Weldon Boulevard Created

Lake Mary Begins To Change Similar Street Names

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

A petition that threatened to roar barely uttered a meow at the Lake Mary City Commission Thursday night as the members voted to commence renaming city streets.

By unanimous vote the commission changed the name of East Road, that reaches from Seminole Community College to U.S. Highway 17-92, to Weldon Boulevard. After the current and only president of the college, Dr. Earl S. Weldon.

The street renaming — which started as an effort to honor Weldon — grew into a move to eliminate like-name roads in the city and same-name roads separated by a lake.

According to City Manager Kathy Rice, there is a Pine Drive Circle and a Pine Circle Drive, which confounds fire, police, and rescue efforts. Emergency personnel have also had problems determining which end of a road split by a lake the emergency is occurring.

One street that had its name changed was a section of Anderson Lane. The commission renamed the south fork of the roadway, a section said to "meander" through a residential area, to Smathers Drive.

Three throughfares were not renamed because Mrs. Rice said the problem the city has with those streets cannot be resolved by changing the address of some residents. Keeping their titles were Almyra and Lakeshore drives and Ridge Road.

The city staff is to consider what to rename the remaining contested streets and make a recommendation to the council at their next meeting.

In other action, the commission backed away from approving a resolution that would create a building moratorium on properties located near a proposed cloverleaf exit ramp of Interstate 4 at Lake Mary Boulevard.

City attorney Robert Petree told the commission that after researching the issue, the city could not impose a building moratorium by resolution. He said the city would have to pass an ordinance to accomplish the construction shut down.

Miranda Franks, an attorney representing Lake Mary property owners Toby Hardy and Dwight Lieb, told the council it was questionable procedure to impose a moratorium and not inform the property owners. She said her clients learned of the proposed building shut down, to prevent a slow down of improvements at the proposed exit site and to reduce costs, by a reporter calling about the issue.

The council voted 3 to 1, with Commissioner Collin Keogh voting nay and commissioner Harry Terry absent, to have the city attorney draft an ordinance that would create a moratorium near the exit ramp site.

The commission also sent a proposed zone change back to the Planning and Zoning Board for reconsideration.

Glenn Martin and associates attended Thursday's meeting to appeal the P&Z decision not to allow the developer to change 27 acres zoned industrial to residential.

A debate ensued regarding whether the commission should consider the Martin's proposal since it was different than the one that was presented to the P&Z board and if the council took action whether it would be usurping the function of that board.

The difference in the plan the P&Z board turned down and the one presented to the council was that in the original 60 acres were asked to be rezoned. In the plan before the commission 27 acres were asked to be rezoned.

The commission voted to send the new plan back to the P&Z board for their recommendation.

Dog Track May Go To Owners' Children

In an apparent effort to keep it all in the family, three owners of a Casselberry dog track being forced to sell the business by the state have asked Florida officials if it's OK if their kids buy the facility.

William and Jack Demetree and Paul Dervaes, owners of the Super Seminole Greyhound Park, have agreed to sell the business if the state Department of Business Regulation (DBR) agrees to drop charges against them for questionable business practices.

The state had considered revoking the track's liquor license and possibly its pari-mutuel license for irregularities during 1981, the business' first year of operation.

According to DBR general counsel Harry Purnell, Dervaes and the Demetrees are accused of having a convicted bookmaker involved in the track's operation.

Purnell said the state alleged that John Fountain of North Carolina loaned money to minority owner Dervaes who then put the money into use at the track.

The Demetree brothers own 90 percent of the business.

William "Bill" Demetree, of Orlando, confirmed the planned sale of the pari-mutuel business to the trio's children.

Demetree's daughter, Mary Demetree, 24, of Orlando, and his brother's sons, Mark, 26, and Jay, 24, both of Jacksonville, are designated along with Dervaes daughter to be the next owners of the $27½-million-a-year business — if the state approves.

Demetree said the four were considered as potential owners of the race track after the trio could not get a fair offer from other investors.

Gary Rutledge, secretary of the Department of Business Regulation, said the state has begun an investigation of the proposed sale to the Demetree and Dervaes offspring.

He said the probe is being conducted as a matter of routine procedure, not because of the proposed buyers are the current owners' children.

The greyhound track is scheduled to open in May for its fourth season.

The state has 90 days to investigate the proposed sale, but expects to complete its work before the May opening, Rutledge said.

EPA Aims To Curtail EDB Residue In Fruit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Environmental Protection Agency today announced major new restrictions on EDB contamination in citrus aimed at eliminating residues of the cancer-causing pesticide in domestic and imported fruit by Sept. 1.

But EPA Administrator William Ruckelshaus stopped short of an outright ban, saying use of the chemical on fruit that is both grown and sold in the United States "has essentially ceased."

"The EPA estimates that only 2 percent of all fresh citrus fruit consumed in the United States is fumigated," the agency said in a statement accompanying Ruckelshaus' announcement.

The EPA chief said his "phase-down" to eliminate contamination caused by ethylene dibromide was drawn up under an agreement with the citrus industry.

As a result of the agreement, growers promise to withdraw pending legal challenges to the EPA action, he said. The EPA had planned to bar EDB use on fruit in September, but the citrus industry is contesting that move in court.

The new standards will take effect after a 30-day public comment period.

Under today's decision, the EPA is setting mandatory "interim" nationwide tolerance levels for EDB of 250 parts per billion for the whole fruit, which includes the rind, skin and stem.

For the edible portions of the fruit, the tolerance limit is 30 parts per billion, which is the same level recommended by the agency last month for ready-to-eat grain-based food products.

After Sept. 1, "any detectable residues of EDB in citrus fruit or papayas will render the commodities adulterated and subject to enforcement action," the agency said.

The new interim standards could significantly restrict imports from Mexico, the Caribbean and Central and South America. The Food and Drug Administration has found high levels of EDB in the pulp of imported citrus — up to 70 times higher than the government standards for ready-to-eat grain products.

But the decision allows Florida citrus growers to continue fumigating fruit shipped to Japan with EDB. Japan buys more than $100 million a year in Florida citrus and continues to insist it be fumigated with the pest killer.

Inspections

Group Wants Auto Checks Revived

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

A new law reinstating annual motor vehicle inspections in Florida could come out of the 1984 session of the Legislature.

And Seminole County's three resident legislators — Reps. Bobby Brantley, Carl Selph and Art Grindle — support the concept.

At the same time, the Florida Automobile Service Council which includes among its members automobile wholesalers and parts jobbers, were meeting in Orlando today to mount a major lobbying effort to get the law, repealed in 1981, back on the books.

Although Waymon Singleton, vice president of the organization, says the members are not supporting any single piece of legislation at this time, he said the group does favor annual inspections done by private enterprise.

Formerly inspections in the state for the most part were done under the auspices of county government.

In Seminole, the county operated three inspection stations for 13 years and they have retained ownership of those stations just in case the state changes its mind and reinstitutes the program.

But one county commissioner — Bill Kirchhoff — said he opposes private enterprise running a program if it were instituted. "There would be a big difference in uniformity of standards and quality of inspections if the work were done at various gas stations and this has been shown in other states," Kirchhoff said.

He also said no one has shown him that auto inspections or the lack of them contribute to or take from the number of accidents on the state's highways.

An attempt at reinstating state inspections failed last year in the Legislature. However, Rep. Thomas E. Danson Jr., R-Sarasota, has prefiled a bill to begin the service again.

The Danson proposal calls for auto inspections on an annual basis and gives preferred status to private enterprise taking over the chore.

The Danson bill would institute mandatory auto emission limits by Jan. 1, 1985 and sets noise levels.

And even though Grindle, R-Altamonte Springs, supports the proposal, he says it appears Gov. Bob Graham will oppose it.

"It was Graham who urged repeal of the auto inspection law in 1981. He said at the time that no competent statistics could be shown that the inspections had cut the number of accidents on the highways. Statistics showed just the opposite, he said, and that accidents and deaths on the highways had increased over the years automobile inspections were required.

"The governor is on record that he will veto reinstatement of motor vehicle inspections," Grindle said, "but I'm totally in support and I think the governor is wrong on this issue."

"It was a big mistake to allow these old cars badly in need of repair on the roads polluting the air," Grindle said.

He said among the complaints of people about the old law was that they had to wait in long lines. Grindle says if the service were under private enterprise that problem would be solved.

Grindle said while emission standards may be controversial, that problem can be solved by stopping the sale of leaded gasoline. He said even old cars through proper tuning can use lead-free ethanol enriched gasoline.

"I don't know that would be putting anyone under impossible pressure and it could take care of a pollution problem," Grindle said.

Brantley said anyone can go out on the highway and see cars that a couple of years ago wouldn't have been allowed on the public roads.

"And I like to see private enterprise playing any roll it can to provide service to the public. Some exact guidelines would have to be written to make sure that private enterprise would not be handling inspections just to sell parts," Brantley said.

Singleton said once his organization gets the attention of all the legislators, he is confident a bill acceptable to the people and the legislators can be worked out.

"If the people in the automotive industry aren't concerned with highway safety, who would be?" he asked.

Alabama Firm To Provide Ambulance Service

By Britt Smith
Herald Staff Writer

Herndon Ambulance, which has provided Seminole County's emergency ambulance service for 12 years, is giving way to an Alabama firm which could take over by spring.

County commissioners Tuesday authorized staff to begin negotiations with City Ambulance of Alabama, Inc. to work out details of an exclusive ambulance service franchise.

A public hearing on the switch from Herndon to City Ambulance is scheduled for March 27.

Everett Gilliland, president of City Ambulance, which has operated in Tuscaloosa and Montgomery, Alabama, for over a decade, submitted the only bid to take over the county's emergency ambulance service.

According to Gilliland's bid, he is seeking an annual subsidy of $198,000, which is $30,000 less than what the county had anticipated paying Herndon this year.

Herndon, which has been serving the county since 1972, did not submit a bid, citing the high cost of meeting the county requirement of posting a performance bond equal to the subsidy it receives from the county.

The company has posted performance bonds in the past, but "they were usually $100,000 maximum," commissioner Bob Sturm said. "Now they can go $200,000 or higher."

Based on average rates charged by insurers for the bond (which guarantees services or cash should the bonded company fail to live up to the terms of its contract), the annual cost could run up to $3,000, Sturm said.

Herndon's franchise with the county expired Sept. 30, but company president Iduis Willis has continued offering emergency ambulance service under a month-to-month franchise until another company could be found to fill the void.

City Ambulance would provide basically the same service as Herndon at the same price, according to the bid proposal. The firm would have five ambulances in Seminole, four of which would be equipped with advanced life support equipment.

The proposed rates are: $90 and $2.50 per mile for all one-way emergency transportation, $60 and $2.50 per mile for daytime non-emergency calls, and $90 and $2.50 per mile for nighttime non-emergency calls.

Whether the vehicles would be staffed with company personnel from Alabama or local paramedics and emergency medical technicians is "one of the things we still have to discuss," Sturm said. He added that "things could be finalized in two or three months."

The county's franchise with City Ambulance would be strictly for emergency service, allowing other companies such as Herndon to offer non-emergency services such as transporting patients to and from hospitals and nursing homes. Willis has indicated he will continue his non-emergency business, and there is nothing in Gilliland's bid proposal which would prevent him from competing with Herndon for customers in that area, according to Barbara Smith, the county's coordinator of emergency medical services.

But there's a snag to all this. Deputy County Attorney Bob McMillan says that "it's my opinion" that if and when the county awards a franchise to City Ambulance, Herndon's certificate of public need to operate an ambulance service here would expire. Herndon also operates a service in Orange County.

The state would then void Herndon's license to operate in Seminole, preventing Herndon from providing non-emergency ambulance service here.

Willis claims the county can't pull his certificate without just cause such as providing poor service, and he says he will fight any decertification effort.

McMillan said he hopes to review the matter in the next day or two and issue a formal opinion.

The problem, he said, may involve confusion over definitions of the various types of transportation services in question.

The county contracts with a private company to provide emergency ambulance service in the belief that it is cheaper than providing the service itself. Sturm said.

Subsidies are necessary because the difficulty in collecting fees from patients frequently makes emergency ambulance transportation a losing financial proposition, he said.

Meese Explains Missed Payments To Senate Panel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — White House counsel or Edwin Meese tried to reassure Senate questioners that he would act independently if confirmed as attorney general, but he also had to deal with embarrassing queries about up to 15 months of missed house payments.

Meese told a Senate confirmation hearing Thursday the bank did not foreclose on his La Mesa, Calif., home because it "knew why the payments were not being made" and also knew the loan was secured.

Meese, nominated to succeed Attorney General William French Smith, was scheduled to return today for a second day of questioning by the Senate Judiciary Committee, which must approve his nomination and send it to the Senate for confirmation.

In a daylong hearing Thursday, Meese was questioned about his positions on civil rights, his personal finances and his promotion in the Army Ready Reserve just days before he would have had to retire.

Explosion Injures 4

PROMONTORY, Utah (UPI) — An explosion ripped through a rocket fuel research lab at the Morton-Thiokol Corp. today, sparking a raging blaze and injuring at least four employees, authorities said.

Brigham City police Sgt. Jess Palmer said four employees were sent by ambulance to the Brigham City Community Hospital, where they were treated for smoke inhalation.

"We have no other reports of injuries and Thiokol feels they have accounted for all of the employees. There were no deaths," Palmer said.

The explosion occurred between 4:30 a.m. and 5 a.m. at the plant, which manufactures rocket fuels, among other things.

Measles Cases Down

ATLANTA (UPI) — Reports of measles dropped to the lowest level since federal health officials began keeping records on the disease in 1912, assuring the disease is "no longer a major public health problem."

The National Centers for Disease Control said Thursday the drop represented a 99.7 percent reduction from the pre-vaccine era.

The agency said it received 1,436 cases of measles in 1983, a record low incidence rate of 0.6 cases per 100,000 population and the fewest cases since the nation began keeping records on the disease in 1912.

Provenzano Declared Competent To Stand Trial

ORLANDO (UPI) — A circuit judge paved the way for court proceedings against accused courthouse murderer Thomas Provenzano by agreeing with three psychiatrists and declaring the man competent to stand trial.

Duval County Circuit Judge Clifford Shepard heard an hour of testimony Thursday by the three psychiatrists, who had examined Provenzano. The doctors concluded the Winter Park man is sane and Shepard ruled Provenzano able to stand trial. No trial date was set.

Provenzano, 34, who sat quietly during the hour-long hearing, is charged with one count of first-degree murder and two counts of attempted murder. A self-employed electrician, he has pleaded innocent to the crime.

Seaman Charged With Possession Of Stolen Car

A U.S. Navy seaman charged with possession of a stolen car is being held in the Seminole County jail in lieu of $5,000 bond.

The sailor who is reported to be absent without leave from the USS Edward Mc Donnell, Mayport, was arrested by a Seminole County sheriff's deputy at 2:43 a.m. today, after the deputy determined that the car the man left broken down at the Amoco station on state Road 436 at Interstate 4, Altamonte Springs, was stolen in Jacksonville.

The deputy, who was looking for two men who had damaged a car in Perkin's parking lot, Altamonte Springs, first approached the suspect as he and another man walked across the parking lot of the Why Not Lounge, Wymore Road, Altamonte Springs, a sheriff's report said.

FOUND GUILTY

An Altamonte Springs man was found guilty by jury Tuesday of strong arm robbery.

Audie James Cleveland, 21, of 303 Teakwood Lane, was found guilty by a six-member jury of taking a 20-inch gold chain from Lee Menzies, of Fern Park. The robbery occurred during a football game at Lyman High School, 10.

Cleveland was originally charged with grand theft. He is scheduled to be sentenced May 2, 10 a.m., at the Five Points Courthouse by Circuit Judge S. Joseph Davis.

BURGLARIES

Jean Rae Hittinger, 36, of 3662 Jericho, Casselberry, reported that a thief took her wallet, which contained $25, and a $200 coat from her husband's car while it was parked in their driveway between 7 p.m. Saturday and 9 a.m. Sunday, according to a sheriff's report.

A thief took a $300 trunk, 10 pairs of jeans worth a total of $200, a $50 suit and $200 worth of shirts from the home of Ellen Mae Jarrett, 46, of 65 U.S. Highway 17-92, Fern Park, around 3 p.m. Wednesday, a sheriff's report said.

William E. Barnes, 54, of 2749 Bungalow Blvd., Sanford, reported that $1,130 worth of items including jewelry, a tape recorder and a handgun were taken from his home between 7:30 a.m. and 4:45 p.m. Wednesday.

A sheriff's report said the thief used pliers to break a door lock and a window was also broken during the burglary.

DUI ARRESTS

The following persons have been arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving under the influence:

—Michael Lee Beasley, 19, of P.O. Box 182, Oviedo, was arrested at 1:30 a.m. Thursday on east State Road 426, Oviedo, after his car was seen speeding and crossing the road centerline.

—Leslie Roy Slapkins, 21, of 220 E. 7th St., Chuluota, at 1:11 a.m. Thursday on State Road 419 at Lockwood Road, Oviedo.

'The Kid,' Hollywood's First Child Star, Dies

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Actor Jackie Coogan, film's first child star known by generations of moviegoers as "The Kid" in the Charlie Chaplin classic and to another era of television viewers as the rotund Uncle Fester on the "Addams Family," has died. He was 69.

Coogan entered Santa Monica Hospital with his wife about noon Thursday and died at 1:32 p.m. PST from cardiac arrest, a hospital spokeswoman said.

Coogan, who for a short time was married to Betty Grable, made millions before he was 10 and saw most of it slip away. For two years under an MGM contract he earned a then-fabulous $22,000 a week.

At 21, Coogan discovered his fortune evaporated. The uproar of a suit filed against his mother and stepfather caused enactment of California's "Coogan Law," which puts juvenile earnings in a court-supervised trust fund.

At age 4, Chaplin made a deal to star him in "The Kid" in 1919. He became an overnight sensation and Hollywood's first child star, appearing in such films as "Peck's Bad Boy," "My Boy," "Trouble," "Daddy," "Oliver Twist," and "Old Clothes."

In 1923, he was the No. 1 box-office star, leading Rudolph Valentino and Douglas Fairbanks.

Coogan was born in Los Angeles in October 1914 to Jack Coogan, a vaudeville hooper, and Lillian Dolliver Coogan, a former child actress.

His father was killed in a car crash near San Diego in 1935 in which Coogan was sole survivor.

In 1937, at the height of money and career troubles he married Miss Grable — then a starlet. They divorced in 1939. In 1941 he married Flower Parry, a nightclub entertainer. They had one son, and were divorced in 1943.

During World War II, Coogan served as a glider pilot in the China-Burma-India theater.

Coogan is survived by his wife, Dodie; a second daughter, Joan; and two sons, Christopher and Anthony. Funeral plans were pending.

Not Guilty Verdict In Rape Case

A Lake Mary man charged with attempted rape, kidnapping and exposure of sexual organs was found not guilty of rape in a separate case Thursday.

Thomas Scott Miller, 18, of 107 High St. was found not guilty of an Aug. 10 rape by a four-woman, two-man jury after one hour of deliberation Thursday.

After the verdict was read, Circuit Judge Dominick J. Salfi told Miller that he was not found innocent. Salfi said the verdict was not guilty because the case against him had not been proved sufficiently for a conviction.

Salfi said he believed Miller did the things he was accused of and that if Miller had the attitude that he was "getting away with something" he would be back in court.

During the trial questions were raised of whether rape could have in fact occurred in the front of a pickup truck as alleged and whether the 27-year-old Sanford woman who charged rape had dressed provocatively.

The assault allegedly occurred in Miller's truck parked behind the woman's Sanford home. Miller turned 18 Aug. 12. He was not arrested and charged with the August rape until Dec. 8. Though the alleged rape occurred two days before he was 18, Miller was tried as an adult.

Between Aug. 10 and Dec. 8 Miller was arrested in a second case — on Dec. 2 — and charged with the attempted rape of a different woman.

In the Dec. 2 case, Miller is charged with attempted rape, kidnapping, and exposure of sexual organs.

On Dec. 2 a woman told police that she was hitchhiking her way to work when a man picked her up and drove her to his parents' home in Lake Mary. He said he needed to make a stop before taking her to work. He then took her to a dirt road near Hospital and Pinetree roads in Lake Mary.

The woman, an exotic dancer, said the man threatened her and forced her into the backseat of his car where he removed her clothes and told her he had raped someone before.

The woman said she convinced the man that the time and place were not right, so he allowed her to dress and he drove her to Albertson's on U.S. Highway 17-92 in Longwood to buy liquor.

At Albertson's, the woman contacted a store employee who called the Longwood police.

At 12:45 a.m. Dec. 2, an officer and a deputy at Albertson's on 17-92 in Longwood arrested Miller for attempted rape.

Miller is out of jail on bond awaiting trial.

Rail Cars Move Pleases Neighbors

Residents in the W. 7th Street-Mulberry Avenue section of Sanford are breathing a little easier now.

The two locomotives and 11 train cars formerly owned by the defunct Auto-Train Corp. and abandoned on a sidetrack near their homes for a year or more have been moved.

Lynn Johnson, a Seaboard Systems Railroad supervisor in Tampa, said today the railroad company moved the locomotives and cars to another railroad siding to get them away from the public.

He said the owner, an Orlando man, will be leasing the piece of track from the railroad for the train. "We don't know what he plans to do with the train," Johnson said.

Owner Donald Rutledge could not be reached for comment.

Residents in the Sanford neighborhood were harassed and frightened by vandals and transients in the train cars for a year before they were moved.

Wilma Coleman of 700 Mulberry Ave. said today the entire neighborhood is grateful for the help it received from Sanford city officials and legislators and the railroad for getting the cars moved.

Mrs. Coleman said earlier that transients were sleeping in the cars and young people who gathered in them threw rocks at the residents and passing cars.

"With those rocks flying it was dangerous to go outdoors and we couldn't leave anything out overnight or it was stolen," she said.

She and 14 of her neighbors sent a petition to Sanford City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles outlining the problem several weeks ago.

Knowles said although the city has no jurisdiction over the railroad he called railroad officials and they promised to get the train and locomotives removed quickly.

Johnson said two weeks ago that he had no idea the locomotives and train cars were there until notified by the city of Sanford.

Woman Who Hit Cop Must Pay $2,000 To Groups For Juveniles

A Sanford woman found guilty of hitting a police officer has to give as part of her sentence $1,000 each to two organizations that work with juvenile offenders.

Susan Louise Barrett, 22, of 175 Washington Ave., has been ordered by Circuit Judge Dominick J. Salfi to pay $1,000 to the Juvenile Arbitration Program and $1,000 to Parents to Parents organization.

The arbitration program is an alternative to the criminal justice system for first-time juvenile offenders and the parental organization helps parents and their drug abusing children.

Ms. Barrett was found guilty of striking and shoving Sanford officer Mark Yarborough.

On Aug. 4, 1983, Yarborough responded to a call from a bar where a man supposedly stole a wallet. The officer located the suspect sitting with Ms. Barrett. When Yarborough asked the man to step outside the bar to discuss the issue, Ms. Barrett began to shove the officer. Outside of the bar, she reportedly struck him with her fists. She was arrested by Yarborough for battery upon a law enforcement officer.

In addition to the fine, Ms. Barrett also received three years probation, 200 hours of community service work, and 15 weekends in the county jail.

In other court action a Winter Springs man was found guilty of wielding an ax while attacking an Orlando man.

John Anderson, 30, of 719 Wilson Road pleaded no contest to attacking Leroy Bowers, of Orlando, Aug. 1 with an ax. Anderson was at Bowers' wife's residence when Bowers arrived to tell his wife that he was going to file some charges against her. Anderson, first armed with a knife, then an ax, said he was going to kill Bowers and attacked Bowers with the ax when Bowers was in his car and trying to leave. Bowers received serious injury during the attack.

Under the sentencing guide lines Anderson's recommended minimum sentence is from community control to 2 1/2 years.

Terry Thompson, 18, of 1704 W. 12th St., Sanford, has been sentenced for the grand theft of a $1,200 gold chain Aug. 1.

Thompson, who could have received up to two and a half years under the recommended guide lines and five years for violating parole, received 9 months in jail and three years probation. He was given 105 days credit for time served.

According to court records, Keith Harris, of 727 Brookhaven Drive, Winter Park, stopped his car at the intersection of 13th St. and Olive Ave., when Thomas reached in the car and ripped the 18-inch glod chair from his neck.

At the time Thomas was serving five years of probation for a June 1982 conviction for being an accessory after the fact for robbery.

Seminole Grew 12% In 3 Years

Seminole County's population grew by 12 percent (22,000 residents) from April, 1980 to April, 1983, according to the University of Florida's population center.

The center's estimates are used by the state in determining how much money each county and city will receive in state revenue sharing funds.

New population estimates will be made in April, but those statistics won't be announced until some months later and won't become official until 1985.

The official estimates show that Seminole County's population as of April, 1983 was 201,906, compared to 179,752 in 1980.

In the meantime, the county's cities during the period grew as follows:

- Altamonte Springs, from 22,028 to 25,859.
- Sanford, from 23,176 to 25,509.
- Casselberry, from 15,247 to 15,978.
- Winter Springs, from 10,475 to 13,750.
- Longwood, from 10,029 to 11,030.
- Oviedo, from 3,074 to 3,249.
- Lake Mary, from 2,853 to 3,238.

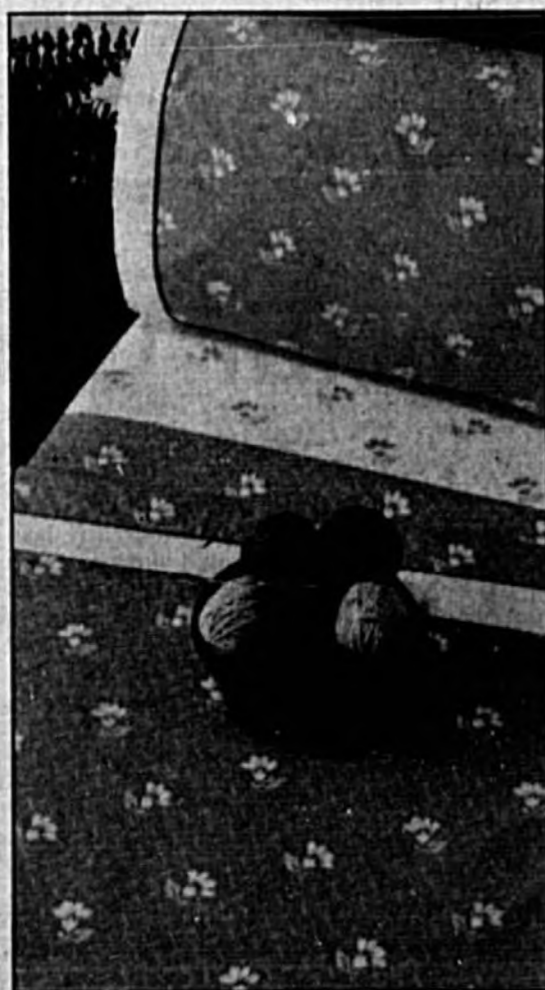

The statistics also show that the unincorporated area of the county grew from 92,870 to 103,296 while the incorporated area grew from 86,882 to 98,611.

Oviedo Teen Pleads Guilty In Baby's Death

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

A 15-year-old Oviedo High School coed charged with second degree murder pleaded guilty Wednesday to manslaughter a week after her confession in the death of a baby was ruled inadmissible as evidence.

Stephanie Morgan, 15, of Denise Street, Winter Park, pleaded guilty Wednesday to the manslaughter of a newborn infant found suffocated behind her bed in her parents' home Oct. 17.

Miss Morgan made the plea with the stipulation that she be sentenced as a juvenile, according to assistant state attorney Kurt Erlenbach. If Circuit Judge S. Joseph Davis Jr. decides however that she should be sentenced as an adult — as she has been legally treated to date — she can withdraw her plea, Erlenbach said.

Miss Morgan is at home on a $4,500 bond awaiting the disposition of her case.

She is scheduled to be sentenced May 2, 10 a.m. at the courthouse.

If the plea is withdrawn, she can go on trial as an adult.

Miss Morgan's public defender, John Galluzzo successfully had her confession ruled inadmissible as evidence in a motion filed Feb. 13.

Davis ruled that Miss Morgan's confession was not admissible because of improper police procedure.

Galluzzo had argued that sheriff's investigators spoke with the 15-year-old without her parents present and did not inform her of her rights under the Miranda ruling which states one can remain silent and have an attorney appointed to defend them.

Galluzzo said that the moment Miss Morgan expressed confusion as to whether she needed a lawyer the public defender's office should have been contacted.

The Oviedo High School student — who is the mother of a 1½-year-old child — was scheduled to stand trial this week.

The provision that Miss Morgan be sentenced as a juvenile is in keeping with a defense motion — filed Jan. 11 and denied by Davis — that asked the case to be dismissed because Miss Morgan, if convicted as an adult, would receive a harsher sentence than if she was being treated as a juvenile. The adult sentence for second degree murder is up to life.

If sentenced as a juvenile as she has requested in return for the plea, she can be sent to a girls' training school until the age of 19, according to Erlenbach.

Miss Morgan was indicted Nov. 8 by a grand jury after the body of a full-term male baby was found behind her bed in her parents' home.

The infant had been wrapped in a towel, put in a paper bag, and then placed into a plastic bag.

Organ Donor Awareness Goal Of Proclamation

March 4 through 10 has been proclaimed "Organ Donor Awareness Week" in Sanford by Mayor Lee P. Moore. Mayors of six (6) other Central Florida communities have issued similar proclamations.

Mayor Moore noted that the Orange County Medical Society Auxiliary is sponsoring "Awareness Week" to call attention to the need for vital organs that may be donated by individuals after death and the need to maintain such commitment now by signing a "Uniform Organ Donor Card" to indicate a personal intention.

More than 1,100 Floridians are now waiting for a donated kidney or cornea. These are persons currently relying on a kidney dialysis machine for life or persons who cannot see. Last year only 2,662 cornea transplants and 240 kidney transplants were performed in the state.

Uniform Organ Donor Cards may be obtained year-round from any Florida Drivers License Testing Office, through the National Kidney Foundation or Medical Eye Bank of Florida offices, and through the Florida Hospital Transplant Unit. During the weeklong campaign, cards will be available at area hospitals, libraries, Public and Goodings Markets, on college campuses and many area physician's offices.

Joining with Mayor Moore were Mayor Bill Frederick of Orlando; Mayor James G. Houser of Maitland; Mayor Hope Strong, Jr. of Winter Park; Mayor John H. Land of Apopka, and Mayor Raymond M. Ambrose Jr. of Altamonte Springs.

Europe Trip Offered Design Enthusiasts

Jill Smith, ASID, instructor in Interior Design at Seminole Community College, invites people interested in design to join her on a unique trip to France and Britain.

Art lovers, designers, and architects will especially enjoy the combination of old world charm and modern interiors. Some of the destinations are Buckingham Palace, Westminster Abbey, The Tower, St. Paul's Cathedral, Windsor Castle, Blenheim Palace, Arc De Triomphe, Notre Dame, Versailles, Chartres Cathedral, and Chateaux in the Loire Valley.

Departure is set for April 23 with a return on May 5. For pertinent information contact Jill Smith at 323-1450.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY MARCH 3, 1984
Knowledge you've gained from experience will be put to effective uses this coming year. Advancement in your career is likely because you will possess more know-how than the other candidates.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Where your career is concerned today, don't introduce changes into matters which are presently running smoothly. Stick to your original blueprint. With a Matchmaker set, you can find out to whom you are best suited romantically. For yours, mail $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Financial conditions are reasonably favorable today, but there is a chance you might not see them for what they are and will thereby fail to exploit them properly.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Friends will be miffed if you agree to do things today and then later go back on your word. Try to honor your commitments.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If at all possible today, try to do what needs doing without bringing partners into the picture. What you gain, they could unravel.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Try to put the same drive and enthusiasm into your work that you expend in social areas today. Don't let having a good time take precedence.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

Don't be wishy-washy today about standing up for what you believe to be correct. Just because the other guy has a bigger mouth doesn't make him right.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) There's a possibility today that you may show more consideration to outsiders than you will toward your kith and kin. Play it safe. Treat all equally.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Extra effort pays off in extra rewards today. Keep this in mind if you feel tempted to lay down your tools before the job is completed.

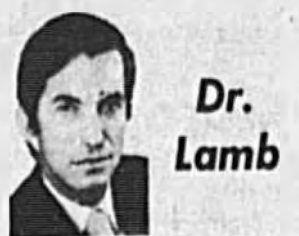

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You're good at managing situations today which are too difficult for others to handle, yet when dealing with your own finances, you could make a mess.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Things should run rather smoothly on the home front today, provided there are no unexpected disruptions. Breaks in routine may not be dealt with properly.

CAPRICORN (22-Jan. 19) Persons who are in complete agreement with you today will see the nobler qualities of your personality. Those who oppose you will see a different side.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You have the ability today to add to your resources or other assets but, unfortunately, you could also experience urges to be unduly extravagant.

Reader Is Unsure About Menopause

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm 47 and need some information about menopause. I had my last physical exam three years ago and my doctor said he didn't think I was going through menopause then. My periods used to come every 27 days, but two years ago they started coming early, every 23 or 24 days. Sometimes I'm wide awake all night because I feel as if I have a fever and I sweat as if someone had poured water on me. My husband is unemployed and I can't afford a doctor's visit just now. Can you help me? ..

DEAR DR. LAMB — My brother is on dialysis three times a week. When he tries to walk, his blood pressure falls and he faints. Do you have some advice on postural hypotension? My brother's life depends on it. I don't know how he'll be able to go to the hospital for his renal treatments.

DEAR READER — Your symptoms certainly are compatible to those of menopause. Changes in menstrual cycles are common during menopause until they stop entirely. Sweating and hot flashes are the most consistent symptoms, but they usually can be controlled. Sleeping problems may or may not be due to menopause. Anxiety and depression are frequent causes of these symptoms. Some studies suggest that menopause is unrelated to anxiety and depression and that these are caused by other factors in life that occur at the same time. Worrying about whether you are going through menopause is good cause for anxiety, which in turn leads to sleeping problems.

DEAR READER — If your brother's fluids, salts and metabolic functions can be adequately controlled, he might not be prone to these problems. Blood pools are gathering in his legs, leading to a drop in blood pressure and a tendency to faint. The best thing he can do is to apply a pressure garment to his feet, ankles and legs. One such type of garment is Jobst stockings. When measured and fitted properly, they create the greatest pressure at the foot and ankle and gradually decrease pressure as you go up to the hip. Jobst also manufactures suits for the entire lower half of the body. Your brother's doctor should be able to help him get what he needs in something that fits.

I'm sending you the Health Letter 5-12, Menopause, to give you the information you requested.

Meanwhile he could use elastic bandages to wrap from the toe and up the thigh. They should be wrapped snugly while he's still lying down. Then, when he stands, he'll be less inclined to faint.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

From then on, play went smoothly and quickly with Dad taking all the rest of the tricks except the club ace. "The other declarer was greedy. He hoped to find some way to bring home an extra trick, so he ruffed the second diamond and started on trumps. West showed out on the second lead, so declarer had to start on clubs. West was unkind enough to duck the first club, take the second one and give his partner a club ruff. "Declarer was still faced with a heart loser. Although he played the hand out to the bitter end, he was still going down one to lose the board. Preparing Beds Vital To Growth Of Annuals

The time you spend preparing your flower beds is very important if you wish to be successful. Flower beds should be spaded or tilled at least six inches deep a couple of weeks before you plan to set plants. Our sandy soils have very low capacities for holding nutrients and water. By adding two to three inches of organic material to the planting bed will certainly help. Compost, leaf mold or peat should be thoroughly mixed into the soil when you spade.

Alfred Bessesen
Urban Horticulturist

Garden soils, especially in city areas, are frequently infertile. Plant food should be mixed in at the same time as the organic material or at planting time, and repeated on a monthly basis. A 6-6-6 or similar complete fertilizer may be applied at the rate of two pounds per 100 square feet of garden area. "Controlled-release" fertilizers are great for our sandy soils. The plants will thrive much better with a continuous food supply. And you'll save a little labor, too, since controlled-release fertilizer need not be applied as often.

Annual flowers purchased in compartmentalized plastic flats usually have pot-bound root systems. If planted intact, the root system will be slow to get started in the planting bed. The plants will suffer moisture stress, too. The best way is to loosen and untangle the root system without breaking the soil ball. Plants handled this way will recover rapidly. Tall, spindly plants should be "pinched" or pruned to half of their original size to produce bushy foliage and more flowers.

Weeds should be controlled either by hand weeding or mulching. Black plastic mulches should never be used unless you add a layer of organic mulch, such as wood chips, pine bark or compost, on top of the plastic. Temperatures of 117-119 degrees have been recorded one to three inches above unmulched black plastic. When you add organic mulch on top of the black plastic, you'll be reducing the heat-absorption factor and will mask the unsightly appearance of the plastic.

Mulching materials should not come in direct contact with the plant stems. High moisture conditions created by the mulch increases the chance of stem rot and subsequent plant demise. Some annuals, such as petunias, will develop yellow leaves when mulched with cypress or pine bark mulches. This is not due to nitrogen deficiency and cannot be corrected by the addition of more plant food.

Remember, annual flowers require more care than most other landscape plants. However, their brilliant colors add warmth and life to a landscape and more than justifies the additional work.

PRUNE SOON

It's the time of the year to do some spring cleaning in your landscape. And, that means taking care of routine pruning of your ornamental plants. Usually, you prune to get rid of unwanted growth and to improve the appearance of the plant. This year, you may need to do a little more than normal due to the big freeze. Pruning isn't the most complicated thing in the world. But, it's important to do it right.

The most obvious time to prune is when a plant has dead, weak, or damaged wood, or wood that's infested with insects or a disease. When transplanting, pruning is necessary to balance the top with the remaining root system. Older plants may be rejuvenated by pruning away some of the old stems and branches. This will stimulate new, more vigorous growth. Prune to make a plant look like you want it to. If you want a certain shape or size, you will definitely have to prune. Pruning also makes a plant produce more flowers or fruit.

Deciding when to prune can be confusing. In Florida, we can grow so many different plants that it's impossible to pick one best time to prune everything. You can do light pruning anytime. But, the best time for major pruning depends on the kinds of plants you have.

Most flowering plants should be pruned right after they bloom. Deciduous plants, like sweet gum, crape myrtle, and jacaranda, which go dormant during cold weather, need to be pruned in the winter. Most evergreens, like podocarpus, ligustrum, hollies, and wax myrtle, can be pruned anytime. But, best to prune these just before growth starts in the spring.

Shrubs that bloom in the summer and fall, such as hibiscus, roses, and oleander, should be pruned before the first flush of growth in the spring. The exception is pruning to remove cold-damaged limbs and branches.

For this, wait until after new growth starts. If you do heavy pruning now, you may lose more of the plant than you have to. By waiting, you can tell how much of the plant will recover.

Use hand shears and loppers, not hedge clippers, for pruning smaller branches. For larger branches, use a pruning saw. Undercut large branches so they won't tear away the bark when they fall. Make sure all cuts are smooth and flush with the remaining branch or trunk. Jagged edges invite insect and disease problems. Be sure to use pruning paint on all cuts more than 1-inch across. Happy Gardening!

Annette L. Menefee, 17, daughter of Mrs. Gloria Cummings, Sanford, will compete for the title of Miss Florida National Teen-Ager Pageant. This competition is the official state finals to the Miss National Teen-Ager Pageant to be held in August.

Each contestant in the state pageant will participate in the Volunteer Community Service of the program of the National Teen-Ager pageant. This program encourages teen-agers to participate in school and civic affairs.

A Mini-Modeling Charm Course is taught during the pageant. Contestants will also be judged on the subject, "What's Right About America?"

Miss Menefee is being sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. J.C. Scott, Chauifiers Farms, Inc., Mickey Brown, Robert Scott Construction, Jeans Machine and Sammie Williams.

Annette is a student at Seminole High and her hobbies are singing, songwriting, modeling and dancing. She has been chosen for publication in the "Who's Who Among American High School Students."

Access To Phone Lines A Matter Of Life And Death

DEAR ABBY: If this message to the public makes your column, hundreds of police and fire department dispatchers across the nation will thank you from the bottom of their hearts.

Dear Abby

When there is a widespread power failure in your area due to a storm, do not call the police or fire department unless you have a genuine emergency!

For the last 12 years I have been employed as a communications officer, dispatching paramedics, police officers and fire fighters where they are needed.

During a widespread power failure, we are extremely busy handling the many emergencies that occur as a result of the power failure, and our lines are jammed with calls from people asking, "How come there's no electricity, and how long do you think we will be without it?" Consequently, those calling to report fires, robberies and heart attacks get a busy signal or they are put on hold.

Abby, I hope you think this is important enough to print.

C.E.M., HUNTINGTON BEACH, CALIF.

DEAR C.E.M.: It is. And I hope this will cause people to think twice before picking up their phones to ask non-emergency questions about a power failure. I am sure many did not realize that those lines should be kept open for calls from people who need help in genuine emergencies. I didn't.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 50 and newly divorced. I would like to go out with a man for a good time such as dinner, theater etc., but I'm told that times have changed since I last dated 20 years ago.

Today when a man takes a woman out, he automatically expects her to go to bed with him. I am talking about men in their 60s! I would like to know how to handle this situation. Should I let a man know ahead of time that I do not go in for that sort of thing? Or should I wait until I am backed into a corner?

Publicity Procedure

The Herald welcomes organization and personal news. The following suggestions are recommended to expedite publication:

1. Releases should be typed (lower and upper case), double spaced, and written narrative style (third person).
2. Do not abbreviate.
3. A contact person's name and phone number is necessary.
4. Keep releases simple.
5. Organization releases (the program should lead the meeting account) must be submitted no later than two days after the event.
6. Advance notices should be submitted one week prior to publication date.
7. Photographic coverage requests should be made one week in advance.

DATING GAME
DEAR NEW: Don't presume that every man who asks you out wants to hustle you into bed. Some may not. And others cannot.

DEAR ABBY: I am a girl, age 15, with a good reputation, which means a lot to a girl my age. I have a real close friend (let's call her "T") and her reputation is really bad.

The stories told about her are in a sense true, but she is really not as terrible as a lot of people say she is. My parents want me to stay away from "T" because they say if I hang around with her, my reputation will get bad, too. I am struggling to know what to do. Should I drop "T," or should I keep hanging around with her and hope my reputation doesn't get damaged?

I don't drink, smoke, curse, take drugs and get too tight with guys (if you know what I mean), but I really like "T."

DEAR "G?": A person's character is what he is. A person's reputation is what people say he is. Does "T" drink, smoke, curse, take drugs and get too tight with guys? If she does, even though you like her a lot, you would be wise to hang around with girls whose standards are more like your own.

TV No Danger To Eyes And Health

Caution Urged In The Use Of Pre-70s Sets

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

A little kid flops on his belly, tilts his head back, rolls eyes upward and focuses on the Muppets.

A teenager falls into a chair, drapes himself into a pretzel and trains eyes on General Hospital.

Those are just two of the postures humans assume when watching television. Does contortionist viewing cause eye trouble? Can television be hazardous as a result of exposure to low-level radiation?

As far as the radiation question goes, Dr. Alfred Jolson, an Altamonte Springs ophthalmologist, said that "television has been in wide general use for more than 30 years. If there were going to be any lasting ill-effects caused by radiation or in any other way related to watching television they would have shown up by now. We haven't seen any problems like that, although some recent Swedish studies show that some people who are exposed to video display terminals (VDTs) sometimes get skin rashes which may be related to low-level radiation transmitted by the terminals."

"In the early days (of TV) there was concern about possible exposure to radiation," Dr. Daniel N. Ritz, a Goldenrod optometrist, said. "We used to caution children to sit back from the set because of that, but that's no longer a problem with the newer sets. The best viewing distance is usually about six to 10 feet from a standard set. If the set is smaller the viewer would want to be closer to the television."

Viewing television for long periods may contribute to eye fatigue which can trigger headaches or drying of the eyes, Jolson said. But the discomfort should disappear after the viewer has been away from the screen for a short time.

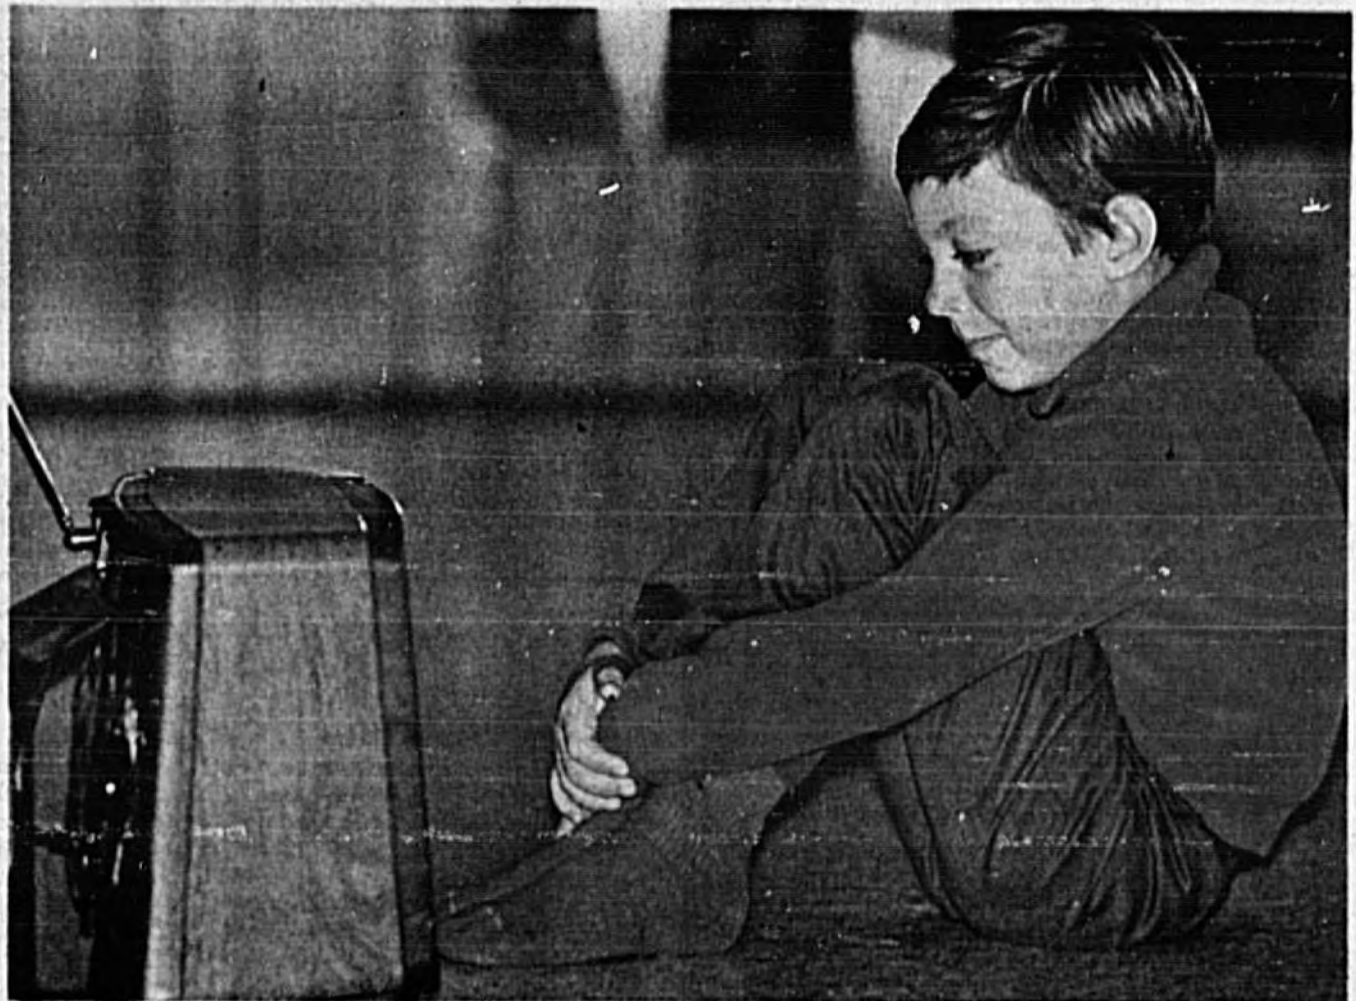

A person who suffers from eye fatigue after watching TV or working at a VDT should consider the possibility that the fatigue may be a symptom of an eye problem which is unrelated to watching the Tube or working at a terminal, he said.

"Anyone who is having this type of problem should have their eyes checked to determine if they have a vision problem which is causing them to strain to see the screen."

Ritz agreed. "We know of no long-term negative effects from watching television, so if a person is experiencing a vision problem while viewing they should have a checkup."

The position from which you view TV, Jolson said, is pretty irrelevant. But the position and posture a person chooses when working at a VDT may be the key to any vision problems the user develops.

"Fatigue problems develop for people who use terminals because unlike the television viewer, the terminal user has to focus intently on the screen to work with the material there. The focusing on the television screen isn't that intense," Jolson said.

Shawn Stewart, 7, of Sanford, likes an up-close view when he's watching television.

The glare from a VDT screen combined with harsh fluorescent lighting in many offices may cause fatigue or drying of the eyes, he said.

"Terminal users should take frequent breaks from their work, make sure their terminal screen has sharp contrast, and if possible should use a machine with a green tinted screen and blue-tinted overhead lights to reduce glare.

"I see no problem with viewing a television in a room with no additional lighting, but some doctors might disagree," Jolson said.

Ritz does. "There should be additional lighting in the room to even out the illumination," he said. "A lamp on top of or beside the set should eliminate any contrast problems."

An America Optometric Association pamphlet says that most lighting engineers and optometrists recommend soft overall lighting for viewing television because the contrast between a totally dark room and a television set is too great for comfortable viewing, although there would be no lasting negative effects of watching television in a dark room.

Navy Upbringing Of Service To Dunnam

By Peter Meade

Although Stephanie Dunnam grew up in a Navy family like her character, Kay Mallory, on the CBS series "Emerald Point N.A.S.," her home life was nothing like the Mallory family.

"But I'm very much at home with the military," says Miss Dunnam. "When we shoot on location, I have a good time. However, the military doesn't really interfere with the story line, particularly for the women, so my knowledge of the military hasn't been of benefit to anyone but me."

Miss Dunnam realizes many people may be attracted to the Monday night series because of the "romantic, dashing image" of people in uniforms.

Esther Shapiro, who created the series along with her husband, Richard, admits this image was her inspiration for creating the series after their success with "Dynasty."

After selling CBS on the idea of a series called "Navy," the Shapiros spent a lot of time honing what became "Emerald Point." But after filming began last summer, their presence on the set has decreased.

"I wish they were more involved," says Miss Dunnam. "My impression is they are with 'Dynasty.' Esther is responsible for hiring me and pushing me through CBS. She's a calming influence."

The viewer response to "Emerald Point" has been calm, too. The show has suffered in the ratings while airing against "Monday Night Football" and an array of alluring NBC movies.

"People tend to like certain kinds of shows," says Miss Dunnam of the show's lackluster rating's performance. "I grew up on sitcoms. I'd watch anything that was a sitcom. I believe to save us we must develop more people who really like this kind of show."

She doesn't believe her father, who is a Navy commander, will ever develop into one of those people.

"He did not give me any encouragement when the project first started," says Miss Dunnam. "He's up in Washington and he said the Navy refused to give 'An Officer and a Gentleman' any help whatsoever. That project had to go to the Marines, the reason being they wanted final say in the shooting of the picture."

Dean Martin Roasting Again

By Vernon Scott

UPI Hollywood Reporter

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Dean Martin stopped roasting celebrities five years ago when he ran out of major stars.

Since then a brand new crop of luminaries has surfaced, among them Tom Selleck, Dolly Parton, Richard Pryor, Bo Derek and many others — fresh fodder for the firing line.

With fresh lambs for the slaughter Martin and producer Greg Garrison have cranked up a new series of NBC-TV roasts with Joan Collins of the Dynasty series last month's honoree, Mr. T will be the second victim, followed by Burt Reynolds.

Miss Collins was cut up by co-star John Forsythe, producer Aaron Spelling, acerbic Don Rickles, Bea Arthur, Red Buttons, Angie Dickinson and Gavin MacLeod.

Martin said the old crowd of cut-ups who blasted stars in the previous 35 roasts, will be forsaken in favor of personalities more closely associated with the roasters.

Dean stretched out in an easy chair in his Beverly Hills home and blew a smoke ring, cool and kicked back as ever, obviously pleased to be back on TV.

"We quit because we found ourselves doing second bananas," Dino said. "There was no way around it. But now there are new personalities. It's a new game. The attitude is different."

"We're doing the first three roasts and see how they go. I'm willing to do as many as the network wants. But it depends on getting good guests.

"The last subject we did on the old show was Betty White. I'll never forget because after the roast we tuned in Johnny Carson and he said, 'I watched the Dean Martin show last night with Betty White and next week he's doing her maid.'

"I said to the producers, 'I guess that's it. There's nobody left.'

"I have to credit all the roasts to one man — Ronald Reagan. He agreed to be the first roastee when he was Governor of California. I told him they'd throw some rough lines at him and he said, 'I'd be honored to be your first guest.'

"He did the show and it was a big hit. We got letters from Washington asking for equal time, including Hubert Humphrey, so we roasted him too.

"We had about 10 politicians on our show and they loved having celebrities cut them up on national TV."

The Joan Collins roast was taped in Las Vegas' MGM Grand Hotel where Dino appears 10 or 15 weeks a year, the biggest nightclub draw in the gambling mecca. He also plays weekend stands at the Golden Nugget in Atlantic City.

"Frank (Sinatra) and I played the Nugget together three times," he said. "That's fun. But Frank is beginning to think we're a team. He calls me and says he's going to Cleveland and wants to know if I want to go with him."

"I do 20 minutes of comedy and then he comes on and sings for 20 minutes. Then I wheel out a portable bar and we do some jokes with drinks, then push the bar away and start singing. We do about an hour and 15 minutes.

"It's almost like the old days, laughing and singing and having fun."

"Getting so there aren't many hotels that have name entertainers anymore. There's nobody around. Club names are about gone except for Frank, Sammy (Davis), Suzanne Sommers and Diana Ross. Oh, yeah, and me."

"I play for 1,600 people a night. It's always jammed, and I only do one show a night. It's nice to know they still show up like that."

Dino is taking life easier these days, playing less golf, spending more time at home. He's even abandoned the pursuit of pretty young things in favor of dating his ex-wife Jeanne and seeing his children and grandchildren.

"I don't play as much golf as I used to," he said, grinning. "Got a little back trouble and can't bring the club as far back as I used to."

"But retirement doesn't enter my head. I'm doing a guest shot on Magnum, P.I. and episodes of The Love Boat and Hotel. I'm getting a kick out of that."

"You can't get up in the morning to nothing. When people retire I give 'em two years. They die! You gotta get up to something. You can only play so much golf. Nobody should retire."

"So these new roasts keep me just busy enough to have something to get up for."

committee of the American Academy of Ophthalmology, said he doubts that eyes are strained to a harmful point by being too close to a TV screen or when they adjust to the odd postures viewers sometimes assume.

"I always say television can't hurt the eyes, but it may rob the brain," Demarest said.

There has been some concern over radiation emissions by pre-1970 TV sets, but Demarest said there is no reason to worry about radiation from newer sets.

The division of the Food and Drug Administration that monitors radiation emissions from televisions recommends that older televisions not be used with computer or video games because the user sits closer to the screen when using a television for that function and might run a greater risk of exposure to low-level radiation.

A TV set's average life span is about 10 years and consequently, the FDA said, most older sets are no longer in use. Both TVs and VDTs use radiation-emitting cathode ray tubes to produce an image, but the radiation emitted by modern sets is minimal, according to the FDA.

What's The Lowdown On 'Culture Club's' Boy George?

DEAR DICK: Could you tell me if the lead singer of Culture Club is male or female? Some people tell me it's a guy and some say it's a girl. I think it's a girl, but it's hard to tell. — D.T., Mountain Grove, Mo.

Your confusion is understandable. The creature in question is Boy George, who dresses in feminine style and has hair and make-up ditto. But Boy George is reported to be a genuine, full-blooded male. That, at least, is the story.

DEAR DICK: I'm hoping you can settle a disagreement between my friend and me. We both agree that Dick Van Patten, who played the father on Eight Is Enough, and the actor who played Salami on The White Shadow are related. However, we disagree on what this relationship is. Can you tell us if they are father and son or brothers? — F.J., Burlington, N.J.

Timothy Van Patten, who was Salami, is Dick's kid brother.

DEAR DICK: I have two questions. First, is Shirley Temple alive or dead? Second, are Jack Palance and Holly Palance of Believe It Or Not!

Ask Dick Kleiner

related? — T.A.M., Kingsford Heights, Ind.

I have two answers for you. First, alive. Second, yes, Holly is Jack's daughter.

DEAR DICK: Please settle an argument. I say Susan Dey played in The Brady Bunch. My daughter says she played in The Partridge Family. — G.J., Bridgeport, Mich.

Your daughter is correct.

DEAR DICK: How old is Emmanuel Lewis, who plays Webster on Webster? — M.B., Mobile, Ala.

He is 12.

DEAR DICK: There's a lot of money riding on your answer. In the movie, Picnic, with William Holden and Kim Novak, who played the guy who married the old maid that lived with Kim Novak? Was it Jack Albertson or Arthur O'Connell? — T.P., Bay City, Mich.

It was O'Connell, who had created the role on Broadway.

DEAR DICK: Could you please tell me something about Mike Farrell? Where and when was he born? Where and when did he begin his acting career? Is he married? Does he have children? Is he any relation to Sharon Farrell? — P.H., Abbotsford, Wis.

Mike, the *M*A*S*H* veteran, was born in St. Paul, Minn. on Feb. 6, 1942. He moved to California as a boy. His father worked as a carpenter at various movie studios. Mike always wanted to act. He started in small theaters in the Los Angeles area while still in his teens. Ironically, his first movie was an Army medic show — Captain Newman, M.D. in 1963. His first big break was when he became a regular on the soap opera Days of our Lives in 1968. Mike is married and has two children. He is not related to Sharon.

For Price, Taste, It's Carlo's Pizza
Made From Scratch With Fine Ingredients

If you're a connoisseur of pizza and you've tried the rest, then maybe it's time to try the best... Carlo's at 1008 S. French Ave., Sanford.

Carlo's lays claim to this title by virtue of sheer hard work. As Paul Balo, owner and chef, explains: "We do everything except grind our own flour." for the pizza.

The slight exaggeration is forgivable as one sinks pearly teeth into tender crust layered with special sauce and seasonings, topped with whole milk mozzarella. Maybe you've never given much thought as to what goes into a pizza, but your tastebuds will tell. And, according to Paul, so will your pocketbook since Carlo's offers pizza at "a price that no other place can beat — lowest priced pizza anywhere."

And, it's not a commercial pizza since its made from scratch by Paul.

Now this same thoughtfulness as to quality and ingredients goes into the preparation of all dinners prepared. Paul assures, and prices have not changed here in more than two years.

For a restaurant of its size, 52 seats, Carlo's boasts an extensive menu. At least 34 meals, not counting pizza and luncheon choices.

Balo claims that by combining sauces, pastas and other ingredients, he can offer up to 700 different dishes. And, all dishes are prepared as they are ordered. The basic tomato sauce is prepared fresh each morning in the kitchen of the restaurant to ensure quality and consistency.

Paul, who has cooked in fine New York restaurants, stepped into his father's, Carlo's, shoes last year continuing a family business of eight years in Sanford. Carmella (Mamma) and Debbie (Paul's wife) have also been active in the family business.

Carlo's Restaurant, open for lunch and dinner, serves generous portions with lunches beginning at $1.99. The establishment is now open seven days a week.
