

Many Athletics, New Fans To Come Out Of Service

By JOHN GROVER
AP Features Writer
Washington — Watch for a return-of-war rubies postwar sports era that'll make the so-called "golden age of athletics" in the 1920s look like dime-store jewelry.

Officers in charge of the Army's athletic program say the armistice will turn loose the biggest mass of muscles the sports world ever saw. They don't see how a post-war boom in both spectator and participant sports can miss.

Col. Ted Bank, former football coach at the University of Idaho and now with the Army Special Service Division, figures men got a taste of athletics, liked it, and the boom after the first World War resulted.

Now there are plans for a 10,000,000-man military force. They'll all get a lot more than a taste of organized athletics. With twice as many soldiers, sailors and marines getting big helpings of sports, the decade after peace looks to be a copper-lined cinch for outstanding athletic development.

There are two basic purposes behind the Army's athletic program: (1) Body contact sports to make Joe Rookie a better soldier, able to protect himself in the battle clutch; (2) morale value, resulting from the best employment of leisure time, both in training and in the field.

It's working. Colonel Bank reports the Army sports schedule is continually expanding. Kids who never had an opportunity to participate in organized athletics are grabbing at the chance to learn new games. There are camp leagues in almost 60 sports, with competition between camps in many. Troops in England played the finals of the expeditionary force basketball championship before a packed soldier audience.

There are plans for after-the-war tournaments on a wider scale. The inter-Allied games after the last war brought out some of the great white whales of the golden age, like sprinter Charley Paddock, boxer Gene Tunney, Bob Roper and dozens of others.

This time the pool of potential sports talent is deeper and wider. It's in Army ranks to bring it out. Maybe, some, back, picking up heavy army baggage in the Tunisian mud today will be the one to slip nice seconds flat in the 100-yard dash on grid out the four-minute mile.

Colonel Bank says they're uncovering sleeper stars all the time. The unknown ace of a 1943 camp team could be the Babe Ruth of the 1950's.

The answering of talent in camp athletes is only half the story. Just thinking about the made-to-order audience the Army is building for future sports events is enough to make a promoter's eyes go with visions of boxes of folding money.

There's no more rabid sports nut than the top who's played a little himself. The "support" will be to bounce his back-ten on the box office line for the privilege of criticizing the performers in usually the guy with some slight playing background himself in the Army he gets to know the game, and that gives him a chronic case of "expertise" that makes him a post-war cash customer.

BEAU JACK'S SEARCH FOR CULTURE DELAYED WHILE HE DEFENDS CROWN

By HILTON GRAHAM
AP Features Sports Editor
NEW YORK — Always interested in improvement of the breed, whether it be horses or human specimens, it was with great interest I learned that our lightweight champion can now distinguish between cat and dog when he counters words in the public prints.

Furthermore, Beau Jack can write Sidney Walker, which happens to be the 135-pound champion's name.

He can read well enough to make sense out of the average newspaper story, so long as they don't ring in any 25 cent words on him. It just goes to show that boxing can do for a person, what an elevating profession it is.

When Jack was shined by the Augusta, Ga. National Club, newspaper were just being while folks left scattered around the room to be picked up.

His attitude changed last November. Before Jack beat Alito Stolo and became the No. 1 contender for the title, Alito would come up with his gnawing craving for culture and knowledge. He was curious to know what was in those newspaper, besides pictures.

So reading and writing it was for Jack. Bowman Milligan, his guardian and ring coach, became his private tutor. Jack was steered away from arithmetic. The champ is allowed $5 a week spending money and his board of strategy decided there was no reason he should learn that currency came in larger denominations. It is much better that they bank his earnings for him until such time that he can use them. Yes, reading and writing would suffice now for Jack.

After keeping his nose in a school book for a month, Jack could read his name and write it too. That was the status of his culture progress the night last December when he knocked out Tippy Larkin in three heats and won the crown.

Between fights he'd light out Augusta and cram some more. There was definite improvement by the time he first fought Fritz Zivic, more progress at the stage of their second meeting. And he was quite a literate party on Dr. Elliot's five-foot lecture Henry Armstrong, the erstwhile post, some weeks ago.

Now Chick Wergales, his manager, tells Beau can manage his way across any newspaper and come up with the gist of the news, not too dully mangled. "Well, it just goes to how, step."

School's out at the moment. Beau Jack's search for enlightenment has been temporarily abandoned. He's the champ, not the student, these days as he hunkers up on his books and jabs and crosses down at Greenwood Lake, N.J. He's down at Greenwood Lake defense of his diadem in Philly son 30. Garden here May 19 against Bob Montgomery, a tough cookie from Philly.

Jack's handlers profess not to be alarmed but, they're not radiating confidence. Montgomery has been waiting a long time for this chance. He did better than all right in five rounds with Lou Facklin and Sammy Anger, who they were champions, but he never could get them to lay the title on the line. Now opportunity has come and Montgomery, at the least, is ready to grab it. He has a few ring experts say he'll walk out of the Garden as the new king.

Chief concern of some Jack supporters in the way Jack has run out of gas in his recent fights. He was a very tired competitor in the late rounds against Zivic and Armstrong. This will be his first 15-round fight, if it

Joey Burns May Be "Semi-Pro" But He's Making Berth For Himself

AP Features
BOSTON — He came into the major league tagged as a "semi-pro" but Joey Burns, the Boston Braves' promising rookie third baseman, doesn't mind. He's having fun.

When that presentable player who, in addition to owning a 3-A draft card, can hit, field and run, was asked how he liked being a big leaguer, he replied: "I don't know. I've only played a couple of weeks or so in the National league and I haven't any idea what will happen to me. But so far I've had plenty of fun."

Burns, who is a 25-year-old athlete, appears to have enough self-confidence to make himself a regular berth during his freshman year with the Braves. Both President Bob Quinn and Manager Casey Stengel share that opinion.

Quinn rates Burns as the most promising third base prospect the Braves have had under his presidency and Stengel, just before he was sidelined with a fractured leg, nominated Joey as the lead-off man for his opening game lineup.

For a rookie, Burns broke in sensationally. He belted the Giants' Johnny Wittig for four hits in his opening game and the next day he stole home on such a crafty flinger as Van Single Mungo. After going seven games for a batting average of .333, Burns was forced out by a tonalitis attack.

Describing Burns as a semi-pro is accurate but very misleading. It is true that he started out as a sand-lotter around Philadelphia seven years ago and was one again there last season. But between times he more than made good in the minors.

Six years ago, Jimmy Dykes, who knew Burns' folks, got him a berth with the Richmond Piedmont League Club. From there Burns drifted south to Tyler in the East Texas League and made good with such a bang that he was promoted to Oklahoma City within a year.

Burns hit so well for Oklahoma City in 1941 that that Texas League club had a couple of major league nibbles for his services. Burns, however, had a nailing stomach at the time and, fearing he would be handicapped by it, balked about going higher. He insisted at that time that he was "not ripe enough" for a major league trial.

Still ill, Burns failed to report to Oklahoma City last season, which he spent working and playing semi-pro ball in Philadelphia. Quinn was tipped, about Burns by a Texas friend and when that magnate finally located the player, Joey had been approached by three other clubs, including Dykes' White Sox. The assumption that the Sox were wide open caused him to cast his lot with the Braves.

When Burns checked into the Braves' camp at Chocoma School in Wallingford, Conn., he found it jammed with prospective third basemen. Among them were the veteran Tony Cochet, Edie Jost, who prefers third to second base, Ben Geraghty, former Villanova star, and Mike Sandler.

The competition, however, lasted only until Stengel, who has been yearning for a rifle-armed third baseman for years, saw Burns gunning his throws after and murdering his veteran pitchers at the plate in the earliest intra-squad practice games.

Gyroscopic mounts for automatic cameras have been devised so that the camera remains vertical when the plane tilts.

U. S. Airmen Bag 113 Planes Around Italy

Softening Up Attack Includes Bombing Of Sardinian Dam; RAF Raids Berlin

WASHINGTON, May 21, (AP) — President Roosevelt declared today that preliminary plans for the next great Allied move against the Axis will be submitted by the British-American chiefs of staff tonight, and Japan appears to be preparing for a large-scale attack on the United States in the Pacific.

(By Associated Press)

American fliers were officially credited with ringing up a spectacular toll of 118 enemy planes destroyed in softening up attacks on Italy and the island outposts while swift United States fighter-bombers dropped explosives on a dam in north-west Sardinia.

Wing services delivered a night assault on an Italian air base at Grosseto, 90 miles north of Rome, on the invasion-litany southern flank of Hitler's Europe, while a deep-bombing was of Naples between London and Bari appeared underway.

Speedy RAF mosquito bombers also hit the Berlin airfield while London underwent an alarm attack on the same day.

Other RAF planes carrying the Allied aerial offensive struck the Berlin airport, Essen and communication lines in the Ruhr valley.

The Red Army's drive on Berdiansk, Ukraine, was reported to have advanced to the town of Berdiansk, and the Soviet air force is reported to have shot down 15 German planes over the area.

Among the Axis victims sent streaming into the sea were Messerschmitt 109s, Focke-Wulf 190s, and Macchi 200s. Official sources described the engagement as "very long and very hot fighting."

The southern and central Sardinian targets attacked were Monserrato, Milas air field, Cagliari harbor, Milas air field, and Villacidro.

Opposition was intense but American Marauder and Mitchell bombers and Western fighters shot down 18 enemy fighters, scored direct hits on at least six grounded planes, and at least six airfields, and planted bombs in the dispersal areas of Cagliari where approximately 15 grounded planes were observed.

A loss of 113 enemy planes patrolling the eastern Sardinian coast was reported today. The torpedo-carrying Junkers was destroyed, and a number of other aircraft were damaged.

Axis planes were said to have been shot down off the coast of the island of Sicily, and the parts of Sicily, Tunisia, and Crete. Axis planes were said to have been shot down off the coast of Sicily.

Italian Targets Hit By Allies

A SPECTACULAR WARNING that Rome is within easy reach of bombers based in North Africa was given by Allied planes that roared over the Italian capital after blasting the seaplane base at Lido di Roma, only 15 miles away. Shortly before this raid, British bombers made a daylight assault on Trapani (2) in Sicily.

Cigarette Tax Bill Is Passed By Senators

Only Governor's Signature Remains To Turn $3,500,000 Measure Into Law

TALLAHASSEE, May 21, (AP) — The House today passed H.R. 114, introduced by L.B. Mann and M.M. Smith, creating the Sanford Police Department pension fund, and H.R. 115, introduced by M.M. Mann and M.M. Smith, designating a road in Seale and Orange counties.

TALLAHASSEE, May 21, (AP) — The 3-cent cigarette tax bill, big issue before the legislature, was passed yesterday by the Senate, 25 to 11, in two hours, with no floor or fireworks.

Out of the House Monday, it went to the Senate, where it was passed with a bigger vote than greeted by some of those who had sponsored it.

The tax, to run for two years, is effective July 1.

Urged by Governor Holland at his major legislative program, to raise $3,500,000 to offset losses of horse racing taxes for old age pensions and county aid, the bill, which also provides for a friendly senate amendments to transfer tax enforcement from the state comptroller to the state beverage department.

Companion House bills, also amended in minor degree and passed by the Senate, provide $2,000,000 a year for old age pensions and $1,500,000 a year for distribution among counties on the same basis that revenue from taxes on horse race wagers.

Pensions Not Increased

The three bills do not increase amounts previously provided for old age pensions, but provide for a rate for which $3,800,000 a year of liquor and beer tax is provided.

If facing is resumed next winter, the cigarette tax will contribute to go into the general revenue fund and amounts will be proportionately distributed among counties and county aid will be decreased proportionately.

Only Senator Matthews of Jacksonville spoke against the measure.

Yamamoto Is Reported Shot Down In Action

Vichy Radio Reveals Japs Are Preparing To Flee From Attu; Kiska Faces Hunger

NEW YORK, May 21, (AP) — The Tokyo radio announced today that Admiral Isoroku Yamamoto, commander in chief of the combined Japanese fleet, who was reported to have boasted he would dictate the peace terms in the White House, has been killed in action.

A broadcast recorded by the Federal Communications Commission said Yamamoto met death in April aboard a warplane "while directing general strategy in the front line" but gave no details.

The Navy Department reported today that operations on Attu Island are continuing with the latest reports indicating the Japanese are making a last stand in the defensive high ground on the island's northern extremity.

The broadcast said Admiral Mineichi Koga, formerly commander of the Izo class in Chitose waters, succeeded the 49-year-old Yamamoto, and "already was in command." Yamamoto was Japan's foremost admiral, who combined sea and air power and was known as one of the ablest naval strategists in the empire.

Meanwhile the Nazi-controlled Vichy radio declared the Japanese "have been to evacuate Attu" but "United States" warships were believed to be in the ocean. The Japanese evacuation base at Kiska was seen as threatened with starvation or surrender to the blockade.

In Washington it was said that the battle for Attu island has swept into its final phase with American troops attacking Japanese forces holed up on the shore of Chichagof Harbor. Warships and bombers are supporting the assault.

Still important is being encountered and United States casualties may be heavier than in any other phase of the fighting, but an early conclusion is expected.

Dorner Advocates Building Facilities For Cold Storage

Mr. Dorner said "In our original plan for the market, as outlined by our Agricultural Club Committee, one of the major features was to be adequate cold storage facilities.

"One of the main reasons for this storage, we realized, was that when we were through shipping vegetable crops from this section, we later had to buy as consumers, high priced products that in cold storage we could have retained for 60 days, but for lack of these facilities, we had to ship away.

"We realized also that the market would be used for fruits and vegetables shipped into the State, and cold storage could be used to keep these in good condition. We even planned also to keep meats and fish in storage, and there was also need for a cold storage place for seeds. We believed that this cold storage would result in great savings to consumers within a 100 mile radius, and much elimination of waste.

"Finding that often many vegetables that were unsold, went to waste, it was planned to have a large canning kitchen right near the Market, somewhat similar to the small canning kitchens now in the County, but on a much larger scale, and available to individuals who wished to can these surplus foods," Mr. Dorner added.

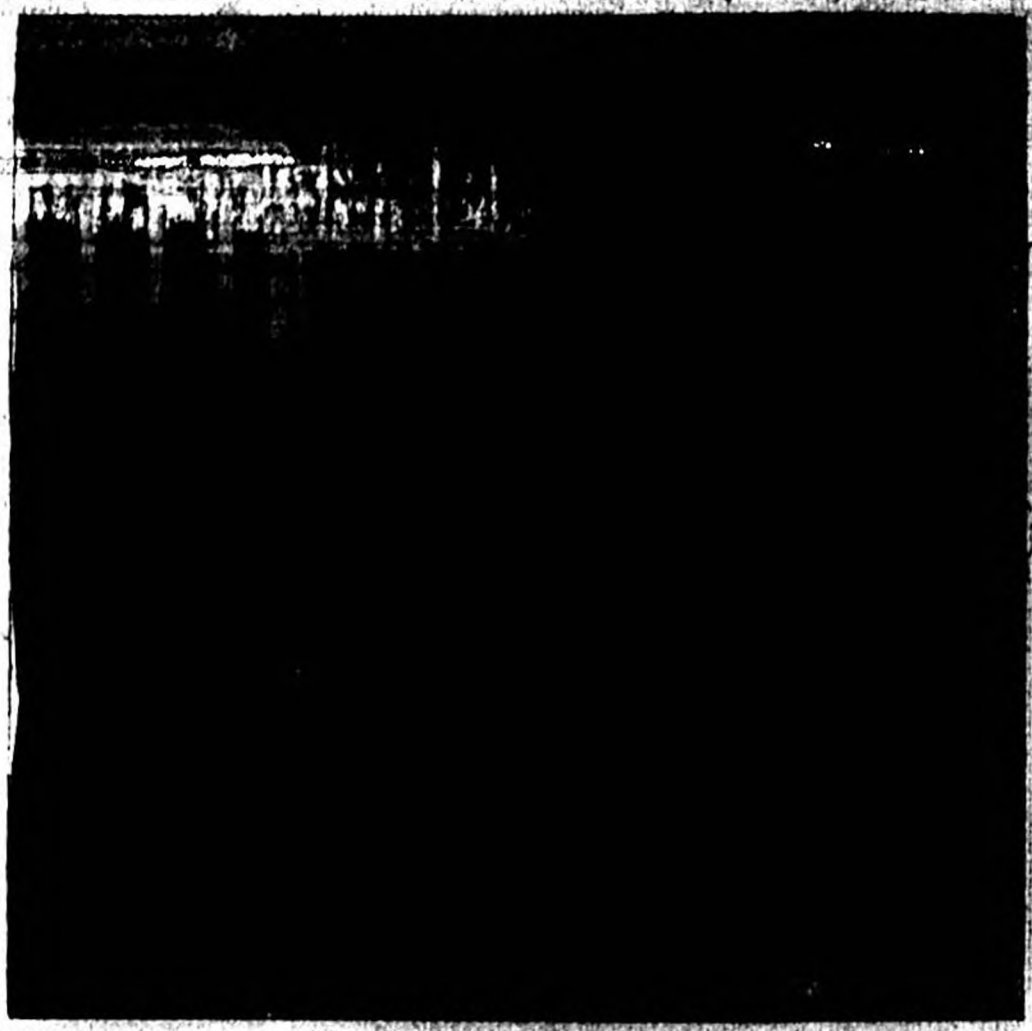

"However, I am pleased to see the Farmer's Market answering the purpose it was built for," he said. "The need for such a market, which has since proved a model for many other markets of its type not only in Florida, but other states as well, came from our realization as growers that the great need of Seminole County was for more diversified crops.

"We realized that in order to efficiently market such crops we would have to have a place to load mixed carloads for rail shipments, and a terminal point where truckers could come to buy these vegetables. Many were the discussions the growers had on the subject, but we seemed to get nowhere.

"In 1933, I had visited a privately owned farmer's market at Newark, New Jersey which gave me the idea for a market here. I talked this up among the growers who at the time were dependent, and complained of some broke. We formed a committee which I headed and which included Sam Doty, Rex Packer, Frank Meisch, George Balm, and Alex E. Johnson, Seminole High School agricultural instructor, to formulate plans for a market. Mr. Johnson was on the outstanding list of growers in this section in order to interest Nathan Mayo, State agriculture commissioner in the matter.

"Mr. Mayo when visited by the committee seemed to like the idea of a farmers market, but however, said that for lack of funds, it couldn't be built. We continued however later to send him information regarding possibilities of such a market, and need of a centralized location to sell these crops. He sent us to Gov. Dave Roberts, who also said that no funds could be had to finance the market and sent us to the F.W.A. in Jacksonville where we were finally granted funds to start the project. Later, at a mass meeting of growers in Sanford, Mr. Mayo promised us aid from State agricultural funds.

"When Mr. Mayo first voiced objections to the plan on the ground that funds for a market were not available, we pointed out to him that we were raising "Securing of a site for the market was a big problem, but we finally secured the co-operation of the late Alex French, and city authorities and the present site was obtained. Plans for the market were drawn by Elton J. Noughton," Mr. Dorner concluded.

Still operators started active sale of produce at the market, Jan. 15, 1935, at which time, J.E. Michael was manager. Manager H.J. Lehman yesterday predicted that sales for the present season would amount to more than $1,350,000.

The administration's cigarette tax bill got the endorsement of a second Senate committee Wednesday. Without dissent, the miscellaneous legislation committee approved the bill favorably, following similar action by the Finance committee which approved it 8 to 4.

The House already has passed the cigarette tax 37 to 25, and the senate will consider the house bill.

Wave Of Strikes Spreads To U.A.W. From Coal Mines

DETROIT, May 21, (AP) Three war plants of Chrysler Corporation were closed down yesterday in a wave of strikes which saw more than 21,000 employees leave their jobs and a corporation spokesman expressed fear that all 85,000 Chrysler workers in the country might be affected.

The walkout began at the Jefferson-Kercheval plant, with United Automobile Workers (UAW) leaders claiming that collective bargaining had "completely broken down." Within a short time, workers at the Dodge main plant and Dodge Lynch Road plants joined the walkout.

Several thousand workers at the Dodge truck plant also were idle because of lack of materials.

A Chrysler spokesman said the bank account might be forced to close Friday if the system continued. He estimated that total of 129,000 man-hours of work were lost today.

Canada's First Woman Consul Likes Career

By ADELAIDE NERR AP Features Writer

Open the office door of Canada's first woman diplomat—and you will see a quiet brown-haired woman pouring over papers.

Try to talk to Agnes McCloskey about herself and you will be lost in a maze of Canadian history. Not because the first Canadian consul in New York tries to talk you (though she is certainly not anxious to talk about herself). But because for nearly 35 years the warp and root of her life have been woven around Canada's Department of External Affairs. She began work there as a kind of glorified office girl, and worked slowly, steadily and undramatically up through the ranks.

She talks of developments in the department over the years with the same warm glow in retrospect. Asked her about the awards will be given to civilian defense volunteers with 100 or more hours of service. (International)

Study Concessions

Whether such concessions are made and if made, whether they will satisfy UAWW President John L. Lewis and his followers remains to be seen.

But there have been these definite stands on the government side of the controversy:

1. A statement by Secretary Ickes, as Federal boss of the mines, that "any contract must have approval of the War Labor Board."
2. A WLB description of Lewis' attitude in ignoring it as one that "challenges the sovereignty of the United States in time of war and gives aid and comfort to our enemies."

Mrs. Roosevelt Assails Idea Of Company Store

Says Such Institutions Tend To Keep Factory Workers In Debt

WASHINGTON, May 21. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt roundly condemns the principle of stores maintained for employees by management in industries, such as mining, asserting that "company stores tend to keep people always in debt, and when in debt must not be a free agent."

She told her press conference that one of the mining companies had tried to change her opinion about company stores. She admitted that she recognized that such stores may be all right when the employees are making extra money for overtime and an effort to trade on a cash basis during the strikes in average times. Mrs. Roosevelt complained they are "badly" pointing out that employees are not obliged to buy at company stores, she added. "It is difficult to buy anywhere else as the company stores offer credit and a man is not likely to buy elsewhere if he can get credit at the company store." She indicated that indebtedness to company stores is usually studied, as a man "never gets caught up." She also criticized the principle of living quarters rented by the employees from their employers.

Mrs. Roosevelt said that another mining company had tried to deny any relation between the history of the company stores in the last few years and the present mining difficulties. Discounting this claim she commented that there "must be some relation between what has happened since 1932 and the company stores." Mrs. Roosevelt stepped a question relating to the fourth year and party politics when she was asked to comment on instructions to Republican women by Mrs. Marion Dixie, assistant secretary to the Republican National Committee to spot the misdeeds of government publications to further the Roosevelt fourth term campaign.

Asked her advice to Democratic women, Mrs. Roosevelt said, "I could not be the one to represent Democratic women." She added, however, if I were to make a suggestion I would make it to all women and recommend that they read a report of the National Resources Planning Board. She stated all women should prepare for the first year so that they were after the first would be.

Struggle For Air Supremacy To Keep Up After War Ends

By JOHN L. SPRINGER
AT SANFORD, Fla., May 21. — The struggle for air supremacy will continue after the war ends, according to a report from the War Relocation Authority.

The report states that the Japanese have been successful in developing a new type of aircraft, which is capable of flying at a higher altitude than any other aircraft in the world. This new aircraft is expected to be ready for service by the end of the war.

The report also states that the Japanese have been successful in developing a new type of engine, which is capable of producing more power than any other engine in the world. This new engine is expected to be ready for service by the end of the war.

Survey Shows New Yorkers Find Only Confusion In Raid Signals

NEW YORK, May 21. — A survey conducted by the New York State Police has shown that many New Yorkers are confused by the signals used in air raids.

The survey, which was conducted in the New York City area, found that only 10 percent of the respondents could correctly identify the signals used in air raids.

The survey also found that many respondents were confused by the signals used in air raids. This confusion could be dangerous in the event of an actual air raid.

The New York State Police are planning to conduct a series of air raid drills in the New York City area in the near future. These drills are intended to help New Yorkers become familiar with the signals used in air raids.

The Ocala Star points out that the Germans in Tunisia not only lost their shirts, but their pants as well.

You will soon be issued Ration Book 5. That will make 15, counting gasoline, fuel, sugar, coffee, meat, etc.

Ultimate Victory

That was a great speech which Prime Minister Churchill made Wednesday before the combined houses of Congress. It made us all feel a little better about the progress of the war to date and gave us more assurance of victories to come...

Nor could the Italians find much cheer in his words. "We have secured bases from which violent attacks can and will be delivered by our air power on the whole of Italy...

Recalling the battle of Gettysburg in our own Civil War, he pointed out, "far more blood was shed after the Union victory at Gettysburg than in all the fighting which went before."

One Government

It seems clear to most Americans that one government is enough in this country at any time, and especially in war time. Also that the official government centered in Washington is fully qualified to handle whatever problems arise...

There seems to be nothing in the Constitution or the federal laws which empowers any individual or any group of citizens, operating in a private capacity, to assume jurisdiction over any phase of the war effort.

In normal times this would be merely amusing. But in war time, with the nation in peril, and a steady flow of fuel absolutely essential for national safety, it creates an intolerable situation.

The Greatest Generals

An expert's opinion as to the best men in his field is always worth knowing. General Wavell, a predecessor of Montgomery in the North Africa command and now one of Churchill's advisers on his latest visit to Washington, is such an expert.

With all his busy life Wavell has found time to think about the great generals of history. His list of the top 14 is: Hannibal, the Carthaginian; Scipio, the Roman who defeated Hannibal; Alexander the Great; Julius Caesar; Belsharius, the Byzantine Empire's greatest commander; Frederick the Great; Oliver Cromwell; Marlborough; Napoleon; Wellington; Lee; Moltke, the winner of the Franco-Prussian war of 1870-71; Foch and Ludendorff.

Out of this number he has winnowed a select six: Marlborough, Belsharius, Lee, Napoleon, Hannibal and Scipio. Though he does not attempt to rate them in order, Americans will note that this highly select list of the world's greatest strategists includes, among the very best, Robert E. Lee.

Child care during the summer months was discussed at the business meeting held at the joint bridge-breakfast of the Social and Civic Departments of the Sanford Woman's Club Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Roy Tillis presided over the Civic Department meeting and Mrs. H. H. McCain suggested the club's sponsoring classes in knitting, crocheting and sewing for school children. The group approved the motion and Mrs. H. W. Rucker, chairman, today revealed the idea will be presented to the other departments of the club for approval before going ahead with the project.

At the conclusion of games, Mrs. W. B. Brinson was awarded screen prize; Mrs. H. B. Crumley won high score bridge prize and Mrs. James Moughton won a prize for checkers. Prizes were defense stamps.

Mexico May Have 'Juan Doughboy' Just Like Ours

Army Observers From Below Rio Grande Like What They See

LEBANON, Tenn., May 21.—Juan Doughboy will be Mexico's counterpart Johnny Doughboy, if Mexican Army observers, sent here to witness Second Army maneuvers, have their way.

Focusing their interest on a mobile unit that supplies troops in the field with bread and pastry, the relievo became highly enthusiastic over three large wall tents containing three gasoline ovens and a gasoline mixer capable of producing 2,500 loaves of bread a day.

"Your bread is delicious," said Captain (First Class) Ignacio Martinez (Filius). "And the way you turn it out!"

The Captain explained that the Mexican soldier receives a daily ration of two loaves of bread known as bolillo (pronounced bolillo) It is twice as long as the average loaf of American bread, tapered at the ends has a furrow in the center, and is made of coarse wheat and leavening.

"But we have no facilities for making it in the field," the Captain, who is connected with the Mexican Quartermaster Corps, explained. "When we go out into the field, we take bread with us."

Bolillo is an important staple item in the Mexican soldier's diet, Captain Urbe asserted. That he said, was responsible for his enthusiasm over our dough making and mixing equipment.

Salt tablets, given to Second Army troops in the field to replace the deposits of salt which are lost in perspiration, also occupied the Captain's attention. That was something new to the Mexican Army observer. At first he believed that the little white pills handed to the soldiers contained ingredients which constituted a military secret. But when he heard that they were salt tablets, he was surprised.

"No," he said in answer to a query, "we have never given salt to our troops. Instead, we hand them lemons or give them lemonade." Mexico, he revealed, has an abundance of lemons.

In addition, he revealed, the Mexican soldier receives a variety of oatmeal flavored with chocolate and "arroz con leche" (rice

Chances Are Good For Marriage Very Before End Of '43

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Features Writer

If there's a man lurking around your doorstep, or if you have your correspondence shut, shut off Granny's wedding dress, girls—the chances are he'll propose this year.

The loosening of the draft and the vast increase in the armed forces are expected to make 1943 a banner year for marriages.

What's more, there's strong possibility that you'll be married in June, that it will be near his camp or station and that you'll support yourself.

Anyway, that's what the jewelry believe, and they have been busy preparing statistics. A tremendous postwar jewelry business is anticipated when more than a million homes will be established after the war.

Girls may do temporarily without all the things they've dreamed of—an engagement ring, shining silver, a fine china, a grand father clock—but they won't give them up for good.

In Washington Cupid inadvertently aided the housing shortage by uniting over 40 percent more couples in 1942 than in the previous year. Even in nearby Italy, more aircraft production centers, over 25 percent more weddings were recorded.

Large cities such as Chicago, Boston, Milwaukee, Youngstown, Akron, Columbus and New York all show a decrease in marriages because of the number of slight-men in service. In the south where there is a large concentration of army camps, cities such as San Antonio and Miami led the field in 1942 with increases of more than 50 percent over the 1941 marriage totals, while San Diego, the great naval training center, showed a marriage increase of more than 150 percent.

Two-thirds of the 1,800,000 brides of 1942 were married to service men.

German Tennis Star Captured In Tunisia

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, May 21 (AP)—Allied authorities announced without elaboration that a German tennis champion, was among the prisoners captured in the Tunisia campaign.

A Davis Cup team star, Grimm was reported in advance from Beilun in August, 1940 to have been called to military service with an anti-aircraft unit.

Grimm's sports career was interrupted by a sentence May 14, 1938, to a year in prison on a morals charge. He was freed on parole after serving seven months. The United States later refused him a visa to enter 1939 competition at Forest Hills, Queens.

U. S. And British Supplying Food In Middle East

Essential Products Provided 80,000,000 Who Are Cut Off

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Essential supplies for 80,000,000 civilians in the Middle East who were cut off from sources in the Balkans and Burma by the war are being provided by the United States and Great Britain and by increased local production. American agencies affiliated with the Middle East supply center reported recently through the Office of War Information.

In the two years since establishments of the supply center the United Nations have sent to the Middle East 1,600,000 tons of goods, including 600,000 tons of wheat, 200,000 tons of fertilizer, 47,000 tons of cotton goods, 147,000 tons of sugar and 638,000 tons of other supplies. Of the sugar 38,000 tons were sent to the Red Sea area and 59,000 to the Persian Gulf. General supply shipments included 452,000 tons to the Red Sea and 184,000 tons to the Persian Gulf.

Palestine is producing chemicals for various parts of the Middle East which previously imported chemicals from other parts of the world. Egypt has increased her production of food so as to furnish rice and sugar to her neighbors. A factory has been established in Iran to crush oil seeds grown locally, saving imports of vegetable oils from India or Ceylon. Canning plants are operating in Iraq, opening the way for expansion of the diet of the people of the Middle East by preservation of fish and vegetables.

The operation of the supply center embraces Egypt, Iraq, Iran, Syria and Lebanon, Trans-Jordan, Saudi Arabia, Ethiopia, Palestine, Sudan, Malaya, Cyprus, Aden, British, French and Italian Somaliland and Eritrea and Libya.

Secretary Ickes Excellent Choice to Deal With Lewis

By CHARLES F. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

SOME-THING QUEER characterizes the current 15-day struggle between the anthracite and bituminous mine strikers and the United States government. Far be it from me to suggest that there was anything phoney about it, but its sequence of manifestations was odd.

The miners, as we know, wanted more pay, to meet increased living costs. The owners, as usual, didn't want to dig it up. The government, in war charge of the situation, was slow in ordering a boost. That was the signal for the mine workers' head, John L. Lewis, to decrease strike measures whether to be considered as an emergency ownership.

The discussion flared. A strike was imminent. It promised to be of vital importance at a time like this.

The strain grew worse and worse.

At that juncture, unexpectedly, John Lewis proclaimed a two-week truce.

The truce was the point of arrival in the bargaining process.

Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes was in main charge of the government's case. John Lewis was in main charge of the miners' cause.

Lewis and Ickes confabulated together into the innermost detail.

The very verge of a split was averted. At that juncture, unexpectedly, John Lewis proclaimed a two-week truce.

It wasn't a surrender, but certainly it was a miners' concession. The notion was to give John Lewis and Harold Ickes time to agree. If John had stayed bawky up to the final instant, it is understandable that President Roosevelt might have denounced him as an irreconcilable—an anti-patriot of the first degree. But John didn't do that.

He declared that truce. He agreed to talk further terms. Nobody expected him to yield 100 per cent, but it was obvious that he figured in yielding SOME.

That is the announcement that John had broadcast.

Twenty minutes later F. D. R. broadcast his denunciation of John. If he had been a bit quicker about it, it would have been comprehensible—but a quarter of an hour is imaginable that he did not know what John was going to say?

It also is hard to conclude that John Lewis was not in cahoots with Harold Ickes. John and Harold had been pretty closely hitched together in the industrial past. But Harold has been more radical than John has been.

Harold wants an entirely new sociology. He does not want any two classes. John wants a working class, as distinguished from another class. In fact, John divides them.

It is a new kind of society that the Ickes rearrangement is shooting at. Harold wants everybody just alike—employers and employees.

John's hope is that labor is better off with no such alliance. His theory is that the workers can protect their own interests independently, but that the owners are the sticker of the two as bargainers. Or, rather, he holds that the employees, when they make a bargain, stick to it; whereas he believes that the employers do not, as a general thing.

Nevertheless, John and Harold are economic friends.

Harold is more the sociologist. John is more the scrapper for the toilers' social rights—holding that capital has demonstrated its ability to take care of itself, and more.

President Roosevelt of the United States and Lewis of the United Mine Workers apparently cannot do so any more. Formerly they were on excellent terms. Today their relations are badly strained.

If either one is inclined to yield, it appears to be John. He at least declared a truce, after which F. D. R. denounced him.

Pending negotiations may explain matters somewhat.

Harold Ickes ought to be a valuable intermediary.

The natural intermediary would be Labor Secretary Frances Perkins, but she doesn't figure in this case.

be appointed to act upon the application "in an orderly and sympathetic way."

Lewis, who walked out of the Federation after its 1935 convening, and organized the CIO, made his application with no advance notice, although there had been hints of such a development in labor circles for months.

Green himself said he had received "no advance notice" prior to the formal application. Mine Workers out of the CIO and Green took a row with Philip Murray, its president, and he turned out some men in the strike.

OPA Orders New Ban On Pleasure Driving

WASHINGTON, May 21. (AP)—The Office of Price Administration Wednesday night ordered a drastic new ban on non-essential driving in 12 Eastern States, the District of Columbia and eight Eastern counties of West Virginia and warned that harsh penalties including denial of ration coupons would be levied against violators.

The ban became effective at noon Thursday.

No cut in values of A, B or C ration coupons is involved.

Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown said the drastic action was necessary because the available gasoline supply has hit "an all-time low" and must not be dissipated.

Lewis Mine Workers Ask A.F.L. Affiliation

WASHINGTON, May 21. (AP)—William Green announced Wednesday that John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers had filed a formal application to return to membership in the American Federation of Labor.

Green, president of the A.F.L., said the miners filed application for a charter which was received at a regular meeting of the executive council.

A committee, Green said, will be invoked for the duration—would be invoked against violators.

The ban became effective at noon Thursday.

No cut in values of A, B or C ration coupons is involved.
