BY REV. WILLIAM R. BARRON First Presbyterian Church

Somewhere along the line we have misunderstood our mission to communicate the Gospel. We are not called to convert unbelievers! We cannot convert unbelievers! This is done only by the working of the Holy Spirit in the lives of the unbelievers What our task is is outlined by Paul Tillich in Theology of Culture. Tillich writes:

"How can the Gospel be communicated? We are asking: How do we make the message heard and seen, and then either accepted or rejected? The question cannot be: How do we communicate the Gospel so that others will accept it? For this there is no method. To communicate the Gospel means putting it before the people so that they are able to decide for or against it. The Christian Gospel is a matter of decision. It is to be accepted or rejected. All that we who seek to communicate this Gospel can do is to make possible a genuine decision. Such a decision is made on understanding and participation."

The decision should be made with justice. The communication should be so that the Gospel is not rejected because we present it unfairly. True communication of the Gospel demands inderstanding and involvement. We are not isolated from the world but in the world. True communication of the Gospel also means words and actions. There are far to many of us who talk a good game but never play. We spout loftly phrases that eloquently declare what we say we believe, but we are really noisy gongs and clanging symbols.

This allows the individual the freedom to reject or accept Ged's love. This freedom must be complete. God help us to turn from our sour approaches to evangelism, beating people tin F. Foutz of Messiah Evanwith the Bible, to the responsibility that is ours to communicate the Gospel of love in Jesus Christ.

MIDDLE EAST refugees suffer from flimsy tent ness. Churches in the United States, working through the Near East Council of Churches, help relieve some of the suffering with funds made available through One Great Hour of Sharing, annual appeal to be observed this year on March 24.

the dual responsibility of "pointing with pride" and "viewing with alarm." The former is a plesure, the latter, is not.

What is happening in our city, the swakening to long dormant assets and the promotion of them, has had and will continue to have a top spot in this column and on this page.

Now, however, and under the responsibility of our second major function, there comes a time to "view with alarm" not in a sensational t or emotion provoking manner, but as a means t of urging again the necessity of clear, unbiased, i unprejudiced but alert reading of the news. Out of the welter of charges and countercharges which has made this a week of tragic developments in the history of public school education in Florida, there is a developing sense I that the contest between Florida government and the Florida Education Association is, in essence, the clash of those wanting to inject unionism and those bitterly opposed.

It surfaced in the remarks of Orange-Sem nole Representative William Gibson last Wednesday when he stated: "There is only one thing that would have prevented the teachers from walking out — the enactment of a professional negotiating act" and defined this as "nothing but a closed shop."

If so, then the alarm has been sounded so that all those who would stop any such drive before it gathers enough strength to pose a formidable challenge — as it has done in such states as New York — can counter it with the truly democratic process of open debate and a decision by the voters of our state. We are not, it should be understood by all.

been key figures. But we do "view with alarm" any intrusion of unionism - under whatever guise - into the important, urgent and critical matter of creating "quality education" by 1975 in Florida.

An Inscrutable

Loses His Cool

It's no secret that the Chinese are hipped on culture. They are also proud of their well-known ability to remain inscrutable (keep their cool, as we cats say) under stress and strain. So what happens when one top-level Chinese leader has occasion to utter a few public comments on another top-level Chinese

Well, here's what President Chiang Kaishek of Nationalist China recently said about his old foe, Mao Tse-tung of Communist

Mao, said Chiang inscrutably, is a villain, an arch-criminal, a notorious liar, and egocentric, a traitor, a devil-tyrant and a selfentered bandit chief

Still inscrutable, Chiang added that Mao is China's sole selfish landlord and capitalist" (man, that one must have hurt!) and that Mao's current nuclear tests are "a form of international blackmail." Now this is inscrutability at its inscrutinest, and the Chinese people must glow with pride at how two of their leaders can disagree and still not stoop to vulgar American-type mudslinging. No wonder Mao is shocked by the barbaric way we scrutables carry on over here. He's used to subtlety.

Ocar Students,

No. I haven't forsaken you. I have not been with you. as I most desire, because, as a devoted teacher, I realize the hour has arisen when all teachers must bend together and publicly stand up for the welfare and protection of you and all children who come after you.

Perhaps Education's motto, "Enter To Learn, Go Forth To Serve", can best explain "why" I can not be where I belong and where my thoughts and heart are-with you. If you are not given the necessary tools to learn with, then you will not have the necessary means to serve with; as a reduit, a geniume education and proper training for your life and your future are being taken every from you.

It is for the above reasons that I am not now with you. Instead. I am now dedicated in your behalf ( @ children everywhere) to help ensuer your ples.

Bless each and everyone of you,

Sincerely yours,
