First Witness Tells About Defendant's Confession To Slaying Estranged Wife

COURT HOUSE, WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Sept. 20.—(INS)—Captain Michael I. Silverstein, acting chief of police of Mount Vernon, resumed the witness stand as the first witness today at the trial of Earl F. Peacox, for the murder of his wife, Dorothy.

Silverstein related how Peacox had confessed to strangling his wife in his apartment last April 21 following a quarrel and then carting the body away in his automobile to a woods near Scarsdale. There the chief said he found a piece of cord around her neck "to make sure she was dead."

The court was packed with spectators, including many flappers. Peacox sat beside his mother, Mrs. Catherine Peacox. He seemed refreshed as a result of yesterday's court holiday.

Silverstein testified he asked Peacox how he could have done anything like that. He replied that it was an accident. I said "there was a telephone in your apartment, why didn't you use it?" He replied, "I was panic-stricken."

LOCAL ALL-STAR CLUB FORMED TO PLAY THIS FALL

Team Has Series With Winter Park Outfit Beginning Sunday

Sanford has been asked to enter a team in a proposed Central Florida baseball league, to operate during the next six or eight weeks, according to an announcement today.

The invitation probably will be accepted, and if plans of Bert Chapman, Floyd Palmer and several other well known local players materialize, Sanford will put a strong team in the field.

The support given the games here will definitely show the question of whether Sanford will have a team in the loop, according to the backers. This city had no baseball this summer and the second will be staged in the winter park Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Among the players who have signed the intention of affiliating with the local aggregation are the following: Culp, Chapman, Parks, McCrea, Sams, Rawson, Palmer, Rive, Wilk, Bush and Amann.

SENATE OPENS INQUIRY INTO NAVY LOBBYIST

William B. Shearer Is Present As Probe Is Begun Into Efforts To Get Bigger Fleet

Clinton F. Bardo, president of the New York Ship Building Company, a subsidiary of the American Brown-Boveri Electrical Company, which was one of the three companies which employed Shearer as an "observer" at the conference, was the first witness.

"We had nothing to conceal," Bardo began. "We are ready and willing to give the committee all the information it desires regarding the activities of Mr. Shearer."

Seventeen Die When Fire Rages Through Detroit Night Club

Eye Witnesses Relate Accounts Of Horror And Pandemonium As Fire Breaks Out

DETROIT, Sept. 20.—(INS)—Subdued lights, the crooning rhythm of a jazz orchestra, dancers moving about in the last waltz of the night—then, a shriek, confusion, smoke and horror! Irony was the keynote of the Study Club disaster when a night club, the rendezvous of night life and pleasure, of a sudden was converted into a frightful death trap.

The cabaret, an old mansion, later a rooming house, was remodelled for its present purpose about a year ago. It was a typical second-rate night club and had been raided on several occasions by prohibition agents.

The bodies of the dead and injured were piled in heaps on the dance floor. Fire had cut off their escape down the stairway. Flames were still shooting out of the front part of the building when the fire entered. The heat was terrific, but I doubt whether any of the victims actually burned to death. They appeared to have been suffocated.

WESTERN EDITOR IS VINDICATED IN CRIMINAL LIBEL

Case Is Dismissed In Which Publisher Criticized Judge's Acts

SAN JOSE, Cal., Sept. 10.—Widely heralded as a decisive vindication of the principle of the libel charges brought against H. L. Baggerly, publisher of the Los Gatos (Cal.) Mail News, by police Judge Percy O'Connor were dismissed as the culmination of Baggerly's preliminary examination on the charge in justice court in San Jose Cal. on Aug. 13.

The motion for dismissal came as a dramatic climax to the second day of the hearing and was made by the prosecuting officer, deputy district attorney Frank Waterhouse, at the request of Judge O'Connor himself.

Baggerly had occupied the witness chair throughout the day and on examination and cross examination defended vigorously the statements in his paper of July 25 criticizing Judge O'Connor because Miss Josephine Grant, wealthy San Francisco girl, was freed in the San Jose Police Court over which Judge O'Connor presides, on charges of driving while drunk, possession of liquor and illegal driving. The first two charges were dismissed on motion of the prosecuting officer and when she pleaded guilty to the third charge, Judge O'Connor fined her $50 and suspended sentence.

Paragraph by paragraph, the two articles, Judge O'Connor objected to were read to Baggerly. Again and again the publisher replied, "I believe, and still believe them to be true."

Asked to explain what he meant when he published the statements that "Judge O'Connor knew of social standing and political and financial influence and permitted the fine," Baggerly explained:

"I believe then and I believe now that in the Josephine Grant case there was a gross miscarriage of justice and that Judge O'Connor was responsible. Ever since he has been on the bench Judge O'Connor has had the reputation of giving people the limit in case in which liquor is involved. In the Grant case the regular rule was suspended, the eyes of justice were blinded, I felt that Judge O'Connor had been awed by the influence of the girl and had deferred to wealth."

Despite the vigor of his criticism, Baggerly repeatedly affirmed on the witness stand that he had no malice toward Judge O'Connor, that his feeling toward him had been friendly, pointing out that as publisher of the San Jose News he had supported him in his election campaign for the office of police judge, and again when he aspired to Congress. He was still friendly toward the judge when he criticized him, Baggerly avowed. "My purpose was to aid in the enforcement of the law and to uphold respect for the courts," he said.

Upon cross-examination Baggerly again made it clear that he was not animated by any personal feeling against O'Connor and repeated that he was not and had no intention of accusing the official of corruption.

"I had not and have now no idea of malice toward him," Baggerly said in response to questions from Waterhouse, the prosecuting officer. "I believe he is honest, that he got no money from the Grant, that he was not a party to any conspiracy in the Grant case."

At this point Waterhouse asked a recess, went into consultation with Baggerly's attorneys, and then came the motion for dismissal.

"At Judge O'Connor's request, Waterhouse addressed the Court. It appearing in question were not intended to charge Judge O'Connor with malfeasance in office, and were not intended in any way to reflect on his integrity or honesty. The people move for dismissal."

As the motion was granted, Herbert C. Jones, chief counsel for Baggerly addressed the Court. "The statement made by Mr. Waterhouse, expressly states the views of Mr. Baggerly as they were outlined on the stand, and as his counsel has known them from the beginning of this case. Mr. Baggerly's sole interest in the case is the vindication of the freedom of the press as permitted and guaranteed to it under the Constitution; that freedom of stating truthfully, as the editor or proprietor of a newspaper knows the facts to be coupled with what the law designates as fair comment. That is the only thing Mr. Baggerly has been interested in, and that is the principle more important than any party to this case, or any other case."

"What we feel is that the principle of the freedom of the press has been vindicated, and as far as Mr. Baggerly is concerned my judgment is that there is no citizen in the community who renders a greater public service. On no occasion when there has been pressure, social, financial, or political brought to bear, has he been influenced." Jones' statement brought the case to a close, was greeted with a burst of applause from the throng which had packed the courtroom throughout the two days of the hearing.

Baggerly, commenting upon the dismissal of the charge said: "My only interest in this case was to maintain the right of the press to comment upon the acts of public officials in the interest of the public good. I believed, and still believe Judge O'Connor made an error in judgment in the disposition of the case against Josephine Grant."

Judge O'Connor made this statement: "My integrity was vindicated by the repeated statements of Mr. Baggerly that at no time did he believe I had been guilty of misconduct. That was all the satisfaction I sought to secure at my time."

In the issue of his weekly which appeared two days after the trial ended, Baggerly reiterated his demand that the grand jury probe all the circumstances of the Grant case, and urged that she be arrested and tried on new charges. In this movement he has the support of at least a dozen organizations which have passed resolutions making the same request.

The case aroused unusual interest on the Pacific Coast, made Baggerly the subject of commendatory editorial comment in various newspapers, and the recipient of scores of messages of commendation one from Governor C. C. Young of California.

The first sale drew several thousand persons from this county and surrounding territory. This time a more intensive campaign to bring out-of-town shoppers will be made and the effort is expected to draw hundreds of new visitors.

In addition many extra copies of the special edition will be distributed in the same territory.

On National Gridirons

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 10.—(INS)—The Georgia Tech Jacks looked much better at their second scrimmage held at Rose Bowl field yesterday afternoon. The line showed tremendous improvement over its work at the scrimmage held last Monday. Also Vance Marce, in his new role of defensive fullback, did very effective work for the varsity eleven.

AUBURN, Ala.—Punting and passing practice, and a signal drill made up the light workout given the Auburn Plainmen yesterday, following their scrimmage of Tuesday. Several shifts in the Auburn line appear probable, due to a weakness at one of the guard positions.

LEXINGTON, Va.—Practice in blocking passes and getting by with them was indicated by the Washington and Lee Generals yesterday afternoon. No idea is yet obtainable as to the makeup of the first squad. Coach Oberst continues to shift his men all over the place.

NEW ORLEANS, La.—Signal drills, passing, punting, etc., occupied the Tulane squad yesterday afternoon. A scrimmage was expected for today.

UNIVERSITY, Ala.—Intensive practice in the gentle art of tackling is scheduled for the Alabama Tide-men, following an exhibition along that line yesterday which Coach Wallace Wade found anything but satisfactory.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Sept. 10.—(INS)—Coach Ruff Jones of the Army, despite his search for suitable linemen to replace the veterans lost by graduation, is not overlooking offensive drills. Yesterday, while Mayor James J. Walker of New York looked on, Jones drove the Cadets through a lengthy scrimmage in which attack was featured. Mayor Walker was at the Point on business.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—Spurred on by cold, crisp weather the Harvard football squad is fast moving the scrimmage stage. Yesterday four teams drilled together after the lines and backfield had been given separate instruction.

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Sept. 10.—(INS)—Yale will use a different style of line-play this season according to Line Coach Adams Walsh, who is instructing the forwards in a new system of rush-line methods. Seventeen letter men are included in the varsity squad announced by Head Coach Mal Stevens.

FARMINGDALE, N. Y., Sept. 10.—(INS)—The New York University Violet grid squad will hold its second scrimmage of the week here today. In the workout yesterday the performance of Follet and Gaudet was outstanding.

CAPE MAY, N. J., Sept. 10.—(INS)—Sydney E. Gervin and Joe Olexy, ends, came in for high praise from John W. Heisman, former Georgia Tech and Penn coach, who watched the Red and Blue gridmen in their workout yesterday.

Washington Scouts Idea Of Discord In McDonald's Visits

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—(INS)—Diplomatic Washington sources published reports today that difficulties will arise on Premier Macdonald's visit to the United States over questions of precedence between Macdonald and Sir Esmé Howard, the British ambassador.

The British prime minister at the state dinner to be given by President Hoover will be given by course as the ranking guest, and no orders will have to come from London to settle the relative standing of the two Britishers, diplomats versed in world diplomatic custom, declared. State Department officials were puzzled over suggestions that Sir Esmé outranks his chief executive because the latter has no decoration from King George while the Ambassador has one. The department's adviser of such things just did not know.

Just what position the Premier's daughter Isabel, would occupy at official functions, was a still more puzzling. Difficulties are expected to arise when Mrs. E. S. Gann, half sister and hostess to Vice President Curtis, attends an "affair" at which Miss Isabel is present. If Mrs. Gann insists on recognition as the second lady of the land, officials admit it will be embarrassing.

Clearing House Seen As Boon To Celery Growers

(Continued From Page One) clearing house committee, expect to have the proposed by-laws and other agreements ready for distribution to the growers within a few days.

Roy Symes, veteran Sanford celery grower, is enthusiastically over the turn of events and over the fact that the shipping organizations have seen fit to lend their whole-hearted cooperation.

"The day that the clearing house begins operations," said Mr. Symes, "will mark the dawn of a brighter day for all celery growers. With every factor co-operating to move the crop judiciously, and with a consistent advertising campaign going on, we can expect to be a real money crop in every sense of the word."

Members of the clearing house committee are planning an early meeting with representatives from the Manatee and Sarasota districts to present the plan for their endorsement. Preliminary estimates indicate that about $50,000 will be available for advertising this coming season. In addition to the sum required to efficiently operate the clearing house organization, members of the committee, who have analyzed the situation, are one in agreeing that individual growers will reap handsome dividends from whatever the crate assessment may finally be.

LEW SEES 1ST AS KEY TO SERIES OUTCOME

Stacks Have Greater Defensive Strength Than Chicago Rivals

By Davis J. Walsh
Special News Service
Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Starting out to talk about defense today, the writer can't seem to get away from the fact that there is no other guy lays out like an examiner with the first punch.

It strikes me as the fellow who has reviving door with the rest of his nose, that no other World Series known to baseball has had more authority going with one game than figures to be the case when the Cubs and Athletics first meet on October 8 in Chicago. That particular ball contest should strip the rest of the program of all luster and leave isolate to the eyes of the world.
It should be the great convener.
If the Athletics lose it, their chances will be less than poor the rest of the way, with the second and final games scheduled for Chicago and the Cubs heartened by their initial victory. If the Cubs blow it, the incident will be practically fatal, what with the first, fourth and fifth games coming up in Philadelphia where the Athletics are figured to be virtually unbeatable. It is the rather complex character of the contenders that makes all of this not only possible but probable.

Therefore, what price comparisons when one game may decide everything? The best they can do is indicate which club might be likely to get the break at the outset but in order to really know this, one would have to know definitely what men are to be pitched and what they will do after they get out there. In other words, you can't level a comparison on the breaks of baseball any more than you can compare two street cleaners. You may have your favorite street cleaner but, personally, I am almost certain that one street cleaner is just as good as another.

Anyhow, it is my idea that the fact that one third baseman happens to be better than another is without significance. They are not playing this series between a couple of third basemen but pursuing the basis of team strategy team, employing only the major departments of the game; attack and defense. Any comparison, therefore, that doesn't make itself apply to either or both of these divisions and in relation of the teams themselves fails to be of any great value.

Really, then, I consider the Philadelphia Athletics a sounder defense team than the Chicago Cubs. Pitching not only is the better part of defense; it practically is all defense itself in a short series. There may be some argument as to whether Grove, Earn-

ATLANTA, Ga.—Vance Marve, former Georgia Tech tackle, will be used as an offensive fullback by Coach Bill Alexander, it developed today, provided he can be spared from the line. Alexander has planned for sometime to use Marve at fullback on the defensive, but he has looked so good in scrimmages lately that it was decided to use him in the position all the time if a worthy successor can be found for his station in the line.

GAINESVILLE, Fla.—The roll of Florida's national football players grows with the announcement
today that Alex Reeves, guard, had been married to Miss Mildred Johnson of Atlanta and Tampa.
Reeves is the third man on the rator squad to be wedded.

UNIVERSITY, Ala.—Another hard and fast scrimmage was scheduled for the Alabama Tide-men this afternoon. In yesterday

aft. noon's affray Ralph McRight and Tony Helm distinguished themselves and set the spectators on ear by spectacular ball running. The Wademen have scrimmages due every afternoon until next Thursday.

RALEIGH, N. C.—With Governor O. Max Gardner, a former football captain of North Carolina State's ancestor school, the old A. & M. College, as a spectator, the Wolfpack went through a long scrimmage here yesterday afternoon.

shaw, Walberg, Quinn, Ehmk and Rommel from a stronger staff
than Bush, Blake, Malone, Root, Carlson and Nehf. This is personal opinion stuff and gets you nowhere.

I am referring now to the matter of catching and here the Athletics are away out in front. Cochrane is the greatest man in the game and some say he is the greatest of the age, if not all ages.
Anyhow, he not only will give the Athletics a big break at the plate but figures to hold up his staff much better than Gonzalez or Taylor, the latter having been saved from the minor leagues because the Cubs were short of catchers.

Hartnett, in condition, would be a much different matter. But I am assuming that Hartnett won't flourish or, if he does, it will be to no great extent. He hasn't caught a game all season and can hardly be right now.

I should say that, regardless of how they look individually—
left-handers against right-hand batters and what not—that Cochrane makes the Athletic staff look the part of a better combination. And, at that, the Cubs have been beaten by Hubbell, Mitchell, Petty, Sherdel and other good left handers. So why get over-heated about it? If Rex Wadell was available today, I don't suppose Connie Mack would figure on using him in the bull pen just because the Cubs are right hand batters.

Offhand, I like the Cub's infield defensively. Infield defense, preference, radiates from second base and the Hornby-English pair has had a great year. They are as steady as Bishop and Boley and can do more things with that ball. Grim is well out in front of Fox as a defensive first baseman, too. Considering the fact that both will figure in some 70 percent of the plays, this fact is not without importance. Third basemen are far less prominent but it is worth mentioning that Dykes is a better ball player than McMillan.

There may be a choice between the two outfielders—Cuyler, Wilson and Stephenson, of the Cubs, and Simmons, Haas and Miller, of the Athletics—but I don't see how anybody can make it until they have watched the pair of them on the same field.

Tropical Disturbances

It is a strange thing that during September, at least since the great hurricane of 1926, whenever a small storm seems impending, people suspect the approach of a hurricane. It is almost true that during September, whenever the sun goes under a cloud, our telephone begins to ring and anxious mothers want to know when the hurricane is expected. It is not that we object to these telephone calls as we are always glad to give out whatever information we may have. We would only assure our readers that these hurricanes move very slowly, not more than ten or fifteen miles an hour, and that the news of the day, as printed in The Herald, will always warn them several days in advance whenever a bad storm is headed in this direction.

The only weather warning of any sort which has been received is a report from the Weather Bureau to the effect that a small tropical disturbance has been located in the West Indies somewhere in the vicinity of Porto Rico. This island which bore the brunt of last year's hurricane, is over a thousand miles, as the crow flies, from the Florida coast. So any hurricanes which might be centering near there, if it traveled at an average speed, and in a direct line for Florida, could not possibly reach this coast in less than three and one-half days. In the meantime innumerable reports would come from the wireless stations which lie directly in its path.

So there is little cause to worry about a hurricane. Most of the storms generated in the West Indies are of small to moderate intensity, and few of them ever reach Florida anyway. Most of them are dissipated before they ever get this far, or veer off into the Atlantic, or wind up in the Caribbean. The trouble is that every storm report that comes from Porto Rico reminds us of 1926 or 1928, when as a matter of fact such hurricanes are not likely to occur again in many years. Let us forget the hurricane until it makes faces at us off Bimini Bay.

Bathing In The Nude

Miami Beach will be a popular resort next winter, we would gather from an announcement in the Miami Herald. It is declared by the chief of the beach patrol that "individual discretion" will be the only censor of bathing suits. When we recall what was worn last winter, we can well imagine the crowds which will gather next January, to see the show, if not to take part in it. Says the Miami Herald:

"Let your conscience be your guide. That old rule, it is promised will largely govern the bathing suits at Miami Beach this winter, according to Lieut. Earl Pinder, in charge of the beach patrol. Modesty is mental, he explains, and is right, although the physical may affect the mental. 'Evil to him who evil thinks' is an old saying, and so is 'Beauty unadorned is beauty adorned the most.' The trouble with the latter is the fact that many think they belong in the beauty class when they do not, and would make a stronger appeal properly clad."

"In this connection George Bernard Shaw was quoted recently as declaring that the Victorian type of apparel was more threatening to morality than the present, because it hid the body and was suggestive. There is little suggestive about nakedness, because it is all revealed. Nudity is apt to repel as much as it lures, depending, of course, upon the individual. 'Display of the body is a matter of custom and fashion, and what would have horrified a few years ago is accepted without a second glance today. Hence, what we consider as shocking now may be commonplace tomorrow. The trend has been in that direction, although it may change before the last rag is removed and we become as animals.'"

"The Miami Beach announcement that individual discretion will rule and not legal censors certainly will not discourage the migration to our seaside. All America may wish to flock down here just for the novelty of enjoying liberty."

THE PRESS FEELS that it will be welcome news to the people of this section to know that Lake Okechobee is about five feet lower than it was when the hurricane of last year pushed the waters over the lowlands and drowned some two thousand people. The editor of the Okechobee News, a member of the Everglades Flood Control committee, visited the Press office yesterday and expressed the opinion that should a hurricane of the same proportions as the last one occur this year, no damage would be done by the waters of the lake getting out of bounds. The lake level is below 13 feet now. It was above 17 feet last year when the storm broke.—Fort Myers Press.

HEALTH AND VEGETABLES

Iodine is the best known medicine in cases of goitre. South Carolina found out that her vegetables contained considerable iodine and has profited considerably from that knowledge. Coming into information of this, Florida started in to see if Florida vegetables do not contain iodine, also. It has been ascertained that they do, some of them in considerably larger quantities than South Carolina vegetables. So we, too, will be beating tom-toms about the healthfulness of our vegetables. That is all right. The only criticism to be made of it is that we waited much later than we should have to begin doing so.

The Times distinctly recalls that several years back—it was in 1925, if we mistake not—Dr. Charles S. Northern, of Ocala, published several articles declaring that Florida fruits and vegetables possessed health values unapproached by those of any other state. He argued the question forcefully, scientifically and convincingly. Without going back to the files of those days, we are reasonably sure that he spoke of the effect of soil, salt air and sunshine, and we have the recollection that he spoke specifically of iodine. Should there be mistake as to this, however, he did emphatically assert the health value of Florida soil products because of the other things, at the same time appealing for chamber of commerce and other organizations to undertake an extensive advertising campaign for the purpose of acquainting the nation with the facts. In legal phraseology, he made out a case. But nothing

A GLIMPSE OF TRUTH

SARASOTA HERALD

The business man was talking about his plans for his son. "I want him," he said, "to have enough money so that he can really live. I want him to be able to enjoy life, instead of having to spend all of his time working his head off just to make a bare living. When you work too hard life goes by you before you know it—and by the time you have money and leisure to do the things you want to do you've forgotten how." That wish—to smooth things out for our children, so that they can have a better life than we have had—is a wish that all of us share. Our highest, dearest plans are always the plans that revolve about the son or the daughter. Like this business man, we want to free them from the demands of bread and butter, so that they can really live. Some men succeed in this ambition and some men fail; but the point worth remembering is that it doesn't matter very greatly, after all which way it comes out. Money and leisure are fine things, but the genuine fruits of life are not brought with them. In fact, life's real richness has a way of coming to those who forget all about the great quest for happiness and apply themselves strictly to the job at hand. Consider the case of Mr. Averag, Man. He is young, ambitious and full of fine dreams. He marries, and always just ahead he foresees a day when he and his wife will not have to work quite so hard when the vision of his youth can be made real when he can have time to taste the savor of life and escape from the daily routine. If he is like most of us, that time never comes. He finds, in course of time, that he is always going to have to work hard. The bright tomorrow of his dreams never comes. True, life never reaches a climax, as he had expected it to. In other words, like most of us he has to stick close to his job as long as he lives. But it is a mistake to feel sorry for him. The pattern of life is not worked out by restful contemplation and idleness. It comes into shape by dint of hard work. The man who is forever busy, working so that he and his may be fed and housed and clothed, is closer to the ultimate secret than any philosopher in his study. For it is only by toil and sacrifice and endurance that a man ever gets a realization of life's nobility and high purpose. The workaday path may lead through deep valleys and monotonous plains; but there come times when the man who follows it finds himself on a lofty peak, from which he can see distant, miraculous vistas.

INSECTS AND NATURE

LAKELAND LEIGER

While the Japanese beetle, which attacks lawns in the east; the corn borer, which has been doing its stuff in the middle west, and the Medfly, which has been giving the authorities some exercise in Florida, are all insects of more or less importance, Turkestan has had a visitation of grasshoppers the like of which has seldom been known on any continent. A dispatch from Riga, Latvia, to the Chicago Tribune says that the cotton crop in soviet Turkestan has been damaged $25,000,000 by "swarms of grasshoppers appearing in such numbers that the Trans-Caspian railroad was unable to run trains for three days. Billions of grasshoppers covered the roadbed making it impossible for locomotives to get traction on the slippery rails. Red army planes at Tashkent, soviet Turkestan which have been bombing the Bokhara insurgents in an attempt to restore order along the Afghanistan frontier, supplied chemicals with the view of destroying the swarms. More than a generation ago, was the potato bug, and a little earlier the grasshopper swamped through the western states as a plague such as Egypt experienced when Pharaoh hardened his heart. In the 70s, hoppers by the billions took every green spear of grain and grass in the prairie states of the northwest. Trains were unable to move and pioneer settlers were starved out and abandoned homesteads. "This infestation," it stands out when observed, it came suddenly and in two years no more was seen of the hoppers. They came and went by the what Doctor Northern said when he said it had been seen South Carolina might not now be so far out ahead of us in vegetables and iodine and health. That, though, is another case of spilled milk. We can, at least, approach this matter earnestly and conscientiously now. And we should. It appears that every cause assigned for the marked presence of iodine in South Carolina vegetables exists even more markedly in Florida.

POETS OF TODAY

MESSAGE

In The New York Herald Tribune I wrote fair words in sunlit lines of gold Across the blue and white arc of the sky Planned in this stream—shy, un-used words that told The vision of the heart more than the eye— The music of a hidden thought—the sheen Of some young hope that out-lived the years— A memory no uttered breath could mean— A wish that insecurity endears.

I stood and watched the rippled letters curl Into the channel, with the tide and wind among them. Among the loose, gray stones where shadows curl. Beneath the footbridge whose slim height is pinned To steady banks, and past the willow's drooping boughs. Concealing their light transience to the waves. An ocean distant, within which to end Their mission where the supple waters lave. Your step, and draws your inattentive view. To each proud syllable incribed for you.

By Jerry Evans

IMPOSSIBLE you say. Not at all, it's electricity, we're talking about. It actually costs you but one cent, the price of a cheap glassy / your / boy / the other day, to cook cereals and boil bacon for two people on an Electric Grill and no waiting or fussing about the kitchen stove either. Try it. Food is easily, quickly and instantly cooked. It's a big penny's worth of electric service that pays for itself in the pennies it saves!

MESDAMES BROUSE AND CONNELLY GIVE PARTY FOR MISS NEWMAN

Pink and green were the outstanding colors used for decorations at the bridge party given Thursday afternoon by Mrs. A. P. Connelly and Mrs. J. E. Brouse at Mrs. Connelly's home, 2400 Park Avenue, in honor of Miss Olive Newman, recent bride-elect. The guests arrived at 3 o'clock and were seated at the bridge tables which were arranged about the living rooms of Mrs. Connelly's home. Quantities of pink radiance roses and ferns were used in profusion in vases and bowls while the tallies and other bridge accessories which were in pink and green accentuated the color motif.

During the afternoon several progressions of bridge were enjoyed at the conclusion of which scores were added and prizes awarded. High score prize, a novelty handkerchief, went to Miss Naomi Scrogan, while cut prize, a patent leather beach bag, was presented to Mrs. Roland L. Dean. Miss Newman received chiffon hose as a gift from the hostesses. Each girl's name was wrapped in pink and tied with green ribbon.

Control Measure For Clearing House

 All times have the active participation of the various ship-owners through the medium of an operating committee.
 The operating committee, headed by Mr. Lehman, "will be of ten members in size. Each member will be a representative of a clearing agency or shipper, who will be selected into a shipper's committee with the clearing house. The operating committee will be organized by the marketing committee and shippers, but must be approved and appointed by the board of directors of the association, all of whom are growers."
 This operating committee will work very closely with the clearing house manager and give all the benefit of their years of experience with the celery trade.

At the same time that details are being completed for the formation of the clearing house organization, work is under way to prepare the national advertising campaign. A great deal of research work must precede the actual appearance of advertisements, and much of this work is now being attended to, according to word received from the Getchard-Humphrey Advertising Agency. The committee is anxious to complete its report at the earliest possible moment and expect to place the results of its study in the hands of the growers before this week is out.

Give Cranberries Room

WHY crowd all your cranberries into your Christmas and Thanksgiving dinners? They are put up in cans and can be purchased just as easily at any other season of the year. The product is tasty and has sufficient tartness to add a lot of zest to any meal. So make more room for cranberries on your menu. Here is a tempting recipe to help you along:
Cranberry Jelly Salad: Heat the contents of one can of cranberry jelly with one-half cup of orange juice and two tablespoons of lemon juice. Soak four teaspoons of gelatin in two tablespoons cold water, and then dissolve it in the hot, melted cranberry. Strain and cool. Add one-fourth cup of diced celery and one-fourth cup of chopped nuts when beginning to stiffen. Pour into molds wet with cold water, and chill. Turn onto lettuce leaves and serve with celery hearts stuffed with cream cheese. This recipe is sufficient for eight.

Frozen Cranberries Are Fine
 To prepare them, boil one-fourth cup sugar and one-fourth cup water to a syrup, and dissolve in it one-half tablespoon gelatin which has been soaked in two tablespoons of cold water. Add two tablespoons lemon juice, one-half cup orange juice, and the contents of a No. 2 can of cranberry sauce, well mashed or pressed through a sieve. When cool, freeze to a mush, add one well-beaten egg white, and continue freezing. Pack when done for several hours in ice and salt. Serves eight.

RELIEVED CAUSE OF SEVERE HEADACHES

Painful Symptom of Constipation Disappeared After Her Use of Black-Draught.

Baton Rouge, La.—Many a man or woman has found relief from headache, when a condition of constipation was the underlying cause, by taking a simple, powdered preparation of selected medicinal leaves and roots, known far and wide as Theford's Black-Draught.
 Here is an instance of how Theford's Black-Draught proved of benefit to a Louisiana lady:
 "About two years ago, I was suffering from constipation," writes Mrs. F. Gaudry, of 630 North Street, this city.
 "I would have severe headache and would have to stay in bed a day or two at a time. I tried different remedies; did not get relief. I read of Black-Draught, and decided to try it, and have never been sorry I did, for it gave me relief quicker than anything I have ever tried."
 "And now, whenever I feel the least symptom (of constipation) I take Black-Draught, and that keeps off the headaches. I am much better since I began taking it, and I gladly recommend it to my friends." Costs only 1 cent a dose.
