Lost Weight? Keep Up The Good Work

DEAR DR. LAMB—I can't remember reading anything in your columns about a minor problem I have—low blood pressure. My pressure is 110 over 60 or 25 over 55. I'm a 59-year-old male, 5 feet 7 and weigh 175 pounds. In 1971 I went on a diet and in 30 months I took my weight down from 246 pounds. I exercise regularly at a health club two or three times a week, lift weights, etc. I try to eat properly and do not drink or smoke. What am I doing wrong? Would this low blood pressure be the cause of my cold hands and feet in the winter? I can't remember having this problem when I was a heavy drinker.

DEAR READER—There are a lot of things people don't remember when they were heavy drinkers. Alcohol does numb the senses and is an anesthetic. In fact, people who customarily have heart pain may have insufficient blood flow to the heart muscle and not have any pain if they've had a drink of alcohol. That's how they miss nature's warning that they're overdoing it.

Now the question is not what you're doing wrong but what you're doing right and it seems to me you're moving in the right direction. You don't have low blood pressure, you have normal blood pressure. Mine is usually lower than yours. When people are overweight, as you must have been, and lose weight, it's normal for their blood pressure to drop to more optimal levels. If you read my column often, you'd know that I frequently tell people who have elevated blood pressure that one of the most important things they can do is to lose weight.

So rather than telling you what you should do, I'm going to congratulate you on what you have done and tell you I am sending you the

Sanford AMF Plant To Double Employees

Effective June 1, 1980, production of Slickcraft boats measured less than 24 feet will be combined with that of similar sized Crestliner runabouts in Little Falls, Minn. A comparable production focus on Slickcraft's larger-sized cruisers is being established by integrating production lines for Slickcraft models more than 24 feet long with those of AMF's Robalo offshore fishing cruisers made at the Sanford Airport plant in the Holland, Mich. plant and operations there are scheduled to cease by early summer.

Sanford Plant Manager Lloyd W. "Skip" Brekiron said limited production is expected to begin in six weeks and gradually increase to full production. "This is really good for Sanford," he said. "It will mean more jobs and circulation of a lot more money in the area."

Brekiron said the plant currently employs 100 workers and eventually he anticipates an increase to 180-200 employees.

He said only a few technical and supervisory people will be brought to Sanford and the rest will be hired locally. He expects to hire an additional 75 employees in the next six months.

Brekiron said the firm will be purchasing approximately $5 million in materials annually and two-thirds of the purchases will be from area vendors.

"This was a big commitment for AMF to decide to consolidate three plants into two for greater operating efficiencies and the fact that they chose Sanford indicates their faith in the future growth of this area," Brekiron said.

"This is only the first step and production should continue to increase here if the fuel situation doesn't go absolutely crazy," Brekiron predicted.

The Robalo plant started production in Sanford in 1968 and was purchased by AMF in 1970, AMF Powerboat is a division of AMF Inc. a worldwide leisure products and industrial technology company.

'Real People' May Show Golden Olympics Again

By BRUCE MOORE
Herald Staff Writer

Planned by their story Wednesday evening on the Sanford's Golden Olympic, the producers of NBC's "Real People" have tentatively decided the piece deserves a second airing.

Sanford Chamber of Commerce Director Jack Horner was told by the show's producers Thursday the piece probably will be repeated on the Aug. 20 edition of the program, which features short vignettes on unusual people and events throughout the nation.

Peter Brown, a young producer for the program, also indicated he foresees the possibility of returning to Sanford in November to film the sixth annual Golden Age Olympics, which promises to show a large increase in participation due to the national exposure and events throughout the nation.

"I found a lot of the participants were there to have a good time and others were very serious athletes," Brown explained. "I tried to show both things when I shot the feature."

"The event was very beautiful and future is usually determined by the number of letters received, according to Dolores Richardson, an expert in real people working as a receptionist for "Real People."

If real person Richardson is any indication, Sanford citizens can expect a real piece of action.

"I enjoyed the piece," said the real people receptionist, who vowed to point anyone who is really interested in the event to the city that is now for real.

Attorney Asks Investigation Of Altamonte Mayor

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

A lawsuit was filed Thursday by a south Seminole County attorney asking the Circuit Court to direct the Altamonte Springs city commission to determine whether Mayor Norman Floyd is guilty of "malfeasance, misfeasance and non-feasance in office."

The suit asks the court to set out procedures for the investigation, to name an impartial body with powers to take testimony under oath; and to name an "out-of-county" state attorney to conduct the investigation to "keep politics out of the matter."

Michael D. Jones, whose law office is in Altamonte Springs, says in the suit that allegations, innuendo and slurs against Floyd have been going around for some time, "which if true, should be investigated."

He said today while the city's charter provides for the city commission to be the judge of the election and qualifications of the mayor, it does not list the procedures which should be followed to make this judgment.

The allegations, Jones cites in the suit, are that Floyd has:

- abused administrative powers by holding up building permits from those who are not his supporters and friends while allowing them to be issued to friends.
- favored his son in the Altamonte Springs Police Department by permitting his appointment as a sergeant even though Norman Floyd Jr. didn't take the customary test required before promotions are given. He said the young Floyd improperly pulled a gun in an Altamonte Springs restaurant and again at a teapose establishment outside the city.
- was under the influence of alcoholic beverages while operating a police vehicle and presiding at public meetings.
- permitted non-police personnel to use city police vehicles.
- used a personal radio to direct police department operations and obstructed the police in performing their official duties.
- allowed a police cover-up of a prostitution operation in the city and blocked the Florida Department of Law Enforcement from conducting an investigation into the operation.
- refused to cooperate with the press in requests to view personnel records in violation of the Florida Public Records Law. Removed items from personnel records.
- misappropriated campaign funds for personal use.

Jones said today an impartial investigation would give Floyd a fair opportunity to be heard and would avoid the inference of politics.

He said Altamonte Springs City Attorney James "Skip" Fowler accepted service on the lawsuit Thursday. Jones said he has been preparing the suit for more than a year and it has been drafted since October. "I had to re-do it after the November election," he said.

Floyd said today he had no comment on the suit.

"I've got to see it and go over it," he said. "This is nothing new, really. This is something he's been doing since he took office in the past. He has been in the governor's office, the state attorney's office and the Florida Department of Law Enforcement," Floyd said. "I don't see ALTAMONTE, Page 2A

U.N. Panel Barred From Seeing Hostages

By United Press International

The Islamic militants at the occupied U.N. Embassy in Tehran demanded the ruling Revolutionary Council, Hojrat Oltasam Hashemi Rafsanjani, as saying the U.N. panel of five international jurists arrived at the embassy to see the hostages.

The commission could not immediately be reached and there was no explanation for the militants' refusal to allow the panel to see the hostages.

The spokesman repeated the militants' demand that the hostages would not be freed until deposed Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi was returned to face trial. He said the captives were in "good condition."

CREWS PREPARE FOR 'COIL' TEST
River is arriving by rail at the Florida Power & Light plant on the St. Johns River in Sanford to prepare for the utility's mid-April test burn of COIL—a coal and oil mixture. The coal will travel up the conveyor to the COIL plant where it will be deposited into coal silos and fed by crews into a coal pulverizer in a fine graphite-like texture it will be mixed with that air, cleaned and mixed with oil. The resulting COIL then will be pumped into the plant's boilers to be used as fuel.

really know what about, something about nepotism."

"His timing is right. This is 10 days before the charter revision election and that's normal. I think it is political," Floyd said, adding he has no objection to an investigation.

The city's voters will decide March 11 on whether they want a "city manager" form of government rather than strong mayor.

Jones said today the "timing is never right" for a thing like this. "It just has to be done," said the attorney who was a prime supporter of Floyd's the first time Floyd ran for office in the early 1970s. "Many people have talked of the need to do this for some time but couldn't for various reasons."

City Commissioner Dolores Vickers declined comment, noting she needs guidance on how to proceed. "I want to talk to the city attorney on what direction we will take," she said.

Commissioner Peggy Childress is out of state. Commissioner Jim Thompson was in class and not available. Commissioner Lee Constantine was at a meeting and not available for comment. Police Chief Justus East was not at his office this morning.

Women Free In Colombia

Captors Could Begin Talks

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI)—Leftist guerrillas freed their last five women hostages today, opening the way for negotiations on ransom demands for the release of 46 diplomats seized two days ago in an attack on the Dominican Embassy residence.

The five women walked out shortly after 9 a.m., entered four automobiles and left the area. Their release was about an hour later than the time originally announced.

The guerrillas, who are demanding $50 million ransom and freedom for more than 300 of their jailed comrades, had released 10 other women, a 16-year-old boy and two wounded men Thursday night. They still are holding an estimated 40 diplomats, including the U.S. Ambassador and the papal nuncio.

The fate of U.S. Ambassador Diego Asencio and the heads of diplomatic missions from a dozen other countries and the Vatican hinged on the outcome of talks between the government and the leftist group.

More than 20 heavily armed guerrillas of the April 19th Movement, including eight women, carried out Wednesday's takeover of the embassy residence, where they rounded up most of Bogota's diplomatic corps attending an independence day reception.

The guerrillas demanded the release of 311 jailed leftist comrades as well as the $50 million ransom in exchange for the freedom of the remaining hostages.

The government of President Luis Cesar Turbat announced it would be ready to "establish a dialogue" with the guerrillas as soon as the remaining woman hostages joined the 13 who have already been freed.

In a telephone interview with the Los Angeles Times, Asencio said the spirit of the hostages was "very high."

INSPECTING AZALEAS
Proceeds from the upcoming sale of lovely azalea bushes will be used for beautification projects in the Sanford community. Chamber of Commerce Beautification Committee members (left to right) Carl Gutmann, Peggy Deere and Kay Bartholomew inspect azaleas that will be offered for sale. Beginning at 9 a.m. March 8, it will be the fourth year for the sale sponsored by the Chamber and held at the chamber office, 406 E. First Street, and Civic Center patio. A selection of Formosa, George Tubor, Red Ruffe and Gerbing Azaleas in 1- and 5-gallon containers will be offered. The Isora Garden Club and sausage will be served at the civic center the same day.

Robbery Suspects Returned To Seminole

By DAVID M. RAZLER
Herald Staff Writer

Two suspects in an Orange County armed robbery were returned to Seminole County Thursday to face charges they robbed a Fort City convenience store Feb. 16.

John Armstrong, of 8330 Albemarle, Forest City, and Jose Haggans, 308 Teakwood Drive, Altamonte Springs were being held today in the Seminole Jail in lieu of $8,000 bond each, on charges they robbed a Cumberland Farms store at the corner of Academy Drive and State Road 438 earlier this month.

The guerrillas demanded the release of 311 jailed leftist comrades as well as the $50 million ransom in exchange for the freedom of the remaining hostages.

The government of President Luis Cesar Turbat announced it would be ready to "establish a dialogue" with the guerrillas as soon as the remaining woman hostages joined the 13 who have already been freed.

In a telephone interview with the Los Angeles Times, Asencio said the spirit of the hostages was "very high."

The pump, and tank, valued at $318 were located in a shed outside a home on Marquette Avenue and were taken between 10 p.m. and 1 a.m.

Southern Bell Installs 5 Millionth Telephone

Frank Skinner, Southern Bell's Vice President for Florida, announced that a milestone was reached recently in the Company's Florida operations when the five millionth telephone was installed in Bell's territory in Florida.

Skinner said, "This historic installation took place sometime during the month of February. To commemorate this event that symbolizes the growth of Florida and its largest utility, a special telephone was presented to Sen. Philip D. Lewis, President of the Florida Senate."

Lewis received the commemorative telephone in a ceremony at the Helen Wilkes Hotel in West Palm Beach on Thursday.

On Nov. 18, 1969, Southern Bell installed the one millionth phone for northern Florida in Sanford.

According to Skinner, "This significant benchmark of five million telephones in our Florida operation comes only six years after we topped the four million phone mark in 1974."

"To comprehend fully the Florida growth story, we need only to review the past 10 years of telephone growth in those areas of Florida that we serve," Skinner said. "We have grown by approximately 2,300,000 telephones in the past decade."

ANNIE To Appear In The Herald

ANNIE is coming to the Evening Herald. The smash comic strip will appear every day, starting with Sunday's color comic.

Leonard Starr's version of the Gray classic began running in more than 200 newspapers last December. In the first story, ANNIE was kidnapped by an oil sheik who was down on his luck. His wells were not producing and he wants the liquid polymer formula Daddy Warbucks is developing to revitalize old fields. ANNIE, of course, escapes and rejoins Daddy and Randy. Along the way, however, there is plenty of adventure.

On Monday, March 17, ANNIE starts a new episode which will find her working as a page in Congress — and getting her first kiss.

Long acknowledged by his colleagues as a superb draftsman and a master story teller, Starr has brought his talents to — Leonard's Herald! — ANNIE. Yes, Annie, as in Little Orphan Annie.

She has been born again, so to speak, on Starr's drawing board — three name double-zero eyes, dust-cup beads and little red dress.

Randy is with her, of course, along with Daddy Warbucks (that pipon-egg diamond still sparkling on his shirtfront), the ever-present and indomitable Pajjah, and, when his sinister skills are called for, the Asp.

Starr comes to ANNIE after some 30 years of drawing and writing the dramatic ON STAGE, starring screen Mary Perkins in her struggle to achieve stardom in the hardboiled and heart-breaking world of the Broadway theater.

A native New Yorker, Starr attended New York's High School of Music and Art and went on to famed Pratt Institute, but left there in his teens. He was so busy doing commercial art that he no longer had time to study it.

As most cartoonists do, Starr worked as an assistant on a number of nationally syndicated comic strips, developing along the way a flexibility of style that enabled him to switch without trouble from the subtle shadings of ON STAGE to the deceptively simple lines of ANNIE.

"ANNIE will be the Little Orphan Annie of the 1980s, when Edward Gray was at his best in story line and drawing," Starr says. "The strip reached its peak of popularity in those bleak years of the Depression. Oddly, ANNIE's coming back in a similar period of recession and disaffection."

ANNIE discovers corruption in Washington in new episode starting March 17.

FOOD STAMP OFFICE BURGLARIZED
Burglars striking the Sanford food stamp office made off with only a few personal items taken from desks Wednesday night, say police.

While the thieves did manage to grab a few items and vandalize a vending machine, they did not get any food stamps, said an office spokeswoman, explaining the stamps are taken away every day by an armored car and locked in a vault.

ATHLETE STILL UNSTABLE
A Seminole Community College athlete, injured in a near-hear-on collision Monday afternoon, remained in guarded, unstable condition at Winter Park Memorial Hospital this morning, a hospital spokesman said.

Elizabeth Van Ness, 18, of Sanford was hospitalized with severe injuries following the accident at the intersection of Old Lake Mary Road and Airport Boulevard at 3 p.m. Monday.

The driver of the truck which collided with Miss Van Ness' car, Curtis Miller, 49, of Kissimmee, remained in good condition this morning at Florida Hospital South, recovering from a broken back and jaw.

Police are still waiting for results of tests from the Sanford state crime lab, before making any charges in the accident, results which might not be available for several weeks, police say.

Southern Bell Invested $668 million in Florida last year and will invest $728 million in new telephone equipment and buildings in 1980. For example, in Seminole County, Southern Bell will complete construction of a new Central Office building in the Geneva exchange at an investment cost of approximately $700,000.

Revenue Sharing Needs An Overhaul

At one point last fall Congress toyed with the idea of extending its "windfall" tax on oil profits to the state governments of the oil-producing states. Such states can expect a sharp increase in revenue as domestic oil prices rise to the world market level.

Although Sens. Alan Cranston of California and Russell Long of Louisiana managed to beat back the windfall tax proposal, Congress cannot resist the smell of oil money. Sen. John C. Danforth of Missouri is trying to rally other senators from states which have no oil to the support of another proposal: Why not cut back on federal revenue sharing money that goes to states which are cashing in on high oil prices?

That means the non-oil-producing states could claim a bigger share of the $6.9 billion in revenue sharing funds budgeted for the coming year. So those states would in fact enjoy a little "windfall," too.

Sen. Danforth raises the question of why states due for a bonanza in taxes and royalties from oil production need any revenue sharing money when other states may not be getting as much as they need. The answer is that revenue sharing has not been pegged to the "need" of states and local governments since the federal government embarked on the program in 1972.

Yet the philosophy of revenue sharing needs to be examined as the program comes up this year for a five-year extension. Some overhauling is in order, and Congress should be reminded of what the program was supposed to accomplish in the first place.

Revenue sharing was the centerpiece of Richard Nixon's "new federalism." The idea was to give state and local governments some cash grants so they could work on state and local problems according to their own priorities — not the priorities dictated by Washington. There was to be a consolidation and cutback in the multitudinous federal grant programs that sprang up during the Johnson administration. These had made the federal government a heavy-handed intruder into local affairs, and the "new federalism" was to shift power back to the states and communities.

It didn't work out quite that way. A Congress that never misses a chance to give money away did enact revenue sharing, but it balked at dismantling other grant programs to the degree that the Nixon administration proposed. As it is now, the federal government is distributing some $85 billion a year to state and local governments through nearly 500 grant programs, revenue sharing among them. Most states, counties and cities are now as hooked on their revenue sharing checks as they are on all the others.

Revenue sharing is only vaguely tied to the "need" of the governmental entities that receive it, and the functions assigned to cities and counties vary greatly in different states. As it turns out, Sen. Danforth may be dead wrong about California, for example. With the prospect of Proposition 13 cutting deeply into income tax revenues, California may need all its oil revenue plus its federal sharing money and still not be able to make up a deficit in its next budget.

There was nothing wrong with Mr. Nixon's "new federalism." The pity is that a decade later our politicians are still crying out against the arrogance of power in Washington and promising to work for more strength and independence for state governments and local communities. Revenue sharing marked a step in that direction, but if it is to be the only step, it won't get us anywhere.

ROBERT WALTERS We Are Left With A Stain

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The XIII Winter Olympics now are part of history, but the organizers' prejudicial treatment of the athletes from the two Chinas long will remain an indelible stain on the records of the games.

The United States must share with the International Olympic Committee (IOC) the blame for the disgraceful performance, not only because this country was host to the games, but also because it was the IOC that would not officially recognize any of the ROC's official symbols — including its name, flag and its national anthem.

This country has not extended formal diplomatic recognition to numerous other nations throughout the world — including North Korea, North Vietnam, South Yemen, Albania and Cuba — but in no other case does the State Department deny the existence of the country's official name, flag and anthem.

The modern history of the two Chinas dates back to 1949, when nationalist leaders fled to Taiwan and established an independent government, and a capitalist in Taipei after a communist-led revolution gained control of the mainland and its capital of Peking.

Although many western nations rejected the PRC as an outlaw government in the ensuing decades, it simultaneously withdrew from the 1952 Olympics and subsequent games, refusing to participate as long as any ROC athletes were allowed to compete.

When the Canadian government, which recognizes Peking but not Taipei, refused to issue entry visas to ROC athletes to participate in the 1976 Olympics in Montreal, the United States protested that action as a violation of Olympic ideals.

But in February 1979, one month after gaining diplomatic recognition from the United States, Peking applied for readmission to the IOC. The request subsequently was approved.

Meeting in Japan in October 1979, the ROC representatives were required to devise an entirely new (although unspecified) set of symbols that would have to be approved by the IOC executive board.

China is not the world's only political and geographical bifurcated nation in which both governments claim rightful control over the entire country. Similar situations exist, for example, in Germany and Korea, but neither the communist nor non-communist Olympic representatives from those lands have been subjected to the indignities visited upon Taiwan by the IOC.

But when the first contingent of the 18 athletes and 10 officials Taiwan expected to send to this year's Winter Olympics arrived in Lake Placid, N.Y., in February, they were barred by local Olympic officials and New York State Troopers.

The ROC athletes retained their pride and integrity, while the IOC and the United States were left only with shame and disgrace.

LEWIS GRIZZARD

A group of Teague Middle School seventh graders got a first-hand look at the county's judicial system Wednesday with a tour through the county jail and a chance to see at least part of a criminal trial.

The 12 students in Margaret Thomson's class for gifted children got to spend a day at the courthouse following a request by their teacher. The students meet in the special class session on Wednesdays to experience things would not normally see as part of a normal school curriculum.

Becky Durik of Sanford said she didn't really like the way the jail cells looked and said she asked why the prisoners were not allowed to have plants. She said she would try to use them as weapons.

But she and Jerry Richardson of Longwood said they liked the fact that prisoners were allowed out of their cells, to work on the prison building. Richardson said he felt the cells were nicer than he expected to see.

But when it came time to watch a trial before Circuit Judge Volie Williams, the students didn't get to see any testimony, only the selection of a jury, before they had to return home.

Ms. Thomson said her students have also spent days at Seminole Community College, in the Sanford "heart park" and involved in a variety of other activities. The students decided to come to court after the heart park trip, and a brief walk through the courthouse, she said.

Construction of the county's new public safety center is almost complete, says Public Safety Director Gary Kaiser.

Workers are presently putting up interior walls in the underground building, constructed to federal bomb shelter specifications, with 12-inch concrete walls and a 400-ton poured concrete roof.

"I told them to take their time removing the forms" which supported the massive shell as it cured, Kaiser said, "providing the structure will allow officials to work during any emergency and without any hurricane."

The "second floor" of the building, a steel-reinforced structure visible above ground will not be finished at the moment, Kaiser said. The second level would provide the department with room to expand and will be finished as needed, he explained.

Construction of the county's new public safety center is almost complete, says Public Safety Director Gary Kaiser.

Is Cuba Soviet Colony?

WASHINGTON — While Fidel Castro struts on the world stage as a leader of the non-aligned nations, he has transformed Cuba into a Soviet colony dependent upon and subservient to Moscow.

Castro reportedly also agreed in mid-1975 that any future support for armed insurgency would be channeled through the local pro-Soviet communist parties. The Cuban-Soviet accord, according to an intelligence appraisal, is "highly sensitive to charges that it is a Soviet puppet." His denials, therefore, are usually emphatic, with a good flailing of arms and shouting of cigar smoke. Or, as another source expressed it, Castro "possesses a tropical temper."

He has vowed impassionately: "Never has the Soviet Union — which has given such decisive aid to our people — approached us to demand anything from us, to set forth a condition, to tell us what we must do." But this is disputed by intelligence reports, including intercepts of actual conversations between Castro and his Soviet superiors. He toes the Soviet line scrupulously; the rare exceptions are allowed by the Kremlin for the sake of his non-aligned image.

Declares an intelligence analyst: "Cuban submission (to the Soviet Union) has been complete." This appraisal, classified "Top Secret Umbra," describes Castro's support of the Kremlin as "a careful mixture of adulation, confidence, and ostensible humility intended to defend Moscow from its ideological antagonists and to assure the Soviets of Cuba's loyalty."

Castro hasn't always been so pliable. The study notes that he is "the same firebrand who years ago had not hesitated to challenge Moscow on virtually any ideological level." But the differences that "strained Cuban-Soviet relations so severely years ago," the report adds, "are no longer even minor irritants."

It contends that "the brazen young Caribbean rebel of the mid-1960s has been replaced by a mature, responsible, self-controlled member of the (Soviet) team; as a result, bilateral relations have never been better." The study concludes that "Castro is clearly pleased with the trend of recent events, with his relations with Moscow, with the prestige his troops in (Africa) have earned for him."

The colorful Cuban has carefully refrained, however, from direct military intervention in the Americas. Explains another secret intelligence report: "Castro supported Latin

DON GRAFF Right Off The Target

New Hampshire is now history, although what history may eventually make of it in the larger context of the 1980 election is still very much to be seen.

What can be made of one event during the primary home-stretch is, however, all too immediately and unfortunately apparent. The occasion was a gathering of gun owners that drew a nearly complete state of contenders — all seven Republicans, one Democrat and a Carter son. Only Sen. Edward Kennedy was unrepresented in person or surrogate.

It was one of the best-attended and outspoken events in the state's recent political campaign. Also most revealing in some respects.

Although not especially so in the case of John Connally, who found a perfect occasion to recall boyhood in Texas and growing up with a gun in his hand. If there's a word for Connally's response on a much issue such as this, it is predictable.

George Bush, who has established himself as the good guy as well as surprise of the Republican contest to date, may, on the other hand, have surprised some of his new-found supporters in the ranks of the moderate-to-liberal elite. He spoke of the joys of rifle and shotgun ownership and dealt with the gun issue of the session — gun control — in terms of a joke.

Perhaps that should not read good old boy. Jack Carter had a few words about dad, the quail hunter, but none about father, the Democratic nominee, who, it was promised during the 1976 campaign, would be "really tough" on gun control.

There was Gov. Edward Brown who saw gun control as an "opening wedge" of unspecified greater calamities and opposition to it as a means of keeping government "out of where it doesn't belong." This is the same Governor Brown who in the 1976 campaign supported control and emphasized the steps his California government had taken in the cause.

But then, this can come as no more of a surprise than the Connally stance. This is, after all the Brown of the pre- and post-Proposition 13 switch, the apostle of small is not only better but essential who, when gasoline prices got tight, was first in line in Washington to get a larger allocation for his folk.

There are many words for the Brown style of politics but consistency isn't among them. Only Rep. John Anderson stood up and spoke out for control. Predictably, since he has made taking positions control to the pack something of a basic campaign strategy. And for his efforts he was loudly booed. He was predictably at a gathering which opened not with a chairman's welcome to the ladies and gentlemen of the audience and distinguished guests, but a hearty "Good evening, gun lobby."

So it went, as it usually does on this subject. One can be either for, against or completely neutral on the gun-control issue and still regret that, this is so. There are valid arguments on both sides.

People are killed and injured by guns. There are guns in the hands of people out there who should never be licensed for anything more perilous than marriage. But there are legitimate reasons — beyond the constitutional right argument — to question whether it might not be primarily cosmetic with the most significant consequence being a further bloating of the bureaucracy.

More Women L E A P At Love

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — It used to be that long year was the only chance women had to propose to their beaux, but today's young women probably pose the question — if it is popped at all — as often as men do.

This is the conclusion of Sheila Korman, of Miami, a University of Florida sociology student who has conducted a survey of women's attitudes on marriage for her master's thesis. She also teaches marriage and family courses at UF.

"Today's young woman is sharing the responsibility of deciding to get married," said Ms. Korman, 27 and unmarried herself. "Relationships are lasting longer than before and couples are waiting to get married until they are older. Women are no longer under pressure to get married like they once were," she said.

"Women are definitely initiating dating, too, and they're proud of it," said Ms. Korman, whose survey encompassed 400 UF coeds between the ages 18 and 22. "And they are enjoying a new freedom in doing that."

"Unlike just a few years ago, she said, "Campus dating is more casual, less formalized and intense. Often, women will buy tickets to a concert, then call a man and invite him to go, or they'll cook dinner for someone. "They're also doing more things in groups or as friends."

Women, too, are sharing the high cost of dating more than they once did, Ms. Korman said.

NATION IN BRIEF

Slain Defectors' Daughter Dead From Gunshot Wounds
BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — The teen-age daughter of two slain People's Temple defectors died from gunshot wounds that so damaged her brain she could not have helped solve their murders even if she had regained consciousness.

Daphne Mills, 16, connected to a life-support system since she was shot twice in the temple, died Thursday. Her body and those of her parents, Al and Jeannie Mills, were found Tuesday night in the bedroom of a rest home they owned.

Even if the teen-age girl had survived, authorities speculated, she would never have been able to help investigators because her brain was so severely damaged by the bullets.

U.S. Gets Temple Funds?
WASHINGTON (UPI) — For the first time the Justice Department is within reach of recovering from the People's Temple more than $4 million in U.S. taxpayers' money spent to bring home the victims of the 1978 mass murder-suicide in Guyana.

About $5.7 million was transferred to the United States Thursday from a Panama bank account controlled by a group that is an outgrowth of the Rev. Jim Jones' cult.

The money was returned to the United States following a year of complex negotiations between the Justice Department and Robert Fabian, the court-appointed receiver for the cult.

MIAMI (UPI) — Wealthy Floridians from Tallahassee to the Gold Coast answered the call of Carter campaign officials and dug into their pockets for more than $500,000 during a two-day swing.

The grueling excursion was unique for Florida politics. Led by Gov. Bob Graham, popular former Gov. Reubin Askew and U.S. Sen. Lawton Chiles, the fundraising effort exceeded the original estimate by $300,000.

Volusia Men Got 20 Years
DELAND, Fla. (UPI) — Two Volusia County men convicted of fraud in connection with a warm farm investment scheme have been sentenced to 20 years in prison and their corporation fined $95,000.

Clayton Conrad, president of Bass Ball Farms, and Dennis Fried, an employee of the firm, were sentenced by Circuit Judge Michael Hutchinson Thursday. They were convicted last October of fraudulent sale of securities, sale of unregistered securities and employing a scheme to defraud.

Plant Achieves 'Cold Shutdown'

CRYSTAL RIVER, Fla. (UPI) — The nuclear reactor at the Crystal River nuclear generating plant reached a "cold shutdown" stage today and crews moved ahead with removal of spilled radioactive water from the containment building.

Florida Power Corp. spokesman Bill Johnson said the cold shutdown was achieved about 11:30 a.m. Thursday.

"We're pleased with that," he said. Johnson said company officials were considering a change in the scheduled shutdown of the plant on Thursday to allow for testing at the plant near Chattanooga, Tenn. "It's typical of the NRC and TVA," said Jeannine Honicker, who has taken her arguments against nuclear energy to the U.S. Supreme Court. "I'm surprised people will continue to pay for these white elephants. I don't even think a serious accident would stop them."

The Nuclear Regulatory Commission had ordered the company to make a f e t y modifications, including addition of a new type of audible alarm system in addition to visual systems to alert control room personnel of the condition of the power-operated relief valve, one of the safety recommendations ordered by the NRC in the wake of the Three Mile Island accident.

But the NRC recently told FPC it could wait to make the modifications while the plant was shut down for refueling, a period of six-to-eight weeks.

"We are considering going ahead with the maintenance and modifications now and returning the unit to the system in late spring following refueling, and then shutting it down for refueling in late summer," Johnson said. "We want to do whatever we can to have that unit available through the summer," he said.

SANTA ANA, Calif. (UPI) — Steve Ford, youngest son of former President Gerald Ford, has reached a settlement with a woman who gave birth to a baby he says might be his.

Attorneys representing Ford, 23, and Joy Malken of Newport Beach, Calif., said Thursday an amicable out-of-court settlement was reached in the paternity suit filed by Ford. Details were not disclosed.

Chronic Diarrhea? See A Physician

DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm a 50-year-old male and I've been drinking a lot for years. I've always had soft stools but for the last couple of years, I have to go to the bathroom at least three times a day and I do have a lot of mucus. My rectum also itches terribly. Is it the liver that causes this or what could it be?

DEAR READER - There is a long list of things that cause chronic diarrhea and the only way to find out what's going on is a complete medical examination. You'll need to know that you don't have some chronic parasitic disease. You also need to know whether you have ulcerative colitis, regional enteritis, or intolerance of milk or have some other intolerance that contributes to it or whether it's just from drinking too much alcohol.

DEAR READER - Hyperventilation means overbreathing and when that occurs the best thing to do is to try to breathe very slowly and not breathe very deeply. Slow, shallow breathing will stop the overventilation and will tend to reverse the process. People get into trouble with hyperventilation because they blow off too much carbon dioxide.

Now as far as preventing the problem, you may need some help in finding out why you hyperventilate. There's usually a reason for it. Pilots who ascend to a high altitude overventilate in response to the thin air from decreased altitude pressure. Many people who hyperventilate are responding to something that has caused them to have anxiety. For that reason, professional counseling, sometimes helps.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Five seconds later, our friend was his usual complaining self. He had led a club to dummy's ace at trick two and at that point he could count were I'm 1 trick.

It is to win the first trick in dummy and to lead the deuce of clubs and put in the 10 unless East plays the queen. Against the actual holding, the 10 forces the queen. Then, since East has shown out, South can finesse against the nine and score his four club tricks with the ace, eight, king and jack.

OURSELVES

Richard Swann, left, gives Jim Ryan a welcome to the Longwood Winter Springs Area Chamber of Commerce meeting. Ryan, who has recently returned to the area from Saudi Arabia, spoke to the group on problems and conditions of the mid-east.

Living Will Is Not Euthanasia

DEAR READER: I don't get the APPROPRIATELY, but I heard you had something in your column about THE LIVING WILL. The way it was explained to me, that is exactly what I need to have peace of mind. I am 74 and so many of my friends (and relatives in the last year) have died lingering deaths because nobody wanted to turn off the machines that kept them alive.

Gardening

Spring Lawn Maintenance Ensures Healthy Grasses

Residents living in Florida for any length of time probably realize that lawn care is a year-round job. However, as warm weather approaches and our warm-season lawngresses begin to come out of dormancy, there are certain tasks that should be done properly to ensure a healthy, vigorous lawn throughout the year.

There are quite a number of warm-season lawngresses that will grow in our area, but I am only going to focus on the two that are the most popular, as well as the easiest to maintain. These are the Bahiagrass and St. Augustinegrass.

Let's start with fertilization. March is the recommended month to apply your first application of fertilizer regardless of the type of grass. Use a complete fertilizer, such as a 6-6-4 or 16-4-8. The rate at which any complete fertilizer should be applied depends on the amount of nitrogen contained in the material.

This is represented by the first number on the fertilizer bag. The percentage of nitrogen when divided into 100 will give you the appropriate rate per 1000 sq. ft. that the fertilizer should be used.

Among the many who attended the "Festival of Music" Sunday at Lyman High School auditorium were June Lortmann, Deputy Mayor of Longwood and her daughter, Linda. Many beautiful, all time favorite classics were sung by William and Adele Pirigy, as well as two piano solo numbers by Adele.

Also included on the program were middle eastern dances by the Harem; a group of dancers from "The Art of Belly Dancing Studio". This "Festival of Music" was the first program for the year sponsored by the Longwood Recreation Department.

A thought stolen from Dr. Bill Armstrong, editor of Legends and Sightings, the Longwood Area Sermons Club newsletter. Have you noticed - It's difficult, if not impossible, to save money when your neighbors keep buying things you can't afford!

Gacy Insane, Witness Says

CHICAGO (UPI)—The defense rested its case in the trial of accused mass murderer John Wayne Gacy with the testimony of a psychiatrist who said Gacy killed "because he was trying to get rid of qualities within himself."

The final witness for the defense, which tried to establish Gacy, 37, was insane and unable to prevent himself from murdering 33 boys and young men, was psychiatrist Richard Rappaport.

Rappaport testified Thursday Gacy's severe mental illness prevented him "from conforming his conduct to the requirements of law"—one of the legal tests of insanity in Illinois. Testimony indicated Gacy, a building contractor, charged with more killings than anyone in U.S. history, strangled all but one of his victims during a seven-year rampage.

Testimony indicated Gacy, a building contractor, charged with more killings than anyone in U.S. history, strangled all but one of his victims during a seven-year rampage.

Defense attorneys say they will call two more psychiatrists during rebuttal testimony, expected to turn into a battle of psychiatrists. The prosecution was to begin presenting its rebuttal witnesses today.

Prosecutors plan to take about a week to present their first two rebuttal witnesses, including five psychiatrists. The prosecution, which is seeking the death penalty, charges Gacy is a sane, calculating killer who carefully chose victims and later hid most of the bodies in a dirt crawlspace under his home.

They question how Gacy was able to conceal any mental illness from friends and relatives and charge Gacy had a rational motive for killing.

Rappaport said Gacy's mental illness convinced him his victims possessed qualities he believed in himself and "he had to kill them" to destroy those feelings.

Rappaport said Gacy harbored murderous feelings about his father, incestuous impulses and homosexual tendencies. When he brought home, Rappaport said, he psychologically reversed roles with him—him becoming the father, the youths becoming him.

Rappaport said Gacy hid his "cold, ruthless character" beneath a "mask of sanity" and appeared normal to even his two ex-wives.

Sweet Shooting Stambaugh Saves Seminoles

Herald Photos by Tom Vincent

Silver Hawk forward Claude McKnight battles a DeLand Bulldog for a rebound in Lake Howell's 70-58 win Thursday night.

Seminole guard Keith Whitney, saddled with early foul trouble, came back late Thursday night to help the Tribe handle Apopka's defensive pressure on the ball.

By JOE DeSANTIS Herald Sports Editor (With Pardon to Earnest L. Thayer)

It looked extremely rocky for the Sanford five last night. Apopka held the lead by one and time was oh, so slight.

The Tribe's ace charity shooter calmly stepped up to the line with but three seconds left in the game and his team down by one, 46-45.

Greg Robinson's Lake Howell Silver Hawks earned a 7:00 p.m. semi-final berth opposite Seminole in tonight's action via a 70-58 victory over the DeLand Bulldogs.

Mark Layton turned in a surprising 20-point effort to go along with Rusty Conway's 14 and 10 each from guards Larry Mincey and Bruce Brightman to pace the Lake Howell victory.

In the other semi-final game, Daytona Mainland faces Spruce Creek at 8:30 p.m.

"Layton did a super job coming off the bench for us," complimented Robinson. "Conway played well before fouling out and Brightman gave us a lift late in the game too."

What does Robinson feel his Silver Hawks have to do to beat Seminole after losing twice to the Tribe in regular season play?

"We have to play the boards with them," Robinson pointed out. "We out-rebound DeLand 46-32. We need that kind of margin against Seminole. We can't afford to let them play volleyball on the backboards."

Sanford Radio Station WTRH will broadcast the Seminole-Lake Howell game. Pre-game show goes on the air at 6:30 with play-by-play announcer Joe Johnson.

Up And Down Duke Dumps N.C. State In ACC Play

By United Press International It's played times in the Atlantic Coast Conference again.

While seventh-ranked Maryland narrowly escaped an upset at the hands of lowly Georgia Tech in first-round playoff action Thursday, inconsistent Duke knocked North Carolina State out of the tournament.

"I knew it was going to be a dogfight," Maryland Coach Ledy Dremell said after his Terrapins best Georgia Tech, 81-69, in overtime. "It is the mark of a good ball club to win a close one."

Georgia Tech, 8-18 and winner of only one conference game in its inaugural ACC season, used a deliberate offense to minimize Maryland's effectiveness. But Albert King's jumper with four seconds left in overtime finally led the victory for the Terps, 25-4.

"Whenever you play Georgia Tech, they play a slowdown game," said King, who had 16 points in the game.

"We're a team that likes to run. They want the opposite way and we just had a bad game."

"It went right down to the wire, but we just didn't get the breaks and it didn't work out at the end," said Georgia Tech's Brook Stepp, who missed a jump shot that could have sent the game into another overtime.

"This is the best we've played in a long time," Duke Coach Bill Foster said. "Over-rally I was very, very pleased."

Gene Banks scored 24 points and Mike Givinski added 22 to pace the Blue Devils, 20-4, and playing its final ACC game under Norm Sloan, who will be coaching at Florida next season.

Careful records were kept on each animal from September until it was auctioned at the fair. Here Christy MacLeod poses with her steer.

3 Youths Steer Way Into Fair

Last September three Seminole county youths had the three steers they owned weighed and tattooed for identification, beginning a five-month program of hard work and tender loving care that ended this week at the Central Florida Fair.

Heather MacLeod, a 14-year-old student at Lyman High School, her sister Christy, an 11-year-old student at Jackson Heights Middle school and their 17-year-old cousin Brent Ramsey, an Oviedo High School student, are the only youngsters in Seminole county raising beef steers for the youth steer show and auction at the fair.

Each of the young people has close to $1,000 invested in their animals and upkeep, and they are not helped by any local sponsors as are many of the Orange County entrants. Seminole County does not have a beef club in its 4-H program so they had to register through an Orange County club just to be eligible for the show.

Despite the hard work involved caring for the animals, bearing the financial responsibilities and just getting to the fair, the excitement and thrill of the fair makes it worth it. "It's a lot of hard work," said Christy MacLeod, "but then when you get to the fair...ahhh."

It was all set to make a clever point. To wit, how much gasoline do they waste filming these car chase shows? I mean, they don't wrap those skids and crashes in one take, do they? We're supposed to be conserving energy. Shouldn't television, too?

I was going to emphasize how much the three lead "performers" looked and acted like live-action dolls. There was the cute blond guy, the cute dark guy and the cute blonde in the Peggy Lipton mold. Who would ever have thought a mold would be named after Peggy Lipton?

I would have refused to mention their names because only performers have names. These were not performers. These were props, like the cars, and we don't go out of our way to plug brand names.

I was going to comment on how odd it was to find not one but TWO eye-rolling, unfunny token black comic players, LaWanda Page and Minnie "Dy-no-mite" Walker, in the same show.

Perhaps the producers have taken to hiring token comic players like they hire writers — in bunches. (Why just buy one when for a few bucks more you can get that many more yucks.) Then again, maybe LaWanda and Jimmie work as a team now. Let's see. I was going to talk about how cheesy "B.A.D. Cats" was. It wasn't just these little things — like the way they would shoot a different angle of the same studio office building and tell you it was actually a different building in a different place. No fooling. Or the way the car chases were photographed by cameras nailed to the sidewalk — just like the way you'd shoot a home movie of Scooter driving up in his new car.

No, it was the overall cheesy flavor — the war-dresses, the bit castings, the furnishings. In fact, "B.A.D. Cats" basically looked like a dubbed Italian import patterned after "The Mod Squad" — you know, one of those Terrence Hill-Bud Spencer jobs that are shot in Italy but made to look like an American product. I was waiting for it to slip through. I thought that just once one actor would turn to the other and instead of saying "Catch you later, man," he'd let loose with "Ciao, Bernardo." Didn't happen.

There was this relevancy thing, too, just like they used to do on "The Mod Squad." A women-in-chains potboiler — in which our heroine had a delousing agent sprayed into her oh-so-blue eyes by a —lastic guard — quickly blossomed into a terrorist theme regarding nuclear power plants. Fastest transition I ever saw.

I would have concluded by saying that I could forgive "B.A.D. Cats" if it had been devised, written and produced by 9-year-olds, but that grown-up people were involved in this show — probably some of them college graduates — and they were paid a heck of a lot of money.

But I can't write about any of this because ABC censored "B.A.D. Cats." All I can do is shrug and toss my notes in the trash. It's a jungle, this reviewing biz.

Brent Ramsey and Nero

Heather MacLeod was the only Seminole County youth to enter a steer in last year's fair. This year, her sister and cousin are entering also.

Television Review Suffers B.A.D. Luck

REVIEW

By DAVID HANDLER
ABC buffeted me. They let me blow an hour watching "B.A.D. Cats" and then they swiftly canned it.

So now I've got all these notes that go down the drain — just like that hour that I lost. No point in offering any opinions. No way we'll see "B.A.D. Cats" again.

My tough luck, huh?

Did you ever see "B.A.D. Cats?" It was about a trio of sexy young cops, two guys and a gal, who worked the Burglary Auto Detail of the Los Angeles Police Department. Quite a bit like a live-action cartoon. Car chase after car chase after car chase. Screesh. Stop for 30 seconds of comic relief. Zoom. Back to the car chase.

I was all set to make a clever point. To wit, how much gasoline do they waste filming these car chase shows? I mean, they don't wrap those skids and crashes in one take, do they? We're supposed to be conserving energy. Shouldn't television, too?

I was going to emphasize how much the three lead "performers" looked and acted like live-action dolls. There was the cute blond guy, the cute dark guy and the cute blonde in the Peggy Lipton mold. Who would ever have thought a mold would be named after Peggy Lipton?

I would have refused to mention their names because only performers have names. These were not performers. These were props, like the cars, and we don't go out of our way to plug brand names.

I was going to comment on how odd it was to find not one but TWO eye-rolling, unfunny token black comic players, LaWanda Page and Minnie "Dy-no-mite" Walker, in the same show.

Perhaps the producers have taken to hiring token comic players like they hire writers — in bunches. (Why just buy one when for a few bucks more you can get that many more yucks.) Then again, maybe LaWanda and Jimmie work as a team now. Let's see. I was going to talk about how cheesy "B.A.D. Cats" was. It wasn't just these little things — like the way they would shoot a different angle of the same studio office building and tell you it was actually a different building in a different place. No fooling. Or the way the car chases were photographed by cameras nailed to the sidewalk — just like the way you'd shoot a home movie of Scooter driving up in his new car.

No, it was the overall cheesy flavor — the war-dresses, the bit castings, the furnishings. In fact, "B.A.D. Cats" basically looked like a dubbed Italian import patterned after "The Mod Squad" — you know, one of those Terrence Hill-Bud Spencer jobs that are shot in Italy but made to look like an American product. I was waiting for it to slip through. I thought that just once one actor would turn to the other and instead of saying "Catch you later, man," he'd let loose with "Ciao, Bernardo." Didn't happen.

There was this relevancy thing, too, just like they used to do on "The Mod Squad." A women-in-chains potboiler — in which our heroine had a delousing agent sprayed into her oh-so-blue eyes by a —lastic guard — quickly blossomed into a terrorist theme regarding nuclear power plants. Fastest transition I ever saw.

I would have concluded by saying that I could forgive "B.A.D. Cats" if it had been devised, written and produced by 9-year-olds, but that grown-up people were involved in this show — probably some of them college graduates — and they were paid a heck of a lot of money.

But I can't write about any of this because ABC censored "B.A.D. Cats." All I can do is shrug and toss my notes in the trash. It's a jungle, this reviewing biz.

But Others Available

555 Is TV's Favorite Phone Number

DEAR DICK: Could you please tell me why on all TV programs on which someone dials a phone number, they always use the prefix 555? GWEN MCCORMACK, Joplin, Mo.

The phone company here says that there is no 555 prefix anywhere, so it's a safe number to use. The public has a strange quirk and likes to dial numbers they see or hear in movies or on TV shows. The phone company says if producers want a more realistic number, it can be supplied, because phone companies everywhere have a reserve of unused numbers. Once Redd Foxx just picked a number without checking, they say, and it turned out to be a genuine number — "It was a real disaster," the phone people say.

DEAR DICK: I am almost a shut-in, 74 years old. I try to watch TV to pass my time but CBers have taken over and I can't watch my favorite station. I get no clear picture, if any at all, and half the time the voices are mixed up. Is there anything that can be done? IDA MEEKS, Michigan City, Ind.

By now, you should have gotten a booklet I had the FCC send you, explaining how you can have your TV set shielded against such interference. In many cases, the FCC says, such shielding is a simple and inexpensive procedure. If that can't be done, the booklet also has a questionnaire for you to fill out, and you then file it with your nearest FCC office (Chicago, in your case) and FCC investigators will see what they can do. If anybody else has the same problem, write for the booklet to your nearest FCC office — there are 25 of them around the country.

DEAR DICK: I recently saw a movie, "Three Little Words," starring Fred Astaire and Red Skelton. There was a song sung by a character named Terry about the days of the week. Can you possibly tell me the name of the song? LAURIE MCGHEAL, Princeton Junction, N.J.

Gale Robbins was the actress who played Terry, and the song she sang was "All Alone Monday."

DEAR DICK: I would like to know if Bess Armstrong — the star of last year's CBS series, "On Our Own" — is doing a TV show now? She is my favorite actress. MRS.

RUTH T. HUTTULA, Elma, Wash.

Bess, certainly a delightful actress and a charming young woman, is just finishing her first feature film, called "The House Of God," in which she co-stars with Tim Matheson. It's a film about interns in a hospital. No TV plans for her, at the moment.

DEAR DICK: Who was the actor who played Lurch on "The Addams Family?" My husband says it was Richard Kiel. I understand the actor who played the part passed away. Is that right? TERRY TOCCO, Tucson, Ariz.

You're right. Kiel is the "Jaws" character in the recent James Bond films. It was Ted Cassidy, who died last year, who played Lurch.

DEAR DICK: You and others have written that "Battlestar Galactica" was cancelled because of "low ratings." I am inclined to think the so-called "ratings" have nothing to do with the people who watch and want to enjoy TV. "Buck Rogers" is garbage left on the air by these "ratings." We, the real TV viewers, are being fed a line by the TV producers and the networks. How can we, the real TV viewers, get programs we want instead of the junk the networks force on us? ROBERT S. HIGGINS, Nampa, Idaho.

The networks have to use some measure of the success or failure of their shows. If you can come up with a better system than ratings, they will listen to you. In the meantime, ratings are the only game in town. And, much as you may not like to admit it, "Buck Rogers" is, so far, reaching more people than "Battlestar Galactica" did.

DEAR DICK: Can you tell me what Dean Martin's original name was before he adopted his stage name? M.H.D., Paw Paw, Mich.

He was Dino Crocetti in his early years.
