Silver Resolution Of Pittman Is Given Extensive Support

Monetary Proposal Is Dominant Issue Before London's Economic Conference

LONDON, June 20.—(A.P.)—High French quarters said tonight that a proposal to adjust the world economic conference would be brought before the steering committee tomorrow if there are no clearer indications that stabilization of the dollar could be effected. The steering committee includes Secretary Hull, James H. Cox, Ramsey MacDonald, and Eschbacher, American Republic Chamberlain Great Britain.

LONDON, June 20.—(A.P.)—Senator Pittman's monetary resolution to stabilize silver was the dominant issue before the economic conference today. It received such support that Secretary Hull and Pittman later declared they were very much encouraged.

The American representatives made two vital points clear. The resolution has the approval of the American delegation and meets with the approval of the President.

The United States will not return to the gold standard until it is sure the standard will work. James P. Warburg, technical adviser to the American delegation, granted the courtesy of the committee floor, told the committee bluntly that America would not return to the gold standard until it is certain it is workable.

Chicago's World Fair Is Discussed At Rotary Meeting

The World's Fair at Chicago and Florida's participation in that fair was brought to the attention of Sanford Rotarians meeting in the Orange Room of the Valdez Hotel today by Karl Lehmann, trade body secretary who for the past few weeks has been engaged in promotional work for the World's Fair Commission.

He detailed account of the Florida exhibit, how it is financed, and the first that came to the attention from an official source. Mr. Lehmann offered newspaper clippings and other comment which indicated that the Florida exhibit is the finest at the fair.

During the meeting and at the suggestion of Rotarian B. F. Haines, President Randall Chase appointed Rotarians Karl Lehmann, W. M. Haynes, and E. D. Shalsholer as a committee which is to draft resolutions of support over the recent session of Mrs. George Babcock, wife of a former president of the local club, and Paul O. Meredith, Orlando Rotarian who spoke before the club two weeks ago.

Rotarian G. G. Gray gave a short talk on Federal taxes as a current event future.

Those attending the meeting were Rotarians W. T. Bland, of Orlando, P. C. MacMahon, H. H. Gorman, W. C. Hutchinson, H. G. Gray, M. Haynes, R. F. Montague, W. R. Laffler, H. R. Brown, Karl Lehmann, A. DESTRUCTION OF COTTON IS WALLACE AIM

10,000,000 Acres Of Growing Product Would Be Cut Out To Reduce Surplus

WASHINGTON, June 20.—(A.P.)—Secretary Wallace yesterday called for the destruction of 10 million acres of growing cotton in an experiment to curb production and reduce the potential surplus of the South's big money crop.

The secretary announced that maximum processing taxes—about 11 cents a pound on the basis of present price relationships—would be levied beginning Aug. 1 to finance the program under which growers will be asked to plow up portions of the crop in return for rental benefits, payments and the right to obtain options on government-owned cotton.

A campaign will be started in the South next Monday when growers will be asked to sign contracts to rent cotton land at from $6 and acre p, depending on the average past yields and estimated production of the land this year.

The farmer can either offer to take an outright cash payment for (Continued On Page Four)

Satisfaction Seen Over Meeting With Federal Engineer

Reporting a satisfactory meeting with Major B. C. Dunn, U. S. War Department Engineer whom they visited in the interests of various St. Johns River improvements and proposed improvements, H. M. Papworth and Karl Lehmann returned to Sanford late last night from Jacksonville, Fla., where they met with the Federal Engineer to discuss matters relating to the establishment of a Seminole County National Farm Loan Association.

The group included L. A. Brunley, J. J. Bolly, W. M. Scott, L. I. Frazer, and J. C. Hutchinson, and they are expected to return to Sanford tonight in time to attend a scheduled final organization meeting of the group.

Names Of People Visiting Florida Exhibit Received

The names of nearly 5000 persons, most of them residents of the Middle-West who visited the Florida exhibit at the World's Fair, are being added to a book in which they also indicated that they are interested in Florida for various reasons, are on file at the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce office and open to the public at all times.

The names reach Sanford daily in the form of a bulletin which contains about 500 names. This morning bulletins 10 and 11 reached Sanford.

It is noted that during the early days of the Fair, the names were mainly of persons living in or near Chicago. During the past few days, however, names are those of persons living in Kansas, Idaho, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, New York, California, Utah, Washington, Nebraska, and in fact, at most every state in the Union.

Registrars almost all state that they are interested in business conditions, cost of real estate, cost of a vacation trip, climate, agricultural possibilities, and occasionally a request for specific information about certain Florida cities.

These bulletins will reach Sanford every day during the Fair, and business officials stated today they are valuable to persons who wish to follow up the names for business reasons.

GOVERNOR HAS GEORGIA UNDER MARTIAL LAW

Talmadge Pursues Action To Get Whole Control Of Highway Department

ATLANTA, June 20.—(A.P.)—Governor Talmadge, under martial law, today was in complete control of the state highway department.

Judson P. Wilburt, former newspaper reporter, now a lawyer, was elevated by the governor's order from a minority member of the board to the lone chief. The governor declared the other board posts vacant and expected to appoint successors shortly.

Meantime Adjutant General Lindsey W. Camp telegraphed his view to the state to take charge of various highway projects.

The governor's action, taken shortly after his return to Atlanta from New York, followed by a few hours the actions of highway officials in tying up by injunction more than $2,000,000 of highway funds which the governor had ordered removed from banks and imposed in the state treasury under military guard.

Adjutant General Camp, chief of the national guard, read the governor's order to J. W. Barnett, Chairman of the highway department, ordered Barnett out of the highway building, and took charge of the premises.

General Camp also ordered four of the five ranking highway engineers of the nation were taken from the department's budget by the governor, and which action has been the cause of contention of the highway department's property.

A detail of 15 national guardsmen took charge of the building and General Camp said national guardsmen in various sections of the state would be put in charge of highway department property (Continued On Page Three)

STEUER DEFENDS SALE OF STOCKS TO RECORD LOSS

Counsel Of Mitchell Delivers Closing Summation In Trial

NEW YORK, June 20.—(A.P.)—The legality of stock sales to record losses in income tax returns was defended by Max B. Steuer yesterday in summing up for the defense in the trial of Charles E. Mitchell, former head of the National City bank, charged with income tax evasion.

Mitchell is accused of fraudulently the government of more than $850,000 in income taxes through what the government contends were fake sales of National City bank stock to his wife and W. D. Thornton, president of the Greene-Cannon Copper Company.

Denying that Mitchell, in buying 18,000 shares of National City bank stock in 1929, was guilty of "the so-called 'motives'" which he said the government had attributed to him, Steuer said:

"There isn't anybody who can so read the law as to say that, no matter how a man may acquire stock, he may not sell it to record a loss on his income tax return, provided there is an actual sale and an actual loss."

City Departments Make Reports On Month's Activity

An official report of the work accomplished by the various departments of the City of Sanford for the month of May, on file at the City Hall, indicates another month of activity similar to that of prior months.

The police department announced that 68 arrests had been made during the month, with a total of 239 credited in fines. Twelve of the 68 cases were later dismissed while two were transferred to county court for trial.

During the month three electric permits were issued with $130 in fees collected from this source. Eight building permits also were issued, in the amount of $1293 as compared in 1932 in permits issued during May 1932.

An unusually low amount of damages resulted from the 11 fires which the Fire Department attended during May, the estimated damage being $3175.

The water department reported that it pumped 22,550,000 gallons of water during May. This water was used by 1731 consumers, including one who pays a flat rate for water consumed. It was reported that 200 water meters are now idle, and that 257 fire hydrants are in service throughout the city.

During the month, 34 meters were set, 54 were removed, 10 transferred, three changed, five re-read, and 30 repaired. Six leaks were repaired. Workers made three complaint calls, and 111 collection calls. Five consumers were cut off owing to non-payment of water bills, while four consumers had their water turned on again.

Fuel oil consumption at the plant totaled 265 gallons; 58 gallons of chlorine were used; 26 gallons of D. E. M. lubricating oil, and 11 gallons of kerosene, while 5000 k. w. h. of electricity were consumed.

The record of gasoline and oils used during the month is as follows: Street department, 675 gallons of gasoline and 78 gallons of oil; police department, 294 gallons of gasoline and three gallons of oil; fire department, 27 gallons of gasoline; water department, 22 gallons of gasoline and five gallons of oil; inspection department, 41 gallons of gasoline and one gallon of oil.

STATISTICS SHOW DECIDED TURN TO BETTER BUSINESS

Many Indices Reveal Improvement Over Year Ago Records

NEW YORK, June 20.—(A.P.)—The heavy downward lines of 1932 on the charts showing business conditions are being pierced by the upward lines of 1933—the first time that so many major statistical indicators have been able to exceed the previous year since the depression began.

Statisticians smile as they point to the fact that the heavy industries, such as steel and automobile production, finally are improving after an almost continuous slide since 1929.

Basic hope that present business recovery will carry through to normalcy lies in the improvement of commodity prices all along the line, and the prospect that the tremendously important construction industry will receive the needed stimulus from proposed government public works projects.

By the middle of May commodity prices reached a high for this year, and are higher than a year ago this time.

Railroad loadings, while not quite to the mark of last year in the same period, approached very near it. Electric power production, indicating increased use, on the part of industry, slightly exceeded last year.

Steel ingot production, definite indicator of the heavy industries, exceeded last year by a considerable margin. Automobile production also has exceeded expectations.

Statisticians also point with some degree of confidence to the extremely low rate of decline in bottom resistance level has been established. Few are making definite predictions that the turn has been reached, but the majority are more hopeful than in many months.

Sholtz To Assist In Combatting Fire Evil

Governor Dave Sholtz today advised officials of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce who wrote him some days ago to ask that he call upon law enforcement officers to wage vigorous war against persons settling woods and fields afire, that "I am taking initial steps today with the view of abating this hazard."

The matter was broached at a recent directors meeting of the trade body when H. M. Papworth reported that some of his properties in the Country Club section had nearly been destroyed by fire which was known to have started by persons living nearby.

At his suggestion the directors passed a resolution urging Governor Sholtz to have all of his law enforcement officers prosecute all persons settling woods and fields afire.

Tolar's report as City Physician and Health Officer for the month of May, tender to the City Commissioners recently indicates that he held 154 office consultations; made 48 visits to the homes of indigent patients; made 33 visits to the City Jail; 15 visits to the Hospital; performed two major operations, and reported two cases of typhoid fever.

Trade Agreement Proposes Increase Of Workers Pay Thirty Percent, Cut in Days

WASHINGTON, June 20.—(A.P.)—First trial of the new industrial control law will come a week from today in public hearings on the job spreading, wage boosting agreement submitted by the cotton textile trade.

From the hearings and resultant government decisions may come an indication of the extent labor will benefit in the recovery program.

The agreement proposes an increase in workers' pay by 30 percent, a cut in working hours by 20 percent to the maximum of 40 hours per week. Other industries are watching whether Hugh E. Johnson, industrial director will (Continued On Page Four)

Financial Report On City Library Is Submitted For May

The cash balance in the treasury of the Sanford Municipal Library was $8.03 on June 1, 1933, according to a report submitted recently by Mrs. E. J. Moughton, librarian.

The receipts during the month of May totaled $84.44, while the disbursements reached $81.79. Added to the April balance the receipts minus disbursements and the sum of $6 turned over to the City, left a balance of $8.03.

During May it was reported that 23 books were purchased with rent money; five books were donated; 196 were repaired in the library, and 23 new readers were registered.

A total of 5899 books were issued to readers during the month during 27 days in which the library was open to the public. The average daily circulation was 207 books; the largest daily circulation was 478 books, and the smallest daily circulation was 23 books. A total of 343 adults and 98 juveniles visited the reading and reference rooms during the month.

Treasury Balance Is Revealed In Report

WASHINGTON, June 20.—(A.P.)—Gathering cash to start Roosevelt's recovery program, the Treasury on June 17 had $1,000,000,000 in the general fund. The huge total, reminiscent of war times, was made possible through the sale of $1,083,000,000 of treasury securities from which a balance of $600,000,000 were left after maturing debts and other payments were paid. Income taxes for the month returned $104,281,000 only $14,000,000 less than the same month a year ago.

Corporation Salaries Will Be Investigated

WASHINGTON, June 20.—(A.P.)—The federal trade commission expects to launch soon an investigation of salary schedules of corporations listed on the stock and curb exchanges. A report on the salaries paid by such corporations was asked in the Senate by Culligan, (D., Colo.). The new securities act to require corporations reporting data on new securities issues must include salaries and bonuses to directors and officers.

The Florida League season is displaying that power which with unusual frequency has won a first half title for the Florida Baseball League. The Florida Baseball League season for the Sanford Celery team ran roughshod over the Leesburg Bruins before the season. He retired the side in order in five of the nine innings he hurled.

The game brought Tige Minor, who tied a new league record for shut-out victories. Yesterday's victory was his sixth shut-out of the season. In the six games he has pitched, he has pitched for an average of slightly more than three hours.

The league record for shut-out is held by Olin Hutto, who pitched for Daytona Beach last season. He pitched for six shut-outs in the season. That Minor will establish a new league record goes almost without saying, for he has equaled the loop record already and the first half is hardly over.

SELF-PRAISE: Let another man praise thee, and not thine own mouth; a stranger, and not thine, own tongue—Proverbs 27:2.

Henry Ford is doing some good front page advertising these days.

President Roosevelt is planning to sweeten Cuban unrest with reductions in the sugar tariff.

The sun doesn't shine on the same dog's tail all the time. Even Sanford home owners are getting a break now.

Recent congressional legislation has made President Roosevelt as powerful that even King Kong looks like a medieval seif.

Now that the Morgan inquiry is over, the Senate committee should turn the investigation of Coon, Lusk & Co. over to the K. K. K. Klan.

The rumor is that the rumor that Florida's state treasury will be empty in 90 days is erroneous. The latest rumor is that it will be empty in 60 days.

Under the broad provisions of the Industrial Recovery Act, the President of the United States is given the authority to compel every business to earn a profit.

Optimistic Florida newspapers are still writing editorials, "Florida is coming back," for which the answer is the same as it has been since 1928, "Florida has been away!"

One of Roosevelt's few mistakes was appointing a Secretary of Labor who thinks people of the South don't wear shoes—Tanque Titius. Well, we know of a good many of them who have lost their shirts.

Altho he couldn't pay an income tax, J. P. Morgan managed to keep the wolf from the family door—Titiusville Star-Advocate. We dare say he could have paid up if the government had required it.

Last week the country celebrated National Shut-Up Day. And the next thing, now that business is on the upswing and cause for complaint has at least partially subsided, should be a National Shut-up Day.

The Winter Park Herald says the Times-Union deserves great credit for the comprehensive manner in which it covered the Legislature. And for the constructive and illuminating editorials with which it reflected public opinion.

Early in his administration the President sent someone by night to coin a suitable substitute for the word "inflation." He felt that "managed currency" would be nearer the mark—Gainesville Sun. What? The German mark? God forbid!

Tampa Tribune observes that the Legislature developed two or three prospective candidates for Governor. And some of those "prospective candidates" will eliminate themselves if they continue to talk—Florida-Advocate. That's what they are, "prospective candidates," and we never saw a prospective yet that could hold on to his nuggets.

With a "processing tax" of four cents per pound on five-cent eggs and thirty cents per bushel on 100-cent wheat, the taxpayers will have to pay the farmer for letting his cotton and wheat lands lie idle—Where do we go, from here, boys?—St. Petersburg B. dependent. What will happen to the wheat farmers if the folks buy corn instead?

A Federal Fight On Crime

While economic conditions appear to be improving, the crime situation in the country seems to be more flourishing than ever. The recent slaying of four Kansas City peace officers by a band of gunmen, the kidnaping of William Hamm, wealthy St. Paul brewer, the abduction of Masy McElroy, of Kansas City, and countless other acts of violence help to emphasize the apparent helplessness of local and state police authorities to cope with the growing lawlessness.

Crime is no longer an "infant industry." It has developed into a highly organized business which is more than a match for the constituted agents for the protection of society. Gangsters and racketeers have perfected a system of organization as intricate and efficient as the largest commercial corporation. There are paid spies, contact men in political circles, bribers and corrupters of public officials, career lawyers adept in finding technicalities, of effecting delays and winning appeals.

With its modern equipment for defying the law such as machine guns, armored cars, and fortified strongholds, the underworld, together with its legal protection, has proved practically invincible against local and state authorities. There is only one last hope of society to combat the evil and that lies in the hands of the United States government.

The contention has been set forth on numerous occasions that the federal government has no jurisdiction over the enforcement of state criminal laws. Perhaps this idea has been emphasized by certain public officials who are wary of having outside intervention into any unsway affairs with which they might be connected. It might be embarrassing, for instance, for them to have a Secret Service man to go to the bottom of the bribery and corruption which makes organized crime possible.

However, contrary to popular conception, the United States government has the very definite authority to cross state lines in the matter of profiting citizens against domestic violence. Article IV, Section 4 of the Constitution says: "The United States shall guarantee to every state in this Union a Republican form of government, and shall protect each of them against invasion, and, on application of the Legislature, or the Executive (when the Legislature cannot be convened), AGAINST DOMESTIC VIOLENCE."

This is surely a very positive delegation of authority which could be applied to many states which are over-run with crime. With Attorney General Cummings expressing a willingness on the part of the federal government to wipe out gangs and racketeers, it remains only for the governors of the states or for their Legislatures to appeal to Washington for protection from the racketeering element which has been terrorizing their citizens for years.

The Problem Of Debts

It has long seemed to us that there is a striking similarity between the war debts, including both the inability of the foreign governments to pay and the impossibility of the United States government to compel payment, and the bond debt problem of Florida municipalities which are unable to pay and hence cannot be forced into paying. We are glad to see our view of the matter coincided with by the editor of the Fort Myers News Press, who outlines the similarity further:

The United States government has always maintained that the money was lent in good faith to foreign nations which spent it for things they thought they needed and saved notes agreeing to repay at stipulated intervals. The bondholders say the same thing—that they lent the money in good faith to municipalities which spent it for things they thought they needed and bonded bonds agreeing to pay in designated maturities.

There is also a similarity in the things the money was used for. Foreign nations bought war supplies. Florida municipalities bought boom improvements. These are dead horses and both the taxpayers of Florida and of foreign nations are reluctant to pay for them.

Florida taxpayers are annoyed they did not get full value from the proceeds of bond issues. They say the money was extravagantly spent at boom prices. Foreign nations have the same complaint. They say the money they borrowed was spent extravagantly to buy supplies in this country at war prices.

Florida taxpayers say that the bondholder was in on the deal as well as the property owner and should share the loss. Foreign nations say we got in on the war and that the money which we call a debt should in reality be considered a part of our contribution.

There are flaws in these arguments but the point is that the people who advance them believe them. Foreign nations believe they shouldn't pay these debts as firmly as Florida taxpayers believe they shouldn't pay these bonds. That feeling will continue to crystallize. It means that neither the American government nor Florida bondholders are going to get their money.

When this is universally recognized something can be done about it. Realists like President Roosevelt and this Herald recognize it. Many do not. The very people who maintain that the bondholders must knock something off are among those who are insisting most loudly that the foreign debts be paid down to the last penny. The majority do in that class. And Congress' Congress has just refused to pass a bill which would provide the machinery for adjusting the Florida bond debts and Congress has been keeping a watchful eye on the President, ready to tear at his first gesture of compromise.

The Florida Legislature wouldn't let Gov. Sholtz try to settle. Congress won't let the President try. In the meantime Florida taxpayers won't pay and foreign nations won't pay. The government can't collect and the bondholders can't collect. So what?

The "So What?" of the above editorial is good. What are we going to do about the war debts now that our European debtors have notified us almost in a body that they cannot pay? And what are the Florida bondholders going to do about it? The United States can insist upon the last red cent and get nothing. Or it can graciously accept the best bargain possible. So can the bondholders.

WILL THEY PAY?

BY DORSEY RICHARDSON

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the eighth installment of a simple explanation of the economic situation which many believe to be an important factor in determining the future of the world. It will tell you in first readable language how the war debts affect the world, how the value of your Liberty Bonds, the price of your farm products and business and your job. It will answer many of the questions that this month's installment of all economic problems has given rise to.

While the American Congress for the past twelve years has refused to recognize the connection of the war debts with reparations, the sentiment of the French legislature and political leaders has been consistent in holding that reparations and war debts were obviously linked and inseparable. Mutual understanding of the psychology of the people of the United States and France on this question seems to have been impossible, but if we intend to approach the solution of the debt question in a realistic spirit we must endeavor to penetrate the fog of prejudice and misunderstanding that surrounds the subject of France, and try to comprehend, even if we condemn, the point of view of the average French citizen, whose opinion actually is the French legislation.

In the war, France, after Belgium, suffered the greatest material and spiritual damage. Disregarding all judgments as to whether the present state of Northern France is not far superior in a material sense to that of the United States in 1914, it is a fact that millions of Frenchmen were uprooted from their homes, and saw their homes destroyed. Cities and towns were laid waste and made uninhabitable. Few families in France did not suffer the loss of one or more near relatives on the casualty lists of the war.

The invasion of France by the German armies thus became a personal danger to many and a personal grievance to all Frenchmen. Again, France in 1870 had been defeated through another invasion by Germany, and had been forced to pay a severe indemnity for the freeing of her territory. Thus the repatriating of the material and moral damage done to France by the Germans and insistence upon the payment of punitive damages became a patriotic creed of France even before the war was won. It seemed only reasonable to the Frenchman who had perhaps lost his home and a father, brother or cousin in the war, to demand that the home be replaced and some positive reparations be paid for the human loss. This instinctive feeling of vengeance and indignation was carefully fostered by French politicians, and led to the excesses of France in her invasion of the Ruhr and other drastic actions in regard to reparations which the rest of the world, viewing the matter from a more detached and material vantage point, believed to be ultimately unwise.

The Frenchman was promised by Clemenceau and subsequent leaders enormous damages from Germany. The fact that the total amount of these damages was an astronomical sum, impossible of payment, was not clearly realized even by the political leaders of France and other countries when the promises were made, and certainly were not so understood by the French population. No sum of reparations could be too large, in the average Frenchman's opinion, for Germany to be forced to pay. The first sums demanded were constantly whittled down until the Dawes plan in 1924 and the Young plan in 1929 reduced the German payments to what seemed, in comparison with the sums formerly mentioned, to be minimum payments.

However, not until the Dawes plan had gone through and the payments were actually being received by France under it, was it politically possible for a French government seriously to consider any agreement for the payment of France's debt to the United States. It was then possible to do so only on the theory that France actually owed the debt, and that the payment would be only part of the reparations receipts from Germany. No matter what the legal status of the American debt might be, the French voter, perhaps ruined by the war, six francs worth one-fifth their gold parity, was unwilling to admit that he had a moral duty to pay a debt to his ally, the United States, as long as the enemy, Germany, was not repaying the damage it had done him. Perhaps we cannot agree with the attitude of this attitude, but we must recognize it as a fact. The United States might argue that there was no legal connection between reparations and war debts, but this argument meant exactly nothing to the French voter who merely said, perhaps unreasonably, that he refused to be taxed to pay the United States while the instigator of the war went free.

Thus, in ratifying the Mellon-Berenger Agreement the French Chamber of Deputies passed a unilateral declaration stating that yesterday for a two months' visit with relatives in Baltimore. Dr. Housholder will follow later. F. P. Rines, formerly of this city, has arrived in Lakeland to take charge of the business of the Lakeland Ice Company. Mr. Rines has entered upon his duties and expects to move his family to Lakeland in a short time.

When the terms of events were came prejudicial and unamiable, and it became finally evident to French statesmen as well as to the rest of the world that Germany could not and would not continue to pay reparations in accordance with the Young plan, schedules for the termination of the Hoover moratorium in June, 1932, the French government agreed to the Lausanne settlement which so drastically cut down all German reparations as to be practically equivalent to cancellation not only with the provision that an appropriate downward revision of the French debt to the United States should be effected in the process, and its probable effect on American opinion were fully appreciated by the French Premier Herriot, but he was advised that unless this condition were met, the French Chamber would accept the Lausanne agreement, when the question of re-annulment of payment by France of her debt to the United States on December 15, 1932, came before the French Chamber, that body did not act responsibly as the representative of a debtor seeking to default on his just obligations, but as the spokesman of a crystallized public opinion which had long since decided that reparations and war debts were part of the same problem, and that if reparations were not to be paid, war debts would not be paid.

While many persons in the United States do not have a strong feeling that France has acted in an unworthy manner in defaulting on December 15, it is probably true that an overwhelming large proportion of the French population feels no moral obligation whatever in regard to the American debt, in view of the bitter fact that the promised reparations were not paid.

Therefore it is not pertinent to the settlement of the debt question as between France and the United States to advance the time-worn legalistic arguments concerning the separate identities of reparations and war debts, the records of contracts signed between governments—even in France, from a financial viewpoint, to continue payments under the present debt-funding agreement. These considerations are all beside the point. The French people have decided that they will not pay except on a drastically reduced scale, unless they are paid by Germany, and as no one expects the resumption of reparations under the Young plan, it may as well be taken for granted that French payments on a major scale have forever ceased. MANY AIRPLANES TO PARTICIPATE IN CHICAGO RACES

Huge Aviation Spectacle Will Be Staged From July 1 To 4

CHICAGO, June 20.—More than 200 airplanes will be seen in races, maneuvers and stunting exhibitions at the American Air Races here July 1-4, according to entry applications received by the Chicago Air Race Corporation, backer of the aviation spectacle.

More than a score of the nation's best known race and aerobatic pilots have definitely agreed to take part in the four-day program of high-speed closed course races, stunting exhibitions—and novelty events, while 200 others have indicated they intend to participate in the air classic.

At least two airplanes, capable of speed that may set a new world record, are being built especially for the Chicago races in July. Both of these are tiny ships, with engines of less than 100 horsepower, but their very lightness and the fact that they will be streamlined to the last inch account for their high speed.

Numerous novelty events have been given places on the program. One of the most unusual of these is a comedy act by Bob Moore, flying a pusher monoplane that in the air has all the appearance of a pair of wings with a basket hanging from them by a few wires.

Breath-taking parachute drops, balloon bursting contests, dead stick landings and autogiro exhibitions will be other unusual features. The acrobatic gyrations of Art Killip, Jimmy Livingston, Art Davis and Bettie Lund will bring the thrill-seekers to their feet time and again. Numbered among the famous pilots who have definitely announced they will take part in the American Air Races are Clyde Pangborn, first aviator to fly the Pacific non-stop; Bennett Griffin, co-holder of the world's long-distance flight record; Lou Yancy, who flew from New York to Rome a few years ago; Lee Gilchrist, former crack army pursuit pilot; E. M. "Matty" Laird, designer and builder of some of the most famous racing planes this country has ever produced; John Livingston, who has won more air races than any other pilot; Art Davis, famous for his daring aerobatics; Art Killip, noted as the best acrobatic pilot in the country; Roy Liegett, designer and builder of famous small racing

Reach for a Lucky - for always Luckies Please! A man's cigarette? Well—here's why I enjoy Luckies. Somehow, I have always felt that it takes a really fine cigarette to please a man. And since many of the men whose judgment I value smoke Luckies... I reach for a Lucky, too. True, I enjoy Luckies' fine tobacco quality and their delicious mildness. But my real reason is perhaps a trifle feminine. Men may not appreciate this as much as a sensitive woman—but I'm particularly grateful to "Toasting" for that comforting assurance of purity. I've talked to many women about this—remember, a cigarette becomes an intimate thing with us, we place it between our lips. And so, perhaps, because I am a woman this is my woman's reason for always saying "Luckies Please!" because "It's toasted"

GERMAN YOUTHS TRAINED TO HOLD INDUSTRIAL JOBS

Thousands Of Apprentices Are Learning How To Be Skillful

BERLIN—"Es ist kein Meister vom Himmel gefallen" (No man was ever born a master of his craft) is an old German proverb, the truth of which is emphasized anew each year when thousands of apprentices in industry and handicraft are qualifying to be the backbone of Germany's economic future.

The same thoroughness which Germany in other spheres has instilled into its industrial system, German industrial training in the modern sense of that term began late, and therefore its development in the few decades since 1914 was all the more intense.

Today, in Germany, according to recent statistics, there are nearly 1,000,000 apprentices in industrial factories and workshops so that their very numbers alone are of great importance in a country, 114 percent of whose population is engaged in industry and handicraft.

The modern apprentice system differs very much from the medieval guild system. The clearly defined code of rules which aimed at safeguarding the independence, equality and prosperity of the craftsmen, may not exist in the strict form of long ago, because of a changed economic world, but the modern system does much to keep broad the highway of promotion from apprentice to journeyman, and from journeyman to master.

The importance of the apprentice is that he is the master craftsman of tomorrow. Hence when economic conditions make it impossible for a firm to absorb into their works all those who they have trained, the misfortune is great as it is to the individual, equally serious for his firm and general industrial development.

In one of Germany's outstanding specialized branches of industry, the electro-technical, the apprentice system is the source of supply for all its skilled workers.

WOOD TEAM OVER OUTFIT

Elimination Of Ten In 1st Two In- ning Catches Tilt

By R. H. CULLUM
The Edgewood team, sponsored by the A. & P. Tea Co., McKeywood, won the first game of the series Monday night, defeating the Medical Detachment 19 to 5.
The Edgewood team got to Ray Hendon, starting pitcher for the Medical Detachment, in the very first inning, hitting seven hits, two of them home runs by Deasey, good for a total of 10 runs in the first inning. Hollis Phillips, who was the burden in the third inning, hit a little better, giving up three runs and nine runs for the remainder of the game.

Hendon pitched for the Medical Detachment, and outside of the first inning, and six innings,
the Medical Detachment hit nothing. The Edgewood team scoring four runs and three runs and winning in a day.

The Edgewood team gave Hendon support in the field, no less than three double plays being pulled off, the first double play coming in the fourth inning, which is Brit to Morgan, the second in the sixth, Brit to Morgan
and the last in the seventh
by Morgan unassisted.

Deasey was the heavy hitter for Edgewood, securing three out of four, two home runs and a double. With one exception every player on the Edgewood
team secured one or more hits,
Morgan being the exception.

An earlier game the Firststone
team and Edgewood will tangle at the stadium. Edgewood should prove the best team to date.
These two teams are now tied for the league leadership, and both teams will be going there to be on top
when the game is finished.

Steuier Defends Sale Of Stocks To Record Loss

boys it back within 30 days after the sale.

"Nobody," continued Steuier,
"disputed Mr. Mitchell's sale for $225,000. Nobody disputes he sold it for $225,000. In these the slightest doubt in anybody's mind that he had suffered a loss of $142,000
share on that stock."

Defending the sale of the stock to Mrs. Mitchell instead of in the open market, Steuier said:
"Suppose he had sold any of you the stock instead of Mrs.
Mitchell, you'd have been the sufferers as the stock went down instead of himself and Mrs. Mitchell. But would the government have received one cent more?"

Answering a government contention that the sale of stock to Mrs. Mitchell was not a bona fide transaction in that Mrs. Mitchell paid no actual cash, Steuier responded that "government seems to feel all of a sudden that no
business should be done on credit."

In an endeavor to show Mrs.
Mitchell had adequate credit,
Steuier read to the jury a letter to Mrs. Mitchell from her brother, Dr. D. Reed, Chicago, coal dealer, urging her to buy National City
bank stock.

Steuier is testifying for the second time. He told the jury he had advised a month before Mrs. Mitchell bought the stock to sell to him. He said he had been asked to buy National City bank stock for her. Steuier admitted that Mitchell had given him a check for $225,000
and that he had cashed it on the purchased

Vet Bureau Is Working Upon Liberal Plans

Bureau officials hope that these will be ready early in July.

Under the economy law, the majority of these presumptive cases would have gone off the rolls July 1 but under the liberalizing law voted last week they stay on the compensation lists until Oct. 31 at 75 percent of the payments being made on Mar. 20, when the economy law went into effect.

Should the boards decide their cases earlier, the date would be the time at which they would be removed from the rolls or retained permanently. Should cases be pending before the board and not settled on Oct. 31, the President might extend the time in which the veterans could receive payments until a decision was handed down.

Whether boards would be set up in each state, or whether one board would handle several states or a geographic area has not been determined. President Roosevelt is authorized by law to establish as many boards as he considers necessary.

Veterans administration officials expected their agencies would be used to determine the need of Spanish-American War veterans for the pension in the new law which is:

If a veteran of the Spanish-American War, Boxer rebellion or Philippine insurrection has served 90 days or more, was honorably discharged, is 55 years old or over and 50 percent disabled and he need not receive at least $15 per month.

Mr. Mitchell could not stand by and see her capital wiped out.
He deliberately sought excuses to make it up to her.

Indications were the case will go to the jury on Wednesday,
with United States Attorney George Z. Medaris summing up for the government today. The trial has been in progress more than a month.

DESTRUCTION OF COTTON IS WALLACE AIM

plowing up portions of his crop or can take a smaller rental and obtain in addition an option on about 2,400,000 bales in an amount equal to the estimated output of the land he retires from production.

These options will be offered him at six cents a pound or nearly three cents below the current market price. He may order these options exercised at any time up to next January, his profit being the difference between the six cents and the price cotton is selling for at the time he sells.

Wallace said operation of the whole plan was contingent upon the degree of co-operation shown by growers during the week's campaign to obtain contracts.

Unless Wallace is certain that he can take a large amount of cotton out of production, equivalent to at least 2,000,000 bales production, he is not prepared to proceed further with the plan.

However, he indicated that he was confident of the success of the campaign and his associates said there was virtually no doubt but that the plan would be employed and that about $100,000,000 would be distributed in rentals to growers in the next few months.

Wallace will use about $54,000,- 000 from the $300,000,000 made available by the farm act and subsequent laws to acquire full title to cotton on which government loans were made by the farm board and other agencies. He is making settlement for the cotton, which is under the control of the new farm credit administration, at the rate of 9 1-2 cents a pound.

ROAD AND SHIP BUILDING WILL BE BEGUN FIRST

Details For New Con- struction Activity Being Worked Out

WASHINGTON, June 24.—(AP)
Road building and ship construction have been chosen by the administration as sectors for the national recovery drive.

Already $238,000,000 have been allocated for these two activities
and the details are being worked out.

For these, $238,000,000 have been put aside to start building
the Navy up to treaty strength and $400,000,000 for grants to states for highway construction.

Both President Roosevelt and Johnson are hopeful that all of
the 10 major industries of the nation will submit their codes with
all possible speed.

In drawing up the code of minimum wages and maximum hours,
all textile mill employees were included with the exception of apprentices, cleaners and outside employees.

Listing it as "notice of hearing
No. 1," Johnson summoned to a conference at the department of commerce a week from today to discuss the textile industry's "code of fair competition" virtually every one interested.

Both President Roosevelt and Johnson are hopeful that all of
the 10 major industries of the nation will submit their codes with
all possible speed.

In drawing up the code of minimum wages and maximum hours,
all textile mill employees were

prentices, cleaners and outside

Friends of the Family

LOOK at the packages on your pantry and bathroom shelves, and see what a multitude of brand names you recognize. Some of them have been familiar for years. You may have made the acquaintance of others only a few weeks ago. But even these are not suspected strangers.
You have bought them confidently because they were advertised. And it is in the name with your sheets and towels, your shoes and clothes, your electric appliances, the car in your garage—nearly everything you use.
Advertised products have a standing that commands respect. They are not nameless, but vouched for by responsible firms. The fact that they are advertised is in itself an indication that their standards of quality are strictly maintained, that they represent honest value.
As science and discovery go on, newly developed products are constantly being advertised—ready to help you save money and improve your standard of living. Every advertisement of such a product you read in your daily paper is a letter of introduction to a new and possibly useful friend.
It will pay you to read the advertisements in this paper every day.
By so doing you will meet many choice products—worthy to become
friends of the family.
