Cities' Revenue Base Shrinking, Poll Shows

From Staff and Wire Reports

Sanford won't be hit as hard as some, but one-third of the nation's cities and towns expect to see their main sources of revenue shrink this year, according to a survey issued today by the National League of Cities.

One-fifth of the same 545 cities and towns surveyed said they plan to reduce their total expenditures this year, and 62 percent of them will have to dip into surpluses built up in the past. The cutbacks and use of surplus funds are related to the government's ending of General Federal Revenue Sharing Funds in fiscal 1988 and elimination of automatic tax exemptions on municipal bonds.

The impact should be less than elsewhere in Sanford because Sanford officials have been anticipating the funding drops, according to Kim Smith, Sanford's director of administrative services.

"They let us know a couple years ago. So it gave us an opportunity to either cut the services or find alternative sources of revenue," Smith

For instance, she said, two years ago the city used federal revenue sharing funds to help pay the salaries of uniformed police. Anticipating the eventual elimination of the federal money, the city last fiscal year drew from the general fund to cover the porition of police salaries previously covered by revenue sharing.

The funding drop came as promised this fiscal year, with the city's allocation of federal revenue sharing funds going from $407,031 in fiscal 1985-86 to $5,781 this year, according to Smith.

Equipment Search Delays Clearing Tanker Accident

By Deane Jordan and Diane Petryk

Traffic jammed almost from sea to shining sea on Florida's Interstate 4 Saturday while officials searched for the right equipment to safely handle an overturned gasoline tank truck in Longwood.

Bumpers followed bumpers reportedly from Ormond Beach on the east coast to "half way to Tampa" on the west side of the state - a hundred miles of overheated vehicles and drivers, many of whom waited for hours before being routed onto side roads. A car joining I-4 at State Road 46 from Sanford at about 2:30 p.m. would find it took nearly two hours to get to Lake Mary Boulevard, about a 4-mile stretch. Impatient drivers weaved in attempt to see what was happening and the most antsy passed other drivers in the right emergency lane - until that, too, became a lane of cars and those determined to pass drove on the shoulder grass. Some drivers made illegal turns across the median to go back the

3 GIs Killed By Blast

FRANKFURT, West Germany (UPI) - Static electricity may have prematurely detonated an explosive device that killed three American soldiers and injured 12 others in a demolition training accident, a military source said today.

A U.S. Army source said a "military community commander" suggested that static electricity might have caused Sunday's blast at the Hohenfels Training Area.

The commander also said the charge amounted to about 15 pounds of high explosive, the source said.

The Frankfurt headquarters of the U.S. 5th Army Corps declined official comment on the cause of the accident until an investigation is completed.

Sgt. 1st Class Sunny Taylor said the identities of the soldiers were beng withheld until their relatives are notified.

West German police initially said there were as many as 30 casualties but Taylor said only 12 soldiers were hospitalized and three were killed.

The soldiers involved in the accident, which occurred about 10 a.m. Sunday, were combat engineers of the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment of the U.S. 5th Army Corps. Lt. Col. John Dye said the explosion occurred while the engineers were training with a device used to blow up roads in the training area. which is about 35 miles southeast of Nuremberg.

The wounded were flown by helicopter from the U.S.-controlled Hohenfels Training Area in eastern Bavaria near the Czech border to nearby German and American military

Two soldiers were dead on arrival at a hospital and another died after he was admitted, military authorities said.

Group Launches Last Ditch Effort To Save Club

A group wanting to save "The Club at the Crossings" near Lake Mary is planning to take what may be its last shot tonight at signing up people for year-long memberships to the club's swimming pool and tennis courts. The membership drive, which had been extended two weekends ago, to secure an additional 250 memberships, fell short again yesterday by about 60 people, according to Kathy Reardon, one of the organizers of a drive to keep the facility open.

However, a decision is expected tonight as to whether the committee will pursue its efforts because a last minute attempt to recruit businesses and developers to purchase memberships has been launched, Michael Kendig, another organizer said.

The pool and tennis courts and the attractive greenery surrounding them were a favorite of people living in The Crossings' half dozen residential communities, Kendig said. Then the property just off Lake Boulevard was sold and the club and pool were closed in February.

Richman American, a local developer, has agreed to purchase 20 memberships which it will give to individuals who purchase homes from them within the Crossings, Reardon said. With that new hope of reaching their goal and with one committee member going out today to solicit other businesses and developers to also purchase memberships to give to customers or future homeowners, the committee has extended any decisions about the Club until its meeting tonight.

The meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. at the home of Wayne and Barbara Farrer, 148 Morning Glory Drive in the Brandermill subdivision of The Crossings, Reardon said. She also suggests that anyone interested in buying a membership should contact her at 321-8966 or Chris McStravick at 323-3684.

If the membership drive succeeds, the members will form a non-profit corporation and hire a manager to run the facilities which include the clubhouse, showers, changing rooms and lockers, according to Kendig.

Yearly memberships are being offered at $350 for a family, $200 for a single person and $150 for an individual to use the tennis courts only. Kendig said. -Genie Lindberg For Yankee Lake Plant

Questions Spur Appeal Of Zoning Exception

Herald Staff Writer

One man's unanswered questions prompted an appeal Friday of the Yankee Lake zoning exception granted Seminole County government June 15 by the county's board of adjustment. The appeal was filed by local plumbing contrator Art Davis, long a critic of the county's Yankee Lake sewer plant plans.

The appeal process allows citizens to call for county commission reconsideration of board of adjustment decisions. Davis conceded the appeal won't change the desire of the commission majority to proceed with plans for what ultimately could be a 40-million-gallon-a-day waste water treatment plant.

Meanwhile, there has been no word from the office of Gov. Bob Martinez on Seminole-Brevard State Attorney Norm Wolfinger's request for a special prosecutor to look into alleged irregularities in the methods the county used to obtain the Yankee Lake tract.

Sanford city commissioners also have asked for a special prosecutor to investigate the 1985 purchase. Sanford had been negotiating for the land shortly before the county cut a deal for the 2,867-acre tract with developer Jeno Paulucci. Paulucci was guaranteed capacity in the plant to serve development he plans.

Davis stressed he is not out to try to kill the multi-million dollar project, but said he has misgivings about the quality of information provided on the handling of effluent discharge into a system of rapid infiltration

"If they are going to do this, fine," he said. "But tell us how you are going to do it and make it make sense. I don't want fancy words; I just want plain English."

Scheduling and advertising requirements likely will mean Davis' appeal cannot be heard until August. A refusal by the commission to reverse the board of adjustment decision would clear the way for Davis to challenge the zoning exception in circuit court, though he emphastzed "I'm not saying I'm going to circuit court." The board of adjustment earlier this month voted 4-1 to grant the zoning exception the county needed before moving ahead with plans for the plant. The vote reversed a May decision by the board not to grant the exception. At that time, the panel said it needed more information before it could fully judge whether the regional plant would be compatible with surrounding agriculture zoning.

The board's approval came with conditions attached, including a ban on removing vegetation except for precolation ponds, no additional drainage

President May Nominate New Justice Within Days

By Helen Thomas
UPI White House Reporter
WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan

is "very actively" engaged in the search for a new Supreme Court justice but is not looking to appoint someone "based on ideological views." Attorney General Edwin Meese maintains.

In the wake of Justice Lewis Poweil's resignation, Meese fended off questions Sunday from reporters who pressed him for details about the search, saying the selection would be made this week or next week at the latest.

Other aides indicated Reagan might make the nomination within a few days, but its progress from there seems less sure. Senate Judiciary Committee Chairman Joseph Biden, D-Del., has said his panel might wait until the fall to conduct confirmation hearings on what is likely to be a politically charged selection.

Reagan is expected to nominate a conservative who shares his views on several issues, among them opposition to abortion and support for school prayer.

Meese rejected suggestions that the administration would subject the nominee to a political "litmus test." however, saying Reagan would search only for the best possible successor to the justice who cast the crucial "swing vote" in many ideologically divided 5-4 decisions during his years on the court.

Reagan's chief criteria is that Powell's successor "apply the law ... not make the law," Meese said on ABC's "This Week with David Brinkley."

"The president will be very actively engaged ... (but he) is not going to appoint someone based on ideological views," Meese said. "We're looking for someone who is going to accept the role that the Constitution has given to the Supreme Court and to the judiciary generally."

According to the attorney general himself once mentioned as a possible high court nominee - that means someone who will abide "by the Constitution itself, who will abide by the laws as passed by Congress, who will not put their own personal ideological or political preferences ahead of the law.

Reagan has made it clear he prefera strict constructionists on the bench, and Meese said the overriding concern is "what is this person going to do in terms of the constitutional role of the judiciary" — a role the president and his top advisers see as far from judicial activism.

Meese, expected to have a significant voice in the decision along with White House chief of staff Howard Baker, said Reagan had a "considerable list" from which to choose, but he would not comment on possibilities.

Many names have cropped up in the guessing game that began immediately after Powell's surprise announcement Friday. Among the leaders were federal appeals court Judge Robert Bork, Republican Sen. Orrin Hatch of Utah and even Baker. although the former GOP senator from Tennessee has said he does not want it.

Sen. Strom Thurmond, R.S.C., who preceded Biden as Judiciary Committee chairman, has suggested Reagan appoint a southerner to replace Powell, who is from Virginia and was the court's only member from the region.

Meese said, "Perhaps regional back-ground may be one of the factors that are looked at when you get down to a number of candidates," but he concluded it would not be of overwhelming importance at the start.

He added, however, "It's imperative that the Senate commence hearings on that nomination before the August recess so they can have a justice in place ... in time for the October session.

Powell said Friday, the last day of the court's 1986-87 session, that his resignation was effective immediately.

American Family Said Thriving

NEW YORK (UPI) — A new survey save most American families are attracted with the quality of their life and the lear that nearly half of all marriages founder is is mere "statistical

"The American family is healthy and thriving." the results of the first Philip Morris Family Survey showed Sunday.

The study by Louis Harris and Associate challenges the videly held belief that nearly half of all marriages end in divorce. Survey results indicate that only one out of every eight marriages will founder.

"High divorce rates can often be traced to 'Vital Statistics of the United States,' senerated by the U.S. National

"This source compares the 2.5 million

Harris said most people interviewed were relieved to be asked questions about their families, because popular opinion held that there would be no

The survey found that 94 percent of families are highly satisfied with their family relationships, 86 percent are happy at the way family members support each other in a crisis, and 83 percent are satisfied with the amount of time spent with family and friends.

Major Fire Engulfs New Delhi; 20 People Said Injured

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) - A major fire engulfed a 15-story inner city building today, injuring at least 20 people and sending about 300 office workers to the roof where they remained trapped by the flames.

Witneses said two men fell from the fifth floor while trying to escape the fire in Ansal Bhavan, a 15-story building in New Delhi's banking district. The extent of their injuries was not immediately known.

Air Force helicopters were called in to pluck people from the rooftop, but the rotors fanned the flames, and the helicopters were called away from the rescue effort.

S. Africa Hints New Rebel Aid

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) - Defense Minister Magnus Malan, possibly hinting at renewed aid to rebels fighting Mozambique's Marxist government, says Pretoria would consider supporting pro-Western dissidents anywhere in the region if they ask for it.

Malan said in a statement Sunday that South Africa will not apologize for fighting Soviet expansionism in southern

"The export of revolution in the form of violence and propaganda cannot be tolerated," he said. "There are pro-Western groups that are confronted by Soviet expansionism in southern Africa, but do not have the ability to survive on their own. Where such groups ask for South African assistance, it must be considered in principle."

Pretoria acknowledged for the first time last year it was supporting Jonas Savimbi's anti-Soviet Union for the Total Liberation of Angola (Unita) against the Cuban-backed government in Luanda.

Households Hit By Crime

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Crime estimated rate in 1975 was 32 hit a quarter of the nation's households last year, with homes in the Northeast the safest and those in the West plagued the most, the government reports.

The Justice Department's Bureau of Justice Statistics, releasing its annual survey of household crime Sunday, estimated that 19 percent of homes in the Northeast were affected by crime during 1986. compared with 30 percent of those in the West and 25 percent in the Midwest and South.

'Nationwide, an estimated one-fourth of all households were affected by at least one of the survey crimes - rape, robbery, assault, personal theft, household burglary, household theft and motor vehicle theft," said bureau Director Steven Schlesinger.

"There were no measurable differences between the 1985 and 1986 rates." Schlesinger added. Since 1975, the proportion of households touched by crime has never shown a year-to-year increase, according to the report. Still, an estimated 1.2 million fewer households were affected by crime last year than 12 years earlier, the report showed. The ruling party, in a surprise policy reversal forced by nearly three weeks of rioting, agreed today to yield to the "people's will" and accept direct election of the next president.

The agreement to a key demand of opposition leaders and tens of thousands of street protesters was announced by Roh Tae-woo, a presidential candidate and chairman of the ruling Democratic Justice Party. in a major speech to the party's central executive committee.

"I have come to the conclusion that a presidential election system must be adopted at this juncture in order to overcome social confusion and achieve national reconciliation," Roh said in announcing a decision that could reduce his own chances of becoming president.

"The people are the masters of the country and the people's will must come before everything cisc," he said.

Late in the day, the rank-andfile members of the DJP gave their "full support" to Roh's plans and the 28 members of the executive committee submitted their resignations to allow him to restructure the party if he de-

Opposition leaders said the announcement marked "a new era in Korean politics" and urged President Chun to approve Roh's proposals and move immediately to implement them.

Western diplomats, caught off guard by the abrupt reversal of official DJP policy by its top official, said they needed time to see whether there were any strings attached to the apparent concession. "Let's see if any caveats pop up." a diplomat

Before Monday, the DJP insisted the next president be elected under the current indirect electoral college system, which the opposition said was rigged in favor of the government party.

Legislators Pledge Help

CANCUN, Mexico (UPI) -Mexican congressmen worked hard to convince their U.S. counterparts that Mexico is diligently battling the international drug trade, as representitives from both countries wound up a notably cordial annual two-day meeting.

The lawmakers also discussed bilateral trade, immigration and Central America during their Caribbean encounter, which culminated in an agreement Sunday to set up a permanent joint committee of both congresses.

The conclusion of the XXVII Interparliamentrary Meeting was in marked contrast to last year's acrimonious conference held in Colorado Springs.

"The congressmen exchanged hot and heavy words over U.S. accusations of the Mexican government's complicity in drug trafficking." at last year's conference, according to Rep. Bill Goodling, R-Pa., who attended both meetings.

This year both sides apparently came to the Caribbean resort of Cancun determined to work for better relations between the two nations.

Sen. Christopher J. Dodd, D-Conn., and Rep. Kika de la Garza, D-Tex., headed the American delegation that assembled into economomic and political committees to meet for two days with their Mexican counterparts in the annual meeting held alternately in each country.

Congressmen from both nations said that the main topics under discussion were trade, drug trafficking and immigration. The Mexicans made a major effort to convince the Americans that they were working diligently to cut the flow of drugs to the United States.

Vigilante Or Victim?

Was Bernhard Goetz a white vigilante who gunned down four black teenagers on a subway car simply because they asked him for money? Or was he a heroic crime victim who acted in self-defense when the youths. some armed with sharpened screwdrivers. surrounded him and tried to mug him?

The inflamed sentiments aroused by the Goetz case have generally polarized public opinion along these two extremes. But a New York jury weighed the evidence and found the truth somewhere in the middle.

Goetz was justified in defending himself once he was accosted, the jurors concluded, thereby exonerating him of attempted murder and assault charges. But, quite properly, they did not absolve him of the crime of illegally carrying an unlicensed gun. For the conviction on the weapons charge. Mr. Goetz could receive a prison sentence.

Because the defendant was held accountable for packing a .38-caliber revolver without a permit, the verdict is not the carte blanche for vigilantism that its critics so passionately claim it to be.

On the contrary, any citizen who would regard the decision as a license to take the law into his own hands would be foolish. indeed. A protracted and very costly legal battle was required for Goetz to vindicate his impulsive actions on the subway car to a jury's satisfaction. The ambiguities of the case prevent it from establishing broad new precedents.

As presented in court testimony, the events of Dec. 22, 1984, are not as murky as were initial press accounts.

One of the four teenagers who originally claimed to have been merely panhandling on the subway car testified that the youths singled out Goetz, a wimpy-looking, bespectacled electrical engineer and demanded $5. Other passengers testified they too were fearful of being mugged by the teenagers, one of whom is now serving a prison term for raping, pistol-whipping and robbing a pregnant woman in 1985. Another youth pleaded guilty to one robbery before the subway incident and also is accused of mugging an elderly woman and threatening to kill her daughter. A third is charged with snatching a $150 gold chain from a man on an elevator. The fourth is paralyzed by shots fired by Goetz.

The criminal records of the youths were admitted as evidence to demonstrate that Goetz had reasonable grounds to fear for his safety and thus was warranted in acting spontaneously to defend himself.

The fear of assault that motivated Goetz's response is one that millions of urban Americans can empathize with. Indeed, the genuine threat to American society today is not that otherwise law-abiding citizens will resort to vigilante tactics to exact popular justice. Rather, it is that government will abort its primal obligation — to protect the health and safety of the citizenry from

The erosion of traditional standards of justice already has occurred to an alarming degree. In New York City, for example, only one in 50 criminals who commits a felony ever winds up behind bars.

There is no reason to believe that the Goetz verdict will prompt a rise in lawlessness. The line between self-defense and unjustified aggression always will be difficult to draw with precision. The best way to minimize the sort of unfortunate incident that occurred on Mr. Goetz's subway car is to alleviate the crime-ridden environment that made it possible in the first place.

VINCENT CARROLL

Pat Schroeder Is Different, Not Indifferent

Jesse Jackson, Pat Robertson and soon, perhaps. Pat Schroeder. Welcome to the growing roll call of specialty candidates for president.

The political mainstream exerts no pull on this trio. They rely instead on a narrow but passionate appeal. Their strength is that they're taken so seriously by some voters they cannot be ignored by the rest of us.

Of the three. Schroeder is probably the least well known and, therefore, the most poorly understood. Although this Colorado Democrat has hardly been a wallflower during her dozen years in Congress, her popular image conforms to the limited stereotypes preferred by the national press: a clever, if sometimes sharptongued, liberal concerned with feminism and arms control.

This image is misleading in several respects. Would a mainstream liberal carn a more favorable score from the National Taxpayers Union than Jack Kemp, the conservative Republican who also hankers for the presidency? Schroeder has.

In fact, Schroeder regularly falls within the middle ranks of the dollar-conscious NTU

One reason: She has a low tolerance for classic pork-barrel programs. Unlike some colleagues. she has learned to say no.

Then, too, Schroeder votes against defense spending as if she'd picked up military strategy at the feet of Gandhi. Dubbing her a liberal on defense is no more apt than terming Sen. Jesse Helms a conservative on human rights. She is - they are — quite radical in some areas. In partnership with Rep. Ron Dellums, the left-wing California Democrat. Schroeder crafted a plan last year that would have cut $66 billion from the defense budget. Among its provisions. It canceled spending on the MX, cruise and new Trident missiles and lopped all but $400,000 from strategic defense.

Only 65 of her colleagues could bring themselves to vote for this package.

Such a budget, however, is entirely consistent with Schroeder's view of the Soviet Union and Its allies - that is, she doesn't consider them much of a threat. She has accused the United States of abandoning the "moral high ground" in arms control: and she actually lent her prestige to efforts to shore up the Sandinista regime in Nicaragua.

Schroeder's name appeared on fund-raising letters for the Nicaraguan Network, which sends volunteer brigades to help the Sandinistas.

To cite another example: Schroeder appeared a year ago at the launching of a campaign by the group INFACT to boycott General Electric for ite work on nuclear weapons. As even a brief glance at its literature proves. INFACT spreads the ugliest sort of historical revisionism, including the view that "the decision to drop atomic bombs on Japanese cities was considered essential to insure continued development of nuclear technology." INFACT attributes the arms race from its inception to simple commercial greed - all in the United States, of course.

Schroeder has flirted with the far reaches of the anti-war movement, where measured concern over American foreign policy and nuclear overkill by both superpowers has been abandoned for brutal censure of the United States alone.

That's too bad, for Schroeder is witty, direct and sometimes responsibly provocative. But then so are the other two specialty candidates. and they won't become president either.

'Global' Education Hurtful

National Public Radio recently called for American school children to undergo "global education." He wants them to study international issues. He believes that elementary and high school education should focus on the Third World, the backward nations of this planet. He complained that American students suffer from "Euro-centric curriculum."

It's likely that the U.S. public will hear a lot from advocates of a "global perspective." And to some ears the proposal for re-orienting the school curriculum may sound fine. But if advocates of "global perspective" have their way, young Americans will be culturally dis-

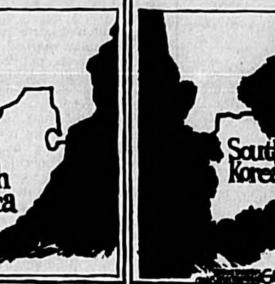

The trouble with American schooling today is that students aren't mastering the basics of education. They aren't learning to read and write with clarity. They aren't getting adequate training in mathematics and hasic science, and history and geography.

If by "global perspective" the NPR speaker meant that students need more thorough teaching of geography, he is right. Geography has become an almost forgotten subject in school and college. But that's not what he meant. He wanted an emphasis on fashionable global issues. There's a place in education for analysis of issues, but that place is college. Before one can understand the Issues in faraway lands, one needs to know about mountains and river systems, ocean basins and deserts. First things come first.

The NPR speaker also was offbase in criticizing what he referred to as a "Euro-centric curriculum." One purpose of basic education is to implant and reinforce the values of one's society and civilization. Young Americans need an understanding of their country's history and of the struggles their ancestors underwent in the building of this nation. They need to know, first of all, about the role and importance of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln before they hear about Gandhi and Lenin. It's more important for them to hear about Magna Carta than the 1955 Bandung Conference of Third World Nations. In short, young Americans should be firmly grounded in the history, principles and values of the United States and Western civilization.

"Global perspective" has fashionable contemporary overtones. As an educational philosophy, however, it is mistaken and hurtful.

An Opposing View

INDIANAPOLIS (NEA) - In the carly 1980s, when virtually all experts in the energy field were predicting that crude oil prices would continue their upward spiral. physicist William M. Brown defled that conventional wisdom. The director of energy and technological studies at the Hudson Institute here. Brown rejected the popular notion that the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries was so powerful that it could impose its demands for ever-increasing prices upon hapless importing nations.

Instead of joining those offering the sky's the limit scenarios of crude oil prices escalating to $50, $100 and even $150 per barrel. Brown forecast a price collapse in the mid-1980s. Subsequent events proved him correct.

Now he's at it again, dismissing the currently fashionable view that this country and other oil-importing nations again will be at OPEC's mercy - perhaps as soon as the 1990s

"We are headed toward a period of time again where we'll be sitting in gas lines... anytime in the next two to five years," warns Interior Secretary Donald Hodel. "We are today sowing the seeds of the next energy crisis," adds former Energy Secretary James Schlesinger.

That's probably not true, insists the Iconoclastic Brown, who predicts for the rest of the 1980s and the 1990s oil prices probably will be no lower than $6 to $8 per barrel and no higher than $18 to $20 per barrel - a range almost identical to the fluctuations of recent years.

Among the factors Brown expects to continue moderating oil prices:

(BU) The constant fear of another "oil shock" such as those of 1973-74 and 1979-80 makes a repetition of those events less likely. "The greater the threat of rising fuel prices in the future, the greater will be the interest in new energy sources and new energy technology." explains Brown. "There still remains enormous technological potential for increasing efficiencies and for finding substitutes for petroleum fuels."

Unlike the United States, "much of the world is still unexplored" and probably contains major oil fields. Brown cites recent discoveries in Australia and South America as possible examples.

(BU) Both the Soviet Union and China have vast untapped crude oil potential - and both are likely to accelerate exploration and sales to the West in coming years to earn needed hard currency.

(BU) Plentiful coal and natural gas increasingly are the fuels of choice for numerous forms of stationary energy consumption, including the generation of electrical power.

(BU) Crude oil remains the almost universal source of energy for autos. trucks and other vehicles - but dramatic changes are almost certain to occur within the next few de-

The commercial development of efficient, economical batteries to power motor vehicles is "a very strong possibility" if not "a near certainty." Brown says. The emergence of electric vehicles probably will require 10 to 20 years "but not more than that," he adds.

The one event that could lead to rapid escalation of crude oil prices in the short or middle term, warns Brown, would be an Iranian victory over traq, leading to "Iranian hegemony over the entire Persian women has confirmed the link between smoking and hormonal problems, including infertility, early menopause, prolonged menstrual cycles, and facial hair growth.

A large survey of women in Canada and the United States, described in the June Issue of Public Health Reports, found "smoking was associated with early menopause - both natural and surgically induced." This is the first study to link smoking to problems requiring removal of the ovaries or uterus.

The article also reported that women who smoked were more likely to be infertile, have menstrual cycles consistently longer than 36 days, and to report excess growth of facial hair. The hormonal effects were greatest in women who smoked more than 20 cigarettes per

The study ruled out confounding factors such as age, childbirth, weight and socioeconomic status as explanations. The article said the results especially increased facial hair growth - suggest that smoking alters the balance between male and female hormones in a woman's body, either by increasing production of androgens - the male hormones normally produced in minute quantities — or by speeding processing of the female hormone. estrogen. "These results suggest that smoking may affect the ovaries or hormone metabolism, or both, with medical and cosmetic consequences," the article reported.

The report was written by Arthur Hartz, director of research in the department of family and community medicine at the Milton Hershey Medical Center in Hershey, Pa., and five co-workers there or at the Medical College of Wisconsin.

JACK ANDERSON

Lavish Lifestyles Led To S&L's Downfall

By Jack Anderson

And Dale Van Atta
WASHINGTON — We took some heat a few months ago from House Speaker Jim Wright. D-Texas, when we broke the story of his efforts to save floundering Texas savings and loan associations at great risk to the taxpayer-backed federal insurance fund. Wright claimed that federal regulators were unfairly picking on the Texas S&Ls - like Vernon Savings and Loan of Dallas.

Our associate Michael Binstein obtained confidential examiners' summaries on Vernon prepared by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board. The documents dispel any notion that the Vernon S&L was an innocent victim of cruel government gumshoes.

In point of fact, Vernon was on the ropes because its owners maintained a lifestyle worthy of Jim and Tammy Bakker and mismanaged the S&L's finances outrageously. Several weeks after our original story on Vernon ran, the S&L failed. leaving a bill for $1 billion to be picked up by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp.

In April, the FSLIC filed suit against Vernon's owner, Don Dixon, and six other executives. The agency is seeking $350 million. charging the one-time high-rolling S&L big shots with "looting and self-dealing" that caused Vernon's

Here are some of the allegations about Vernon Savings & Loan gleaned from FSLIC documents filed in a bankruptcy proceeding

- Dixon and other senior officers falsified the thrift's financial statements and "fraudulently overstated" its net worth to justify millions of dollars in dividends. bonuses and expensive perquisites. Dixon alone collected more than $8 million in bonuses in the last few years. During much of this time, Vernon S&L had a negative net

- Dixon and others had the savings and loan pay "huge sums of money" that were diverted to their personal use. These payments greatly increased the S&L's cost of doing business, and increased the pressure on its executives to "falsely inflate reported profits and net worth," according to an FSLIC document.

- Our original report that Dixon had the savings and loan buy a beach house for his personal use is confirmed by the government documents. The beach house, in Del Mar, Calif., cost about $2 million. Dixon and his wife moved into the house in June 1985, and lived there for a year rent-free.

The S&L also paid Dixon's bills for about $800,000 worth of personal expenses since 1982. These included $36,780 for flowers. $44,095 in cash, $386 for pet services (though apparently no Bakker-style air-conditioned doghouse), $1,794 for cable TV service, $13,446 for catering, $4,420 for pool service and $2,408 for someone's graduation party.

- Dixon squandered Vernon S&L's assets to maintain his "indulgent and opulent lifestyle," the FSLIC charges. Examples the agency cites include lavish, unjustified trips to Europe, an expensive fleet of airplanes, the beach house and a yacht.

- On July 27, 1986, a Vernon employee entertained on board the S&L's yacht, "High Spirit." Among the guests were the staffs of two former members of Congress and several high school interns under the legal drinking age. According to an "after-action report" provided the government by the yacht's skipper, a Vernon executive "was encouraging the students to drink. telling them to lie about their ages." The captain said he finally stepped in and cut off all liquor for the underage guests.

All told, the FSLIC estimates, at least $40 million of Vernon S&L's funds were misappropriated by Dixon and other senior executives. More than 95 percent of the savings and loan association's commercial loan portfolio is now in default.

Americans Go For Sweep

Sanford Stars Need Win For Sub-District Title

By Chris Fister Herald Sports Writer

The Sanford American League All-Stars hope to keep their offensive firepower going and get the same consistent pitching that has lifted them into tonight's championship game and a possible sweep of the Florida Little Major League Sub-District 2 Tournament. First pitch is 6 p.m. at the Susan St. Recreation Complex.

Sanford American, defending sub-district champion, will play the winner of Saturday's losers' bracket final between host Leesburg American and SAY of Orlando. Sanford has already beaten both teams, defeating Leesburg in the opening round. 6-5, and crushing SAY in the winners' bracket final, 19-3.

"I believe if Leesburg survives they will give us a tough game." Sanford manager Otis Raines said. "I think we have SAY's number but Leesburg played us tough the first time and probably wants another shot at us."

If Sanford wins the subdistrict, it will advance to the District 4 Tournament beginning July 7 also in Leesburg. Sanford has won the sub-district the past three seasons but has fell short of a state berth all three

Baseball

Offensively, second baseman Craig Merkerson has carried the biggest stick for the Americans in two tournament games thus far. Merkerson has six hits in eight at bats for a .750 average and had four runs batted in. Catcher Terry Williams has been a steady player for the Americans both offensively and defensively as he has four hits in six at bats for a .667 average and has handled the Sanford pitching staff superbly.

Outfleider Leroy Keitt has also been a clutch hitter for the Americans as he is 4 for 6 (.667). Pitcher-first baseman Adaryal Jones is 3 for 6 (.500) with a home run and four RBIs. Shortstop-pitcher Jamie King and outfielder Donte Jones are both 3 for 8 (.375) with three RBIs and pitcher-infielder Britt Henderson is 2 for 7 (.286).

Sanford has used two pitchers in each of the two games with Merkerson getting the win in relief in game one and starter Henderson winning game two. Sanford pitching has allowed eight runs on 11 hits in two games while the defense has played well, committing just one error in each game.

Raines said he will probably start Adaryal Jones, a big lefthander, tonight with Merkerson ready in relief along with Neville

"I've really been happy with the way all the kids have played the first two games," Raines, whose managing record is 39-3 over the past two seasons, said. "Everyone has gotten a chance to play and has contributed for us. We're hard to beat when everyone plays as well as they have been.'

NATIONALS OUSTED — For the first time in three years the two Sanford teams will not battle for the sub-district tournament title. Sanford National, runnerup to the Americans the past two seasons, was eliminated by Leesburg, 7-3, in Friday's losers' bracket. The Nationals won one and lost two in the tourney.

Offensively in three games. Don Hunt led Sanford as he was 6 for 10 for a .600 average. Bernard Sparrow was 4 for 8 (.500) with a home run while Richard Peterson was 3 for 8 (.375) with a home run and three RBIs. Lorne Jones also blasted a three-run homer for the Nationals and drove in four runs.

Adaryal Jones has swung a potent bat for the Sanford American League All-Stars in tournament play thus far. Jones and the Americans will go for the sub-district championship tonight at 6 at Leesburg.

Astros, Oviedo Stay Alive In Top Team

By Scott Sander Herald Sports Writer

Andy Spolski's two-hitter lifted the Altamonte Astros to a 14-4 victory over Windermere on Saturday night in the District 14 Top-Team Senior Baseball Tournament.

The win was an important one for Altamonte (26-2 overall) as it advances them into tonight's district final against Ococe. Altamonte must defeat Ovoce tonight and again on Tuesday night to capture the district title. as Ococe has already defeated Altamonte once this season. Tonight's game will be held in Eustis and will start at 7.

Spoiski, a hard-throwing right-hander, pitched well for coach Duke Pleicones' team as went five innings. Spoiski fanned nine while walking only one. Patrick Battle pithced the final two innings for Altamonte and gave up only two hits.

Altamonte rapped out seven hits in the contest as Curt Prom's four RBI led the way. Prom slapped a pair of two-run singles in the game. Battle helped himself at the plate, as he singled and launched a two-run homer, the first of the season.

Spolski added an RBI single while Ricky Johnson chipped in the an RBI double. Doug Jones and Chance Windstrom each added hits for Altamonte.

Kent Brubaker and Chris Pleicones each had RBI for Altamonte.

BELLHORN LIFTS OVIEDO Mark Bellhorn fired a onehitter and struck out 16 Saturday as the Oviedo Cardinals Baseball in Top Team Tournament Major Division II action at Orange City.

The Cardinals, 23-8 for the season, advance to the division finals tonight at 7 against Apopka at Ococe. Oviedo has one loss going into the finals and must win two games against unbeaten Apopka to claim the championship.

In Saturday's game, Bellhorn's pitching almost solely carried Oviedo as his Pierson counterpart, Troy Dampier, tossed a two-hitter and struck out 13.

Oviedo's only hits were a first-inning single by Bellhorn and a bunt single in the fourth by Robbie Jackson. Oviedo scored once in the third inning and three times in the fourth. All of the runs came on either Pierson errors, wild pitches or passed balls.

LYMAN LEGION SPLITS

After having its 11-game winning streak snapped on Saturday, Lyman's American Legion baseball team got back on track Sunday as Ross Urshan and Jini Lucas combined on a two-hitter in a 3-1 victory over Winter Park at Lyman High.

Lyman, 12-1 overall, saw its winning stread end on Saturday in a 4-0 loss to Edgewater. The Lyman Legion returns to action Tuesday at 7:30 at Lake Brantley, then competes in the DeLand Firecracker Tournament on Wednesday through Friday. Lyman will play Jacksonville, Lake Worth and Tampa in the tournament.

In Sunday's game, Urshan went the first five and two-thirds innings for the win, allowed one run on two hits, struck out seven and walked three. Lucas pitched the last two and a third innings. allowed no hits.

After Winter Park scored in the top of the first, Lyman evened the score in the bottom half when Chris Radeliff doubled and scored on a base hit by Kenny Jackson.

Johnny Luce's bat and speed enabled the Lyman squad to pick up single runs in the third and fifth frames for a 3-1 lead. In the third. Luce beat out an infield hit, stole second, took third on Radcliff's groundout and scored on a wild pitch. In the fifth, Luce drilled a single, stole second and scored on Radcliff's single.

Beckerless Wimbledon Resumes

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) - Now that one defending champion is gone. Martina Navratilova is likely to feel even more lonely at the top, and certainly more vulnerable.

Not in many years has competition for the singles titles been so wide open at Wimbledon, presenting the prospect of a wild final week if the weather provides relief.

The second-round dismissal of Boris Becker, the odds-on favorite to sweep to a third successive crown, has left at least a halfdozen legitimate contenders among the men, and Navratilova's hold on the women's title is shakler than at any time during her long reign. Whereas 19-year-old Becker has many years in which to get over his disappointment and win again at Wimbledon, for Navratilova this is a critical stage of her career. There is far more at stake for her than there was for Becker.

Navratilova dearly wants to set the record of six consecutive women's championships, and at the same time equal the all-time Wimbledon mark of eight titles overall held by Helen Wills Moody. In addition, she knows failure to achieve these lofty heights could cost her the world No. 1 ranking.

Steffi Graf, conqueror of Navratilova in the French Open final, has put together a streak of 42 victories in a row dating to last November. Navratilova, meantime, has failed to win a tournament since November. and now that she has turned 30, shows concern she might be falling back.

There is no longer a fear among the younger girls of playing her, although the respect remains along with the realization Navratilova can be an intimidating rival.

Wimbledon is the nerve center of Navratilova's power, her impregnable fortress for the last decade, a field of honor where she has gone unbeaten in 36 matches since 1981. If she should lose this week, it would mark a definite turning point in her career.

Graf, on the other hand, is supposedly at her weakest on grass. Yet she has won her first three matches here with the loss of only five games.

"So far I can say I'm very comfortable on grass," Graf sald following her third-round victory over Laura Gildemeister. "Everyone was saying I'm not comfortable on grass, but I know I can really do well, and my game is suited to grass. I'm more relaxed than I was at the French. Maybe it helps that I'm not the favorite."

Navratilova was attempting to catch up to Graf and earn a berth in the fourth round when she met Peanut Louie Harper in the opening match today on Court 2. Should she win, Navratilova would meet another unseeded player for a berth in the quarterfinals.

Two other women given a shot at the title are third seed Chris Evert and No. 4 Helena Sukova. Evert was to play Kumiko Okamoto today while Sukova already has reached the fourth Sukova, whose mother Vera gained the Wimbledon final in 1962, has been playing extremely well lately, and last week defeated both Evert and Navratilova to win a tournament at Eastbourne.

The third round of the men's singles also was scheduled for completion today. Third seed Mats Wilander was to open play on Center Court at noon [7 a.m. EDT) against Jonas B. Svensson.

Colleges Set Poor Example For Hiring Black Coaches

By Richard E. Lapchick

[Editor's note: Richard E. Lapchick is director of Northeastern University's Center for the Study of Sport in Society and author of "Broken Promises: Recism in American Sport." In this second of three articles his examines blacks and university hirings.)

Coach John Thompson has won a national basketball championship. His Georgetown team is a perennial power in the Big East Conference, which many consider the nation's best. He has one of the highest winning percentages of any active or retired college coach. He was recently president of the basketball coaches' association. On top of that, Georgetown is considered an outstanding program in a country plagued by academic and athletic recruiting scandals. Thompson's players graduate at a rate of nearly 90 percent when only 27 percent of Division I players graduate nationally.

If Thompson were an example of what is happening at American colleges and universities then there would be reason for encouragement.

* Annual Company of the Company of t

Unfortunately, Thompson is hardly the norm. What he does share with most coaches in college sports is that he was hired to revive a dead program. Georgetown won only three games the year before he accepted the offer to coach at this nearly all-white campus. Illinois State hired Will Robinson as the first black head coach at a predominantly white Division I school one year before Thompson went to Georgetown. Almost two decades later, there are only 30 black head coaches at predominantly white universities. There are another 18 at the predominantly black schools. When you limit consideration to blacks coaching at predominantly white colleges, the percentage is only 10.9. Nearly half the players at this level are

Those figures, however, are better than for women's basketball. There are 27 blacks coaching 280 Division I women's teams. That includes the 18 predominantly black colleges. If University job in 1985; Wayne Nunnely and they are excluded, we are left with a total of 3.4 percent.

The second contract of the second contract of

NCAA Division I basketball is actually behind the NBA where there were 4 blacks coaching (17 percent) the 23 teams in the 1986-87 season.

College football will not yield too many candidates for the long-awaited first black head NFL coach. The Southeastern Conference, one of the nation's top football conferences, is a good example of the state of the art in college football. Forty-six percent of the SEC players were black in the 1986 season. There were no black head coaches and only 11 of 90 assistants. Only Auburn had more than one assistant who was black.

Willie Jeffries, now Harvard's coach, became the first black to coach a Division IA program when he took over Wichita State in 1979. Right now there are only three: Cleve Bryant, who left the New England Patriots to take the Ohio

Francis Peay took over weak programs this year at Nevada-Las Vegas and Northwestern, respectively.

These programs seemed doomed before the arrival of these coaches. Jeffries took over one of the most scandal-ridden schools. Further, Wichita State had only one winning season in more than a decade. Football was dropped at the end of this season several years after Jeffries moved on to Howard.

Bryant's Ohio U. team has been 3-19 in his two years. Nunnely is competing within UNLV against a top basketball team which brings in millions of dollars for the university. Northwestern plays in the Big Ten and has been the perennial doormat. Considering this, Peay had a remarkable 4-7 record last season.

Beyond the revenue sports, black athletes compete heavily in college track and baseball.

The Cleveland Indians had to be happy the Oakland Athletics and their rookie slugger Mark McGwire finally left town.

McGwire destroyed Cleveland pitching as Oakland swept the series. He blasted five homers in the final two games of the series, drove in more runs (eight) than the Indians scored (three) and scored in nine consecutive plate appearances. The A's hit 11 homers and outscored Cleveland 28-3.

McGwire, a first baseman. went 4 for 5 with two homers. four runs scored and two RBI Sunday to back Steve Ontiveros's two-hitter, and Oakland routed Cleveland 10-0. Jose Canseco drove in four runs on a pair of homers and Reggie Jackson added a solo homer.

"Like I've said before, this lineup's awfully powerful," said McGwire, who has 27 homers to share the American League lead with Toronto's George Bell. "Just look at what we've done this weekend."

McGwire became the first rookie, the fourth American Leaguer, and the 14th player overall to hit a total of five homers in successive games. The last to accompilsh the feat was Gary Carter of the New York Mets on September 3-4, 1985. The other American Leaguers are Ty Cobb. Tony Lazzeri and Carl Yastrzemski.

McGwire, 8 for 9 in his last two games with seven RBI, tied a modern major-league record for most runs scored over two consecutive nine-inning games.

R.J. Rocks Smith, Bucs Sweep Cubs

United Press International

R.J. Reynolds, a perennial victim of Lee Smith, finally had his day against the right-handed reliever, and handed the Chicago Cubs their fifth straight loss.

Revnolds singled home two runs against Smith Sunday to key a five-run eighth inning that lifted the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 6-2 victory and a three-game sweep of the Cubs.

"I don't feel sorry for that hit one little bit. I cherish it." Reynolds said of his two-out. bases-loaded single to right.

"He owns me — me. number two-three. In my career, I can't count how many strikeouts he has against me. Chicago's defeat prevented

Rick Sutcliffe, who took a six-hit. 2-1 lead into the eighth, from becoming the National League's first 11-game winner. He fell to 10-4. The victory went to Barry

Jones, 2-1, who pitched the final two outs of the eighth for Bob Kipper.

Sutcliffe walked John Cangelosi, pinch-hitting for Jones, to open the eighth. Sutcliffe than ran the count to 3-0 on Barry Bonds, and Manager Gene Michael called for Smith.

Cangelosi stole second, and Smith threw Bonds ball four. Both runners advanced on Andy Van Slyke's sacrifice, and Smith intentionally walked Johnny Ray to load the bases. He then struck out Bobby Bonilla.

"I said, 'Hey, Bobby, I'll pick you up," Reynolds said. "For some reason, I was mentally locked in to what I was going to

"I stood back and relaxed and stroked the ball instead of trying to overpower him. I let him provide the power."

After Reynolds singled home Cangelosi and Bonds, Morrison singled to center, scoring Ray. Smith threw a wild pitch that advanced the runners, and Mike LaValliere was intentionally walked to load the bases. Bream came in as a pinch-hitter and drew a bases-loaded walk to score Reynolds. Cangelost followed with an infleid single that scored Morrison. PITTSBURGH CHICAGO

Lewis, Ashford Inured At USA

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) -Several American athletes became sidetracked last week on the road to Rome.

Carl Lewis and Evelyn Ashford, who combined to win six Olympic gold medals in 1984, were among those who sustained injuries at the USA-Mobil Track and Field Championships, and Lewis blamed unusual scheduling for the problems.

Lewis and Ashford competed in both sprint events, but unlike most meets, the 200meter finals were contested the day before the 100. The 200 is obviously more demanding than the 100, and the effects showed Saturday. Both Olympic champions, one day after qualifying for the

Track

Rome World Championships at 200 meters, suffered hamstring injuries while running in the 100. Lewis won his semifinal heat despite hurting his left hamstring, but he pulled it slightly in the final and finished second to Mark Witherspoon.

Ashford sustained a slight tear in her left hamstring during her semifinal heat and finished sixth. "You can't run in all these races like we did in this meet. I told them (officials)." said Lewis, who Friday won the 200 and long jump. "My knee (which was operated on in September) is now only my second worry. And I'm not the only one. I saw Calvin Smith and Pam Marshall limping as well as Evelyn. I was just glad to finish (the 100), much less finish second. You can't run the 200 the day before the Cramming too many events in three days and fixing the schedule to cater to television hurt the sprinters. The schedule was arranged so the 100and 400-meter hurdles with Edwin Moses and Danny Harris could be televised live by ABC Saturday.

"Look at the record," Lewis said. "Those that ran well in the 200 didn't do well in the

Samaranch: Seoul Will Host

BARCELONA, Spain (UPI) - International Olympic Committee President Juan Antonio Samaranch predicts the 1988 Summer Games in Seoul, South Korea, will proceed as scheduled despite political unrest in South Korea, a published report said Sunday.

"I do not have the slightest doubt that the 1988 Olympics will take place," Samaranch was quoted by La Vanguardia.

While admitting that two weeks of violent protests against the government of President Chun Doo Hwan was "of concern" to the Committee, Samaranch said the South Koreans from across the political spectrum supported the

"There exists a unanimous will among the South Korean people to ensure the success of the 1988 Olympic Games. This includes the opposition as much as the government," Samaranch was quoted.

Samaranch added there was plenty of time before the games for the political climate to improve.

Rahal pitted twice under yellow flags and needed just more than 35 seconds to have seven tire changes and two

Azinger

Again.

CROMWELL. Conn. (UPI) -By quelling his nerves and steadying his hands, Paul Azinger turned an 8-foot putt into his third tour victory of 1987.

Azinger's par-saving putt on the 18th hole Sunday preserved his one-shot triumph at the Greater Hartford Open, and the $126,000 first prize returned him to No. 1 on the money list.

His closing round of 1-over-par 72 gave him a 269 total, edging Dan Forsman and Wayne Levi. Azinger, who started the day with a three-stroke lead, later admitted he was afraid of choking on the last putt.

When I put the putter head down, it was quivering a little bit in my hand," said Azinger, who 'woke up nervous'' Sunday.

"I felt defensive," he said. "I was probably more nervous than anybody else on the first tee today.

To reassure himself before his decisive putt on No. 18, he thought of his 25-foot winning putt at the Las Vegas Invitational two months ago.

"I said to myself, people won't think I choked because of the one I made in Las Vegas," he explained.

Azinger's closing round was the highest by a PGA event winner this year, but the prize money boosted his 1987 winnings to $576,462, the third-, highest single-season total in PGA history. U.S. Open winner Scott Simpson, the former earnings leader, has won $465,896; he did not play this week.

18th hole. He appeared to have the tournament won when his second shot stopped on the back apron, 25 feet from the cup. In what he later described as a

advantage approaching the par-4

'good grief putt." Azinger rolled the downhill putt 8 feet past the hole. "I knew it was fast, I didn't think it was that fast." After looking at the putt "from all sides," Azinger rolled the ball inside the left lip and it curled in.

drug conspiracy charges. Police officials and prosecutors from the Maricopa County Attorney's Office have refused to release the 1,128-page police report, although police investigative reports generally are considered public documents.

Three Phoenix-area newspapers, including the Tribune. and one Phoenix television station have filed suit seeking the release of the reports. That request remains before a Maricopa County Superior Court Judge. Sunday's story did not divulge how Tribune reporters obtained copies of the report.

The report details survelllance of two restaurants, a nightclub, a golf course and Phoenix homes, as police tried to photograph drug and gambling suspects, the story sald.

The investigation apparently began Feb. 19, when police received a tip that a bar manager traded cocaine for a promise from Milwaukee Bucks players Jack Sikma and Paul Mokeski to "assure a certain point total" for a bet on the Phoenix-Milwaukee game two nights later.

The bar manager. James Jordan, was among those indieted by a Maricopa County grand jury in indictments handed up April 16. The police report also includes a taped conversation between Jordan and bartender Charles Keenan in which Jordan said he bet on the Bucks only after Mokeski told him Milwaukee forward Terry Cummings was returning from an injury.

Keenan, who twice has been indicted on gambling charges. agreed to become a police informant and wear a body microphone for the conversation with Jordan. Keenan later testified he placed a $200 bet for Jordan on the game.

On the day of the game, police detective Gary Ball received a call from a source, telling him Jordan, after playing golf with Sikma, said "the players were going to keep (the combined) score under 224, and that was the way to bet," the report said.

Milwaukee won the game 115-107, a combined total of 222 points.

Eustis Ties Altamonte In Rain Halted Contest

By Scott Sander Herald Sports Writer

The Altamonte Big League baseball team has more than its fair share of big bats in the surgery to his mouth on Friday.

But Eustis pitcher William Thompson didn't respect Altamonte's hitters very much as Thompson fired a two-hitter on Sunday afternoon, guiding Eustis to a 2.2 tie with Altamonte at Seminole Community College. The game was stopped because of rain with Altamonte batting in the bottom of the seventh inning.

Altamonte coach Gene Letterio said that the game will be made up if it needs to be. Despite the tie. Altamonte is in the drivers' seat in the League as it is 15-1. Eustis and Oviedo are tied for second with 12-4 marks. Altamonte will return to action on Tuesday night as it will travel to Winter Garden. Two of Altamonte's top pitchers and hitters-Anthony Laszaic and Mike Schmit- are both sidelined with injuries. Laszaic has been bothered with a knee problem, and may miss the rest of the season. Schmit underwent and will be out for quite awhile according to Letterio.

"With those two guys out, our lineup is not nearly as strong." Letterio said. "We didn't hit the ball at all today."

Altamonte, who likes to get off to a quick start, did it again against Max Westgate's team as Altamonte scored a run in the bottom of the first. After Ryan Lisle led off with a walk, Kelly Hysell singled to right, advancing Lisle to third.

Letterio, who is known for his aggressive coaching tactics, then put on the double steal. Hysell broke for second, and when the Eustis catcher threw the ball to second, Lisle broke for home and scored."

A rarity happened later in the inning as Eustis executed a triple play. With runners on first and second, Mark "Pork" Coffey hit a soft liner to the Eustis shortstop.

There are only five black track coaches (4.5 percent) at the 109 Division IA schools. College baseball, like the major leagues, has the worst record of all. There is not a single black baseball coach at a Division IA school.

Basketball (men and women), football, track and baseball are the sports in which most black athletes compete in college. Of the 1,102 head coaching positions available in those sports in Divisions I. IA and IAA, 47 are held by blacks. That is a meager 4.2 percent of the pie.

The most extensive survey on this matter was compiled by Clarence Underwood in "The Student Athlete: Eligibility and Academic Integrity." Underwood is assistant commissioner of the Big Ten. In 1983, he canvassed America's 13 biggest conferences representing 277 schools. Sport-by-sport, there were blacks serving as assistant coaches as follows: Basketball 72 (an average of 1 for every 4 Division I programs).

Football 97 (average of 1 for every 2 Division IA and IAA programs).

Track 21 (average of 1 for every 5 Division IA programs). Baseball 2 (average of 1 for every 130 Division IA programs).

Critics of the college system point out that where blacks were assistants, their primary role was to recruit black athletes.

College Sports Administration

Gayle Sayers became the first black athletic director when he got the job at Southern Illinois in 1973. Charles Harris was next when he was appointed at the University of Pennsylvania in 1980. In 1987 there are only two black athletic directors at Division I and IA schools. Gene Smith is at Eastern Michigan and Charles Harris has moved to Arizona State. There are more than 800 athletic directors at predominantly white colleges. Smith and Harris represent less than one-half percent of the total. Five (6.8 percent) of 73 NCAA staff members are black. There are no black commissioners of Division 1A conferences.

In Underwood's survey of 277 schools, there were only four black associate ADs. 10 assistant ADs, three business managers, no ticket managers, two sports information directors, nine trainers and 20 equipment managers.

Wilford Bailey, the current NCAA president, knows there is a long way to go. "In general. colleges and universities have taken this seriously ... unquestionably, as in society in general, progress has been uneven and somewhat spotty." He told the Chronicle of Higher Education: "I concerted effort for athletic departments to seek out qualified black coaches and administrators. Still, opportunities for blacks as coaches and administrators at the college level provide little hope for the pros. Worse still, a huge percentage of black student-athletes major in physical education or sports administration. If they graduate, how will they apply those studies if blacks are shut out of this job market?

Stocks Open Mixed

NEW YORK (UPI) - Prices opened narrowly mixed Monday in moderate trading at the start of whates expected to be a quiet, four-day week in the stock market.

The Dow dones industrial average, which rose 16.01 last week, was up 1.44 to 2438.30 shortly after the market opened.

But advances edged declines 479-456 among the 1,353 issues crossing the New York Stock

Early turnover amounted to about 12,200,000

The market Friday retreated from record levels reached earlier in the week, in subdued trading pressured by fallout from other financial arenas and fears that oil prices may be on the way up.

Analysts said weakness in bonds and the dollar deflated the stock market's psychology, while higher oil prices - a portent of inflationary pressures - did not help.

Hugh Johnson, chairman of the investment policy committee at First Albany Corp., said the market's lackluster performance Friday could mark a watershed in what had been a rising

"Up until (Thursday), convictions were on the rise," Johnson said. "But (Friday) we seemed to run out of steam. The feeling is that we've come a long way with the dollar and with bonds, and now it's time for, at a minimum, some profit taking."

The question, he added, is whether the profit taking "will become something more - either a pullback or a correction" this week.

She said the city also prepared itself for the impending funding loss through its policy of not using the revenue sharing dollars for capital items, a long-held practice of many other cities which bought fire and garbage trucks, police cars and a number of other large-ticket items with the federal money.

Some cities' reliance on the federal money in light of the fund losses has created "ominous signals." said Alan Beals, the league's executive

"It is a warning that there is a rude awakening in store for those who think our cities and towns are all prospering just because they are managing to keep their budgets balanced while Washington ... is awash in trillions of dollars of debt."

The one-third of the surveyed cities expecting decreased revenues by the end of the year for municipal general funds - the money supply that covers most of a city's expenses - is nearly twice as large a share as the 17 percent that reported a decline in the 1986 survey.

The League of Cities credited the drop to two major decisions in Washington.

First was the termination in September of the General Revenue Sharing program, which provided cities with 24 percent of their direct federal

"For most smaller communities, revenue sharing was the only form of federal support they ever saw," Beals said.

The second decision was the federal tax reform law signed Oct. 23, which took away the automatic exemption from taxation enjoyed by people getting interest on municipal bonds. The new law creates what the league described as a "caste system" in which taxability now depends on a variety of factors.

Because most cities have a different fiscal year calendar than the federal government's, which starts Oct. 1, about two-thirds of the cities expect to receive at least some revenue sharing money

But when that aid finally runs dry in fiscal 1988, many cities will be hard pressed to replace it. Forty-three percent of those that have state-imposed limits on the property tax they can levy already are at their limit, according to the report. The same was true with sales tax limits for 80 percent of the cities surveyed and with income tax caps for 23 percent of the cities.

Beals said 52 percent of the cities are making up for the loss in income at least in part by reducing their capital spending - the money they devote to maintaining and improving municipal roads, bridges, buildings and sewers. Of those making cuts, 44 percent largely blamed the loss of revenue sharing.

Most cities plan to spend more for daily government services, the survey showed, but 55 percent said the increase this year will be smaller than the one they saw in 1986.

To help make ends meet, 58 percent said they increased user fees and other non-tax revenues, 38 percent raised local tax rates, 12 percent imposed new taxes and 11 percent established

The county environmental services department has promised there would be no lateral flow of effluent.

"I'm sure," said Davis, "there are ways to do it, but their way is not going to work. I know how water flows laterally. I didn't just fall off the turnip truck."

The county's plans for erecting walls to enclose the rapid infiltration system would not stop the horizontal movement and the eventual discharge of treated sewage into the environmentally sensitive waterways, Davis argued, "It can't work," he said. "I'm not an engineer but I have a lot of practical knowledge."

North, a White House aide fire by President Reagan, has claimed Walsh's appointment by a special three-judge panel violates the Constitution's separation of powers clause, and that further, Walsh has never accepted Meese's parallel appointment because his office has refused to abide by Justice Department guidelines, including following conflict-of-interest provisions.

The challenge, sent back to Robinson from a federal appeals panel with instructions to decide the issue, is scheduled to be heard publicly in court Wed-

Area Charities For Children Gain $19,000

Charity Golf Tournament, held June 23, at Winter Springs Golf Club, raised more than $19,000 for missing, abused and handicapped children.

"Children are so precious and vital to our future, but often they are taken for granted, neglected and even abused. Florida has some of the highest rates in the nation for missing and abused children," says Hank Boxley, ager for Tenneco Oil Processing and Marketing.

"We, as a company, saw the need to get involved, to help prevent the problems of missing and abused children and to support children with mental retardation and life-threatening illnesses."

Local children's charities to benefit from the tournament include Missing Children Center. a coordinating agency between missing children, their families and other interested parties; Special Olympics Florida, a program of sports training and athletic competition for children with mental retardation; The Children's Wish Foundation, a vehicle for granting wishes to children who are suffering from life-threatening illnesses; and the Child Protection Team, a multi-disciplinary agency serving abused and neglected children in a tri-country area.

Directors of each of these four organizations — Joan Hopkins, Tenneco has announced that Jan Brown, Barbara Sarjeant Its second Annual Children's and Susan Whelen Williams, respectively - accepted donations on behalf of their agencies from Boxley at an awards ceremony following the tournament and lunch.

Boxley emphasized that the contribution to the Child Protection Team would go toward the purchase of 1,000 copies of the insightful book, "Death From Child Abuse and No One Heard," a true story about the physical Southern Region General Man- abuse, torture and death of Ursula Sunshine Assaid, a five-year-old Altamonte Springs girl. The book also offers resources for those interested in taking a larger role in the prevention of child abuse.

Tenneco's contribution will allow the Child Protection Team; to educate the public about child abuse prevention, while raising additional funds for future ef-

Eighteen local companies joined Tenneco in sponsoring the tournament and 124 individuals played golf for Central Florida Children. In an additional show of support, Dick Fess, Mayor of Lake Mary, played in the tournament and John Torcaso, Mayor of Winter Springs, made an appearance during the event.

Tenneco's children's charity golf tournament has become an annual event that will continue to support organizations working for the betterment of the lives of children.

Father Pleads With Son To End His Long Silence

DEAR ABBY: I hope this reached you in time to make your Father's Day column. It's a message to my son:

"Dear Son: I haven't heard from you in several years, but want you to know that you are our last thought in the evening and our first thought every morning. Your sisters do not understand why you have not at least contacted them. The situation has changed totally since you left home. There is no reason for you not to contact us. We want you to know that there is a big hole in our lives where you belong. You are a young man now, and there is so much we want to know about you: Where are you? What are you doing? Are you married? Do we have grandchildren?

"It would be the greatest Father's Day gift in the world if you would just pick up the phone and call me - collect. If I could just hear your voice and know that you were all right, I would cry for joy. If you can't come home, please let us know where you are, and we will come

Clubhouse Kids Schedule Auditions For TV Special

The Clubhouse Kids of Central Florida are preparing to cast and produce their second television special in union with WCPX (Channel 6) in Orlando. The original show "A Single Candle" written by Yvonne Marie Cummings, founder and director of Clubhouse Kids, is scheduled to run on WCPX this fall.

Last Christmas, "The Little Shepherd Boy," also written by Mrs. Cummings and produced and directed by Nancy O'Ryan and Jerry Johns of WCPX, ran Christmas Eve and Christmas Day. This joyful musical drama produced entirely by WCPX and assisted financially by many area merchants received so much positive response from the community that it will be aired again at Christmastime this year and possibly set for syndication along with "A Single Candle."

Both television specials will star The Clubhouse Kids, all youngsters ages 3-18 who take drama dance and voice from Yvonne Cummings and her assistants Betsy Pavlovich and Sandra Morris.

However, for "A Single Candle" there is a special casting call opened to the public for three special roles. The lead role of David, is open for audition for boys 8-12 who can act and sing.

2 Selected For Special Institute

Two Seminole County teachers, Patricia Pope from Winter Springs Elementary, and Karen Sackett from Hamilton Elementary in Sanford, have been invited to attend the Florida Institute for Visual Education sponsored by The John and Mable Ringling Museum of Art. July 12-24. The Institute is a two-week intensive teacher education program designed to integrate the visual arts and visual literacy into classroom teaching, according to Bob Arden of the museum's public affairs department.

Forty-six teachers selected from 17 counties will bring an average of 13.1 years of kindergarten through 8th-grade teaching experience with them to the Institute and will receive in-service credit for taking part and for implementing Institute concepts in their classrooms during the following school year, Arden said.

Teacher Named Awards Judge

Lake Mary High School teacher Barbara Roth has been pointed by The National Council of Teachers of English to be a regional judge for the 1987 NCTE Achievement Awards in Writing, according to Karen Coleman, Seminole County School Board spokesman.

NCTE is made up of more than 90,000 individual teachers and institutional members at all levels of instruction, from elementary school through university. Its goal is more effective teaching of English language and literature in the nation's schools and colleges, Coleman said. NCTE also publishes journals, books and recordings to aid teachers in the classroom and in their professional development, she said.

Through this nationally recognized competition, now in its thirtieth year, approximately 800 high school seniors are cited for excellence in writing and are recommended to colleges and universities for admission and for financial aid, if needed, Coleman said. More than six thousand students were nominated for NCTE awards in 1986 with the results to be announced in October.

Citrus Season Said Successful, Grapefruit Exports Hit Record

LAKELAND (UPI) - Florida's citrus industry had a "wildly successful" 1986-87 season with domestic orange juice prices strengthening and exports of fresh grapefruit hitting record levels, state citrus officials said Sunday.

Both domestic sales and exports were strong throughout the season, which is just ending, said Poonam Mittal, market research coordinator for the Florida Department of demand for citrus and a mild winter. Domestic orange prices have increased 27 percent since prime competitor Brazil raised its prices following anti-dumping tariffs levied by the United States last fall.

Radio, TV Blast New Tax

WEST PALM BEACH (UPI) - Florida television and radio stations will hit the airwaves this week with a series of high-pressure ads aimed at getting Gov. Bob Martinez to repeal the sales tax on service and advertising.

Gore Bids For Presidency

CARTHAGE, Tenn. (UPI) — Vowing to restore public trust in government and to bargain with the Soviets for a "safer, saner world," Sen. Albert Gore Jr. today announced his long-shot bid for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The 39-year-old Gore, an unofficial candidate since April, is the youngest of 11 Democrats who are announced or possible candidates for the party's nomination. Seven Republicans are seeking the GOP nomination.

Referring to the Iran-Contra scandal, the Tennessee senator said if he were president, "Any government official who steals from the American people or lies to the United States Congress will be fired immediately."

Gore has relied on Tennessee contributors to finance the early stages of his campaign and is counting on the financial support of 17 wealthy Democrats in the Washington, D.C., area who pledged to raise up to $250,000 each if Gore becomes a viable candidate.

Gore's wife, Tipper, gained national attention by trying to convince the music industry to label rock recordings that contain lewd lyrics and with her book "Raising PG Kids in an And Georgia Sen. Sam Nunn, X-Rated Society." The couple has three children.
