Frying, broiling may cause cancer

PHOENIX — A study, conducted at the National Cancer Institute, states that frying, broiling or barbecuing meat, chicken or fish produces potentially cancer-causing substances, but zapping such food in the microwave instead virtually eliminates the hazard. See Page 7A

Smokers case to be heard

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court agreed to decide whether federal law shields cigarette companies from claims that they do not give smokers adequate warnings about health hazards. See Page 8A

BRIEFS

Dense fog causes accident

GENEVA — A two car accident on Justamere Drive and State Road 46 near Geneva backed up traffic in both the east and west bound directions on Tuesday morning.

The accident which occurred about 6 a.m. in the dense morning fog was not serious.

According to a Florida Highway Patrol spokesman, there were no critical injuries in the accident. All parties were able to leave the scene of the accident without medical treatment.

There are no reports on financial damages to the vehicles.

Overtaken van backs up traffic

SANFORD — A van overturned in the median on Interstate 4 and the Monroe Bridge on Tuesday morning.

Though the accident occurred before 7 a.m., a spokesman for the Florida Highway Patrol said the traffic headed westbound toward Orlando, was backed up for nearly a mile an hour and a half after the accident.

There were no injuries in that accident.

Flamingos ruffle owners' feathers

DALLAS — Residents here are discovering that plastic pink flamingos won't stay put on their lawns.

A group of pranksters calling themselves the "pelican crew" hit homes in a west Dallas neighborhood last week, leaving behind metal legs and ransom notes.

In another part of town, Oak Cliff resident Judith Moon said thieves have stolen her flamingos, though some of the ornaments have been returned.

"It sounds like a college prank," said Police Detective Patrick Boyd, adding that community college students may be to blame.

Among the victims is Nancy Prather of suburban Grand Prairie. She said she's been hit three times in the past six years, though three of four stolen birds were later returned.

"I think it's weird that they repeat this over and over, but maybe they can't find that many people with pink flamingos in their yard," Prather said.

'Bill' Gielow honored

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Winifred "Bill" Gielow was presented with the 1991 Warren E. "Pete" Knowles Service Award during a ceremony at the beginning of the Sanford City Commission meeting last night.

The annual award, presented for the past seven years to outstanding contributors in a variety of endeavors in the Sanford area is named after Warren E. Knowles, former City Manager who is known as "Pete" to his friends.

A group of friends from various organizations of which "Bill" Gielow is a member, attended the City Commission meeting to observe the award being presented to her.

City Attorney Bill Colbert read the official proclamation, citing Mrs. Gielow's many achievements and services to the City of Sanford and its people. Following the reading, Mayor Betty Smith presented the award certificate to Mrs. Gielow, who was given a standing round of applause by city officials as well as the general public.

Strategic planning group under fire

By VICKI DESORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Strategic planning was supposed to be the savior of the Seminole County school district.

Some people think that it's just a new name for the old game.

At tonight's 7 p.m. school board meeting, the board will be forced to defend their position against detractors from the business community who say that if the board approves the strategic planning committee they have proposed, they are just paying lip service to the idea of change.

"Strategic planning is the planning of the school district's needs and goals in a more business-like way," Dr. Bill Dalley, director of planning, research and evaluation for the district, said.

Dalley believes that the school district, which is the largest employer in Seminole County, could run more efficiently with decisions based on business principals rather than purely academic decisions.

—Dr. Bill Dalley

"We have a budget, a tight budget, we need to work within," he explained recently. "Tough business decisions have to be made."

The board will choose a group of community members to help them make some of those decisions.

The group, however, will not be the same as the Business Advisory Committee which has been meeting twice monthly for over a year to make recommendations to the board on business-related issues.

Under the plan, the strategic planning group would be made up of parents and school administrators who have time to give to the planning sessions that are needed to set things in motion. Business leaders, with companies to run and clients to meet with, will be excluded, be it indirectly, because they can not give that sort of time to the group.

"That isn't our plan," said Joe Williams, chairman of the school board. "We want the input of all segments of the community."

Williams said he understands the objections of the business people to the make up of the strategic planning board, but would not say if he planned any proposals for change.

The board will meet tonight in their meeting room at the district headquarters, 1211 Mellenville Ave. in Sanford.

Medical waste incinerator hearing 7 p.m.

121 residents reject proposal

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Seminole County Commission will hold a public hearing this evening on a proposal for a permit to build and operate a medical waste incinerator in a proposed industrial park west of Sanford.

The incinerator request is from former Seminole County Commissioner Sid Vihlen who owns the seven-acre tract on which it would be built, north of Church Street in the community of Lake Monroe. If approved, the incinerator would be part of a 30-acre industrial park called "Rands Yard Industrial Center." It would include a tire shredding facility and celery icehouse, to the east of Old Monroe Road.

The matter is scheduled to be discussed at this evening's Seminole County Commission meeting, beginning at 7 p.m., in the County Services Building on East First Street in Sanford.

Residents of the nearby area are objecting.

This morning, 121 letters from residents of Elder Road, Narcissus Avenue, Palm Drive, Burton Road, Power Road, and Riverview Avenue were submitted to County Commissioner Jennifer Kelly by Betty Giles of Riverview Avenue.

The form letters say the residents are against the incinerator because of how they believe it will effect the quality of life in the area, potential environmentally negative impacts, the degradation of the residential neighborhoods and possible injury to the future development of the Lake Monroe area.

Vihlen however, said at the beginning of the project, that he would not build such a facility. See Hearing, Page 5A

Drugs blamed in civil disturbance, couple placed under medical care

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — What was believed to have been a shooting incident turned out to be the quelling of a civil disturbance yesterday morning with no shots fired, at a private residence located along Central Drive in Sanford.

Police Chief Steve Harriett said that officers were called to the scene early Monday morning to investigate an incident that was believed to have been a family disturbance.

When they arrived, a woman was found in an incoherent state, apparently suffering from the use of some type of non-prescription drugs, the chief said. The woman was immediately taken to a hospital for treatment, he said.

Harriett said officers attempted to speak to the occupant of the house, but he reportedly failed to answer either the door or the telephone.

In order to make a safe entry, members of the combined area SWAT team unit were called to the scene. The SWAT team, heavily armed, and using what Harriett described as a small amount of tear gas, managed to enter the house shortly after 10:30 a.m.

The occupant of the house, also believed to be under the influence of drugs, was taken to the hospital. See Drugs, Page 5A

War vet to local group: U.S. blessed

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

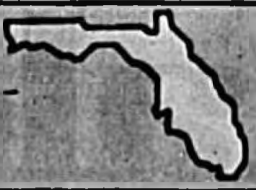

SANFORD — Army Staff Sergeant Shun P. Thomas was the featured speaker at Monday night's weekly meeting of Sanford's Desert Storm Support Group. According to the group's chairperson, Judy Osborn, "That young man was absolutely great for the group to meet. He made an excellent talk about the war, and spent a great deal of time answering questions from family members and spouses of other service personnel."

Osborn said, "He told the group he wasn't a very religious man when he first went to Saudi Arabia, but after he saw some of the fighting, he changed his mind and with a few casualties as he saw, he knew the U.S. was blessed." Thomas worked in a unit that dealt with war casualties.

Also on the program was Dr. Richard Stout, a therapist at West Lake Hospital in Longwood, who, in addition to a discussion on how to handle returning service personnel, handed out booklets on the subject to many family members.

Sutton named president of network

ST. PETERSBURG — The television retailer Home Shopping Network Inc. named as president Robert T. Sutton, a former executive with Media General Inc.

Sutton, who assumes duties immediately, is a veteran of the mass communications industry, the network said Monday.

He was president and chief executive officer of Media General Broadcast Group, a division of Richmond, Va.-based Media General Inc. The company operates the Tampa Tribune and local NBC-affiliate WFLA-TV, as well as ABC-affiliated stations in Jacksonville and Charleston, S.C.

Sutton joined WFLA-TV in 1981 as executive vice president and was named president and chief operating officer a year later. Throughout his career, he has held various posts in television in Detroit, Philadelphia and Miami.

Forrestal heads for Middle East in May

WASHINGTON — The aircraft carrier USS Forrestal, based at Mayport Naval Station near Jacksonville, will leave for the Middle East in late May, said U.S. Rep. Earl Hutto.

Hutto, D-Fla., said Monday that Pentagon officials told him the on-again, off-again deployment was on again. The Forrestal will replace one of the carriers stationed in the Mediterranean Sea or Persian Gulf, Hutto said.

Previous plans to dispatch the Forrestal to the Middle East were cancelled after fighting between Iraq and allied forces ended.

"Even though the Persian Gulf War is over, we still have to maintain some level of force there," Hutto said. "The Forrestal will be an active element of the American naval presence in the area, and I'm glad that she will be contributing to our peacetime efforts in the Middle East."

Gay leaders list complaints

ORLANDO — Gay leaders say police are harassing homosexuals in the Orlando area, and they've got a list of complaints they want to resolve.

But Orlando Police Chief Dan Wilson and Orange County Sheriff Walt Gallagher say there are few, if any, reports of abuse.

The Gay and Lesbian Alliance Against Defamation sent a letter to Wilson this month saying the gay community was concerned about its relationship with police. A similar letter will be sent to Gallagher, group leaders said.

Harassment is compounded by a "lack of moral guidance" from top officials, said Brian K. Arbogast de Hubert-Miller, co-chairman of the Orlando-based alliance.

Needles tested for AIDS virus

MIAMI — Police laboratory technicians were conducting AIDS tests on a pair of hypodermic needles used by three elementary students to jab seven classmates.

Allapattah Elementary School students had found the used syringes behind a grocery store known as a center for drug sales, Miami police said Monday. After classes Wednesday, they jabbed two other students in the thumb and thigh, then returned to the school playground and stuck five others, said James Fleming, assistant superintendent of schools for Dade County.

Late Monday, Walter Livingstone, Dade County's public health director, said an initial examination of the syringes showed they appeared clean.

"We are awaiting the results so I can speedily call the parents and inform them," Allapattah Principal Harold Jones said.

State Attorney's Office settles with teen

STUART — The State Attorney's Office has agreed to pay $125,000 to a teen who was wrongfully convicted of attempted murder in the stabbing of a Port Salerno woman, attorneys said.

The settlement is in addition to the $157,455 the state paid Todd Neely last year for court costs and attorney's fees after a circuit court judge ruled that prosecutors withheld crucial evidence that would have proved his innocence, the Palm Beach Post reported in today's editions.

"Todd has now recovered almost $300,000 from the State Attorney's Office, which is almost unheard of," said Neely's attorney, Joe Negron.

Boy commits suicide with police gun

FERNANDINA BEACH — A 15-year-old boy committed suicide with a police officer's shotgun while sitting handcuffed in the back of a Nassau County Sheriff's patrol car, according to a prosecutor.

The shotgun used by William Shawn White of Bryceville had been hanging on the front side of a screen cage separating him from the front seat, Assistant State Attorney Andrew Kantor said Monday.

The teen-ager, who Kantor said suffered from depression, had been left unsupervised in the car Sunday afternoon with his hands cuffed behind his back, even though minutes earlier, he had tried to jump out of the second story of a house.

Scam victims scammed again

Florida-based scheme promises restitution

By RICHARD COLE
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI — Victims of boiler room scams across the continent are being swindled a second time with a phony Florida-based restitution scheme, federal and state authorities have warned.

At least two or three groups of swindlers are operating in South Florida after probably buying lists of people who have been defrauded from other con artists, said Walter Scheuplein, supervisor of the Miami FBI's white collar crime unit.

"One of the valuable things they own is the list of the people they hit," he said. "Once you've been hit on one of these, that makes you a target."

Using the lists, the culprits call and say they represent the state's restitution fund. At various times they have represented themselves as lawyers, bondsmen — and even FBI agents, Scheuplein said.

There is no Florida restitution fund, the FBI notes.

The callers promise to refund the money lost in the first fraud if the victim will forward 10 percent of the amount as an administrative or finder's fee.

The FBI, along with the state attorney general's office and local authorities in Dade, Broward and Palm Beach counties, set up the joint investigation after receiving 60 complaints from across the United States and Canada recently.

Many of the victims have lost $800 to $1,500 in the second fraud after losing up to $15,000 the first time.

3 big citrus firms win payments

By CURT ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — A bill acting aide $31.1 million to pay a second round of claims from the 1984 citrus canker scare would largely benefit three big companies through higher industry taxes.

The House Appropriations Committee voted 28-0 Monday in favor of the bill (CS-HB 389), clearing it for a floor vote. It would raise the funds on a 50-50 match between citrus industry taxes and money provided by general taxpayers to pay pending compensation claims.

Of the $31.1 million, about $25 million will go to The Coca-Cola Co. of Atlanta, A. Duda & Sons of Oviedo, and Hillsborough Wholesale Nursery of Tampa, according to a claims official in Comptroller Gerald Lewis' office.

Democratic Rep. Bert Harris of Lake Placid, primary sponsor of the bill, said those three companies lost thousands of citrus trees — mostly seedlings — when a burning program was undertaken to eradicate what was mistakenly thought to be a virulent form of the canker leaf-spotting disease.

"They're going to get a good amount of money because they lost a lot of trees," Harris said.

The bill would: — Raise the tax on a field box of citrus from 4 cents to 8.79 cents.

— Boost the tax on retail sales of citrus trees from $1.25 to $1.50.

— Increase from 16 cents to 20 cents the tax on commercial sale of citrus trees.

The increases would be in effect for one year to raise $15 million for the compensation claims; the state's general revenue fund is responsible for the remaining $15 million.

The three big corporations would get the bulk of settlements are reached on their claims, said Otto Hough, financial administrator in the comptroller's Office of Citrus Canker Claims. No breakdown among the three companies was available because the claims have not been completely settled, Hough said.

The remaining $6 million would be divided among about 300 other, smaller claims, Hough said. One other big agribusiness concern — Lykes Brothers — has yet to finalize its claim, he added.

President's son Jeb champions exiles from Cuba, Nicaragua

Associated Press

MIAMI — Jeb Bush, the president's son, has become the darling of Miami's Cuban and Nicaraguan exile communities by securing them official favor — while raising questions about his political ambitions.

And he is displeasing some government officials in the process.

Bush, coy about his political desires, is comfortably ensconced in one of Dade County's most loyal and conservative constituencies. Miami exiles have politically adopted the president's son, a longtime Dade resident with fluent Spanish, a Mexican wife and his father's uncompromising stance against communism.

In Miami, such credentials are a candidate's dream. Some say the next step for the younger Bush, Florida's former commerce secretary and a past leader of the Dade Republican Party, is a bid for Congress.

He is quiet about his plans. "That would be down the road if it does happen," Bush said. For the moment, friends say, he is comfortable making a living in real estate and enjoying family life in south Dade.

I talked to our friend in Washington. I hope it helps.

—Jeb Bush

But while Bush is raising his profile as an informal liaison between the White House and Miami's exiles, he also is raising the ire of some government officials and Cuba's Communist leadership.

Earlier this month, Bush urged his father to make phone calls in support of a United Nations resolution to monitor human rights violations in Cuba. The Miami Herald reported for Monday editions.

"I talked to our friend in Washington," the president's son wrote in a private facsimile to an associate in Geneva. "I hope it helps."

After a few well-placed calls from the White House, U.S. delegates at the U.N. Human Rights Commission adopted their most implicitly critical resolution ever of Fidel Castro's government. The Herald reported.

Before that episode, Jeb Bush had spent months working with Nicaraguan leaders. Their goal, which was achieved, was to convince the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service to shelve plans to deny political asylum claims and deport Nicaraguan refugees en masse.

Bush's behind-the-scenes maneuvers have angered some administration officials who say they are being circumvented, according to The Herald report.

At the State Department, one diplomat said: "people are really sensitive" about the U.N. vote.

But exiles delight in the newest nemesis of the U.S. president's son. Carlos Rafael Rodriguez, Cuba's vice president, recently accused Jeb Bush of representing reactionary, expropriated exiles and blamed him for Havana's poor relations with Washington.

"For reasons having to do with the relationship of President Bush's son Jeb Bush to the Cuban community in Miami, (George) Bush has taken an attitude toward Cuba more irrational than any previous American president, including Ronald Reagan," Rodriguez wrote in a December article.

Jeb Bush provided the inevitable response: being denounced in Havana is a badge of honor in Miami.

POLICE BRIEFS

Warrant arrest made

Leroy Francis Elston, 31, who reported no local address, was arrested on Friday on a warrant. He was wanted for violating his probation on a battery charge.

He was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility where he was held without bond.

Sexual battery on child charged

Randu Jack Drury, 22, of 308 E. 13th St. in Sanford, was arrested on Monday and charged with sexually battery upon a child and with carnal intercourse with an unwed person.

According to the arrest report, the victim, who had known Drury for about 10 years, alleged that he had taken her against her will, to his house from the church that they attend.

He allegedly kissed her against her will and forcibly removed her clothes and attempted, unsuccessfully, to have intercourse with her, the arrest report stated.

He was arrested at his home and taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility where he was held without bond.

Battery charged

Michael Alan Whitmer, 25, of 635 Riverview Dr. in Sanford, was arrested on Monday and charged with battery.

He allegedly got into an argument with his live-in girlfriend and caused injuries to her head, face and leg, according to police reports.

He was transported to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility where he was held in lieu of $500 bond.

Assignment to commit lewd act charged

John Digorga, 41, 459 Cindermill Pl. in Lake Mary, was arrested at Big Tree Park in Longwood on Monday.

He allegedly propositioned an undercover officer with whom he allegedly wanted to have oral sex, according to the arrest report.

He was transported to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility where he was held on $100 bond.

Home burglary reported

The W. 23rd Street home of Sanfordite Jacob Delancy was broken into sometime during the early hours of Sunday morning, according to police reports.

Entry was apparently gained by removing a window screen and smashing a bedroom window. Among items reportedly taken were a 25 caliber handgun a gold Bulova watch and 3 gold rings.

Officers from the Sanford Police Department are conducting an investigation.

Repaving program approved

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - In what was one of the shortest City Commission meetings in many months, the commissioners Monday night, approved a city street repaving program with no objection or discussion.

The cost estimate for the repaving project is estimated at a total of $99,588. The work will be funded from local option gas tax revenues and will be done by county workers. Sanford Public Works Director Jerry Herman said work will be underway in the very near future. He expected most of it to be complete within just a matter of weeks after it is started.

The streets to be repaved include 4th Street from Mellonville to Locust Avenue, Laurel Avenue from 3rd to 13th Street, Elm Avenue from 3rd to 13th Street and Fulton Avenue from French Avenue to its dead end.

One additional area to be repaved include a short 40 foot long patch of State Road 46 west of Poplar Avenue. It is to be done to correct a relatively severe grade difference that causes excessive noise from truck traffic.

During Monday night's meeting, which lasted only 35 minutes, the Commission also authorized the City Manager to execute a utility agreement with the Department of Transportation for the relocation of city utility lines on Lake Mary Boulevard and on Airport

Annual financial report gives city good review; cost opposed

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - The City Commission reviewed and accepted its comprehensive annual financial report for the year ending September 30, 1990 last night, and although it accepted a renewal of the contract for future reports the increase in its cost drew some opposition.

The report, in the form of a 123 page booklet, showed that the city has been in excellent compliance with all requirements of the state and federal government, with proper record keeping and financial distribution. The results of the survey, undertaken by Coopers and Lybrand, was explained by Christine Hill, one of the company's partners, during a work session at City Hall in the late afternoon.

Hill reported that only in a few areas, were any problems found in the city operation, "but they were of a minor nature and did not give the city any problems," she said.

Florida was said to be ahead of most of the rest of the nation in that each of cities is required to have such an audit report done annually. This type of report is required by cities in requesting certain grants and state approvals.

At the conclusion of the discussion on the audit, Mayor

Betty Smith said, "I feel very good about this."

The previous three year contract with Coopers and Lybrand however, expired in September, 1990, and the Commission was faced with a decision of whether or not to renew it for three additional years. Hill explained that the cost, $30,000 per year, would have to be raised to $40,000 because of the economy, and amount of work required in compiling the report.

Commissioner Whitey Eckstein objected to the cost increase. "I don't think it's right to pay that much more of the taxpayers money for the report," he said. Eckstein suggested that some other firm might be able to do the report for a lower fee. Commissioner McClanahan suggested the cost might be lowered to $35,000 but Hill said her partners would not agree to any lesser amount.

During the regular City Commission meeting later Monday night, the renewal of the contract for $40,000 per year was brought to a vote, and was passed four to one, with Eckstein objecting.

Davis accuses Kelley of conflict

County official disputes critic

By VICKI DESORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - Former Seminole County commission candidate and government critic Art Davis says he filed a formal complaint Monday with the State Attorney's office against Commissioner Jennifer Kelley.

The complaint alleges that she voted with a conflict of interest in May of 1989, he said.

The State Attorney's office has not been able to confirm that the complaint has been filed, a spokesperson said today.

Davis, of 225 Lake Markham Road in unincorporated Seminole County, said in the complaint that Kelley should not have been allowed to vote on an issue because it involved a member of her family.

According to the complaint, Kelley made a motion and cast an affirmative vote to approve the allignment of the right-of-way for the future extension of Rhinehart Road from State Road 46A. A large portion of that extension would pass through property which was then owned by Viola H. Kastner.

Kastner was, at the time, Kelley's mother-in-law. Davis contends, therefore, that such a vote represented a conflict of interest.

Kelley denied any conflict. "For there to be a conflict of interest, (Kastner) would have to provide financial support to me," she said Tuesday morning. "There is not, was not, has never been any financial support from her."

Davis' complaint alleges that Kastner had, over a period of time, made various deposits in amounts of as much as $7,000 into a checking account in Kelley's name. Kelley did not comment on those particular allegations.

Kelley did say that she checks out all possible conflict of interests with the county attorney before casting any questionable votes.

"I have a letter on file from the attorney regarding this and any other possible conflict of interest votes," she said.

Kelley did not know why Davis chose to file a complaint in the case of a 1989 vote at this time.

"He does things like that," she said. "Maybe he's going to run for office again." Davis has run a political campaign against Kelley in the past.

Rap group seeks to have ruling overturned

By ROBERT BYRD
Associated Press Writer

ATLANTA (AP) - The leader of 2 Live Crew emerged from the rappers' latest day in court, worried that once again, the self-proclaimed "nasty" group may have problems convincing judges to listen past the lyrics.

"They keep talking about taking the words out of the record. You can't do that," Luther Campbell said after a hearing Monday at the 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

2 Live Crew's attorney asked the court to reverse a lower court ruling that the album "As Nasty As They Wanna Be" is obscene.

"This is not the Pulitzer Prize for poetry. This is music we're talking about," said group attorney Bruce Rogow, arguing before a three-judge panel.

The Miami-based rap group is appealing last June's ruling by U.S. District Judge Jose Gonzalez of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., declaring "As Nasty As They Wanna Be" obscene. Gonzalez said the hit album's numerous crude sexual references made it "an appeal to dirty thoughts and the loins, not to the intellect and the mind."

But Rogow said the law mandates that "Nasty" be evaluated as a complete musical work, not simply for its controversial lyrics.

"To just listen to the words ... turns upside down the reason for an audio recording," he said. One of the three judges hearing the appeal, Senior Judge Paul H. Roney, took issue with that argument. "The decision has never been made you can sing obscenity" and get away with it, he said.

Rogow also argued that Gonzalez substituted his own view for evidence supporting the album's artistic merit. In the district court trial, several pop music critics testified as expert witnesses on the group's behalf.

"The trial judge could not substitute his opinion for that testimony," Rogow said.

Global warming

Two years ago, a Sierra Club report sounded an alarm that has greatly influenced the views of most Americans on a vital environmental issue.

"The greenhouse effect is real and requires immediate attention," the report began. "If nothing is done to combat greenhouse global warming, average temperatures are expected to rise three to eight degrees over the next 50 years. The sea is expected to rise three feet, flooding coastal cities ... Massive forest areas are expected to die and burn ..."

In reality, the predicted greenhouse effect is still a hypothesis, not an established scientific fact. Actually, several authoritative studies show temperatures on some parts of the globe are going down. This does not mean that the greenhouse theory should be dismissed. While many top scientists are now skeptical, a majority still believes there is ample cause for concern.

There clearly has been a buildup of carbon dioxide and other gases in the atmosphere from the burning of fossil fuels. The most popular theory holds that these gases act like the glass in a greenhouse, thereby warming the planet. But ironically, a greater danger may be global cooling. Some reputable scientists now believe the more likely effect of atmospheric pollution may be an increase in clouds that could trigger the onset of a new ice age.

The problem is that no one has been able to establish a net change in global temperature from the varied sets of atmospheric measurements. A better place to look for that change is the oceans, whose temperatures are far more stable than those of the fluctuating atmosphere.

Walter Munk and his associates at Scripps Institution of Oceanography in La Jolla, Calif., now have developed a method that may help resolve the greenhouse debate. By monitoring sound waves from speakers on a ship in the Indian Ocean, they have measured world ocean temperatures to within a few thousandths of a degree. The technique makes use of the fact that the speed of sound increases with the water temperature.

Scientists are only a few months away from being ready to begin a study that could determine, once and for all, whether the greenhouse danger is real. The big hitch is that the worldwide study would have to continue for 10 years to detect any change in ocean temperature and would be expensive, requiring federal support. But the National Science Foundation will guarantee support for such projects for only four years, due to budget constraints.

An exception should be made for the global warming study, which requires a 10-year federal funding commitment to be effective. The questions surrounding the potential greenhouse effect are simply too urgent to be left unanswered any longer than necessary.

National park scenery

A little girl we know was once rebuked for burying her head in a picture book while riding through winding valleys and sun-dappled forests. "The scenery — you're missing all this beautiful scenery!" chided her mother. "Scenery's all right," sniffed the child, "as long as I don't have to look at it."

What would our smart-alecky friend, now grown, make of the latest inventions in scenery? We refer to plans by a California company to install a wraparound movie screen, motel and retail complex on the edge of Utah's Zion National Park. Tourists could "visit" the park on the big screen (and presumably stock up on souvenirs) without ever setting foot in the real thing.

The idea isn't new. Similar projects overlook the Grand Canyon, the Alamo and Niagara Falls. As advocates point out, such vicarious trips prevent wear and tear on national treasures.

Perhaps. But as the movie complexes proliferate, they could blot out views of the parks — a case of art obliterating life. Why not put these cinema spectacles in major cities? "Visit Milwaukee — and see the Grand Canyon."

Is abuse an excuse for murder?

Former Ohio Gov. Richard Celeste has gone and done it. Maryland Gov. Donald Schaefer has followed suit. Now New York Gov. Mario Cuomo is being asked to commute the prison sentences or pardon once-battered women who killed their husbands.

It is the latest way for politicians to show their politically-correct sensitivity.

Perhaps some of these women did deserve lighter sentences than they received. It is impossible to know, however, without looking into the details of each case. Presumably, inspecting such details is precisely what juries and judges spent their time doing. How else were these women convicted?

The debate over the proper sentences for battered women goes to the core of our concept of self-defense. Traditionally, the law justified taking a life only if the person resorting to violence felt an immediate threat to his or her survival. Defense attorneys for battered women now seek — and in a growing number of cases have been granted — a different standard for acquittal: if a person felt trapped in a relationship and saw no way out but the death of her tormentor.

Needless to say, this is an extremely elastic (if not to say infinitely flexible) standard. Not only does proof of feeling "trapped" rely almost entirely upon the word of the person who does the killing, it also will vary from woman to woman.

Many women tolerate no violence whatsoever from their husbands. They walk out at the first beating and never look back. Others leave after several failed attempts at reforming the brute's behavior. Others try to leave but are pursued, harassed and threatened before finally capitulating to a domineering sadist. And still others never make any effort to sever ties with the man they eventually kill.

Shouldn't these differences affect the ultimate sentence? It is one thing for a woman who has been hunted down by her husband to turn finally on him with lethal force, but it is quite another thing for a woman who never makes a single serious break for freedom to plunge a knife into her husband while he sleeps or (and this has happened) to hire an assassin for the job. If she really felt too helpless and powerless to leave, how was it that she managed to summon the will to plan a killing?

True, domestic violence needs to be taken more seriously by many jurisdictions, and battered women in some communities need more shelters and havens for escape. For that matter, it is certainly understandable that victims of domestic violence sometimes turn on their husbands and kill them, even without an immediate threat. Such women obviously deserve different treatment from stone-hearted murderers. But acquittal? Death is simply not the penalty our society metes out for assault-and-battery — even repeated assaults and battery.

Battered women are not the only people who feel trapped, after all. Many ghetto youth feel no less suffocated by poverty and lack of role models and opportunity. Are we soon to allow urban drug dealers and robbers to defend themselves in court by citing their longtime sense of helplessness?

Perhaps some deserved lighter sentences.

Saudis seek new Middle East order

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia — The Saudis will emerge from the war against Iraq with their own version of the New World Order. It is one that will pay back friends for help as well as enemies for hindrance.

That is good news for the United States and Egypt, but bad news for King Hussein of Jordan, President Ali Abdullah Saleh of Yemen and Yasir Arafat of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

The pre-war way in which the Saudis dealt with foreign policy matters was a simple one — royal diplomacy. Large sums of money were shelled out to help Iraq, Jordan and other Arab countries, but in some cases the money was pocketed at the higher echelons of government and did not help the little people.

Our Saudi and diplomatic sources in Riyadh predict that the Saudis will continue to be generous with foreign aid in the future, but it will not be like the hand-outs of the past that had no strings attached. Now the Saudis will demand that their good will and money will buy them something.

The new Saudi aid program will be Islamic — people-to-people — instead of leader-to-leader. The Saudis will work through the mosques instead of the monarchies and dictators. They will set up joint business ventures, particularly in the poorer countries such as Egypt, to give the underprivileged a chance to work and an avenue out of impoverishment.

The new embrace between the United States and Saudi Arabia will be a strong one. That is because last August, King Fahd, in his summer palace at Jeddah, asked Defense Secretary Richard Cheney and Gen. H. Norman Schwarzkopf for help to protect Saudi Arabia from Iraq. King Fahd was reluctant to bring American troops to his country, but Cheney and Schwarzkopf didn't have to twist his arm. When Fahd did ask for help, the pair "already had a plan in their pockets," our sources said. It was a revision of the president war game that Schwarzkopf had ordered up last July at his Central Command headquarters in Tampa, Fla. The war game became the draft for Operation Desert Storm.

The Saudis will pay the $16.8 billion they have promised toward the cost of the war, possibly more, but it will not be easy for them. The perception of Saudi Arabia as a deep-pockets nation is erroneous.

Certainly Saudi Arabia is one of the best credit risks in the world because it has one-third of the world's known oil reserves. But $16.8 billion is not chicken feed. It is more than half of the expected Saudi oil revenues for this year. If the United States were to hand over a similar percentage of its wealth, it would amount to nearly $1 trillion.

"The Saudis will put off other payments on some contracts as they did in the 1970s when they had a cash-flow problem. Some intelligence analysts are even predicting a small recession in Saudi Arabia.

Gone are the days when Saudi Arabia would hand out money to countries like Iraq simply to pacify the restless neighbors. The Saudis are now ready to play tough. One Saudi intelligence official, speaking on condition of anonymity, predicted that King Hussein of Jordan "will disappear." He would not expand on the remark.

"The depth of the Saudi animosity toward King Hussein at the moment cannot be gauged," a Western diplomat told us. He said the United States may be interested in rehabilitating King Hussein, but Saudi Arabia is not. King Hussein spoke vigorously in defense of Saddam Hussein.

Also in the Saudi dog house for supporting Saddam too vigorously is Yemen.

In some cases the money was pocketed at the higher echelons of government.

More doctors aid euthanasia

PORTLAND, Ore. — Because the subject of suicide is so fraught with emotion, the Oregon-based Hemlock Society sometimes resorts to euphemisms when offering advice to the terminally ill on how to end their lives.

The alternative terms favored by the society include "self-deliverance" and "auto-euthanasia." But the organization's publications usually are quite blunt in counseling its 40,000 members throughout the country on planning their deaths.

The society's best-selling book, "Let Me Die Before I Wake," has offered medical, legal and psychological guidance to 150,000 purchasers — including the specific names and exact dosages of drugs virtually certain to induce death.

A typical issue of the Hemlock Society's quarterly newsletter reports that a growing number of its members "are reporting in the last few years 'that the doctor helped him/her on the way.'"

Moreover, the newsletter offers some very specific advice for dealing with reluctant physicians: "Coolly suggest that he could cover himself by giving you two separate prescriptions on different dates, each for (a certain number of) Seconal." The total, which is specified, is a lethal dose of the barbiturate, the society notes.

That candor undoubtedly will upset many people, but the terminally ill and members of their families everywhere in the nation increasingly are relying upon measures designed to accelerate death, often with the knowledge — if not guidance or assistance — of members of the medical profession.

The American Hospital Association — a respected, mainstream organization — estimates that 70 percent of the 6,000 deaths that occur every day in this country are somehow timed or negotiated.

In most instances, that involves decisions to withdraw or not make available nutrition and hydration tubes, pumps, respirators, dialysis machines and other artificial life-sustaining mechanisms.

In other cases, however, physicians provide additional aid to dying patients determined to end their lives — typically by prescribing lethal drugs with the knowledge of their intended use or by discussing means of suicide. "The frequency with which such actions are undertaken is unknown, but they certainly are not rare," report 12 doctors in a medical journal article.

Most of the patients probably have never heard of the Hemlock Society, but they presumably endorse its principal goal — "to provide a climate of public opinion which is tolerant of the rights of people who are terminally ill to end their own lives in a planned manner."

The problem is that medical science has been spectacularly successful in extending the length of the average life, but not in improving the quality of human existence for people (many of them elderly) who are terminally ill.

In addition, the medical profession has been stymied in its attempts to do anything more than sustain life at its lowest level among the approximately 10,000 people consigned to a permanent vegetative state or an irreversible coma.

Numerous religious orders, medical societies and other groups are vehemently opposed to hastening or encouraging death by any means. But many people believe that a public debate on the role of doctors in that process would be salutary.

Indeed, some advocates of legalized euthanasia in this country have advanced a set of proposed guidelines to govern the process, based on practices in the Netherlands that are associated with 5,000 to 10,000 deaths every year.

The suggestion of suicide cannot be offered by any family member or advanced by any doctor. It must come in explicit, documented, repeated, unambiguous terms from a rational patient whose mental or physical suffering is severe, whose options for all alternative forms of care have been exhausted and whose medical situation is intolerable, with no prospect of improvement.

The patient's doctor must endorse the request, then obtain an independent, concurring opinion from a second physician. Finally, the doctor administers a barbiturate to induce sleep, followed by a lethal dose of curare, or other muscle-paralyzing drug to halt breathing.

The candor undoubtedly will upset many people.

either some type of drug or alcohol — according to Harriet — was placed in handcuffs and taken to Central Florida Regional Hospital for treatment, then taken to a crisis center for further aid.

Although one unidentified homeowner reported that she had heard shots fired and believed that someone had been wounded, law enforcement officers report no shots were discharged.

Wayne Wood, who lives two doors from the house said, "I didn't know anything was going on at all until I came outside and saw police and sheriff's cars and fire trucks all over the place."

Another nearby neighbor, Wilbur Kallys, watched the law enforcement officers from his front porch. The SWAT team vehicle was parked in front of his house and Kallys said he was "impressed by the way they went about their work, and the amount of preparedness they made, not knowing at the time what they may face once they entered the house."

The man and woman involved in the incident, whose identities cannot be revealed, have both reportedly been placed under the Baker Act, and following treatment at the hospital, were transferred to the Bay Avenue Crisis Center in Sanford for further treatment.

from Burlington, N.C. in 1957, and was employed as bookkeeper by Hunt-Lincoln Mercury. In 1959 she married Sanford Herald publisher Walter A. Gielow and later became comptroller of "The Herald" where she remained until 1974 when they both retired.

While she has been active in church, civic, cultural and political organizations since arriving in Sanford, many people say she was always highly successful in all of her undertakings. Long time friend George Touhy said, "Bill has always had an outstanding interest in our community. She is the type person who has not only elevated people into better community interest, but has helped others help themselves." Touhy added, "Her time and talent in community welfare is a very desirable quality."

As Community Improvement Project chairman for the Sanford Woman's Club, she helped found the annual May Day Brunch in 1974. Funds from this event, in excess of $37,000 during the years, have always been earmarked for civic improvement. Among other uses, they have helped pay for landscaping the medians on 17-82 at the entrance to the city; erect signs for the Scenic Route; help landscape the Cultural Arts Center through the Sanford Scenic Improvement Board of which she was a member; and more recently, $12,000 from CPI was used to help landscape the Children's Playground at Park on Park, build a bathroom and install lights.

As chairman of Centennial Park, she helped raise $15,000 toward the renovation of the park and build the gazebo.

She has also served as chairman of the Beautification Committee of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce. Chairman of landscaping and upgrading Memorial Park on the lakefront, and chairman of the Chamber's annual azalea sale for eight years.

Mrs. Gielow has also served as a member of the Board of Directors of the Good Samaritan Home Building Fund and was instrumental in obtaining a $4,000 grant from the Washington Foundation.

Among the many awards she has received was the Sanford Kiwanis Club's Gatchel Woman of the Year award.

She has served as an elder of the First Presbyterian Church, president of the Presbyterian Churchwomen and an Honorary Life Member of the church; president of the Sanford Woman's Club; and was a member of the Seminole Mutual Concert Association; Ballet Guild of Sanford-Seminole; Salvation Army; Good Samaritan Home; Seminole County Mental Health Association; Democratic Women's Club of Seminole County and the United Way of Seminole County.

unless he was sure it would not pollute the environment, or cause harm to area residents.

Estimates of the amount of pollution that would be generated range up to 50 tons per day. It would burn the infectious and other waste materials from a five-county area.

Vihlen said the $9 million facility will produce less air pollution than a typical county road and will be of great service in cleaning the environment of previous illegally dumped medical waste.

He said initially the facility would open up 85 jobs, and could possibly double in size sometime in the future, depending on the demand.

New laws both at the state and federal levels, will soon be making regulations on the disposal of medical waste more and more strict.

A higher degree of air pollution control and other requirements are expected to be demanded by the governments during the next two year time period.

Support

Tuesday, at 8:30, a number of members of the Support Group will be going to the Orlando Regional Airport where Marine Lance Corporal John Childers of Sanford, will be arriving. Childers is a graduate of Seminole High School.

At next Monday night's meeting, Osborn said there will be three returning servicemen speaking. One is from the carrier Saratoga, one from the 82nd Airborne unit, and Corporal Childers.

The group also announced a fund raising bake sale scheduled to be held on Saturday, March 30, near the Walmart store at Seminole Centre, beginning at 10 a.m.

The Sanford Desert Storm Support Group meets each Monday night at 7 p.m. at the American Legion Post 53 building, 2874 Sanford Avenue. Family and friends of servicemen are cordially invited to attend.

Hatfield's image eroding over gift reports

By JILL LAWRENCE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Sen. Mark Hatfield's unshakable stands against war, abortion and the death penalty have earned him a rare reputation as a politician above politics.

But the moral high ground under the Oregon Republican known as the conscience of the Senate may be eroding with revelations that he failed to report $9,300 in gifts from a school seeking federal funds, and helped channel millions to another school that admitted his daughter under a special procedure.

"There's no doubt that he's projected an image as something other than your common politician. But these revelations are an indication that he isn't any different," said Paddy McGuire, executive director of the Oregon Democratic Party.

Hatfield waged an uncharacteristically nasty campaign last year to beat back an aggressive and nearly fatal challenge. But he was back in his customary role as a moral crusader during the Gulf War debate.

He was the only senator who voted against authorizing force to get Iraq out of Kuwait and an alternative that authorized defensive force only. As recently as last Tuesday he was out on his quixotic limb once again, a lone vote against a bill appropriating money to pay for the war.

"I've always said if you ask me a question I'll give you my answer. I'm not going to ask you to agree with me but don't ask me if you're expecting an answer that you want," Hatfield said several weeks ago in describing the way he has operated through more than 40 years in elective office.

Despite Hatfield's vaunted integrity, a number of ethical questions have come up during those years. Among them: —His wife received $55,000 from Greek financier Basil A. Tsakos for "real estate services" in 1984, at the same time Hatfield was promoting Tsakos' proposal for a trans-African oil pipeline. The Justice Department investigated but did not prosecute Hatfield. He donated the money to charity and won re-election that year.

—Harry Lonsdale, Hatfield's Democratic opponent last year, questioned government-paid trips taken by Hatfield's chief of staff and the aide's role as head of a failed savings and loan. The aide denied he did anything wrong.

—It was disclosed this month that Hatfield failed to report receiving two pieces of Steuben glass, an Audubon print and a porcelain statue from the president of the University of South Carolina. The gifts, and a full scholarship for his son, came at a time the school was seeking $16.3 million for an engineering center.

—The president of Oregon Health Sciences University, to which Hatfield had funneled more than $90 million in the past 10 years, personally admitted the senator's daughter and three other students into medical school there. Two board members quit in 1989 over the incident. The president said this month when it came to light that there was no political motivation.

Hatfield has said he did not know that the gifts from the university president, a family friend, were worth more than $100 apiece and needed to be reported. He has also strenuously denied any connection between his actions and those of the two universities. In fact, he said, he led a drive to trim USC's request.

The senior Republican on the Senate Appropriations Committee, Hatfield is described in Congressional Quarterly's Politics in America as an "unorthodox combination of moral indignation and pork-barrel politics."

To some, both traits make him an easy target. "Mark Hatfield has established such a distinguished reputation for moral rectitude that any missteps by him or even the appearance of missteps ... loom larger in his case," said Bill Lurch, a political science professor at Oregon State University and an analyst for Oregon Public Television.

On top of that, Lurch said, Hatfield is influential and makes no secret of it. The result, he said, is that "people may come asking for favors in a way that may prove to be embarrassing."

Hatfield's friends and political allies have been steadfast in their support of the senator, whose outside activities include prayer meetings and writing religious books.

But Oregon Democrats say Hatfield's halo is dimming — if he ever had one.

"During the last campaign Mark stepped off his pedestal and got in the gutter and threw mud with the best of them," said McGuire. He said the latest revelations show that at the very least, Hatfield is "definitely guilty of gross insensitivity."

Stanley Brand, a former counsel to the House ethics committee who now represents those it investigates, said there's no written rule against the treatment Hatfield's children received from the two universities. As far as the art, he said, members of Congress routinely report gifts or make disclosures after the fact.

Hatfield is responding to the latest round of questions with reminders of his longstanding "herce independence" from contributors, constituents and the White House.

"I've always said I'd be happy doing a lot of other things in life," the senator, who has never lost an election, said earlier this year. "I'm not going to play Faust and sell my soul to Mephistopheles for this business."

Aquifer still low despite heavy rains

Associated Press

LIVE OAK — Despite heavy rainfall that has caused flooding of North Florida rivers, groundwater levels still remain low in many areas after nearly three years of drought.

The latest data compiled by the Suwannee River Water Management District show groundwater levels remain low in the eastern part of the district which includes Alachua, Columbia, Union and Bradford counties, said Carolyn Mobley, a spokeswoman for the water district.

Groundwater levels improved greatly in February from January, when most of the 15 county district had below normal readings and they are rebounding from last year's record lows.

A Fascinat' Place

Hi, I'm Jill & every time that Roxzie, (my ad girl) tells me that it's time to get my story written I tell her O.K. then it comes down to the deadline & I haven't written the first word! And then I have the nerve to holler at my hubby about his procrastination. Women! Who can figure??

There is so much that I'd like to tell you about our place but I would probably start sounding like a proud grandmother with pictures, and pictures & more pictures. But you can be sure that someday when I am a grandmother that I will be right there with my pictures, pictures & more pictures.

I'm getting side tracked - aren't I. Back to our salon.

I would like you to know all the different areas of our salon. We have a complete hair salon offering everything from precision haircuts to perms & frostings. Plus we now offer high quality hair relaxers & wonderful facials. We have 3 hair stylists and we are open until 8 p.m. to help out the working people, men and women.

We offer all nail care services for hands and feet, plus nail art and extensions.

We also have a tanning center, using Wolff beds for a quick, dark, Florida tan.

I'm starting to sound like that Grandmother again, aren't I?? C'est la vie.

We have the full line of Merle Norman Cosmetics and skin care and we do free make-up lessons anytime to be sure that you are using color choices that are best for your skin tones.

Ear piercing, waxing, brow and lash tinting, gift certificates, Nexxus, Paul Mitchell and Aveda hair care products. I could go on and on but you might be nodding off by now.

To sum it up - we are a complete service salon - not expensive, but excellent in quality.

Oh - we also give free consultations, anytime, in case you're having one of those days when you just don't know what you want.

Thanks for listening. If you need anything just give us a holler, you're in for a treat.

Frying, barbecuing risk cancer

By DANIEL G. HANEY
AP Science Writer

PHOENIX — Frying, broiling or barbecuing meat, chicken or fish produces potentially cancer-causing substances, but zapping such food in the microwave instead virtually eliminates the hazard, a study found.

The study, conducted at the National Cancer Institute, offers more circumstantial evidence that how people cook could be as important as what they cook.

It shows that cooking at high temperatures and for a long time produces compounds that cause cancer in laboratory animals, including monkeys.

"If this was regulated by regulatory agencies, it would have been banned yesterday," said Dr. Richard Adamson, director of the institute's Division of Cancer Etiology.

Adamson presented his findings Monday at a meeting of the American Cancer Society. He estimated that consumption of high levels of these substances may cause 1,700 cases of cancer for every 1 million Americans over their lifetimes.

Other researchers presented studies suggesting that high consumption of animal protein and low intake of grains also contribute to cancer risk.

Some experts believe diet plays a role in about one-third of all cancer. Dietary guidelines from major health organizations urge people to reduce fat and eat more fruits and vegetables, but more specific advice has been scarce.

Adamson said heterocyclic aromatic amines were his newly found dietary villains. They are formed by a reaction of amino acids and creatinine — both found in animal foods — during cooking.

'Dances With Wolves' wins 7

By JOHN NORN
AP Entertainment Writer

LOS ANGELES — Rejected by the major studios and scoffed at by know-it-alls as a sure-fire flop, Kevin Costner's "Dances With Wolves" silenced detractors for good by winning seven Oscars, including best picture.

Directed by first-time filmmaker Costner and written by Michael Blake, an author with an otherwise unremarkable career, "Dances With Wolves" had 12 nominations and had been heavily favored to dominate Monday's Academy Awards.

It was the first Western to take the best picture prize in 60 years, since "Cimarron," and Costner became the fifth director to win an Oscar for his first feature film. "Dances With Wolves" also received a screenplay award for Blake and cinematography, editing, sound and original score Oscars.

Warren Beatty's "Dick Tracy" had the second most awards of the evening with three.

"I will not ever forget what happened here tonight," a beaming Costner said in accepting the best picture award.

The warmhearted heroics of "Dances With Wolves" did not carry over into the acting categories, where two coldd-blooded villains collected the top prizes.

Kathy Bates, who played an obsessed, sledgehammer-wielding fan of an injured romance novelist in "Misery," was named best actress.

Jeremy Irons, the icy socialite Claus Von Bulow in "Reversal of Fortune," collected the best actor trophy.

Reviving a stalled career with her depiction of a small-time psychic, Whoopi Goldberg snared the supporting actress Oscar for "Ghost." Joe Pesci, the trigger-happy mobster from "GoodFellas," won for supporting actor.

Four years in the making, "Dances With Wolves" wasn't given much of a chance by Hollywood. Three hours long with a third of its dialogue in Indian dialect, it was dubbed "Kevin's Gate," a play on the disastrous Western "Heaven's Gate."

Refugees: rebellion crushed in Iraq's big southern cities

By GREG MYRE
Associated Press Writer

SAFWAN, Iraq — Refugees and resistance fighters say government troops have recaptured every major city in southern Iraq, and Kurdish rebels report high casualties from raids by helicopter gunships in the oil center of Kirkuk.

The U.S. State Department said Monday that its intelligence supported reports that Iraqi troops have made gains in the south and appear to be in control of Kirkuk and the other main northern city, Mosul.

Iraq's U.N. ambassador on Monday accused neighboring Iran of sending some military units across the border and firing on Iraqi soldiers in support of rebel groups infiltrating from Iran. Tehran denied the accusations.

Resistance fighters and refugees, fleeing Monday to Safwan and other U.S. military outposts, said the mainly Shiite Muslim rebels in the south have lost all the larger cities and towns they controlled as recently as March 15.

They said Saddam Hussein's loyalists have used tanks, helicopters and heavy artillery to crush the southern protests.

Kurdish rebels to the north also reported air assaults by forces loyal to Saddam, saying the helicopter attacks have inflicted numerous casualties.

Gorbachev cabinet sets crash-course

By THOMAS GINSBERG
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW — Forcing a showdown with rival Boris N. Yeltsin and the Moscow populace that backs him at a crucial political juncture, Mikhail S. Gorbachev's Cabinet has banned all demonstrations in Moscow until mid-April.

The ban, approved Monday, comes three days before a planned demonstration by several pro-reform groups in support of Yeltsin.

He is expected then to face a no-confidence vote in the parliament of the Russian republic in a special session called by his hard-line opponents.

The Moscow city council, controlled by pro-democracy forces, has already granted a permit for the planned Thursday demonstration, which is to be led by the anti-Communist movement Democratic Russia.

A similar rally March 10 drew about 500,000 people to Moscow and tens of thousands more into streets in other cities. It was the biggest demonstration in the Soviet capital since the 1917 Bolshevik Revolution.

The special session of Russia's parliamentary was called after Yeltsin demanded last month that Gorbachev resign, accusing the Soviet president of betraying the forces of democratic reform by allowing a conservative resurgence.

Each man accuses the other of leading the country to the brink of civil war and being more preoccupied with expanding personal power than the good of the country.

Yeltsin enjoys the overwhelming support of the people of Russia, the Soviet Union's biggest and most populous republic. But he cannot necessarily count on the backing of the republic's parliament because only a portion of its seats were filled through direct election.

The Gorbachev Cabinet ordered the Interior Ministry, KGB and other security agencies to prevent any gatherings on Moscow streets from March 26 to April 15.

Disney eyes resorts worldwide

By E. SCOTT RECKARD
AP Business Writer

LOS ANGELES — Walt Disney Co. plans time-share resorts near its theme parks worldwide, part of a strategy to engage vacationers' attention — and pocketbooks — for days or weeks at a time.

The first resort, a previously announced 501-unit Key West-style development, is nearly complete at Walt Disney World in Florida. Apartments there range from studios to twin-suites, five-bedroom villas.

Officials said Friday that Disney plans or is considering resorts near its Anaheim, Paris and Tokyo theme parks, and in locations such as Colorado ski country and California's desert. As part of the program, known as Disney Vacation Club, vacationers could visit different resorts at different times.

"You will invest in the rights to use the vacation facilities at Florida first and at others as they may develop," Disney World spokesman Charles Ridgway said.

Ridgway said Disney also will work out deals to swap time and space with other reputable time-share developments.

Exact cost and legal details weren't released. Vacationers are expected to buy stakes in the resorts for 50 years, with ownership then reverting to Disney. Disney wants to keep tight rein on the resorts by managing them through a subsidiary, a plan at odds with current California law.

At most time-share resorts, vacationers buy an ownership stake in a unit they can use for a specific period each year, typically a week or two. But Disney wants to provide more flexibility, along the line of certain resorts developed by Marriott Corp. and a few other companies, Ridgway said.

-Charles Ridgway, Disney spokesman

For example, someone might purchase use of a two-bedroom villa for a week each year during a slow season in Florida.

But one year they might instead book a smaller apartment for the same length of time at peak season.

The next year, they might stay at resorts near Disney's parks in California, France or Japan.

They even could "bank" time from one year or "borrow" it from a future year, said Doug Gillies, a Disney lobbyist in Sacramento.

Participants would not be required to visit Disney parks. But Gillies said Disney will set up an 800 number so they can not only book time at a time-share villa, but flights and tickets to theme parks or to, say, the nightclubs planned at the huge Euro Disney complex that opens next year outside Paris.

To exert more control over possible time-share resorts near Disneyland in Anaheim or at its proposed nautical theme park in Long Beach, Disney is trying to loosen California's tough time-sharing laws. Gillies said one big concern is a requirement that someone besides the developer must manage a time-share facility under three-year contracts. Another is a regulation giving the state real estate commission the power to negotiate and approve prices for time-shares sold more than 200 miles outside the state.

The power comes from a 30-year-old law passed after a series of seams involving time-share resorts.

"Time share has had its problems, with people who were less than upstanding in it," Ridgway acknowledged. "But there are some upstanding people in it already and we think the Disney name and our attention to detail and quality will be a great asset."

In fact, Disney's near-obsession with control of its image has become ever more apparent. In recent years, Disney has licensed its name more carefully and has begun aggressively expanding its own consumer products division. It opened Disney stores and experimented with fast-food restaurants.

It also bought and upgraded the Disneyland Hotel in Anaheim, and has been buying up many of the tawdry motels nearby for possible development. It has built lavish hotels in Florida, and is building more hotels and a campground at its French development.

Seldner Amdee Securities analyst Jeffrey Logsdon said all that, plus the time-share plans, are part of a master strategy: "to make sure Disney enjoys as much as possible of "the revenue stream that their reputation creates."

Supreme Court agrees to hear smoking case

By JAMES H. RUBIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court today agreed to decide whether federal law shields cigarette companies from claims that they do not give smokers adequate warnings about health hazards.

The justices, for the first time granting review in a dispute over the dangers of smoking, said they will enter a long-running battle between the tobacco industry and the family of a New Jersey woman who died of lung cancer.

A ruling in the case of Rose Cipollone is expected in 1992. If the tobacco industry loses, it could face new lawsuits seeking untold millions of dollars.

The case acted on today began in 1983 when Antonio and Rose Cipollone of Little Ferry, N.J., sued three companies that manufactured the cigarettes she smoked.

A federal jury in 1988 ordered Liggett Group Inc. to pay Antonio Cipollone $400,000, but absolved Philip Morris Inc. and Lorillard Inc., owned by Loew's Theatres Inc. The award was the nation's first money damage judgment ever against the tobacco industry.

Marc Edell, a lawyer for Cipollone, said the case potentially has enormous importance for smokers and cigarette companies.

"It could change the whole way in which the tobacco industry deals with its consumers" if the high court rules for the Cipollone family, he said. "There is no incentive (now) for the companies to be more forthcoming about the dangers of smoking."

The tobacco companies also said they welcomed the high court review.

"We're pleased that the court has accepted the case for review and will resolve the clear conflict in the lower courts," said David Kentolt, a lawyer for Philip Morris Inc.

Gambling riverboat now afloat

Associated Press

PENSACOLA — Attention Las Vegas: Iowa is looking for a piece of your action.

And Bob Kehl of Dubuque, owner of America's newest gambling ship, expects to get his share of high rollers on April 1, the day Iowa's riverboat gambling law goes into effect. The Dubuque Casino Belle left Pensacola at 2:26 a.m. CST Sunday headed through for Iowa via the Gulf of Mexico and the Mississippi River. The boat had to go through sea trials required by the Coast Guard Saturday night before its departure.

"It's a funny thing," said Kehl, a 56-year-old former restaurateur and caterer. "but I was against gambling at first. I felt we didn't need it. For one thing, we had all the riverboat excursion business in Iowa."

But in 1989, Iowa became the nation's first state to approve riverboat gambling on the Mississippi River.

"Once it passed," said Kehl, "we changed our minds about gambling. We decided we had to be the biggest."

Kehl is off to a good start.

His gambling boat cost $12 million and took nearly a year to build in this Florida Panhandle city. The 387-foot-long ship, an oversize replica of a 19th century sidewheeler, can carry up to 3,000 riverboat gamblers. It's equipped with 500 slot and video poker machines, 21 blackjack tables, two crap tables, a roulette wheel and a money wheel.

"It's the most elegant boat in America today," said Kehl, gazing up at the Belle docked at Palm's Shipyard Inc., the company that built it. "It's a beauty."

The Belle is lighting a tight schedule to reach Iowa by April 1, when Gov. Terry Branstad is set to christen the ship.

"It's going to be tight," conceded Kelly Acton, public relations director for the Dubuque Casino Belle.

Iowans taking the journey say Kehl will get the Belle back to Iowa by April 1.

"We'll get there," said Jack Bugniet of East Dubuque, Ill. "You can bet on it."

28 Cubans reach U.S. shore safe

Associated Press

MIAMI — Twenty-eight Cubans capitalized upon favorable weather conditions to escape from their Communist government island authorities Sunday.

The four weekend arrivals aboard rats and a small boat brought to 96 the number of Cubans known to have come here by sea in March. The U.S. Coast Guard said. The total for the year is 162, the Coast Guard said.

IN BRIEF

SOFTBALL

Coaches needed

SANFORD — The Sanford Recreation Department is looking for coaches for its senior girls softball league. The league, for girls 13-15, has enough girls registered to fill the teams but several coaches are still needed.

Interested parties are requested to call Jim Adams, Recreation Supervisor, at 330-5697.

RECREATION HOOPS

ICBA looking for teams

OVIDO — The Inter County Basketball Association is currently looking for six teams to participate in its spring men's league, scheduled to begin play on April 7.

The only restriction on player eligibility is that no one with remaining high school eligibility will be allowed to play.

The entry fee of $235 includes referees, insurance and trophies. Each team will play the other five twice for a 10-week season. There will be tripleheaders every Sunday night for 10 consecutive weeks. All games will be played at Oviedo High School.

For information, call Mickey Norton at 365-4040.

GOLF

Brantley wins again

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — The Lake Brantley Patriot boys golf team pushed its record to 9-0 with a 155-160 win over the Oviedo Lions at Sabal Point Monday afternoon.

It was the second time this season that Lake Brantley has beaten the Lions, the only two losses suffered by Oviedo.

Doing the scoring for the Patriots were Brian Hunnicke and Ryan Stead (both at 38), Mike Berzovich (39) and Brian and Jason Opal (both 40).

The 155 score was only 11 over par on the par 36 course. Three of the four Lake Brantley scorers (Hunnicke, Stead, J. Opal) are freshman while Berzovich is just a sophomore.

Scoring for Oviedo were Jimmy Sellers and Jarrod Brown (both 38), Tom Minton (41) and Roby (42).

Next action for the Patriots, also 9-0 in the Seminole Athletic Conference, will be Thursday when they meet Lake Howell at Sabal Point starting at 3:30 p.m.

Oviedo, 7-2 in the SAC, will be in action again today when they travel to Deltona for a 3:30 p.m. match.

COLLEGE BASEBALL

UCF routs Wagner

ORLANDO — Host UCF, 25-9, scored early and often, pounding out 16 hits, en route to a 9-1 win over Wagner, O-1, from Stanten Island, New York.

Outfielder Mike Josephina had four hits and third baseman Ernest Martinez chipped in with three more. Shortstop Gregg Castaldo went 2-3 with 2 RBI for the Knights. Junior right hander Chris Law improved his record to 5-1 by pitching five innings and allowing just two hits while striking out three.

The Knights host Wright State, Ohio today starting at 11 a.m. and will play Cleveland State of Ohio Wednesday at 7 p.m.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL

FSU opens practice

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Veteran coach Bobby Bowden is focused on preparing the Seminoles for a run at an elusive national championship as he begins his 16th season at Florida State.

Florida State returns 17 starters off a 10-2 team that closed the season with seven straight victories and a No. 4 ranking nationally — its lowest in four years.

"The biggest thing I've got to do is keep these kids hungry," said Bowden as he prepared to open spring practice today. "If they're not hungry, they won't do it."

The Seminoles return two fifth year seniors at quarterback where Casey Weldon is No. 1 with Brad Johnson as his backup. Two multi-sport sophomores, Charlie Ward and Kenny Felder, will battle for playing time as the third team quarterback. Ward was the point guard on Florida State's NCAA basketball team while Felder is one of the school's top sluggers on its top-ranked baseball team.

A horde of underclassmen will fight for playing time at the wideout spots while Warren Hart and Lonnie Johnson are expected to be capable receivers at tight end.

Defensively the Seminoles lose only outside linebacker Winston Moss and safety Bill Ragans off the starting lineup.

Compiled from wire and staff reports.

TRC champions again

Raines rips Erectors in playoff 14-2

From staff reports

SANFORD — The Tim Raines Connection proved again Monday night why it has become the team by which all others compare themselves as they blasted Lambert Erectors 14-2 in the playoff game for the championship of the Sanford Recreation Department Monday Night Polar Bear Slowpitch Softball League at Chase Park.

The victory gave TRC its fourth straight Sanford league title in the past year since coach Ed Jackson and sponsor Tim Raines threatened to drop their support of the team in December of 1989.

TRC finishes the season with a 9-2 record while Lambert Erectors ends at 8-3.

Jackson proved that he could also lead by example as he drove in four runs with a pair of triples. Also contributing to the 20-hit TRC offense were Ernest Shuler (triple, two singles, three runs scored), Billy Griffith (three singles, run scored, two RBI) and Rod Turner (home run, single, three runs scored, two RBI).

Also adding hits were Robert Stevens (two singles, run scored, three RBI), Sam Raines (two singles, two runs scored, RBI), Burnett Washington (two singles, RBI), Greg Hardy (two singles, run scored), Ned Raines (single, two runs scored) and Rod Turner (-20 left) and Burnett Washington of the Tim Raines Connection talk over the next batter in Monday night's playoff game at Chase Park. Turner drove in two runs with a home run and Washington had two hits and scattered eight hits to become the winning pitcher as TRC whipped Lambert Erectors 14-2.

Lake Mary junior varsity baseball team rolls on

From staff reports

LAKE MARY — The Lake Mary junior varsity baseball team continues to impress as it took a pair of easy wins over DeLand and Seminole.

The Rams shutout the DeLand Bulldogs 9-0 Saturday behind the three-hit pitching of Russell Haney and used a 12-run fourth inning to blank the Tribe 17-4 Monday night.

Lake Mary improved to 13-3 with the wins and will host the Lake Brantley Patriots Thursday starting at 4 p.m.

Seminole jumped on Rams starter Chad Kessler for four runs in the first two innings but Ben Rovito came in to shut the door the rest of the way as he improved his personal record to 3-2.

Todd Braden of the Tribe carried a 4-2 lead into the bottom of the third but gave up three runs in the third and six runs in the fourth before being relieved. Lake Mary kept up the pressure against a pair of Seminole relievers for six more runs to end the game by the mercy rule.

Contributing to a 17-hit Rams attack were Matt Diemer (3-5, double, run scored, three RBI), Jason Crane (2-2, three runs scored, two RBI) and Rovito (2-2, two runs scored, three RBI).

Also contributing were Jason Perry (single, run scored), John Lugerling (single, run scored, RBI), Eric Lester (single, three runs scored), Brian Marotta (single, run scored, two RBI), Drew Thomas (single, two RBI), Brian Milner (single, run scored), Mike Warner (two runs scored) and Brent Wilmot and Kessler (one run scored each).

Milner also drew two walks on the night giving him 23 bases on balls for the season and raising his on base percentage to .627.

For Seminole Duncan was 1-1, Braden was 1-2 with a run scored, Tony Hensley was 1-2 and Rawlings, Daniels and Phillip King scored one run each.

Haney didn't need any help in stopping the Bulldogs as he went 6 2/3 innings to raise his record to 4-1.

The Rams took control of the game in their first at bat with three runs in the top of the first inning. They continued to pile up the runs with one each in the second and third innings and two in each of the fourth and fifth innings.

Providing the offense for Lake

Mary were Rovito (triple, single, run scored, RBI), Kessler (triple, run scored, RBI), Paul Clayton (single, two RBI), Warner and Marotta (one single, one run scored and one RBI each), Mike Akerson (single, run scored), Lester and Thomas (one single each) and Diemer and Milner (one run scored each).

Kennon, Washington lead SAC girls basketball team

From staff reports

OVIDO — The Seminole High School duo of LaKoscia Kennon and Nikki Washington have been named to the first team of the All-Seminole Athletic Conference Girls Basketball Team announced Monday.

Kennon, a senior who has signed to play at Stetson, and Washington, a sophomore, helped lead their team to the SAC championship with an unblemished 12-0 record.

Kennon averaged 12.8 points while hitting 43 percent of her field goal attempts and 62 percent of her free throw opportunities. She also averaged 7.7 rebounds, 6.0 assists and 5.2 steals per game.

Washington is one of the best all-around players to come into the county in several years. She got off to a slow start after setting out last season but came on to put some excellent numbers on the board.

She averaged 12.6 points per game and shot 46 percent from the floor and 43 percent from the free throw line. But her other statistics are what strike your eye. She grabbed 14.8 rebounds, 5.9 steals, 5.8 assists and a phenomenal 7.0 blocked shots per game.

The SAC also voted the Tribe's head coach, John McNamara, as conference Coach of the Year. Overall Seminole finished 23-2 and advanced to the finals of the district tournament before losing to St. Cloud.

Also named to the first team were sophomore Karen Morris of Lake Mary and seniors Jennifer Kruger of Lyman and Betsy Hughes of Oviedo.

Leading the second team were a pair of players from Lake Howell's Class 4-District 9 champions. Seniors Elizabeth Mills and Quiya Hawkins were the Silver Hawks' representatives. Also named to the second team were senior Keesha Robinson of Lyman, junior Tiffany Williamson from DeLand and freshman Leigh Ann Penny from Lake Brantley.

Earning Honorable Mention were: From Lake Brantley: Kristen Forst, Tracy Coalter and Nora Lidke.

From Lake Howell: Lenett Barreras, Cathedra Winston and Tonya Lewis.

From Lyman: Shima Clark, Latisha Smith and Katrina Stafford.

From Lake Mary: Melissa Mau, Marti Citarella, LaShawn Merrick and Dawn Judd.

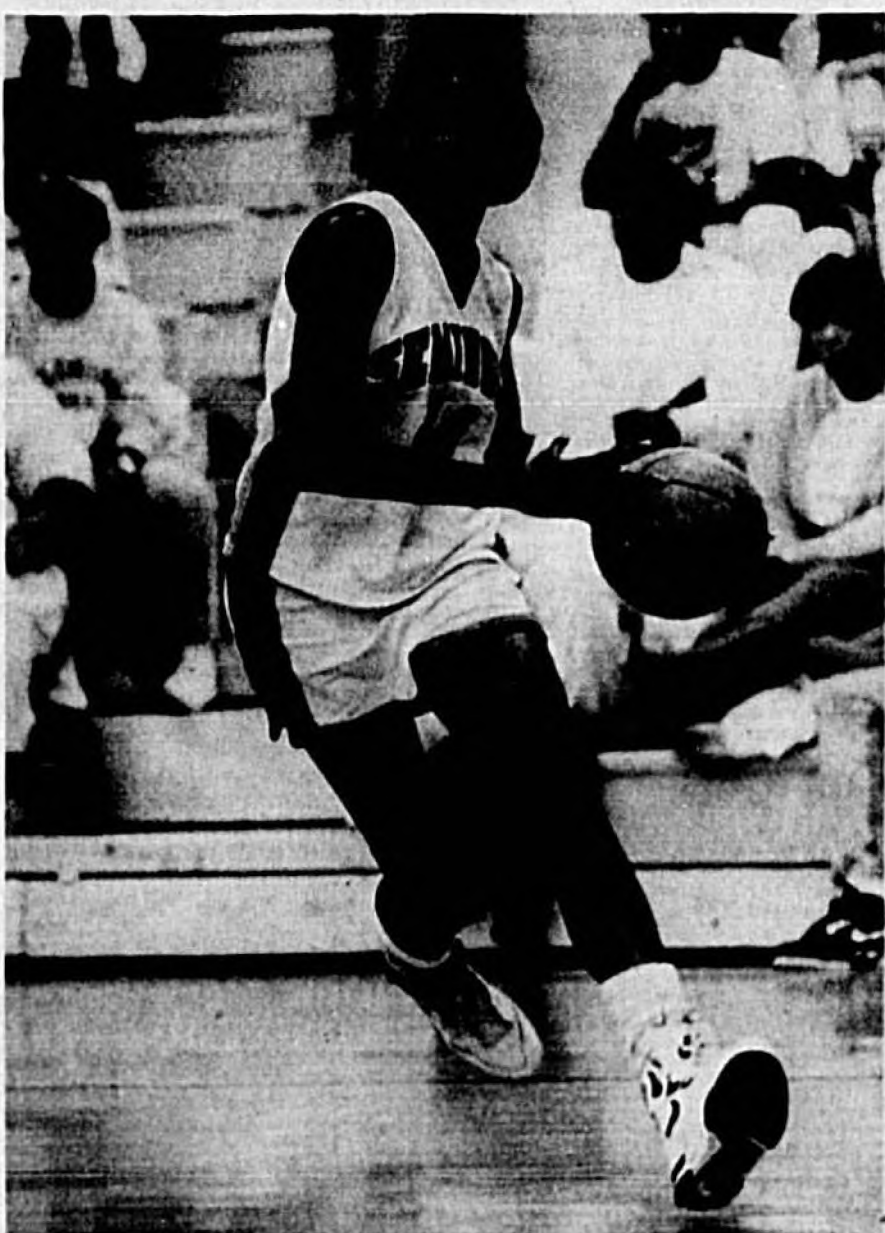

From DeLand: Melanie Meyers, Tina Walker and Nicky Adams.

From Oviedo: Christa Vaughn, Jessica Castro, Marla Mims and Erin Munns.

From Seminole: Ruth Ann Williams, Kayla Alexander and Kay-Kay Mullins.

Levi Raines (single). Also playing in the game for TRC were Tony Dunkinson and Mike Galloway.

Washington was the winning pitcher holding Lambert Erectors to only eight hits and allowing only one runner past first base after the second inning. His defense also helped out by turning three double plays in the game that was stopped in the sixth by the mercy rule.

Providing the offense for Lambert Erectors were Jeff Aten (double, single, run scored), Terrell Ervin (two singles), Jay Johnson (double), Tom Burnham (single, two RBI), Terry Russel and Rick Russel (one single each) and Chris Byrnes (run scored). Also playing for Lambert were Chris Nichols, Buddy Stump, Mark Aten, Mike McLohan, Joe Ervin, Derrell Ervin and Mark Russel.

TRC opened the scoring with three runs in the bottom of the first inning. Griffith singled but was erased on a fielders choice by Turner. Ned Raines then singled before Jackson ripped his first triple of the night. Washington singled in Jackson with the third run.

Lambert Erectors came right back with two runs in the top of the second inning. Byrnes reached on an error and advanced to third on a double by Jeff Aten before Burnham cracked a single to right center to score Byrnes and Aten.

But it was all TRC the rest of the way.

In the bottom of the second inning Shuler and S m Raines singled before the next two batters made outs. Griffith, Stevens and Turner all singled in a run and a fourth run scored on an error off the bat of Ned Raines. Jackson then drove in the fifth and sixth runs in the inning with his second triple.

The champions added single runs in the third and fifth innings. Shuler tripled and scored on Sam Raines' sacrifice fly in the third and Turner launched a home run in the fifth.

The game ended in the bottom of the sixth inning when TRC put three runs on the board. Shuler, Sam Raines and Greg Hardy singled to load the bases before Griffith singled in one and Stevens two to end it.

Magic surge past Golden State

Associated Press

ORLANDO - The Orlando Magic's "win-now" philosophy is producing victories and gaining admirers.

"They're a much improved club," Golden State coach Don Nelson said Monday night after Scott Skiles scored 31 points and keyed a fourth-quarter surge that carried the second-year team to a 115-106 victory over Nelson's Warriors.

The victory was the third straight for the Magic, which has won 11 of its last 15 games at home.

Associated Press

ORLANDO - The World League of American Football kicked off its debut with a furious fourth-quarter San Antonio rally - but it wasn't strong enough to overcome Kerwin Bell's five touchdowns for Orlando.

The Thunder beat the Riders 35-34 before 21,714 fans at the Florida Citrus Bowl.

Bell, a former University of Florida quarterback, passed for 269 yards and the Thunder defense held on after the Riders rallied for a pair of touchdowns in the fourth quarter.

Bell, the Southeastern Conference's all-time leader in passing yardage and touchdown passes, hit Eric Mitchell (a former Oklahoma star) with a 75-yard touchdown strike on the first play from scrimmage.

Associated Press

ORLANDO retook the lead for good late in third quarter.

The Riders answered right back on their initial possession when Ricky Blake, an Alabama A&M product, tied it at 7-7 midway through the first quarter on an eight-yard TD run.

Orlando retaliated with Bell hitting Williams with touchdown passes of 42 and 37 yards. The PAT on Williams' second touchdown was blocked and the Thunder took its 20-7 lead into the locker room.

The Riders came back after intermission to take a 21-20 lead midway through the third quarter on a one-yard TD pass from quarterback Jason Garrett to Blake and a three-yard points from Tim Hardaway and 32 from Chris Mullin.

Associated Press

Dennis Scott scored 25 points and Jerry Reynolds came off the bench to add 23 for Orlando, which led 80-76 after three quarters. Skiles hit a pair of 3-point shots and Scott made one to fuel the decisive burst that enabled the Magic to open 101-89 lead with just over five minutes remaining.

Mitch Richmond scored 17 points for Golden State, but made only six of 21 shots. Hardaway was 16 of 30 from the field and Mullin 10 of 21.

Double dead-bolt locks open door to tragedy

DEAR ABBY: I am writing to plead with you to change your answer to a recent letter concerning dead-bolt locks. The writer reported that the homes of several invalids that he had made deliveries to were equipped with dead-bolt locks requiring a key to exit the homes. He also said the windows were secured with iron bars. He suggested that the occupants should wear the key around their neck to facilitate their exit in case of an emergency, such as a fire. You said he had an excellent idea.

Please, please change your answer. Tell everyone that you can reach that they should never, under any circumstances, install double dead-bolt locks on their home or apartment doors! The double dead-bolt lock turns an ordinary home into a tomb in the event of a fire. Smoke conditions found in an ordinary house fire would make it impossible for even the most alert, physically fit person to exit the home under these conditions. (It is impossible to see or even take a full breath when you're gagging from smoke, and terrified.)

I have seen an entire family lying just inside the front door, which was locked from the inside with a double dead-bolt lock. The key was there, but the door was still locked. Unfortunately, this is not an isolated incident. Window bars also prevent firefighters from rescuing trapped occupants in time to save their lives.

How much of a chance would an invalid have in a similar circumstance? Besides, what good would a double dead-bolt lock do for an invalid in the event that an intruder gained entry to the home and wanted the key to unlock the door from the inside to get out.
 I simply cannot imagine what the advantage of such a lock is under any circumstances. What possible reason could people have to lock themselves inside a building? Locking people in does not.

ADVICE

Although I expect that my chances of seeing this in print are very slim, I implore you to consider running it in the best interest of your readers.

Fire officials across this country have been advocating the elimination of double dead-bolt locks for many years, to little avail, and we need help. They are promoted in dwelling units in the state of Michigan, and in our opinion, their sale should also be against the law.

DEAR CHIEF CROUCH: Your letter will probably fill the entire space allotted to me for one column, but it is well worth it. Thank you for a lifesaving letter. I.P.S. In some states, it is also against the law to have a double dead-bolt in a place of business.)

Weigh benefits of a hip replacement

DEAR DR. GOTT: I need hip replacement but have heard many adverse effects can follow the surgery. Please advise.

DEAR READER: There are two primary complications of hip replacement: dislocation and prosthetic failure. Since artificial hips are not as well-designed as the real thing, they sometimes don't hold up as well as natural hips. In particular, the ball portion of the ball-and-socket prosthesis may slip out of place, causing hip dislocation and pain. This can be corrected without surgery, however, by traction under anesthesia.

In some patients, the metal hip joint may come loose; the cement that holds the prosthesis in place may weaken or the portion of the artificial joint that is attached to the leg bone can become dislodged. This requires surgery to re-anchor (or replace) the prosthesis.

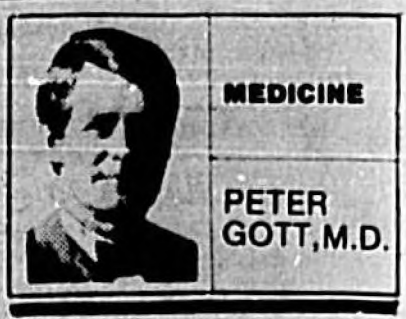

The other adverse effects, such as an allergy to the acrylic cement, are rare.

When patients reach the stage of needing hip replacement, they are usually very uncomfortable. They are in constant pain, can't walk and experience disabling stiffness. An artificial joint can solve these problems. Therefore, before deciding on surgery, patients must weigh the risk/benefit ratio. Are the risks of hip replacement less than the benefits (loss of pain, increased independence)? This decision is best made between the potential recipient and the doctor, who knows the details of the case and is familiar with the proposed surgery.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "An Informed Approach To Surgery." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their names and addresses to P.O. Box 91368, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

The last 20 years have seen a great improvement of the overall standard of card play, both at the club level and in international competition. In the 1960s, the strong international teams knew they would beat the weaker countries because the stronger teams played the cards much better. They made contracts that went down at the other table, through either better declarer play or better defense. Nowadays, though, all international players can handle the cards competently. And competence at that level means ferreting out every little extra chance to make one's contract. Today's deal, from a team game played several years ago in London, is an excellent example of this.

both Wests led the six of diamonds. The first South won with dummy's diamond ace, cashed the A-K of spades, discarding a diamond, and continued with the ace and another heart. Unlucky! West won and cashed his other heart trick and the diamond king before switching to a club. Declarer had lost three tricks and could not avoid a club loser too.

At the other table, the play was identical for three tricks, but South wasn't willing to rely on the trump suit breaking favorably. Instead he gave himself one more chance by ruffing a spade at trick four. He was rewarded when the queen dropped, establishing dummy's 10. He entered dummy with the heart ace and cashed the spade 10 for another diamond discard to bring home the contract. West could ruff, but he was wasting one of his trump winners on one of declarer's losers. (C)1991, NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
March 27, 1991

Your earning capacity will be considerably enhanced in the year ahead. But, by the same token, so will your extravagant whims. Don't let this become a contest in which frivolous interests dominate.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Treat your tasks as labors of love today, especially those which have a marketable potential. A happy attitude will enhance the quality of your work and may bring profit as well. Aries, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for Aries' Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1.25 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) It's truly an art to be able to manage others and make them like it. If you elect to use this gift today, you have an enviable touch that can command and inspire.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you sense that everything will come out in the long run today, it's probably due to the assurance you're receiving from your intuition. It may be wiser than your logic.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your most desirable circumstances are likely to occur toward evening today, although your day in general should be a rather pleasant one.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Munificent Providence might have her eye on you today. Be grateful for what you have, secure in the knowledge that things may even get better.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your charm and sincerity are your two best assets today, and they can be used effectively to help advance your personal interests. Be diplomatic and forthright.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) There's a chance you might be Cupid's prime target today. Things look good for you in the realm of romance and love.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Something constructive may develop today that will enable you to strengthen an alliance with someone you care a great deal about. This association will grow in importance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You'll have a way of dealing with subordinates today that will encourage them to upgrade their performances. Perhaps it's because you will know how to lead by example.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You won't be looking through rose-colored glasses today; you should be able to see the bright spots where they actually exist.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You're extremely capable today at managing situations for others that they have been unable to handle. It looks like your gift will be put to good use.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You could be extremely fortunate today in a partnership, be it romantic, involving a team effort or linked to some commercial purpose. (C)1991, NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.
