

Republicans Say Adams Should Resign

By JOHN A. GOLDSMITH
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Republican strategists declared privately today Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams should resign to prevent more Maine-type landslides for Democrats.

One GOP source high in the party told United Press International the defeat of incumbent Republican Sen. Frederick G. Payne by Gov. Edmund G. Muskie in the Maine senatorial election has proved the political liabilities of the Bernard Goldfine case in which Adams was a figure.

Payne, like Adams, acknowledged receiving favors from Goldfine, a millionaire textile tycoon from Boston.

The argument advanced in some GOP circles was that Adams should not subject other Republican candidates to the similar-if indirect—handicap by keeping his important administration post. Meanwhile, there were these reasons to the Democrats' rearview of the Maine "early bird" election:

Democratic Party Chairman Paul M. Butler said the Formosa "mess" helped the Democrats. But Secretary of State John Foster Dulles told a news conference he did not think foreign policy played a part, because "our foreign policy in all its essential aspects has been and will be bipartisan."

California's Democratic gubernatorial candidate Edmund G. (Pat) Brown predicted "the tide that began Monday in Maine will sweep all the way across the nation."

Chairman Andrew F. Schoepel (R-Kan.) of the Senate GOP campaign committee said he did not see Maine pointing to a national trend.

Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson conceded the Republicans took a "pretty bad beating" in the Maine election but he refused to see the Democratic victory as a "weathervane."

Seminole County Accepts Challenge, Approves Bond Issue By Big Margin

Seminole County voters met the challenge Tuesday in giving overwhelming approval to the $8,200,000 school bond issue. More than 6,000 freeholders went to the polls. More than 2,000 voted for the bond issue. These freeholders are to be commended for their interest in county schools. In addition to the much-needed school facilities, these freeholders were voting for progress.

The vote total dispelled all doubts about public interest in education. School officials had feared that a lack of voter interest once again would prevent approval of the bond issue. Last year, too few voters went to the polls. The bond issue failed because the vote was not sufficient for a valid election.

School officials had said that voter apathy was the biggest obstacle in the path of victory. But freeholders turned out in a record number to approve the measure. The great interest in the bond issue, no doubt, was the double session at several county schools. Aroused parents knew that this was not good for their children. The only way this could be corrected was by passage of the bond issue.

Characters Behind Wheel

The gallery of anti-social drivers contains a variety of fascinatingly repellent characters — the speeder, the drunk, the lane-straddler, the brake-slammer, the intersection-sipper, the red light-jumper, and so on. Another who may qualify for inclusion is that eager fellow, the tire-screecher.

If he should win a place in that unenviable lineup, it might be somewhat embarrassing. Most of us screech a tire occasionally — when getting away fast from a stop sign on the way home, maybe, or when rounding a corner a shade too rapidly. But your genuine tire-screecher works at it. With him, it seems to be a point of twisted honor to make his tires yelp whenever possible. What they yelp, though he may not be aware of it, is: Here is a driver who is not mature enough to handle his car with civilized restraint.

ALL ABOARD FOR MARS — Who owns the moon? Does the United States have a right to take a pot-shot at it with an A-bomb? Would it be legal for us to set up a space station there without asking anybody? And if not, who would we ask? And what about the day when we are able to travel beyond the moon. What laws will govern space travel? These might sound like silly questions today, but at least one group of serious minded men think they had better be answered — and soon. This is the International Astronautical Society which has just held a symposium on "Space Law" at the Hague in Holland.

Present were representatives from most of the nations of the world. One of the committee from the United States was Congressman Bill Cramer, of St. Petersburg. Cramer represented Congressman Joe Martin, Minority Leader of the House and ranking minority member of the House Space Committee. Cramer says there is more to the problem than would first meet the eye. "This is a problem that will have to be faced by the Congress because of the coming age of space travel, exploration and use," Cramer said. "The complexities can only be solved by the orderly application of laws which must be formulated now." Cramer is a member of the House Judiciary Committee and is himself a lawyer. He is a graduate of Harvard Law School.

ONE LETTER — Does it really do any good to write a letter to your congressman? Do they pay any attention to them, or do they drop them in the waste basket and then write you a polite "round-robin" reply? Here is the result of one letter that was received recently by Congressman Dante Fascell of Miami. Remember the report about the American flyers who were forced down in Armenia and who were almost lynched by the local farmers because they thought the Americans were Turks? That story spurred Dr. Joseph H. Luehlin, 5000 University Drive, Coral Gables, to write Dr. Fascell.

Dr. Luehlin proposed a method of identifying Americans. He said, "I suggest two simple means for ready recognition of American airmen in a foreign land: (1) a miniature American flag painted on the side of the fuselage of an American plane and (2) a miniature American flag sewn on the left breast of the airman's jacket; and (3) in case of the loss or destruction of the jacket."

This was not a new idea. Our men in the China-Burma-India theatre used it during World War II, but apparently the lessons learned then in the CBI had been forgotten by the Department of Defense. At any rate, Fascell took it up with the Pentagon. Major General William P. Fisher wrote Fascell and said he liked the idea and would pass it along.

SMATHERS IS GATT OBSERVER — A pleasant chore has been handed to Senator George Smathers by Vice-president Nixon. He will be one of the Senatorial observers in Switzerland when 37 nations meet to discuss the problems of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade — more familiarly known as GATT. The meeting will be held in Geneva and will begin October 10th. Smathers will not have a vote in any of the proceedings — voting will be done by our State Department representative. But, he'll be on hand to study what goes on and report back to the Senate. Also, he can be expected to comment on what he sees and hears. In light of his enthusiasm for increasing trade with Latin-America, his observations will be interesting. (About half of the Latin-American nations are not members of GATT and hate the whole idea with a passion.)

Membership Statistics Misleading

By LOUIS CASSELL
 United Press International

The perils of drawing sweeping conclusions from church membership statistics were illustrated dramatically this week.

The National Council of Churches published its annual "Yearbook of American Churches" giving facts and figures about 235 U. S. religious bodies.

As usual, news stories about the yearbook dwelled mainly on its grand totals, which indicated church membership has grown to a new all-time high of 104,189,878 persons.

Closer study of the yearbook yielded two other figures which would be extremely significant — if true.

Taking the yearbook's figures at face value, it appears church membership rose last year by 0.9 per cent, while the total U. S. population rose 1.7 per cent.

Church Non-existent

The yearbook editors checked the report insofar as their limited staff and research funds would permit. Ministers of other denominations vouched for the existence of the "Christ Unity Science Church" and said its leaders in El Paso were reputable men. So the yearbook accepted the report as authentic and included the alleged membership in its totals.

Although no reports have been received from the "Christ Unity Science Church" since 1953, the yearbook continued to list its claimed membership in each edition up to and including last year's.

This year, after trying in vain to find any trace of the organization at El Paso or elsewhere, the yearbook dropped the listing and quietly subtracted 1,681,286 persons from its figures on Protestant membership and its grand total.

Figures Misleading

This is the first time since World War II the growth in church membership, as reported in the yearbook, has failed to keep pace with the growth in population. Last year, the yearbook showed church membership growing nearly twice as fast as the general population.

Still more startling are figures in the new yearbook which indicate the number of Protestants in the United States actually has declined in the past year. The 1958 yearbook showed a total of 80,480 Protestants. The new 1959 yearbook shows a total of 79,232,777, an apparent decrease of 318,203.

But these figures are grossly misleading and the conclusions drawn from them are false. Here's why:

The yearbook does not count church members on its own. It simply compiles reports submitted by the individual denominations.

In 1953, it received a report from a Protestant body called "Christ Unity Science Church, Inc." with headquarters in El Paso, Tex. It claimed 4,81 local congregations with a total of 1,581,286 members.

Ike Hopes Defeat In Maine To Spur Republican Party

NEWPORT, R. I. (UPI)— President Eisenhower hoped today the beating taken by Republicans in the Maine elections would spur his party to work harder to win in November.

The President's reaction to the spectacular Democratic victory was relayed to reporters by White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty.

The President, "of course . . . secret," the results, Hagerty said. "That's about all you can say on it," Hagerty said.

Hagerty refused to comment on whether the Democratic win would have any effect on the status of presidential aide Sherman Adams.

Sen. Frederick C. Payne, GOP loser in his bid to retain his U. S. Senate seat from Maine, like Adams was a recipient of gifts from Boston textile manufacturer Bernard Goldfine. Adams now is on a fishing vacation.

Conning The News

By Virginia Conn,
 Herald Staff Writer

The day dawned bright and hot. Deserted First Street still slept in the early morning sun. An old man in a white linen suit and broad hat stood alone at the corner of First and Park.

This was election day in Sanford. The man was E. E. Brady, 80-year-old former sheriff and legislator, who was running again for a seat in the House.

The streets began to fill with automobiles as Sanford came to work. Lights went on in the drug stores. Doors swung to and fro as businessmen sought air-conditioning for a morning cup of coffee.

Knots of men gathered on the corners, discussing the outcome of the voting. Women chatted about the school bond election. The street wavered in the shimmering heat.

In the cool of the armory, voters lined up before tables. As they signed ballots, friends greeted each other on both sides of the table. The DA's said "Forget-Me-Not" at the door.

Enthusiasm climbed as the day wore on. At the canteen kitchen Mrs. Mitchell dreamed out loud about the success of the school bonds. At Batten Electric, Ed Hunt kept the phone busy. Voting became active. In fact, there had never been so many voters!

The school bonds became a definite possibility by 3 p. m. At this time 45% of the registered freeholders had voted. It was assumed that most of these favored the bonds. Clerks tallied the number of voters.

The heat became intense. The stream of voters increased. Attention changed from the school bonds to speculation about the political race. Overhead the clouds gathered. The threatening storm cooled the air. But it never came.

In the Chamber of Commerce building night owl John Krider, who usually attends meetings in the evening, admired his office by dark. The clerks began to come with ballot boxes.

Candidates arrived with wives or relatives and stood in groups close to the registration window. Inside, Camie Bruce and Mickey Fleck read the ballots. Newspapermen jotted down the results. Those in the race pushed their heads through the window with their own tally sheets.

The telephone rang. Nearly all precincts had reported. The race was too close for comfort. Patty Gatchel breathed, "Never again."

Case Is Closed

FORT DODGE, Iowa (UPI)— A woman telephoned police to demand they "do something" about the bugs around a street light in front of her house. Told there was nothing they could do, the woman hung up but called back to say she'd taken care of the matter herself — by shattering the street light.

Proposal Approved

TAMPA (UPI)— When peace justice Marion Hendry suggested the "whipping post" as a means of curbing juvenile delinquency, he received comment from all over the country — most of it agreeing.

Yanks, Braves Nearer Flags

By MELTON RICHMAN
United Press International
The "magic numbers" were 3 for the Yankees today, 3 for the Braves and 20 for Bob Friend of the Pirates.

Friend posted his 20th triumph against 13 losses by defeating the San Francisco Giants, 6-4, in 10 innings.

Stuart hit only one homer, his 15th, but it was a two-run wallop off Marv Pulisani in the 10th that put Friend in the charmed circle.

The Braves reduced their pennant-clinching combination to eight when Juan Pizarro beat the Redlegs, 3-0. The Cardinals turned back the Cubs, 3-1, and the Phillies won their first home season series from the Dodgers in 20 years with an 8-6 decision.

Dunn Holds Success Key For '58 Gator Gridders

By JAMES C. WALTERS
United Press International
GAINESVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—He may look more like a cheerleader than a football player, but 145-pound quarterback Jimmy Dunn is the key to Florida's gridiron success this season.

ward wall ranked third in the nation defensively.

Cosch Bob Woodruff frankly admits he may have one of the best lines in the Southeastern Conference. But he sings the blues when you ask him about his backfield.

Probably the outstanding man on the line is Vel Heckman, 235-pound tackle from Allentown, Pa. Playing opposite him will be Dick Brantley, 210-pounder from St. Augustine, Fla. The guard slots most likely will be filled by Asa Cox, 210, Gainesville, Fla., and Vic Miranda, 210, Miami.

Graduation took Jimmy Rountree and Ed Sears and the Cincinnati Redlegs took half back Bernie Parliash when they signed him to a $40,000 baseball bonus contract.

Ends Are Best
Captain Don Fleming, 185-pound senior, and Dan Edgington, 11-pound junior from Miami, are the leading contenders for the end positions. But almost equal in ability are David Hudson of Pensacola, Fla., and Pat Patchen of Steubenville, Ohio.

So, the only first string back in the Gator backfield is Dunn. "The heaviest burden will fall on the lightest man," says Woodruff.

The schedule:
Sept. 20—Tulane here; Sept. 27—Mississippi State here; Oct. 10—UCLA at Los Angeles; Oct. 18—Vanderbilt here; Oct. 25—Louisiana State at Baton Rouge; Nov. 1—Auburn here; Nov. 8—Georgia at Jacksonville; Nov. 15—Arkansas State here; Nov. 22—Florida

Dunn also is a sure-fire punter and his play-calling makes him a threat against any team.

Some of the runners Woodruff hopes will give him added punch in the backfield are halfbacks Billy Booker of Albany, Tex., Bill Newbern of Jacksonville, Fla., and fullback Charlie Roberts of High Springs, Fla.

Woodruff, who starred as a guard with Tennessee in the 1930s, can hardly hold back a grin when he mentions his line. "Our line will compare favorably with last year's," he says. The 1957 for Jacksonville.

Georgia Tech To Gamble On Two-Platoon System

By DAVE MUFFIT
United Press International
ATLANTA (UPI)—The Yellow Jackets of Georgia Tech, attempting to spring back from one of their poorest seasons since World War II, are going for broke this year, gambling on a two-platoon system in an era of limited substitutions and decreased time outs.

Coach Bobby Dodd, whose record of success for the last decade, insists he has the material to return to the system which swept the Jackets to an unbeaten string of 29 games and a spot among football's elite at the turn of the decade.

But Dodd admits he isn't dead certain how things will work out under present-day rules. He figures the substitution rule, under which a player may enter the game twice each period, will offer few problems. The five-yard penalty for each time out after four per half may be the burr under the two-platoon saddle. "We don't intend to stick to platoon football if we find it's helping the other fellows instead of us," Dodd said.

The idea to return to platoon football didn't jell at Tech until after practice began. The key, according to Dodd, was a wealth of players who were outstanding on either offense or defense, but might not even make the squad if required to go both ways.

Best example appeared to be Ed Nutting, a 238-pound sophomore offensive tackle. Dodd says he may be another Hal Miller, former Tech All-American, yet he wasn't figured to see action this fall.

The defense unit is being built around Maxie Baughman, a 212-pound fullback. Baughman is already better than the man he understudied last season—All-American center Don Stephenson.

The remainder of the defensive line will be those players who were figured to start under the one-platoon plan, including three 5-foot-11-inch centers on what is mainly a junior team. Doug Vreay, slated to be fourth on the quarterback list, jumps to No. 1 safety man and Tim Singleton, a fourth-rated halfback, will start in the secondary.

Offensive Experts
The offensive line, from tackle to tackle, will be bigger than its defensive counterpart. The ends are smaller. The backs average about the same.

The Jacket attack will be built around Fred Braselton, 190-pound junior quarterback who logged an average of 36 minutes per game in 1957. Dodd figures Braselton, who led the SEC in passing last fall, should be even better with a respite from defensive chores.

The other three—Cal James, Joe Delaney, and Lester Simerville—should have the same advantage.

Schedule:
Sept. 20—Kentucky at Lexington, Ky.; Sept. 26—Florida State here; Oct. 4—Tulane here; Oct. 11—Tennessee here; Oct. 18—Auburn here; Oct. 25—SMU at Dallas, Tex.; Nov. 1—Duke at Durham, N.C.; Nov. 8—Clemson here; Nov. 15—Alabama here; Nov. 22—Georgia at Athens, Ga.

Player Of The Day

—BILLY PIERCE—
Southpaw Billy Pierce of the White Sox is counting on a strong stretch run to put him in the 20-victories class for the third straight season.

Pierce posted his 16th triumph against 10 losses Wednesday when he defeated the Red Sox, 7-2, on an eight-hit effort. It marked his 17th complete game of the year.

"I know it's going to be tough to get in 20 victories this year," says the Chicago left-hander, "but I'm certainly going to go all-out to do it."

Pierce started the season by losing his first three games and he didn't get on the winning side of the ledger until June 21 when he beat Baltimore, 1-0, with a two-hitter to make his record 6-3. Since then he has won 10 games and lost five. The White Sox have 16 more games to play and Pierce figures to get four more starting assignments. He'll have to win all four games to duplicate the 20 victories he registered during the 1956 and 1957 seasons.
