Sanford Police To Unveil Weapon Against Drunk Drivers

The Sanford Police Department's BATmobile, a $38,500 high-tech weapon against drunk driving, will be unveiled at department headquarters on Thursday at 11:30 a.m.

Contributions from more than 50 local citizens, civic groups and businesses during the last year have enabled purchase and outfitting of the mobilized alcohol breath testing unit.

Although the BATmobile will primarily serve as artillery for the department's "war against drunk drivers," it can also act as a command center during emergencies and provide onscene assistance for homicide and major auto accident investigations, Sanford Police Chief Steve Harriett said.

In addition to alcohol testing outnment the BATmobile contains a communications system, high powered lighting. first aid and photography equipment and an electric typewriter for taking on-scene statements, Harriett said.

The black and white unit structurally resembles an emergency vehicle, and has the police department's name and the words Breath Alcohol Testing Unit emblazoned on its outside panels. Its intoxilyzer will be used to determine breath alcohol levels and its video unit will tape suspected drunk drivers. Harricit said. By having this equipment readily available. Sanford police will be able to test drunk drivers in less than an hour, instead of having to spend more than two hours using equipment at the Seminole County jail, Harriett said.

Harriett said BATmobile patrols will target decreasing alcohol related fatalities in Sanford, while increasing the number of drunk driving arrests.

During the last 10 years, there have been 52 traffic fatalities in Sanford, the majority of which involved alcohol abuse. Harriett

Last year Sanford police arrested 86 drunk drivers, he said. The BATmobile will be driven by officers trained to administer drunk driving tests and will initially patrol city streets from the 8 p.m. to 4 a.m. "peak drunk driving hours," Harriett said.

'When not on patrol or at special investigations. Harriett said the Batmobile will serve as an "educational tool" by being displayed and demonstrated at local schools and various city functions.

He also said "public spirited citizens" turned acquisition of the BATmobile into a year-long "community project."

Young residents of Sandalwood subdivision, from left, Trey Newkerk, Danny and Becky Argo discuss request with Longwood City Commissioner Perry Faulkner at Monday night's commission meeting. The Woodlands Elementary School students patiently walted for more than two hours for a chance to ask the city to replace a sidewalk and sod on Sandalwood Way torn up a year ago when pipes were laid. They presented a sketch of the area in question which is at the Range Line Road entrance to the subdivision where the children have put in 40 hours cleaning it up. They were told to come back June 16 for an answer.

'Streetscape' To Be Extended

City To Expand Road Program

By Karen Talley Herald Staff Writer

Sanford will be able to expand its First Street Streetscape project and repave approximately 230,000 square-yards of roadway by adding $460,000 in budget funds to the $400,000 in local gas tax accruals that were earmarked earlier this spring for the city's road rehabilitation

The expanded road program is expected to begin on First Street in August. It was unveiled at Monday's city commission workshop by Sanford Engineering and Planning Director Bill Sammons. Simmons said $860,000 in road projects could be undertaken by supplementing the original program with $400,000 in reserve budget funds and $60,000 in budgeted downtown redevelopment funds.

In addition to enabling more roadwork, the city will save money by contracting a larger project.

City commissioners must formally approve the revised project at a regular meeting, aithough they reacted favorably to Simmons' proposal during Monday's workshop.

The $60,000 in downtown redevelopment funds would go for the Streetscape revitalization of First Street, Simmons said.

Streetscape would be extended west, from Oak to Park avenues, and east, from Palmetto to Sanford avenues. These sections of First Street would be widened by four feet to accommodate diagonal parking, bricks would be layed at erosswalks, and planters and 1890's style lighting would be installed, Simmons said.

Of the $800,000 in gas tax accruals and budget reserve funds, $110.570 would go to build a new First Street roadway, between Park and French Avenues: and $96,880 would be used for construction of new roadway on McCracken Road, between Persimmon Avenue and Airport Boulevard.

The estimated $592,550 project balance would be used to repave sections of approximately 30 city streets. Simmons said.

Sanford received its $400,000 in gas tax accruals prior to November, when a distrubution formula dispute between Seminole County and its cities prompted the state to hold these funds in escrow until the issue is settled.

Once a formula has been agreed upon. Sanford will use the released tax accruals and those it will continue to receive to develop an annual or bi-annual road program. Simmons said.

He estimated the state is holding more than $400,000 in Sanford tax accruals and that the figure increases by $48,000 each month.

Residents Displeased

Land Use Change Ok'd

By Sarah Fischer Herald Staff Writer

trend toward more long-range planning in the county came into sharp focus Tuesday when the county commission approved a land use change for 362 acres in southeast Seminole.

Some 70 residents who protested the move walked away disappointed after commissioners voted 3-2 to approve a change requested by Mike Jones from general rural to low density residential on property located on the north side of County Road 419 north of the Seminole Flying Ranch.

Three of the commissioners agreed with the recommendation of the local planning agency land use change packed the and county staff in okaying the amendment to the county's comprehensive land use plan.

Commissioners Bill Kirchhoff zens against the proposal. and Fred Streetman, however, citizens said necessary public services, such as water, sewer and roads, simply do not exist in the area near Chuluota to support the higher density land use.

Kirchhoff faulted county staff the request, saying the change amendment, commenting, "We should be put on hold until the can plan without a change in the land use plan update in 1987.

He also questioned the need to change the land use in unmapped areas before the plan is updated.

There are too many questions as to the impact of what will happen out there," he said. These people are out here and they're concerned. We're in a to look at this. There is a this tonight and we will get into trouble."

Commissioner Barbara Christensen, however, said she felt county staff had "taken a good hard look" at the request and "made the right decision."

County Commission Chairman Bob Sturm said the area is "transitional" and that future rezoning can be planned

Although county planners said the requested amendment is inconsistent with the county's policy to encourage rural development in the area, they said low density residential land use could be a buffer between existing industrial zoning and high

The residents asked county commissioners to leave Wells Avenue as a "barrier" between their homes and commercial construction.

Longwood Moves Toward Eliminating Utility Tax Cap

By Jane Casselberry Herald Staff Writer

Longwood City Commissioners have given preliminary approval to removing the $10 cap on the city's 10 percent utility tax for commercial and industrial customers. A public hearing has been scheduled for June 16 at 7:30 p.m. in city hall. If adopted it is expected to bring in an additional $10,000 to $13,000 a month. Florida Power Corp. Longwood office manager Dawn Thompson told the city commission at Monday night's meeting the city will probably only have the benefit of the proposed increase for the month of August in this fiscal year, because the first billing period will begin 30 days following the final approval. The money will be paid the city on the second week in September.

Based on an estimated 1,317 commercial and industrial telephone customers with an average bill of $23.45, the city would generate approximately $100 per month additional income. There are 26 commercial gas customers in the city with an average bill of $250 a proximately $390 per month, ac-month, which would generate apcording to City Administrator Ronald Waller.

The only water customers effected by removing the cap on water would be those few customers who use more than 88,000 gallons a month. This would include the South Seminole Community Hospital, downmallboxes. which Waller said, has a monthly bill of approximately $1,000 a month for a monthly increase of $90 a month. It is estimated that approximately $200 a month will be derived if the cap is lifted.

The City Commission Monday night gave preliminary approval to continue the "temporary" closing of two Shadow Hills streets for the fourth time in two years. A public hearing and final vote are scheduled for June 16.

Lamont Avenue and Shadow Trail exits onto Myrtle Lake Hills Road (then unpaved) were blocked off originally at the request of residents to stop drivers from cutting through their neighborhood and knocking Although problems that existed then have since been corrected. residents of the streets have used safety as a reason for keeping the streets closed. City Attorney Gerald Korman said.

'I don't believe in closing public streets and maintaining them with city money. After they have been closed for awhile, people begin to regard the streets as a playground and that makes them more unsafe. If you are not going to reopen them. vacate them."

The ordinance that allows the streets to be closed temporarily runs out June 30. The last time the matter came up for consideration

Murdoch Warehouse Fire Sparks Accusations Battle

LONDON (UPI) - A spectacular blaze that gutted a giant warehouse owned by news baron Rupert Murdoch has sparked angry words between company officials and representatives of printers Murdoch fired four months ago.

Officials of Murdoch's News International company blamed the fire, which caused an estimated $10.5 million in damage, on "sabotage" by the fired printers and offered a $75,000 reward for information leading to the capture of suspected arsonists.

But union leader Brenda Dean rejected those accusations as "absolutely disgraceful."

Dean, leader of the Society of Graphical and Allied Trades (SOGAT), said, "To make assumptions is certainly wrong and our members don't deserve that kind of allegation being made against them."

Police said only that they were treating the fire early Tuesday as "suspicious" and were interviewing possible

The Times newspaper, Murdoch's flagship daily in Britain, reported Tuesday that police were hunting a three-man arson gang.

Hostage Freed; Companion Dies

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI) - Lestist guerrillas freed a U.S. oil pipeline engineer after holding him for 174 days in eastern jungles, but a second U.S. engineer died in captivity of an apparent heart attack, officials said.

Rick Maslin, a spokesman for the Flour company, said Tuesday that John Geddes, 56, a Fluor construction superintendent was found to be in "good health" after he was freed Monday.

Maslin would not give Geddes's hometown or say if the engineer had already returned to the United States.

Geddes said fellow hostage, Edward Sohl, 62, a Bechtel Corp. construction superintendent from Santa Rosa, Calif., died of an apparent heart attack May 17.

Bechtel officials said Geddes told them Sohl died after suffering intermittent dysentery and rebels buried him in the jungle.

Bechtel was contracted by Occidental Petroleum to build an oil pipeline in eastern Colombia to transport oil from the rich wells along the Venezuelan border. Fluor was subcontracted by Bechtel for the project.

Chernobyl Death Toll Rises

MOSCOW (UPI) - A Soviet doctor says the death toll from the Chernobyl nuclear accident has risen to 25, and Sovjet television aired the first footage of the most seriously injured victims - gaunt and balding stremen who battled the initial explosion.

Dr. Leonid Ilvin, who is treating patients severely afflicted with radiation sickness, revealed at a Moscow news conference Tuesday that 18,000 people had been hospitalized briefly after the April 26 accident.

He said they were treated for headaches, coughing and respiratory problems at hospitals in the Kiev area. 80 miles south of the Chernobyl nuclear power station, and were released.

Another 299 people were exposed to heavy doses of radiation from the accident, Ilyin said. Of them, 89 have since been released and 30 remained in critical condition,

Government Asks Recall Of Infant Toys

WASHINGTON (UPI) - More than 1 million families own a popular crib toy that has already been blamed for the deaths of two infants, the government says in a complaint, but the manufacturer denies the toy is unsafe.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission, which endorses voluntary toy industry standards, has filed a formal complaint asking an administrative law judge to force the recall of "Soft Triplets." "Piglet Crib Gym" and "Triplets Marching Band.

Two deaths have been blamed on the

In October 1984, a 10-month-old Temple Hills, Md., boy strangled to death when he became entangled in cords used to tie a Triplet toy to his crib. In December 1985, a 7-month-old Coronado, Calif., girl was asphyxiated when she became caught on the Triplet toy that hung over her crib.

Johnson & Johnson Baby Products Co. Inc., based in New Brunswick. N.J., stopped distributing the Hong Kong-made toys in March, but has refused to recall 1.6 million that have been sold since 1979. CPSC spokesman David Schmeltzer told a news conference Monday.

Johnson & Johnson spokesman Jim Murray denied the toys were defective or unsafe and said the company would fight the recall effort.

"We believe the CPSC action, which seeks an order requiring us to recall the toy, is unnecessary and inappropriate. We therefore intend to present a vigorous defense and are optimistic that the hearing officer will agree that our actions are appropriate." Murray said. He said the company has already moved through direct mail to warn 700.000 purchasers of the toys against using them in a crib once a child is able to sit up and intends to place advertisements in parenting magazines.

Murray also said the toys have always included instructions warning against use as a crib toy for older babies.

But a CPSC spokesman said, "They may have instructions but the parents don't follow them."

"It would have been the politic and right thing to do for them (Johnson & Johnson): to take them off the market. They keep saving the label is going to do the job. We say no, the label won't do the job. It's a very sharp difference of opinion," he added.

"We're concerned because of the 1.6 million. These things are out there and the possibility for danger is intense.

Schmeltzer said the toys, which consist of stuffed cloth figures holding hands in a line held together by elastic, are dangerous because the elastic and strings used to attach them across cribs can strangle older infants. The strings must be provided by the purchaser.

He said most companies warn that crib toys are not for use after 6 months because once a child is able to grab the toy or stand up, strangulation is a risk.

But he said the Johnson & Johnson toys are marked for use by children as old as 2. though not necessarily in the crib. Johnson & Johnson's warning against using the toys in the crib "is not enough." Schmeltzer said. "because people will use it as it was designed - as a crib gym." The dolls were sold mostly by mail order from Parents. American Baby and Baby Talk magazines for $6.50 apiece. Schmeltzer said.

The CPSC called on Johnson & Johnson to either repair the toys so there is no defect. replace them with a toy that is not defective or refund the price.

Longwood Commission Votes On Wrong Project

By Jane Casselberry Herald Staff Writer

When Longwood City Commissioners approved a bid schedule Monday night for the $2.5 million expansion of the Skylark (Grant Street) sewage treatment plant according to their agenda, they were quickly informed by the project engineer that the bid schedule was supposed to be for a force main project instead.

The commission moved quickly to correct the error by voting to amend the previous motion from sewage treatment plant to force main to carry sewage from the Columbus Harbour plant to Skylark.

The project was referred to incorrectly as "Skylark (Grant Street) Wastewater Treatment Plant" in both a memo from City Administrator Ronald Waller and in the agenda for Monday night's meeting.

Plans had called for an eightinch force main to go from

One-Cent Sales Tax Could Solve Road Problems

Ah, yes ... it surely holds that you can fool some of the people some of the time, but People nowadays are far more betterinformed than those Orange County powerhouses who tried to slick talk the taxpayers into picking up the tab for a traffic mess via the Metropolitan Transportation Authority give them credit for.

Voters in Seminole, Orange and Osceola countles showed just what they thought of those slick-talking efforts with an overwhelming rejection of the proposed MTA road improvement plan to be paid for with a property tax of up to $1 per $1,000 assessed valuation and/or up to a 4-cents per gallon gasoline tax.

Sure, there's a massive traffic problem on many of the major roads and highways in the three counties.

Sure, something needs to be done.

What made those powerhouses think they're the only ones who know that? And where on earth did they get the idea they could make the local residents in those counties feel responsible enough for the traffic mess that they could talk them into paying for it with a property tax?

The voters know where the responsibility lies. They know it lies with those elected public officials and appointed bureaucrats at the local level and in Tallahassee who should have provided solutions to road-impact problems through proper preplanning. Those "experts" knew the growth was coming here and will continue for the next several years. And they knew that growth would severely impact our highways. But they went to sleep. Perhaps the voters have awakened them.

What needs to be done, we feel, is for local elected county officials to put their heads together and come up with a viable sales tax plan to pay for sorely needed local road improvements over the coming years.

In 1984 Seminole County voters were asked to support a much-needed jail expansion with a one-time, one-cent sales tax during 1985. The voters saw their obligation and gave their support with ease. They approved the one-cent, one-year-only sales tax limited to the first $1,000 of purchases and that generated $13 million to pay for the fail expansion. Now. County Commissioner Bob Sturm is estimating that a one-cent sales tax across the board would generate some $200 million over a 10-year period to pay for road

A one-cent sales tax would be a far more equitable way of asking people to pay for such a project.

It's easier on the pocketbook, too.

Why Reagan Joined Hands Across America

WASHINGTON (NEA) - The memory of Hands Across America is already beginning to fade, but the unfortunate precedent it established is likely to have a lingering - and detrimental - impact on public policy.

The attempt to form a human chain across the nation didn't accidentally fall into a trap constructed by President Reagan. Instead, it enthusiastically plunged in.

At best insensitive and at worst hostile to the plight of the country's underclass. Reagan has never disguised his belief that the federal government ought to drastically reduce its assistance to those so indigent that they cannot meet their own needs.

Instead, he has argued, more aid to the physically and mentally handicapped, the destitute elderly and others who desperately need help ought to be provided by organized charities and other non-government efforts.

The compassion and generosity of the people who contributed to those efforts last year provided almost $80 billion for the nation's philanthropic organizations — but assisting the poor requires far more resources than those private organizations can command.

Government traditionally has been the mechanism through which caring people have helped the less fortunate - but Reagan has persistently sought to undermine that arrangement.

The "safety net" he claimed to have constructed early in his tenure to aid the "truly needy" was not really an attempt to assist the poor, Instead, it was an effort to placate the politically active recipients of government benefits distributed primarily to middle-income people.

To the extent that the "safety net" provided some modest assistance to the dispossessed, it now is shredded and tattered - but the president doesn't seem to care.

Item: The Children's Defense Fund reports that in 1980, the year Reagan was first elected. 68 percent of all people in poverty received federal food stamps. By 1985 that figure had dropped to 59 percent.

Item: Attorney General Edwin Meese, a longtime Reagan confidant, suggests that some people patronize soup kitchens only because "the food is free." Reagan believes hunger is caused only by "a lack of knowledge" on the part of the destitute about where to obtain food. Item: A study conducted by Harvard University's School of Public Health accuses the Reagan administration of crafting unnecessarily complex federal regulations as "barriers which knock people off the rolls" of the food stamp program.

Against that background, the well-intentioned but politically naive organizers of Hands Across America arrived on the scene to proclaim that hunger and homelessness could somehow be ameliorated, if not obliterated, in one spasm of transcontinental hand-holding. A triumph of form over substance, the project had a cardinal goal of constructing an unbroken chain of people from coast to coast, all of whom would incidentally donate $10 to $25 to the poor. That effort to make that chain failed, as did the project's feeble attempt at "consciousness-raising."

Reagan, who has never displayed any particular interest in the plight of the poor. presumably joined the line when he belatedly realized that Hands Across America reinforced his commitment to strip the government of most of its responsibility for the dispossessed.

Why Women Murder

By Delthia Ricks UPI Science Writer

LOS ANGELES (UPI) - A study linking murderous impulses to a history of family violence indicates that women who commit murder usually experienced episodes of abuse as children and severe beatings as adults.

"Women usually do not kill for profit." said Dr. Nancy Kaser-Boyd, a clinical professor of psychiatry at the University of Southern California. "The motives for murders committed by women differ from those of men.

Unlike men, women are less likely to kill a casual acquaintance, and tend more often to commit murder in self-defense during a heated dispute with someone they know. the study shows.

Kaser-Boyd explored both the psychological and sociological reasons why women kill in a study that focused on a group of 35 women arrested for homicides in Los Angeles County between 1978

"The findings suggest that homicides committed by women could be dramatically reduced if family violence were reduced," Kaser-Boyd said. "Murder by women is not common. It rarely occurs outside a certain set of circumstances."

She said the common thread that runs through all of the cases is a history of victimization that begins with child abuse and moves into an adult life punctuated by violence usually inflicted by a spouse or boyfriend. "Thirty-eight percent of the women in the study killed spouses. In over half of those cases there had been a history of violent altercations between the couple that was usually characterized by the woman being beaten by the man.

The women who killed their mates reported numerous incidents of being either battered or threatened with physical violence and explained that their motives for murder ranged from self-defense to Kaser-Boyd found that 70 percent of the murders committed by the women studied occurred during acts of family violence.

"Women are socialized to be less aggressive than men and to control their angry impulses. They also tend to react to things less physically and are more inclined to use words because they are less suited for aggressive combat.

The U.S. Justice Department estimates that women commit between 15,000 and 18,000 murders annually - roughly 20 percent of all murders reported nationwide.

Shaking Wall Street

WASHINGTON (NEA) - Highflying investment banker Dennis Levine may not be the only one. Street figures might be involved in the alleged insider trading that recently led to Levine's arrest. according to Securities and Exchange Commission and Justice Department sources.

Levine, 33, a merger specialist and managing director of Drexel Burnham Lambert, has been charged with using advanced knowledge (unavailable to the public) of impending mergers and acquisitions to make more than $12.6 million.

Five other Wall Street insiders have been indicted for insider trading in an entirely unrelated case. investigators, however, say the Levine case is much more important and could have more wide ranging ramifications.

Levine is accused of purchasing stock in companies about to be acquired and then selling the stock once the merger is announced and the stock prices skyrocket.

Wall Street has claimed the Levine case is an isolated incident of a young man who, despite a million-dollar salary, apparently got greedy and wanted more. But if it turns out that he was in league with others - and especially if those people turn out to hold positions on anywhere near the level that Levine did - the case could shake the financial establishment to its very

That is why SEC investigators are characterizing this as possibly the most important insider trading case they have ever pursued.

SEC investigators say the case was especially hard to break because of the lengths to which Levine went to cover his tracks, Levine established two Panamanian corporations with dummy Investigators believe other Wall boards of directors and officers and then established bank accounts for those corporations at a Bahamian branch of Bank Leu, a Swiss banking corporation.

He made calls to a confederate at the Bahamian bank from pay phones and the stock trades were made by the bank in the name of the dummy corporations. Profits were then transferred from that bank to other banks, mostly in the Cayman Islands, and eventually into accounts that Levine held in still other banks.

An example of the sort of trade Levine is said to have made was one he engineered in 1984 when he learned that Nabisco, Inc., was a takeover target of RJR Industries.

Beginning on May 6, and then continuing over a period of several days, his dummy corporations allegedly bought 150,000 shares of Nabisco for $9.3 million. Then, three weeks later, when the stock shot up after the announcement of the acquisition, he allegedly began selling the stock in small blocks for an eventual $2.7 million profit.

In all, Levine is accused of making 54 illegal trades over more than five

What is puzzling investigators, and what leads them to believe others were involved, is that many of the forthcoming deals Levine is accused of cashing in on were ones that neither he nor the investment firms he worked for were involved in. This has led investigators to conclude either that Levine was plugged into some kind of informal network of Wall Street insiders who traded tips about forthcoming deals or that he had direct confederates in other Wall Street firms.

Poland Will Be Poland

CRACOW. Poland (NEA) - The greatest names in Poland's long and turbulent history are at rest in the crypt below this city's ancient Wawel Castle.

The remains of King Jan Sobieski. who thundered to the rescue of besieged Vienna in 1683 to end the last Turkish threat to Europe, are interred here. So are those of Queen Jadwiga, whose marriage to Grand Duke Jagiello of Lithuania in 1386 established their combined countries as a major European power for the next several centuries. So are those of Stanislaw Poniatowski, Poland's last king, and of Taddeusz Kosciusko, hero of the American Revolution who fared less well leading a 1794 uprising against Poland's own oppressors — then, as now, Russians.

And so are those of Gen. Jozef Pilsudski.

There should be nothing so unusual in this. Europe is dotted with similar shrines to the greats of a long and turbulent past.

Except that this is the People's Republic of Poland, a society that supposedly has broken with the past to follow the way of the future as mapped by Marx and Lenin. And the honored dead include not only kings and queens of the safely distant past but more recent leaders such as Pilsudski, the autocratic leader of post-World War I Poland who waged and won a war against the early Soviet state, adding to Poland most of the territory the Soviets took back after World War

Even stranger, they include Gen. Wladyslaw Sikorski, leader of the wartime Polish government in exile in London, which was muscled out of post-war power by Soviet stooges whose heirs still run the show in Warsaw. Sikorski's ashes were to have been returned to Poland in 1981, by no means coincidentally when the Solidarity movement was in full flower. But Poles abroad. vehemently opposed to even this degree of reconciliation with the communist regime, protested.

So the ashes remain at a military cemetery in England. But the imposing stone sarcophagus constructed for them remains on prominent display in Wawel's crypt.

NRC Weakens Fire-Safety Rules

By Jack Anderson And

takes a tragedy to prove a point. The Chernobyl disaster, caused by a lire and an explosion in a nuclear reactor, occurred just 51 days after we reported federal safety inspectors' complaints that U.S. nuclear power plants were inadequately protected against fire.

At the time, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission's director of inspection and enforcement, Richard Volmer, assured us that the nation's nuclear plants are perfectly safe. He told our associate Corky Johnson that nuclear plants' fire protection is "far above" that of other industries. So, of course, is the danger posed by nuclear power plants, as the Soviet tragedy made appallingly clear.

You might think Chernobyl would have taken some of the smugness out of the commission, and perhaps caused it to pay closer attention to the complaints of its own safety inspectors. Unfortunately, this didn't happen. We have learned that, since the hideous accident in the Ukraine, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission staff called in the inspectors and informed them that new, more lenient interpretations of fire-safety regulations had been approved by the commissioners over the inspectors' vehement pro-

The government has tirelessly repeated its assurances to the American public that a Chernobyl-type disaster can't happen here, because of design differences. This is true, but it is also beside the point.

As safety inspectors explained to us. many U.S. nuclear plants have their own unique sets of hazards that could lead to fires, subsequent runaway control rooms and ultimate catastrophe. The fact that a nuclear tragedy won't be a carbon copy of Chernobyl will be small comfort to the victims.

One commission source said the new guidelines deliver an ominous message: "Fire safety is just a minor issue." Even after the horrible example of Chernobyl, the commission has now confirmed this

A fire last month at the Browns Ferry, Ala., nuclear complex raises renewed concern over fire safety. The latest fire didn't affect any safety systems, but one in 1975 did. nearly causing a meltdown. Inspectors told us that the Browns Ferry operators — the Tennessee Valley Authority — are still resisting the safety standards adopted after the 1975 fire.

The near-disaster in 1975 wiped out vital control room functions. Eleven years later, several inspectors said, the new guidelines permit a similar mishap by not fully protecting key controls. Incredibly, the new guidelines let nuclear plant operators sidestep the protection of redundant control systems by planning fire safety for the first set of controls only.

"I can only postulate the fallure of one valve, although there might be six valves on a control panel," an inspector told us. "It's ridiculous."

The guidelines permit partial fire barriers between the first control system and the backup system. which can be in the same room. This means that a fire could shortcircuit both systems.

"The redundant system is the key, but if redundancy is compromised by fire the risk is (another) Chernobyl," an inspector said. One source estimated that 50 or 60 of the nation's 100 nuclear power plants use only partial fire barriers. sprinklers and detectors.

Spy Trials in Washington, Baltimore Near Conclusions

BALTIMORE (UPI) - Prosecutors cross-e::amining accused spy Ronald Pelton attacked his claims that he was on drugs when he made damaging statements to the FBI and that the agents tricked him into believing he would not be prosecuted.

Pelton acknowledged in testimony Tuesday that FBI agents never specifically told him they wanted him to work for them, but maintained he believed they wanted to give him a counterintelligence assignment.

Pelton, a former employee of the National Security Agency, is charged with selling military secrets to the Soviet Union during a five-year period for $35,000. If convicted, he faces a maximum sentence of life in prison.

Closing arguments were to be presented today. Meanwhile, in Washington, government prosecutors and lawyers in the Jonathan Pollard espionage trial expected to complete a deal today that would include his guilty plea to at least one count of spying for Israel, sources say.

Anne Henderson-Pollard, charged with helping her husband, would plead guilty to a lesser charge under the agreement, the sources said.

Pollard, accused of selling stacks of classified U.S. documents to the Israelis, is tentatively scheduled to appear in federal court this afternoon. U.S. attorney's office sources said. The sources said Tuesday the court appearance hinger on the resolution of final details of the plea bargain.

Schlafly Lobbied For Grant

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Eagle Forum president Phyllis Schlafly says she prodded a conservative group closely aligned to hers to seek federal family violence prevention funds partly to balance funding of "feminist" groups.

People for the American Way revealed Tuesday that the Task Force on Families in Crisis — a conservative group whose leaders are also Eagle Forum officials - has received a $622,905 grant from the Justice Department's Office of Victims of Crime for a two-year project aimed at reducing wife and child abuse.

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Reagan has chosen to make his only commencement speech of the graduation season before what is is perhaps the toughest physical education school in the world — the Marine Corps boot camp at Parris Island, S.C.

Shuttle Families To Get Probe Report

Commission is to report its investigation Utah. findings today to the families of the seven astronauts killed in the January explosion of the space shuttle Challenger, a panel source savs.

The 200-page report is scheduled to go to the White House Friday and be released to the public Monday afternoon.

The commission source said family members were scheduled to be briefed at a private incetting on the highlights of the panel's findings and recommendations.

In anticipation of the report's release. Morton Thiokol Inc., the company that built the booster rocket blamed in causing the accident, announced Tuesday a major overruled company engineers and approved

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Rogers booster rocket division at Brigham City.

The company also promoted a key engineer who refused to endorse the company's recommendation to launch Challenger.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration already had reassigned Lawrence Mulloy, who directed its booster rocket program at the Marshall Space Flight Center. Huntsville. Ala. at the time of the accident four months ago. Another key Marshall official has retired, and a third asked to be relieved of his shuttle position.

Morton Thiokol, based in Chicago, said two of the four vice presidents who shakeup in the management at its shuttle the launch of the Challenger despite record cold weather will be reassigned and a third will retire.

The fourth vice president. Robert Lund, no longer has the same booster rocket responsibilities, although his title remains unchanged in the shakeup at the company's Wasatch. Utah, rocket division, company spokesman Thomas Russell said. Joseph Kilminster, who was Thiokol vice president for space programs and who signed the document giving NASA the company's launch approval. will be reassigned to other duties in the company. He is being replaced by Carver G. Kennedy.

Calvin Wiggins, another vice president who agreed to launch Challenger over the objections of the engineering staff, also will be reassigned, the company said.

Seminole High School's Thursday evening graduation ceremonies have been moved. About 300 graduating seniors will receive their diplomas at Seminole Community College's gymnasium in the Health Bullding. Building H. Thursday at 7 p.m., according to SHS Principal Wayne Epps.

Three other high schools will also hold graduation ceremonics Thursday.

Epps said the original plans for an outdoor graduation at the high school stadium were altered due to unpredictable weather conditions.

Lake Brantley will graduate 530 seniors at 8 p.m. at the Tora-Storey Stadium at the school.

Lake Howell will hold ceremonies at the Atlantis Theatre. Sea-World, Orlando, at 8 p.m.:

Oviedo High will graduate 315 seniors at 7:30 p.m., in ceremonics held at the Jai-alai Fronton. Fern Park, 7:30 p.m.

Schools hold graduation later this week.

for, 553 against. Voters in Altamonte Springs turned down the issue but gave the greatest support for the referendum - 31 percent - with 1.146 people voting for it. Nay votes in that city totaled 3,599. Sanford voters severely rejected the measure with 2.897 against and 341 for, or just 11 percent voting yes. In Casselberry, the issue was defeated 2.446 to 662 with 25 percent of the voters for the measure. Seminole County Commissioner Fred Streetman, who said he thought the MTA proposal was flawed, was surprised by the size of the defeat. "I think it hinged on the ad valorem tax. It was too strong for the people. We are going to have to go to the legislature to give us a plan." he said. Walter Lowrie, of Maitland, MTA chairman and supporter of the referendum, agreed.

The ad valorem tax was the fundamental thing that caused the resounding defeat." he said

"I personally don't like an ad valorem tax," he said. But, he explained, it was the only way he could see to get the needed funds for the project. He said any alternative plan will take years to implement - the property tax collection would have begun this fall - and by then the road situation will be worse with more accidents and congestion, he predicted.

"I haven't heard of anybody's alternative solution that will work." he said. He said the defeat of the referendum also sounded the end of the MTA. "I presume we'll disband. We have a meeting Thursday, I don't believe there is any reason for it to continue," he said. Lowrie said he probably will not be involved in any alternative plans for road funding. "People yak about appointed officials, but you can only take so much." he said. The MTA, comprised of nine appointed representatives including elected officials, proposed to build and repair 255 miles of roadway with $1 per $1,000 assessed value property tax and a four cents per gallon gas tax. The project for the tri-county area - 52 miles of which are in Seminole County - would have cost 8689 million. Improvements or construction on the 52 miles of roadway in Seminole County would have cost $137 million, less than what Sturm says his new proposal will generate.

In Seminole County, the MTA plan called for the widening of portions of U.S. Highway 17-92. Interstate 4 and state roads 424, 434 and 436. The MTA plan also contained $20 million in right-of-way acquisition funds for Seminole County's portion of the Eastern Bypass Expressway.

there was some opposition from other residents of Shadow Hills who wanted the additional exits to relieve traffic at the only other exit. The opponents later withdrew their objection in the interest of peace.

In a 3-2 vote the commission denied a request by Lewis Warren for two curb cuts (entries) off the entry road to Hidden Oak Subdivision to his property. Warren said he wants to divide his two-acre piece in half and needs two entries.

Commissioners Harvey Smertlson and Ed Myers voted against the motion to deny. Smerilson said he voted as he did because City Planner Chris Nagle had said the two cuts were recommended by the staff. 'We've got to be more responsive and work with people," he added. Myers said. "A man should have a right to develop his property and is willing to do what the land planner asks."

Challenger Tapes Reveal Mission Control's Shock

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) - Shuttle flight controllers monitoring the launch of Challenger were stunned by the spaceship's destruction and one engineer apparently thought the ship might fly free of the explosion intact, tape recordings indicate.

A tape of the mission control audio "loop" at the Johnson Space Center in Houston was obtained Monday after a request was made under the Freedom of Information Act.

The tape shows that for some 13 seconds after Challenger was destroyed, flight controllers sat in silence, apparently stunned as they monitored their controls, but they continued to perform in a professional manner.

Challenger was destroyed 73 seconds after blastoff Jan. 28 when a rupture in its right-side solid-fuel booster rocket triggered the explosion of the shuttle's glant external tank.

Flight director Jay Greene's first response came about 13 seconds later when he asked Brian Perry - the flight dynamics officer, known as the "FIDO" - for information from radar on the shuttle's flight path. "FIDO, trajectory," Greene called in a clipped voice about 86 seconds after blastoff.

"Go ahead," Perry responded. "Trajectory, FIDO," Greene repeated.

"Flight. FIDO," Perry answered, he's on his cue card for abort modes." "The filter's (radar) got discreeting sources. We're go.'

Perry's response apparently meant the radar system was tracking multiple contacts as the shuttle's wreckage plummeted toward the ocean 8.9 miles below. What he may have meant by "we're go" is not clear.

Ground control engineer N.R. Talbott then told Greene that radio contact with Challenger had been lost.

carefully." Greene said. Surprisingly, about 30 seconds after the explosion. Perry told Greene "until we get stuff (communications) back,

That appears to show Perry thought communications might be restored and that Greene should be advised commander Francis "Dick" Scobee and co-pilot Michael Smith had cue cards taped to the cockpit control panel for an emergency landing.

The early phases of Challenger's launching were normal and little was said in mission control other than to confirm that the ship's three liquid-"OK, all operators, watch your data fueled main engines were performing properly.

> When the main engines reached full power about 66 seconds after launch. Greene told astronaut Richard Covey, the "capsule communicator," or "capcom." to inform the crew that the control center was "go" and all systems looked normal.

The fatal rupture in Challenger's right-side rocket already had begun. but the engineers had no way of knowing that and there would have been nothing they could have done to prevent the disaster.

"Capcom, go at throttle up." Greene said to Covey.

"Challenger, go at throttle up." Covey then told the astronauts.

Scobee responded about 70 seconds after launch: "Roger, go at throttle up."

Put Morals Back In Sex Ed, Britons Say

LONDON, June 3 (UPI) = Margaret Thatcher's Conservative government, alarmed by growing permissiveness, is lighting back with legislation that requires teachers of sex education classes to emphasize the morality of love, marriage and family.

Government whip Lady Hooper said the move, included as an amendment to a new education bill and passed in the House of Lords late Monday, will encourage pupils to have "due regard to moral considerations and the value of family life."

She said "sexual education should take place within a moral. framework," so that papils can be helped to acquire "the necessary knowledge, skills and quality of character needed to make responsible choices,"

'Stand Firm' Against Changes To Tax Reform

Republican leaders say it is crucial to prevent major changes be possible to hold off all conference committee. amendments once the bill goes to the floor this week.

Speaking to a group of supporters. Sen. Bob Packwood. his oft-stated argument that the radical tax plan's broad base of support hinged on whether it was kept free of significant alterations.

But Packwood, R.Ore., appeared to go out of his way to distinguish between what he termed major and minor amendments that might be offered when the Senate begins debate today.

Packwood, who last week said 31 senators promised to "stand firm against any amendments of any kind," said he now has 32 senators "who indicate they will stand firm against any major amendments," and avoid the "trap of one itsy-bitsy amendment."

"I have not tried to pin them down as to major-minor, but we have a common understanding when I call them that major amendments mean rate changes or significant variations in the major theme of the bill."

Packwood also conceded that, while he had won support against major amendments from 32 sepators, almost as many lawmakers refused to make that

He said he had contacted 55 to 60 Senate offices - meaning that up to 28 lawmakers had refused to support his "no amendment" stance. "Anybody who doesn't say yes. I presume is a no." he said.

Senate Democratic leader Robert Byrd of West Virginia called the bill "a good measure." but rejected any idea that amendments should be ruled

"I would not be ready to say let's not have any amendments." he told reporters just before the Senate met today.

Asked about a possible change in the proposed elimination of deductions for IRA accounts, Byrd said he would want to look at how such deductions could be balanced to make any changes "revenue neutral."

14 Nations To Join In Naval Salute

NEW YORK (UPI) - Warships from 14 countries will gather in New York Harbor July 4 for a tribute to the Statue of Liberty on her 100th birthday, the Navy announced Tuesday.

The international naval review will happen an hour before a parade of international tall ships sails through the harbor and up the Hudson River, said Cmdr. John Alexander, spokesman for the Navy.

The Navy will host the military review — the fifth such review of international war ships in U.S.

Twenty-one military ships from 13 foreign countries will join 12 U.S. military ships in the harbor July 3, the Navy announced at a news conference.

They will assemble in a line on the morning of July 4 and will be reviewed by President Reagan, who will sail past the ships on board the USS Iowa.

Campbell Dashes After NCAA Glory

By Sam Cook Herald Sports Editor

A little over a year ago, Clifton Campbell was the premier quarter-miler in Florida. He was the ultimate in style and endurance. His long, streamlined him, I had him. Damn, I had that strides gobbled up the tartan like a relentless conveyor belt.

All season, the Seminole High School senior ran away and hid from the competition. To cap his fine year, all Campbell needed was a first-place medal in the 440-yard dash to cap his year and certify his claim as Florida's fastest oval man.

The certification never came. With 100 yards to go in the Class 4A State Track & Field Meet, Campbell cruised out of the final turn and headed for home with a widening lead over Tyrone Kemp, his main competition from Gainesville Buchholz.

With the tape in sight. Campbell began his transition from the ball of the foot to the toe, anticipating the final sprint to glory. It was his shift from fourth gear to overdrive. He kicked his legs and pumped his arms, striving to shatter his 47.5 standard, the state's best.

Then disaster struck. His body, weakened by tendinitis the previous weeks, couldn't stand the thrust. The mind was willing but the flesh was weak. Campbell's right leg cramped. grinding down his speed. It was as if an airplane had reversed its engines after hitting the runway. The exeruclating cramp forced Campbell's toe-pressing stride into flat-footedness.

He watched helplessly as the other runners, with Kemp in the lead, sailed by, leaving him to curse his misfortune.

Moments later, coach Ken Brauman was at his side after Campbell was helped from the track. The frustration continued the trainer's table. Campbell his side, tried to console his. Tuesday night, "He knew and I

It's now 13 months later, but Brauman still remembers the incident very clearly. "Clifton had aggravated the tendinitis at the Florida Relays when he lost his shoe on a relay," Brauman said. "But he had done well in the district and regional.

"Although he was ready and felt good before the race, his body wasn't physiologically ready to run his fastest race ever. The tension and fatigue of his entire body caused him to cramp up. He just wasn't ready to run that fast.

Since that frustrating day in May, however, cramps have been few and far between (knock on tartan) for Sanford's speedster. Clifton Campbell is a freshman at Auburn University. Today, at Indianapolis, Ind., Campbell competes in the biggest race of his young career.

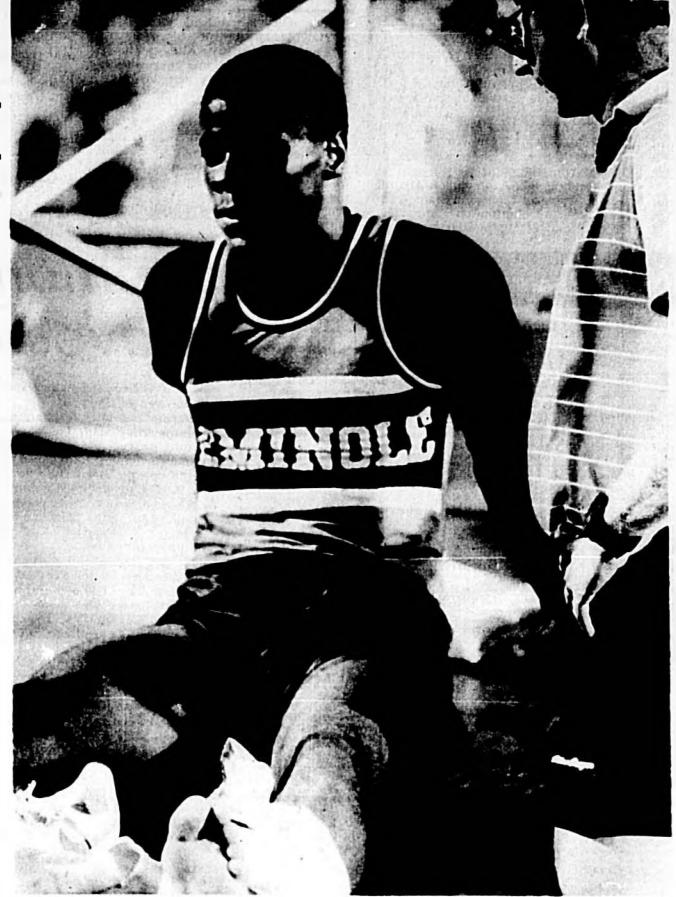

The NCAA Track & Field Championships. Campbell will compete in the 400 meters and anchor the 4 X 400 meter relay.

It's a long way from Winter Park's Showalter Field, but, surprisingly. Campbell has made the transition almost effortlessly. His astounded the coaches and competition just a few weeks ago with a meetwinning 45.43 400 meters in the Southeastern Conference championships. The career-best earned him seventh best time in today's field.

That's seventh best in the nation.

The 106-103 triumph gave the Celties a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven finals, moving them to within one victory of their 16th NBA title.

"This is what I live for," said Walton, 33, traded by the Los Angeles Clippers to Boston last summer. "There is nothing I'd rather do. It's the thrill of a lifetime."

The Rockets, losing for the first time in nine home playoff games, will seek to become the first team to rally from a 3-1 deficit in the championship series. In NBA playoff history. only four teams have come back from 3-1.

But Houston's Robert Reid told reporters the series is not over.

"The only thing going through our minds is that you can't put in your papers 'The Celties have won the championship.' In 1981 (when Boston beat the Rockets in Houston for the title), we had to listen to 'We're No. 1,' right through those walls.

'The hardest thing is that it happened in our building. We're not going to let that happen Thursday (in Game 5)."

"It wasn't a designed play." said Bird. "It was just what happened out there. We moved the ball around and swung it around to me. The shot clock was running down and I had to shoot it."

After a Rodney McCray tip-in. Walton hit his layin for 106-103 lead. McHale deflected a Rockets' pass to teammate Danny Ainge with 48 seconds left, but Bird missed a jumper 20 seconds later.

As Houston tried to set up a 3-pointer, McHale knocked the ball out of Ralph Sampson's hands. Johnson recovered and Boston played keep-away for the final six seconds.

"I think it was a grat ballgame," said Houston coach Bill Fitch, "Unfortunately, the part we'll look back on is the last two minutes and forty seconds."

Boston's scoring was led by Johnson and Robert Parish with 22 apiece. Bird contributed 21.

Draftees: Reds Select Taubensee, Astros Pick Beams By Sam Cook

Lake Howell's Ed Taubensee and Lake Brantley's Mike Beams don't know in which round they were selected in Major League Baseball's Free Agent Draft Monday.

And they could care less.

All Taubensse and Beams know is that they were selected, and in the next couple days they hope to negotiate a deal to realize a life-long dream.

Taubensee, a rifle-armed catcher for the Silver Hawks, received a Western Union Mail-O-Gram Tuesday afternoon informing him that he had been selected by the Cincinnati Reds in Monday's

"I thought I was going to get drafted in some round, but I didn't know I'd be this high up," Taubensec said Tuesday night. "It's something I have always dreamed about, but it's kinda of weird now that's it's finally here."

Taubensee batted .304 with four homers and 23 runs batted in for the Hawks. The 6-21/2, 194-pound 17-yearold has signed a letter of intent to attend the University of Central Florida on a baseball scholarship.

Beams, meanwhile, said he spent an agonizing Monday waiting for the phone call that never came. "I was really disappointed," he said. "I had heard I would go as high as the third round, but I never got the call."

The call finally came Tuesday afternoon. Scout Joe Pittman said Beams, a strong-armed outfielder with a good blend of speed and power, was chosen by his club - the Houston Astros.

"I'm signing, I know that," Beams said Tuesday night. "We'll negotiate Wednesday. This is the most exciting day in my life." Beams, a center stelder, led Seminole County with 11 homers. He also drove in 32 runs and batted .383.

Federal Nips Sunniland, But Forfeits Mar Season

By Chris Fister Herald Sports Writer

What could have been a celebration turned into a nightmare for First Federal Tuesday night. After a thrilling 13-12 com-

However, it was learned that First Federal had used an incligible player the first five games of the season and it was forced to forfeit those five games.

That means Sunniland, which finished with a 10-3 record, is the Little National League champion and will move on to the Sanford City Series. The series is slated to begin Monday. June 16.

"First Federal had a boy who was too old and he played in the first five games," Sanford Recreation Department Director Jelf Monson said. "It finally came out tonight so First Federal had to forfeit those five games. The First Federal players understood but they were pretty sad about Sunniland will go on to play the Little American League winner, either Cardinal Industries or Adcock Roofing, in the best of three City Series.

Anderson moved to second and third on wild pitches and scored when Mike Dillion ripped a single to left. Dillion took second on an error on the play and scored on a pair of wild pitches.

Sunniland scored twice in the top of the second on Don Hunt's two-run double, but First Federal came back with two runs in the bottom half for a 5.2 lead. Larry Bradley's double drove in the first run and Bradley scored on Reynolds' single. Sunniland then took control as it erupted for eight runs in the top of the third. RBI singles by Ned June, Anton Stringer, Richard Peterson and David Dunn were the big hits with six walks and three errors also contribut-Sunniland's lead to 12-10. After First Federal reliever Dillion retired Sunniland in order in the top of the sixth, First Federal capped off a tremendous comeback in the bottom half.

Florida State picked up its first run in the opening inning when Bien Figueroa singled through the Miami third baseman to score Jose Marzan from second. The Seminoles scored their second run when Miami starter Will Vespe, 0-1, walked his third batter with the bases loaded.

Miami came back with a run by Rick Richardt in the bottom half of the first inning. The Hurricanes tied the score 2.2 in the third when Lewis committed two errors on wild throws to first. scoring a batter he had walked.

Simmons' Slam Moves Braves Past Pittsburgh

Move over, Biff Pocoroba.

Veteran catcher Ted Simmons clouted a pinch-hit grand slam Tuesday night to lead the Atlanta Braves to an 8-5 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates and joined Pocoroba in the Atlanta record book. The two catchers are the only Braves to pinch-hit grand slams; Pocoroba

"I knew that he (Guante) threw hard and with the bases loaded he's going to have to throw a strike sooner or later," said Simmons.

"It was about chest high and out over the plate. I got around it and hooked it. It jumped off and I knew I hit it right on the serews, but I didn't know if it would be high enough. I thought it would go off the wall. Soon as I hit it I knew it was a base hit. I just didn't know it would be over."

Simmons, batting for starter and winner Rick Mahler, 5-5, drilled Guante's first pitch over the right-field fence for his first home run of the year and his ninth career grand slam.

"Just 'Go get 'em," Mahler said he told Simmons in the dugout. "I was pulling hard for him. I always do it for him.

Trailing 5-2. Atlanta rallied in the sixth with one out. Bob Horner smacked a two-run double to right off Pirates starter Larry McWilliams and pinch-hitter Chris Chambliss greeted Guante with an RBI double to center. Pinch-hitter Ken Oberktell then walked, loading the bases for Simmons

110,000 Celebrate Mexico' 2-1 Win Over Belgium In World Cup

MEXICO CITY (UPI) - The soccer fiesta is on.

Thousands danced into the night despite a torrential downpour and turned their city into a raucous street party following Mexico's 2-1 victory over Belgium Tuesday in the

All across town - from the Angel of Independence to the Zocalo to the front of the National Palace - Mexico City was a carnival of people, flags, posters, costumes, horns, and anything else that makes noise.

Tlalpan Avenue, which runs south from the city to Azteca Stadium, was blocked by cars and trucks packed with jubilant fans heading for the city center.

"This is the greatest party in the world - only the carnival in Rio de Janeiro can compare," said a 20-year-old wrapped in a huge Mexican flag. "I feel great and I think we'll be doing this again soon."

The euphoria started with the opening goal - Fernando Quirate's header in the 22nd minute following a free kick. The crowd of some 110,000 was rewarded again in the 38th minute when Hugo Sanchez - the country's most celebrated at hiete - struck with a header off a corner kick.

Elsewhere, Portugal upset England 1-0 in Group F at Monterrey and Northern Ireland tied Algeria 1-1 in Group D at Guadalajara.

Today, it's Paraguay-Iraq at Toluca, Scotland-Denmark at Nezahualcoyotl and West Germany-Uruguay at

Usher: NFL Choked TV Money

NEW YORK (UPI) - In a second day of testimony at his league's $1.5 billion antitrust case, Commissioner Harry Usher accused the NFL of choking off television revenues and forcing the USFL to move its teams to smaller cities.

The USFL commissioner was cross-examined Tuesday by NFL attorney Frank Rothman in the trial now in its fourth week in U.S. District Court in Manhattan. Usher was expected to return to the witness stand later today for further cross-examination.

Meanwhile, former ABC Sports executive James Spence was called to testify late Tuesday, the eighth witness in the trial. His testimony also was expected to continue today about contract negotiations with both leagues.

Usher said he believed the NFL's pressure on ABC, which also televises NFL games, caused the network to cut back on its commitment to broadcast USFL games. He also claimed the NFL caused ABC to exert pressure on its recently acquired subsidiary, the cable network ESPN, to disrupt its relationship with the USFL.

On Tuesday, the winningest coach in college baseball history retired with 11 NCAA titles and 28 conference crowns. However, his 54-year "love affair" with USC will continue; he will remain in a newly created role as director of baseball.

Mike Gillespie, a one-time Trojan player who has won three California state community college titles in the last six years at nearby College of the Canyons, was named the

Probe: Vols Have 6 Violations

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) - University of Tennessee officials said Tuesday their probe into the athletic program will continue as they released an interim report citing six "'probable violations" of NCAA rules.

The investigative work of the (internal) committee is not complete." Vice Chancellor Phil Scheurer, who chaired the four-member panel, said. He stressed that the report is an interim one and items can be added or deleted before a final report is issued within an estimated three to'four

The university has declared placekicker Carlos Revelz and linebacker Kelly Ziegler ineligible for the 1986 season after the committee found that each player on one occasion violated rules concerning complimentary game passes. Both Reveiz and Ziegler may be able to play during the 1986 season. The panel recommended that UT petition the NCAA to reinstate both players.

Trainer: Ferdinand Label Wrong

BELMONT. N.Y. (UPI) - Trainer Charlie Whittingham says Kentucky Derby winner and probable Belmont Stakes favorite Ferdinand has been unfairly typecast as a stretch-runner.

"He doesn't have to come from way back to win." Whittingham said. "(Jockey Bill) Shoemaker had to take him way back (last place) in the Derby, and he got pushed back further than we wanted in the Preakness and he was still able to make up 10 lengths."

Ferdinand finished second, four lengths behind Snow

Chief, in the 13-16 mile Preakness May 17. He also displayed speed Tuesday in his final serious workout for the 118th running of the 1 1/2-mile Belmont Saturday, covering 5-8 mile under exercise rider Larry

Gilligan in :58 2-5. No Mix: Red Wings Fire Park

DETROIT (UPI) - Brad Park was unable to work with general manager Jim Devellano and now he is no longer working for the Detroit Red Wings. Devellano fired Park Tuesday as head coach and director of player personnel of the Red Wings. He said the two 'were like oil and water, which don't mix. We weren't on the same wave length on the way a hockey club should be

Bass Blast Hooks Win

Like a fish out of water. Kevin Bass was a little singuish with the bat after spending the season in the University of Central Florida's bullpen. Through Apopka-West Seminole's first eight games, the Lake Brantley High School product had been trying to find himself at the plate.

Tuesday night in the biggest Big League game of the season. he did. Bass powered a two-run homer in the sixth inning to Hft Apopka-West Seminole to a 3-2 victory over Oviedo in a battle of unbeatens at Lake Brantley High School in Altamonte Springs.

"Kevin hit it about 400 feet," A-WS manager Richard Coffey said. "He really got it all. He's just getting his timing after not hitting all year with UCF.

Bass' blast upped the Apopka-West Seminole record to 9-0 as it finished the first-half with a one-game lead over manager Howard Mabie's Oviedo club, which is 8-1.

Beneficiary of Bass' homer was Apopka righthander Tim Oxlev. Oxley limited Oviedo to six hits while striking out eight and walking three. Craig Duncan was the losing, surrendering nine hits, striking out seven and walking two.

Ovledo took a 1-0 lead in the second inning when Randy Ferguson drilled a solo homer over the right field fence.

Apopka came back in the third when Ken Chapdelaine singled up the middle, moved to second on a wild pitch and scored on a single by Daryl Sanders.

In the Apopka sixth. Mike Davis singled up the middle and Kevin Bass followed with a two-run blast over the center field fence for a 3-1 lead.

Ovledo made it interesting in the seventh. After Oxley had retired the first two hitters on two pitches, he walked Bobby Bradley and Mark Merchant on eight successive balls.

Steve Hofmann ran for Bradley and was picked off second but Oxley threw ball away and Hofmann went to third. On a hit-and-run, Tony Belflower singled home Hofmann and sent Merchant to third.

Belslower, however, tried to take second on the throw third and Mike Brown fired a strike to Brian King who tagged Belflower to end the game.

knew that he had better days ahead of him. He was going onto college with a chance of running 'big time' track. He knew that he was going to improve and do better in future.'

Campbell has turned in an incredible year. So incredible, that even Mel Rosen, whose been head track coach at Auburn for 21 years, hasn't quite seen anything like the 18-year-old freshman phenom. "Clifton is a great, great guy with tremendous talent," Rosen said. "But he is doing even better than I expected. He was running so well, we had to put him on the anchor leg of our 400 relay."

Rosen said Campbell is a natural who he hopes can get down to 45.1 at today's meet. "Clifton is born to run the quarter," Rosen said. "He just has a very good knack for that distance. He wants to be good and he knows what he has to do to be good.'

Brauman, who coached Campbell his junior and senior years, said he, too, was "surprised" by the fast development. "I never expected him to be this good (his freshman year)."

Brauman said. "But he was a young senior (17) in high school and he has started to fill out. He's just maturing, getting bigger and stronger.'

Campbell has added 15-20 pounds since his prep days. It has just made his thoroughbred style that much more explosive at 175 pounds. Campbell, who has qualified for the Junior Nationals and a TAC Meet which will be held later this summer, has only been beaten once while anchoring the 4 X 400 relay - and that wasn't his fault.

"When I got the baton, I was way behind, about 20 yards." Campbell said about his split against Southern Methodist in the NCAA Indoor Championships at Oklahoma City. "I made up about 10 yards, but I just couldn't catch him."

Here's a look at Campbell's first-year accomplishments:

May 15-18: Campbell also had a great weekend at the SEC Meet as he ran legs on both relays. The 4 X 100 placed fifth. The 4 X 400 won for third consecutive year. The SEC has always had some of nation's finest sprinters and this year was one of the best ever. Campbell's effort (45.43, freshman record) indicated his future greatness by inning one of the nation's finest titles.

April 23-25: At the Penn Relays: Campbell helped the 4 X 100 relay to third place in 40.40. Campbell ran the lead leg as Auburn's 4 X 200 relay was sixth in 1:22.64. Campbell ran the anchor leg as the 4 X 400 relay set a meet record at 3:04.52.

April 18: Auburn Invitational; Campbell was second in 44.91 in the 400 meters as the War Eagles won their invitational. April 11: Tampa Invitational: Auburn wo again and Campbell was third in 400 meters in a freshman record time of 45.64. He also beat former Daytona Beach Seabreeze standout and Olympian Walter McCoy. April 5: Dual at Florida State 80: The real big upset for the Tigers came in the 400 meters as both Cambpell and Steve Griffiths beat FSU's Thomas Johnson who had earlier n the year broken the collegiate and world record for 300 meters indoors March 23-29: Florida Relays: Campbell iped the 4 X 400 relay to a win in 3:06.75.

Only .9 separated the top three teams.

Campbell also ran winnings legs on the 4 X 100 and 4 X 200 relays. March 21: Auburn 3-Way Invitational: Campbell third in 100 meters (10.79) and ourth in 200 meters (21.26).

chored the 4 X 400 relay to second place in :04.57. SMU won with a strong second leg as Campbell couldn't make up the 20-yard handicap. March 7-8: Northern Arizona University, Peabody Coal Last Chance Meet: Campbi anchored the 4 X 400 meter relay for 3:05.42

March 14-13: Oklahoma City, Okla., NCAA

National Indoor Championships: Campbell

for first place and school indoor record and an NCAA qualifying time. Feb. 14: Chicago Bally Invitational: Campbell helped the 4 X 400 relay team run a 3:11.64 on a 140 meter track. Both were firsts for Auburn and gave coach Mel Rosen team victories in almost every major indoor and outdoor 4 X 400 relay event. Fab. 14: New York Millrose Games: Campbell anchored the 4 X 400 relay in 3:13.46 on the 160-yard track which will go down in history as one of the fastest times

TENNIS ANYONE?

'Tired' Tennis Pot Boils Over

I'm going to sound a lot like Andy Rooney or Jack Anderson in this column. I'm not usually a very critical person and when I am, I keep it to myself - but the pot it starting to boil over.

There are some things about tennis in general, and a few in particular, that I want to get off my chest. I think a lot of things are wrong with professional sports and I think a lot of things are not right in the world of professional and college tennis. Even tennis on the amateur or local level has its faults.

To begin with. I'm very tired of all the publicity John McEnroe is getting for not playing. Okay, so he needed a rest - he needed time off - he was burned out okay, fine. But do we need to read about it every time we pick up a tennis mag or watch a match on TV?

I'm also distressed by all the publicity Mac and Borg are getting about starting a family. I believe a family starts by first getting married, not the other way around. No one seems to ever notice that McEnroe and Borg are not married to the mothers of their children. Are these our tennis role models?

I'm tired of pro players (or any level player) "tanking" a match. "Tanking" is not trying, giving up or not giving a good effort. I see this happen so often in pro tennis, especially in third place matches or exhibition matches. People pay $25 or so for a ticket to see some pro give a halfhearted effort. I see high school and college players do it all the time. Something bothers them or they don't feel like playing so they just throw in the towel.

I'm tired of the "smug, tennis purist." The player that says "I'd rather look good, play with good form" than win. These players don't want you to lob them, hit them in doubles, drop shot them, peach or do anything except hit a nice ball right back

Wake up and smell the coffee. Tennis is like any other game you have many styles and many types of players. The fun of the game is to be able to adjust to all types and to try to win the contest. Otherwise take the net down, crase the lines, don't keep score and just hit back and forth while you chat.

I'm tired of a lot of the spoiled, pampered brats who are just coming up in the game and can't play a point without using bad language and throwing their rackets. I saw a recent high school match where both players did this throughout the entire match. Horrible language and the racket flying after every error.

I'm also tired of the coaches who let this type of thing go on. It's not fair to the young players to not get some guidance from somewhere. (By the way, not all of the young players act this way - some really have their act together and their emotions under control.)

I'm tired of no-ad tennis and pro sets - you can hardly get warmed up in this short time.

I'm tired of parents putting so much pressure on their kids to win. I've actually seen parents go on the court and whip their child when they lose a match. That's the very bottom of the barrel, folks. When your kid comes in, why not ask him "Did you have fun?" instead of "Did you win?"

I'm tired of anti-climatic finals in pro tournaments. Much hoopla is made of the longawaited finals and someone usually wins 6-1, 6-2, 6-0 in 55 minutes. That's really no one's fault - it just happens sometimes. Still, you leave the match with a very letdown feeling.

I'm tired of reading all about Chris Evert-Lloyd and husband John trying to patch up their marriage. They have been separated for six months and are dating other people, but are "trying to patch things up." Give me a break.

I'm tired of computer rankings. McEnroe has not played in six months or so and is still ranked No. 2 in the world. How? He hasn't even been playing.

I'm tired of announcers Vic Braden, Bud Collins and Mary Carillo. Give me more Cliff Drysdale, John Newcombe and Al Tratwig covering the tennis matches.

I have a lot more 'I'm tired's' about tennis but I'm tired of writing this and you're tired of reading it.

Becker Is Next For Pernfors

Tennis

PARIS (UPI) - Henri Leconte and Boris Becker took slim but perfect lifetime records against their unranked quarterfinal opponents today in the $2.6 million French Open Tennis Champion-

Both Leconte, the No. 8 seed at Roland Garros, and third-ranked Wimbledon champion Becker played on Center Court against dangerous players they've met once before.

Leconte tangled with Andrei Chesnokov, the surprise Russian who defeated defending champion Mats Wilander of Sweden in the third round.

Becker, the teenager from West Germany, faced Mikael Penfors, the two-time NCAA champion from the University of Georgia by way of Sweden.

Leconte stopped Chesnokov the only time they met, dropping a set to the 20-year-old, before prevailing in the round of 16 at Geneva last year.

Becker beat Penfors - also while a pair of pesky rivals to reach the semifinals. Lendl very nearly fell two sets down before overcoming ninth seed Andres Gomez. 6-7 (4-7). 7-6 (7-3). 6-0.

6-0! Navratilova struggled to a 7-5. 6-4 victory over No. 7 Kathy Rinaldi. Lendl termed his match frustrating.

In action Tuesday, top seeds Ivan

Lendl and Martina Navratllova subdued

While 14-year-old Mary Joe Fernandez finally had her dream run halted. Johan Kriek continued to surprise everyone. including himself, by claiming the semifinal berth opposite Lendl.

and Navratilova called hers awkward.

Kriek, playing what he called "maybe the toughest match of my life." slipped past 1977 French champion Guillermo Vilas, 3-6, 7-6 (8-6), 7-6 (7-5), 7-6 (7-3). and remains the only American left in Kriek, who hadn't even bothered to play the French since 1979 because he didn't anticipate any success. "I don't think I ever felt pressure like that before.

Fernandez, a ninth grader in Miami, fell to sixth seed Helena Sukova, 6-2, 6-4, and commented. "I had a great week and a half. I'm not ashamed of it." Lendl. now a winner of 41 of 43 matches this year, went through the first two sets against Gomez without once dropping his serve, yet very nearly was two sets down.

Navratilova needed a service break in the 12th game to win the opening set. and Rinaldi was able to break her twice in the second set, the second time at love when Navratilova was serving for the match at 5.3.

Navratilova, though, ended the contest with another break in the 10th game.

"It was close." Navratilova said. "I told her when we shook hands. 'I don't think either of us played well.' She could play better and so could I."

Go For Easy Salads And Breads To Serve With Carefree Meals

Our weather has been ideal for casual outdoor entertaining or carefree meals and at times it is convenient to prepare most of the meal on the grill.

Other times you may want to let a "helper" do the grilling and you prepare accompaniments. many of which are ideal for microwave preparation. Since some of these recipes would normally be baked in the oven, you will appreciate the lack of added heat as well as the ease of preparation and energy savings.

German potato salad is a pleasing addition to many summer meals. The preparation of this recipe is simplified by using frozen potatoes.

BASY GERMAN POTATO BALAD 1 package (24 oz.) frozen hash

2-quart casserole, cover and microwave on 100% power 8-10 minutes or until steaming not. Set aside.

Place bacon in a 112-quart casserole. Cover with paper towel. Microwave on 100% power 2-4 minutes or until crisp. Remove bacon and set aside. Add onion to drippings and microwave 2-3 minutes or until tender. Stir in sugar. flour. bouillon, salt, chives, vinegar and water. sprinkle over top. Cover with casserole lid. Microwave on 100% power 4.5 minutes or until heated and potatoes are tender. Makes 5-6 servings.

Partially cook the cauliflower and broccoli for a tender-crisp marinated salad mixture. The vinegar is added prior to serving as it often bleaches green vegetables.

MARINATED GARDEN BALAD

1/2 medium head cauliflower 1 lb. fresh broccoli

- 2 cup salad oll 12 tsp. salt
- 1/2 1sp. oregano
- 1/2 tsp. pepper I clove garlic, minced
- 6 green onions, sliced 6-8 radishes sliced
- 1 medium cucumber, thinly
- 4 cup plain or herb flavored wine vinegar

Break cauliflower and broccoli into bite size pieces. Place in a 2 quart casserole. Add 2 tablespoons water. Cover with casserole lid. Microwave on 100% power 5.6 minutes or until tender crisp. Drain and cool slightly. Combine oil, salt, oregano, pepper and garlic. Add to vegetables; mix lightly. Cover and refrigerate overnight.

Just before serving, add onions, radishes, cucumber, and vinegar: toss lightly. Serve in safad bowl or on salad greens.

A hot bread is always welcome at mealtime. These breads are special and the surprise is that they were baked in the microwave oven.

You need a microwave-safe ring mold to bake this recipe to ensure doneness of the center

We're being urged to eat more vegetables. Microwaving green vegetables, for example, is a quick way to prepare them while retaining the essential nutrients often lost in long cooking in water on the range.

These have an extra flavoring and eye appeal with the use of a glaze.

GLAZED VEGETABLES

2 tablespoons butter or marga-

1/2 cup sliced onion

1 package (6 ounces) frozen pea pods, thawed

1 package (10 ounces) frozen broccoli spears, thawed

3 tablespoons dry white wine or chicken broth

2 teaspoons cornstarch ¼ teaspoon salt 14 cup cashews or favorite nut

MICROWAVE METHOD: Combine butter and onlon in covered casserole dish. Microcook at High for 1 to 2 minutes. Arrange pea pods and broccoli (stems toward edge of dish) in dish; cover, microcook at High for 7 to 9 minutes or until broccoli is tender. Pour liquid from dish into measuring cup; add wine, cornstarch and salt; mix well. Micro cook at High for 1 to 2 minutes or until thickened. Pour over vegetables and toss. Garnish with cashews.

Microwave muffin cups are readily available and inexpensive. They can be used for a varity of techniques from muffins to poached eggs. These muffins are light and flavorful. The whole wheat flour adds color and helps to control the leavening quantity in the biscuit

As Summer Nears Colorful Salad Makes The Perfect Transitional Meal

By JOHN DeMERS UPI Food Editor

It wasn't long ago that a salad meant little more than lettuce and tomatoes tossed together in a bowl. Bacon bits or croutons provided the unusual touch when one was provided at all.

Today, however, diners drawn to salads by their health advantages are seeking ways to sidestep boredom. Thus, the salad has become an inviting white canvas on which each individual artist can paint.

The current American fascination with regional cooking and foreign cuisines has influenced salad preparation along with all other aspects of cuisine.

Ingredients like fruit, nuts, flower petals, herbs, poultry and scafood are finding their way into salad bowls, both at restaurants and at home. Even traditional iceberg lettuce is replaced frequently, giving up its anchoring position to the likes of endive, arugula and radicelilo.

As the weather gets warmer, a colorful salad makes the periect transitional meal. It's an easy to make lunch or dinner that allows for less cooking time in a hot, stuffy kitchen. And salads are ideal for summer entertaining, allowing the host to relax with his guests.

Here are a handful of salad recipes that demonstrate the ingenuity being applied to the dish by chefs across the country.

Chinese Flower Salad comes from George Rosovsky at Copper Mountain Resort in Colorado. The Russian-flavored Salat Olivier is highly recommended by the experts on such delicacies at Stolichnaya Vodka, while the Antipasto Bean Salad was dreamed up by Progresso.

CHINESE FLOWER SALAD 2 heads of butterleaf lettuce

1 large Belgian endive 1 large red bell pepper, sliced

I scallion, sliced into quarters lengthwise 12 fresh mint leaves

12 cherry tomatoes

4 fresh mushrooms, cut into quarters

1 large carrot, julienned

Spread the lettuce leaves evenly on a large serving plate. Remove 10 to 12 endive leaves and fan out on top of the lettuce peeled leaves like flower petals. Between each endive leaf put slices of red pepper and scallion.

Arrange mint leaves in the center and top with cherry tomatoes. For garnish, place carrot slices and mushrooms at the side. Top with Soy Citrus Dressing.

Soy Citrus Dressing: 1 1/2 cups Florida orange juice

1 cup vegetable oil One-third cup soy sauce

In a small bowl, combine all three ingredients and mix well. This salad can be prepared as one large portion to be divided among four people, or it can be prepared in four smaller plate arrangements for individual

Freshly ground white pepper 14 cup mayonnaise 14 cup sour cream

Fresh parsley or dill Boil potatoes in salted water until tender, then drain and peel. While still warm, cut them into chunks. In a separate pot, boll carrot until just tender, drain and cut into rounds - setting a few rounds aside for garnish. Boil peas in salted water for 5 minutes and drain. Peel orange and remove all the white membrane. Cut orange into 1inch chunks. Chop apples and scallions. Mix all vegetables together with cooked chicken in a large bowl.

To prepare dressing, press hard-boiled eggs through a fine sieve. Mix in 2 tablespoons of olive oil until a smooth, creamy paste is formed. Stir in 2 tablespoons of vinegar and 1/2 cup each of mayonnaise and sour cream. Season to taste with salt and white pepper.

Pour dressing over warm vegetables and toss to mix thoroughly. Turn salad into a clean bowl and chill covered overnight.

To serve, form salad into a high mound on a decorative plate. Mix together remaining mayonnaise, sour cream, olive oil and vinegar. Pour dressing over the top of the mound so it cascades down sides.

Garnish salad with leftover carrot rounds and fresh parsley or dill. Serves 8 to 10. Note: The ingredients can be varied, with peaches subbing for the oranges in season or crabmeat for the artichokes or marinated

Produce Outlets Offer Consumers A Variety Of New Vegetables

Ten years ago, the average produce department carried approximately 65 fresh fruits and vegetables, ranging from carrots or varieties of apples and potatoes to broccoli, cauliflower and lettuce. But times have changed and many supermarkets have expanded their produce sections to offer consumers a variety of some of the more unusual commodities that were once only featured by restaurants and caterers.

Today, supermarkets have available a range of 150 to 300 or more "different" fresh fruit and vegetable varieties during the year. Now is the time to take home some of the more unusual fresh items that add excitement to any meal or dinner party. The United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association has provided some recipe ideas and selection tips for these new and intriguing produce items.

Belgian Endive: Known as wittoof in Europe and a member of the chicory family, Belgian endive has creamy white stalks which are low in 30 calories ... a boom for dieters. Belgian endive can be served raw in salads providing sprightly flavor to the rest of the salad ingredients, or steamed and served as a vegetable side dish. When selecting this vegetable, choose stalks that are tight. Its leaves should be pale yellow at the tips, and the center of the stem end should give slightly.

Celeriac: Also referred to as celery root. celeriae has a celery-like taste but the texture is quite different than the fibrous celery. This globe-shaped vegetable has an irregular surface with a brown coarse skin. Peeled celeriae can be cut into julienne strips and served raw in salads or to accompany a dip. Cooked, it can be substituted for recipes calling for celery.

Celery Cabbage: Shaped like celery, celery cabbage is another versatile vegetable since it can be served raw or featured in quicklyprepared oriental stir-frys. Available all year. look for leaves that have a fresh appearance. Celery cabbage should be stored in the crisper section of the refrigerator and remain unwashed until ready to use.

Chayote: Actually a squash and also marketed as the mirliton, chayote is grown on a vine like a cucumber. The skin is usually apple-green although some varities may be white or yellow. Used in soups and salads, chayote will have a firm flesh when cooked which can be stuffed with a seafood mixture for an entertaining brunch or dinner repast Daikon: The Japanese white radish, this vegetable has a crisp, sharp and hot taste. Generally, daikon has an alabaster color and usually cylindrical in shape similar to a carrot. Cut crosswise into 4 inch slices for soups. daikon can also be shredded into salads.

Fennel: Fennel, also marketed as anise, is a bulbous vegetable with broad leaf stalks that overlap each other. Fennel should have a firm bulb which is usually white-green. Prized for its base, chopped fennel — stalks included — can be mixed into a hot or cold pasta dish and its leaves used for garnish.

Jerusalem Artichokes: More often available

brown and sometimes marketed as sunchokes, this vegetable is neither from Jerusalem nor an artichoke although its flavor is somewhat similar to a globe artichoke when cooked. Jerusalem artichokes have a crisp texture and nutty flavor when raw making them ideal additions to salads. Look for tubers that are very Jicama: A mildly sweet-tasting vegetable, jicama has the appearance of a large brown turnio. Jicama can be used much like waterchestnuts due to its crunchy-crisp texture. Other uses include salads, such as slices of jicama and jerusalem artichokes that have been marinated in an oil, vineger and herb dressing. Jicama should be purchased firm and stored in the refrigerator until ready to use.

Snow Peas: About three to four Inches long. the entire pod of a snow pea is edible. Bright green snow peas are a delictous addition to vegetable or chicken stir-frys or in pasta or tuna salads. Before use, slice through the stem end of each pod without severing the string on the side: pull the stem end and string down the pod. When selecting snow peas, look for fresh green pods; the outline of the peas inside should be barety vistble.

Radicchio: Primarily featured by European and American chefs, radicchlo is one of the most refreshing additions to the world of fresh. It has a snappy taste and can be served like other greens as a salad ingredient. Look for those that have fresh and compact heads. Its red leaves make an exceptional colorful attraction to a chicken or fish dinner.

Nappa: The broad and ribbed stalks of nappa or chinese cabbage vary in color from white to light green, and its clongated leaves have a mild flavor. Curried chicken salad served on a bed of its delicately crinkled leaves make an impromptu dinner festive.
