NAS Wing Host Greek Children

On September 30th the Tigers of VAH-1 and USS Independence played the very rewarding role of hosts for a group of Greek crippled children.

Early in the afternoon, 48 youngsters whose ages ranged from five to fourteen arrived from the Hellenic Society for Crippled Children, the Greek affiliate of the International Society for the Welfare of Cripples. As they were warmly greeted by their Heavy Attack One escorts, the wide-eyed expressions revealed their obvious pleasure in being aboard the Navy's newest super-carrier. From their squeals of delight while being whisked to the ship's flight deck on their first escalator ride, to the profound expressions of awe as they viewed the swept wing jet aircraft poised on the flight deck, their tour throughout the vast expanse of Independence was marked with avid interest.

Following the tour, the group gathered in the Tigers ready room for a surprise treat of ice cream, cookies, and punch. The ready room rocked with laughter as a reel of cartoon movies transcended the barriers of languages and proved to be the hit of the day.

Before leaving the ship each of the guests was presented with a "T" shirt as a memento of a delightful afternoon. The warm associations engendered during the visit will be long remembered by the children and hosts alike.

Heavy Attack Squadron One is based at NAS Sanford when not on assignment. An important component of the Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean.

Report Expected On Sub Activity

HONOLULU (UPI)—The Navy was expected to issue a report late today on efforts by a U. S. hunter-killer force of five ships and scores of planes to locate a foreign submarine.

A spokesman at Pearl Harbor said Sunday the search was "still on" in the area where an "underwater contact" had been under surveillance by Navy planes.

The hunter-killer force was dispatched after an Air Force radar crew said it made a "positive" sighting of an unidentified submarine about 400 miles off the coast of northern California.

Vice Adm. John S. Thach, commander of Pacific anti-submarine forces, emphasized that the Navy would make no hostile moves against such a vessel, but that it would be kept under observation "for a reasonable amount of time."

Thach said if the contact turns out to be a Russian submarine, it is in international waters "where it has every right to be."

However, Thach said the scope is "a long way from known submarine bases," and it would be valuable to establish the identity of any foreign warships there.

French Open Marathon Debate

PARIS (UPI)—The French National Assembly today opened a marathon 25-hour debate on President Charles DeGaulle's controversial plan for an independent nuclear striking force for France.

The government, facing its first major test of strength with a rebellious parliament, was asking permission to spend approximately $2.4 billion during the next five years on equipping and modernizing France's armed forces.

About one-half of this was earmarked for a nuclear striking force equipped with French-built atomic bombers, rockets, nuclear bombs and warheads, rocket-firing warships and submarines.

The bill has been sharply assailed by the Communists, Socialists, parts of the Radicals and Independents and by the extreme right. The only solid support has come from the Gaullist Union for the New Republic UNR, which controls about one-third of the assembly's 470 seats.

Here's New Style In Bank Robbing

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—"I want 30 ones, 30 fives and 50 tens," said the stylishly dressed man Monday to a cashier at a branch of Security First National Bank.

Pulling out a small revolver and pointing it at cashier Carol Ann Jerskie, the man asked softly, "That comes to $300, doesn't it?"

She nodded, she smiled while she counted out the money and then he fled with the loot.

U. S. Preparing Nuclear Test Ban Treaty Nears Reality After Hurdle

GENEVA (UPI)—Western diplomats said today an agreement reached by the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union has moved another major hurdle standing in the way of a nuclear test ban treaty.

Delegates to the 23-month-old nuclear test ban talks Monday formally adopted a second annex to a proposed treaty. The annex concerns privileges and immunities which would be accorded the staff of the control organization policing a test ban.

U. S. delegates Charles C. Stelle, who presented the final content of the annex and the suggested treaty language, said its adoption was "a landmark of sorts."

Stelle said the U. S. government "hopes most sincerely this landmark will be the beginning of further agreements, culminating in the agreement on a treaty. This is a cause for satisfaction and the need for redoubled efforts."

The Soviet Union's chief delegate, Semson K. Tsarapkin, said the annex marked "rather big" progress and said the outlook for an agreement on a treaty "was hopeful."

British delegate Sir Michael Wright placed his arm around Tsarapkin's shoulder after the meeting and grinned: "Three-hundred international lawyers are out of a job. We have agreed on an annex."

Actress' Daughter Found Dead

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bridget Hayward, daughter of actress Margaret Sullivan who died of an accidental overdose of barbiturates early this year, was discovered dead in her apartment late Monday and police said today an "incoherent note" was found in the apartment.

An investigation into the cause of the 21-year-old attractive blonde's mysterious death was launched by police, who said they were not notified until nearly six hours after the body was taken to a morgue.

An autopsy was scheduled today.

Broadway producer-director Leonard Hayward, who apparently discovered his daughter's body and called a private physician could not be located by police during the night for questioning.

Assistant Medical Examiner John Devlin said Miss Hayward had been dead for some time when he was summoned by Dr. Shirley Fisk, Hayward's personal physician.

Devlin would not divulge the contents of the "incoherent note" found in the 14th floor Manhattan apartment in which Miss Hayward lived alone.

She was the second of three children by the late actress' marriage to Hayward who was her agent when they were married in 1936. They were divorced in 1947.

Klansman Faces Kidnaping Count

NEWNAN, Ga. (UPI)—A white man identified by the sheriff as a member of the Ku Klux Klan was bound over to a grand jury Monday on a kidnaping charge growing out of the flogging of a Negro couple.

Sol. Gen. Wright Lippford said the flogging of B. J. Johnson, 59, and Aliene Redwine, 33, on Oct. 6, was the third such incident in Carroll County in three months. Victims of the other two attacks, he said, were "too frightened" to press charges.

The victims of the Oct. 6 attack identified Arlin Bass, 38, as one of the six white men who allegedly took them into the woods near Whitesburg, Ga. forced them to strip and then beat them with a leather strap.

Sheriff Hugh Lee Lambert identified Bass as a member of the KKK. Bass was released under $5,000 bond to await grand jury action on kidnaping charges.

Lippford issued a fiery statement condemning "the small group in Carroll County who call themselves the Citizens Committee or the Ku Klux Klan." He urged private citizens to assist officers in stamping out outrages such as the one that happened Oct. 6 in Whitesburg.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My son, who is in the third grade, is being exposed to a certain phase of sex education in the classroom that does not meet with my approval. His teacher is "expecting." She announced it to the class!

The children watch for her daily progress and ask her a lot of questions, which my son says she answers.

She told them she was entering her fifth month and plans to teach through her seventh.

I always thought it was the parents' place to tell their children the facts of life, not a stranger's. A third grader has plenty of time to learn those things, and now he is asking ME questions. I resent having been pushed into explaining things before he is ready. My neighbor says I am narrow-minded. Am I?

ONE BOY'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: A child who is old enough to ask, is old enough to be told. Exposure to motherhood in the developmental stages can do your son no harm. I think he is fortunate to have such a teacher.

DEAR ABBY: My husband calls himself a business man and makes a very good living. I have seen him buy cigarettes by the carton from a minor boy (17). He pays this boy much less than the regular wholesale price. He does some fancy figuring and is cheating the boy and breaking the law to boot. This bird can read and write and has been in business for 20 years. He is setting a bad example for our 16-year-old son who sees what he is doing and is nobody's fool. If I turned my husband in the whole family would suffer because of this idiot. What can I do?

HELPLESS

DEAR HELPLESS: Your husband may be financially solvent, but he is morally bankrupt. If you can't convince him to go straight—go straight to a lawyer and arrange separate maintenance (no divorce) and see if that doesn't change his business tactics.

DEAR ABBY: My letter might come as a shock to Howard, who raised Cain with you for okaying padding. I am a man of 40 who spent 20 years in Uncle Sam's Navy. I've gone out with girls all over the world. Some were padded and some were not. Some were all there and some were all there and yet more, too. I never enjoyed their company any more or less for these features. Last year I met and married the woman worth waiting for. She had false teeth and false this and false that. I didn't know anything was false except the teeth before I married her. Believe me, Abby, she can put all those beefy glamour girls to shame. It's personality and character and real devotion that counts!

DAVE

CONFIDENTIAL TO "SICK INSIDE": Tell your husband you found the letter. He owes you an explanation.

For Abby's pamphlet, "What Teenagers Want To Know," send 25 cents and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope in care of this paper.

There Is A New Fashion

The recent convention in Chicago of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association has provided us with some interesting hair style news.

mittes of the above association says that the hair silhouette and the new styles show a decided trend toward a smaller head look. This is important because it will influence the type of hat you wear.

The "Fluid Bang" coiffure is the big new. It has been especially designed to harmonize with new fall and winter fashions. Sometimes the bang appears as if "draped" on the bias, and sometimes it has a "bounce with a flounce" effect. The hair is groomed to have a flowing, softly massed effect and this season the hair is styled to keep up with the elegance of fashion.

To be practical, the bangs will vary from two to three inches, depending on the width of your forehead. At the crown of the head the hair length will range from three to four and a half inches, tapering into a soft neckline, where the hair may be from a half inch to an inch and a half in length. The length depends upon the type neck you have.

Hair coloring will be greatly used and the crown of the head will be deep and the color tone will lighten toward the face. But don't try this charming effect by yourself. Have it done by a professional hairdresser.

Fashion colors are influencing hair styles. The demand is for the hazy amethyst tones and deep purple blends so beautifully with silver tones for "Silverettes" (my name for you). The wonderful amber and brown shades call for "Cafe au Lait" hair, and the burnt wine reds are calling for auburn hair. So, match your hair to your favorite wardrobe shades. It's fun and fashion combined!

You can change your hair color as well as your mind, and sometimes it is a very wise move. Try it now and then!

Mixing Work And World Series Just Messes Up The Thinking

WASHINGTON (UPI)—For the past week, I have been trying to do my work and follow the World Series at the same time. It hasn't been easy.

For instance, with two Pirates on base and nobody out in the fifth inning Wednesday, Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield opened a demonstration of a new high-speed mail sorting machine.

This was exquisite timing on Summerfield's part and it provided a severe test of my ability to combine baseball with journalism. So if my account of the demonstration becomes a little confusing at times, you will understand why.

I mean, Summerfield's machine worked fine but Bill Mazeroski, the next Pittsburgh batter, hit into a double play.

The machine, developed by the Pitney-Bowes Company at a cost of $2 million, is called "the box-of-Don Hoak," the Pittsburgh third baseman, is called "The Tiger," and Bill Skeron, the New York first baseman, is called "The Moose."

Walter H. Wheeler Jr., Pitney-Bowes board chairman, described the machine as "a significant accomplishment in the postal mechanization program." Danny Murtagh, Pittsburgh manager, sent in a pinch hitter.

Wheeler handed Summerfield a golden key with which to start the machine. Rocky Nelson ended the Pittsburgh rally by striking out.

Summerfield led off the Yankee half of the sixth inning with a triple off the right field wall. Big pardon, it was Clell Boyer who did that. Summerfield slid into a postal worker's chair and posed for photographs.

In front of Summerfield was a long stack of envelopes, which had been mailed by the Democratic presidential campaign headquarters. Summerfield is a Republican. Tony Kubek is a Yankee, who singled home Boyer.

Only one of the machine's 12 input stations was operating at this point, but with the score standing at 7-0, the other 11 were promptly turned on. This brought up Roger Maris, who hit a single, sending Kubek to third.

Quite A Switch For Political Reporters Covering Auto Show

By FRED DANZIG
NEW YORK (UPI)—A full hour of peaceful coexistence in the automotive world was put on display Sunday night.

CBS-TV cameras and news correspondents paid a visit to the new Cobo Hall in Detroit, where the 43rd annual National Automobile Show was in progress. We saw all the latest gas-driven goodies — the Ford, Chevelle, Cadillac, Plymouth, Rambler, Larks, all of them—all fraternizing, hubcap to hubcap under the same roof.

Ed's CBS-TV hour was taped in San Francisco. It launched a new series, titled "Eye America," which will be a city-of-the-month feature of the Sullivan show this season.

The premiere indicates Sullivan & Co. are on the right trolley track. Promising, as we say, the problem Sunday night was in bleeding the city's many attractions into the variety format. Several of the numbers contained only the barest amount of local interest. But there was one great contemporary "show biz" landmark—Mort Sahl videotaped while manning the barricades at a cabaret called the "Hungry i."

Jack Benny's season opener Sunday night found George Burns, Tony Curtis, Robert Wagner and Mike Wallace trying to convince

Jack that he could never survive the rigors of a half-hour weekly show. They were steered the predictable. Only the final few minutes, when Jack heard "testimonials" from Charles de Gaulle and Patrice Lumumba,

Electra Probers Working On 'Bird' Theory

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Investigators are working on a theory that a bird-clogged air speed indicator may have contributed to the crash of an Eastern Air Lines Electra at Boston Oct. 4, it was learned today.

One of the probers looking into the crash was William H. 42 per cent, told United Press International that all indications point to a loss of controllable air speed seconds after the plane hit a huge flock of migrating starlings.

What investigators will be looking for, he said, is evidence of bird remains in the pitot tubes—an air intake device on the outside of the fuselage connected to the air speed indicators. The air sucked into the tubes governs the air speed readings in the cockpit.

Sufficient air speed is critical during a takeoff. If a pilot encountered trouble during takeoff, such as engine failure, and found his air speed indicator inoperative, he could lose flying speed without realizing it and stall.

It is definitely known that the Eastern Electra lost at least one engine, probably two and perhaps even three shortly after becoming airborne—apparently because the turbine-driven power plants became clogged with birds.

An Electra takes off at a speed of about 135 knots. If two engines quit around that speed, particularly on the same side as seemed to be the case at Boston, the plane would still maintain altitude but there would be a noticeable yaw or turn. To correct the yaw, it would be necessary to apply rudder force—and this is where the air speed indicator theory comes in.

At a speed of below 125 knots, there is insufficient airflow on the rudder for any force to be applied. The investigators are speculating that:

The Electra's air speed indicators were not functioning, thus leaving the crew helpless to determine whether they had dropped below the minimum speed for applying corrective rudder force; this is what "loss of controllable air speed" means.

Compounding the difficulty was the probable spattering of bird remains on the cockpit windshield, thus blinding both pilots so they could not judge the severity of the law.

Cone Firm Suspension Asked In Investigation Of Bribery

TAMPA (UPI) — Cone Brothers Construction Company of Tampa, Florida's largest road-building firm, is expected to be suspended from further bidding on road jobs until a determination is made of their guilt or innocence in connection with the alleged bribery of Road Department employees.

State Road Board Chairman William Killian said he will recommend the suspension to the board at a meeting in Tallahassee Thursday and he expects the board to go along.

Testimony before a legislative committee Tuesday led to suspension without pay for 10 highway engineers, who walked out of the hearing on advice of counsel.

The committee is investigating testimony that the construction firm had been mailing weekly "pay envelopes" to road employees.

Killian said the Road Board will make its own investigation if the committee does not establish guilt or innocence.

Killian said he is not taking Cone Bros. off the seven jobs on which it is now working, totalling some $6.5 million. But he said he has sent inspectors to check each job to determine if there has been any faulty work.

Killian suspended the Road Department engineers on the grounds "their ability to perform their duties under this cloud is impaired." He said the suspension will continue until the investigation is completed.

The first witness today was M. L. Kimble of Safety Harbor, assistant engineer in charge of construction in the Bartow district. Kimble identified an envelope containing $25 which he said was mailed to him.

He said he had received such envelopes "off and on" but that he did not know where they came from. He said he generally received such envelopes on Saturdays.

Bob Kennedy Jr., a state auditor on loan to the Legislature's Interim Committee on Roads and Highways, told the committee's public hearing Tuesday he had found reports of $25 payments to Road Department engineers in petty cash vouchers and other records seized from the Cone Brothers by a deputy sheriff last Friday.

And Elmer Rounds, chief committee investigator, testified he watched as Road Department employees picked up letters containing the alleged payoffs at a Tampa post office. The employees were served with summonses on the spot.

He testified that he watched a Cone Brothers car deliver mail to the post office Friday afternoon. He said he discovered plain white envelopes addressed to State Road Department employees, all carrying the return address of the home of Fred H. Poe, a Cone Brothers superintendent.

In each of the white envelopes, Rounds said, was a green Manilla envelope "like a pay envelope" containing two $10 bills and a $5 bill.

"How bad can it get when you catch them with the money in their hands?" commented Rep. Ray Mattox, committee member from Polk County. "We're just scratching the surface."

Observing the hearing was Sherman Wilson, an investigator for the Blain Congressional Committee that also is investigating the Interstate highway program.

Wilson said he was a member of the Blain Congressional Committee that also is investigating the Interstate highway program.

Judge Explains Importance Of Vote On Amendments

The importance of voting on the six constitutional amendments in the November general election was explained by Circuit Judge Volie Williams Jr. to the Business and Professional Women's Club at its meeting Tuesday night.

Judge Williams stressed that "although you may not favor some of the amendments they are all important and nobody should overlook them on the ballot."

Judge Williams explained that amendment No. 1 proposes additional judges for district courts of appeal. This amendment is of considerable importance as there are more and more appeals coming before the judges and more judges are needed, he said.

Amendment No. 2 provides for absentee registration of voters who are members of the armed forces and their families living outside the U.S.

Amendment No. 3, proposes that the present game and fish commission come under the supervision of the legislature.

Amendment No. 4, provides that not less than 45 percent of all income taxes levied and collected by the state, or under its authority, from the operation of pari-mutuel pools be allocated and distributed in equal parts to the various counties.

U.S. Bans Goods Shipment To Cuba

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States moved today to cut away the economic foundation of the Fidel Castro government, banning the sale of "most commodities," except food and medicine to Cuba.

The Castro regime, which nationalized nearly 400 private businesses earlier this month, will thus be left without a source for replacement parts to run its seized U. S.-made machines in oil, sugar and other mills.

The Commerce Department's action, sharp taken since this country wiped out its subsidy program for Cuban sugar, was teamed up with a Maritime Administration crackdown on sale, transfer or charter of U. S.-owned ships for Cuba.

The department's formal announcement to the export regulations said the curb was being imposed "in view of the deterioration of relationships between Cuba and the United States."

The department, which administers the government's export controls, said the ban on exports to Cuba was in accordance with the wishes of Congress as expressed in the Export Control Act.

It "quarantined" portions of the law which declares that it is the policy of the United States to use export controls "to further the foreign policy" of the government "and to aid in fulfilling its international responsibilities and to exercise the necessary vigilance over exports from the standpoint of their significance to the national security."

The department said it has not revoked any individual export licenses for Cuba already issued.

It said commodities banned under the new, tighter export regulation may be shipped to Cuba through Nov. 21 if they "were on dock or loading, on lighter, laden aboard an exporting carrier or in transit to a port of exit" before 12:01 a. m. Thursday.

The announcement said the department would consider applications for export of wheat and wheat flour "in the light of the international wheat agreement."

Deal By Miamian To Buy Mayfair May Be Canceled

The proposed purchase of the Mayfair Inn, motel and golf course for an estimated $600,000 by Ben Ball of Miami appears to have encountered obstacles.

An official of Rosen Associates of Miami today said that Ball informed the firm handling the transaction that illness has left him physically unable to handle the operation of the Mayfair.

The official closing of the sale was scheduled Nov. 15.

"The deal is shaky right now," the Rosen official said.

However, he added that his firm has not entirely given up hope that the final negotiations will be completed.

He denied a report that Ball suffered a heart attack after viewing the recent high water around the Inn.

Ball visited Sanford last month and held a news conference telling the press that he plans to improve the Mayfair facilities and help boost the hotel business in this area.

The City Commission met in special session Tuesday afternoon and by a 3-1 majority voted to recall a previous resolution approving the merger of the Atlantic Coast Line and Seaboard Railroads.

On Sept. 26, the commission went on record as favoring the merger after hearing representatives of the ACL discuss the merits of the merger.

Opposing the recall resolution Tuesday was Commissioner Joe Baker, who said "I feel we did the right thing the first time."

Commissioner A. L. Wilson, who asked for the recall resolution, said that "we may have acted too hastily. I believe we should get more of the facts before we reach a decision on whether favoring the merger or not."

Wilson said that he had been assured that there would not be any layoffs in Sanford because of the merger but "now I'm not too sure."

Both Commissioners Robert Bogen and J. H. Crapps agreed to recall the resolution until additional facts are presented.

Earlier in the day, the county commission agreed to ask the Interstate Commerce Commission to hold a hearing in the Sanford area so they could decide the merits of the proposed merger.

A delegation of railroad trainmen appeared before the county board and said that if the merger was approved the Sanford terminal could be disbanded.

Wilson said that he had been assured that there would not be any layoffs in Sanford because of the merger but "now I'm not too sure."

Both Commissioners Robert Bogen and J. H. Crapps agreed to recall the resolution until additional facts are presented.

ACL Engine Hits Truck; One Hurt

A 25-year-old Longwood carpenter escaped serious injury Tuesday afternoon when an Atlantic Coast Line engine slammed into his pick-up truck in Longwood.

Thomas Lee Dyer was reported in "good" condition at Seminole Memorial Hospital at noon today after suffering back and nose injuries and body lacerations.

Deputies reported that the engine was going at approximately 70 miles per hour when it hit the Dyer truck.

Investigating officer Robert Norwood reported that Dyer, turning off SR 474 into Longwood, apparently didn't see the engine coming when the accident occurred.

The truck, a 1942 model, was called a total wreck by deputies. The impact of the engine threw the truck some 75 feet, deputies said.

No charges have been filed as yet.

The Campaign

Nixon

WILMINGTON, Del. (UPI) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon put the Cuban crisis at the fore front of his campaign today, but he also hit hard at the Democrats on the bread-and-butter issue of unemployment.

The Republican candidate issued a statement challenging Sen. John F. Kennedy's "full employment" promises by charging that the Roosevelt and Truman administrations were unable to ease unemployment without wars.

Nixon said on this basis that Kennedy's "showing promises" to expand the number of jobs "aren't worth a plugged nickel."

But the big current item in Nixon's campaign was his announcement at the American Legion's national convention in Miami Tuesday that this country "will very promptly take the strongest possible economic measures to counter the economic banditry" against Americans by Fidel Castro's Cuban regime.

Nixon made the Cuba announcement in a speech which he described as "non-political" but in which he defended the administration's overall defense and diplomatic program and aimed several implied jabs at Kennedy.

County Democrats To Get Out Vote

County supporters of State Democratic candidates and officials of the County Democratic Committee agreed to launch an "all-out get out the vote drive" immediately in preparation for the November general election.

State Democratic party workers and the county Democratic committee, represented by Chairman R. S. Billheimer, plan an all-out telephone drive to get the Democrats to the polls and to vote "the straight Democratic ticket."

Joe Davis, chairman of the Kennedy-Johnson ticket in the county, said at the meeting his group will work hand in hand with state Democratic leaders here to produce a Democratic ticket vote.

On hand for the meeting were Harold Johnson, county campaign chairman for Doyle Conner, running for commissioner of agriculture; Mack Cleveland Jr., campaign chairman for Richard Ervin seeking reelection for the attorney general's post.
