THE EYE OF THE LORD: Be bold, the eye of the Lord is upon them that fear him, upon them that hope in his mercy.

NEWS BY THE CONNECTICUT

Youth may outwit the relative drift of time. A little while by keeping pace with it, as dolphins rolling at their polished ease.

According to the papers Mac West was robbed of $10,000 in jewels, but she still has her fig ure.

Lindy Takes More Gasoline Off Suspense—headline. If we were in his place, we'd be putting more on, even if the plane wouldn't rise.

Walter Wilbur, of the federal emergency relief association, says that the biggest problem so far has been not in finding the funds for relief purposes but in the "lack of brains to spend the money in a way to bring about the most good."

Secretary Morgenthau's statement that treasury purchases of government bonds in order to support the market are gradually tapering off is encouraging. We have seen enough of market support of securities when New York banks were buying their own stocks in order to keep them from depreciating to know that the continuation of such a policy is not altogether desirable.

The famous or infamous, according to your point of view. Dawes loan again makes the headlines as a Senate investigating committee reports that the original loan of ninety million dollars has been reduced to $62,157,506 and that $2,283,958 in interest charges have been paid. The balance due is secured by collateral with a face value of $91,633,670. If all the RFC's loans are as good as that the government will not collapse.

Judge Akerman has ruled that the NRA as applied to purely local businesses is unconstitutional. Some people think he should have ignored the constitution in making his decision. Others believe it is high time the country began to pay some attention to the fundamental law of the land. Our own opinion is that Judge Akerman's decision will not affect the ultimate outcome of the NRA one way or another. If it is good, legal means will be found for making it effective. If it is bad, public opinion will change it without the aid of the constitution.

Many sober minded people are wondering where all the money's coming from to give the millions of unemployed jobs under the Civil Works Administration. And what is going to happen to those people after the money's spent and there are no more federal jobs? However, this does not worry the government. It's damned well sure to find a way to give the money to all the unemployed. It's the government's business to take care of its own people. It's the government's business to take care of its own people. It's the government's business to take care of its own people.

How To Drink Wine

Now that prohibition has become an accepted fact, it may be of some importance to know how to drink. At least that would seem to be the impression one gathers from much of the literature one finds these days in the newspapers, magazines and movie shorts.

Anyway, Maurice Edmond Sailland, known in Paris as the Prince of Gourmets, the wisest master of wines in all France, has compiled a list of "do's" and "don'ts" to guide American wine bibbers in their drinking now that prohibition has been repealed.

- 1. Don't mix tobacco and wines; smoke after dinner.
2. Cool white wines; serve reds at room temperature.
3. Drink nothing before soups, not even cocktails.
4. Never serve Bordeaux reds after Burgundy.
5. Keep your sweet wine for the final sweets.
6. Red meats digest better with red wines; white wines with fish.

With a broad smile in proportion to his broad girth and his excessive rotundity, the Prince is said to have warned Americans against experimenting by mixing wines. He suggested that not more than two wines should be served at any meal, and that wine should never be taken without food.

"The whole gamut of French wines fits with some food or another," he declared. "No wines are intended for drinking over bars without eating."

"First of all, no wine should be poured before the soup is eaten. Of course, if there is no soup the wine is served at once. Oysters and hors d'oeuvres cannot be eaten with water, and both need wine to make them appetizing."

"With oysters and fish of all kinds white wines are best. They accentuate the flavor. If the fish is not perfectly fresh the wine brings out the fault. If it is good it improves it. Choose white Burgundy with fish, preferably full-bodied, like Mersault, or a dry wine like Brut-Champagne."

"The old idea of drinking with the dessert is gone. Nowadays we commence with champagne. One glass puts every one in good spirits and it will be appreciated more if it is not preceded by a cocktail."

"But do not drink champagne all through the repast. It is too much of a good thing. Besides, meats need red wines to aid their assimilation and improve their flavor."

"With white meats, such as beef and veal, drink a Bordeaux vintage. With dark meats, especially game, drink Burgundy. But either will do very well. Remember that the Bordeaux should never follow the Burgundy. Most gourmets prefer not to mix Burgundy and Bordeaux at the same sitting."

"We may come back to the white wines again with the foie gras or the sweets. But only the rich, fruity wines like Sauternes of the Bordeaux region, notably Chateau Yquem, which is the perfect wine with foie gras, and sweetened fresh fruits, are suitable for drinking with them."

"To Americans I must say that good wine and good food is wasted if mixed with tobacco smoke. Try to wait until you are through eating to smoke and to avoid smoking just before eating so as to leave the palate sensitive to taste."

THE ABC OF INFLATION

BY NICHOLAS ROBYNSKI

What is inflation? There are at least two kinds: currency inflation and credit inflation. The latter may be subdivided into government credit inflation and bank credit inflation.

It is currency inflation and its close ally, government credit inflation, which are the subject of so much discussion today.

Government credit inflation may be defined as watering the currency by increasing the volume of paper money out of proportion to the gold reserves of the country. It is much like pouring out three fingers of whiskey to make a highball and then adding several quarts of soda.

Government credit inflation may be defined as the overextension of government credit to such a point that the solvency of the government is threatened or actually impaired.

Why do so many people want inflation? Because they believe that inflation will raise prices and make it easier to pay off debts. They consider that whenever an attempt at stabilization is made there is a temporary decline in prices, especially of farm products.

electric company 41 new demands which they insist must be met before 9 A. M. Thursday.

The Cuban president has announced he will sign a decree providing a compulsory reduction of the company's rates, to which officials of the company have replied that if the reduction is enforced, they will be unable to operate.

Leaders of American commercial interests in Cuba said the issue will determine once for all whether the government intends to swing sharply to the left, to the point of becoming definitely communistic.

Led by Archer K. Jones, vice president and general manager of the Cuban Electric Company, officials defied both the government and the laborers.

"We will not accept the demands of the laborers," Jones said. "I told them before that we never would accept a demand that we recognize unions, and I repeat it now."

In the final analysis, both currency and government credit are intimately linked with confidence. Conversely, inflation is tied up with loss of confidence.

STANLEY-ROGERS HARDWARE CO. 204 Sanford Avenue

They Should Tell Us!

Many a good Southerner's blood has often boiled at the sanctimonious criticism so often directed toward this section of the country by certain high-minded but hypocritical reformers in the North who see in the occasional lynchings which unfortunately occur more frequently in the South than elsewhere a degree of depravity which defies comparison.

Such criticism was the purpose of a gigantic meeting held in the City College auditorium in New York City the other night. A resolution had been prepared condemning mob violence in general and the San Jose lynching in particular. A number of prominent bishops were on the program while the principal speaker of the evening was Charles H. Tuttle, a former United States district attorney. As reported in the New York papers, the speakers poured it into all sections of the hinterland for their unparalleled wickedness.

Suddenly a woman arose in the audience. She demanded to be heard.

"All right, go ahead," said Chairman Tuttle.

"Why should we try to wash the dirty linen of California," she began, "when there is so much dirty linen right here in New York?"

Well, now that almost started a riot even in law abiding straight-faced New York.

"Shut up!" "Throw her out!" were the cries from the audience.

"I demand to be heard," the woman went on, "What about these legal farces in New York. They make my blood boil!"

"She's in favor of lynching," exclaimed the crowd. "Throw her out! She ought to be stomped!"

Mr. Tuttle and some of the bishops realized the menacing attitude of the audience. Quickly several of them surrounded the woman and hustled her out of a rear door while the crowd continued to yell, "She ought to be lynched."

So, what was supposed to be a protest against mob violence only narrowly avoided turning out to be a lynching party. It only goes to show that one part of the country can hardly with good grace set itself up as properly telling another part how to do. The best of our knowledge there is no part of the country which sets any too good an example for the rest.

The least that can be said in this case is that people who live in glass houses should not throw stones. The woman who protested at the meeting was eminently correct. A lynching is a relatively trivial matter as compared with many of the things which go on in New York City.

SANFORD, TWENTY YEARS AGO

J. O. Packard has withdrawn from active connection with the Howard-Packard Land Company of this city and the affairs of that company will be managed in the future entirely by its president, Mr. E. A. Howard. This corporation has been one of the most active and best known in this part of Florida for the past six years. Mr. Packard has not yet decided what he will do but has several things in view. The Virginia-Carolina Chemical Company will rebuild its mammoth fertilizer factory here at an early date, the contract having been let to G. W. Venable. It was with a feeling of genuine regret that the public saw this mammoth factory destroyed by fire some day months ago and the rumor that they did not expect to rebuild at Sanford. Since that time

Strange Death Of Girl Stirs Princess Anne

PRINCESS ANNE, Md., Dec. 6.—(AP)—The strange death of a 20-year-old girl yesterday stirred Princess Anne, the scene of October's lynching and more recently the focal point of troops sent to arrest lynching suspects.

The body of the girl, Edna Morris, was found by two negroes near their shack more than a mile from her home. The body was lying in a patch of woodland, face down, fully clothed.

The girl had been missing since last Friday, but her parents said they had made no search for her because they believed she had eloped.

The negroes were brought to Princess Anne, but neither was held. Later, one of them was reported missing.

PLAYS LAST GAME FRIDAY NIGHT

WINTER PARK, Fla., Dec. 6.—(AP)—Rollins is going to miss a kid answering to the name of Hymie Miller next year. One of the best quarterbacks in the Southeast and certainly the best that Rollins had in many a year brings his college gridiron career to a close next Friday night when he directs the Tars in their game with Cumberland University next Friday night, Dec. 8, at Tinker Field.

The tip-off on just how much Hymie will be missed in the football set-up next season came about this season when Miller sprained his ankle and had to keep on the sidelines during several of the mid-season games. Although the Tars managed to knock off Erskine and Lenoir Rhyne without the services of Miller, his absence was sorely felt in his game against Miami when his leadership and his ability as a player might have made the Tars play a different brand of football.

Miller returned to active duty in the game against Tampa and the effect was noticeable to every one who saw the Tars stage something of a mild upset. The Tars put on a drive that carried them to a smashing 19 to 7 victory and followers who knew the inside of the story have no doubt but that Miller provided the spark which made the team look 50 percent stronger than they had during the past few weeks.

Miller is a triple threat back. He is a clever runner, an accurate passer, and a dependable punter. In addition, he is unusually cool as well as smart in directing the plays.

Besides being a capable athlete, Miller is ranked as one of the best students on the campus, having made the "honor" list throughout last year. Last fall, when his time was taken up every day with football activities, he drew "A's" in four of his five subjects for an average of 97 percent in all classes. The Rollins Committee on Rhodes Scholarships announced recently that it would have nominated Miller as a candidate from

Moratorium On Debts Opposed By Cordell Hull

(Continued From Page 1) ... place before the conference. During sharp debate in the steering committee, Cordell Hull, American Secretary of State, said his country felt the matter should not be discussed by the meeting.

This view was held, Hull said, despite the fact that international bankers have opposed President Roosevelt's program. Mexico's proposal for a moratorium on all public as well as private debts created the stir in the steering committee. Secretary Hull has supported Argentina and Chile, while Cuba backed Mexico.

Although agreeing that the United States would serve on the sub-committee, Hull emphasized it would not enter into a discussion of the private debts issue. Other countries on the sub-committee are Mexico, Argentina, Brazil and Colombia.

The moratorium was proposed by Dr. Jose Manuel Puig-Cascurano, Mexico's foreign minister. It would extend from six to ten years. An interstatory and banking system, with currency backed partly by silver, also are included in his plan.

A resolution assailing the gold standard as a "factor of perturbation" was prepared by Peru. Capacity to pay would be a prerequisite for foreign loans, under a new international agreement.

DAYTONA STILL IN DOUBT OVER VOTE RESULTS

Commission Is Kept From Counting Returns Which Gave Armstrong Victory

DAYTONA BEACH, Dec. 7.—(A.P.)—An injunction restraining the city commission from canvassing election returns today halted the re-election of Mayor Edward H. Armstrong and commissioners in two city zones where the balloting was continued after the normal closing hours Tuesday as a result of a mandatory injunction entered by the National Guard.

The injunction was issued by Harry H. Hays, a commissioner for the circuit court in the absence of Judge M. G. Rowe who is spending over a Tampa court week, and upon a complaint signed by Dr. Guy Klock, defeated by Armstrong in the mayoralty race, and Don Morris and J. R. Huchaba, defeated in zones four and three respectively by Ralph Richards and Harry Wilcox as commissioners.

Dr. Edward L. Thompson campaign manager for Dr. Guy A. Klock who was defeated in the mayoralty race in Tuesday's municipal election, yesterday said action "undoubtedly will be taken" to attempt to nullify the results in two precincts where a court order kept the polls open three and a half hours after regular closing time, while armed National Guardsmen stood by.

Mayor Edward L. Armstrong was re-elected by a margin of 800 votes and received his greatest support in the two precincts. Dr. Guy A. Klock, defeated 3-2 to 2-19 by Armstrong, courted the election should be declared a contest and said he would confer with his advisers as to a contest.

Ralph Richards and Harry Wilcox, Armstrong supporters, won commission seats in the two precincts which were kept open by court order of Judge J. C. D. Rowan because he was informed voters had been so delayed by the questioning of the election board that they were about to be deprived of their vote.

Golf Drive To Continue Until Quota Reached

Sportsmen and golf fans who have not been approached by members of the military army of 20 numbers who set Tuesday to raise $1000 for the Sanford Country Club were the objects of attention today at the workers' club to contact them at once.

Although the drive ended yesterday with a stable collection, the goal was not reached, and J. C. Hutchison, general of the army, instructed his workers to continue their efforts.

Five teams are in the field in search of funds, and Mrs. V. A. Spear's team so far has the lead in reporting the solicitation of members and funds. The team headed by E. B. Chapman is second.

INJUNCTION

Dec. 7.—(A.P.)—An injunction restraining the city commission from canvassing election returns today halted the re-election of Mayor Edward H. AUGUSTA DEFIES STATE LAWS BY LICENSING LIQUOR

Historic City Places Approval On Views Of Local Optionists

ATLANTA, Dec. 7.—(A.P.)—The historic old city of Augusta voted last night to license liquor despite Georgia's bone dry prohibition law which forbids the possession, sale or ownership of anything containing more than one half of one percent of alcohol.

A spirit of local option in the face of the state's bone dry law has been manifested by scores of cities in licensing the sale of beer. Atlanta was the first among the group under the leadership of Mayor James Key, long time prohibition foe. Other municipalities followed suit.

For many years corn liquor has been the principal beverage for those citizens who desire something potent.

The liquor licensing ordinance permits the sale of alcoholic, vinous and malt beverages. A tax of $300 was placed on retailers of alcoholic drinks and $1000 on wholesalers. Yipes and malt beverages may be sold for $50 retail license and $300 for wholesalers.

15 Year Record Broken As Methodists Raise $7848.61 Quota Assigned Them

A 15 year record of being unable to raise the quota assigned it as a religious organization was shattered here this week when, following a whirlwind campaign that had enthusiasm as a feature, the Board of Stewards of the First Methodist Church announced that the church year has ended with all local expenses and benevolences paid, and a balance in the treasury.

This announcement means that the church's quota of $7848.61 was collected during the year which ended on Nov. 31, a feat which has not been accomplished in 15 years.

Few members of the congregation of approximately 750 persons are as elated over the new record as are the members of the Board of Stewards, headed by W. W. Ware as chairman, and with C. O. Ware as secretary and R. H. Laney as treasurer.

According to Mr. Laney, the Board is entrusted with the responsibility of raising the quota each year, primarily through the envelope system of collection. Progress was made toward the quota throughout the year, but on Oct. 27 it was evident that approximately $2100 would have to be collected by Dec. 1. Renewing its efforts, the Board

SHOLTZ LASHES OUT AT CRITICS OF HIS POLICY

Governor Seeks To Find Out Why Schools In All Counties Cannot Have Equal Sessions

TALLAHASSEE, Dec. 7.—(A.P.)—Governor Sholtz yesterday lashed back at critics of his school finance program in a prepared statement to "correct the inaccurate statements that have been made and clear up the misconceptions in the minds of many."

The governor declared the purpose of his repeated refusal to accede to the demands that he call a special legislative session to divert a portion of gasoline tax money or otherwise give additional state aid to the schools "is to put a test school management in Florida to discover why half the counties are able to have full school terms while the other half cannot."

The statement in part follows: "So much has been printed and (Continued on Page Two)

30 NEW CHANGES IN REVENUE ACT ARE SUGGESTED

House Sub-Committee Spreads Net Aimed At Catching Dodgers

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(A.P.)—Spreading its net to gather more millions in its revenue from gambling and property sales or exchanges between members of wealthy families, a House ways and means subcommittee yesterday proposed 30 additional changes in the revenue act to raise an estimated $35,000,000.

Together with Tuesday's report which suggested nine major revisions to bring in a calculated $235,000,000, yesterday's recommendations brought to $270,000,000 the estimated total added levies and tax savings proposed.

"Under the present practice," the report said, "many taxpayers take deductions for gambling losses, but fail to report gambling gains. This limitation will force taxpayers to report their gambling gains if they desire to deduct their gambling losses."

Another recommendation growing out of the Senate inquiry would require corporations to file "information returns" as to annual dividends of more than $1000 paid to any individual and require all stock exchange brokers to file statements giving the names, addresses, and gross business transactions with persons whose gross business exceeds $100,000 a year.

"Collective Murder" Is Roosevelt's View Of Recent Lynchings

President Indirectly Rebukes Ralph For Condoning Action Of California Mob

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—(A.P.)—President Roosevelt in an address last night called lynching "a vile form of collective murder."

The President also indirectly rebuked Gov. James Rolph, of California, who recently expressed approval of mob action in San Jose, Cal., which resulted in the death of two men.

"We do not excuse those in high places or in low who condone lynch law," Mr. Roosevelt said. "He did not, however, in his speech before the Federal Council of Churches of Christ of America, directly refer to the California lynching or to similar incidents recently in Missouri and Maryland."

Mr. Roosevelt expressed faith in the "new generation" as a preliminary to his strong condemnation of mob violence.

"This new generation for example," he said, "is not content with preaching against that vile form of collective murder—lynch law—which has broken out in our midst anew. We know that it is murder—a deliberate and definite disobedience of the commandment, 'thou shalt not kill.' We do not excuse those in high places or in low who condone lynch law."

Oviedo Negro Is Held When Another Dies

John Freeman, deaf and dumb negro laborer of the Oviedo section, died at the Fernald Lighthouse Memorial Hospital last night of injuries which he is alleged to have received at the hands of John Thomas, another negro laborer who engaged him in an argument over a card game.

Thomas was taken before the grand jury this afternoon for an investigation. A coroner's jury had recommended this course this morning, and Thomas, who had been in jail since Tuesday morning, faced a charge of assault with intent to kill.

The argument which ended with Thomas's alleged to have knocked Freeman down, choked him, and then kicked him in the ribs and stomach, occurred Monday night. There were several witnesses, according to Deputy Sheriff O. R. Estrada. Freeman's things were scattered in the street on this, and his death is attributed to that cause.
