Train strikes, kills pedestrian

INDUSTRY, Calif. — A New Orleans-bound Amtrak passenger train, the Sunset Limited, struck and killed a man walking along the railroad tracks late Sunday night, authorities said.

The train slammed into the pedestrian on the tracks 20 miles east of Los Angeles about 11:50 p.m. PST Sunday, sheriff's Deputy Kathryn Nielsen said.

The victim, an unidentified man, died at the scene, she said.

Governor's aunt murdered

CARTERSVILLE, Ga. — The bound body of a widowed aunt of Gov. Joe Frank Harris was found in the bedroom of her home Sunday and investigators said the 75-year-old woman may have been killed during a robbery.

Cartersville police said the body of Allie Morrow Roper was found, tied up, in the bedroom of her white frame house, where she had lived for 30 years.

There were indications that Mrs. Roper, who lived alone, had been strangled, police said.

North trial to start today

WASHINGTON — The Iran-Contra prosecutor and the administration joined forces on a proposal that could end their fight over the handling of classified material in Oliver North's trial, scheduled to start today.

Independent prosecutor Lawrence Walsh, with the Justice Department's agreement, filed the sealed motion Sunday with U.S. District Judge Gerhard Gesell; just hours later, Chief Justice William Rehnquist ordered a delay of North's trial at the request of the administration.

Sauers wins Hawaiian Open

HONOLULU — Gene Sauers chipped in for a birdie on the final hole Sunday to win the rain-shortened $750,000 PGA Hawaiian Open by one shot over David Ogren.

The final round was played in perfect conditions under a bright Hawaiian sun after the four to five inches of rain that fell Friday and Saturday forced officials to shorten the tournament for the first time in its 24-year history to 54 holes.

Sauers, 26, had a one-shot lead when Gene Sauers his third shot appeared to be headed over the 18th green at the 6,975-yard, par-72 Waialae Country Club course, but the ball hit a photographer in the gallery and bounced back toward the green.

Vote set on impact fees

By LAURA L. BULLIVAN
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — The city commission expects to vote tonight on adopting emergency impact fees for police and fire protection.

The interim fee schedule would charge developers for the costs of providing police and fire protection for new homes. The commission is awaiting recommendations from an advisory board it established in 1986 to develop fees.

Because that board has met only once since it was created, Commissioner A. A. McClanahan voiced concern about the slow progress in developing fees at a commission workshop last week.

Studies developed for the city by a private firm recommend a police protection impact fee of $25.87 for every residential dwelling unit and 7.9 cents per square foot of non-residential development. The studies recommend a fire protection impact fee of $52.91 for every residential dwelling unit and 3.1 cents per square foot of non-residential development.

W. E. "Pete" Knowles resigned from the advisory board last month, claiming it was not consulted when fee recommendations were made.

The commission tonight is to decide if marina launching fees should be continued. The fees, which were implemented six months ago, have netted substantially less revenue than the commission had anticipated. The city has collected about $9,000 on weekends and holidays in the six-month period since the fees were adopted.

A vote is slated to decide whether the commission should adopt more stringent standards for arcade occupational licenses. Sanford Police Chief Steve Harriet asked the commission to act on the matter at the workshop last week.

The commission will vote on a request by Parks and Recreation Director Jim Jernigan to make Sanford a regional qualifying city for the Grand National Soap Box Derby. Children ages 9 to 16 would compete in cars built themselves. The race would be held in July.

Fatal fire

Firefighters from the Seminole County Fire Department hose down hot spots after a fire at 2381 Dolarway home in Midway left one person dead Monday morning. Four units from the county fire department responded to the scene at 7:29 this morning. The roof of the structure collapsed and the garage area was completely destroyed. Further details were not available at press time.

Kelley cleared in ethics case

By SANDRA BOUCHANINE
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — The Florida Ethics Commission has cleared Commissioner Jennifer Kelley of implications that a computer purchased for the county from her husband's associate is a conflict of interest.

Acting County Attorney Robert A. McMillan said this morning that he has advised Kelley about the legal opinions regarding a conflict of interest in the computer purchase.

The memorandum, dated Feb. 10, states that the Florida Ethics Commission has ruled that no violation exists because she did not purchase the computer herself. McMillan concluded in the memo that the purchase was made by the county's purchasing director under established procedures.

County Manager Ken Hooper, one of the officials who was concerned about a possible ethical risk, said this morning, "We were saying that the county is able to purchase the computer, but she (Jennifer Kelley) must address the ethics violations on her own and that's exactly what she's done."

"It was pointed out there was a concern" (about the conflict of interest),

Lake Mary to tax health clubs, spas

By SANDRA BOUCHANINE
Herald staff writer

LAKE MARY — The city has an occupational license tax for just about every business one can imagine, including a few unusual ones.

In the code of ordinances adopted in 1974, the following occupational license taxes are listed: fish peddlers, $50; piano tuners, $20; clairvoyance, fortune tellers and faith healers, $200; knife and scissor sharpeners, $10. There's even one for buying and hauling coconuts, $30. And to operate a merry-go-round in the city cost $100 a week.

The commissioners are expected this Thursday to adopt a $100 occupational license tax for health clubs, spas, tanning salons, exercise clubs and gymnasia.

"The code didn't address it and we decided it was an appropriate fee," City Planner Matt West said.

He said up until now, there have been none of these types of businesses in Lake Mary, but as commercial development increases, so will the chance of these businesses starting up in the city.

So far, one request for a gymnasium has been made to the city, West said.

Strange occupations

Anyone practicing anything in Lake Mary is subject to an occupational license tax. Among some of the more noticeable occupations and corresponding fees on the books are:

Piano tuners.....	$20
Clairvoyant.....	$200
Faith healer.....	$200

Ku Klux Klan stages impromptu downtown promotional campaign

By LAURA L. BULLIVAN
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Representatives from an area Ku Klux Klan organization yesterday distributed promotional literature to passers-by in the downtown area.

For a time, four Sanford police cars were stationed at the corner of First Street and Sanford Avenue, where three members of the Invisible Empire of the Ku Klux Klan quietly passed out newsletters.

Two of the three Klansmen wore traditional Klan garb: white robes and pointed hats. They left after nearly two hours at that corner.

Some passers-by asked for literature and others accepted it when offered, while others refused; some jeered and some laughed. One man asked that they leave.

A Klansman, who said he was from Mt. Dora, where the Klan had staged small demonstrations late last year, said he wasn't bothered by harassing remarks from motorists and pedestrians. "You get used to it," said the man, who would not identify himself.

"We're not trying to create a disturbance," said a Klansman who identified himself as John Baumgardner, Florida Grand Dragon. "We just believe in exercising our rights. They're like muscles: if you don't exercise them, they get weak."

He said he spoke to about 75 individuals about his organization, which he said is the largest Klan group in the state.

He said his group believes in separation of the races. Nevertheless, he said, "We don't see the black race as our enemy. We see ourselves as a friend to the black race."

He said his group is coordinating programs with an Orlando group he identified as Pan-African International, a black nationalist group.

FLORIDA BRIEFS

Cocaine-addicted babies more prevalent

ST. PETERSBURG BEACH — One of every ten babies born in Florida and the United States will be addicted to drugs, most often to cocaine, experts gathering for a conference on cocaine babies say.

"We'll probably have as many as 10,000 cocaine-exposed babies born this year in Florida. It's an epidemic," said Shirley Coletti, director of Operation PAR — Parental Awareness and Responsibility.

"We've been able to get women off alcohol and heroin, but crack cocaine is so addictive. It's stronger than maternal instinct."

The children of crack-addicted mothers are often born prematurely, sometimes as much as four months early. They are usually underweight and frequently have birth defects, ranging from kidney failure to brain damage.

According to pediatric neonatologist Jeanne McCarthy, it can cost $200,000 or more to get a cocaine baby through the first few months of infancy — and there may be more troubles ahead.

One way to ease the problem, PAR director Coletti said, would be for the state to provide prenatal care for all women. Women at some county health units may have to wait up to two months before seeing a doctor. By that time, it may be too late to help the child of a cocaine user.

Eastern removes magazine from planes

MIAMI — Eastern Airlines has ordered all copies of the latest edition of Fortune magazine removed from its planes because the issue contains an article criticizing Frank Lorenzo, president of Eastern's parent company.

In a terse directive to aircraft service managers around the nation, the carrier ordered the magazine removed from all 200 Eastern planes.

"It is imperative that the current issue of Fortune magazine be removed immediately from all Eastern aircraft," said a portion of the order published Sunday by the Miami Herald.

"Dispose of all copies locally. Have a member of management audit all aircraft to ensure compliance. Report accomplishment by tail number to Miami."

Eastern, headquartered in Miami, is owned by Texas Air Corp., of Houston.

Lorenzo, chairman of Texas Air, is pictured on the magazine's front cover. Inside, the article starts off by calling Lorenzo a "loose cannon."

It quotes past and present Texas Air executives as saying that Lorenzo is an impulsive manager who runs a highly charged shop. They talk of backbiting, employee turnover and "intrigue."

Eastern spokesman Robin Matell said the airline, which is facing a March 4 strike threat by its machinists union, had nothing to gain by making the commentary readily available to its passengers.

"The profile of (Texas Air's) chairman was unflattering and would be viewed in that vein by our passengers," Matell said. "Considering the current environment, we decided to remove the issue."

Matell said the order to remove the magazines came from middle managers, not from Lorenzo.

Study finds no bias in police shootings

MIAMI — An analysis of police shootings in Dade County showed black suspects were no more likely to be shot than other suspects, despite suspicions among many blacks of a racial pattern in the shootings.

An analysis by The Miami Herald published Sunday also showed no statistically unusual racial pattern among police officers involved in the shootings.

The study comes almost a month after three days of racial violence broke out when a Hispanic Miami policeman shot and killed a black motorcyclist. A black man who was a passenger died later when the motorcycle slammed into a car.

Officer William Lozano was charged with two counts of manslaughter.

Since the incident, many blacks have called for an end to what they say is racial murders by police.

The Herald examined 158 police shootings over the past five years. It found that 46 percent of the people shot were black. Blacks comprise only 21 percent of the county's population, but 44 percent of those arrested were black — close to the percentage of those shot.

The Herald said racial bias might have been a factor in isolated shooting incidents, but there was no statistical pattern.

"We reviewed it about two or three years ago and reached the same conclusion," said Janet Reno, state attorney in Dade County. "If there is any indication of a pattern, we will look at it again."

Of the 55 shootings involving Metro-Dade police, 32 people, or 58 percent, were black. But slightly more than 50 percent of all people arrested by Metro-Dade officers were black, according to Florida Department of Law Enforcement statistics from 1987.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Delta launch postponed to Tuesday

United Press International

CAPE CANAVERAL — Playing it safe, the Air Force delayed the maiden launch of its new Delta 2 rocket at the last minute Sunday and rescheduled blastoff for tomorrow because of unexpected high-altitude winds, officials said.

The 128-foot, three-stage rocket, carrying a $65 million navigation satellite, had been scheduled to blast off at 1:38 p.m. Sunday from launch complex 17A at the Cape Canaveral Air Force Station adjacent to NASA's Kennedy Space Center.

But with the countdown in a planned 10-minute "hold" at the T-minus 4-minute mark, Air Force mission managers decided to postpone the flight for 48 hours.

"We have scrubbed today's launch ... because of the upper-level wind conditions," said Lt. Col. Ron Rand, an Air Force spokesman in Delta mission control. "The next launch opportunity is Tuesday. The launch time will be at 1:30 p.m. EST."

"The reason for the 48-hour turnaround is not technical, it's to give the launch crew some much needed rest."

The Air Force was taking no chances with the Delta 2, the first of 20 ordered after the Challenger disaster and a string of other rocket failures that grounded a host of high-priority military payloads.

An Air Force spokeswoman said winds between 14,000 feet and 18,000 feet were from the northwest and that the rocket's guidance computer was expecting more southerly winds. Encountering such winds from an unexpected direction could have led to "adverse aerodynamic effects," she said.

Ironically, similar problems with unacceptable winds aloft caused delays for the first two post-Challenger shuttle missions. The forecast for Tuesday called for ideal conditions.

Nestled inside a protective 9.5-foot-wide fairing at the tip of the $30 million rocket is the first of a new generation of Global Positioning System — GPS — navigation satellites that will allow military forces on the ground, at sea and in the air to determine their location and altitude to within about 53 feet anywhere in the world.

The Air Force only had 10 minutes to launch the Delta 2 to get the satellite into the proper orbit and it could not do so given the wind conditions Sunday.

The Air Force plans to launch 21 upgraded "block 2" GPS satellites to join seven older "block 1" spacecraft currently in space. The satellites are built by Rockwell International's Satellite Systems Division.

Oil drilling ban expansion urged

United Press International

MIAMI — Sen. Bob Graham urged President Bush to broaden protection of the Florida Keys and the Everglades by including currently held oil and gas leases in his moratorium on offshore drilling in the Gulf of Mexico.

In his state of the union speech Thursday, Bush announced he would postpone indefinitely the sale of drilling rights in the Gulf of Mexico south of Naples to the Florida Keys.

The plan would delay future lease sales "pending satisfactory resolution of environmental concerns." But the president's speech did not address offshore leases already held by oil companies seeking to explore in the region.

Last year Congress approved a one-year drilling moratorium in Gulf waters off southwest Florida. That moratorium expires Sept. 30 and unless current oil leases are included in the new moratorium, the leaseholders would be free to resume drilling in October.

In a letter released Sunday, Graham, D-Fla., urged the president to clarify his plan and broaden the moratorium.

"Exploration and drilling in this sensitive area off of the Florida Everglades and the Keys would pose the very threat you are trying to avoid," Graham wrote.

Graham urged Bush to involve state officials in environmental review of federal offshore drilling leases.

He also asked the president to add the Environmental Protection Agency to the task force that will study offshore drilling. The task force Bush proposed Thursday already would include the Department of the Interior, the Department of Energy and the National Academy of Sciences.

"President Bush is moving in the right direction," Graham said.

The federal program that leases offshore tracts for oil and gas drilling has prompted constant battles in Florida.

Lawmakers critical of child abuse registry

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — More than 168,000 Floridians are on a state list of reported child abusers and have no opportunity to clear their names even if they have done nothing wrong.

Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services spokesmen say the Abuse Registry is a valuable tool in fighting child abuse, that it is completely confidential and that names are removed when a report appears unsubstantiated.

But the list has come under increasing fire lately, including criticism from legislators who told the Florida Times-Union the list can make suspects of innocent citizens.

"My particular concern is for the citizens who are accused of abuse because they spanked their child," said Sen. George Stuart, D-Orlando. "That group ought not suffer the embarrassment of being kept on some list for any amount of time."

"Parents should not be subject to that kind of harassment. That's just wrong."

B.J. Cosson, director of the Abuse Registry, said that keeping track of alleged child abuse lets HRS watch for patterns of abuse that might otherwise go unnoticed.

"The task the Legislature gave us was to track and further attempt to pre-empt child abuse," Cosson said. "If we don't keep those names on a data base, how can we do that?"

In 168,333 cases, HRS found either no proof of abuse, or not enough evidence to pin the alleged abuse on a specific person. But even if an anonymous tip proves to be false — there were 46,998 "unfounded" reports last year — the names of accused adults stay in HRS files for one year.

If investigators think abuse occurred but can't prove it, the names of the suspected adults are kept on the list for seven years. There have been 121,335 such cases since 1982.

Suspects have no legal means of removing their names from the list, and in many cases are never even aware they have been reported.

Most abuse reports come from HRS's abuse hotline — 1-800-96-ABUSE. Callers do not have to identify themselves.

Homeless yet to receive money

United Press International

MIAMI — The homeless have yet to receive the first penny from the $3 million project that financier Victor Posner was ordered to fund in lieu of going to prison a year ago.

Instead, a panel formed to oversee the project spent six months arguing over whether they should first conduct a study of the homeless, and six months waiting for the results of the study. The $267,000, six-phase study by four universities is still a month from completion.

Posner, 69, pleaded no contest to tax evasion charges in September 1987. He had inflated the value of land he donated to Miami Christian College, taking a larger tax deduction for charitable donations than he was entitled to.

Posner told the judge he was willing to make a large contribution of time and money to the community in lieu of going to prison.

At his sentencing Feb. 12, 1988, U.S. District Judge Eugene Spellman noted that Posner would probably serve no more than six to nine months. He put Posner on probation and ordered him to spend $3 million and 500 hours helping the homeless.

Prosecutors appealed, saying the sentence would allow Posner to buy his way out of jail. The appeal was denied and Spellman later won an award from the Miami Coalition for Care of the Homeless.

Posner wanted the money spent immediately on rent subsidies for the homeless.

"There are studies coming out your ears," he told the panel of nine community leaders supervising the project.

In August, the panel agreed to go ahead with the study. They have not met since and are not scheduled to reconvene until the study is complete.

Barry Univeristy professor David Fike, who is coordinating the study, said it is on schedule.

It includes a head count of the homeless, reports on mental illness, homeless families and economic factors of homelessness, a search for model programs and a descriptive study of life on the streets.

When the study is done, the panel will draft a list of spending priorities and present it to the judge. Then the rest of the $3 million, now held in escrow, will be allocated to help the homeless in the Miami, Fort Lauderdale and Palm Beach areas.

"Hopefully, they are going to uncover some innovative ways to help the homeless," said Brother Paul Johnson, who runs the Camillus House.

"But I know what happens with studies like this. In the end, we're going to be frustrated to find out what needs to be done and that we don't have the money to do it."

Workers comp fund runs low

FORT LAUDERDALE —

Florida's worker compensation program is headed for a crisis that could threaten the state's economic competitiveness unless the Legislature adopts serious reforms, a panel appointed to study the system reported.

The Governor's Task Force on Workers' Compensation will meet Monday in Tallahassee to vote on recommendations they will present to Gov. Bob Martinez and the Legislature. The recommendations are to be refined into proposed laws by the time the Legislature convenes April 4.

Insurance Commissioner Tom Gallagher agreed that "Certainly there is a crisis for the businessman."

Pedestrian killed, not identified

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Early today the Florida Highway Patrol had not identified a pedestrian killed in a traffic accident this morning on Interstate 4 at the State Road 436 intersection in Altamonte Springs.

Westbound traffic on the Interstate was routed off the Interstate at that intersection and then rerouted back on the highway after bypassing the accident scene.

Details of the accident were not available this morning.

Prisoner reports sexual assault

SANFORD — Seminole County sheriff's deputies are investigating a complaint by a 25-year-old Seminole County jail inmate who said he was raped on both Wednesday and Thursday mornings at about 12:15 a.m.

The assaults were reported Sunday and the inmate named a 34-year-old cellmate as the assailant. He said he was verbally threatened and minimal force was used against him. Since he had been the victim of an earlier non-sexual attack, the victim said he feared further reprisal.

Four lost in Midway attacked, beaten

MIDWAY — Two men and two women from Edgewater and Oak Hill, who said they stopped on Sipes Avenue, Midway, to ask directions at about 7 p.m. Sunday, told Seminole County sheriff's deputies they were attacked and robbed by about 12 men who approached their car on foot.

The men, Larry Bass, 25, and Randy Nail, 33, said they were pulled from the car, beaten and robbed. The driver, Helen Freeman, 35, said her purse and her jewelry were stolen. Nothing was stolen from the fourth victim, Robin A. Nail, 23. She was slightly injured.

Many arrested on DUI charges

SANFORD — The following persons face a charge of driving under the influence in Seminole County:

- Virginia O'Steen Williamson, 35, of 2310 Driftwood Drive, Fern Park, at 11:58 p.m. Sunday on Hayes Road, Winter Springs, after the car she was driving was seen swerving.
- Donald Charles Straughan, 26, of 21 S. Devon Ave., Winter Springs, at 9:46 p.m. Saturday on Crystal Lake Ave., Lake Mary, after his car was clocked traveling 52 mph in a 30 mph zone on Country Club Road, Lake Mary.
- Jonathan Carl Geets, 21, of 645 Murphy Road, Winter Springs, at 1:47 a.m. Sunday on Third Street, Lake Mary, after his car ran off Country Club Road, Lake Mary.
- Stacy Ann Verulius, 27, of Orlando, at 2:10 a.m. Sunday on State Road 436, Altamonte Springs. She is also charged with driving with a suspended license.
- Robert Harold Rose, 34, of Orlando, at 7:49 p.m. Sunday on Airport Boulevard at U.S. Highway 17-92, Sanford, after his car ran a red light. He was also charged for a vehicle registration violation.

Search for fugitives on hold

SANFORD — The search for two escapees from the Orange County jail, who are also wanted in connection with a Chuluota house burglary, has been called off until Seminole County sheriff's deputies get new leads in the case, Capt. Roy Hughey said today.

Last week, sheriff's deputies spent several hours combing woods in Geneva, off Snow Hill Road, in a search for Robert LeMasters, 25, of Sanford, and Brian Smith, 22. The fugitives are considered armed and dangerous, but at this point, Hughey said deputies have no idea if the fugitives are still in the woods or not.

LONGWOOD — A complaint over a traffic citation issued by a security guard at The Springs community brought a confrontation with Seminole County sheriff's deputies, who said the complainant ordered his Rottweiler dog to attack deputies. Two deputies were bitten and two other deputies were injured in a fight with the suspect.

Deputy Tom Artingstall said he was at the guard station at 100 Spring Blvd., when Reid Paul Callahan, 24, of 200 Fairway Villas, arrived at about 1:50 a.m. Sunday. Callahan complained about the parking citation and guard John Ellis told him to complain to the community manager on Monday.

Callahan was irate and when he drove away he said, "You don't want me to come back." Artingstall said. Within about 10 minutes Callahan came walking back to the station, accompanied by his 125-pound dog.

Artingstall told him to calm down and stop yelling or he would be arrested for disorderly conduct. Callahan and his dog were blocking traffic into The Springs, Artingstall said.

When he was told he would be arrested, Callahan allegedly punched Artingstall in the eye. They began to fight and during the fight Callahan told his dog to "Get him. Get him." The dog attacked Artingstall and bit him on the wrist. Callahan and the dog fled, with Artingstall pursuing on foot. Artingstall returned to the guard station for his car and radioed for backup sheriff's deputies.

The deputies met a neighbor of Callahan's who pointed out his house and said he was the man who owned the Rottweiler. At Callahan's house, his wife first told deputies he wasn't there, but they heard the dog barking inside and entered the house, Artingstall said.

There Callahan was confronted by deputies. He allegedly fought them and his dog bit deputy Neil Fowler on the upper thigh. Artingstall said Fowler's dog bite was more serious than the one he suffered. Two other deputies were also injured in the second fight.

At 3:34 a.m. Sunday at his house Callahan was charged with two counts of aggravated battery on a policeman, five counts of aggravated assault on a policeman, escape, resisting arrest both with and without violence, and disorderly conduct.

Brown urges Democrats to reject labels

United Press International

WASHINGTON — The new chairman of the Democratic Party says its members must define themselves in a "clear, concise and consistent" manner if they hope to win back voters lost to the Republicans in the past two decades.

Ron Brown, Jesse Jackson's former campaign manager, decried Democrats who talk and act like Republicans.

"If you asked the average voter in the '40s, '50s, or '60s what a Democrat was, what a Democrat stood for, they'd be able to tell you," he said Sunday. "In recent years we have allowed our opponents, our adversaries, our enemies to define us as a party. You cannot win when your opponents set the ground rules."

"I think once we start defining ourselves in a clear, concise and consistent way that the American people understand, we're going to get back those voters," Brown said. "They are going to understand that the last thing we need in this country is two Republican parties. One is plenty enough."

Brown is a former aide to Sen. Ted Kennedy, D-Mass., and engineered Jackson's 1988 bid for the presidency.

Although he retains close ties to Jackson's liberal organization, Brown said on the NBC television program "Meet the Press" that for Democrats to succeed they must worry less about political tags and concentrate more on meeting the needs of the voters.

"I don't know that it's a question of center or left or right," Brown said. "It's a question of speaking to the basic needs, aspirations and goals of the American people. It's a question of letting the American people know who we are, what we are, who we stand with and what we stand for."

Be healthy, get married

The National Center for Health Statistics has surveyed 47,240 American households and concludes that married people seem happier and healthier than unmarried people. Inability to work because of illness or injury, for example, was reported by 15 percent of married men but 20 percent of unmarried men. Another measure found that married men and women were least likely to rate their health as only fair or poor, followed by single, divorced and widowed men and women.

The researchers theorized that the selection process in getting married may favor healthier people to begin with. They also conceded, however, that marriage may induce men and women to lead healthier and less stressful lives. Whatever the case, we are glad to see scientific confirmation of what we always suspected: family good.

Get the report

Foreign policy intrigues politicians because, unlike domestic matters, it's fun. Or it was, once, when domestic policy was a separate subject.

Latin America, for example, used to seem comfortably remote. It could be mistakenly romanticized as a region interesting chiefly because of gauchos and guerrillas, coups and dictators. But the attractions of policy abroad faded in the glare of hard problems at home: debt, deficits, drugs, environment and more. Then came the realization that those subjects are international as well. So it helps to hear from reality merchants like the Inter-American Dialogue, a collection of the hemisphere's best thinkers. Liberal, conservative, U.S. Latin American, their report is a brilliant summary of such challenges and how to address them. Consider debt. Alarms have been ringing for years at the accumulation of U.S. federal budget deficits, so heavily financed by foreign investment that no country owes more abroad than the United States. But the alarms sound in ears made tone-deaf by prosperity. Debt overburden has induced a different numbness in Latin America. It's the king that comes from six years of deep depression, astronomical inflation, rising poverty and the further ills induced by economic trauma.

A society so plagued cannot be productive. It cannot adequately educate its children or provide basic services. Quick fixes are increasingly addictive — drug use, and the sudden riches possible in illegal drug trading. Environmental protection becomes a deadly joke, as in the clearing of Brazilian rain forests for immediate profit despite the harm to the global atmosphere. Urban decay accelerates air pollution which in every major Latin American city is greater than in any U.S. city. These trends threaten to stifle many still-young Latin democracies.

This report is more than a wringing of hands. Aply titled "Census of Action," it is invaluable as a readable, bipartisan, multinational response to hemispheric crises. Get it from the Inter-American Dialogue, 1333 New Hampshire Ave. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20038.

Racism still grips American politics

WASHINGTON — In recent decades, racial tensions in domestic politics have been like a smoldering fire that has neither been extinguished nor erupted into a threatening blaze. Now, however, that situation could change dramatically.

In their ritual post-presidential selection of new party leaders, the Republicans and Democrats have chosen men whose disparate backgrounds could engender a renewal of racially motivated politics throughout the country.

"Racism always has been the 800-pound gorilla in modern American politics," notes one astute observer who requests anonymity. "It affects much of what both parties do even though it is seldom discussed in public or even in private."

The emergence of race as a pivotal factor in post-World War II politics dates back to 1947. Reacting to grass-roots protests against a number of racially inspired 1946 murders in the South, President Truman appointed a President's Committee on Civil Rights.

After 10 months of study, the commission issued a historic report, "To Secure These Rights," and Truman moved quickly and forcefully to implement its recommendations. He proposed laws to protect the right to vote, to prohibit poll taxes and to prevent lynchings.

When Congress rebuffed those initiatives, Truman acted on his own, issuing executive orders prohibiting racial discrimination in the federal government and accelerating desegregation in the armed forces.

When the Democrats' 1948 convention nominated Truman for another term and endorsed a strong civil rights plank, "Dixiecrats" bolted from the party, established their own States Rights Party and nominated South Carolina Gov. J. Strom Thurmond as their presidential candidate.

Thurmond now is a Republican and a member of the Senate — and the Republican National Committee now is chaired by a fellow South Carolinian who is one of the senator's most astute and ambitious proteges, H. Lee Atwater.

Like Thurmond and others who earlier embraced segregationist values, Atwater understands that Southern politicians can no longer ignore blacks. Indeed, in recent speeches and interviews he has stressed his commitment to recruiting blacks to the Republican Party.

But he remains a product of the Republican Party in the South, an institution that never has been biracial in this century and is not likely to become so at any time in the near future. Moreover, Atwater is an ardent practitioner of "negative politics" — the art of achieving electoral success by emphasizing or exaggerating an opponent's real or imagined liabilities.

Simultaneously assuming the chairmanship of the Democratic Party is Ronald H. Brown, a native of New York City's Harlem and the first black ever selected to lead either major party.

Although Brown is a sophisticated, successful and wealthy Washington lawyer-lobbyist, his assumption of the party chairmanship is almost certain to reinforce what one thoughtful Washington lawyer describes as "the white man's view that the Democrats (have) cast their lot with black Americans, to the ultimate disadvantage of whites."

GEORGE F. WILL

What's wrong with Ron Brown

WASHINGTON — Democrats have almost completed their quadrennial exercise of licking their wounds and looking backwards, and are feeling hopeful. Hopefulness is, as a wit said, the feeling that the feeling you have is not permanent. Democrats are ready to turn briskly to the business of losing the 1992 election, and some of them believe that the coming election of Ronald Brown as party chairman will be a big step in that direction.

There are moments, and this is one, when people who know better make themselves believe that party chairmen are hugely important in presidential politics. Brown is part of the Democrats' problem, but his principal significance is as a symptom.

Brown, who is black, was deputy manager of Ted Kennedy's 1980 insurgency against incumbent Democratic President Jimmy Carter. In 1988, from late in the primaries through the convention, Brown was the organizing force in something almost impervious to organizing force: Jesse Jackson's campaign.

Brown joined Jackson at the urging of many Democrats who thought he could modulate Jackson. Because of that urging on of Brown, the party can hardly round on him now and say that his association with Jackson disqualifies him from being party chairman. That would be "unfair," and Democrats value fairness above all other things.

Some Democrats comfort themselves with the thought that Brown is just the person to "stand up to Jackson." But a fight with Jackson — one of several fights Democrats desperately need — can hardly be waged by the party chairman. And, anyway, there is nothing about Brown, a Kennedy-Jackson liberal, that indicates he is inclined to fight.

True, Brown does want to reverse a rule change that Jackson does not want reversed. Brown wants to restore to members of the Democratic national committee their stature as convention delegates. That is not surprising: Those are the people about to elect Brown.

But Brown shows no sign of wanting to undo what he helped win on Jackson's behalf at the Atlanta convention. There, as concessions to Jackson, the party made rules changes that (to oversimplify just a bit) require almost pure proportional representation. Under such a system a candidate who wins, say, seven percent of the vote in a state primary gets seven percent of the delegates.

Pure proportional representation is a recipe for multiplying factions and prolonging competition. It is approximately the system the Israelis have. They also have a saying: "Two Israelis make three factions."

Thom Donilon is a veteran of many Democratic rules debates, which are of Talmudic complexity. He argues that whatever else good rules accomplish, they should help the party

"get to closure," expeditiously. The likelihood of winning the general election is inversely proportional to the time it takes the party to pick its candidate. Brown is not likely to lead a fight to restore such rules.

The real problem with Brown is not the way he looks to others — not his color — but the way he looks at the country. He is a lawyer-lobbyist for Washington's archetypal lawyer-lobbyist firm, the one with the Dickensian name of Patton Boggs & Blow. Its offices are on M Street. On a clear day Brown can see all the way to K Street, where other lawyer-lobbyists play.

That is a perfect neighborhood to pay in if you want to forget how to think about voters as real flesh-and-blood individuals, and to learn to think only of groups. The theory there is that everyone is a member of a group, every group has an organization and every organization has a leader who has an office on K Street. Or M Street.

A news story on Brown contains this delicious passage: "Actually, Mr. Brown is more Eastern Establishment than extremist. He has a telephone in his car..." Oh, well, then everything is fine. But who is he calling?

Of course Brown is no "extremist." What is wrong with him is what makes him perfect as Democratic Party chairman — perfectly representative, that is, of party activists. It is that he describes the party as "the last best hope in this country for dealing with issues of race, sex, religion and ethnicity."

Perhaps the party is that. It is hard to know because it is hard to know precisely what is the "issue" of sex, or what constitutes "dealing with" ethnicity. Brown's list of vital issues reads like the spring-semester seminar curriculum in a college sociology department.

Marvelously, when listing the issues that Democrats can deal with, Brown omitted the two issues that matter most to most voters: peace and prosperity. He can check that by calling a voter on his car phone. From M Street, it will be a long-distance call.

Brown is part of the Democrat's problem.

Union leadership due for a change

WASHINGTON — Organized labor has a chance to retire one of its old-school bosses when the board of the Laborers International Union of North America convenes its annual pow-wow this week.

LIUNA represents the men and women who do some of the most dangerous, tedious and grimey jobs in America, ranging from demolition and excavation to mail handling and garbage collection.

More than soft tropical breezes will be blowing through the scandal-plagued union when its general executive board meets in Bal Harbour, Fla. Reform-minded labor leaders across the country are cheering at the possibility of a palace coup that would displace LIUNA's tainted leader, Angelo Fosco, and his unpopular lieutenant, Robert Connerton.

Like the aging potentate of a banana republic, LIUNA president Fosco has clung to power too long. Fosco's loathed general counsel, Connerton, has enriched himself over the years serving as the LIUNA's lawyer. Sources close to Fosco consider Connerton to be the power behind the throne — or what some in the union cynically call the tail that wags the dog.

The inside story is that while Fosco is willing to abdicate, Connerton would find himself out in the cold if his old protector retires. The FBI has been investigating possible Mafia control of LIUNA for 11 years, according to FBI Director William Sessions. In 1986, the President's Commission on Organized Crime spelled out some of LIUNA's seedy exploits. Fosco was indicted in 1981 in a case involving alleged benefit plan swindles. He was later acquitted. Arthur E. Cole, LIUNA's secretary-treasurer, has been indicted and acquitted of racketeering charges involving union benefit funds.

The president's commission reported, "Although LIUNA has not achieved the notoriety of the Teamsters union, it is nevertheless a union with clear ties to organized crime." We reported last year that one Mail Handlers Union local in New York City, a division of LIUNA, had begged Sessions to put the local in a federal trusteeship to keep it out of the clutches of organized crime.

Labor leaders are increasingly embarrassed over the way Fosco has run LIUNA as if it were a family business. He inherited the job from his father, and now would like to pass it on to one of his two sons.

Connerton has spent more than three decades in Washington, D.C., as a labor mover and shaker and as chief lobbyist for the union. He is credited with blunting the impact of anti-racketeering laws and enforcement.

"Connerton needs Fosco to stay," one labor source told us. "He's privately urging Fosco not to do what he has said he wanted to do (retire)." Another union source criticized Connerton as "someone who has never been elected to anything," yet finds ways to "run the union through his law firm."

Connerton raised some eyebrows when he became a millionaire courtesy of LIUNA, creating what some detractors call a "one-client law firm." He represented mail handlers in a claim against the U.S. Postal Service for back pay and overtime. In that case, he convinced 80,000 postal workers to sign consent forms allowing Connerton to represent them in a private capacity, independent of LIUNA. Then Connerton negotiated a settlement with the Postal Service and took $1 million as his cut — for representing union members who were already paying his salary with their dues.

Sources close to Fosco consider Connerton the power behind the throne.

Stocks open lower

United Press International

NEW YORK — Prices opened lower Monday in moderate trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which fell 36.97 Friday, was off 4.46 points to 2281.61 shortly after the market opened.

Declines led advances 850-306 among the 1,410 issues crossing the NYSE tape. Early turnover amounted to about 15,100,000 shares.

The market suffered a broad retreat last week, pulling the Dow down from a new recovery high to below 2300 amid signs that U.S. interest rates would move even higher to dampen inflationary pressures.

The Dow Jones Industrial average closed the week down 45.18 points, or 1.9 percent.

Stocks tumbled Friday after the Labor Department reported that January producer prices jumped 1 percent, the largest monthly increase since April 1981, and far above market forecasts of around 0.5 percent.

The data heightened concerns that the pace of inflation would force the Federal Reserve to further tighten monetary policy and credit conditions.

Dollar opens higher

United Press International

The dollar was higher against key foreign currencies Monday in trading on major world money markets. The price of gold edged lower.

In Tokyo, the dollar rallied against the yen, closing at 128.30 yen, up 0.65 yen from Friday's close.

Dealers said a hike of the prime lending rate by major U.S. banks Friday pushed the U.S. currency higher.

Most predicted that market players will refrain from taking large positions before the scheduled release of U.S. merchandise trade data for December next Friday.

In Europe, the dollar began the day in Frankfurt at 1.8705 West German marks, up from 1.8620 West German marks on Friday.

The dollar started the day in Zurich at 1.5905 Swiss francs, up from 1.5780. In Paris, the dollar opened at 6.3615 French francs, up from 6.2795 French francs at Friday's close.

The dollar opened in Brussels at 39.375 Belgian francs, up from 39.10 Belgian francs, and began the day in Italy at 1.362.875 Italian lire, up from 1.343.45 Italian lire.

In London, the British pound started the day at $1.7495 compared with $1.75375 on Friday.

Merc considers limits

United Press International

CHICAGO — The Chicago Mercantile Exchange, in the wake of a federal probe of alleged commodities trading fraud on city exchanges, was considering limiting the controversial practice of dual trading, it was reported Monday.

Dual trading, in which an exchange trader handles customer orders and trades for his own account, already is forbidden among brokers who occupy the top step of the CME's huge Standard & Poor's 500 stock index futures pit.

Market sources said they would not be surprised if a Merc panel, appointed to review trading practices following disclosure of the FBI investigation, proposed further modifications of dual trading, the Chicago Sun-Times reported. The panel's recommendations were not expected for several weeks.

White House reaffirms support for Tower

United Press International

WASHINGTON — President Bush's chief of staff says Defense Secretary-designate John Tower retains the complete backing of the White House, and predicts that the nominee will be vindicated when Senate confirmation hearings end.

Since Tower's name was forwarded to run the Defense Department, allegations of both professional and personal misconduct have swarmed around him.

Nevertheless, White House chief of staff John Sununu reaffirmed Bush's support of Tower Sunday.

"The Senate has to work its course," Sununu said. "We understand that. That's the right thing to do. But the president is convinced that ... those allegations will be proven to not have any basis and, when they do vote, John Tower will be confirmed."

Action on the Tower nomination by the Senate Armed Services Committee was postponed again last week after the emergence of yet another allegation about his past, said to focus on his receipt of campaign contributions during his tenure in the Senate, which ended in 1985.

Committee Chairman Sam Nunn, D-Ga., took the action with support from the White House after a private meeting with Bush in which the senator said he would not be able to support the Tower nomination unless assured that allegations of drinking problems, womanizing and other problems were found to be baseless.

"Every single allegation that is of significance that has been checked has produced a dry hole," Sununu told the ABC News program "This Week with David Brinkley."

At the same time, Sununu took deliberate steps not to offend Nunn, who informed Bush of his anger last week at not being included when Sen. John Warner, R-Va., the senior Republican on his committee, received an interim report on the FBI probe of Tower.

Refusing to ascribe partisan motives to the criticism that Nunn leveled last week at Tower and the handling of his nomination by the White House, Sununu said the influential Armed Services Committee chairman has "a sincere set of concerns."

Sununu sought to put to rest the "little controversy" over the Warner briefing by adding that Nunn and other members of the committee would have the right to request similar updates.

The Tower nomination was one of several ethical problems that have emerged to confront a president who has made higher standards of behavior for government officials a hallmark of his new administration.

White House officials were confident that they had resolved questions about the financial affairs of Louis Sullivan, who was nominated to head the Department of Health and Human Services, when the man called upon to provide legal advice in that case and others — White House counsel C. Boyden Gray — came under scrutiny himself for serving for eight years as a paid executive of a family-owned corporation while working for Bush in the Office of the Vice President.

Gray resigned the corporate position last week, saying he was no longer accepting compensation from the firm. He initially said he was unaware of informal rules during at least part of that eight-year period that barred such outside business interests by White House officials. As an aide to the vice president, Gray was not directly subject to those rules.

Although the disclosure of Gray's outside interests caused a certain amount of embarrassment to a White House, Sununu emphasized that arrangement for review and approval every year by the Office of Government Ethics.

"I think that if someone goes to the Office of Government Ethics and gets that cleared and gets a determination from them (of) what is proper, that ought to be accepted as a definition of what can and should be done," he said.

several active supporters in Sanford. "We have some people in Sanford," he said. "We hope to have enough to build a unit or klavern in Sanford. That is, of course, our goal."

Klan policy preserves secrecy of its membership, he said. Ten or 12 members are assigned to participate in weekend literature drives like the one held here yesterday, Baumgardner said, while other members remain anonymous.

The third visible Klan representative in Sanford yesterday also would not identify himself.

The last organized Klan activity in Sanford was July 4 at the Seminole County courthouse.

Mayor Bettye Smith said in an interview last night that, while the Klan's appearance in Sanford disturbed her, she believes the group doesn't represent Sanford citizens.

"They're outsiders. I would hope that the good people of Sanford would just ignore them," Smith said. "A lot of people have died for their freedom to do just that. But they're not speaking for the people of Sanford, and that's what disturbs me."

Sanford Police Chief Steve Harriet said the group notified him that they would be handing out newsletters. The only restriction on such activity prohibits blocking the flow of traffic, he said.

 interest) that may have existed," he said.

Jennifer Kelley said this morning that the issue is "dead" and that it will not have to come back to the commission. "It's finished. It has nothing to do with me," she said.

She also said, "I'm sure there's not any love between Mr. Hooper and my husband. (But) as far as me asking Hooper to resign, I don't have intentions of approaching the commission," she said.

Eoghan, her husband, said this morning that he thought Hooper uses his position as a county administrator to intimidate members of the county commission.

"We have a case over here of staff trying to run the county. It would be a blessing to Seminole County to have him removed. I intend to work hard and continue to work hard until we have better administration. He's (Hooper) not worth the $90,000 he gets paid. We did a good job. We gave them a competitive price. I didn't solicit this. What's amazing to me, is you do a good job with all cards face up and people try to hurt you. It's very disgusting," he said.

Eoghan Kelley was told in November by county officials that the computer sale might present a conflict of interest for his wife. In response to this advice, Kelley withdrew his bid and resubmitted it through a friend, Sid Vilhen Jr.

The computer, which was installed in the county probation department in December, was about $400 less than the $2,678 bid originally submitted by Kelley.

An architect and broker, Kelley sells computers as a side business. He has sold several other computers to the county judges and probation office before his wife was elected to the commission.

Comatose woman undergoes abortion

MANHASSET, N.Y. — A comatose woman Saturday underwent an abortion that doctors and her husband said could save her life, ending a battle with anti-abortion activists that reached the Supreme Court.

A spokeswoman for North Shore University Hospital, outside New York City, said the operation on the Long Island woman was completed shortly after 9 a.m. and it went without complications.

"She is doing fine," hospital spokeswoman Carol Hauptman said.

Martin Klein, 34, who had been granted temporary guardianship of his 32-year-old wife by a state Supreme Court justice, enabling him to order the abortion, said his wife was "resting comfortably" following the hour-long procedure.

He and the family's doctors had maintained the abortion would significantly increase Mrs. Klein's chances for survival.

Doctors began administering dilation drugs to Nancy Klein about 6 p.m. Friday, beginning a 12-hour preparation for the abortion shortly before Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall refused to block the procedure.

Supreme Court Justice Antonin Scalia, with whom the case was finally appealed, did not act on the matter.

"I've never thought of this as an abortion or anti-abortion issue," Klein said after the abortion was performed. "It was a question as to who would make a decision for a wife who couldn't make a decision for herself."

The decision was made by "a husband and family in unity who know her and love her," Klein said. The Upper Brookville, N.Y., couple has a 3-year-old daughter.

"It has been a satisfaction that we did win the battle, and no one else should ever have to go through what we've gone through," he said.

California gets rash of small quakes

SAN FRANCISCO — At least five small earthquakes were felt in some San Francisco Bay area locations Sunday, seismologists at the University of California reported.

The largest of the quakes was recorded at 10:41 p.m. PST and registered 2.9 on the seismograph at the University of California at Berkeley and 3.2 at the National Earthquake Information Center in Colorado.

It was centered near San Leandro and was felt throughout much of the East Bay area, but caused no damage or injuries. Some residents of Marin, San Francisco and San Mateo also said they felt the tremor.

Earlier quakes struck shortly before noon and at 10 p.m. PST and also registered less than 3 on the Richter scale, according to UC officials. Earthquakes of those magnitudes rarely cause any damage.

The earlier quakes were centered in the Pacific Ocean about 5 miles west of the Golden Gate Bridge, on or near the San Andreas Fault.

Two Injured In Jail disturbance

LAWRENCE, Mass. — Inmates at the Essex County Jail, angered in part by overcrowding, set fires and attacked guards with homemade weapons Sunday night, slightly injuring two officers, before being returned to their cells, authorities said.

It was the second outbreak of prison violence in the state in a week and the second in six months at the 147-year-old Lawrence Jail where inmates went on a rampage last August, setting fires that heavily damaged the facility.

About 189 of the facility's 220 inmates were involved in Sunday night's melee, which began about 7:50 p.m. when officers tried to remove an unruly inmate from his cell, said William Mageary, the facility's deputy superintendent.

Inmates set fire to a second mattress and a window sill, attacked officers with homemade weapons and ripped up floorboards before they were returned to their cells between 8:30 and 8:40 p.m., Mageary said. Firefighters quickly doused the blazes, he said.

Police look for teenage gunman

NEW YORK — Police Monday searched for the armed teenager who strafed a crowded subway platform with gunfire, wounding six people in a dispute that began at a fight-ridden "Sweet Sixteen" party in a nearby Bronx housing project.

The gunman fled the Bronx subway station after the 1:10 a.m. shooting Sunday, leaving behind a critically wounded 19-year-old man and five other victims, including two teenage girls, who suffered lesser wounds, said Transit Police Chief Charles Mills.

The shooting apparently stemmed from an argument earlier at a "Sweet Sixteen" party where youths had been seen showing off weapons, Mills said.

Several fights erupted among some 200 partygoers, a few of whom were uninvited, when the party got too crowded and some people were asked to leave, he said.

From United Press International reports

Proposal may allow North trial

United Press International

WASHINGTON — The Iran-Contra prosecutor and the administration joined forces on a proposal that could end their fight over the handling of classified material in Oliver North's trial, scheduled to start Monday.

Independent prosecutor Lawrence Walsh, with the Justice Department's agreement, filed the sealed motion Sunday with U.S. District Judge Gerhard Gesell; just hours later, Chief Justice William Rehnquist ordered a delay of North's trial at the request of the administration.

A nine-woman, three-man jury was to appear in Gesell's courtroom Monday, and as a result of the weekend legal activities, Gesell may have to tell the jurors and six alternates they could wait at least several more days to consider the 12 felony counts against the ex-White House aide.

Gesell also will likely have to act on the sealed motion Monday morning. If he rejects it, the Supreme Court stay remains effective to Friday. If he agrees, the Justice Department promised to ask Rehnquist to lift the stay so that North's trial can begin.

Apparently healing — at least for now — a rift over the handling of North's trial, Walsh and the administration went back to Gesell with a joint request to reconsider his guidelines for the release of classified information at North's trial.

Last Soviet troops ready to leave Kabul

United Press International

KABUL, Afghanistan — The last Soviet paratroopers based at Kabul airport prepared Monday to leave the Afghan capital, ending Moscow's military presence in the city it invaded more than nine years ago, Soviet sources said.

A Soviet Embassy official said about 300 paratroopers based at the airport would depart Monday afternoon aboard Soviet transport planes.

"They will board the planes and there will be no formal handover ceremony," the official said. "After that, the airport will be completely in the hands of the Afghan military."

The official denied reports that the post had been turned over to Afghan government forces Sunday, and said the paratroopers would be on guard until they boarded the aircraft for the hour-long flight northward to Soviet territory.

Soviet columns were also reported to be crossing the frontier by land routes from western Herat Province and eastern Balkh Province, ending Moscow's military presence in Afghanistan more than nine years after it invaded to bolster a communist government reeling from internal feuds and a nationwide rebellion by Moslem tribesmen.

Injuries keep haunting Penguins

The Calgary Flames showed the Pittsburgh Penguins where they need to get to make a serious challenge for the Stanley Cup — healthy.

Doug Gilmour scored twice and Calgary outshot the Penguins 50-17 Sunday night as the Flames took a 4-2 victory in a game that cost Pittsburgh its second-leading scorer and another defenseman.

All-Star forward Rob Brown, second on the Penguins to Mario Lemieux with 98 points, could miss the next six weeks with a separated shoulder. Defenseman Randy Hillier also suffered a broken rib.

In other NHL games Sunday, Los Angeles ripped Chicago 6-2, Buffalo topped St. Louis 5-2 and Vancouver edged Philadelphia 3-2.

AUTO RACING

Schrader just getting started

DAYTONA BEACH — Ken Schrader was happy to win Sunday's Busch Clash, but the Fenton, Mo., driver has his eyes on a bigger prize.

Schrader, who won the pole for next Sunday's Daytona 500 Saturday, held off Davey Allison to win the Busch Clash at Daytona International Speedway and cap a perfect weekend for the Folgers Chevrolet driver, who also was the pole winner for last year's 500. He led the final 12 of the 20-lap race for 1988 pole winners on the 2.5-mile Daytona tri-oval.

Schrader, who won $75,000, finished two car lengths of Allison, driving a Ford, followed by Terry Labonte, Geoff Bodine, and Rick Wilson.

"I hope we win the (Daytona 500). We came here to run 271 fast laps," Schrader said, combining the total number of laps in qualifying, the Busch Clash, twin qualifying races and the Daytona 500.

"We still got 250 of them to go, but we feel pretty good. This part is nice, but there were no points today. The $75,000 is nice, but it's not near what the guy who wins this thing (the 500) is going to get."

BASKETBALL

Stockton helps Malone deliver

HOUSTON — Thrust into a starting role with a new team, Utah point guard John Stockton kept looking to the most recognizable face.

Stockton collected 17 assists Sunday, many of them to Jazz teammate Karl Malone, to direct the West to a 143-134 victory over the East in the NBA All-Star Game.

"I'd like to split the trophy right down the middle with the little guy," Malone, who scored 28 points and won the MVP award, said of Stockton. "He makes both of us look good."

"It was unbelievable. I can't even imagine this happening. It's been a tremendous weekend for me. It's really emotional."

Stockton, starting in place of the injured Magic Johnson, added 11 points and 5 steals, and was instrumental in helping the West run an effective fastbreak that led to a commanding 87-59 lead at halftime.

Davis: I deserve R-E-S-P-E-C-T

CINCINNATI — Star outfielder Eric Davis, facing arbitration this week with the Cincinnati Reds, says he wants to be traded because management is not treating him with "respect."

Reds General Manager Murray Cook says he dismisses the request as a negotiating ploy.

Davis, who has led the Reds in home runs, RBI and stolen bases the past two seasons, will have this year's salary set by an arbitrator Thursday unless he and the Reds settle.

Davis is seeking $1.65 million and the Reds have offered $1.15 million. Usually, the Reds and their players settle before arbitration, but Davis says there's not much negotiating taking place.

"They are putting things on the table and saying, 'Take it or leave it,'" Davis said. "For someone to do what I have done and be treated like that, it's not right."

Ram wrestlers rock on

Lake Mary sending 14 to regions

By CHUCK BURGESS
 Herald correspondent

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — To Lake Mary High's wrestling program, winning isn't everything, it's the only thing.

This past weekend the Rams showed that this philosophy holds true by qualifying all 14 of their wrestlers for next weekend's Class 4A Region 1 tournament and racking up a district record 239.5 points en route to their sixth consecutive Class 4A District 4 wrestling championship at Lake Brantley High.

The Patriots of Lake Brantley were second with 127 points, followed by Lake Howell (90.5), Mainland (87), DeLand (78.5), Spruce Creek (68), and Lyman (66). The top four finishers in each weight class move on to next weekend's region championships at Lake Mary High.

When all was said and done, the Rams had seven district champions and four runners-up to their credit. The Silver Hawks of Lake Howell had the second most district champions with two, and Lake Brantley had one champion and three runners-up.

112 pounder Aaron Jordan got things in high gear for the Rams with a pin over Lake Brantley's Tom Gill in 3:06 and teammate Robert Donlero followed at 1:19 with a pin

There wasn't much for Spruce Creek's Isaac Fuller (bottom) to do except grit his teeth and take his beating from Lake Mary's Shane Stanley. The match, in the finals of the 145-pound weight class in Saturday's 4A-District 4 tournament at Lake Brantley, went the distance as Stanley notched a 15-5 decision.

over DeLand's Donnie Brown in 4:25.

The Rams David Petrone took Spruce Creek's Tony Orleck to school with a 15-1 pounding at the 130-pound division and Jose Carbia squeaked by Lake Howell's Sean Kobla with a 13-11 decision at 140.

Shane Stanley kept Lake Mary's winning streak going with a 15-5 decision over Spruce Creek's Isaac Fuller and 152-pound Carl Bergman posted a narrow 5-3 win over Lyman's Mark Decker.

Undeclared 171 pounder Justin Naumovitz kept his 28-0 record unblemished with a pin of Lyman's Tom Caligiuri in 3:16 to end the Ram's scoring.

For the Silver Hawks, John White remained impressive with a 10-2 drubbing of Lake Brantley's Mike Grimaldi at 103 pounds and at 189 Ken Times pulled off a surprise upset of Lake Mary's Ori Kantor with a 14-9 victory.

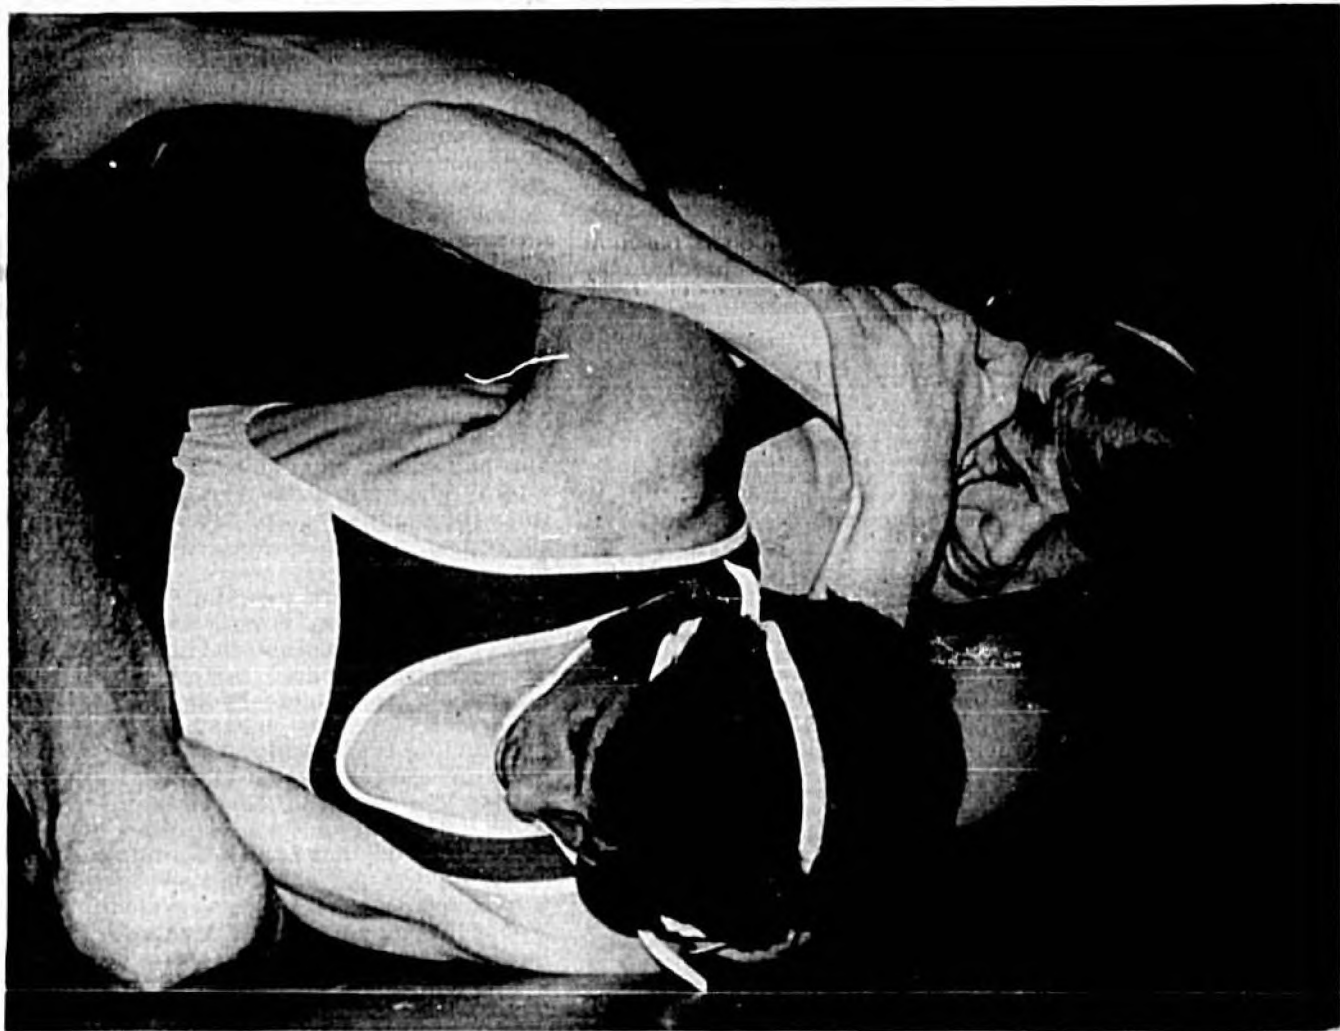

The only other victory for a county team came from the Patriots' Scott Meredith in the 125 division as he burned Mainland's Brian Elliot with a pin in a blazing 1:05.

In the Class 3A District 6 wrestling championships at Gateway, the Bishop Moore Hornets walked away with their fifth district title in a row and ended the evening with six district champions. The Hornets easily outdistanced runner-up Seminole High School, 185-126, with Osceola (124), Oviedo (113), Leesburg (91.5), Jones (72), Gateway (60), St. Cloud (52), Edgewater (30.5), and Wymore Tech (7) rounding out the scores.

The only highlights for Seminole County came from the Oviedo's Lion duo of Ken Schrupp and Kyle Larum. Schrupp, wrestling at 125, took a technical fall count for his victory and Larum escaped with a narrow 9-8 victory to seal his district title.

As far as putting people in the region meet next weekend at Gateway, the wrecking crew of Seminole High placed 10 matmen, followed

It didn't take Lake Mary's Aaron Jordan (back) to polish off Tom Gill of Lake Brantley (front), pinning him at 3:06 in the 112-pound finals of the 4A-District 4 tournament.

Lake Mary, which had seven district champions on Saturday, qualified all 14 of its wrestlers for the regional meet this weekend.

Strong finish puts Brantley on top

From staff reports

CASSELBERRY — Despite capturing first in just three events, the Lake Brantley Lady Patriot track team took the top team spot in Friday's Lake Howell Open.

The Lady Patriots, led by Joyce Tullis' win in the two-mile run, came from behind to finish first with 79 points, ahead of the Seminole High School's Fighting Lady Seminoles (73½ points) and the Lady Rams of Lake Mary (66½).

"We led the meet with 61 points going into the 880 run with three events to go," said Lake Mary coach Mike Gibson. "Then Lake Brantley won the two mile and Seminole scored in the 220. Then both of them beat us in the mile relay."

Lake Brantley's only other first places came from its two-mile relay team and Amy Jinnette, who won the mile run in 5:47.5. Jinnette's win had a major impact on the team standings as she caught and beat Lake Mary's Meisha Abbasinejad, who finished second in 5:48.7.

The Lady Rams were first place winners in two events, Jennifer Caputo jumping 5-0 to win the high jump and Allison Snell winning the 1,320 run in 3:54.0. Snell's margin of victory was just .2 of a second, edging Carla Severs of Astronaut. She returned the favor, beating Snell in the 660 run.

Other Lake Mary individuals who placed (the meet was scored to eight places) were Amy Kuvach (third in the shot put), Vivian Jones (seventh in the shot put), Tammy Northam (third in the high jump) and Tabitha Newsome (fifth in the 330 low hurdles).

In the relays, the quartet of Abbasinejad, Rebekah Boothe, Meredith Oliver and Helen Gutmann finished fifth in the two-mile while Abbasinejad, Newsome, Boothe and Snell combined to finish tied for fourth (with Winter Park) in the mile.

"It's still young in the season," said Gibson. "Last year's state champion, Orlando Oak Ridge, finished ninth in this meet."

"There are still a lot of basketball and soccer people out. Seminole's team gets its strength from its basketball team. And they probably won't be out for a while."

One team that won't get any assistance from other sports at its school is Lake Howell. According to Coach Tom Hammonree, what he has is pretty much all he's going to get.

"We're young. We have a lot of girls, but they're young," said Hammonree, who had the dual duty of meet director on Friday.

Freshman Monica Compton was the only first place finisher for the host Lady Silver Hawks, winning the 880 run in 2:35.

Other scores for Lake Howell were Laura Grant (eighth in the 110 hurdles), Sheryl Palumbo (sixth in the mile run), Jessica Cardarelli (sixth in the 330 low hurdles and seventh in the triple jump), Holly Marshall (fourth in the 880 run), Kristen Stuart (eighth in the 880 run), Micki Palumbo (second in the two mile), Kelly Kobla (seventh in the discus).

Compton, Sheryl Palumbo, Cardarelli and Stacy Johnson also finished second in the two-mile relay for Lake Howell.

"For being as young as we are, we did well," said Hammonree. "We're just trying to improve, that's all we can do. By the end of the season, hopefully we will have jelled."

Tribe seventh in Wildcat

Junior Lewis Butler of Seminole High School set a meet record while winning the triple jump in the Winter Park Wildcat Open at Schowalter Field on Saturday.

Butler's attempt of 48-8 is just two inches short of the mark he set in winning the state

Spring veggies won't spring until you till

Spring vegetable gardening is only a few weeks away, and now is the time to prepare for yours.

The most physical chore in garden preparation is the tilling of the soil. This may be done with a rototiller if your area is large, or a shovel and hoe if your area is small. The idea is to break up large clods, and remove debris so your garden soil will have a good texture.

It is important to turn the garden area over a period of several weeks before you plant. Weeds, cover crops or additions like manure need a few weeks to decompose. Organic amendments like animal manures or green compost actually decompose at such high temperatures that they may be harmful to the garden. So don't skip this important step in garden preparation—allow the three weeks for the organics to break down.

If you are using compost that you have made, or manure in the bag at the garden center, these materials have already composted enough to make them unharmed, so that you can plant as soon as your soil tilled.

Soil testing is an important step since it will determine your need to add lime. We test soil at the Agricultural Extension Center on Monday and Thursday in the morning, although soil may be dropped off anytime Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. The center can test for pH, which determines acidity or alkalinity, and for soluble salts, which determines the amount of fertilizer available. Each test costs $1.50. The

GARDENING

CELESTE WHITE

Agricultural Center is located across from Flea World off U.S. Highway 17-92, south of Sanford.

Most vegetables grow best in a pH range of 5.5-6.5. According to the recommendations for amendments from the soil test results, you may need to add lime to raise the pH or sulfur to lower the pH.

Both these amendments also need to be added during the preparation of your garden to allow several weeks for their reaction. Most of us from the North are used to adding lime to the soil, but most Florida soils aren't in need of lime.

Nematodes are soil-borne parasites that harm the plant by invading the roots and thus reducing the vigor of the plant. Nematode control is also a procedure that must be done prior to planting your garden. A soil fumigant called Vapam is used to kill nematodes, soil-borne insect diseases and certain weed seeds. For more information about fumigating the garden, give me a call and ask for NPPP 12. "Fumigating the Home Garden."

Home holds country utopia

SANFORD — George and Jean Pittard's home at 620 Riverview Road seems ordinary enough from the street.

But going beyond those unobtrusive masonry walls, like stepping through the magical looking glass, you find yourself in another time and place.

The Pittards have decorated their modest home with handmade objects, some more than 100 years old. Each has some sentimental significance.

The house, built in 1953, has evolved slowly, but in the 19 years since George's retirement from Florida Power and Light, the hand-crafted furniture has multiplied. There is lots of wood, and there are quilts and teddy bears situated throughout the house.

"We've just always lived like this," Jean said. "We decorated our home in this style before anyone ever heard of 'Country Living' magazine."

Like the song says, they were country when country wasn't cool.

Jean, a native of Sanford, said that their simple lifestyle was born out of necessity. The Ponderosa Pine ceilings, b. utiful and stylish today, were merely the most inexpensive alternative available at the time.

Jean is a cheerful, petite woman who says she sometimes loses sight of the beauty around her.

"I guess that's true in life, too," she said. "You just get used to seeing something and you almost take it for granted."

George, the quieter half of the couple, takes a break from his workshop in the backyard barn that he and their daughter, Betty Deppen, built. The two settle down for a lunch of freshly baked cornbread and collard greens from the garden.

George and Betty work sunup to sundown creating original pieces of wooden furniture. Jean calls her husband a perfectionist.

"Everything he's ever made has to be just so or it doesn't leave the workshop," she said.

On a tour of her home, Jean stops in a room at the rear of the house. The back wall is glass overlooking the two-acre backyard. One wall is dominated by a Franklin stove, circled by cast iron skillets, including a century-old pan that belonged to George's mother.

Brik-a-brak, including an unoccupied hornets' nest, line another. Folded quilts lie lazily across comfortable chairs. Magazines wait for the return of a reader.

"We live in this room," Jean confided.

She said they like the openness of the room, the way the windows let them bring the outside in.

"We all love the outdoors," she said, telling of hiking trips and summers at their cabin in the mountains near Clayton, Ga.

Throughout the house, in ribbon-decorated Mason jars and baskets made by daughter, Betty, there are dried wild flowers and seeds. A honeycomb sits in its own container.

"If you offered me $500 for that," she said, pointing at the comb, "I wouldn't take it. I just have it because I like to surround myself with things that I love to look at."

On a footstool in the bedroom, the weathered boots George wore the day he retired from FPL sit, with a beige sock peeking over the laces. Jean says she puts a red sock in for Christmas.

In another room, a red flannel bathrobe that George no longer wears hangs from a hook. A teddy bear wears the baby gown and bonnet that Jean's father wore as an infant.

"Everything in this house has a special significance to me. It is full of memories," Jean said. "Some people say that I am too sentimental, but I like to have the memories of special people and special times around me."

She said she keeps nothing in her closets. Everything is out where she can enjoy it.

One of the newest additions to her collection is a stained glass piece, crafted recently by George. Jean proudly pointed it out, saying that it was his first attempt at the art.

Outside, the Pittard's pack of five Doberman pinschers, bark at something in the backyard, then quiet quickly. Going out to check on them, Jean points to her 400-square-foot vegetable garden.

"It's just big enough to give us what we need," she said proudly. "We eat everything we grow out there."

Though she grows fresh vegetables in the yard, she does little preserving here. She prefers, instead, to can fruits and vegetables at the Georgia cabin. There, she can build a fire and work outdoors without worrying about excessive heat and insects.

In what was once the garage of the Pittard home, Jean now has a small store—Country Crafts—where she sells some of the items that George and Betty make. All advertising is done by word of mouth. Jean said they get enough business to keep the enterprise going, though she jokingly admitted that an accountant advised her it would be a wiser business decision to close down.

Money, however, is not her motivation. She just likes to have an outlet for the crafts.

"The Lord has been good to us," Jean said, sitting on a backyard swing. "We have lived conservatively. There is no way we would spend money foolishly. But we have everything we could want right here."

The Pittard's house, a living history of their families, is a testament to the beauty of preserving the past and integrating it into present life. And it proves that stylish is nothing more than surrounding yourself with things you love.

Be a sweetheart in all you do

DEAR READERS: Don't tell me tomorrow is St. Valentine's Day already—we just finished with Christmas! Well, it is, so be a sweetheart and call someone you love and say, "I love you." Make two or three calls. Who said you can't love more than one person?—In different way, of course.

Go through your closets and part with those clothes you've been saving until you lose 10 pounds. Your favorite charity can turn those good-as-new garments into cash.

Call someone who's lonely and say, "I'm thinking of you." Or better yet, say, "I'll be over tomorrow to take you to lunch, run some errands or give you a ride."

Arrange a date for someone who doesn't get many.

Take an oath never to drive if you've been drinking—and don't let anyone who's been drinking drive.

Forgive an enemy, quit smoking, count your calories, return that book (and everything else) you've borrowed, update your will, donate your eyes, your kidneys and all usable organs to someone who can use them after you're gone. Spay your dog, neuter your cat, pay your dentist, hug your teen-ager, listen to a bore and stop littering.

Always drive carefully, and if you're walking, thank God you're able to, and watch where you're going. And don't wait until next St. Valentine's Day to be a sweetheart again.

DEAR ABBY: Recently my 3-year-old grandson got into my daughter's vitamins. We called

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR GRATEFUL GRANDMA: Thank you for the warning, Marc Bayer, M.D., medical director of the Los Angeles Poison Center, says, "Everybody should be aware that all over-the-counter drugs—particularly vitamins containing iron—are potentially dangerous to children."

Also, let me add that children should never be told that they are being given "candy" when taking medicine. All medications (and vitamins fall into this category) should be kept locked away, out of the reach of children.

the poison control center as soon as we discovered it and rushed him to the hospital. Fortunately, he survived. The doctor in the emergency room said that five iron pills can be fatal to a 3-year-old! He also told us that some children who have taken iron pills feel just fine for a week or so—and then all of a sudden they die!

Abby, I was shocked to learn that iron pills are so dangerous. Please print this. It might help a mother who debates if she should or shouldn't take her child to the hospital.

GRATEFUL GRANDMA

Woman says doctor ignores her pains

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm 34. About four years ago I started getting severe symptoms four to six hours after I start menstruating. I get violently ill, have uncontrollable muscle spasms, severe cramps and almost pass out. It lasts three hours or so. My doctor shrugs it off but I'm worried it might happen in public or while driving a car. What can you suggest?

DEAR READER: I do not know the cause of your symptoms. Menstrual cramps, particularly on the first day of bleeding, can be severe but they do not usually lead to faintness and muscle spasms. I suggest that you review your symptoms (and their unusual timing) with a gynecologist. If you haven't done so already — or request referral for a second opinion.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have constant stomach pain and loose bowels. Our doctor tells me to take Librax. Another doctor told me I had ovarian cysts. A neurologist can't figure out why I keep blacking out and have double vision. My blood sugar tested very low. Am I a medical mess or are these problems related?

DEAR READER: Yours is a complicated story and I won't presume to second guess your doctors.

However, one possibility occurs to me: You may have an inflammation of your pancreas. This could cause abdominal pain and, because of a deficiency of digestive enzymes, diarrhea. Insulin is manufactured in the pancreas, so an inappropriately high quantity could produce low blood sugar. If your diarrhea is causing excessive loss of fluids from your body, this dehydration could be lowering your blood pressure, causing your fainting and double vision.

I do not believe your ovarian cysts, a common cause of cyclic

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
Poor Willy Nilly! Last summer his partners were berating him for not knowing much about percentages, so he started to study that subject. Although he lost interest rapidly, he did learn that a five-card residue will divide 3-2 about 68 percent of the time, a useful statistic if applied properly. We come now to today's deal, with Willy opening one no-trump and his partner raising him to three.

Willy covered the club 10 with dummy's queen and won his ace when East played the king. He led a diamond to dummy's king and East's ace, and East played back a club. Willy ducked. West won and switched to a spade, covered by the jack, queen and Willy's ace. Now Willy played another diamond and went right up with dummy's jack, remembering the percentage for 3-2 splits. But East showed out.

Declarer eventually worked out an endplay in the major suits to get out for down one, but should he not have done better? In fact, percentages go out the window when a defender with his head on his shoulders takes the first diamond. There's no way any defender would not hold up the ace of diamonds to break the communication for declarer if that defender held more than one diamond. So the chance that East's original holding was the singleton ace changed to 98 percent. Why only 98 percent? This was a friendly game, and there's always a 2 percent chance in a friendly game that a player will pull a wrong card. Willy should put in the eight or nine of diamonds on the second play of the suit and make his contract.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
February 14, 1989

Some important changes could be in the offing for you in the year ahead that you will not personally orchestrate. However, they could work out better than those you will plan yourself.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If it gives you enjoyment to whip the house into shape today, that's nifty, but don't get down on your family if they fail to share your enthusiasm. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Try to get in touch with people today with whom you've been wanting to communicate, but be very careful you don't spill the beans about something that isn't meant for their ears.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) In your eagerness to gratify your self-interests today, you could make yourself vulnerable and instead of taking care of No. 1, you might be the one who is taken.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Establish your own pace today and work toward what you believe to be worthy objectives. Your goals might not please associates, so don't be dismayed if they are not in complete accord.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Although you may want to spend time on activities today that are free from outside influences, this might be extremely difficult because of your involvements with others.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) When socializing with friends today go along with the wishes of the majority. If you try to impose your will on them, they may be determined to do just the opposite.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) In order to achieve your goals today, your tactics may leave a lot to be desired. Should you err in some manner, don't try to blame someone else.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It's best to avoid an acquaintance of yours today who always seems to disagree with any position you take. Neither of you is apt to have tolerance for the other.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be on guard today so that you are not drawn into a development where you could end up having to make good on another's obligation. Turn a deaf ear to smooth, suspicious sales pitches.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your mate might have a chip on the shoulder today and intentionally bring up issues to provoke you. Instead of responding in anger, tactfully change the subject.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It's likely that your physical energies will be at a high point today, and this is well and good, provided you don't push yourself to the point of exhaustion. Known when to call it quits.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Being involved with the wrong type of people could make you feel very uncomfortable today. Make arrangements to share your time with intimate friends with whom you feel at ease.
