New City Attorney

Lake Mary Chooses Local Resident Robert Petree By 3-2 Vote

Herald Stall Writer

A new city attorney was named in Lake Mary on Thursday night, but only after a squabble among the City Council on how the appointment should be made.

Mayor Walter Sorenson, who screened applications from 14 law firms for the office and interviewed most of them, appointed Robert G. Petree, a resident of the community. He is a member of the Orlando law firm of Bornstein, Petree, Brooks, Cooper & Marks Petree's appointment was confirmed by a 3-2 vote, with Sorenson casting the tie-breaker.

And Gary Massey, who had served in the $750-a-month salaried job, took a swipe at the three councilmen who had asked he be fired to end the council meeting.

A month ago Councilman Gene McDonald urged that Sorenson replace Massey in the post he had held for almost eight years, saying the attorney had become complacent in the job. McDonald's move was supported by Councilmen Richard Fess and Kenneth King.

Thursday night, Fess was the major opponent to naming a replacement at that time, saying a separate workshop should be set to question and evaluate each applicant for the post. "We should interview each applicant in the open and do individual questioning," he said, adding that the people of the community should be invited to the workshop.

still up to Sorenson to nominate someone whom he believes is the greatest thing since sliced bread."

Although McDonald said he hadn't had an opportunity to talk personally with Petree, he insisted it was the mayor's right to appoint the attorney. He added that if the appointee didn't work out, the council could again ask for a replacement.

Sorenson said he had handed out resumes of eight of the law firms more than a week ago, soliciting comments from each member of the council.

Fesa insisted that the council should handle the appointment "in the sunshine," with the people of the community participating if they chose.

McDonald, noting that the prospective appointment was publicized asked who in the audience was present specifically

When one resident raised his hand, McDonald said that indicated community interest was minimal. McDonald's motion to confirm the appointment died for lack of a second. Councilman Ray Fox, objecting to Fess' position, said personal interviews by the entire council would only serve to let each member note the attorney's mode of dress, whether he was short or tall and how much he weighed.

"I don't think we would learn a great deal," he said. "It's McDonald chided his colleagues, saying they were acting "grievously" in view of Sorenson's efforts to find a replacement for Massey.

At that point King made a motion, seconded by McDonald, to confirm the appointment. Fox and Fess voted against it. With Councilman Vic Olvera absent, Sorenson cast the deciding

At the end of the meeting, Massey said he had enjoyed serving the city and considered it an honor. He said he would make the transition from his office to Petree's as easy as possible, and urged that the council give Petree the respect he deserves and listen to his opinions.

Striking out at McDonald, Fess and King, Massey said McDonald had called him complacent but had never explained why he was dissatisfied. He said McDonald was unhappy because the city lost a lawsuit filed by millionaire industrialist and developer Jeno Paulucci.

McDonaid had circulated a petition to repeal the ordinance granting Paulucci apartment zoning for a parcel near the McDonald home. The circuit court ruled the portion of the city

Mrs. Glenn has served as vice chairman of the County Commission, elected to that office by her colleagues on the board. When the commission was reorganized last November she turned down the chairmanship, saying she didn't feel she could do the best job in

Dumping Is Free For Storm Refuse

County Administrator Roger Neiswender said today that the Upsala Transfer Station on Upsale Road and the Osceola Airfield landfill, north of Geneva on Osceola Road will be open Saturday and Sunday for free refuse dumping. But there are restrictions on the free damping.

Neiswender said the free dumping is for storm-related refuse only, such as tree limbs, leaves, etc., and that normal dumping rates would be charged for regular household garbage. In addition, all refuse delivered to the Upsala station must be bundled in bunches under four feet in length so as not to jam the station's packaging equipment.

There is no size restriction on bundles delivered to the Osceola landfill.

Both sites will be open from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. both days. In addition, Neiswender said, the Oviedo Transfer Station will be operating under normal hours this weekend and charging

Gary Kaiser, Seminole County director of public safety, says he's been informed by the Bureau of Disaster Preparedness in Tallahassee that county residents who suffered uninsured losses in last week's tornado may be able to get a tax break. Kaiser said the bureau has been informed by the federal Emergency Management Agency in Washington that as a result of last week's storing persons may do one of the following two things:

Those with uninsured homes, property, businesses, and farm or ranching operations may elect to: - Amend their 1981 tax returns to show the losses.

-File losses on next year's 1902 tax

Kaiser said residents can obtain sistance by calling the district director, Internal Revenue Service, Jacksonville office, (904) 791-2945, or the chief, Taxpayer Services Division, IRS, in Jacksonville, (904) 791.2511.

Damage-assessment personnel from the Bureau of Disaster Preparedness visited both Seminole and Volusia counties during the past week in efforts to place a dollar amount on storm damage.

Kaiser said the bureau will be working on its final report throughout he weekend and that Seminole County should get word on immediate financial relief and the possibility of low-interest loans early next week.

Police Hunting Man Who Shot At Sanford Broker

Herald Staff Writer

Sanford police are continuing their search for a man who reportedly fired two shots at a prominent businessman in front of his downtown Sanford office.

Thomas J. Stevenson, a licensed realestate broker and a business associate of millionaire Jeno F. Paulucci of Paulucci Enterprises, told police he was about to enter his 201 W. First St. office at 9:30 a.m. Saturday when a man jumped from behind nearby bushes, said he's been "waiting a long time" for Stevenson, and fired two shots. Stevenson fended off the bullets, using his briefcase as a shield, and quickly ran inside the office building unharmed, police said.

Sanford police said no information was released at the time of the shooting because "we wanted to obtain as much virgin information as possible before this thing got any publicity," according to Police Sgt. Herb Shea, assistant to Chief Ben Butler.

Sources close to the investigation released a composite sketch of the suspected gunman. The sketch has been confirmed by police as the man they are seeking. "Mr. Stevenson remembers very little penalties for someone convicted of such a about the shooting," Shea said. "He remembers a man raising his arm with a gun, but after that first shot was fired he just doesn't remember much."

Shea said no "official police security" has been assigned to Stevenson for his protection, but "that doesn't preclude him from taking his own security

COMPOSITE OF SUSPECT ... he fired two shots

"The bullets fired at Stevenson have been sent to the crime lab for testing, but we don't have those results back yet," Shea said, concerning efforts to determine the type of gun used in the attack. Stevenson could not be reached for comment concerning the incident.

Police said no mutive for the shooting has been determined but that their investigation is continuing.

For Crime Lab

Hattaway: Push For Lake Mary Location

State Rep. Robert Hattaway, D-Altamonte Springs, has called on the lawenforcement community in Seminole County to let state officials know they want the new $3.2 million Central Florida Crime Laboratory built in Lake Mary. He urged that Seminole Sheriff John Polk's office and the police departments in the seven cities write specifically to Hattaway said he believes the DGS will say Seminole County is where the laboratory should be.

the state Department of General Services and to Florida Department of Law Enforcement (FDLE) Commissioner

Singling York out, Hattaway said that even though the FDLE commissioner would like the new facility constructed in Orlando, the Florida House of Representatives has said it wants it built in Lake Mary.

"We agreed in the House, and Sen. John Vogt (D-Cocoa Beach) agreed," Hattaway said.

He said the staff of the House Appropriations Committee corresponded with the state Department of General Services (DGS) Monday, telling that agency that the preferred site is Lake York said Thursday, however, that he wishes to discuss the site with Hattaway and Sen. George Stewart, D-Orlando, at a meeting he will call in the next few days.

York said earlier that he preferred an Orlando site because the majority of the crime lab's work is from Orlando and Orange County. He said that while the DGS will make the final decision, the FDLE's recommendation should be

"If the Orlando site is impractical or unavailable, Lake Mary would be the second choice," York said.

Hattaway said he believes the DGS will say Seminole County is where the laboratory should be, noting that Polk founded the laboratory nearly a decade

Bob Woodward of the DGS said Thursday that he had not received the House committee's letter as yet and that il will be considered. Hattaway was the prime mover in the House in gaining an allocation of $3.2 million in the budget for the new year for the crime lab. Currently, the laboratory is operating with limited space at Sanford Airport. Officials at the laboratory have said the new facility would allow expanded services. The Lake Mary site, on Rinehart Road, is owned by the city, which has offered a long-term lease to the state at a nominal yearly rental. — DONNA ESTES

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) -Several Cabinet members are furiously seeking campaign money, hoping to collect so much that they will have to spend hardly any on their reelection this fall.

Several Cabinet incumbents clearly hope to scare off any major opposition by successful fund raising, which, in a couple of cases, began as early as last summer.

Fund raising this early before the qualifying and months before the elections serves two purposes.

Money is gathered for the upcoming campaign, and now is a good time for lesserknown state officials to move - before Gov. Bob Graham and any gubernatorial challengers tie down the big political bucks.

But probably more important, some would-be opponents get second thoughts and decide not to take on an incumbent if they see that he or she will have a hefty campaign account available.

Attorney General Jim Smith reported $221,876 in contributions in the quarterly report he filed a couple of weeks ago with State Elections Director Dot Glisson. He has no announced opnonent vet and may wind up escaping serious opposition this fall, but he has been actively soliciting campaign funds for months.

Secretary of State George Firestone, whose job is generally considered the dullest on the Cabinet because his agency is limited mostly to supervising elections and promoting the arts, has collected $186,194.

Firestone's fund raising started last year long before most other Cabinet members even opened campaign bank accounts. He hosted a hospitality suite at last fall's Democratic state convention and he reported around $100,000 in contributions in a campaign report filed the first of the year.

He has one announced opponent, GOP Rep. Jim Smith of Clearwater, but no Republican has been elected to the Cabinet in modern

HAND-Me-DO

Better a hand-me-down umbrella than none at all. Except that with a gust of wind this young lady is likely to have nothing but a handle. There's one area of life where a hand-me-down is often the best there is. That is religion. An earnest religious faith passed on by parents to their children begins early the essential building of character and conviction.

But the religious faith you are handing down to your children ought to be sound, full of vitality, in working condition.

This is one of the most important functions of our churches. They help whole families to grow spiritually . . . to hold and practice religious convictions worth sharing.

Seminole Baptists To Hold Semi-Annual Meet Monday

The 28 churches and missions of the Seminole Baptist Association will assemble for their semi-annual meeting at the Stetson Baptist Church, DeLand, on Monday, at 7 p.m. The messengers from the churches will be inspired by music, informed by reports and encouraged by worship. Special music will be presented by The Sonlight, a youth quartet from Central Baptist Church, Sanford; the Adult Choir of Stetson Baptist Church; and Lester Williams, minister of music from First Baptist, DeLand.

Reports on the progress of the association will be presented by the leaders of each phase of work. Plans for the remainder of the associational year will also be detailed. The message of the evening will be preached by Gary Debusk, pastor of Ravenna Park Baptist Church,

Special features will include the speech from Patti Edgemon from Seminole Heights Baptist, Sanford, speakers tournament winner; piano solo by David Hamilton from Central Baptist, Sanford, Youth Music Festival winner; and Rhetta Long from First Baptist, Deland, vocal solo winner in the Youth Music Festival. Religious Groups Aiding The Needy Say Charity Is No Longer Enough

UPI Reigion Writer

The American Lutteran Church's Board for Service and Mission is America recently spent two days taking a hard look at needs and the economic resources t has for meeting those needs. It wasn't pleasant.

Like other mainlinedenominations, the ALC has been recording increases in giving by church members but that giving has not been keeping up with the inflation rate.

At the same time, escalating costs for overhead leave fewer dollars in the mission program.

And now comes President Reagan's budget cuts and New Federalsm - which takes away federal dollars from church-run programs while urging churches to take on the responsibilities abandoned by the federal

It is a story being repeated across the nation's religious spectrum.

Representatives of the National Council of Churches, the U.S. Catholic Conference, the Synagogue Council of America, the Southern Baptist Convention and Evangelicals for Social Action met recently in Washington to see what they could do about the situation.

"The stark reality is that the resources of the churches and synagogues or of the entire private sector are simply not sufficient to replace federal human needs programs," they

But those attending the meeting went even further.

They also said the administration's expectation that the private sector can shoulder

"will be dramatically impacted by the also inappropriate" and sharply criticized Reagan's view of federal relations.

"In the United States," they said, "it is not the responsibility of the government to define the task of religious bodies. If anything, it is the the responsibility of religious bodies - as it is of other citizens' groups - to define the task of government."

The religious groups represented at the meeting - in the past generally shunned by Reagan and the administration in favor of more conservative and fundamentalist Protestant groups - said their charitable programs would continue to grow and that special fund raising efforts have been initiated to compensate for lost federal dollars.

At the same time, there has been little word from the religious right on any efforts it is making to lessen the impact of the budget on the poor and needy. In their statement the groups said charity

"Furthermore, we believe it our duty to remind the government of its fundamental obligation to social justice - its responsibility to ensure that no citizen goes without the basic necessities for a dignified and decent human life," they said.

'Our response must also include a call to justice," they added. "Our biblical and historical traditions are founded on justice. Made in the image of God, the human person is endowed with a special dignity, a dignity which is protected by a fundamental set of basic human rights not dependent on charity alone."

Those rights, they said, include food, clothing, shelter, medical care and employment.

"The very reason for the existence of government is to promote the common good by protecting those human rights," they said.

A beautitul taster

Even with the storm that struck Sanford it was a beautiful Easter, It is always a beautiful Easter, I always enjoy the Easter season. To me it is more important than Christmas for the faith. But, after the celebration then what? After the Choir has sung and the preacher preached then what? After the new clothes have been worn and the eggs found what is left? After Good Friday is gone what now? I guess the question is, what difference does Easter make?

To answer this question I share with you the following afraid the Episcopaliths often go too far to the other extreme. Sometimes at a service you aren't even aware that somebody

This is not an oversight on the part of the Eniscondians. That is the way they wint it. Like the British from whom their church is descended, they tend to view any show of emotion as Dignity is rather what the burial service in the Episcopal book of Common Prayer strives for. And, to be sure, there is great dignity in the worlds that are there, although much can be lost if the clergyman foes not read well. That is partly what was wrong with a recent Episcopal funeral I attended. It hould have been an imposing service. The man who died hid been a distinguished and beloved churchman. But it wan't. Here again, however the Episcopalians pride themselves on the fact that the humblest member of the church gets the same service read at his funeral as the Queen of England will get at hers. Worldly status desn't make any difference. This, of course, is as it should be.

But the trouble is not that these services are too dignified or that they are the same for "all sorts and conditions of men," but that they are too impersonal. A funeral service should be

I am not suggesting that every funeral service should have a eulogy. That can get pretty maudlin. By personal I mean that the words said must spiak vividly and personally to every one present about the momentous matters of life and death that cannot fail to be on everyone's mind.

The members of the bereaved family, already experiencing "the constant missing of what used to be always there," wonder whether they have lost their departed love one forever. What shall we tell them!

"When the blow fell, hat was the one and only thought that kept beating like a hammer in my brain," said Arthur John Gossip, the great Scottish preacher, when his wife died. "I felt I had lost her forever.

But later he was able to say, "I know now that I have not lost her. For love is not a passing thing one leaves behind." He recalled what the ancient Chinese general, Su Wu, had written to his wife before going off to battle:

Barbecue Set To Benefit Sharing Center

A barbecue to benefit Sanford's Christian Sharing Center will be held April 24 frem noon to 6 p.m. at Grace United Methodist Church, 118 N. Airport Blvd.

Tickets are $3 for a hall chicken, $1.50 for a quarter chicken.

Both come with beans, slaw and rolls. Dinners will be delivered to anyone ordering six or more.

"With all your might enjoy the spring flowers. But do not forget the time of our love and pride. Know that, if I live, I will come back again and if I die, we will go on thinking of each

Still later, Gossip was able to dedicate a book he wrote to "my wife, my daily comrade still." "As long as you remember me, I am alive," says Maeterlinck admewhere in "The Blue Bird." Jesus said,

"Remember me." Gossip could have given an answer to St. Paul who asked, "Oh death, where is thy sting?"

"I can tell him where death's sting lies," said the Scottish preacher. "Ah, it is the bitter grudging every second of the dear body to the senseless earth - anything, nothing, and the overwhelming pain is back again."

But ultimately it was his realization that love is eternal that made him feel sure he had not lost her. Remembrance of that filled the emptiness her death had brought.

I wonder whether the happiest people are not those who, knowing that "love is not a passing thing one leaves behind," fill their days with bright and happy memories of past af-

"I don't think you need to be afraid of life or death. Our hearts are very frail and there are places in life where the road is very steep and very lonely. But we have a wonderful God. He will give you all you need to face life and to come through with honor - and a crown."

There's a new organization in town, a new club whose members will turn over their annual dues to the Seminole County Cancer Unit.

"This club will be unique in that members will meet only once a year, no minutes will be taken and no committee reports made," said Irene Brown, Seminole County Cancer

Unit Society Unit president. Members will be asked for a $125 annual membership to be turned over to the cancer society's Seminole unit, "except for a small portion for expenses." "The money turned over to the cancer society unit will go to benefit cancer patients throughout the county," said Mrs.

'The initial gathering for the new club will be Thursday, April 39 at Manor House, the home of Don Baueries on Wayside Drive, just west of Wilson Place. Cocktails and hors d'œuvres will be served from 6 to 8 p.m." Anyone wishing information on how they may become members of this new group should contact Duke Adamson, chairman, at 322-3663, ext. 221, or Mrs. Brown at 323-1776, ext. 220 or 234. Some older guys still turn me on, but most teen-agers are more manly than men in their 30s.

I would like to know if this is normal for a woman my age, or do I need to see a shrink?

IN BRIEF

Sen. Edward Kennedy Can't Endure Much More

Sen, Edward M. Kennedy says the toughest thing he ever had to do in his life was to tell Edward M. Jr. that the youngster had cancer.

"When I heard the results of the biopsy, the news was so bad that I knew I could no longer tell him that all he had was a bad cold," he told Parade magazine. "I did my best, but it was still the hardest thing I ever had to do in my life." Of the other tragedies in his life and in his family, he said, "I believe that we are not given more than we can effectively endure or cope with. But, honestly, I don't want to have to endur much more."

Falklands Diplomacy

Argentine diplomats will attend Canada's constitutional proclamation ceremonies in Ottawa today even though Queen Elizabeth will also be there. An Argentine embassy spokesman says Charge d'Affrires Carlos Tecco will attend "because of the importance (of the proclamation) to Canada," All members of the diplomatic community were invited, including Argentina, currently at sword's point with Britain over the Falklands. Canadian officials said that during the royal visit communications with Great Britain will be "significantly beefed up" to ensure she is kept informed of any developments in the dispute.

Merman At Carnegie Hall

Ethel Merman is taking her one-woman show to New York for the first time on May 10.

The show, in which she sings with a local symphony orchestra, has been seen all over the United States. She will be accompanied by the American Symphony Orchestra in her Carnegie Hall appearance, which will be a benefit for the Theater Collection of the Museum of the City of New York.

Preparations for the concert got under way Thursday with a lunch at Lord & Taylor's at which a moisteyed Ethel said it might be "just the happiest day of my life." She got a standing ovation.

What He Didn't Say On Jobless

WASHINGTON (UPI) -Raw data used by President Reagan to indicate unemployment dropped in March also shows the number of jobless Americans is higher than generally publicized.

Reagan was technically correct when he told eighth grade students at St. Peter's Catholic elementary school in a Chicago suburb Thursday that there were actually "M,000 fewer people" unemployed in March than in February.

But Reagan did not mention that using the same unadjusted Labor Department figures also would boost the unemployment rate from 9 percent to 9.5 percent for March, and the number of jobless persons from 9.9 million to 10.3 million.

The lower, seasonally adjusted figures are those normally used by economists to gauge how unemployment affects the economy, and are normally cited by the news media in reporting on the monthly statistics.

Clogging On Down

Tina Kennedy and Robbie Berry after a fast spin.

BY DORIS DIETRICH OURSELVES Editor

Clogging is faid becoming the newest dance craze to sweep the country.

All ages and forms, from slightly stout and pleasingly plump to the lean and mean, are kicking up their heels in a genuine hoedown fashion.

To watch the cloggers in motion, the high-stepping dancers cut some mighty fancy and intricate steps. According to dancing instructor Antoinette Elliott of Deltona, clogging is a spinoff from buck for the cloggers, the weekly television dencing, a popular dance style that's a country cousin to tap dancing.

The Florida Bandit Cloggers is a group of four youngsters who are making a name for themselves through their clogging expertise. They are: Chris Bowlin, Renee Wise, Tina Kennedy and Robbie Berry. The group recently auditioned and was accepted for a "A Great Day in the Country, a cable television show produced by Freedom Video Productions with Les White host and Vassar Clemment, co-host.

According to Jean McLain, spokesman show will begin in the fall with taping to start in May. Mrs. McLain says that Antoinette says there are four basic travel throughout the country is planned clossing steps with many variations and this will be a syndicated show on a which turn up some "beautiful dances." cable network. Guest artists include Loretta Lynn, Larry Gatlin, Marty Robbins, Eddie Rabbit and many others, she says.

Formerly members of the Pacesetters Cloggers and the exhibition team for children taught by Jacky Layne and Sue Adams, the cloggers have appeared at Lake Buena Vista, Carol Nelson' show on WFTV Channel 9, Tanya Tucker and John Anderson Show at the Tupperware Auditorium and state conventions.

Their other performances include two weeks at the Central Florida Fair, Molly Magee's, Apopka Junior High School's "A Great Day in the Country Hoe Down and the the Morning Star School with other performances in Tallahassee, Lakeland and Jacksonville. The Florida Bandit Cloggers will be dancing at the Pioneer Day Celebration in Christmas (Florida) on May 29 along with ferry Clower headlining the show.

The clogging group was recently taught by Mike Cade and is presently taught by Lynn Yarberough. The girls wear swirling white skirts over red ruffled petticoats with hobo print blouses. The boys wear white pants and matching print shirts. The cloggers' logo, a racoon, is hand painted on the skirts, pants and signs by Sanford artist Faye Siler.

Chris, 11, is the son of Debra and Henry Bowlin of Sanford. His grandparents are Jean and Ralph McLain and Mamie and U.V. Bowlin. He is in the fifth grade at All Souls School and likes fishing, baseball

Chris, who has been clogging for two and one-half years says about clogging: "It's great, I'm anxious to travel and meet all the stars. I love to clog." Robbie, 12, is in the sixth grade at Kaley Elementary School, Orlando. He is the son of Bob and Karla Berry and the grandson of Bob and Barbara Young and Ken and Mary Berry.

His hobbies are horseback riding, hunting, basketball and clogging. Robbie says, "Clogging is a great opportunity for someone my age. I like to perform for people of all ages." He has been clogging for two years. Tina, 10, is in the fourth grade rt Idyliwiide Elementary School, Sanfor !. She is the daughter of Pat and Richard Kennedy, Her grandparents are Jim and Velma Hamilton, Richard and Irene Kennedy and Betty Fisher.

Besides clogging, Tina enjoys horseback riding, swimming and skating. She also likes small pets.

Tina, who has been elogging for two and one-half years, says, "I'd like to be a movie star forneday and this could be a good start. I love clog."

Rence, 11, is in the sixth grade at Rock Lake Middle School. She is the daughter of Andrea and Jerry Wise. Her hobbles are swimming, horseback riding, art and clogging.

Renee, who has been clogging for four and one-half years, says, "I'm glad that I have this opportunity."

won't quit ringing. Callers are asking if they can order World Series tickets. With the still unbeaten Braves on a roll at 8-and-0. Wayne Minshew, their public relations and promotions director, laughingly says, "We've taken ring measurements already."

The let's-have-some-fun-and-enjoy-ourselves spirit that prevailed in spring training and enabled them to finish with the best record of any major league club has carried over and while all the Braves are realistic enough to concede they're bound to lose a ball game before everything is over, they're sticking their chins out and claiming they won't lose that many.

"What's the big difference in this ball club?" says Brett Butler, the Braves' gung ho, little what the big difference is in two words - Joe

Claudell Washington, one of the Braves' other outfielders who played for him with the Mets, says he looks like the same old Joe Torre to him and that the difference this year is "you got guys who believe in themselves now,"

Torre agrees with Washington. He isn't managing any different with the Braves than he did with the Mets. He didn't undergo any dramatic metamorphosis over the winter. Since the Mets' managerial job was his first, however, he's applying many of the things he learned with

And what has John Stearns got to say about all this? Last month, you may remember, the Mets' receiver said the trouble with the Mets the past few years was that they were too loose a ship with Torre at the belm.

Borg Backhands Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON (UPI) - Five-time Wimbledon champion Bjorn Borg says he will not play in this year's tournament, "as a matter of principle."

At a news conference in Tokyo, where he is alaying exhibition tennis, Bjorn, 25, said he would not participate in the Wimbledon event (June 21-July 4) "because I have to go to the qualifying tournament.

"It is a matter of principle. If I had started my schedule in January there would have been no problem. I still love the game, I am not planning to retire, but I won't be at Wimbledon."

The problem arose several months ago. Borg cut back his tennis dates this year and planned to enter only seven Grand Prix tournaments. Ordinarily, he would need 10 to be assured of entry in major tournaments, such as Wimbledon, the U.S. and French Opens.

Sir Brian Burnett, chairman of the committee of management of the championships said, "Entries to Wimbledon do not close until May 10...and I hope that Bjorn Borg will change his mind before then."

John McEnroe, reigning Wimbledon and U.S. Open champion, said Borg's absence from Wimbledon will be "a great loss not only for world tennis but for Wimbledon. It's a great Borg and McEnroe, who beat the Swede in the finals of last year's Wimbledon and U.S. Open, were in Tokyo to compete in a $250,000 tournament with Guillermo Vilas of Argentina and American Vince Van Patten.

"But I also said he learned a lot by the experience and he'd be likely to be a much better manager with the Braves," Steams says now. "From the way it looks so far, you wouldn't argue that I was wrong".

Jack Nicklaus, at 42, says his desire will leave him before his ability does. He can bet on it. Catch him in a candid moment and he'll tell you not even Pete Rose, has the same get up and go at 40 he had at 20. Nature simply doesn't work

Reds' Manager Johnny McNamara laughs whenever anybody asks him if Dave Concepcion is slowing up at shortstop. "Sometimes, he'll tell me he could use a night off," McNamara says. "When he gets to the park the next day, I'll ask him how he feels and he'll say OK. I'll tell him he can have the night off and he'll say, 'No, no, I can play." Then he goes out there and plays like hell"

Everybody wants more room. When Gerry Cooney visited the Yankees' quarters this spring, it was the first time he had ever been in a big league clubhouse. Looking around, he was impressed by all the room. "I gotta get a training camp like this." he said to one of his handlers. .. How do you think this will go over in the Falkland Islands? Of the four members with the defending champion U.S. team competing in the World Cup Polo championships at the Palm Beach Polo and Country Club right now, two are Argentines and two are Englishmen. What's more, they get along just fine ...

No wonder the Phillies are going after Dave Parker. Without a power-hitting, lefthanded swinger like him in the batting order behind him, Mike Schmidt, out with a rib injury now, isn't going to have a whole lot of fun this year. He could even wind up leading the league in walks ...

Funny piece of business happened during the third inning of last Tuesday's contest between the Mets and Phillies at Shea Stadium. Steve Carlton, pitching for the Phils, committed a step balk with a runner on first and first base umpire Randy Marsh alertly called it, waving the runi to second and bringing Phillies' manager Pat Corrales out of the dugout. Marsh listened to what Corrales had to say and then sail to him, "You didn't raise your voice and you didn't use any bad language, but I'm going to have to throw you out anyway because protesting a step balk calls for automatic ejection."

Corrales, who managed the Texas Rangers in 1979 and 1980 but worked as an administrative aide for them last year, went quietly. When asked about it later, he said simply, "I forgot." What he meant was that when he first began managing in the American League, a manager could go out and protest a step balk without automatically being ejected. The AL changed that rule a few years ago, so that now if you go out to protest the step balk, it doesn't matter what league you're in, you're outta there.

Atlanta Manager Joe Torre sounded like a worksholic, but it's winning that the unbeaten Braves have become addicted to lately.

"Yesterday seemed like a week. The last thing you want when a team is playing this good is a day off, especially on the road," Torre said Friday after Atlanta downed Houston 5-3 for its ninth straight victory - a triumph that came after an off day in which Torre held a two-hour

Brett Butler's two-run single and Bob Horner's RBI double keyed a five-run, sixth-inning outburst that powered Atlanta to within one victory of tying the National League record for the most consecutive wins at the start of the season. The 1955 Brooklyn Dodgers and the 1962 Pittsburgh Pirates hold that mark.

"Oh, we'll be glad to have it," said Torre, who was fired by the New York Mets last winter. "But we don't want to stop winning then."

Held to an infield single by fireballing Nolan Ryan through five innings, the Braves erupted for five runs in the sixth, while getting only three hits. Brett Butler singled in two runs and scored on a wild pitch and Honer doubled in a run and also scored on a wild pitch.

Rick Mahler started for Atlanta and went 51-3 innings. Larry McWilliams, 2-0, came on with the bases loaded and one out in the sixth to get the victory. Rick Camp, who came in in the ninth, notched his second save of the year. Ryan, 0-3, went 5 2-3 innings, allowing just four hits while striking out six and walking two. In other NL games, Pittsburgh edged Chicago 7-6 in 12 innings, Montreal trimmed New York 4-3, St. Louis shaded Philadelphia 3-2, San Diego downed Los Angeles 8-3 and San Francisco toppled Cincinnati 6-1

In the American League, it was Toronto 2, Boston 0; Texas 4, Milwaukee 1 in 10 innings;

National League

Kansas City 3, Cleveland 1; New York 10, Detroit 2; California 4, Minnesota 2 in 10 innings; Seattle 5, Oakland 0; and Baltimore at Chicago was rained out.

Pirates 7, Cubs 6

At Pittsburgh, Omar Moreno singled home Tony Pena from third with one out in the bottom of the 12th to lift the Pirates in their home opener. The loss went to Willie Hernandez while Enrique Romo notched the victory with two perfect innings of relief.

Expos 4, Mets 3

At New York, Al Oliver led off the ninth inning with his second home run of the season to break a 3-3 to pace Montreal. Oliver, acquired by the Expos from Texas just before the start of the season, socked an 0-2 pitch off reliever Jesse Orosco, 0-1, over the rightcenter field wall.

Cardinals 3. Phillies 2

At St. Louis, Bob Forsch pitched a six-hitter over seven innings and had two hits to lead the Cardinals to their sixth straight victory. Bruce Sutter picked up his third save of the year striking out three in the final two innings.

Padres 8, Dodgers 3

At San Diego, Sixto Lezcano's sixth-inning double scored Ruppert Jones from first base with the winning run and Luis Salazar knocked in two runs to pace the Padres. John Curtis, 1-0 went seven innings to notch the victory while Jerry Reuss, 0-1, took the loss.

At San Francisco, Rich Gale, 1-0, fired a threehitter and Milt May cracked his first homer of the season to propel the Giants. The loss was the sixth straight for the Reds, their longest losing

Billy Martin never seems to give the other guy "Bannister was sharp, but our guys were swinging at bad balls, not swinging at strikes," said the Oakland manager Friday night after Scattle's Floyd Bannister blanked the A's 5-0 on just seven hits while striking out eight in the Mariners' home opener. Oakland couldn't cash in early against Bannister, stranding six runners in the first three innings, and the talented left-hander did not have a 1-2-3 inning until the seventh, yet managed to hold on for his eighth career shutout.

With the game scoreless, Julio Cruz opened the Seattle fourth with a walk and moved to second on a single by Manny Castillo, Bruce Bochte then grounded a single to right, scoring Cruz with the

Two outs later, Al Cowens, who entered the game batting .146, smacked a 1-0 pitch from Norris about 20 rows deep into the left-field bleachers. The Mariners added their final run in the fifth when Castillo hit a one-out double to right-center that scored Cruz.

In other games, Toronto blanked Boston, 2-0; Kansas City defeated Cleveland, 3-1; Texas edged Milwaukee, 4-1 in 10 innings; New York blasted Detroit, 10-2; California beat Minnesota 4-2 in 10 innings and Baltimore at Chicago was rained out.

In the National League, it was Pittsburgh 7, Chicago 6 in 12 innings; Montreal 4, New York 3; St. Louis 3, Philadelphia 2; Atlanta 5, Houston 3; San Diego 8, Los Angeles 3 and San Francisco 6,

Blue Jays 2, Red Sex 6

At Boston, Jesse Barfield tripled in two runs for his first RBI of the season and Luis Le. 1, 2-0, allowed seven hits in eight innings to lead the Blue Jays. The game's only runs came in the fourth when Barfield, who entered the game batting .100, followed back-to-back singles by

Royals 3, Indians 1 At Cleveland, U.L. Washington tripled home Lee May with the go-ahead run in the seventh and Vida-Blue, 1-1, and Don Quisenberry combined on a four-hitter to pace the Royals.

Rangers 4, Brewers 1 At Milwaukee, pinch hitter Bill Stein doubled in one run and Lee Mazzilli singled in another during a three-run 10th inning that carried the Rangers. Mike Richardt opened the 10th with a single off Rollie Fingers, 1-2, and went to third on Mark Wagner's single. Stein doubled in Richardt and one out later, Mazzilli singled home Wagner. Reliever Danny Darwin, 1-0, picked up the victory. The loss spoiled the Brewers' home opener before a crowd of 49,887. Yankees 10, Tigers 2 At Detroit, Lou Piniella drove in three runs with a pair of doubles in the first two innings and Ron Guidry pitched his first complete game in two seasons to help New York. The Yankees teed! off on starter Pat Underwood, 0-1, to pile up a 7-0; lead after two innings.

Angels 4, Twins 2

At Anaheim, Calif., Doug DeCinces cracked a two-run houser with two out in the 10th to lift the Angels in a game marred by a bench-emptying brawl, Don Aase, 1-1, picked up the win. Angels' second baseman Bobby Grich was ejected in the sixth when he charged after Minnesota's Darrell! Jackson. Grich seemed upset about a Jackson offering two pitches earlier that sailed over his head. Grich hit a comebacker to the mound and ran 15 feet out of the baseline to get at the Twins' pitcher. The dugouts and bullpens of both teams emptied onto the field but the umpires quickly restored order.

Mike Scaglione, 26, of Chalmette, who died Thursday, was injured at the City Park golf course Easter Sunday. Services were scheduled today.

A family friend said Scaglione was playing golf when he became angry and threw his club against the motorized golf cart.

The club broke and boomeranged into Scaglione's neck, severing his jugular vein. The insurance man was recovering well Monday and Tuesday, the friend said, but on Tuesday night he lapsed into a coma.

Watson's Consistency Pays

RANCHO LA COSTA, Calif. (UPI) - For the average weekend golfer, it's hard to relate to Tom Watson. He's just too good and too consistent,

He drives down the fairway. He hits his next shot onto the green. And if the first putt doesn't go in, the second one does 99 percent of the time. Boring.

Old, New Duel At LPGA

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (UPI) - Today's third round of the LPGA Women's International golf tournament shapes up as a classic duel of the old guard against the young with a lot at stake. Veteran Hall-of-Famer Kathy Whitworth, who needs only one more victory to tie the LPGA record for career wins, held a one-shot lead over Beth Daniel of nearby Charleston, who in only four years on the tour has amashed same records of her own. The closest challengers were four shots off the lead, a lot of distance to make up on a tough Devil's Elhow South course that gave up only three sub-par rounds in the first round, and six on Friday.

"I have a great deal of respect for these young players," said Whitworth, who is looking for her $2nd triumph in a 23-year professional career, mark that would tie Mickey Wright for the LPGA's career victory record. "I haven't forgotten how to play. I think I'm as good as they are."

On Friday, Whitworth shot a 4-under-par 88, the tournament's low round so far, to storm into the lead at 3under-par 141 for 36 holes. Daniel had her second 71 after back-to-back bogeys on her last two holes.

42-year-old Texan. "Mickey is my good friend. I almost have mixed emotions about it, but she'd be the first one to tell me to go for 100." She said she feels it's all just a matter of time.

"I want to win some more," said Whitworth, who dominated the tour from 1965 until 1973, leading the money list all but one year during the period. "I don't think it's out of the realm of possibility."

Daniel won Rookie of the Year honors, and followed with Player of the Year honors in 1980. Last year, she became the only women's pro to win over $200,000 in two consecutive seasons.

"The girls who are coming out now are starting to play at a younger age," said Whitworth. "They're watching good players on television, and copying good swings. They know how to play when they get here. They win right away. We almost had to learn to play when we came out."

DELAND - A quartet of Florida All-State stars signed National Letters of Intent on the first day to play basketball at Stetson University, it was announced by Glenn Wilkes, head coach of the Hasters.

Led by Barry Sullivan, 6-9 center from Orlando's Colonial High School, the foursome also included Danny Lucas, 6-2 point guard from Gainesville's Buchholz, Gary Coachman, 6-7 forward from Hilliard, and Greg Hinman, 6-7 forward from St. Thomas Aguinas in Fort Lauderdale.

"Florida has become a top recruiting ground for coaches from throughout the nation so we're especially happy to be able to succeed in getting four such outstanding young players to stay and play in their homestate," Coach Wilkes commented. "Stetson is one of the country's top major independents and our schedule reads like who's who among baskethall powers. We need strong incoming freshmen and when we can get them in Florida, it's especially good for the program."

Sullivan averaged 16 points per game with a 61 percent shooting average en route to his being named to play in the state's annual North-South All-Star game in August. He was also named to the All-Tournament team in the Kingdom of the Sun tournament and the All-Metro team in Orlando.

Coachman scored a total of $32 points in 28 games for a 19.1 average and grabbed 12 rebounds per game to earn ist-team honors on Florida's AA All-State team. The Hilliard High School star made the 3rd team in his junior year. He was a repeat on the Florida-Crown Conference all-star lat team and was named to several all-tournament teams.

Hinman and Lucas were each named to the 3rd team on the state's AAA All-State team. No stranger to the Hatter's Edmunds Center where he was named the outstanding player of the Stetson team camp last summer, Lucas averaged 15.6 points per game, grabbed 8.7 rebounds and dished off 7.8 assists en route to his post-season honors. He was also named to the all-tournament team in the Holiday tournament in Gainesville.

Boychuck averaged 17.2 points and 14.4 rebounds per contest in her senior year while shooting 50 percent from the field and 70.8 percent from the line. As a three-year starter, she broke all rebounding records at her school, both boys' and girls', including most career rebounds with 1,023. In addition she holds the girls' career accoring record with

"Dallas will be able to provide us with immediate help on the boards next season," commented Jordan. "She crashes the boards very well and also jumps well for a girl her size. Pantelias Turns Uncertainty Into Prosperity

Herald Sports Writer

The year 1973 was one of uncertainty for the Seminole Community College baseball program. The Raiders were saying goodbye to All American Larry Parrish, perhaps the greatest player in SCC history, and they were saying hello to first year Coach Jack Pantelias.

Pantelias was no stranger to collegiate coaching. He started the baseball program at Florida Tech University, now the University of Central Florida, As a student at FTU Panetelias was studying business, but when he realized coaching baseball was his true desire, he changed to physical education. All coaches are required to have degrees in PE.

This is a good place to coach," Pantelias said. "The administration, faculty and students are great. If I were a student, I'd want to go here." While many college programs groom players for the pros, Pantellas has a different philosophy. "To my players, the classroom has to come first and baseball second. I try to prepare my players for their life shead. Not many will make the pros, so their education is very important. They have to learn to be responsible for their own actions."

And that philosophy has paid off for both Pantelias and his players. About 95 percent of his players graduate on time and go on to four-year schools. "This is an educational institution, that has to come first."

As far as recruiting goes, Pantelias likes to have as many local kids as possible. The current Raiders roster includes three players from Lyman, four from Oviedo, two from DeLand, two from Lake Howell and one each from Lake Brantley and Apopka.

Once Pantelias finds the talent it is then up to the player to follow the coach's rules. "I ask my players to be gentlemen and good citizens at all times, no matter where they are. They must take care of their minds and bodies. If they can't follow the rules, this isn't the place to come."

Herald Phales by Tam Vincent SCC Coach Jack Pantelias has a word with some of his boys.

Most of SCC players will go on to four-year will be of great benefit. "A lot of guys wouldn't colleges and for most of them the two years at | be playing at a four year school. Here we can Seminole under the watchful eyes of Pantelias work them and prepare them for a bigger university.'

Pantellas is in his ninth year as mentor of SCC

'I want to stay here (SCC) until I die, or at least until I lose my effectiveness.'— Jack Pantelias successful. The Raiders have compiled an impressive 33-14 record this season. SCC is also on top of the Mid Florida Conference with a 12-4

In two of its last three home games SCC has come back from five runs behind to pull off victories over conference foes Valencia and St. Johns River Community Colleges.

In Thursday's game the Raiders were down 5-3 in the bottom of the eighth against St. Johns, but SCC erupted for four runs in the eighth to pull out a 7-5 victory over the closest team to the Raiders in the conference standings.

Fundamentals are the building blocks of a good baseball player, and Pantelias stresses fundamentals to his players. Pantelias feels that the instruction and motivation is carried out in practice because, "once the players get on the field its their ballgame. I teach the game, how to play it, and the basic skills required - then its up to the players." Some people may think that Pantelias' rules are too strict but in the long run his methods pay off and his players are grateful for the guidance he provides.

Whatever they do, I want them to do it to the best of their ability. If they have talent but don't want to be part of a tough program then they shouldn't come here."

In nine years many players have come and gone from Seminole Community College but in those years only one man has piloted the team. "I want to stay here until I die, or at least until I lose my effectiveness."

If SCC is lucky, Jack Pantelias will be around for many more seasons. That can only mean that the Seminole Community College baseball program will continue to fly high,

Marriott's Throw Saves Hounds

Herald Sports Editor

With three games in 20 hours staring them in the face, the last thing Bobby Lundquist's Fighting Seminoles wanted was an extra-inning game Friday with Lyman.

But that's what they got. Center fielder Todd Marriott ran down Tracy Walker's line drive in medium center and uncorked a nifty throw to nail Brett Von Herbulis at the plate for the third out and send the game into extra frames. Lyman eventually won, 3-2, in nine innings. Marriott's clutch play and catcher Brent Smartt's grab of the perfect one-hop throw took the air out of a Seminole uprising in the seventh inning which began with the bases loaded and nobody out with the Tribe trailing, 2-1. Greyhound skipper Bob McCullough then summoned ace hurler Kevin Brubaker and the big righthander responded to the challenge. He induced Fred Howard to lift a short fly ball to left which Tom Perkins hauled in and let go with a throw to the plate. The tons, however, skipped past Smart enabling Brian Hogers to score the tying run. "I should have had the relay man cut it and go home," Smartt said about the peg. "I choked. We should have had him. . . or it would have been close." While Smartt was critical of his decision at the plate, he was no choke with the bat. The senior receiver smacked out three hits in four trips, and it was his single in the ninth which led to the winning run.

Smartt opened the final frame with a solid rap and Rick Humphery pushed an excellent bunt to Howards's left which forced Fred to go to first. John Reich then skipped a one-hopper a shortstop Tracy Walker who couldn't handle the bounce as it tipped off his glove into left-center field. Smartt didn't hesitale and scored without a throw to hand the 'Noles a tough one-rur decision. While Smartt's score made the difference, i was Brubaker's superb relief effort which tool away what looked to be another late-inning stumphreyed 3 0 0 0 Hogerard 3 1 1 0 comeback reminiscent of the Tribe of a year ago. "I just tried to keep the ball down and make them hit ground balls," said "Bru" whose ledger improved to 8-2. "I knew when he i Walker) hit the fly ball Toddhad a chance to get him, so I just backed up the plate. "If he didn't, that's the ballgame."

Brubaker was not alone with his mound excellence. Ace fireman (3 saves) Willie Pashe came on for a wild Jeff Barefoot in the first inning and proceded to throw blanks at the 'Noles until the seventh inning breakthrough.

Sanford's Howard was just as effective in defeat. The curve-balling righthander stymied Lyman from the fourth inning until the ninth o five strike outs and four hits. "That one was a tough one to lose." lamented Howard as he stayed into the outfield. "It was a pretty even game. They got some breaks when they needed them." The county's swiftest Greybound - Kenny Brown - was finally nabbed on the basepaths, but it took an extraordinary relay on the front end of a double steal from Paul Griffin to do it.

Brown, who can his streak to 23 in a row with two thefts, was perched on third when John Reich broke for second. Griffin flagged down the throw and fired it back to catcher John Polk, who caught the ball, and made an excellent tag in one motion to nail Brown.

Marriott had another good day at the plate with two hits in four trips and three stolen bases. Brown also had two rips and Greg Register a

Hardy, Bryant Cage MVPs

Senior Tony Hardy picked up the girls' most valuable player award and junior Calvin "Kiki" Bryant did the same for the boys at the Seminole High basketball awards night Thursday at the Mayfair Country Club.

Hardy, a three-year starter, was a lightningquick guard-forward for coach Ron Merthie's Five Star Conference champions. She was a special mention choice on the 4A all-state team.

Bryant, just a junior, is halled by coach Bill Payne as one of the best pure shooters to come through Seminole. He averaged 17.1 points and seven rebounds a game. Bryant was named to the honorable mention all-state team.

Other honors were bestowed upon senior and leading scorer Cathy Jones for most improved. Point guard Johnnie Bennett was judged most coachable. Sophomores Ariene Jones and Genene Stallworth were chosen as most promising Junior varsity players by coach Beth Corao. The JVS also won the Five Star Conference title by besting Lake Brantley in a playoff game.

For the boys, senior Stuart Smith was named most improved and senior guard Richard Grey was louted as the best defender. "Quick Richard" led the county in steals. - SAM COOK

Altamonte Firm Installs Solar Pool Heating System

A new commercial pool heating system, recently installed by the Altamonte Springs-based The Solar Solution, the largest solar contractor in Central Florida, points up the growing commercial use of solar power, according to David and Susie Biddulph, owners of The Solar Solution.

The system, consisting of 30 roof-mounted, collector panels and support equipment, was installed at Sunlake, a manufactured home community near Leesburg.

"The economic and technical advantages of solar power are resulting in increased commercial use, especially for swimming pools," Biddulph says. "Every day more and more businesses are realizing that solar power is the best alternative to fuel-fired or electric power systems."

Income Taxes Still No. 1

Combined corporate and personal income taxes surpassed general sales taxes as the most important source of state tax dollars for the ninth straight year in fiscal 1981, Commerce Clearing House reports.

Income taxes provided the most revenue in 28 states and the District of Columbia while sales taxes proved the best source of revenue in 21. Alaska's severance tax was its best tax revenue raiser.

Social Security Deficit Seen

If Congress does not act to reform Social Security, the fund will face a $1 trillion operating deficit in the early twenty-first century, predicts Dr. Michael Boskin, Stanford University and National Bureau of Economic Research economist, in a new publication released by the Fiscal Policy Council, a non-profit economic research and education foundation. Congressional procrastination will leave later policymakers with the painful choice between raising payroll taxes from a now-legislated 15.3 percent rate to a projected 24 to 26 percent or reducing benefits, according to Boskin, an authority on Social Security financing. "Despite the euphemism of a trust fund, it is really only a petty cash reserve," says Boukin. "It doesn't have the $4.5 trillion it would need to be a trust fund in the insurance sense of the word - that is, sufficient to pay future benefits out of principal and interest - but rather a few months' cash reserve:

Caribbean Plan Analyzed

Economists at the University of Florida's Sciences say President Reagan's proposed Caribbean Basi. Economic Initiative isn't likely to have any immediate effect on Florida's billion doller agricultural industry. But they acknowledge Reagan's plan - if adopted in its present form — could force the state's growers into a stiffer competitive situation.

The economists say the tartif concessions in the plan are of little significance, since 87 percent of Caribbean area products already enter the U.S. duty-free. The real impact of the plan could come from proposals to encourage U.S. investment in the Caribbean, and from grants and loans for Caribbean agricultural development.

More States Add Sales Tax

Striving to boost state revenue collections, several states enacted sales and use tax hikes in 1981.New Mexico broke with tradition and reduced its sales tax rate, and South Dakota allowed a temporary increase

Many states imposing these levies also allow for the imposition of county, city or transportation district sales taxes, which are generally in addition to the state sales tax rates.

Sherman has been counseling on gold with major institutional portfolio managers in his role as U.S. economist for the gold mining industry of South Africa.

Two difficult questions for both institutions and individuals are: How much to buy? When to buy it?

Sherman believes "the question of when to buy absorbs much too much of the typical individual investor's time and attention."

"Anyone who bought $1,000 worth of Krugerrands at the end of 1971 would have had an investment worth $3,241 in 1971 dollars at the end of 1981. On the other hand, a $1,000 investment in the Dow Jones Industrial Average would have shrunk to $542 over the same time span after taking inflation and taxation into account," he adds.

"In some cases, a would-be Krugerrand buyer could easily justify a 25 percent gold portfolio, as, for example, in cases where a large proportion of existing assets are already invested in fixed income. Fixed income is a bet on reduction of inflation. And gold, of course, balances that bet as a hedge want to start from scratch, investigate buying a franchise Franchises usually have lower rates of failure than new businesses, partly because the organization may provide financing assistance and management training for franchises This lower risk is one reason why franchising has become popular in the last 20 years.

If you are interested in information on a franchise, start by writing to the franchise company. Look in newspaper business pages for articles and advertisements about franchises. Although fast-food chains are probably the best-known franchises, other franchise services such as lawn care, diet and exercise centers, instant printing and film developing stores are spreading across the country.

There are many books on franchising, as well as an annua directory of franchise organizations, so check your local public library, as well as the business administration department di your local college. Also inquire at the local offices of the Better Business Bureau and the Small Business Administration. Before you decide to buy a franchise, do some leg work. Visi outlets operated by your franchisor and talk to the operators. Check bank references and the credit rating of the franchisor. Besure you know what the franchise fee is and what future royalties will cover. Is the franchise fee a single charge, continuing fee in the form of a sales purchase, or a fixed fee to be paid periodically? Measure the franchise fee and other fee or royalties in terms of the cost per year, rather than as a one time expense. You should plan to recover your total in vestment (in addition to your salary) in three to five years. Also, evaluate the intangibles. How much is the name, image or training program worth? How much will national advertising contribute to your net income? Franchises of one fast food company pay four percent of gross sales toward advertising. This is part of a total royalty fee of nine percent Figure out what a royalty fee will come to in actual dollars.

Project probably earnings and profits before you consider buying a franchise. Find out if the franchisor's projected sales volume is realistic. Calculate the sales volume on a weekly and daily basis, as well as annually. Apply both the probable cost of sales and your operating expenses to sales volume for projected period in order to arrive at a reliable profit estimate, Although the franchisor might train you in running the business and keeping the books, keep in mind that the framchise depends on your management. If you like the idea of being your own boss, but don't want to put in long hours, you might not be suited for a franchise. Some owners claim they work longer hours than at their previous jobs.

Before you sign a contract, have your attorney and CPA look it over carefully. Be sure you understand territorial provisions and cancellation clauses, as well as the mutual obligations is the agreement. What would happen if you die, go bankrupt of your business is wiped out by a disaster? What if you want to sell the business?

Find out also what rights the franchisor has over your business. Franchises usually control the quality of the product. and you have to conform to their standards. But they might also tell you what color to paint your walls, what kind of sign to hang and how your employees should dress.

The Federal Trade Commission requires franchisors to give a detailed financial statement to prospective franchisees ten days before signing a contract. Review this statement carefully and read a copy of the FTC ruling.

Orange Crop Seen Hitting 13-Year Low

LAKELAND (UPI) - The U.S. Department of Agriculture says Florida 1981-82 orange crop is going to be the lowest since 1968-69 and possibly since the year before that.

The USDA issued its monthly crop estimate Monday, and said based on conditions March 1, Florida citrusmen would produce an orange crop of 130 million boxes - 74 million boxes of early and mid-season fruit and 56 million boxes of late season Valencias.

Production in the 1968-69 season was 129.7 million boxes, while that in 1967-68 was only 100.5 million boxes.

If the USDA estimate is correct, the Florida crange crop this season would be down a whopping 25 percent from last season's 172.4 million boxes,

In addition to cutting the orange crop by 1 million boxes, the USDA estimated the average juice yield at 1.28 gallons of concentrate per box, down from last month's estimate of 1.29

Prior to the mid-January freeze, the USDA had estimated Florida's orange crop at 162 million boxes with a juice yield of 1.41 gallons per box.

The cut in the orange estimate was on the early and midseason crop which now has been harvested. The USDA estimated the Florida grapefruit crop at 49 million boxes, up 1 million from last month but 4 million boxes before the pre-freeze estimate of 53 million boxes. Florida grapefruit growers produced 50.3 million boxes of grapefruit last season.

On other varieties, the USDA left the tangelo estimate at 5.1 million boxes and the tangerine estimate at 2.5 million boxes, and added 100,000 boxes to the temple estimate, bringing that "There will continue to be a need for truck transportation, but at much reduced levels compared to the present," he said.

"Some years ago, large volumes of Florida produce were shipped to market by rail," he said. "However, since diesel fuel was relatively cheap, truck transportation was faster, truck service was customer-oriented in convenient quantities and truck freight was competitive in terms of the value received.

"The demand for trucking virtually replaced all demand for rail transportation," Long said. As a result, he said, "Railroads were losing money on their produce transportation facilities and, to reduce losses, they began to phase out equipment and abandon unprofitable rail lines."

Ground Broken For Centralized Telephone Co. Training Center

Groundbreaking for a 9,600-square-foot building that will house a centralized training center for United Telephone System-Florida Group was held Monday.

Construction of the building, near the Altamonte Springs City Hall about a block north of State Route 436, is under way and is expected to be completed in September. The companies affiliated with United in the state are Winter Park Telephone; Orange City Telephone; Quincy Telephone; Florida Telephone, based in Leesburg; and United Telephone of Florida, based in Fort Myers.

In addition to the new facility, some office space in the Winter Park Telephone headquarters building will be used primarily for management development as part of United's statewide training program.

"By centralizing our training functions, we eliminate the duplication of facilities and equipment in each of our companies," said E.P. Kittinger, chairman of the telephone group. "We also can afford to buy complex equipment, such as the latest computerized switchboard, which will save our companies the cost of sending the employees to individual supplier training schools."

Kittinger said about 25 employees will staff the training operations. United's training for operator services will remain in existing facilities. United also will continue its relationship serious about his tea. He brews about 150 cups a day, but never swallows any of it.

The importers who bring almost 200 million pounds of tea into the country each year are glad for his care, because Barnett is one of two tea tasters employed by the Food and Drug Administration.

Barnett sampled about 75 million pounds of tea in 1961; the other 115 million pounds were tested by Robert Dick in New York, who has been a tea taster for 30 years.

Barnett's technique is to inhale the tea quickly through his mouth, turning it into a fine spray that sweeps over his palate and olfactory senses at the same time. He swishes it around in his mouth, contemplating the taste. Then he bends over a 212foot-ball spitoon braced between his legs and "Black ten is the kind most folks are familiar with," Barnett sald recently, "It is a

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) - James Barnett is until it passes the Food and Drug Administra tion inspection.

> The two tasters work under the 1897 Import Tea Act, which set a minimum level of standards for quality, purity and fitness for consumption. Each year, the Board of Tea Experts meets and revises those standards by selecting teas in eight categories by which imports can be measured. Born in DeKalb, Miss., Barnett has been in New Orleans for two years after training for a year in New York. Before becoming a tea taster, Barnett was an entomologist and seafood taster for the federal government.

He tastes tea imported down the Pacific coast from the San Francisco area and over to the Gulf of Mexico. He also tastes ten coming into the United States at Honolulu, St. Louis, Kansas City, Mo., Denver and Phoenix, Ariz.

Barnett's palate is sensitive enough to tell from what part of the world a tea comes - and even in which province it was grown. He tastes up to 150 cups of tea a day. Most of the requisite 4-ounce samples are thrown out once the tea is tasted.

The taster uses spring water at the FDA laboratory to brew the leas for lesting.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) - Judy Kiely, a petite Atlanta mother of four called the "narc queen," showed a plastic bong gun bought in a head shop to a group of parents and asked: "Do you know what this is?"

Mrs. Kiely got blank stares from the 40 parents and a question in return. "What's a head shop?"

A bong gun, Mrs. Kiely explained, forces marijuana smoke down the user's lungs. The device was bought in a head shop, a store that sells drug paraphernalia.

Mrs. Kiely, a board member of the National Federation of Parents for Drug-Free Youth (NFD), showed the parents a plastic throwing disc with a compartment to conceal drugs and two books - one a tongue-in-cheek protocol primer for youngsters attending their first "grass" party, the other a textbook with a hole carved in its pages to hide drugs. The father of a teenage boy who has been treated for drug abuse stood up to agree.

"It's not only the freaks," he said. "The preppies and the jocks use drugs, too."

The National Institute on Drug Abuse has compiled statistics to show patterns of drug use by high school students. Alcohol, speed and marijuana rose to the top of the chart in 1900, the latest available figures, as the most pervasive drugs for that

By their senior year, 93 percent of the students have at least experimented with alcohol, 74 percent with speed, and 60 percent with marijuana, said Carol Suasman, a public information officer for the agency. Ms. Sussman said the trend is toward a "general increase in the use (by teenagers) of all kinds of drugs since 1975," although not for each specific drug included on the survey. Other 1980 statistics show the experimentation with addictive prescription uppers is rising with 26 percent of the high school students popping the pills by the time they are seniors. About 16 percent tried cocaine at least once, 10 percent ingested methaqualone, an addictive prescription sedative, and nine percent swallowed LSD.

If the statistics don't get you, then certainly the knowledge of the effects of drugs on teenagers will, Mrs. Keily told the Memphis group. She urged the parents to read a compilation of medical literature disseminated by the Unified Parents of America based in Atlanta. One study by Marsha Keith Schuchard, a consultant to NIDA, concludes that children as young as 11 years old experiment with drugs. In some cases even younger children receive drugs from parents or siblings.

Ms. Schuchard focuses on the use of marijuana, as it is smoked so pervasively across the nation by teenagers on a daily basis. She also notes the marijuana available nowadays packs 10 times the potency of that amoked in the 1960s by

What Seminole Voters Deserve

Well, the tendentious turkeys of Tallahassee have flocked to their homes, the Legislature is once again empty — in its literal, rather than figurative, sense — and now it's beginning to look as though Seminole County and the rest of the state will get no solution on congressional redistricting until after November's elections.

In the gobblers' efforts to gerrymander districts to protect incumbents they like, cast to the winds incumbents they don't, or create special districts to assure the election of one or more of themselves to Congress in an upward move, the legislators have utterly and miserably failed to accomplish congressional reapportionment, and the state Supreme Court may end up doing a job that could easily be accomplished in an eight-hour workday by any half-bright accountant with a mapmaker to assist him.

Seminole County, unfortunately, is caught in the "eye of the needle" as congressional districting plans, building southward from the Panhandle and northward from Miami, somehow seem to get snagged when they hit Central Florida with only the last couple of districts left to go.

One of Seminole's problems — there are others - is that its population is only about one third of the approximately half a million required to make the "perfect" congressional district. So it must perforce be lumped together with one or more other counties. But some of the proposed lumping amounts to gerrymandering that often looks as if the districts had been designed by a drunken halfwit.

One proposal, for example, would place a large portion of Sanford and nearly all the rest of Seminole into a district extending all the way to Jacksonville - a thin strip about 25 miles wide and 125 miles long.

The outcome of some of the absurd gerrymanders could force U.S. Rep. Bill Mc-Collum, R-Altamonte Springs, to move to Hernando County on the Gulf coast, and U.S. Rep. Bill Chappell, D-Ocaia, who represents part of Sanford, to move to Volusia County in efforts to retain their seats. Further, both McCollum and Chappell would probably then be forced to defend their seats against two popular state legislators - Rep. Dick Batchelor, D-Orlando, and Rep. Sam Bell, D-Ormond Beach, respectively.

If this mess is not straightened out, we could very well witness a repeat of what happened in the late 1960s, when three elections were held before the state elected a Legislature from districts acceptable to the state Supreme Court.

Meanwhile, two suggestions: (1) Draw up solid, cohesive geographical entities, not absurdly shaped stringbean gerrymanders, and (2) keep all of Seminole County together within one congressional district. The voters deserve no less.

BERRY'S WORLD

"We'd like to go to South Succotash, wherever that is."

The tornado that bravely tripped into Sanford last week and savagely ripped-off property was a beast to say the least. Nearly every family felt its evil mark of destruction.

If nothing else, telephone and electric services were temporarily discontinued. Thousands have been inconvenienced to the tune of thousands of

But as devastating and overpowering as the raging storm was, thank God, it was not a killer. Distant relatives were distraught over slanted media reports that Sanford had been wiped off the map. Nobody could get Ma Bell to answer.

En route home on the Maundy Thursday, I observed scenes that I had not seen for ages. People were out in their yards and up and down the streets talking to each other-offering help. Trees were uprooted, curtains were flying outside windows dangling with broken glass and parts of roofs were missing.

Although heavy rain was pelting down, and dark skies threatened further stormy weather, good neighborliness came shining through.

Among the many long distance telephone calls I received was one from former Herald scribe Diane Petryk in New Zealand. Diane said she received a report that Sanford was "flattened."

Two longtime Sanford residents Domarlous Jones Varn and her husband Julian were en route home from Columbia, S.C. after attending a granddaughter's wedding when they learned about the disaster.

Julian said they were in a restaurant in Perry when they overheard a conversation that Sanford had been "wiped off the map." He said he tried phoning everyone-but none of the calls were completed.

Panic? Nearly. He and Domarious "could just see" their home and grounds demolished. They reached Mount Dora, and didn't bother to phone home, he said. Both had reconciled themselves to accept the conditions gracefully.

What a pleasant surprise for the Varns to drive up and find very little darmage to their property. "It was a weird feeling," Julian sald, "real

But then, the Varns weren't around when the millions of golf ball size hailstones came turnbling down from the blue skies that smile at me

However, Bill Mac Laughlin and his folks over at Celery City Printing Company Inc. were Johnny-on-the-spot and came up with a bumper sticker depicting the storm. While chuckling and telling about the red and white sticker, Bill credited Bob Beine for suggesting the humorous rectangular strip. "Really, we have had a bail with it," Bill laughed. "Everybody wants one. We may have to run some more off." The Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce may not approve of the bumper sticker that reads "I've been through "HAIL" in Sanford, Fiorida.'

JULIAN BOND Making Sense Of A New Crisis

By DORIS DIETRICH

"I'm angered, Irustrated and frightened by the Argentine invasion of the Falkland Islands," said my friend Robinson.
"They're the Malvinas now," I reminded him. "But what's it to you?" "I'm angry," Robinson sputtered, "at being asked to choose between the expanaioniam of a right-wing dictatorship and the rag-tag paternalism of a decayed colonial power. I'm frustrated because I have to develop a line on this new world crisis and my usual ideological inclinations don't fit the occasion or the actors."

"Try Gilbert and Sullivan," I suggested. "Be serious," he shouled. "There's got to be a right and a wrong way to interpret these events. No right-thinking person can support Argentina's military dictators, who were shooting their own citizens down in the streets of Buenos Aires at the same instant that the marines landed in the Malvinas. "It's clear the invasion served to temporarily dampen opposition to a government that has outlawed dissent and stifled human rights. Torture and assaudination are familiar tools of the Galtieri government. Opponents of the regime vanish. Trade unions and opposition parties are prohibited."

"Then you have to support the Union Jack in this one," I agreed.

"On the other hand," he said slowly, "it does my heart good to see the Thatcher whiskers tweaked. Colonialism isn't any more acceptable today than it was in India before Gandhi or on the Gold Coast before Nkirumah. No nation has a right to territory outside its borders - not Britain, not the Soviet Union and surely not the United States. For the British to threaten war over territory that they have no right to claim means that all of us may become involved in a way in which we have no interest."

"Take the longer view," I said. "Britain is an old friend and a faithful ally. When we wanted help on sanctions against the Soviet vest. Union or a kind word on our side of the argument over missile deployment in Europe, the British were there."

"The ties are closer than that," Robinson reminded me. "We were Britain's colony once, and we had to fight for our freedom. It was the British who made slavery an attractive commercial venture. The only favor they've done the world lately is to demonstrate even before Ronald Reagan's election that trickle-down economics is triage economics."

"Then you're siding with the Argentines!" I asked. "You're standing with the Third World against European colonialism, with the campesinos against the patrons, with fascist Argentina against democratic Britain?

You've also got to watch the Soviet Union and China in a case like this," said Robinson, taking the world view. "They are usually on the right side but often for the wrong reasons. But their first response was to abstain on the U.N. Security Council's demand that

Comic Relief For Women

Tacked to my office bulletin board, between the bills and meeting announcements, are my favorite cartoons.

As you might guess, they are all about women.

One is of those delightful guys "Frank & government humbled and the British lion's Ernest," created by Bob Thaves, standing on pulls of clouds before the pearly gates. Just outside is a sign that reads "New arrivals wait here for Her Supreme Holiness." Frank says to Ernest: "I wonder if it's too late to Another cartoon is by Mike Peters of the Dayton News and it also deals with divine interpretation. Adam and Eve are pictured with raised eyes, listening to The Voice, who is saying: "Adam ... you take from the birds of the air and the beasts of the field, from the fruit of the vine and the grain from the har-

"And Eve... you take dictation,"

My most favorite is by Mark Taylor of the Albuquerque Tribune. Seven figures, illustrating the evolution of man, parade down the page, beginning with the arms-tothe-ground, protruding-law ape. Gradually, the arms grow shorter, the back gets straighter and the brow gets higher. Alas, number seven is a bent-over-again of the nation's top cartoonists.

The show was the brainstorm of cartoonist Taylor and five other artists who tapped their professional colleagues to donate cartoons. Some of the biggest guns in the business responded: Jules Feiffer and Pulitzer Prize cartoonist Garry ("Doonesbury") Trudeau, Don Wright of the Miami News and Paul Conrad of the L.A. Times.

The last week in March, the cartoon originals hung in the Charlton Gallery in San Antonio. On the final night they were sold to raise money for an eleventh-hour push for passage of the Equal Rights Amendment before the June 30 deadline.

Here's a sampling of the entries: Cartoonist Ben Sargent of the Austin

American-Statesman took a shot at cuts in federal funds for abortion for low-income women. He shows a woman eyeing another woman and her escort across the room. She is saying, "God, I'm so Jealous of Sylvin! He's bought her a brand-new Ferrari, a floorlength sable, a condo in Cozumel, a safe A mother pulling her son on his sled was drawn by Jim Berry of Newspaper Enterprise Association. The son is saying critically, "Supermorna pull much faster,"

A caricature of the face of President Reagan on the backside of a GOP elephant has the caption: "End of an ERA." It was contributed by cartoonist Paul Conrad.

But it is the end for ERA - the Equal Rights Amendment? After a pitched battle for nearly a decade, ratification is still three states short of the required 38, and ERA supporters are working feverishly in a countdown campaign Says Kathy Wilson, president of the National Women's Political Caucus: "The women's movement is not without humor and neither am I, but nothing that's happening now seems very funny."

Just the same, every feminist is hoping that the cartoonists are contributing to a victory and not just providing comic relief.

After prolonged study, a commission on party procedures has recommended and the Democratic National Committee has approved, a proposal to set aside about 550 seats at the 1984 convention for elected and party officials not committed to any candidate.

A step in the right direction, this is an effort to repair the damage caused by the so-called McGovern reforms of a decade ago.

The effect of those reforms, perhaps intended, was to move the party away from representative democracy and toward rule by militant ideological cliques.

Under the McGovern reforms, you had to be a lawyer or a Ph. D. to understand the maze of regulations regarding proportional representation and racial and sexual quotas.

The whole process worked to give excessive leverage to Hispanic, homosexual, feminist, black and other special groups.

It turned the convention floor into a televised zoo. It resulted in platform planks repellent to mainstream America. And it produced, as nominees, George McGovern and Jimmy Carter.

With the traditional party structure a shambles, organized special interests had a

At the 1980 convention in New York's Madison Sqsuare Garden, for example, the National Education Association controlled a hard core of 302 delegates, and had a great deal of leverage among other delegates as well. The agenda of the NEA is not identical to that of all Democrats. Not only does it support massive federal funding for education, but it adamantly opposes all forms of aid to private or parochial achools. It will not, for example, support such a mainstream Democrat as Sen. Dardel P. Moynihan of New York because he favors tuition tax credits

Now, tuition tax credits seems to be a very popular idea with middle Americans, but, under the current system, the NEA has the political clout to veto the idea at any Democratic National Convention.

The Republicans, too, have had their problems with militant special interest groups. But the GOP never went as far as the Democrats in the direction of supposed "reform," and so its conventions have much more accurately reflected the balance of power in the party beyond the walls of the

Will the 550 seats - one in every seven for elected and party officials make a real difference? Perhaps. These people, though a minority, speak with a more representative authority than special interest group delegates. Some, at least, will have won elections at the state and local level. EPA Rule Could Spawn More Love Canals

WASHINGTON - Are there more Love Canals that will be poisoned by chemical seepage?

The prevention of future pollution is the responsibility of the Environmental Protection Agency. Yet, incredibly, it has seemed more enxious to appeare the chemical and waste-dumping industries than to protect American families from possibly dangerous consequences.

The issue is how much liquid should be permitted in drums of chemical waste dumped at landfill sites. What makes this of serious concern to the public at large is the fact that no dump is leakproof. Sooner or later, the liquids will seep out of corroding metal drums, leach down through the subsoil and eventually wind up in the underground water table. So it's important to limit the amount of liquid matter that is dumped at a given landfill. Ideally, only solid wastes should be allowed. In fact, the EPA originally placed an absolute ban on dumping of drummed liquids.

Then, under industry pressure, it announced it was repealing the ban.

The resultant outcry from environmentalists caused the bureaucrats to change direction once again and announce that the ban was still in effect after all. But the EPA is still considering a regulation that would let waste-dumpers get around the liquid ban. Here's how: Most chemical waste is in the form of sludge of varying liquid content, depending on how much liquid has been either evaporated or treated. Obviously, it is cheaper for the waste-disposal and chemical industries to leave as much liquid as possible in the drums they dump. But like the oil in old-fashioned peanut butter, the liquid in the drums eventually separates from the solids and ultimately leaks out to leach into the soil

The professionals at EPA wanted to limit the amount of liquid in any drum to 10 percent by volume. Thus a standard 55-gallon drum could contain no more than 5.5 gallons of

This didn't sit well with the waste and chemical industries. They proposed a different formula: Fill 25 percent of a dump site's area with liquid drums.

This, they argued, would actually mean less liquid waste in the dump, because most drums in the liquid area would contain only a small percentage of liquid anyway; the other 75 percent of the dump would have only solid wastes. But the industries' formula could allow the disposal of drums filled with liquid, resulting in far more than 18 percent liquid volume at the dump.

After a series of meetings, the EPA finally bowed to the industry groups and adopted their dubious 25 percent plan.

What is particularly disturbing about this cave-in is that the proposed regulation was taken almost word for word from a memo written by Peter Vardy, vice president of Waste Management Inc. of Oakbrook, Ill., the largest chemical wasts-dumper in the country. It owns 14 dumpalies, four of which

My associate Tony Capaccio spoke to Vardy, who described his memo, dated Sept. 11, 1961, and written on his company's stationery, as "putting the thoughts of the (joint industry) group on paper." It was approved by the National Solid Waste Management Association — whose members dispose of 40 million gallors of drummed liquid waste each year - on Oct. 1.

The EPA professionals stuck to their guns at first, Proper management of hazardous waste "should include minimization of free liquids to 10 percent or less by volume in containers to be landfilled," EPA official Gary Dietrich insisted in a memo intended for official eyes only. But when Dietrich reiterated this point all a Nov. 6 meeting with the industry group, Vardy's 25 percent formula was proposed as an alternative. After the meeting, District and other EPA officials met privately for about 20 minutes - and decided to accept the industry plan.

OUR READERS WRITE Knowles Wrong About Ma Bell

Sanford for its yeoman work during the recent tornado.

I take exception to city manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles' comments and thoughts directed at Southern Bell employees. I retired from that company with 32 years of service. During that period of time I personally responded to many calls which occurred in the middle of the night or on my weekends. I could easily have said "no" and stayed home where it was dry

In the case he alluded to about the one employee on which he based his remarks, I feel he should be made aware of some of the circumstances that confronted the Bell employee.

First, it is a craft with inherent hazards, which applies to Ma Bell and power company workers. Their job is one in which their next mistake could very easily be their last, so safety has to come into play.

The employee was correct in doing nothing until his safety was ensured by the power company's checking its

I feel Mr. Knowles does a fine job as city manager, and would be well advised to limit his comments to issues of which he has a thorough working knowledge.

Should Animals Be Free To Roam?

I have been interested in the split in the Seminole County Humane Society. It is easy to judge the sincerity of the directors by their behavior. Some behaved like spoiled kids and deserted. The real animal lovers, realizing the need, stayed on, and they haven't given up in spite of the loss of the $25,000

When anyone tells me animals should be free to roam the streets and highways, I wonder - are they lying about their concern for pets and interested only in their own convenience in shedding responsibility?

Or are they just stupid?

Cat lovers insist that the cats eat only the sick or weak birds. That would include the nestlings that fall out before they are ready to fly and the young birds being taught to fly.

How do the cat lovers know the dead birds were weak? They may have been a little too trusting or brave. Does anyone give birds a medical checkup to see if they are weak? It's too late when only feathers are left.

Anyway, if it's all right to kill weak birds, isn't it all right to kill weak cats? A neighbor has a weak-looking cat. It's still strong enough to come over my fence and mess in the flower bed by my carport so it smells like a sewer.

Fooled By The Federal Reserve?

After Congress had passed the Federal Reserve Bill, U.S. Rep. Charles A. Lindbergh Sr. told Congress..."This act establishes the most gigantic trust on earth...When the president signs this act the invisible government by the money power, proven to exist by the money trust investigation, will be legalized.

"The new law will create inflation whenever the trusts want inflation... From now on depressions will be scientifically created."

The Federal Reserve is not federal. It is a group of private banks. Despite the government does not own it, does not run it, nor does it control it. It is not responsible to the will of Congress, or to the American people. Any law passed by Congress affecting the economy can be instantly nullified by the Federal Reserve. U.S. Rep. Wright Patman has pointed out that "the president cannot submit a program that is likely to be effective unless the Federal Reserve is willing to cooperate." You may ask, "What has all this to do with me?" The answer is, everything. Take a bill out of your wallet and note the inscription on it. It is inscribed with the words, "Federal Reserve Note."

As stated before, don't let the word "Federal" fool you. That bill you hold is not even issued by the federal govern-Federal Reserve notes are good only so long as someone will accept them in payment. They have no intrinsic value. There is absolutely nothing backing these notes. It is only paper issued by the Federal Reserve

Not only are Federal Reserve notes also unlawful and unconstitutional. Article 1. Section 8. of the U.S. Constitution delegates to Congress (not a banking corporation) the power "to coin money, and regulate the value

Further, Article I, Section 10, of the Constitution expressly prohibits states from declaring irredeemable paper (or anything but gold and silver coin) to be "tender in payment of debts."

The dollar was on the gold standard until 1933, and the silver standard until 1968, but this posed a genuine problem for the international bankers. They could not create gold or silver out of thin air, but paper was another matter.

The U.S. Supreme Court ruled in Bronson v. Rhodes that "lawful money of the United States could only be gold and silver coin, or that which by law is made its equivalent, so as to be exchangeable therefor at par and on demand, and does not include a currency which, though nominally exchangeable for coin at its face value, is not redeemable on demand."

Prior to 1963, Federal Reserve notes were defined by law as an "obligation of the United States" and were "redeemable in lawful money at the U.S. Treasury or at any Federal Reserve bank." After 1963, the 'redeemable'' promise disappeared from the face of Federal Reserve notes, contrary to Article I, Section 10, of the Constitution, the above Supreme Court decision, and also Title 31, U.S. Coinage Act 371, Title 12, U.S. Code 152.

Saga Of 'Siberian Seven' Could Be Drawing To Close

Public Research, Syndicated An end to the "Siberian Seven" episode may be near.

That, at least, is the contention of some American supporters of the Soviet Citizens who are holed up in the American Embassy in Moscow, hoping for permission to emigrate.

The optimism of the group's U.S. sympathizers springs from what Seattle Pacific University's Dr. Kent R. Hill terms "the happy coincidence of several factors that together may induce the Soviets, at long last, to let the refugees depart."

Prominent among those factors, says Hill, a Russian-history specialist who has worked strenuously in behalf of the refugees, are "increased Western publicity and the International Peace Conference to be held in Moscow in

After a long period during which the Western press paid relatively little attention to the Seven, journalistic interest was stirred several months ago when two of the refugees, Augustina Vashchenko and her daughter Lidia, began a hunger strike to protest Soviet refusal to act on their emigration requests.

The publicity generated by this incident did not go unnoticed in the Kremlin, Hill, who visited the refugees in early February, reports that in the wake of the hunger strike the Soviets permitted a brief reunion between the refugees and some of their relations.

What's more, Soviet medical treatment of Lidia, whose refusal of food led to her hospitalization, was "good," according to Hill, who interviewed her during her convalescence. Indeed, Soviet sensitivity to Western publicity proved so great that following her release from the hospital, Lidia felt it safe to return to Siberia to give moral support to her adverse publicity will move the Soviets to deal with the situation prior to the May peace conference.

American supporters of the Seven are hoping that the prospect of similar

A number of Western clergymen will be participating in that meeting, and Siberian Seven sympathizers are urging the clerics to speak out in behalf of the refugees.

Hill conjectures that "the Soviets" desire to avoid such an embarrassment might be so great that they will arrange ahead of time for the refugees to leave the country." Alternatively, he suggests, authorities "might choose to allow the refugees' relatives in Siberla to emigrate - and the refugees have promised that in such an event they will leave the embassy if their freedom from prosecution is assured."

If a conclusion to the episode is in fact imminent, it has come none too soon. Nearly four years have passed since the seven Siberians - five members of the Vashchenko family and two of their friends, Maria Petrovna Chmykhalova and her son Timofei - entered the American Embassy to seek U.S. diplomatic counsel concerning their fruitless attempts to leave the Soviet Union. Though they had intended their visit to be brief, they were persuaded to remain is the American compound by the menacing actions of the Soviet guards outside

Their long stay in the embassy has been trying for them, in no small part because of the inhospitableness of U.S. officials. Especially during the Carter administration, the refugees were made to feel unwelcome, with embassy authorities maintaining a limited access list of those permitted to visit the families, and refusing to allow reporters to film them in their room.

Since early 1981, embassy policy has been relaxed. The access list, for instance, has been eliminated, and journalists are allowed freer contact with the refugees. However, the current administration showed little public interest in the Seven prior to December's hunger strike, which induced U.S. Ambassador Thomas J. Watson Jr. to discuss the refugees in a special press conference held in the embassy.

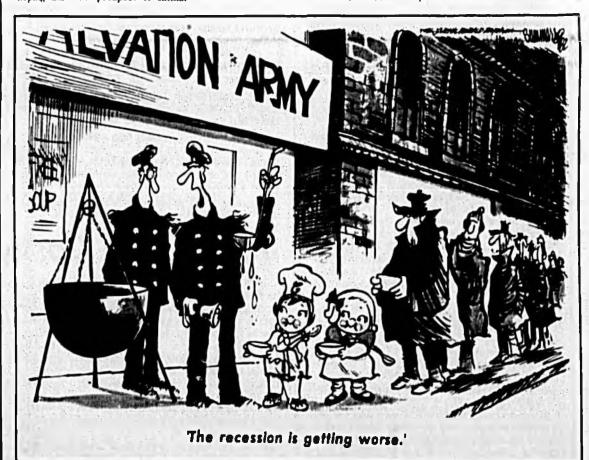

It is widely speculated that the U.S. government's reluctance to champion the cause of the Seven derives from fear that the affair could encourage the "invasion" of U.S. embassles around the globe by people desiring to leave their homelands.

Yet if the Siberian Seven episode is a troubling one for some American officials, it is a much greater thorn for Russia. The plight of the refugees reminds the world of Soviet unwillingness to abide by solemn international agreements (such as the Helsinki accords, signed by the U.S.S.R.) which guarantee freedom of emigration. Moreover, the affair custs light on the repression of religion in the Soviet Union. For it was the persecution they experienced due to their Pentecostal faith that moved the Siberians to seek emigration. Imprisonment, internal exile, and psychiatric "treatment" is the price the refugees and their relatives have paid over the years for adhering to Pentecostal Christianity.

At the root of such persecution, according to Hill, is "the threat that religion, as a rival authority, poses to the Communist Party." The Soviets, he says, cannot countenance the "division of loyalty" that results "when people begin to think in religious terms, to acknowledge the existence of a God to whom man is both responsible and subordinate."

This Soviet intolerance suggests that even if the Siberian Seven affair is soon brought to a close, similar incidents likely will follow as continued persecution drives other believers to desperate measures.

Ruling Slaps Labor Unions

WASHINGTON (UPI) - In a significant defeat for organized labor, a federal appeals court has refused to allow a labor union to compel non-union workers to help pay its negotiating expenses.

A union cannot assess such a "representation fee" on non-members even if the union is required by law to represent all employees at a workplace, the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia ruled Friday.

Firings Called Political

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Eight former members of the President's Committee on Mental Retardation are accusing President Reagan of firing them for political

"We call upon the president to stop treating the interests of the mentally retarded as yet another political football," they said in a statement released Friday.

Will Noguchi Be Fired?

LOS ANGELES (UPI) - Dr. Thomas Noguchi's demotion from head of the nation's second largest coroner's office to medical specialist may lead to his being fired and a possible criminal investigation, county officials say.

Noguchi was removed from his post Thursday by the Board of Supervisors over charges that his mismanagement had plunged the department - the model for TV's "Quincy" series - into chaos.

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: Violent thunderstorms packing large hall and 87-mph winds triggered a string of tornadoes from Illinois to Texas and pushed the Mississippi River to flood stage in Missouri today. One death and seven injuries were blamed on the storms.

The thunderstorms rocked the South and Midwest, where winds peaked at 87 mph in Fowler, Ind., spawning several tornadoes in Texas and Missouri, and threatening to push lows rivers over their banks.

A tornado, one of a handful reported in Texas Friday, roured through Dalias, knocking out power to about 4,000 people. Heavy rain delayed flights at Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport for more than two hours.

More than 3 inches of rain soaked north central Texas. Flash flood watches were posted for parts of Louisiana, Mississippi, Tennessee and Iowa.

Geneva Bicyclist, Struck By Car, Dies

By TENI YARBOROUGH Herald Statt Writer

Efforts to revive a 76-year-old Geneva man, struck from behind by a vehicle while he was pedaling his bicycle along State Road 426, proved fruitiess Friday, and he was pronounced dead shortly after arrival at Seminole Memorial Hospital, Senford.

Martin Hanson died about 4:16 p.m. at the hospital following an accident at about 1:40 p.m., according to the Plorida High-

Hanson reportedly was pedaling his bicycle along SR 426 about one mile south of SR 46 when he was struck from behind by a 1875 Plymouth driven by Carl Julius Zeis, 75, also of Geneva, troopers said. Zels was not injured in the accident,

Hanson was transported to the hospital by Herndon Ambulance Service for treatment of severe head and leg injuries, officials said. However, efforts to revive the cyclist

Hanson's death marks the eighth traffic fatality in Seminole County this year, troopers said.

MA" PLEADS GUILTY IN BANK ROBBERY A 23-year-old Tennesses man has pleaded guilty to the Sept. 8 robbery of Southeast Kational Bank in the Sweetwater area of Longwood of more than $2,000.

Richard J. Burlason, of Nashville, told Seminole Circuit Judge Robert B. MacGregor during the trial that he enetered the bank, handed a teller a note demanding money, threatened her and fled with the money.

CASSELBERRY WOMAN ASSAULTED A Casselberry woman was assaulted Saturday morning by a man who had entered her car while she was making a call from a public telephone near a Fern Park gas station. Valerie Jean Robbins, 19, of 2643 Red Bug Lake Road, told sheriff's deputies she was making a telephone call near the Philling 86 prvice station along State Road 436, near Oxford

Road, and alien are returned to her car a man grabbed her. Ms. Robbins said the man seized her and tried to put his hand over her mouth, but that she fended him off by hitting him, deputies said. The man then got out of the car and walked cast on SR 436 deputies added.

BATHROOM WINDOW TAKEN TOO? Thieves broke into a Longwood man's home at about 9:40 p.m. Friday, stealing about $3,300 worth of property and the

John A. Bowman, 43, of 300 W. Hornbeam Drive, told deputies nomeons broke into his home by cutting the rear patic door screens, then entered the main part of his home by removing the rear bathroom-door window.

Deputies searched the area, but could find no trace of the missing window. Among the items stolen, in addition to the window, were a color television set, a microwave oven and two videocassette recorders, deputies added.

ATTACKER RINGS DOORBELL A 71-year-old Camelberry woman, answering a ring at her door, was attacked by a man who forced his way into the home, then fied. Gertrude Crews, 141 Grackle Court, told deputies she answered the doorbeil at about 8:35 p.m. Friday to find a young man standing outside her home. She opened the door a few inches to inquire as to what he wanted when he forced his way into her home, grabbed her, shook her, then fled out the door, deputies said.

Mrs. Crews was not injured in what police believe to be an attempted burglary of her home.

DEAD RAT IN MAILBOX For the second time in two weeks, a Longwood man has gone to pick up his mail only to find someone had left a dead rat in his mallbox. Irwin Baker, 54, of 1241 Hobson St., told deputies someone has been harassing him by leaving the dead rodents in his mailbox, although he is not sure why it is happening. Baker diacovered the rat about 2 p.m. Friday, deputies said. Baker said the rat had to have been placed there sometime between 3 p.m. Thursday and the time it was discovered.

Secret Reagan-Haig Transcript: A Surprising Slant On Britain

By JACK ANDERSON Special to the Herald

WASHINGTON - Secretary of State president remarked gloomily at one point. Alexander Haig has told President Reagan that Argentina may be willing to pull out of the Falkland Islands if an international peacekeeping force could be sent into the disputed territory.

A transcript of the confidential conversation between Haig and the president contains some surprising language. For example, the general feeling in this country is that the Argentine military junta is the intransigent party in the confrontation. The Argentine leaders' rhetoric bellicose statements issuing from No. 10 Downing Street.

Yet after shuttling back and forth between London and Buenos Aires, Haig told the president: "The Argentinians are a little more flexible than the British."

In face, as the transcript makes clear, Haig's and Reagan's biggest fear is that a military action will occur before the U.S.sponsored compromise — an international peacekeeping force taking over the islands from Argentine troops - can be accepted by

This city knows all about refugees. It is populated by them.

Since World War 11, the cramped Crown Colony has grown from a bare million inhabitants to 5 million - an increase, as the Britannica understates it, "attributable to the dramatic changes that occurred during this period in China itself."

Most Chinese refugees have done well in Hong Kong. The view from Victoria Peak looks down on the fatrytale apartment towers and Refugees from another drama, however, have not fared so well here. They are Indochinese - the boat people. Many of Chinese descent, some have been reluctantly taken in More have been turned away because, in the official explanation tinged with some embarrasament, the additional strain on the colony's limited housing and services is just too much atop a continuing influx from China.

The numbers reaching Hong Kong have been small compared to the tens and hundreds of thousands who have flooded countries closer to Vietnam. The best estimate is that from 1975 to date, a million and a half Indochinese have fied their homelands. Of these, two-thirds are Viet-
