Growers not sweet on plan

FORT LAUDERDALE — Sugar cane growers have gone to court to block Florida Power & Light Co. from stringing 500,000-volt power lines through their fields west of U.S. 27 in Broward and Palm Beach counties. The plan, a compromise reached after stiff opposition to the first two proposed routes, appeared free of obstacles when Gov. Bob Martinez and the Florida Cabinet approved it in April.

However, the Florida Sugar Cane League last week filed a notice that it planned to appeal the decision to the 1st District Court of Appeal in Tallahassee, FPL spokesman Gary Mehalik said. Sugar cane growers said the lines would make it difficult for planes to spray crops.

Mehalik said the opposition would not stop FPL from buying the land it needs in Broward County, where several western cities agreed to the plan, which keeps the wires away from residential areas.

But it could create yet another hurdle for the plan in Palm Beach and Martin counties, where most of the fields in the wires' path are located.

Station reopens after explosion

LONGWOOD — The Texaco gasoline station scene of a 4:30 p.m. Wednesday pump explosion at the corner of U.S. Highway 17-92 at State Road 434, Longwood, was back in business this morning, Seminole County sheriff's deputies said.

The explosion came after James Maples, 31, apparently suffered a seizure as he drove south on the highway and his car careened into a gas pump. The pump exploded, and set Maples Toyota station wagon afire. Lt. Ed Fagan, who witnessed the accident, said.

Clerk Georgietta Garth inside the station heard the explosion and shut off the gas flow to the pumps. She ran outside with a fire extinguisher and found two bystanders pulling Maples from his car, Fagan said. Maples wasn't burned and the fire was brought under control by firefighters. The emergency created a traffic delay of about 40 minutes as drivers detoured from State Road 434, through parking lots to avoid the gas tanks, Fagan said. Traffic on U.S. Highway 17-92 continued to flow.

PALATKA — Watering your lawn could mean a $50 fine or criminal charges under emergency mandatory water restrictions that went into effect at midnight today.

The director of the St. Johns Water Management District announced the emergency mandatory watering restrictions for Seminole County yesterday.

Record low well levels, increased water usage and low rainfall forced district executive director Henry Dean to sign the emergency order Thursday, district officials said. Use of one of the five public wells in Oviedo was stopped this month because the increased pumping drew too much saltwater into the fresh water in the well.

Local theater closes its doors

CASSELBERRY — Michael J. Fox won't come back from the future, and Morgan Freeman won't be driving Miss Daisy across the screens of the Seminole Plaza theaters in Casselberry any more.

The twin screen theater, on highway 17-92 at State Road 436 closed its doors and ceased operation on May 24 after several decades of movie showing.

Both Seminole Plaza theater manager Verne Bispeck and assistant manager Raymond Erickson have moved into similar positions at the Lake Mary Centre 8 theater, which lit up its eight screens the following day, May 25.

The Seminole Plaza and Lake Mary theaters are both General Cinema Theaters.

Bispeck switched his base of operations from Casselberry to Lake Mary in late April, to help in preparation for the latter's opening. Erickson, who then became manager at Seminole Plaza twin theaters, made the move following the Casselberry closing night.

Erickson said the Plaza theater closing was "brought on by the number of theaters popping up in northern Seminole County."

In addition to the Lake Mary Centre 8, General Cinema has also opened the Altamonte 8, at the Renaissance Centre, on State Road 436 east of Interstate 4.

Lake Mary calls special meeting to discuss power line controversy

By NICK PFEIFAU

LAKE MARY — The city commission tonight will hold a special meeting to discuss the city's legal position in demanding that Florida Power Corporation bury power lines along Lake Mary Boulevard.

"We plan to present the facts on our present legal course of action in this matter, how we will go about it, and what kind of suit it will be," city attorney Ned Julian said.

Assisting Julian in the presentation will be Lonnie Groot, Seminole County assistant attorney, and Davison Dunlap Jr., an outside counsel from Tallahassee.

Seminole County commissioners previously voted to support Lake Mary's effort to force Florida Power Corporation to bury the power lines along Lake Mary Boulevard when the road is widened, a construction project that was to have already begun. The power line burial was included in the "gateway" beautification project adopted by both Lake Mary and the county last year, and involves the area from Interstate 4 to Country Club Road.

FPC representatives have said the city, should pay the estimated $1.5 million cost of power line burial, just as private customers pay for burial on their property. At one

Budget conferees have to start all over after governor objects to tax increases

By MICHAEL MOLINE

TALLAHASSEE — House and Senate conferees agreed to a couple of compromises to their $805-million tax package Wednesday evening to save the bill from the governor's veto and prevent the state from going into debt.

The conferees thought they had completed their job late Tuesday night, but resumed their search Wednesday afternoon for a palatable package of new taxes and fees to finance the state's $26.4-billion budget after Gov. Bob Martinez made it clear that parts of the compromise tax plan were unacceptable.

Included in that package were higher taxes on cigarettes, alcoholic beverages sold in bars and soft drinks. Martinez had remained silent on the negotiations until Wednesday morning when he announced that he objects to increased taxes on soda pop and beer.

"We're sort of running into unfortunate obstacles and running out of other options," House Speaker Tom Gustafson, D-Fort Lauderdale, said at a meeting with conferees Wednesday afternoon in the Senate President's crowded

TALLAHASSEE — Schoolchildren would be given the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth about even some of the seamier aspects of American history under an education reform bill approved 37-0 Wednesday by the Senate.

The legislation, SB 1872, by Sen. Curtis Peterson, D-Lake Land, directs the Department of Education to work with experts in various academic fields to develop model curricula for the schools.

Peterson said the bill is an assault on the deadly dull and "dumbed-down" course work in various subject areas, including history, English, mathematics and geography.

History courses, he cited as one example, should "tell you the history of this country, with the bad things and the good things up to, not gloss over things."

The bill goes to the House. In other action Wednesday, in the Legislature.

Search on for animal control chief

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Seminole County has begun a national search to find a new official for the Animal Control Division to replace Ron Lefebvre, who resigned this month amid criticism of his management performance.

County public safety director Gary Kaiser said the search may take several months to find a person qualified for the position.

"It may take several months, but I'm willing to wait that long to find the right kind of individual," Kaiser said. "I'm looking for significant experience in this kind of business, someone who has controlled a progressive operation similar to ours."

Until a new official is hired, Kaiser has placed Frank Kirk in control of the department. Kirk is manager of the county Emergency Medical Services Division. Kaiser said the transition has so far been running smoothly, although a few "hiccups" have yet to be resolved.

Kaiser fired Lefebvre a month following a critical review on Lefebvre's past year as animal control official, the head of the division. Lefebvre answered to Kaiser since last December, when acting county manager Bob McMillan placed the Animal Control Division under the Public Safety Department.

Kaiser criticized Lefebvre for not promptly following orders and failing to establish written management procedures for the department. Lefebvre appealed, saying he had accomplished most of the objectives established by Kaiser as best he could under county limitations.

Lefebvre wrote in his appeal division morale had declined since Animal Control was placed under Public Safety in December. He said the constant supervision by Public Safety officials and Kaiser's "paramilitary style" led the animal control employees to feel uneasy and insecure.

When acting county manager Bob McMillan upheld Kaiser's evaluation, Lefebvre resigned May 11.

Feds probe newspaper ad network

United Press International

TAMPA — A network formed by 19 Florida newspapers, including the Orlando Sentinel, to make it easier for large companies to buy advertisements is under investigation by federal officials for possible price fixing.

The Justice Department sent letters to The Tampa Tribune, The Miami Herald and the St. Petersburg Times, as well as the Sentinel and other papers, demanding that records of their dealings with Florida Newspaper Advertising Network Inc. be released.

Network President Alfred E. Corey Jr., who is also advertising director of the Times, said the letters that arrived Tuesday came as a surprise because no ads have yet been sold, and the groups still being organized.

The request was filed in connection with an antitrust investigation of possible price fixing and market allocation in the sale of print advertising in Florida, the letter said.

Officials with the Justice Department would not comment on the investigation.

Network members said they were unsure why or how the investigation started.

Similar newspaper networks exist in North Carolina and northern California, Corey said.

SANFORD — Central Florida Zoological Park recently opened 180 feet of pine wood walkway that will zigzag for anywhere from 1,500 feet to 2,000 feet through the zoo's different exhibits, zoo officials said.

Ed Posey, director of the zoo, said the walkway, complete with picnic areas and observation decks, is tentatively scheduled to be completed by mid-1991 at a cost of about $30,000.

The latest fundraising effort was announced at the grand opening of a Handy Way Food Store beside the zoo on Lake Monroe. Starting Friday, the store will have a dumpster for paper products on its lot. All money earned from recycling the paper will be given to the zoo, said Ed Thomas, governmental affairs director for Handy Way parent company Miller Enterprises.

To bolster its construction and expansion projects, the zoo recently requested 50 percent of revenues garnered from the Seminole County tourism development tax, but received a recommendation for only its allotted 25 percent.

Complaints bring bus rerouting

By J. BRADLEY DILLING
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Tri County Transit re-established a stop at Central Florida Regional Hospital Wednesday after having eliminated a stop at the hospital because the intersections it had to cross to get there were too dangerous.

The rerouting comes after residents complained to the city about the elimination of the hospital stop.

Sanford Police Chief Steve Harriett said he approached City Manager Frank Eason on the matter after officers talked to about 50 or 60 residents who complained about the elimination.

"We sort of acted as a liaison between the people and the city," Harriett said. "It was mostly our senior citizens in Bram Towers and Redding Gardens, who use the hospital a lot."

Leo Grawczewicz, manager of transportation for Tri County Transit, said he had heard Sanford police received about 30 complaints, but that the number of people using the hospital stop was far less.

"We have what we call a COA, a comprehensive operations analysis, where we figure how many people we had at a particular stop. Our records show that we never had any more than nine people and it was usually more like five or six," he said.

Formerly, buses had to cross State Road 16 on Jessamine and Mangrove Avenues when they took people to a stop at the hospital. This took them across four lanes of traffic each way, the two lanes of State Road 16 and the two lanes of First Street.

But speeders are common on First Street and SR 16, and this made for dangerous crossings, especially at the unlighted intersection of First Street and city office.

"I think the posted speed limit out there is 45 mph," said City Manager Frank Eason. "But you can go out there almost any day and see people shooting by at 40 or 45 or even 60."

"We almost had a head-on collision a couple of days before we took that route out," said Grawczewicz.

The buses will make one stop in front of the hospital instead of the two stops that it had at the corners of First Street and Holly Avenue and First Street and Poplar Avenue.

Coming from Orlando, the buses will turn right from Jessamine onto First Street then turn left onto Mangrove, taking them to the lake where they will proceed eastward on Seminole Boulevard. From there, they will turn right onto French Avenue from which they will turn left onto First Street to resume its usual route through downtown.

Eason sent a letter to Tri County Transit noting the inconvenience of the stops. Eason said he sent the letter after consulting with Harriett and Commissioner Jennifer Byler.

Local AARP members to attend national meeting

ORLANDO — Advice on staying physically and mentally healthy will be provided by a number of noted speakers at a series of free sessions scheduled as part of the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) 1990 Biennial Convention to be held June 12 through 14 at Orlando's Orange County Convention Civic Center.

Locally, president Betty J. Snyder will represent Sanford Chapter 1977 at the convention and report on it at the next local chapter meeting, July 12, in the Senior Center wing of the Sanford Civic Center.

Snyder said the keynote address by TV commentator Eric Sevareid will be given at 9 a.m. on the opening day of the convention. From there, the meeting will break up into six separate groups, each to hear a different speaker on subjects that range from sexuality memory changes and depression to special health concerns of men and women.

Because of Florida's large 50-plus population, officials are predicting that this could be one of the state's largest conventions. There are 2.3 million AARP members in Florida, more than half of all state residents over 50. In Sanford, present membership numbers about 40 persons.

Speakers to be heard during the more than 40 sessions include: "The 1990 Convention: The Facts," by Robert J. Kelly, AARP's national president; "The Future of Aging," by Dr. Robert M. Butler, AARP's former president; "The Future of Aging," by Dr. Robert M. Butler, AARP's former president; "The Future of Aging," by Dr. Robert M. Butler, AARP's former president.

Budget-busting farm bill

In 1985, with the agricultural economy in shambles and mountains of surplus crops piling up in government warehouses, Congress set a new direction for farm policy. Instead of putting a floor under grain prices, as before, Congress agreed to provide income supports for farmers who would reduce their production. Thus, what had once been a program to guarantee stable prices for 14 agricultural commodities became a mechanism to directly underwrite the income of farmers.

Now, with the farm bill up for reauthorization, the key questions before Congress are which farmers deserve to receive income supplements and at what cost to taxpayers.

The preliminary answers from the agriculture subcommittees, dominated by farm-state lawmakers, are unsurprising: They have voted to raise target prices for several of the major grain crops. That would reverse the trend of the expiring farm bill, which set target prices on a gradual downward slope and had reduced federal farm subsidies from $25.8 billion in 1986 to an estimated $7.5 billion this year. According to Agriculture Secretary Clayton Yeutter, the proposed expansion of subsidies would increase the cost of the farm program by at least $25 billion over the next five years, putting the farm bill well above the spending levels set by the budget committees.

Such generosity can't be justified by what's happening in the farm economy. Agriculture has recovered well from the farm bust of the mid-1980s. Real net farm income has soared back to the levels of the prosperous 1970s. Farmland prices are rising. Farm exports reached $40 billion last year, the highest figure since 1980, and the disappearance of the huge commodity surpluses of the last decade has stabilized prices.

That gives Congress the opportunity to do what it couldn't in the last farm bill: begin weaning agriculture away from addictive subsidies. The current level of prices and the government's more vigorous export subsidy program disguise the fact that there are still too many marginal U.S. farm operations whose production can be sold internationally only when the taxpayers chip in to sweeten the deal. For both budget and policy reasons, the farm bill ought to keep target prices on a gradual downward path, sending farmers the signal that they will eventually have to live by the market, not by handouts.

Unfortunately, Congress seems in no mood to anger farmers in an election year. If there is movement in the direction of curbing subsidies, it will come from a bipartisan group of self-described "city boys" in the House. Noting that the farm program has evolved into something very much like welfare, this group, led by Reps. Charles Schumer and Dick Armey, has proposed to withhold direct income supplements from farmers with adjusted gross incomes over $100,000 or gross receipts of more than $500,000. By targeting aid to farmers who really need the help, Congress could save up to $1 billion a year. With the nation facing the prospect of severe spending cuts or higher taxes to control the deficit, lawmakers can't justify doing less to bring the farm bill back to budget reality.

Drug dealers just say no to taxes

ST. PAUL, Minn. — Controlling if not eliminating narcotics abuse is surely an important national policy goal. But the "war on drugs" has its bizarre aspects — including the absurd taxation requirements imposed upon dealers in many states.

The Minnesota Department of Revenue, for example, claims to be aggressively enforcing a 1988 law that requires narcotic traffickers to place tax stamps on all drugs produced, transported, possessed or sold anywhere in the state.

Similar statutes supposedly are being actively implemented in Texas, Arizona and Florida. The two-inch-square stamps required by a 1989 state law to be placed on all containers of drugs sold in Texas, for example, carry a dire warning that drug use leads only to death and taxes.

A $3,500 stamp, to be affixed to a kilogram of marijuana, carries an illustration of the Grim Reaper. A $100,000 stamp, to be placed on 500 grams of heroin or cocaine, is dominated by a drawing of a skull and crossbones.

Variations of those laws have been enacted but are not being enforced in Maine, Rhode Island, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, New Mexico, California, Nevada, Utah, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, North Dakota, Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois and Kansas.

The spread of those statutes undoubtedly reflects their superficial appeal at a time when many people are willing to do almost anything to stem the flow of illegal drugs — including, as some civil libertarians note, abrogating constitutional rights.

But the laws' popularity bears no relationship to their efficacy, as the experience in Minnesota illustrates.

As in other states, placing a tax stamp on a container of drugs does not make its sale legal but protects the seller from prosecution on charges of tax evasion — a felony that carries a maximum penalty of seven years in prison.

In the first two years of the program, slightly more than $2,000 worth of drug tax stamps were bought from the Department of Revenue. Since then, however, not a single stamp has been purchased. Those familiar with the program — including officials of the department — are convinced that virtually all of the sales were made to stamp collectors, not drug dealers.

There is no record of law enforcement officers anywhere in the state ever discovering tax stamps on narcotics during drug raids, arrests and seizures. But there also has never been a prosecution initiated for failure to comply with the tax stamp law.

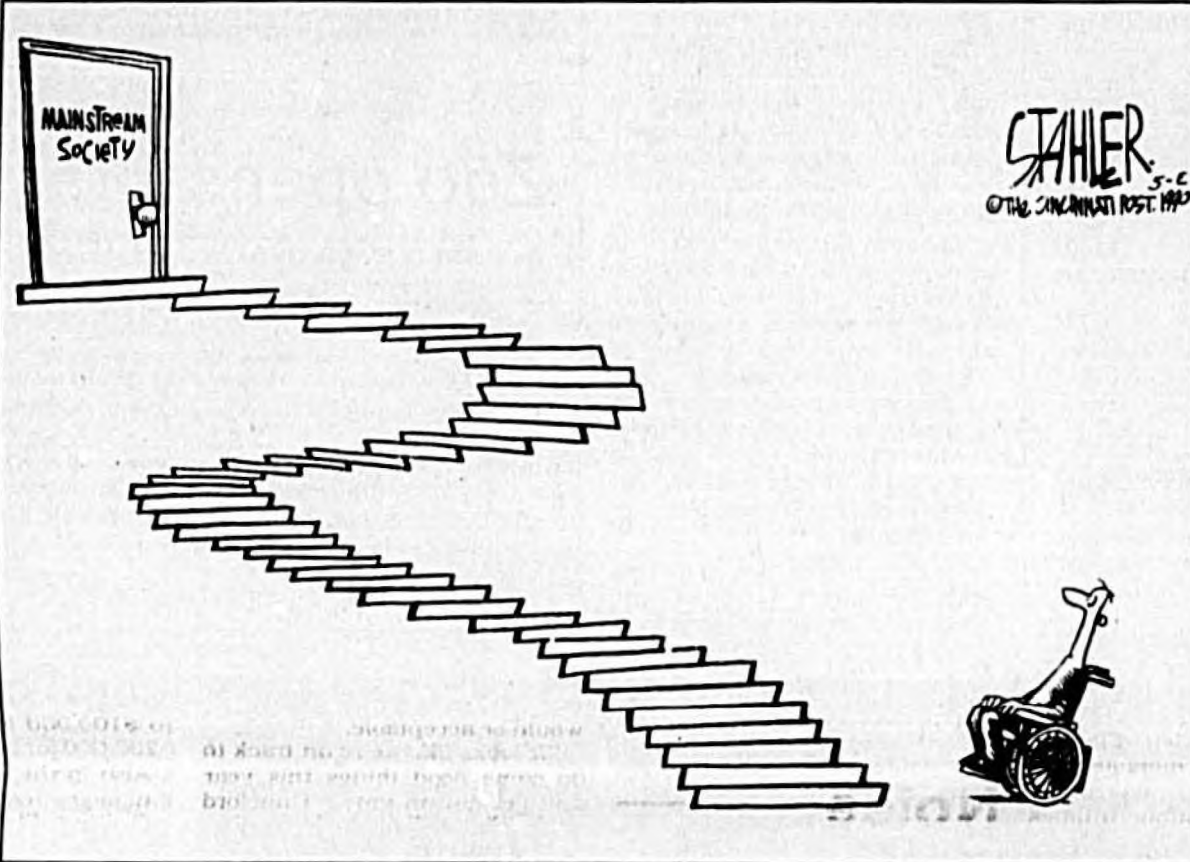

Proponents of the ill-conceived tax stamp approach to drug enforcement invariably cite the federal government's successful prosecution of notorious gangster Al Capone on tax-evasion charges in the 1930s.

That case was initiated after law officers failed to gather sufficient evidence to charge Capone with bootlegging, gambling, prostitution, murders of other mobsters, bribery of public officials or other wanton lawlessness.

Tax stamps, their defenders argue, could play a similar role, providing prosecutors with the legal case they need to convict drug dealers too lucky or shrewd to be charged with more conventional crimes.

Virtually all of the sales were made to stamp collectors, not drug dealers.

GEORGE F. WILL

Summit raises undue alarm

WASHINGTON — As the summit approaches, some conservatives are in a tizzy of surprise and alarm about the conduct of the Bush administration, particularly concerning arms control. The alarm probably is disproportionate and the surprise certainly is surprising. What, by now, do they expect?

They are dismayed that we are having yet another "arms-control summit," one focused on strategic arms and, worst of all, one resulting in an agreement made possible by a pattern of unnecessary American concessions. But the concessions may not matter, and the fact that this summit is an extension of an old script is not startling.

Secretary of State Baker rose to his present eminence because he is a gifted deal-maker in domestic politics. He is not steeped in any of the disciplines (history, for one; geopolitics for another) of diplomacy. His boss is the recycling President, re-using old ideas (as with Eisenhower's "Open Skies," dusted off in 1989). Hence another summit at which success is measured in agreements signed. These will include an unverifiable agreement whereby the Soviet Union agrees to cut the size of, without revealing the size of, its poison-gas stocks.

There is an interesting contradiction at the heart of this preoccupation with arms control. The preoccupation intensifies this weary democracy's understandably intense desire to be done with armed vigilance. The codification of the preoccupation in agreements that become the sacraments of summits both ratifies and deepens the desire of this legalistic nation to believe that history, is, if not over, certainly far away on a long holiday.

The arms-control "process," which has become an end in itself for the clerisy that finds job security in it, is lubricated by U.S. concessions of remarkable scale, made from a position of strength unprecedented in the arms-control era (since 1969). These concessions are justified by the idea (more recycling) that the Soviet leader is menaced by sinister figures who might reverse Soviet policies, and arms agreements can make the leader's position measurably less precarious.

However, if Soviet reforms are so significant and also so reversible (a contradiction within the contradiction), today's agreements are imprudent. And if Soviet changes are irreversible, the agreements do not deserve the significance invested in them by the Bush administration, which justifies its behavior (including the betrayal of Lithuania) by the supposed need to "lock in" the Soviet Union to a presumably irreversible path.

(Question: Suppose a dangerous Soviet leader arises, bent on reviving the Soviet Union's hegemonic ambitions. Will he read today's arms-control agreements and exclaim, "Dad! I'm locked in"? If so, why call him dangerous?)

The truth, which conservatives have tirelessly taught, is that no nation's security has ever been measurably, let alone lastingly, enhanced, let alone guaranteed, by arms control. The permanent paradox of arms control is that it is either impossible or unimportant.

If the Soviet Union has abandoned imperialism, arms control does not matter. If the Soviet Union has not, or becomes a recidivist, arms control will be what it has been since 1969. It will be an arena of deadly competition, in which the Soviet side (by patience made possible by the irrelevance of public opinion) achieves agreements that bend weapons competition in ways advantageous to it.

Perhaps the administration really subscribes to the theory of arms-control irrelevance. That would explain the cavalier concessions and frivolity regarding facts. In a testy reply to a senator's question about U.S. abandonment of Lithuania, Baker said Lithuania is less important than "locking in" agreements that will result in destruction of 40,000 Soviet tanks and "50 percent of their heavy strategic missiles which are targeted on United States cities."

Now, never mind that the supposedly strapped Gorbachev continues to spend 25 percent of Soviet GNP on the military, buying, among much else, more tanks and artillery since 1965 than are possessed by the British, West German and French armies — combined. But Richard Perle notes that fewer than 20,000 tanks are slated for destruction under the agreements and that the heavy missiles matter, not because they are targeted at cities (they are not) but because they are first-strike weapons targeted against U.S. retaliatory forces.

Perle, writing in U.S. News & World Report, tartly says that our chief negotiator "is off by a hundred percent on the number of tanks to be destroyed, and has failed to comprehend the most basic facts about the nature and significance of Soviet strategic missiles. A channel-hopping couch potato who stopped on C-SPAN once in a while would surely know better."

Baker rose to his present eminence because he is a gifted deal-maker.

Reserve fleet not ready to set sail

WASHINGTON — Sometimes government agencies are like athletes on steroids. They pump up their figures to create an illusion of strength.

Federal Maritime Administration officials would like you to think that their agency is the bureaucratic equivalent of Arnold Schwarzenegger. The agency, which keeps a fleet of reserve ships for the Navy to use in the event of war, has hundreds of those ships ready to sail.

In reality, a large number of the backup ships are rustbuckets that have no place in the inventory of combat-ready vessels. The Maritime Administration, an agency within the Transportation Department, oversees a fleet of 317 reserve ships docked at various ports throughout the country. For years, the Defense Department and congressional investigators have privately criticized the program. They say that if the United States was pulled into a full-scale war, many of the reserve boats would need major repairs to sail.

Maritime Administration officials have allowed many of the ships to rust at anchor. One old ship was so neglected, that grass grew on the wooden deck. Congressional investigators told our associate Scott Sleck that at least 120 of the ships have outlived their usefulness and should be scrapped.

This leads to another problem. When the Maritime Administration finally has the sense to scrap a ship, it can't do that job right either. Instead of selling the ships to American scrap merchants, the government sinks them or sells them to foreign companies, particularly in Japan and Taiwan.

American scrap companies complain they can't get enough government business, but the Maritime Administration says no American companies bid on the scrap contracts. The American companies counter that claim, saying that they know the bidding is futile because foreign companies get the contracts because they pay more, even if it means a loss of American jobs.

The reserve program is now the target of a congressional probe led by Rep. William Broomfield, R-Mich. He has scheduled a hearing on the problem for June 4. Broomfield thinks the fleet management is troublesome in a time when the Pentagon is trying to cut back on perfectly good weaponry because of the optimistic outlook for world peace.

We first reported on the fleet fiasco last summer when we learned that some old war ships were being used for Navy target practice, or being sunk to form artificial reefs, before they were stripped of their valuables. Radar, communications devices, kitchen equipment and other machinery were being sent to Davy Jones' Locker without so much as a fare-thee-well. Pentagon investigators estimated the loss at $17 million. The Navy has started a pilot program to strip the ships. But the Defense Department Inspector General's Office now thinks another $40 million will be deep-sixed with the scheduled sinking of 64 old ships under Maritime Administration control.

A Maritime Administration spokesman said it is more costly to strip the ships than sink them untouched. When the agency isn't sinking ships that should be stripped and keeping ships that should be scrapped, it makes bad trades for more ships. One source told us that the agency often acquires ships that have already been slated for the scrap heap by their owners. In 1988, the agency traded a $7.2 million aircraft carrier for a $2.1 million cargo ship.

A large number of the backup ships are rustbuckets that have no place in the inventory.

AAA: State's highest gas prices on turnpike, I-95

United Press International

HEATHROW — Gasoline stations along Florida's Turnpike charge significantly higher prices for fuel than the statewide average, a survey released Wednesday by the state American Automobile Association shows.

The survey by the AAA Clubs of Florida also found that gas prices at stations along Interstate 95 are marginally higher than the statewide average.

Consumers who pumped their own regular unleaded gas at seven service plazas along Florida's Turnpike from Dade County to Orange County typically paid 9.3 cents a gallon more in May than the average statewide price, the survey found.

The full-service price for the same gasoline on the turnpike cost 13.3 cents more than the statewide average, the AAA said.

Motorists who bought better grades of gasoline along the turnpike paid similar premiums.

Self-service prices along the turnpike averaged $1.125 a gallon for regular unleaded, $1.245 for mid-grade unleaded and $1.336 for premium unleaded.

Full-service prices were $1.56 a gallon for regular unleaded, $1.635 for mid-grade and $1.708 for premium unleaded.

The statewide average in May for self-service regular unleaded was $1.032, while the average for full-service regular unleaded was $1.427, the AAA said.

Along Interstate 95, the AAA found that prices within a mile radius of exits were slightly higher than the state average — about 0.9 cents a gallon for self-service grades and 2.8 cents for full-service.

The AAA conducted the survey in response to consumer complaints, said Bill Dodd, director of public and government affairs for AAA of Florida.

"We have actually never run a survey like this before," Dodd said. "We've had a lot of concern in recent months by people traveling through the state (who) have contended that the prices along the major highways were very high."

The turnpike is home to full-service stations that offer auto repair and carry name-brand gasoline, which generally costs more than fuel from independent dealers, Dodd said.

The AAA hopes the survey will prompt station operators along the turnpike and parts of I-95 to "look into taking steps to find ways to keep prices lower," Dodd said.

(Time, FPC suggested the city add an extra $10 to area residents' electric bills to cover the cost of burying the lines. FPC representatives have said the city, just as private customers, should be required to pay for the burial.

When that was suggested, Mayor Dick Fess said, "I asked them how long the special charge would remain on electric bills; they said forever, and I told them to forget it."

Julian said he has found "several cases of a similar nature, based on the broad powers given to cities by the state, regarding land use, that appear to support our efforts." He predicted that while the suit may begin in Seminole County, it could go as far as the Florida Supreme Court.

The commission will meet at 7 p.m. in the commission chambers, 158 N. County Club Road.

Evangelist contracts to buy PTL

United Press International

COLUMBIA, S.C. — An evangelist who was born Jewish and became a born-again Christian has signed a $52 million contract to buy imprisoned television preacher Jim Bakker's PTL empire.

California evangelist Morris Cerullo, who appeared several times on the old "Jim and Tammy Show," Wednesday signed a contract to buy all of PTL's assets, including its hotels, television studios, satellite network and waterslide.

PTL trustee Dennis Shedd was scheduled to go to the U.S. Bankruptcy Court Thursday morning to recommend that the ministry's satellite network, which beams 24-hour-a-day Christian programming, be sold to Oklahoma evangelist Oral Roberts.

Roberts had bid $6 million for the network, but Shedd wanted to sell the PTL assets intact and planned to go to court to recomment the Cerullo offer instead.

Cerullo, 58, has said he was raised in an Orthodox Jewish orphanage in New Jersey but later became a born-again Christian. He began what charismatics call a "healing ministry" in 1956.

Cerullo wired $7 million into an escrow account Wednesday, agreeing to pay that sum for the cable network in the first phase of his purchase, which could close as early as August.

But Cerullo, head of the San Diego-based Worldwide Evangelism Inc., is just one of a series of prospective purchasers who have offered megabucks for PTL's Christian retreat that straddles the North Carolina-South Carolina state line.

The ministry was taken into bankruptcy court three years ago by Moral Majority founder Jerry Falwell, who promised to take care of Bakker's evangelical enterprise while he put to rest a scandal over his one-time fling with Jessica Hahn.

Instead Falwell took it into bankruptcy court to keep Bakker from ever returning to PTL, then left the ministry himself in a dispute with the bankruptcy judge after Falwell's aides had pilfered Bakker's office and turned over what they found to the Justice Department, which convened a grand jury.

Noriega relative convicted in cocaine sting

United Press International

BARTOW — A relative of ousted Panamanian leader Manuel Noriega was convicted on cocaine charges in a drug sting operation and faces up to 30 years in prison.

Jurors deliberated just over an hour before finding Domingo Negrette, 26, guilty of grand theft and cocaine trafficking Wednesday. Circuit Judge J. Tim Strickland set sentencing for June 20.

an alternative in time to get it to the governor so the session could adjourn on time Friday.

After tossing around the idea of raising other liquor taxes to make up the difference, the conferees finally agreed to leave the tax package as is, take out the soda pop tax and use money from other areas to make up the difference.

Senate President Bob Crawford said slowing down corporate sales tax refunds to gain an additional $20 million and transferring $25 million in taxes raised from the transportation plan to general revenue would be acceptable.

"It looks like we're on track to do some good things this year and get out on time," Crawford said. "I'm willing to keep cigarettes and alcohol where it is."

Some of the specifics of the House and Senate conferees' package are:

●An increase of 9.99 cents per pack of cigarettes, well below the 19-cent boost sought by Martinez, but also lower than the dime threshold sought by House negotiators.

●An increase in the tax on alcoholic beverages sold in bars of 10 cents per 1.5-ounces of liquor, 10 cents per 4-ounces of wine and 4 cents per 12-ounces of beer.

●An increase to $10 in the Negrette looked straight ahead as the verdict was read. He has been jailed in lieu of $750,000 bond since his arrest in October and was to remain in the Polk County Jail in Bartow until sentencing.

Sheriff's officials said Negrette is married to a cousin of Noriega.

Jurors saw a videotape of Negrette taking $26,000 worth of cocaine in an Oct. 12 meeting with an undercover officer at a Polk County warehouse.

Negrette was arrested shortly after leaving the warehouse in a gray pickup truck.

His attorney, Anthony Genova, argued that his client was entrapped and therefore should be acquitted.

Negrette testified that he was coerced into the drug deal by a confidential informant working for the state, contending the informant threatened him and then offered him $1 million to deliver drugs.

personnel will be combing the county for violators beginning today. Any resident violating the restrictions who refuse to pay a minimum $50 fine will face charges by the State Attorney's Office. No warnings will be issued, officials said.

The restrictions will remain in effect until lifted by the district governing board. The rules are:

●Residents at even-numbered addresses may water their lawns only on Sunday, Tuesday and Thursday from 4 a.m. until 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. until 9 p.m. Residents living at odd-numbered addresses may only water on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday during the same hours. No lawn watering will be permitted on Friday.

●Flower gardens may be watered anytime by hand-held hose, but only from 2 a.m. until 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. until 9 p.m. Monday through Friday with a hose-sprinkler system. Flower gardens with automatic sprinkler systems may be watered only from 2 a.m. until 8 a.m. Monday through Friday.

●Vegetable gardens may be watered anytime by hand-held hose, but from only 2 a.m. until 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. until 9 p.m. Monday through Friday for any other type irrigation method.

●Businesses on five acres or less may water grass with automatic systems from 4 a.m. to 8 a.m., following the same even-odd address schedule as residences. If hose-sprinkler watering methods are used, businesses may also water from 5 p.m. until 9 p.m., still on the even-odd three day schedule.

●Businesses on lots larger than five acres may irrigate on their three-day address schedule from 12:01 a.m. until 8 a.m. for automatic systems. Hose-sprinkler watering may additionally be done from 5 p.m. until 9 p.m.

Faced with record low levels and saltwater intrusion into one Oviedo municipal well forcing it to be shut down, water management officials said water conditions in Seminole County have reached serious levels.

Seminole County has been under voluntary watering restrictions since Nov. 14, 1989 when three months of mandatory restrictions were lifted. On May 9, record low water levels in a district test well near Longwood led water management officials to consider imposing the restrictions then, but they decided against them.

"It was really a close call not to do it," said Jeff Elledge, district resource management director. "But since then, we've talked to several public utilities who told us they've had record high usage."

In April, the district tests wells in Longwood and Geneva both dropped .62 feet, setting a new record low for the Longwood well, which was already 1.04 feet below the level it reached a year ago, said district spokesman Cindy Johnson. The Geneva well reached a level only 12 feet above its record low, Johnson said.

A National Weather Service rain gauge in Sanford recorded .99 inches from May 1 to May 29, 31 percent of the 3.17 inches of normal rainfall for that period, Johnson said. From May 1989 until April 1990, Seminole County has received 9.16 inches less than its normal rainfall for that period, she said.

Water utility companies in Sanford, Lake Mary, Altamonte Springs and Oviedo reported pumping record amounts of water for their customers, Johnson said.

Oviedo officials reporting closing one well which recorded an increase from 57 parts per million (ppm) to 120 ppm of chlorine during the last year, Johnson said. Another city well showed an increase from 57 ppm to 84 ppm between April 19 and may 11 this year, Johnson said. Chlorine is an indicator of saltwater intrusion into drinking water.

West denies debt to state

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — A fundraiser for Gov. Bob Martinez who also is chairwoman of the Orlando-Orange County Expressway Authority denied Wednesday that she had collected $6,900 in unearned salary and perks from the state.

B.J. West said in her response Wednesday afternoon that she owed the state just $29, and she enclosed a check for that amount, said Terence McElroy, spokesman for the state comptroller's office.

She was accused May 1 by the comptroller of improperly completing Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services time cards, collecting too much in travel expense reimbursements and improperly charging the state for phone calls.

The only improper charges acknowledged by West were a $4.46 phone call and $24.50 in travel expenses that she said she was inadvertently paid.

"We need to analyze her individual claims, attempt to reconcile that with our investigators' conclusions and determine whether or not any adjustments have to be made to our original conclusions or tentative conclusions, either upward or downward," McElroy said.

"Assuming she does owe something, at that point we will attempt to collect it from her," he said.

After West worked as a fundraiser for the 1986 Martinez gubernatorial campaign, he appointed her to the expressway authority. She also was hired as a fundraiser for an IRS children's organ transplant program.

The comptroller's office alleged that West had inappropriately been paid for 25 days of work at IRS — worth nearly $4,900 — when she had been conducting expressway authority business.

The office also questioned $700 worth of travel expenses.

state matching funds between school districts.

Meanwhile, the House Appropriations Committee approved Wednesday a $5.7-billion state transportation package. The plan was approved by the Senate last week and won approval of the House Finance and Tax Committee Tuesday afternoon.

The plan is essentially the same one approved by the Senate, in that it would raise the state gas tax in Florida counties that already levy the maximum 6- or 7-cent per gallon local fuel option by the full 4 cents. Those with lower taxes would pay less.

An amendment approved Tuesday by the House committee would equalize the local-option gas tax in all Florida counties over the next four years, so that eventually all counties will pay the same amount.

Martinez is opposed to any statewide tax increases and also insists on local public hearings before any county adds additional gas taxes.

But House leaders said without a gradual equalization of local gas taxes, members of the House would be reluctant to vote for the transportation plan.

Crawford agreed to take up the equalization issue with other senators and work out a plan they're comfortable with.

Romania rattled by 80 aftershocks

By CATHERINE ADAMS
United Press International

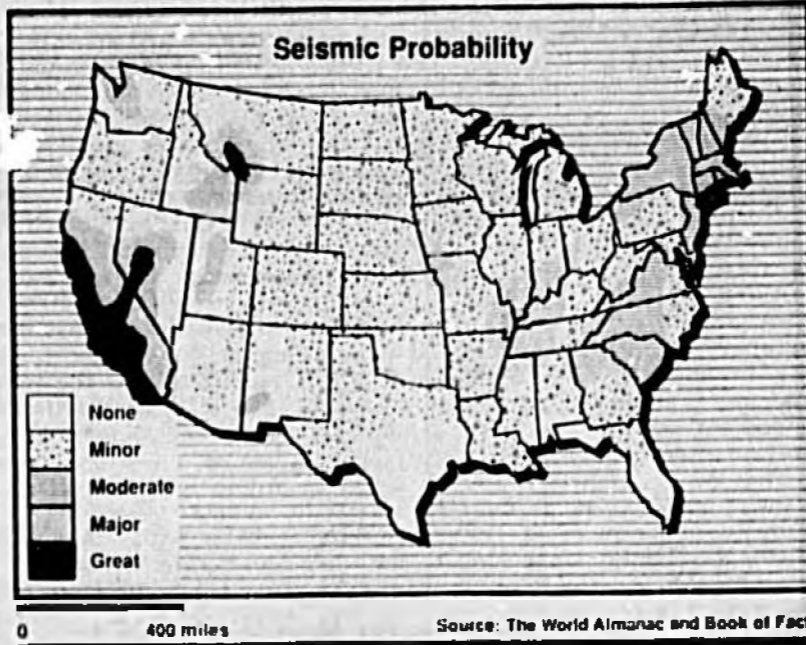

BUCHAREST, Romania — More than 80 aftershocks, one registering 5.9 on the Richter scale, kept Romanians' nerves on edge Thursday as authorities began to survey the damage from the region's worst earthquake in 13 years.

A powerful jolt at 3:18 a.m. shook millions of people from their sleep and severely damaged a number of buildings that survived the initial quake nearly 14 hours earlier, authorities said.

At least nine people were killed and about 300 others injured in the Wednesday afternoon tremor, which registered between 6.5 and 7.5 on the Richter scale and was felt as far away as Leningrad and Istanbul.

"The aftershock in the early morning of May 31 caused, besides panic, much material damage in Vrancea County," the quake's epicenter, the official Rompres news agency said.

It said the aftershock, measuring 5.9 on the Richter scale, severely damaged the city hall, a theater, a medical clinic and an apartment building in the city of Focaut.

The Soviet news agency Tass said the aftershock also was felt in Soviet Moldavia. But there were no reports of further casualties from the latest tremors.

More 80 aftershocks have been registered since the initial quake at 1:40 p.m. Wednesday, the worst since a March 1977 temblor killed more than 1,300 people in the same region.

Eight of the dead from Wednesday's quake were killed in Romania, including one Bucharest resident.

Peru quake kills 83; 500 injured

UPI report

LIMA, Peru — More than 20 aftershocks followed an earthquake that killed at least 83 people, injured nearly 500 and destroyed the homes of hundreds of others in northern Peru, the same region where tens of thousands were killed by a temblor 20 years ago Thursday.

The earthquake, which lasted 48 seconds and registered 5.8 on the open-ended Richter scale, struck the Amazon basin region on the eastern slope of the Andean mountain range late Tuesday and was followed Wednesday by numerous aftershocks of lesser intensity, authorities said.

A U.S. warning from the Soviet leader

By JIM ANDERSON
United Press International

WASHINGTON — What was thought to be only a "bed-and-breakfast" rest stop in Canada on his way to the Washington summit turned out to be a dress rehearsal for Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev's diplomatic road show.

It was an impressive performance.

What was intended by the Canadian government to be an uneventful farewell news conference turned into a fiery tour de force by the Soviet leader, pumping his arms, raising his voice, and warning President Bush not to tread on him just because the Soviet economy is in a shambles.

His message was that there are central issues — chiefly the future of Germany and the future of nationalistic struggles, represented by Lithuania — that the Soviet Union cannot and will not compromise on.

Running 25 minutes behind schedule, Gorbachev nevertheless launched into a long news conference lecture that will probably be a preview of the talks he will be holding with Bush at the White House and Camp David.

His arguments apparently swayed Canadian Prime Minister Brian Mulroney who said he was aware that the NATO countries were sometimes insensitive to the enormous sacrifices made by the Soviet people during World War II and should understand the reservations that the Soviet government has about an unrestrained Germany.

Mulroney said he would bring up those legitimate Soviet concerns to his allies and colleagues at the June summit of Economic nations in Houston and the July meeting of NATO countries in London.

Gorbachev in Ottawa showed himself to be shrewd, well-informed, and passionate.

Shrewd, because he used the occasion of his Canadian visit as an opportunity to fire a shot across the bow of the U.S. government and the U.S. press, which has been sounding almost wistful about the disappearing power of the Soviet Union, and wondering what could be discussed between such unequal partners. He made it clear he remains a world leader to be respected.

Well-informed, to the extent of correcting a sympathetic Socialist Canadian journalist about a proposal Gorbachev made in January 1987 on nuclear disarmament. It wasn't total disarmament, he pointed out, it was only nuclear weapons he was talking about and then he went on to link it to the current arms control talks.

Passionate, in signaling that there are some things so important to the Soviet Union that no leader could surrender on elements that affect Soviet national security. He did not mention it was especially important that a threatened Soviet leader who is valued by the Western world, such as himself, not give in on these points, but that was the underlying message.

President Bush correctly read Gorbachev last weekend as "a tough leader" and the Soviet president's Ottawa high-tension performance confirmed that. Reports of Gorbachev's demise as a world leader are premature.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Pirates win despite Van Slyke

Andy Van Slyke would like to enlist the fans' help when it comes to his fielding.
 "It's no fun making an error, no fun making an ass of yourself," he said of his two errors in the Pittsburgh Pirates 5-3 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.
 "I felt like wearing a sign on my back asking fans to tell me when the ball was coming my way."
 Van Slyke suffered through what he called his worst game since a four-error performance at third base for Class AAA Louisville in 1983.
 Walt Terrell, 2-4, had a better night. He scattered five hits and three runs over 6 1/3 innings to help Pittsburgh complete its seventh series sweep of the season and stretch its winning streak to five games. Bill Landrum, who pitched the ninth, got his seventh save. Ramon Martinez, 5-3, suffered the loss.
 In other NL games, San Francisco defeated Chicago 4-1; Montreal topped Atlanta 9-6; San Diego topped Philadelphia 8-3; and Houston edged St. Louis 2-1.

COLLEGE TENNIS

FAMU women get penalized

OVERLAND PARK, Kansas — Florida A&M's women's tennis program received a two-year NCAA probation Wednesday for major violations, including improper benefits to student-athletes.
 NCAA officials said the violations also included improper recruiting contacts. The violations committee ruled the team will be banned from post-season competition following the 1990-91 academic year.
 The university, based in Tallahassee, cannot participate in foreign tours planned for the summers of 1990 and 1991 and must play all of its regular-season contests inside the continental United States during the 1990-91 academic year.
 Florida A&M will also be banned from awarding any new athletically related financial aid awards in women's tennis, other than those currently committed to until August 1, 1992. The committee says the improper benefit violations to student-athletes included cash, gifts for personal use, loans and local and out-of-town transportation.
 The NCAA said the school avoided stricter penalties by dismissing a former coach and restructuring its tennis program.

 Advancing to the semifinals in the senior division were Nick Clark, of Jacksonville; Joe Lopez Jr., of Ocala; Pat Schwab, of Elkton; and Adolph Popp, of Melbourne.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

'Comiskey ghosts' come alive

The way things have been going this season, it would not be surprising if the Chicago White Sox believe in ghosts.
 Scott Fletcher hit only his second home run in the past three seasons and starter Greg Hibbard overcame some "messed up" early innings Wednesday night, leading the White Sox to a 5-2 decision over the New York Yankees.
 "Maybe the ghosts of Comiskey (Park) are coming alive," catcher Carlton Fisk said.
 Fletcher hit an unexpected three-run homer and Sammy Sosa added a solo shot to power the White Sox to their fifth straight victory.
 Elsewhere in the American League, Oakland beat Toronto 8-5, Kansas City clipped Detroit 4-3, Minnesota routed Baltimore 12-3, Texas edged Boston 4-3 in 10 innings, Seattle downed Milwaukee 2-1 and Cleveland doubled up California 4-2.

Altamonte in first alone

Locals take control of Big League

From staff reports

LAKE MARY — Altamonte Springs took over sole possession of first place in the Central Florida Big League with a 5-1 victory over Pine Hills/Rolling Hills at Lake Mary High School Wednesday night.
 Altamonte Springs is now 6-1 on the season while PH/RH falls to 5-2. Next action for Altamonte Springs will be Sunday when they travel to Ocoee for a doubleheader starting at 1 and 4 p.m.
 Coach Woody Woodard of Altamonte Springs thought Wednesday's game would be much tougher.
 "We expected a better game," said Woodard. "I thought they were the one team that might beat us. They played us real tough last year. But maybe its because we haven't gone to there place yet. They're like the Detroit Pistons. When they get home, they get mean."
 "I also think that our reputation might have helped us tonight. Over the years, when an Altamonte team got a quick lead, the game was over. We jumped out to that quick 3-0 lead and it kind of took the starch out of them," added Woodard.
 Altamonte scored a pair of runs in the first inning. Mike Merthie lead off with a single to right-center and advanced to third on a single to left.

First baseman Joey DiFrancesco (No. 9) and his Altamonte Springs teammates kept Pine Hills/Rolling Hills of Orlando off balance for much of Wednesday night's Big League game, jumping out to a 3-0 lead and cruising to a 5-1 win. The victory gave Altamonte a 6-1 record and sole possession of first place.

Bell powers Pirates to decision over Orioles

From staff reports

SANFORD — Dewayne Bell had a home run, double and triple and scored four runs as the Moose Club Pirates handed the Kiwanis Club Orioles a 16-10 setback in Sanford Recreation Department Junior Major Baseball League action at Chase Park Wednesday night.
 No information was received on the scheduled game between the Knights of Columbus Cardinals and the Rotary Club Royals.
 Next week will be the last week of the regular season for the Junior Majors. On Monday, the Cardinals will take on the Pirates at 6 p.m. and the Orioles will challenge the Royals at 8 p.m.

The Orioles got on the board first Wednesday with three runs in the first inning. After the first two batters were out, Jamie King, Ray June, Isatha Barnes, Jamie Hampton and Robert Huffman all drew walks. That, coupled with a pair of wild pitches, accounted for the runs.

The Pirates came back to take its initial lead in the game with four runs in the bottom of the first inning. With one out, Bell doubled, Eric Roberts, Willie Williams and Matt Harris walked and Jason Combs and Harry Flowers both singled for the four runs.

After the Orioles failed to score in the second, the Pirates padded its lead with five runs. The runs were scored without the benefit of a hit as the Pirates drew six walks to score three runs and the other two scored on wild pitches.

 The Orioles cut the lead to 9-5 in the third with a pair of runs that also scored without a hit. The runs scored on five walks.
 The Pirates came back with a pair of runs of its own in the bottom of the third. Willie Jones walked, Bell tripled and Roberts singled to account for the runs.
 The Orioles tried to make a game of it in the fourth by scoring five runs. King, June, Tommy West and Channing Walton walked to score one run. Rick Baden then got the Orioles' only hit of the night, a triple, to clear the bases. Baden ended up scoring on the play when the center fielder's throw to third was wild and the Orioles had out the lead to 11-10.
 But the Pirates put the game out of reach with five runs of its own in the bottom of the fourth. Harris reached on an error, Flowers walked, Wayne Branton singled in a run, Gene Jackson singled in a run and Bell blasted a three run home run to finish the scoring.
 In addition to Bell, other contributors to the Pirates offense were Roberts and Branton (one single and two runs scored each), Flowers and Jackson (one single and one run scored each), Combs (single) and Williams, Harris and Jones (two runs scored each).
 Baden's triple was the only hit for the Orioles and he also scored a run. June scored three runs, King and Barnes scored two runs each and Demetrius Jackson, West and Walton scored one run each.

Eric Roberts singled and scored a pair of runs for the Moose Club Pirates in their 16-10 Junior League win over the Kiwanis Club Orioles on Wednesday.

Aguirre provides spark for Pistons to take 3-2 lead

United Press International

AUBURN HILLS, Mich. — Sometimes even the league's best defensive team needs an offensive spark.
 And Wednesday night, when the Detroit Pistons moved within one victory of their third straight trip to the NBA finals, Mark Aguirre was it.
 He came off the bench to ignite a fourth-quarter run that gave the Pistons a 97-83 victory over the Chicago Bulls and a 3-2 lead in the Eastern Conference finals.
 The defending champions can now put this series to rest Friday night at Chicago Stadium. The Pistons eliminated the Bulls 4-2 in the conference finals last year en route to their first NBA title.
 Aguirre finished with 19 points on 8 of 10 shooting. He opened the final period hitting a 3-point basket, driving for a layup and converting a 3-point play as the Pistons drew in front 80-68 with 8:52 remaining.

 "Dennis (Rodman) and I work as a tandem," Aguirre said. "When he plays like he did in Game 4 (20 points, 20 rebounds), I know my time will be limited. You have to accept it on some nights."
 Aguirre scored just 2 points in 9 minutes in Game 4.
 "Everyone wants to play and be on the floor," he said, "but with this team it's to win. You have to stick with what the group wants."
 Detroit opened its biggest lead at 82-71 with 5:28 remaining on another Aguirre basket and coasted the rest of the way.
 "It was one of those nights where we had the shots but we didn't hit them," Chicago Coach Phil Jackson said.
 Joe Dumars led Detroit with 20 points, while teammates Bill Lamber (16 points) and James Edwards (13 points) broke out of scoring slumps and John Salley grabbed 10 rebounds.

 Dumars also did an outstanding defensive job on Chicago's Michael Jordan, who was limited to 22 points (7 of 19 shooting), 13 points below his average in this series. Jordan has averaged 23 points in the three losses at the Palace and 44.5 points in the Bulls victories at Chicago Stadium.
 "You've got to give their defense credit," Jordan said. "They took out us out of sync on offense. Our effort was there, but they stepped up their effort a notch."
 Scottie Pippen added 19 for the Bulls and Horace Grant had 15 points and 12 rebounds. The Bulls shot just 34 percent from the field and their bench was outscored 35-13.
 "They wore us down pretty good and that is because their bench is deeper than ours," Pippen said.
 Detroit did a better job of handling the Chicago press and converted 56 percent of its shots.

Agassi takes on mantle of French Open favorite and No. 15 Guillermo Perez-Roldan.

PARIS - Andre Agassi accepted the responsibility of his new role as favorite with authority Wednesday when he pounded out a straight sets victory over Todd Woodbridge to gain the third round of the French Open.

Agassi suddenly became the men's favorite after top seeds Stefan Edberg and Boris Becker were upset losers Tuesday.

Agassi, taking a warning from the dismissals of Edberg and Becker, got down to business quickly and required only 2 hours and 8 minutes to dispose of Woodbridge, 7-5, 6-1, 6-3.

"There was a high level of concentration and intensity," said Agassi, the third seed. "In my first match, I didn't feel as focused as I could have been. Today I came out here knowing that the two top players were beaten yesterday, so it can happen to anybody. You can't take any of the matches lightly. In that sense Boris and Stefan helped me out."

Following the defeats of Edberg and Becker, marking the first time ever the top two men seeds have been eliminated in the opening round of a Grand Slam event, the third day of the $5.35 million championship went strictly to form. The five men and five women seeds in action were successful.

Michael Chang, the defending men's champion, faced the toughest task among the seeds, and he wore down Marc Rosset of Switzerland, 7-5, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3. Rosset, nine inches taller than the American at 6-foot-5, is ranked 27th in the world and had won 10 of his previous 13 matches.

Steffi Graf, although allergic to her surroundings, cruised to a 6-1, 6-2 victory over American Jennifer Santrock, the No. 1 seed advancing to the third round along with No. 4 Gabriela Sabatini. Sabatini blew a 5-2 lead in the second set before subduing Susan Sloane, 6-0, 5-7, 6-1.

Other winners among the men included eighth seed Andrei Chesnokov, No. 13 Jim Courier

Agassi, a third-round loser to Courier in the 1989 French, came to Paris with a far healthier attitude than a year ago.

"Last year I had a plane reservation after each match, just in case; that was my attitude last year," he explained. "This year I packed two weeks worth of socks."

Agassi, playing with rackets he had shipped in the night before from America to replace the wide body model he used in his first match, swept the first four games from Woodbridge before dropping the next five. The 20-year-old from Las Vegas, Nev., came back to win seven games in a row, and never was threatened again by his Australian rival, ranked No. 136 in the world.

Woodbridge contributed to his defeat by committing 52 unforced errors.

Agassi, a big favorite of the kids' day crowd at Roland Garros, said he was disappointed the two men seeded above him were no longer in action.

"It would have been good for the tournament, and I would have enjoyed playing them, as much as they would have enjoyed being here," he said. "You have to win so much before you can even worry about playing the top seeds, you can't be concerned about them until the semifinals."

He insisted his mental approach to the tournament isn't any different with the removal of his two top rivals.

"My attitude has not changed because I'm going into the third round as the top seed," he said. "I'm just taking one match at a time, and anybody who steps on the court is going to have a long afternoon ahead of them."

Rosset, after evening the match in the second set, broke for a 4-3 lead in the third.

Rosset came down hard after an overhead in that last game and he seemed to be cramping. Chang broke to a 4-1 lead in the fourth set, and after Rosset got it back in the seventh game, the 18-year-old American achieved the decisive break in the eighth game.

QUOTE OF THE DAY

Big League

by Kent Brubaker. Merthite scored when the throw to third got away and Brubaker wound up on third.

Greg James followed with a shot that appeared to be headed out of the park, but a strong wind held it in and the ball hit the base of the wall. James settling for a double with Brubaker scoring.

Altamonte added another run in the second when Jason Sewell singled, stole second, went to third on a passed ball and scored on a wild pitch.

Altamonte closed out its scoring in the fifth. Merthite singled to center, pinch-hitter Chris Pleicones walked and Joey DiFrancesco doubled up the gap in right center to score Merthite and Pleicones.

Pine Hills/Rolling Hills' lone run scored in the sixth when Scott tripled to right and scored on McDonald's sacrifice fly.

Providing the offense for Altamonte Springs were Sewell (2 for 3, double, run scored), Merthite (2 for 3, two runs scored), Paul Stefn (2 for 3), James (2 for 3, double, RBI), Brubaker (1 for 2, run scored), DiFrancesco (1 for 3, double, two RBI). Terry Brown (1 for 3) and Pleicones (run scored).

For Pine Hills/Rolling Hills it was McDonald (1-for-2, double, RBI) and Scott (1-for-3, triple, run scored) doing the damage.

Matt Pedrotty was the winning pitcher working the first four innings and giving up only three hits and no runs. He struck two and walked only one before giving way to Chuck Lamb who gave up one run and one hit over the last three innings to pick up the save. Lamb struck out four and walked two.

"They hit Pedrotty hard but our outfield made the plays," said Woodard. "With two rabbits in the outfield like Merthite and James, not too much falls in. Terry Brown played a very good defensive game, also."

"I felt comfortable once we had the lead because I had Jason (Sewell) ready to pitch in relief and no one in this area hits him. He's really throwing the ball well."

"I thought we played very well since a lot of our regulars missed the game so they could study for finals tomorrow," added Woodard. "But that's what's good about having a good team, as long as nine players show up you have a good chance to win."

Woman wants to know if it's what's up front that counts

DEAR ABBY: I have three questions for you:
1. Do men feel deceived if a woman wears a padded bra, giving the impression that she's a 34B when she is only a 32A?
2. Do men get more sexual excitement and fulfillment from full-breasted women?
3. How do men feel about "augmented" breasts? — FLAT IN FLATBUSH

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR FLAT: One cannot generalize about what "all men" find sexually appealing, but most sexologists concur that the size of a woman's breasts has little to do with male sexual fulfillment. I doubt if most men care whether breasts have been surgically augmented or not. (Some may not even know the difference.)

A woman who has always felt that she had less to offer because she was flat-chested is likely to feel a surge of self-confidence if she has breast-augmentation surgery. However, if she finds that due to her new look, she's getting attention from men who previously ignored her, she will not soon forget the depth of their shallowness.

DEAR ABBY: Why are so many men against marriage? I hear these negative attitudes from all kinds of people, including comedians, television personalities and even family members. They all say, "Don't get married; you'll regret it." Do...n't anyone believe in marriage anymore?

I'm 23 years old and have a lot going for myself. I have dated a number of men, none of whom mentioned marriage. A year ago, I met a wonderful man whom I've been dating ever since. I love him very much, and he says he loves me, but these same negative attitudes about marriage are also part of his philosophy. (He practically left skid marks on my carpet when I asked him if we were ever going to get married!) What am I supposed to do?

F. I. IN QUEENS
DEAR F.I.: Leave him — before he leaves you.

(Problems? Write to Dear Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dear Abby, P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. All correspondence is confidential.)

Temporary strokes should be treated

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a 56-year-old female who suffered a left-hemisphere brain stroke 36 years ago in a car accident. Due to emotional stress at my job, I've begun having attacks everyone calls TIAs, or small strokes. During these episodes, I'm unable to talk, and only animal sounds come out. There's no paralysis or other symptoms indicative of a stroke. What's your opinion? My job is at stake!

DEAR READER: First of all, temporary strokes (transient ischemic attacks) are not caused by stress. They are caused by tiny blood clots that break off from the roughened lining of arteries and are carried to the brain where they produce temporary neurological malfunction, such as weakness, confusion and difficulty speaking. TIAs are treatable. One aspirin tablet a day will sufficiently retard blood coagulation so that small clots are less likely to form and cause symptoms. Also, other anti-coagulant medicine, such as heparin or Coumadin, can be used in more advanced cases. Finally, an operation called endarterectomy, to tear out the rough deposits in a diseased artery, may be necessary as a last resort to prevent a permanent stroke.

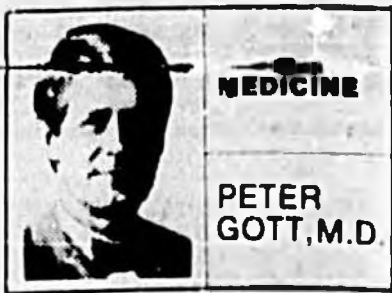

Your case is complicated by the fact you had a severe brain injury many years ago. I do not know what role this accident has played in causing your present symptoms.

In my opinion, you need an examination by a neurologist. Ask your doctor to refer you. The specialist will very likely order tests, such as a CT scan of the brain, to assess the degree of damage, establish a diagnosis (are you, in fact, having TIAs?) and recommend treatment.

I am particularly concerned because, based on the information in your question, you may be on the verge of suffering a more disabling and permanent stroke, unless something is done right away. More than your job may be at stake. Ask your doctor to approve the aspirin therapy; insist on a neurological consultation. Please let me know what the specialist concludes.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Help I - Physical Illness."

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

It was aggressive of South to invite game with only 13 high-card points, but the bidding suggested that North's values might cover many of South's red-suit losers. That was right, but South still had to play carefully. Declarer ruffed the second club and recognized the necessity of driving out the diamond ace before drawing trumps. So he played a diamond right away. West took the ace and continued with the jack, dummy now winning the king. Declarer played A-K of spades but had to change his plan when West showed out of trumps, so he led a low heart to dummy's queen. East won the king and played back a third club. Declarer had to ruff in dummy, discarding a diamond from his hand. The stage was now set for the trump coup. If East followed in hearts, South played ace of hearts and a heart to dummy's jack. The 13th heart was now played. If East ruffed, declarer would overruff and draw the last trump before playing the last good diamond. If East discarded on the heart, so would declarer, and the lead would be in dummy with only two tricks left to play and declarer's Q-10 of spades sitting over East's J-9. It was an unusual way to pick up trumps, forcing the defender to ruff in front of declarer.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
June 1, 1990

In the year ahead you might become involved in a project with a friend whose talents you truly respect. You could gain from this arrangement intellectually as well as materially.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Where your social life is concerned today, try to spend your time with persons whose company you enjoy instead of getting involved with individuals you feel obligated to entertain. Get a jump on life by understanding the influences which are governing you in the year ahead. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today by mailing $1.25 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Strive to be realistic today regarding the goals and objectives you set for yourself. If you're expecting to achieve in an area where you're unprepared, the results could be disappointing.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Today

you might have to deal with a character who is known for a bad temper. Don't give this person any reasons for jumping on your case.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Carelessness on your behalf in filing receipts on records regarding your commercial transactions could cause you trouble at a later date. Keep your paperwork in order.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) To avoid confrontations today, make an extra effort to placate your mate. This might be a trifle hard to do, because it could justify anger.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This could be a very busy day for you, not so much with your own interests, but because of demands placed on you by others. Don't volunteer to be a pack mule.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22) If you're in charge of putting together a social arrangement today, be very selective regarding whom you invite to participate. Don't include friends who dislike one another.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Usually you're rather image-conscious and mindful of your behavior in achieving your aims. Today, however, you might throw discretion to the winds and substitute it with abrasiveness.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) When making suggestions to people with whom you have dealings today, don't do so in a forceful manner. Treat those who disagree with you tolerantly.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be wary of a joint venture today that places the greater portion of the burdens on you than it does on your cohort. If there isn't parity, it's not likely to work.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Independence is an admirable virtue, but you must be careful not to carry it to extremes today and fail to act in proper concert in an arrangement that calls for teamwork.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If you are not in control of your involvements today, they will control you. Don't let your duties and responsibilities pile up, because they'll produce unproductive complications.

CNN: from shadows to sunlight

By NENA BAKER
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK — When the bootstrapping Ted Turner bet his fortune to launch Cable News Network on June 1, 1980, conventional wisdom said a 24-hour all-news channel operating on a shoestring budget wouldn't last six months.

So much for conventional wisdom.

As CNN marks its 10th anniversary, the clout of the Atlanta-based network is such that world leaders consider it indispensable. Regular viewers include President Bush, who holed up last summer with a TV set tuned to CNN during the critical hours when his administration was considering its response to threats to American hostages in Lebanon.

British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, Jordan's King Hussein and Cuba's Fidel Castro all are CNN devotees.

Through a complex satellite system, CNN — now hooked into some 55 million U.S. households — can be seen in 95 countries.

The signal is available everywhere in the world except the North Pole, South Pole and Siberia, said Ed Turner, executive vice president of news, who is not related to the network's founder.

"We know the PLO sits in Tunis and watches us," Turner said.

Military types acknowledge that CNN, because of its ability to move freely and take viewers front-row and center to breaking news events, has become an important intelligence tool.

While it was once derided in the television industry as the "Chicken Noodle Network" for its conspicuous lack of resources and on-air gaffes, today the top brass of the three broadcast networks guardedly discuss what Turner boldly calls the "fourth network" — if they'll talk about it at all.

At the time of CNN's launch, then CBS News President Bill Leonard asked, "Why would anybody choose to watch a patched-together news operation that's just starting against an organization like ours that's been going for 50 years and spends $100 million to $150 million a year?" according to "CNN: The Inside Story," a flattering new book written by Hank Whittemore with the cooperation of Cable News Network.

Leonard, like most of the industry, misjudged the public's appetite for live coverage of breaking news events, something the entertainment-driven broadcast networks shun.

Breaking news is, however, where CNN shines.

"I think that CNN is the industry's benchmark right now," said Fred Friendly, a former president of CBS News and a professor emeritus of journalism at Columbia University. "It's not because they have a better news department than the other networks, but because they have unlimited airtime. That's what you need to make news work."

So ubiquitous is CNN's live coverage of breaking news events that both broadcast and print newsrooms all over the country continuously monitor the network.

Although it has 1,700 employees and 27 bureaus around the world, CNN will use footage from other broadcasters with which it has reciprocal agreements.

For CNN credibility — and profitability — did not come easily, however.

Launched with a meager 1.7 million subscribers, an annual budget of $30 million and a few hundred mostly young and inexperienced staffers earning wages well south of the industry average, CNN lost a total of $77 million in its first five years before turning an operating profit of $13 million in 1985.

Ah, summertime: when movies draw big crowds and big bucks

By DAVE McHARY
UPI Business Writer

LOS ANGELES — It's tenon time in Tinseltown as movie studios ready their summer releases. They are banking heavily this year on the tried-and-true of action-adventures and sequels.

Expectations are higher than ever because of the success of last year's summer movies, which pulled in a record $2 billion in U.S. ticket sales. Seven of this summer's movies cost at least $30 million to make, analysts estimated.

"For the movie business, summer is what Christmas is to the toy industry," said Alex Ben Block, editor of the trade publication Show Biz News. "It's not the time you want to release a sensitive drama; you want big special effects films with big male appeal."

Timing is crucial, so studios often play a game of musical chairs with release dates. With so many major titles coming out at once, executives worry that their movie will get lost in the shuffle.

"The big question is what happens if you have a really big picture early in the summer, then you aren't able to find room for a big release later," said Christopher Dixon, an entertainment analyst with Kidder, Peabody & Co. in New York.

Block thinks it's unlikely that any summer film can duplicate the $251 million in domestic box-office gross that Warner Bros.' "Batman" brought in last year. The competition is tougher, he noted.

"With studios spending $20 million just to promote one movie, it's hard for anything to break out," Block said. "The big

For the movie business, summer is what Christmas is to the toy industry.

-Analyst Alex Ben Block

studios will dominate, and smaller movies are not going to break through unless they're extraordinary."

So far, analysts say, Paramount's slate looks the best. The studio's "Another 48 HRS.," a sequel to the 1982 Eddie Murphy-Nick Nolte buddy movie, will open on June 8 and "Days of Thunder," an auto racing movie starring Tom Cruise, will debut June 27.

Walt Disney Co.'s "Dick Tracy," set to open June 15, is also seen as a potential home-run movie with Warren Beatty and pop star Madonna in the lead roles.

Disney managed to surprise Hollywood with two surprise summer hits last year — "Dead Poets Society" and "Honey I Shrunk the Kids" — and has racked up more than $90 million at the domestic box-office this year from "Pretty Woman."

Analysts say "Back to the Future Part III," out May 25 from MCA Inc.'s Universal Studios, is likely to perform better than "Back to the Future Part II," which was regarded as a disappointment even though it has brought in more than $116 million since its release in November.

Analysts are less certain about two other expensive sequels that could be top performers: Fox's "Die Hard 2" and Orion's "Robocop 2," both due out on June 22.

And Caroleo Pictures "Total

Recall," starring Arnold Schwarzenegger, could be a blockbuster. The movie, distributed by Tri-Star and out June 1, is probably the most expensive film, costing an estimated $60 million, but the investment may be well worth it, analyst Dixon said.

"Given Arnold's appeal and Caroleo's abilities to distribute the movie overseas, the success of that movie is not that dependent on the domestic box office," Dixon said.

Potential sleepers include: Disney's "Beisy's Wedding," an Alan Alda comedy opening on June 22; Paramount's "Ghost," a love story opening on July 27; Warner's "Bird on a Wire," which opened May 18; Disney's "Arachnophobia," due out July 20; Warner's Bill Murray-Geena Davis comedy "Quick Change" and Universal's animated film "The Jetsons."

For the summer movies to be recognized as hits, they will generally have to bring in at least $100 million at the domestic box office. But Jeff Logsdon, an entertainment analyst with Crowell Weedon & Co., said that figure won't apply to every single movie.

"From the company's standpoint, the equation still is cost vs. revenue generated," Logsdon said. "Certain films have the expectation that they have to do 'Batman' kind of business to be viewed as successful, but some films can do $50 million and still do a nice business."

"I think that we'll see more surprise films," he added. "People said 'Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles' would be lucky to do $25 million and it's already gone over $100 million."

More films feature older stars

Audiences and producers now willing to accept aging actors

By MARCI PERSKY-HOOPER
United Press International

The commercial and critical success of works such as "Driving Miss Daisy," the "Cocoon" films and "Golden Girls" are indications of a growing acceptance among both producers and audiences of more mature actors and actresses in leading roles.

Two of Hollywood's top producers also say there is a trend toward stories featuring mature actors and actresses, but they doubt the evolution has been a deliberate one.

Marstar producer Howard Alston, who has been involved with such notable films as "Mask," "On Golden Pond," and "Sophie's Choice," says he is excited by the trend and predicts its continuation in both television and film.

"It is happening, but I'm not sure if it's deliberate or not," says Alston, 69. "There seems to be a trend of a popular type of programming dealing with the elderly in a good light."

"But, I'm not convinced anyone is beginning a project by saying 'Let's do a picture with an older person.'"

Independent producer Dorothea Petrie, who has been the critically acclaimed television specials "Foxfire" and "Caroline" among her credits, said, "There's always been a youth cult or youth orientation in our country."

"For a while, executives felt that anything with old people would be turn-off to their audiences. It's been a grand surprise to them and everyone that audiences are responsive."

"I think we are maturing in a way. We've tested the waters and found that audiences really do care about stories dealing with the elderly and that phase of life," Petrie says.

Joe Parkin, president of the Chicago-based Retirement Research Foundation, points to the nation's rapidly changing demographics, which show Americans are living longer.

"The statistics on the elderly population are becoming overwhelming," he says. "The increase in the number of people over 65 is staggering and the largest increase is those over 85."

"I don't think this trend is a fad," Parkin continues. "There are a lot more of us old folks who can identify with Helen Hayes, Jessica Tandy, Don Ameche, Kirk Douglas, Perry Como and a host of others."

The success of "Driving Miss Daisy," "Golden Girls" and "Murder She Wrote," has shown executives there does not have to be a "hunk" or young, attractive leading woman to get people to the theater, Alston says.

And, the professionalism of mature actors and actresses is a valuable boon to any production, says Alston.

"There's an audience for watching the older actor or older actresses," he says. "They're so professional they've been at their trades for such a long time. I see the trend continuing very much so."

Petrie also credits writers for being willing to take the risk and enter what used to be a taboo area.

"We now have some splendid writers that aren't afraid of writing about someone that is older and the problems they deal with in their lives," Petrie says. "Extraordinary stories about beautiful relationships involving mature actors."

Parkin's Retirement Research Foundation sponsors the National Media Owl Awards granted annually to honor producers of outstanding films, videos and television programs that provide accurate portrayals of the aged and aging process. Both Petrie and Alston are among past recipients of the award.

This year's competition drew more than 400 entries, which he says "were the strongest contenders of any year" in the seven-year history of the Owl Awards.

The film "Dad" starring Jack Lemmon won first prize in the Television and Theatrical Film Fiction category and "Driving Miss Daisy" was awarded second prize in the May 17 ceremony in Chicago.

Parkin says the ages of the producers themselves, is an indicator the younger crowd is losing its "age-phobia."

"One thing that's a curious factor in this regard, the age of the producers is quite young on the average," he says. "People in their 30s and 40s are producing these."

But Petrie, Parkin and Alston all agree on one point — the new-found appreciation of the older actor is long overdue.

"What's happening is that Hollywood is finally recognizing the worth of the very gifted older professional actors," Petrie says. "I don't think people are going to be afraid of dealing with age anymore because they know there's an audience for it."
