

The Scoop That Wasn't

TV Guide And Its 'Cowardly' Cocaine Crusade

By DAVID HANDLER

Special to the Herald
NEW YORK (NEA) — TV Guide, that usually sober digest of celebrity profiles, service features and program listings, has surprised quite a few people with its two-part cover story on cocaine abuse in the television industry, entitled "Hollywood's Cocaine Connection: An Investigative Report on the hidden ingredients that may be poisoning programs you watch."

It is no scoop to report widespread cocaine use in the entertainment business, be it the record industry, movies or television. That is not the surprise. What is so surprising is the length TV Guide has gone to promote an "expose" by staffer Frank Swerlow that names no names, relies almost exclusively on anonymous sources and, in the end, sheds no new light.

You've seen all those special commercials for the TV Guide and its razor blade in lines of cocaine, only to be blown away by a gust of wind.

And you've seen the brand of reporting contained in this two-part series, though usually in the sleazy tabloids hawked next to the supermarket check-out counters:
"An actress working on a Norman Lear series was fired because of her drug problem."
"There are people who are in high places at the networks and at studios because somewhere along the line they have gotten people drugs."

Yes, you've seen this kind of reporting before, but seldom if ever in TV Guide. While the "investigative report" does mention names of performers whose drug-related problems have already been made public — Richard Pryor, Mackenzie Phillips, Freddie Prince — the bulk of Swerlow's reporting is a collection of teasers, a guessing game of blind items more commonly found in the gossip columns.

TV Guide had, it seems, serious intentions. The magazine appears upset by its "revelations." "We recommend," it editorializes, "that the Hollywood creative community turn its creative energies to combating this pernicious problem."

But its reporting fails to upset the reader, who is mainly interested in trying to guess who the unnamed celebrities are. Furthermore, while the magazine suggests that cocaine abuse accounts for a percentage of the inept productions coming out of Hollywood, it offers no specific programs, no facts.

Clearly, Swerlow's sources are consistently unnamed because they requested anonymity. Statements about industry drug abuse are attributed to performers like Peter Strauss and Henry Winkler, but, again, the users they discuss are not identified.

Why the guessing game? For TV Guide to name names is for it to open itself up for lawsuits. Expensive lawsuits, lawsuits that could be very damaging to the magazine's position in the television industry. If it were wrong, that is.

TV Guide has swaggered up to a very important story only to lift it away. It has been launched in its own crusade, and it certainly has the resources to back one (its publisher recently gave $150 million to charity). But it didn't have the guts to pull it off. Cowardice, plain and simple.

The magazine has then turned around and promoted what little information it has provided us with as if it had come across the next Watergate. End result: TV Guide has made its own editorial cowardice all the more conspicuous.

Seminole Schools Suffer Most Under CETA Cutback

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole County public school system stands to be the hardest hit by the latest cuts of the Reagan administration in funding for portions of the CETA (Comprehensive Employment Training Act) program.

A total of 145 jobs are to be lost county-wide within the next 90 days in positions ranging from teacher aides to aides in social service agencies.

Eighty-two of those jobs are with the public school system and at least 25 of those jobs are considered critical.

Fred Taylor, director of federal programs in transportation for the Seminole school system, confirmed today that the funding for the jobs is to be halted on April 30.

Leonard Carswell, the county's manpower manager, said funding for the 100 Title IID jobs, 82 of them with the school board, ends April 30. Another 45 jobs under Title VI will lose funding by June 30.

The school board positions include 41 working as "utility" office aides, considered training positions teaching persons to work in offices and handle telephone and office copy equipment; 12 physical education aides, used to help exceptional (educably handicapped) children on the athletic field; eight bus aides on exceptional child buses; two environmental aides; five aides for exceptional children in the classroom assisting with communication aides; four in the county office, helping with management information service payroll, finance and the in-service program.

"This is going to be a shock nationwide," Taylor said. If the positions are replaced in the 1981-82 school year, the money for them will have to be in the county budget. "I can't say whether these jobs will be funded or not," Taylor said. "It is unfortunate."

Taylor said the 12 physical education aides for the handicapped children are critical positions and that he expects principals to ask that they be funded in the 1981-82 school year budget. He said he plans to ask that the eight bus aides on the exceptional child buses also be funded in the regular budget. President Reagan has said anything, yet about the CETA IIB or youth employment training program yet, Taylor said. Under the programs upward of 450 youth are given jobs, mostly in the school system, during the summer. Another part of the program permits needy children to work two hours daily, 10 hours per week for non-profit agencies. "We have the money in the bank to pay the costs for those students for the six to eight weeks in the summer," Taylor said. Carswell said the county was originally allocated $1,161,424 for the Title IID program. Of that sum $454,676 has been rescinded, leaving a balance of $706,748 plus a carryover of $127,128 from the previous year for a new total of $833,876. The Title VI program $424,823 was originally allocated, with $170,207 now rescinded, leaving a balance of $254,616 plus a carryover of $104,723 for a new total of $359,339.

Under the approved plan by the Reagan administration all those who are losing their jobs will be able to draw unemployment compensation," Carswell said.

There is no way to tell how much will be spent for unemployment compensation until we see how many of these employees we can place," Carswell said.

The federal government will be paying the costs of the unemployment compensation, Carswell said.

Moderate Caffeine Use Not Harmful

NEW YORK (UPI) — Moderate use of caffeine won't harm the health of most Americans, a report made public Wednesday said, noting 182 million people consume some of the central nervous stimulant daily.

The report from the American Council on Science and Health was endorsed by Dr. Frederick Stare, professor emeritus of nutrition at Harvard School of Public Health, and a council board member.

But it is at odds with the Food and Drug Administration and, in particular, a FDA pamphlet currently in many supermarket reading racks. The pamphlet cautions pregnant women about caffeine.

The report also is out of tune with reports of a possible caffeine link to birth defects (based on animal studies), cancer, heart attacks, diabetes, ulcers and emotional disorders. "There is little evidence to support such charges," said the ACSH report based on a review of 10,000 scientific studies on caffeine and health. The study was coordinated by Dr. Tobin, biochemistry professor at the Catholic University of America, Washington, D.C.

The FDA last year proposed caffeine be removed from the GRAS (generally regarded as safe) list of food chemicals. Caffeine, a central nervous system stimulant, is a naturally-occurring chemical found in more than 83 plant species. Coffee is the most common source in the American diet. Other sources include tea, cocoa (the base of chocolate candy and syrups), some soft drinks such as colas, many over-the-counter drugs — especially cold, dieting and headache remedies.

The ACSH report did not plunge into the newest coffee controversy, the beverage's possible link to pancreatic cancer — a statistical link suggested about a week ago in a "New England Journal of Medicine" report from Harvard School of Public Health scientists.

But Dr. Elizabeth Whelan, executive director of the council, said the report declaring caffeine no health hazard for most Americans in moderation does not conflict with the Harvard report.

"The Harvard study on pancreatic cancer," she said, "focused on coffee and not the caffeine in coffee. Coffee, a complex compound, contains over 300 organic substances including caffeine, tars, acids and other compounds produced during roasting and processing."

The ACSH, founded in 1977 with start-up money from the Scifie Foundation in Pittsburgh, Pa., is a nonprofit, tax-exempt association of scientists. It claims to provide balanced evaluations of chemicals, the environment and human health.

NASHVILLE, Mich. (UPI) — The 1,600 residents of tiny Nashville are mad as heck over skyrocketing property taxes and they aren't going to take it any more.

Local businessmen — increased because the state has raised their commercial property tax assessments from 40 to 100 percent — are going to shut down the town next Wednesday. "These taxes are driving everybody right out of the state or out of business," said local retailer Alamo Jordan. "They're as inflationary as the devil and it's just got to stop." "This is a depressed area, always has been. Now it's getting worse."

Baseball's Zinn Beck Dead At 95

"Baseball was his life," Calvin Griffith owner of the Minnesota Twins Major League Team, said of Zinn Beck, whose 75-year career in the sport ended Thursday with his death in West Palm Beach at the age of 95.

Beck, who moved to Sanford 32 years ago, had made his home at 1803 S. Sanford Ave., until six months ago when ill health caused him to go to Lake Worth to live with his daughter, Mrs. Nita Brennan. The Zinn Beck Field here was named in his honor.

Until that time Beck was still active as a baseball scout for the Minnesota Twins, for whom he had worked 45 of his 51 years as a scout.

"Zinn had that instinct," Griffith said. "He could look at a guy and tell if he would be a great ball player or a mediocre one. You know how much we (the Twins organization) thought of him for the time he was a member of our organization. He was a guiding light for many major league ball players."

"Baseball will miss him," commented John Castino, Twins third baseman recruited by Beck from Rollins College. He was the last major league signed by Beck in 1976. "It always was grateful to Zinn for showing the confidence in me and recommending me so highly when some other scouts didn't."

"Zinn was the finest gentleman that was ever associated with baseball," said Wes Rinker, close personal friend of Beck and operator of the Sanford Memorial Stadium and Florida Baseball School.

Born in Steubenville, Ohio, on Sept. 30, 1885, Beck signed his first contract in 1907 and started in the major leagues in 1916 playing for the St. Louis Cardinals. He joined the New York Yankees in 1918, well before the famed Babe Ruth.

He signed countless players over the years, the most famous of whom was Baseball Hall of Famer Leon "Goose" Goslin. In an interview on his 94th birthday he attributed his longevity to "clean living." Beck's philosophy was "early to bed, early to rise." Up at 6 a.m. for breakfast, he would head for First Street where he and his cronies in the "coffee club" would sit on the benches debating the weighty issues of the day. Then he would drop by the ball park for an hour or two. On his 90th birthday he was presented with a wooden rocker, which has remained in the stadium office reserved for him should he drop in to rock a spell and talk a little baseball.

Funeral arrangements tentatively call for services to be held Thursday morning at the First United Methodist Church of Sanford. Burial will be in Evergreen Cemetery, where his late wife is buried.

1 Dead, 1 Critical Cape Accident Probe: Secret

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Space agency and Rockwell International engineers, operating under government secrecy, are investigating a nitrogen gas accident that killed one technician and injured another in the launch area with the space shuttle Columbia.

Five Rockwell International technicians were stricken Thursday after completion of the mock launch when they entered the shuttle's engine compartment, filled with nitrogen during the dry run as a fire prevention step.

Deprived of oxygen, the five began suffocating immediately. One technician died and the other four were hospitalized, with one in critical condition today. A fireman who pulled them to safety also was treated.

Engineers of both the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and Rockwell, the shuttle contractor, immediately began investigations. Tape recordings detailing activity on launch pad 39-A have been impounded.

Richard Barton, a spokesman for Rockwell International, said he was in the launch area with a reporter from National Geographic magazine and they both heard a "return to work" signal before starting the launch. "It came over the PA system," said Barton. "I heard it. (The reporter) heard it."

"It was about 8:45 or 8:50 a.m." — about two hours after the mock launch. "It came over the PA system," said Barton. "I heard it. (The reporter) heard it."

Hugh Harris, NASA's chief spokesman at the Kennedy Space Center, would not confirm or deny the report, saying such information was privy to the NASA team investigating the accident.

It was not yet known if someone erred by failing to stop the nitrogen purge of the engines or by failing to warn the workers to stay away. They would not have smelled anything peculiar on entering the deadly compartment.

The rehearsal, with astronauts Robert Crippen and John Young in full suit and taking the cockpit controls, was one of the last major tests the nation's first reusable rocket plane will be put through before making its maiden launch, tentatively set for April 7 — and already more than two years behind schedule.

The accident was not expected to affect the launch date. "Thursday's mishap at the shuttle's seaside launch pad was the first death associated with a launch or pre-launch operation since astronaut Virgil Grissom, Edward White and Roger Chaffee died in a launch-pad flash-fire during an Apollo countdown test in January 1967.

John Horganstad, 50, of Titusville, died in the space center infirmary about three hours after the accident. Forrest Cole was reported in critical condition today at Shands Teaching Hospital in Gainesville. William L. Wolford was in stable condition at Westouth Hospital in Cocoa.

After Multiple Personality Defense, Man Gets Life, Life

By BRITTI SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

One of the most bizarre criminal cases in recent Seminole County history ended Thursday when William Patrick Johnson, a man whom a minister claimed may have been possessed by Satan, received two consecutive life sentences for the kidnapping and rape of a 29-year-old Winter Springs woman.

Johnson, 37, is already serving a life sentence for last year's kidnap and robbery of a College Park woman.

The peculiar nature of the case so baffled a six-member Circuit Court jury in mid-November that it could not reach a verdict and a mistrial was declared.

Set to be retried in January, Johnson had an unexpected change of heart and on Jan. 8 pleaded guilty to charges of kidnapping and sexual battery.

The incident began on the night of April 17 when Johnson reportedly entered the home of a Winter Springs waitress under the guise of installing a burglar alarm.

After completing his work, he pulled a knife and a gun on his victim, then bound her hands and feet with tape and pony hose.

Chandler R. Muller, Johnson's attorney, did not deny in court that his client had committed the rape. Nor did he deny that only two weeks before, Johnson had bound and robbed a 24-year-old College Park woman at knife-point.

But Muller repeatedly claimed that Johnson was a schizophrenic with as many as five separate personalities. Orange County jail psychologist John Cassidy testified during the trial that the two most pronounced personalities are of Pat, a mild-mannered, good-natured bumbler, and Willard, an evil psychopath.

Johnson will stand trial for the kidnapping of his landlady, but his attorney will try to prove he was "possessed" and the killing was really the devil's work.

Johnson, 19, a lanky, quiet youth, was indicted Thursday by an 18-member grand jury in Danbury Superior Court for the Feb. 18 slaying of dog-kennel owner Alan Bono, 40, of Brookfield.

State's Attorney Walter D. Flanagan said he considered the Bono slaying a simple case of homicide. But defense lawyer Martin Minnella said he would prepare the first demonic possession defense in U.S. jurisprudence, arguing the demon "actually manipulated" Johnson's body.

Committee Approves $36 Billion In Cuts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate budget writers gave President Reagan an early victory on his massive spending cuts in a classic reversal of roles that found Democrats making long speeches for lack of power to change anything.

The Senate Budget Committee finished work Thursday on a $36 billion package of budget reductions that cut $2.3 billion deeper than the president requested.

Most of the difference came from wiping out funds for the government's strategic petroleum reserve — a decision immediately repudiated by the Senate Energy Committee.

In an action decried by liberals as taking from the poor to give to the rich, the committee also cut subsidized housing to be able to restore some of the money Reagan wanted cut from Export-Import Bank loans.

Democrats were frustrated by their failure to force even moderate changes in the Reagan cuts. They were reduced for the first time in 26 years to total dependence on Republican support for their proposals.

In a final outpouring — more than two hours of mostly Democratic rhetoric — liberal Democrats complained the cuts in social and development programs would "wreak unbelievable havoc."

"We have undone 30 years of social legislation in three days of budget markup," shouted Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, D-N.Y.

But the panel approved the package unanimously, 20-0, with some Democrats saying they wanted it to reach the Senate floor where they hoped for better results next week.

... Things Have Got To Go Better Monday

ASHEBORO, N.C. (UPI) — A new branch of Randolph Bank and Trust opened for business Thursday although its official opening is not scheduled until Monday.

A young man, who was waiting outside the bank when it opened at 9 a.m., became the first "customer."

He came in and looked around the bank briefly.

Bank manager Ed Menius asked if he could help him, the man pulled a gun and demanded money. Getting the money, he drove away in a blue van.

Menius said the branch bank was open Thursday "to work out a few kinks."

He said he is hoping Monday will be a better day.

"We hope to have a bigger crowd and that they're depositing, not withdrawing," he said.

Poland On National Strike Alert; Union Men Beaten

BYDGOSZCZ, Poland (UPI) — Solidarity shut down three provinces today, broke off talks with the government and said the rest of the nation was on the verge of a walkout despite Soviet-led Warsaw Pact maneuvers in and around the embattled nation.

Solidarity ordered a nationwide strike alert next Monday, but the union leader Lech Walesa told 1,000 militant supporters that "practically the entire nation is already on strike alert today" and said Solidarity would fight the government repression.

"We are not afraid, our trousers are not trembling," Walesa told the crowd of 1,000 gathered below his balcony on which a Polish red-and-white flag fluttered in what is shaping up as the biggest crisis since the mass summer strikes.

The mustached leader charged that the bloody police eviction of Solidarity supporters from a government building in Bydgoszcz Thursday night "was an attack against the union and we shall respond with an attack."

The stunning order for a nationwide strike alert came hours before workers in the northwest provinces of Bydgoszcz, Szczecin and Torun laid down their tools to blasts of sirens and the ringing of church bells to begin a two-hour protest.

The confrontation with the government came amid the biggest Soviet-led Warsaw Pact troop maneuvers since just after the 1968 invasion of Czechoslovakia and plunged Poland into its possibly worst crisis since August when Solidarity was born.

"It puts the government and the role of the security service right on the line," a Western diplomat said.

In the first government reaction, spokesman Jozef Barecki told reporters that police were justified in evicting the people staging the sit-in. "The government must see that law and order are respected," he said.

'We are not afraid. Our trousers are not trembling.' Lech Walesa

After Walesa met with local Solidarity officials, the union in a 4 a.m. communique said Solidarity would halt all talks currently going on with the government and "proclaims for all union branches and all union members a state of strike alert as of (Monday) March 23."

Solidarity called the beating up by police of some 45 city legislators and from five to six Solidarity members "a deliberate provocation aimed against the government of Prime Minister (Wojciech) Jaruzelski."

Some were beaten until the blood ran. A Solidarity spokesman said of the kicking and beating attack Thursday by 200 police.

the sit-in, and was taken to the hospital suffering from a concussion. Two of his teeth were knocked out.

In Bydgoszcz, a picture of Rulewski's battered face was pinned on a bulletin board. Local newspapers reporting he was undergoing "intensive" hospital therapy. Scrawled graffiti appeared on walls, reading "We will avenge Rulewski."

"Some were beaten until the blood ran," a Solidarity spokesman said of the kicking and beating attack Thursday by 200 police.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Salvador Criticizes Haig On 'Hit List' Warning

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — Top Salvadoran officials derided Alexander Haig's view that El Salvador is next on a Soviet "hit list" in Central America, saying the "secretary of State has an incredible imagination."

The officials, who asked not to be identified, said their civilian-military government supports non-intervention and does not want El Salvador to become a superpower battleground.

"We have tried to avoid things such as this since the beginning," an official close to the junta said. "We don't want to be the first dish to be eaten in a struggle between the two superpowers."

The criticism came in response to congressional testimony by Secretary of State Haig. The official close to the junta said Haig's views were "speculative."

Haig also said the Reagan administration had not ruled out any option, including military action, to stop arms from flowing to Salvadoran guerrillas fighting the U.S.-backed junta.

In Moscow, Tass news agency attacked the Reagan administration's decision to send $35 million in military aid and 54 U.S. military advisers to El Salvador, warning that Washington was "playing with fire."

U.S. Losing Refineries

VIENNA, Austria (UPI) — The United States, already running out of oil, also will run short of refineries unless it makes massive investments in modernization, a report for the OPEC oil cartel says.

The report, to be published in the next OPEC monthly bulletin, says the United States continues to have the world's largest refining capacity at more than 17 million barrels per day but has many outdated refineries.

"A preliminary study on world refining trends by OPEC's statistics unit shows European refineries running well below capacity and those in the United States out of step," the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries news agency said in an advance dispatch on the report Thursday.

Boy, 13, Accused Of Attempted Murder

By BRITT SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

Trial began in Juvenile Court Thursday for a 13-year-old Seminole County boy charged with attempted murder in connection with the Jan. 24 shooting of a Seminole County deputy sheriff.

Det. Lt. George Hagood of the sheriff's Special Weapons and Tactics (SWAT) team received minor injuries to his hand and arm in the incident which began about 5 p.m. at a home on Elder Road, north of Lake Mary.

Deputy Richard Odell testified Thursday that the boy had locked himself in his home and threatened to shoot anyone who tried to get in. Odell said he tried to coax the youngster out of the house "for 35-40 minutes, but I got no response. He just wouldn't talk to me. When I called him on the phone, he would pick it up and then hang up."

At one point, the boy, carrying a 20-gauge shotgun, "shook his finger at me and said, 'If ya'll aren't out of here in 10 minutes, I'm going to shoot myself.'"

That, Odell said, was when SWAT was called. As Hagood tried to talk to the boy through an open window, the youngster moved close enough to Hagood could reach in and grab the barrel of the shotgun, Odell said. The boy pulled free, but moved back to the window in order to close it. When he did, Hagood grabbed the barrel again. "That's when the gun went off," Odell said.

Odell said deputies kicked in the door and grabbed the youngster as he made a dash for a .22-caliber rifle.

Testimony continued this morning and was expected to conclude late today.

In other court action, the case of an 18-year-old Orlando boy accused of robbing a Forest City convenience store last fall ended in a mistrial when a six-member Circuit Court jury could not reach a verdict after more than four hours of deliberation.

Karl Anthony Curry is scheduled to be retried on the robbery charge April 6.

Curry was accused of entering the Shop & Go store at 9415 Forest City Road about 9:15 p.m., throwing the clerk to the floor and making off with $377.

According to testimony, Curry was at two places at once at the time the holdup occurred. Store clerk Marjorie Birchard positively identified Curry as the man who robbed her. But several of Curry's friends testified that Curry was with them at a Winter Park restaurant when the incident took place.

Also Thursday, five persons pleaded guilty to various crimes. Sentencing was deferred pending completion of background investigations. They are:

— Joshua D. Jones Jr., 25, 1306 W. Third St., Sanford, grand theft. Jones was accused of the Oct. 14 break-in at the Florida Extrusion Co., 2540 Jewett Lane, in which $6,000 worth of aluminum was taken.

— Douglas Christopher Sullivan, 19, 113 Academy Ave., Sanford, burglary. The charge against Sullivan stemmed from the Dec. 8 break-in at the home of Betty Freddie, 2019 Old Lake Mary Road.

— Anattila L. Laupola, 26, 410 Soldiers Square, Casselberry, forgery. Laupola was charged with using a stolen credit card to buy $72.54 worth of jeans, food, and gas.

— Robert White, 26, 1703 W. 14th St., Sanford, pleaded no contest to battery on a police officer. The incident occurred about 3:33 a.m. on Jan. 3 when Seminole County sheriff's deputy Paul Jaynes was at Seminole Memorial Hospital discussing a case with another deputy. Jaynes said white approached him, cursed and punched him.

— Michael Allyn Carlson, 22, of Crookston, Minn., forgery: Carlson admitted to forging a check for $100 and cashing it at the Sun Bank in the Altamonte Mall.

— David Rene Therriault, 31, of Palm Bay, Fla., forgery and petty theft. Therriault admitted to using a stolen credit card to purchase a $87 watch band from an Altamonte Springs jewelry store.

The Wednesday afternoon crash in the '81-way section east of Sanford which left 67-year-old William David Jackson dead brings to four the number of traffic fatalities in Seminole County since Jan. 1.

Five other persons were injured in the three-vehicle wreck on State Road 46. One of those, Jackson's roommate, Tolver Youngblood, 80, of Lake Mullet Park, Sanford, was listed in good condition at Seminole Memorial Hospital today with a concussion. Bruce Duhamel, 30, of Port Orange, was discharged Thursday after being treated for shoulder abrasions and a fractured foot.

Three other persons hurt in the accident — William E. Carter, 25, of Port Orange; James R. Littles, 19, of 1819 Sumnerline Ave., Sanford; and David Dodge, 24, of Daytona Beach — were treated and released Wednesday.

According to the Florida Highway Patrol, a 1981 Toyota pickup truck driven by Carter with Dodge and Duhamel as passengers was eastbound on S.R. 46 behind Littles' '71 Pontiac when the wreck occurred about 3:26 p.m.

As they approached Sipes Ave., Littles slowed to turn, and then unexpectedly stopped. Carter's pickup skidded, slammed into the back of the Pontiac, and flipped over onto the west-bound '74 Ford pickup driven by Jackson with Youngblood in the passenger seat.

Carter was charged with careless driving and driving with a suspended license. Little was also charged with driving with a suspended license.

BOY SHOTS SELF IN LEG

A 15-year-old Sanford youth was treated and released from Seminole Memorial Hospital Thursday night after he accidentally shot himself in the leg.

Sanford police said Raymond E. Palmer Jr., of 204 Ridge Dr., was playing with a .22-caliber pistol about 9:05 p.m. when the gun went off, a bullet striking him in the leg below the knee.

A Tree Grows In Manhattan — And Yields Oranges And Raw Eggs

NEW YORK (UPI) — Plans by a Manhattan building owner to pave over a yard and put a parking lot literally drove one tenant up a tree.

Perched there, armed with eggs and a half-dozen oranges, the tenant is vowing to protect the tree from being hacked down in the name of progress.

Ms. Leach said Thursday she spent more than four hours in the freezing cold seated in the alibutree while holding her building. She said construction workers hired by the building owner appeared Tuesday and started demolishing the yard's gardens, fences — and cutting down the favored tree.

The yard is shared by six small, 100-year-old buildings in midtown Manhattan. Tenants, the owners, S&M Enterprises, intend to demolish the buildings and the yard and replace them with a parking lot and a 35-story high-rise apartment building.

"We heard the noise at about 10 a.m. and chased the workers out of the site. Then I went up," Ms. Leach said. "Later on, they started to pull down the tree with me in it, so I threw raw eggs at them, and oranges, for self-protection."

"One man got so mad when I hit him he started to come at me with a buzz saw. I had no choice but to throw more," she explained.

The tenants' association of the six buildings, made up of 34 families, said the incident occurred while 16 tenants were in court Tuesday to protest eviction notices served by S and M.

S&M did not return telephone messages left at their office in U.P.I. Their lawyer also failed to return messages left at his office.

Survey Shows Drug 'Problem'

By CINDY MOOY
Herald Staff Writer

The results of a survey on the drug habits of Seminole County secondary school children, revealed to the school board Wednesday night, indicate as many as 78 percent of high school students use alcohol and as many as 47 percent use marijuana with varying frequency.

The survey, conducted during the week of Feb. 24, questioned a random sample of approximately 10 percent of students in grades 6-12. Results were based on 1,145 responses.

"The survey tells us we've got a problem," said Tom Roll, a drug educator for the school district who presented the results to the board.

In an effort to combat the drug problem among children, an open meeting for parents and others interested in the problem called "A Family Affair" will be held next Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Sanford Civic Center.

Sponsored by United Parents of West Seminole, a group organized to fight youth drug use, and the Seminole County Task Force on Drug Abuse, the program will include group discussions on drug abuse. Seminole County School Superintendent Robert Hughes will discuss the survey results. Jack Horner, executive director of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce and publicity chairman of the Seminole County Drug Task Force, will address the possible solutions to the problem. The Seminole County Sheriff's Department and Sanford Police Department will present a display of drug paraphernalia.

The open meeting has been scheduled to provide "constructive and creative things parents can do" to combat drug abuse, Roll said.

Hughes said he would form a committee of school administrators, educators, parents and law enforcement officials to study the survey results and bring their conclusions before the school board.

The Survey also indicates that the family has a strong influence on preventing the use of drugs. Students listed family as a first factor in preventing alcohol use and a close second in helping to prevent use of marijuana and other drugs. Students in grades 6-8 named their parents as the most valuable source of information and advice on drug abuse.

"Parents have more impact and a lot more clout than they think they do," Roll said. "Parents don't realize what power they have over their kids. Parents can make a difference."

Roll said the survey was the first step toward solving the drug problem, because many refuse to admit the problem exists.

An Eye For An Eye, A Tooth For A Tooth

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — An eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth...and water for water.

William Burnette took a fire hose late Wednesday and got revenge for years of legal hassles with the state Department of Transportation.

"If they can flood water on my land for four years, why can't I flood their offices?" asks Burnette, a certified public accountant and developer from nearby Monticello.

Burnette strolled into DOT's Burns Office Building late Wednesday, took down a fire hose and started spraying the department's Office of Intergovernmental Affairs.

Burnette planned to build a subdivision of townhouses to be called Country Club Villas on 85 acres of land he owns in Madison. But the land became submerged under nine feet of water after DOT completed a drainage project to divert stormwater from Madison's community college.

He sued DOT in December 1978 and won. A circuit judge ordered the state to pump the water off his land or condemn it and buy it. The department appealed. The 1st District Court of Appeal in Tallahassee sided with Burnette last July and imposed a $1,000-a-day fine against DOT until it solved the drainage problem.

Taylor County Judge Declan O'Grady found DOT in contempt of court last fall after 90 days had passed and nothing had been done. DOT appealed that decision to the 1st DCA, where the case is now pending.

"My face was just black," Ms. Bowman said. "At first I was really upset and started crying. I was in shock and it tasted awful. But my coworkers started laughing at me and I ended up laughing too."

NATION IN BRIEF

Reagan Leaning Toward Voluntary Import Limits

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan is leaning toward asking Japan to voluntarily limit its auto exports to the United States instead of adhering to America's open trade policy, aides say.

Japan's exports — about 1.9 million cars sent to the United States last year — was expected to be a key topic today during a meeting between Reagan and former Japanese Prime Minister Takeshi Fukuda.

White House press secretary Jim Brady said Reagan was nearing a decision on the question of Japanese car sales and their effect on the ailing U.S. auto industry.

Haij's Crossed Messages

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Alexander Haij, who took office saying he would end mixed foreign policy signals issued by past administrations, may be running into the same trouble.

Haij said Thursday he never meant to imply the three nuns killed in El Salvador may have run a roadblock. At the same time, the State Department backed off Haij's assertion Nicaragua has fallen under Soviet domination.

At the outset of his term, Haij charged the Carter administration had muddled foreign relations by constantly switching position. Now he is the subject of the same talk.

Transit Strike's Worst Day

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Pickets crippled three rail lines and icy roads backed up traffic on a major highway today in the sixth and worst day of a transit strike for Philadelphia's 1 million commuters.

The trains, one of the alternate routes used by 400,000 daily bus, trolley and subway riders left without transportation, have been carrying an estimated 120,000 people daily since the strike began Sunday.

Hundreds across the Delaware Valley stood in a heavy-freezing chill waiting for delayed trains. On the newly-traveled Norristown line, entirely shut down by pickets, few commuters turned up at the station after 7 a.m. because they had heard of the problem.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Three Counties Assess Damages From Tornadoes

ORLANDO (UPI) — Officials in three Central Florida counties were adding up damage from twisters that flipped mobile homes, tossed cars, boats and chicken coops. Lifted the roof off a home and injured at least 10 persons, two seriously.

The tornadoes, dipping out of a line of thunderstorms that preceded a cold front touched down just minutes apart in Orange and Seminole counties Thursday. An hour later, one raked Osceola County.

Sheriff's spokesmen in Orange, where preliminary damage was estimated Thursday at $500,000, and Seminole, where early estimates were $60,000, said more precise figures should be available today.

In Seminole County, the tornado touched down near the Black Hammock area, a fishing resort about 20 miles north of Orlando. It was strong and severely damaging four mobile homes. One man suffered minor injuries.

College Ads Scrutinized

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — A Senate Appropriations subcommittee has ordered 28 community colleges to justify the spending of $482,000 over the last year for newspaper, radio and television advertising.

Members of Lakeland Sen. Curtis Peterson's panel vowed Thursday to trim the colleges' budgets if the schools have been buying ads to boost student enrollment so they could get more state funds.

But Dr. Lee Henderson, Department of Education director of community colleges, said most of the money went to inform the public of courses available at the schools, which senators conceded would be okay, and to try to lure black students and faculty as part of a court-ordered desegregation program.

9 Busted In Pot Seizure

NAPLES (UPI) — Sheriff's police from two counties and Drug Enforcement Administration agents arrested nine persons Thursday night in Collier County in what officers said was a major marijuana seizure.

Undercover officers had arranged to buy 3,000 pounds of marijuana for $800,000. They obtained the marijuana and then the arrests were made.

Eight persons were arrested at a home at Golden Gate, outside Naples. Two more were taken into custody at a Naples motel. All were taken to the Collier County sheriff's office.

Striking Miners Return To Work...Until Friday?

United Press International
Miners who staged wildcat strikes in Ohio, Kentucky and Alabama returned to work today at the urging of United Mine Workers union officials trying to hold their men in line until a threatened nationwide walkout next Friday.

In Pennsylvania, where gunfire and arson fires erupted at three mines earlier in the week, there was no sign of activity today at an idled U.S. Steel Corp. mine despite a federal judge's back-to-work order.

On Thursday, nearly 13,000 workers were off the job in soft coal mines in Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky, Illinois, Virginia and Alabama. Many were angered by proposals for changes in what miners have long considered sacred parts of their agreement.

"The workers in Pennsylvania are fighting for what they're trying to take from us here," said a spokesman for UMW Local 1619 in Indiana County, Pa.

Ed Bell, president of UMW District 6, said he told strikers three Ohio mines to return to work earn money in preparation for the nationwide walkout. "I told them they would have plenty of time to lounge around after the contract expires," Bell said. "I told them they should get the time in which we are remaining."

The Sheriff's Department in Greene County, Pa., said today there was "no activity" at U.S. Steel's Cumberland operation at Kirby in southwestern Pennsylvania on either the midnight or early shift. On Thursday in Pittsburgh U.S. District Judge Barron McCune issued a preliminary injunction ordering 600 striking miners, members of UMW Local 2000, to return to work on the midnight shift at the mine.

A U.S. Steel spokesman in Pittsburgh said the company "was evaluating the situation."

Everybody's Resting In Enquirer Case

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Carol Burnett's $10 million libel suit against the National Enquirer ended abruptly Thursday following testimony by a linguist that the "average reader" of a gossip item about the entertainer would think she was drunk.

The March 13, 1976 item described Miss Burnett as loud and boisterous in Washington's Live Gauche restaurant where she reportedly argued with former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and spilled wine on a diner.

"The average reader, I think, would conclude that the lady was drunk," said Arthur E. Hutson, professor emeritus at the University of California, Berkeley, testified. Asked about the Enquirer's subsequent retraction, he said: "It is not a real denial. It is equivocal. It attempts to be an apology at the same time it is trying to say, This is all wrong and we are sorry we got caught."

Attorney E.D. Bronson, representing the comedian, then rested his case after calling 15 witnesses and reading depositions of eight other people. And Enquirer attorney William A. Masterston said he would offer no witnesses.

"We have already put on to which we had to offer, your honor, and...we rest as well," Masterston said.

Superior Court Judge Peter S. Smith dismissed jurors until Monday morning, when Bronson and Masterston will make their final arguments. He set today aside for motions to grant immediate judgment for either side and to discuss his final instructions to jurors.

Retired U.S. Air Force Major Chester Brown outlines plans by the St. Johns River Water Management District and U.S. Corps of Engineers for restoration of the headwaters of the St. Johns River at the annual meeting of the Friends of the St. Johns Tuesday at the Sanford Civic Center. J.T. Turnipseed, president of the group is seated at left. Brown said that after final designs are prepared, the plan and environmental impact statements will be reviewed by federal, state and local agencies and aired in public hearings. Actual work on the project is not expected to begin until October, 1983. Hugh Pain, a member of the board of directors, is heading an effort to seek support of area cities for consideration of the needs of the whole St. Johns not just the upper basin.

"I would say that any time you can spend a little money now to save a lot of money over a long period it's a pretty good investment. And that's how I feel about insulation and those other energy-saving features in our house," says Mr. Robert McMahon of Cocoa. He and his wife, Jean, estimate they save $30 to $40 a month because of their initial investment in the Watt-Wise Living package at the time they built their home.

What's a Watt-Wise package? It's a combination of features that meet FPL's energy-saving standards and can be easily included in the construction of a new home. Over a period of years they can save you substantially more than they cost. Naturally, how much you save will depend on your lifestyle and conservation efforts.

Watt-Wise homes have cost-saving features like extra ceiling and wall insulation, solar or heat-recovery units for water heating, a higher-efficiency air conditioner or heat pump. Lower savers like fluorescent lighting and a microwave oven, and thermally efficient windows and doors, with glass areas planned to minimize heat build-up.

Today, there are many ways to save on electricity without giving up comfort. You'll find them in FPL's Watt-Wise Living Program. Today, it's one of the wisest investments you could make. Stop by your local FPL office and pick up a free brochure.

We're Fishing In Troubled Waters

Of necessity, the American tuna fishing industry is dependent on Washington's ability to negotiate equitable fishery agreements with nations whose offshore waters include large numbers of the migratory tuna.

When these agreements break down, as they have repeatedly in recent years, the tuna boat operators depend again on the federal government to cover the financial losses they suffer when foreign powers seize their vessels and levy huge punitive fines.

Due to a congressional lapse last year, the federal Fishermen's Protective Fund that indemnifies tuna and other fishing boat owners against foreign seizures and fines was allowed to dwindle to a mere $148,000.

The pittance won't begin to cover the $8.4 million owed the owners of 16 American tuna seiners and 19 other smaller fishing vessels fined last year by Canada, Mexico, Ecuador and other nations whose fishing restrictions are contested by the State Department.

Clearly, Congress and the Reagan administration are morally and legally bound to replenish the Fishermen's Protective Fund with an appropriation that is at least sufficient to compensate boat owners who have already dug into their own pockets to satisfy foreign fines.

Unless this is done, some of these owners will likely be bankrupted for the sin of cooperating with a State Department policy that implicitly encourages U.S. vessels to challenge foreign fishery regulations viewed in Washington as unwarranted and discriminatory.

But once such compensation is provided, the Reagan administration would do well to turn its attention to resolving the disputes that prompt foreign governments to declare open season on American-flag seiners.

This will require yet another attempt to reach agreement with Mexico, Costa Rica, Panama, Venezuela, Colombia, Ecuador and Peru on two primary issues: tuna conservation and sovereignty over marine resources.

The sovereignty issue is likely to remain especially troublesome. The United States has logic on its side in arguing that the highly migratory tuna cannot be considered any single nation's exclusive resource simply because they are momentarily transiting that country's 200-mile limit.

The Latin countries have been resisting this position for years and enforcing their own claims by seizing intruding U.S. tuna boats.

It's apparent, then, that the United States must either concede the point or find ways to gain more negotiating leverage than it now has.

The tuna industry is urging Washington to deduct fines reimbursed by the federal government from the offending country's foreign aid. In addition, the United States could embargo the importation of marine products from countries that seize American tuna boats — a step the Carter administration took last year against Mexican tuna.

Although both of these options are specifically sanctioned by existing law, they have rarely been invoked.

The Reagan administration would strengthen its hand for the next round of talks if it proclaimed a willingness to use these retaliatory measures in the absence of a reasonable compromise agreement or at least good faith negotiations.

Otherwise, there won't be much hope for a new tuna accord, or an end to the exorbitant fines that, because of federal reimbursement, amount to foreign raids on the U.S. Treasury.

ROBERT WAGMAN Inaugural Tickets Probe Set

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The Reagan-Bush Inaugural Committee has hired a New York security firm to investigate possible improprieties in the distribution of tickets for the inaugural ceremony, parade, balls and other special events.

Inaugural co-chairman Charles Z. Wick ordered the probe by O.C.S. Investigations into irregularities alleged by Walter Gold, who was the committee staffer in charge of ticket distribution. The problem is complicated by the fact that most of Gold's accusations are aimed at Wick's wife, Mary Jane, who was also a key inaugural planner.

Gold contends that Mrs. Wick took thousands of tickets that had been promised to and often paid for by rank-and-file Republicans and resold them to party bigwigs and California friends of the Wicks and the Reagans. Thus, he says, many people who "were not high enough on the political pecking order" traveled long distances to Washington on the assurance that tickets would be waiting — only to find tickets to less prestigious events — or no tickets at all.

Gold says that Mrs. Wick took already assigned and many of them paid for — from the safe where they were kept and distributed them to friends and party officials. He further contends that Mrs. Wick ordered tickets taken out of processed envelopes and given to her for distribution.

Gird is careful to say that all such tickets were paid for in full by those who actually used them and that Mrs. Wick did not profit financially from her alleged activities.

Mrs. Wick has denied Gold's charges. Wick, who was recently named to head the International Communications Agency, insists that the accusations are "entirely scurrilous" and that the investigation will clear his wife of any wrongdoing.

But we have recently spoken with two former inaugural officials who confirm most of Gold's charges. Both asked that their names not be used because the husband of one is awaiting White House clearance for an administration job and the other is hoping to be appointed to a Republican Party post.

They say that Gold not only is correct but may have understated what transpired during the 10 days before the inauguration — especially with regard to tickets for the events in greatest demand, such as the Kennedy Center ball.

The ticketing process began in December, when the Inaugural Committee mailed out a large number of invitations that guaranteed tickets to those who responded by a certain date. The responses trickled in very slowly.

In early January, the committee panicked at the prospect of half-filled halls and sent out many more invitations. Suddenly replies flooded in from the initial mailing. Many events became oversubscribed while hundreds of invitations were still in the mail.

Could Tragedy Have Been Averted?

WASHINGTON — There is a startling untold story behind the grotesque murder-suicide ritual that resulted in the deaths of 911 men, women and children at Jonestown, Guyana, in November 1978. It raises the agonizing possibility that the tragedy could have been prevented.

The story goes back to the summer of 1976, when NBC News aired a segment on a violence-prone cult called Synanon. Apparently pleased with that program, the NBC brass approved a hard-hitting series about brainwashing in religious cults. The first segment would be about the Peoples Temple in Jonestown, headed by a power-drunk preacher, the Rev. Jim Jones.

In the meantime, however, hundreds of threats from members of Synanon began to pour into NBC offices. Network president Fred Silverman and RCA board chairman Arthur Griffiths personally received many vicious letters from Synanon supporters.

As it turned out, somebody somewhere missed a step in the procedure. The Florida Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation got together with the Central Florida Heart Association to organize "Jump Rope for Heart" events to promote physical fitness and raise funds for heart research.

Second Mortgage Money

NEW YORK (UPI) — The second mortgage, once considered a risky, high-priced, last-resort way to raise money, suddenly has taken on a whole new look.

Homeowners have been flocking to lenders to cash in their inflation-bloated home equity in order to finance college educations, pay off bills and, increasingly, buy new houses.

"Inflation has created enormous equity for homeowners, and consumers have discovered a way of taking the equity in their homes to finance a wide variety of things," said Richard J. Lehmann, president of Citicorp's Person-to-Person consumer finance subsidiary which operates in 30 states.

"Even though interest rates on second mortgages are higher than firsts, it often makes very good financial sense," said Sheldon Heuer, senior vice president of Miami-based J.I. Klalick Mortgage Corp.

A second mortgage, Heuer said, in some cases allows a buyer to assume a seller's first mortgage that has a relatively low interest rate. The second mortgage and a cash down payment are then used to bridge the gap between the unpaid balance on the first mortgage and the appreciated selling price of the home.

The technique often provides a savings over taking out a whole new first mortgage to finance the purchase.

Second mortgage rates average 16 to 18 percent but range up to well over 20 percent at some finance companies. The size varies from $5,000 to $30,000 with terms running from 5 to 12 years.

Most of all, what happened? As it turned out, somebody somewhere missed a step in the procedure. The Florida Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation got together with the Central Florida Heart Association to organize "Jump Rope for Heart" events to promote physical fitness and raise funds for heart research.

moving into the lucrative market every day. "I know of several lenders that are writing nothing but second mortgages," said Dallas Benewitz, director of mortgage investment at the U.S. League of Savings Associations.

For some, it has been a profitable way to stay active in the depressed mortgage market.

Demand for conventional mortgages has virtually dried up in the face of high interest rates. At the same time, lenders have grown increasingly reluctant to make 30-year commitments without having greater flexibility from regulators to adjust rates over the life of the loan.

"As a result, lenders have been directing their scarce funds toward the shorter-term, higher-yielding second mortgages."

"The mortgage market has gone on holiday and the trickle that remains is principally equity loans and second mortgages," said Jonathan Gray, a savings and loan analyst at Sanford C. Bernstein & Co.

In California, where mortgage lending is down nearly 90 percent from 1979 levels, second mortgages now account for one-third of the $30 billion in new mortgages Great Western Savings & Loan Association — the nation's second largest S&L — has been writing monthly.

The report cited 46 specific spending abuses by the armed forces that ranged from the petty — military personnel helping themselves from fuel and other supply stocks — to the immense — failure to settle accounts with nations receiving U.S. military assistance. The General Accounting Office estimates that last item, very often involving personnel training and transportation costs recipient countries had contracted to pay, alone represents a billion-dollar loss to the United States.

Waste in the military? That's an issue that hasn't been much publicized since the 1976 presidential campaign of Jimmy Carter. Surely you remember him?

She is an instructor of watercolor at the Maitland Art Center. Her show will be open until April 30. It may be seen daytimes by calling the Club.

Minister's Wife Clearly Out Of Line

DEAR ABBY: A friend of mine wrote to you last year, and you advised her to go to her minister for counseling. She went, and he helped her a lot, so I decided to go to my minister to talk over some marital problems I was having.

DEAR ABBY: I was terribly embarrassed and felt so bad I never went back. I called the minister and made up an excuse for not getting back to him for two weeks. Abby, I really want to continue with the counseling, but I just can't face his wife, your-own-thing ceremony, Hills, Calif. 90212.

Raines Draws Rave Reviews From Williams

By SAM COOK Herald Sports Editor

The early reviews are in. They're all four star. Spiced with words like outstanding, great, fantastic and super.

"And the one the day before was better than that. He went headlong to the wall and caught the ball over his head."

The rocking chair next to the wall in Wes Rinker's office at Sanford Memorial Stadium will not creak a familiar creak anymore. No longer will the aged body belted by the spritely, story-telling stout utter another proverb of baseball lore.

Irish Box Fails To Hold Ainge, Virginia Cools Tennessee

ATLANTA (UPI) — Digger Phelps' box-and-one defense bottled up Brigham Young All America Danny Ainge for all but eight seconds — but that was enough time to drop the curtain on Notre Dame's season.

After Tripuka's basket, the Cougars called timeout. Ainge took the inbound pass with eight seconds left, used it behind-the-back dribble to cut between two Notre Dame defenders at midcourt and then sank the layup over the outstretched arm of the Irish's Orlando Woolridge.

By United Press International Somehow, the thoroughbreds know just when to take charge. "If we had stopped me I was just going to go up for a jumper and hope for a foul," Danny Ainge said Thursday night, after he drove the length of the court for a layup that gave Brigham Young a 51-50 victory over Notre Dame in the NCAA East Regional at Atlanta.

Raines, Parrish Watch Montreal Mash Astros

By United Press International That's why it's called spring training. In Cocoa, Fla., defending National League West champion Houston committed three errors Thursday paving the way for a nine-run third inning in the Montreal Expos' 12-9 victory over the Astros.

In St. Petersburg, Fla., the Pirates took advantage of six New York Mets' errors — three on one play — to post an 11-3 triumph at wind-blown Lang Stadium.

And in Fort Myers, Fla., Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver must have thought it was the regular season. The spunky manager pulled his team off the field in the seventh inning of a game with the Kansas City Royals over a lineup squabble. Kansas City was awarded the game on a forfeit, 9-0.

The Royals were leading, 4-2, on Dave Chalk's double in the bottom of the sixth and Manager Jim Frey made five lineup changes in the top of the seventh inning.

Man Jailed In 1975 Suicide

HOUSTON (UPI) — A husband's faith that his wife merely would be killed herself appears to have been justified with a Florida man's arrest on charges of killing the woman six years ago.

Paul Howard MacDonald, 34, of West Palm Beach, Fla., was arrested this week on charges of killing Catherine Zabollo in their River Oaks home in 1975. The 60-year-old woman was found in her bathroom with panty hose around her neck and an empty bottle of tranquilizers nearby.

The Harris County Medical Examiner's office said the death was a suicide, but Mrs. Zabollo's husband never accepted that ruling.

"No, I couldn't figure out any reason for that (suicide)," Dave Zabollo told Thursday. "We had our differences of opinion once in a while, but there was absolutely no reason for that."

Walter A. Waldhauser, Jr., one of three men charged in the death of Mrs. Zabollo's daughter, traded MacDonald's identity to authorities in exchange for a reduced charge against himself.

Mrs. Zabollo's daughter, Diana Wanstrath, 36, was shot to death in July 1979 along with her husband John Wanstrath, 36, and infant son Kevin.

Markham Duff-Smith — Mrs. Zabollo's adopted son and Mrs. Wanstrath's brother — is charged in the hi-her-sister's death. He inherited half of his step-mother's $100,000 estate and stood to inherit $400,000 from Mrs. Wanstrath's family.

Duff-Smith was arrested on a capital murder indictment last week and charged with ordering the Wanstraths' deaths in gain inheritance.

The charges against Waldhauser were reduced to murder, and reportedly he will be recommended for a 30-year prison sentence after the pleads guilty.

"At the time of the initial investigation, I was told Mrs. Zabollo's death, police said there were no signs of forced entry at her home. Expensive jewelry, furs and television sets were untouched.

"Police now believe as many as four persons were involved in Mrs. Zabollo's death."

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL
For Saturday, March 21, 1981

YOUR BIRTHDAY
March 21, 1981
In several relationships where you previously experienced friction you will now find harmony over the coming months. Each of you will discover new things to like in one another.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Seek activities today of the lighter type, with just a few select pals involved. Slowing your pace will help a bit. Romance, travel, luck, resources, possible pitfalls and career for the coming months are all discussed in your Astro-Graph which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
This is a good day to while away some happy hours on your favorite hobby. If your pursuit is creative or artistic, it should even prove more enjoyable.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
You'll be happier today going places where you can see and be seen. Forego your usual haunts. Find one that is new and interesting.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
The secret to getting things done today is to maintain a steady pace. Don't tackle projects in fits and starts. It could impede your momentum.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
You'll feel better today if you get out and move around a bit. You don't have to go any great distances, perhaps just drop in on a friendly neighbor.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Sharing will not only please the recipient today, it will afford you a great amount of pleasure as well. Much joy will be found in being a giver.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
The ball is in your court today and you should be able to exercise control over a situation previously managed by another. Use your initiative.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
Avoid the type of social gathering today where you could be around people with whom you have little in common. The event may be fun for them, but not necessarily for you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
This is a good day to try to get together with someone you met recently who you'd like to know better. You're both on the same wavelength at this time.

Dr. Lamb
I would like to know if this trait is hereditary. Neither of my parents had any problem since they had seven children. My sister is now having a problem getting pregnant.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a male, 21, and I am concerned about being impotent. I would like to know if this trait is hereditary. Neither of my parents had any problem since they had seven children. My sister is now having a problem getting pregnant.

DEAR READER — We need to sort out some terms first. I think you are concerned about being infertile, the ability to produce adequate healthy sperm to induce a pregnancy. Impotence, as commonly used, means difficulty in obtaining or maintaining an erection.

The fluids from the male to vary some — depending upon sexual activity. The milky white fluid is normal with an orgasm but clear fluid may be present as a lubricant.

I think you have a lot of questions you need answered so I am sending you The Health Letter number 17-4, Male Reproductive Functions. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Yes, there is a test that can be done. A portion of the ejaculate can be examined under the microscope and the number of sperm cells actually counted, like counting seeds. Their characteristics can be observed, whether they are motile or not. This is usually the basis for determining whether a male is sterile.

You can talk to your family doctor about these matters. He will be able to answer your questions. Sterility is not usually an inherited problem, because sterile couples don't have many offspring.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My son is 16 and thinks he has syphilis. He says he has never had sexual intercourse. He has only one symptom, bumps on the penis. My husband and I have told him it is acne or a rash. Could this be true?

DEAR READER — In very rare cases a person can get syphilis from the edge of a moist glass or in some way that permits the syphilis germ to live in moisture long enough to be transmitted. That is so rare that you can be rather certain that if a person has never had intercourse he or she does not have syphilis — unless you want to talk about congenital syphilis that a baby can be born with.

Syphilis may cause a localized sore. This is called a chancre and is a primary lesion. It doesn't last long and usually forms a painless ulcer.

Syphilis can cause a rash, but it is usually generalized. Since the germs are transmitted by the bloodstream, syphilis may cause a rash of nodules on the palms of the hands and soles of the feet.

There are sebaceous glands that produce acne of the skin of the penis. And there are other causes of a rash. You were probably right in what you have told your son but he will be far better off psychologically if you send him to a physician and have him reassured about what his problem actually is.

With her find, she opens "Dusty's Saloon," where the miners gather to drink, play cards, flirt with the dance hall girls and hold an occasional brawl. Josh discovers Dusty dreaming of him and a wedding dress and both declare their love for each other.

When wives and mail order brides arrive in Dusty Hollow the town begins to grow. Showman P.T. Barnum comes to town with the lovely Jenny Lind, "the Swedish Nightingale," who performs a classic ballet.

Ten years later, the town is now a community — the miner's children are in school and social activities, like quilting bees and box lunch socials, are the order of the day. The ballet ends with a rousing "Challenge Dance" in celebration of their town.

"Americana" is the single major production for the Guild in this its "lucky 13th" year in Sanford. The production will include the 19 Guild dancers and 20 guest dancers including several children and men.

The lead characters, Dusty and Josh, will be played by Tammy Kaleel of Deltona and Marty Brister of Sanford. Holly Kurimai of Sanford will play Jenny Lind.

The music for the ballet was arranged by Elsa Caskey, of Deltona; the costumes were designed by Genevieve Richardson, of Deltona; the set designs were suggested by Mildred M. Caskey, (no relation to Elsa) and the sets were built by Richard Scott of Sanford. Jone Porter of Sanford painted the backdrop.

Performances will be held at the Sanford Civic Center.

A Saturday night show will be presented for sponsors and patrons of the guild. The Sunday performance, at 8 p.m., is open to the public. Tickets are $5 for adults and $3 for children and senior citizens. They are available in advance at Don Knight's Shoe Store or the School of Dance Arts, both in Sanford, or at the door Sunday.

TV's Own Renaissance

What led Hugh Downs — one of our most familiar television figures — into broadcasting? Just fate, he says.

When the 18-year-old Downs was scouring the town of Lima, Ohio, for a job during the Depression, he had no dreams of becoming a broadcaster. While coming home from job-hunting one night, Downs saw a reporter doing "man-on-the-street" interviews for a radio station. He watched for a while, and, thinking it might be fun, stopped in at the station.

A little shy and awestruck, Downs approached the red-haired receptionist. He asked, "What does it take to become a radio announcer?" She replied that auditions were held on Tuesdays.

"What's an audition?" asked Downs.

The manager of station overheard and suggested Downs read right then. He said, "When the red light goes on over the door, you read this." Then he left.

The red light came on; Downs read the copy (a commercial for a paint store) and the light went out.

After a while the manager returned.

"That was very bad," he said. "It was terrible. But," he added, "great oaks from little acorns grow." And he offered Downs a job.

Hugh Downs' first broadcasting job paid $12.50 a week. When he told his father, the older Downs said, "Well, I want you to spend the rest of the week looking for a job. And if you can't find a job, go with the radio station."

"So," says the host of ABC's "20-20," "as far as my dad is concerned, I've never found a job!"

In the 40 years of broadcasting that followed his capricious start, Downs has succeeded at more things than many men attempt in a lifetime.

He has written six books, science essays, science-fiction stories. He is an accomplished artist and has had a painting exhibited in a New York gallery. He is a music lover and has heard three of his own musical compositions performed.

His leisure activities encompass such wide-ranging hobbies as telescope-making and racing-car driving. He has gone scuba-diving in the middle of the night with a team of scientists and he is licensed to fly single and multiple engine planes, sea planes, gliders and hot-air balloons.

What has motivated Hugh

Downs to do so much? "I guess," he says, "way back, I had an idea that I've never completely abandoned: To, through some rational means, get a handle on the world and not make an early settlement of being unable to understand it.

Downs seems to have succeeded in his personal life as well as his professional one. On February 20, he celebrated his 37th wedding anniversary with his wife, Ruth.

After 37 years of marriage, perhaps more hours of broadcasting than anyone else in the world, intellectual explorations into science, energy, social problems and medicine, artistic explorations into music and Evening Herald, Sanford, Fl.

Five years ago, a German actress named Ute Christensen folded herself into a tight bundle as her fiancé welded her into the rear of his American sedan, between the back seat and the reconstructed trunk compartment. They traveled from East Berlin to West Berlin, for two and one-half hours, finally escaping through the Berlin Wall. That symbol of oppression is the centerpiece of "Berlin Tunnel 21," a dramatic new film in which Mrs. Christensen stars with Richard Thomas, Horst Buchholz and Jose Ferrer, Wednesday, March 25 on CBS.

In the TV story Mrs. Christensen portrays the woman friend of an American (Thomas) who tries to get her out of the eastern sector of Berlin. The young man, who remains in Berlin after his discharge from the U.S. Army, plans her escape, and organizes a group of other men who have loved ones on the other side to dig a tunnel beneath the wall.

It is the same wall that, in real life, Mrs. Christensen's husband, Allen, brought her through on a quiet autumn day. Allen had a transit visa that allowed him access to and from East Berlin. So he devised a clever, though daring, escape plan to rescue the East Berlin-born actress, who was not allowed to cross the border to marry him.

On the night of the escape the couple met at an out-of-the-way area of East Berlin, where he welded a sheet of metal around her huddled form, wedged between the back seat and the trunk. He covered that with a scrap of carpeting, and threw in some clothing and small appliances as camouflage.

"The border guards opened the trunk, but they did not detect anything or anybody," the actress recalls.

However, the one thing the couple forgot was an air duct to make her ride safer. When she finally arrived at their pre-planned destination, she had almost suffocated from the fumes seeping into the back of the car. She awoke to freedom in a hospital.

Although the actress demurs whenever it is suggested that "Berlin Tunnel 21" is her story, she notes that the drama is a reality for many Berliners.

"It is more than a romantic story about an escape. It is a story about freedom. Escape stories like mine exist in all variations in West Berlin."

"The human struggle to be free is a universal theme that most people can relate to," says Richard Michaels, director of "Berlin Tunnel 21," which was filmed entirely on location in West Berlin.

"Imagine waking up one morning and seeing a barricade of men with guns, in barbed wire, tanks, chains, muzzling the middle of the street," he says.

"Unlikely scenario? But that is what happened in 1961. You

Allen Drury: Cold War Chiller

Allen Drury has written a nerve-racking scenario for Ronald Reagan to ponder. His latest novel, "The Hill of Summer: A Novel of the Soviet Conquest" (Doubleday, 370 pages, $14.95), features a deadly, elaborate chess game of world affairs, with nuclear arms and troops deployed as pawns.

The adversaries are Hamilton Delbacher, the new U.S. president, and his equally new, but much more devious Soviet opponent, Yuri Serapin. Their game is played out from Washington, Moscow and the United Nations, where meetings take place and orders are issued that may change (or end) the course of history.

Drury has written this novel with very serious intent — "as a warning against trends which, having gone on for so many years unchecked, have now brought America to the greatest period of peril she has ever known." To lend credibility to his story, Drury prefaces each chapter with quotations from Soviet military documents — from Lenin to the present.

Cape Shuttle Worker Fights For Life

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — A space agency board investigating the nitrogen accident that killed a space shuttle worker is taking a sharp look at safety measures for remaining operations preparing for the early April launch of the shuttle Columbia.
Board chairman Charles D. Gay said Friday he wants to review the procedures involved in work yet to be done and determine "whether or not all necessary safety measures are included."
Meanwhile another shuttle mechanic was still fighting for his life Friday. Forrest Cole, 50, of Merritt Island, was reported in critical condition at the intensive care ward of Shands Teaching Hospital in Gainesville. He could die at any moment, said one physician. "I would call his prognosis extremely grave," said Dr. T. James Gallagher, who treated Cole for swelling of the brain and lungs. "He definitely has brain damage; it's too early to predict if he'll live."

The Columbia is targeted for launch April 7. But officials said a definite launch date will not be set until technicians finish repairing insulation on the shuttle's outside fuel tank. That work is to be completed Monday and then the tank must be tested.

Space agency officials said a procedural problem of some sort apparently was the cause of Thursday's accident when technicians entered a space shuttle compartment in which all the oxygen had been displaced by nitrogen.
John Bjornstad, 50, died and five others were stricken.
One of the injured workers, William Wolford, said Friday his crew had been given official clearance to enter the airless chamber.
"We were given the all clear signal on the P.A. system," said Wolford. And he said the men also were cleared through a badge safety check point before entering the off-limits area.

Wolford, who suffered a twisted back, said he followed Bjornstad into the shuttle's engine compartment.
"When I got in John was laying right on his back... the color didn't look right in his eyes. The last thing I remember was yelling for help and reaching for his belt."
Wolford said his life was probably saved by the breath of fresh air he gulped when he stuck his head out the hatch and yelled for help.

October or November." As proposed, the shopping center would contain a Winn Dixie supermarket, a Revco Drugs, and space for several other stores. To be named the Village Market Place, the plaza would be located immediately behind the Cumberland Farms complex.
The RCDC spokesman said the project would be similar to its Village Market Plaza on State Road 434 in Winter Springs. "We have several of these around central Florida," he said. "And there has been no problem with the angle parking anywhere else. We feel our request for a variance will be granted."

Headquartered in Winter Park, HCDC is also involved in the $20 million Shadow Bay residential development on Lake Mary Blvd. which will eventually include 200 homes ranging in price from $90,000 to $500,000.
The only thing the Royal Canadian Development Corp (RCDC) needs before breaking ground for the complex is an O.K. from the Sanford City Council to change the size and style of the project's 300-plus parking spaces.
An RCDC representative is scheduled to appear at Monday night's council meeting to request the change from 10-by-20 foot spaces required by the zoning code to 9-by-18 foot angle parking.
"After that, we would draw up the final architectural plans and break ground in perhaps 60 days," an RCDC spokesman said today. "We would hope to be open by

These Kids No Exception In Their Love Of Dancing

Larry Lucas' students are called exceptional, but he believes they should not be exempted from exposure to the universal arts of music and dance.
To put his belief into practice, Lucas brought his love of and experience in dance to his teaching position at Rosenwald Exceptional Student Center in Altamonte Springs. The Rosenwald Center teaches children classified as profoundly mentally handicapped and trainable mentally handicapped.
Working together with the school's music therapist, Tom Bautz, Lucas has formed the only "exceptional" dance company in Central Florida and serves as its director.

Called the "Creative Movement Company," Lucas is teaching trainable handicapped students the basics of jazz and ballet—with a little disco thrown in. Lucas notes the name is used because "Some parents are religious and don't like it called dancing."
On May 2, the company of 35 children will perform their special version of the "Wizard of Oz" at the Valencia Community College in Orlando. The performance will be their contribution to the "Very Special" arts festival, a two-day event at the college, featuring the artistic and musical work of handicapped adults and children from the community and schools. The children will also perform at their school on May 20.

"Her version of 'The Wizard of Oz' borrows from the score of the classic Judy Garland film, the disco version of that score and the score of the Broadway production 'The Wiz,'" combined with a simplified story for a 30-minute show.
"It improves their self-image," Lucas said of the exceptional child learning to dance. "It improves their physical fitness and exposes them to the arts. These kids are not given much exposure to the arts." It also gives them an ear for music, Lucas said.
Most of all, dancing has proven to be a tool in teaching good behavior to children with difficulty in learning self-control.

"All dancers have to be disciplined and take directions," Lucas said. "This is an elite group and they know they have to be good to stay in it; good behavior-wise."
Two students with particularly poor behavior improved dramatically in order to join the dance company, Lucas said. "They were smart-mouthed with their teacher, they didn't want to follow directions, they didn't want to follow directions," Lucas said.
"At first, they didn't even want to be in the dance company, until they saw our winter program is a program of disco and Hawaiian dancing, held in December; the company's first production), then they wanted to join."

Of the 153 students enrolled in the school, 70 showed up for tryouts in September and 35 were chosen.
"I only wanted 20," Lucas had to admit.
For the audition, the children had to learn 12 dance steps accompanied by the disco song, "YMCA." Lucas said he chooses the best dancers, but a lot had to do with behavior and following directions.
"A couple weren't the best dancers, but they listened and followed directions, they really tried. I could see they'd work hard if they got in the dance company,"

Lucas said.
A special educator, teacher in Charleston, W. Va., for six years before beginning at Rosenwald Center in September, Lucas said he has taken "years of dancing myself."
To teach handicapped children to dance, Lucas said he breaks the steps down to their simplest form, teaching in eight counts, or groups of eight steps, at a time with patience and repetition.
For some of the children, he said he must break it down into four counts, for others down to two counts or two steps at a time.
For still others, "I have to take them through it physically, move their heads and arms. I have to show them where their hands are supposed to be."
"It takes a lot of time," Lucas added. "But once they've got it, they've got it pretty good."
"It takes a little longer to teach these kids than normal kids, but I've seen some normal kids that it takes just as long."
To the children who don't make it into the chorus line, Lucas gives constant encouragement.
"I tell them, 'Don't give up because next time you might make it. Next time, try out again.' The kids take it well."
Like everyone else, exceptional children vary in the music and dance forms they prefer.
"Some like disco, some like country, some like marches—the younger kids like that," Lucas said. "We even have a few who like classical. Each had his own personality and listens to what they like. They're like everyone else."
The dance company includes only trainable handicapped children ranging in age from 4 to 19, but Lucas said he hopes in the future that a few of the profoundly handicapped might be able to participate.
In addition, Lucas is currently learning signing and hopes to incorporate a few of the school's deaf children in the company.
The company is a continuous program with a regular half hour class Friday mornings and rehearsals after school. The company will put on two productions each year, in December and May. Lucas added that they are willing to perform anywhere in the community.
"It's a good way to expose our people to the community and show them what the handicapped are able to do," Lucas said.
