

Lookouts Take Nightcap To Break Even With G-Men

Score 8 To 1 Win In Final After Losing First, 6 To 0

Padgett Hurls Two Hit Ball In Opener But Lookouts Go On Hitting Rampage In Final Game

By JIMMY CHAPMAN
Displaying a sharp reversion of form, the Lookouts wrested the nightcap of their twin-bill with the Gainesville G-Men here yesterday afternoon by an 8 to 1 score. After dropping the opener, 6 to 0, the locals put on their slugging caps to paste out eight slugs in the twilight contest, six of them doubles and one a triple.

Ernie Padgett, ace hurler of the G-Men, pitched hitless and scoreless in the opener until the eighth, when Clary dropped a pop single just over second base for the first Lookout hit. The lanky Gainesville slinger barely missed the Hall of Fame by that hit, together with Maltby's line single over short in the ninth.

The G-Men garnered nine blows off Medler in the first game to score six runs, but most of the G-Men's rallies came unearned, as the Lookouts committed five miscues to help them along.

"Cuban Don" Torres, leading percentage hurler of the Lookouts' staff, practically had the terrible slugger maddened in the twilight contest, limiting them to 4 measly singles, two of them of the infield variety. Not satisfied with his mound accomplishments, the "dark one" pounded out a single and triple to lead the local boys at the plate.

Our scrappy Lookouts kept the G-Men's outfielders running at full speed during the latter game, with a barrage of line drives and long flies to the outer garden. Even Padgett, who came back in the second game to stop here Gunthorp in the fourth frame, was unable to stop their spree.

Joe Blistruf promised the fans a win in the final game, when he was presented with a wrist watch between games, as a token of the fans' appreciation of his work this season. The day was really a "red hot" one for Blistruf Day, and "Doc" Huntley, loud-speaking dentist from Orlando and an ardent Lookout fan, paid tribute to the scrappy catcher, who in turn attempted to answer in thanks, but became practically speechless before the microphone.

A brief resume of the two games follows:
First Game
Gainesville opened the scoring in the first frame, when with two out, Pitman walked, advanced on Medler's error of Davis' throw to first to catch Beach, and stole home as a part of a double steal, with Beach going to second. Bevell then fanned to end the inning.

A good scoring chance was posed up by the Lookouts in the second inning, when Overstreet made first on Bevell's error, and Blistruf walked sending Overstreet to second, but "Shanty" Maltby in an attempted sacrifice hit directly to the pitcher who retired Overstreet at third. Duncan and Medler were then retired in quick order.

The G-Men drew second blood in their half of the third, scoring another run on Buck's double. Adair's infield hit, and Beach's fly to left. Two more runs were tallied by the Gainesville sluggers in the fifth on two hits and an error, and they pushed across two more in the sixth on two errors and two hits.

No more scores were made by either team from that point, with both outfits playing hit-and-run in the field.
Buck and Bevell led the G-Men in hitting for the first game, each gathering two hits off Medler's offerings. Buck also played the only sensational fielding play of that game, when he made a leaping catch of Medler's line drive between first and second and doubled Duncan off first. Padgett, of course, was the real hero of the win, with his superb pitching, limiting the Lookouts to only two weak binges.

Second Game
The Lookouts began right away to make up for lost time in the nightcap, when they tallied twice in the first frame. Clary started off by making first on Pitman's bad throw of his grounder to first, advanced to second on Langston's infield out, but was almost caught sleeping, straggling off the base by several feet only to gain safety by a daring dive for the keystone base and second. A hot chase between third and second, later advancing to third on a passed ball. Davis then walked and Clary scored on a double steal making a beautiful slide into home. Overstreet accounted for the second run of the inning, when he singled to left scoring Davis from second.

The fifth saw the Lookouts score four runs on five hits, when Torres singled, Clary laid down a bunt for a hit. Langston lined a hit through the pitcher's box. Davis doubled over the center-fielder's head, Cates was purposely passed, and Overstreet singled. They were retired when Padgett went in to relieve Gunthorp and after Overstreet had singled caused Blistruf to hit into a double play, with a run coming in. Maltby fled out to Buck to vet the side.

Apparently unsatisfied with their lead, the Celestros scored twice more in the sixth, on Duncan's walk, Torres' triple, and Clary's long fly to deep left, which Adair took over his shoulder on a backward run.

The G-Men scored their only run of the last game in the sixth on two walks, a sacrifice, and a long fly to right.

In the second contest batting honors were divided by Torres, with a triple and a single, Overstreet with two singles, and Davis with a single and a double. "Bretches" Clary, woe mite of a shortstop for the Lookouts, was the real hero of the day, with two stolen bases to his credit and plenty of fast and carefree running of the sacks. The neat breched lad also played errorless ball all afternoon and garnered one hit in each game.

Islanders Score 1 To 0 Victory Over Azaleans

Brown Gives Up Only Four Blows In Tilt At Daytona Beach

DAYTONA BEACH, Aug. 17.—A sparkling four-hit performance by the Islanders' pitcher, Bill Gould, was the key to a 1 to 0 victory over Palatka's Azaleans here yesterday afternoon. Brown struck out six and walked none. The Islanders played errorless ball. Bill Gould raved in a fine performance for the Azaleans, giving up only nine blows, but three of the hits were lunched in the fifth frame to give the Islanders the victory. Gould struck out seven and walked two. Anderson started the fifth with a fluke infield single. He went to second on a single by Dillingham down the third base line and scored as Davis singled to left field.

Lookouts Initiated Slaughter Week Yesterday By First Of 7 Twin-Bills

"Slaughter Week" was begun yesterday afternoon by the Lookouts, when they met the Gainesville G-Men in the first of a full week of doubleheaders, ending Saturday. Today the boys met the DeLand Reds in another twin-bill affair on the local park, beginning at 2:30 P. M.

With only five pitchers in which to stand the grueling week of play, the Lookouts' pitching staff was looking around in his outfit, planning to pull in possibly Overstreet to bolster the pitching staff for the week. Campbell Gillespie of Atlanta stepped in to win the 14 games, it is practically sure that it will be in the running for fourth position. Rooting only four and one-half games out of the coveted position at present, with the DeLand Reds now leading down the place, the Lookouts might, by dropping the Reds in their four contests this week, become a pennant contender.

Regardless of the outcome of the week's play, the boys promise to be in the game hustling every minute, for they realize the value of gaining fourth place, which would put them in the play-off for the league championship. Today's game with the Reds will see Hayes on the mound in the opener, with possibly Mote or Overstreet being used in the nightcap.

Joe Louis Is On Spot In Fight With Sharkey Tuesday

Brown Bomber Must Make Comeback To Gain Top Position In Heavyweight Picture Once More

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Right on the spot, that's where the Brown Bomber, Joe Louis, finds himself this week. The young Detroit heavyweight, toast of the fistie world only a few short months ago, can either make or break himself in his 10-round bout with Boston Jack Sharkey at the Yankee Stadium tomorrow night. By decisively turning back the two-fisted threat of the sailor man, Joe can partially atone for the walloping Max Schmeling gave him two months ago and once more place himself in the running for world championship honors.

Saints Gain Win In Fourth Place Fight With Reds

Veale Gets Shoutout As Mates Pull Five Fast Twin-Killings

ST. AUGUSTINE, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Falling five snappy double plays in the first six innings the St. Augustine Saints rallied around Frank Veale's shoutout during the nightcap to bag a 4 to 0 decision from the DeLand Reds. The visitors lunched Veale's deliveries for nine safe knocks and were a constant threat but Off Jake Burk the Saints made seven hits count with Hot Glenn the hitting star. His double and single drove home two of the best runs.

Shirley McGowan and Zupanic and George Andrews' double drove the right field line gave St. Augustine a 1 to 0 lead in the opening canto. Dillisen's error on Emerson's hoping to second, a double by Gibson, and Fitzgerald's bouncer off Dillisen's glove accounted for two more Saint runs in the fifth frame.

After a shaky start Veale settled down to hurl excellent ball and stemmed a late rally by the DeLand Reds. He no longer regards the "Reds" as just another opponent. Falconi singled with two away but Finch Hitter McMullen was an easy out.

Despite two errors the Saints gave Veale brilliant support with Rabbit Bonner figuring in three double plays and handling 11 chances at short. Bubba Dillisen and Jack Bolling featured the Reds' nine-hit attack with two singles each.

For another thing, they've been sending him to school over at Pompton Lakes, N. J. where he's training. Jack Blackburn, his trainer, and Paul Salvatore, one of the best boxers among the heavies, have been showing him how to jodge such rights as those with which Schmeling blasted him. These boxing lessons are getting results.

Olympics Close With Impressive Military Display

Overflow Crowd Sets 16-Day Carnival Attendance Record

BERLIN, Aug. 17.—(AP)—After the gorgeous sunlit closing day overflowed with a record crowd of 120,000, the Olympic games ended impressively last night under floodlights with the ceremonious extinguishing of the Olympic flame amid soft shadows of a perfect summer night.

It was an eye-filling, spectacular day and a soul-stirring, unforgettable night for the immense throng of sports-lovers among whom were Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler and the members of his cabinet.

An ecstatic moment for Japanese came near the close when a stentorian voice resounded under the great peaked dome of brightness formed by converging beams of searchlights.

"I call the youth of the world to Tokyo," it said as thousands of foreigners in the great throng were thoughtfully silent as the Olympic bell tolled the end of the seventh Olympiad, but Germans were aroused to a frenzy of patriotic emotion.

Ons and a battery of searchlights flung panels of light against the summer sky, forming a lofty dome to the accompaniment of hand music, flag bearers of the nations marched into the stadium and formed a line in front of Chancellor Hitler's loge. The Stars and Stripes were carried by Alfred Joachim, Union City, N. J. gymnast.

The flags were dipped in front of Hitler—except the American and Brazilian banners—as Count Henri Balloet Latour of Belgium, president of the International Olympic Committee, spoke the closing address after which a long line of white uniformed girls advanced and hung wreaths on the tips of the flags.

Then a voice resounded: "Lower the flag." Amid singing and a great chorus of booming cannon, the Olympic flag was hauled down and the flags of the nations departed. The Olympic banner was carried to the center of the field by five men in white. The flame, which for a fortnight had been burning in the middle of the marathon gate, was extinguished.

Experts Say Food Prices Due For Rise

Change Already Has Affected Poultry Products; Expect Meat Increase Soon

Commission Hears Research Groups

Turwell Asserts "We Want To Fortify Plains For Drought"

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Experts "guessed" that it won't be long before the housewife lays out from eleven to twelve dollars for the same basket of food she now buys for ten dollars.

Government and private experts, admitting that exact estimates are impossible, nevertheless forecast an upward revision of family grocery budgets. They explained that when the soaring prices in recent months, the dollar's food-purchasing power went into a dive.

It already has affected milk, butter, and eggs in some places and eventually will reach meats, they said. Experts said their "best guesses" are based upon what happened after the drought two years ago.

Consumer purchasing powers, which were on the upgrade after the 1934 drought and which have been repaired somewhat, also play a certain part in food prices.

Crop and animal reservation experts of the U. S. forest commission said that dry weather in the Great Plains is being whittled down to a minimum. The drought commission reported the views of research groups after a breakfast round table conference at which Dr. Sanford G. Turwell asserted "all this talk about depopulation of the Great Plains is foolish. We don't want to depopulate the country; we want to fortify it to withstand drought."

The experts were composed of two groups, one representing five Western states and the other federal agencies of the American soil conservation division.

"Based upon some scientific and practical observation, it is recognized that fundamentally the natural conditions in the area are capable of supporting a permanent prosperous agricultural industry," said the report by the regional conservation service. "The productive potentialities are capable of retreating the existing indebtedness," it added.

Cabinet Officer's Son Hailed Into Court

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—(AP)—A dispute between a cabinet officer and a Massachusetts policeman headed for court yesterday after Secretary Ickes termed "retty contemptible" the arrest of his adopted son, Robert H. Ickes, on charges of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor.

Renewing criticism of Police Sergeant Charles J. Harold, who arrested young Ickes at Winchester, Mass., last week, the Interior Secretary said "a lawyer has been retained and we'll meet the charges in court."

Court Decides Not To Arrest Townsend

CLEVELAND, Aug. 18.—(AP)—The arrest of Dr. Francis E. Townsend, white-haired advocate of a $500 monthly pension for everybody over 60, was demanded Monday and refused—when he failed to appear for a deposition, hearing in a receivership suit against his organization.

Don Secharow, attorney for the Dr. Townsend, in the suit for receivership and an accounting of $2,000,000 in Townsend funds, said the arrest. Common Pleas Judge George W. Kerr refused the demand after receiving assurance, he said, that Dr. Townsend was in Chicago.

Training Period Is Described By Reserve Officer

Lt. Michael Recounts Experience Had At U. S. Military Post

The 32nd Infantry was accorded one of the greatest honors ever given to a southern military regiment when it was allowed to take its two-week summer training period at Ft. Benning, Ga., the largest military post in the entire United States and the home of the world's finest infantry school.

Lt. J. G. Michael, a member of the reserve regiment, stated today. Lt. Michael returned Sunday from the grueling period of training, and was full of enthusiasm over his trip, because he and his regiment had been afforded the opportunity of witnessing what was apparently the first real military maneuvers ever held before a reserve regiment. The maneuvers were held at Ft. Benning for the benefit of next year's graduating class of the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, which was also undergoing a tense training period at the military post.

According to Mr. Michael, his regiment was unusually fortunate in being allowed to witness the military maneuvers, for there were air demonstrations of all kinds, with 45 planes from government air fields being used. Also included in the muck warfare were tank demonstrations, which were for the benefit of the cadets.

Over 300 of the youthful cadets were entraining at the post, where they received instructions in the latest forms of military science and tactics. "Usually one thinks of the West Point cadet as a well dressed, stately sort of a soldier," Mr. Michael went on to say, "but during their stay at the post there were no dress parades, nor did the boys go around in their fancy military costumes, for they were always in working togs and receiving instructions which they were expected to carry out."

One of the most interesting and entertaining moments of the training period, was described by Mr. Michael as happening one night, following a long trek full of demonstrations, when Col. E. C. B. Danforth, Jr., executive officer of the 32nd, described Sergeant Alvin C. York's thrilling single-handed capture of 104 Germans during the World War. Sergeant York was said to be the outstanding hero of the entire War, Danforth was his commanding officer.

All in all, Lt. Michael said that the entertaining features of the training period offset the unpleasant duties which every officer and every enlisted man must go through.

WPA Official Tells Rotary Of WPA Work

State Gets 30 Million More From Government Than It Pays Out In Taxes

The State of Florida has received $30,000,000 more from the federal government in the form of WPA allotments and relief funds during the past 12 months than it has paid into the federal treasury by way of taxation, said Arnold Mickler, WPA representative from Orlando, who addressed the local Rotary Club today at the regular weekly luncheon at the Mayfair Hotel.

Seminole County alone has been benefited by numerous projects listed as streets, sewers, the airport, the agricultural experimental station, the armory, the swimming pool at Deleia, and numerous similar undertakings. Mr. Mickler continued, to the extent of $170,000 during the past year.

Mr. Mickler further explained that there are at present some 4,000 destitute persons working on various relief projects in the Central Florida district which embraces nine counties in the central part of the state. As only one person in each family is allowed to work on a WPA project, Mr. Mickler explained, this means that no less than 4,000 families, or probably 20,000 persons, are directly supported by the WPA.

Further pointing out the tremendous benefit which this large expenditure of money is to local merchants, and other business and professional men as well, Mr. Mickler stated that it would be an unthinkable hardship to turn these unemployed persons back to the local communities for support. The WPA was undertaken in the beginning, Mr. Mickler said, as a relief program, but it is essentially a "work" program. "Hoarding," he declared, "is now a thing of the past."

The type of projects which are given first consideration by the WPA, Mr. Mickler said, include sewers, bridges, canals, airports, drainage projects, armories, and various kinds of artists and musicians projects. "It is just as important for artists and musicians to eat," Mr. Mickler said, "as for anyone else."

In the course of his remarks, Mr. Mickler paid tribute to R. L. Glenn, who was also a great of the Rotarians, and who is chairman of the local Planning Board. "Mr. Glenn has been doing an unusually good job," Mr. Mickler stated, "in the selection of projects for Seminole County."

A call was answered by the local fire department yesterday afternoon, when it was summoned to a grass fire on Cleary Avenue at the corner of Summerlin Ave. No property was damaged by the flames.

Police court scheduled to have been held yesterday afternoon before City Judge Frank L. Miller, was postponed and will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The County Board of Public Instruction will hold a meeting Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock to consider school bus insurance and liability and property damage, besides the other regular business that is to be taken up.

Sanford Youth Describes Visit To Shark Island

Jack Russell Returns Home After Interesting Experience

Jack Russell, Sanford youth who has been spending the summer on Tortugas Island in the Florida Keys collecting material for the State Museum and Science Department of the University of Florida, returned to this city Saturday afternoon with a number of interesting experiences to his credit and many specimens for his collection.

While on Tortugas, which is sometimes called Shark Island because of the many sharks that abound in waters around it, Russell slept in Fort Jefferson in the cell next to where Dr. Samuel Mudd was once imprisoned. Those who saw the recent motion picture, "Prisoner of Shark Island" are familiar with the background of the island and will remember that Dr. Mudd was sentenced there for supposedly helping John Wilkes Booth, slayer of Abraham Lincoln, escape his capture.

During his seven weeks' stay on the island, Mr. Russell obtained over 50 varieties of shells, and approximately 200 varieties of insects, getting many specimens of each variety. He also banded a number of birds and did a lot of bird research work on Noddy and Sooty Terns for the Florida Audubon Society.

"The Florida keys," Mr. Russell said, "may be considered the richest collecting ground for marine life in this part of the world. While I was on Tortugas 15 or 20 tortoises were doing research work for the single Institute of Washington, D. C. The island is frequented by small yachts, mostly from the North, and during the recent hurricane a number of them were in port seeking shelter from the high seas."

"Out beyond the reef," he continued, "one can catch large fish of all kinds just as fast as the line can be thrown out. The fish I caught ranged anywhere from 5 to 25 pounds each, and were

New Feed Store Owner Praises City And People

Says Sanford Offers Unique Attractions To New Residents

Proof that persons seeking business affiliations in this state are readily attracted to Sanford and Seminole County, is evidenced in the case of J. P. Campbell, new owner and manager of Campbell's Security Feed and Seed Company on West First Street.

Mr. Campbell, a native of Caldwell, Tenn., where for the past twenty years he has operated a store for the Aluminum Company of America, was attracted to this city by its beauty, central location, and good business qualities, after an inspection tour which carried him to all sections of the state and into all cities of any size on the east and west coasts.

Coming to Florida first because of ill health, which he believed could be cured by the warm air and sunshine of this state, the new resident was pleased with the state at large, and especially with Sanford and Seminole County. After a hurried trip back to Tennessee, he returned to the "Sunshine State" in hopes of finding a suitable business location.

Because he has been a lifelong friend of H. A. Norton, president of the Security Mills, which supplies the Security Feed stores with their goods, he was afforded an opportunity to make a good investment with the company in this state (the advice of Mr. Norton, coupled with his pleasant survey of the city and county, Mr. Campbell decided to make his business location and home here.

Noticeable factors in this city's favor as seen by Mr. Campbell, are listed as being, the fact that food prices here are in line with the prices further north, the unusual congeniality and easy-going manner of the people of this city, and the decided advantage which Sanford and Seminole County have over other Central Florida cities, both in agricultural production and distribution of products.

Since his arrival here, Mr. Campbell has decided to make this his permanent home, and at present is looking over several houses, one of which he is considering purchasing. The new resident is at present residing at 115 French Avenue, where and his wife have an apartment.

400 Americans Stay In Spain Despite Risk

More Than 750 Have Been Taken From Fight Zone By Air Railroads Or Ships

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Americans were reported last night to be moving out of Spain by air, rail and sea, but the state department estimated that from 300 to 400 were still disregarding its repeated warnings to leave.

Even in Madrid, where Americans were warned Friday that they remained at their own risk, officials reported 165 staying, including 40 being given refuge at the embassy. Others were scattered throughout the country.

Most of those who have refused to leave have done so for family or business reasons, the state department has been advised.

Reports reaching Washington during the day of additional evacuations, brought to approximately 750 the total number of Americans who have been taken from the danger zone.

Prominent on today's list was Mrs. Petronilla Gallardo, daughter of Col. David McKay, of Tampa. She was flown from Madrid to Marseilles, France by airplane. American Consul Hurley at Marseilles reported her safe arrival there but gave no further details. Mrs. Gallardo had been ill in Spain for several months.

Reassuring advice concerning J. A. Ambler, an American mining engineer, of San Antonio, Tex., who for a time has been in a precarious situation near Huehula, also were received. He was reported by the Rio Tinto Mining corporation at London to have arrived safely at Huehula after being held as a hostage for several days along with other foreign members of the mining company's staff at their mine.

Auditor was reported to be proceeding to Gibraltar.

Sanford Negro Is Arrested In New Smyrna For Theft

Nat Cherry, Sanford negro who has been an employee of the Ilex Beer Sales Company, was arrested in New Smyrna by police officers there for stealing a new V-8 Ford truck last night belonging to the company for which he worked.

J. D. Peetjes, his employer, was stopping at a local hotel and asked Cherry to put the truck in a garage for the night, but this morning neither Cherry nor the truck could be found. Mr. Peetjes immediately notified Sheriff J. E. McPherson, swore out a warrant for the negro, and asked police in neighborhood towns to be on the lookout for the truck and negro.

New Smyrna police had soon located Cherry and put him in jail, where he will await further action on the part of the beer company.

The negro said he did not know why he stole the truck, which was half loaded with beer, and did not know what he would have done with it if he had not been caught, but that he had merely acted on the impulse of the moment.

Spanish Loyalists Hold Planes Ready For Quick Flight

'PEACHES' WINS Fall Of Madrid Seen Imminent As Rebel Forces Converge On War Torn Capital

Uncensored Madrid dispatches reaching the United States today through British Gibraltar said that government leaders, fearing the fall of the Spanish capital, are holding three planes in readiness for a quick flight.

Rebel warships fought a big gun duel with government land batteries in the northern town San Sebastian today along the Bay of Biscay. After hours of heavy shelling, warships finally silenced the government fort.

Government leaders in Madrid called for new volunteers and urged women to make arms and winter clothing, indicating they looked for a long siege.

Rebels at Burgos accused the government forces of using gas bombs, outlawed by international agreement.

France continued to press efforts for a neutrality pact designed to keep other European nations out of the Spanish civil war now in its third day.

The Fascist dictatorship, as proposed by the rebels, or Socialist liberalism, as administered by the government, remained the big issue of the crisis.

The rebels, with four-fifths of Spain's standing army, have control of a good half of the country in a slow, long range siege of capital. The government, fighting to keep control, banded a citizenry army around one-fifth of the standing army which remained loyal.

Eleven generals have been killed or died in accidents, 15 have been arrested and a score of provinces captured by the government since the fighting spread from Morocco, Madrid officials said.

ROOSEVELT WORRIED

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 18.—(AP)—Critical conditions in war-torn Spain and Europe were disclosed authoritatively to have prompted President Roosevelt to call a check on any plans that would call for his being far away from Washington for any extended period. Roosevelt still intends to make a trip through the drought stricken states beginning a week from tonight but halted plans for all other extended trips.

County 4-H Club Girls Learn How To Prepare Food

Seminole County 4-H Club girls this summer have been learning how to make somebody a good wife some day.

In the group are 112 girls who have been carrying on an intensive program of food preparation during the last few months. Meetings are held twice each month and the girls study nutrition, adequate diets, menu planning, and table service under the capable guidance of Miss Ruth Durenberger, county home demonstration agent.

In addition to their work the 4-H girls are keeping a notebook in which they keep records of what they have accomplished and notes on lectures delivered to them by Miss Durenberger at each meeting.

Carters Must Give Up Property Court Says

S. M. Price yesterday won a verdict over R. Carter and Viola Carter in Seminole County Court, when Judge James G. Sharon ruled that the Carters must give up lot 28 at Entenimier Farms near Wagner to Mr. Price, who is entitled to the immediate possession of the property according to law.

The Carters sought to remain on the property on the grounds that they had lived there for four years and had built a garage on the property in addition to having made a number of other improvements on it.

NO LAW AGAINST IT
 Sanctions, however, against such there is no law—Sanford Herald

Florida lost one of its ablest citizens in the death of former Senator John Taylor.

Miami has got so many slot machines, they say, you can't walk down the street any more without seeing a slot in the ribs by a slot.

Sanford, Seminole County's most populated product, appeared at the Miami the other night, not in some amateur theatrical, but in "The March of Time."

Local merchants don't have to read the financial pages of the metropolitan newspapers to know how business is. They can look in their cash drawers.

We see where the federal government is beginning to take an active interest in the prosecution of history law violators. Risk the G-Man on these racketeers and they won't last long!

According to the United Press, Judge Andrews was the only senatorial candidate with the Townsend endorsement in the United States who won his election. But apparently it was no lead for the Judge to carry.

Despite school frills and no frills, Florida does not spend as much on its schools as most other states. The average cost per pupil in the U. S. is approximately $100. In Miami it is $94.76; in Pensacola, $35.23.

Wonder how many Honeysuckle there are left in Congress—Sanford Herald. Call the roll. Port News-Press. Well, if we wanted to be disagreeable, we could name several almost without stopping to think.

Bribe explains how to prevent wars: "Racial hatreds and bloody wars will not be ended by diplomatic treaties of pious wishes. The nature of cats and dogs and of different human nationalities must change to end their hatreds."

Uncle Sam has sent a bill for $51,000.00 to Al Capone's wife for taxes on the former beer baron's income back in the gay days of 1927, 1928 and 1929. That $51,000.00 will be pretty hard to make those days by legitimate means.

This Roosevelt Administration is certainly peculiar. Taxes are going to be reduced after the election instead of before—Port News-Press. Seems like it would be better politics to reduce them now.

The government has decided to let future take care of its crop reduction program, and so, for the year of 1937, there will be no more payments for not raising wheat or corn. As a matter of fact, the drought seems to be reducing crops even more effectively than the government's Triple A-ers could.

"That general business conditions throughout the country are decidedly better and steadily improving month by month regardless of a national political campaign," said Earl Lehman upon his return from several weeks in the north. "It is pretty evident to anyone who has had a chance to study business and economic trends in America."

Old Age Pensions will begin in Florida on Oct. 1. Eight thousand Florida citizens who have passed 65 years of age will begin receiving on that date from $12 to $16 a month, a far cry from Dr. Townsend's $500 a month, but sufficient we dare say to be helpful. That small amount will cost the State of Florida, or rather the national government of Florida, $1,000,000 a year.

Correct English

Charles C. Fries is a professor of English at the University of Michigan, but he is no "purer" for he believes in democracy of speech as well as of politics. If the majority of people use a certain pronunciation, spelling, or expression, that would make it the preferred form for the Michigan professor. Whatever else may be said for this rule, it would certainly simplify in large measure the difficulties which the average person encounters in learning correct English.

The flood of grammatical rules which developed during the past century, solidifying largely in a set of "don'ts" for writing and speaking, had a negative effect on the normal and vigorous development of the language, the professor insists. Slavish adherence to rules has had an especially stifling result in the schools in early discouragement of independent, but entirely proper use of English, Professor Fries says.

"If anything is clear from the historical study of English, it is the fact that our language is naturally very flexible and alive to change, much of the change being for the better in the way of a more expressive speech," he further declares. "Most of the great figures in English literature were writers and speakers who took a very practical view of language as a tool to form their thoughts in the most significant way. It is time for English teachers to revamp to a considerable extent what and how they teach."

A few rules which might be thrown overboard at once, Professor Fries suggests, include those forbidding "none" with a plural verb; "either," "neither," "each," "everyone" with a plural verb when other words in the sentence give a clear plural meaning to the complete subject or the use of "everybody," "everyone," "nobody," indefinite pronouns of common gender, singular, but carrying plural implications, with a plural reference pronoun separated from the indefinite by a word or words.

The "can-may" and "shall-will" rules might well be ignored also, especially the use of "can" in questions of permission and "will" with the first person in statements of fact, or with the second in questions. Likewise "like" should be liberated for use in such statements as "he took to figures like a duck to water."

In the past times it should be agreed that the past tense of "ring" could be either "rang" or "rung"; of "sing," either "sang" or "sung"; of "sink," either "sank" or "sunk"; of "shrink," either "shrank" or "shrank"; of "spring," either "sprang" or "sprung"; and for the participle of the verb "show," either "showed" or "shown."

This at least is what the Professor says.

Small Business

Did you know that most business in the United States is little business? The giant automobile corporations and steel companies are big business indeed but they are few in number. Most American businesses are still of the cross roads type where the former store clerk, who saved his pennies until he had accumulated enough to buy a small stock of goods, is the sole proprietor, does all the work himself, or at best hires three or four helpers.

According to Dr. Gus W. Dyer, professor of economics and sociology at Vanderbilt University, 174,318 or more than 80 percent of the 210,959 factories in the United States in 1929 had less than 50 workmen each. During the four years immediately preceding 1929, the number of U. S. factories increased over 5,000, the report showed.

"The destruction of small business by big business seems so evident to the politician and the sentimental reformer that proof is not considered necessary," said Dr. Dyer. "This theory, based on an unappreciated assumption, is the chief source of the stupid prejudice against large enterprises. The truth is that under present conditions the small factory, in many ways, has a decided advantage over the big factory."

According to Dr. Dyer's study, in 1929 there were 7,428 factories in which the proprietor did all the work alone. Nearly half of the total number of factories in the U. S., or 95,767 to be exact, employed from one to five persons. There were 53,524 factories—about one-quarter of the total—employing from six to 20 persons and 25,524 employing from 21 to 50. Only 12,467 employed from 51 to 100 persons.

"When we open our eyes to the real facts of industrial life," said Dr. Dyer, "we find no foundation for the myth that large business makes it impossible for the small business to survive. With constitutional protection to business made secure the opportunity for men of character and ability with small capital to go into the manufacturing business for themselves was perhaps never before so good."

Alfonso's Boast To Die A King May Influence Spanish Revolt

Rumors that Alfonso and his two sons are debating the ex-king's chances of returning to power in the midst of the present Spanish civil war prevailed when the former monarch (extreme left) called Jaime of Bourbon (right) and Juan (center) to Dolach, Austria, for a conference. Alfonso gave up his throne five years ago in a rebellion without bloodshed. (Associated Press Photos)

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
 NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—(AP)—Word from Austria that former King Alfonso might fly back to revolution-torn Spain in an effort to regain his throne through the medium of the revolt has not surprised those who know this square-jawed, die-hard monarch.

Alfonso has furnished ample evidence, both by word and deed, during his five-year exile that he intended to try to reclaim the crown of the Bourbons, wrested from his unwilling hands by the Republicans in 1931. Coupled with this is the fact that he always has been utterly fearless of the violent death which has pursued him persistently since the time when he was a tiny tot whose legs were too short to reach the floor as he sat on the golden seat of power.

While none doubts that Alfonso has the courage of his convictions, the Spanish insurgents have made it amply clear that they do not intend to tolerate the intervention of any of the royal family at this critical juncture in a fratricidal conflict which is so bitter that it has developed into one of extermination.

Only the other day when the Prince of the Asturias, heir presumptive to the non-existent throne, entered Spain and tried to enlist with the rebels, General Emilio Mola northern commander compelled him to leave the country. The general also ordered the arrest "on sight" of any member of the royal family.

Mola explained his action by saying that this is a national and not a monarchist movement. Furthermore, his officers said he feared that the presence of any of the Bourbons would cause friction in the insurgent ranks, which include not only royalists but Republicans and fascists.

Whether Alfonso might be able to overcome this attitude is something which time alone can answer. Certainly his appearance within the borders of his former kingdom would raise a desperate problem for the heterogeneous rebels, who have buried political animosities temporarily for the good of the common cause.

While Alfonso accepted the inevitable in the revolution of 1931, he has stubbornly refused to surrender what he claims is the right of the Bourbons to rule Spain. Every time the subject has been raised, that square jaw of his has come forward. Whether he may be contemplating action now on his own behalf, or for the benefit of his heir, has not been made apparent.

King Alfonso was an anomaly as a ruler—a sort of dual character.

On the one side he had a rugged but charming personality—a man's man and a ladies' man, who was heartily welcomed in all circles; he was a hard-riding, all-around sportsman whose feats aroused the admiration of Europe, the while it trembled for his personal safety. He laughed in the face of death; he was democratic to the point of Bohemianism in his associations, and never was happier than when mixing with cronies among "the people."

At the same time he never forgot for a moment that he was ruler by "divine right" and that his word was law and sufficient. He and the former Kaiser of Germany were almost the last of the monarchs who clung to the theory of "the divine right of kings." Alfonso, the delightful comrade, was said to be stubborn and dictatorial with his ministers. Those who overthrew him charged that he was medieval and reactionary, to the detriment of his country.

Alfonso demonstrated his physical courage time and again, for his life was attempted on numerous occasions. He knew that one of the prices of his position was possible assassination. "But," as he remarked, "that price does not include my courage. They may kill me, but if they should make me afraid—ah! that indeed would be a calamity."

A typical example of the king's bravery was furnished way back in 1908 when he was a youth. While guest of the French nation he was riding in a carriage from the grand opera house in Paris with President Loubet when a bomb exploded almost under the vehicle. As the coachman lashed his horses in terror, the "boy king" jumped up and, throwing his arms protectively about Loubet, shouted "Viva la France!"

Just before the revolution which ousted him, Alfonso declared: "I will never abandon my throne! I may die fighting, but I will die a king!" No one ever expressed any doubt that he meant this. Now the world is wondering whether he is prepared to try to make good this proud Bourbon challenge.

The Deposited Funds Of A Bank

are given employment as reserves, invest- ment, loans and cash on hand.

Simply stated, a bank is a place where people bring their money for safekeeping, with the understanding that the banker has the privilege of loaning and investing it—provided he holds himself ready to return it on demand.

The bank invests a part of its funds in Government, State and Municipal bonds and other sound securities.

It makes loans to local business men and others engaged in rendering needed services to the community. Loans to customers and depositors of this bank are naturally given preference as we have information instantly available as to their business practices and ability to repay.

These loans stimulate employment and help to carry forward local business activity.

Dear Folks:

This letter is about me and folks. I am one of your best friends. Sometimes I am just one, but many times I am many. Sometimes I am in your house and sometimes I am in everybody's house.

I can't walk, and folks don't mind totting me when I'm full, but some folks don't like to tote me when I am empty. Some don't even think I am worth totting.

Sometimes I am kidnaped, even the kind lady who keeps me from my folks at home don't need me. They tuck me and lots of others away in their closets and bring to their milk men how many like me they have.

So when I get to some folks' homes I go on a mighty long visit, and get either put away on a shelf or kicked around in the way. So I get mighty homesick.

My folks at home say they like me, and need me, and that it cost lots of money to keep up with me. Cool! I am all tired and tucked out! I want a nice hot bath and a good drink of milk. Please take me home.

YOUR MILK BOTTLE.

He laughed in the face of death; he was demure to the point of Bohemianism in his associations, and never was happier than when mixing with cronies among "the people."

At the same time he never forgot for a moment that he was ruler by "divine right" and that his word was law and sufficient. He and the former Kaiser of Germany were almost the last of the monarchs who clung to the theory of "the divine right of kings." Alfonso, the delightful comrade, was said to be stubborn and dictatorial with his ministers. Those who overthrew him charged that he was medieval and reactionary, to the detriment of the country.

Alfonso demonstrated his physical courage time and again, for his life was attempted on numerous occasions. He knew that one of the prices of his position was possible assassination. "But," as he remarked, "that price does not include my courage. They may kill me, but if they should make me afraid—ah! that indeed would be a calamity."

A typical example of the king's bravery was furnished "way back" in 1905 when he was a youth. While guest of the French nation he was riding in a carriage from the grand opera house in Paris with President Loubet when a bomb exploded almost under the vehicle. As the coachman lashed his horses in terror, the "boy king" jumped up and, throwing his arms protectively about Loubet, shouted "Viva la France!"

Just before the revolution which ousted him, Alfonso declared: "I will never abandon my throne! I will die fighting, but I will die a king!" No one ever expressed any doubt that he meant this. Now the monarch wonders whether he is prepared to try to make good this proud Bourbon challenge.

The Deposited Funds Of A Bank

are given employment as reserves. Invest in stocks, loans and cash on hand.

Simply stated, a bank is a place where people bring their money for safekeeping, with the understanding that the banker has the privilege of loaning and investing it—provided he holds himself ready to return it on demand.

The bank invests a part of its funds in Government, State and Municipal bonds and other sound securities.

It makes loans to local business men and others engaged in rendering needed services to the community. Loans to customers and depositors of this bank are naturally given preference as we have information instantly available as to their business practices and ability to repay.

These loans stimulate employment and help to carry forward local business activity.

Dear Folks:

This letter is about me and folks. I am one of your best friends. Sometimes I am just one, but many times I am many. Sometimes I am in your house and sometimes I am in everybody's house.

I can't walk, and folks don't mind totting me when I'm full, but some folks don't like to tote me when I am empty. Some don't even think I am worth totting.

Sometimes I am kidnaped, even the kind lady who keeps me from my folks at home don't need me. They tuck me and lots of others away in their closets and brag to their milk men how many like me they have.

So when I get to some folks' homes I go on a mighty long visit, and get either put away on a shelf or kicked around in the way. So I get mighty homesick.

My folks at home say they like me, and need me, and that it cost lots of money to keep up with me. Gee! I am all tired and tucked out! I want a nice hot bath and a good drink of milk. Please take me home.

YOUR MILK BOTTLE.

Sanford Youth Describes Visit To Shark Island

Finally I hooked a big shark or Jew fish.

"Like all other fishermen I also have a fish story about the one that got away—but the one that got away from me almost made the mistake of taking me with it. One moonlight night as I was casting from the shore, a large shark suddenly hit my line, and my finger caught in the reel. Before the line broke, the shark had pulled me out in the water and I thought I was 'a goner'."

Mr. Russell collected his shells alive by diving for them. On a calm day, he said, you can see 40 or 50 feet deep, and all kinds of plants and animals that abound in the water make a perfect underwater garden.

Carey Leads Townsendite In Election

Former Ohio Leader Says Pension Club 'Mispent' Money

CHEYENNE, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Senator Robert D. Carey, of Wyoming, led his Townsendite opponents almost 3 to 1 today for the Republican senatorial nomination.

Returns from 418 of 676 precincts showed Carey had 1,697 votes, and A. F. Brubaker, Glen Beck rancher, the Townsend candidate, had 630.

An audit of the books of Dr. Francis E. Townsend's Old Age Pension organization was opened yesterday in Chicago in connection with a $1,000,000 suit.

The pension movement's records were examined by Benjamin F. Secharow, of Cleveland, Ohio, counsel for the Rev. Alford W. Wright, former Ohio leader of the Townsendites.

Armed with a letter of authority from Judge George Kerr, of Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court in Ohio, Secharow searched the pension books for Mr. Wright's accusation that the figures in an effort to support Townsend movement had "mis-spent" a million dollars.

That man, Mr. Wright alleged, had been contributing to the Townsend treasury in 1924 and 25 cent parcels by Townsend Club members who hope to pass a 1928-30 pension plan through Congress.

Secharow and Schmitt said they would continue examination of the books today, and they would return to Cleveland for a court hearing on the matter next Thursday.

Dr. Townsend, who pleaded fatigue as a reason for not attending the hearing when it was first scheduled Monday, said he expected to be able to be in Cleveland Thursday.

Repair Work On Bandshell And City Pier Is Started

Work was begun today by the city on repairing the old City docks around the municipal pier, and bandshell, it was announced by City Superintendent of Parks and Streets James Moughton.

The superintendent stated that arrangements were being made for accommodating more small craft this winter, since this city is expecting a large number of visitors, who will bring small yachts with them.

Since the wall around the bandshell and pier is in such bad condition, the superintendent said the City might take part of the WPA funds approved for improvements to the pier and use them in strengthening the wall.

Already plans have been made for using over a $1,000 of the money allotted in repairing and adding to the bandshell, with the possibility that it might be made over into an office and community house to be used by the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce and the people of the city, Mr. Moughton said.

Power Companies To Seek TVA Tie-Up

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 19.—(AP)—A group of 19 private power companies which recently challenged the constitutionality of the Tennessee Valley Authority Act asked a federal district court today to halt all power activities of the TVA pending a settlement of the suit.

The companies sought to tie up every phase of the TVA power program including the making of contracts with cities, building transmission lines, carrying out rural electrification plans, and completing power dams.

Husband Threatens Suicide Following Scrape With Wife

A triangle affair resulted in the serious injury of one person and the arrest of another last night, when Mrs. Elizabeth Graves, 40, was cut and seriously wounded by her husband, W. F. "Bill" Graves, 44-year-old resident of this city.

Police answering a call from neighbors who heard the noise being made in an apartment on the corner of Palmetto Avenue and Fifth Street, discovered Graves on the front porch of the apartment building with a long-bladed knife threatening to commit suicide.

Finally he was coaxed to give up the knife and was immediately placed under arrest by the officers. (Continued on page three)

MOSCOW, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Sixteen accused Trotsky conspirators pleaded guilty in open court today to Soviet Government charges that they plotted to seize power through an organized reign of terror in which Dictator Josef Stalin and other heads of state would have been killed.

Prosecutors charged the plot was directly organized by Leon Trotsky, famous Bolshevik exile now in Norway, and that the plotters hoped for international complications which would pave the way for the overthrow of the government. The 16 conspirators face the death penalty.

County-Wide Inventory To Be Prepared

PWA Projects For Six-Year Period Hinge On Results Of New Tabulation

TALLAHASSEE, Aug. 18.—(Special)—A public works program being prepared by the State Planning Council was today furnished with instructions and forms by the Florida State Planning Board for the taking of a county-wide inventory of public works projects, suitable for a six-year program to be financed with federal and local funds, Secretary M. L. Montgomery of the State Planning Board said.

Headed by Secretary Ickes of the Interior Department, the National Resources Committee designated planning organizations throughout the country as the agencies to take the inventory.

The Seminole County Planning Council has received instructions governing the manner of listing and describing all projects desired by the municipal and county officials of Seminole County for construction during the six-year period beginning Jan. 1, 1937.

Secretary Montgomery called this a most important assignment and said that the future execution of a public works program in Seminole County will depend on how well the inventory is conducted.

The officials of all government units in Seminole County are being requested to indicate the order in which projects they recommend should be constructed and to base their decisions upon urgent need. The State Planning Board will transmit such recommendations to Washington, where national public construction needs are to be determined on a local basis.

The importance of the inventory is shown, Secretary Montgomery added, by the fact that it will unquestionably be the foundation of any federal or federal aid construction program after Jan. 1, 1937, and that the best interests of Seminole County will be served by the rendering of a prompt and complete list of projects.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Secretary Ickes said yesterday he was holding up the new $300,000,000 public works program pending a conference with President Roosevelt.

College Students To Get Rate Reductions

The Clyde-Mallory Lines today announced a special rate reduction for students from this state who are attending college in the North and East.

Round trip fares between Florida ports and New York City were those affected. The new fares will go into effect on the following dates: Aug. 15 to Oct. 31; Dec. 25 to Jan. 16, 1937; Feb. 28 to Apr. 25, 1937.

In making the reduction, Wm. B. Clements, district passenger agent at Jacksonville, stated it was hoped that students would take advantage of these fares for Christmas or Easter holidays. The reduced fares will include stateroom accommodations and all meals.

City Court Holds Weekly Session With Only Nine Cases Recorded

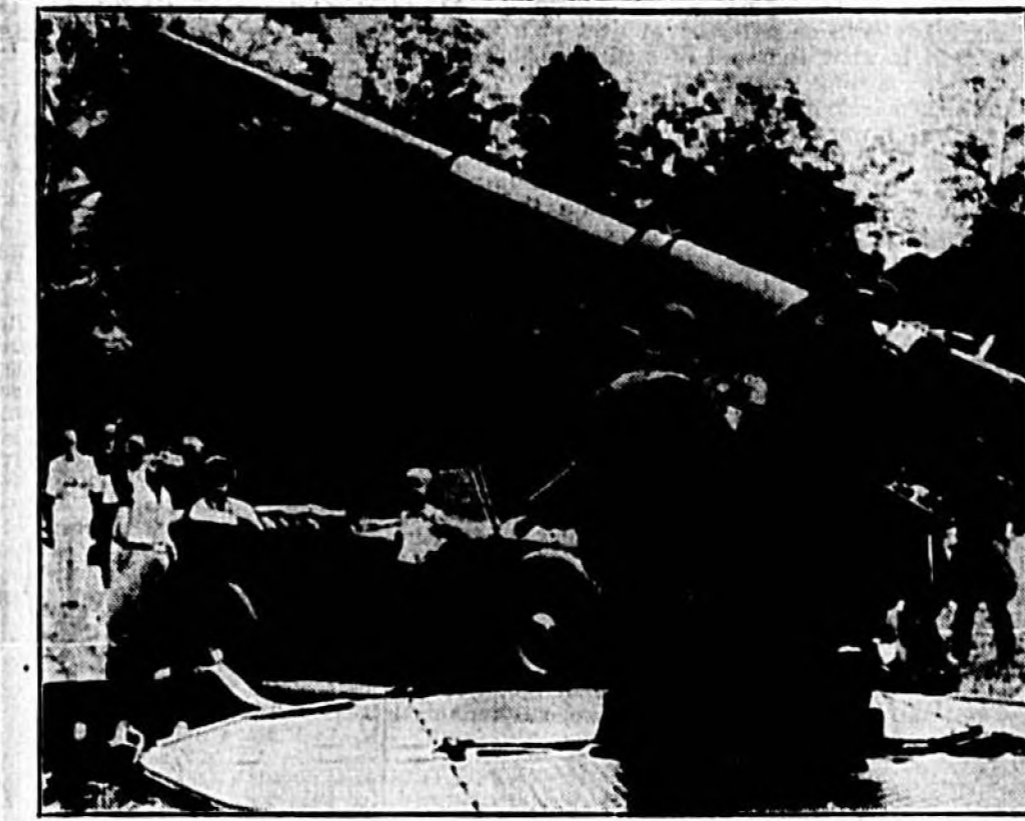

Yesterday's City court docket was a short one, since there were only nine cases to be tried, with two of those being transferred to the County Court docket, one being dismissed, and three principals entering a plea of guilty.

W. B. Mills, Daytona Beach printer, who was given a retrial by Judge Frank L. Miller, following his sentence of several weeks ago of 60 days in jail with no alternative of a fine, was released under the condition that he meet certain stipulations as set by the City Judge.

Mills' first offense in this city cost him $200, when he was arrested for drunken and reckless driving. The Daytona paid the first fine, but two weeks later was caught here again by Chief Roy G. Williams, driving while intoxicated. When he was brought before Judge Miller, the 60-day jail sentence was handed down to him, but he later put up an appeal bond and received

Housewives Take Active Interest In U. S. Politics

Vigorous Drive Made To Get Out Women Voters In November

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Republican and Democratic women leaders have initiated an intensive campaign throughout New York state to place their presidential and gubernatorial preferences in the forefront preparatory to the November elections.

From various sections come reports of vigorous drives by women political leaders to line up their forces. Housewives are being urged, as never before, to interest themselves in politics. Although the election is still months away, women leaders anticipate one of the greatest exoduses from the kitchen to the polls in the history of the Empire state.

Rep. William Lemke's entrance into the presidential race as a candidate of the new union party undoubtedly will bolster the aggregate vote.

Here, in President Roosevelt's home state, Republicans are calling upon anti-New Deal Democrats to join their forces in support of the Landon-Knox ticket.

Democratic women leaders are appealing for united support for the New Deal. While the political pot is kept bubbling by the major parties, the union party is receiving

New Battleships To Have 35,000 Ton Displacement

United States Has No Big Naval Bases To Use For Relief

By LLOYD LEHRBAS WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Did you ever try to weigh a battleship?

The one known fact concerning the two battleships to be built by the United States Navy, beginning soon after Jan. 1, is that they will be of precisely 35,000 tons displacement.

That tonnage figure means, Navy officers explain, that when the battleship is launched and placed in commission, loaded down with all the mechanical gadgets a modern fighting ship must have, it will displace the equivalent of 35,000 tons of water, and also weigh that number of tons of 2,240 pounds each.

The steel framework and plates, engines, boilers, armor, guns, wires, electric lights, kitchen equipment—everything that goes into the manufacture of a battleship—is weighed, or its weight known, while the warship of the future is still nothing more than a sketch or a blueprint.

The standard displacement of 35,000 tons—permitted by the London naval pact—includes everything except extra water for the boilers and fuel.

Battleship weight is now such a fine science, officers add, that the number of officers and crew to be carried is set in advance and 1,000 pounds each estimated for every man's weight, clothes, baggage, and his proportion of food and water carried.

So precise is that weighing-in, the Navy's experts declared, that if it were possible to hoist the completed battleship on a gigantic scale it would balance the pointer at 35,000 tons.

Why 35,000 tons? The United States has no big naval bases scattered around the world—as Great Britain and other nations have—and it would therefore be impossible for an American battleship to put into port for fuel, water, food or other supplies in an emergency. To overcome that handicap the American Navy adopted the rule long ago to build its battleships so that they would be, as far as possible, self-sustaining.

Battleships are also "the backbone of the fleet" and must be capable of standing up against the warships of any other nation in an emergency. Other nations have battleships with 16-inch guns that hurl gigantic shells 20 miles or more, and an American battleship must, therefore, carry armor of a thickness to protect it against enemy shells.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—(AP)—The United States Navy launched a new building program today by opening bids for 12 new destroyers and 6 submarines.

Soon after the first of the year, bids also will be opened on two new battleships. The program is designed to build the Navy's fighting strength up to full treaty limits by 1942.

France Insists She Is Neutral

But Threatens Help May Be Given Madrid Government

(By The Associated Press) Italy, warily keeping her fleet of 1,500 Fascist warplanes in a state of readiness, let it be known today that a compromise Franco-Italian agreement on Spanish neutrality is in sight.

Such a compromise, Fascist leaders indicated, might mean Italy would give up her demand that Socialist France stop "expressions of public opinion at home on behalf of the Socialist Spanish government."

Earlier informed Italian sources said that Dictator Mussolini had served notice the air fleet would aid the Spanish rebels if France fails to abstain from intervention and "moral support for the Spanish government."

Paris officials quickly said France would abandon her present position of neutrality if Italy undertakes to aid the rebels. They insisted that France is still neutral in word and deed.

Great Britain, seeking to avert any incident which might add to the danger of a new world war, prohibited the shipment of airplanes and war materiel from Britain to either side in the Spanish civil war.

Rome reports stated Italian and French airmen actually had already exchanged shots over Gibraltar as part of the rebellion. Some Fascists credited an Italian bomber with damaging the Spanish government cruiser "Jaime First" which salved seized from Fascist officers at the start of the fighting 33 days ago.

Rebels from the headquarters at Burgos, declared both Italy and Germany are ready to extend full recognition to the Fascist Spanish government on the day the rebels take Madrid if they do.

On the actual battle front in northern Spain, the rebels advanced to within 600 yards of Irun.

The socialist government at Madrid insisted it was within its rights to obtain assistance from foreign powers, but said aid given by the rebels would be a violation of international law and probably would be reported to the League of Nations for action.

Government leaders declined to discuss reports that France was already aiding the government.

ROME, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Italy's mighty air fleet was in a state of readiness last night, and pilots were ordered to be prepared for flight, at a moment's notice, as well-informed sources said Premier Mussolini would help openly Spanish fascist rebels if France continued openly aiding the socialist Madrid government.

All strategic airdromes along the Tyrrhenian coast were ordered kept prepared for any developments.

Aviators were told to remain within call, all planes were ordered tuned for a take-off, and a cat-vas was made to learn which pilots spoke or understood Spanish.

Radio messages from both sides in Spain were being intercepted by the powerful government radio station near Rome which is ordered to devote its activities to (Continued on page 2)
