

County OKs HFA Link For Low-Interest Home Loans

By LEE DANCY
Herald Staff Writer

Potential first-time home buyers in Seminole County who see current mortgage interest rates as a barrier to their goal got a break Monday.

Recognizing the financial hurdle that low- to moderate-income residents must overcome to manage $600 to $700 monthly mortgage payments, the County Commission approved an alliance with the Orange County Housing Finance Authority (HFA) by a 3-2 vote.

Commissioners Barbara Christensen, Sandra Glenn and Robert Sturm composed the majority on the issue. Saying that the county's housing market is currently healthy and that the tax-free bonds used to finance the low-interest loans will contribute to the national deficit, Commissioners Robert "Bud" Feather and William Kirchhoff voted no on the issue. County residents need not immediately begin revising their annual budgets to include a first home, however. Fluctuating bond-market interest rates must dip to an acceptable level before money for the low-cost loans will be available, said Sam Mazzotta, executive director of the HFA.

Before the HFA can authorize the sale of the bonds, it must wait for an acceptably low bond-market interest rate. When bond yields slip to 10 or 11 percent, rather than the current rate of 14 or 15 percent, mortgage money at a fixed low interest rate will be available to first-time buyers who qualify for loans, Mazzotta said.

If the bond market made such a nosedive after May 1, when the bonds are validated, low-interest home loans could be available within 90 days. Such a scenario may be unlikely, however, Mazzotta said.

Exactly how much low-cost money will be offered to Seminole's novice home buyers is not certain. Mazzotta said anywhere from $12 to $35 million in tax-free bonds could be validated for sale.

While a continual influx of new residents doubled Seminole's population in the last decade, housing units to accommodate them grew by only 58 percent. In five years, from 1976 to 1981, housing costs inflated by 34.5 percent and interest rates grew by 52.1 percent, according to a preliminary analysis of housing finance needs done for the county by the HFA.

Despite the apparent need for housing, Seminole County residents cannot currently afford to buy a home at today's market interest rates, said one mortgage banker.

"There is a volume of houses listed for sale, but sales aren't occurring," said Virgil Hathaway, president of the First State Mortgage Co. in Altamonte Springs. "Two or three mortgage companies have closed offices in the greater Orlando area."

One potential home buyer spoke directly to the commission about what an HFA bond issue in Seminole County would mean to her.

Eva Gildstein told commissioners she is currently "throwing money away" on rent in Seminole County. She said she wanted to become a property taxpayer by purchasing a $60,000 home.

The current interest rates make mortgage payments of between $600 and $700 impossible to achieve, and without the possibility of a low-interest loan, she said, "I'll always be biting the proverbial bullet."

"I really question whether it is needed (Seminole's association with the HFA) when one of our most serious problems is the tremendous growth here," Feather said.

"I like developments with homes on an acre of land," he added. "That's the kind of development we ought to encourage in Seminole County."

Feather's statement brought a quick retort from Sturm.

"If we're going to have your vice presidents and presidents living out in Wekiva and Sweetwater Oaks, we have to have affordable houses for people providing the services," he said.

Hattaway Plan In, Brantley Revision Out

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Today's latest news on reapportionment of Seminole County into House districts is: The Hattaway-Brantley modification plan is out and the original Hattaway plan is in.

State Rep. Robert Hattaway, D-Altamonte Springs, said today he cannot support the modification of his districting plan submitted by State Rep. Bobby Brantley, R-Longwood, to a bipartisan committee Sunday.

"In Brantley's plan, once again he is moving himself into position and attempting to move me out. It is blatant politics," Hattaway said in a telephone interview from Tallahassee.

He said the Brantley modification split the city of Sanford and to some degree his home base of Altamonte Springs. "It appears willing to fight for it, I suggested to the commission that it back the Hattaway plan," Knowles said today.

Hattaway said he presented his plan at an open hearing in Sanford on Friday morning and no one objected to the plan. "Brantley came in with a modified version of the plan," he said, adding that he is not running around trying to fight Brantley.

Hattaway said the bipartisan committee, originally formed to fight a plan proposed by Brantley, has done its job at home and now the decisions on Seminole reapportionment will be made in the Legislature.

Brantley said from Tallahassee today that he can't understand why his plan "was all right with everyone at the bipartisan meeting at 4 p.m. Sunday and was not all right by 4 p.m. Monday."

Brantley, noting that he is not "terribly pleased" with his proposal either, said he doesn't want reapportionment to come down to a total political decision.

"That would be very unfair to the citizens of the county, to put it on that basis," Brantley said.

Hattaway and Brantley said today that neither has been able to run numbers through the House's computer to determine whether their plans meet the Reapportionment Committee's mathematical-precision rule of a perfect district of 81,219 residents. The committee has decided the perfect figure will not be deviated from by more than one percent, and Brantley said other districts in the state are deviating by only a fraction of one percent.

While the bipartisan committee Sunday endorsed the concepts of the Brantley modification of keeping as many cities intact as possible, it did not agree on district boundaries.

The proposal had the residences of both Hattaway and Brantley in the same district, making it necessary to draw new lines in Tallahassee to place the two legislators in separate districts.

County School Board Member Roland Williams was critical of the Brantley modification at the bipartisan meeting, noting that the black community of Bookertown was split out of Seminole County districts and placed in a Volusia County district.

Bill Wack of Altamonte Springs, state Democratic committeeman and chairman of the bipartisan committee, in a visit to the state capital over the weekend, left a concept map at the legislators' offices showing that the county could be drawn into two equal and compact parts, with one district able to elect a Republican and the other a Democrat.

BLIND MAN'S HOME BURNS

Randolph Matthews, an 81-year-old blind man whose house at 2350 Main St., Midway, was damaged extensively in a fire this morning, still managed a smile when told by Seminole County Fire and Rescue Division District Commander Mike Roush that he would ask the Red Cross to help him. Firemen found Matthews standing on the porch of the burning one-story wood-frame house and led him to safety. The fire started from a broken chimney pipe on a wood-burning stove, firemen said.

Senate Bill May Help

Financial Relief Possible For Central Florida Zoo

State Sen. Clark Maxwell Jr., R-Melbourne, has introduced a bill in the Senate that could offer long-term relief for the financial woes of Sanford's Central Florida Zoological Park.

And Seminole County's two resident state legislators — Robert Hattaway, D-Altamonte Springs, and Bobby Brantley, R-Longwood — have said they endorse the legislation and will push it through to approval in the House.

Maxwell said the bill would broaden the uses permitted under a tourist development tax to include zoological parks and their maintenance, leaving ultimate decisions in the hands of local officials.

The law currently permits the County Commission to impose a two percent tax on motels, hotels and related facilities, if approved by the voters in referendum. It has been estimated, according to County Commission Chairman Bob Sturm, that a two percent tax would bring in about $500,000 annually.

Currently, a Tourist Development Council, appointed by the commission, is looking into the possibility of using such a tax to build a sports stadium in the county, Sturm said.

The Council is to meet later this month to consider possible sites for such a complex.

Sturm said the law allows the tax revenues, which could be levied after voters' approval, to be used as collateral on a bond issue to build sports complexes.

Sturm noted that the commission adopted a resolution some weeks ago requesting the Legislature to consider including zoos under the resort tax.

He said that if the law is amended the Tourist Development Council would consider the percentage of tax which could be suggested and give its recommendations to the commission. The elected body, in turn, would vote for or against the proposal, and then the issue would be put to the voters.

If a tourist development tax were approved by the voters, the tourist council would recommend the appointment of a paid employee to operate whatever facility it was decided the tax would support, and the commission would name a board of directors for that purpose.

Present members on the tourist council, in addition to Sturm, are: three persons representing the hotel-motel industry — Jean Roman, Wallace Schottelkotte and Red McCullough; Winter Springs Mayor Terry Piland and former-Altamonte Springs City Commissioner Jim Thompson, representing elected municipal officials; and Ken Patrick, Fred Streetman and Al Rozon, executive director of the zoo society, representing the tourist industry.

Six counties in the state including Orange, Osceola and Volusia, have approved a tourist development tax, while Brevard, Leon and some other counties have disapproved. — DONNA ESTES would be difficult for me to win reelection the way Brantley has drawn my district in his plan," Hattaway said.

'Hattaway is urging Sanford to stand with him to keep Sanford as nearly a whole unit as possible and in his district.'

"I'm going forward with my plan. It has been approved by the House reapportionment subcommittee and this morning, Lee Moffitt, chairman of the House Reapportionment Committee, said he sees no reason to change it," he added.

In addition, Sanford City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles said today he composed a letter to the Sanford City Commission on Sunday night following the bipartisan committee meeting, noting that Sanford is split nearly in half in Brantley's modified plan.

Knowles informed the commissioners in an addendum to the memo Monday morning that Hattaway wished to hold to his original plan, which kept most of Sanford and Altamonte Springs in his district.

"Hattaway is urging Sanford to stand with him to keep Sanford as nearly a whole unit as possible and in his district," Knowles told the city commissioners.

"Hattaway's plan is certainly a better plan for Sanford, and since Hattaway

Altamonte Police Chief Cook Resigns Post

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

With little more than a year under his belt as Altamonte Springs' police chief, Barry Cook has resigned.

The 34-year-old department head submitted his resignation to City Manager Jeff Etchberger on Monday afternoon, according to City Commissioner Bob Reia, who said he and other commission members were informed by Etchberger of the resignation late Monday afternoon, although no details were given as to the reasons for Cook's leaving.

Cook, who started with the Police Department as a reserve patrolman in September 1971 and became a full-time patrolman in December of that year, said today he is leaving the department "for personal reasons." He was named acting chief by Etchberger in July 1980 and promoted to chief Oct. 7, 1980.

Etchberger said he is holding a meeting at 2 p.m. today to formally announce Cook's decision and to provide additional information concerning Cook's departure and the course of action for the city. He refused further comment on the issue until such time as a formal announcement is made.

Reia said he assumes the resignation is effective immediately. However, Cook indicated today he may remain as chief for the next few days. He declined further elaboration.

"Jeff (Etchberger) and I have a good relationship and we prefer that all questions concerning my resignation be channeled through his office," Cook said. "He's calling all the shots on this one."

Reia said he feels the commission will entertain the possibility of temporarily appointing Etchberger to the post "for administrative handling of the department until the position can be filled."

The department has a complement of 31 sworn police officers and 10 non-sworn personnel, including dispatchers, said Sam Franzese, city personnel officer.

Mayor Ray Ambrose and Commissioner Cheney Colorado were contacted at their homes concerning the resignation. Both said that although they were aware of the resignation, no other information has been made available to them. Commissioners Lee Constantine and Dudley Bates could not be reached for comment.

"We have a commission work session this evening," Ambrose said. "We will discuss the details of the resignation and the city's course of action at that time."

Cook said that although he doesn't have immediate plans following his resignation, "There are several options open."

"I won't be far away," he said. "My home is in Altamonte Springs."

Prime Rate Jumping Back Up To 16 1/2 Percent

United Press International
The gradual decline of the prime interest rate has come to a screeching halt — causing a plunge on Wall Street, concern in the Reagan administration and anxiety among bankers.

Citibank, the nation's second largest bank, Monday hiked its prime from 15 1/2 percent to 16 1/2 percent. Crocker National Bank, the nation's twelfth largest, immediately followed suit.

"We'll have to wait and see if other banks follow on the prime and if all go that high," said William Sullivan, senior vice president at Bank of New York.

The prime rate is the interest banks charge their best customers and usually is a base for all other interest rates.

Beryl Sprinkel, Treasury Department undersecretary for monetary affairs, said uncertainty about future government spending and inflation — not the federal deficit — are keeping interest rates high.

Speaking at a meeting by the Financial Writers Association in New York, Sprinkel said the administration's program won't work unless interest rates decline.

He said business will not make the commitment to capital spending necessary to the recovery until it has some reassurance of the future rate of inflation and of the real interest rate.

"Our program will work, but it will not work until we get those rates down," he said. "We have slowed government spending and we will do more."

The hike in prime interest rates triggered a fall on Wall Street, with stocks diving to their worst loss in more than five months. The Dow Jones industrial average fell 19.41 points to 851.69, the worst loss since it stumbled 20.46 points Aug. 24, 1981.

The New York Stock Exchange index lost 1.38 to 68.01 and the price of an average share decreased 58 cents.

The high interest rates have devastated the auto industry, and talks in Dearborn, Mich., between the United Auto Workers and Ford Motor Co. are aimed at cost-cutting, job-saving contract concessions. The talks resumed Monday four days after similar discussions failed at General Motors.

Discussions at GM failed partly because of the growing resistance of workers to grant givebacks. Union members at Ford, however, may be more receptive to concessions because of the company's continued financial plight.

Ford has more than 55,000 workers on indefinite layoff with another 25,000 temporarily without jobs. Its total active work force of about 105,000 is half what it was several years ago.

Due to the high unemployment across the country, measured at 8.9 percent in December, President Reagan Monday asked Congress to approve $2.3 billion in supplemental appropriations for unemployment compensation.

Robbery Suspects Face More Charges

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

A Seminole County jail inmate who attempted suicide in his cell last Tuesday, after being charged with robbing several area banks and savings and loans has been charged with another armed robbery along with his wife.

Richard Jerome Burlason, 20, and his wife, Cynthia Ann, 20, of Apopka, were arrested at 11:22 a.m. Monday and charged with robbing the First Family Federal Savings and Loan, 1400 State Road 434, Longwood, sheriff's deputies said.

Burlason is being held on an additional $15,000 bond for the various robbery charges.

Mrs. Burlason, previously released on $4,000 for the earlier robbery charges, has been freed for the latest alleged offenses.

The Burlasons were arrested based on statements given by savings and loan personnel who said a man entered the S&L and showed a teller a note written on an envelope which instructed her to "put all the money in a bag," deputies said.

The man also told the teller he had a gun, although no weapon was ever shown. The man fled with about $2,878 and jumped into a car driven by a woman, S&L employees said.

The Burlasons were arrested in Douglas, Ga. on Jan. 12 and extradited to Seminole County.

The Burlasons are being held in connection with three county bank and savings and loan robberies. Burlason and his wife are also suspects in bank robberies in Denver, Charleston, S.C., and Nashville, Tenn., according to sheriff's spokesman John Spolski.

At about 6:08 p.m. on Jan. 23, Burlason was found hanging from a sheet tied to a sprinkler head in his cell. He was rescued by jail officials and other inmates, treated by jail medical personnel and provided psychiatric counseling.

Jail Administrator Steve Saunders said Burlason "attempted to kill himself because he fears he and his wife will be assaulted if they are convicted of the robberies and sent to the state prison." Saunders added that Mrs. Burlason is pregnant.

ALTAMONTE MAN KILLED

An Altamonte Springs man died Monday morning following an automobile accident in south Orlando Sunday.

Edgar Coltrane Coble, 45, of 103 Green Leaf Lane, died as a result of a car crash at about 1:55 a.m. Monday when his vehicle was struck by another vehicle at South Orange Blossom Trail and Oak Ridge Road, according to the Florida Highway Patrol.

Glenn E. Mayfield, 24, of Grand Bay, Ala., has been charged with driving under the influence of alcoholic beverages and speeding, troopers said. Further charges against Mayfield are pending the outcome of an FHP investigation. Mayfield was treated for minor injuries at the scene before being taken to jail.

Four passengers in Mayfield's vehicle were taken to area hospitals for treatment of cuts and bruises. Among those injured were Michel Williams, 20, of the Naval Training Center, Orlando; Michael Carlton, 23, of Winter Park; Michael Otrich, 25, of Orlando; and Richard Rines, 19, of Dania, Fla., troopers said.

Coble was alone in his vehicle at the time of the accident.

Troopers said Coble was traveling southbound on Orange Blossom Trail and turned east onto Oak Ridge Road when Mayfield's vehicle struck Coble's vehicle. Mayfield was also driving at an excessive speed, troopers added.

WAREHOUSE WALLS TUMBLE

The concrete walls of a warehouse being constructed on Miller Street south of Longwood collapsed Sunday as a result of gusty winds.

Seminole County building officials said the incident was a freak accident and not caused by structural defects. No one was injured in the incident.

The warehouse is under construction for Pope Development by D&S Builders, Inc. of Longwood.

Workers had constructed the walls plus a fire wall Thursday and Friday, but had not braced them. A train, passing by near the warehouse site, coupled with gusty winds caused the walls to fall, officials said.

BLIND CANADIAN JAILED

A 37-year-old blind Canadian man has been released from the county jail on his own recognizance following his arrest Sunday for trespassing.

Brian Lemke, of Ontario, Canada, was arrested at about 5:45 p.m. Sunday at the county animal shelter on Bush Boulevard after he was repeatedly warned to leave the area and return when the shelter opened Monday morning, according to John Spolski, sheriff's spokesman.

Spolski said Lemke and his companion, Kim Beeston, 21, also of Ontario, were reportedly at the shelter looking for Lemke's guide dog, he added.

Lemke was told that the compound was closed and that he could return in the morning to determine if his dog was being held there, deputies said.

However, several hours later, shelter workers notified deputies that Lemke had placed a blanket over the barbed wire fence surrounding the animal shelter and had climbed into the compound, deputies said.

"We tried to reason with him," Spolski said. "We told him repeatedly that if he didn't come out of the compound and wait until morning to search for his dog that he would be arrested for trespassing. He refused. He even refused to listen to his companion (Ms. Beeston), who is crippled and confined to a wheelchair. He said it was a matter of principle or something. So, we had no alternative but to arrest him for trespassing."

Animal control personnel said today that neither Lemke nor Ms. Beeston could identify any of the dogs in the compound as Lemke's guide dog.

SANFORD HOME ROBBED

Burglars broke into a Sanford woman's home at about 3 p.m. Saturday and stole a cassette recorder and jacket, valued at about $90.

Joann Pringle, 22, of 70 Lake Monroe Trail, told police someone broke into her home by removing a screen from the kitchen window.

TV STOLEN

Burglars broke into a Sanford man's home and stole his television set and a dead 12-volt battery at about 1 p.m. Saturday.

J. D. Paul, 66, of 61 Redding Gardens, told police someone cut the screen on his bathroom window, opened the unlocked window and entered his home. The thieves stole the TV from the living room and the battery from his porch, police said.

VIDEO RECORDER ROBBERS

A video recorder, valued at about $1,000, was stolen from a Sanford man's home sometime between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. Sunday.

Police said the thieves entered the home of Leroy Jenkins, 28, 1200 W. 22nd St., by cutting the rear screen door open and prying open a bedroom window.

CITY PROPERTY STOLEN

Thieves broke into a Sanford city maintenance building and stole an undetermined amount of tools and equipment sometime between Friday and 12:58 a.m. Monday.

Police said the thieves pried off some metal siding to gain entry to the building, located at 800 W. 6th St.

IN BRIEF

New Agreement Won't Turn Sagging Car Market Around

DEARBORN, Mich (UPI) — Not even major concessions by the United Auto Workers would immediately revive the auto industry from its worst slump since the Depression, the Ford Motor Co.'s chief negotiator says.

Ford and the UAW returned to the bargaining table Monday to discuss what Ford vice president for labor relations Peter Pestillo said he hoped would be a long-term solution to soaring labor costs and sagging sales.

3 Sentenced In Loan Scam

CHICAGO (UPI) — A federal judge has sentenced a former spokesman for civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr. to five years' probation for his part in a bogus loan scam that bilked 14 investors of more than $450,000.

Lawyer Clarence Jones, of New York City, also was ordered Monday to pay $20,000 in restitution and contribute 10 hours a week to community service for the next two years. Two others, including the alleged ringleader of the conspiracy, received sentences ranging up to six years in prison.

'Dumping' Probe Launched

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Commerce Department will investigate 109 charges by American steel companies that 11 foreign nations have been selling steel in this country below cost, a practice known as "dumping."

The department made the announcement Monday night, just hours before a midnight deadline for Secretary Malcolm Baldrige to decide whether to start the investigations. Seven domestic steel firms filed petitions Jan. 11 seeking the probes.

Sentence 'Flips' Judge

NEW YORK (UPI) — A judge who was reprimanded last year for taking a woman murder suspect home with him is being criticized for allowing a coin flip to determine a pickpocket's jail sentence.

An 18-year-old pickpocket was given a 20-day term rather than a 30-day sentence because he correctly called a "tails" coin flip. Criminal Court Judge Alan Feiler defended his random method Monday by saying it was "consistent with the interest of justice."

Passengers' Family To Sue

BOSTON (UPI) — The outraged family of two men who were not reported missing until three days after a World Airways jumbo jet skidded into Boston Harbor will sue the airline for "millions of dollars," their lawyer says.

Walter Metcalf, 70, and his son Leo, 40, of Dedham, Mass., are presumed to have drowned Jan. 23 when the DC-10 hurtled into the ice-clogged harbor and broke apart while trying to land at Logan International Airport in freezing rain and fog, with 210 passengers and crew members aboard.

NATIONAL REPORT: Thousands of people were stranded under a "Condition Red" alert and business districts were eerily quiet from a two-day storm that crippled the Midwest's major cities with up to 2 feet of snow and recoiled for another blow today. At least 39 deaths were blamed on the weather. Heavy rains and ice-clogged rivers Monday sent up to 8-foot floodwaters surging through parts of West Virginia, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Ohio and southern Indiana. At least 31 people died in the storms that began the winter of '82's second month following four weeks of record-setting low temperatures and snowstorms described by experts as the worst of the 20th century. In the Chicago area alone, at least 10 deaths were blamed on the massive storm that caused 6-foot drifts on some highways and dumped up to 8 inches of new snow.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Appeals Court Spares 2 Condemned Killers

RAIFORD (UPI) — A reputed underworld figure and a child killer described as a born-again Christian were spared the electric chair at least temporarily by a federal appeals court, less than a day before they were scheduled to die.

Ernest John Dobbett Jr., convicted child murderer and Anthony Antone, a contract killer, were waiting in special isolation cells just 50 feet from the electric chair at the Florida State Prison when they received word Monday of the reprieves from the U.S. 11th Circuit Court of Appeals in Atlanta.

New Realty Regulators

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — A bill establishing a Department of Professional Regulation office that will do nothing but supervise real estate people may be the first major legislation of the 1982 session.

The proposal (SB 419), worked out by legislative leaders, lobbyists for Gov. Bob Graham and the Florida Association of Realtors, won unanimous approval of the Senate Governmental Operations Committee on Monday.

No Videotaped Testimony

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — A bill to allow elderly and disabled crime victims to testify by videotape rather than in open court in major criminal trials has been defeated in the Legislature for the third straight year as the House gutted the measure (HB 13) Monday on a 61-50 vote.

Current law already permits videotaped testimony by youngsters 11 or under who are victims of sexual assaults or aggravated child abuse. The bill would have extended that right to physically or mentally impaired people, including the aged.

The Heat is On For The Poor

Seminole County residents unable to afford heating fuel for their homes won't have to shiver through the rest of the winter. Funds are available through the State Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services (HRS) for emergency heating assistance. Needy persons may apply for the aid at the Sanford HRS office, 107 1/2 Oak Avenue between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Donna Wilkins, HRS worker, said 15 applications have been received in the Heating Crisis Program's first week of operation locally. Although the program is scheduled to run until March 31, Mrs. Wilkins said the funds allotted to the four county district of which Seminole is a part probably will last only through February.

In order to qualify for the emergency assistance, applicants must have a verified income which does not exceed the state's poverty level. Applicants will also be required to show proof that their homes are without heat or that their fuel source will be cut off within 48 to 72 hours. Fuel suppliers will be contacted by telephone by HRS workers to verify the crisis situation, Mrs. Wilkins said.

This program is not intended for those people who are habitually delinquent in paying their utility bills, she added. It is designed primarily for people who are facing severe hardship due to the cold and who are without the ability to heat their homes.

The maximum payment will be $150 per household, Mrs. Wilkins said, adding that the money will be given directly to the applicant and it is up to them to pay the fuel supplier.

The heating crisis program should not be confused with the State's Low Income Energy Assistance Program (LIEAP) which will not be implemented until March 15.

The LIEAP is not a crisis program but is designed to help meet the poor defray the cost of increased utility bills for heating and cooling their homes. HRS hopes to start accepting applications for LIEAP March 1.

Altamonte Slates Road Improvements

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

If city fathers pave the way, Altamonte Springs residents could see at least 16 city streets resurfaced soon.

The commission is slated to discuss the resurfacing during a 6 p.m. work session tonight at City Hall, 225 Newburyport Avenue.

While 16 roads are slated to be upgraded, some of the work may not get the green light if the $150,000 from the city's general fund, set aside for the paving project runs out sooner than expected.

Also tonight, the commission is slated to review quarterly reports submitted by city department heads.

In a 7 p.m. commission meeting, the city fathers are scheduled to review a request for final approval to rezone 1.14 acres along Lake Orienta from professional-office to residential. Developers of the property are planning to build 45 luxury condominiums at the corner of Boston Avenue and Jasmine Road.

The commission tentatively approved the rezoning request at last week's meeting.

Special Education Seminars At SCC

Special education training sessions for a parent and teacher from each of the county's public schools opened Monday and will conclude Friday from 8 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. daily in the Adult Education Building at Seminole Community College.

The purpose of the sessions is to make parents and teachers aware of all aspects of the school system's exceptional student education programs where students from the profoundly mentally handicapped to the gifted are mainstreamed with other students.

More than 4,000 Seminole County students are currently in the program.

Martha Jones, a special consultant from Tallahassee, is leading the training sessions.

A state grant of $60,000 is being used to set up the pilot training program.

Possibly A Bullet

Bush's Car Hit By Unknown Projectile

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A projectile — possibly a bullet — slammed into the roof of the limousine carrying Vice President George Bush to work today, the Secret Service said. No one was injured.

"I talked with Bush, he's fine," Peter Teeley, his press secretary said minutes after the incident.

The armored limousine, a V-shaped dent several inches long on its vinyl roof, was impounded and investigators tried to determine if it had been struck by a bullet, a rock or perhaps by material from construction sites in the area.

President Reagan was immediately notified of the incident.

Within minutes, the Secret Service clamped extra security on the White House complex, which was already under heavy guard because of reports of Libyan hit squad plots.

Shirley Green, a press aide to Bush, said the vice president told her he had heard "a loud noise" and "was aware that something had happened."

"He was not shaken at all," she said. "He was perfectly calm. There was no alarm."

"We heard what appeared to be a gunshot, but we are not ready to say so until we have more information," said Secret Service spokesman Jack Warner. He said the car definitely was hit by "some sort of projectile."

NBC reported that the FBI "has tentatively determined" Bush's car was struck by a "high-velocity bullet."

But Secret Service agent Jim Boyle said, "We still do not have anything to indicate reports of a high velocity bullet."

"I don't know where that got started," he said, adding the report was "not correct."

Warner said agents had detected "what appears to be some metal fragments in the roof," but, "we just haven't determined what that projectile consists of."

Two helicopters hovered overhead as District of Columbia police scanned rooftops, blocked off traffic and made a house-by-house search of the area north of Washington Circle about eight blocks from the White House.

An FBI mobile crime lab was on the scene. Ron Dervish, a spokesman at the FBI's Washington field office, said the FBI is monitoring, but not investigating, the situation.

"As long as it's a 'possible' assault we wouldn't conduct any investigation at this point," he said, adding the FBI would investigate if it is determined a shot had been fired.

Washington police said they were notified at 7:27 a.m. by the Secret Service that "a vehicle carrying Vice President George Bush was apparently fired upon while at 21st and I. Streets Northwest. The vehicle was struck on its roof."

Jerry O'Leary, special assistant to national security adviser William Clark, interrupted the daily breakfast meeting of President Reagan's advisers, including chief of staff James Baker and deputy chief of staff Michael Deaver, to inform them of the incident. O'Leary said the aides then informed Reagan.

Security around Bush, Reagan and other top government officials has been tightened in recent months, in the aftermath of the attempt on Reagan's life last March and amid reports of alleged assassination plots. Aides said Bush usually arrives to work at 7:30 a.m., but varies his route to the White House.

Williams' Hair Links Him To Victims

ATLANTA (UPI) — A Royal Canadian Mounted Police expert testified today that multiple fiber and hair matchups made it "nearly certain there was some form of association" between accused killer Wayne Williams and his alleged victims.

"If we consider the hairs and fibers individually," said Barry Gaudette, "none would provide positive proof such as fingerprints. But if we consider the total number of hairs and fibers the possibility they all could have come from alternate sources is so remote as to be not worth considering."

"It is nearly certain there was some form of association between the victims and the environment of Wayne Williams," said Gaudette, called in as an authority to back up FBI testimony.

Williams, a 22-year-old black photographer and would-be talent scout, is on trial for the murder of Nathaniel Cater and Jimmy Ray Payne, two of those victims. But the state has presented evidence in 10 more cases to try to show his "pattern, plan, scheme and bent of mind."

It was in one of those cases — that of Patrick Baltazar — the hairs were found. FBI expert Hal Deadman said two hairs found on the inside of Baltazar's shirt "exhibited the same microscopic characteristics and could have come from the head of Mr. Williams."

Gaudette was called into the case in December, he said, and had time only to examine fibers and hairs linking Payne, Cater and Baltazar to Williams.

Sitting stone-still in the witness stand, enunciating each word with precision while his head swiveled back and forth between the jury and the prosecutor like a man watching a slow-motion tennis match, Gaudette said he agreed with the FBI's findings on the fibers.

Then, an hour after Deadman had covered the principles of scientific hair comparison, Gaudette began a seemingly interminable lecture on the same subject.

Deadman, testifying for the third time, strengthened his stand on the significance of the fibers linking Williams to the victims.

He testified fibers "showing the same microscopic characteristics and optical properties" as those of Williams' bedspread and carpet were found on all 12 victims. Various other fibers from other items were found on some, but not all, of the victims.

This multiplicity of evidence, he said, meant the victims — with the exception of Joseph Bell, on whom few fibers were found — were "linked, in my opinion positively, to Mr. Williams' environment, to the home, the items in the home and to the car."

But under an impassioned cross-examination by defense attorney Al Bunder, he appeared to have adjusted the focus of his testimony.

Monday, he said "debris present in the station wagon would be much more consistent as a source" of the fibers — instead of the home.

Bunder hammered at the fact investigators found no "significant" traces of the victims in the home Williams shared with Faye and Homer, his parents, or in their car, or clothes.

"You'd have this jury believe that everything Faye and Homer Williams bought in this life was unique, but everything on these victims was common, isn't that about it?" asked Bunder.

Altamonte Ditches Drainage Problem... At Least For Now

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

Fearing precedent would be set in approving the piping and filling of an open city drainage culvert, the Casselberry City Council voted unanimously Monday night to ditch any action concerning the issue until its Feb. 22 meeting.

By postponing action on the controversial drainage ditch issue, the council hopes to pass a resolution that will protect it from requests from other residents and developers to pipe and fill additional open drainage ditches in the city.

Until Monday, the Florida Department of Environmental Regulation (DER) had disallowed piping and filling ditches. However, since that date, the DER has passed such decisions involving parcels of land 10 acres and under onto the cities.

City Attorney Ken McIntosh warned the council at Monday's meeting that any action it took to correct the drainage problem near James and Eloise Matheny's home, 1315 Quintuplet Drive, could set precedent for drainage ditches throughout the city.

"If you go ahead and approve piping and filling the ditch at the Matheny home you are setting a precedent on every ditch in the city," McIntosh said. "And we will be opening Pandora's box."

The Mathenys became upset when they returned home from a vacation in August to discover city work crews had dug a 312-foot drainage ditch five feet deep near their property to handle storm water runoff. They said the ditch is an eyesore, is dangerous and has caused their property value to decrease.

Mayor Owen Sheppard said his first recommendation is to leave the ditch "as is." However, he said that if the council does not want to leave the open drainage ditch in its present state, he recommends piping and filling it.

"Under no circumstances, though, should we put it back in its original condition," he said. "If we have to do something, I'll have to support closed piping."

The council directed Sheppard and the city staff to review the number and condition of current drainage ditches in the city and make recommendations to the council at its Feb. 22 meeting concerning policy to cover such situations. The council also directed the staff to provide it with a cost breakdown for correcting the ditch near the Matheny property.

Groundhog Says More Winter

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa. (UPI) — That meteorological groundhog, Punxsutawney Phil, saw his shadow today, giving Americans the bad news that their cold-battered nation is in store for six more weeks of winter.

Charles R. Erhard Jr., president of the Punxsutawney Groundhog Club, issued the proclamation shortly after 7:26 a.m. to a crowd of several hundred people gathered on ice-covered Gobbler's Knob.

"I'm sorry," Erhard said, "but that's what Phil told me in groundhogese communication

His Imperial Majesty King Phillip came out of his hole at 7:26, studied the climate and saw his shadow. Phil then returned to the warmth of his burrow."

Today's forecast marked the 96th prediction for the groundhog of Gobbler's Knob in Punxsutawney, a hamlet of 7,000 about 85 miles northeast of Pittsburgh.

According to legend, if Phil sees his shadow on Feb. 2, the country is in for six more weeks of winter. If he doesn't, there will be an early spring.

The Cuban Infection

The Soviet Union is pouring some $8 million a day into Castro's Cuba, which in turn is engaged in communist subversion designed to spread violent revolution throughout Latin America.

A State Department research paper, attached to a statement delivered by Thomas O. Enders, assistant secretary of state for Inter-American Affairs before the Senate Foreign Relations Subcommittee on Western Hemisphere Affairs, said that in 1981 alone the following Cuban activities were uncovered:

Nicaragua. Communist countries have shipped in $28 million worth of arms. The Cuban presence has grown to 5,000 persons, more than 1,500 of them security and military personnel.

El Salvador. Castro admitted shipping arms to Marxist insurgents fighting to destroy the centrist government.

Colombia. Cuban-trained guerrillas have been trying to recruit a "people's army."

Honduras. Cuba is using the country as a supply base for insurrection in other countries and is also working to form an insurgency force in Honduras.

Jamaica. Cuba was involved in smuggling guns and ammunition into the county and reportedly stockpiled weapons in the Cuban embassy there for use in event of an armed uprising.

The paper charged Cuba exerts strong influence in leftist-ruled Grenada, has renewed its commitment to armed struggle in the Dominican Republic and Chile and is training and supporting Colombian guerrillas.

The paper said: "Cuban subversion today is backed by an extensive secret intelligence and training apparatus, modern military forces and a large and sophisticated propaganda network."

Cuba is not the sole source of conflict and instability in the region, it said, "but Cuban activities militarize and internationalize what would otherwise be local conflicts."

Command center of the campaign is the America Department of the Cuban Communist Party, headed by Pineiro Losada, the report said, and "agents of the America Department are present in every Cuban diplomatic mission in Latin America and the Caribbean," often serving as "employees of Cuba's official press agency, Prensa Latina, of Cubana Airlines, the Cuban Institute of Friendship with People and other apparently benign organizations."

Beyond the "benign" camouflage Latin American recruits attend military training programs at camps in Cuba where they are instructed in sabotage, explosives and military tactics and attend schools for political indoctrination.

Castro's role as a spreader of totalitarian infection is being subsidized by the Soviet Union at a cost of nearly $3 billion a year. Having stamped out freedom and democracy in his own land, Castro is a traitor to the Cuban revolution. But his menace is international. In his armed intervention in the affairs of other countries, he is a breaker of the peace.

As a Soviet catspaw, Castro is also a violator of the Monroe Doctrine set forth by President John Monroe Dec. 2, 1823, guaranteeing all independent nations of the Western Hemisphere against European interference "for the purpose of oppressing them or controlling in any other manner their destiny."

Monroe and his counselors saw with clarity the necessity of guarding the Western Hemisphere against alien incursions.

How much longer the United States should suffer the armed intrusions of a Soviet vassal in the internal affairs of other countries in the Western Hemisphere is open to ever-growing question.

BERRY'S WORLD

"How can you say that. Cap? You KNOW your budget is bigger than Nancy's!"

After enduring Sunday after Sunday of non-stop football action, housewives and girlfriends breathed a sigh of relief Sunday when Nick Lowrey's field goal beat the National Football Conference and brought to end another season. The season of 81-82 may have been one of the best on record. Two new teams — Cincinnati and San Francisco — advanced to the Super Bowl. Tampa Bay kept its fans excited until the end when it was blown out of the playoffs by Dallas. Miami, still the best team in the state, had an extraordinary season.

Picked to finish down in the standings by most experts and even predicted to go 0-16 by the Sentinel Star's Jerry "Maybe Next Year" Greene, the Dolphins won the Eastern Conference of the American Football Conference.

And, in the year's most exciting game, lost an overtime duel to the San Diego Chargers in the playoffs. It was a game the Fish had numerous opportunities to win, but just couldn't pull it out. Outstanding rookies dotted National Football League rosters like never before. Tampa's own Hugh Green made the big difference in the Bucs' linebacking corps and was probably their most valuable defensive player.

Another linebacker — Lawrence Taylor of the New York Giants — helped his team into the playoffs with his aggressive style. The lightning-quick rookie had an unusually high number of sacks with his hell-bent blitzes.

San Francisco's Ronnie Lott joined two other first-year men and shored up the 49ers' porous secondary. Lott was one of the major reasons SF won the Super Bowl.

Ironically, Cincinnati's Chris Collinsworth played opposite Lott in the Silverdome Spectacular. The glue-fingered wide receiver from Titusville and the University of Florida went over a 1000 yards on catches in his inaugural season, a feat not matched by many.

Collinsworth was one of the prime reasons quarterback Ken Anderson picked up all of the post-season laurels that he did.

Although he played for a sorry team, New Orleans running back George Roberts led the league in rushing. The number one draft pick from South Carolina more than lived up to his billing.

Who's the best of the lot? That's tough to say. Anyone you go with, though, could qualify as the league's best.

Games People Will Play

WASHINGTON (UPI) — During the last month of the 1981 Christmas shopping season, which lasted slightly longer than the 1980 presidential campaign, it was almost impossible to turn on a television set without encountering 15 minutes of video game commercials.

What lies ahead for these hot gift items? Permit me to quote from The New York Times:

"Five years from now, electronic games promise to be more realistic, complex and, perhaps, more frightening than those now on the market.

"Players will be able to engage in intergalactic warfare against opponents in other cities, using computers connected by telephone lines. With two-way cable television, viewers on one side of town might compete against viewers on the other side... Children in the future might be physically attached to the games by wires, as in a lie detector."

Let us now look ahead to Super Bowl XXVI. The action, predictably, is controlled by fans at home rather than by the players on the field.

Even more far-fetched, the two Super Bowl teams are the Baltimore Colts and the New Orleans Saints.

The game is being played in the Double Dome, the first all-weather stadium built without seats. It does, however, have accommodations for 80,000 television cameras.

Home matches are, of course, determined by computers. A typical alignment might have Fergus Augg, a Farthings Gap, Va., anvil dealer, bracketed against Maxwell Twitt, operator of an Upper Iota, Iowa, football franchise.

Augg is a Baltimore rooster while Twitt favors the Saints.

The Colts having won the toss of the coin, Augg confers with his special teams adviser, his brother-in-law, Horace Fiddleworth. They decide to have Baltimore kick.

The "hang time" for the kickoff is slightly better than 12 minutes, during which Augg and Fiddleworth repair to the fridge for a beer.

Meanwhile, in Upper Iota, Twitt is conferring with his offensive coordinator, his 17-year-old nephew, Virgil. They elect to have the Saints down the ball in the end zone.

The touchback is followed by a 30-minute timeout for beer and video game commercials.

It now being possible for viewers at home to send in substitutes, Twitt attaches a wire to his Aunt Martha and sends her in as a wide receiver. He tells her to have the quarterback call "Anzio Beachhead Left," which is a double naked reverse with a split end flea-flicking the flanker.

(At the time she is drafted, Aunt Martha, who knows nothing about football, just happened to be passing by the gameroom on her way to the kitchen to see about some spongbread she is baking.)

During the 27 minutes that the gadget play is unfolding, someone invents a new, improved video game that replaces two Super Bowl half-time analysts with silicon chips no bigger than pinheads. Whereupon Augg presses the button to punt.

Puccio May Be Snagged In Own Web

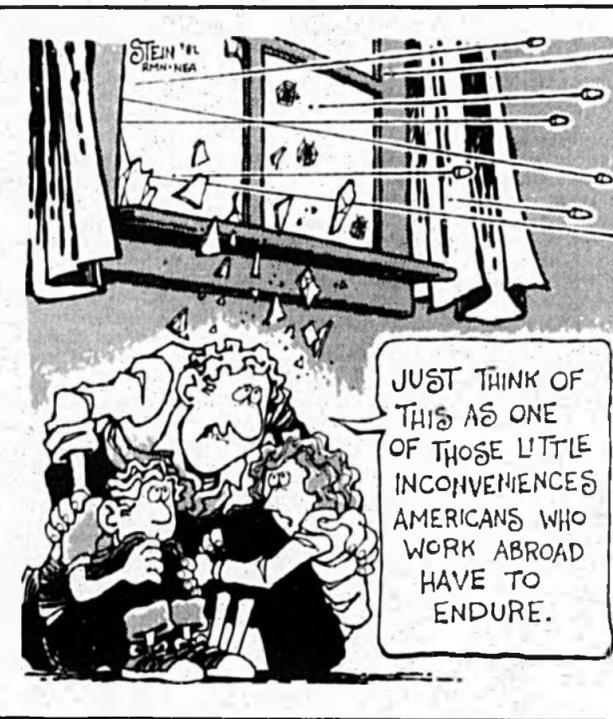

WASHINGTON — The chief ABSCAM prosecutor, Thomas P. Puccio, is dangerously close to getting entangled in the web of deceit that he has woven to snag others.

This can be detected in his latest petition to the courts. In strident language, he assailed my stories about his prize witness, Mel Weinberg, who has been caught in a double-scam.

Weinberg is the professional con man who conceived ABSCAM, masterminded the operation and personally handled almost every payoff. Now I have uncovered evidence that he extorted gifts from potential defendants and may even have absconded with some of the ABSCAM bribe money. He repeatedly denied this under oath.

I have turned over the evidence to U.S. District Judge William Bryant, a stern but fair jurist, who cannot be manipulated by Puccio. The evidence indicates that FBI agents tried to cover up the charges of Weinberg's misconduct. So it's not just the credibility of the government's star ABSCAM witness that's at stake, but the credibility of the FBI agents who protected Weinberg.

In fact, Puccio himself suppressed the allegations against Weinberg, thanks to favorable rulings from ABSCAM Judge

ROBERT WALTERS

Probing Doctors' Donations

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A Federal Election Commission investigation has produced evidence suggesting that one of the country's biggest political fund-raising organizations may have repeatedly misled both its members and the public.

The organization is the American Medical Political Action Committee, established in 1961 by the American Medical Association to enhance the political influence of the nation's physicians through a program of collecting and disbursing campaign contributions to candidates for public office.

In its letters, speeches and publications, the Chicago-based AMPAC has claimed for years that its members at the state and local levels are exclusively responsible for determining which politicians will receive the campaign funds donated by the doctors.

"This decision is not made by a 'higher authority,'" says one AMPAC handbook. "It is made at the district level and passed up" to state medical society political-action committees and to AMPAC.

"AMPAC doesn't contribute to a candidate in any state without a request from the state PAC," says another publication. "Physicians make the decisions about the disposition of all political funds."

But the official minutes of the AMPAC committee that makes the final decision about contributions to candidates, uncovered during a four-year-long FEC probe, tell a very different story about AMPAC activities during the 1970s.

In a Texas House race, a $5,000 AMPAC contribution was approved on the basis of "an oral request" made by a member of the AMPAC board of directors.

In one New York House race, "the committee considered a request for $1,000 that had been stimulated by the AMA Washington office." In two other New York House contests, the AMPAC "staff was directed to stimulate requests."

In another instance, AMPAC officials pressured Rhode Island doctors to request a campaign contribution to Sen. Claiborne Pell,

D.R.I., but were rebuffed when the local physicians said they "could not conceive of... doing anything for Pell because they 'hate his guts.'"

The AMA itself cannot make any contributions to candidates for federal office because it is incorporated; federal law specifically prohibits corporate donations.

Moverover, AMPAC insists that its campaign contributions are totally unrelated to politicians' positions on pending bills in Congress. "Legislation and its fate is a function of the AMA," says one AMPAC publication. "AMPAC can hardly be accused of trying to influence pending legislation."

But among the thousands of documents subpoenaed during the FEC investigation are letters from the assistant director of the AMA's Washington congressional relations office seeking to generate AMPAC donations to members of Congress who endorsed the AMA's position on legislation.

A typical letter notes that Rep. John M. Ashbrook, R-Ohio, "became a sponsor of our bill," then goes on to note that the congressman "seeks help" from both AMPAC and its Ohio affiliate "in the form of perhaps a $1,000 contribution toward his next election from each organization."

AMPAC describes itself in its literature as "bipartisan" and "neither a right-wing nor a left-wing organization." It has made political contributions to both Republicans and Democrats, but the FEC documents reveal an unmistakable affinity for Republicans and conservatives.

In one internal memo, an AMPAC field representative recalls that when he first met a Pennsylvania doctor, "my initial impression of him was that he's very liberal," but notes with relief that the physician "is not really that liberal."

In another case, AMPAC officials balked at a request from Florida physicians to donate $2,500 to a Democratic candidate for a House seat "because there is such a strong chance for a Republican to win."

Another African Tragedy

For a change, there's a crisis in process in which American interests are not deeply involved.

This one is in Africa, a military coup in Ghana on the last day of 1981 that was perfunctorily noted on news pages and then vanished with the new year.

Possibly because in addition to there being no vital American connection, there was little surprise. If ever a government was ripe for overthrowing, it was the civilian regime that had ruled the country for two years.

The economy was not merely at a standstill, it was moving backward. Few of the country's few factories — mostly state enterprises, the legacy of an overly ambitious, erratically implemented industrialization effort in the first years of independence — were still operating. Inflation was roaring away at a 150 percent annual rate. The foreign debt was $1.6 billion, depressed world cocoa and coffee prices upon which Ghana depends for hard currencies made it look increasingly like a bad debt and food supplies for the home folks were beginning to pinch.

So for the second time an air force officer in his early 30s — Flight Lt. Jerry Rawlings — felt compelled to take over. The civilian government he had installed in 1979 after his first coup was sent packing, parliament was dissolved and political parties banned.

Clearly a defeat for representative government, but no one in an otherwise crisis-obsessed Washington is getting noticeably excited about it. Ghana's West African neighborhood is not a present one of the continent's more sensitive areas. Rawlings did immediately re-establish diplomatic relations with Libya, but considering the state Ghana is in the connection could be Col. Muammar Khadafi's loss more than gain.

Ghana is a loss, however — one that occurred years ago.

Given the rundown state of the country today, it is easy to forget that it was Africa's richest and most promising when it became the first of the possessions of the old colonial powers to achieve independence after World War II.

That was in 1957. Britain, which had ruled the country as the Gold Coast for 113 years, prepared this beginning of a new era carefully. Ghana, which took its new name from an ancient African empire, had a thriving export market for its agricultural products and gold. It had almost half a billion dollars in reserves. It had an educated class and a British-trained civil service in place.

It also had Kwame Nkrumah, a leader of considerable capabilities, idolized at home and respected abroad.

Unfortunately, he had a tendency to confuse the advancement of the well-being of his own country with the enhancement of his stature as a world figure. He pushed economic development too rapidly and into areas for which Ghana itself or the timing were unsuitable. He spent heavily on prestige projects, especially in an effort to make Ghana the political focus of the emerging free Africa.

By 1964, the promise was gone along with the reserves. The economy was sagging. Nkrumah assumed dictatorial powers and established a one-party state. In 1966, he was overthrown in a coup, the first of the five — including the latest — that have been the major events in Ghanaian political life since.

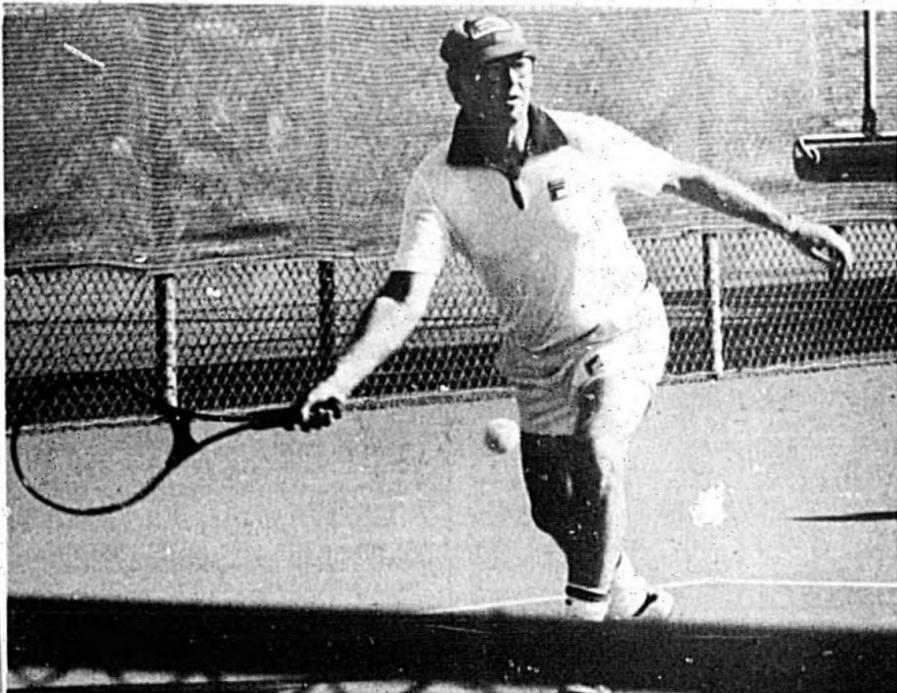

"irrelevant."

— During post-conviction hearings for all the ABSCAM defendants, Puccio told Judge Pratt he had ordered agent John Good to check out the gift allegations and that "either Mr. Weinberg or Mr. Good" told him that Weinberg had purchased the microwave oven in Florida, and had produced a receipt for it. But Marie Weinberg said she would testify that the original microwave was obtained in New Jersey — and that the FBI agents saw it there before the Weinbergs moved to Florida. She swore her husband later removed the serial number from that oven, then had her drive him to a store in Florida, where he obtained the receipt he gave to the FBI.

— At the same due-process hearing, agent Good told of his "investigation" of the gift allegations, but did not mention that he had seen the gifts in Weinberg's home, as Mrs. Weinberg claimed. And agent Anthony Amoroso — the "sheik's" man on the ABSCAM videotapes — also testified that he never had reason to suspect that Weinberg was "hustling" gifts. Yet Marie Weinberg swore that Amoroso and Good not only saw the extorted gifts but helped crate them for the move to Florida. She gave specific details, and some of the gifts in her Florida home have been traced back to Erichetti.

RIGGS RINGS HUSTLING BELL

This is just a typical day in the life of hustler Bobby Riggs, the 62-year-old former tennis great and non-conquerer of Billie Jean King in their "Battle of the Sexes" tennis match of a few years back. Above, Riggs shows off his forehand at the Altamonte Springs Racquet Club last Friday when he and his touring partner Bob Johnson subdued several doubles combinations. At the right, "Vitamin Bobby" picks up some cash for making good on his bet. Below, the wily veteran consoles a young lady who wasn't as fortunate as Billie Jean when encountering Riggs on the court. "Now I gotta go to the golf course," Riggs told Evening Herald Photographer Tom Vincent. "I do my real hustling out there. That's where the money is."

Seminole Girls Slip Into Five Star Lead

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Editor

Ron Merthie's Seminole High girls won more than a basketball game Monday night at Lake Howell. Seminole's 68-58 whipping of the Silver Hawks, coupled with DeLand's 37-34 setback at Apopka, vaulted Merthie's group past the Lady Bulldogs into first place in the Five Star Conference.

Girls' Basketball

"We just played a real bad ball game. That's all I can say," said DeLand coach Clifford Cox. "It's real tough to win at Apopka anyway."

The loss drops Cox's squad to 9-2 for the conference and 16-3 overall. The Lady 'Dogs were ranked fourth in the state in the 4A poll which came out today.

Seminole climbed a half of a game ahead of DeLand with a 10-2 mark. The Tribe is 15-4 overall. Daytona Beach Mainland is tied with the Bulldogs at 9-2.

Seminole's victory and DeLand's loss sets up a crucial Five Star meeting Thursday night at Sanford. Cox's squad tamed the 'Noles by 13 points at DeLand, but Cox figures for a much tougher battle when the two teams meet on Thursday. A victory may be the catalyst toward a Five Star crown.

"Isn't this wild?" exclaimed Merthie when informed of the DeLand loss. "We almost got beat too. Well, we didn't come that close, but I couldn't empty my bench because of their press."

The 'Noles received 23 points from Cathy Jones, 17 from Tony Hardy, 14 from Maxine Campbell and 10 from Johnnie Bennett in their 10-point victory over the Hawks.

Sanford rolled to a 20-10 first half lead, but the Silver Hawks, paced by sophomore Christy Scott's career-high 22 points, battled the Tribe even the rest of the game. Howell hit 18-of-23 free throws to stay in range.

"I think they got within nine points once," said Merthie. "But we didn't play real well."

Despite the showing, Merthie is more than willing to accept the sub-par performance. "This means we'll be ready for DeLand Thursday," he pointed out. "It seems in the four games that we've lost... they've all come after we'd blown somebody out the previous game."

"The next game we just didn't have that something extra that you need to beat a good team."

One extra Merthie won't have for Thursday is Robin Riggins. The smooth senior is still bothered by an infected eye. Merthie isn't sure when she will return, although the eye is "much better."

Elsewhere in the county, Lake Brantley stomped Spruce Creek, 49-34.

Patriot scoring machine Rhonda Vazquez drilled in 18 points and Linda Nunez added 14 as the Lady Patriots improved to 9-11.

Brantley burst to a 33-17 halftime lead and never looked back against the overmatched Hawks. Spruce Creek is 5-15.

Ho Hum, Seminole JV Runs Record To 10-0

While first place was a pleasant surprise to Ron Merthie's varsity, the lofty position is nothing new for coach Beth Corso's Seminole junior varsity girls. Sophomore Dee Goebelbecker tossed in 16 points Monday night as the Tribe trounced Lake Howell, 79-33, to improve to 10-0 for the season with just six conference games to play. Arlene Jones added 14 points for the Tribe in limited playing time, while Sharon Jenkins rounded out the double-figure Sanford scoring with 13 points. Corso's 16-3 crew will play DeLand at 6:15 on Thursday.

No Patsies For Rams; Precarious Payne Hopes Claws Aren't For 'Noles

Well, you had a one day respite from football, how was it?

I hope you enjoyed your rest because there isn't going to be much more if you're a Lake Mary Rams football fanatic. Coach Roger Beathard has put together a 1982 schedule that will severely test his second-year squad.

"I think we've beefed it up pretty well," said Beathard about the 10-game slate. The Rams played a junior varsity schedule in their first year and came out of it at 4-4. "We didn't go out and schedule a bunch of patsies."

Next year's ledger includes four 2A schools, four 3A schools and one — are you ready? — 4A school. Beathard will add one more game to make it 10.

On Nov. 5, the Rams will travel to Lake Brantley to battle the Patriots in a rivalry starter for Lake Mary.

Why the Patriots when all of the county's 4A schools would jump at a chance to play the Rams? "Our kids felt they had the strongest feelings against Lake Brantley," replied Beathard.

Lake Mary opens with 3A Hockledge (Sept. 10), followed by 2A Flagler Palm Coast (Sept. 17), 3A Bishop Moore (Sept. 24), 2A Wynore Tech (Oct. 10), 3A Oviedo (Oct. 22), 2A powerhouse Wildwood (Oct. 29), Brantley (Nov. 5), 2A Cocoa Beach (Nov. 12) and 3A New Smyrna Beach (Nov. 19). Someone will be scheduled on Oct. 8 or Oct. 15.

Rockledge, Bishop Moore, Wynore, Oviedo and New Smyrna Beach will be at home. The Barracudas have one of the top running backs in the state in Darrell Fullington returning. He's a powerful 9.7, 100-yard dash sprinter.

The Rams will have an eight-game junior varsity slate including all the county schools. They will have a six-game freshman schedule, again with all the county competition included.

If Seminole High's Bill Payne looked like he has been walking on ice the past few days — the Tribe hoop coach has good reason.

Tonight, Payne takes his Seminoles to Lake Howell for an 8 o'clock meeting with Greg Robinson's Silver Hawks.

Is Payne worried about running into a powerful Hawk five? No. Quite the opposite is true. The Howell Hawks are winless. They've lost 14 games in a row.

And Payne would very much detest being the first victim the Hawks sink their claws into. Lake Howell has played better of late. They've been close in their last two games. A seven-point loss at DeLand could almost be termed a moral victory after what Robinson's been through.

Swingman Mark Layton continues to be Howell's "Lone Ranger." The 6-0 senior's performance against the Bulldogs was spectacular. He fired in a career-high 34 points. "We're going to beat somebody one of these nights," Layton said at a recent SCC basketball game. "I can just feel it."

Payne hopes that feeling isn't for him.

In other county action, Lyman hosts Daytona Beach Mainland as it tries to keep its Five Star hopes alive. Lake Brantley can give Lyman a little help if it knocks off league leader Spruce Creek tonight in Altamonte Springs. Oviedo takes on St. Cloud at home and Lake Mary travels to Florida Central.

Lake Mary Spring Coaches Talk To Boosters Wednesday

Lake Mary's Boosters' Club will meet Wednesday night at 7:30 in the media room to hear a presentation on spring sports. Don Smith (baseball), Mike Gibson (track and field), Cindy Henry (softball), Walt Morgan (swimming), Ron Safford (golf) and Beth Whigham (tennis) will be the featured coaches. Head football coach Roger Beathard said the Feb. 14 Boosters' Auction will be discussed. All interested parties are urged to attend.

Chargers Obtain Bucs' Lewis

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Linebacker David Lewis has been acquired by the San Diego Chargers from the Tampa Bay Buccaneers for draft choices. Lewis, 6-foot-4, 245 pounds, was replaced by Andy Hawkins as a starting outside linebacker in Tampa's 3-4 alignment last season. He played for the NFC in last year's Pro Bowl. Lewis is known as a fast, rangy linebacker who can play outside or in the middle. He has 12 career quarterback sacks and eight interceptions. He notched more than 100 tackles in each of the 1978, '79 and '80 seasons.

Chargers coach Don Coryell said, "We're very pleased to get such a quality, experienced linebacker as David Lewis. I've admired him since he came into the league and the way he played against us in his brief playing time last season was very impressive."

Lemons Not Soured By Loss

Is it embarrassing for a nationally ranked team to lose a game by 31 points? Texas Coach Abe Lemons doesn't think so. "I wouldn't say this was humiliating," said Lemons Monday night, after his Longhorns, ranked No. 11, had been routed, 80-49, by Rice at Houston. "I've never been humiliated over a basketball game. Turning against your country might be humiliating, but not losing a basketball game."

MR. AND MRS. JOHN RICHARD JOHNSON

Judith Ann Ray, John R. Johnson Exchange Vows

Judith Ann Ray and John Richard Johnson were married Jan. 16, at 7 p.m., at Lake Mary United Presbyterian Church. The Rev. A.F. Stevens performed the candlelight and double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren A. Ray Sr., 109 Fairlane Circle, Sanford. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Lucille Johnson, Maitland, and the late Mr. John R. Johnson.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows an ivory chiffon over satin gown. The sheer pleated overblouse featured Venice lace at the neckline and cuffs of the full sleeves. A coronet of silk flowers and seed pearls held her floor-length veil of imported illusion. She carried three cymbidium orchids interspersed with white carnations, purple hare miniature carnations, baby's breath and ivory ribbon.

Susan Johnson attended her sister as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Nydia DePierro and Vivian Alcott, both of Sanford. Each wore a burgundy gown fashioned along the empire silhouette with a pullover burgundy chiffon cape. Their flowers were cymbidium orchids, carnations and ivy.

Buddy Robertson of Maitland, served the bridegroom as best man. Ushers were Chip Witt and Cliff Schilling, both of Maitland.

Following the ceremony the reception was held at the Sanford Garden Club. The newlyweds are making their home at 107 Lake Minnie Drive, Sanford.

The bride is employed as bookkeeper at McRoberts Tires, Sanford. The bridegroom is employed by Acme-DeBary Septic Tank Service.

There's Still A Lot Of Coal In The Fields

ATLANTA (UPI) — In the mountainous northwest corner of Georgia it's hard to find any traces these days of what were once the thriving towns of Durham, New Home, New England City and Cole City.

One by one, three of them vanished. New England City managed to survive as a crossroads on the latest Georgia maps.

At the beginning of the 20th Century these four had one thing in common — they were Georgia's coal-mining towns and were prominently mentioned in the 1904 edition of the Geological Survey of Georgia, says Dr. Howard Cramer, an Emory University geologist.

Cramer has done extensive research on the history of Georgia's coal industry, tracing it back to pre-Civil War days. Coal is still being mined in Dade, Walker and Chattooga counties, he says, after production dropped off to zero from 1963-1973.

Current figures on actual production are a closely-guarded secret among the coal-mining companies and the land owners for competitive reasons, said Cramer, but "I've heard rumors to the effect that it was half a million tons or over three years ago."

Figures furnished by Dr. Bruce O'Connor, a state geologist, put the amount at 226,000 tons in 1977 and 113,000 tons the following year, with a value of $52.22 per ton.

O'Connor said Georgia had a low production figure but the price per ton was "the highest in the nation, based on the latest available information."

That's not much coal compared to the amount mined in other states, but Cramer said the Georgia coal is not the ordinary variety. "It is a high grade metallurgical coal low in sulphur and phosphorus and much of it goes overseas."

Brazil is a major purchaser of Georgia coal, which because of its exceedingly low sulphur content is extremely valuable in smelting ores. "It's real first class stuff," said Cramer.

Cramer said estimates of Georgia's coal reserves vary widely. "A ballpark figure would be 100 million tons in the ground," not a major source but worth more than $1.5 billion at current prices. Total U.S. coal reserves amount to several hundred billion tons.

The Georgia coal is near Georgia Power's large Etowah Plant which is fired by coal from South Africa. But Cramer said the Georgia coal is of such high quality "it would be a shame to use it for that purpose."

Coal mining in Georgia began before the Civil War and was largely done by convict labor leased from the state prisons, said Cramer. The largest reported annual production was a 417,000 tons in 1903.

Coal mining declined when the state outlawed the leasing of convict labor in 1910. In 1920 strip mining was introduced to Georgia and sporadic production continued.

Production again increased during World War II but declined steadily after that. It died out altogether in the early 1960s and was not revived until about 1973, Cramer said.

Cramer said the big problem with mining coal in Georgia is that mineral rights for land are held by widely scattered heirs, making it difficult to put together a large enough parcel of land to make largescale strip mining practical. The state also has strict laws about strip mining with heavy deposits required before licenses are granted. The deposits are not returned until the land is restored.

Recently, Georgia coal mining has shown signs of a revival. O'Connor said that in the decade from 1971-1980, the state mined 562,000 tons of coal, the highest in any decade in the last 30 years.

New Weapons Against Widespread 'Super VD'

ATLANTA (UPI) — Medical experts say there are several new and inexpensive antibiotics on the horizon that may reverse the "dramatic" global spread of a penicillin-resistant "super gonorrhea" called PPNG.

The super gonorrhea, known as "penicillinase-producing Neisseria gonorrhoeae" (PPNG), has spread worldwide and is rampant in some Asian and African nations. The first cases in the United States were found in soldiers returning from the Far East in 1976.

Dr. Stuart Brown of the national Centers for Disease Control said the spread of the tough-to-cure gonorrhea has been "dramatic" and the disease' resistance to penicillin is threatening to make it the world's dominant strain of gonorrhea.

Brown said the two antibiotics on the market that can effectively cure PPNG — spectinomycin and cefoxitin — are so expensive that many people, both in this country and abroad, cannot afford them.

But, there is reason for optimism, Brown said. "There are a whole host of new antibiotics coming out that are as effective as spectinomycin," he says. "Many of them are extremely effective and some have already been licensed."

"We're right at the verge of having a whole group of antibiotics coming on the market that will be effective against PPNG."

"Our ability to control disease in this country is the most positive thing," said Brown, citing the success several communities have had in controlling PPNG. "It demonstrates that this disease can be controlled. It requires a sustained, significant increase in effort."

From a handful of infections in a few states five years ago, PPNG has now been identified in all states except Delaware, New Hampshire and Vermont.

Although small compared to the 1 million-plus gonorrhea cases reported to the CDC annually, there have been 4,399 PPNG cases reported to the CDC since 1976 — 2,428 of them in 11 months last year.

The organism that causes the resistant gonorrhea produces an enzyme which, when penicillin is administered, kills the antibiotic and makes the infection completely resistant to that type of treatment.

Brown said there is another type of gonorrhea which has developed a genetic resistance to penicillin.

If penicillin continues to be used against the resistant strain because spectinomycin is too expensive, medical authorities fear PPNG will spread even more.

Brown, however, said medical authorities battling PPNG are "still in a reasonably optimistic mood. The medical care system is such that this problem probably can be effectively dealt with."

There are likely to be more cases of PPNG in the immediate future, however, despite the advent of new drugs, said Brown, mainly because of importations.

Hobby Industry Worth Billions

DALLAS (UPI) — Jimmy Stewart and Michael Landon collect stamps. Warren Beatty and Florence Henderson do needlepoint. Frank Sinatra, Mel Torme, Sammy Davis Jr. and Gary Coleman build model railroads.

Ernest Zimbalist Jr. collects miniature dollhouses. David Soul enjoys radio-controlled flying, while Alan Arkin likes slot-car racing. John Travolta builds model planes and Hal Linden builds model ships.

The celebrities are a few of the hundreds of thousands of Americans involved in an endless variety of hobbies for fun, relaxation and creativity.

"I'm very fond of saying we're in an industry that promotes happiness," said Joseph Samaria of Los Angeles, president of the Hobby Industry of America.

The latest and greatest innovations in the $3.3 billion industry are on display this week at the HIA's 41st annual Convention and Trade Show. More than 1,300 booths are exhibited along 10 miles of walkways in the Dallas Convention Center during the four-day show. The best items in each category received Creative Excellence Awards Monday.

Perhaps the fastest growing hobby is adventure gaming, made famous by "Dungeons and Dragons," said HIA spokesman Bob Perilla.

Winning in the category was "Rails thru the Rockies" by Adventure Games Inc. of St. Paul, Minn. The game is set in the Rocky Mountains of Colorado in the 1870s and 1880s. The players are cast as presidents of railroad companies racing to complete the first line through the mountains.

In the car racing division the winner was a 4-wheel drive pickup truck built to 1-10th the scale of a Toyota truck and capable of pulling a person on a skateboard, traveling up to 23 mph and climbing a hill at a 45-degree angle.

Manufactured by Model Rectifier Corp. of Edison, N.J., the radio-controlled truck has really taken off on the West Coast, said spokesman Frank Ritola.

MHC also tied in the division for plastic model kits with its 1-12th scale version of motorcycles. It tied with a 1-16th scale Kenworth truck cab by Monogram Models Inc. of Morton Grove, Ill.

"Executive stress is a big problem these days," Perilla said. "You wouldn't believe the number of executives who take a break and build models."

They Call Nick Salios The 'Pony Padre'

BENSALEM TOWNSHIP, Pa. (NEA) — Nicholas Salios ministers amid mud and manure.

Every morning the Keystone Racetrack chaplain doggedly visits two or three barns, walking down the shedrow, keeping out of the way of the sleek, temperamental horses that are being led around the buildings.

He greets everyone — the trainers, the grooms, the exercise riders, the hot walkers, the pony girls and the farriers. Most everyone answers.

"How are you?" Salios asks a short, slight man with jet-black stubble and a cracked tooth.

"Can't complain," the man answers.

"If you can, come see me," Salios says.

Salios is one of 20 full- or part-time ministers employed by the decade-old Race Track Chaplaincy of America. He arrived at Keystone last October.

His church is the tack room, the shedrow, the track kitchen, the recreation hall or his starkly furnished office in the administration building. He operates without hymn books or a piano as entertainers.

He insists on open-door accessibility.

His parishioners are abused wives with black eyes and lonely husbands whose wives have left for other men. He ministers to angry victims of sexual abuse and to people trapped in a spiral of alcohol or drugs.

He conducts weddings and he presides at funerals. Salios doesn't aim to reach the desperate spectators who blow their paychecks on a bum mare and then wonder how they'll pay the rent.

He's there for the nearly 1,400 "backside" workers, especially the 300 who live in the track's dormitories and, even in their dreams, are never more than a couple of yards from the four-legged creatures who are considered more important than they are.

"It's the horse this, the horse that, the horse, the horse," Salios sighs. "The horses get all the attention. I'm here to give people attention. People need the same care."

His congregants may be coarser than polished businessmen. Maybe, as he says, "swear words flow from them as freely as water fallin' over a dam."

Some might, as he admits, "steal your coffee if you turn your head." He locks his office door whenever he steps out, no matter how briefly.

Still, they tone down their language when Salios makes his rounds — or at least follow their expletives with an "excuse me, Chaplain."

"They kid a lot, too, pointing to each other when I'm around and telling me, 'he needs you, Chaplain. He really is a sinner,'" says Salios.

But that's OK. It demonstrates that Salios is on his way to becoming the approachable, trusted friend that he wants to be.

And when the backside's temper their behavior in front of this representative of God, it shows that they are at least aware of a greater being than a Triple Crown winner.

The Race Track Chaplaincy of America, chartered in 1970, was the brainchild of Salty Roberts, a former exercise boy who changed his evil ways once he found God. "You name it and he'd done it," Salios says.

Each chaplain must be an ordained clergyman, a college graduate and, if applicable to his religion, a seminary graduate. In addition, he must have had at least two years of pastoral experience and additional counseling training.

Chaplains are paid annual salaries of $18,000 to $30,000 by the RTCA.

Salios was ordained as a Baptist minister, but he says he is an ecumenical missionary here, a healer of all faiths. His methods, however, remain firmly rooted in what he calls the "Jesus ministry," in which the minister goes out to the people rather than waiting for them to come to him.

He also serves as a part-time chaplain at Penn National Race Course near Harrisburg. The track people there call him the "pony padre" because he mounts one of the animals and conducts his ministry in tangible display of simpatoco with his parishioners.

"I'd like to meet more of the younger people here and break through their shells," declares Salios, who says he is in his 50s. "God isn't important to them. Changing their lifestyle isn't important to them."

"Even the ones who came from good homes have no goals, no purpose. I ask them, 'Are you going to rub a horse all your life? Are you going to hot walk all your life?'"

It is when he asks the questions that are meant to prick someone's inertia that Salios sounds like a preacher. Then he points to the wizened old-timers who have built their lives around animals. He asks if that's how the young people want to end up.

"God can help you get your act together," he tells them.

Salios explains that the bravado and swagger of many of the backside's may serve as a cover for personal insecurity and low self-esteem. He tries to chip away at their shells, to get at the people underneath.

"I'm human too," Salios says. "I do what I can to help them. But I don't carry that burden of their not responding. With persistence I may reach them, though. You have to be patient. Still, sometimes you wonder if you're getting through."

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Calcium May Slow Bone Deterioration

DEAR DR. LAMB — I know several older people who have broken hips lately and the doctors say the bone broke and this caused them to fall. One person's bones were so crumbly they had to glue the pin in to make it hold. How can they put weight on the other leg without it breaking too?

I am especially concerned because I am in my late 60s and in the past year and a half I have cracked several ribs just by stretching in reaching. What causes the bones to deteriorate like this? What can a person do to prevent it?

DEAR READER — The dowager's hump and fractured or shortened vertebrae are so commonly associated with osteoporosis (dissolving bones) that people forget it has other manifestations, too. A major one is that osteoporosis is the underlying cause of as many as three-fourths of all hip fractures. Incidentally, one of the first places where dissolving bones occur is in the mandible around the roots of the teeth — which is why many women with the beginnings of this problem start losing their teeth.

The disease is particularly common in women but it also occurs in men, usually on an average of 20 years after women start having it.

Of course there are other causes for brittle bones and these need to be ruled out, but to attack the common problem you do need to know that you increase your chances of having osteoporosis if you do not have enough calcium in your diet. Why? Because many people as they get older absorb less of the calcium in their food. To compensate for this you consume more calcium. If you don't, since your bloodstream must have a minimum of calcium in it for other tissue functions, your body simply robs the calcium stores of your bones.

There is much more to the problem than this, though. And today there are numerous medical approaches to at least stopping osteoporosis. Various hormones, calcium, vitamin D and even fluoride are used. I am sending you The Health Letter number 6-10, Osteoporosis: Bone Softening, to update you on the problem. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 62 and my husband is 73. We are planning a three-week bus tour with our Senior Citizens group who are all over 60 years. We are worried about our legs and feet swelling and getting cramps in them. Are there any sitting leg exercises we can do while riding to keep our legs from getting numb? We will be riding many hours at a time and I'd appreciate any help we can get.

DEAR READER — That's a good question. Bus drivers for such outings should be aware that prolonged sitting, particularly if there is any pressure from the edge of the seat against the back of the thighs, can make varicose veins worse and can even lead to thrombophlebitis. We have the same problem in air travel. The best help is to stop frequently and give everybody a chance to move their legs by walking around.

Short of that, get up when you can safely. Periodically raise the back of your thighs off the seat by raising your feet or your toes with your heels off the floor. Move your legs around and contract and relax your leg muscles. Support stockings also help to prevent swelling and such problems. But move your legs.

YOUR BIRTHDAY

February 3, 1982

All the studying and preparation you have done to prepare yourself to do a better job in your field of endeavor should pay off this coming year. Advancement is likely.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) This should be a very pleasant day, provided you disengage yourself from your normal routine. Give vent to your spirit of adventure. Predictions of what's in store for you in each season following your birth date and where your luck and opportunities lie are in your new Astro-Graph, Mail #1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 483, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You should be able to see ways to make changes today which could be beneficial for those you love. If they don't grasp what you're trying to do, act alone.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Much can be done today to shore up important friendships and alliances. Encouraging words and supportive gestures will mean a lot to the recipients.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your possibilities for material gains look very promising today. Devote your energies to enterprises which could spell profit.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Step in and take charge of situations today if you see others floundering. You'll know what to do to get things back on course.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) This is a good day to put the final touch on matters you haven't been able to wrap up as yet. You're a strong finisher now.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You have the ability today to raise the level of hopes and thoughts of persons with whom you'll be dealing on a one-to-one basis. Use your gift.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Major achievements are possible today in financial or career areas, if you choose to apply yourself. Establish goals. Don't settle for second best.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're a take-charge type today and you should be able to do just that by making what you want to accomplish a game which will attract the proper supporters.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't be disturbed by shifting conditions today. What occurs could work out to your ultimate benefit. Flow with events.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Even though you prefer to operate independently, partnerships could be far luckier for you today than that which you attempt on your own.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be alert today for developments which could benefit you either financially or careerwise. Something opportune is apt to be stirring in both areas.

WIN AT BRIDGE

The triple grand coup

Table with bridge hand details: NORTH 1-4-8-8, WEST 10-8-7-2, SOUTH 8-4-3, EAST 10-8-4-3-2, etc.

Vulnerable: Neither. Dealer: North. West: 10, Pass, 50, Pass. North: 10, Pass, 50, Pass. East: 4NT, Pass, 70, Pass. South: 4NT, Pass, 70, Pass. Opening lead: 4Q.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

A trump coup occurs when you shorten your own trumps in order to get down to the same number of trumps as your right hand opponent. It is called a "grand coup" when you ruff one of dummy's winners for this purpose. A triple grand coup takes place when you ruff three of dummy's winners to achieve the desired goal.

We have set up today's hand to show a triple grand coup. Never mind the bidding. If this hand were actually dealt, North would surely find his way to seven no-trump and go one down against good defense.

South takes dummy's ace of diamonds, comes to his hand by ruffing a club and plays his ace of hearts intending to draw trumps and claim but West shows out.

South pauses a second, leads a spade to dummy and ruffs a second club. He gets to dummy with another spade and ruffs a third club. East could ruff this third club but South would just overruff and draw trumps. So East discards a spade.

South is now down to the same number of trumps as East and must get to dummy with a spade or diamond. He gets there with a diamond and leads clubs until such time as East ruffs whereupon South overruffs. East has been couped out of his trump tricks.
