Hearings Should Ease Fears

WASHINGTON (AP)—A key Democratic senator says he hopes Nelson A. Rockefeller's confirmation hearings will ease public fears that "big business, big oil and big banks will benefit" from the elevation of the wealthy New Yorker to the vice presidency. Sen. Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia said in an interview that although such fears may not be totally erased, he thinks the American people should be reassured by "the tremendous experience and knowledge" Rockefeller would bring to the vice presidency.

Cemetery Vases Stolen

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Cemeteries, long the playground of juvenile vandals, have become the latest target for professional thieves. The FBI and cemetery operators say thieves are after the bronze vases which hold flowers over thousands of graves in cemeteries across the nation. The vases, which weigh about three pounds each, are sold to scrap metal dealers for the current going rate for bronze, up to $1 a pound.

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Industry executives have warned that the nation may run short of natural gas this winter.

The warnings came Monday during the first of five days of public hearings on "Project Independence," a program designed to reduce America's dependence on energy imports.

The situation in natural gas is much worse than the public has been led to believe, said Z. D. Bonner, president of Gulf Oil Co. "If we have a cold winter, we're going to have some very bad experiences."

Paul E. Reichardt, chairman of the board and president of the Washington Gas Light Co., said major distributors cannot obtain all the natural gas they need "because discoveries of new gas reserves have not kept pace with the demand for gas."

U.S. May Have To Rethink Aid Rules

India has received more food and economic aid from the United States of America than any other country—$10 billion over the last quarter-century. With recurring famine among its 530 million people, and a birthrate adding 13 million a year to its population, India is also the country that best demonstrates why the philosophy behind our foreign assistance and relief programs needs rethinking.

The Indians should have been listening when Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz told a meeting of food experts recently that the United States cannot go on running an international welfare program indefinitely. Though a major client of that program, India seems to have gone out of its way to treat the patience of the people who pay for it.

Leaving aside the frequent criticism which Indian leaders level against U.S. foreign policy, India is simply not trying hard enough to get itself off welfare. A country that can spare $350 million a year to develop nuclear weapons it doesn't need is asking Americans to feed its hungry babies. When American delegates at the Bucharest population conference urged that poor countries work harder for a lower birthrate, India led a chorus of Third World nations arguing that the real solution to hunger problems would be a redistribution of the world's wealth.

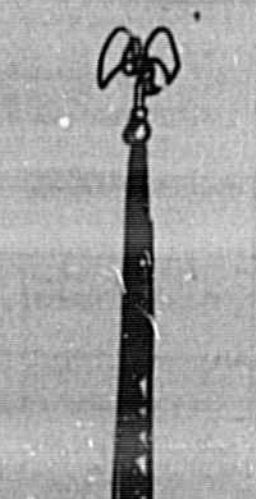

Mr. Butz's warning does not stem only from the pressure which inflation has put on the foreign aid items in our federal budget. There is a limit to the amount of surplus grain that countries like the United States can be expected to produce and send abroad. The Agency for International Development has estimated that world food production will have to double by the end of this century just to maintain levels of nutrition now considered highly inadequate.

The only answer is for poor countries to increase their own food production. As Mr. Butz sees it, they can do this by adopting economic policies that may be politically unpopular with their people but would stimulate farm production. There is also a need for new directions in international aid programs. The Arab states, for instance, are wasting by-products of their rich oil fields that could be used to increase the supply of cheap fertilizer, and the Arabs have the capital to see that this is done.

The United States has always been reluctant to attach conditions to its aid and relief programs. It has made a point of not interfering with the domestic policies of nations that receive its aid. This may be adding to our moral stature, but if it leaves needy nations free to ignore programs that could improve their lot, then it is certainly not a productive policy.

When a nation like India is holding out an empty rice bowl with one hand while testing atomic devices with the other, there is a good case for attaching more strings to our aid programs. The poor nations must somehow be persuaded that they have no national priority greater than protecting their people from hunger on a scale the world so far has never seen.

Seek good, and not evil, that you may live; and so the Lord, the God of hosts, will be with you, as you have said. Hate evil, and love good, and so you will establish justice in the gate; it may be that the Lord, the God of hosts, will be gracious to the remnant of Joseph. — Amos 5:14, 15.

Detroit Mafia Even Into Furniture

WASHINGTON—In an earlier column, we began the confessions of Eugene Ayotte, better known inside the Mafia as "Johnny A.," who has been hiding under a false identity since he defected to the Justice Dept. six years ago.

He has talked to us at length about his life in the Detroit Mafia. We also obtained confidential FBI reports of his interviews with agents. His revelations provide the most dramatic account of Mafia operations since the late Joe Valachi ripped the veil of secrecy from this sinister society in 1963.

Ayotte has described a netherworld of violence, corruption and profit. It is a world ruled by a few overlords who command the unquestioning loyalty of their criminal subjects. The penalty for disobedience is death. It is a strange, mystic world whose roots are sunk deep in Sicily but whose methods are those of modern America.

Johnny A., a swarthy, handsome man with a Runyonesque flair, was a swindler. He specialized in arranging burglaries and burnings for shady businessmen who would collect the insurance and sometimes a share of the fenced goods. He also helped the Mafia take over failing businesses.

He pressed the proprietor of a Detroit lounge to cash his bad checks, for example, until the poor fellow went broke. Then the Mafia stepped in, bailed him out and took over the bar.

In short order, the Mafia managers set up a

Nixon Foes Sought To Hold Circus

The sheer rage and frustration with which Mr. Nixon's foes have greeted his pardon by President Ford is dramatic evidence, if any was needed, of how far they were from with him.

It was quite a scenario they had in mind. First, Special Prosecutor Jaworski would move to indict Mr. Nixon for obstruction of justice, and the Watergate grand jury would be all too happy to comply. Mr. Nixon would then be arraigned and asked how he pled. Judge Sirica would assign the momentous case to some other judge for trial. The trial judge, peering down from the bench at the convicted defendant, would predictably have some pity things to say before passing sentence. Finally, there would be the appeal of the sentence itself—all the way to the Supreme Court. If Mr. Nixon survived this ordeal and was actually facing a prison term, then and only then—on this view—would be the time for President Ford (or his successor) to consider clemency. The whole thing might be over, with luck, in two or three years.

Of all this President Ford has summarily deprived us by his "premature" pardon of Mr. Nixon. It is, as Hugh Johnson used to say, enough to bring tears to the eyes of a brass Buddha. However, although I believe the President's decision was the right one, it does unquestionably have various unsatisfactory side effects. For one thing, it leaves technically open, forever, the issue of Mr. Nixon's personal guilt (which he has never admitted). This matters chiefly to his unrelenting enemies, who can now see themselves linked in endless arguments on the point with his equally passionate defenders. In fact, however, his guilt of the charge of obstructing justice is apparent from the taped transcripts of June 23, 1972.

Second, the pardon of Mr. Nixon leaves in a sort of uneasy moral limbo the prison terms already meted out, and the others yet to be imposed, on various of his former aides. Granted that Mr. Nixon has already paid a fearsome price for his part in the mess, it is bound to seem a little unfair to keep on trying and jailing men who were, after all, basically just his assistants.

Finally, I confess to being a little uneasy about the broad scope of President Ford's pardon proclamation. It is rare that a pardon covers all offenses against the United States.

Britain May Elect New Faces, Keep Old Policies

LONDON (AP) — The prediction making the rounds here is that whoever wins next month's election will fail to solve Britain's problems.

The Liberals and Conservative have tried for a decade without success to arrest Britain's long period of economic decline. Once against the same men are offering much the same policies.

The Liberals and other small parties suggest new ideas, but they come from men with no governing experience.

Various coalition governments remain possible. If, as in February, the British public demonstrates a majority in Parliament to any one party. But peacetime coalition governments in Britain have a poor record.

In short, wherever the British voter turns — to major parties, to minor ones or to coalitions — the prospects appear less than encouraging.

Politicians in all parties agree that in the Oct. 10 election the British democratic system could be on trial.

Part of the problem is beyond Britain. All parties cite Britain's annual inflation rate of 15.9 per cent as the top issue in the campaign.

There would always be 20 or 30 people...taking everything out the doors nightly," alleges a confidential FBI memo based on Ayotte's statements. Some customers paid nothing, others left token payments.

The friendly furnituremen continued their largesse for three months until they almost ran out of furniture. Ayotte recalls that a Michigan prison warden picked out a shortwave radio for himself and a tape recorder as a graduation gift for his daughter. Both items were delivered to him at the prison by Rubino's personal bootlegger.

Ayotte also told the FBI that a police inspector, the late Paul Sheridan, "just about furnished his entire home with goods taken from the Palm."

Some of the biggest bosses in gangdom showed up at the Palm. Furniture deliveries were made to their fashionable Grosse Pointe homes in the dead of night. Others dropped by the store to pick up refrigerators, air conditioners, Italian provincial furniture or whatever struck their fancy. None of them were properly billed.

Johnny A.'s customers read like Who's Who in the Rogues Gallery—Angelo Meli, Joseph "Joe Whip" Triglia, Anthony "Tony Long" Cimino, William "Black Bill" Tocco, John "Papa John" Priozola and even the Don of Dons, Joseph Zerilli.

One gangland intimate, not in on the secret, looked at the disappearing merchandise and commented loudly: "I don't think this store is being run right."

The Justice Dept. thought so, too. Federal prosecutors eventually shut down the Palm and locked up Johnny A.

MAYIA-GO-ROUND: Here are some more of Eugene Ayotte's Mafia stories: Toledo's most notorious Mafia don, Anthony "Whitey" Besse, keeps a "Beautiful shrine of the Virgin Mary with running water and flowers in his backyard." During the Senate crime hearings in 1963, the mob nervously ordered all numbers money taken from. One hood, Dominic "Sparky" Corrado, was $150,000 short. He had to make good by selling his house and mortgaging his brother's home...

The Marlon Brando movie, "The Godfather," accurately portrays the Mafia's close ties with politicians and entertainers, according to Ayotte. A gangland promoter, named Herman "Turk" Prujansky, hobbied with five top singers, several movie stars and a famous New York columnist, said Ayotte.

Lawmen who keep Mafia figures under surveillance are known, in underworld parlance, as "baby sitters." The Mafia goes by many names—Unione Siciliana, the Black Hand, the Syndicate, the Organization. But to many insiders, it is the Cosa Nostra, "our thing." So many Mafia bigwigs wound up with expensive farmland outside Detroit that they jokingly began to call each other "Zeke."

Everybody said it wouldn't last when Jerry and Samantha began their honeymoon. After all, it had been more or less a shotgun wedding and even Jerry had been surprised when Samantha and Dick spill up so fast, since everybody expected them to stay together for at least another couple of years.

But Jerry kept smiling proudly and saying things that sounded good. And Samantha just giggled happily, nodding her head in agreement and telling everyone how wonderful it was that their relationship was so open, while Jerry went into the back room to talk things over with his buddies.

It looked then as if it might be one of those matches that are made in heaven, or at least by a sensible, larger consultant. People began to talk about how Samantha was going to want to stay with Jerry for a long time, maybe even as long as 10 years (which would be about as long as she could take, her constitution being as sensitive as it was).

Even the best man, little old J.F., was bouncing around as happy as could be, talking about what a great honeymoon it was and all. Jerry liked to toast his own muffins, old J.F. kept saying, and could anyone who liked to toast his own muffins be all bad?

That was why it all came as such a shock when Jerry told Samantha she was being too hard on Dick and that as long as he was the new head of the household, he didn't want anybody rocking the boat. So what if Dick had gotten mixed up with the wrong crowd and gotten himself in trouble? Didn't a guy have a right to sow a few wild oats once in a while, even if he did mortgage the house and furniture in the process, Jerry said?

Samantha didn't like this. She began to rant that Jerry was just like all the other men. They only wanted one thing and when they got that, they began to talk about their privileges and all went to their heads. She reminded Jerry how she could have married Nelson or George or Ronnie and how she knew some fellows still who would be only too glad to marry her, like Teddy and Henry and maybe even that dirty old man Hubert.

Jerry said, well, he knew what was best and she shouldn't let it bother her pretty little head. But Samantha wasn't mollified. In fact, she began whacking him with a pool, which prompted Jerry to shout, "Sticks and stones can break my bones but pools really get me where it hurts." But even old J.F. up and left, saying he didn't want anything to do with such goings on.

A great big salute and "congratulations" to managers John Pierce and George Billups of the Mayfair Country Club in Sanford as they prepare to celebrate the Fiftieth Anniversary of the club this Saturday.

Should be a happy crowd—in the hundreds—who have been invited to join the party which includes free golf starting at 11 a.m., swimming and a chicken barbecue for the entire family.

Special guests will be introduced at 7:30 p.m., by Mack Cleveland who will serve as master of ceremonies.

The countywide school advisory committee elected the following officers to rule for the coming school year — Phil Stephens of Longwood, chairman; Bill McLaughlin, Sanford, vice chairman; and Owen Franks, Longwood, secretary.

Humans aren't the only ones having a tough time making ends meet at the dinner table. The folks at the Cincinnati Zoo reported their costs rising approximately $15,000 each year for the last five years and now have reached about $100,000 annually.

"We can hardly get horse meat any more," said zoo director Ed Maruska. "There is too much demand for it on the European market." (Who's buying it... for the animals or human consumption?)

It takes all kinds...two policemen in Jackson, Mich. decided to test their marksmanship by shooting at birds with a pistol and have been charged with reckless firing of a gun.

Oh yes, if all followed their having a few drinks. Three garbagemen who had to dodge flying lead called the police.

After firing 70 shots—at such items as citizen's band radio, lights, doors, etc.—the only thing they hit was a passing Pepsi truck. Fortunately, no one was hurt.

P.S.—They didn't hit any of the files, either. (Let's start a collection for a 25 cent fly-swatter, O.K.?)

No One Said Honeymoon Would Last

Everybody said it wouldn't last when Jerry and Samantha began their honeymoon. After all, it had been more or less a shotgun wedding and even Jerry had been surprised when Samantha and Dick spill up so fast, since everybody expected them to stay together for at least another couple of years.

But Jerry kept smiling proudly and saying things that sounded good. And Samantha just giggled happily, nodding her head in agreement and telling everyone how wonderful it was that their relationship was so open, while Jerry went into the back room to talk things over with his buddies.

It looked then as if it might be one of those matches that are made in heaven, or at least by a sensible, larger consultant. People began to talk about how Samantha was going to want to stay with Jerry for a long time, maybe even as long as 10 years (which would be about as long as she could take, her constitution being as sensitive as it was).

Even the best man, little old J.F., was bouncing around as happy as could be, talking about what a great honeymoon it was and all. Jerry liked to toast his own muffins, old J.F. kept saying, and could anyone who liked to toast his own muffins be all bad?

That was why it all came as such a shock when Jerry told Samantha she was being too hard on Dick and that as long as he was the new head of the household, he didn't want anybody rocking the boat. So what if Dick had gotten mixed up with the wrong crowd and gotten himself in trouble? Didn't a guy have a right to sow a few wild oats once in a while, even if he did mortgage the house and furniture in the process, Jerry said?

Samantha didn't like this. She began to rant that Jerry was just like all the other men. They only wanted one thing and when they got that, they began to talk about their privileges and all went to their heads. She reminded Jerry how she could have married Nelson or George or Ronnie and how she knew some fellows still who would be only too glad to marry her, like Teddy and Henry and maybe even that dirty old man Hubert.

Jerry said, well, he knew what was best and she shouldn't let it bother her pretty little head. But Samantha wasn't mollified. In fact, she began whacking him with a pool, which prompted Jerry to shout, "Sticks and stones can break my bones but pools really get me where it hurts." But even old J.F. up and left, saying he didn't want anything to do with such goings on.

A great big salute and "congratulations" to managers John Pierce and George Billups of the Mayfair Country Club in Sanford as they prepare to celebrate the Fiftieth Anniversary of the club this Saturday.

Should be a happy crowd—in the hundreds—who have been invited to join the party which includes free golf starting at 11 a.m., swimming and a chicken barbecue for the entire family.

Special guests will be introduced at 7:30 p.m., by Mack Cleveland who will serve as master of ceremonies.

The countywide school advisory committee elected the following officers to rule for the coming school year — Phil Stephens of Longwood, chairman; Bill McLaughlin, Sanford, vice chairman; and Owen Franks, Longwood, secretary.

Humans aren't the only ones having a tough time making ends meet at the dinner table. The folks at the Cincinnati Zoo reported their costs rising approximately $15,000 each year for the last five years and now have reached about $100,000 annually.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

FEA Endorses Candidates

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — The Florida Education Association has endorsed Senate candidate Richard Stone, secretary of state candidate Beverly Dozier and comptroller candidate Gerald Lewis.

FEA President Catherine Luth said that, as secretary of state, Stone helped sponsor a right-to-read conference last year and assisted education in other ways.

"Others may promise to back education but Mr. Stone has been a proven leader," Mrs. Luth said. "Mrs. Dozier is a former classroom teacher and is able to speak the teacher's language."

Lewis was endorsed by the FEA in the first primary "and nothing has happened since then to change our opinion."

Eastern Recalls Employees

MIAMI (AP) — Eastern Airlines has recalled 1,350 employees laid off last winter and another 300 will be recalled before winter schedules take effect in December, company spokesmen say.

The airline laid off 4,000 employees, including 17 vice presidents, last year as it recorded a $50 million loss aggravated by the fuel crisis.

Eastern is also hiring and training 145 new flight attendants in addition to 490 being recalled. The returns include 225 pilots.

Board Chairman Floyd D. Hull said Eastern will end the year with about 22,500 employees, the same as it had in 1968. But the airline now is flying 37,000 more miles and handling seven million more passengers than it did then.

O'Malley In Fence Bind

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — A meeting has been arranged to help State Treasurer Thomas O'Malley, victim of hard luck situations lately, out of a peculiar situation over his swimming pool.

A Leon County ordinance requires a fence around pools within 250 feet of another residence. But a deed restriction on O'Malley's home in the plush Killarney Estates forbids fences within 50 feet of the rear of his lot, which adjoins the golf course, Mrs. O'Malley said.

The meeting will attempt to work out a variance for O'Malley because he wants to comply with the county's ordinance, Phil West, county zoning technician, said.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — The State Planning Division has been ordered to "study and develop methods to implement" the Florida Growth Policy enacted by the 1974 Legislature.

Gov. Reubin Askew said in an executive order that all state agencies are to cooperate with the Planning Division in developing plans and recommendations to implement the policy.

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — A federal jury today convicted West Palm Beach attorney Frederick C. Prior on five counts of lying to a grand jury about state Comptroller Fred Dickinson's finances.

The jury returned the verdict at 10:42 a.m. before U.S. District Judge W. Terrell Hodges after deliberating about two hours.

The six-man, six-woman jury had received the case late Monday and deliberated for 85 minutes before adjourning until this morning.

Sentencing was delayed and Prior was allowed to remain free on bond until Oct. 21, the deadline for filing post-trial motions.

Each count carries a maximum sentence of five years and $10,000.

FLORIDA State Scored On 'High Bid' Leases

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Two Florida television stations say the mammoth state Health and Rehabilitative Services Department actually chose the highest bidder in leasing Tallahassee offices from the Winewood Corp.

The bids made by the firm appeared lower than they were because of technicalities in the way they were quoted to the state, stations WJXT in Jacksonville and WFLG in Miami said Monday.

"If HRS had accepted the bid lower offer, the state would have saved an estimated quarter million dollars in the first two years alone, which is the term of the Winewood leases now in effect," the stations' Tallahassee correspondent, George Thurston, said.

Mary Goodman, general services property management chief, was quoted by the stations as saying that acceptance of any of the four bid proposals placed the department "at the mercy" of the company.

Winewood submitted a proposal based on a charge for the gross amount of space in the buildings, while the other firms' bids were based on the net amount of rental space for offices, Thurston said.

Thurston said he calculated the net Winewood lease figure in conjunction with Keith Ferguson in the General Services Department's property management section.

"Jack Kane, department executive director, said at the time the proposals were solicited by HRS 'there were no restrictions whether they were net or gross' bids on leasing."

"The controls we now have were not existent. The Department of General Services only had an approving role with the proposals that were put out," he said.

Kane said the state now re-submitted all proposals be re-submitted in the same form.

Emmett Roberts, former HRS secretary who approved the Winewood leases, told the stations he believed the Winewood rate was the lowest.

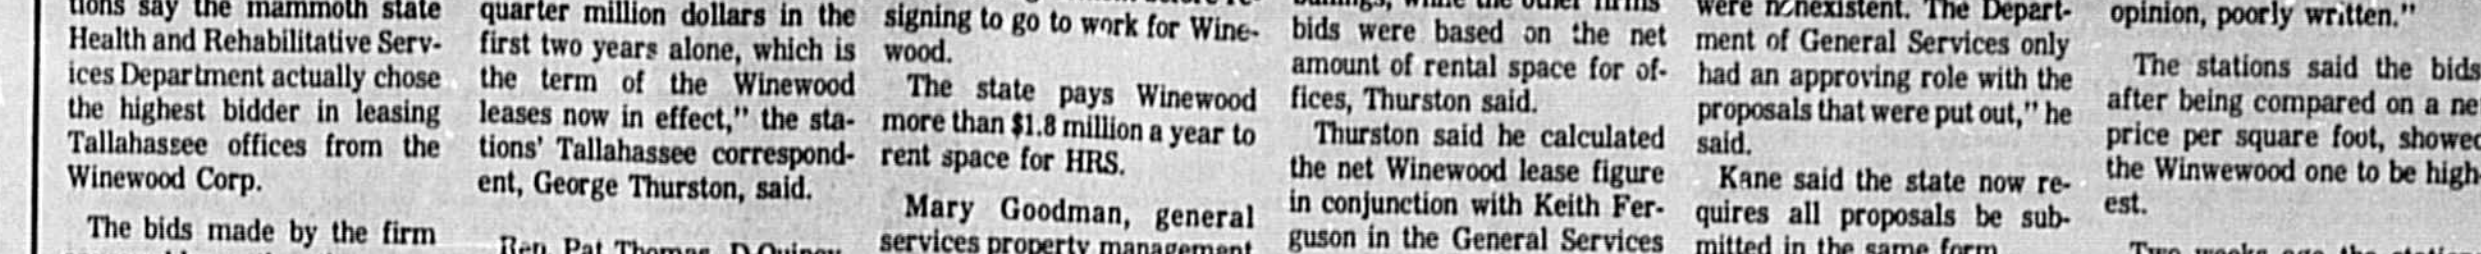

Mrs. Goodman said the price confusion was possible at the time because "specifications prepared by HRS...were, in my opinion, poorly written."

The stations said the bids, after being compared on a net price per square foot, showed the Winewood one to be highest.

Two weeks ago the stations uncovered a report by General Services that actual space in the building was 2,489 square feet short of the 269,077 the state was paying for. The state is paying $10,640 a year for the missing space, the stations reported.

Longwood Dog Track Facing Sewer Crisis

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD—The Sanford Kennel Club (dog track) will probably have no sanitary sewer service available for the scheduled December opening of the greyhound racing season here.

The privately owned sewer package plant in Columbus Harbor, which serves the dog track, will most likely remain out of commission and be subjected to state Department of Pollution Control (DPC) sanctions, acting City Atty. Ned Julian told councilmen Monday night.

New city officials earlier this year found that although the city paid all operating costs for the plant which solely served the kennel club, no fee was charged for the service.

The city still does not have an ordinance permitting fees for sewer service. The city's consulting engineer Bill Palm, after an inspection some weeks ago, listed nearly a dozen violations of DPC standards at the plant.

Julian said he has been unable to notify C.A. Hobbs Co., the subdivision developer and owner of the plant, of the discrepancies. City Supt. Ralph Fisher added that the generator which supplied the plant's power was removed recently after the builder failed to meet rental payments, putting the dog track which requires the city to furnish sewer service.

The annexation was contingent upon sewer service being available, Julian said, and failure on the city's part could lead to court action by the dog track seeking to nullify the annexation.

Julian said, however, there is no record of any "binding, authorized or formal" contract between the city and the dog track which requires the city to furnish sewer service.

Thomas Challenges Askew's Silence

By JERRY THOMAS
Herald Staff Writer

GOP candidate for governor, Jerry Thomas of Jupiter, today called on his democratic opponent, Gov. Hubert Askew to meet him in direct debate over statewide television.

"What's he afraid of," Thomas asked today in an exclusive interview with The Herald during a stopover at Sanford Airport on his way to an Orange County speaking engagement.

Askew's silence, Thomas said, is an indication that he is not prepared to defend his record in office. He said that he would like to see Askew's record on television.

Stone Spending Falling Off; Lewis Refunds Contributions

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Richard Stone, the big spender in the first Democratic primary for the Senate nomination, has fallen behind opponent Bill Gunter in spending and contributions for the runoff.

Former Secretary of State Stone reported to the state Elections Division Monday he spent $23,074 last week, the first full week of the runoff campaign, compared with $45,690 by Rep. Gunter.

Stone was second in the Sept. 14 primary despite spending $383,000 to Gunter's $303,000. He has said his finish has caused fund-raising problems in the runoff.

Contributions last week were $36,088 for Gunter and $29,970 for Stone. Gunter's contributions included $1,000 from David T. Kennedy, former mayor of Miami whose Stone is counting on heavy support.

Stone, who was unhappy with his first-primary TV ads, reported paying $10,220 to two south Florida firms to produce new ones but listed no payments for TV air time.

In preparation for the November election, Gov. Reubin Askew reported his campaign received $30,185 last week for a total of $235,338. He has spent $238,553.

Republican gubernatorial candidate Jerry Thomas reported contributions of $29,715 including $24,000 from a testimonial dinner for a total of $142,183. He has spent $108,588.

Jack Eckerd, GOP Senate nominee, reported his campaign had received $138,190 and spent $131,447.

Beverly Dodier, Smathers' opponent, said she raised $5,726 and spent $1,331 for the week to raise her campaign spending total to $64,886.

In the secretary of state runoff, neither candidate spent much last week. Former state secretary of state William Muntzing reported $8,788 received and $8,678 spent.

Jack Eckerd, GOP Senate nominee, reported his campaign had received $138,190 and spent $131,447.

idea? Are you going to vote for a man who brought an open bedroom policy to the university campuses in this state?" Thomas said.

He accused the incumbent governor for doubling appropriations during his four year term in office, of doing nothing about Florida's ranking among the states of third in violent crimes while it is only ninth in population.

"If the public gets the truth, Jerry Thomas will win," he said.

He insisted the Watergate scandal in Washington will have no effects on his election. "I changed my political party before Watergate," he said, adding Askew has hid "cabinet," referring to one "cabinet" officer and two others, all Democrats, under grand currently jury investigation.

"Reporters should ask the public, 'Are you going to vote for a man that favors forced busing of school children out of their neighborhoods after the people voted 2-1 against this idea?'"

"Some of the major newspapers around the state have built a shield around Askew, and are refusing to demand answers to the questions he should be asked," Thomas said.

Landers said the issues facing the Cabinet would be whether the firm should pay for spoil dredged out of the channel for use by the firm, and whether the firm would have to pay the state for the spoil taken from between the bulkhead line and the channel and placed on another site.

The state has in the past charged $1 per yard for substance taken from sovereign lands, he said. Staten said his firm shouldn't have to pay for spoil that the Corps placed on the island from their deepening projects. The Corps has an easement to place spoil on the 1,600 acre island until September, 1975.

"We allowed it to come on the island as a courtesy to port users. Our position is we don't owe for it," Staten said.

Council instructed Mayor Troy Piland to enter into a contract with the county for road maintenance. The mayor explained the maintenance program will now cost the city $2,400, necessitating amending the budget.

Abrition was arrested March 27, 1974, on charges of carrying a concealed weapon and possession of a controlled substance — charges that were later dismissed in Circuit Court.

Abrition is suing to have his arrest record expunged, compensatory damages of $2,500 and punitive damages in a suit naming the city and Chief of Police John Govevukh and officers Fred Reisel and Robert Hay and Steven Collins as co-defendants.

Council amended a proposed fence ordinance to increase minimum height required for fence enclosing swimming pool from four to six feet. A self-closing gate is also required. Plans showing location of a fence or wall costing in excess of $100 must be submitted to the building inspector and a building permit obtained.

No fence, wall or hedge obstructing the view of motorists will be allowed within 50 feet of the corner of the lot line on a corner lot.

Moore Secure As Successful 007 Agent

By DAN LEWIS
The Herald Staff Writer

LONDON — Roger Moore puffed on a big Cuban cigar, explaining that he no longer smokes cigarettes. And further explaining that there's a difference between swallowing cigar smoke, and inhaling cigarette smoke.

Swallowing, according to the man who has taken the James Bond image on the silver screen, is not nearly as harmful as inhaling. Apparently, the smoke goes down different pipes.

Anyway, he enjoys cigars — Cuban cigars, he emphasized — as much as he enjoys being the new James Bond.

His initial success in replacing Sean Connery as Agent 007 — as created by the late Ian Fleming — was in "Live and Let Die," which grossed somewhere in the neighborhood of $40 million worldwide and, in fact, did better box office in most countries around the world than it did in the United States.

It made money in the states, said producer Cubby Broccoli, but not as much as other Bond pictures. The problem in America? "We had a black villain," Broccoli explained.

"Blacks don't accept black villains on the screen now. They want their blacks to be heroes. So the blacks in America didn't go to the movie. There wasn't any organized boycott of the film, the blacks just didn't show any interest in 'Live and Let Die.'"

DEAR ABBY Boy Friend Balks At Being 'Daddy'

By ABIGAIL VAN BURDEN

DEAR ABBY: I am engaged to marry a man I'll call Bob. I love him very much. I also love my little two-year-old daughter, Diane. Diane adores Bob and calls him "Daddy." That's my problem. Bob gets very upset when Diane calls him Daddy, and has asked her not to call him that.

He's the only Daddy Diane has ever known. Her real Daddy left me when I was four months pregnant.

Abby, Bob can't give me any good reason for not wanting my daughter to call him Daddy. Except for this, he's not meant to be a father to her.

Bob is 24 and I am 17, but don't let my age fool you. I'm one of those kids who grew up with an alcoholic father and no mother, so I grew up fast.

I desperately need the advice my mother can't give me. She died when I was six. Thank you.

DIANE'S MAMA Bob's reluctance to be called "Daddy" could signal his unwillingness to accept Diane as his own. If he does, he'll be cheated and so will you.

DEAR MAMA: Bob's reluctance to be called "Daddy" could signal his unwillingness to accept Diane as his own. If he does, he'll be cheated and so will you.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has just told me that he doesn't want to compete with a blaring TV set. How often I have wished for that. It is invited to a "TV party," fine—that gives him an opportunity to see my sets.

DEAR PAT: Great idea. Next time, try just moving your lips. This might send them to an ear doctor.

DEAR ABBY: Would you please tell me the proper way to congratulate a bride and groom following the wedding? The bride is my granddaughter.

DEAR GRANDMA: Wish the bride much joy and happiness. (Never congratulate a bride. That would be like commending her on having snared a man.)

DEAR ABBY: Congratulate the groom's parents, and express your pleasure in welcoming a new "son" into your family.

CONFIDENTIAL TO RED IN ANGLETON, TEX. Tell her the truth. She'll never believe it.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, Box 4790, A. C. Co. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope. Send $1 to Abigail Van Burden, 122 Lakely Dr., Beverly Hills, Cal. 90212.

Seminole Day Care Needs Your Kids

Today's child care worker is a special person. Spending from six to eight hours a day with children, she plays an important part in moulding their minds and attitudes.

In the effort to provide quality day care, high schools and junior colleges are offering child care guidance programs.

Seminole High School has begun its fifth season in child care services. High school seniors have laboratory experiences which offer opportunities for Seminole County youngsters to participate.

Child care instructor this year is Mrs. Bonnie Platt. "Loving guidance and adequate equipment can open the door for a child to a world where he can unfold and learn to understand himself and those with whom he lives," says Mrs. Platt. "The environment should be for the child; here is a place to play, to enjoy, to discover, to learn."

Mrs. Platt points out, as educators continue more research are discovering the unique importance of preschool education because about the age 4, 50 per cent of the variation in intelligence at age 17 is accounted for, by age 8, 80 per cent is accounted for.

Parents desiring to enroll their four-year-olds, should contact Mrs. Platt at Seminole High School immediately. Classes will begin in mid-October, Mondays through Thursdays from 9 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., observing school holidays. Parents must provide transportation to and from the center.

The child's day will consist of a flexible, well-balanced schedule with opportunities to learn and grow through experiences in creative arts, music, science, drama, indoor and outdoor play. A hot lunch and mid-morning snack will be served, and there is a small weekly fee to cover the cost of meals and supplies.

Ford Auto Heir To Wed Florida Gal

TEQUESTA, Fla. (AP) — A pretty 23-year-old Florida secretary who is marrying into the multimillionaire Ford auto family says she and her fiancé definitely don't belong to the jet set.

Slim, brunette Cynthia Layne Neskow will wed Edeen Bryant Ford II Saturday in this small Palm Beach County community where she grew up.

"We're not the jet-set type," she said. "We enjoy sitting home, watching TV, having people over, cooking in. Occasionally we like a big party but as far as going out — being seen — that's not for us."

Her fiancé, Henry Ford II, is an auto show, "what else?"

She met Ford, then a student at Boston Baptist College, while she was working as a secretary for a Boston advertising firm.

She said she and Ford both have aspirations he will someday head his father's company and she'll be too nice for him. He's a short fuse. He's the most even-tempered person in the world. Very few things get his goat.

Ford, currently a chief product analyst for Ford in Dearborn, Mich., is to move to London in a year for duty with Ford Europe.

The wedding will take place in the small First United Presbyterian Church near the home of Miss Neskow's parents.

LAKE MARY WOMEN HOLD COFFEE

Mrs. Gwene Butler pours coffee for Lake Mary Woman's Club members at a membership coffee in the Lake Mary home of Mrs. Butler recently.

Speaking at a recent meeting of the Junior Woman's Club of Sanford, Mrs. Dunn explained the PACE school is a private, non-profit school which provides a full curriculum for the learning disabled child whose needs are not being met in a traditional school.

Mrs. Dunn has taught in public and private schools for 25 years, including six years as reading specialist in Seminole County public schools.

She told Sanford Juniors the child with learning disabilities is usually of average or above average intelligence. Their verbal output is high, but performance-motor skills are low and the child is often hyperactive.

Altamonte Woman's Club will hold a membership luncheon Oct. 2, at 12 noon in the Altamonte Springs Civic Center on Longwood Avenue.

Guest of honor and speaker will be Mrs. Jack Wills of Orlando, district 7 director. All women interested in community and international affairs are invited to attend. Contact the new club president, Mrs. William St. John of Archibald Avenue for reservations.

POLLY'S POINTERS Wrong Surface Gets Message

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — I was enlarging a pattern with a permanent tipped marker on brown wrapping paper and the marks went through the paper on to my wood-grained laminated plastic table top. How can I safely remove these marks? — LISA.

DEAR POLLY — My Pat Peave is with the shoe manufacturers for walking and work. Some chunky new rubbers are sturdy but do wear poorly enough for wearing in the rain. For the past 10 years I have found that many shoes being made cannot be worn with rubbers and at these times when rubbers cannot be procured to fit we must walk through wet grass or winter's slush and ruin our shoes. — GLADYS.

DEAR POLLY — I am replying to Helen who wants to know how to make a mitt from washcloths to hold leftover bits of soap that does not want to waste. Place a hand, with fingers together, on a piece of cardboard and draw an outline of one washcloth in half and lay, serge to serge, on a second cloth. Cut out three sections (hands) at one time. Stitch all together except at the short end. Turn to the right side. One inch from the serge, on two layers, sew snap fasteners 1 inch apart at the wrist use elastic thread if desired. Sew tape loop at end. Fill pocket with soap scraps. — LOUISE.

DEAR POLLY — Do tell Helen that the way I use my scraps of toilet soap is to cut a piece of nylon out of an old stocking, tie a knot at one end, fill with soap scraps and tie the other end. Throw like a bar of soap. By the way, I never use the toe end of the stocking. I cut old nylon or party hose off at about mid-calf and wear them as ankle socks under slacks. — JO ANN.

PETE ROGERS Yes, Blazer Tickets Unavailable In County

I don't believe it, but it's true. I find it hard to comprehend that the NFL Blazers, a club fighting for its very existence, not only doesn't have a ticket outlet in Sanford, but yet you guessed it, the entire county is without such a convenience.

And how did I come across such astonishing news and is it true? A visit to the local "clip joint," barber shop, Saturday gave me the information as the man with the make you look good equipment was complaining about its inconvenience to get an advance Blazer ticket.

The man, who revealed that several of his customers had similar feelings, merely wanted the convenience of going to a game without waiting in line to purchase a ticket.

I can definitely sympathize with their feelings. Who wants to leave two hours ahead of time just to stand in line, and possibly not even get the tickets you desire.

Granted with an average of only 10,000 paying customers per game, the possibility of getting the ticket section you desire is very good indeed. But there are fans, including myself, before I got into this business, who arrive 10 to 15 minutes before game time and are quickly ushered to the proper seat.

Without an advance reserve ticket, the routine of this type fan is broken and most of all his enthusiasm to come out is broken.

A quick phone call to the Blazer office revealed the situation is true, or as the girl on the other end said, "there is no ticket outlet in Seminole County."

But she did offer the locations of ticket outlets in such places as Titusville and Melbourne.

Informing her I was from Seminole County, she promptly said, "oh you can purchase your advance ticket at the San Juan Hotel in Orlando."

I hate to draw a parallel between the Blazers and the Miami Dolphins, due to the wide gap in caliber of play, but ticket promotions problems are similar.

The Dolphins, in their early days were having difficulty drawing fans, to the spacious Orange Bowl. I recall once in 1969 I purchased a 40 yard line ticket exactly one-half hour before the game.

Also realize attendance picked up when Don Shula brought the area a winner, but at the same time the area was flooded with ticket outlets especially in neighboring Broward County.

I believe that half of the season ticket holders to the Dolphins home games come in from the north, namely Broward County.

Since Seminole County is also north of Orange County, where the T Bowl is located, why don't the Blazers give the folks up here a chance to prove their interest, and just maybe a few more cars will be travelling south.

DEMPSEY'S FOOT LIFTS Eagles Over Cowboys

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Tom Dempsey kicked his way back into the good graces of Philadelphia Eagles' management.

The 37-year-old Dempsey booted two pressure-packed field goals in Monday night's nationally televised game to give the Eagles a 10-0 victory over the Dallas Cowboys.

The Eagles have never said so officially, but there have been strong rumors that the National Football League club wanted to unload the kicker.

Dempsey, as player representative, led the Eagles in the strike against the NFL.

But all the bitterness was lost in the glow of Dempsey's 33-yard field goal early in the first period that sent the Eagles ahead 10-7. And after Dallas tied it, the gutsy kicker with the club bootied one 45 yards with 25 seconds left to win the game.

Tose rushed up to a bunch of newsmen in the Eagles' dressing room after the comeback triumph, and shouted for all to hear, "Dempsey will sign a contract this week."

The 25-pound Dempsey, from Fallston, Md., has been a football hero. He holds the NFL record for longest field goal — a 63-yarder in the final seconds of a 1970 game that gave New Orleans a last-second victory over Detroit.

Dempsey parted company with the Saints prior to the 1971 season, victim of a bulging waist line and a feud with his head coach. He sat at home waiting for somebody to call. The Eagles signed him as a free agent but didn't activate him until the eighth game of the season.

Since then, the 6-foot-1 footer has led the team in scoring, amassing 106 points last season in 34 conversions and 24 field goals. His physical handicap, the club foot and half a right arm — birth defects — never stood in his way as a football player. In 1971, he was honored by the Philadelphia Sports Writers as the Most Courageous Athlete of the Year.

The Cowboys did everything but win the game. Led by quarterback Roger Staubach and running backs Billy Newhouse and Walt Garrison, they amassed 355 yards, rolled up 20 first downs. The Eagles offensively gained 165 yards with five first downs.

Dempsey's Coach Mike McCormack summed it nicely when he said "the defense and Tom Dempsey won the game."

The coach gave each member of the defense and Dempsey a game ball.

The Eagles' defense gave up yardage everywhere except where it counted most — close to the end zone. And it was the defense that scored the Eagles' only touchdown. It came with 2:16 gone in the fourth quarter. Middle linebacker Bill Bergey slammed into Dallas rookie Doug Dennison, who was trying to score from the Eagles' three. The sail burst loose.

Cards Go Down Together

By KEN RAPP, PORT AP Sports Writer

It was, as Pittsburgh Manager Danny Murtagh put it, "a bang-bang play." And it shot him 115th base of the year, was on second in the eighth inning. Then he tried for No. 116.

In the less-heated West Division, the Los Angeles Dodgers reduced their flag-clinching "magic number" to four by beating the Atlanta Braves 4-3 and widening their margin over fading Cincinnati to five games.

In the only American League action — not involving pennant contenders — the Milwaukee Brewers beat Cleveland 6-2 in the first game of a twilight doubleheader before the Indians bounced back with a split with a 7-4 triumph.

Jim Roker, 34-11, pitched nine innings of shutout ball for the Pirates and got the victory when Dave Giusti chalked up his 12th save of the year. Pinch-hitter Paul Popovich batted for Roker and singled to home away from Ducky Baker in the fourth inning when he leaped high to spear the drive, his glove clearly over the top of the left field wall.

Area youngsters have less than two weeks to register for the 14th annual Punt, Pass and Kick program co-sponsored nationally by the National Football League and the Ford Dealers of America.

Participants compete only against other youngsters in their own age group. There is no parent contact and no special equipment is required. Also, participation does not impair a youth's amateur standing.

Rubin 'The Greatest'

ATLANTA (AP) — Coach Pete Elliott of Miami called Middle guard Rubin Carter "one of the greatest athletes that ever played under me."

For his performance, Carter was named Today The Associated Press Southeastern Line-man of the Week.

Carter made 12 unassisted tackles and helped on four others, despite being triple-teamed by two guards and a center during much of the game.

Foley, Kuechenberg Sign WFL Contracts

MIAMI (AP) — If Coach Don Shula has any consolation in the signings of two more of his Miami Dolphins by the World Football League, it is that the worst is over.

The Birmingham Americans announced Monday that offensive lineman Bob Kuechenberg, a starter for the Dolphins since 1970, and cornerback Tim Foley will both play for the WFL.

Gators New Find, SEC Back Of Week

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — "I'm not ready to be called the next Nat Moore," insists University of Florida running back Tony Green.

At Tampa Stadium that he couldn't find an ice bag for his knee and a teammate yelled, "Listen, the next Nat Moore wants some ice. Will somebody get moving?"

Green, a 178 pound, smiled and called the comparison "a great thrill — Nat is a great running back."

Beauty Barn Beauty Salon Is Bullish On Beauty

Beauty Barn brings out the real beauty in you. (l to r) Roy McClain, owner; Martha Coventry, Johanna Marble, Elaine Marshall. Shiting—Eloise Beem.

Every Wednesday is Beauty Round-Up time at the Beauty Barn. As a special feature, ladies will have the opportunity to check out all of their personal beauty routines, their beauty potential, and learn new techniques. On hand for the Wednesday workshops is consultant Johanna Marble. "Every one is attractive when they know how to be. The most important thing for a woman is to be in control of her appearance and personal projection. With the use of video-tape recorder and instant replay on the TV screen a person can see herself more objectively and constructively. They can understand the changes that are made and it is an immediate experience in self-awareness and self-acceptance. What is natural is attractive, what is unnatural is unattractive," advises Mrs. Marble.

In the morning workshops from 9:30 to 11:30, women can learn facial exercises, animation and expression. "An alive and animated face is an ageless face," says Johanna. And she adds, "I believe that expression is even more important than makeup."

The workshops in the afternoon are from 12:30 to 5:00 p.m., and evening sessions 5:30 to 10:00 p.m., are devoted to individual analysis of skin type, color, features, bone structure, contouring, makeup skills and how to select beauty products. "Beauty is the harmony of proportion in line, design and color," Johanna comments. She says "each person needs special attention, guidance and servicing of motor homes, travel trailers and accessories. They have worked together in the motor home business three years, having run a sales and service operation in Orlando prior to opening their first firm in Sanford. The Browns can advise you from first-hand knowledge, as they have lived in motor homes for many years, and are presently living in one in 12 Oaks Campgrounds.

Motor home living is home wherever you go. These units are completely self-contained; contained and ready for you to pull away behind your own car. If you need a trailer hitch for your car, Sanford Rec Vee will install it. They specialize in hitches, and recommend the bolt-on type. Don't weld on a hitch to a '73 or '74 model car because it voids your frame warranty, Woody warns.

Woody is now introducing the Park models of motor homes, built by Lazy Daze. These are called miniature mobile homes and like all the motor homes sold by Sanford Rec Vee are big enough for permanent homes.

Personalized service is the keynote at Sanford Rec Vee. Woody Brown's credo is "we sell them, we service them." His slogan is "we strive to please our customers." Files of reference books are on hand for ordering parts for different

Sanford Rec Vee For "Wheel" Estate Needs

The friendly staff at Sanford Rec Vee.

You need no car to low them. Most of the better motor homes are warranted for life of the coach on workmanship, with a 5-year guarantee on all important parts and one year on labor. Woody Brown of Sanford Rec Vee sells all brands and invites you to inspect them and make your choice based on your needs and desires.

Sanford Rec Vee also rents motor homes, and Woody advises prospective buyers to rent one first, and try it for a while prior to opening their first firm in Sanford. ## Leadership Amid Tumult Answer To Money Woes

JOHN SCHLENK

NEW YORK (AP) — Now that hundreds of the nation's allegedly most competent theorists and practitioners have hacked their way through the economic foothills in eight pre-summit inflation conferences, the summit is in sight.

On September 27 and 28, President Ford and his staff will try to bring some focus to the scores of messages that have come forth from economists, labor leaders, government officials, bankers and others.

But the summit meeting will by no means be the culmination of the anti-inflation effort.

More, instead, like the beginning. Opinion and fact has poured down in a torrent in the past three weeks and now it must be distilled.

That job falls to Paul W. McCracken, chief economic adviser under former President Richard M. Nixon. McCracken was assigned the temporary job of formulating an economic program.

While L. William Seidman, the summit's executive director, maintained earlier this month that the effort wasn't "designed to be a decision-making apparatus," it cannot be anything but that, for

At the same time, an area of bright sky has appeared as the summit comes into view. The sun hasn't burst through by any means, but short-term interest rates seem ready to fall. ADV.

At Maryland Fried Chicken 'Pleasing You Is No. One

Fast courteous service with a smile every time. New manager Ronnie Williams assists Rowena Rumble with her selection.

"Giving customers pleasing fast service, good food at reasonable prices, and keeping clean facilities are the ingredients that go into the making of a successful business," says Ronnie Williams, new manager of Sanford's Maryland Fried Chicken, 100 S. French Ave., Sanford.

Ron may be new to the Sanford area, but is certainly not new to the Maryland Fried Chicken food chain. Starting with them four years ago, he transferred to Sanford, Ron managed the Apopka branch.

Ron brings to the local Maryland Fried Chicken many good ideas. One of these is for people who love to spend the day at the beach. Place your order for your beach lunch the day before and it will be ready when you want it.

Maryland Fried Chicken is especially good. To start with, only the freshest, plumpest chicken is used. It is cooked in pure poly-unsaturated peanut oil which means it is low in cholesterol and ideal for weight watchers. Maryland's famous secret recipe gives you portion after portion of ultra-crisp, extra-delicious chicken.

All food is prepared with the purest ingredients under the most modern equipment under hygienic conditions. To top it off, the service at Maryland is cheerful and efficient. Whether you plan to eat in or take your chicken out with you, you will find the fast, courteous service makes a Maryland meal particularly enjoyable. Call your order in ahead of time and you will find it waiting piping hot when you stop by to collect it.

If from time to time you feel like a change from chicken, sample Maryland's other culinary delights. Try their golden fried fish, oysters or jumbo shrimp. Maryland's sandwich line is also tempting. Choose from beefburgers, cheeseburgers, torpedoes or chuck wagon sandwiches. The kids really go for these, especially when accompanied by Maryland macaroni salad.

Ron and his competent staff make stopping at Maryland Fried Chicken a delicious treat. Stop and meet Ron today, and enjoy the tasty chicken and other fine food at money-saving prices. ADV.

The old adage, "There are none so blind as they who will not see" certainly applies in bridge.

East came to us with a long story about how his partner let South make an overtrick at three notrump. He described his partner's crime as follows: "South won the spade lead in his hand and led a heart to dummy's queen. Then he proceeded to rattle off five club tricks while my partner was obliging enough to chuck three diamonds."
"Next South cashed the high spades, threw my partner in Tentative approval of a 20-acre proposed industrial park was granted by the Lake Mary City Council Tuesday evening, in spite of prolonged protest by residents.

The 2-1 vote, with Councilman Lou Blankenship opposed, was recorded after more than an hour of dissent by the majority of the more than 30 people in attendance. Only three people spoke in favor of the project.

It was the probability of increased traffic on Lake Mary Boulevard and SR 46A which irritated most of the speakers. City Building and Zoning Administrator Francis Jenior represented as many as 8,000 to 9,000 additional automobiles could travel the roads servicing the industrial park.

Federal Judge Orders Army To Free Calley

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP)—A federal judge today overturned the court-martial conviction of former Army Lt. William L. Calley Jr. for My Lai murders and ordered him released immediately from military prison.

U.S. District Court Judge J. Robert Elliott said in his lengthy ruling that Calley's conviction "is constitutionally invalid and that he is, therefore, entitled to the release sought in his habeas corpus petition."
