Chicago Judge Is Seeking Exhumation Of Body Of Brother Dead For 3 Years

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—Chief Justice Harry Olson, of the municipal court, who caused the questioning of William D. Shephard, foster father of William McClintock, "maliciously" regarding the younger man's death a month ago, Tuesday started officials at the inquest into McClintock's death by demanding exhumation of the body of Dr. Oscar Olson, his brother, who died three years ago. Judge Olson said he now believed the death of his brother, a friend of the McClintock family, had been designed by some one. He said he had not taken action before because he had not learned previously that Mr. Shephard was along with his brother. A deputy coroner conducting the inquest said Judge Olson's request would not be met until he had made it in writing and had set forth his grounds for suspicion. Judge Olson then charged that the state's attorney's office and the coroner had made a complete investigation of young McClintock's death and were treating the case "as a joke."

He asked that the inquest be continued for two or three months for further investigation and it was finally continued until Jan. 20 when it was announced any witnesses that any one wishes to subpoena will be heard. McClintock, 21 years old, died Dec. 4 at the Shephard home while Miss Isabella Pope, his fiancée, waited to marry him. The doctor's certificate gave the cause of death as typhoid fever and McClintock's will, drawn when he became of age last spring, left his entire estate to Shephard with the exception of an $3,000 annuity for Miss Pope. Two weeks after the death Judge Olson asked that an investigation be made, expressing the opinion that McClintock had not died a natural death. The body was exhumed but an examination by coroner's chemists showed that death was caused by typhoid fever, in the opinion of the officials. Judge Olson had expressed a theory that McClintock may have been fed cold foods or that typhoid germs may have been injected into his body. The cause of Dr. Olson's death three years ago, Judge Olson testified, had been given as heart disease, caused by stomach poisoning. He said there had also been discussion of suicide and a theory that Dr. Olson who was treating himself in part, might have taken an over-dose of some medicine. Later, Judge Olson testified, he had learned that Mr. and Mrs. Shephard had visited the doctor the day preceding his death and had found that Shephard had brought the doctor some fruit which he said he was explaining that they were discussing an oil well but he had learned that the doctor was not interested in oil wells. This visit, he said, was the only visit the Shephards had made in nine years.

An acquaintance of the doctor's Judge Olson said had told him that Dr. Olson said he expected to see Dr. McClintock to have nothing more to do with the Shephards when he became of age. Dr. Olson had told him, Judge Olson said that he "mistrusted" Shephard. On one of the 34 Democratic voting cast his ballot for the veto. He was Dial of South Carolina but it was announced that Senator King of Utah and Owen of Oklahoma, who were paired, would have so voted had they been able to cast their ballots. Of the six senators defeated for re-election, five—Bell, Bureau, Dial, McCormick and Sterling—voted to sustain the veto. The sixth, Shields, of Tennessee, was absent, and not paired. Two of the three new senators, Butler, Massachusetts, and Metcalf, of Rhode Island, supported the executive, while Means, Colorado, opposed him.

Two of the senators who voted yesterday to recommit the pay bill vetoed Tuesday to pass it over executive disapproval. They were Moses of New Hampshire, who reported the pending pay and rate increase measure, and Shortridge, of California. In the three hours of debate that preceded the vote Tuesday, charges that the administration measure was a smoke screen to defeat the vetoed pay bill were renewed and vigorously denied by Chairman Madden of the appropriations committee to attach an amendment to the bill providing $50,000 for defraying the expenses of the president's agricultural committee but it went out on a point of order by Representative Blanton, Democrat, Texas. Major provisions of the bill in addition to the inland waterways corporation item are $150,000,000 to be used in refunding internal revenue taxes illegally assessed and collected $3,501,200 for continuing work on dam No. 2 at Muscle Shoals, Ala.; $275,000 for eradicating reported epidemics of bubonic plague among rats at New Orleans and Oakland, Calif.; and $150,000 for repairing the coast line cutter Manning to make her seaworthy. The house devoted Tuesday entirely to the deficiency bill, laying aside the army supply bill.

Fred T. Williams, of Sanford, was named chairman of the Seminole County Board of Public Instruction at the regular re-organization meeting held Tuesday afternoon at the county court house in the office of Supt. T. W. Lawton. Virtually all of the business transacted at the meeting consisted of the board re-organization for the coming year. L. J. Hartley, of Longwood, newly elected member who succeeds C. A. Dallas, of Altamonte, was inducted into office. T. W. Lawton, re-elected superintendent for the third time became ex-officio secretary of the board. It was decided to hold the monthly meetings on the Tuesday following the first Monday of each month. A petition from Paola asking that G. E. Atkinson be appointed trustee of the school there was granted by the board. Mr. Atkinson succeeds B. T. Tiller whose resignation was accepted some time ago. The third member of the board, C. F. Harrison, of Geneva, has served 10 years as a member of that body, during the last five of which he was chairman. The retiring member, Mr. Dallas, was elected for three terms. The newly elected member, L. J. Hartley has been a resident of this section for 40 years and is well known throughout this part of the state. Superintendent Lawton expressed himself and spoke for the board as being well pleased with the progress shown in the county school system during 1924 and expecting still greater strides during 1925.

SENATE PASSES COOLIDGE VETO OF POSTAL BILL

Measure Automatically Dies While Combination Pay Measure Comes Up Take Place: Bill Dead for This Session

Two Senators Change Vote On Bill; Lame Ducks Active In Discussion Over Measure

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—President Coolidge's veto of the postal pay increase bill was sustained Tuesday in the senate by the margin of a single vote. Twenty-nine senators supported the executive while 58—one less than the necessary two-thirds majority to enact the bill over the veto, opposed him. With this action by the senate, the pay measure, passed at the last session, 73 to 3, died automatically. In its place will be brought forward the administration's combination pay and postal rate increase bill, but leaders generally are agreed that this measure has small chance of enactment at this session. Republican ranks split wide open on the issue of sustaining the president. Opposing him were such leaders as Jones of Washington, party whip; Wadsworth, of New York; Reed of Pennsylvania; Moses of New Hampshire; McNary of Oregon and Edge of New Jersey. Progress in the erection of Sanford's Model Home, which has been under construction for some time, is satisfactory and the frame of the building is now virtually ready for the application of plaster on the interior and stucco on the outside walls. The home, when completed will be a five-room building, of the modified Spanish type of architecture and will contain practically every modern addition to residential comfort, it is said.

WORK ON MODEL HOME IS RUSHED BY CONTRACTORS

Building Is Ready to Receive Stucco and Plaster; Many Modern and Up-To-Date Features Embodied in Home

After the completion of the home, which includes selection and installation of furniture under the direction of the architect, Elton J. Moughton, it will be open for inspection by residents of Sanford. It is thought that this will afford unparalleled means of focusing the attention of the community upon the comfort and beauty that can be obtained for the home at a moderate cost. The house is so designed that all rooms, save the living room, will have exposure in three directions, thus insuring the occupants of receiving any breeze that may be stirring, whatever the direction. The building also is so designed that it will be easily heated due to its compactness. This last named feature also provides much for the convenience of the occupants by making any part of the home quickly accessible from any other part. An unusual feature of the house will be the absence of much of the woodwork that is customarily found. The doors and the case in which the door closes, and a small wooden baseboard will be the only wooden touches in the room. Both door and window frames are of steel that will be finished in the same tint of the walls. While the building will not be strictly fireproof it will eliminate much of the fire hazard found in residence buildings. The home is being constructed by Frank Lossing, contractor, furniture is to be provided by Smith Brothers, while numerous other concerns and individuals are co-operating with the principle builders.

Like A Valiant Knight Of Old, Man Attempts To Abduct His Love Mate

Harkening back to the "Days of Old When Knights were Bold," or maybe further than that, a man whose name was given as E. C. Smith Wednesday morning mixed wrestling holds with argument in seeking to convince his wife that her place was at his side and not working in the Seminole Cafe and ended the episode at the police station where a charge of disorderly conduct was entered. Smith post-haste left the city. According to available information regarding the affair, Mrs. Smith, who is now the plaintiff in an action for divorce, received a call from her husband at her place of work. The wife's personal effects were in the automobile in which Smith arrived, as a later investigation proved.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—The house passed a $157,000,000 deficiency appropriation bill. Luther E. Brewer filed a contest over the seat of Senator Brookhouser for the cattle industry. A bill designed to settle the Chicago lake drainage controversy was introduced in the house. Senator Ladd attacked the edited reading insurgent senators out of the Republican party. The agricultural commission continued consideration of relief plans for the cattlemen of the south. Harlan Stone began to clear his desk preparatory to retiring as head of the department of justice. The department of agriculture announced no information had been received to support a complaint that wheat is being made subject to vicious speculation.

Harold Hume Talks To Kiwanis Club On City Beautification

How Sanford may be beautified and at the same time made more cleanly was the subject Wednesday afternoon of an address by W. Harold Hume, noted landscape architect, before the regular weekly meeting of the Sanford Kiwanis club at the Seminole cafe. Mr. Hume is in Sanford to address the Woman's club upon the possibilities of beautification existing here. Mr. Hume urged the planting of trees as a means of bringing beauty permanently to a city. Trees for planting under such conditions should be longer lived varieties. Mr. Hume declared, and made a number of suggestions as to the means of achieving civic beauty through utilizing the means at hand. During the course of his address the speaker sketched the history of Florida, declaring that prior to the coming of the white man it had been a beautiful territory but that settlement had badly marred this in certain localities. The club voted to hold its next dinner luncheon at the country club next Wednesday at 2:15 o'clock. Visitors present were A. P. Mickler, secretary of the Orlando Chamber of Commerce; Mrs. Henry Wright, president of the Sanford Woman's club; Mr. Hulbert, of Orlando and Mr. Davey, of Sanford.

Logan, American representative at the reparations commission met Wednesday morning at the residence of Herrick to review the official correspondence respecting the finance minister's conference.

Postal Receipts Run Over $44,000 During Year 1924

Last Quarter of 1924 Has Big Increase Over Corresponding Quarter of 1923; Total Gain Was About 10 Per Cent

Postal receipts of the Sanford office for the year ending Dec. 31 amounted to $44,388.53, according to figures submitted by Postmaster J. T. Hall Wednesday morning. This figure represents an increase of $3,447.60 over the receipts of 1923 when the total was $40,940.93. The increase is approximately 10 per cent. Although the increase is not as large as was first predicted it would be earlier in the year, Postmaster Hall believes that it is a substantial gain over the business of last year and is an increase which Sanford people should feel proud of inasmuch as it is indicative of the steady increase in the growth of the city.

A WORD FOR BEGINNERS.
The best way to solve a cross-word puzzle is to run quickly over the list of horizontal and vertical synonyms and compare them to the spaces in the puzzle extending cross-wise or downward from the number of the synonym. Some words which will just fit in the number of space available will quickly occur to you in some instances, giving you a foundation from which to solve the more difficult words. AMERICANS BUY TREASURES OF FRENCH

Paris Is Told That the Americans Are Being Lured by Their Finest Art Objects

Paris, Jan. 6.—The exodus of historic antiquities to America is an immense danger, the American ambassador here has recently declared in a speech before the Faubourg speaker, while regretting the loss of irreplaceable treasures, as a man of commerce as well as a lover of art, he did not blame those who carry off these vestiges of the past, but that he might such sales were not impossible, "If not found to stop this traffic continued, the towns and sites will be deprived of their historic and artistic property owner in France will house up and sell the tapestries, windows, roofs, and friezes, or the iron grates, without even in the Paris Department, it has not been classified, very few buildings are the duke said.

LONDON WOMEN WIN RECOGNITION ON POLICE FORCE

Women Prove So Successful As "Bobbies" That Force of 75 Is To Be Augmented With 50 Additional Officers

LONDON, Jan. 6.—London's 75 policewomen have been so busy during the last year that they are going to have another group of 50 sisters to help them against the increasing indiscretions against the law. The police board has decided that there are certain beats and certain jobs that only sturdy women can handle properly, and that henceforth a good sized corps of policewomen will be maintained by the department.

The police department first put women on the force during the war, and they proved their value. They are particularly useful today in controlling the venturesome of the male sex who jeopardize pedestrians of the other sex. It is no unfamiliar sight in London to see some man being gently escorted to headquarters on the arm of a policewoman, and the women arrest on an average as many law violators as a corresponding number of men.

Women members of the London force are expected to obey the ordinary regulations of the department with the exception that they do not do all-night work nor follow the stringent rules concerning trim haircuts. They do, however, have to report at certain times for drill and inspection, and their buttons and shoes are expected to be just as glossy as those of their bluecoated brothers.

The women wear uniforms designed except for the skirt, like those of the men but their helmets are just a little more feminine and individualistic, with a lower crown and wider brim. There are no regulations prohibiting the women from marrying, but according to the records, only 11 of the present force are married and only six are widows.

WHERE HEALTH ABOUNDS

Fort Mellon in Remote Times Far Famed for Salubrious Climate And Healthful Conditions

Lofty Altitude and Balmy Breezes Expel Disease Germs and Invigorate Inhabitants

AFTER reading about the founding of Fort Mellon and the thrilling account of the death of Captain Mellen, Herald readers are no doubt wondering how this fort was named and why it was called Fort Mellon instead of Fort Mellen. In the first place the fort was originally named Fort Monroe when it was built in 1836, but a year later after the death of Captain Mellen in a most heroic and successful effort to defend his garrison, it was decided to rename the fort after the fallen leader. An error in spelling however accounts for the discrepancy in the two words.

IMMEDIATELY following the battle with the Indians, many murders and awful depredations frequently occurred in the surrounding country. Settlers were dragged from their cabins and tortured to death. Lifeless and maimed bodies were too often found in the adjacent woods, and the government soon incensed dispatched eight thousand soldiers to the peninsular, many of whom were located in Fort Mellon and vicinity, to end forever the misdeeds of the Indians.

UP to this time the soldiers, too busy fighting the Indians for other things, had lived in tents, and now inaugurated a building campaign which resulted in the construction of substantial quarters and the remodeling of the walls which gave to the fort all the appearance of a well established garrison. It was also about this time that General Jesup laid out a road connecting Fort Mellon with Fort Brook at Tampa and those intermediate points of Fort Read, Fort Maitland, Fort Gatlin, and Fort Meade. Over this road mule teams for many years hauled supplies from the West Coast to the inland forts and enabled the soldiers stationed there to penetrate regions previously unexplored by white men. The northern end of the road still remains and is now known as Mellonville Avenue and extends along the western side of Sanford's newest subdivision.

IT is recorded that even in the earliest days when the soldiers lived in tents in Fort Mellon and with only the crudest attempt at sanitation, this section was noted for its salubrious climate and healthful conditions. A military record of an early date reads "Fort Mellon became the healthiest and most important inland garrison in Florida". It is said that no epidemics ever broke out while the fort was under government control and so far as the records show there were exceedingly few deaths as a result of disease germs. Soldiers stationed in less favored places envied the Fort Mellon garrison.

MANY explanations have been given for this condition of prevalent health, but there is probably none more true than that Fort Mellon is situated on a high piece of ground, well above the sea level, where no low places allow the accumulation of stale waters and the consequent breeding of mosquitoes. It is also generally realized that its situation in the heart of Florida where a warm sun burns out disease germs and where the cool breezes from the flowing waters of Lake Monroe fan its vegetation into luxuriant growth adds much to its greatly favored health and sanitation.

Added Opportunities

The Conner's Highway has received more or less publicity throughout the state of late, but little authentic seems to be actually known of its true condition. Travelers through the lower central part of Florida two months ago reported the route almost impassable. They told of vast stretches of severely bumpy road, and detours through which no car could pass without the aid of mules.

It may be interesting to Herald readers to know that this condition has in large measure been removed. At present only eighteen miles between Sanford and Palm Beach remain unpaved, and this piece though rough is quite passable and can be covered in little more than an hour. As for the rest, with one or two negligible exceptions, it is a beautiful paved boulevard throughout.

Going southward one passes through Orlando, Kissimmee, and Haines City and then into the beautiful Lake Wales country where incomparable orange groves greet the traveler on every side and yet where hills, strange in Florida, recall to mind the mountainous country of western North Carolina. There are here too surprising developments of some magnificence. Mountain Lake with its many splendid homes and superb golf course can scarcely be equalled by any other sections in the state. And there are other progressive communities rapidly forging to the front, Avon Park, Frostproof and Sebring.

Leaving Okeechobee City the route strikes Lake Okeechobee where the Conner's Highway begins. For something like fifty miles this asphalt pavement of the smoothness of a ball room floor circles closely to the edge of the lake. On one side the fragrant luxuriant growth of the tropics, broken occasionally by some typical "cracker" hut, on the other a vast expanse azure water much like an inland ocean, and literally covered with flocks of millions of ducks, gives one something of the feeling of loneliness with only God in the great open spaces.

Somewhere near the southeast corner of the lake the highway is lead off to the east and after a few miles enters the East Coast at Palm Beach. The distance from Sanford to Miami over the Conner's Highway is three hundred and thirty miles and the cost in tolls is five dollars, three dollars for the highway and two dollars for a bridge on the route.

In consideration of the extremely poor condition of the East Coast roads, especially between Daytona and Titusville, there can be little doubt but that the vast majority of motorists on their way to Palm Beach or Miami will go by way of the Conner's Highway. The route is a little longer, but it is a heavenly drive. It is a little more expensive, but it is well worth it.

The result of this increased traffic through this interior part of the state cannot fail to be its rapid growth and development. Under the circumstances this section cannot fail to outdo in expansion those more backward communities on the East Coast which have yet failed to build good roads through their counties.

And this will also mean increased traffic through Sanford and increased opportunities for selling Sanford to northern tourists.

The Year Is Still Quite Young

Nineteen-twenty-five is pretty well on its way now. How about the resolutions, and their keeping?

That's the trouble with most of us and our resolutions. We "keep" them in our daily lives. It isn't always our faults either that we fail to use good resolutions. In our "great moments" we sometimes aim higher than our limited capabilities can attain. New Year's Resolutions adopted at such times seldom become rules to go by.

But what of some of those commonsense resolutions that would help to make you happier? What about some of the commonsense "I Wills" that will give you better health? What about the ones that will guide you to better habits of thrift and to better habits of intelligent generosity?

It really does not matter much if a number of days have passed since the proper date for making "New Year's Resolutions". You can begin today and vow some vows worth keeping. You can adopt, for instance, a resolution that every day in every way you are going to try to add some happiness to the world. If you get a-going strong on that course, you will find that every day you are building up happiness for yourself.

You can also resolve to do your "daily dozen" without fail, to eat sensibly, to drink plenty of water, to avoid worry, and to work with a vim. You can determine to be more thrifty, to stop wasting "little things", to stop buying stuff for which you have no use. You can every day put a little money aside for the "sinking fund" which you are building for some worthwhile investment.

When the year is young, new resolutions are easy to make and they can be resolutions that you are strong enough to keep, if you have learned to be master of your will.

MAN IS a captive animal deprived by civilization of the opportunity to keep well by ranging over the wilds and catching his food with his own swiftness of leg and snatching hands.—R. W. Childs.

A WRITER TO WED

It is announced that Rupert Hughes, who is a journalist and a writer and an editor—if there be any distinction among these terms—is about to wed. From all that we have been able to see and absorb in this connection, there is no man who has any more right to start a woman than an editor. The examples are many, if not superfluous. For this very reason there are but a few among the crowd of human angels who are willing to take the chance for a lifetime on the hash and potato question by linking her chain of wifely affection to an editor; and it may truthfully be said that any writer who can induce any girl to marry him is getting more than his deserts, and he may rest assured that the affair is caused by love, and not riches; and that the same self-sacrificing girl never will have it thrown up to her that she took him on just for self aggrandizement, get-gaws, baubles, kid cur-lers and the Lord knows what not. Just what a girl is thinking about when she goes through with a marriage ceremony with an editor well would be worth knowing, for there is no certainty guaranteed here. She may eat, did she may not. But—
This is the way of life. Woman of creation the noblest.
Emblazoning the day of misfortune and bearing the weight of the world.
Made from the rib of man, but the climax of all creation.
Woman, the queen of the world, uniting with man with naude of mud.
Woman, the morning star in the galaxy of the ages,

Before whom all men stoop and lead to altars hymenal.
Placing her hand to their mouths and covering them with kisses!
Later they take the hootblack and knock her across the threshold—
Thus will it ever be. Before the nuptials are over
Man is glad to stoop to worship the maid of his choice.
After the parson has uttered the prayer at the gnishing touches.
Comes the realization that she must to him stoop e'er after.
Woman, we worship thee ever. At thy feet in spirit contrite
Acknowledged ourselves the slaves to the wavo of thy poignant scepter.
Linking the base to the pure—oh, scalawags that we be!

As Brisbane Sees It

Get Married.
The Sun is Warm Again.
The Vegetables Fight
3 Cents for the World.
BY ARTHUR BRISBANE
(Copyright 1924)

PROFESSOR KIRKPATRICK talking to the scientists in Washington, says the nation needs a club on marriages. He is disturbed because you can get a license to marry more easily than a license to run a gas engine, or to sell drugs. The church, says he, has too much to do with marriage, and the control of marriage laws.

THAT MAY all be true theoretically, but practically the best thing to do is GET MARRIED, and trust to the wisdom of nature and Father Time. There isn't any real life except family life. There is no permanent happiness for women except in the possession of children.

The human race has progressed from cannibalism and the cave man to our pretty fair imitation of civilization on the old marriage plan. It will probably last for several more generations.

MORE IMPORTANT news from science is this: The sun has regained its normal heat, and is sending down the usual supply. For two years trouble on the sun's surface has cut down the heat supply seriously. All is normal now, although you wouldn't think so in New York City, where this is written. Here a blizzard is roaring through the man-made canyons, taxis and street cars not running.

ONE SCIENTIST tells others that the potato vine is deadly to tobacco and tomato plants, to both of which the potato is related. The sap from the ordinary potato plant will kill the other two plants.

Combat and destruction extend, you see, from proud man at the top of creation all the way down to the abode of the potato bug.

TORRACCO MEN rejoice, saying, "Now have abused our tobacco and you it's your highly moral potato that does the poisoning." The potato farmer answers, "Potatoes may destroy tobacco plants. But remember that pigs destroy rattlesnakes, yet pigs are less poisonous than rattlesnakes." The interesting thing is the proof that in the vegetable world there are fights as bitter as in the world of what we are pleased to call "intelligent thought."

THE NEW York Morning World will increase its price from two to three cents. The sufficient reason is that the white paper on which it is printed costs a half million dollars a year more than the gross sale price at two cents. The public will pay three cents for the kind of newspaper it wants, and does not demand that the entire burden of additional cost be put upon business men that advertise.

QUALITY, NOT price, is the demand. The Cosmopolitan Magazine had 250,000 circulation at ten cents when this writer negotiated its purchase from John Brisben Walker. It has 1,000,000 circulation now at thirty-five cents. The money has been put into the minutes after his older brother.

THE NEW Year curiosity interesting to women is thus announced, "Twins Born in Different Years." One, Thomas Daniel, was born in 1924, his brother, James, was born in 1925, two hours and 55 minutes after his older brother.

THERE IS another new plan for teaching little boys how to grow up. This is the "Knighthood" plan, to teach little boys chivalry and guide them away from evil. It's a good plan, presumably, but it is possible to overdo schemes and plans for showing boys how to act and think.

They need some time in which to think exactly in their own way. It is the thing that a boy does on his own account and of his own free will that counts. Little Newton, called a dull boy, was thinking out the law of gravitation. Napoleon, called a sulky boy at his military school, was making plans that surprised his teachers later. Let children ALONE, at least part of the time.

FERRERO, ITALIAN historian is amazed, unnecessarily, at the fact that money controls the so-called civilized world, and that the selfish money interest of nations prevents abolition of the deadly traffic in opium. He says: "The moral conscience of the world must be profoundly low when a small number of vile traders are able to sway the councils of nations."

All governments are ruled by money, more or less. Governments are controlled by the most powerful men. They get what they want, and they want money usually.

YOU SEE money displaying its power in the fight to uphold child labor here in the United States. The State of Massachusetts disgraced itself by failing to ratify a Constitutional Amendment that would enable Congress to protect children. You will see other States do the same.

MR. GREEN, new head of the American Federation of Labor urges support of the amendment. He will learn something about the power of money, and what happens when it doesn't work a law.

"IT'S A TOUGH NEIGHBORHOOD WE LIVE IN"

LITERATURE AND THE PRESS

Some orators win fame, or something which resembles it, but the making of many speeches, on every possible occasion and subject and in every possible place. Others have won real and abiding fame by one or two speeches. Sir James Barrie is of the latter class. He is said to have made only three speeches in his lifetime, but two of them, at least, have attracted attention to him as one of the most delightful of orators, who puts into what he has so infrequently said in public a quality of whimsicality which sets his speeches apart from the ordinary run of public addresses.

The latest of his utterances was a response to a toast at a banquet given in London, for the printer's pension fund. His subject was literature and the press. In the course of his remarks he found it possible to suggest rather clearly the present vogue for reminiscences and to take some sly shots at present styles in literature, that mark him an unusually keen observer. A purely fictitious account of a meeting with Robert Louis Stevenson has already found its way out of the speech and is circulating among some newspapers as a bit of current history. In it Sir James gives a very valuable suggestion, however, that might well receive particular attention.

He relates that he was hurrying to his classes in the University of Edinburgh when as he was going across a street he ran into another wayfarer. He stopped and glared at the person into whom he had run,

A DREAM COMING TRUE

The municipal golf links had now been in operation four years in Asheville. The 18-hole course was crowded every good golf day and the spread of the golf habit had stimulated the building of several additional private links. The city course and the moderate-price hotels were each season bringing increasing numbers of desirable visitors. On Saturdays through the summers the banks, stores, and other business establishments declared an absolute half holiday and Asheville people of all groups had learned how to loaf, play and invite their souls. A local golfer had won the championship in the national city contest. Most of the suburbs had been taken into the city; the last census found a population of 75,000.

Agriculture had become economically independent through co-operative marketing and the boarding of tourists in the summer time. There was, of course, more wealth in Western North Carolina and it was better apportioned. There was more music; the Pack Library of Asheville had trebled its number of books and everybody had more time for reading and digesting what they read. In short, there was much real culture as well as money.

REFORM HIM FIRST

Many a well meaning but misguided girl marries a man whose habits are bad, with the mistaken idea that she can reform him. And this brings many a poor woman to sorrow and grief. If there is any possibility of reformation in a man let him reform before he marries. The St. Petersburg Independent gives an incident showing the wisdom of one girl. Crotty found a girl whose name he will not reveal though the heavens fall. He told her with disgust of his adventures; but she showed no enthusiasm. She thought that holding people up was not nice and told Crotty so. Crotty wanted to marry; but the girl insisted that he must first reform. He even agreed to reform; but the girl was a wise one he must not only reform, but he must give him-

TRAVELERS FIND TOURIST TRAIL IN SAHARA DESERT

Trip From Paris to Timbuctoo Consumes 12 Days, Takes Traveler Over Jumps by Rail Boat, Special Autos
PARIS, Jan. 7.—The Sahara Express, a bi-weekly service which will be inaugurated next month, will take the traveler from Paris to Timbuctoo in 12 days. The trip from Paris to Colomb-Bechar, via rail to Marseilles, boat to Algiers and rail to Colomb-Bechar will occupy three days. The first stage of the trek through the desert from Colomb-Bechar to Beni-Abbas, is over a distance of 200 kilometers, 50 of which will be covered in caterpillar automobiles and 150 in cars with wheels. The second day in the desert ends at Timoudi, 170 kilometers from Beni-Abbas, the entire distance being covered in caterpillar cars. Adrar, with its 4,000,000 date trees and fortified town looking like a medieval fortress, 250 kilometers away from Timoudi, is the terminus of the third day in the desert. Regular automobiles with wheels will be used on the third day as well as on the fourth, which provides for a jump of 450 kilometers from Adrar to Ouadjen, through the Tanzezouff, the native name "for land of thirst and fear." On the fifth day 510 kilometers will be negotiated in cars with wheels, through the same desolate country, ending at Tessaalit. The sixth day will be devoted to resting at Tessaalit; on the seventh day the cars will cover 280 kilometers to Tabankort, and on the eighth day after a trip of 350 kilometers the Niger will be reached at Gao. The last stage of the journey from Gao to Timbuctoo will be 500 kilometers on the Niger in river boats. Tourists will not have to sleep in the open; hotels are being put up at each terminal point in the desert for their accommodation. At Beni-Abbas they will be quartered in a palace on the edge of a cliff; the old castle at Adrar will be placed at their disposal and at the palace at Timbuctoo.

Britishers Praise Graduates Of U. S. Journalism Schools

LONDON, Jan. 7.—Sir Roderick M. Jones, chairman of Reuters, the British news agency, in a recent letter to The Spectator, urging support of the journalism courses of the University of London, pays a warm tribute to the educational standards of American journalism. "During each of my visits to the United States," says Sir Roderick, who recently visited America on a tour around the world, "I have been impressed by the high educational standard of young American journalists. They are recruited, I find, in increasing numbers from the several universities which devote themselves, in part, to the training of men for newspaper work. The fruitful experience of these institutions justifies the progressive and enlightened journalism policy of the University of London which, over here, has been the pioneer in this as in many other educational activities."

SHAWLS, EMBROIDERED, HAND-PAINTED, APPLIQUED AND STRIPED, NOW POPULAR

The Spanish shawl is a thing of great beauty and a joy forever. It is in a class with exquisite pieces of handmade lace, old silver, and all sorts of treasure that is kept in one's family. It is worth its weight in gold. By its weight of embroidery it is judged and priced; by the length of its fringe it is judged and priced; and last, but not least, by the beauty of its design and coloring it is judged and priced. And, of course, the older it is, the more its value is enhanced. Its conventional floral design cannot be improved upon. Its colorings cannot be more brilliant, its silk more heavy or lustrous. It is a handwork of exquisite beauty. It is the loveliest wrap for all lovely women. And it is something that every woman wants, and, indeed, something that every fashionable woman should have. Julia Faye, one of the Paramount players featured in Cecil B. DeMille's newest picture, "Feet of Clay," is the proud possessor of two Spanish shawls. These she has draped into a picturesque costume. One shawl is draped into a straight lined gown and the other forms a shawl-cape. The colorings are of the most brilliant scarlets and pinks and magentas and greens. In the sketch at the lower left of the above layout, a hand-painted shawl is shown, with a fur collar. Hand-painted shawls like this are becoming more and more popular and artists of note are turning their thoughts and genius to creating new designs for them. Every week brings forth new creations, some of them actually signed by well known artists. Their decorations run from tropical jungle scenes, through Egyptian patterns of startling and primitive beauty, to the delicate traceries of Japanese art. Then there are the georgette shawls that every woman can make for herself. They are of double layers, sometimes of the same color, and sometimes with one layer of one shade and the other layer of another. In the circle above, one layer of the georgette is wine color and the other tangerine, with applique design of a deep purple, sewn on with gold threads. At the right a long, wide, brilliant Roman shawl is shown, such as is purchased in Italy.

ARMY BREAKS THREE WORLD'S RECORDS IN N.Y.

Illiant Finn Athlete Shines in American Debut When He Decisively Beats Best American Runners; Ritola Among Those Conquered

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, N.Y., Jan. 7.—Less than two hours after he had beaten the pick American talent in a mile race which he shattered two world records, Paavo Nurmi Tuesday night won up his American debut with another world record victory in the 5,000 meters at the Finnish-American track.

Nurmi decisively conquered his American rival, Willis Ritola in the exhibition of his epic performance and clipped ten seconds from the world's record for 5,000 metres set by Jole Ray in 1919. Nurmi's time was 14:44 3-5. In his previous race, Nurmi broke the world's indoor mile record but was announced as sharing the 1,500 meter mark on a race to triumph.

Nurmi won by three yards from Ray, former American mile champion, in one of the greatest races ever held and clipped ten seconds from the former record made by Ray in 1919. The time was four minutes, 13 seconds.

Nurmi conquered one of the best fields ever gathered together in America, and in demonstration that he had lost none of his Olympic speed in his indoor test, set a pace so fast that his rivals were forced to quit while all but Ray and Hahn, Boston A. A. runner, were outclassed.

LANDIS TO MAKE PUBLIC HEARING IN SCANDAL CASE

Baseball Commissioner Will Bare Whole Case of Dolan and O'Connell, He Declares to a Committee of Writers

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—Baseball Commissioner Landis, Tuesday informed a committee of New York baseball writers in a letter that he expected to make public with a few days the full testimony of Jimmy O'Connell and Cozy Dolan, made to the commissioner before the two members of the New York Giants were banished from baseball for attempted bribery.

The letter from Landis, sent in reply to a request from the New York writers that this testimony including O'Connell's confession, be disclosed, was dated Jan. 3 and said in part: "Although I have expected to give out that testimony for publication long before this and will not postpone such action much longer, I must withhold it at least for a few days more in what I conceive to be the discharge of my obligation in the matter."

Landis has been pressed for time to reveal the next test of the testimony made to him by O'Connell and Dolan, in addition to the statements by Frank Frisch, George Kelly and Ross Young, other members of the Giants mentioned in O'Connell's confession but exonerated by the commissioner's probe. Until today, however, Landis had declined to make the matter public on the ground that it would not serve the best interests of his investigation to do so.

His announcement was speculated upon here as a possible indication of further developments in the near future in the bribery scandal which came out just before the last world's series.

Prepare Colts For 51st Renewal Of Kentucky Classic

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 7.—More than 150 of the fastest three-year-olds in the country probably will be nominated for the 51st renewal of the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs next May 16. Last winter 174 entries were named for the $50,000 classic, and the number of high class two-year-olds developed this season indicates as many or more will be in the race before nominations close the last week in February.

Of the large number originally made eligible, only rarely do more than a score start in the big race. Lists of probable nominees already have made their appearance, based upon the form race horses are showing, and a large number of two-year-olds of the 1924 meets are prominently mentioned.

Employer Requires Workers To Save Part Of Salaries

ABILENE, Kan., Jan. 6.—To save at least 10 per cent of his pay is one of the duties of every employe of the Brown utilities interests, whose headquarters is here. C. E. Brown, president of the United Power & Light Corporation and the United Telephone Company, requires every one of the 1,400 employes, from office boy to manager, to "be thrifty, and therefore contented."

"Give me a man with a family and a home that is paid for, and 99 times out of a hundred, we have a contented worker," said Mr. Brown. "On the other hand, although by no means always, the man who does not have something tangible to show for his job is usually ready to seek another with the slightest excuse for the shift."

The compulsory savings system was established two years ago and today virtually every employe is praising the plan, according to Mr. Brown. Total savings of the workers exceed $150,000 a year. The labor turnover has become negligible.

The lowest man or woman saves the most proportionately, a survey by the committee shows. Most of the higher salaried officials scarcely succeeded in putting aside the minimum 10 per cent, while some of those receiving the least wage, put away as much as a fourth of their earnings.

The most remarkable tobacco ever offered to pipe smokers — in quality, in value, in taste

Back about 1870, James N. Wellman developed a secret tobacco process which won instant and widespread favor. It yielded a fuller-bodied richness, mildness and fragrance which just seemed to "go" with a pipe. No one else ever knew his secret until we acquired "Wellman's Method" and by its means made "Granger Rough Cut"
