

Four New Civilian Jobs Listed By Civil Service

Four new civilian war service jobs were announced today by the United States Civil Service Commission, L. V. McLaulin, local secretary reported. All contribute directly or indirectly to the war effort.

Applications are sought as (1) Corp Production Specialists, (2) Junior Soil Conservationists, (3) Historical Specialists, (4) Printer's Assistants (women).

Crop Production Specialists. To increase the nation's supply of natural products, vegetable oil analysts in temple plants are sought for service principally in Central and South America where they will administer research stations and plantations in remote and primitive areas. Salaries are from $2,600 to $8,000 plus additional compensation for overtime and for foreign service.

Junior Soil Conservationists. For protection of plant and soil resources in the United States, applicants with appropriate college training are sought to do work in forestry, range and soil conservation, and soil surveying. Salaries are $2,000 a year (plus additional compensation for overtime).

Historical Specialists. To select and preserve records significant not merely for future reference but also for the immediate conduct of the war, specialists are sought who have had suitable college training and have done appropriate work in history or in one or more of the social sciences. Salaries are from $2,600 to $6,500 a year (plus additional compensation for overtime).

Printer's Assistants (women). Applications are sought as (1) Corp Production Specialists, (2) Junior Soil Conservationists, (3) Historical Specialists, (4) Printer's Assistants (women).

Applicants for the foregoing positions will be selected on the basis of previous training and experience, Mr. McLaulin emphasized. No written tests are required and no maximum age limit is specified. Applications will be accepted in the Commission's Washington office until further notice.

Printer's Assistants (women). A written test will be given at Orlando, Mr. McLaulin announced, to fill positions in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing of the War Manpower Commission, Washington, D. C. No previous experience is required for jobs that pay on an average $1,700 a year and offer opportunities for advancement. Women in sound physical health are sought. Applications must be filed with the Commission's Washington office by March 23, 1943.

Complete information about these positions may be obtained from Mr. McLaulin at Post Office.

Applications are not desired from war workers unless they have higher skills in these positions. For War Manpower Commission restrictions on Federal appointments, see Form 3900 in first or second-class post offices.

HOLLYWOOD

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 12, (WW)—They tell about the "B" producer who picked up his newspaper and fainting. The headlines said: "Korda's 'Tribute' and His Son Alexander Korda's yarn, a tall tale." Alexander Korda's yarn, I believe about the farmer the doctor, and the politician who were arguing as to whose profession was oldest. The doctor said, "Eve was formed from a rib taken from Adam's side, wasn't she?" The farmer said, "Yes, who made the Garden of Eden when there was only chaos before?" The politician said, "Ah, my friends, but who created the chaos?"

Bette Davis and Ida Lupino will team in "The Corn Is Green," and George Raft once played a bit in "Tom, Dick and Harry" with Olinger Rogers, and has worked at RKO on stages adjoining hers but didn't really meet her until almost their wedding day. That's not unusual in Hollywood.

A tall tale, I believe, comes from a few turns in eastern stock, is co-starring with Simone Simon in "Tahiti Honey." They once worked for three years on the same lot, 20th Century-Fox, and they met for the first time when Mike Romanoff, on stage director, showed up in her in his arms and started stepping-on the set of "Tahiti Honey" across the village at Republic. . . . Incidental note for the sweethearts-and-light department: Simone is a reformed character-mas, given up tan-line sulking, and pouting and acting like an adult.

Jane Wyatt, who has yearned for a family goat ever since she had one of the extra richness in her milk, has promoted one via Tom Sawyer, fencing the enclosure, and getting the goat's milk so convincing that her next-door neighbor backed the project and agreed to raise a community goat. Jane should have one of her own now. She should be sure of enough money to give it proper care.

Lincoln's Death Is Surrounded By Numerous Myths

AP Features

This only deepens the belief Abraham Lincoln is not in his Springfield tomb—or that he is not dead at all.

Thousands, travelling to see his famous shrine, still ask if the body really is there or if it's the remains have turned to stone.

This is the astonishing story Lloyd Lewis tells in his recently revised book, "Myths After Lincoln," first published by Harcourt, Brace and Co., and now by the Readers Club. Lewis is a Chicago newspaperman and, like Carl Sandburg, a close student of Lincoln.

His book uncovers a marvel of mysteries: the story of the Illinois brown thrush that did not sing for a year after Lincoln's death, the phantom funeral train that is supposed to whisk through the prairie moonlight on the fourth night each April, oddities stopping, everybody's clocks and watches, and many more. But the principal myth is that Lincoln's tomb is empty and it bobs up throughout the year to bedevil

Herbert Wells Pay, the custodian of Springfield's Lincoln Tomb.

"There never a day goes by," says Pay, "without some one—and most days, a lot of people—asking if it isn't true that Mr. Lincoln's body is buried in the tomb."

The truth is that Mr. Lincoln's body is in the tomb in solid, buried form. But why not believe it? It is true that Mr. Lincoln's body was moved to another tomb once.

Nearly everybody says

he is buried.

"They're all curious about that:

there've been so many stories.

But the queer thing is that there are thousands who don't believe him—he's all alone, I mean."

Asking isn't it true that Mr. Lincoln's body is buried in the tomb?

We heard that it had been turned to stone."

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

MY FATHER'S WORLD
In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth and God saw everything that He had made and it was very good.—Genesis 1:1-31.

Ode To A Nag
O horse, you are a wondrous thing,
No horns to honk, no bells to ring,
No license buying every year,
With plates to stick on front and back,
No tricks to miss, no gears to skip,
You start yourself; no clutch to slip,
No gas bills mounting every day
To steal the joy of life away,
Your tires tubes' are all O.K.
And pray the Lord they stay that way.

Your spark plugs never muss or piss,

Your motor never makes a hiss.

Your frame is good for many a

Your body never changes style.

Your wants are few, and easy met,

You're something on the auto
yet.

Inflation is like the weather that Mark Twain wrote about.
Everybody talks about it but nobody does anything about it.

Mahatma Gandhi has begun an order of his famous fast, but we doubt if that will materially improve the rationing problem.

The trouble with this country is that everybody thinks everyone else ought to be controlled and regulated by the government except himself.

General Eisenhower is now a four-star general and in command of American forces in North Africa.
But he can never run for President. His name is against him.

Some of our farmers are wondering if they should cut down to 48 hours a week now that the work week in war industries has been increased to 48 hours a week.

The citrus industry is going to and perhaps the celery industry will lose its "celery" bomber. Ev-

Your Carrier Boy

We hope you read that article in Friday's Times-Union about your carrier boy. It's hard to get good carrier boys these days and if you have a good carrier boy he deserves all the more credit because so many of his friends are wasting their time and making fun of him for working.
If you have a good carrier boy, give him all the encouragement you can, tell him he is a good carrier boy and let him know that you appreciate his good work.

"I'd call these fellow soldiers in the general fight", writes Bill Cunningham. "I'd call them war workers too. The public would be in a bad way without them, and the war has increased their problems in ways the public ought to know about before it's too late. News, full and factual information, is definitely a part of the war effort. But there's got to be a contact man, possibly a carrier, a delivery agent, to provide a free and informed public with these daily vitamins of victory."

Speaking of the manpower shortage, Cunningham goes on to say that the older and huskier kids are more in demand than ever before for after-school and weekend jobs and this automatically forces the age limit of the newsboys downward. Boys are also in more demand around the home and on the farm and hence harder to find for newspaper routes. Then too, it seems to us, that there are a lot more boys these days who prefer to loaf than to go to work.

But these carrier boys are doing their bit and they have a tough job. "I never realized before that there was anything more to delivering a paper than just walking up close and tossing it in. Visualize the houses in your neighborhood, high terraces, verandas, gates, ... husky dogs that might not understand. A lot of customers want their papers delivered in a certain way, or deposited in a certain place. He's prepared to fight the weather, like the other types of "men who come around", but don't forget that the milkman, the mailman and the others are men".

"Your greatest contribution, however, can be made in the department of seeing that he gets his money the first time he calls. He's the collecting agent for the company and he can't settle up his accounts until all his customers are duly accounted for. If he has to keep coming back because you haven't paid, aren't home, or for whatever reason, you're tying him up and only making his job harder.

"Keep the change in a pot for him. Tell him where he can find it, under the mat, or somewhere, if you're not going to be home on his collection day. Don't make him make extra trips. Bicycle tires aren't as easy to get as they once were, and shoe-leather worn out in these times unnecessarily is war effort waste. And that's not to mention the wear and tear on the kid."

"This is a job that requires some real manhood. It takes a good man to do it, and to do it punctually every day in the year. It takes moral courage to stick to the job, regardless of weather, but that's the stuff of which worthwhile manhood is made. But moral courage, and a certain amount of physical stamina aren't, by any means, the whole of it. There's first-class business training involved. The young man is really a merchandiser. He's selling a product and keeping accounts on it."

"An soliciting and collecting little merchant, he's learning to interview people, to answer their questions, to develop his powers of persuasion. Out of all this, of course, he makes his week's pay. Thus he's learning about money, that priceless feeling of making your own and of being respected for it."

"This is citizenship at the source. This is building for tomorrow. The whole makes for character. It makes for America. It's fine work for any boy, and more of them are needed in it, here and all over the Nation."

Boys At War

What stories those fighting boys have, as they filter back home on leave after a few months at the front! It isn't all blood and dirt and death by any means, although there is plenty of that sort of thing.

A lad from Ohio named Philip Badalamenti, on furlough from the Guadalcanal front, tells this yarn among many. He and seven other young marines found a three-inch Japanese naval gun on the beach. The sights were gone and it had been badly smashed up, but after a few hours' work they got it into commission. The captain found some ammunition and they were ready for action.

A submarine appeared in the offing and began shelling them. The lieutenant estimated the range with his binoculars and they fired back with their old cannon. After a couple of rounds there were signs of excitement on the sub, with deck hands running about wildly. Then it sank, spilling some of the men into the water, and was found later beached on a neighboring island.

In such a life the men seem to acquire a delicate taste in ammunition. This lad prefers bombing to shelling, because it doesn't last so long. His baseball experience gave him an advantage when the Japs started throwing hand grenades. He and his pals fired them right back. He says the Japs fight so fanatically because they're doped with opium. His outfit found it on their bodies and in captured supplies.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15. (W)—So far, all the gray hairs have sprouted in the 74th Congress have surrounded on Democratic heads in House and Senate.

Whether you belong to either party, you'd better be with the Democrats. They are having the toughest kind of bleeding. The Republicans, for the most part, have nothing to do but hold their sides in silent laughter and cackle a few of their more venomous critics down and have a few outstanding examples:

(1) Nobody had to wait for the rest on Ed Flynn as his attorney in Australia to realize the president of the Democratic Conference, that seems to have the Democratic split until voting time came to heat the war to the bone, but never set up on any definite platform.

The Republican political strategists seem to have given the rest on Ed Flynn as his attorney in Australia to realize the president of the Democratic Conference, that seems to have the Democratic split until voting time came to heat the war to the bone, but never set up on any definite platform.

The Democratic main of this is that the president of the Democratic Conference, that seems to have the Democratic split until voting time came to heat the war to the bone, but never set up on any definite platform.

"GIDDYAP, NAPOLEON!"TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

By RUSSELL KAY

Maybe it is a little late to be talking about Christmas greetings and New Year's messages, but I received the following from E.W. Lins, division manager of the American Fruit Growers at Kendall, Florida, which I feel deserves passing on. He writes:

"I sent you Christmas greetings this year. I tried but I couldn't find Christmas in my heart. Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men, etc., are far away as my mother's voice when I sang 'Silent Night' many Christmases ago. I'd make a miserable soldier, I fear. Perhaps I'm too old to develop that 'killer' instinct. Perhaps there are a few more jobs I'd like to do before I die myself or perhaps it's that sisay streak that prevents me from shooting a deer.

"I hate Hitler, Mussolini and their ilk. I hate one as much as I can hate anybody because I'm selfish, probably. They have caused me to be taken along. They have taken the blood of my friends and my friends' friends. Indirectly they have taken from me the material things that I enjoy—the things that have perhaps made me soft, such as enough gasoline to visit folks like that, little extra bedside radio, that additional spoonful of sugar, the extra thick slice of bread when I was in the nation, or that trip to my shack in Maine. How I enjoyed being soft like that! It was so much fun to know that when you worked like hell and earned a few dollars, you could spend it as you wished in being just as soft as you desired."

"I guess I was an isolationist. I didn't want us in this war. Maybe I just didn't understand that it had to be. So what do they? Here we are in it up to our necks, so let's do all we can to win it—win it in such a way that we, the people of the United States of America, can head up the peace table and justly dictate the terms. Let's dictate them in such a way that all the world can also be just a little soft and enjoy the things that you and I have enjoyed. They can't have them right away, of course, for first we have a world to feed and rebuild—but nothing is too difficult for people who have a constructive goal and don't have to worry about the fellow next door knocking a chip off their collective shoulders.

"Inf. too fat." This rubber and sugar and sirloin steak shortage will do that to us. I'll grin at doing without lots more and enjoy in order to help end this holocaust. I hope that Little George in Greece can get the extra postage to butter my wife and children's hair last week, however, the chocolate in the Hershey bar I didn't have yesterday finds its way to young Hans in Holland, and that Madelon in Marcelline can have a "mug" of Java in place of the second cup I didn't have this morning.

"I love America. I like to see pussy-willows and white fields of cotton. I like the hoot of the screech owl and the toot of the morning freight. I like the leap of the tarpon, the sagebrush of the desert, the peaks of the Rockies and the yellow of the wheat fields. I like the sanctity of my church and the good fellowship of my favorite tavern. I like corn on the cob and the World Series. I like the quiet of the pine woods and the beauty of Broadway. Your daddy and mine helped make these things mean what they do. So did you and what? Mechanics

Well one semester is gone and mechanics is still as popular as it was when it began at the first of the year.

The autos, which were contributed to us to be torn down and all the parts cleaned, are just about completely demolished.

Ernest Brotherton and Adrian Stacy are the ones to whom the credit should be given for the tearing the Ford V-8 apart.

The frame of the car was finished Feb. 10 with the help of Rabbit Daniels, Sam Thurmond and Jimmie Ridge.

Billy Southwards new convertible coupe has received most of his attention this week. It has been painted and is to be turned over to him.

Sam Thurmond, Rabbit Daniels, Jimmy Ridge have been working on the Packard motor. They put the transmission back in only to find that it had to be taken out because some studs had been left out and they had to be put in before the engine could be placed on the chassis.

"Cracker" Donaldson is leaving school to attend defense school Monday. We will all miss his clowning and remarks. Best of Luck "Cracker".

"Mickey" Altman and I have been cleaning the plates to go back over the valves. We have been buffing the sides of them. It is very interesting to work the buffing machine.

W. L. Hines had been in charge of the tools. He is the official keeper of the tools for a week now. The tool keepers are headed by Mr. Hoffman each Monday and keeping the tools in their only duty for that week. It isn't as easy as it sounds.

Many of us who are taking this course hope some day to work in an airplane factory as a machinist.

Allies Take Back Few Lost Positions On Tunisian Front

Forces Meet Rommel's Challenge And Hit Hard Under Fighter Plane Protection

(By Associated Press)
Nazi forces moved into Gafsa at the southern flank of the Allied central Tunisian battle line today forcing American forces to abandon their position there.

Allied forces met the Rommel challenge for a major battle, striking hard under an umbrella of fighter plane protection, with the veteran British Eighth Army striking north of Gafsa and threatening to put out the German forces occupying that position.

Rommel, cornered, struck back hard at the pursuing Allied forces, but part of yesterday's advances were reported taken.

Flying fortresses battered Palermo in Sicily, and Naples was subjected to a daylight raid. The Italian radio admitted heavy casualties and damage.

American and German forces, identified as part of Marshal Rommel's Africa Corps were locked in violent fighting Monday along the southern and north of the Axis corridor in Tunisia, where the powerful initial Nazi drive had broken through for more than 20 miles and impeded the American anchor position at Gafsa to the south.

Noland Norgard, Associated Press correspondent with American forces in northern Tunisia, said that the Germans had cut the Gafsa-Sidi Bouzid Road in a dozen places in the Maknassy area, which gave a total of nine miles of road blocked by British in the last 24 hours.

He said an elite Panzer division of veterans of Rommel's Africa Corps, refitted with the newest German tanks in Tunisia, was being hurled against American tank units, many of which were in battle action for the first time.

The Germans attacked west of Field Panzer in central Tunisia with tanks, infantry, and dive bombers in such force as to indicate to officers here that armored forces from Rommel's army were in the action, and thus that an effective junction had been made with the Axis Tunisian army of Col. Gen. Jürgen von Arnim.

Elks Celebrate 75th Anniversary Of Organization

1,400 Lodges Observe Founding Of Club At Special Meets

(By Associated Press)
Sanford Elks this week join their half-million fellow members of the 1,400 lodges throughout the United States, Alaska, the Canal Zone, Puerto Rico and Hawaii in celebration of the 75th Anniversary of the founding of the Order on Feb. 16, 1918, IKA.

Keyed to the spirit of the times observance of the Diamond Jubilee will be marked here and throughout Elkdom by intensification of the myriad roles the order is playing in winning the war, and by special meetings in every lodge to pay tribute to the founders of the order.

One of the highlights on Tuesday will be a 15 minute address by the Grand Exalted Ruler, E. Mark Sullivan of Boston, Mass., over the nation-wide network of the Columbia Broadcasting System. He will speak locally from WDBB at 6:30 P.

In connection with the observance of the Diamond Jubilee Anniversary, Dr. L. T. Daws, Exalted Ruler of the Sanford Lodge, issued the following statement to the Herald:

"The Order of Elks was kind Providence's gift to the American people following the Civil War. It was a God-sent organization which needed a conciliator and clashing immigrant groups seeking here a haven needed a harmonizer. From these discordant elements was distilled the spirit of American Democracy, a spirit of democracy for very integration. Our Order is destined to go down in history in the life and thought of the American people. Through the 75 years of its existence it strove to make truly one in heart the diverse human elements of the western world, for only lasting basis of American Democracy is the cooperation of all groups and classes of citizens."

"This will, in my opinion, result in a sharp increase in demand for cereal at the market, with resultant higher prices, since buyers, unable to get other cereals, will want cereal, which has been slightly affected by the freeze," he said.

The lowest temperature report of this morning was Mr. Fred Bally, who stated that it was a fraction over 24 degrees by their government type thermometer.

Of special significance tonight will be the traditional "Eloge des Tots" which will be dedicated not only to the "Absent Brothers" as is customary wherever Elks are gathered at that hour, but to the more than 65,000 members of the Order serving in the Armed forces and to the 540 members of the lodges at Manila, Philippines Islands, and Agana, Guam, who were taken captive and passed when these two American possessions fell to the Japanese.

Government Needs More Deadly Snakes

Miami, Feb. 16 (AP) — An appeal for more venomous snakes sounded Monday by Roy R. Pipkin, Apopka side grocer, who is president of the Miami Sub-Chaser School.

Allen estimates he will need about 35,000 snakes this year to fill Government contracts for antivenin.

Snakes are shipped here from every country in the world, some from far away as India," he explained. He said that the United States has from 15 to 20 types of rattlesnakes suitable for production of the vital serum.

Allen began "milking" snakes as a stunt to attract audiences to his Institute at Silver Springs, Fla.

The way, which sent the Nation's flocks into rattlesnake-infested frontiers all over the world, made snake venom a medical necessity for the Army.

Snake venom is now used to control bleeding as well as to treat snake bites and new uses for it are treatments of wounded soldiers discovered.

After the war, Allen plans to promote the raising of snake farms throughout the world to supply the Army with antivenin.

Allen asserted, however, that the air policy of the future should be determined "on a fair and equitable basis" and not upon "narrow nationalism."

Military fliers always try to eat before taking off because they have shown that a full stomach best withstands high altitude.

Jap Plane Losses Off Guadalcanal Total 60 Or 61

Americans Destroyed 15 Enemy Vessels In Week's Fighting Before Evacuation

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16, Fifteen Japanese ships, twelve of them destroyers, were sunk or damaged in a week's heavy fighting before Guadalcanal was evacuated, with the United States losing three warships, including the heavy cruiser, Chicago, the Navy announced today in a press communiqué.

The United States lost a total of 100 men, 22 American sailors fighting aboard the carrier, Lexington, which sank on the Chinaman's Hat rock.

The Lexington, starting Jan. 28, was severely damaged. The carrier is best as the result of the heavy attack. The other American ship was a destroyer but the carrier had not yet been an enemy target.

The Lexington was confirmed to have been hit by anti-aircraft fire, and was able to return to the carrier.

As a result, the carrier was unable to take action in the Pacific area and was dealing blows to Japanese bases from Burma to the South Sea.

An earlier communiqué reported that over the weekend fighters started to fly and medium bombers attacking ship targets in the Solomons.

On Sunday evening, reconnaissances planes were shot down near Lunga Point in the western Solomons.

The Japanese attacks against unoccupied islands were carried out in a few hours before the fall of the Solomons, 300 miles northwest of Guadalcanal. Fighters escorted torpedo planes and dive bombers started a large fire in the fire of these attacks.

On Monday, Feb. 16, the Americans responded to the Japanese attacks.

The presidential request submitted by Secretary of Agriculture Wickard who already has informed several ships that would be held in the Pacific, was submitted Feb. 16 by Robert M. Smith, Smith said, inflationary tendency resulted from increasing food prices, particularly meat, and the farmers' income parity formula by rewriting the national parity formula to include meat.

He went on to add that the program will be held in the first time in the history of the State of Florida to meet the general public since the country is born and we will do our best to give him the good reception.
