junta is speeding the final judgment of activists in the government of Marxist President Salvador Allende.

More than 100 persons are now on trial or awaiting sentencing by military tribunals throughout the country. At least 6,000 persons arrested after Sept. 11 coup still are imprisoned.

The air force member of the junta, Gen. Gustavo Leigh, said two weeks ago that proceedings for all those held would be started quickly to determine who should stand trial and who should be released. He said orders had been issued to accelerate trial of those accused.

Vienna Is Blossoming

VIENNA (AP) — Some 250 acres in the south of Vienna that film pioneers once used for location shots have been turned into a giant garden to host the International Flower and Gardening Show (WIG) 1974, which runs through October 14.

Officials predict that about four million people will wander through the area of flower beds and small lakes during the six-month exhibition.

Other features are a hotel and a medical center, next to a fast-growing housing area which replaced the wooden sheds, dusty factory buildings and ponds of a long-vanished brick industry. The ponds and the unkempt shrubbery of the so-called Oberlaa area fascinated the filmmakers in the 1920s and 1930s.

Ten countries have their own exhibits and about 30 are exhibiting specialties of their regions in indoor shows.

It is the second Flower and Gardening Show here, the first one in 1964, having been staged in the north of Vienna. It rehabilitated an area of city dumps and gravel yards and turned it into such a landscaping jewel box that it was decided to build Vienna's United Nations City there as headquarters for such international organizations as the International Atomic Energy Agency and the U.N. Industrial Development Organization.

Big things are also expected from the 1974 show on the opposite side of the city.

Summary military courts sent at least 90 men to the firing squads shortly after the coup. But the junta ended its mid-June death sentences imposed on five men in San Fernando last month when it commuted Monday by the province's military governor to long prison terms.

Kissinger May Leave Talks

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger may return to Washington soon and let the Syrian and Israeli governments think about their rival disengagement proposals for a week or two, members of Kissinger's staff indicated.

One senior American official said the negotiations to separate the warring armies on the Golan Heights are "barely in the starting block," and so far the odds are less than 50-50 that Kissinger will be able to work out an agreement for a pullback of the Israeli forces.

Although Israel is willing to give up all the Syrian land captured in the October war, it has offered only a token withdrawal from the Golan Heights territory seized in the 1967 war.

The Syrians want much more as a first step toward complete Israeli withdrawal from the Heights. But the Israelis have given no indication of a retreat from their often-repeated stand that they will never return all of the plateau from which the Syrians shelled northern Israel at will.

Now in the 10th day of his latest Middle East peace mission, Kissinger was meeting with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat of Egypt to bring him up to date on his shuttle diplomacy.

It was considered certain that Sadat would do all he could to get the Syrians to accept a limited, first-phase Israeli withdrawal. But it was not known how much influence the Egyptian leader now wields with the Syrians, his allies in the October war.

Kissinger flew to Cairo Thursday night after a meeting with King Faisal and Saudi Arabian officials in Riyadh. During his visit there, Foreign Minister Omar Sakfak praised the secretary of state's "integrity, straightforwardness and truthfulness" and said: "We deeply appreciate the concern consistently shown by President Nixon and his interest in seeing a solution to the Near Eastern problem."

Sakfak said the Saudi Arabian government expects Kissinger to succeed by dint of his perseverance, extreme hard work, patience and utter conviction of the need to achieve peace.

Bahamian Murder Trial

NASSAU, Bahamas, (AP) — Police say Michial Shobek, 19, of Milwaukee, Wis., robbed and stabbed an American tourist on a deserted Bahamas beach.

Bahamian Supreme Court Chief Justice Leonard Knowles was to decide today if the statement police say they took from Shobek can be admitted as evidence.

Shobek has pleaded innocent in the murder of Irvin Bernstein, 44, of Ocean City, whose body was found Jan. 18. Shobek also faces charges in two other slayings of American tourists.

Chou Misses Banquet

TOKYO (AP) — Chinese premier Chou En-Lai was absent from a farewell banquet given in Peking by President Leopold Sedar Senghor of Senegal.

There was no official explanation for Chou's unusual absence, but it appeared he stayed away either because of fatigue or illness.

A broadcast by the Hsinhua news agency, monitored in Tokyo, said vice premier Li Hsien-Nien represented the 76-year-old premier at the Thursday banquet.

'Happy Hooker' Fined

VANCOUVER (AP) — Xaviera Hollander, the "Happy Hooker," has been fined $100 for shoplifting.

The 32-year-old author of a best-seller about her life as a prostitute was given 14 days to pay the fine after her sentencing in provincial court here Thursday.

Miss Hollander was arrested June 8 for lifting three nightgowns valued at $40 from a downtown department store.

London Concert Boost

LONDON (AP) — It took Beethoven, together with Dutch conductor Bernard Haitink, to pull the crowds back to London's Royal Festival Hall after a lean spell at the box office.

Haitink has been giving the nine Beethoven symphonies with the London Philharmonic at a series of six concerts spread over 15 days. In the same series Vladimir Ashkenazy, the Russian pianist, played the five Beethoven piano concertos.

In recent months the five permanent London orchestras have been alarmed by the drop in attendance at the concert hall on the bank of the Thames.

At one time it was invariably full night after night. More recently it has often been half or one-third empty.

"What can you expect when food prices have gone up more than 40 per cent in three years?" said an official of the Royal Philharmonic.

But when Beethoven is the attraction, conducted by a musician of Haitink's standing, London concertgoers are ready to forget the soaring cost of living.

Within two days of tickets going on sale, all six concerts were sold out. That meant almost 18,000 seats sold. Since most of the concerts were filmed for showing on television later, this was one musical project which paid its way.

On the first night, which ended with the "Eroica Symphony," Haitink received a standing ovation amid scenes of enthusiasm seldom exceeded since the Royal Festival Hall opened in 1961. The critics gave the concert rapturous reviews.

Actress Totals Up Cliche Wife's Role

By DON FREEMAN The Herald Staffer HOLLYWOOD—Bitting off the words with snappish distaste, Barbara Rush summed up in a phrase a stereotype characterization as familiar to every television viewer as ring around the collar. "The cliche wife," she said. And then she shook her head with antipathy and some remorse. "Oh, I've played my share of cliche wives," she said. "If you want to be a working actress, you take the roles you're offered. Maybe I've even played more than my share of cliche wives but I do hope she's a hard type that's fading from the scene. Farewell to the cliche wife!"

"An exaggeration, yes, but not by much," said Miss Rush, who has been a beautiful, accomplished actress with strong credentials in films and TV (most recently a "Police Story," a "Medical Center," and the recurring role of Margo Brightman, soap opera star, on the New Dick Van Dyke Show). "Not much of an exaggeration at all," she said. "I don't know if it started with Jane Wyatt in 'Father Knows Best' but she certainly gave the concept of the cliche wife a good push. She was always cleaning up the house, every hair in place, wearing that starched white dress of hers and constantly preparing salads. "The trouble with the cliche wife is that she's a patsy," Miss Rush said. "All she really is a device to elicit answers from poor dear hubby or to commiserate with him over his daily problems. "As she points out, it's long been the accepted practice in TV to lure an important star name from pictures into a series. "They'll bring in a Jimmy Stewart, a Fred MacMurray, a Henry Fonda," she said, "and then they call in some poor lady to play his wife. Inevitably the role calls for her to be dull and uninteresting. And so I ask, how can a dull, uninteresting woman help any?"

Dear Abby Widowed Mother Sets Bad Example? BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My mother is 59. Six months ago, Dad died after a short illness and she was so despondent she said she didn't want to go on living. Well, somehow she got the strength to live because suddenly she tells us that she met a man and he asked her to go to Hawaii with him! I should have said something then, but I was glad she wasn't despondent anymore. She said this man asked to marry her, but she refused because she didn't know him well enough. Can you beat that!

The whole family is divided over this. I disapprove, but haven't the courage to say so. I think she's setting a bad example for the younger people in the family. My brother tells me not to be such a prude. He says we should thank the good Lord she isn't crying all over us and wanting to move in. How do you feel about it, Abby? Does age make any difference? I wouldn't want my 23-year-old daughter going to Hawaii with a man and no wedding ring. Why should I feel any different about my mother? DEAR CONFUSED: Every adult has the right to pursue his (or her) own lifestyle. You may disapprove if you wish, but you haven't the right to impose your values on either your adult daughter or your mother. W.R.A. DEAR ABBY: I am a 15-year-old girl with a new boyfriend. I have two little kids. One is a year old and the other is three. On Saturdays, this lady comes over here and asks me if I will watch her kids while she goes to the shopping center. I always say yes, and she leaves me with the kids for sometimes three or four hours. When she comes back, she tells me how

DEAR POLLY: My Pet Peeve is with companies and organizations who send letters and packages addressed with just the first initial and the last name. Even the U.S. government is guilty of this. In our small town where we have no street addresses there are four families with the same last name who are not even related. There are five of us with the same first initial. Just imagine the mess at the post office when they have to just say "Emmett, monee, monee, monee who gets this?" "Sign me R. Larson and no one will know who wrote this—R.L." DEAR POLLY—and Mrs. H.S.—In the fall I dug up my geraniums, dry them and shake the dirt off and then tie them (about three inches up from the roots) upside down on my clothesline and leave them for about two weeks so more dry geranium plants and their leaves and dirt fall off. Then they are hung in the basement by the roots to the water pipes in the coldest part of the basement. When they start to turn green in the spring and when the weather permits I plant them out doors. In three years I have lost only two plants and my geraniums have been successful with this method—MRS. Baby Love Led To 3 Divorces

By GEORGE W. CRANE Ph. D., M.D. CASE A-629: Terry T., aged 34, has been divorced three times already. "Dr. Crane," he began, "each time I fell for my wife at first sight. "All three girls were freckled, blue-eyed and short. "And I always felt I couldn't live without them. "Yet after a year or so of marriage, we quarreled and fought until life became unbearable. "Now I find myself head-over-heels in love with a fourth girl, who looks much like the other three whom I married and divorced. "So how can I be sure this time that my marriage will be permanent?" FIRST SIGHT LOVE Love at first sight explains millions of romances. That's how I fell in love with Mrs. Crane. It was at a Young People's Meeting in a church and I had never seen her before. During the nomination of officers for the ensuing year, each nominee was to stand, so the voters could see him or her. When she stood up, my heart did a flip-flop and I'm not joking. But I played the field for 10 years to make sure my infatuation would stand the test of time. For romances that start at love at first sight can be very dangerous. Like Terry, a person can thus become victimized by a subconscious surge of exciting emotions that have been built up since childhood by some older person, maybe in his family. For example, Terry's mother was a society leader who spent little time at home and big diamonds were a family tradition. As a toddler, Terry was reared by a governess who was fond of him and tucked him in bed at night with a goodnight kiss. She was short, blue-eyed and freckled.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE from the Carroll Righter Institute

SATURDAY, MAY 11, 1974 GENERAL TENDENCIES: A strange Saturday planetary wave. Upsets and changes you aren't apt to like are in the making. But do not be worried by them for these new beginnings can hold the seeds to your future progress. They should be carefully examined to extract possible benefits. ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) For greater success, get into activities to improve your career. Listen to changes others suggest, but use only the best. Help a friend. TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You have many new ideas today, but they need further study to get them working properly. New contacts can give you needed information. GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Find a better system for keeping promises you have made. Be romantically happy. AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You can get advice confidentially from right sources if you make appointments early. Accomplish much. Then p.m. can be romantically happy. PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Contact some person who can give you pointers for greater success as well as pleasure in the future. You will get ahead faster. IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will want to have a very solid structure and security for his or her life, and will wish you to see to it that such is possible, so make sure you as parents set the example early. Make sure you give the affection your child needs, since the nature of the child is somewhat cold because there is fear of getting hurt by others. An ideal chart for big business. Carroll Righter's Individual Forecast for your sign for June is now ready. For your copy send your birthdate and $1 to Carroll Righter Forecast, The Sanford Herald, Box 629, Hollywood, Calif. 90028.

SUNDAY, MAY 12, 1974 GENERAL TENDENCIES: After services or inspirational studies, get out in the social whirl, enjoy others, and do whatever is available of a humanitarian nature. ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Listening to the suggestions of good friends on how to gain your personal wishes brings fine results. Out to the social in p.m., for a delightful time. TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) A good day to do something that will help you and your community. Plan more efficient future routines. Take it easy tonight. GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Gemini, for you and your information you need. Make new contacts who can be of great future help. MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Your intuition is working accurately. You can now know how to advance quickly in the future. Enjoy recreations with mate. Be generous. LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Ideal day to sit down with associates socially, iron out differences and make better arrangements for the future. More harmony with outside world is possible. VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Showing appreciation for those who have done you many favors in the past will bring more goodwill in the future. Discuss mutual duties with others to improve efficiency. LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Enjoy special other pleasurable activities with those you like. Give a gift to a close tie and improve the relationship. To be early. SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Come to a far better understanding at home for harmony and love. Study new project that has a fine chance of bringing great future success. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Evaluate your ideas by checking them against spiritual values and make any changes necessary. Have a delightful time later with congenials. Get chores done at home in p.m. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19) Think in terms of more prosperity; then take the right steps to achieve it. Consult one who can help you with modern methods for advancement.

Tonight's TV Highlights

8-30 NBC SANFORD AND SON "This Little TV Went to Market" (Rerun) Fred's TV set breaks down and he goes out and buys a "hot" set. When a friend visits, he discovers the TV is the same one stolen from his home, and he leaves to get the police. Fred is no dope. Before the police get there, he sells the set to Julio (Gregory Sierra).

8-30 CBS GOOD TIMES J. Evans likes to play the field and he's doing all right with the girls. This is until he meets Tasha. She's the most popular girl in school and she's done the impossible, she's made J. a one-woman man.

8-30 NBC LOTS OF LUCK "Do Me a Favor" (Rerun) Tonight an old school chum returns to the neighborhood as a singing star. To make an impression on a new girl friend, Stanley asks the singer to get him a few tickets to his solo concert as a favor. Little does he know that the neighborhood is a singing star. To make an impression on a new girl friend, Stanley asks the singer to get him a few tickets to his solo concert as a favor. Little does he know that the neighborhood is a singing star.

9-11 CBS THE CBS FRIDAY NIGHT MOVIE "The McKenzie Break" (Rerun) Brian Keith stars in this World War II prisoner-of-war film. The prisoners at this time are Germans and they are led by a U-boat commander. They have made contact with Berlin by radio, and are busy tunneling out. Keith plays the camp commander who finds the prisoners too much to handle until he tries some direct methods.

9-30-10 NBC THE BRIAN KEITH SHOW "Sean and Dad" (Rerun) Doctor Sean temporarily takes care of young Stewart, and finds the job more than he bargained for. He gets help from his daughter when he tries to unravel the new math and he's even awakened by kiddie cartoons in the morning, but he draws the line when he is asked to take over Stewart's Indian Soots.

9-30-10 NBC THE ODD COUPLE "Felix Directs" (Rerun) Felix gets the idea to make a film of Oscar's day-by-day activities, with him directing, of course. Oscar goes along, but doesn't take the job seriously. Then a real producer offers to incorporate the footage into one of his pictures and, before he knows it, Oscar is playing opposite a sexpot starlet.

Life In Portugal Changing Daily

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Manuel Fernandes Videira is a plasterer, a man on a scaffold, who still reaches, bends, coughs in a sea of white dust nine hours a day for the equivalent of $25 in a brown pay packet at the end of the week.

He still takes the same over-crowded trolley bus downtown to work and his wife still packs him the same lunch of fish sandwiches. But for the plasterer, life has changed since April 25, when a military coup overthrew the authoritarian regime that had ruled Portugal for 48 years.

"I used to do with the boss," says Videira. "He's gotten very quiet all of a sudden. He's not stepping on my toes any more. He's promising raises, but there's a bigger change. It's in the way he talks. Before it was always work more, work harder. Now it's just do your job properly and do it well."

More than just a regime, the military coup that Portugal's people call "the Revolution" overthrew a relationship between people—one which involved a sullen acceptance of authority and an assurance that power at any level would always go unchallenged.

The plasterer's wife works at the Lisbon University canteen and she and the other women there fell free enough after the coup to complain about working on Sundays. As a result they got weekends off.

"You could say that we are a bit of a revolutionary couple," said Videira jokingly.

Life has changed, yet, though not materially, for some of the privileged class—like Maria Fernanda Portugal Ribeiro, an elegant woman with two grown sons and a husband who commands a navy training ship.

Her cleaning woman still comes to her town house, and her mother-in-law still worries that she is too outspoken. But Mrs. Ribeiro says she is no longer ashamed of her country.

"I used to live here in contempt and irritation," she explained. "I was always nervous. When I tell you I lived to live in this country the way it is I am inviting you to get out. I feel jubilant. I want to stay and see what happens."

She said that the biggest change was in her attitude toward Portuguese men.

"I used to feel a lot of contempt for them. I used to think they were worthless, incapable of attempting anything noble. I knew many other women who felt the same way. A friend called me out the other day and said the biggest surprise of the whole thing was to find out there are some men in Portugal."

The first days after the government's overthrow were quiet as a few hundred soldiers stepped on my toes any more. He's promising raises, but there's a bigger change. It's in the way he talks. Before it was always work more, work harder. Now it's just do your job properly and do it well."

The Church... OUR NATION! ...THE HOPE OF OUR COMMUNITY,

Does GOD see the gap?

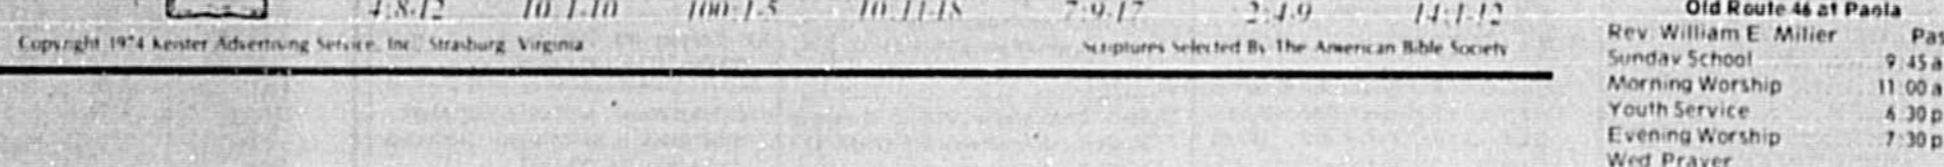

Whenever you hear about a generation gap, you can be sure you're getting a human, biased point of view.

Yet there is a divine view. It concentrates on the oneness of all generations...

When Great Grandma holds little Linda in her arms next Sunday, she'll be thinking gratefully of all the gifts they have in common...

The generation gap—like all differences—disappears when human intelligence grasps God's point of view.

Sunday Edition - - 20 Cents Embattled Nixon Again Turns To The People

WASHINGTON (AP) — Battling for his political life, President Nixon made a campus appearance tonight as a top aide suggested resignation might eventually be considered if it would help the country.

As a mounting chorus of congressional Republicans called on Nixon to consider stepping aside because of his Watergate problems, the President's wife, Pat, relayed word through an assistant Friday that she feels it's too bad the Republican leadership is coming out and saying these things because it's harmful to the country.

She also said she feels her husband "will not resign, though I resign and has never considered resigning."

The city of Washington is full of rumors. All that have been presented to me today are false, and the one that heads the list is the one that says President Nixon intends to resign," the Times quoted Ziegler as saying.

"This attitude is one of determination that he will not be driven out of office by rumor, speculation, excessive charges or hypocrisy..." the Times further quoted Ziegler as saying.

Nixon's hope of gaining the initiative in his fight against possible impeachment received another serious boost when conservative Republican Sen. Milton Young of North Dakota, long a Nixon stalwart, urged that he turn over the presidency to Vice President Gerald R.

under which the President might resign. He replied: "I think the only thing that would tempt resignation to the part of the President would be if he thought that served the best interests of the American people."

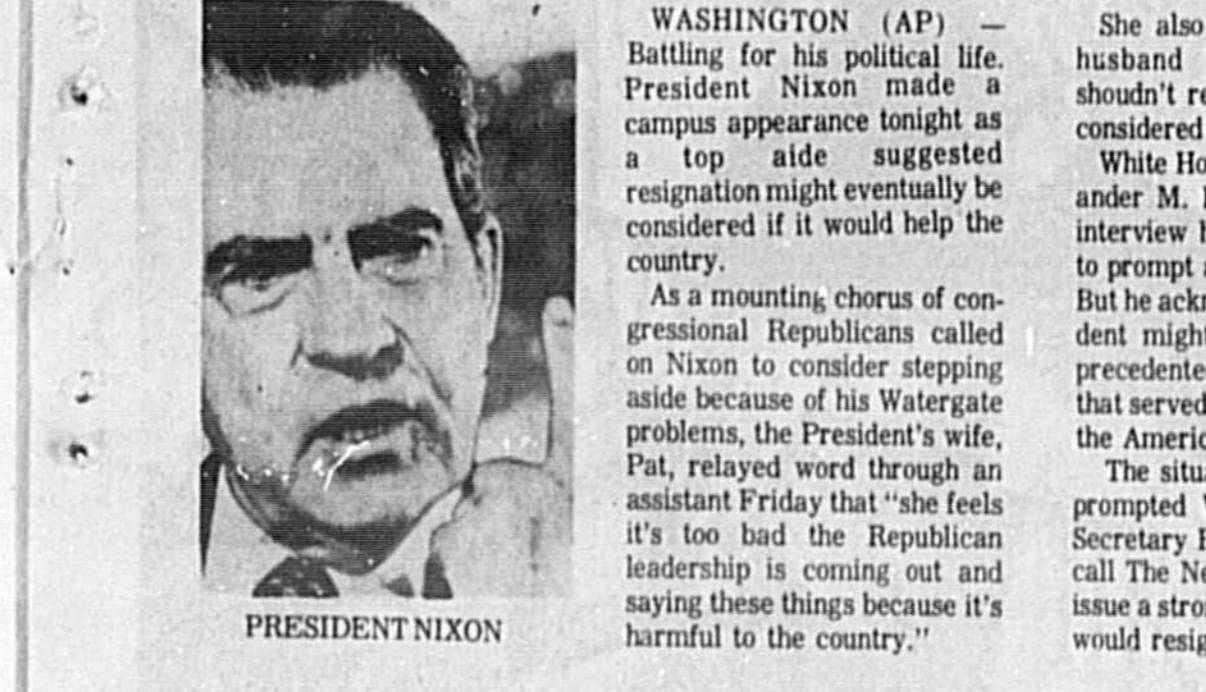

For mid with Nixon for an hour last week and, at a later news conference at Buffalo, N.Y., said "I certainly could infer from everything he told me that resignation is not being considered."

Haig was asked if he could foresee any circumstances commencement exercises at Oklahoma State University's football stadium in Stillwater.

Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., said a day would be set aside next week for the committee to act on such business as the issuance of the subpoena. Checks with committee members indicate there would be little opposition to issuing it.

Chief committee counsel John Doar said he would request a subpoena at the committee's next business session.

The April 4, 1972 meeting involved Nixon; his former Chief of Staff, H.R. Haldeman; and former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell. It took place four days before a House committee plan for electronic surveillance of the Democrats, according to testimony by John Stuart May, an official of the re-election committee.

Year Of The Slaughter?

MIAMI (AP) — State officials say a proposed change in the federal Marine Mammal Protection Act will allow commercial fishermen who buy a $5 permit to slaughter dolphins along Florida's coasts.

The change was actually proposed under a law designed to protect dolphins from drowning when trapped in tuna fisherman's nets.

The marine mammal act was passed in 1972 to protect thousands of dolphins that were drowning each year when trapped in Pacific tuna fleet nets. It superseded state laws, including a Florida law that banned any act harmful to the animals.

The act gave fishermen two years to switch to gear that would let trapped porpoises escape.

A National Marine Fisheries Service spokesman says the exemption expires in October and the rule change is necessary to help fishermen from being held liable for the occasional dolphin killed by the new nets.

Perhaps they didn't want me to miss the way they treated Mr. Nixon's handling of the transcripts.

They posed an intriguing series of questions on the matter. "This week he did it again, conceding the transcripts would become the grist for many sensational stories in the press, that they would be embarrassing, 'the subject of speculation and even ridicule' — in short, never before in the history of the presidency have records that have been so private been made so public."

One More Tape May Be Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee is expected to subpoena another White House tape next week, despite President Nixon's announced intention to turn over no more Watergate material.

Committee sources said Friday that a subpoena probably will be issued for a tape of a pre-Watergate White House meeting in an effort to see if Nixon had advance knowledge of the plan to bug Democratic headquarters.

Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., said a day would be set aside next week for the committee to act on such business as the issuance of the subpoena. Checks with committee members indicate there would be little opposition to issuing it.

Clemments Doctors 'Sick' Cities

LAKE MARY — He doesn't look much like a state government "Small City Expert" — a title he detests, but this specialty means just that to the city he serves.

George Clemments, a Florida backwoods boy from Bartow, who has long hair, dresses casually and speaks his mind, sometimes to the embarrassment of his bosses in the state Department of Community Affairs.

He is the department's "field hand" for unruly or prodigious small cities.

What he does is something just about unbelievable. His job is to help a city in trouble — financial, usually — out of the morass of confusion, bring some sort of order to the operation and keep quiet tabs on what he describes as "his people."

Most small cities, he says get into trouble because of the way they handle themselves. A small city cannot afford the price of its own expert and councilmen usually are the rankest sort of amateur in the political arena.

They need help. Somebody has to decipher and decode the mechanics of running a city. Many times, he says, with his pure Florida boy accent, a new councilman usually is a novice in the mechanics of state and federal bureaucracy.
