

Announcing

"Nature's Century Old Masterpiece"

A highly improved wisely restricted development in the heart of the extensive activity of the Southeastern Section of the city. At the intersection of Mellonville and Geneva Avenues. Surrounded by all the high type developments where homes are being erected and improvements are being installed with unusual energy. The great progress and the unusual expansion of the city is especially evident in this section here in the city limits.

THE lordly oaks and majestic pines that nature bestowed so plentifully to this spot from a scene of sunshine and shadow, one of rare natural beauty in a sub-tropical setting. This century old handiwork of Nature breathes an atmosphere of contentment and refinement that is only to be found in Wynnewood. The age-old trees, the sub-tropical shrubs and the flowering plants together make for a spot of rare natural beauty that is unrivaled in this entire district, a place in which you will want to build your home.

THE developers and owners of Wynnewood have planned and platted this development very cautiously. The natural beauty has been preserved and will be greatly enhanced by landscape experts. To save the beauty of a tree, or to arrange the plat that every site would have its share of trees re-planting was necessary. Several times this was done before the developers decided to adopt the plat that now makes Wynnewood a home community of distinction.

WE urge every one to visit Wynnewood, to see the exceptional property it embodies. Drive your own car if you prefer, but it is our desire to have one of our representatives accompany you. He will thoroughly understand the development in its entirety and it will be a pleasure for him to explain it in detail. A casual inspection is not sufficient, we want you to spend some time on the property. It will afford you a treat and you will appreciate the environment, general atmosphere and unrivaled natural charm of Wynnewood.

Substitute Is Accepted At Altar When Bridegroom Fails To "Come Through"

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Mrs. Alice Beal Doolin, 17, described at the altar only to be proposed to on the spot by William H. Doolin, 19, whom she had met but two weeks before, is now on her honeymoon.
Mrs. William Best, mother of the bride, and the preacher, the choir and numerous acquaintances were assembled in church on Jan. 17. Time passed until the bridegroom, John A. Halligan, did not arrive. The preacher grew impatient, the bride nervous and the mother tearful.
Finally Doolin, a boarder in the Best household, stepped forward and offered to substitute. Mrs. Best stopped crying. "Go see the preacher," she said she told the youth. The preacher was willing but pointed out the legal difficulties and so the wedding cake was put away. Several days later Halligan appeared, but Mrs. Best decided to change her mind. Now the ceremony has been performed, and this time neither bride nor groom was kept waiting and "we're all happy," says Mrs. Best.

NOTED AIRMAN DIES IN PLANE CRASH IN OHIO

Art Smith, One Of Best Known Fliers In Country And Inventor Of "Sky Writing," Killed As Machine Hits Tree
Flier Second Killed In Air Mail Service
Intrepid Pilot Served With Distinction During Wars Designed Several Planes

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Feb. 12.—(AP)—Art Smith, one of America's best known aviators, and widely known as a stunt-flier, lost his life while skimming a tree and crashing to the ground near Mont Peller, six miles northwest of Bryan, Ohio, when he was flying a mail plane carrying mail from Chicago to New York, which was burned when it broke out in the wreckage.
Details of the accident were lacking here. He was about two miles off the regular air mail route between Chicago and Bryan, N. B. Shaver, acting division superintendent of the air mail service here, said. Visibility was reported good.

Mississippi Town Grows As Thousands Join Mad Rush In Search Of Diamond Deposits

OSYKA, Miss., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Fike County was in the throes of a diamond rush today. Osyka, normally a quiet country village of 800 persons, was made the headquarters of thousands of excited men and boys from all parts of Mississippi and Louisiana. By train, automobile, buggy, horseback, mule-back and afoot, the eager diamond hunters urged into Osyka to share in the mad rush. They have been led to believe that the "field" starts about three miles east of Osyka and extends to the Tangipahoa river and through St. Mary of the Flies, almost to McComb, Miss. It has been used principally for agricultural purposes in the past.
Mining has begun, flocking here were to spend the night on rude cots supplied by the inhabitants of Osyka. The newcomers read of their prospects of becoming fabulously wealthy in an extra edition of the McComb Enterprise, Meanwhile, announcement was made that as a result of the rush, the Kentwood Commercial, Osyka News and McComb Enterprise, two weekly newspapers, would begin publishing daily editions immediately.
Emrick, a McComb newspaper man was quoted by a Jackson paper as saying that he had investigated the geologists who announced the discovery of diamonds in the Osyka field. He also made public the fact that experts from the Smithsonian Institute and the Scientific American had been asked to visit Osyka and inspect the territory. Favorable reports said to have been made by New Orleans and Chicago inspection who found stones near here.

Maine Party Headed By Gov. Brewster Is Entertained Here

Visitors Are Impressed With Celery Fields And Orange Groves Surrounding City
"Dixie Pilgrims" Met At Longwood
Extensive Motorcade Will Be Followed By Dinner At Hotel

Many expressions of wonder emanated this afternoon from members of the visiting Maine delegation headed by Governor Ralph O. Brewster, when they were shown the intensive agricultural district on the outskirts of the city while on a tour conducted by the entertainment committee of the Chamber of Commerce.
The visitors were shown the celery and trucking fields both at the cutting stage and the seedling stage, the citrus groves and the irrigation system of the district, and at the conclusion of the tour many of them stated that their entire trip through Florida they had seen nothing comparable to the agricultural wealth of Sanford's back country.
Governor Brewster declared that "there is no reason why Sanford cannot become one of the largest cities of inland Florida within a very few years. Your natural advantages are such as to insure the city's tremendous growth even without the magnificent prospect you have planned."
"In particular, I want to commend the citizens of Sanford for their efforts to develop the extensive water front and to make a great inland shipping and distributing center," Governor Brewster said. "I believe that it can be done and I know that in view of your program for the future, that on my next visit to your city I will see many great activities here in connection with the shipping business."

CASE AGAINST OSBORNE WOOD MAY BE DROPPED

Check Received By Detectives Making Good All Debts May Cause Removal Of Charges; Bank Directors Satisfied
WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Charges of obtaining money under false pretenses may be dropped against Osborne C. Wood, now in a Havana Hospital, following the receipt of a check by the Palm Beach National Detective Agency this morning to cover court costs and $3,400 worth of checks issued by Wood on a local bank.
After losing $3,000 in worthless checks in Palm Beach, Wood sought flight to Havana Jan. 26, where he has remained while efforts of authorities here to bring him back to Florida were fruitless. Although officials of the Criminal Court of Record in which charges against Wood have been filed, declared that making restitution will not be grounds for withdrawing the case, directors of a local bank who hold the drafts against Wood said today that they have no further interest in the case and do not care to push prosecution.

Man Killed By Officer Is Said To Be E. A. Enzor

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Identity of the man killed Friday by county officers as E. A. Enzor of Andalusia, Ala., was believed to have been established today when a description of the latter was found to tally with the body held at a local mortuary.
Enzor was shot through the hip and leg during a gun battle on a highway about a mile and a half east of here, when Sheriff Stout, an ally of Leon county, and Sheriff Allan of Jefferson county, and the deputies, attempted to arrest Enzor and a companion as suspects in the robbery of a safe at a garage at Greenville.
In the shooting, which took place about 3 o'clock Friday morning, Deputy Sheriff Fred Hartsfield of Leon county, was shot through the jaw and Enzor's companion succeeded in slipping away unharmed during the heat of battle. Hartsfield was recovering this morning after his jaw had been reset in an operation. Enzor's companion, whose identity was not learned, was still at large, although officers of a half dozen counties in this section had been asked to "institute a search for him."
Enzor was identified by the night patrolman at Greenville yesterday as the man he had come robbing the garage in the act of robbing the safe. The patrolman had placed Enzor under arrest, he said, and had turned to leave the building with him when he was struck from behind. He was then overpowered and held.
Enzor's companion was spotted in the robbery and a chase by the sheriff leading to Tallahassee followed with the robbers fleeing in one automobile and the officers of Leon and Jefferson county in two others. The chase finally ended near Sheriff Stout's office, where Enzor and the other man to stop the shooting followed.
Enzor was taken to the hospital and a release from the Leon county jail, a title certificate to an automobile and a business card of a local tailor were given to him. The auto certificate was under the name of E. P. Burnell.
In a telephone conversation with the sheriff operator at Andalusia, Sheriff Stout said today that both Enzor and Burnell were known there. Enzor was described as having a scar on top of his head and a scar on the back of his neck. Other descriptions of Enzor were given by the sheriff, tallied with the body here.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

THE RIGHTEOUS EXALTED: "Now, therefore, let Pharaoh look out a man discreet and wise, and set him over the land of Egypt." —And Pharaoh said, "Can we find such a one as this is, a man in whom the Spirit of God is?" Gen 41:33-38.

PRAYER—O Lord, truly now we know that, although many are the afflictions of the righteous, yet the Lord delivereth him out of them all.

THE RULE OF LIFE

There is no rule of life at all. Because life's only rule is change. As we grow old we but recall familiar things among the strange. And find the strength of men how small. How few the matters men arrange.

Yet there's a rule, a rule in life. By which men happiness may find. We beat the drum, we blow the life. We have our flags to march behind. And then we win or lose the strife. But time must tell us which was kind.

The rule is this: Whatever fate Your fate today may seem to be, Be slow to boast, be slow to hate; Defeat perhaps was victory, And victory—well, men must wait. The fact to know, the truth to see.

So let not grief too greatly bear You down beneath its weight of care. Let not the laurels that you wear On simpler joys their shadows throw. I bid you not too soon despair, Too soon exult—until you know. By Douglas Malloch.

We can hardly wait for spring. We want to see a fat man try to do the Charleston in a bathing suit.

In New York it cost $21,000 to polish the cuspidors in one building last year. The advice to aim high isn't always so good.

A Tampa Telegraph headline says: "Georgia Has Lost Hanging." Evidently someone on the Telegraph staff doesn't know those Georgians like we do.

Now that the coal strike has been terminated, Congress should pass the necessary legislation to prevent the recurrence of any similar walk out in the future.

The difference between Brian and Mussolini is that Brian has to call for a vote of confidence now and then, while the Italian premier does his own voting and expresses his own confidence in himself.

"Smoo" is a recently coined word in the United States Weather Bureau to indicate a combination of smoke and fog that forms a blank, at almost impenetrable. Our office boy says it must be nice to be in a position to make up your own words and have them generally accepted.

Sanford's rapid growth during the past year was amazing to M. B. Welborne, governor of the Atlantic district of the Federal Reserve Bank, who is here for the first time since last winter. Mr. Welborne's impressions of this city have been very favorable and he returns home a bigger and better booster for Sanford than ever before.

We have a few hot-air artists in Delray who blow off steam in public meetings without coming across financially. Really, their advice is rather needed nor appreciated, and a little more quiet on their part would prove most acceptable. —Delray News. We have a few like that in Sanford, but then it takes all kinds of people to make a world, and these hot-air artists are the ones that see so few in number that we can't mind them. It is that really British amusement.

Drunk Or Sober?

The question continually arises whether a man is drunk, and you notice he is acting queerly. You do not know if he is drunk or not and you wonder. Some unfortunate moron is arrested for driving while drunk. The policeman insists that he was and he insists that he wasn't. He declares he had finished off only a drink or two.

When we find a man lying in the gutter utterly unconscious of all that goes on about him, we have little doubt but that he is drunk. Likewise if we see a man endeavoring to negotiate a sidewalk, doing figure-eights and circling like a butterfly, we are fairly certain that he has had something too much to drink. And if we see someone who has the reputation of being a silvertongued orator, stammering and stuttering and hiccupping, we are reasonably sure that the demon rum has something to do with it.

But it is the mid-way point between this and complete sobriety which is most puzzling. How many drinks can a man drink without becoming drunk? Of course it varies somewhat with the individual, but it might be interesting to devise a general rule. It is of especial importance to know just when a man is drunk at this time when "driving while drunk" is taking such a prominent place in our civil courts.

The British Medical Association, after considerable work upon "standardized tests for drunkenness," has brought forth the following tests which may be of use to policemen trying to ascertain whether a man is drunk:

- 1. "Enunciatory tests": Repeating successfully one or more of the following phrases: The Leith police dismisses him; the sea ceaseth and it sufficeth us; truly rural; British constitution and Methodist Episcopal.
2. "Equilibristic tests": Standing motionless with hands clasped behind head, with feet together; standing on one leg with eyes closed; touching the tip of the nose with one finger with eyes shut; bending down and touching the right toe with the left forefinger; standing with heels together and eyes closed, without wobbling; walking a chalk line.

Welcome Maine!

Today Sanford citizens are presented the opportunity of consolidating an entente cordiale which will prove of much practical value in the years to come. It is seldom that any section is given the privilege of entertaining as large and as representative a delegation as the "Maine to Southland Pilgrims" coming here this afternoon under the leadership of Governor Brewster, and The Herald is glad to see that Chamber of Commerce committees and representatives of other civic bodies have appreciated the importance of the party's visit, and prepared a fitting reception.

Sanford as a whole appreciates the visit of these distinguished men and women, who have, by coming here, designated this city as a representative Florida point. A wonderful opportunity for fostering relations that will be of mutual benefit is offered both host and guests today, and any courtesy, any little extra kindness that may be shown these visitors will by no means be bread cast upon the waters. For Maine is a potential source of income for Florida, and the many things that the two states have in common make cordial relations much to be desired. Although the two states are located at opposite ends of the nation, their wide separation is measurable only in material miles, and in the past, as in the present, the most harmonious feelings have always existed between their peoples.

Both sections are world famous as resorts. Practically the same people who visit Florida beaches in the winter seek Maine's shady forests in the summer. Both states are awake to the advantages of publicity, and both at this time are conducting advertising campaigns international in scope.

Both states are progressive in every sense of the word, and both are basking in the limelight of the nation. So it is with a kind of brotherly feeling that Sanford welcomes these sons of Maine, and extends them the hand of friendship in the pleasant rivalry which will mark the Maine-Florida race for national pre-eminence.

"She Didn't Say It Neither!"

There is an old and reliable saying that "it's the hit dog that howls." Many a dog has been known to howl when there was nothing more the matter with him than an extra tear in his spinal column or an adverse mental attitude resulting from complex and inhibitions relative to moonbeams. But on the other hand no dog ever kept his mouth shut when the target of a missile of one kind or another and the aim was good.

Now John F. Hylan, formerly mayor of New York City, wintering in Palm Beach, has been doing a lot of howling lately and we suspect he has been hit. According to Time, that excellent weekly publication, Mr. Hylan is wrathfully rising in defense of his wife.

The story is told that when King Albert and Queen Elizabeth of the Belgians visited this country in 1919, Queen Elizabeth was most impressed with New York. She expressed her wonder at the sights of the city and the wife of the mayor is said to have replied, "Queenie, you said a mouthful."

We had never suspected the absolute authenticity of this story. Such tales have a peculiar way of getting around, especially about persons who are more or less continuously in the public eye. Sometimes there is never a grain of truth in them. But after seven years ex-Mayor Hylan declares, "Mrs. Hylan never made a remark of that kind in her life. She is able and thoroughly capable of deporting herself in any place as the occasion demands."

We had never believed it before but now we wouldn't be surprised at anything. Imagine if such a story were circulated about Mrs. Coolidge, the President rising on a public chair, "She didn't say it neither."

MY FAVORITE STORIES

By IRVIN R. COBB

On the stage of a music hall in the East End of London a memory wizard was offering an exhibition of his skill. In response to questions from the audience he gave, off-hand and promptly, the dates of historic events, the distance from the earth to the moon, and other facts and figures without limit.

It was quite evident from the language of some of his statements that the performer was a most patriotic Briton. Invariably, when mentioning a great Englishman or a great English achievement, he would say, "A British boy, sir."

As Brisbane Sees It

A Convenient Dive, Cardinals on Prohibition, No League Meeting, A Better Race Coming. By ARTHUR BRIBANE copyright 1924, by Star Co.

THOMAS PETEET, his wife and two daughters left San Diego, one of the most beautiful, well ordered American cities, and crossed the Mexican border to Tia Juana. Tia Juana has been made by American gamblers, prize fight promoters, race track, bootleggers, drink and others, into one of the worst resorts on the continent. You go 18 miles from San Diego to Tia Juana, then do as you please.

THE DAUGHTERS of Thomas Peteet, while in Tia Juana fell into bad hands. The father was partly responsible, gambling, being in a place that he did not know, to drink beer. When they got back to San Diego, feeling that he and his wife were disgraced, Peteet kills the two girls, his mother and himself.

BY ORDERS of Secretary Kellogg, the matter is investigated. Several men are arrested, somebody may face a Mexican firing squad. But that is no remedy. Secretary Kellogg might interfere with the easy granting of passports to Tia Juana by some respectable United States communities. Those that cross the border should be forbidden to come back the way they went, inside of three months. Or some other method could make it difficult for Americans, not Mexicans, to mind you—to maintain disorderly resorts, gambling, bootlegging, dives on the edge of the United States territory, drawing overnight customers from the United States.

CARDINAL MUNDELEIN, third of the cardinals in America to discuss prohibition, says the people get what they want. If they don't want prohibition they can get rid of it by electing a new congress. He says truly, "It is lawful for any citizen to object to any law, criticize it, work to have it changed—if he OBEYS the law." The Catholic "extension" magazine predicts repeal of the Volstead act.

CARDINAL MUNDELEIN, the third American prince of the Roman Catholic church to express open opposition to prohibition. There is undoubtedly, a well organized Catholic movement toward modification of the Volstead law. The Catholic church works steadily for results, and is never in a hurry.

GOVERNOR AL Smith of New York, happens to be a Roman Catholic, and is understood to be a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1928, is said by his friends to be the only Democrat with the faintest chance of being elected. If nominated Governor Smith would run as a "wet."

He probably will emphasize Prohibition's extra "dryness" and supply material for an interesting campaign.

ITALY, as you would expect, refuses to submit to a quarrel with Germany, about the Tyrol, to the league of nations.

Matters, really important, according to Mussolini must be decided by Mussolini when they concern Italy.

That's the trouble with that league of nations into which we are invited.

MUSSOLINI WILL, be interested to learn that the Rev. Mr. Rawlinson, of the church of the assembly, Plymouth Brethren, discovers in Mussolini, "the beast of the Apocalypse," "the beast of the world wide disturbance."

PROFESSOR COMPTON of the University of Chicago says that man has just learned to walk on earth and our children fifty thousand years from now will be as far ahead of us, as we are far ahead of our ancestors of 50,000 years ago.

THESE TIMES are the ancient times, when the world is ancient, as we are said, of the days they represent the babyhood of man. If we could see our descendants of fifty thousand years hence, we probably would scarcely recognize them as our own. And as for our descendants of a million and a hundred million years from now, science says the earth will last as long as they probably will be as unlike us as we are unlike so many rhinoceroses.

SECRETARY WORK of the interior says this country's oil supply will give out soon and quite President Coolidge as expressing anxiety, because our methods "are wasteful to an alarming degree" in handling the oil supply.

You are warned if you should come again, there is no certainty of oil. And you know that war will be in the air, with airships depending on gasoline.

ALL INTERESTING and important. But what about the gentlemen that stole the oil reserve of the United States, say, and the cabinet officer that helped to do the stealing? Wouldn't it be well to take a serious interest in that transaction? If public officials can safely steal the oil reserve, they can compel Brian to depart in one respect from the Democratic platform. This oil reserve is the property of the United States.

EDISON CHEATING OLD MAN TIME

BRADENTON HERALD

Thomas A. Edison, who has been called "the greatest inventive genius of all time," will enter upon his eightieth year this week, and still he's cheating Old Man Time. According to all reports he is exceedingly brisk and chipper as he nears the four-score milestone and is said to be dining on spinach and bread and butter, and he has even prepared the much illuminated cake he must eat next Thursday.

BRIAND'S FLEXIBLE DEFENSIVE

NEW YORK TIMES

The French Premier's strategy, in a campaign which may at no moment produce a communique parallel with the Four Big Powers of the spring of 1918. In the space of four months the Germans had sliced four deep wedges into the allied lines. They had almost got to the Channel, almost to Amiens, almost to Rheims, and the world was waiting for the counter-offensive. But now was waiting for the enemy to run himself out of breath. Three days after the breakdown of the Friedenturm in Champagne the Americans and Moroccans were moving out of the forest of Villers-Cotterets.

Mrs. Laney Is Hostess At Delightful Bridge Party Friday Evening

Friday evening, Mrs. J. Olin Laney entertained her quota of the series of vanishing progressive bridge parties, at her home on Magnolia Avenue.

Baskets and bowls of callenulas and roses were used in decorating the long living room where the card tables had been placed.

Scores were kept on tallies done in suggestions of valentine, and after several progressions, the prize for high score, a deck of bridge cards, were awarded Mrs. Craig Thompson.

After the game the hostess served fruit salad, salines, toasted cheese sandwiches and hot chocolate.

Those playing were Mrs. O. W. Smith, Mrs. Carrie Worthington, Mrs. M. E. Wilson, Mrs. A. K. Powers, Mrs. Luke Thompson, Mrs. Craig Thompson, Mrs. C. L. Parks, Mrs. Fred Daiger, Mrs. King, Mrs. Ned Smith, Mrs. Weyman White and Mrs. Laney.

Miss Cornelia McRae Is Hostess Saturday

Miss Cornelia McRae entertained a jolly matinee party on Saturday, honoring her house guest Miss Evalina Stevenson, of Winter Garden.

The young folks gathered at 4 o'clock at the home of little Miss McRae, and from there went to the Milane Theater, so see "Clothes Make The Pirate."

After the show, refreshments were served at the Union Pharmacy, and favors of valentines given each young miss.

The guests included Evalina McRae, Margaret Torrey, Marjorie Dulose, Ann Robson, Anna Marie Couch, Lucy Dobbins, Mary Manning, Billie Wight, and Cornelia McRae.

Mrs. C. R. Kirtley Entertains At Bridge Honoring Mrs. Walter Wight

The attractive home of Mrs. C. R. Kirtley was the scene of a very pretty party on Friday morning, when Mrs. Kirtley entertained at bridge, honoring her house guest, Mrs. Walter Wight of Cairo, Ga. The guests included the members of the Every Week Bridge Club, of which Mrs. Wight was a former member.

Golden callenulas, jonnouls and daffodils, together with ferns, adorned this spacious home and formed a lovely setting for this delightful party.

Scores were kept on tallies done in black and yellow and the morning hours passed all too quickly. The prize for high score, an angel-food cake, was won by Mrs. J. G. Ball, while the second prize, also an angel food cake, went to Mrs. W. J. Thigpen. Mrs. Wight, the honoree, was presented silk hose.

At 1 o'clock a tempting four-course luncheon carrying out the color scheme of green and yellow was served by the hostess. The small tables were centered with crystal baskets filled with callenulas and ferns.

Covers were laid for Mrs. Walter Wight, Mrs. W. J. Thigpen, Miss Katherine Wilkey, Mrs. G. F. Smith, Mrs. John W. Sneed, Mrs. J. G. Ball, Mrs. Forrest Lake, Mrs. W. A. Fitts, Mrs. C. F. Miller, Mrs. E. W. Markell, Mrs. William Hearn Whitton, of Brooklyn, N. Y.; and Mrs. James G. Sharon.

Mrs. W. E. Watson Entertains The Sallie Harrison Chapter Of N. S. D. A. R.

Mrs. W. E. Watson was a gracious hostess on Friday afternoon when she entertained the members of the Sallie Harrison Chapter, N. S. D. A. R., at her cozy home in Rose Court.

Early spring flowers arranged in vases and baskets lent their beauty and fragrance in decorating this attractive home.

During the business session, quite a number of very important matters were discussed. Mrs. A. M. De Forrest, chairman of the Americanization Committee, reported the offering of prizes to the schools for the best essays on the subject selected by the chapter, "Lawlessness and its Effect on the American Citizen," also the offering of the usual silver cups to the high scholars holding the highest average in American history in the high school, grammar school and the colored school.

Mrs. F. F. Dutton, chairman of "Conservation and Thrift," reported that splendid cooperation has been given toward the preservation of trees by the city engineer, Fred T. Williams, and also all of the county-commissioners.

The chapter, with a small nucleus in hand, announced the desire to form a "Student Loan Fund" This was put to a vote and unanimously carried. The treasurer, Mrs. Watson, reported a gift of $50 from Mrs. Robert W. Simms, toward a fund to provide a chair in memory to Mrs. B. J. Starling, late organizing regent of the Sallie Harrison Chapter. This chair is to be placed in the auditorium of the D. A. R. at Washington, D. C.

Reports given during the afternoon showed active interest and the meeting proved very stimulating through the splendid work which each chairman reported.

The delegates to the state conference gave unusually good reports, bringing unusually good returns to each member.

Duplicate Bridge Club Is Entertained Friday

The members of the Duplicate Bridge Club and one extra table of players were most delightfully entertained on Friday by Mrs. F. E. Roumillat at her home on Palmetto Avenue, honoring Mrs. Hartogden of Newark, N. J., who is spending the winter here with her daughter, Mrs. George W. Knight, at her home in San Luis.

Red roses and greenery in charming profusion were used with artistic effect in the rooms where the card tables were arranged. At 1 o'clock a delicious four course luncheon was served. The tables were centered with crystal baskets filled with red rose buds and asparagus ferns.

During the afternoon an absorbing game of Duplicate bridge was enjoyed, and at a late hour scores were counted and the prizes, bottles of Coty's perfume, were won by Mrs. D. P. Drummond and Mrs. F. J. Gonzalez.

Mrs. Hartogden, honoree, and Mrs. Guy Mauldin of Washington, D. C., another visitor, were presented crystal baskets filled with red roses.

NIGHTGOWNS IN SLUMP

BELFAST, Eng., Feb. 13.—Londonderry's pajama industry is booming, but the nightgown manufacturers are in despair because of women's growing fondness for the bifurcated sleeping garment. Another effect of fashion's fickleness is seen in the closing of a Londonderry corset factory, throwing 200 girls out of work.

Georgia Lady, Who Had Lost Too Much Weight, Was Advised to Take Cardui and Is Now Well.

Columbus, Ga.—Mrs. George S. Hunter, of this city, writes: "After I married, thirteen months ago, I suffered with dreadful pains on my sides during... My side hurt so bad it nearly killed me. I had to go to bed and stay sometimes two weeks at a time. I could not work and I just dragged around the house. I got very thin—I went from 128 pounds down to less than 100. My mother had long been a user of Cardui and she knew what a good medicine it was for this trouble, so I sent to the store after it and before I had taken the first bottle I began to improve. My side hurt less and I began to improve in health... The Cardui made me feel like the same person. I am now much better. I am well now, I have gained ten pounds and am still gaining. My sides do not trouble me at all. I wish every suffering woman knew about Cardui." NO-169

Members Of G. I. A. Are Entertained At Home Mrs. Crawford

The members of the G. I. A. were entertained most pleasantly on Friday evening at the home of Mrs. J. B. Crawford on Oak Avenue, with Mrs. Crawford, Mrs. Crosby, Mrs. Seivieking, and Mrs. L. M. Telford as hostesses.

Baskets and bowls of callenulas and ferns were arranged around this cozy home with pleasing effect.

A word contest afforded much merriment; the prize, lingerie, was won by Mrs. M. Minarik. The booby prize, a box of handkerchiefs, went to Mrs. McConnell.

After the contest, refreshments of chicken salad, salines, olive cake and coffee were served by the hostess.

This was one of the most enjoyable meetings that has been given by the members this season.

First Baptist Church Orchestra Will Play

The First Baptist Church is justly proud of its orchestra, under the able direction of Mrs. J. H. Coleough. The orchestra will have charge of the closing 20 minutes of the Sunday School period, on Sunday morning, Feb. 14.

All the members of the school are asked to be present as this will be an unusual treat.

Special invitation is extended to visitors in the city.

*Goes on Sale Monday
February 15, 1926*

The Dixie Highway is being widened ten feet to provide parking space for the Dixie Highway Business Section of Sanford Manor. A brilliant White Way, running the entire length of this unit, is now under construction. Beautiful coral walks have been in use for many days. Lots in this section run twenty feet along the Highway, have a depth of one hundred and five feet and have a rear access through a fourteen foot alleyway.

Directly behind and adjoining the Dixie Highway Business Section lies Sanford Manor, Sanford's foremost community of homes. High restrictions, particular buyers and hundreds of thousands of dollars spent in improvements insures a residence section without equal in its vicinity. Luxurious homes and people of discriminating tastes will demand the best without exception, thereby creating the gem of opportunities for progressive, enterprising tradesmen.

The City of Sanford, correctly termed "The City Substantial," possesses economic advantages excelled nowhere in the State of Florida. It lies at the head of navigation on St. John's River, thereby being provided with a direct water route to the Atlantic Ocean and consequently one of six cities in South Florida having direct passenger steamship service to principal Eastern ports. Ten thousand of the richest producing acres in the world bring home to this section millions of dollars in profits every year.

Pullman coaches leave Sanford daily, at 10:45 A. M. and 3:00 P. M., from the Valdez Hotel, for Sanford Manor. The trip includes a personally conducted tour of the vicinity surrounding, with an inspection of the City of Sanford, its shipping facilities, its homes and the world-famous farms which spread away in all directions. This journey will not only prove a revelation but will create a lasting impression of superb beauty supported by vital, moving industry.

nonsense piece of peanut-brittle wrapped in silver paper ever came into that house for Ida that its duplicate did not arrive for Ida's mother. When Lampeer made his annual trip to New York, every trifle he brought back for Ida was duplicated for Ida's mother.

And what a trinket he brought home from these annual excursions of his! A pine for old man Grant. Patties with deep pockets in them for the store charwomen. Lollypops with little old body faces for the King twins. Salt lotion for Miss Hylan's rheumatism. Roller skates for his business partner's boys. Rubber gloves for Ida when she gardened. Rubber gloves for Ida's mother.
A special kind of chest protector for old man
Gerhardy, the station master.

Lampeer was the dearly beloved of the whole community. He had charm. He had that subtle faculty of thinking of little things. Lampeer was simply irresistible. And not particularly through any virtue of his. He was congenitally that kind of person. And, afterwards, Ida Lampeer? It was as if she were carrying forward a torch. The torch of the sweetness and light that had been lighted by Lampeer, husband of Ida.

Lampeer was simply irresistible. And not particularly through any virtue of his. He was con-genitally that kind of person. His blue eyes were so brimming with kindness. He loved, as he put it, to make everybody's business his. His life was a mission of kindness. His wife blessed the ground that he trod. And so did his world. The little world that made up the town of Omega.

His death came as a shock that swept the whole community off its feet. Playing golf one sunny Sunday afternoon, Lampeer suddenly clutched at himself, gasped for breath, and went down to almost instant death. A blood clot. A death as unforeseen as a thunderstorm on a cloudless day. The town did not seem to take it in, for days. It was a stunned city. A half-mast-city.
Men and women drove in from miles around.

Schools closed a half day. It was a stricken town the day that Lampeer was buried.

And as he had drawn people around him in life, so in death there swarmed about the figure of Lampeer—the prone figure—the men, the women, the children who in life had loved him.
And at his feet his two dogs and at his heart, as if they could never let him be taken, his wife Ida, and Ida Lampeer's mother.

"What will become of Ida Lampeer now?
Why, he lived for her. He breathed for her. She is as helpless as a kitten. What will become of her now? Poor Ida. Poor, poor Ida."

Well might it have been "poor, poor" Ida.
Her life had gone out like a candle flame. She knew that. Looking at her loved one's face through the glass top of his bier, Ida Lampeer knew that with a breaking heart.

What will become of Ida Lampeer now?
"Sweetheart," said Ida Lampeer to the face through the glass top of the bier, and through the tears that were breaking her heart—"sweetheart
—I must carry on. Your sweetness. Your light.
Because you have lived and spread sweetness and light—I must learn how—in your name—"

That was what became of Ida Lampeer. It was as if for the rest of her days, in the community of Omega, she were carrying forward a torch. A torch that made her the best beloved woman in the community. The torch of the sweetness and light that had been lighted by Lampeer, husband of Ida.

Amnesia Victim Is Identified Today As Homestead Man

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 12.—(AP)—While enroute from Homestead, Fla., to see his mother in the Hillside Hospital, Bridgeport, Conn., everything "went black" with John White, 24 year old "amnesia victim" just after he had emerged from an Atlanta theater last Saturday according to a story he told Dr. Newdigate Owensby early today.

Last Saturday the young man appeared in the Atlanta police station and requested assistance in establishing his identity. He had been under examination by physicians he has recalled his past life and how he came to be in Atlanta.

But it was not until 2:30 o'clock this morning, after 10 hours of questioning, that a coherent story was obtained.

Previously he had stated that he was slugged and robbed near the railway station in east Setauket, L. I., while on his way to visit his mother in the Bridgeport hospital.

But, today it was brought out that he left Homestead, so visit his mother and remembered nothing after he had attended a local theater Saturday night.

The alchemist explained that a blow on the head which White said he had received in East Setauket last fall had probably induced a recurrence of the mental fog which seized him on that occasion.

Republican League Meets In Memphis

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 12.—(AP)—The southern states Republican League meets here for the observance of the birthday of Abraham Lincoln and the annual meeting of the league.

Business sessions were to be held during the day and officers for the coming year elected in advance of an informal dinner tonight, planned as a non-partisan observance of the birthday of the Civil War president.

IS PRESIDENT

LAUREL, Ark., Feb. 12.—(AP)—John H. Rice, Lakeland boy, was elected president of the Florida State High-Y congress at the opening session here last night. The congress today went on record in favor of building a chapel at the state industrial school at Marianna.

2nd Wife Accused Of Poisoning First Mate Of Husband

BEAVER CITY, Neb., Feb. 12.—(AP)—Mrs. Katie Resler Davis, 28 year old, second wife of Bert M. Davis, faced arraignment today in connection with the alleged poisoning of Davis' first wife.

Davis was arrested two days ago as a culmination of five months' investigation. His wife died last August and he married their neighbor, Mrs. Katie Resler, four months later. Gossip in Beaver City drove the couple from here, according to their own admissions, and they moved to Lincoln. Both blame "small town tongue wagging" for their plight.

Prodded by neighborhood talk, county officials exhumed the body of Mrs. Davis, and said they found poison in the stomach. Her relatives in Iowa aided the investigation as did Davis' oldest son, who formally accused his father of poisoning his mother.

Mrs. Resler Davis, asserted yesterday that she has two children by a former marriage. She was married to Davis in Manhattan, Kan.

While the case against him was being built up here, Davis collected evidence in his own behalf, authorities said. He pleaded not guilty when arraigned Wednesday.

Stock Exchange Faces Dissolution Following A Good Investigation

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—(AP)—After a half century of existence, the Consolidated Stock Exchange, which is under investigation by the state attorney general's office, faces dissolution. Within 15 days it probably will cease to function, its acts being distributed pro-rata among its members in good standing.

The board of governors voted yesterday to call a conference of members to discuss dissolution.

The resignation of Thomas B. Maloney, president of the exchange, and H. M. Betts, treasurer, were accepted by the board when voluntarily submitted a week ago. They became effective Feb. 15.

The liquidation is expected to result in dismissal of proceedings brought by Attorney General Ottinger in which a receiver for the exchange is sought. Members say the property of the exchange, if sold at its real value, will bring $2,500 to $5,000 each to the remaining 125 members. The exchange has its own building.

from 24 to 47 per cent. No one knows when a virulent outbreak may occur here so we should have a thoroughly vaccinated population. Another great responsibility is put on us by the great number of new subdivisions for their water supply and sewerage disposal systems must be properly laid out.

The larger number of new arrivals have made additional endeavor necessary along the lines of maternal and infant hygiene as well as all other duties of the public health nurse. The infants of today are the future citizens of the state and it is our responsibility to protect their lives and health that they may take up the tasks of life when we lay them down.

Must Guard Milk
The milk supply of our people must be supervised and examined; cultures, bloods and sanitary systems by the thousands must be tested, births deaths and causes of sickness must be secured and tabulated for immediate use and filed for various records and biologic studies must be secured and distributed as needed; these are only some of our responsibilities, but enough have been mentioned to show that we appreciate the fact that we have them and every member of the staff of the board of health at present is giving loyal service despite the fact that every member could secure better financial positions elsewhere. We have lost many from our staff during the past two years for Florida pays her health workers less than any other nearby state.

The state board of health is yours and is ready at all times to lend assistance, for we investigate all problems only on request from that locality. We desire to cooperate in all parts of the state and have every resident feel that his call will not be in vain.

Whenever we go to a community on a municipal problem, our first step is to see those in charge and work through them. Our report is made to them.

"We have a tremendous amount of work to do and we are going to make every effort to make this state so that it will be remembered as one that only makes sick people well but keeps her well people in good health, happiness and prosperity."

Sanford And Plant City Carry Off Most Honors At Big South Florida Fair

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Feb. 13. (AP)—Plant City and Sanford carried off most of the honors in the vocational agriculture exhibits, staged at the South Florida Fair at Tampa, according to a list of the results made public here by E. W. Garis, state supervisor of Vocational agriculture for the Department of Public Instruction. Plant City was especially active in nearly everything, finishing a number of times in first place.

Following were the awards, consisting of the division of a purse of approximately $400:
Best collective display: Plant City, first; Winter Haven, second; Wauchula, third; Mont Verde, fourth and Sanford, fifth.
Best display of vegetables: Sanford, first; Plant City, second; Mont Verde, third.
Best display of farm crops: Plant City, first; Wauchula, second.
Farm shop work: Winter Haven, first; Mont Verde, second.
Best display of ornamental plants: Lemon City, first; Plant City, second.

Following were the results of the judging in dairy and beef cattle and hogs, with teams from eleven different schools entered: Sebring, Plant City, Summerfield, Lemon City and Wauchula were represented, with teams of three boys each. Professor C. H.

Eustis Commerce Body Plans Mammoth Mardi Gras For February 22

EUSTIS, Fla., Feb. 13.—Like an express of old, Princess Dora will make her way from Mt. Dora to Eustis in a beautiful barque, under the escort of a flotilla of motor boats of the Mt. Dora Yacht Club.

For Princess Dora will be one of the ladies-in-waiting to the carnival queen of Eustis on Feb. 22. She will be one of 14 of Lake County's most beautiful girls who will assist the queen in reigning over the mardi gras, that is to feature the Eustis fête.

As Princess Dora places her dainty feet on the pier at Eustis, beautifully decorated nauts will speed swiftly into the city from Tavares, Leesburg, Umatilla, Altamira, Clermont, Ashburn, Mt. Verde, Groveland, Lady Lake and others, these cars, bearing the princesses from the various communities.

Fifteen Chambers of Commerce of Lake County and led by the Lake County Chamber of Commerce are standing squarely back of Eustis in the plans for the big fête.

Sanford Represented
Motor boat owners at Sanford have notified the Eustis Chamber of Commerce that they will transport several of their fast speed boats by truck to Lake Eustis.

Mt. Dora will center 10 or 15 swift craft. Tampa and Miami are going to be represented while from Jacksonville will come a big flotilla of cruising and speed boats.

A float of Eustis boats will travel to Silver Springs on the day before the parade and meet delegations from Jacksonville, Palatka and other points and act as escort to Lake Eustis.

A big dredge is now engaged in removing snags and weeds from the Oklawaha River and engineers in charge declare the river will be "clean as a whistle" for the passage of boats. Engineers have issued a statement that boats 40 feet long, eight feet wide and drawing three and a half feet of water will have no difficulty in getting through the waterways.

A meeting of the committees having the details of the Eustis celebration in charge was held Thursday evening and the various chairmen submitted reports that indicate that the fête will be one of the biggest affairs of the kind to be held in the state this year.

In connection with the fête there will be an exposition at which there will be all forms of exciting rides, a mammoth Ferris wheel, 24 concessions and all lit with 8000 colored lights.

The boat races on Lake Eustis will be over, of course that has been laid out to permit of a crowd of 25,000 people witnessing the dash of the water craft without obstructed view.

"The Aneto"

The "Aneto" is the first of a series of houses designed by Eldred Mowery, Architect, especially for the tropical climate and environment of Florida.

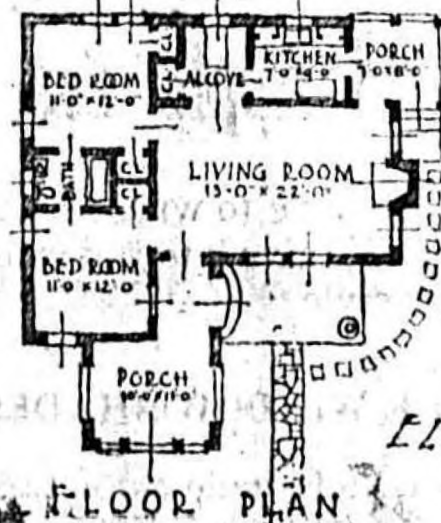

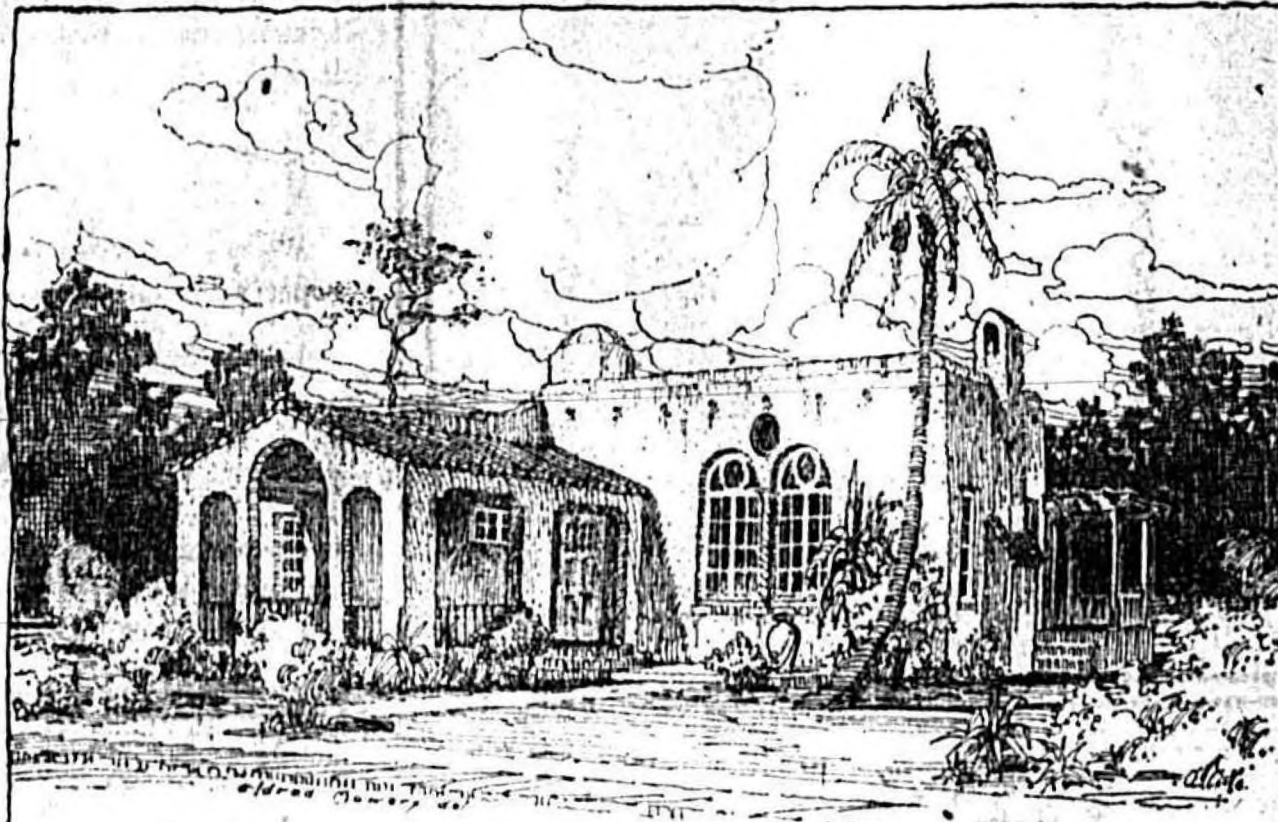

We have made arrangements with Mr. Mowery to publish one sketch each week and are confident in assuring our readers a feature of unusual interest.

Mr. Mowery is a graduate of the Harvard School of Architecture, and has traveled extensively abroad, making a careful study of the architecture of Southern European countries.

These sketches will show houses of exceptional beauty and architectural merit in styles adapted to American taste and mode of living.

The large living-room with high ceiling and the commodious porch of the "Aneto" give much dignity to a house of otherwise small proportions. No space is wasted; no convenience omitted. The labor of housekeeping is reduced to a minimum.

Plans and specifications may be secured from the Architect, Eldred Mowery.

Modern Dance, Modernist View And Favors Prohibition

A query about the details of his rubber research came at the same time as one with reference to his views on Ford's attempt to revive interest in old-fashioned dances. The dance question won his attention.

"I think it's a foolish effort and won't succeed," he said. "People want jazz music these days. Everybody will get up and dance if a fiddle is played, but if it's a waltz they won't go on the floor. I prefer good melody myself. The trouble with the tunes of the old-fashioned fiddler is that his music is good only for dancing."

Called Dancing Barbarous
Mr. Edison admitted that he did not care to dance. He considered dancing an expression of the barbarian instinct still remaining in the human race.

"If a chimpanzee has a sense of rhythm he would dance himself to death," he said.
From the chimpanzee he launched into a discussion of real estate. He bought his ten-acre estate here 42 years ago for $800. He says he hasn't the slightest idea what it is worth today and that he wouldn't sell it at any price. Local dealers say it would bring a million. A big subdivision, named Edison Park in his honor, is being built directly across the wide boulevard from his place. He is very proud of the fine new homes in his neighborhood.

Southwest Florida is the best place in the world to spend the winter," he said with great enthusiasm. "Fort Myers is the loveliest spot in the world. I wish I could stay here always," he added pensively. Asked why he didn't do so, he said he was still working and said he had several new inventions in store.

"The world isn't quite ready for them," he said. "People have not yet caught up with those we already have." He referred to the radio, and said it was being "terribly misused."

Says Education Lags
Mr. Edison has noted no improvement in the standards of education, though he commended the progress made by the technical schools.

"In the use of motion pictures lies the biggest hope of education," he said. "The movies should be used in the schools to make learning attractive."

The inventor has made no new questionnaires like the one which received so much publicity a few years ago.

"I made three altogether," he said. "Each time some newspaper man stole it and published it. Finally I decided to use one of the old ones and now I find that none of the applicants has ever read the questions in print."

Mr. Edison isn't idle during his vacation. A table on his sunny veranda is laden with books on chemistry of the soil, crops, physics and various topics pertaining to agriculture.

"I'm making a study of the possibilities of Florida other than as a winter resort," he said.

During the interview Mr. Edison wore a light top coat which Mrs. Edison brought to him when he left his porch. He put it on most reluctantly. When moving pictures men asked him to pose he discarded it gleefully.

"It would never do to be pictured wearing an overcoat in Florida," he laughed as he handed it back to his wife. He succeeded in avoiding the garment during the rest of the interview.

British Golfing Stars Getting In Shape For Match With Americans

LONDON, Feb. 12.—(AP)—The British amateur champion and three former champions are among 21 players who have been picked to get themselves in shape so that by the Royal and Ancient Golf Club from among them eight men can be chosen to represent Great Britain against an American team in play in June for the Walker cup. The champion is Robert Harris, who once captained a cup team that played in the U. S. Harris is 43 years old. The former champions are Sir Ernest Holderness, 35; Cyril Tolley, 29, and Roger Wethered, 20.

KIDS DRINK LIKE DAD

ATLANTIC CITY, Feb. 12.—New Jersey school children drink proportionately as much liquor as their parents, according to Lambert L. Jackson, assistant state commissioner of education. Blame for the condition lies in the home, not the school, he declared. The children are reflecting the attitude of the parents.

An Invitation to the Public of Sanford to Visit

"Nature's Century Old Masterpiece"

At the Intersection of Mellonville and Geneva Avenues

A Few of Wynnewood's Attractive Features

Wynnewood is completely surrounded by developments that are now being improved with unusual energy.

Wynnewood will have full improvements—streets, sidewalks, and all city conveniences that are being completed very rapidly.

Wynnewood is located at the intersection of Geneva and Mellonville Avenues, two of greater Sanford's most important thoroughfares.

Wynnewood is only a short distance from schools, churches.

Wynnewood is on direct course to the Forrest Lake Hotel and the Eastern Lake Section.

Wynnewood's unmatched natural beauty will be enhanced greatly by an extensive beautification program that is now under way.

Wynnewood's residents will have full advantage of the social, recreational and commercial centers of the city because of its close proximity.

Prices at Wynnewood are very attractive to the homebuilder or the investor. The unusual setting in this rich, century old, handwork of nature make an unusual appeal to the most discriminating.

DURING your Sunday afternoon drive, when you are searching for a most pleasant trip make Wynnewood your point of destination. As our guest, we want you to visit this property, park your car and take a tramp through the forest of centry old oaks. Spend the afternoon on the property. You are assured a most enjoyable treat. Nature has been most lavish in Wynnewood and we extend the invitation to every one to come here and share these unrivaled gifts with us, among the sub-tropical beauties, enriched by the sunshine and shadow.

--how to get there

rations were reduced yet lower, and semi-starvation came to all within that crowded, plague-ridden, beleaguered compound. Finally, General Sir Colin Campbell smashed his way into Lucknow and raised the siege and saved those who were left. Don't you remember the story—it may have been pure fiction but at any rate it made stirring reading—of how from across the smoking blazing city beyond, a Scotch nurse-maid heard so far away the pipes playing "The Campbells are Coming" and raised the cry that salvation was at hand for that starving exhausted band.

Any number of novels have been based upon the Siege of Lucknow. But no more graphic picture of it can be found than in the simple first-hand narrative of one of the survivors—a wife of nineteen, a gently nurtured English woman who in the midst of unutterable distress and misery lost one baby and bore another. It is from her day-to-day notes that the material for the accompanying article of Eye-Witnesses' Stories has been taken.

Of all the stories of the siege and the relief of Lucknow that I ever read—and I have read many, for to me this always has seemed one of the greatest epics of heroism and suffering authentically recorded—I think the most vivid I found in a diary kept by the wife of a British officer. This lady, whose name never has been printed, was one of the group who survived the dreadful experience. Day by day, among the most distressing sights and under terrible living conditions, she set down a brief tally of events. Fortunately her journal was preserved, but not until 1907, fifty years after she wrote her story, were extracts from it published in the London Graphic.

From that source the quotations used here were lifted. Under date of July 1, 1857, she begins with a short pathetic reference to a personal bereavement:

"July 1. My poor dear darling boy died of cholera yesterday during the dreadful confusion of our troops returning pell-mell from Chibhat. Harry was two years old (my first-born.)"

"July 3. My 19th birthday. What a gloomy day! Wonder whether relations are thinking of me shut up worse than imprisoned. All the excitement around me cannot divert my thoughts from my dear boy lying cold in his unattended grave, wherever it is, for nothing marks the spot. My cook, a Portuguese, was wounded whilst helping at the internment although under cover of the darkness it took place. Poor Mr. Polehampton came so kindly and awake me (I had fallen asleep beside the corpse from sheer exhaustion) to tell me I must part with all that remained of Harry."

Cholera Exacta Fearful Toll.
"I groaned my sorrow away. Dal and rice—our fare for the day. It was all put into one dish for so many, and a general scramble made each to become possessed of a share. Not being accustomed to such scenes I had not the courage to eat as others were doing and so fared badly."

"July 4. My butler, a Portuguese—consequently Christian—who has been in my service since my marriage, succeeding in getting me something to eat. The same scrambling for eatables going on. Flies innumerable, most worrying."

"July 7. My servant, Kitah, mistook spirit of wine for some liquor, drank a quantity, and himself very ill; I lost his services in consequence. Mrs. Barlow (Pratt) has an infant which does nothing but cry, whether from hunger or from the irritation of flies, I don't know. The mother remains in an oblivious sleep. It does not disturb her. Poor mite! I take it on my arm and ward off flies; it quiets a little."

"July 10. Major Francis's leg shot. Amputated, but he died the same night. Two of the enemy's guns spiked."

"July 14. Dr. Wells's child died. He had to dig the grave himself. Pouring rain all the time."

"July 21. Mr. Polehampton died of cholera. Ladies who attended on the sick in the hospital ordered away, the air having become so foul."

"July 22. Mrs. Dorin shot dead whilst in the act of shutting a door. Mrs. Graham died of cholera. This makes the fifth grown-up person carried off by that fearful disease."

"July 25. Mr. Grant very ill with cholera. His hand blown off."

"July 27. An attack made during the night. Terror seems wilder during the darkness. Two Europeans made a sortie and found 40 natives hiding in a ditch. Killed two. The rest ran away."

Children Pay Final Price
"Aug. 5. So many days passed without my having the energy All looks so blank. Assistance seems as far off as at the commencement of our troubles. Our scanty food, hardly satisfying hunger, does not invigorate us. However, nothing can be done but to hold out as long as we can, and hope."

"Aug. 6. Mr. Waterman wounded in the hand and forehead."

"Aug. 8. Firing heard in the distance. In hopes that it is our troops to the rescue. Two men mortally wounded by pieces of shell. Mr. Thornhill had a very narrow escape from a musket ball. It grazed his stomach and struck the wall."

"Aug. 9. Dr. McDonald and Mr. Bruce died of cholera. The Husham's baby died of dysentery."

"Aug. 12. Mrs. Barlow's baby's eye came out—a horrid thing to witness. Poor little thing! It lives and struggles with fire. She lies with her. I shake and shake her, saying the child is crying to be nursed but she cannot rouse herself. I take up the poor infant, wash and make it comfortable and put it to its mother's breast, she perfectly indifferent."

"Aug. 15. Teddy Clarke died—a happy release for the poor sufferer child and to his mother, who is very delicate, unfit to weather the troubles with which we are surrounded. What lovely coloured hair she has—real Auburn. Poor young thing! I feel strong beside her, although in years not older. We are very friendly."

"Aug. 16. Feeling ill with fever. Tiny Martin died. Another young spirit fled to its Creator. Happy little angel! What misery they have escaped. This poor little fellow, I am certain, starved."

"Aug. 17. Still feeling very ill and in great pain. I must expect to suffer in my present position. How anxious it makes me. I have no means of making my preparations for the last thing! I feel an enemy doesn't spare women."

"Aug. 18. Another mine exploded by the enemy under the yard where Arthur (her husband) is on duty. He escaped most miraculously. Eight drummers buried in the debris. One poor man was carried over to the midst of these fiends; of course, was not spared. Mercifully they cut off his head. They effected a breach but were too cowardly to carry out their advantage."

"Aug. 22. Mosquitoes troublesome. Rats, too. One huge horror ran up me but my screaming frightened it away. They are as large as kittens a few days old."

"Aug. 24. Terribly well again but miserable. What have I at best in prospect? The birth of an infant without even necessaries: Ah, well! God in His goodness will send me help in time of trouble."

"Sept. 2. Mrs. Thornhill's baby died, aged four days. She was well cared for. I wish my troubles were over."

"Sept. 3. Mr. Birch shot dead by one of our sentries. A terrible mistake to make."

"Sept. 5. Major Bruere shot dead above this room, one of the posts. Am very sorry. He was a nice man beloved by his men. He leaves a widow and seven children."

"Sept. 7. Were ordered into little side-rooms with mud walls. No windows; only loopholes for light. The larger apartment, which contained thirty of us is considered dangerous. 9 and 12 pounds making constant breaches in it. The enemy must know it is occupied by ladies."

"Sept. 8. A boy killed by round shot."

"Sept. 14. A sortie made for some tents. Captured a syc horse-keeper who said our troops had crossed the river 4000 strong. I think they give false information."

Accident or Suicide?
"Sept. 15. Mr. Fulton killed by a round shot. Bought a bullock's heart at fabulous price. The wife of a doctor gave me a sheep's head. What an eccentric woman she is; dressing transparently. Certainly most of us have scanty wardrobes (satirical), but we managed to cover ourselves; she could be seen through."

"Sept. 16. Mr. Fulerton fell accidentally—some say threw himself—from the hospital balcony. Died shortly afterwards. Bought a little sugar."

"Sept. 16. Mrs. O—amusing the public cleaning her teeth before us all, nothing daunted by our smiles. She screws the small quantity of hair nature bestowed upon her head into a knob behind, coming out in full relief. Her face has a mask of sunburn. Night attack at half-past twelve."

"Sept. 18. Two natives (friends) wounded by our own shell; one having his fingers, the other his toes blown off. Poor fellows! Katie, who is wasting away, nursing little orphan! At times, when seeing children gradually fading away, I felt thankful that my poor food would never have suited him who was so carefully, fondly tended and watched. It was hard, very hard to be called upon to part with him at a few short hours' notice. It makes us remember how little we possess is ours, only lent to us!"

"Sept. 22nd. Mr. Cunliffe died of slow fever with which he had been laid up some time. My husband attacked with scurvy."

"Sept. 23. Heard distant guns supposed to be our relieving forces. Distant guns still continue to be heard. How welcome the sound although we know how hard our men must be fighting the odds so great against them."

"Sept. 25. Our troops entering the city. Fearful fighting. De came more venturesome as our countrymen approach."

"Sept. 28. Mr. Alexander died, his leg having been carried into shot-off. Saw him carried into messroom, laid on the table, leaving a stream of blood behind. Captain Hughes died. He was wounded some days ago in the shoulder."

"Sept. 28. Mr. Alexander died."

"Sept. 29. Sitting at a table when a spent bullet struck. It quite close to my hand as it was resting on it. I turned quite faint, thinking I was hurt, but was thankful to find I was not. Once before a bullet struck my petticoats."

"October 1. Mr. McGate died of wounds received yesterday. Mrs. Ounley lost both her children. Bought a few candles."

"October 2. Dr. Bartram shot whilst entering the gate on the point of his wife. Sad after having survived the struggle to gain us."

"October 4. So many more mouths to feed since our reinforcements came in that our rations are reduced to half. There was little enough given—wherewith to satisfy hunger. Boy now! Ah, well, we gladly share our misery for their advent has cheered us and raised our hopes again for we were becoming very despondent."

"October 15. Mrs. Ogilvie gave us a glass of sherry. The first I have tasted for months. Quite a treat. Seems to put a little life into one. People are becoming generous with brighter prospects before them."

"October 17. Very miserable thinking of my lost lamb. I have been looking at and kissing some precious clothes he used to wear. Determined it shall be for the last time. Gave them to Mrs. Bruere—all except a little hair-brush."

Release—and a Vital Event
"October 18. Commenced something for Baby, having had some silk given to me."

"October 20. Bought some kind of white plush. Made a tippet with it."

"October 21. Our cook died during the night."

"October 24. Two native doctors killed by round shot."

"October 31. Rations still further reduced. What are we supposed to exist upon?"

"Nov. 2. Mrs. Ogilvie gave me a cup of coffee and a glass of liqueur. Such a treat in those hard times. Guns anxiously listened for. Our troops expected in a day or two."

"Nov. 6. Bitterly cold of a morning. Tried to take a little exercise, which it is safe to do now, but so cold was glad to go back to my room. Had a cup of coffee. Second during the siege."

WOMEN WRITERS FEEL REBUKE OF MALE CRITICS

Masculine Literary Critics Believed To Have Complex Against Women Who Write Biographies Of Husbands

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Feb. 13. (AP)—Have masculine literary critics a complex against women who write biographies of their illustrious author husbands?

Mrs. Edgar Saltus believes so, and as evidence she cites her own case and that of Mrs. Joseph Conrad and Mrs. Arnold Bennett.

Mrs. Saltus recently published "Edgar Saltus: The Man," a biography of a distinguished American literary figure, and as a result, she says, of "writing the truth and the whole truth," she has "stood up under an avalanche of brickbats and verbal vitriol, not against her book as a book, but against herself for daring to tell the truth about one of their sex."

"When a mere woman has the temerity and the audacity to write a book about a man in letters, and incidentally to tell the truth, the critics as a sex crystallize into a masculine complex against her," she asserts. "She is put on the rack, dissected, dismembered, broiled and eaten by them with the joy of cats let loose in an aviary."

Her interpretation of this attitude is this: "Every critic who reads the biography of a fellow in letters has somewhere in the amen corner of his brain the fear or hope that his wife or some other woman will one day write about him, and in a truthful biography they scent danger."

"They don't want the truth about themselves. They want a tale in which their virtues and abilities only are straggled. They object to going down to posterity as a human being with the mixed lot of vices and virtues we humans have."

"They want to be supermen. That a woman should have the effrontery to write the truth even about her husband insults the entire sex. They want a little truth under a gross colored veil, and that varnished and perfumed."

"The moral is obvious. Women take notice! If you are tempted to write a biography of your husband, and you expect to escape the hum of horns,—DON'T."

Referring to the fate of other women who recently wrote their husbands, Mrs. Saltus says: "Mrs. Conrad, who told as little as she could and tell anything, escaped with a few sarcastic slurs. Mrs. Arnold Bennett, sarcastic herself, told as much of the truth as she thought wise, and received a few ticks in consequence." Summing up the barbs that had been directed at her, Mrs. Saltus cited "one Pacific Coast critic who not to be outdone in venom by the east, summed up Marie Saltus' guilt and epitomizing what his confreres had only suggested, boldly asserted that Mrs. Saltus should have been buried alive on her husband's funeral pyre."

"In that," she concluded, "he spoke for his sex."

Irvin S. Cobb Tells Of World's Greatest Historical Events

"Now, 16. In the confusion of troops entering. No words expressive enough to convey our sense of deliverance. No mose entries made daily in my diary, which although it merely was kept to remind me in after years of what I had undergone in Oude, will perhaps be worth the while of relatives to read. On November 30th, the day after we left the scene of warfare, my baby was born, a girl. I was the last female to leave the faithful mud defenses that had guarded us, as I was the last to enter them. My exit was trying after the first day of release from imprisonment. I felt my troubles coming. No one with me. Seated in a buggy, suffered much pain. An officer of 9th Lancers, who, seeing my position, was moved by pity, came to my assistance, procured me a dooly and a dooly. In an hour the infant came medical man, Dr. Brydon. In great distress. Weeping bitterly when the order was given to strike tents and march across the river. This good creature again procured me into the world. Capt. Wilkinson, my friend in need, stood godfather. My miseries were not at an end. I had to travel in a country cart without springs, in a sitting position. What I suffered was only known to myself. On the other side of river my benefactor left me. My cup seemed full. My heart appeared to burst; his regiment was not to form a part of our escort any further. We parted. I got on somehow, living on dry hard biscuits and water. No one to help me with baby. Providence sustained me. Everybody was occupied with him and herself. So we reached Allahad where comfortable tents were provided for us, and good food. Ada was christened there. After some time we went to England.

IN an endeavor to rebuild the Brooklyn club, Wilbert Robinson is starting in the center of the ring—pitching ball. One of the most prominent acquisitions is Jim Elliott, a husky southpaw, who has won up a great record with Torre Haute in the Three-Eye League, winning 26 games and losing eight.

BERLIN LETTER

BERLIN, Feb. 13 (AP)—American motion pictures, although popular enough in this country to worry the German picture companies, did not prove to be the "best-sellers" of the German film world during 1924. This is shown by replies to a questionnaire sent out to six hundred picture theatre proprietors. The names of only three American and straighter streets for motor traffic.

PARIS LETTER

PARIS, Feb. 13 (AP)—Paris just now is having an annual poignant reminder of the great war and of her thousands of maimed veterans. "Priority cards" which entitle the holder to a seat and priority of entrance in all Paris conveyances must be renewed annually during the first weeks of February. Signs are now posted in all the subway, buses and trams warning the war-mutilated men that their 1924 cards are no longer valid and that they must present themselves at the prefecture of police with photographs and pension cards to receive new cards. Blanded veterans, who are allowed to ride free in all public conveyances, have a special day set aside for them so they will not be crowded.

Prince Carol of Rumania is said to be the mysterious personage for whom a villa near Nice on the road to Monte Carlo is being rented and made ready to receive new occupants. This villa was owned and occupied some years before the war by a Pasha with 14 legitimate wives. The gossip along the Riviera is that Premier Mussolini has caused a hint to be conveyed to the former heir to the throne of Rumania that it would be appreciated by the Italian government if he would not take up a permanent residence in Milan.

Never before has cost of living risen so high in France as along the Riviera this winter. The shopkeepers, hotel men and restaurant owners have found a very effective remedy against the depreciation of the franc by adopting the dollar and pound as bases of their prices. A chauffeur will not start his motor for less than ten francs and a drive of half a mile or so comes to forty or fifty francs. Once modest hotels now demand nothing less than 100 francs per day (about $1) for the simplest sort of a room. Ham or bacon and eggs may be had for 20 francs, about 25 cents for each egg.

PENSACOLA—The body of a man, washed ashore eight miles east of Santa Rosa, remained unidentified in a local undertaking mortuary. The man is being treated and made ready to have been considered, there are a number of pronounced anticlerical members of the academy, and an unanimous vote is required. As a result a movement to elect his Holiness, if not definitely abandoned, has at least been pigeonholed. The former Monsignor Ratti was proposed for membership in the faculty gathering some time during the war. "Not well enough known," declared the academicians. Let us wait and see if he produces a magnum opus that will entitle him to sit with us. However, before the French litterati could get around to his case again, Cardinal Ratti had ascended to the throne of St. Peter.

On January 7th, Graham Brothers announced a substantial reduction in the prices of their complete line of trucks and motor coaches. This was their third reduction in eight months. It reflected again Graham Brothers pledge and determination to pass on to the buyer the full economies of rapidly increasing production. The year 1925 was the greatest in Graham Brothers history. It saw them advance to World Leadership in the 1 1/2-ton truck field, and brought them the added distinction of being the largest exclusive truck manufacturers in the world. Adventures of the Twins

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"DEAR ME!" thought Nancy. "What am I going to do in this queer land, if I can't say what I want to? Every time I open my mouth, queer words come rushing out that I don't want to say at all!"

And Nick was thinking the same thing to himself that Nancy was thinking to herself. "We'll never find the blue cherry to take back to the Fairy Queen if this keeps on," he said over and over.

"Come with me," said the blue kangaroo in a business-like voice just then. "I am called Jumping Jupiter, but you may call me Jupu for short. I'll take you anywhere. But first of all I shall have to take you to Blue Whiskers himself to see if he won't restore your speech. I certainly do wish you had come in by the wicket. Then this wouldn't have happened. Where are your skates?"

"Skates!" the Twins tried to say. But Nancy found herself reciting "Bliss, wait a little longer, and Nick began to give the first rule for using capital letters."

"Oh, dear!" thought the Twins helplessly. "It is getting worse and worse. We'd better be going home at once if we're going to be so silly."

But Jupu seemed to understand their thoughts. "I know what you are trying to say," he said. "You're surprised at me for mentioning skates. Isn't that it?"

The Twins nodded as hard as they could, as much as to say, "That's it—that's exactly the truth."

"Everybody is," said Jupu. "But I'll tell you why you need skates. Nobody can keep up with a kangaroo when once he starts going. My jumps are twenty-five feet long. And that's pretty fast going, even for a little boy and girl with magic shoes. But I'm usually prepared."

So saying, Jupu reached into his coat pocket and pulled out two pairs of roller skates.

"Put these on," he said, "and then we'll go to see old Blue Whiskers and ask him if he can't take the twins out of your tongues."

The Twins sat down and strapped on the roller skates and then Jupu said it was time to start.

"I'll keep about two jumps ahead, so you don't skate on my tail," he said. "Just follow me, and if the bridge isn't down, we'll be at Blue Whiskers' house in ten minutes."

Away he started and Nancy and Nick followed. They could hear him muttering, "If only they had come in by the wicket! All this extra work because they didn't know enough to come in by the wicket! And I was just reading the next to the last chapter in 'The Tittering Titmouse,' too."

Suddenly he stopped and held up his little short arm.

"The bridge is down," he said. "It never rains but it pours. I think Blue Whiskers must be having a card party. When he runs short of tables, he always sends for the alligators."

"Alligators!" the Twins tried to say, but the minute Nancy opened her mouth she cried out, "Grand-mamma Tippy Toe, lost her needle and could not sew."

And Nick began to repeat "The rose is red."

"Oh!" they thought. "Oh, oh, we'll never get the blue cherry and we'll never get anything else, if this keeps on."

But Jupu remarked, "Don't worry, my friends. I know what you are trying to say. You are surprised that we should find alligators when we are looking for cherries. But do not be surprised or alarmed at anything you see in this land. It is the queerest land in the world."

"WHERE does Blue Whiskers live?" Nancy went to ask, but all her poor twisted tongue could say was, "Eeeny, meeny, miny, mo!"

Jupu, however, did not laugh.

"I understand you," said the kangaroo kindly. "You wish to ask about Blue Whiskers' castle. It's too bad you children cannot talk, but if we go about it right, your troubles will soon be over. Blue Whiskers himself is a wizard who can do anything. If you had only come in by the wicket gate, everything would have been different."

Nick tried to say, "But we didn't know anything about the wicket gate. Our magic green shoes just brought us here—pop!"

But all he could say was, "All around the market place the monkey chased the weasel—that's the way the money goes—pop! goes the weasel!"

But again Jupu understood. However, this time he didn't reply, but led the way through a woods toward a high hill, the Twins following on their skates.

"The next place we have to pass on the way to Blue Whiskers' castle," said he, "is the toll-gate. It's a queer toll-gate, but don't be astonished. Nothing will hurt you."

Suddenly the Twins saw a large blue bat sitting on a stone in the middle of the road. It was quite a large bat, about the size of a churn, and his ears looked like the ears of a very large and curious rabbit. His wings were folded and he sat very still, not moving a muscle, except that his eyes blinked like Fourth-of-July sparklers. By that you know that he was not only awake, but thinking rapidly.

"Oh, please!" he said with two snaps of his jaws.

"How much is it today?" asked Jupu.

"As no travelers have passed since two days before yesterday, I am very hungry," said the bat. "The toll today is one pint of flies, one pint of lady-bugs and six ounces of buzzers!"

The Twins wondered what buzzers were, but they were soon to know.

"Dear, dear!" muttered the kangaroo. "Things are getting more expensive every day. Even toll-gates! Couldn't you reduce it a little? I've got the mosquitoes all right, and the flies, but lady-bugs are scarce this year."

"I've taken quite a liking to lady-bugs," said the long-eared bat, "and if I can't have them, you can't pass."

So saying, he spread out his large wings on either side of him until the road was completely covered.

Suddenly Jupu had an idea. "I know of a new kind of bug," he said. "I know where there's a whole bag full. It's hanging on a tree and I can lift it down with my tail."

Away he bounded and came back soon with a round thing that looked like a gray paper bag turned upside down.

"Here you are," said he, laying the bag down in front of the bat's nose.

"Curious! Curious!" said the bat. "I never had bugs served up to me in a bag before."

As that a big wasp crawled slowly out of the hole in the gray paper bag.

"And before you could say 'boo' he had jumped onto the bat's nose and stung him."

"Ouch!" shrieked the bat, flapping his wings and flying away.

"Come along," said Jupu. "The toll-gate's gone. That's what happens to people who get too greedy."

NOW OPEN

HOLLYWOOD HOTEL

An Outstanding Addition to the Hotel Resources of Florida

THE new $3,000,000 Hollywood Hotel, Hollywood Beach, NOW OPEN, is the finest resort hotels in America, a contribution to the hotel resources of Florida—Seven stories, colorful architecture; fireproof, 500 rooms with the majority overlooking the Atlantic.

It stands supreme and regal among the buildings of a fine tribute to the vision and energy which has built sort and industrial city.

The Hollywood hotel, beautiful in architecture, splendor decorations, perfect in cuisine and service, is the best in hotel building—a structure of which all are proud.

The Hollywood hotel reflects the greatness of Hollywood Beach. It is a crowning improvement to the superb wood beach—with its great stretch of shore line—surf bathing, the new Hollywood Casino with its 800 the three miles of illuminated Broad Walk.

The Hollywood hotel is a distinctive addition to the list of hotels at Hollywood By-the-Sea, in which this season will be five—the Hollywood Hills Inn, the new Balairetel, the Park View and the Great Southern.

The Hollywood hotel is typical of the virility and growth that has been built into Hollywood By-the-Sea—the resort and industrial city of Florida—built to its present nation in four years.

Hollywood By-the-Sea is the place to live, play and grow. Its growth has been sensational. It is the city for home and home-ownership.

CONSTRUCTION ON ROAD NO. 3 TO START SOON

Chairman Of State Road Body Advises That State Is Now Ready To Advertise Bids When County Is Prepared

Hathaway Asks For Immediate Action

Condemnation Proceedings Against Property South Of Geneva Avenue May Begin

Immediate action is expected to start the construction of the new State Road No. 3 to Orlando following the recent conference between members of the State Road Department and E. A. Douglas, chairman of the committee appointed by the County Commissioners to investigate the status of the new route as changed by the county and the city of Sanford.

The route as proposed by the city and county has been accepted by the state and letter just received from Dr. F. H. Hathaway, chairman of the State Road Department is said to have encouraged the belief that work will get under way immediately. The letter, in part reads as follows:

"Mr. L. B. Thrasher, Davidson, Engineer, has presented to us a plan showing the proposed revision of routing of Road No. 3 south of Sanford and recommends to the Department its adoption. This is in the same that is shown on the plan forwarded to this office by Mr. Fred T. Williams, County and City Engineer. Mr. Thrasher advises the Department that this revision has the approval of your Honorable Board and also of the City Commission of Sanford.

"While the distance is a little greater, the alignment is not bad, and since it has been stated, considerable expense and trouble in securing right of way. The Department is glad to accept this revision. Your Board and the City Commission may consider the location as finally determined and proceed at once to secure all rights of way along same.

"As soon as the two Boards shall have secured deeds to a continuous right of way from Sanford to the Orange County line, the Department will be ready to advertise for bids for the construction of this important road. It may become necessary to condemn the land immediately south of Geneva Avenue to a width of about 600 feet. If this situation should arise I strongly recommend that you institute condemnation proceedings just as soon as you find this to be necessary, in order that no time may be lost in getting this work under way.

Chapman Loses His U. S. Court Appeal

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Gerald Chapman, convicted bandit and murderer, today lost his appeal to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals for a writ of habeas corpus. The appellate court confirmed the order of Federal Judge Thomas of Connecticut in dismissing Chapman's application for the writ.

Chapman, under sentence to hang on Mar. 3, for the murder of a British Conna, policeman, sought by the highest court proceedings to be returned to Atlanta penitentiary from which he escaped after serving only a short part of his 25-year sentence for the million dollar mail robbery in New York City.

U. S. AND MEXICO TO MAKE WAR ON VICE CONDITIONS

Petret Tragedy Causes Both Countries To Take Action To Clean Out Tin Joints, State Department Active

TIA JUANA, Mex., Feb. 15.—(AP)—On two sides of the international boundary moves are under way against the tin joints which have brought the spotlight by the Petret tragedy, which resulted in murder charges being pressed in Mexico court against several men, held in connection with the slaying of Audrey and Clyde Petret. If found guilty, the prosecution will ask that the seven men be deported to their own countries.

In San Diego, Maj. John L. Bacon has called a public meeting for this morning at which plans are being made to clean up the tin joints in the border town conditions are to be discussed. The question of closing the border to entry except by passport is expected to come before this meeting.

The United States State Department has just received information regarding the resignation of the Petret case yesterday, when H. H. Bacon, Mexican consul in Mexico, moved to Tia Juana to take over the case in connection with the affair. Information is being furnished to charge Luis Andrade, proprietor of the Oakland Bar, Refugio L. Alvarez, bartender, Francisco Navarro and Salvo Encinosa, Rivera and Juan Y. Sandoz, the latter hotel owner, with attacking Petret. The seven are all accused of responsibility for the deaths in the Petret family.

COMMITTEE TO BEGIN WORK ON TAX REVISION

Problem Of Changing Act To Conform To Wishes Of Two Houses And Treasury Facing Joint Committee

Senate Increase May Be Dropped From Bill

Chairman Green Says Other Bills Are Jeopardized If Huge Slash Is Permitted

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—(AP)—The problem of revising the tax reduction bill so as to meet the approval of the House, Senate and Treasury today confronted the two chambers to straighten out points of differences.

Passed by the Senate, the bill provides for reduction by $180,000,000 or more than $225,000,000 more than Secretary Mellon believed the condition of the treasury will permit this year. A considerable portion of the increase appears to be doomed by the attitude of House leaders who would adhere to their own figures.

Chairman Green of the Ways and Means committee, heading the House conference, has declared that any increase over the $230,000,000 reduction proposed by the House not only threatened a treasury deficit but also jeopardized enactment of several pending appropriations, including the House bill.

Mr. Green also declared that while government actual estimates for 1926 are $1,456,201,000, his actual reduction would amount to $180,000,000 annually, where the bill goes fully into effect in later years.

The House conferees also have made or less support from the three Republican representatives of the Senate, inasmuch as the major increases in reductions voted by the Senate were made on the basis of the estimates of the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

Palm Beach Society Awaits Count Salm's Next Act After Seeing Son For First Time

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 15.—(AP)—Still at large over the thrill it got yesterday when Count Ludwig Salm Von Hoegstraten met his son, Peter Constantine, for the first time in Palm Beach society awaited the next bombshell, which was promised today in the form of statements from the Count and H. H. Rogers, father of the Countess.

The thrill came when the Count attempted to banish the private detective unless Blumenthal came along with the nurse and young Peter. The sleuth, Genus Gotham, was not of the banishing type, and the Austrian's glare failed to wither him. He told the Count he was not at all tickled to let him see the baby in his room anyway, so would they all come outside in the garden.

The Count waved his papers, which had been signed by Justice O'Malley of New York and demanded his rights. The detective insisted on the garden or the beach. Baby Peter, honestly scared, started to cry. His godmother, the Dowager Countess, had hysterics.

The hullabaloo was heard all through the corridors of the exclusive Poinciana and the gathered crowd of playgoers and onlookers gathered near the party, after which they went to a restaurant for a meal.

Count's House Plundered VIENNA, Feb. 15.—(AP)—The town house of Count Ludwig Salm Hoegstraten, husband of the former Millicent Rogers, has been plundered by thieves, it was reported today. Chests of silver and paintings were among the objects taken.

MINE BLAST AT BELLAIRE, O., IS FATAL TO ONE

Nineteen Others Are Injured In Early Morning Explosion; 600 Escape Unhurt

Shaft To Reopen For Work Tuesday

Victim Is Drowned When He Falls Face Downward In Puddle

BELLAIRE, O., Feb. 15.—(AP)—One miner was killed, 19 others injured, one perhaps fatally, at the Powhatan mine 15 miles south of here this morning. Six hundred other men in the mine escaped uninjured.

The mine was taken to a Ballou hospital, while the other miners were sent to their homes. The miners engaged in working further in the main shaft, which was closed through the main shaft within three hours after the explosion.

By a strange fate the miner killed was drowned. The blast threw him into the shaft and he landed face downward in a puddle of water. He has not been identified.

The mine had been closed down since Friday. It reopened this morning. The mine is owned by the Powhatan Mining Co. It formerly was the property of the Cleveland and Western Coal Co., but changed hands recently.

HOUSE COMMITTEE ASKED TO ABOLISH THE U.S. TARIFF COMMISSION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—(AP)—A demand for abolition of the tariff commission was made to the House Appropriations Committee during its consideration of fiscal funds for that body. It was disclosed today in published reports of the committee.

The demand was made in behalf of the National Board of Farm Organizations by its secretary, Chas. W. Holman. He presented a resolution adopted by the farm organizations at a recent meeting charging the commission with guilty of "unwarranted delay in arriving at decisions, prejudicial treatment of parties appearing before it" and attacking its secret hearings as having "created a situation approximating closely to a public scandal."

DAYTON, O., HAS LARGE BLAZE THIS MORNING

DAYTON, Ohio, Feb. 15.—(AP)—Loss estimated at $750,000 was caused by fire this morning, which for a time threatened the heart of the business district. The fire broke out in the National Meat Market, spreading rapidly to the Home Store Building, a department store.

Officials of the store estimated the damage of the Home Store at $500,000 while that of the American Building, 14 story office structure, was placed at $100,000.

NEGRO ACCUSED OF SHOOTING ROBINSON IS STILL AT LARGE

CHARLES EDWARDS, negro, who early last night shot and seriously wounded Charles Robinson and Asia Chever, two of his companions in a crap game and drinking festival near Benson Springs, is still at large, according to Sheriff C. M. Hard, under whose direction an extensive search is being conducted for the accused man.

The shooting took place following an altercation over the favor of "lady luck" in the form of dice, and may result in one fatality owing to the serious condition of Robinson who was shot through the abdomen. An operation was performed on Robinson at the Fernside Hospital in an unsuccessful attempt to locate the bullet.

Fort Myers Yacht Destroyed By Fire

FORT MYERS, Fla., Feb. 15.—(AP)—A mass of twisted metal and charred wood projecting a few feet above the surface of the Chesapeake river, mark the site where the yacht Astor, owned by Paul C. Chalifer, of Madison, sank yesterday after a three-hour voyage.

The fire was discovered at 1 o'clock Sunday morning. The flames proved quick and other yachts towed to the center of the river.
