Lying

I'm writing her a letter,
That I'm getting on all right,
That I'm really feeling better,
And am full of vim and fight.
I am telling her I'm working Every minute of the day,
And I have no time for shirking
And I have no time for play.

I am telling her that nightly
I am sitting round the home,
And that time is passing lightly
And I've no desire to roam.
I am telling her I'm hoping
That a month or two they'll stay
Where the hillsides green are sloping
And the little ones can play.

I am glad they're where the breezes
Gently kiss them as they run,
And I'm telling her it pleases
Me to think of all their fun.
And I write her that I'm not lonely,
But it's all a fearful sham,
For they'd come back if they only Knew how miserable I am.

For I miss their sweet caresses
And I miss their shouts of glee,
And the empty hours depressed
Now the very soul of me.
I am writing that I'm happy,
From each roguish little tot,
I am writing that I'm happy,
But I'll bet she knows I'm not.

I have often remarked that the livery stable and other stables of Sanford were breeding places for flies and that when the city officials made the owners of these places clean them up and put them in proper shape the fly question would be solved for the city. There is no doubt about the flies breeding in the stables and all the health authorities of the country are agreed upon this subject. The Jacksonville health authorities have come to this conclusion and their report below should be read by every citizen of Sanford and especially by the people who have stables in the city limits and the officials should then take action:

"Swatting the fly is good so far as it goes but it does not go back far enough, according to the Jacksonville board of health, which believes that the proper place to do the swatting is in the breeding places and before there is any fly to swat.

Someone said in the past that to make a gentleman of a boy one must start with his grandfather and the board of health believes that if the work goes far enough back, that is to the breeding place, there will be fewer if not an elimination of the fly pest, disease danger and nuisance.

Investigation having already concluded conclusively that the fly played an active part in the dissemination of typhoid fever, there was nothing left for intelligent humanitarian doctors of medicine and professors of health and hygiene to do but work for the elimination of his disseminator.

Several years ago the Jacksonville board of health got busy on the fly question. It declared for the screening of dry closets, the use of proper receptacles for the receipt of stable cleanings, the shutting out of all dwelling houses of flies and of thorough cleaning and drying of all dirt and refuse places where the egg of the fly is laid.

The horse stable was found to be the most prolific breeder of the common or house fly and attention was turned to this breeding place.

An inspection of 1,098 horse stables in the city was made and the stable catalogued as follows: Having dirt floors, 844; wood floors, 136; cement floors, 11.

The inspection was for the purpose of finding out what features of stable floor construction and maintenance seemed most favorable or unfavorable to fly breeding and the following facts were found:

Flies are breeding on or in 70 per cent of the wood or cement floors as against 94 per cent of the dirt floor stables. In nearly one-half of these cases the presence of larvae was due to the fact that the floors were not tight and sound—that is contained cracks, broken boards, depressions, etc., which escaped the broom or shovel. In the remainder it was due to carelessness on the part of the householder.

Flies were breeding under the floors of 28 per cent of the wood floor stables. This percentage should probably be much larger as in over one half of the stables inspected the construction of the building prevention of this point without precluding its possibility.

Two factors appear to lead to the breeding of flies under wood floor stables. If the floor be not tight and sound it permits particles of fly-blown manure, as well as urine, to fall upon the ground beneath the stall and we have here all the conditions most favorable to the development of the larva food, warmth and moisture. Again, if the foundations of such stables be not tight, below the levels of the floors, flies will enter this space and deposit in the material they find awaiting them.

Flies were breeding in the manure pile in 88 per cent of all the stables inspected, however, there was no manure pile in 28, or 58 per cent, it having been hauled away just prior to the inspection. No suitable receptacle was provided for the manure in 95 per cent of the stables inspected, from which fact we may assure that at one time or another 95 per cent of the manure piles are breeding flies.

In connection with this report on the board of health has prepared an ordinance which relates to the construction of horse stables in such a manner as will make these places, now the greatest breeding places for flies, practically free from these pests. This ordinance is now in the hands of the laws and rules committee of the city council and will be the subject of an open meeting of the committee which will be held next Monday night. The health department is anxious to secure favorable action on this bill from the committee and to this end urges all interested in the health and welfare of the city to be present at this session.

"One of the greatest advantages of a city owning its public utilities," says the Ocala Star, "is when properly handled, they produce revenue which can be applied to improvements or reducing taxation."

The Star then proceeds to tell of the great public utility which Ocala has in its electric plant, which has just reached the point where, with some improvement, it can be made of great value to the public, and yet there are those who favor disposing of it. Reference is made to Palatka, as a pretty and prosperous town, and with even greater advantages, and yet is not going ahead as fast as Ocala, and the point is made that, except for its water, Palatka's public utilities are in the hands of private owners.

Along these lines the Starr reproduces a lengthy suggestion contained in the Palatka Item, in which it is pointed out the necessity and advantages of cooperation, on the part of the people, not only of one town but of all closely related, the impet of the suggestion being for Ocala and Palatka to join forces in the matter of securing municipal docks and the inauguration of a boat service that would be the means of saving the people much in the way of freight money. The strong point of the suggestion is that cities, like individuals, must join hands for mutual benefit, and it is this cooperative spirit that invites success. We look with askance upon the man who chooses to live absolutely alone, and it is the same with municipalities. Any city or town that is not willing to cooperate with some other for the welfare of both, is standing in its own light, and does not deserve any more than happens to fall to its lot. There is unity in strength, and there is glory enough for all. It behooves all, therefore, to work together for the common good of all, and by so doing greater results can and will be obtained.

The same rule that applies to boat lines and dock facilities may also be said to apply with equal force to other utilities, such as for instance, electric lights, especially where two towns are near enough to each other to be supplied by the same plant. There are many instances where this could be made to apply and it would no doubt apply of great value, owing to the great saving of all concerned. And there are many other ways of cooperating that could be practiced with benefit.

Once more T. J. Miller is trying to grow palm trees around the Imperial Theater. As to whether he will succeed or not remains to be seen but any man who tries as hard to beautify the premises as Mr. Miller has in the past few years should certainly be assisted by the general public. I believe that if the small boys will let the trees alone long enough they will grow and greatly beautify the Imperial Theater and the general public should help to protect the trees by discouraging the depredations of any one who tries to break the trees down or swing on them or otherwise maltreat them while they are growing. These palm trees have been planted several times and I know that they have cost the owners a pretty sum of money to procure and plant them. Those in front of the building seem in a fair way to succeed and the ones on the side that have just been planted again should certainly be protected.

A friend of mine came to town the other day and in showing him around he was flabbergasted by the sign over the county jail and said it was the first time in his life that he had ever seen a jail of any kind labeled. I am not sure that I ever saw one before with such a nice label on it and looking at it again it strikes me that Seminole County Jail is probably the only one of the kind that has ever been labeled for the general public. It demonstrates that we are up to date in every particular and want the public to realize that we have a good jail and are proud of it. Next season we could add a sign below the present sign and give the rate per day or month and in time the jail would prove a popular resort. In any event the stranger in the city could not possibly mistake the county jail for the court house or the hotel.

Some comment was called forth by the fact that a California boy ran away from home rather than take a bath. It throws an interesting light upon the subject of boy nature. A female contributor to a newspaper was surprised at the action of the urchin and states that she supposed all boys liked to bathe. The good woman probably confused the terms "bathing" and "swimming." All boys like to go in swimming; no normal boy likes to take a bath. There is as much difference between taking a bath and going in swimming as there is between making mud pies and having to work in a brick yard.

No puddle is too cold or too dirty to attract a boy able to exist upon land or in water. But bathing is neither living upon land or in water; it is a criminal process forced upon boys as a punishment for being boys.

A healthy boy will paddle around all day in cold, unclean water, but he rebels at night if required to do so much as dip his feet in a bath tub of clean, warm water—like a girl. He is not afraid of the effects of a good bath; he just doesn't see any use in it, and it doesn't feel good like the comforting waters of the creek.

Even the splendid bathing pools of the clubs and institutions do not appeal to the boys like a muddy pond. They go in swimming in the pools when there is nothing else to be done, but any boy will walk three miles to a gravelly brook and shiver in the wind while dressing and undressing rather than to take a plunge in an artificial swimming hole.

Soap was invented by the greatest enemy the boy ever had. He cannot understand why any one should ever have been so cruel as to make a cake of the slippery stuff. It does very well to hurl at the fellows out in the middle of the stream, and the latter affords amusement as he stands waist deep in the river and watches it dissolve upon the surface of the water, but as for the utility of soap, there is nothing to it so far as the boy is concerned. At most it is only good to bring about a water fight when a lot of boys have gathered at the swimming hole.

And the boys are right. So far as they are concerned, soap is a useless commodity. Nothing so becomes a boy as dirt. He wouldn't be a boy without a generous amount of it upon his face and hands. He would be a "slimy" if he were clean. Cleanliness in a boy denotes that he has been deprived of a lot of fun—the more dirt the more fun and the less dirt the less fun. We believe the Bible implicitly; we believe that the first boy was made out of dirt.

An acquaintance was discussing some of the beautiful specimens of word painting that had come to his notice at one time or another. He mentioned some of the work of Robert G. Ingersoll and remembered John J. Ingall's tribute to grass as being particularly pleasing. It may interest you and is reproduced here not only on account of its merit but because I also lack just that amount of copy.

"Lying in the sunshine among the buttercups and the dandelions of May, scarcely higher in intelligence than the minute tenants of that mimic wilderness, our earliest recollections are of grass; and when the fitful fever is ended and the foolish wrangle of the market and forum is closed, grass heals over the year which our descent into the bosom of the earth has made; and the carpet of the infant becomes the blanket of the dead.

"Grass is the forgiveness of nature—her constant benediction. Fields trampled with battle, saturated with blood, torn with the ruts of cannon, grow green again with grass, and carnage is forgotten. Streets abandoned by traffic become grass grown like rural lanes and are obliterated. Forests decay, harvests perish, flowers vanish, but grass is immortal. Relegated by the sudden blasts of winter, it withdraws into the impregnable fortress of its subterranean vitality and emerges upon the first solicitation of spring.

"Sown by the winds, by the wandering birds, propagated by the subtle agriculture of the elements which are its ministers and servants, it softens the rude outlines of the world. It bears no blazoning, or blooms to charm the senses with fragrance or splendor, but its homely hue is more exulting than the lily or the rose. It yields no fruit in earth or air, and yet should its harvest fail for a single year, famine would depopulate the world."

At this writing Victorjapo Huerta has been succeeded by Francisco Carbajal. Who is to come after Mr. Car-whats-his-name is one of the secrets inscribed on the unrolled scroll of the future. That some one will come after him is the one best paragraph in the story—and when they come they will get him. It may be Villa marching in from the north, who will stretch forth a blood-stained hand and dip him the one-way transportation for a trip that he isn't prepared to take.

If there is one thing which a Mexican loves it is a change. He is a fickle cum and is a great provider of presidents for his government. In the fifty-nine years previous to 1876 Mexico had fifty-two dictators. Then Porfirio Diaz appeared upon the scene and established an endurance record that will never again be equaled, measured either American or Mex. He managed to lease of all ambitious fellow countrymen until 1910 when Madro came along and captured Porfirio's hollow horned ruminant, and he in turn was just learning to find his way about the palace without the assistance of a guide when he was double crossed by his best friend, Huerta. And now he has made that way for Mr. Car-how-do-you-say-it. Who will be the next?

There is one thing you can say for the Mexicans; they have no desire to waste time on the pulling arts of peace when there is rapine and murder to be accomplished, and as their families accompany them on the campaigns they fight with all the comforts of home behind the nearest hill.

Value of a Wife.

The magistrate had asked all of the customary questions about taking "this man," or "this woman," for a lawful wedded companion and about "promising to love, honor and obey." The ceremony was finished. The couple were married.

The bridegroom started to reach for his wallet. Then he stopped. "Squire," he said, "I gotta proposition to make to ye. I'll give you $2 now, or I'll wait six months and give you what I think my wife's worth then, even if it's $300."

The magistrate looked at the bride for a moment. "I believe I'll take the $2 now," he said.—Louisville Times.

Cutting and Polishing.

The Rev. Holman Black was congratulated in Denver by a reporter, after an eloquent sermon, on his mastery of pulpit oratory.

"What is your secret, sir?" the reporter asked. "Well," was Dr. Black's smiling answer, "a preacher should always remember that while there are sermons in stone, the more precious a stone is, the more carefully it must be cut and polished."

Fragments of Time Count.

Many persons have become truly educated merely by the wise use of odd fragments of time. A bit of poetry or a verse of Scripture learned while dressing in the morning; a few foreign words or phrases coined on the way to work, or between tasks; a great book read in snatches while waiting for meals; a dip into noble literature at bed time; a studious effort to secure contact with some nobler person than one's self every day—by such simple plans as these life is enriched and made powerful.

Geneva is Prospering

Geneva, July 31.—Mr. C. E. Patterson, the genial and accommodating local representative of the East Coast Railway, is quite sanguine as to the future of Geneva.

Mr. Endor Curlett is likewise an optimist when talking of Geneva. He says that two years' residence in the state has convinced him that in the near future people will be coming to Florida to escape the heat of summer as well as the severity of winter.

Mr. Henry Tarbell saw the need of a lumber yard here last fall and his foresight has been rewarded by a flourishing business in that line.

Mr. Gordon Flynt, proprietor of the Geneva House, built a hotel in the fall of 1912, which he enlarged during the summer of 1913, but has found that the hotel has not grown as fast as the demand, and will again add to his building this summer.

Mr. C. A. Raulerson says that twenty years' experience has convinced him that the orange business is good enough for him.

Mr. A. J. WAR IN EUROPE BOUND TO OCCUR; NATIONS ARMED

THE AUSTRIANS BOMBARD THE CAPITAL OF SERBIA

REFUSE TO HEED OFFER OF RUSSIANS

THE WHITE BEAR WILL HELP HER SLAV NEIGHBOR AND EUROPE WILL COME IN

St. Petersburg, July 31.—In Russian eyes the dye is cast. Only a political miracle can avert war.

Russia does not avert in her determination to support Serbia and partial mobilization already has been ordered. There is every indication that the whole vast military machinery of Russia soon will be set in motion.

An imperial manifesto is awaited tonight. Should Emperor Nicholas become generalissimo of the forces, as it is understood he will, an immense wave of enthusiasm will sweep over Russia. The political parties have sunk their differences. The general attitude is not "jingoistic," but one of resolute confidence in the justice of the country's cause and readiness to make all sacrifices.

The proposal attributed to Austria to discuss terms when Belgrade has been occupied is regarded as impossible. It is pointed out that before opening of hostilities Russia proposed to Austria a direct exchange of views, which Austria rejected.

London, July 31.—The day's events brought no relief to the suspense nor any diplomatic achievement to restrict the Austro-Serbian war to those two nations. The feeling throughout England and the continental feeling, as reflected by the correspondents of the London papers, tonight is distinctly more anxious than yesterday.

The events have made for pessimism. Direct negotiations between Russia and Austria, which gave the other governments hope of a compromise, have failed. Russia is mobilizing against the Austrian frontier force army corps in each of four districts, consisting of 1,280,000 men. Russia's resolution to stand by Serbia appears to be fixed.

Athens, July 31.—The Servian legation has received the following telegram from Nish, dated July 29: "During the night, Belgrade was bombarded. Shells fell in various quarters of the town causing great damage. Several fell on the Franco-Serbian and the Andrejevitch banks. M. Andrejevitch, of the banking firm was wounded. Both banks have lodged a protest at the German legation."

An angry duel is proceeding at Vienna about 3 1/2 miles down the Danube from Belgrade.

WOMAN IS ACQUITTED

No Law Against Killing Editors Origin in France

Paris, July 31.—Madame Callaux is at her home today a freed woman, having been acquitted by a jury in the Court of Appeals of the willful murder of Gustave Calmette, editor of the Paris Figaro on March 18, and in statements he made which declared that she owed her freedom to Maitre Labori's masterpiece speech to Maitre Labori's masterpiece speech, of eloquence's eloquence.

As the verdict of the jury was read after fifty minutes of deliberation, Madame Callaux staggered and threw her arms about the neck of her leading counsel, Labori, her hair falling over her shoulders and her hat upon the floor. She seemed enraptured in the courtroom, and she departed in the night with her attorney for the Calmette family through narrow passages on a side street. Cries of approval as well as disapproval of the decision were heard, and the court had difficulty in restoring order.

FOR BETTER ROADS IN UNITED STATES; BONDS TO COVER

SENATOR BRYAN HAS A SUBSTITUTE BILL FOR A LARGE SUM

FLORIDA'S SHARE IS NEARLY FIVE MILLION

OTHER NEWS OF THE WORLD AT LARGE COMPILED FOR BUSY READERS

Washington, July 31.—The enormous sum of $4,750,000 of Federal funds would be placed at the disposal of Florida for the development of good roads if the bill just reported from the Senate committee on post-offices and postroads as a substitute for the Shackelford bill, which has passed the House, becomes a law.

The author of the substitute bill is Senator Bryan of Florida, who is a member of the Senate committee.

The bill provides that the Federal government shall issue fifty-year 3 per cent bonds to the amount of $500,000,000 in lots of $100,000,000 each for five years. States can participate in the use of the funds by issuing 4 per cent bonds, which deposited in the Federal Treasury would be exchanged for cash. The 1 per cent difference between the Federal and state bonds would be held in a sinking fund with which to aid the states in retiring the bonds. Under the terms of the bill there would be created a United States highway commission, to have an advisory voice in the expenditures of the highway fund in the several states. The plan embodied in the bill was suggested originally by the Secretary of the Treasury.

An amended provision that the issuance of bonds shall not be begun before July 1, 1918. In this way the Democrats of the committee believe they have solved the vexatious problem of avoiding a heavy tax upon the credit of the government at the present time. The factors upon which the appropriation is based are total area, total road mileage, assessed value of property and population. Just what will be the outcome of good roads legislation remains to be seen. There is a very radical difference between the attitude of the Senate and that of the House on the subject. The legislation passed by the House appropriates varying amounts per mile out of the Federal Treasury to aid the states in building and maintaining highways over which the rural mail is carried. Congressional appropriations are mounting very high and one of the features of the Senate bill which meets with special approbation among those who seek to hold down the obligations of this and the next Congress is that the issuance of government bonds is not to begin before July 1, 1918, the commencement of the fiscal year 1918-1919.

He is a young man of excellent traits of character and has the happy faculty of making friends wherever he goes. We warmly recommend him to the people of Ft. FOR SCHOOL TRUSTEES

Elections Will be Held in Seminole County Next Tuesday

Pursuant to a call an election will be held in the five districts of Seminole county next Tuesday for trustees for the next two years. There will be three trustees elected for each district and the voters will also vote for the three mill tax to be levied as usual for school purposes. The Herald is printing the tickets for the election and they will be sent to each voting district on Saturday in ample time for the election on Tuesday. There are many candidates for the position in each of the districts and blank lines will be left on the ballots for the names of candidates to be voted upon who have not yet signified their intentions of sacrificing themselves for the country's good. In the first district, Sanford, there are four candidates.

CHILDREN'S HOME SOCIETY

Doing Great Work in Providing Homes for Orphan Children

Four hundred and thirty-four children, homeless, orphans, abandoned, deserted, crippled, blind, diseased, abused, neglected and helpless, have been referred to the Children's Home Society of Florida, Florida's greatest charity, during the first seven months of the present year. These children have come from every nook and corner of Florida and have ranged in ages from one day old to sixteen years of age. About two-thirds of these little ones were girls, the others boys.

Death has been the chief destroyer of homes, while abandonment, cruelty, neglect, desertion, vice and crime, have each added to the loss of parents, the wrecking of lives and homes.

Only 12 of the 434 are now at the Receiving Home at Jacksonville. A good family home being found for every homeless and orphan youngster—but this dozen, all of whom are anxiously waiting for some good home to open up to them—and some good father and mother to love them.

Perhaps in a week two dozen more will be added to this number, so Supt. Marcus C. Fagg is hoping real soon to find good homes for this little flock as soon as possible. An average of two children per day are received and provided for by the Home Society the year round.

The oldest one of the present group waiting for good homes is Arthur, a fine lad of 15 years; then there is Omega; and excellent girl of 13 years; Lena, a smart, happy girl of 11 years; Edna, a full orphan child of 11 years; Minnie, a large girl of fifteen years; Lilly, a sweet little brunette of 8 years; Clarence, a three months old baby boy; Gene and Willis, brother and sister, 6 and 8 years of age, and Garrie and John H., another brother and sister, 6 and 8 years old, these last two sets of children hoping to find good home homes together. Mr. Fagg will be delighted to receive applications for any of these children—all of them being well and ready to be placed.

By persistent effort the Home Society has done its great work this year and kept out of debt, but more funds must be secured at once if the great work is to continue out of debt. Covington, the treasurer of the society for ten years will be delighted to receive donations of money, no matter how small, at the headquarters for the state, at 361 St. James Bldg., Jacksonville, Fla. Mrs. E. L. Bass, the faithful matron of the Receiving Home, located at 1944 Riverside Ave., Jacksonville, will be very glad to welcome donations of clothes, shoes, hats, games, toys, dolls, fruits, staple provisions, sheets and pillow cases, handkerchiefs, napkins and most anything else that children can eat, wear or enjoy. Visitors are welcome at the Home every afternoon from 5 to 5 o'clock.

This great work includes all churches and beliefs, except the Monmon, and is supported by voluntary donations only, and covers the entire state.

The interest and help of every citizen of our state is earnestly solicited.

CATTLE RAISING IN THE SOUTH ONE LARGE ASSET

FUTURE WILL PROVIDE THE FINEST BEEF IN THE UNITED STATES

STOCK RAISERS ARE LEARNING NEW METHODS

THE BIG PACKERS NOW COME TO FLORIDA TO GET THEIR BEEF SUPPLY

Cattle will be one of Florida's greatest assets.

The Herald made this statement several years ago and each year has brought our prediction nearer the mark. The Sanford men who have been engaged in the cattle business for years have always made good money but the biggest money is yet to be made when the better system of feeding, eradicating the cattle tick and breeding to better beef cattle takes the place of the former haphazard methods of allowing the cattle to roam at will. The Tosohatchie ranch company composed of Sanford men and organized several months ago made a long step in the right direction when they purchased over twenty thousand acres of good grazing lands and fenced it. Then they added over 4000 head of good cattle and since that time have been busy adding the finest bulls they could purchase and studying the cattle business from every angle. These gentlemen know the needs of the business and the needs of the market and now that the big packers are clamoring for Florida beef the Tosohatchie ranch will be among the first in the state to reap the benefits of better culture and better cattle. The cattle business of Florida is destined to take a place in the front ranks of our many advantages as a farming state. The much despised Florida razor back hog and the lean Florida cow will soon be displaced by a cross between the native and the imported and from that hybrid will spring a fine stock that will fatten easy and thrive on the vast prairies of the upper St. Johns river and the pine forests adjoining.

Millinery Worn at the Wedding

ONE of the loveliest of the many beautiful hats worn at the wedding of Miss Wilson is pictured here. It was designed by Kurzman for the bride's sister, Mrs. Francis B. Sayre, and is a fine example of what may be achieved with familiar materials and a simple shape, in the way of an unusual piece of millinery.

Nearly all the hats made for the bride were in blue, and several of the various "sailor" shapes were chosen by her. Blue, in fact, seems to be a favorite color with all the members of the family. The hat worn by Miss Margaret Wilson was an exquisite shade of blue maline, and the bride provided her trousseau with one hat having a blue straw brim and a blue maline crown with moire ribbon bows at front and back. There was also a Georgette sally of shiny blue straw trimmed with small blue tips and a rose at the left side. Another sailor, in Alice blue, was trimmed with dainty blue wings.

The lovely hat shown here was a large shape of fine wire covered with many thicknesses of maline in a delicate shade of salmon pink. The entire crown and upper brim were covered with black horsehair lace. On the under brim a black maline flange appears about two inches wide.

A band of wide black velvet ribbon, unfinished with a knot and pointed ends, was laid about the crown. Three small blue and pink French bouquets with foliage were set on the black velvet band.

For the bride's mother a large black hat of horsehair lace was made, trimmed with maline bow underneath, and in lieu of the aigrette, a cluster of burnt ostrich fancy feathers was mounted for the trimming. For the bride's sister, a large hat of blue maline, trimmed with maline bow underneath, and in lieu of the aigrette, a cluster of burnt ostrich fancy feathers was mounted for the trimming. GEORGE McQUILLAN IN OLD-TIME FORM

Pitcher McQuillan of Pittsburgh.

George McQuillan has been performing as handsomely and easily in the box as any hurler in the National league. He has entirely regained the form he displayed when he was with the Phillies several years ago and is going to be a great help to the Pirates in their struggle for the flag. Big Mac is a grand fielder and he cuts in once in a while with a hit and wins his own game. Mac objects to being called a veteran pitcher. He is only twenty-nine years old, and is in as good shape as he ever was in his life. Mac and Babe Adams will have to bear the brunt of the Pirate defense in the box. So far they have been able to get by very neatly.

Delicate Question.

"The interrogation, 'Where did you get it,' caused me much less apprehension," confessed Senator Smugg, "than the feeling that some day the public may learn the answer to the question, 'Where did you put it?'" — Puck.

April Fool Day.

There are all sorts of theories as to the origin of the merry anniversary, but the most plausible is the one which gives the custom its use in France, about 1564. France was the first European country to adopt the reformed calendar, and as a result the New Year day was carried back to January 1, and mock calls were made on April 1, as a joke on such as had forgotten the change in the calendar.

He Lost the Wager.

A man who prided himself on a wonderful imagination that could conceive the biggest lies on record once made a wager that he could tell a greater falsehood than any man in the town where he resided. The stakes being deposited, he proclaimed that he once threw a nail with such force that it pierced the moon. "Aye, that is true," exclaimed another man. "I saw him do it, for I stood on the other side and caught the nail."

Odd-Looking Shark's Egg.

A shark's egg is one of the oddest looking things imaginable. It is unprovided with shell, but the contents are protected by a thick, leathery covering, almost as elastic as india rubber. The average size is 2 by 2½ inches, and it is almost jet black.

STOMACH TROUBLE FOR FIVE YEARS

Majority of Friends Thought Mr. Hughes Would Die, But One Helped Him to Recovery.

Pomeroyton, Ky.—In interesting advices from this place, Mr. A. J. Hughes writes as follows: "I was down with stomach, trouble for five (5) years, and would have sick headache so bad, at times, that I thought surely I would die. I tried different treatments, but they did not seem to do me any good. I got so bad, I could not eat or sleep, and all my friends, except one, thought I would die. He advised me to try Thedford's Black-Draught, and quit taking other medicines. I decided to take his advice, although I did not have any confidence in it.

I have now been taking Black-Draught for three months, and it has cured me—haven't had those awful sick headaches since I began using it.

I am so thankful for what Black-Draught has done for me."

Thedford's Black-Draught has been found a very valuable medicine for derangements of the stomach and liver. It is composed of pure, vegetable herbs, contains no dangerous ingredients, and acts gently, yet surely. It can be freely used by young and old, and should be kept in every family chest.

WILSON A PROPHET

"The steady pressure of moral force will before many days break down the barriers of pride and prejudice, and we shall triumph as Mexico's friends sooner than we could triumph as her enemies—and how much more handsomely, and with how much higher and finer satisfactions of conscience and honor!"

It was with these words that, on August 27, 1913, in addressing Congress, the President announced the Mexican policy, a policy which the jingoes were pleased to dreisively call that of "watchful waiting."

The first imperative of it was that "Huerta must go!" The papers announced that on July 20, Huerta suddenly took his departure from the country aboard a German cruiser. Within less than 11 months, the first and most indispensable article of the much derided policy of "watchful waiting" has been fulfilled.

Events are moving in a way to promise an early fulfillment of all else in that prophecy of a year ago, a prophecy which, when stated in the inspiring words quoted, moved the cynical to pronounce it the fantasy of a dreamer.

Not only is Huerta gone, but he who succeeds to his title shows both readiness and eagerness to cancel what remains of his usurpation. Gen. Carranza, pedant and formalist that he has shown himself to be, nevertheless manifests a disposition to abate technicalities and formalities that if insisted upon, might defer the consummation that was decreed by the President's resolution. The government is on the eve of transfer from those who used to oppress to those who are pledged to use it to liberate.

It is so much the policy of the President, enunciated less than a year ago is vindicated to a degree of perfection rarely vouchsafed to human purpose. Can any one doubt the further fulfillment of the prophecy? Is it not pretty well assured that this policy of peace, of watchful waiting, is destined to "triumph"? Is it not certain that it is to "triumph" sooner than we could have hoped a policy of impatient aggression to triumph? And is it not equally certain that, whatever resentments may animate them now, the Mexican people must come to feel gratitude for the service which the United States has rendered them?

Rare indeed has it been in the history of the race that the decisions of statesmanship have been made with a finer inspiration of truth than was that decision which the derisive were pleased to call the policy of "watchful waiting."

DAYTON'S CITY MANAGER

The city of Dayton, Ohio, is felicitating itself on its new method of municipal administration. It is what is known as the "city manager" plan, and is an innovation which was in a manner forced upon the municipality by the disastrous flood of last year.

Thousands were left homeless, many without food, half of the city in ruins, and the city administration of ordinary type found itself utterly unable to cope with the situation. Under such circumstances powers passed naturally from the weak city administration to those by nature better fitted to command, and who by ruling with military absolutism quickly brought order from chaos.

The results obtained so pleased Dayton that on the first day of January of this year it adopted as a permanent feature of its government a scheme which centers power in one man, giving him almost absolute control of city affairs. Prior to the flood Dayton has been troubled with too much division of authority. The board of safety was continually fighting the board of public works, with the net result that streets went unsprinkled and necessary improvements were neglected.

Each of the other departments assumed authority in what is considered its own field, and the result was incessant turmoil. Now all this is changed. In the city manager Dayton now has a boss who is a boss. Board of works and board of safety are subordinate. Streets are sprinkled and improvements are made.—Review of Reviews.

The man who is a voluntary idler is viewed with feelings of mingled contempt and pity, but we take off our hats out of respect to the man who works honestly and willingly

RAILROAD COMMISSION FAILS

HAVE DONE NOTHING BUT DRAW THEIR SALARIES DURING TERM OF OFFICE

(ORLANDO REPORTER-STAR)

The Ocala Banner has the following comment on a condition that is all too apparent:

"We may be wrong, but it seems to us that an active, determined railway commission—the state acting with the interstate in season and out of season—could have secured more favorable rates for the shippers by this time. The Florida shipper pays proportionately a higher rate than the shipper in any other state in the Union. There is something wrong somewhere."

The Banner is eminently correct. If the railroad commission had taken hold of rate adjustments as it should have there would be no need for the growers of Florida to band themselves together in an organization for the employment of rate and other experts to work out their problems for them. When the railroad commission was created and men were elected to compose the board the people rested on their oars and waited for results.

It would be unjust to assert that the commission has accomplished nothing, and the Reporter-Star would leave no such criticism. The commission has done this and that, as the record will show. It has ordered new passenger stations erected, and after a long fight, continuing for some seven years, it finally secured the enforcement of what appears upon the face to be a three cent passenger fare. Moreover, the commission has done something in the way of equalizing rates. Yet in spite of what it has done the commission is open to criticism that there is much of vital importance to the whipping interests of the state that it hasn't done. For this reason the owners are called upon to maintain an expensive organization to seek out their wrongs and sustain their contentions that they are discriminated against by the carriers. As this is written we are well aware that the commission's attitude is that the board occupies a judicial phere and is not supposed to play the part of prosecuting attorney and court at the same time; that it stands ready to survey and pass upon all questions of rate inequalities that are brought before it. The truth of this cannot be denied, but the commission has sought additional authority from nearly every legislature since its creation and this has been granted, until it has built up a bureau of expensive attaches and has legal authority to perform incalculable service to the people if its activities were simply directed along such lines. But the result of granting this broad scope of authority has been, productive of some incongruous results, to-wit:

This commission has a special attorney who receives a salary of $4,500 a year. The general attorney is or should be the head of the department of justice in the state and that official receives $3,600 a year. The justices of the supreme court are paid only $3,000 a year, though by legislative jugglery they are permitted to eke out their salaries from an allowance for clerk hire which is not used for that purpose, until the sum reaches approximately $3,600 a year for each. It is anomalous if not unfair that a special attorney, who ranks beneath the attorney general, should receive a greater salary and be solely subject to the commission. The commission claimed, however, that the railroads had the best attorneys to be found and paid them good salaries in order to cope with highclass talent the commission should be given authority to employ an attorney equally talented. The request was granted. For some eight years this special attorneyship has existed, and it would be interesting to the people to learn what signal victory the commission has gained in contest with the railroads by reason of its existence. In other words, what have the people gotten for their money?

In addition to the special attorney the commission employs a civil engineer and a rate expert besides the regular secretary and the stenographer, and when it went into the fight to secure enforcement of the three cent rate it employed a special firm of auditors and the work done in this connection cost, if we remember correctly, some $13,000.

The railroad commission has for his daily bread.—Gainesville Sun.

Quite right, but you also have to take your hat off to the man who is a voluntary idler and gets by with it.

Despite the predictions of Joe Reese of the Orlando Reporter-Star that world peace had been consummated the European powers are getting ready for war. Someway Joe and Andy Carnegie cannot pull that peace stuff and make it stick.

grown into a costly bureau, constantly reaching out for more authority without producing the kind of tangible net returns that the people have a right to expect. Freight inequalities exist everywhere in Florida, and if nobody takes it up and makes the issue the condition remains as it is. It is not enough to call attention to it. The only way in which redress can be obtained is for the board of trade, or some such organization, to employ an attorney and make out its case and present it to the commission.

Time and again the Reporter-Star has called attention to the exorbitant rate on paving brick into Florida. Orange county and the city of Orlando have contracted to expend three-quarters of a million dollars for paving brick and nearly half of this amount will go to the railroads for freight. It is astounding. And what is true of freight on this commodity to Orlando is true of the entire state in varying degrees of excess. Florida has just begun to develop and consequently has just started to pave its streets and highways. Millions of dollars will be spent in the next decade for paving materials, yet in view of this fact, which is well known to the railroad commission, no move has been made by that board to carry the matter to the interstate commerce commission for an adjustment of the rate. Why should the commission wait for some board of trade to employ its own counsel and make out the case, when it possesses primed and equipped all the necessary machinery to do so, machinery paid for with money extracted from the people by taxation for the support of the railroad commission?

It is time something were done to bring the commission to a realization of its duty for the impression prevails that it is a moribund body, either without the capacity or the inclination to perform the work committed to its care.

The Reporter-Star has but touched the subject, but it is reasonable to mention in this connection the long and short haul act passed by the last legislature to become effective the first of the year, 1914. This is a law which would accomplish much in the way of equalizing freight charges, but it was left for the commission to say whether the law should go into effect or not. The railroads filed protest, as was expected, and hearings were held at several points in the state. Why these hearings were not held prior to the first of the year is not explained, but in any event the hearings were conducted and the year is more than half gone and still we have no report from the commission on the subject.

It requires but little consideration of the situation to conclude that the overshadowing trouble with the commission is one of fundamental error. To begin with, the commission should know what it is about. Instead of having authority to employ experts the commission themselves should possess expert knowledge of the subjects they are to handle. The objects to be gained by the creation and work of the commission would be better served if the railroad commission were abolished and a public service commission created composed of an attorney, a transportation and rate expert and an engineer. In that event the help to be employed would be clerical only, and the men with the authority would be boss of the job.

TAKING CALOMEL IS DANGEROUS

Calomel is a powerful chemical made from mercury—people should be careful about its use. The only sure way to avoid the danger of calomel is to take no calomel.

Dodson's Viver Tone, a vegetable liquid of pleasant taste, more than takes its place. Where calomel shakes you up and shocks your liver and often makes you really sick, Dodson's Liver Tone, mild but effective, builds up and strengthens. It livens up the liver. You feel fine after taking it.

Dodson's may be taken without any restrictions of diet or habits. You can give it to your children with fine results.

Get a large bottle for 50 cents at L. R. Phillips & Co.'s and if it doesn't do all that you think it ought—if it doesn't make bilious spells mere trifles—if it doesn't liven up your liver—your money will be waiting for you and be returned with a smile.

Morrow of Sanford is here today demonstrating the "Saxon," a two passenger auto of fifteen horse power, weighing 1020 pounds and having a traveling capacity of thirty miles on a gallon of oil. Read Gordon Craig, The Soldier of Fortune. KILLED AT CROSSING Walter Scott on Motorcycle Attempts to Cross Track and is Killed Walter Scott, a young man 21 years of age who has been residing in Conway was injured yesterday at the first railroad crossing south of Robinson Springs from the effects of which he died last night. Scott's parents resided here and had intended visiting them, starting north yesterday afternoon. Coming to the crossing he met No. 89 southbound. The fireman saw him from his side and stated that Scott looked like attempting to cross, then hesitated and then put on more speed, and upon reaching the crossing saw his mistake and swerved to the side but not enough to miss the engine. The engineer stopped the train and the crew could not at first locate Scott at the side of the road but he was found under the cow catcher. He was immediately brought to this city and to the offices of Dr. Howard and Miller, the A. C. L. physicians, where an examination revealed that no hopes were broken but he had suffered a severe injury to his head, causing concussion of the brain. The physicians labored with him until far into the night but the unfortunate young man breathed his last about ten o'clock last night. Mr. and Mrs. Scott, the parents of the young man resided here on Third street and the sympathy of the community go out to them in the loss of the son just rounded into manhood's estate. These crossings on the Sanford-Orlando road are dangerous and some provision should be made either by the railroads or the county or both to give the drivers of the vehicles a better view of the tracks at the crossings. On the other hand, under the present conditions all drivers should be extremely careful in making the crossings and some of the accidents could be avoided. Notice To the Voters of Sanford Special School District and Patrons of the Sanford Schools: The county board has called an election for next Tuesday, August 4th, to select a local board for the next two years. We wish that every qualified voter would feel enough interest and spare enough time to go to the polls on that day and vote for the men who in his estimation are best qualified to fill that position. The members of the present board have served in this capacity for a number of years. They have given their time and energy to the up-building of our schools, and their only aim has been to do the very best, possible for the children of Sanford and the district. There is no recompense in the work other than a feeling of pride and satisfaction over any good that has been accomplished; and that is coupled with regret that these jobs are so much to be done. The members of the present board will feel no regret if they are relieved of further service in this capacity, and new men are chosen who will work and plan for further advancement and higher ideals. If, however, the people of Sanford and the district see fit to entrust the management of their school affairs to them again, they will endeavor to give to Sanford still better schools, and to prove not unworthy of the confidence so expressed. CASE OF DOUBLE
PERSONALITY

Girl's Strange Affliction and Its Happy Cure.

No one, excepting the sick restored to health, has reason to feel more thankful for that wonderful advance science has made within the last ten or twenty years than I. But right here in the beginning I must break away from my subject to tell a story.

Margaret May charmed me by what I consider the higher traits. She was a sober girl of an intellectual type, with excellent principles and elevated ideals. I am not a man to be pleased with a gay, frolicsome girl, however kind hearted, however winning. It was, therefore, natural that I should yield to the characteristics of Margare-ret. We became engaged, and everything looked well for our future happiness when my fiancée began to show a succession of singular changes. One evening when I went to see her she bounced into the room like a hoiden, threw her arms about my neck, kissed me several times in rapid succession and, beginning with "You bad boy," upbraided me for not having come earlier. When I asked her for what she had wished me she said that a circus had come to town, and she was "dying" to attend that evening's performance. Astonished, I asked her if the next night would not do as well.
She said it would not, and when I pressed her for a reason the only one she would give was that she couldn't wait.

It was altogether too late to go to the circus that evening, so I spent the rest of it with her in the cozy library where we had passed so many happy hours, often taking book after book from the shelves, rambling in them together and calling each other's attention to favorite passages. But, alas, there was no such enjoyment for us tonight. Margare-ret spoke of the books as "musty, dusty things," in which she had no interest, and insisted in talking only upon the most frivolous topics.

It is needless to say that I was not only disappointed, but shocked. Could this be my steady, well balanced, intellectual Margaret? I was inclined to doubt it.

"And you will take me to the circus tomorrow night?" she asked, with a pout, as I rose to go.

"Certainly if you wish it," I replied and, when I could escape from an ex-

That night and the next day my brain was in a turmoil. I was like a man who had lost his love. I brooded instead of working until after office hours and in the evening called to take Margaret to the circus. The maid who received me at the door went upstairs to announce me and, returning, told me that Margaret was not feeling well and had gone to bed.
There was no message of disappointment at missing the performance nor at not seeing me. Indeed, the maid told me that she thought her mistress had not expected me that evening.
This would have been natural had it not been for the engagement, since it was an evening I seldom called.

The next of my usual weekly visits was Sunday, and I called, dreading to again find the hoiden. I was agreeably disappointed. Margaret was her usual self except that she showed signs of overstrained nerves. Something told me to refrain from mentioning her singular personality when I had last seen her—to wait and observe. During the visit and the next two visits she was her own sweet self, barring her altered health. Finally I referred to her desire to visit the circus. She seemed surprised, mystified, and, when I told her the whole story, said with a nervous tremor, "Oh, she'll ruin me!"

"Was some one else than you with me that evening?" I asked.

"Yes—no. I was with you, but she dominated me." And she hurried out of the room.

I was not admitted to see Margaret —indeed, I did not care to see her; I was dissatisfied—for a month. Then I called on her. What was my surprise to find her a different person from either of the two I had known.
From the moment we met she talked of women's rights, women's voting, women's superiority to men and finally told me that if I interfered with her in any of these objects to which she proposed to devote her life we must proceed by separate paths.

I left her maddened. Had I not been puzzled as well I would have broken my engagement then and there, but curiosity prevented. Several months passed in which I continued to visit her, hoping that she would settle down into her old personality resolutely.
When she was another I would turn away from her; when she was my own Margaret I loved her still the same.
As the hoiden I found it possible to be amused with her; as the "strong-minded" woman I could not endure her. I was not able to get the real Margaret to talk of the other two, but from hints she dropped I inferred that she knew of their existence, and she hated them.

One day I received a call from a psychical specialist. He informed me that Margaret was under his care; that two other personalities besides her own appeared to inhabit her body and at times dominated her. By psychic methods of his own invention he was trying to enable her to dominate them and thus return to a normal condition.

He succeeded; the intruders were driven out, and Margaret is my wife.

"House Sisters."

The House-Sisters Association of Berlin was established not long ago to ennoble domestic service and to establish better relations between the employers and the employed. The association has a "Mother House" near the city, where girls are trained for services, situations being found for them when competent. Those in charge of the home keep in touch with the girls after they have gone out into the world to make their own way.

More Caution Needed.

An exchange tells the story of a little boy whose mother decided that he was old enough to do without her sitting by him when he was put to bed until he fell asleep. So when one night she kissed the five-year-old and told him he was a big boy and brave enough to go to sleep without his mamma and in the dark, too, he pondered the situation a moment and then said: "Well, wait a minute. I've got to say my prayers again carefuler."
Suburban Life.

Took Mother Literally.

Marian pointed to the glass or cup when she wished a drink, uttering inarticulate sounds intended to convey her desire. She was old enough to talk some, but she had never been taught to ask for a drink.
Mother said to her: "When you want a drink, Marian, you say, 'Mamma, or papa, or Hazel, or Mildred, drink.'"
The next time Marian wished a drink
she pointed to the cup and said:
"Mamma, papa, Hazel, Mildred, dinkdink-inky-ink-ink!"

Not Likely.

"I wish you would shout at me, just the same as you shout at the animals you are going to kill," said Judge Moss, at the Carnarvon (Wales) county court, to a butcher who was giving evidence in quiet tones. "If you were going to kill an obstreperous bull you would not whisper like this," added his honor.

Trouble for the Future.

First M. D. (from bedside of wealthy bachelor)—He is sleeping naturally—he will recover. Second M. D.—Yes, the worst is over. First M. D.—No,
the worst is yet to come. Second M.

Whitelaw Reid to Newspaper Men.

Whitelaw Reid, in a speech some years ago at a literary dinner, delivered himself of a maxim which he suggested should be hung up in every newspaper office in the world. It was:
"Fewer words, shorter stories, better told." And all the newspaper men present raised a cheer.

Showing the Goods.

A novel mode of advertising for a wife has been adopted by an inhabitant of a provincial town in England.
A photograph of the gentleman is placed in the window of a shop-keeper, and underneath is the following notice:
"Wanted: a female companion to the above. Apply at this office."

Galsworthy Aphorisms.

Nothing that's true is cynical, and nothing that is cynical is true.

The word "smart" is the guardian angel of all fashions, and fashions are the guardian angels of vulgarity.—
"For Love of Beasts," by John Galsworthy.

No Hurry for That Vehicle.

A short-sighted old lady in a hurry to mount a tram car held up her umbrella and shouted to the driver of a passing vehicle, "Stop! Stop!" to which the driver replied, "Don't be in a hurry, mum; it ain't your turn yet."
It was a hearse.

Slight Mistake.

"I understand you went over to Crimson Gulch and lynched the wrong man?" "No," replied Three-Finger Sam. "You can't lynch the wrong man in Crimson Gulch. We just got Plute Pete a little bit ahead of his turn."

College Secret.

Bacon—What did your boy learn at college? Egbert—Says he can't tell me. Bacon—Why not? Egbert—Says it's a secret. Bacon—Nonsense!
Egbert—No. You know, he learned the football signals.

Mixed.

"And how is Rogers getting on? He always declared that he would leave footprints in the sands of time."
"Yes, but unfortunately he got stuck in the mud."

Church Note.

It is not distance from church that makes it hard to go. The farthest members are apt to be the promptest.
—Washington Democrat.

Adam Complained.

"They handed me the meal check face down, so I couldn't tell what it cost," he cried.

Good Time Far Away.

mon.

it is infirmity of will.—Emerson.

Birthday Party

Misses Adele and Gertrude Runge were the charming little hostesses of a very delightful porch party Tuesday afternoon, in honor of Gertrude's tenth birthday. Many old and new fashioned games were enjoyed by the young people, as well as the dainty refreshments served by Mrs. Runge. Late in the afternoon the entire party were taken in Mr. Runge's auto-truck for a pleasant ride in and about the city, after which the children dispersed, voting it the best party ever. Those present were Adele, Lucille, Fred, Hiney and Cecil Rines, Mildred and Annie Lee, Iva Bee Wathen, Tom Brotherson, Sarah Easterby, Vera Terheun, Adele, Gertrude and Ted Runge.

In Honor of Visiting Girls

Miss Muriel Harrold was the gracious young hostess at a very charming afternoon and evening party Tuesday, in honor of her house guest Miss Jewel Dinkle of Longwood, Miss Juliette Gibbons of Jacksonville and Miss Lettie Caldwell.

The beautiful home of the Harrolds, nestling beneath the grand old oaks was a fitting setting for the gay party of young people assembled beneath its hospitable roof. The entire lower floor was thrown open to its guests, the spacious rooms and broad verandas being made very attractive with a profusion of golden rod, graceful palms and ferns in gorgeous masses of beauty.

Many of the guests went out in the early afternoon for supper, which was served al fresco in the oak grove. A dainty and delicious repast that tempted the appetite and satisfied the most fastidious epicure.

Shortly after supper the guests arrived for the dance, an orchestra furnishing the music, until the wee small hours reminded the young people that one of the very happiest many enjoyable affairs must end. Prickly fruit punch, a delicious concoction was served throughout the evening and to add to the many pleasures of an already delightful occasion, a watermelon cutting in the late evening was fully enjoyed.

Those invited to meet the guests of honor were Misses Gena Maulden, Eleanor and Ruth Roberts, Charlotte Hand, Helen and Ruth Hand, Annie Lea Caldwell, Margaret Davis, Margaret Wight, Mary and Lucca Chappell, Helen Rowland, Essie Purdon, Annie Whitner, Lillian Herring, Douglas Abernathy, Gladys Morris, Susie Brown, Dora Harrold; Messrs. Frank Campbell, Pope Wicker, David and Weidman Caldwell, Speer, Frank Woodruff, Robt. Grovenstein, Zeb Radiff, Randall Chase, Ben Whitner, Hume Rumph, Joe, Ned and Roy Chittenden, Seth Woodruff, Ralph Wight Carl Roumillat, Henry Purdon, Tenie and Robt. Deane, Harold Long, Emery Close, Mr. and Mrs. Chappell Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Stedt and daughter.

Showet for Miss Gibson

A charming affair of which Miss Lillian Gibson was the guest of honor was the miscellaneous shower at the pretty bungalow home of Mrs. W. M. McKinnon Wednesday afternoon.

The coziest corner of the bungalow, the screened back porch was converted into a very lovely conception of a sylvan glen, the large, spreading leaves of the palmetto making a pleasing background of green for the banks of ferns and southern smilax and white roses that combined to form a beautiful bower of green and white. Suspended from the ceiling with white ribbons was a large hoop entwined with green and white to which was tied a variety of gifts for the bride-elect, while from the center of the hoop hung a lovely bouquet of white carnations and ferns, sent by Dr. Brownlee for Miss Gibson.

Miss Gibson was blindfolded and led beneath the hoop, the ribbons were cut and it was the surprise of the afternoon when Miss Gibson found herself encircled by the hoop, the packages containing dainty and useful gifts about her.

The punch bowl stood upon a dainty white cover, with tracery of green, carrying out the pretty color scheme.

In the dining room masses of red roses and asparagus fern were used in the decoration. The table, full length was lovely with its handsome white cover, outlined with asparagus fern and a gorgeous mass of red beauty roses in the center, while from the corners drooped sprays of fern and roses, making a very effective and charming decoration. Ice cream was served with green and white cherries and the cakes were iced with white.

Mrs. McKinnon's guests were Mesdames Peck, Hopson, McLaulin, Dinglee, Maxwell, J. W. Dickins, H. R. Stevens, Deane, Harold and Mrs. Bowers; Misses Mabel Bowler, Mell, Alice and Annie Whitner, Annie Lee and Lettie Caldwell, Helen Rowland, Essie Purdon, Virginia Smith, Bessie Long, May Doyle and Alice Caldwell.

Wednesday Auction Bridge

Mrs. Deane Turner was hostess to the Wednesday Club this week, with two tables of players, Mrs. Geo. Speer making top score and winning the club prize. Present were Mesdames B. A. Howard, Geo. Fox, Roy Symes, W. P. Carter, R. E. Tolar, Gonzales, Speer and Miss Martha Fox.

Dickson-Stewart

A marriage to which romantic interest attaches is that of Miss Kate Dickson to Mr. J. R. Stewart, June 6th at Daytona. The young people intended to keep their marriage a secret until October, Miss Dickson continuing to hold her position with the telephone company until then, but Mr. Stewart's firm ordered him west and he was unwilling to go without his bride, so the marriage was announced to the family and intimate friends. Mrs.

Stewart left Wednesday to join Mr. Stewart in Jacksonville enroute to Macon. From there they will go to Cobden, Illinois, making their way to Ogden, Utah, where they will be located until fall.

Mrs. Stewart is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Dickson of Longwood and for years has been the efficient night operator of the telephone company. Mr. Stewart is the son of an Episcopal clergyman in the north of Ireland and is a successful commission man.

TRICE'S TRUMPETEER

(Articles Published under this heading furnished by M. P. A. Bureau, Jacksonville)

A Massachusetts' Opinion

It is the confusion of temperance with prohibition which occasions the most acrimonious contentions in the debates on this question. The no-license towns in Massachusetts, however steadfastly they may maintain that policy, all realize that it does not mean the cessation of liquor drinking. Prohibition states confess to the same situation. Maine is a striking example near at hand. The District of Columbia may become another. Of course the argument is steadily made that the wider the area in which prohibition is enforced, the greater will be the difficulty in evading the law; but even that theory admits of some limitations, not unlike those which affect the whole prohibition program. RED WAR BLAZES HORIZON OF EUROPE

GERMANY INVADES FRANCE AND RUSSIA AT SAME TIME

Berlin, via Brussels, Aug. 4.—The cruiser Augsburg sent the following report by wireless: "Am bombard- ing naval harbor at Libau and am engaged with enemy's cruiser. Naval port Libau in flames." Libau is Russian naval arsenal on Baltic Sea.

London, Aug. 4.—Germany has sent an ultimatum to Belgium in which she offers an entente provided Belgium facilitates the movement of German troops.

The explanation of this would appear to be that Germany and France are each seeking to throw upon the other the onus of beginning a war that may plunge all Europe into bloodshed.

In this curious situation, France, according to British opinion, has the strongest justification. She was the last to mobilize and seems to have taken the greatest precautions to avoid frontier collisions.

On the other hand, Germany, in addition to invading French territory without a formal declaration of war, has violated the neutrality of Luxembourg and declines to give any promise to respect Belgian neutrality.

The efforts of the British Ambassador at Berlin to secure such a pledge have been wasted. It is difficult to see how Great Britain can avoid being drawn into the conflict.

Short of actual formal mobilization, the British Government is taking all necessary steps to meet a situation unprecedented in the nation's history.

There was a scene of great enthusiasm outside Buckingham Palace tonight. Five or six thousand persons gathered before the palace, sang the National Anthem and called for King George, who, with Queen Mary, appeared on the balcony and bowed in response to cheers given for him and for France.

Berlin, Aug. 4.—Russia has begun the invasion of Germany. Russian forces have crossed the German frontier at Schwidnau, southeast of Biala, while last night a Russian patrol entered Germany near Elchenreid.

The Russian column which crossed the frontier at Schwidnau was accompanied by artillery.

Two squadrons of Russian Cossacks are riding in the direction of Johannesburg, in East Prussia, fifteen miles from the frontier.

The Russian patrol which entered near Elchenreid attacked the German guard at the railroad bridge over the Warthe, but was repulsed. Two Germans were slightly wounded.

The above information was given out by the imperial staff, which at the same time said that the invading Russian forces showed "our bad tactical sense."

A French aviator has been dropping bombs from an aeroplane in the neighborhood of Nuremberg, according to an announcement made by the military authorities today. In making this announcement, the authorities added that the action was a bluff against the rights of man, as there had been no destruction of war.

Emperor William came to Berlin in late today from Potsdam. He traveled in an open automobile and was greeted on the station by 10,000 enthusiastic cheering.

WAR MAP OF EUROPE, SHOWING STRENGTH OF ARMIES

The fighting strength of the principal European nations in time of war... The triple alliance—namely, Germany, Italy and Austria itself.

ENGLAND MAY BE DRAWN INTO WAR AT ANY MOMENT

London, Aug. 4.—The British naval reservists were called out at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

This action is taken as confirming the belief that the British government is ready to take its part in the struggle. The naval forces of the Empire now are prepared for any contingency.

The territorial forces of England also are equally prepared without an actual mobilization order. The annual training of the territorial contingents began today and masses of men are gathering at the territorial camps.

The News of the World says it has received a wireless communication that heavy firing is proceeding in the North Sea. The newspapers presume that the French and German fleets are engaged.

According to a dispatch from Copenhagen, the German Baltic fleet was making its way from Kiel to the North Sea.

A dispatch to the Central News says the Germans have taken possession of the English steamer Castro, in the Kiel Canal, and ordered her to Hamburg.

It is also reported that the British steamer, Saxon, which left Kings Lynn, Norfolk, England, last Thursday with a cargo of coal for Brunsbutel, Prussia, has been overtaken by the German navy and diverted to Cuxhaven.

A cablegram today from Gibraltar says a French fleet, consisting of twelve vessels, passed through the Strait of Gibraltar today, bound east.

London, Aug. 4.—The decisions of the British Cabinet, which are to be announced by Premier Asquith today, are comprehensive and deal not only with naval and military preparations, but with the whole fabric of national credit and food supply.

The Chronicle in a later edition revised the opinion it gave earlier on authority of its Parliamentary correspondent regarding the prospective action of the British Cabinet. It says it practically is certain that the Cabinet has decided in certain eventualities not to abstain from armed intervention.

The managers of the Daily Item, in a published card yesterday have declared their intention of discontinuing the daily edition, owing to lack of patronage. The announcement came as no surprise to those who understand the cost of printing a daily edition, for it has been plainly evident for some time past that the Daily Item's receipts were not equal to the expenditures.

The managers have given Palatka a splendid paper, and the suspense is due to no lack of effort on their part. They have hustled early and late and have worked the city as it has never been worked before. But despite all efforts they could not secure sufficient business to keep the daily existing. And thus has the general belief that this field is too limited to maintain a daily paper been verified.

When the question of starting a daily paper was being agitated by some of our citizens about two years ago we looked into the matter carefully, and soon found that it meant nothing but hard work and steady outlay of money. Hence we respectfully declined to become a sacrifice to progress and enterprise. Palatka Herald.

Caliban's Heelion which "bombed" home from the beach on Sunday night had a smash up with one of his wheels, installing a lay over near Orange City junction until daylight. He managed to get help just about dawn and came home later by in the evening. He would rather sleep in Sanford than on the station platform at Orange City.

THE COMMERCIAL CLUB

Will Meet and Discuss Many Matters of Interest to the City

The Sanford Commercial Club will be called to order on Friday night August 14, at the city hall by President Lake and many matters of great interest to our city and county will be taken up. The question of full advertising, the new hotel, the bulkhead, a county fair for Seminole county, an information bureau, an up town ticket office, better freight rates, brick roads, the National Highway, a county board of trade and many matters of like kind that will be of great benefit to our city and county will be discussed. The summer is almost over and it behooves every man in Sanford to attend the meeting and help in the good work of boosting the best city in Florida.

About $2,000 had been subscribed for advertising purposes and all it takes to get this money in a finance committee to collect it from the business men who have agreed to pay it. This money should be collected and turned in to the proper channels and Sanford should be placed on the map at once.

Already hundreds of inquiries are being sent here every month for information about our city and our section and this is the time to make hay. Every man in Sanford who does not belong to the Commercial Club should enroll his name and join in the great work of keeping Sanford in the public eye. A few active members have been doing this and keeping the club alive for years and it is high time that all of the business men of Sanford were coming forward and putting their shoulders to the wheel. The club was not formed for the benefit of a few but for the whole community and the entire history of Sanford should become active members.

Douglas Makes Abstracts

E. K. Douglas, clerk of the circuit court is now making abstracts of title on property on which the abstracts have been previously brought up to date since the division of the county last August. Considerable work in this line is now coming to Mr. Douglas on property in Seminole that is changing hands so it is very much quicker than sending to Orlando. All records being in the clerk's office greatly facilitates the deed and it is expected that a good business in this line will eventually be built up.

B. Y. P. U. Notes

We had quite an interesting program at our meeting Sunday evening. The subject was "The Victorious Life," conducted by members of Group No. 2, with L. T. Bryan as leader. We had several good talks by different members of the Group and also two recitations were rendered by Mrs. E. G. Kennedy and Miss Mary Gatchell, which were very much enjoyed by all.

Our program next Sunday will be conducted by members of Group No. 1. Everybody is invited to come and enjoy these meetings with us. We had the pleasure of adding three new members to our roll Sunday and hope there will be more to follow later.

Caught Negro Preacher

The negro preacher, Jenkins, who jumped his bond here some time ago and fled the country was apprehended in Montgomery last Friday and Sheriff Hadd went up there and brought him back. Jenkins was arrested here several months ago on a warrant of assault on a young girl of his flock and released on bond, some of his ministerial friends being lenient enough to go on his bond for $1,000. He was ungrateful enough to skip the country shortly after and sooner than lose the thousand his bondsmen became busy and started to locate him. It was thought that he was in Birmingham and a suspect was held there and Sheriff Hadd went up to identify him but he was not the man, and not releasing their search the bondsmen kept after Jenkins with the result that he was located in Montgomery last week and now resides behind the bars awaiting trial.

Ford Makes Big Offer

The Ford company announces that beginning last Saturday and continuing for one year, it has reduced the price on each car it will sell $60, and that in addition, if its output for the year reaches 800,000 cars it will share with each retail purchaser of a Ford car during the year to the extent of $40 to $60 per car purchased.

The Ford company says that an output of 300,000 cars for the next twelve months is not an abnormal increase over this year's business as evidenced by the fact that during the past twelve months the company has sold 221,888 cars, and at considerably higher prices than the new prices quoted for the coming year, which ends August 1, 1915. See their advertisement in another part of this issue.

County Commissioners Hagg

County Commissioners Hagg, McLaughlin, Clark and Entininger are in the city and expect to be here several days adjusting tax matters and looking after the county's interests. They had a very important session yesterday, a full amount of which will be given in Friday's issue.

Large Audience at Baptist Church

One of the largest audiences ever present at the Baptist church was out last Sunday night. Practically every seat was taken. People began to reach the church as early as 7 o'clock in order to get a comfortable seat. The chorus of twenty-five voices rendered several beautiful selections. This chorus will be increased to 40 voices and several orchestra instruments. Mr. Chas. L. Polk is the director and Mrs. R. E. Tolson the pianist.

Mr. George Hyman, the pastor had as a subject "A Base Ball." He spoke for several minutes humorously of balls and people. He then produced a base ball and tearing the cover away found it full of Scripture, and where usually a rubber ball is found was the text, which was, "Ye must be born again." The people listened intently to every part of the service.

Mr. Hyman has four other unique subjects for the Sunday nights of this month, as follows: Aug. 9th—A Railroad Crossing. Aug. 16th—A Game of Ball. Aug. 23rd—A. C. L. Dispatchers' Orders. Aug. 30th—The Red Light.

Equalizing Taxes

The board of county commissioners are busy today equalizing taxes and the city council met last night to equalize taxes. This means that all of those who are dissatisfied with their assessments can appear before the boards and make a kick. Sometimes the kick is right and sustained and sometimes it is not. The present system of assessing taxes is a poor one at the best and the people of Sanford and Seminole county would like to see a list of every property owner's taxes published in the paper once each year. If any individual is paying too much or too little this publicity would set him right and this procedure would do more to equalize the taxes than any other method. The city commission of Orlando have adopted this method and it would be well for Sanford and Seminole county to do this. It seems to be the idea of the majority of property owners, especially those holding property for speculation to try and dodge taxes and the publicity would show them up.

The Objects of Pre-Cooling

Mr. Lloyd S. Tenny, manager of the Florida Growers and Shippers League, has issued an article on the general subject of pre-cooling citrus fruits and vegetables. He brings out the fact that the purposes of pre-cooling are two-fold. First to check decay while the fruit is in transit. Secondly, to retard the ripening processes, and so permit the fruit to become ripe before harvesting. There are two kinds of decay which cause the shippers in Florida considerable trouble. The common blug mold decay, and a decay known as stem-end rot. Both of these are checked by pre-cooling.

Different methods of accomplishing pre-cooling are then described. First, there is pre-cooling in cars where the fruit is loaded in the usual way, then the cold air is blown through the car until the fruit is pre-cooled. In the second method of pre-cooling, which is rather favored by Mr. Tenny, the produce is placed in pre-cooling rooms, connected with the packing house, and cooled in them. A system of pre-cooling by the use of ice and salt is briefly described. Two mechanical pre-cooling plants are now being built in the state. The author lays emphasis upon the fact that pre-cooling is still an experiment, and cautions growers and shippers in Florida against going into the subject hurriedly. Mr. Tenny feels that in the course of another year we will know much more about this subject and it will be time enough then to build a large number of pre-cooling plants over the state. The railroads have given the shippers a satisfactory rate of seven dollars and a half per car for the use of the refrigerator car. The shipper has to pay all the expenses of pre-cooling and initially using the car.

Juniors Play Ball

The Sanford White Sox defeated the Highlanders from the Heights in a hard fought game of base ball last Friday afternoon at Holden Park. The game was well played by both teams. The batteries were as follows:

White Sox—Wynburn and J. Laing. Highlanders—M. Spencer, Muss and Pope.

Umpires, Chittenden and Peck

The City Old-Betting Works furnished free soda water for the boys, which was greatly appreciated.

G. P. Swann, the live wire real estate man of Orlando was in the city today on matters pertaining to the property in Seminole county.
