

Seminole Co.'s Building Boom Setting New All-Time Record

By DONNA ESTER

Seminole County and its six municipalities will break the $100 million mark in new construction and break all records by the close of the 1971 year, according to trends.

Building permits issued by the seven governmental entities during the first three quarters of the year, which ended Sept. 30, totaled 5,351 for a value of $147,847,817, official records show.

Fifty per cent of the construction was for 2,665 single family dwellings valued at $45,700,982.

Fifty-seven per cent of the total construction was done in the unincorporated areas of Seminole County. Building permits issued for the area under the control of the Seminole County Commission totaled 2,485 for a value of $40,988,833.

Of this amount, 1,331 permits were issued for single-family homes valued at $28,269,677.

For the entire 1970 calendar year 2,417 building permits were issued in the unincorporated areas for a value of $34,825,909.

Holding second place in Seminole for number of construction starts and value is the City of Altamonte Springs with 256 permits issued for a value of $10,133,772. Slightly more than half of the permits were for single-family dwellings at $13 valued at $3,474,276.

A tremendous 300 per cent increase in construction is being seen in the City of Sanford. While 881 building permits were issued in Sanford for a value of $7,886,222 during the first nine months of 1970, 2,696 permits for a value of $8,558,271 were issued during the comparable three-quarter period this year.

Of this total 296 permits were for single-family homes valued at $3,900,048.

Cassberry with 744 permits issued had total construction of $7,588,860 with 368 single-family homes begun for a value of $5,042,457.

Lawwood had the biggest increase of six-month period.

Teacher Arrested, Abortion Charged

By BILL SCOTT

A Seminole County school teacher has been arrested on a performing an abortion charge by Det. Fred Respass after a six-week investigation. Lucile Payne, 40, of 3207 Orlando Drive, a substitute teacher at Teague Middle School, Forest City, is being held in Seminole County jail in lieu of $10,000 bond.

She was arrested at 2 a.m. today by Detective Respass on a capias issued in Circuit Court. Respass said Mrs. Payne is accused of performing an abortion in July at Altamonte Springs.

He indicated there may be other charges placed against the teacher but said the capias was issued in just one incident.

The detective said he was aided in his investigation by Det. George Abbey and state attorney officers. School Sup. John Angel said today his office is endeavoring to determine whether the woman is a non-certificated or certificated substitute but said, "Nevertheless, she will not be permitted to teach in this school system if the charges stand."

Commandos Hit Small Cuba Town

MIAMI (AP) — A commando group in two boats attacked a small fishing village on Cuba's northeast coast Tuesday, killing at least two people and injuring four, Havana radio said today.

The broadcast mentioned in Miami said the nighttime attack was carried out "from the north" and blamed it on "the government of the United States and its accomplices."

After the assault by what the radio said were heavy and middle caliber weapons, the two attacking craft "departed toward the north," the broadcast said. It described one of the boats as a "mother ship" and the other "a speed launch."

The broadcast indicated villagers and army patrols had fired back, but apparently there was no attempt at a landing.

The assault took place at the village slept and one of the victims was identified as a villager who ran to alert the nearby army border patrol.

The other victim was a soldier who died in action. Havana radio said, and the injured included two teenage girls.

Hi-Acres Withdraws Petition

Zoning Protesters Win Bout

By MARION BETHA

Protesters overflowed the meeting of the County Planning and Zoning Commission last night and were so prodigious they were ushered into the adjacent courtroom until time for the public hearing in which they were interested.

Chairman Glenn McCall limited presentations to five minutes for proponents and opponents, with two-minute rebuttals for each.

Causing the greatest controversy was the hearing for Hi-Acres, Inc., which requested a zoning change from A-1 agriculture to PUD (planned unit development) on property south of Park, containing 124 acres.

A spokesman for the irate group of citizens J. U. Isola said that over 200 persons were present in opposition to the rezoning. This was evident with the County Commission chamber being seating capacity filled as well as persons lining the aisles three deep.

McCall announced to the group that the applicant had requested a postponement in order to study zone and intended to redesign area and had agreed to meet with property owners and civic associations relative to the matter.

One resident contended there was no evidence of plans of postponement the previous day and intimated the reason stemmed from the amount of residents present. Another resident maintained that the homes in the Hidden Estates area prevent an investment of over a half million dollars and they should be heard by the board.

A motion to postpone the hearing died for lack of a second. E. Page Bassett, representing the applicant, then stated it was satisfied with the buffer zone and intended to redesign area and had agreed to meet with property owners and civic associations relative to the matter.

Bassett told the board the applicant, since the hearing was not postponed, had no alternative but to withdraw the petition and would refile it at a later date.

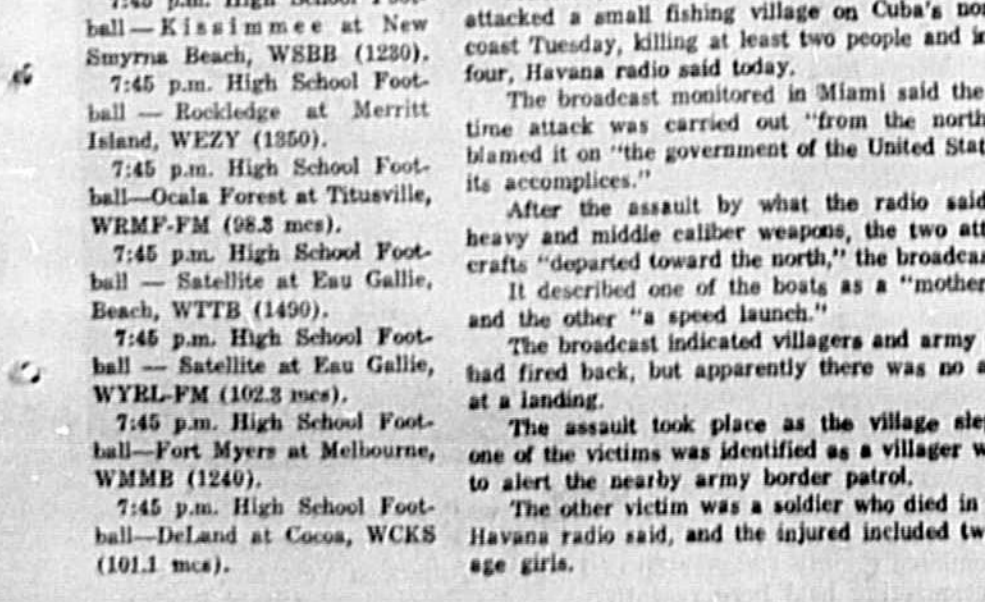

The residents, who had waited over two hours for the hearing, demanded to be heard and told the board they believe they have no protection in the county.

County Planner David Pace explained his office had attempted to "protect" Hidden Estates but there are limitations imposed, which he refused to elaborate.

Mrs. Myron Lowenthal told the board that "nobody knows what's going on"...

Zoning Director Robert Brown did not know... that the residents do not believe they have protection... that "we have a lot at stake"...

Midway Resident, 54, Arrested For Murder

Dick (Mississippi) Cole, 54-year-old resident of Sanford's Midway community, has been charged with first degree murder in the shooting death Aug. 30 of J. C. Cummings, 60, another Midway resident.

County Det. L. L. J. Kriz announced the arrest of Cole Wednesday afternoon after he was charged by deputies, who went to his home with a warrant issued by County Judge Wallace Hall.

Kriz said Cole was charged after an extensive investigation that started with the discovery of Cummings' body on the General J. C. Hutchinson Parkway near the entrance to Big Tree Park early Aug. 30 by Deputy William Hogan.

Cummings was found slumped over in his car. Resultant investigation disclosed the man was shot five times in the head and neck with a .25 caliber pistol.

Shells from the gun were found in the scene. Kriz began piecing together shreds of evidence that resulted in the filing of charges.

Kriz observed this morning that "every murder case investigated by the sheriff's department since John Polk was elected sheriff has been solved."

Evidence in the Cummings murder case is expected to be presented to the grand jury Friday.

Also, the state attorney's office is expected to present evidence gathered by Sanford police in the murder of John Sechrist, 79-year-old reeve, whose body was found in his 2418 Cedar Avenue home Feb. 19 by police who entered the house while investigating his reported disappearance.

Later, Ewing Williams, Knoxville, Tenn., was arrested by federal authorities after he was found with Sechrist's missing automobile. He now is awaiting trial in federal court on an interstate transportation of stolen car charge.

Confusing But Not Amusing

The Florida Medical Association council has asked Seminole Memorial Hospital trustees to declare the position of hospital pathologist open and to call for applications for the position from all interested pathologists.

This includes Dr. Fred Ionata, who was displaced in July when Dr. G. V. Garay was retained by the hospital trustees.

This was disclosed today by Charles Lansing, trustee chair, to Besserer, Lanning, when contacted, said he had not received a copy of the report and several copies of the report had been made and distributed to Andrew Garaway, trustee, and to Besserer, Lanning, when contacted, said he had not received a copy of the report.

The staff chief reported that several copies of the report had been made and distributed to Andrew Garaway, trustee, and to Besserer, Lanning, when contacted, said he had not received a copy of the report.

Later, in speaking with The Herald, Lansing said Besserer would provide copies of the report to the press.

Dr. Garay, when contacted, disclosed the council had in effect "cleared him."

The Florida Medical Association council findings are not based on any parties but are strictly opinions based on information given by persons who may be involved in the controversy.

Dredging Of Lake On Agenda

NORTH ORLANDO — Village Council has placed on the agenda for Monday a request by Mrs. Barbara Christensen to dredge a lake located in the Bandolans in the interim Mrs. Christensen will have Leonard Casselberry, who is supervising the job, prepare information to present to council.

Mayor Greenville Brown told Council that Mrs. Christensen owns six lots around the lake and is, in actuality, cleaning the lake, and would post a surety bond of $1,000 for road repair should there be any damage.

Mrs. Christensen contended the lake is a breeding place for mosquitoes and she is trying to improve the property.

The Sanford Herald appealed to Lansing this morning to obtain a copy of the medical council findings after a request made to Dr. Johnson was denied.

Dr. Johnson said he wants to bring the matter of the report before the hospital staff at a Tuesday meeting before releasing any of the contents.

The staff chief reported that several copies of the report had been made and distributed to Andrew Garaway, trustee, and to Besserer, Lanning, when contacted, said he had not received a copy of the report.

6 Names Listed For High Court

By BARRY SCHWEID Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A municipal-bond lawyer in Arkansas and a veteran woman judge in California are two of six prospective nominees for the Supreme Court under consideration of the Justice Department.

The two, Herschel Friday of Little Rock and Mildred Lillie of Los Angeles, may be in the lead for the vacancies at this point. The ABA is conducting the inquiry for the Justice Department.

The four other names forwarded to the ABA judiciary committee for preliminary checks are Judges Paul H. Robey and Charles Clark of the U.S. Circuit Court in New Orleans, La., and Judge Sylvia Bascom of the District of Columbia Superior Court.

The ABA committee, headed by Lawrence E. Walsh, a New York lawyer, probably will meet in the week of Oct. 23, 1965, when six were killed, the command said.

Corporate Profit Tax Proposal Gets Center Stage

As the time draws near when the voters of Florida will have the opportunity to vote on a constitutional referendum which would allow the legislature to create a corporate income tax, the debate is becoming more heated.

Let it not be said that Seminole County is any laggard in getting into this discussion of such a critical issue as the change from the present taxing machinery into one where "fair share" will be the goal.

There are at least three identifiable organizations which are taking part. One is, of course the League of Women Voters of Florida, with its spokesmen in Sanford-Seminole. This group strongly endorses the corporate profit tax arguing "It's Only Fair."

Then there is the recently named County Corporate Profit Tax Committee with Sanford Commissioner

Dr. Vincent Roberts as chairman and leading Democrats as members.

They are bringing speakers on the subject before various groups. One of which is the Democratic Executive Committee, before whom Rep. Robert Milburn (D) will hold forth at a public meeting tonight. Top citation must go, however, to the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce which has scheduled Lieut. Gov. Tom Adams at a luncheon in the Civic Center tomorrow noon.

If the heightened tone of the arguments for the referendum and the referendum which have characterized the talks and comments of both Gov. Reubin Askew and Mr. Adams in recent days is maintained, then the latter can be expected to strike out at the major opposition to the referendum, namely the big corporations.

In previous editorials we have stated our support for the referendum which would allow the state legislature to enact provisions which would bring only the largest multi-state corporations as the main sources of such income.

We have supported this referendum with every assurance from legal authorities that such a corporate income (profit) tax would not be the forerunner of a personal income tax.

Both the governor and lieutenant-governor spoke before the annual convention of the Florida AFL-CIO in Jacksonville. It was a receptive audience to the arguments employed by both which pointed out the need for spreading the tax load from the individual to the broad backs of big corporations which would be taxed on their profits.

Now the Askew administration, after the meeting of the state cabinet in which State Comptroller Fred O. Dickinson, was the only member who abstained from signing a resolution supporting the referendum, has spotlighted the banks as well as big business as the opposition.

Voters are, therefore, under even more than the usual pressures to look at this Nov. 2 balloting as a time when hard facts must sway their decisions.

Underlying all of this controversy rests a much more basic question than the vote itself. It has surfaced in the Askew-Adams talks. It is simply: Just what interest does the legislator serve?

In pointing this out we do not, in any extent, imply that big business and banks are suspect from the point of view of their devotion to the public good.

But what is obvious is, that as they fight to protect their own interests, just so should the voters demand that the public interest be given top rating by the legislators.

If, not, then the ballot is the bullet that will shoot them down!

Demos Wide Of Their Goal

By BRUCE BROSSAT
WASHINGTON (NEA) — The Democrats, admirably bent on making their presidential nominating process more democratic, are getting involved in some things that either will actually be quite undemocratic — or will look that way.

For instance, one of the big reform goals is to have conventions, etc., size and other population factors. But it has been recognized all along that wide open voting procedures in many places may produce majorities which will swamp out blacks, women and young people as delegate prospects.

At a July meeting here of the McGovern-Fraser reform commission, one member blurted: "Let's face it. If we want these groups reasonably represented in the delegations, we're just going to have to dictate that result."

That's just about the way the matter is shaping up. The commission's guidelines allow a state to choose up to one-third of its delegates on an at-large basis. Procedures will vary widely, but one specific purpose is to permit a qualified delegate to participate on a district basis, or an up-to-date committee) to name a certain number of blacks, women, etc. Unmistakably, the party will be enforcing a desired result by fiat.

To note this is not to criticize the objective. It is merely to observe that the process of achieving it is not democratic.

Reaching for fair, full participation in another realm, the commission's guidelines propose to the delegates to be chosen at an open, well-publicized meeting of a democratically elected party committee. A list of state committees is being set up, year or two back.

Such much of the committee groundwork next June could be done by people who are not delegates and who do not meet the test of being "currently representative." All this in the name of more open committee effort.

"This'll Hurt Me More Than It Does You!"

Shopping Fun!

How can you blend the friendliness of the old-time corner grocery with the sharp, efficient and eye-pleasing attractiveness of the up-to-date super-market?

Well, it isn't easy. Here in Greater Sanford the rivalry of the chains has created a choice of methods and styles of food merchandising which should satisfy all tastes.

But with the entry of the Sanford Fairway Market, there is the promise of the achievement of that blend with which this comment opened.

Located on the west side of 17-92, this Fairway enterprise, the product of the thinking of Pete and George Daniel, is well worth a visit.

We (this is not an editorial we, but a very personal we which includes the household manager of our domicile) enjoyed a purely tourist tour through the wide aisles, the tempting display of foods (especially the delicatessen and meats) but opened our eyes wide when the frozen food department was reached.

Now it is no trick at all for the Messrs. Daniel to hire the best architects, builders and craftsmen and offer such a market to the public.

But the visual enchantment of a new market was not the prime attraction. It was the obvious air of the employees to do all that anyone could make the visitor at home, and — even more difficult — to do so without making the buyer feel that the sole objectives was to sell.

Sanford is, as we have pointed out, blessed with an abundance of groceries and markets which have a variety that challenges the choice of the household purchasing agent.

Thus we welcome the Fairway Market as one more indication that the future of Sanford is, indeed, bright with promise.

Reds Set A-War Civil Defense

By RAY CROMLEY
WASHINGTON (NEA) — The Russians may have come up with a civil defense strategy which, if implemented, could upset the nuclear balance between the United States and the Soviet Union. The major points of the strategy are these: — Systematic mass evacuation of major cities as tension mounts before a possible nuclear war. — Development of the countryside as the population, medical and supply base for fighting the war and for postwar recovery.

A mass movement of selected factories (with workers and families) from big "target" cities to rural "safe" areas. — Relocation of workers in the remaining big-city factories to dispersal areas 25 to 35 miles outside the cities, from where they'd commute to work in daily 12-hour shifts.

Thus, in theory, only essential workers would be left in

There Is A Time To Say "No"

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Nobody likes a yes man, everybody likes a yes man, everybody goes along with the other fellow as far as he can.

And that's where he is likely to get in trouble. It is hard to draw the line, and he goes along too far for his own good.

Sometimes in life a fellow has to show a little backbone by refusing to accede to the wishes or suggestions of others. The backbone he saves may be his own. He has to learn when to say no.

Here, for example, are a few invitations which, if accepted, probably will lead only to disaster, dismay, sorrow, regret or — at the least — a black eye:

"Have some more of this wine, I know it's good because I made it myself."
"So this is your first grandson. What do you think of him? Well, he has a pretty blank ex-

Child Care Center: A Mother?

By DON OAKLEY
NEA Editorialist
Apple pie apparently retains its patriotic popularity, but what is returning to a mother's mind is that she should have had that motherhood would have felt that such a time?

One of the fundamental ideological precepts of the women's liberation movement is the conviction that motherhood is a stultifying, degrading form of enslavement, and any woman who doesn't believe it has been reassured by the male chauvinists.

Throughout the report society, which can only be described as explicitly charged with the primary responsibility for a child's development, is the full-time mother is implicitly degraded.

"Can a society which believes itself to be civilized and moral maintain its integrity if it brings a child into its world only to provide him with care that is substantially inferior to the best it has to offer?" it asks.

Early this year a student-faculty research team from the Claremont Colleges in Claremont, Calif., issued a ringing call for a national child care program, claiming that the standard care of children has become a "national disgrace."

"They have a lot of impressive statistics to back up the charge. For example, there are nearly 12 million working mothers in the United States. These working mothers have about four million children under the age of six.

There are approximately 13,600 licensed child-care facilities in the United States, with a total capacity of $18,000 children. Simple arithmetic would indicate that no more than one-eighth of the children of working mothers are cared for in licensed facilities."

It is certainly a legitimate question to ask: Who takes care of the other 3/4 million preschool children of working mothers?

It is when it dips into philosophical arguments that the team's report, "Child Care Crisis," becomes controversial.

It notes that "from birth until the time they enter the doors of the local schoolhouse, children are left to an unguided and possibly passive educational and experiential existence, even though many experts believe the first years of life to be the most critical in developing potential.

In effect, childhood is too important to the left to the child, or even the family, for no family, the report claims, is equipped to give a child the rich and challenging social and intellectual environment it deserves.

Both Senate and House have passed bills which would, for the first time, make federally sponsored day care available to children from middle and upper-income families as well as from low-income families.

Their authors have failed to grasp the new philosophy fully, however. The Senate bill would require families earning more than $6,900 a year to pay a fee for this service, scaled according to ability to pay. The House version puts the cut-off point at $4,320.

Everybody Meet Linda Moncrief!

Wife Of New Sanford Attorney Welcomed At Coffee

By DORIS WILLIAMS
Society Editor
It was coffee time for a new comer to Sanford! A guest of honor was a beautiful brunette, Linda Moncrief, who is the wife of Kirby Moncrief, the new associate in the law firm of Shinholser and Logan.

Hostesses for the delightful Saturday morning affair were Mrs. Phillip Logan and Mrs. A. Edwin Shinholser. Site for the warm gathering was the spacious Logan home on Grandview Avenue.

The Moncriefs, who now call Sanford home, hail from Orlando and just watch these two birds go!

Linda, who teaches at Idyllwild kindergarten, greeted the guests wearing a crimson wool dress fashioned along the slim silhouette. Complementing her smart costume was a Harvest gold corsage, a gift from the hostesses.

Upon arriving guests were escorted to the dining room where a beautifully appointed table featured a pot pourri of dainty party fare.

Centering the table, which was overlaid with an imported lace cloth, was a triangular arrangement of yellow and white daisies. Antique silver coffee service and silver and crystal appointments completed the table decor.

Planning were Mrs. Robert Karna and Mrs. Harry Woodruff. Assisting as flitting hostesses were Mrs. Roy Mann, Mrs. I. E. Kitzbridge III and Mrs. Gilbert Edmonds.

Junior hostesses were the Misses Phyllis Logan, Carol Bishop and Sarah Mercer.

More than 80 guests were invited to call during the appointed hours.

DeBary Players held their 1971-72 season. About 110 patrons, members and guests attended.

After the dinner, the master of ceremonies, Paul Thout, introduced the president of the Players, Ruth Braun, who in turn, after greeting everyone, presented Chuck Easely, and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Sayers, all of the DeBary Players, of Shoestring Theatre.

The authors of DeBary Players' first offering, to be given Oct. 8-9 and 15-16 at the Shoestring Theatre, were given by Chuck Easely and Grace Sayers and Florence and Paul Thout.

DeBary Players To Present 'We Need An Expert'

DeBary Players' first offering, to be given Oct. 8-9 and 15-16 at the Shoestring Theatre, were given by Chuck Easely and Grace Sayers and Florence and Paul Thout.

"Silver Sack Awards," a take-off on the various Oscar-Emmy Shows were made by the master of ceremonies. Each recipient was called to the microphone, to read the card which told the reason for the award, and then opened the gag award. It was a hilarious interlude.

Patrick McDonald, actor from Deltona and one of the DeBary Players, recalled some of the funny incidents which had happened during past performances of the players.

As a finale to the entertainment, three songs from the forthcoming musical were sung by Gene Oyler and Nana Hilsebeck, who are playing and singing the leads in "We Need An Expert" on Nov. 17, 18 and 19.

Mrs. Grace O'Brien played dinner music on the organ and when the tables had been removed those who wished sang around the organ or danced. It was a very enjoyable evening.

LET'S GET ACQUAINTED — The DeBary Players hosted a "Let's Get Acquainted" dinner for its patrons and friends in the Deltona Inn to show appreciation for their continued support of its productions over the years. ### Wedding Bells Ring For Counselors

NEW YORK (AP) — "Please bring a bell to ring," read the wedding invitation. "Come and ring bells. We're going to celebrate our marriage."

The guests filed into St. Clements Church here recently with bells of every description. And throughout the service and the celebration the church was alive with festive ringing.

A hippie wedding? Hardly. The bride and groom were both professional marriage counselors who wanted to make their wedding ceremony a memorable group experience.

"Bells symbolize the joy and excitement of life," the wedding ceremony was made a fuller experience for everyone because

Defensive Driving Sparks The DAR Chapter Meeting

By ANN SIECZKOWSKI
Mrs. Robert Deane hosted a recent meeting of the Sallie Harrison Chapter, National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution.

Randy Sullivan, instructor for Defensive Driving for Seminole Junior College, was guest speaker.

In his opening remarks, Sullivan said, "Safe driving requires the adoption of an attitude toward operating a motor vehicle known as defensive driving. The defensive driver is determined to take every reasonable precaution to prevent traffic mishaps, 'over and above' what the law requires him to do.

"Defensive driving is a key concept in driver improvement. It represents an approach to the driving task, that, when applied, can lessen the chances of being involved in an accident.

"As a defensive driver, you learn to 'give' a little—to tailor your driving behavior to the unexpected actions of other drivers and pedestrians, to an unpredictable and ever-changing factors of light, weather, road and traffic conditions, to the mechanical condition of the vehicle and even to how you feel.

"There is a standard accident prevention formula which all must know: (1) See the hazard; Consider what is about to or might happen. Never assume that everything will be all right! (2) Understand the defense. Learn the specific ways of handling specific situations so that you can apply them when the need arises. (3) Act in time. Once you see the hazard, understand the defense against it—ACT. Never take a "wait and see" attitude."

Sullivan told the members and guests present that he would be available to organizations, schools and any interested group to lecture, present a program or to instruct in an entire defensive driving course. All that is necessary is that a call be placed for him at Seminole Jr. College.

It was announced that the district meeting would be held in November at Ormond Beach and members planned to attend.

A special guest was Mrs. O. F. Deen of Douglas, Ga., mother of the hostess.

At the social hour refreshments were served and those in attendance were Mrs. Leon Follers, Mrs. L. C. Wildner, Mrs. Hagan Jennings, Mrs. G. G. Cushman, Mrs. H. W. Ruckler, Mrs. Stanley Pierce, Mrs. A. W. Lee, Mrs. William Leashy, Mrs. C. E. Butler, Mrs. K. W. Wilburn, Mrs. T. K. Wiley, Mrs. F. E. Romuald, Mrs. O. F. Deen, Mrs. Key, Mrs. Brann, Mrs. Deane and Mr. Sullivan.

Marilyn's Merrily-Go-Round Green Thumb

By MARILYN GORDON
Take a minute to look around you and notice that Fall is really in full swing. How can you tell? Everything is different. The children are settled in to their school routine, club meetings have resumed and there is a certain hustle and bustle in the air.

This is the time of year when our routine changes but we have not yet made change routine.

I stopped off at the South Seminole Community Library in Altamonte Springs and admired the beautiful paintings by Margaret Newman. Margaret is about to take on another trip abroad and I just don't think what material our talented artist will pick up. I wish I could go along and carry her paint brushes.

The Casselberry Lions Club hosted a dinner for the United Fund. Now I know how the Lions make their money. On the table sits a cute metal lion bank with a very large gaping mouth. Everyone someone mentions a business by name they must deposit a quarter in the bank. The jingle of coins being swallowed was heard all night.

Several of the hard working dignitaries were awarded the statue which said "One huge step for mankind". The statue was a little man making that step. Over 32% of the $71,900 goal has been collected.

If you want to see a beautiful yard of the month, drive by 2111 Coahiche. It is the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Schubert of Inverness Hills. Mrs. Schubert recently left the busy professional world to become a full time homemaker and she is putting the rest of us to shame. The general excuse seems to be "I only had the time." Imagine someone proving it.

The picnic sponsored by the Men's Club of St. Peter and Paul Church was a huge success in spite of pouring rain. All the fun and games promised became promises fulfilled. The clown played by Don Dugley, Don clowns around as a hobby I thought he looked pretty professional!

Girl Scout Troop 785 under the leadership of Mrs. Sue Izbecky made a big splash at the Summerfest Swim Club.

The Optimist Club of South Seminole welcomes Meyer Lieb into their fold. Meyer is welcomed for a double reason. In addition to the pleasure of his company his membership at the club meant they met their quota.

At their last breakfast, George Foster announced that things are in full swing concerning the planning for the installation dinner to be held at the Parliament House, Oct. 23. Plans are also in the making for a turkey shoot.

Happy Birthday to Lillian Phelps of North Orlando. Lillian is the Brownie consultant for Sunburst Neighborhood of Girl Scouts and also very active with the Casselberry Elementary School. Many happy returns, Lillian.

See you now, around and about Seminole County.

MARILYN GORDON
Speaking Oct. 6 on the campus Seminole Junior College was Mrs. Athalie Range, Secretary of the Department of Community Affairs for the State of Florida. Better known as the "First Woman" in Florida politics, Mrs. Range spoke on a variety of subjects. The students felt very honored to welcome her to the campus.

I attended the open house of the Mental Health Association of Seminole County Sunday. Their theme is prevention, their goal is to prevent the "Thing Mental Illness." Who needs it? They are planning to hold their annual meeting Nov. 1. This meeting is open to the public. Mrs. Lois Jackson is planning to attend the Florida Mental Health Convention in West Palm Beach Oct. 21-23.

The Altamonte Springs Women's Club held a delightful membership brunch. About 25 prospective members and guests attended. The decorations were a Fall theme. Mitch Lassiter, Grace Bradford, Vera Butler, Helen Keyser, Pat Chiemer and Emma Gaskill were the creative hands behind those Fall decorations.

Elementary Parliamentary Course Set
A 16 hour elementary course in Parliamentary Procedure will be conducted at Seminole Junior College beginning on Oct. 18, at 9:30 a.m. in room S209.

This course, to be held in four sessions, is part of the Adult and Continuing Education department and is co-sponsored by the Seminole Parliamentary Club.

Mrs. Cameron Lawrence of Winter Park will conduct this class. Interested persons may call 323-1450 extension 224 to register or they may register at the classroom. The night class has been postponed for the present.

An informal get acquainted party was held on Friday Oct. 1, at the Oviedo Woman's Club. Hostesses for the lovely affair were Mrs. William H. Martin, social chairman, and Mrs. Charles Niblack, membership chairman.

Thirty-five members and 16 prospective members attended the party and enjoyed the delicious refreshments and delightful chatter, especially getting acquainted with the newcomers into the area.

The first regular meeting of the year will be held on Friday, Oct. 8, at 10:00 a. m. at the club on Kings Street.

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY—I was a bit late in learning not to leave my furniture in the same places on my deep pile or any other carpet. My Pointer is to move chairs, tables, etc., every few days if only an inch or so to prevent those flat spots in the carpet. My question is how to raise the pile after those indentations have appeared. I have tried brushing, steaming, etc., but with poor results. Any ideas, anyone? —HELEN

DEAR POLLY—I am a clerk in a department store and my Pet Peers is with shoppers who take an item from one part of the store, decide they do not want it and leave it just any place except back where it belongs. What help it would be to the clerks if such things were returned to where they were in the first place. Thanks for listening. — M. J. V.

DEAR POLLY and Mrs. G. B., who has hairline cracks in the lacquered finish on her piano—Sunlight is bad for such furniture, I think. If her piano is where the sun shines on it, she should either move it or close the drapes. Once these hairline cracks appear I do not think much can be done. —MRS. M. S. P.

DEAR GIBBS—I consulted the manufacturer of a famous make of pianos and was advised that the finish on a piano does not contract as the wood when there are extreme temperature changes. There is really not much to do unless you want to carefully sand and lacquer the finish and then relacquer it. Other than that I was told a complete refinishing job is all that will really work.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—Our older home has casement windows that had become almost impossible to open and close without difficulty after years of wear. I found that spraying the wood that the windows move on with an aerosol furniture polish makes them open and close more easily.—A HOUSEWIFE

DEAR POLLY—My sewing basket was always so untidy until I made drawing nylon net bags to hold my various sewing items. The size of the bags depend on the amounts of the various items you keep on hand. Now I can always find what I need for a project without messing through the whole basket. This see-through net is very durable and can be used for years.—BEMMA

Juvenile Judge Employs Television

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — The 17-year-old girl had been charged with being a runaway, being incorrigible, and shoplifting. As she pleaded with the judge to let her return home, television cameras recorded the hearing for broadcast later. The departure from the normal court reluctance to disclose details of juvenile cases was authorized by Judge Michael Corrigan of Sedgewick County Juvenile Court as part of his quest for new methods to replace past efforts that he says have had very little deterrent effect. "If we, as juvenile judges, and juvenile courts, are going to have any effect in the future," he reasons, "it's time we direct our attention to methods that might change the attitudes of young people who might be in trouble." Allowing the television cameras and microphones into his courtroom last month was the latest step in a program he began about a year ago to give the news media access under certain restrictions, to material from his court. His search for new methods also includes a program to build up a corps of 250 volunteer probation counselors. Names of juveniles are sometimes withheld in reporting cases from the court, but for the televised case the girl's name was used and cameras were allowed to show a front view of her. Crews from KAKE-TV in Wichita filmed both the pretrial hearing and a later court session to determine disposition of her case. The material was then telecast during a Sunday night news program. Corrigan granted the girl's request to return home with her mother, with the understanding that both mother and daughter would undergo counseling by a court-appointed psychiatrist. Corrigan says the regular presence of television cameras in the courtroom might tempt lawyers, the parties involved or judges themselves to "play to certainly compromise the judicial process."

Wilbur D. Mills Looms As Democratic Hopeful

WASHINGTON (AP) — The enigmatic campaign to push one of Congress' most powerful enigmas, Wilbur D. Mills, for the Democratic presidential nomination has taken a significant leap forward. Sources closest to Mills say he is approaching a decision whether to drop his stance as a draft and become an avowed and active candidate. Stepping up the pressures on Mills is what appears to be mounting personal animosity between President Nixon and the Arkansas Democrat, who as chairman of the powerful House Ways and Means Committee has hitherto made it a point to get along, though not subserviently, with presidents of either party. The draft Mills campaign surfaced early this year. Now the Draft Mills for President Committee occupies spacious quarters in an office building a few blocks from the White House, manned by a largely volunteer force of about 30. In charge are Charles Ward, a Searcy, Ark., businessman whose enterprises include a bus-body factory and a computerized letter-writing service, and George Jernigan, a Little Rock attorney. On Tuesday, a three-quarter page advertisement in The Washington Post invited campaign contributors, asked voters to do standard campaign chores, and offered signs and bumper stickers. Jernigan said in an interview the advertisement will be duplicated in selected newspapers. Mills' congressional colleagues, past joking about the draft movement, are puzzled by what they see as a new tradition. To most people not caught up in the draft excitement, odds against Mills winning the nomination appear long indeed. —Mills himself is nothing if not a realist. He keeps his own counsel, never foreclosing options and never bringing a man's job to the floor until he has assured himself he has the votes to pass it. But what is Mills, the realist, up to now? No one has come up with a hard answer. Here are some that have been advanced: pushing Mills toward candidacy for a wide-open Democratic convention where none of the presently prominent contenders can come close to winning an early ballot. Mills, going in with a faithful bloc largely of Southern delegates and a reserve of second-choice pledges garnered from some labor and business support, might—according to this theory—survive the fratricide among the front runners.

Jobless Teachers Make Own

SAN MATEO, Calif. (AP) — Thousands of teachers are suddenly finding themselves out of a job, but a newly formed organization will try to find them employment in 75 school districts to which he applied last summer. The idea is that there are a few jobs available for an unemployed teacher if he tries hard enough to get them," Dean said Wednesday in an interview. "But I see the real possibility as involvement in new ideas and beginning projects, such as developing schools in city and county jails. "At this point in time it has become a full-time job just to find a job," said Dean, who holds a master's degree in drama but was unable to obtain employment in 75 school districts to which he applied last summer. # TRACK TALK with George Crossley

There has been some discussion among some of our distinguished local racers concerning which automobile engine or engines have been the best into engines for racing purposes. Track Talk would like to express some thoughts on the subject and serve out there who feels differently can write to TRACK TALK in care of The Sanford Herald and I will be glad to make public your thoughts in the column. All right, here goes. I would like to say first that I am ranking engines on overall performance in all types of competition. I'll break it down to big block and small block engines.

The winner of the Crossley award as the most outstanding American Engine, for outstanding purposes, in the big block category, is the Chevrolet Heml. For this engine's outstanding performance in drag racing and stock car competition, this engine has dominated fuel dragster, fuel funny car and pro stock competition in drag racing. The engine, until the advent of the asinine carburetor givens, was the engine to beat. It's Grand National and USAF circuits from coast to coast. It's the source of USAC and if the factory-backed Chrysler teams in any type of competition have problems during the coming year, a stage five Heml with Westlake Heads will be brought in to thrash the opposition.

A close second to the Heml would be the 1-88 Mark-4 or 2L, K2-2 and the other variants of the Chevrolet Rat Motor. I leave out the 454 Cu. In. Engine in stock form, because increased stroke without increased bore is not practical or durable.

Next I would include the 427 Turnbolt Ford Engine for outstanding performance at the 24 Hours of Lemans as well as NASCAR competition. The Chevy Rat gets the nod for outstanding road racing performance and fine performance in drag racing.

The 429 Ford has been a fine competitor in stock car racing but hasn't shown itself too competitive in other forms of racing so this engine is not included.

The 440 Chrysler has this year shown great potential in Grand National stock car racing, as well as drag racing, but again, this engine hasn't been raced in national competition (or the same engine smaller bore) since 1965. I'll just have to wait and see what will transpire. The 426 Wedge that powered Bobby Isaac's Dodge to victory in the Firecracker 400 was quite similar to the older Chrysler Wedge Engines, with the added advantage of 440 six-pack heads which were completely stock. These heads breathe well and develop power up to an unreal RPM.

Moving Into The Bigtime

Florida Tech Presents New Team, Slate

By HERKY CUSH
Herald Sports Writer
Florida Tech's aspirations of moving into the big time as far as basketball is concerned took off in the right direction yesterday afternoon when the 1971-72 floor team was introduced to the press at a first class luncheon at the Ramada Inn East.

McNulty, Cleveland Entered Area Golfers In Gator Event

By JOHN A. SPOLSKI
All of the big names of golf former great Gator Touring Pros. will be competing in the First Annual Gator Golf Day tomorrow at the University of Florida Golf Course in Gainesville.

IF YOU HOLD THE FACE of the club like this . . . Mack Cleveland offers his valuable advice to Howard McNulty, who in turn is certain that it'll add at least 10 strokes to his total. (John A. Spolski Photo)

Each of the contestants will be competing with them, and playing partners, too. The only two from Seminole County who'll be on hand for the festivities, prizes (which include a 1972 automobile and a number of portable color TV sets), are attorney Mack Cleveland and Florida State Bank president Howard C. McNulty. Both of whom play to a seven handicap.

Trinity's Offensive Unit One Of Area's Strongest

By LARRY NEELY
Herald Sports Writer
Trinity Prep maintains one of the most potent offensive units in Central Florida. The Saints, with victories over Tampa Temple Heights, Taylor Pierson, Sanford Naval Academy and Bronson. Trinity has been averaging 47.5 points per contest while the defensive unit has allowed an average of only 11.5 points per game.

The first half of the Saints' schedule has been an easy 20-0. The Indians scored 200 in Pennsylvania, and the California 200 in Ontario, Calif. I'll be willing to bet that Mario will have a very competitive car in the Ferrari and should win a couple races even though the engine and car will be new and untried. Watch out for Mario!

Lipon Out As Indian Manager

HOUSTON (AP) — Johnny Lipon says he will decide in a couple of days whether to take a job in the Cleveland Indians' organization.

The Indians announced Wednesday night that Lipon's contract as interim manager would not be renewed for the 1972 season. He replaced manager Alvin Dark midway through the season just ended.

Young Buc(k)s Are Heroes As Pirates, Orioles Even

By HAL HOOK
PITTSBURGH (AP) — There was a brand new glow in the Pittsburgh Pirates for today's fifth World Series game against Baltimore and it came along on the heels of a pair of rocky checked youngsters who began the most important game of their lives kidding each other in the bullpen.

To Meet Kentucky LSU Encounters First Wishbone

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Kentucky football team has put in three straight days of hard contact work getting ready for what its coach predicts will be a "tough match" against Louisiana State this Saturday.

"We'll have to make a super effort because we know we'll have to play better this game than we have this season," John Ray told the team Wednesday.

"They have tremendous depth and speed—it'll be a tough match," he said. Ray said he was moving sophomore Frank LeMaster from halfback to starting linebacker.

Bruins Recover In Opener

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
As they struggled through a miserable exhibition schedule and a dismal opening game, the Boston Bruins looked like anything but the defending East Division champions who had won four of their last five National Hockey League record books last season.

But all that changed dramatically Wednesday night as the Bruins came out flying in New York and never slowed down, battering the New York Rangers 6-1.

"We just weren't skating last time," scoring champion Phil Esposito said of the Bruins' 4-1 loss to New York last Sunday night. "We are now."

In Wednesday night's other games, the Chicago Black Hawks edged St. Louis 3-0, the Pittsburgh Penguins topped the Los Angeles Kings 4-1 and the Philadelphia Flyers slipped by the California Golden Seals 5-4.

DeLand Military School Goes Coed

DELAND, Fla. (AP) — Col. Carl Ward says the anti-military mood of the country finally caught up with his Florida Military School. "So as cadets filed in for breakfast Sunday morning, their headmaster told them the dormitory would be closed by sundown and the military program was being discontinued. "There wasn't enough money to make it worthwhile," said its headmaster. "Overnight, a regimented military school with a 16-year tradition became a coeducational day school. "Young people started turning away from a military atmosphere five or six years ago," explained Col. Ward, a former Marine in World War II. "There developed a trend to a permissive society. Children began dictating to their parents and parents giving up on the children at an age when they need guidance."

Ward founded Florida Military School in 1956 with two buildings at DeLand Airport and 52 cadets. He built it into a highly regarded prep school on a 75-acre campus which once attracted hundreds of students from Florida and other states. He ran the school with the discipline toward "the wholesome child from a good family background, where there is an interest in bettering themselves."

Mr. Nelson Williams of Longwood recently ran this ad in the classified pages of The Sanford Herald: FOR SALE: Good upright piano. Call 000-0000 anytime. Mr. Williams reported to us that he received numerous calls and had sold his piano in 4 days. He was very happy with the "fast action" results his ad brought. If you have something to sell, call us today. We'll be glad to put you on our list of satisfied customers. 322-2611 or 831-9993

Gov. Askew Is Faced With Crucial Decision

OSCEOLA, Fla. (AP) — The choice of a successor to Randolph Hodges, director of the Florida Department of Natural Resources, could be the most crucial decision made during the term of Gov. Reubin Askew, a top environmental leader, said Wednesday. Lyman Rogers, president of Conservation 79s, said Florida's economic and environmental future is a stake in the selection. Hodges, a frequent target of attacks from the growing and now-politically potent state conservation movement, has resigned effective Dec. 1. Saying that his nerves aren't what they used to be, he told newsmen he would become a lobbyist and a gentleman farmer on his Gadsden County ranch. Immediately after Hodges announced that he would vacate one of the most powerful positions in state government, three names popped up in Capitol speculation about candidates for the job. These were Joel Kuperburg, recently appointed director of the Internal Improvement Fund trustees; Harmon Shields, state director of the Marine Resources Division under Hodges, and Ney Landrum, director of the Division of Recreation and Parks. Both Shields and Landrum said they wanted the appointment. "There has been no comment from Askew's office. The choice of Hodges' successor will be made by the Cabinet. Rogers, who heads a strong coalition of all Florida environmental forces, said that with Hodges' resignation, "We now have the opportunity to create a new era in Florida." "It is my fervent hope," he said in a statement, "that Gov. Askew will treat the selection of a new environmental protection leader as the most critical decision of his administration." Rogers said he "gets discouraged at times when people rush in, write up a quick list of names and run around in circles without stopping to analyze the extreme importance of the decision to be made." The man who succeeds Hodges, he said, "should be chosen after a national review of applicants with intimate knowledge of Florida, a proven record of uncontestable dedication to the environment and a proven problem-solver."

Industry Dreams Of Windfall Profits Tough Reality Lies Ahead

By JOHN CUNIFF
NEW YORK (AP) — What are windfall profits? How long is indefinite? Can an aggressive labor movement now participate in holding down wages? How long will business agree to limits on profits?
These are some of the questions before the American people and their government. They hardly could be more fundamental and yet they are merely a sampling. A tough reality lies ahead.
Forthcoming days are going to require an examination of and theories under which many of our institutions operate. Criteria will be established rather than found in historical references.
A windfall profit, for example, has always been dreamed about but not actively sought by industry, and when it came it has always been considered a perfectly acceptable gift from above, although sometimes attributed to skill.
Opinions may be more definite on the matter of indefiniteness. Government control of the economy is to be continued for an indefinite period, it is understood, and it is agreed that the period will be extensive rather than brief.
It is difficult, in fact, to imagine that the government will ever withdraw completely the powers that it is assuming in the marketplace. Previous involvements persist, although in changing form.
The introduction of Social Security, for example, was accompanied by heated opposition, but it is here to stay. Public health insurance was battled as vigorously, but it is almost assured of acceptance in some form. High performance standards for business have always been resisted, but once accepted their use becomes almost routine.

HOLIDAY BUFFET sure to please: Tidewater Casserole redolent of crabmeat and scallops; buttermilk and lemon basted game hens and an easy-to-make and serve Lemon Angel Souffle.

Game Hens Substitute For Quail

Located in the heart of Tidewater territory, the nation's capital is not limited to a single cuisine, but combines the myth and charm of southern cooking with the sophistication of continental sauces and condiments.
A typical holiday buffet may display quail from Virginia and a shellfish casserole containing Chesapeake bay scallops and crabmeat. Cornish game hens make a good substitute for quail but, like the delicate wild birds, should be served with a simple lemon-butter sauce for greatest enjoyment.
ROAST GAME HENS (or Quail)
4 Cornish game hens
1/2 cup Butter, melted
1 cup ReaLemon bottled lemon juice
1 cup Chicken broth
1 teaspoon Rosemary
1 teaspoon Salt
1 teaspoon Paprika
Parsley
Kumquats
Pear Halves
Mint Jelly
Remove giblets and rinse hens in water; pat dry. Arrange on a rack in an uncovered pan, breast side up. Combine butter, lemon juice, chicken broth, and seasonings. Pour sauce over hens and roast at 425 degrees for one (1) hour or until tender. Baste frequently with sauce and use sauce to make gravy. Garnish with mint jelly-filled pear halves and parsley. Serves 6.

Answer To World Shortage Rabbits Eyed For Foodstuff

CUTE CRITTER — Chilean youngster shows off his angora rabbit. A country veterinarian believes rabbit raising could solve world's future food shortage. Besides food, angora rabbits provide valuable fur.

By PEYTON JOHNSON
Copy News Service
RENGO, Chile — There's a dusty town south of Santiago who wants to solve Chile's nutritional problems — and indeed those of all Latin America and the entire world — through mass breeding of one of the earth's most prolific and cable animals: The lovely rabbit.
Dr. Carlos Homan, a lanky and graying Chilean of German origin, can only be called a man with a dream. He is an unassuming warrior in an unassuming holy crusade. He is also a salesman par excellence. Had he chosen to sell cars rather than rabbits, he probably would be the Henry Ford of the Andes. Talk with him an hour — you will mainly listen — and whether you know or care much about rabbits you come away more than half convinced that he's right.
"Raising rabbits is the cheapest, quickest, most sensible, best, perhaps the ONLY, way of dealing with the runaway world problem of too many people and not enough food to feed them."
Homan's theme of themes is the raising of a particular kind of rabbit — the docile, long-haired Angora that gives salable wool and skins as well as "clean, pure, tender, tasty" nonfat, solid white meat.
The beauty of the Angora, he says, is that while it has a normal biological life of nine years, it only gives wool for three years. "Then you eat them." If the animal doesn't give good wool, it's usually healthy and any way you look at it, you can't lose.
"At a fraction of the cost and bother, one reasonably tended male Angora and four females will produce in a year enough offspring to add up to more meat weight than you get from the dressed carcass of a three-year-old heifer," he adds.
The Seminoles League of Women Voters has announced the following programs during its corporate profits tax campaign: Today — Georgetown Community Improvement Association, 8 p. m., 412 East Ninth Street. # Colorado County Has 202 People

By DORMAN CORDELL
LAKE CITY, Colo. (AP) — It would seem self-evident that there's noway Hinsdale County can work. But it does. In an area roughly the size of Rhode Island, the population is only 202. Only Loving County, Tex., has fewer people. The county has no factories, grows no crops except pasture, has no jail, no banks, no hospital and no high school.

More than 90 per cent of the land is owned by the federal government, thus removing it from the tax rolls. The Continental Divide crosses the county twice, cutting it into three distinct sections, each pretty much isolated from the other. There isn't even a direct connecting road between Lake City, the county seat, and the southern part of the county, where about 30 people live. So how does Hinsdale County survive? Very well, thank you, say the residents. Nobody is on welfare. There is almost no public debt and little crime. The high school students ride to Gunnison, a 10-mile round trip, each school day. There have been only two fatal car wrecks in the county's history, both occurring since the first paved road was built into the county about five years ago.

The county survives on sheep and cattle ranches and on tourists. Summer residents, most of them from Texas, "they used to call this place Little Oklahoma, but now it's mostly Texans for some reason," said a resident—well the population of Lake City to many times its official 80.

Army Listens To A Mother POW Consultant A Woman

Only The Wild Goats Live On Watts Isle

WATTS ISLAND, Va. (AP) — The wild goats are the only living remnants of a colonial settlement on this Chesapeake Bay island, discovered 363 years ago by Capt. John Smith.

Only the wild goats live on the direct descendants of the first settlers. Smith discovered this tiny island at the mouth of the Chesapeake Bay in 1607, just a year before injuries in a gunpowder explosion forced his return to England.

The first settlers, including John Watts, arrived in 1627. They were attracted to the island because the nearby waters had a wealth of seafood because its location made it ideal for trading and shipping.

With the outbreak of the war of 1812, however, the island's central location also made it desirable to the British and they took it over for a military campment. In their wake came Tory sympathizers called "picnic crews" who according to local legend looted, burned and set fire to the island's buildings.

Lupus Acting
Peter Lupus of Mission: Impossible studied acting in Hollywood with Laurence Olivier (late of July), while supporting himself by managing a gymnasium.

Those the Army has accepted include: family group-therapy sessions, a comprehensive guidance booklet for next-of-kin, more effective ways of returning a man's personal property to his family, and establishing a task force to prepare the families for their husbands' return, or the eventuality that they may never return.

Echoes Of Auschwitz Will Sound On Sunday

By NICHOLAS LILLITTO
Associated Press Writer

BRZEZ, Poland (AP) — Every night Franciszek Galowiczek prays for the soul of a man who died for him in Auschwitz, the Nazi concentration camp where four million persons perished in World War II.

And next Sunday, in Rome, Pope Paul VI lists that man among the blessed, a step toward sainthood in the Roman Catholic Church.

Thousands will attend the ceremony. But for Galowiczek it will be a very personal moment as his mind races back 30 years to that grim day when a Nazi official decreed he die an agonizing death with nine others.

Seconds before guards were about to take him away, a Polish Franciscan monk voluntarily asked the Nazi officer to let him die in Galowiczek's place.

The priest's request was granted and for his martyrdom Pope Paul will pronounce his beatification. His name was Maksymilian Kolbe.

"Being so close to death I was shocked when Father Kolbe stepped out and offered his life for me," recalls 70-year-old Galowiczek at his village home in Brzez. "One side of me was happy that I wasn't going to be killed but it was heartbreaking knowing that someone else would die."

"I was astounded that the vice commandant, a Col. Fritsch, agreed to let me go. Fritsch was so hard that for him to kill a man was like killing a fly."

"There was an escape from our block house, which contained about 2,000 prisoners. The Germans had a rule that 10 prisoners would die a hunger death if escapees weren't caught."

Galowiczek passed to slip a glass of water. His prison number, tattooed on his left arm, is still clearly visible—559.

"We were told the escapee had not been caught and 10 would be selected for the hunger death. Fritsch then walked slowly past our ranks pointing at a prisoner over so often, saying 'this one... this one...'"

"When he stood facing me I knew that was the end. I was about the fifth to be pointed at."

Father Kolbe broke file, smiled and stood before the commandant with his cap off as prescribed by camp rules," he recalls.

Fritsch angrily asked: "What does this Polish swine want?" Kolbe: "I am a Catholic priest, rather elderly. I want to go instead of that chosen prisoner. He has a wife and children. He has a wife and children."

Pajama Party

A Roman holiday was enjoyed by Girl Scouts of Troop 146 over last weekend. The day was triggered Friday night with a pajama party during which plans were made for Saturday's events. The party was held at the home of Mrs. Jean Anne Smith, 808 Red Lion Lane, Atkinson Springs. Mrs. Smith is troop leader. Assistant troop leader is Mrs. Pat Ross.

Activities on Saturday began at 9:30 a.m. with a softball game. Following the game a splash party was held in the swimming pool of Mrs. Annette Parron of Rolling Hills. Four ice cream freezers were kept busy all day and a picnic lunch was served at 1 p.m. A dance contest was held during the evening.

Girl Scouts participating included Lori Dutton, Charlene Sherry, Michelle and Cheryl Gagnier, Sandra Maston, Crystal and Dawn Milstead, Suzi Parron, Tamie and Kim Smith, Karin Storey, Theresa Coulter, Cindy Cowan, Patricia Harkins, Lynn Larsen, Laura and Donna Meadows, Deb Millitt, Karen Ross, Sandra Stader, Tracy Stempkowski, Robin Bradley, Tracy Davis, Joyce Eidel, Valorie Fox and Vicky Stezer.

Historians have estimated that during the 3,467 years since 1496 B.C. there have been approximately 230 years of peace throughout the civilized world.

The World Almanac notes that of history's numerous wars the longest was the Hundred Years War (1336-1453) between France and England.

'Analyst' Reads Waste Garbage Tells Secrets

By ANN HENCKEN
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "Let's go on a garbage hunt tonight," said David Rockefeller. Maybe we'll find some used money," suggested Alan J. Weberman, 28-year-old self-styled garbage analyst.

"You can tell a lot about a person from their garbage—their politics, their standard of living," says Weberman. A Yipie with a Groucho Marx sense of humor, he is best known for his study and criticism of poet-singer Bob Dylan.

Weberman prepares for the garbage raid with the dignity of a surgeon, as he jaces around his immaculate Bowery apartment. He puts on a clean white shirt. He pulls his hair of red curls back into the semblance of a Paul Revere pony tail and a d.j.s.s. his gold-rimmed glasses. He folds a fresh plastic garbage bag and pockets a scribbled address and $50 in cash for emergencies.

"Upstairs, the street is dark and deserted. It is 1 a.m. Weberman calmly approaches the home of David Rockefeller, president of the Chase Manhattan Bank and brother of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. No lights are on. He looks around for a policeman.

"Keep watch," he says, slipping past the iron fence and lifting the lid of the garbage bin. He extracts a small brown paper bag, spotted with grease, and holds it up, grinning.

Once away from the scene, he paws through the remains, spread on the plastic sheet.

But the Rockefeller take is disappointing—a few gnawed chicken bones and a half-filled jar of pickled beets.

"Garbage hunting is an unorthodox method of sociological research. People have done worse things for science," he says.

Weberman does it for curiosity—and money. He says he received $500 for a recent magazine story about garbage.

His interest in garbage sprung from his obsession with Bob Dylan. Calling himself a Dylanologist, he spent several years organizing a two-volume companion book to Dylan's poetry and collecting rare Dylan tapes.

Still hungry for more scraps of information, Weberman strolled past the Dylan house last fall.

"I reached in the garbage can and pulled out a half-filled letter to Johnny Cash. I said, 'This is no garbage can, it's a gold mine!'"

"After two weeks, Dylan got wise. He began to censor his garbage."

Weberman has worked his way into the hearts of pull-it-not-always the boxer Muhammad Ali, playwright Neil Simon and Yipie leader Abbie Hoffman.

Now, Weberman is gunning for powerful, establishment types.

He plans a book called "You Are What You Throw Away," describing garbage contents belonging to famous people. Among those on the 16 most wanted garbage list are Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, former jockey Eddie Arcaro—"to see if he has small garbage"—, feminist Kate Millet and Tricia Nixon Cox, daughter of the President.

Tombstones Tell Tales Epitaphs Recorded

by DAVE THOMAS
Canadian Press Writer

OTTAWA (AP) — Dear Friends,
Pray for me
As you pass by
As you are now
So once was I
As I am now
So you will be
Therefore prepare for death
And follow me.

That's the favorite epitaph of a man who has spent the last 18 years roaming Canada while recording the inscriptions on more than 500,000 tombstones in 2,000 cemeteries.

Wilson A. Stewart, a 53-year-old army pensioner, began studying the history of early graveyards when he joined a Kingston, Ont., Mormon church. Part of Mormon doctrine requires church members to respect and record the history of their ancestry and Stewart started tracing his friends' genealogies as a hobby.

It was not until 1969 that Ontario provincial law required the registration of grave sites and their occupants. So cemetery headstones provided the only historical source on family information before then.

As Stewart saw pioneer grave

20-Acre Park Attracts Tourists Timland Is A Miniature Thai

By PETER O'LOUGHLIN

BANGKOK (AP) — Thailand is a country as big as France with a population of 33 million. But you can see it all in an hour and a half at a place they call Thailand in miniature, or Timland.

Tourists on two-day stopovers are giving up country Thailand a miss and settling for a visit to Timland, a 20-acre park on the outskirts of the city where the owner boasts he has the only working elephants for 60 miles.

Timland is available in open air pavilions. But Ulatudiy Deavaband, the manager, says most tourists prefer the hamburgers or hot dogs at $1 each.

Mr. Tai the snake charmer is one of the star attractions. He brings gasps of nervous delight from lady tourists when he slithers into the snake pit and stomps on the tail of a cobra.

He is quick on his feet, but has been bitten six times by the world's deadliest snakes and doesn't seem any the worse for wear.

Mr. Tai's act is a pretty tough one to follow. But it is topped by the beautiful Miss Achana Chitmontri, Thailand's top sword fighter.

The slight 23-year-old girl teaches sword fighting to a class of 28 young men and gives a performance every afternoon at 4 p.m. Hacking and chopping with curved steel Thai swords she takes on the best of her students.

"It's a dangerous sport," she admits. "I've been hurt a few times."

Three feet and wearing Thai traditional costume, Achana never wears face masks or padding like Western fencers. The swords are real too.

She spent 10 years studying the classic art of Thai sword fighting at a school near Bangkok.

"I come from a long line of sword fighters," she said. "The resident troupe of Thai dancing girls perform traditional dances that most Thais have forgotten for the more vigorous rock dances. There are 23 girls in the dancing troupe and no corps de ballet in the West ever led a stricter life."

The girls, all aged between 16 and 22 live in a dormitory at Timland and are allowed no boy friends. Offenders are expelled. As every job the girls stick to the rules. They get $15 a month plus food and clothing.

New Lawyers Group Is Major Conduit Of U. S. Political Action

By EDWARD NEILAN
Copley News Service

WASHINGTON — A recent convention in Boulder, Colo., looked more like a reunion of a bible company than the annual gathering of the National Lawyers Guild.

Some participants arrived in vans with peace symbols painted on the sides. There were long-haired men in jeans. Some wore beads around their necks and some were barefoot.

The few women delegates, were, of course, braless.

The five-day get-together on the campus of the University of Colorado was in fact a self-analysis session of activist lawyers. The National Lawyers Guild, a radical lawyers' group, is rapidly becoming a major conduit of political action in the country.

Watchword of the guild, in its present reshaped image, is "Get involved."

As controversial lawyer William Kunstler told the gathering in Colorado, "The lawyer is no longer a bystander. The days of lawyers' test cases are over. This is a partnership with the movement. You have to identify with your client — live and die with your client."

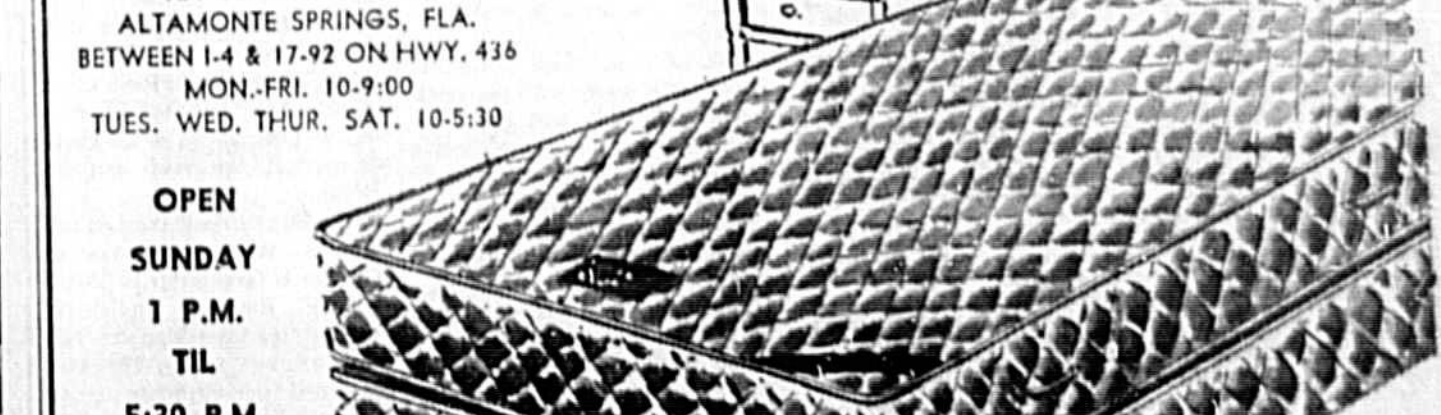

Long-haired Kunstler, who reappeared on the national scene recently speaking on behalf of the Attica convicts, is about as far from the Perry Mason image as you can get.

"Lawyers should talk to rallies, be in on the planning, demonstrate, the trial itself — you're on the battlefield," said Kunstler, who is the most prominent member of the guild. He has admonished other members that they "have an obligation to work the media for all it's worth."

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: We work in a large office with a young woman who has a tremendously large bosom. Because of this she is terribly self-conscious and she always wears a coat. Even in 95-degree weather.

Can you suggest some way we can help her get rid of this complex?

HER BOSOM BUDDIES
DEAR BUDDIES: If she is too-heavy to the point of being freakishly out of proportion, perhaps she should be told plastic surgeons can correct that condition. It may be easier for her to reduce the size of her bosom than to get rid of her complex.

DEAR ABBY: My sister, a widow for the past year and the mother of an 11-year-old son, has developed some rather strange habits lately. I visited her last week (she has a three bedroom home in Staten Island) and I found her giving her son a bath. Not only that but she was clad in a skimpy pair of panties and a loose fitting bra.

The next day I noticed the only bed that had been slept in the night before was her twin bed. She said her husband had been sleeping in her bedroom since her husband's death because she was "lonely" and because Staten Island is almost a "rural area" she is afraid to sleep in her bedroom alone. That may be, but why two of them in one twin bed?

I told her it was unnatural.

and she denied anything unnatural was going on between her and her son.

I knew my sister always had kinky ideas, but this is the kookiest. Shouldn't something be done about this? I am afraid she has gone completely off her rocker.

DEAR WORRIED: She is more than "kooky." She is disturbed. Tell her doctor what you've written to me. Her son needs to be rescued and fast.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for six years. We've both worked and saved in order to furnish a house for the way we want it. We have no children and aren't planning on having any just for at least two years.

We just put in wall-to-wall carpeting and want to keep it nice for as long as possible. So we ask our friends and relatives to please leave their shoes outside the door. Almost everyone has gone along with our request, and the few who haven't didn't upset us much. My husband is quite artistic and he wants to make a decorative sign to place beside our doorknob. It will read, "PLEASE LEAVE YOUR SHOES OUTSIDE." Is this in poor taste? Would you do it? We live in Colorado, and if you've ever been there in the winter you know what the weather is like.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 19-year-old. I wouldn't question his taste. I wouldn't

Jacoby On Bridge

Sir Lancelot had had a full day. He had slain a stray dragon in the morning and rescued a fair damsel in the afternoon. A good dinner at the Round Table, followed by a few rubbers of bridge, had left him ready for bed, but he was persuaded to play one last rubber. With both sides vulnerable, he opened one no-trump and young Gaveth raised him to game. Gaveth opened the queen of spades and Lancelot won with the ace. There was no reason to hold off.

Then he led the 10 of diamonds. Gaveth played the five-spot without hesitation.

Jacoby and Son

Lancelot led his last diamond. Gaveth played the deuce and a lot of tricks hung on Lancelot's choice of which card to play from dummy.

Finally he turned to Mordred and remarked, "M-m-thinks you played that five too quickly. Timing is everything in bridge, as in jousting. I am going to play dummy's ace."

This was the wrong percentage play, but it was correct this time. If Mordred had just played the five a trifle slower, Lancelot would have finessed again and been set several tricks.

Worry Clinic

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph. D., M. D.

CASE 1588: Dick W., aged 25, is a lawyer.

"Dr. Crane," his mother began, "Dick has a brother two years younger, whose name is Jim.

Both boys were equally bright.

"But Jim was always more easy going.

"He seldom finished his chores unless I constantly prodded him and even then he'd want to argue about the matter.

"So I figured Jim would become a lawyer, since he liked to talk and mingled more easily with strangers.

"Both decided to study law.

By Dr. Crane

"But Dick was more inclined to stick to any task till he completed it.

"He always had more determination.

"So Jim quit college after two years and became a salesman.

"This even earned much of his expenses while in law school.

"Dr. Crane, is it hereditary that caused this difference in my sons?

"No, it is more likely due to the sequence in the family.

Often I have mentioned that the oldest child tends to be more of the executive type who assumes responsibilities and is a "finisher."

"For that is inherent in being the firstborn.

By FRANK MACOMBER
Military-Aerospace Writer

The federal space agency, faced with a famine in manned space missions after 1975 until the less Congress underwrites the $1-billion-a-year shuttle program, is shifting its sights to the millions of high school students who will be eligible to vote at age 18.

American youth's new voting rights give young people a considerable influence on House and Senate members who will determine whether a manned shuttle program will fly between earth and space to an earth-orbiting U.S. space station in the late 1970s.

Hence the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's selection of the National Science Teachers Association of Washington, D.C., for negotiation of a contract to manage and operate what the space agency will rank what it describes as a "limited number" of experiments into the Skylab missions.

The student participation program is open to all boys and girls in grades 9 through 12 in U.S. public, private, parochial and American overseas schools.

High school students who become involved in the Skylab experiments program will be eligible to vote soon after they graduate, and some likely will be leaders in the nation's scientific community.

Newspapers Continually Strive For Self-Improvement

RICHARD D. SMYSER

(Richard D. Smyser is general chairman of the Continuing Studies Program of The Associated Press Managing Editors Association and editor of the Oak Ridge (Tenn.) Oak Ridge. Here he tells how editors throughout the country are working continually through APME to improve their newspapers and the profession of journalism generally.)

By RICHARD D. SMYSER

In recent years some public figures occasionally have made headlines with their criticisms of the press.

Hundreds of editors have been conducting systematic critiques of the press on an annual basis for years. But they haven't often thought of their efforts as news, partly due to a desire not to foster shoptalk on readers.

If indeed press criticism from outside the press is something of a national issue, surely efforts at self-improvement within the press should be news too, especially when we consider that these efforts extend back years before press criticism received national attention.

The editors annual critiques— or continuing studies, as they call them—are a project of The Associated Press Managing Editors Association (APME), an organization of news executives from member newspapers of The Associated Press.

The studies began in 1947 and have grown annually. This year

253 editors are pooling efforts toward press improvement. They are members of 18 study committees with such names as General News, Washington News, Writing and Editing, News Enterprise, Content and News Approaches, Content and News, Photography, Minority News, and others.

APME studies are never static. There are some annual tasks, but each year some entirely new study areas are turned up.

This past year committees have taken up such concerns and criticisms as:

Do newspaper headlines too often give the wrong impression?

Is there a new breed of reader—a reader who is "turning inward"—who is interested in world affairs but primarily as they affect him personally and directly?

Is there a new type of reader who is turned off by what has been called "agenda news," economy and pollution, written in the same old way day after day?

In just the past two years, APME has been emphasizing prompt, spontaneous action and reaction between member editors and top Associated Press editors. Almost daily several editors will pick up their telephones and call AP in New York or Washington.

They might advise the AP people what questions their readers have been asking about President Nixon's wage-price freeze.

Or maybe the calling editor suggests an interview with a union member or a teacher who won't get a raise because of the freeze. It suggests that a report from Washington on ing Committee. This committee also filed a series of monthly reports on writing. It coined a word: "Newscram," which means cramming too much information into too few sentences.

United Fund Supports 12 Agencies

Why support the United Fund? A realistic answer for donors is that it is far better and less expensive than the welfare and taxes approach that would eventually replace it.

Victory Dinner

A pep rally for all the division chairmen in the 1971-72 United Fund campaign has been called by Bob Morris, chairman of the current drive, for 1 p.m. Sunday at his home on Cornell Drive.

AROUND THE CLOCK

Think about United Fund for a minute, will you? Yeah, I know . . . that means digging, and quite honestly there are some who would like to, but just can't.

IF YOU DON'T DO IT, IT WON'T GET DONE. GIVE. IF YOU DON'T DO IT, IT WON'T GET DONE. PLEASE. IF YOU DON'T DO IT, IT WON'T GET DONE. THE UNITED WAY.

Success of the minimum $11,000 in '71 drive of the United Fund of Seminole County rests on the shoulders of the residents of this growing and expanding county.

Experienced observers of such annual appeals are becoming more and more optimistic about this minimum result. But this figure is not realistic, if the pared-down requests of the agencies who get all or part of their funds from the UF are remembered.

For Seminole County is growing. Its population is expanding, its municipalities are pushing their borders out by annexation. In short, the $100,000 goal is simply an updating of a total which reflects the needs for expanding the services of such agencies as the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Salvation Army and those helping the underprivileged.

Today, however, we would point to the very highest kind of informed self-interest which every resident in our county can exercise by calling the UF headquarters 223-5500 and getting on the 1971 UF honor roll!

IF YOU DON'T DO IT, IT WON'T GET DONE. GIVE. IF YOU DON'T DO IT, IT WON'T GET DONE. PLEASE. IF YOU DON'T DO IT, IT WON'T GET DONE. THE UNITED WAY.
