DOHENY STARTS CONTEST TO SAVE HIS OIL LEASES

WASHINGTON, Mar. 12.—Edward L. Doheny, oil magnate, on leaving late Tuesday for Los Angeles said he was prepared to defend his rights in any action brought by the government to cancel oil contracts held by him.

Also in Mr. Doheny's party were Herbert G. Wylie, president of the Pan-American Company and Mrs. Wylie.

Upon his arrival in Los Angeles next Saturday, Mr. Doheny will call a meeting of directors of the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Company which will take place either that day or the following Monday. Officials of the company admitted that the dividend would be reduced, but would give no estimate as to the proposed cut. Stock market observers, however, predicted that the present $8 rate would be cut to $4 or $6 annually.

Oscar Underwood Wins In Alabama

(By The Associated Press) BIRMINGHAM, Mar. 12.—Senator Underwood had a lead of 25,000 votes over nearest opponent, L. B. Musgrove, today from results received from three-fourths of the polling places in yesterday's presidential primary and will have the right to name all of Alabama's delegates to the national convention. The vote was light in districts not yet reported. Musgrove charged fraud in Mobile county. M. A. Binsmore, the third candidate, pulled less than 5,000 votes. He was running as a McAdoo supporter but without authority of latter.

VETS BUREAU TO FIGURE IN PROBE NOW IN PROGRESS

WASHINGTON, Mar. 12.—The special senate committee will begin investigation of Daugherty this afternoon. Reported influence of oil interests and Mexican disturbances planned for inquiry at the opening of the session, probably will give way to the undisclosed subject.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 12.—Explorations into new fields of testimony for development in its investigation of Attorney General Daugherty were made Tuesday by the special committee.

Among the new lines were said to be the veterans' bureau case and reports of stock market speculation by high government officials. Attention in prospect for the former was indicated by issuance of a subpoena for Elias H. Mortimer, star witness against former Director Forbes in the veterans' bureau case before the senate investigation committee also in Chicago grand jury.

FLETCHER GIVES VIEWS ON TAXING OF NET ESTATES

Tells of Effect That This Section of Revenue Bill Would Have Upon the State of Florida.

By P. H. McGowan.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 12.—When interviewed Wednesday regarding how that section of the pending Revenue bill, which provides for the imposition of a tax on net estates and allows a credit of part of a similar tax paid a state, would affect Florida should the proposed amendment to the constitution be ratified next November, Senator Fletcher said:

"The Revenue Act of 1921, now in effect, imposes a tax ranging from 1 per cent of the amount of the net estate not in excess of $50,000 to 25 per cent of the amount by which the net estate exceeds $100,000, while the pending bill proposes to impose a tax of 1 per cent of the amount of the net estate not in excess of $50,000 and gradually increasing to 40 per cent of the amount by which the net estate exceeds $100,000.

VALUABLE BUSINESS PROPERTY ON FIRST STREET AND THE SHELL BANK FARM SOLD

Griffith Interests Buy Shell Bank Farm Of 40 Acres for Amusement Park

Shell Bank Farm situated three miles east of Sanford on Celery Avenue and having a frontage of one-quarter mile on the St. Johns river has been purchased by R. W. Griffith and his associates from Phillip Andrews for a consideration of $90,000, according to an announcement made Wednesday. The tract of land includes 40 acres, 10 of which are under cultivation and makes the price paid slightly over $2,250 per acre.

In commenting upon the acquisition of this valuable tract of land, Mr. Griffith declared Wednesday that the property was purchased in order to provide an amusement park for the guests of the hotel which he and his associates of Huntington, W. Va., will build on the lakefront. Here will be erected a short golf course, three tennis courts, croquet courts and other construction for the entertainment of the guests. Further plans, he said, include the erection of a cafe and dancing pavilion.

"When our guests arrive here to spend the winter they must be provided with amusement and we plan to furnish it on this property for which we have been negotiating some time," said Mr. Griffith. Tentative plans call for the operation of a private boat which would take the hotel guests to the amusement park on daily excursions.

Hotel Location.

Another statement made by Mr. Griffith was to the effect that some of his associates, who have been down here and looked the situation over thoroughly, desire to have the hotel built on the down river property instead of at the proposed site in this city. Whether it will be built here, Mr. Griffith could not say, but added that within a few weeks the matter will definitely be decided. Personally, he is in favor of the latter plan.

Contracts Will Be Awarded on Water Works on March 24

Decision to wait until Mar. 24 to award the contracts for the construction of the new municipal water works plant and system, was made by the City Commission at its meeting Tuesday night at the city hall after it listened for over three hours to short talks made by several contractors on the merits of their respective propositions.

This move was made in order to give plenty of time for the special committee from the Chamber of Commerce assisting in the matter, to deliberate and consider all bids. The committee of which H. R. Stevens is the chairman, in the meantime will hold several meetings and consider the two or three best propositions on each of the six projects and will pick out those that appear to be the best and make its recommendation to the commission accordingly.

The commission will more than likely award the contracts at that time to the firms recommended. Other members of the committee are: Col. George W. Knight, A. P. Connelly, S. O. Shiholster, Lewis O'Bryan, Edward Higgins, Fred T. Williams and City Manager W. B. Williams. Meetings of the committee will begin immediately, it was announced.

New Gooseberry Bush Specie Is Discovered In Jefferson County

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Mar. 11.—A new species of gooseberry bush, heretofore unknown, has been discovered on the borders of Lake Miccosukee in Jefferson county. The discovery was made recently by Dr. Roland M. Harper, geographer temporarily connected with the State Geological Survey, while on a trip to the lake with Dr. Herman Kurze, professor of botany at Florida State College for Women. They later took Dr. F. V. Coville of the United States department of agriculture, to view the find. Dr. Coville, an authority on blueberries and other things of the kind, recently has been in West Florida studying the blueberry. He was satisfied, he said, that the berry bush found by Dr. Harper is a species heretofore undescribed, and he probably will write a description of it as soon as the berries begin to grow on it. The bush is described as one of unusual beauty and may be utilized for ornamental purposes if no other use is found for it. This is the first time a gooseberry bush has ever been found south of Georgia and Alabama, according to Dr. Harper.

Can We "Tune-In" With The Hereafter?

Ever since the world began man has been trying to get in touch with spirit-land

By JOSEPH O'SULLIVAN

EVER since the world began man has been trying to lift the veil of the Hereafter; and as long as this sphere continues to whirl in the merry-go-round of the eternal scheme of things man will continue in his efforts to get in touch with those who have "shaken off this mortal coil."

Can We Tune-in With the Hereafter?

Psychologists, philosophers and other delvers into the occult sciences have written weighty tomes on the subject. Poets, novelists and dramatists have utilized the subject as material for weird and startling creations.

That the subject of spiritism has a peculiar fascination for men of genius is demonstrated by the great number of writers who have utilized the idea as the central theme of their works.

Camille Flammarion, illustrious French astronomer, is credited with having started the boom in the "spook" market, and now the old "bogey man" and "ghost" of childhood days have been glorified into authentic messengers from the hereafter by grey-bearded wise men and super-intellectuals of the occult persuasion.

M. Flammarion has actually catalogued 5,000 unauthenticated instances of supernatural incidents which have been reported in the news and the courts in the past sixty years, and will publish them in a book soon to be issued. Flammarion takes the broad stand that, while it is impossible to say spooks really do exist, it is difficult to disprove it. He leans toward the conclusion that they do.

but this didn't dismay Christo and he rented the place cheap. About a week after he took up his abode things began to happen. At one o'clock one morning Christo was awakened by a terrible noise. Doors and windows were opening and closing of their own accord and Christo heard the sound of laughter, as if there were many persons in the house. Christo turned over and went to sleep. But after these nocturnal visits had continued for more than a week, they got on Christo's nerves and he called the police. A mounted guard was placed around the house. That night the "spooks" went on a rampage. Some of the police were clubbed on the head, one was beaten nearly to death, and one went insane. Christo was buried in the face while climbing the stairs, and when his wife tried to run to him something pulled her feet from under her and she fell in a faint.

What really discouraged Christo was when he discovered the baby had been thrown out of its cradle and was downstairs, lying naked on a table, having been blown out of its niche. How the infant had been able to undress itself, make its way through three barred doors and climb up on the table, except through some supernatural force, was not only mystifying but depressing to Christo, and he moved out the first thing in the morning.

If such a great mind as that of M. Flammarion gives credence to such episodes, it is not to be wondered at that lesser intellects are befuddled by "spirit writing," "voices from beyond," and tables that move, apparently from no natural cause.

Among the English writers the subject of the occult seems to have an extraordinary appeal to Lord Dunsany. In Shakespeare's plays ghosts, spirits and witches wander ad lib through the scenes. Baquo's ghost, the Three Witches in Macbeth, the Ghost of Hamlet's father, attest that in olden times disembodied spirits were popular in Merrie England. As a matter of fact, every castle and every old mansion in England has its ancestral ghost, the uneasy spirit of some old noble family who, for some reason or other, persists in injecting his or her spirit personality into the mundane existence of its descendants.

Recent reports from John Bull's island indicate that the past year was a banner one for "spooks." Hoary old ghosts and spirits who had been wandering disconsolately in the Elysian Fields in the throes of an abnormal annul, suddenly "came to life"—spiritually speaking—and made bright hideous lights dwellers in the tight little isle. Anne Boyley, tucking her head under her arm, went a rick through Hampton Court. Jean Doubledun, who had lain dormant for fifteen years, made the walk in ring with dismal exclamations, while the staid Brits pulled the bed-clothes over their heads and shook as with ague.

At Gero Block Dell, a corpse about a mile out of Elmsworth, on the main Havant road, a Gang of several hundred villagers, fishermen and curious visitors from Portsmouth, were recently reported as having kept watch all night for a "spook."

Just before dawn the misty, shadowy figure of a tall man was seen in the center of the road. Just then an automobile tearing along, the light from its lamps splashing brightly, in which the 'phantom' was seen distinctly. The car passed right through the specter, who immediately vanished, and the crowd slowly dispersed and sought solace in nearby inns.

All of which is proof that Merrie England still maintains its place in the van in the matter of ghostly visitors.

On no recent English writer has this intriguing subject taken stronger hold than Conan Doyle, whose researches into spirit phenomena and theory of "ectoplasms" have caused world-wide discussion. Conan Doyle produces what he claims are actual photographs of actual "spirits" which his mediums have evoked from the realms of Courtesy of W. W. Hodkinson Corp.

Conan Doyle's "ectoplasms" look sick; but this is beside the question. The fact remains that some really eminent men have made highly interesting experiments in the field of occult science.

The vogue in spiritism has enabled the fake "seer" to pry upon the gullible public already inclined to give credence to any new development in phenomena endorsed by such men as Sir Conan Doyle and Sir Oliver Lodge. Adventurers have forsaken the old shell game, "badger game," wiretapping and "confidence" bunco for the more fruitful field of the "psychic." A seance parlor fitted up with mirrors and electric contrivances, a crystal ball and Oriental trappings, with perhaps a little incense floating around are the props for the "psychic" studio, while a turban and the ability to simulate mystery are essential to the successful "seer."

A little expert "shadowing" of a prospective client, a little personal investigation, and the "psychic" is prepared to evoke from the "impassible ether of unknown regions" anything from a first-class ectoplasm to an authentic spook, with full voice accompaniment.

That the subject of spiritism affords unlimited opportunities to the dramatist and fiction writer, is obvious. What is more important to the public, however, is the fact that fake "psychists" continue to hoodwink the people.

How do they do it? How do they get away with it? Why are not radical steps taken to expose these fakes?

Those who have marvelled at the tremendous strides made in the motion picture art have wondered why the screen has not harnessed spiritualized the methods of these spurious "seers" and let the public in on the secret of apparently supernatural phenomena evoked at will. It now appears that this is true. What has been done in a photograph titled "Love's Whirlpool," which exposes some of the most intricate and startling methods of the "psychicists." James Kirkwood, Lila Lee and Madge Bellamy, three well known screen stars, enact the principal roles in this picture.

Jim Reagan, a crook, and Pansy, his sweetheart, plan to get revenge on Richard Milton, a banker whom they deem responsible for the death of Jim's younger brother, by murdering Milton of his money through fake seances. They have kidnapped his daughter, who, he believes, has been lost at sea. When he is led to believe that her spirit tells him to turn over his money to charity, he is about to do so when a strange twist is given to the plot. The denouement of the drama is a striking demonstration of the reaction of psychical force.

Something of the strange influence of spiritism is frankly admitted by Miss Lila Lee, who plays the role of "Pansy," the "seer." "When I first read the script of 'Love's Whirlpool,' I was deeply impressed with the theme and the role of 'Pansy,' who assumes the character of a psychist," said Miss Lee.

"I have always been quite a little intrigued by the subject of spiritism, but what I did not know and had never experienced so strongly before was the powerful hold such a subject can take on one, even though one is only dissembling. In order to do full justice to the role of 'Pansy,' I spent many days in the study of the character of many seances and attended many seances in order that I might really understand how people can be 'taken in' by alleged psychists. And still in the minds of a certain thinking portion of the public arises the question: 'How do they get away with it?'"

While another apparently equally intelligent part of the public asks: 'Can we set in touch with spirits?'"

Many Sanford Boys Planning to Attend Camp in Carolina

The Chimney Rock Camp for Boys, located in the mountains of western North Carolina and pronounced by critics to possess the most admirable site for a boys' camp in eastern America, is receiving the serious attention of Sanford parents at this time owing to the visit to this city of Chas. A. Hamilton, an associate director of the camp.

Mr. Hamilton who is making his headquarters while here at the office of the board, announces that two Sanford boys have already been placed in the camp, Master John Edward Higgins, son of the prominent Ford dealer here, and Briggs Arrington, son of Mrs. F. B. Arrington who is principal of the Sanford primary schools.

FOR A "GREATER LAKELAND" (By The Associated Press) LAKELAND, Mar. 11.—The business men of this city will begin a four weeks' campaign on Mar. 17 for a "Greater Lakeland." One of the objects will be to double the chamber of commerce membership, which is now about 400. T. J. Appleyard, Jr., has reconsidered his resignation as secretary of the commerce body and will remain here for at least another year.

Longwood

The Entzinger boys, together with L. M. Pipkin have formed a corporation, the papers of which are now going through the proper legal channels. The corporation known as the Lake Jesup Land Company, with headquarters here. The management is under the direct and personal supervision of Wade S. Entzinger and the office is located here by D. W. Short.

The company has 10,000 acres of land, lying between Longwood and the brick road to Oviedo at Wagner. This they are cutting into lots and small tracts. A hard surfaced road will be constructed entirely through the development area, and a beautiful and picturesque drive will be made. Special attention is being given the many lakes throughout the entire tract. A boulevard is now in the course of construction around the beautiful Lake Wildmere. Others will follow as fast as workmen can complete that which is already started.

There were over 40 lots sold at the auction held at the South Longwood subdivision last week, and the remaining 37 lots were sold this week to parties mostly from the north. Theo. O. Tice bought the bungalow at the auction. There will be several more bungalows built on these lots at once and money others next fall and winter. E. W. Dickson sold his property known as the Wright place, to H. W. Morrow of Landisburg, Penn. Mr. Morrow has started to clear

THOUGHT FOR TODAY: The Seventh Commandment: Thou shalt not commit adultery.— Exodus 20:14.

FLORIDA, MY FLORIDA. Land of my birth, bright sun-kissed land, Florida, my Florida, Laved by the Gulf and Ocean grand, Florida, my Florida, Of all the states in east and west, Unto my heart thou art the best, Here may I live, here may I rest, Florida, my Florida.

In country, town, on hills and dells, Florida, my Florida, The rhythmic chimes of thy school bells, Florida, my Florida, Will call thy children day by day To learn to walk the patriot's way, Firmly to stand for thee for aye, Florida, my Florida.

The golden fruit the world outshines, Florida, my Florida, Thy gardens and thy phosphate mines, Florida, my Florida, Yield their rich store of good supplies, To still the voice of hungry's cry For thee we'll live for thee we'll die, Florida, my Florida.

Th' oppressors' rod can't rest on thee, Florida, my Florida, Thy sons and daughters free must be, Florida, my Florida, From north and south, from east and west, From freezing blasts they come for rest, And find in thee their earnest quest, Florida, my Florida.

When ill's betide and woes o'er-leave, Florida, my Florida, Thy sons and daughters quick will make, Florida, my Florida, The sacrifice of love and life, To save from woe, from ill and strife, To fell thy foes in danger strife, Florida, my Florida.

C. W. Vaughn, Adopted by the legislature as the official state song of Florida.

Every boost for Florida is a boost for Sanford.

"Pumping it out of the north-west." A good expression as to yesterday's weather.

The new street sweeper will make Sanford spotless. Will this city become known for its cleanliness?

At the rate political announcements are being made it will be a wonder if anyone is left to vote in the primary.

Lake Monroe would make a fine place for yacht racing. Why not make this a feature for entertaining tourists?

Sanford is getting good publicity from the sale of the last bond issue. This is truly the "City Substantial."

"Be Kind to Animals" week is to be observed April 7 to 12. Why is it necessary to have one week of kindness instead of fifty-two?

Circular letters go straight to the waste paper basket, many times without ever being opened. A letter carrying only one cent postage doesn't receive much attention from the recipient.

Beautification of Sanford continues. Vacant property in front of the southside school shows the results of planning and beautifying. Work of this character counts.

Tourists are leaving for their homes in the north. Sanford doesn't feel the effect of the exodus of winter visitors because it doesn't have many. Next year things will be changed.

Every day sees real estate activity in Sanford increase. Down town business property is moving rapidly and values are jumping at a fast clip. Shrewd investors see great things coming to this great city and are dumping their money in property as an evidence of their faith in the future development.

The tenth of the month has passed. Many business concerns realize the importance of promptly meeting their obligations and have rules whereby they pay each month all their current accounts. The prompt attention to matters of this kind makes for good business conditions. Sanford's mercantile and Sanford's business men benefit when every bill is paid. A "Pay Up Week" once in a while might be of great help in keeping business good.

For the Worn Out Preachers.

The Southern Methodist church is planning to raise $10,000,000 as an endowment fund, the interest of which is to be devoted to the care of the Superannuated ministers, their widows and orphans. There are now over nine hundred old worn out preachers, and about one thousand two hundred widows and orphans of ministers, who receive an amount equal to about one-third of what should be given them to live in any sort of comfort at all.

These men never got a salary worthy of their service. They served hard and difficult charges, gave the best that was in them, and it is no more than just that their church should provide a sum which will give them an ordinary comfortable support. Too long has this splendid work been neglected. Millions of men, women and children are now living who have profited in many ways by the labors of these godly men. They have been in the forefront of every movement which has benefited society. They have visited and prayed with the sick, buried the dead, comforted the bereaved, guided the young people, led wicked men to a life of righteousness, and by their presence in a community have made it possible for others to live in peace and safety. Thousands of men outside the church look upon this movement as one of the most noble the church ever launched. They will gladly contribute to help care for the men whose lives have been blessed by their ministry.

There is no assessment made on any one. The opportunity will be offered the people to make a contribution to this Endowment fund. There is to be no pressure put on at all. If those who have benefited by the church do not desire to help these old men they are at liberty to refuse. The church here in Sanford simply offers to its members and friends a great and lofty privilege to do a noble and god-like work. The first contribution made to the quote of the church here in Sanford was made by a splendid woman who lives in the State of New York. Hers is a great honor. Blessings on the visitor, and on all others who help in this work.

Does "Nagging" Pay?

Although some forceful arguments have been presented against the art of "nagging" the story now going the rounds in the state press regarding an incident at Savannah is one of the most striking examples of the day. According to newspaper reports, a family row was being aired in the municipal court of that Georgia city. It developed that the husband "nagged" the wife and the wife reciprocated with an equal amount of the same.

It was the old, old story and the judge after hearing the evidence as given by friends and neighbors, delivered a masterful piece of advice to the couple which was as follows:

From the days of Socrates and Xantippe, men and women have known what is meant by "nagging," although philology cannot define it or legal chemistry resolve it into its elements. Humor cannot soften it or wit divert it. Prayers avail nothing and threats are idle. Soft words but increase its velocity and harsh ones its violence. Darkness has for it no terrors and the long hours of the night have no drapery of the couch round about it. The chamber where love and peace should dwell become an inferno, driving the poor man to the bootlegger, the rich man to the club. It takes the sparkle out of the wine of life and turns at night into ashes the fruits of the labor of the day.

The Palatka News says that this short speech of the Savannah judge should be clipped out and memorized by every married couple. Perhaps it would prove to be words of wisdom to the press and pulpit. "Nagging" never gets us anywhere but it is so easy to find fault with our neighbor that sometimes the best of us cannot help but practise it. "Nagging" is a great liability. It never pays.

GASOLINE CONCERNS in England are removing their billboards from the roads in deference to public demand that the English countryside be undefiled by advertising horrors. One of the concerns, Pratts, is using newspaper paid space to tell the public what it is doing and why.

THE COST OF THE CAR.

LAKELAND STAR-TELEGRAM

A Massachusetts man has invented a torpedo whose successive explosions will shoot it to the moon and California, having read about it, has asked for permission to ride in the rocket. But why are newspaper editors and paragraphers laughing at both the inventor and the prospective passenger to the moon? Are they so lightened as to believe that because nobody has yet gone from the earth to the moon the journey will never be made? That would be a dangerous doctrine.

For more than three thousand years the world laughed at the gentleman who, believing that he could fly, leapt from a cliff and fell into the Aegean Sea where he incidentally drowned; but a few years ago the Wright brothers on the sandy dunes of North Carolina proved his idea eminently correct. In ancient Greece the goddess Echo was thought to hide in mountain caves and to dance about the hillsides, amusing herself with the play of flinging back to human beings their own words, laughter and lamentations, and a few years ago a man, by inventing the phonograph, captured that goddess and sentenced her to work forever in disc or rubber and wax, throwing out to the world the songs of all tongues and nations. Long ago a tale was told of a Wizard whose whisper could reach a person miles away; and only the other day science found him in the radio and improved him and taught him to girle the globe with human speech in the flash of a second.

The flier, the goddess, the wizard—they were all laughed at by that same and correct individual known as Common Sense. Persons who spoke of them were dubbed visionaries, dreamers who would "come to no good end." But the world climbs upward on the hearts of those who fear not the laughter of common sense; and it was these visionaries who gave wings and phonographs and the radio to men. Laugh at the man who expects to go to the moon? Not we!

MY FAVORITE STORIES

By IRVIN S. COBB

Most of us are familiar with the little story of the inexperienced motorist who swerved suddenly and knocked a pedestrian galley-west and then, all at once remembering his duty, cried as he brought his machine to a halt: "Look out!"

"Oh my Lord!" groaned the victim as he scrambled to his feet, "You ain't comin' back are you?" I can match this with an episode out of real life—a case where the owner of a car really did come back.

In a town with which I am reasonably familiar, a lady was learning to drive a car. In fact, the lady thought she already knew, which explains why, after having taken a couple of lessons from a more experienced chauffeur, she ventured forth unaccompanied upon the public highway.

As she wobbled in an uncertain course along a quiet street, a milkman driving a well-behaved nag turned a corner. The lady tried simultaneously to do several things: apply the brakes, avoid a collision, turn out, turn in, speed up, slow down—I don't know what all. The reader has already guessed the answer. She banged squarely into the side of the milk-wagon

Civilization in Africa. "Do the day's work." Money—a mystery. Earn, Save, Invest. Copyright, 1924

CIVILIZATION IS taking a little of its own medicine. Modern Spanish troops, attacking barbarous Moors in Africa, were amazed to find machine gun bullets and high explosives dropping from the sky. The Moors had hired European fliers to fight for them in the air.

Now Spain will go after the Moors with tying machines, tanks and poison gas, carrying modern war into Africa.

WHAT WOULD happen if Asia should march against Europe with modern weapons? In the days of Genghis Khan and Attila the Asiatics came westward on foot eating up the country as they came. Suppose descendants of Attila or of the heavenly Mikado should come with a swarm of flying machines, dropping explosives. Japan or China could supply enough machines and fliers to wipe out every city in western Europe.

It might be a Japanese school boy, standing beside the ruins of London bridge, musing on vanquished British civilization.

A LITTLE book on President Coolidge by E. E. Whiting says the president's motto is: "Do the day's work." That's a good motto, and, of course, the president would add to it "get up on the day's work in advance."

Squirrels, robins and bees, all do the day's work, but show little progress because they do no thinking. Every intelligent man and woman should be DOING the work of the day and THINKING the work of next month and next year.

FRENCH FRANCES have dropped still lower. Edwin E. Popcke, of New York, whose father was a Lutheran crusader against France—urging Lutherans to sell France short, to knock down their value and thus bring France to her knees.

FRANCES ARE wobbling, and there is danger that holders of French short-time notes may demand cash as they come due, forcing a great increase in French currency with still lower prices. But the good Lutherans should be warned that selling frances short is dangerous.

INDIVIDUALS AND nations don't know much about money, except that, like savages, they would rather have a piece of bright gold than anything else. Money is largely a matter of imagination and faith. The world discovers that France has printed forty thousand million paper frances, and the franc drops below four cents. Forty billion frances is only a thousand francs for every Frenchman. Any average Frenchman or French woman could be cheap at fifty thousand francs, and pay his dividends on that price. The amount of French money printed means nothing but to mention billions of printed money representing only a tiny fraction of a nation's wealth, is enough to start a panic.

Be careful how you gamble in frances.

IN MAY the big steel company, drawing by lot, will buy back $2,399,000 of its bonds, paying $110 for a $100 bond. When Andrew Carnegie sold his iron business to the United States Steel Company he wouldn't have anything to do with the stock, or even take it, at present. He said the preferred stock was water and the common stock was air. The common stock now pays 7 per cent, the preferred common stock pays 7 per cent, and Judge Gary says one dollar goes back into the property for every dollar paid in dividends.

The steel business of this country is a good thing to own. But don't gamble. You are apt to regret it.

EARN, SAVE, INVEST—that's a useful motto.

WHAT WILL be done about population when this earth is fully populated? Will it be necessary to regulate the age at which parents may have children?

In England the population problem is more serious than ever, although the births are fewer. People live longer, and with even births falling off the population increases 419,000 in two years.

IN AGES to come, with earth's population fifty or a hundred times what it is now, and with human beings living to be 141 years on the average, it won't suffice to say that each married couple must have only two children, enough to replace themselves. Another law will be necessary forbidding these two children to have any children until their mother and father are dead, to make room for two more.

YOU MAY see a day when the average age of fathers will be seventy-five, and of mothers forty, which is going even a little farther than Plato and some others, who thought fifty young enough for fatherhood and thirty a little too young for motherhood.

THE TARIFF law allows the president, under the "flexible provision" to increase duties. This has worried citizens who felt that it might be used mistakenly to help some dear little baby trust. But no one will complain of President Coolidge's use of his flexible power in adding twelve cents a bushel to the duty on wheat, twenty-six cents a hundred pounds on flour-fifty per cent on mill feeds.

These increases protest especially dwellers in cities. The whole nation depends on property and contentment among farmers.

BEWARE!

HUNT'S WASHINGTON LETTER

BY HARRY B. HUNT, NEA Service Staff Writer. WASHINGTON, Mar. 12.—Senator La Follette's refusal to permit his name to be entered in the Republican presidential primaries in North Dakota does not mean that he eliminates himself as a presidential candidate this year.

Rather, it means that he declines to be eliminated by any decision that may be reached at the Cleveland convention—reserving full freedom to fight the candidate chosen at that occasion.

La Follette is under no illusions as to the organization control in the G. O. P. The oil scandal may have tended to discredit that control but it has not weakened the organization's grip on the throttle. The conservative "old guard" group may run the machine to destruction, but it is they who will run the machine. Anyone who gets in the path of the steam roller, once the steam is turned on at Cleveland, will be promptly flattened out.

And even the doughiest crusader finds fighting difficult after he has been steam-rolled to the dimensions of a pancake.

So La Follette stands aside. He declines to contest for the Republican nomination. For what?

For the very good reason that his position as a possible independent candidate is thereby protected.

Did he allow himself to be entered in the Republican race, he realizes he could make only a gesture of protest before he was licked. And as a defeated aspirant for the Republican nomination, he would go into an independent campaign handicapped by that very condition. He would be the disgruntled politician, unwilling to accept the decision of his party; the "non-head," fighting back out of sheer spleen.

Having declined to enter a game in which he proclaimed the cards were stacked, he is in position, if he chooses to make his play as an independent with a much surer hand than would be possible after he had been trimmed by the regulars.

The outlook, incidentally, for active "independent" organization following the Republican and Democratic conventions is increasing rather than decreasing.

Both old parties have suffered in the public's confidence in the recent disclosures.

Dissatisfaction and unrest are still acute in many sections, particularly the agricultural states of the west and northwest.

The sentiment for a "change" is reflected, even here, in Washington, perhaps even more strongly than in 1920. Yet it is a sentiment that would not be satisfied by a change to Democratic control any more than it was satisfied by a change to Republican control.

The demand is for something different. A new line-up. A new deal.

Champions of La Follette as the man behind whom a new independent or third-party movement is likely to crystallize say the situation has developed rapidly in his favor in the past two months. Two factors have contributed largely to this.

FIRST: Henry Ford's definite endorsement of Coolidge for reelection removed him as a figure likely to run away with any third-party organization that might be attempted.

SECOND: The set-back to the McAdoo candidacy, which in all probability will keep him off the Democratic ticket, in that event, threw to La Follette as an independent a large railroad vote that otherwise would have gone to McAdoo.

OUR VANISHING VOCABULARY

INDIANAPOLIS NEWS

An intelligent study of candidates by women voters prominently to the coming primary election is requisite for obtaining good legislation. Without fore-gut in this matter, hopes for needed state measures must be deferred. Some of these measures are already long overdue.

Laws are needed by this state regulating working hours for women; laws limiting the minimum wage, restriction of child labor, provisions for enforcing the compulsory education and other laws already on the books. A change in the state constitution making it possible for cities also a certain population to have a public school system separated from the county schools and providing for superintendents of such city schools and many other laws long neglected.

Our lawmakers have been men and have made laws concerning the things in which men are most interested—that is, the material development of the state. Women are more interested in matters of education and women's activities.

Why not have some women members in the legislature, so that men and women may work together for the common good? It is conceded by all that women could not make the problems of government much worse than they are, and by many that the presence of women in legislative bodies would help the problem.

The writer would be glad if women who are educated—and there is a greater number of educated women than of educated men in the state—women who have made government a study and who have the other qualifications—would announce for the legislature.

Any thinker who goes beneath the surface of things must see that the problems of the day are largely moral ones—that is to say, a lack of honesty and integrity of purpose is at the bottom of most failures

CHAMPION JACK MAY FIGHT BUT ONCE THIS YEAR

Not At All Certain That His Opponent Will Be Luis Angel Firpo But Is Lilly To Be Rojas.

(By The Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Mar. 12.—Jack Dempsey will defend his title against Luis Firpo in New York on Labor Day, he announced here and this will be his only fight of this year.

If Firpo is beaten by Willis or Gibbons naturally a would be compelled to fight the winner but I understand Firpo will not engage in any fights until he meets me, Dempsey said.

NEW YORK, Mar. 12.—The probability that Jack Dempsey will defend his world's heavyweight championship but once this year and on that occasion against a South American challenger, loomed today out of a series of developments in the year's prospective fight program.

Though a return match between Dempsey and Luis Firpo has been regarded generally as a foregone conclusion there is now a possibility the giant Argentine's ambition may be shelved in favor of other Latin contenders. On top of this agreement for a series of bouts here with Quintin Romero Rojas, Chilean heavyweight, promoter Tom Richard announced he also had signed Ernie Spalla, Italian holder of the European heavyweight title, who was knocked out by Firpo in 14 rounds.

Spalla and Rojas both are expected in the United States within a month, according to Richard. The promoter plans to test them against several American heavyweights, after which, if successful, they may be matched to determine which shall challenge Dempsey. Richard asserted he had the consent of Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, to a fight in the fall with either Spalla or Rojas.

This prospect that Dempsey may be idle until fall developed after Kearns rejected a $500,000 offer from promoter E. J. Brennan representing the Veterans of Foreign Wars for a match on July 4, with Harry Wills, ex-Chamberlain, R. I.

The promoters, John Griffin and James J. McLaughlin, who claimed to have obtained previously Kearns' tentative consent to the match, declared they came prepared to advance $25,000 to Dempsey as a guarantee but that Kearns' manager turned down the proposition because of a prospective motion picture engagement.

This movie work, Kearns said, might keep Dempsey busy for eight or ten weeks this spring thus jeopardizing the prospective return match here in June with Tom Gibbons. Kearns declared he had made no arrangement for a fight with Gibbons but that Richard, who has obtained the St. Paul boxer's consent to terms, professed his desire to go ahead with this match.

Firpo, through his American representative, William McCarney, was offered a match with Willis by the Rhode Island promoter, but the latter was declined by the Argentine already had booked a sterner exhibition program which would prevent acceptance. Willis, according to the promoters, had agreed to either match.

Dempsey left New York today for a Western trip, declaring he had recovered from effects of the operation. He recently underwent a few days before going to Salt Lake City and Los Angeles.

Willis arrived shortly after the champion's departure and announced his intention of resuming training, though the negro's chances of obtaining any important matches this season had dimmed rapidly.

GATOR RIFLE TEAM CAPTURES TITLE FOR SECOND TIME IN THREE YEARS

UNIVERSITY OF FLORIDA, GAINESVILLE, Mar. 12.—For the second time within the past three years, the crack University of Florida rifle team fired its way to the championship of the Fourth corps area, announcement being made Tuesday by H. McKie Salley, captain of the Gator Sharpshooters. In making their laurels, the Florida riflemen defeated some twenty-three R. O. T. C. units from colleges and universities scattered over eight Southern states, and have only to win the title once more to become permanent possessors of the magnificent trophy, declared to be the most beautiful loving cup to ever be displayed here.

Florida's rifle squad, containing veteran shooters of three years under the Orange and Blue, fired consistently in every match, the target work of Captain Salley and Robert C. Trimble featuring the rifle series. Gallery teams from eight states, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Florida, South Carolina, North Carolina, Tennessee and Louisiana, were defeated by the Gator riflemen during the recent matches. Every team fired on its home butte, scores being sent to Fourth corps area headquarters.

Besides winning this year's highest shooting laurels, the Florida university rifle team for the past two seasons have been most conspicuous during summer sessions at Camp McClellan, Anniston, Ala. In addition to bagging the championship at camp twice, the Gators have on both occasions presented high point men in the individual firing competition. Year before last Captain Salley won notable distinction, while last summer Wallace Byrd was accorded the high honor.

Captain Salley, a wonderful shot, holds medals for expert rifleman and sharpshooter. H. I. Wells, Robert Trimble (sharpshooters); E. C. Scarborough and John Schabinger (expert riflemen). Members of the championship Gator gallery team include Capt. H. McKie Salley, Robert C. Trimble, Wallace Byrd, H. D. Smith, O. B. Davis, G. B. Hammond, P. J. Blank, H. I. Wells, L. C. Scarborough, John Schabinger and Carl Green.

Percy Mero Tells How To Select A Storage Battery

"In selecting a battery," said Percy Mero, of the local Exide service station, "one must bear in mind that its job is to give a short powerful turn to the engine such as a muscular arm would accomplish on the crank.

"This is better termed 'cranking ability' which every battery no matter how cheap, must have in sufficient quantity to properly start the engine. It is this starting ability and not amperes hour capacity which a car owner should demand in a battery.

Whether the battery has the capacity to keep turning the engine continuously for 15 or 20 minutes is of little importance because the battery in normal service is called upon to deliver cranking current for only a few seconds at a time.

"Broadly speaking, what is required, is the capacity of the battery concentrated in a short spurt of current delivered with a punch rather than spread out in a thin stream over several minutes.

"The second consideration in choosing the proper battery is long life.

"In designing the Exide, no attention has been paid to how long it can deliver current at a certain rate. This is a non-essential quality in an automobile battery. Instead every effort is directed toward increasing its "punch" or cranking power and in lengthening its life.

"The result is a battery that has as much cranking ability and long life as it is mechanically and scientifically possible to build into a battery of its size. Thus we have in the Exide, an automobile battery without a fraction of an ounce of superfluous weight or an inch of bulk—a very important essential in any automobile or accessory."

Increase in Land Values of Cities Low, Experts Say

MADISON, Wis., Mar. 12.—Increase or decrease in the city land values as a whole has been in recent years in comparison with what is generally regarded as a fair return on investments, according to preliminary results of a survey of changes in city land values being made now by the Institute in Land Economics and the Research Council of the National Transportation Institute.

This general conclusion does not hold true for all parcels of land in cities, according to Prof. Arthur J. Mertzke of the University of Wisconsin, conducting the survey as marked exception has been discovered in almost every city included in the survey.

"As a result of the general tendency, it does not follow that the purchasing of land for productive purposes is necessarily unprofitable or should be discouraged. Professor Mertzke asserts.

Twenty-five of the larger cities of the country and thirty-five in Wisconsin will be included in the completed survey. The cities are classified for study purpose in groups headed declining, stationary, slowly growing, normally growing and rapidly growing.

The purpose of the survey is to discover the relationship between population growth and land values. It is intended for use of tax experts, realtors, railroads, corporations and similar organizations.

Given Up As Dead Judge Returns Home To Tell Strange Tale

ALBANY, Ga., Mar. 11.—An unusual tale of adventure was related by Judge William E. Smith, ordinary of Daugherty county on his return here after having been missing since October to find that his wife had assumed the duties of his office and was candidate to succeed him with entries closed so that he cannot be a candidate.

Judge Smith said he started from Miami in a power cruiser for Buenos Aires with Frank Rittenhouse. The Baltimore was wrecked in a tropical storm and washed ashore on a small island in the West Indies inhabited only by fishermen.

After remaining there two months a tramp steamer called and carried the party to Santo Domingo from which he finally made his way back to Miami and established communication with his family.

ELECTRIC CHAIR FOR STATE WILL BE READY SOON

Will Be Fifteenth To Be Installed In The United States—Will Be Located at Raiford.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Mar. 12.—Florida's electrical chair will be the fifteenth to be placed in use in the union for executing criminals, according to the most complete information available here. The chair is now under construction at the state prison farm, at Raiford, and probably will be ready for use within the next few weeks.

Twenty-two states still make use of the age old method of hanging, one has adopted two methods, giving the condemned his choice; another uses lethal gas; two others have conditional executions, and seven of the forty-eight commonwealths have abolished legal execution.

In Utah the condemned man may take his choice of being shot or hanged. Nevada uses gas; in Rhode Island there are no executions unless a prisoner under life sentence kills a keeper. Under such conditions he is hanged, but the need of this has never arisen, it is said.

The States that have abolished executions are Maine, Michigan, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Wisconsin, and Kansas. Those that still use the gallows are Alabama, Arizona, California, Idaho, Illinois, Iowa, Louisiana, Montana, New Hampshire, New Mexico, Texas, Washington, West Virginia, Wyoming, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Georgia, and Louisiana.

In addition to Florida, states that have adopted the electric chair are: Arkansas, Indiana, Massachusetts, Nebraska, New Jersey, (for murder unless life term; kills at hard labor is recommended by jury; also treason); New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Tennessee, Vermont, Virginia.
