Oviedo police earn accreditation

From Staff Reports

The Commission for Florida Law Enforcement Accreditation has formally recognized the City of Oviedo Police Department for complying with its stringent requirements.

The Commission, in a meeting on Oct. 4, presented a formal certificate of law enforcement accreditation to the department, which was accepted by Oviedo Police Chief Dennis A. Peterson.

The Oviedo Police Department is only the third law enforcement agency in Seminole County to complete and pass the Commission's rigorous review process, joining the Seminole County Sheriff's Office and Altamonte Springs Police Department.

Other Central Florida agencies previously accredited by the commission include Orlando Police, Orange County Sheriff's Office and Winter Park Police.

Though preparation for the commission's recent on-site assessment in Oviedo took close to a year, the Oviedo Police Department's existing policies and procedures already were similar to most of the commission's standards.

Other guidelines, including physical improvements to police headquarters and the implementation of procedures to document on going compliance with commission standards, required the participation of numerous police department personnel.

Among other benefits, agencies satisfying the mandatory professional standards for the Commission for Florida Law Enforcement Accreditation, increase their ability to prevent and control crime through a more effective and efficient delivery of law enforcement services to the communities, according to the commission.

For additional information, the Oviedo Police Department and its Accreditation manager, Lieutenant Ronald Jacobs, can be contacted at 407-977-6146.

Church eyes new school in Sanford

By Dan Ping

Catholic Diocese negotiates for land on SR-46 and Rand Yard Road

SANFORD — The Catholic Diocese of Orlando is looking to locate its new high school on Rand Yard Road in Sanford, just off State Road 46.

No contracts have been signed, but property owners and diocese officials appear to be close to an agreement in their negotiations. During Monday night's Sanford City Commission meeting, commissioners tabled an appeal for Florida Recycling Services' site plan for a new recycling and processing facility on Rand Yard Road so school officials can present their proposal

"There is a wonderful opportunity for this school to come in," said Sid Bihlen, representing Florida Recycling. "Rather than get into a hearing about how best to be compatible, let's see what the school brings to the table. Until then, none of us have enough proper information."

On Tuesday, Maureen Huntington, superintendent of schools for the diocese, would not positively confirm the church has settled on the Sanford site.

"Our intention is to build a Catholic high school in Seminole County, but we haven't purchased any property," Huntington said. "It's possible there could be a piece of land in that area that is being considered, but someone else is responsible for property purchases."

Sanford Mayor Larry Dale, however, said the deal is imminent. "From what I understand, they've got a contract on the property," Dale said. "It just needs a signature."

Diocese officials originally planned to locate the school on Markham Woods Road, but protests from nearby residents shelved those plans. Residents were primarily concerned the high school would bring increased traffic along the scenic two-lane road. That doesn't appear to be an issue with the Sanford site since the school would have access to SR 46 just west of Wayne Densch Inc.

"I think it's great they're looking to locate in Sanford," Dale said. "A high-quality private high school with a student body of 1,000 would be an asset to our city."

Car thief tries to run over officer

Officer fires at car; officers nab three after chase on East SR-46

By Nick Plettaul
Staff Writer

SANFORD — Three suspects, including two juveniles, are in custody after stealing a car and trying to run over a police officer Monday afternoon.

The officer, Nigel Price, is on administrative duty pending an investigation, while the driver, Robert Jordan, 23, faces a string of charges, including attempted homicide of a law enforcement officer, aggravated assault on a law enforcement officer.

The incident began Monday about 1:30 p.m. when a man told police his car was stolen from the Lil Champ convenient store parking lot at 7499 North CR-427. Sanford Police responded and located the vehicle in less than an hour traveling near West 15th Street and French Avenue. The vehicle was located a second time near West 13th Street and French Avenue by officer Price.

According to police reports, as officer Price approached the vehicle, the driver accelerated and apparently attempted to run over Price.

The officer responded by firing several shots at the vehicle, which fled from the area.

Following a pursuit by police, the vehicle ran into the brush at SR-46 and Brison Avenue. One adult and two juveniles were taken into custody.

Sanford Police Chief Brian Tooley said the duty transfer is normal procedure any time an officer discharges a weapon. Tooley said the department is investigating the incident. The Florida Department of Law Enforcement was contacted, but Tooley said since there were no serious injuries, FDLE declined to conduct an investigation.

County will study privatizing public streets

By Joe DeSantis
Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Seminole County Commission voted 3-0 Tuesday, Oct. 10, to direct county staff to research and develop procedures for privatizing public streets in Seminole County.

In seeking direction from the board, the county's principle planner, John Omana, explained the county is currently dealing with three requests to transform the existing subdivisions of River Oaks, Markham Oaks, and Hanover Oaks/Markham Oaks West into gated communities.

"We are looking at five key issues in addressing privatization," Omana said. "Legally the county can not deny access by any property owner; drainage and utility easements have to be maintained; 100 percent of all property owners would have to be consulted and approve of the privatization; there need to be a mechanism in place for continued maintenance and repair to include funding; and there needs to be an educational process for the parties involved about the ramifications of privatizing."

Commissioners Dick Van Der Weide and Randy Morris expressed concerns about liability issues surrounding privatization, as well as a sense of what Morris termed, "The walling off of America."

Lake Mary honors Mary Dunn Wolff

By Michelle Jertis
Managing Editor

LAKE MARY — Mary Dunn Wolff has spent most of her 88 years devoting time to making her hometown a better place to live. Last Thursday, the city honored her by proclaiming Oct. 5 Mary Dunn Wolff Day.

"This is one of those rare moments when we get to thank a person who has been instrumental in letting us enjoy the reputation we have not only as a city but in the way we live," Lake Mary Mayor David Measor said.

Wolff was born on Oct. 5, 1912, in her parent's home in Lake Mary, which was located west of Seminole Community College and is now known as Woldunn Subdivision.

According to the proclamation, Wolff has stayed involved in the city by serving on the Historical Commission and the Board of Adjustment, and she has spent many years attending City Commission meetings.

"If there were a city mother, she would be it," City Commissioner Gary Brender said.

Organizers call art festival a success

By Michelle Jertis
Managing Editor

LAKE MARY — Following a weekend that included more than 200 artists, plenty of food and a variety of entertainment, organizers of the 14th annual Lake Mary-Heathrow Festival of the Arts consider the event a success.

"It was the best we've had in 14 years," said DeLores Lash, chairman of the festival's 2000 board of directors. "The weather was perfect, the entertainment was great, and everything worked together.

"We probably made more money than in previous years." Although the amount has not been totaled, the revenue will go toward funding art scholarships. During previous years, almost $400,000 has been contributed to Seminole students.

Students aren't the only people who benefit from the festival. Numerous artists participating in this weekend's event were honored with money, ribbons and titles.

Winners included: First place — Peter C. Bailey, Amie L. Davis, Michael C. Harris, David Hunter, Jason Izumi, Jinsong Kim, Michael A. Mick, Carol Elder Napoli, Elaine M. Poulain, Art Siegel and T.J. Snyman.

Second place — Robert J. Broughton, Bill Darrah, Deborah B. Elmquist, Victor A.

SEMINOLE SUMMARY

A GLANCE AROUND OUR COUNTY

Fire prevention helps save lives

There are some people who simply don't want to do the job for which they are paid. We all know one or two of that type. But in this case, we're talking about firemen, and we can see their point. They don't want to be called to extinguish your house or business when it's blazing away. It's not that they don't want to do it — they would rather not have the fire in the first place.

Nick Pfeifauf

Right now, we are in the middle of Fire Prevention Week. Some call it Fire Safety Week, but it means the same thing. Safety will prevent fires.

Each year, fires kill more Americans than all other natural disasters combined. It is the third leading cause of accidental death in the home with approximately 80 percent of all fire deaths occurring in residences — residences where people generally feel they are safe. But how safe are you?

Under the category of fire safety, there are smoke alarms. They've been around for many years now, but how many homes built 10 or 20 years ago or longer, actually have them? Smoke alarms are not fire prevention tools, they are fire safety tools. They will warn you and give you the opportunity to call for help or get out of the structure.

Another fire safety measure is to have everyone in your family, or business, know what to do in case of fire. How to exit the building, knowing about not opening doors when there is fire in a room, knowing the concept of crawling on the floor to escape smoke and fumes, often called "stop, drop and roll."

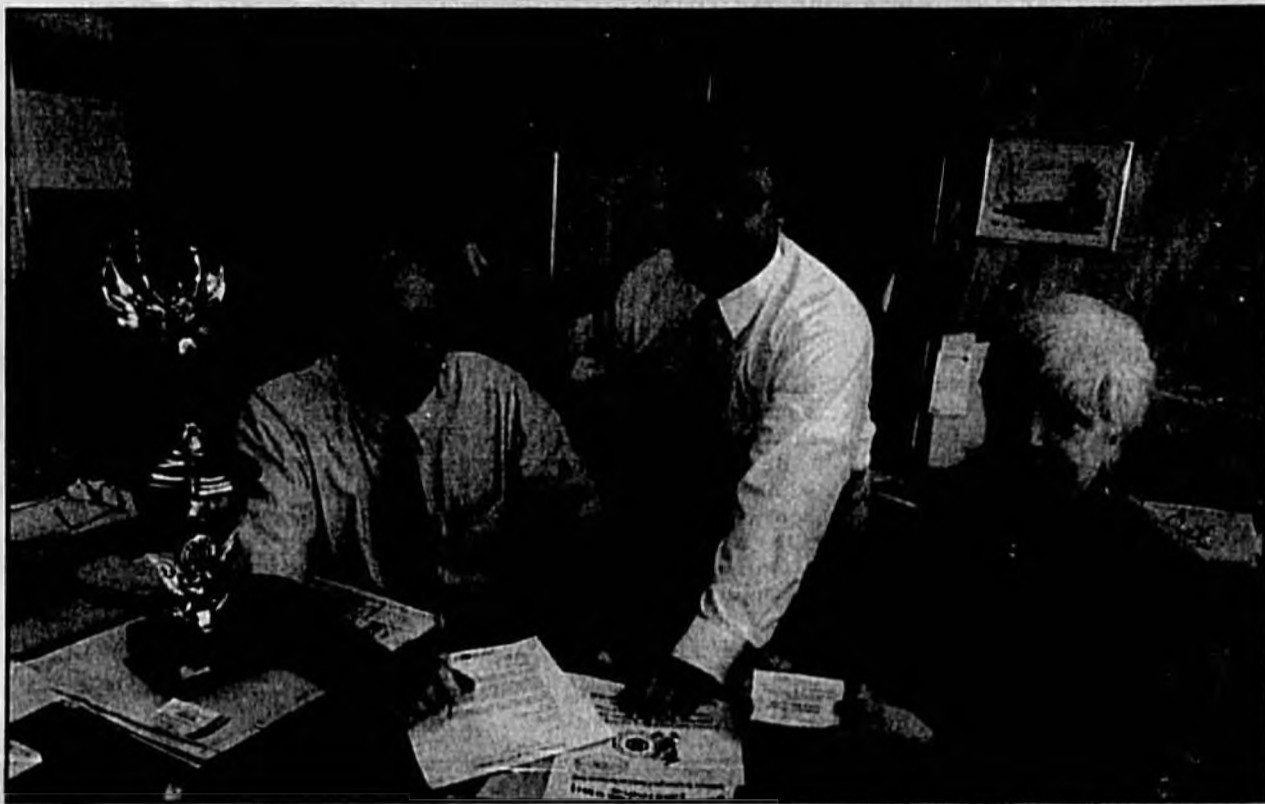

There are only a few situations over which we have no control. Lightning is the major one. There is little we can do to prevent a lightning caused fire. But there are others we can do something about. Bad wiring in a home, kitchen burners which are breaking down, outdoor burning, unattended barbecue pits, letting youngsters play with matches or a cigarette lighter. All of these can and do cause fires. And the best part is, if we are truly concerned about our property and our lives, we can take appropriate precautions. There isn't a need to tell you what precautions — common sense dictates what people should do.

Several fire departments are taking an active roll in this week's Fire Prevention (Safety) Week. The Sanford Fire Department will hold an event at Park On Park, Oak Avenue between 8th and 9th Streets, this Friday, from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. to teach fire prevention and safety. There will be prizes, balloons, fire hats, and a great deal of information and many displays.

Altamonte Springs Fire Department is launching a program where firefighters will visit third grade classes each month and prevent safety education information.

Fire prevention is serious. People must give it some thought and do whatever is necessary to make their homes and businesses as safe as possible. I don't want to write news stories about a house burning down because of faulty wiring — and I certainly don't want to write about injuries or deaths. Just like the firemen — I really don't want to do my job (in that respect) either.

Getting ready for a festival

Seminole Herald Publisher Doug Fetzer (left), Seminole High School Band Director P.L. Malcolm and Audrey Ogden, chairperson of the upcoming band festival, discuss final plans for the 25th annual Seminole County High School Band Festival to be held 7 p.m. Oct. 21 at Seminole High School. The Optimist Club of Sanford and the Seminole Herald are sponsoring the event. Tickets are $2 for adults and $1 for children and can be purchased from any band member or at the Seminole Herald.

Was it something I didn't say?

You thought you'd asked all the right questions. Can I help you with anything? Is there anything you need? Are you sure? Are you sure you're sure? And then you made the biggest mistake of your life. You took her at her word.

She figures it was obvious if you ask and she says no, you're off the hook. Now it feels like the thermostat dropped about 25 degrees. "No, I'm fine," didn't mean, "No, I'm fine." Because she said it like, "No, I'm not fine." And she figures you should listen to the way she says the words, not just the words. You figure that listening at all is a big step forward, never mind interpreting.

Let's face it, you're not going to get any more sensitive. So here's a rule of thumb: If she ever locks herself alone in the bathroom crying, that means she said the exact opposite of what she meant. So your excuse has to be that you meant the exact opposite of what you said. Men and women have been sending each other that kind of misinformation since the beginning of time. It's called "communicating."

IT'S NOT PARTY TIME

One of the things that changes as you get older is your attitude toward parties. That's because after you've been married for a while you realize that men and women have totally different approaches to them. Women want to know who's coming. Men want to know who's bringing the beer.

A woman will clean up whatever's lying around so the guests will think she keeps a neat house. A man will actually make sure he has tools lying around so his guests can help build a deck.

Women always want to catch up on what's been going on with everyone. Men don't want to know. It's safer. It prevents them from blurting out stuff they're not supposed to know in front of people who aren't supposed to hear it. Especially if those people are holding some of the tools I mentioned earlier.

My advice is, when you get to our age, don't go to parties. Bringing friends together for the sole purpose of letting loose is not a good idea. People are a lot like nuts and bolts. They function better tight than they do loose. If you want to have a wingding, you're better off in a bar full of strangers than in a house full of friends. You can have a lot more fun when nobody knows who you are or where you live.

THE FOUR STAGES OF LIFE

1. You believe in Santa Claus.
2. You don't believe in Santa Claus.
3. You are Santa Claus.
4. You look like Santa Claus.

THE DESIRE TO LOOK INTERESTING

I saw a young guy in the mall this week. He had the purple hair and the black lips and the sample hardware spread all over his face. And it occurred to me that what he wanted to do was to look interesting. To draw attention to himself. There was probably a time in my life when I had similar feelings, but these are long-gone, believe me.

As a middle-aged guy, the last thing I want to do is look interesting. That will only encourage people to talk to me. I don't want attention. I've had my share of it, and generally the risk far exceeds the reward.

So I'm all in favor of young people looking like circus performers. Peoples' attention is a finite resource, and the more of it these teen-agers attract, the less of it is available to be focused on me.

Trail of untruths Al Gore's running a campaign of dishonesty

There he goes again. You just knew that Al Gore couldn't make it through a 90-minute presidential debate — heck, probably couldn't even make it through a nine-minute debate — without telling some tall tale.

His tallest of the evening concerned a Florida high school girl. "Two days ago," said dis-Honest Al, "we ate lunch at a restaurant, and the guy who served us lunch sent me a letter today. His name is Randy Ellis. He has a 15-year-old daughter who's in Sarasota High School."

Joseph Perkins

"Her science class was supposed to be for 24 students. She is the 36th student in that classroom. Sent me a picture of her in that classroom. They can't squeeze another desk in for her, so (Kailey) has to stand during class."

Poor Kailey, unsuspecting viewers must have thought.

Unless, they heard from Kailey's principal, Daniel Kennedy.

"I would not permit any students to stand," said Kennedy, a day after his high school was slandered by the vice president. "We have 2,480 students on a practically brand-new campus. In my opinion, it's one of the top high schools in the nation right now."

"We don't have any portable classrooms. All our students are in regular classes. And we have 900 computers, 600 Internet sites. We'd never allow a student to have to stand up in class."

Then there's Gore's claim that he traveled to Texas with the head of the Federal Emergency Management Agency to survey damage wrought by wildfires. "I accompanied James Lee Witt down to Texas when those fires broke out," said the vice president.

How compassionate, susceptible viewers must have thought.

That is, unless they happened to check out the ABCNews.com Web site, which noted that: "Gore did travel to Texas in late June, after the fires broke out, but he was there to address the Texas Democratic Party, not to inspect fire damage. And Witt was not with him at any point during the trip."

Gore was asked about the, er, discrepancy in a post-debate appearance on ABC-TV's "Good Morning America." "Well," said un-Truthful Al, "I was there in Texas. I think James Lee went to the same fires, and I've made so many trips with James Lee to these disaster sites."

"I was there in Texas, in Houston, with the head of the Texas Emergency Management folks, and with all of the Federal Emergency Management folks. If James Lee was there before, or after, then, you know, I got that wrong."

No, Mr. Vice President. You lied.

And Gore saved his favorite deception for his closing remarks, when, once again, he told the fable of the 79-year-old Iowa grandma who can't afford prescription drug coverage.

"There's a woman named Winnie Skinner here tonight," said un-Believable Al. "She gets a small pension, but in order to pay for her prescription drug benefits, she has to go seven days a week, several hours a day, picking up cans. She came all the way from Iowa in a Winnebago with her poodle to attend tonight. Poor old Winnie, poor poodle, gullible viewers must have thought."

Unless they read a post-debate news article in the New York Post, revealing that Winnie's Winnebago was paid for by the Gore campaign, along with the gas. And that five Gore campaign workers accompanied the septuagenarian, who happens to be a longtime Democrat and former union organizer.

Moreover, Winnie is hardly so destitute that she needs to collect cans to pay her prescription drug insurance. She owns her house, gets $700 a month in Social Security, along with the $70 pension Gore mentioned.

She also has an affluent son, Earl King, a former business owner, who lives on an 80-acre ranch. He has repeatedly offered to help his mom pay for her prescription drug coverage, or whatever else she needs, but she has refused.

"I don't take charity," Winnie told the Post, on the road to the presidential debate, poodle at her side. "I don't take food stamps or nothing like that. I either earn it or do without. I know my son would willingly help me at any time."

Journalists have a saying: Never let the facts get in the way of a good story. Gore, who started his career as a cub reporter at The Nashville Tennessean — if we can believe this entry on his resume — seems to have embraced this piece of cynicism as his guiding political philosophy.

The American people deserve a president they can trust, they can believe. And Al Gore clearly is not that man.

Your View

Gildart writes: 'Foul is a foul'

To the editor:

It is well past time for some sort of responsibility to be required and enforced in the interests of "the Truth" during the local election in this area.

Apparently, during the recent runoff primary campaign for the Republican candidate for District 5, Seminole County Commissioner spot Daryl McLain secured a majority vote by questionable, irregular, and inappropriate means. Several counts that have come to my attention are as follows:

- Sending out many letters (reportedly 100,000) featuring a letterhead of a Christian Child Care Agency, which is a tax-exempt organization barred from political involvement. The number of letters shows would suggest an attempt to promote his election to the Republican candidate position. The group never endorsed him.

- The Rev. William Mark George, who is pastor of Community United Methodist Church and also chairman of Citizens for Decency has state that "... his photo and comment were used in McLain ads without his permission ..." The pastor has filed a complaint with the Florida Elections Commission. I understand that the pastor support another candidate.

- Although one of Daryl McLain's campaign cards asserted that he had "Strong Family Values" and supported "... strong law enforcement and safe neighborhoods ..." a campaign publication on behalf of Don Nicholas, a charter member of Citizens for Decency indicates "... Daryl voted for public nudity three times ..." Specifically, on July 22, 1997, he voted against putting public nudity on the agenda for a Commission meeting; on Oct. 14, 1997, he voted against an ordinance requiring nude dancers to cover up; and on Aug. 11, 1998, after 13,000 signatures were collected to put the decency ordinance on a ballot and the Commission had a final opportunity to vote for the ordinance Daryl voted no. On Sept. 1, 1998, Seminole County citizens voted to adopt the ordinance. The county sheriff has said that adult entertainment places attract criminal elements. In fact, the head of one such place is in prison for trying to rob banks. This record of Daryl's is consistent with the observations of my wife and I from attending meetings.

Recently, we have learned how the Olympic Committee refused to give the gold medal to a young lady who came in first in an event because she was found to have a stimulant in her blood, against the rules. The young lady said she simply took a cold medicine that apparently had a stimulant in it; but a rule was a rule!

It does seem to me that in the election process a "foul is a foul." Following the Olympic pattern the prize should go to the next in line — in this case Bob West. In effect, McLain should be denied the winner's medal.

Yours truly,
William J. Gildart

Herald too bias for subscriber

To the editor:

I am writing to request my subscription be canceled and a refund be made.

This is because of the loss of credibility your paper has caused from its coverage of the recent commissioner runoff election. In addition to your pro-McLain editorials, your so-called news articles were biased. For instance, you failed to report how Daryl McLain used a pastor's name and comments in a campaign advertisement without his consent. I had to learn that from the Orlando Sentinel. Then you had the audacity to run a front-page article that quoted Mr. McLain stating he did not run a dirty campaign. Wrong — it was one of the worst I have seen in the 20 years I have lived in Sanford. Even the mayor and other commissioners got down in the mud. I suppose my tax dollars paid for the city letterhead and envelope they used to send their opinions to my home.

You seem to have trouble knowing the difference between reporting facts or writing opinions. I don't want to pay money to read biased and slanted "news."

Commissioners up to old tricks

To the editor:

Well they're at it again! Two Seminole County Commissioners were up to it again by trying to influence the outcome of the race for the Seminole County Commission District 5 seat between incumbent Daryl McLain and newcomer Bob West.

Dick Van Der Weide and Grant Maloy are up to their old tricks of trying to influence who will serve with them, even though Maloy stated "very clearly" when he ran for the first time that he thought "eight years was enough," and he was for "term limits." These are the self-described "truth tellers" ... except when their own eight years are up! Has Maloy stated that Van Der Weide should step down, or have his sacred "Beliefs" taken a vacation on this one?

Although the outcome of the volatile Van Der Weide/Win Adams race for District 3 will not be decided until Nov. 7, Mr. Van Der Weide appeared to have taken significant time out of his own campaign time to promote Christian Coalition candidate Bob West.

At the same time, Maloy actively supported Bob West by publishing and paying for the distribution of material in support of Bob West. Was this another ploy we're going to have to deal with? Seems to me to have been an obvious contribution to the West campaign.

But, none of this seems to matter to these two because the means always justify the end. What they are creating is a need for many "middle of the road" Republicans to take a serious look at the Democrat and Independent candidates. Maloy and Van Der Weide are planting the seeds that I believe will have a serious impact on the Republican party in the very near future.

I am suspicious that far greater planning than "appears" on the surface has been taking place between these two county commissioners. The question is to what depths, and where did these conversations take place? Was there more than an effort to get a single voice on the Seminole County Commission, or was it possible that it went much deeper? Could there be discussions as to who will be elected county chairman? Will a new Commission decide that Van Der Weide's suit against Seminole's clerk of the court, Maryanne Morse, to recover non-receipted travel expenses should be dropped (a lawsuit, by the way, that has already cost Seminole taxpayers over $18,000)?

Theatrical nudity not pornography

To the editor:

I am delighted that the Orlando Theatre Project's production of "Wit" is going to be performed without changes. I am thrilled to have the opportunity to see this Pulitzer Prize winning play performed by such a distinguished theater company. I am dismayed, however, at the reaction of Seminole Community College to this truly magnificent work of art.

Fearing on small incident of nudity and citing to me a misplaced interpretation of "contemporary community standards" the college pulled its support from the production and nearly killed it. The measure of "contemporary community standards" relates to pornography. Nudity, even erotic nudity, in the context of a serious theater, literature or visual art is no pornography. It does not pander to prurient interests.

I hope that this standard will not be inappropriately used in the future and that Seminole Community College will continue to set a high standard for the arts in the community.

Sincerely,

RU-486 controversy is now a health issue

The usual mouths have gone to work on the talk shows, nattering about the FDA's approval of RU-486, the abortion pill. They all sound as if they had popped the same looping tape into their heads: RU-486 will make abortion more casual and, thus, more common. Get pregnant, pop a pill, and your troubles are over.

But the debate over RU-486 isn't about a pill. It's not even about abortion. All the arguments on both sides of that debate have been exhausted for decades. The debate over RU-486 is about women's health, and once again, many abortion opponents have revealed the hypocrisy in their Christian values.

Let me say that I have no problem with those who are working to make abortion illegal. This is what our country is about. Everyone ought to fight for what they believe.

But until the anti-abortion factions are successful in their crusade, abortion remains a legal choice for all women.

Given that, if you truly care about the sanctity of life, if you have Christian compassion for all people, you want this medical procedure to be as safe as possible. You want women who are set on having abortions to end their pregnancies as early as possible, when there are the fewest complications. Even if you believe these women are sinful, your Christian spirit would dictate that you protect them anyway.

So RU-486 should have been embraced as a step forward in safeguarding women's health.

Instead, there's a mean-spiritedness to the pill's opposition. It's as if abortion opponents want to make sure women pay a high price for choosing abortion, that they undergo as invasive a procedure as possible, that they suffer sufficiently.

The pill's side effects apparently aren't dire enough. Those side effects include cramping, bleeding, nausea and even the possibility of surgery in the 5 percent to 8 percent of cases in which the pill fails. Though abortion opponents know this, they're still pushing the myth that women decide to get an abortion in the same way they decide to buy shoes.

Any woman who has faced the decision knows a pill won't make the choice any easier; ending a pregnancy is never an easy decision. The pill will simply make the procedure more private and less likely to draw the attention of fetus-waving zealots, and that surely is part what irks so many abortion opponents. They lose their weapon of shame.

When Republican Representative J.C. Watts Jr. was asked about RU-486, he said he hoped that a new administration "with moral leadership and a commitment to the family will reverse this Clinton-Gore decision." Then he added a fascinating tag line: "Do-it-yourself abortion has no place in a civilized society."

Amen. That's why abortion was made legal 30 years ago — so women no longer had to risk maiming and death by doing it themselves with a knitting needle in the bathroom. Now with RU-486, under a doctor's care, they no longer have to undergo the risks that come with surgery.

Roads

communities," Morris said. "I know gated communities tend to give residents a sense of security rather than the reality of security. Some people might be surprised in comparing crime statistics between gated communities and non-gated communities."

Morris said he was also concerned that a significant increase in privatization and gating would deprive access to senior citizens who enjoy walking and kids who ride bicycles they might otherwise enjoy.

Van Der Weide said he felt the county would have to "bird dog" a move toward road privatization.

"This is a much easier process when you are dealing with new developments versus existing developments," he said. "It's also much easier to deal with subdivisions that have mandatory homeowners' associations. This could get super complicated, and I'm not sure the petitioners are aware of the many pitfalls."

Van Der Weide pointed out that even with the blessing of mandatory homeowners' associations, future liability issues could easily come into play in dealing with road privatization.

"Property owners are not the only ones involved in dealing with costs of maintenance and other issues," he said.

"Privatization could get clouded by divorces, property liens, the dissolution or bankruptcy of a homeowners' association."

Board chairman Carlton Henley said dealing with the privatization and gating requests was not something that was going to happen overnight. "Our question today is, do we want to instruct staff to develop policies as this issue continues to come forward?" Henley asked. "Do we want to instruct staff to develop procedures to address the privatization of public roads?"

The board instructed county staff to continue research into developing a blue print for the privatization issue and report back to the board in approximately 60 days.

County Attorney Robert McMillan also noted that subdivision residents who request or petition for road privatization must realize it is a lengthy process.

"It takes time and spelling out early in the process for petitioners that 100 percent approval by property owners in a specific area is a necessary undertaking," McMillan said.

"It went really well," he said. "I sold a little bit of everything. I sold a lot of Christmas ornaments," he said. "A lot of people were already doing their Christmas shopping."

"Those who know me and those who don't know me, I appreciate everything that you have done for me."

According to Lake Mary City Manager John Litton, Wolff has not only devoted her time to the city's official business.

"She does a lot of little things — things people might not consider big," Litton said. "Whenever there is a reception for somebody, she always bakes a cake."

Wolff spends time preserving Lake Mary's history. "She is very involved in the city's history," Litton said. "And, she makes sure we all know it."

As for the political side of Wolff, Litton said she would

"With her position on the Board of Adjustment, she always tries to find ways for people to do what they want as long as it doesn't have a negative impact on someone else," Litton said. "Her personality is one of bringing people together."

"She doesn't have a political agenda," he said. "She does things from the heart."

County closes Orange Boulevard to truck traffic

By Nick Pfeiffaut
Staff Writer

SANFORD — Beginning October 16, limitations are being set on truck weights on Orange Boulevard, (CR-431), also known as Paola Road, between SR-46 and International Parkway in Sanford.

According to Seminole County Traffic Engineer Robert Zaitooni, "The opening of the new I-4 interchange is prompting a number of large trucks to use Orange Boulevard as a cut-through to get to the interstate. The road is primarily a residential area and there is a school there, so we need to do something." He added that the county had received a number of complaints about large vehicles and noise they often cause.

As a result, Zaitooni said no trucks over 13 tons will be allowed on the roadway, except for local deliveries between 6 a.m. and 7 p.m. No trucks over 10 tons will be allowed between 7 p.m. and 6 a.m.

With the improvements planned for Orange Boulevard between International Parkway and Heathrow, Zaitooni commented, "This will probably cause the problem to expand, and probably the way to handle it is to start with restrictions right now." He indicated the restrictions on truck weights will probably not be lifted in the near future, if at all.

He suggested trucks traveling that area use normal routes such as SR-46 and Rinehart Roads, which are wider and more capable of handling the large trucks. "Orange Boulevard is simply too narrow for this increase in truck traffic," he said.

The Seminole County Traffic Engineering department is urging employers and delivery companies to heed this restriction and notify others with whom business may be conducted.

The change will not prohibit the movement of emergency vehicles.

For additional information phone 407-665-5677 or 5678.

CR-427 closed until Oct. 19

CR-427 has been closed at the railroad tracks north of SR-434 to allow CSX to complete improvements on their tracks. That section was scheduled to be re-opened Friday, Oct. 6.

Unfortunately, things don't always go as planned and now the section will remain closed until Friday, Oct. 19.

The final closure of CR-427 will be at the railroad tracks south of Dog Track Road, and this work is scheduled to begin Monday, Oct. 30.

Safehouse gets $25,000 grant

From Staff Reports

Safehouse of Seminole has received a $25,000 check from Doors of Hope Outreach and Training Grant. This will allow Safehouse to expand its outreach with a Faith Community Program in Central Florida.

The Faith Community Outreach Program is a unique, ecumenical initiative that will provide training, support and education to faith community leaders and pastoral care to families effected by domestic violence. Safehouse of Seminole is the certified domestic violence center for Seminole County and is committed to ending the cycle of domestic violence.

"One of the first places victims of domestic violence reach out to is their faith community," said Michele Hickey, Executive Director of Safehouse. "Lack of appropriate response puts victims and their children in grave danger and does not provide the protection they need." She said the Faith Community Outreach Program will provide faith-based organizations with the training and education they need to provide appropriate pastoral response to domestic violence.

The Doors of Hope Outreach is a project of the Phillip Morris family of companies which includes Kraft Foods, Miller Brewing Company and others. It has been supporting programs such as this for over 40 years.

"We care about our communities and are responding to a need that's been voiced by domestic violence advocates across the nation," said Stephanie French, Vice President of Corporate Contributions for Phillip Morris.

Lake Mary-Heathrow Festival of Arts, Octoberfest begin Seminole's fall season

Many of the kids attending the Lake Mary/Heathrow Festival of the Arts took advantage of the hands-on crafts for creating works of art. Ryan Engle, 3, and his mother Cami Engle, of Apopka, created an original sand art sculpture.

The young ladies of the Standing Ovation Talent Group entertained the large crowd at the 2nd Annual Octoberfest.

Among the more than 150 artist displaying their work at the 14th Annual Lake Mary/Heathrow Festival of the Arts was sculptor Bob Winehip, of Sanibel, Fl. Winehip took a little time to do the Sunday crossword puzzle.

Capri Robinson, 13, of Sanford watches as "Krackers D Clown" paints a design on her arm using watercolors. The face painting booth was part of the 2nd Annual Octoberfest festivities at Sanford Coastline Park. The event took place over the weekend and will benefit The Good Samaritan Home of Sanford.

Sue Easterday is framed by the artistic stained glass creations by her husband William. The pair owns Easterday's Stained Glass in Winter Springs, and took part in the 14th Annual Lake Mary/Heathrow Festival of the Arts.

Lee Neel, of Longwood, a volunteer at the 14th Annual Lake Mary/Heathrow Festival of the Arts, found a shady spot underneath a table to get a little rest. The festival showcases the artistic ability of area artist and is one of the premier events in Seminole County.

Isabella Trindade, 2, of Brazil, plays with the stuffed animals at the 2nd Annual Octoberfest at Sanford Coastline Park. The event benefited The Good Samaritan Home of Sanford.

Stallworth, King recognized as volunteers of the month

Hats off to the Harbor's Volunteers of October. Lemuel Stallworth and Willie King are the two outstanding volunteers.

Stallworth is the Harbor's math expert. Students readily seek him when in a jam. Although there are other capable volunteers and staff to assist, the students realize that math is one of Stallworth's favorite subjects.

Stallworth is a retired physical science teacher and GED instructor. Yes, math is one of his favorite subjects.

Always willing to serve in his community, he volunteers at New Life Christian Academy two days, the Harbor Literacy Learning Center, ENABL, and the Bethel Book and Bible Store.

Willie King is another outstanding dynamic committed volunteer. He works with the Harbor's Junior Achievement Class and he tutors students in their area of difficulty. Recently honored as one of Seminole County's Outstanding Volunteers of the 1999 school year, he was presented an award by the director of SCPS Community Involvement, Dede Schaffner.

King mentors the Host

Program at Sanford Middle Math, Science and Technology Magnet school. He also volunteers at Crooms Academy and Seminole High Compact. He serves on the board of the Seminole Volunteer Center and the Compact Oversight Committee.

These community volunteers are active not only in the community but they are busy serving their Master and Lord at the New Bethel Missionary Baptist Church.

Stallworth serves as an active member and deacon. Zion Hope Missionary Baptist Church is where King serves gracefully as an active member and deacon.

Director of the Harbor, Elizabeth Graham-Glover invites concerned volunteers to call the Harbor at 407-323-1262.

Sanford has a rich African American culture. Come and experience Sanford's out-of-the-dust history, still alive.

On Oct. 20 (a teacher work day), join the tour to view this history from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. Free for this special tour for Seminole County educators. Transportation will be provided

Balsam Apple: A weed or a vegetable

The balsam apple, balsam pear and Chinese cucumber belong to the genus Momordica, a little known genus of the cucurbit family. Momordica is a Latin word that means "to bite" and refers to the look of the uneven seeds.

They all do well under Florida conditions and can be grown as warm weather vegetables. They are very popular in oriental countries such as Malaysia, Vietnam, and China. The balsam apple is found through Florida as a weed in hammocks, disturbed sites, turfs, ornamental landscapes, yards, and citrus groves. It is a very aggressive weed-vine and will climb fences, trees and plants. Birds usually distribute the seed of this plant in the wild.

The Plant

As most cucurbits, the plant is an annual running vine. The leaves are alternate, deeply notched into 5 to 7 lobes. The lobes of the blades are rounded to pointed and usually have teeth on the margins. The flowers are yellow and occur singly on stalks bearing a modified leaf near the middle. The fruit of the balsam apple is about 3 inches long, egg shaped, pointed, bumpy, ribbed and golden yellow to bright orange when ripe.

At maturity the fruit breaks, bursting open along the three valves. The orange pulp contains the seeds that are covered with a bright red sugary tissue that enclose the seeds. The seeds are elliptic, flat, about half-inch long. The balsam pear, also called bitter melon, is 4-6 inches long, oblong, pointed with warty furrows extending lengthwise. When fully ripe, it splits into three divisions.

Both balsam apple and balsam pear immature fruits are boiled as a vegetable.

The Chinese cucumber fruit looks like a cucumber, 6-8 inches long, dark to yellowish green, and with a very bumpy outside surface. The hollow center contains several watermelon-like seeds that are irregularly etched, and covered with a scarlet pulp. The fleshy portion of the fruit is edible and is mainly cooked in soups.

Toxicity

The ripe fruit and seeds are toxic and can cause severe diarrhea and vomiting. They have also been used to induce abortion. The foliage and the outer coat and seeds produce diarrhea and vomiting if eaten.

Recovery from poisoning can be lengthy. This plant contains alkaloids and other substances that make it dangerous for human consumption.

Use

All parts of the plant are used in folk medicine. The rind is sometimes dried and used in medicinal preparations. The unripe fruits are boiled and eaten in the orient. Cooked leaves, when drained of the bitter liquid, are said to be edible. Airl covering the seeds is edible.

Because of their vining habit of growth they are sometimes used as ornamental vines to cover porches and arbors.

Culture

Balsam apple can be grown in home gardens using the same practices used to produce cucumbers. Provide enough space or a trellis for the vines as they can grow more than 10 feet long. They should be planted in full sun, in a loose, rich and well-drained soil. Water regularly during the summer to a void wilting of the vines.

As with other cucurbits, plant the seeds directly in beds when the danger of frost is over, treat them as annuals. Seeds should be planted about twice their diameter deep.

After seeds have germinated, start feeding the seedlings weekly with a water-soluble fertilizer at half strength; use a complete fertilizer such as 10-10-10. After plants are about a month old you can use a granular fertilizer, about cup per hill, to keep the plants growing vigorously.

Pests And Diseases

Little is known of the pests and diseases that can affect balsam apple. It must be assumed that the same insects and diseases that affect other cucurbits will also affect this plant. Various leaf-spot diseases, mosaic virus, downy mildew, and powdery mildew have been reported in this crop.

Nematodes are probably one of the problems that can affect balsam apple. Do not use any pesticide until insects or diseases appear.

Balsam apple growing wild in nature does not seem to be affected by either insect or diseases.

Kit allows family to "know before you go"

DEAR ABBY: Your readers may be interested to know that the Funeral Consumers Alliance Inc. provides an end-of-life planning kit that includes a 20-page booklet, "Before I Go, You Should Know," in which they can record their wishes. It comes in a plastic document pouch, with a refrigerator magnet to indicate its storage location. It contains a checklist of other documents that should also be added to the pouch. (Veterans, for example, might want to add their DD 214 discharge papers that will be needed to get the free cemetery marker and American flag.) Most important, the pouch includes a state-specified living will and durable power of attorney for health care. Surveys show that 85 percent of the public supports the idea of living wills — but only 25 percent have done anything about it.

We want to get the kits into the refrigerator of every adult American. Why the refrigerator? Because most people have one, and it's likely to survive a fire. By having a specific place to "file" these papers, perhaps more families will actually get it done. We hope that more families will begin talking about their choices, as recommended in the pamphlet from Partnership in Caring that is enclosed in the kit.

Also included is a brochure titled "Death Away From Home" that's meant to be popped into a suitcase or RV when traveling. Abby, I hope you'll agree this is something worth mentioning to your readers. End-of-life issues are never pleasant to talk about — but death (and taxes!) are facts of life.

LISA CARLSON, EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

DEAR LISA: I agree. I was so impressed by the packet you are offering that I ordered some for my staff. I know the subject is difficult, especially when people are in the best of health, but it's better to be safe than sorry. Don't put it off.

Because the alliance is a small, nonprofit office, mail orders are preferred. Send $10 (check or money order in U.S. funds; no cash, please) to: Funeral Consumers Alliance, P.O. Box 10, Hinesburg, VT 05461. (The kit is also available via the Internet at www.funerals.org.)

Wanted: educators that love adventure

Attention educators! Did you know that you can teach environmental awareness and wildlife conservation lessons AND provide your students with real hands-on reaming experiences that meet many of the Sunshine State Standards and improve test scores? It's true! You can learn ways to do just that while experiencing a unique blend of classroom activities and outdoor adventures, where water slaps against your canoe and the scents of earthy woods fill your senses.

It's only a phone call away at the Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission's (FWC) Project WILD/Outdoor Adventure Weekend Workshop!

The weekend workshop for educators will be held at the FWC's Hunter Education Training Center, located just east of Silver Springs in the Ocala National Forest, November 3-5 from Friday morning through Sunday afternoon.

Whether you are a classroom teacher, home schooler, youth leader or park ranger, this workshop has something you need - exciting, hands-on, wildlife-oriented activities in language arts, social studies, science, math, physical education, music and art.

The second day of the workshop includes a wide variety of outdoor skills, such as orienteering, survival, canoeing, and hunting safety and ethics.

The weekend of workshops costs $90. Educational materials are provided at no cost; the $90 registration fee covers meals and bunkhouse-style lodging.

The workshops are open to both new participants and those who have participated in other Project WILD workshops. Introductory participants will receive a Project WILD activity guide and are eligible for a total of 22 hours in-service credit (10 hours for Project WILD, 12 hours for Outdoor Adventure).

Advanced participants will learn about North Florida ecosystems and Florida black bear ecology through a variety of classroom-friendly as well as outdoor activities.

Through the program they will be able to hone previously learned skills, increase field knowledge, and explore the FWC's well-known Schoolyard Ecosystems project. To register for the advanced program, participants must have previously attended a 3-day introductory program.

To sign up for the workshop or for more information call Carrie Hamby at (850) 488-4679 or toll-free (Florida only) 877-450-9453.

Lytle's future set

Star outfielder orally commits to the University of South Carolina

Special to the Herald

SANFORD — Chaz Lytle, a 1999 graduate of Seminole High School, has committed to sign a Letter of Intent to attend Southeastern Conference baseball powerhouse University of South Carolina.

The hard-hitting and strong-armed lefthander will play outfield for the Gamecocks.

Lytle, a four-year varsity starter under coach Mike Powers at Seminole High School, was the Class 5A Player of the Year for Seminole and Volusia counties in 1999 and was selected to the All-State Team after his senior season. He also played in the North/South All-Star Game for Florida's top senior players.

Under coach Rod Ferguson as a player for Sanford Campbell-Lossing American Legion Post 53, Lytle played outfield and was the winning Pitcher in the Championship Game at the 1997 American Legion World Series in Rapid City, South Dakota and was also a star player for the 1998 Florida American Legion State Champions.

Lytle, the son of Charlie and Brenda Lytle, was a Second Team All Suncoast Conference selection under coach Rick Hitt at South Florida Community College in Avon Park this past season as a freshman.

Lytle decided he wanted to play closer to home this year and is now playing under coach Rick Hall at Daytona Beach Community College.

Lytle will sign a National Letter of Intent to play baseball for the fighting Gamecocks of the University of South Carolina during the early signing period in November to attend the University for the 2001-2002 season.

South Carolina was ranked #1 nationally for six straight weeks during the 2000 season by Collegiate Baseball, Baseball America, and ESPN/Baseball Weekly. South Carolina also was the SEC Champions in 1999 and 2000 for baseball.

Class 5A-District 4 teams in action Thursday

By Dean Smith

SANFORD — It will be a short week of preparation for the Seminole, Lyman and Lake Howell football teams as they will all be on the road for Class 5A-District 4 games on Thursday night.

The Fighting Seminoles (4-2 overall, 2-1 in district) will be at Pine Ridge (3-3 overall, 1-1 in 5A-4) for a crucial district matchup.

The Greyhounds (0-5 overall, 0-3 in 5A-4) have the unenviable task of trying to right their ship against under-

SANFORD — It's been a pretty good past few days for Lake Mary High School athletics.

Monday night, coach Jeannie Fisher's boys volleyball team (28-1) ran its winning streak to 28 matches with a 15-13 and 15-1 straight games victory over Lake Brantley (8-14).

On Saturday, coach Mike Gibson's boys cross country team found sand to its liking as the varsity team tied for second place and the junior varsity team won out of 12 teams at the Seabreeze Beach Run on Ormond Beach.

Lake City-Columbia was the varsity champion with 49 points, with the Rams and St. Cloud tying for second with 83 points each.

Guppies take control of B League in Co-Ed Recreation Volleyball

By Dean Smith
 Sports Editor

SANFORD — Things took a turn away from parity in the B League of the City of Sanford Recreation and Parks Department Fall Co-Ed Volleyball League in the Dan Pelham Gynatorium at Sanford Middle School Monday night.

The Shoestrings continued their perfect season, rolling over the competition as the A League teams posted the exact same records as last week, but the B League was a different story as the Guppies, the defending B League Spring Champions, posted their second unbeaten week of the season and opened up a gap as their nearest competition in the standings took a big hit.

The Guppies became the first team in the B League to post a second perfect record after three different undefeated teams the first three weeks.

The defending champions opened with a tough 15-11 victory over Sanford Church of God, but then got on a roll, romping past the Saints, 15-4, and Idyllwilde, 15-1.

Sanford Church of God bounced back from the loss to the Guppies with easy wins over the Saints, 15-6, and Idyllwilde, 15-3, to move into second place in the standings.

Idyllwilde picked up the other win, upsetting the Saints, 15-12, which went into the week just a game out of first, but went winless Monday to fall out of second place.

The standings after four weeks in the B League are: the Guppies (12-2), Sanford Church of God (9-5), the Saints (8-6), and Idyllwilde (3-11).

The Shoestrings easily went 3-0 again, topping Beer :30, 15-8, MJ's, 15-7, and Nation's Fence, 15-3.

Beer :30 was right behind at 2-1, remaining in second place, by edging MJ's 15-13, and whipping Nation's Fence 15-3.

The other win once again
