This lucky father was one of the boys

My advice to fathers with sons is to teach the lads to love and respect their mother. The same is true for fathers with daughters. My experience is with sons.

As our sons grew into fine young men, they appreciated everything their mom did for them. Since she was doing the same things for me, I appreciated her all the more.

Being "one of the boys," I enjoyed a second childhood. Now, don't get the idea I was a deadbeat dad. No sir, I was in on everything. My wife was more-or-less the team manager. I coached first base. Dads should be able to help their sons from being caught off first and to reach second base. Then, third and home. Moms, however, are better qualified at getting them from the batter's box to first.

This team concept worked for us. My wife and I agree that we would rather be the parents of our two sons than to be millionaires. Just to make sure, I asked her the other night: "Is that our final answer?" She assured me

Todd and Jason are as different as night and day but fundamentally the same. The fundamental soundness was taught and practiced by their mother. These virtues include truthfulness and self control. If I'm lucky, I'll catch on before the last inning.

I was the father who could hit pop-up and play catch with his sons. The father who took them to games and bought them tub-blegum cards. The father who took prom night pictures. The father who kind of wishes they hadn't grown up so quickly.

Both Todd and Jason live near us. Near enough for frequent get-togethers with them and with their wives. Last weekend, dad and the boys went off to play basketball on their neighborhood park at Chase Grove. I didn't last long, of course.

Sitting on a bench, I watched them play a game of "21." I wasn't paying much attention as to which son was winning. I was seeing them, but I was looking inside myself for a "There but for me go they" thing; if that makes sense. So I was blessed indeed. So much so I took a basketball and hit a half dozen 3-pointers. Dad's not so bad.

The best advice Convince yourself you're the best

A few weeks ago, I found myself seated next to three teen-aged girls in front of a large room of people, mostly students and parents at the all-girls' middle school that had invited me to speak. The girls had been appointed by their classmates to ask me questions about my career and life.

Joan Ryan

..... "What's the best advice you ever received?" one asked.
My mind raced. I couldn't think of a single Polonius moment. No memorable words like "Neither a borrower, nor a lender be" or "This above all to thine own self be true." Or even "Tip well."

I was about to admit that I had nothing to share, when the answer hit me. I remembered a warm January day in Tampa. I was a young sportswriter covering my first Super Bowl. After the game, with a deadline looming, I looked down the rows on either side of me: legends of sportswriting — Dave Kindred, Jim Murray, Dave Anderson! — sat hunched over their computers, tapping away, spinning gold from the strands of a football game.

I stared at my blank screen and wondered what I was doing there. What editor had been delusional enough to send me? In my panic, I suddenly heard my father's voice.

Convince yourself you're the best player on the field.

I hadn't thought of those words in years. I couldn't even remember when my father had first delivered them to me — certainly when I was very young and first starting to play softball. I was an above-average player with average talent. But because of my father, I knew the game like a veteran. When other families talked about politics or travel at the dinner table, we talked softball. My father took great pleasure in dissecting rules and discussing strategies, which meant his children became the kind of players who properly tagged up and knew how to hold runners at first and third.

But it wasn't only knowledge that boosted me onto All-Star teams that should have been beyond my reach. It was also — perhaps primarily — one sentence of advice my father gave me.

"When you step onto the field," he said, "convince yourself you're the best player out there."

During the course of the game, I could pretend I was invincible. I could catch anything hit, and hit anything pitched. I manufactured the confidence of someone much more talented and competent than I was. And, to my amazement, it worked. I played above my head.

I stopped playing softball when I left for college, and my father's words were packed away with the rest of my childhood things. Then one night in the desperate air of a Tampa press box, they suddenly returned with the lightness of a hand on my shoulder.

Feeling only slightly childish (desperation has a way of lifting embarrassment), I made myself feel invincible. I was Grantland Rice and Red Smith. And for the next two hours, until I pressed the "send" button on my computer, I staved off my doubts and fears and managed to write a passable story.

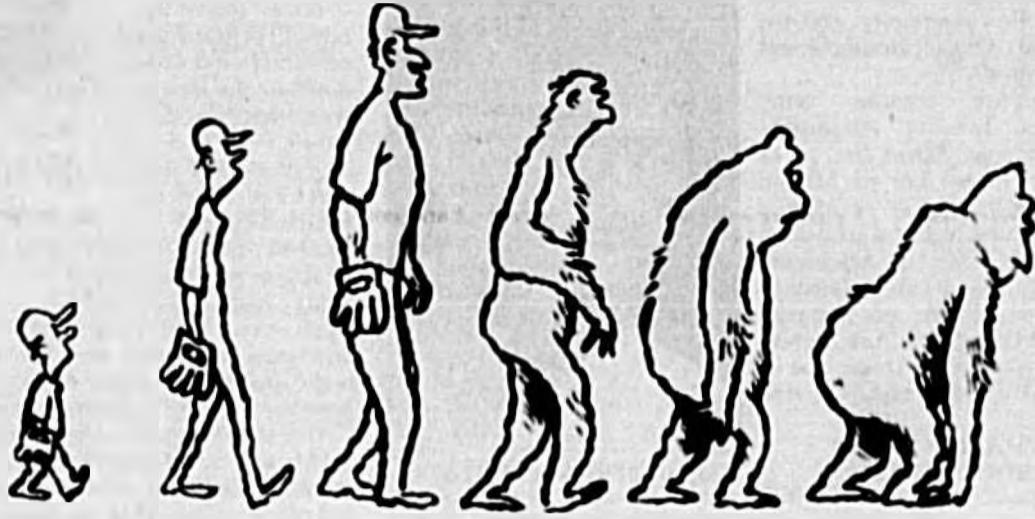

As I related the anecdote to the middle-school girls, it occurred to me that the wisest words of advice aren't the ones you engrave onto plaques or quote from Shakespeare. The wisest words are the simple ones so intricately knit into your soul that you might not even remember they're there until you really need them.

I realize that my father's simple advice, tossed to me on a softball field so many years ago, has carried me through many sporting events, interviews, speaking events and fancy cocktail parties where I'm kiddishly overmatched.

I wonder if my father even remembers his words to me or if he knows how often I summon them. Today might be a good day to tell him.

Parker believes city should purchase annex

Editor's note: The following letter was sent to Sanford City Commissioner Brady Lessard. Portions of the letter have been edited for length.

To the editor:

I write this letter from my heart and soul, as I do whenever I am speaking about Sanford. Being a third generation Sanford native who chooses to reside here and being very grateful for the "small town South" atmosphere it has, I have come to realize how "lethal" perception can be.

My paramount concern at this particular time is the proposed sale of the Velma Mitchell Annex located at 1401 Magnolia Ave.

When I learned of the marketing and of the city's lack of interest in this wonderful historic landmark (dear to a great many people here), I was truly shocked and amazed the city saw no potential in the site. Being a Realtor, I can appreciate the fact that the property has considerable functional obsolescence and a prospective buyer would need to invest considerable funds to bring the building up to code, etc. However, I wonder if the city has truly opened it's vision (as evidently is being done in other areas) to a more "creative" use of the site and building.

I would call attention to the money the city has invested in the park across from the Student Museum. Though I certainly appreciated the tribute to George Touhy (I know the family well), I thought of how portions of that funding could have been shared with other projects. In my opinion, the annex site would be a fabulous park — portions of it now perfect for a central fountain of its own, room for tennis courts, which we desperately need, etc. With such a central location and so accessible, the location is perfect ... and such a park is needed in that area. Even if the building was leveled in order to create another aspect of a quality of life we are trying to bring to Sanford, we would still be retaining a prime piece of our real estate here, and a very historical piece at that!

We talk about roadways, which are extremely critical for our growth, and the assure access and easier commuting. Roadways are important and that is why so many people are opening their minds to the north end of the county and considering living here. I see it on a daily basis. But what we all need to assure is that we offer other amenities to assure the quality of lifestyle for everyone (current residents and newcomers). Relinquishing parts of our charm and history in the process diminishes the essence of what we have here that attracts people. To pass on the opportunity to retain, restore and thereby rekindle is, in my opinion, a mistake.

I urge the city to reconsider and not pass on the wonderful opportunity to acquire this prime site that borders the historical Red Barbour Park certainly puts this site into a historic perspective worthy of consideration. Extending the historic district to 15th Street (along Magnolia and Palmetto) would incorporate the building into the district and thus perhaps allow funding to a prospective buyer. Losing this grand opportunity to an investor with no ties, historically, to Sanford puts control of its use in hands that don't serve Sanford's needs. I ask the city to consider all the options and proceed with careful thought.

Our vision must extend as we approach opportunities, for we are on the cusp of a marvelous transformation!

Sanford is a diamond still in the rough, in some ways. But, it has started to sparkle around the very edges. The sparks have begun to ignite as our grand homes have been restored and areas flourish. The commercial growth is happening, and people "discover" us daily. Our goal should not only be to set Sanford apart as the "premier city in Seminole County," as Mayor Dale has commented. We must also strive to assure that as we grow and are discovered, our new neighbors, investors, and businesses remain. A total lifestyle quality will sustain our growth.

The mosaic is composed of many pieces, slowly assembled. The annex is merely one of facet. Each decision is an opportunity to improve our "premier corner" of the county. The city must consider all our valuable assets and work to retain them. I would hate to think that we would allow another one to vanish, like we did with our laborant handball on Veterans' Point downtown.

I ask you to share these thoughts with others. This single decision possesses a ripple effect far beyond current thought. Being the truly historic area of Central Florida, Sanford can be the "charming southern gateway" known for its friendly warmth — even more than it is now. But, we need to continue to treasure every inch of its history and capitalize on its treasures.

Mayor thanks two citizens for help at accident

To the Editor:

Last Sunday night I found myself at the scene of an automobile accident at the intersection of Airport Boulevard and Highway 17-92. This collision resulted in several serious injuries, one of which necessitated transport by helicopter to Orlando Regional Medical Center.

At this time, I would like to personally thank and commend two citizens, Mick and Teresa Miller, who stopped to render assistance at the onset of this unfortunate occurrence. I certainly regret that I did not obtain their address or telephone number. Not only did these good Samaritans inconvenience themselves to become involved in a very time-consuming situation, they did so with great compassion and without complaint. Mick and Teresa — please know that your kindness and genuine concern for those involved in the accident greatly reinforced my faith in humanity that night. Thank you for caring!

Sincerely,
Larry A. Dale
Sanford mayor

Cole gives her support to Hoen

To the editor:

I moved to Central Florida in 1998 and chose Sanford for it's small town charm and excellent potential for downtown renewal. I have watched local politics for some time now and must say I am discouraged at how the city is handling its growth issues.

Instead of embracing change and trying to shape the future of this city, it seems that there is far too much fighting amongst different groups over singular issues. While I believe that issues like the soup kitchen and the conference center are important, I am amazed that these two items have tied up so much of the Council's time and resources with no real results or improvements to show for it.

Sanford needs leadership that can listen to the citizens of this city and aggressively move to resolve issues. There is a lot of work to be done to make Sanford a better place to live. I have taken the time to listen to what the candidates for District 3 seat have to say, and Mark Hoen is by far the best candidate for this job. He has the time, commitment and experience to make things happen. Those of you who have met Mark in person will agree.

For those of you who have not, please take the time to educate yourselves on what he stands for. He is truly the right person for the job!

I would like to bring attention to candidate Dean Ray. Dean is a friend of mine and I have traded with him since he came to

The joy of receiving the golden handshake to early retirement

These days a lot of guys are being offered an early retirement package. And most of them are taking it. Mainly because their feelings are hurt by a company that after 25 of service says, "You are so useless we're offering you a bonus to quit." I know this can be a difficult time, but before you take an early retirement of any kind, there are a few people you should check with. First your wife. Is she going to let you mope around in your pajamas watching Oprah, or is she expecting the laundry done and dinner on the table when she gets home from work? How do your kids feel about Dad lying on the couch while they're at school? What happens on Career Day when you come in with a crossword puzzle? How about the City Parks Department? Do they think their image as a thriving community will be enhanced by your presence on a bench somewhere? Don't do it. When they offer the early retirement, hold out for a big pay raise and a transfer to somewhere exotic. If you're useless enough, they might just go for it — and if you're not, they'll keep you.

THE JOYS OF A JOB YOU DON'T NEED

Life is like a car — there's only one driver's seat. And you want to be in that driver's seat as often as possible. Most of us get a shot at the driver's seat when we get older. After we've retired and have done all of our major spending and have set up enough of a pension to support ourselves. That's the ideal time to get a job. It can be any job, but it's better if you deal with the public, like say in a store or a post office or something. Because the beauty of this job is you don't need it. You can conduct yourself in any way you feel is appropriate. Be rude to people. Ignore them. See how mad you can make them. Use this job as your way of getting back at all of the stupid clerks and officials you've had to put up with your whole life. You'll get rid of all your frustrations (actually you're just passing them on). You'll get up eager to go to work, and you'll come home refreshed and energized. Being cantankerous will extend your life. Sure, you'll eventually be fired, but they'll have to pay you severance, and then you can go get a job you need even less.

WAYS TO MAKE YOUR NEIGHBORS THINK YOU'RE RICH

Perception is everything. Here are a few ways to make your neighbors think you're rich:

- Once a week arrive home honking the horn, jump out of the car and pop a champagne cork, then rush inside laughing. (Quickly re-insert the cork so you're ready for next week.)
- Have a set of magnetic signs that you stick on the sides of any trucks parked in front of your house - Excelsior Indoor Pools, Monarch Billiard Tables, Deluxe Home Theater.
- Once a month come out of your house with your briefcase handcuffed to your wrist. Look around furtively while your son, dressed as a policeman, escorts you to your car. Speed off.
- Stop at a fancy restaurant and pick up their expensive wine bottle empties and put them out in your recycling box.
- Make a deal with a friend whereby you cut each other's lawns.

NEVER STOP LEARNING:
Sometimes at our age we lose our enthusiasm for new experiences because we think we've tried everything or we've lost our confidence or we're tired of standing in line in the emergency ward. The trick is to pick out something you've never done that you can actually do. Friends and family may have suggestions. Maybe fly fishing or lawn bowling or origami.

My wife suggested I try "not interrupting her" but that only led to an ongoing argument we have about time and space.

Vice president Gore should become the champion for living income

Al Gore keeps trying on new clothes. He went from blue to earth colors, from suits to polo shirts, from shoes to boots. He's tried out new personalities from alpha to beta. He's gone from barking at rival George W. Bush to unleashing a pack of samaras to bark the same Gore serenade. His posse has disseminated enough anti-Bush "talking points" to fill the Manhattan phone book.

Chris Matthews

All this has reaped the vice president a fine, 8-point deficit in the polls. Each point of that deficit represents a different tried and discarded image. Ignorance is not to blame. The candidacy is flagging not because voters know too little of Al Gore but because they now know too many Al Gores.

Oakland mayor Jerry Brown, who likes the 2000 Democratic candidate far more than he did the 1992 and 1996 nominees, has a solution. What Gore needs is a "defining thrust," a cause that separates him in a dramatic, important way from his Republican rival. He needs to stand for something there's no way Bush could support.

"You can't go around and say, 'It's all wonderful. I'm OK. You're OK. So let's get elected.' There has to be a defining difference. And the Democrats traditionally, since the time of Roosevelt and Truman, have been for the common man." Brown would like that "defining" cause to be a national commitment to a living income for all Americans.

"Today, people who work hard and play by the rules — even if they work 50 weeks out of the year — are below the poverty line. This is unacceptable in an America as prosperous as this with no deficit anymore.

"Seventy percent of the workers of this country have had their real purchasing power decline. You've got the wife working, the husband working, the kid going out to work. You're borrowing, going into debt."

Brown thinks anyone who works a full work week ought to be able to provide for themselves and stay above the poverty line.

"That's real family values." He has a powerful point.

Consider the person who works in a restaurant job. He or she gets $6 an hour. Figure 40 hours. That adds up to $240 a week, $12,480 a year. Work 50 hours, and your gross before-tax income rises to $15,600.

A full week of sweating customers, standing on your feet, doing the work and you end up — after the tax bite — with a poverty-level income.

"The Democrats have got to come front and center on the justice issue," Brown argues. "I think the Democrats' missing opportunity is to lay out a plausible agenda by which anybody who works full-time will not suffer the indignity of being below the poverty line."

To avoid this, Brown would like to see a package of policy adjustments — earned income tax credit, minimum wage, child-care tax credits — that raises the worker's income to a living level.

It's the principle that matters. Instead of trying to out-punch the Republicans on issues where both generally agree, Brown believes Gore should champion a cause that no conservative Republican would touch: a public commitment to intervene in the labor market and a guarantee that everyone in this country who sells his or her labor gets back a living income in return.

Such a campaign pledge would carry a bonus. Brown contends it would "excite that part of the electorate that is probably still on the sidelines." It will give a reason to vote in this year 2000 to tens of millions who right now don't have one.

Sanford. Dean and his entire family are honest and hard working. I have watched Dean learn and grow in his ideas of what will be good for our city. Dean Ray is just a down to earth working man who would share his ideas with all the citizens of Sanford and we would be better off for his efforts. Remember when you go to vote and you should vote, Dean Ray represents what most of us want in a candidate for City Commissioner. Honest, sincere, capable, willing, with the right ideas.

Sanford seeking state funding

Sanford is applying for funding aimed at bringing greater opportunities to people struggling with poverty in the city.

Sanford officials are hoping to be one of 20 cities receiving funding through a new state program called Front Porch Florida. The program's goals include improving schools, reducing crime, and increasing economic opportunities. Last year, Sanford's grant application was not approved.

"I think we have a chance this year," said City Commissioner Velina Williams, one of the leading proponents of Sanford's involvement in the program.

The program's goals also include providing affordable housing opportunities and helping strong families and communities.

If Sanford is selected as one of the cities to participate in the program, officials are looking into concentrating program funding on the Caddisboro, Castlegrove, and Historic District areas of the city.

By 2002, the state hopes to have 20 cities participating.

Residents of communities participating in the program would work together to identify needs to develop solutions to their problems. Teachers, police officers, and others throughout the community would be involved in the program.

World Bazaar opens

World Bazaar is officially opened at the Orlando Marketplace. The store is located in the Dillard's wing, featuring home decor, pottery, and souvenirs. World Bazaar is the sister store to Ashley's Gifts, which features porcelain dolls.

Charles Ayers, the project's manager, said the community's sixth phase will offer 49 home sites on the northern portion of the community, ranging from one-half to two-thirds of an acre. The first models are expected to be completed by next spring.

Sunscreens work if applied correctly

Sunscreen use is not as controversial as recent reports might lead you to believe. It's true that a 1998 review of 10 studies found that sunscreen use reduces the risk of skin cancer. But many experts believe these findings may be largely explained by people's apparent tendency to tan less in the summer than in the winter.

a good but generally imperfect defense. High-risk individuals and anyone else who wants plenty of protection should wear sun-shielding apparel in warm weather — at least during midday hours. A wide-brimmed hat and long-sleeved long pants or a skirt made from relatively tightly woven fabric can provide enough protection for most people. To provide even more, wash your sun clothes in detergents containing fabric brighteners. These absorb UV radiation and can boost a garment's sun-shielding ability.

'Restless legs' syndrome is a real problem for many

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have recently been diagnosed with restless legs syndrome. What is this? Is there any treatment?

DEAR READER: Restless legs (Ekbom's) syndrome is a common yet strangely under-diagnosed neurological affliction that affects millions of people. It is marked by an irresistible urge to move the legs, usually at night, that can disrupt sleep, affect quality of life, provide unwanted stress, lead to extreme fatigue and frustration, interfere with one's job and social activities, and — in some tragic cases — be the cause of suicide.

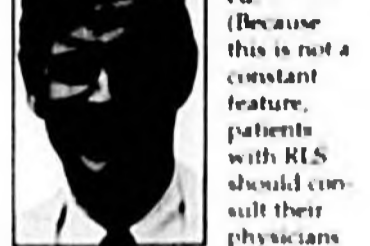

RLS may be inherited, it occurs in children and young adults as well as in the elderly, in pregnant women, and in patients with kidney failure or diabetes. It may be induced by certain drugs, such as caffeine, antidepressants and lithium.

Although RLS usually affects only the lower extremities, the disorder can also cause symptoms in the arms. Regardless of site, the key factor in diagnosis is a repetitive and compelling urge to move the extremities, leading to pacing, stretching, rubbing of the affected area, and an uncontrollable feeling of unrest.

There are, as yet, no tests to diagnose RLS. However, many sufferers appear to have an iron deficiency, without anemia. That is, the body's iron stores are depleted but the bone marrow has yet to be affected.

Dr. Peter H. Gott

(Because this is not a constant feature, patients with RLS should consult their physicians before taking any over-the-counter iron supplements. Unnecessary supplemental iron could lead to liver damage.)

RLS may be related to other neurological diseases, including periodic limb movements, end-stage renal disease, neuropathy, dystonia and — perhaps — Parkinson's disease. Presently, several studies of RLS are being undertaken, under the auspices of the National Institutes of Health.

One of the most disheartening features of RLS is that it is so uniformly misdiagnosed as "growing pains" (in children), leg cramps (which it is not) and anxiety (more commonly a consequence, not a cause). Most physicians are not familiar with the syndrome, which is a shame because it can be readily diagnosed, basically on the history alone, without expensive and painful testing, such as nerve-conduction studies.

Treatment is complicated. Drugs called dopaminergic agents are effective. However, recent reports have indicated one such drug, Sinemet, as a cause of permanent neurological damage. Other medicines — such as Pergolide, Pramipexole or Ropinirole — appear to be safe, however, tolerance to these drugs can (and does) develop. Note should be made that none of these agents has been federally approved for RLS therapy. Other therapeutic possibilities include narcotics, tranquilizers, iron and anticonvulsants (which are also used to treat chronic-pain syndromes).

In summary, restless legs syndrome is a real disease, a serious disorder and an affliction that affects millions of patients of all ages. It is under diagnosed, and for their part, practicing physicians need to learn more about it.

Fortunately, there are resources. The best is the Restless Legs Syndrome Foundation, its Web site is www.rls.org, and the toll-free phone number is (877) RLS-INFO. If you choose to contact the RLS Foundation for free patient (or physician) information, please mention that I directed you to the organization.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Several times a day, I experience chronic "stretching" pain in my shoulders and neck, which spreads up the back of my scalp. These attacks are worse when I lie down or have a bowel movement. Any suggestions?

DEAR READER: I thought that you were suffering from common muscle-contraction pain, until I read the part about bowel movements. Now I'm not so sure.

I advise you to check with a doctor to investigate the cause of your discomfort. Your neck and shoulder pain could be due to something as ubiquitous as hypertension; straining during defecation can worsen the pains of high blood pressure when head and neck aches are the result of this treatable condition. To give you related information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Hypertension." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2017, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Be sure to mention the title.

Zoo will host Baby Animal Weekends

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — The clouded leopard cub and other animals are now on exhibit during Baby Animal Weekends at the Central Florida Zoological Park in Sanford.

Every weekend through July 2, visitors will be able to see this adorable cub, as well as cotton top tamarin twins, porcupine babies, baby reptiles and much more.

The clouded leopard cub, born February 7, is on exhibit with her mother. The cub is the eighth of this endangered species to be born at the zoo, and represents an important addition to the captive clouded leopard population in the United States.

Swing by to see the new monkey babies of the spotted-nosed guenon, spider monkey and cotton-top tamarins. Twin birds are not unusual for the cotton top tamarin, an endangered primate about the size of a squirrel with a strip of white hair.

Slither into the Herpetarium and visit the New Caledonian giant gecko. Another new addition to the zoo's family is a pair of South African crested porcupine babies. See these cute but not so cuddly babies born March 30, who are on exhibit with their entire family.

For additional information, phone the zoo at 407-323-4450, ext. 149.

The zoo is located at 3755 U.S. Highway 17-92 in Sanford.

talked openly, freely. I used to try to protect the family's privacy from the media," Erving said. "Now it's different. I appreciate the efforts to locate my son. It's become all or nothing — life or death."

Erving paused and said, "In basketball, you win or lose and then you regroup. Incredibly, the police department deals with life-and-death situations every day. That doesn't happen to regular people like us. Once in a lifetime is enough — in fact, too much."

Sheriff Don Eslinger said one of the leads his office received on Cory Erving was that he was spotted at the ATM at a particular bank center.

"Our detectives responded immediately," Eslinger said. "They attained the bank video — it was Cory."

Eslinger said detectives have an idea who the individual was that had an altercation with Cory Erving in mid-May. The window on Cory's car was broken during the altercation; there are reports that Cory intended to purchase a fire arm — perhaps to retaliate.

Cory has never had a gun, his father said. "I doubt he knows how to fire one."

At one moment of the briefing on Friday, the 6-foot-6 Erving threw his right arm around Eslinger, a tad under six feet.

"I've put a lot of heat on this man," Erving said. "He's handled it all."

Eslinger said the effort to find Cory Erving was intense because the youngster was not only missing but considered endangered.

"We received an e-mail from a bookkeeper who wanted to know if this were low Smith's son would the search be like it is?" Eslinger said. "Under the circumstances, yes. (The media wouldn't be here if it wasn't Julius' son. Don't blame me for that. We need staff to solve this. We need) to take the calls being generated because of media coverage."

Again, Erving said both groups — the law and the media — were needed to bring back his son.

"I don't think I have many enemies," he said. "Maybe a couple guys who tried to trip me on the way to the basket. Right now, I know we have a lot of friends, and I thank all of you."

Friday before Father's Day, and Mr. Lakeview is crowned during a special Sunday ceremony attended by residents and their families.

"We look forward to this every year," Lakeview Activities Director Tammy Chandler said. "It's a special day for the residents."

Along with the crowning ceremony, residents will be served a special Father's Day buffet of chicken wings, potato salad, deviled eggs and various kinds of fruit. This year, Chandler believes more than 20 family members will join the residents for the holiday treat, including Tovar's wife, children and grandchildren.

Tovar has been a resident in Lakeview since May. He was born in Mexico and came to the United States when he was 19. At 62, he retired from the U.S. Army and became a foreman at an area retail store.

Tovar's reign won't end once the last guest leaves the Father's Day celebration. According to Chandler, the responsibilities of Mr. Lakeview include representing the residents by making suggestions and decisions concerning the daily operation of the nursing home.

"He kind of becomes the president of the facility," she said.

And, that's a role that Tovar is ready to take.

"It's nice," Tovar said. "It's a wonderful thing to represent this nursing home."

And, he also likes the crown he wears as Mr. Lakeview. He likes to impress the women by putting it on his head whenever one passes his way.

Robbery

Richard Beary said. During the robbery, Harris struck two employees with his fist and the gun. No one was seriously hurt.

One of the employees managed to dial 911 to notify authorities of the holdup, and police arrived on the scene less than a minute after receiving the dispatch, Beary said. However, Harris was able to flee the restaurant on foot.

Following a short pursuit by police, Harris was caught a few minutes later on Kinchart Road.

During the chase, Harris discarded the gun used in the robbery. However, during a search effort conducted by several local law enforcement agencies, a .44-caliber pistol was found Friday afternoon near a retention pond between the Medplex Building and AmSouth Bank on West Lake Mary Boulevard.

It was loaded and the trigger was pulled back," Beary said. "He was ready to shoot something."

A pellet gun that police believe was thrown from the getaway car was found behind the bank, Mary McDonald said.

Another suspect in the robbery was apprehended Friday by authorities that have been notified by the Sanford Police Department.

The main suspect was apprehended following a 40-minute pursuit by police on West Lake Mary Boulevard, according to the Sanford Police Department. The suspect was taken to the Sanford Police Department for further questioning.

Authorities are conducting their investigation and looking for other suspects connected to the robbery, according to the Sanford Police Department.

I-4 Ramp closed again

By Rick Medford

Staff writer

Sanford, Fla. (Herald-Examiner) — A section of Interstate 4 (I-4) was closed again Sunday morning, this time for a major accident involving a semi-truck and a car.

The accident occurred on the northbound ramp of I-4, just south of the intersection with U.S. 17, around 7:30 a.m. Sunday.

The Florida Department of Transportation (FDOT) said the accident involved a semi-truck from the state of Georgia and a car from Florida.

The semi-truck was carrying a load of lumber and was traveling in the left lane of the ramp when it was struck by the car.

The car was traveling in the right lane of the ramp and was struck by the semi-truck's trailer.

The accident caused a major traffic jam on the ramp, and the ramp was closed for several hours.

FDOT officials are investigating the cause of the accident and are expected to release a report in the coming days.

The accident is the latest in a series of accidents on I-4 in the Sanford area, and it has caused significant delays for commuters.

FDOT is working to clear the ramp as quickly as possible and to restore normal traffic flow.

The accident is a reminder of the dangers of driving on I-4, especially in the Sanford area.

Drivers are urged to stay alert and to avoid distractions while driving on I-4.

The accident is a reminder of the importance of proper vehicle maintenance and safe driving practices.

Drivers should always wear their seatbelts and avoid drinking and driving.

rate is $1000 per $1000 of assessed property value. The millage rate has remained unchanged in the city for the past six years. If the current rate is adopted for fiscal year 2000-2001, the city projects collection of $3,137,474 during the next budget year based on a 95 percent property tax collection rate. Commissioners are also currently looking at a proposal to shift to a home rule revenue method of billing and collection of non ad valorem special assessment fees.

Requests by various city department heads for additional personnel could have an impact on the final budget adopted for the next fiscal period. Longwood's Police Division is requesting the addition of four officers while the city's Fire Division is asking for three more hires. Commissioners will also get a look at equipment requests from the city's Police, Fire, and Public Works Divisions.

A number of public hearings are also included on the agenda. The board will hear public input on a recommendation by the Police Division of the Public Safety Department to amend the city's 6,000-pound gross weight restrictions on certain municipal streets to 12,000 pounds to establish uniformity and adjust to heavier weights customarily associated with modern vehicles such as Sport Utility models.

Commissioners are also expected to approve a number of contract change orders to reflect additional costs of several utility line modifications and road improvement projects within city limits.

The Way We Were: Who's who in Sanford in 1923

Here are more biographies from the April 29, 1923 special edition of the "Sanford Herald."

Roy G. Williams

In 1923 when he was only 23 years old, Roy G. Williams was appointed Chief of the Sanford Police Department. This made him the youngest person ever to hold that office. Previous to that appointment, he was Superintendent of Sanford Streets.

He had continued to lead the local police department, but on Oct. 6, 1932, he met with a serious accident while enforcing the law. Since that time he had been confined to the hospital and then his home.

Williams was born in Miami, Fla., and came to Sanford with his parents where he attended grade schools. The family later moved to St. Petersburg and he graduated from high school there. Before coming to Sanford he was a student at Rollins College.

He was married to the former Miss Ruby and they resided at 449 Elliot Ave. Williams was a member of all fraternal organizations, the Lake Lodge of the Masonic Order, Temple of the Blacksmith and attended First Methodist Church.

Chief Williams' residence was a simple but comfortable one with a beautiful lawn. He had a car and a motorcycle.

His character was popular to everyone. Nothing pleased him more than to be called "chief" and he was a very kind and thoughtful person. He was a very successful business man.

His death was a surprise to everyone. He was a very successful business man and a very kind and thoughtful person.

traveled into all sections of Florida with various construction companies. He had also worked in Louisiana and Alabama for several years.

His wife was the former Miss Emma Gashorn and they resided at 111 West Street.

years and eight months in federal prison for drug trafficking. His sentence was reduced by more than three years because of his cooperation with prosecutors. At the discretion of Judge Fawcett, he may receive a further sentence reduction for his testimony in the trial.

Wimberly told prosecutors that in addition to having sex in her Sanford home at least once, Ladoczky also gave him confidential information about his case, including the name of a police informant and a Sanford police schedule for targeting drug dealers in the city, according to the account filed by Assistant US Attorney Matt Perry.

According to jail records, Wimberly's record includes charges for cocaine and marijuana possession, sexual battery, aggravated assault, aggravated battery, resisting a law enforcement officer, destroying evidence, fraudulent use of credit cards and violation of probation.

Meanwhile, Holley testified earlier in the trial he sold crack cocaine in Sanford since 1990, and operated a music store on Park Avenue, Jamland Music, as a drug front.

Ladoczky, 34, is charged with one count of conspiracy to possess with intent to distribute and distribution of crack cocaine, two counts of lying to federal agents, and carrying a firearm during a drug trafficking offense. If convicted, the 12-year veteran of the Sanford Police Department could receive 15 years to life in prison.

The prosecution is expected to wrap up its case on Monday. The defense is then expected to present its case through Tuesday.

Darlene Ladoczky and her husband, Longwood Police Officer Robert Ladoczky, 31, will be among the witnesses called for the defense next week. During breaks in the trial, the couple talked and held hands in the courthouse lobby.

On Friday, the prosecution presented phone records showing Ladoczky called Holley on days when agents made undercover purchases from him.

Undercover federal agents purchased a total of 72.2 grams, slightly more than four ounces, of crack cocaine from Holley on four occasions in 1999. The purchases were made on Aug. 25, Sept. 2, Sept. 9 and Sept. 17, according to the testimony of Special Agent Lee Madeam of the US Drug Enforcement Agency (DEA).

Ladoczky called Holley twice on Aug. 25, twice on Sept. 2, once on Sept. 9, and four times on Sept. 17, phone records indicate.

On Nov. 22, the day Holley was arrested, phone records show Ladoczky called Holley's cellular phone at 8:55 a.m. and 9:14 a.m. but did not make contact. Holley turned himself in later that night, Madeam said.

Much of Friday's testimony centered on an audiotaped conversation that took place Jan. 28, in which Ladoczky is accused of telling Wonda Grooms, 26, how to avoid being stopped by undercover police officers following her.

The call was a set-up, and the vehicles belonged to undercover agents. Grooms testified Friday she agreed to work with investigators in the hope of helping Holley, the father of her two 15-month old children.

During the conversation, the tape indicates Ladoczky told Grooms "chances are, it's probably DEA or CCTB (City-County Investigative Bureau)."

Ladoczky was arrested in February of this year. Several federal agents testified Friday about the questioning of Ladoczky which took place following her arrest. The agents said Ladoczky denied telling Grooms the cars following her were police vehicles.

DEA Special Agent Mark German testified that Ladoczky said she was a friend of the Holley family, but was not close to Antonio Holley. She denied having a sexual relationship with him or giving him cocaine. Ladoczky said she believed Holley's drug activity had ended about a year and a half ago, according to German.

Under defense cross examination, each agent admitted the questioning was not tape recorded. Notes were also not taken. DEA Special Agent Rob Patterson said he was unclear of the legality of tape recording while questioning Ladoczky. He said it is not normal DEA procedure to tape record such questioning.

Brender qualified with the highest overall score in the eight state competition in Tampa, while Williams paced the Junior Division.

They now make up part of a group of about 60 Elite competitors nationwide who form the top group from which the Olympic team is chosen.

For their outstanding efforts, Brender and Williams, who compete

Former Seminole High School pitcher Andrew Diemer showed that he can hit and run also, getting three hits and scoring three runs, including the game-winning hit in the bottom of the 11th inning as Christians United upset previously undefeated Sanford Central Baptist Church, 16-15, in the Sanford Church Softball League at Zinn Beck Field last Monday night.

Upset, blowout heats up races in Church softball

SANFORD - We've got ourselves a race.

Andrew Diemer raced home on a double play ball in the bottom of the 11th inning as Christians United won its fifth straight game and handed Sanford Central Baptist Church its first loss of the season, 16-15, in the City of Sanford Parks and Recreation Department Spring Church Slow Pitch Softball League at Zinn Beck Field last Monday night.

That game was just the caper on an evening that saw the division races tighten up as the league hit the home stretch of the schedule.

The opening game of the night saw Sanford Church of Christ make a statement that it intends to make a run at the B Division crown, ripping the ball for 22 hits in a 17-0, five-inning whitewashing of Lighthouse Baptist Church.

The middle game saw Hugh Collins hit for the cycle and Scott Mosley and Bryan Frasier hit home runs as the Knights of Columbus also won its fifth straight game, ending Westview Baptist Church's five-game winning streak, 14-8.

With the results the championships are still open to all eight teams.

In the A Division, Sanford Central Baptist Church and the Knights of Columbus (All Souls Catholic) are both 7-1 and Westview Baptist Church and Christians United (Markham Woods Baptist Church) are both 5-3.

In the B Division, Sanford First Church of the Nazarene, which has not lost to a B Division squad, leads with a 3-4 record and is trailed by Sanford Church of Christ (2-6), Centro Cristiano (1-6) and Lighthouse Baptist Church (1-7).

This Monday night at Zinn Beck Field, Sanford Central Baptist Church and Westview Baptist Church will both be looking to get back on the winning track when they meet at 6:30 p.m.; the Knights of Columbus and Christians United put their respective five-game winning streaks on the line at 7:30 p.m.; and Sanford First Church of the Nazarene looks to end a four-game losing streak against Centro Cristiano at 8:30 p.m.

Christians United took control of its game with Sanford Central Baptist Church right from the start, scoring three runs in the bottom of the first inning on the strength of an RBI triple by Mark Blythe.

Sanford Central Baptist Church closed to within a run on two occasions, but Christians United continued to hold the lead and were up 8-5 going into the top of the seventh inning.

Things still looked good for the upset as Sanford Central Baptist Church had a run in and a runner on, but there was also two out. The Central Baptist bats suddenly came alive, starting from straight singles and then using an error and a fielder's choice to score five more runs and take an 11-6 lead.

Now it was Christians United turn to rally and they responded, getting a two-run home run from Matt Diemer and then using an error and an RBI single by Keith Vincent to tie the game at 11-11.

The teams then continued to play hit for hit, with both teams scoring single runs in the eighth and ninth innings and two runs each in the 10th inning to make the score 15-15 heading to the 11th inning.

Sanford Central Baptist Church got a two-out single from Tracey Saxon but could not score in the top of the 11th inning.

Andrew Diemer led off the bottom of the 11th inning for Christians United with a single and moved over to third on a single by Chris Dapone. Jason Fitch then hit a grounder to shortstop, who tossed to second for the out, when the second

Stiff penalties for poachers

Special to the Herald

OCALA - The three men who were arrested recently for illegally killing wildlife in the Ocala National Forest pled guilty to the charges and received stiff penalties for their crimes from Judge John Futch in Marion County Court. Jeremy Wayne Summy, DOB 1/24/82, 1002 Leeds Court,

Winter Park, was sentenced to 30 days in jail, a $1,993 fine, three years probation and loss of hunting privileges for three years. Allen Bruce Coop Jr., DOB 1/13/78, 504 Macaw Lane, Fern Park, and Robert Michael Shandik, DOB 10/13/81, 3723 Shady Grove Circle, Orlando, were each sentenced to 30 days in jail, a $1,743 fine, one-and-a-half years probation and loss of hunting privileges for three years. Coop and Shandik were each charged with possession of freshly killed deer during the closed season, and possession of a gun in a wildlife management area during the closed season. Summy was charged with the same as well as additional charges of taking migratory game birds during the closed season (dove), and taking migratory nongame birds (egret). "Illegally killing wildlife is not only wrong, it is stealing from the citizens of Florida. We are very pleased with the way Judge Futch sentenced these individuals and hope it sends a clear message to others who contemplate poaching in Marion County - if you get caught, you will pay," said Major Andy Love, regional law enforcement commander for the Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission.

From Staff Reports
INDIANAPOLIS - Led by Jalen Rose, the Indiana Pacers took control early and never let up, keeping the Los Angeles Lakers' championship plans on hold, handing the California squad its worst defeat of the season, 120-87, at Conseco Fieldhouse Friday night. Starting 6-for-6 on three pointers and making 75 percent of their shots in the first quarter, Indiana manhandled Los Angeles, forcing a Game 6 of the NBA Finals at the Staples Center Monday night at 9 p.m. (WEST) Channel 2 locally). Rose led five Pacers into double figures with 32 points, Reggie Miller chipped in with 25 points, while Austin Croshere (13 points, nine rebounds), Rik Smits (12 points) and Mark Jackson (10 points, seven assists) also found double figures in scoring. This was the night when the coaching career of Larry Bird could have come to an end, the night when the Lakers finished off their coronation. But just a few minutes in, it was immediately clear that there would be no finality coming out of these finals just yet. The Pacers were simply not ready to quit, not even close. The lead was 19 at halftime, shrank to 13 in the third and then grew to 25 early in the fourth as Miller stood at the line and sank four straight foul shots - three for being fouled on a three-pointer and one for a technical foul on Derek Fisher. Indiana, which shot 57 percent from the field, led by as many as 33. Indiana trails 3-2 in the best-of-seven series. Game 6 will be Monday night at Los Angeles and Game 7, if necessary, will be Wednesday. Shaquille O'Neal led Los Angeles with 35 points and 11 rebounds, but no one else did much of anything positive. Glen Rice was the only other Laker in double figures, finishing with 11 points. Worst of the bunch was Kobe Bryant, who followed up his Game 4 theatrics and a day of Michael Jordan comparisons with an abysmal 4-for-20 performance. No team has ever come back from a 3-1 deficit in the finals, but the Pacers look to be a strong candidate to be the first.

NOTICE OF AGENCY ACTION TAKEN BY THE ST. JOHN'S RIVER WATER MANAGEMENT DISTRICT

Notice is given that the following permit was issued on February 21, 2000:
 Date: Westcoast Construction, 10150 Highland Manor Dr., Suite 150 Tampa, FL 33610 permit # 40-117-042685 (SRP). The permit is located in Seminole County, Section 19, Township 20S, Range 10E, East. The permit authorizes a SURFACE WATER MANAGEMENT SYSTEM ON 0.01 ACRES TO SERVE OFFICE DEVELOPMENT known as Weeks Reg 43. The receiving waterbody is Lake Lanoux.
 The items containing the application for the above listed permit is available for inspection Monday through Friday except for legal holidays, 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. at the St. John's River Water Management District (District Headquarters), 4040 Reid Street, Palatka, FL 32178-1429. A person whose substantial interests are affected by the District's permitting decision may petition for an administrative hearing in accordance with sections 120.560 and 120.571, F.S., or may choose to pursue mediation as an alternative remedy under section 120.573, Florida Statutes, before the deadline for filing a petition. Choosing mediation will not adversely affect the right to a hearing if mediation does not result in a settlement. The procedures for pursuing mediation are set forth in section 120.573, Florida Statutes, and rules 28.100, 101, and 28.108, 401-404, Florida Administrative Code. Petitions must comply with the requirements of Florida Administrative Code Rule 40C-1.511 and 40C-1.521 and be filed with (received by) the District Clerk located at District Headquarters, Highway 100 West, Palatka, Florida 32177. Petitions for administrative hearing on the above application(s) must be filed within twenty (20) days of publication of the notice of either hearing or (28) days of the District depositing notice of the permit in the mail for those persons to whom the District made actual notice. Failure to file a petition within this time period shall constitute a waiver of any rights(s) such person(s) may have to request an administrative determination (hearing) under section 120.571, F.S., concerning the subject permit. Persons which are not filed in accordance with the above provisions are subject to dismissal.
 Because the administrative hearing process is designed to formulate final agency action, the filing of a petition means that the District's final action may be different from the position taken by it in this notice of intent. Persons whose substantial interests will be affected by any such decision of the District on the application have the right to petition to become a party to the proceeding, in accordance with the requirements set forth above.

SUMMER JOBS

Caleb Foster serves a chocolate milkshake to a Steak 'n Shake customer. The 19-year-old is earning money during the summer for his next semester at Geneva College in Pennsylvania. Caleb will enter his sophomore year of pre-med school when he returns to the college this fall.

Students enter workforce during school vacation

By Russ White
Staff Writer

Summer is supposed to be the best time to be young and carefree. There's a song about the things we did last summer that we remember all winter long.

Often, summers also provide the jump start young people take toward tomorrow. Many high school graduates latch on to summer jobs to help pay for their college tuition or to train for career assignments. We see their eager faces, their hopeful eyes, their shyness and their joy.

Some of them are at the car wash, tanning, shuning, trying to out-hustle each other, thanking you for a good tip. Others work inside an office, a restaurant or a department store at the mall.

Caleb Foster, 19, aspires to be a physician, perhaps following his parents into the missionary fields. This summer, Caleb is mixing milkshakes and serving diners at the Seminole Plaza Steak 'n Shake.

A pleasant young man with a ready smile for everyone, Caleb said he enjoys conversations with those he serves. "There's a mix — young people, old, families. I enjoy meeting them all. Doctors need good people skills."

Caleb's parents — Alan and Vickie Foster — are New Tribes missionaries. One of three children, Caleb is a pre-med sophomore at Geneva College in Pennsylvania. He was born in Bolivia and grew up in the jungles of that country and later in Cochabamba, a city of 600,000. He also lived in Keokuk, Iowa.

Nancy Sansalippos, the general manager at the Sanford Steak 'n Shake, said she appreciates the enthusiasm and sincerity Caleb brings to work each day. He's one of a team of young people who cheerfully work around the clock.

Caleb had a 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. shift on Tuesday night. He

Crews makes sure everything runs smoothly at Sanford City Hall

If you've ever called Sanford City Hall to complain to a commissioner or express your opinion on the latest issue, chances are you've talked to Diane Crews. A native of Sanford, Crews' official title is Commission Liaison, but in reality, she's a jack-of-all-trades. She makes sure Sanford's five commissioners are accessible to their constituents, keeps track of commissioners' schedules, passes along phone messages and sometimes, she's the sounding board for residents who feel their complaints aren't being heard by anyone else. If need be, Crews can also guide residents through the complexities of city government to ensure their problems are solved. A mother of two daughters — Jamie, 20, and Carrie, 23 — Crews has a degree in Public Administration from the University of Central Florida and is four classes shy of a master's degree. She says she considers herself something of a homebody, preferring to spend most of her spare time with Rob, her husband, and her daughters. She recently took some time to talk with Herald Editor Dan Ping about her job.

Q: Sounds like you've got a pretty tough job. Why do you do it?

A: Because I like assisting people with problems and affecting solutions. A lot of times this office is the last to get the call. They've already called everyone else, and they're really frustrated. They don't want to be sent to another voice mail.

Q: Doesn't that frustration lead to some irate telephone calls?

A: Yes it does, but I take the approach that it is my duty to serve the public. I know that in general, people don't trust government. I want to do anything I can to change that perception.

Q: How do you do that?

A: You have to follow through. You make sure you don't just send them to another voice mail. You take down their number, find out an answer to their question and then call them back. What helps is who I have behind me.

Q: What do you mean? Who's behind you?

A: The commissioners. I don't know how it is in other cities, but I think I work for the best group of commissioners. I honestly believe they have Sanford's best interests at heart. This group of people is extremely responsive to citizens' needs.

Q: Give me your impressions about each of them.

A: You're putting me on the spot! Oh, wow, what can I say? Velma (Williams) is a very loving woman. She's always giving, always concerned about other people. Brady (Lessard), he's patriotic, very passionate about his country and his constituents. Whitley (Eckstein) is committed to Sanford. He is totally without self-interest. Mac (McClanahan) was a kind compassionate person who left a legacy of caring that is still surfacing. Larry (Dale) has tremendous integrity. He does his homework. I'd say he's one of the smartest people I ever met.

Q: Not everyone shares those opinions, though, and I'm sure you meet people who will tell you that. How do you deal with those situations?

A: That's the part of the job that I like the least. I'm amazed at how hard the commissioners work. I see the diligence and hard work they put in and how much they care about doing the right thing. Then to see the criticism they get is frustrating. I don't understand the intolerance people have when they disagree with a commissioner. They can't please everyone, but that doesn't mean the commis-

Bridge signing

RIGHT — Gov. Jeb Bush signs a bill for the funding of a 21st Century bridge he says will enhance the quality of life for area residents. Bush and other state representatives attended the signing ceremony last week as part of the governor's statewide Mobility 2000 transportation plan.

FAR RIGHT — Gov. Bush talks to people while leaving the fishing pier where the ceremony was held. The pier was the original bridge across the St. Johns River.

Sanford State and local officials gather around Gov. Bush during a ceremony held last week to sign legislation for the 21st Century Bridge. The $1.1 billion project for the new bridge will begin next year.

The city's summer camp has big plans for his junior year at Florida State University. Doug, 21, won himself a job on Coach Bobby Bowden's National Championship football team last year as a walk-on. He wears No. 32 and plays wide receiver.

"The city's summer camp is a workout in itself," Hughs said. "You have to be agile to keep up with these kids."

When activities get intense, Hughs has his twin 18-year-old brothers — Mark and Paul — to help. They're counselors at the camp.

Paul Hughs is set up to attend the University of Central Florida this year. He played football and ran track at Seminole High School. "I'll stick to intramural at UCF," he said.

Mark Hughs, enrolled at Seminole Community College, is a member of the Phaze 3 singing group that is performing at the Miss Florida Pageant next week. He's been away this week to do some other gigs in nearby cities.

"You're going to hear a lot about Phaze 3," Paul Hughs said of his brother's capella group. "They're cool. Better than 'N Sync."

 Gemini (May 21 - June 20)
Your Birthday
Sunday, June 18, 2000
 There are likely to be a number of improvements in your social life in the year ahead. Through contacts you'll make, new experiences could be on the horizon.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
 Forbidden fruit might be especially appealing to you today, but it could be poison to your life. Don't tread upon the heart strings of a loved one. Get a jump on life by understanding the influences that'll govern you in the year ahead. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions by mailing $2 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Be sure to state your Zodiac sign.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
 Making promises might be the easy part, but keeping them could be another story. Should you find yourself in just such a dilemma today, it's best to say "no" right up front.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
 Putting on affections is never a good course of action. They only impress us — never those whom we want to impress. Don't pretend to be anything but who and what you are.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
 By expecting perfection from someone you like today, you could be setting yourself up for disappointment when you discover that no one is perfect. We all have feet of clay.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
 You may think it is flattering to be a bit flirtatious with others, but today you could send wrong signals to someone who may take your roving eye as a come on and take you up on it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
 Trying to impress others by what you spend is an exercise in futility. First of all, most people could care less and second, it could break your wallet.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
 A clever manipulator may be aware of your susceptibility to flattery today and know exactly how to pull your strings. Be careful in whom you place your trust.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
 Don't be disappointed today if the response for which you were expected from someone with whom you've been quite generous isn't forthcoming. This person's mind could be elsewhere.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
 Don't waste time praising the undeserving, but do acknowledge the notable achievements of others today. Everyone needs to feel that their worth is recognized by friends.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
 Solid achievements are possible today when your efforts are in proportion to the difficulty of the task. However, if you're not inclined to push yourself, don't expect too much in return.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
 This may be one of those days where it is impossible to please some people, no matter how hard you try. Unfortunately, today it might be one of your best friends who fits this bill.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
 Disappointment is likely today if you expect more compensation from others than that to which you're entitled. There are no free rides — not today, tomorrow or next week.
