Search For Father Ends Happily For Sanford Woman

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

A Sanford woman's search for the father she never met ended happily last week when she located him in Denver, Colo., and they talked on the telephone four hours.

"My mom said my eyes got as big as a saucer when I answered the phone and a voice said, 'Is this Beth? This is your Dad,'" she said. "I was tickled to death. My mom knew he would call me when he found out I was trying to contact him."

Beth McCue, 19, of Sanford, has never seen her father, Allen Carter, except in old photographs. Her parents were separated and divorced in 1964. She was only two years old when her mother last heard from him. He's now 57.

"He called me Friday and we talked for 2½ hours and on Sunday he called again and we talked for 1½ hours," said Mrs. McCue. "He has sent me a picture of himself. He is a long distance trucker and said he is trying get a run here so we can see each other. He comes to Georgia sometimes, maybe I could meet him there. He said he plans to move his family, a wife and 10-year-old daughter here in the future."

Mrs. McCue's mother, Ramona Carter, 1403 Valencia Court West, Sanford, said she thinks "it's a miracle" Carter was found. "I had tried to locate him several times through the years," she said.

Then about two weeks ago Mrs. Carter suggested Beth look for an Allen Carter in Denver because he always said he wanted to live there. First Beth called a number she got from the information operator, but the person that answered said "No, he wasn't the one."

Later she tried to reach one of his sons in Muncie, Ind., looking for a James or Jerry. The man that answered said he was her father's son, Jerry, and confirmed that her father was living in Denver. He gave her the name of his oldest sister, Judy, who lives in Houston and keeps close touch with her father.

When her half-sister confirmed the number was the right one, Mrs. McCue then called Denver again and her father's present wife answered the phone. Mrs. McCue said apparently she had dialed the wrong number the first time she called.

"He (Beth's dad) was raised without parents and he knows what it is not to be in touch with his mother or father," Mrs. Carter said.

"He had lots of problems, but his life has apparently changed over the years and now he is trying to make up to her for the lost years," she said. Mrs. Carter has never remarried.

According to Mrs. McCue, her father said he had

Body Pulled From Lake

Rumor May Have Delayed Discovery

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

The body of a Sanford man, recovered Sunday at the west basin of the Sanford marina along with a submerged compact car, may have been in Lake Monroe for a week.

The body of Robert Gordon Jr., 35, of 300 Magnolia Ave., was discovered by a Deltona man who was fishing south of the Lake Monroe Holiday Inn and West of North Palmetto Avenue at about 10 a.m. Sunday. An autopsy was scheduled for today at 1 p.m., according to detective Karen Reynolds of the Sanford Police Department.

Gordon may have driven his car into the basin a week earlier after missing a curve in North Palmetto Avenue. He was last seen by his parents a week ago Sunday.

Will Outlan, who discovered the free-floating body in the chilly water, had been fishing in the west basin for 20 minutes when he saw what he thought was a wig bobbing with other debris between a sailboat and a dock. When he investigated he found Gordon's body floating vertically. Outlan went to the office of the Star of Sanford a few hundred feet east of the site to report the gruesome discovery.

"My knees were weak. That was the longest walk I ever made. I was so nervous I couldn't talk," said Outlan.

"I could just see the top of his head, kind of like standing up in the water. It wasn't lying flat," he said.

After telling workers at the Star of Sanford that he thought he had found a body, an employee and Outlan were going back to investigate when a Sanford police officer Greg Harrell drove by on patrol. They stopped the officer who investigated with the cruise ship employee. Outlan did not return to the site.

"I didn't want to see it," he said. Gordon's body was recovered by ambulance personnel and taken to Central Florida Regional Hospital.

It is not yet known when Gordon drowned, though police believe it was around Jan. 22. It is not known if he was alone in the vehicle. It was rumored that Gordon may have been at the Holiday Inn Jan. 22 watching the Super Bowl game. However Det. Reynolds said there were no provisions at the motel to watch the game.

Gordon's plunge into the lake, from North Palmetto Avenue near several moored sailboats and occupied house boats, may have gone unnoticed for a week because skidmarks near the drowning site were attributed by area employees to a rumored separate minor accident supposedly having occurred about the same time. The Sanford Police have no record of such an accident, but

HoJo's Won't Install Sprinklers Until 1990

ORLANDO (UPI) — Officials say a 17-story Howard Johnson's hotel in which 33 people were injured in a weekend fire won't be required to have a sprinkler system until 1990.

The hotel was built one year before the city passed an ordinance that required sprinklers in new Orlando hotels and motels. There have been several small fires there since it was built in 1973.

If the hotel had a sprinkler system, damage to the 225-room facility would have been minimal and there probably would have been no need to evacuate guests, investigators said Sunday.

The blaze began in a seventh-floor hallway around 1:50 a.m. EST Saturday. One floor was gutted and two others were damaged by smoke. More than 300 guests were evacuated and 33 people were injured.

Damage to the downtown hotel was estimated "in the thousands of dollars" by Leslie Brewington, a spokeswoman for the Orlando Fire Department.

Assistant fire chief William Moran said state law does not require sprinklers to be installed there until 1990.

There are no plans to install a system before then, hotel manager Vartan Arakelian said.

Although guests and the fire department were alerted shortly after the fire began by an effective smoke alarm system, a sprinkler system would have extinguished the fire before it spread, Moran said.

Investigators say they're certain the fire was deliberately set. No suspects have been charged, Ms. Brewington said.

Eight victims were still in area hospitals Sunday night.

Listed in serious condition at Orlando Regional Medical Center were Harley Moore, 66, a retired two-star Army general from Augusta, Ga.; Ampro Morales, 32, of Houston, and her 6-year-old son, Paul.

Marjorie Schwarz, 62, and her husband Phillip, 63, of Massapequa, N.Y., were listed in good condition Sunday at Brookwood Community Hospital.

Augustin Gullien, 37, of Costa Rica; his 12-year-old daughter Beatrice, and 10-year-old son Eric, all were listed in fair condition at Florida Hospital in Orlando.

Twenty-three others, including four firemen, were treated and released at Orlando hospitals Saturday

DUI Manslaughter Charged

Cycle Mishaps Claim 2 Lives

Two men, one from Sanford, were killed in separate motorcycle accidents in Seminole County over the weekend and in one of the incidents a Sanford man was charged with DUI manslaughter.

The Sanford man killed died during surgery at Central Florida Regional Hospital Sunday after his motorcycle rammed a tree.

Glen Burke, 27, of 147 Hidden Lake Drive, was fatally injured after his motorcycle left Hidden Lake Drive around 3:30 p.m. and hit the tree.

He was one of three traffic fatalities in the county this weekend, bringing the year's toll in Seminole to four.

According to Officer D. H. Whitmore of the Sanford Police Department, Burke was traveling at an estimated speed of 55 to 60 mph in the 25 mph zone when, for an unknown reason, he lost control of his 1982 Kawasaki motorcycle and left the road just south of Laurel Avenue. Whitmore said while the investigation is preliminary, it appears the cycle hit the curb, traveling 82 feet before striking a tree.

"It also appears that Burke struck the tree," Whitmore said.

According to the report submitted by responding emergency medical technicians, Burke was unconscious with shallow breathing and no distinct pulse when they arrived at the scene.

In the other incident an Orlando motorcyclist died from injuries he received when he struck the side of a Sanford man's car which pulled in front of him from a side-road stop sign.

William R. Gobrick, 30, died Saturday soon after the 9:25 p.m. accident at U.S. Highway 17-92 and Atlantic Avenue, south of Casselberry. He died at the Florida Hospital, Altamonte.

According to police, Gobrick ran into the side of a car driven by Timothy Gene Hyder, 22, of Apt. 308, 1120 Florida Ave.

Hyder was charged with DUI manslaughter and taken to the Seminole County jail where he was released after posting a $500 bond.

President Seeking Second Term To 'Finish' Job

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan, taking credit for reviving the nation's spirit and economy but saying "our work is not finished," is asking the American people for another four years in the White House.

"Vice President Bush and I would like to have your continued support and cooperation in completing what we began three years ago," Reagan said in a five-minute television announcement at the tail end of Sunday night's television prime time.

"I am therefore announcing that I am a candidate and will seek re-election to the office I presently hold," the soon-to-be 73-year-old president said, ending months of thinly constructed suspense over his plans for 1984.

The 10:55 p.m. address on ABC, CBS and NBC cost $400,000 and was paid for by "Reagan-Bush '84," the campaign committee that opened shop some weeks ago to plan the re-election campaign.

Reagan lost no time in launching a sharp attack on former Vice President Walter Mondale, who he considers his likely opponent in November.

In an interview granted before he made his announcement, Reagan criticized the Democratic front-runner for making too many promises and supporting spending programs that "would make the deficits $400 billion."

Reagan began his speech by saying he had made "a difficult personal decision as to whether or not I should seek re-election," but did not reveal the decision until the end of his statement.

Instead, the former Hollywood

actor, who celebrates his 73rd birthday next week, proceeded with a rosy review of his presidency. He said when he took office, the country was weak defensively, had been humiliated in Iran, and "worst of all, we were on the brink of economic collapse from years of government overindulgence and abusive taxation."

Now, Reagan said, repeating the slogan he enunciated in his State of the Union address last week, "America is back and standing tall," he said:

"We've begun to restore great American values — the dignity of work, the warmth of family, the strength of neighborhood, and the nourishment of human freedom.

"But our work is not finished," he added. "We have more to do in creating jobs, achieving control over government spending, returning more autonomy to the states, keeping peace in a more settled world and seeing if we can't find room in our schools for God."

During the past three years, Reagan said, the American people were "magnificent as we pulled the nation through the long night of our national calamity.

"We are here to see that government continues to serve you — not the other way around," he said.

Recalling his statement three years ago that the nation was "in the worst economic mess since the Great Depression," Reagan said, "Well, things have changed."

"This past year inflation dropped down to 3.2 percent. Interest rates — cut nearly in half. Retail sales are surging. Homes are being built and sold. Auto assembly lines are opening up.

"In just the last year, 4 million people have found jobs — the greatest employment gain in 33 years," Reagan said.

Former Minister, 75, Takes His 26th Bride

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Glynn de Moss Wolfe, the most married man in the contiguous world, has taken a 26th bride. The 75-year-old former minister married Christine Sue Camacho, 38, during a brief ceremony Saturday at the Little White Chapel. The bride is a 10-year friend of the man listed in the Guinness Book of World Records as the Most Married Man in the World. The bride is a divorcee with a grown daughter living in Mexico. Wolfe says he has 40 children from his previous marriages. The couple does not plan a family. His longest marriage was five years and some lasted only five days. Four of his marriages involved two women he married, divorced and remarried.

Can Liars Be Victims?

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The California Supreme Court agreed to decide if young girls who lie about their age to their lovers can be victims of lewd and lascivious behavior. The court said it would consider the conviction of Edward Olsen for lewd and lascivious behavior with a child under the age of 14. His girlfriend had told him she was 16. The physically mature girl was 13 years and 10 months old and admitted she had sexual experiences before meeting Olsen, whom she had known for more than a year before they were intimate. In November 1983, a state Court of Appeal overturned the conviction, asserting there had been no criminal intent in the act. "While it is laudable to attempt to protect innocence, there must, in fact, be innocence to protect," the appeals court said in overturning the conviction. "Unfortunately, the presumption that a youth under the age of 14 is naive is all too quickly becoming an anachronism in today's society."

Gas Forces Evacuation

LYMAN, S.C. (UPI) — Officials say leaking propane gas that smelled like "stinking, rotten eggs" forced 40 families to flee their homes and 500 factory workers to leave their jobs. Emergency crews plugged the leaking fuel tank at Lyman Dyeing and Finishing Co. about 7 p.m. Saturday, almost three hours after company officials discovered the open valve and began evacuating employees, officials said. About 500 workers left their jobs, many of them pushing their automobiles out of the parking lot to avoid cranking their engines near the explosive gas. No injuries were reported.

Squirrel KO's Power

A squirrel in the Grandview substation left some Sanford Florida Power & Light customers without electricity from 8:30 to 9:58 a.m. Sunday. Sanford District Manager Al Montgomery said the squirrel caused a feeder to be knocked out and normally when one goes down it can be switched to another feeder. However, Sunday morning was rather cool and apparently quite a few heating units were on, so the second feeder would not pick up the added load. Thus it took emergency crews longer to restore power to the residents' homes.

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: A wind-whipped storm that dumped up to eight inches of snow across the Midwest barreled into the Ohio Valley today, leaving behind blizzard conditions that closed roads and made jail cells look like a nice place to spend the night. Five people died on slippery roads in Illinois, and police said scores of cars slid off snowy roads into ditches in Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin and Illinois. Six to eight inches of snow clogged highways in southern Minnesota, northern Iowa and northern Illinois. By early morning the snow stretched across Indiana into Ohio and north central Kentucky. On the southern fringes of the storm freezing rain mixed with up to three inches of snow.

Reagan Enters Race

Democrats Quick To Attack Reagan's Re-Election Bid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democratic reaction to President Reagan's official announcement he will seek re-election was swift, to the point and predictable — the country cannot stand four more years of Republican leadership.

Equally as predictable and supportive, Republicans hailed the decision that has been expected for weeks and looked ahead to not only four more years, but possible gains in Congress.

Democratic candidates hoping to challenge Reagan in November stuck to the themes they see Reagan weakest on — the swelling federal deficit, his lack of popularity with women and minorities and foreign policy.

"We need to be moving toward a better economic future for our nation, not towards $200 billion deficits that we will charge to our children," Sen. John Glenn said in a statement.

"We need to be an America that is moving to address the needs of women in the workplace, and moving to make sure that racism and bigotry is finally behind us. ... It is not enough to say that we are back."

Former Vice President Walter Mondale told a news conference at San Francisco International Airport Sunday. "This world is becoming more dangerous."

"Tonight the campaign has officially begun and I believe we'll see a campaign with issues more basic than in any other political campaign in American history," Mondale said.

The frontrunner in the Democratic race criticized

Jesse Jackson

... "The misery index has grown (under Reagan). There are more children in poverty; life is worse for children, women, old people, poor people."

George McGovern

... "In our effort to build a national security state, we have arrived for the first time in our history at the edge of national extinction."

Reagan's policy on arms control, saying, "This administration has worked to break the arms control talks."

Sen. Richard Lugar, chairman of the National Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee, said Reagan's decision will help Republicans to retain control of the Senate and went further to predict, "All of our candidates will be aided with the president at the head of the ticket."

Jesse Jackson said in Washington, "The misery index has grown (under Reagan). There are more children in poverty; life is worse for children, women, old people, poor people. "And the danger index is on the rise. There are more people losing their lives in Central America, in the Caribbean, in the Middle East, and there is a nuclear standoff in Europe."

McGovern, the party's candidate in 1972, predicted Reagan will ruin the economy and involve the United States in a war if re-elected.

"In our effort to build a national security state, we have arrived for the first time in our history at the edge of national extinction," McGovern said.

Thieves Steal $1,390 From Holiday House Restaurant

Police are searching for possibly two thieves who broke into a Sanford restaurant over the weekend and took over $1,000 cash.

Henry P. Chauncey, manager of the Holiday House restaurant, 4220 U.S. Highway 17-92, told police that someone entered the restaurant's office between 11:30 p.m. Saturday and 7 a.m. Sunday, broke into the company safe and stole $1,390.

According to a police report, the thieves broke through the roof of the building and dropped through the women's bathroom ceiling. They damaged the floor around the safe and the back door fire exit through which they fled, the report said.

The burglars left behind drills and two baseball caps.

DRUG BUST

A woman Sanford woman who was allegedly involved in a domestic dispute with a man at Browdy's Store, off State Road 419, Oviedo, was arrested by Oviedo police officers who reportedly saw the woman try to conceal in her purse what was later tested and shown to be a small bag of marijuana.

Mary Madeline Davis, 33, of P.O. Box 123, Sanford, was arrested at the store at 11:10 a.m. Friday. She is being held in the Seminole County jail in lieu of $500 bond on a charge of possession of marijuana.

BURGLARY ARREST

A Casselberry man who allegedly broke into a car parked at Fair Lanes Bowling Center, 115 Wilshire Blvd., Fern Park, was arrested by Casselberry police in the parking lot of Cumberland Farms, 750 Semoran Blvd.

The officer spotted the suspect after hearing a police radio broadcast of his description in connection with the break-in, a police report said.

Dennis Robert Nathan, 28, of 521 Eldorado Way, was arrested at 10:38 p.m. Friday. He is being held in lieu of $5,000 bond in the Seminole County jail on charges of burglary to a vehicle and possession of burglary tools.

FORGERY ARREST

An Orlando man who allegedly cashed a $3,475 insurance check, which was supposed to have been turned over to a lien holder on the vehicle which had been destroyed in an accident, is being held in the Seminole County jail in lieu of $5,000 bond.

The man allegedly signed the check and also signed the name of Jim Lash Auto Sales, 4114 S. Orlando Drive, Sanford, on the check and cashed it at a Chevron station on State Road 434 at Interstate 4, Longwood. The check was supposed to have been turned over to the car dealer, a sheriff's report said.

James Joseph Bozzi, 73, was arrested at 11 a.m. Thursday at the Seminole County sheriff's department.

CHAIRS TAKEN

Susan W. Dec, 30, of 236 Flamingo Drive, Sanford, reported that someone entered her home through a dining room window and took two wicker chairs valued at $120. The break-in occurred around 5:50 p.m. Wednesday, and the thief left the home through a sliding glass door, a sheriff's report said.

PURSE STOLEN

Delva P. Geaty, 36, of Orlando, reported that someone took her purse from the front office of Nelson All Car Service, 1202 E. Altamonte Drive, Altamonte Springs, at 10:30 a.m. Thursday.

Food Price Hikes Accepted By Poles

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Poland's Communist regime imposed sweeping food price increases today, drawing widespread internal criticism but little unrest.

The new prices went into effect at midnight, raising food costs by about 10 percent across the board for Poles who already spend 60 percent to 70 percent of their incomes on food.

The prices of many basic items like butter, cheese, chicken and ham were increased even more — by more than 30 percent — in the wake of Poland's worst economic crisis since World War II. Bread prices jumped 25 percent.

Food price increases sparked major rioting and political upheavals in Poland in 1956, 1970, 1976 and 1980, when the Solidarity trade union was born.

But in contrast to past years, this time the government gave workers lengthy advance notice of the increases and set up a "consultative" process by which they gathered the views of the new, officially controlled trade unions that replaced Solidarity.

The initial proposals were marginally higher than those finally brought into force today, leaving an impression the authorities gave ground in the face of worker criticism.

IRA Bomb Misses Mark

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — A six-man security patrol escaped a bomb detonated by the Irish Republican Army with only minor cuts today after being lured to a bakery in Londonderry, police said.

Police said an anonymous IRA caller requested the joint army and police patrol to investigate a suspected bomb at a bakery in downtown Londonderry, 90 miles northwest of Belfast.

When the patrol arrived, the bomb was detonated by a control wire. The patrol escaped with only minor cuts.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Stranded Fisherman Loses Taste For Seafood

NEW PORT RICHEY (UPI) — What started as a one-day fishing trip for three Tampa men turned into a 10-day fight for survival when the motor on their 24-foot boat stalled in the Gulf of Mexico.

And one of the men rescued after surviving the ordeal said he will not be eating any more fish for quite some time.

The men survived by eating raw fish and rationing their water supply to one handful a day.

The men were rescued in good health on Saturday about 30 miles off the coast of New Port Richey when another fisherman spotted their boat. The Coast Guard had abandoned their search for the men Thursday.

The men spent their days trying to attract the attention of nearby boats. They spray-painted the word "help" on the side of the boat.

Refugees On Hunger Strike

MIAMI (UPI) — Nearly 120 inmates have gone on a hunger strike at the Krome Avenue detention center to protest what they consider to be foot-dragging on their cases by the U.S. government, a camp official said today.

G.O. Wagner, camp operations chief, said the 119 inmates have been carrying on the hunger strike since last Thursday.

"It's not the food. It's not the camp. It's the system," Wagner said. "The nature of their beef is that they feel the U.S. government is not expeditiously handling their cases to set them free into the mainstream of America."

Wagner said the majority of the protesters participating in the fast were Haitians, with some Indians, Bangladeshis and two Latins. He estimated most of the strikers had been in the facility between two and four months.

2 Marines Wounded In Airport Attack

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Two U.S. Marines were wounded today in a battle with anti-government militiamen who attacked the American base at the Beirut airport with rocket-propelled grenades. The clash ended when Marines fired a battle tank and mortars.

Maj. Dennis Brooks, a Marine spokesman, said the two wounded Marines had only slight injuries and returned to duty after the clash with Druze Moslem rebels opposed to the U.S.-backed government of President Amin Gemayel.

Two Lebanese civilians at the Beirut airport also were wounded in the fight, during which the Marines were on their "Condition 1" highest state of alert.

The attack was the first major clash involving the Marines in 15 days and erupted as President Reagan's Middle East envoy, Donald Rumsfeld, was flying to Damascus, where he met with Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam.

Already in Damascus were Saudi Arabia's Lebanon mediator, Rafic Hariri, and France's secretary-general of the Foreign Ministry, Francis Guitmann.

Gutmann met with Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam late Sunday concerning a security plan for the war-torn country. The security plan calls for a disengagement of warring Moslem and Christian militias in Beirut and areas to the south of the capital, and the deployment of Lebanese army troops into some of the vacuums.

It may allow for at least a partial withdrawal of 1,200 U.S. Marines stationed around Beirut airport, and the French, Italian and British contingents of the multinational peace-keeping force.

Rumsfeld, who had just returned from talks with Jordan's King Hussein in Amman, was unable to schedule a meeting Sunday with either Khaddam or with Lebanese officials, a Lebanese spokesman indicated.

Lebanese government officials said Rumsfeld's mission was aimed at "maintaining the search for common ground aimed at pushing ahead the stalled Lebanon peace efforts."

The Marines used tank fire, 60mm mortars, machine guns and M-16 rifles after being assaulted with sniper and small-arms fire and rocket propelled grenades, Brooks said.

The flareup, which forced the closure of the airport for two hours, began in mid-morning when a sniper started firing at Marines on the southern edge of their base, Brooks said.

"The Marines returned small-arms fire and the firing quit," he said.

Nearly an hour later, militiamen began hammering the Marine positions on the eastern edge of their base with rocket-propelled grenades and small-arms fire, Brooks said.

Goldwater To Quit Senate After 1986

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "Hell, no!" said Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., when asked if he would seek re-election in 1986.

Goldwater, 73, a five-term senator, has served in Congress since 1953, with a four-year interruption when he ran unsuccessfully for president in 1964.

Goldwater's political future was the last question when he appeared on Cable News Network's Newsmaker-Sunday.

"Yes or no. Are you going to run again in '86?" he was asked.

"Hell, no!" replied Goldwater as time ran out.

During the program, Goldwater warned that the Marines in Lebanon would be President Reagan's main re-election problem.

"The American people are totally, I mean totally, opposed to (the Marines in Beirut)," he said.

"Anything will hurt any man in politics when the American people disagree with him," Goldwater said. "It's the only thing that I can see that will give the president any problem in running for re-election."

...Body Pulled From Lake Monroe

boat owners John Thompson, Orange City, and his friend, C.C. Heins, Sanford, said they saw Monday morning a week ago the skid marks apparently made by Gordon's car and asked some people around the marina what happened. The two men said they were told the skid marks were made when a Volkswagen driven by a young woman skidded over the sidewalk, but she was uninjured. Since they had no reason to question what they were told, "we dropped it," Thompson said.

Gordon's car, a two-tone blue AMC Spirit, license number JUJ 920, was pulled from the basin Sunday afternoon by a Ratliff and Sons wrecker after three Seminole County Fire Rescue divers, lieutenants Bill Bibb, Gary Muse, and technician Steve Jones, located the vehicle in eight feet of water. The car, with its upholstery coated with black silt, was resting on its tires on the bottom of the basin in the brown, murky water facing where it left the road.

The vehicle's recovery, four hours after the body was discovered, drew a crowd of more than 100 on-lookers.

Gordon's father, Robert Gordon Sr., also of Sanford, reportedly knew his son was not at work Friday and was going to file a missing person report today.

Sanford Traffic Homicide detectives are investigating the drowning.

Florida Highway Patrol officers said the incident is being considered a traffic fatality bringing to four the number of traffic-related deaths in Seminole County so far this year. Before the weekend the total stood at one. Motorcycle mishaps claimed the lives of two men Saturday and Sunday.

High Levels Of DDT Found In Fish

DALLAS (UPI) — Elevated levels of fresh DDT, a potent insecticide banned 12 years ago, have surfaced in fish and wildlife in Texas, California and other Western states, and now threaten coastal breeding grounds, UPI has learned.

Investigators believe the pesticide is being smuggled from Mexico or draining from Mexican croplands.

"We keep finding DDT and DDE (a breakdown product) almost everywhere," said John Youngerman, chief of surveillance for California's water resource control board.

"I understand some clandestine visits have been made to that area (Mexican processing plants)," Youngerman said, "and we have documented numerous possible sources of infiltration."

In response to the findings, the National Audubon Society is urging a review of pesticide safety law.

DDT (dichloro diphenyl trichloroethane) was banned by the Environmental Protection Agency in 1972. It was linked to cancer in animals and residues were killing types of pelicans, falcons and the American bald eagle.

Police Search For General's Killer

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — Top government and military officials attended a funeral today for a retired army general gunned down by suspected Basque separatists as he walked home from church.

Authorities said they believed the assassins of Lt. Gen. Guillermo Quintana, 67, were still in Madrid and police searched houses in the northwest part of the city and maintained checkpoints on all highway exit routes.

Quintana, killed in front of his Madrid home Sunday, headed the Madrid military region from 1979 to 1982 and was credited with helping foil a 1981 military coup by ordering tanks and troops to remain loyal to the government.

Those attending the service at army headquarters, including Prime Minister Felipe Gonzalez, heard a military priest praise Quintana as a faithful and professional soldier.

The funeral followed a Sunday night military memorial service attended by King Juan Carlos and Queen Sofia.

The attack came at a time of extreme tension in Spain's northern Basque region. No group immediately took responsibility for the shooting but officials said they thought it was the work of ETA, an acronym for Basque Land and Liberty.

Police said Quintana was walking home from church when two gunmen fired at him at point-blank range and escaped in a white sedan with two accomplices.

Quintana's wife, Maria Elena Ramos, 58, and a retired army colonel, Francisco Gil, 64, suffered leg wounds in the attack. They were hospitalized in stable condition.

Police said they found shells from a 9mm Parabellum automatic pistol at the site, a weapon used by ETA, which has killed more than 400 military men, police and civilians in a 15-year fight for Basque independence.

Quintana was the eighth Spanish general to die in a terrorist attack since June 1978 and the first since Basque separatists killed an artillery general in Madrid in November 1982.

Some officials said they saw the murder as retaliation for the increasingly tough anti-terrorist policies of Gonzalez's socialist government, including recent sweeping arrests and a stronger preventive detention law.

Klan Official Confirms Link To Bombing Victim

DALLAS (UPI) — A Ku Klux Klan leader confirmed that a 63-year-old man who was killed by a booby-trapped newspaper vending machine was a member of the Ku Klux Klan briefly in 1976.

The victim, Ward S. Keeton, claimed to have infiltrated the Klan and the American Nazi Party as a government informer.

Keeton, a property supervisor, died instantly Friday when a bomb exploded in his face as he opened a Dallas Morning News paper rack.

Orval S. Pugh of Dallas, leader of one of Texas' Klan factions, said Sunday Klan records showed a "W. Keeton," with the same birth date as the victim, attended 16 meetings beginning in August 1976. Keeton later resigned without turning in his Klan card.

Pugh said neither he nor his group had anything to do with planting the bomb that killed Keeton.

"We would not bomb anybody, and that's being frank with you," he said. "That's too violent for the Klan."

Keeton had told fellow students in a Richland College business class two years ago that he had infiltrated the Klan and the American Nazi Party as a government informant.

Federal officials said Keeton, 63, was a government informant 20 years ago, but they also said they saw no connection between Keeton's former activities and the bombing.

"We don't have any information linking the KKK to this thing," one federal source said.

But another federal prosecutor said the investigation revealed "too many coincidences" and seemed to be "less and less random."

There was no explanation for the disparity in time between his government service and his apparent Klan membership.

Assassination Of An Educator

Another tragedy in Beirut, another life lost in the cycle of hatred and revenge, another casualty of anarchy in Lebanon — such was the assassination of Dr. Malcolm Kerr, 54, a former professor of political science at UCLA who was serving as president of the American University of Beirut.

His loss will be keenly felt on the tree-shaded campus. He was born in Beirut at the same university hospital where he was pronounced dead. His father taught medicine there.

The American University of Beirut, founded in 1866 by American Presbyterian missionaries, is one of Beirut's four major universities. Beirut has been a center of learning and culture since Roman times, and for the past century the American University, now non-denominational, has been a principal point of educational and cultural contact between the United States and the Arab world. It was here that aspiring young Arab men and women in large numbers first began to perfect their English and acquire the higher learning of the modern world.

Throughout the Lebanese troubles, the campus has continued to operate, even when fighting was going on all around it in western Beirut, even when Kerr's predecessor was kidnapped in July 1982 and taken to Iran.

One of the reasons for Kerr's death at the hands, apparently, of pro-Iranian Moslem gunmen, was his effort to keep the campus neutral. He banned demonstrations and other political activities on the campus.

The terrorists struck against him, according to an anonymous telephone call to the Beirut office of Agence France Presse, to make him "a victim of the American military presence in Lebanon."

And the anonymous caller added, "We also vow that not a single American or Frenchman will remain on this soil."

The loss of Kerr is senseless. Only the most bitter and benighted of Moslem fundamentalists will rejoice at the death of a Western educator.

We condemn the mindless violence of the gunmen who killed a great friend of Lebanon, of the Arabs and of Islam.

We share the sorrow we know the university students and faculty must feel. But the university must continue to operate. And American teachers and administrators must continue in the academic roles they have filled in Beirut for more than a century.

The marines at the Beirut airport are a symbol of America's interest as a superpower in Lebanon. They can be withdrawn, if it seems advisable. The American University is an even more powerful symbol of America's disinterested friendship and help for the people of the Arab world. It must remain and continue to educate.

Pay Now, Save Later

A recent advertisement in the Wall Street Journal — headlined "Massachusetts Tax Amnesty, a Warning and an Opportunity" — could not have been less subtle. Massachusetts, it said, is "cracking down hard" on tax evaders. Penalties have been increased, 200 new auditors have been hired, collection of delinquent taxes is up 70 percent. "If you, your company or clients have any unresolved or unreported Massachusetts tax obligations," the ad goes on, "be warned."

And then comes the good news: Until Jan. 17, Massachusetts will allow you to settle your tax problem "with no penalty charges or legal repercussions." All you have to do is apply for the amnesty and pay your taxes and interest by the deadline.

According to the ad, more than 12,000 individuals and corporations took advantage of the amnesty — filling Massachusetts' badly depleted state coffers with more than $10 million in back taxes and interest, obtained with no expenditures on the state's part for lawyers or courts. It's a tactic we'd heard of libraries using before. And on library amnesty days, too, the value of the "long lost" books returned is usually much greater than the income from fines that the libraries lose. It's something for other taxing agencies to think about, isn't it?

BERRY'S WORLD

"Don't you EVER get tired of SCREECHING TIRES and SIRENS?"

By Donna Estes

It must be at least 15 years ago that then-state Senator and now state insurance commissioner Bill Gunter was trying to get a constitutional amendment on the ballot in Florida to change the bicameral (two house) state legislative system into a unicameral (one house) system.

Finding little support for the idea, he ultimately dropped it.

Now, state Rep. Marilyn Evans-Jones, R-Melbourne, has taken up the challenge.

Ms. Evans-Jones sees an 80-to-120 member single body Legislature as a way of cutting costs in government and an answer to Proposition 1 — the citizens' choice amendment to be on the ballot in November.

Proposition 1 calls for taxes and fees imposed by city, county, and state governments as well as public school systems in Florida to be cut back to their 1980-81 level with raises limited to five percent annually or less, determined by the federal consumer price index.

Ms. Evans-Jones says that a unicameral legislature would need only half the staff and thus would cut costs. In addition there would be no need, she says, to have conference committees which can meet out of the sunshine and force adoption or rejection of bills they compose from the originals that pass the House and Senate.

She said the single body legislature could confer in public on the House floor to set verbatim in bills to be adopted.

Of the 50 states in the union only Nebraska has a unicameral legislature and its members are selected in non-partisan elections.

More than a year ago, a group of Lake Mary citizens tried unsuccessfully to convince Southern Bell to look into providing toll-free telephone service from the north end of Seminole County to Orlando.

Now, developer E. Everette Huskey has called on Jeff Etchberger, erstwhile assistant county administrator for Seminole and former Altamonte Springs city manager, from his position as executive director of the Orlando Chamber of Commerce to spearhead a similar effort.

Huskey, in a letter to Etchberger, said a toll-free telephone linkage between Sanford, Lake Mary and Orlando would "eliminate a lot of confusion" and "bring our communities in Central Florida together."

"As a realtor, builder and developer, I find this (toll calls) is a deterrent and a detriment to all concerned. It hurts business in Orlando for residents of the Lake Mary-Sanford area to have to make a long-distance call to call Orlando and it certainly hurts the Sanford area businessman," Huskey said.

Huskey asked Etchberger to take the initiative and cooperate with the local chambers of commerce and other business people in both counties to formally file a petition with the (state) Public Service Commission for the change.

"I feel that the Orlando Area Chamber of Commerce would be the logical vehicle to accomplish the task," he said.

EDWARD J. WALSH

Worldwide Unitary Tax Study

(Editor's Note: Edward J. Walsh is a staff writer for the USBIC Writer's Group. His column is published in a variety of newspapers throughout the United States.)

The passage of such tax rollback measures as Proposition 13 in California and Proposition 2½ in Massachusetts in recent years seemed to signal a sea of change in Americans' attitudes towards taxation: that they were sick of it. On the federal level, the 1978 capital gains tax reduction and President Reagan's historic 1981 tax cut strengthened the tax reduction tide.

Yet the impulse of governments to tax everything in sight dies hard, particularly their eagerness to soak business. Today, 12 states levy what are called "unitary" taxes on multinational corporations that happen to operate within their borders. Unitary taxes enable those states to realize ill-gotten revenues based on the worldwide size of companies, regardless of the profitability of the particular unit in the state.

The concept of the unitary tax is simple: the state simply taxes a multinational company that maintains plants or offices within its boundaries as a single entity, by factoring in the size and revenues of all its subsidiaries or those of foreign parent companies, and deciding arbitrarily what proportion of its business is conducted within the state. Under the unitary tax, companies can be (and have been) taxed even when they suffer losses in the taxing states, if operations elsewhere are profitable.

The unitary tax concept has the potential of reaping new bonanzas for state governments from multinationals. The tax currently produces $500 million annually for California, which is trying to extract another $35 million from Shell Oil Co. Shell has told the state that its subsidiary lost $390 million from 1973 through 1978, but the state insists that its share of Shell's worldwide profits is $46 million.

But California and other unitary tax states will suffer, as multinational corporations shy away from locating in them. Even worse, the unitary tax fever threatens to spread, since the Supreme Court upheld California's tax argument against a challenge by Shell in June and declined to hear Shell's appeal last month. Within three weeks of the June decision, Florida passed its unitary tax.

In recent years, Mobil and Exxon Corps., Chicago Bridge & Iron Works, F.W. Woolworth, and other U.S. multinationals have brought the unitary tax as far as the Supreme Court only to be turned away by the Court's tediously blind reasoning that only foreign parent corporations, not domestic subsidiaries, can invoke international treaties which the U.S. government maintains with our trading partners to govern taxation of multinational firms.

Meanwhile, state unitary taxes subvert the federal government's "arms-length" method of treating foreign companies, outrage our trading partners, and have the effect of meddling with U.S. foreign policy.

JACK ANDERSON

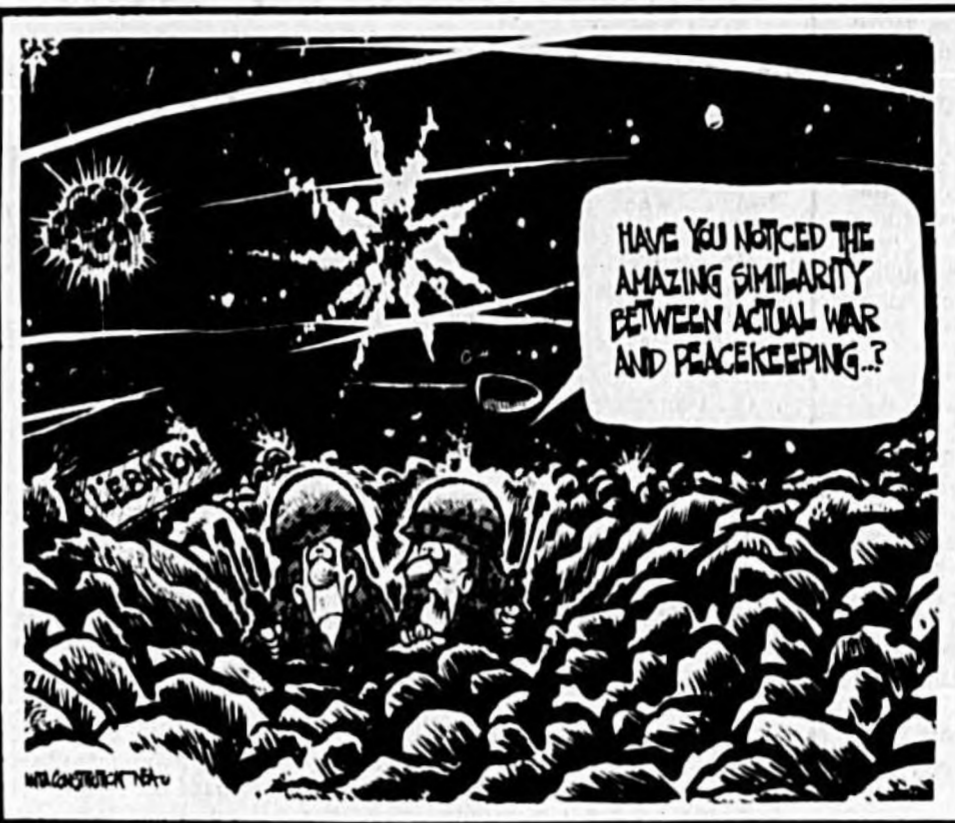

CIA Funds Guatemalan Terror Chief

WASHINGTON — For 30 years, the CIA has been bankrolling a man reported to be the evil genius behind the right-wing terror that has claimed tens of thousands of lives in Central America.

Several officials in the intelligence community and the National Security Council have vehemently protested the continuation of what they consider a sinister, shameful relationship. But intelligence sources told my associates Dale Van Atta and Jon Lee Anderson that the funding continues despite the opposition.

The CIA seems untroubled by the fact that the White House itself has denounced the right-wing death squads in El Salvador. Yet the death squads may have gotten their inspiration from the CIA's protégé, Mario Sandoval Alarcon.

A former vice president of Guatemala, he now heads the National Liberation Movement, which styles itself "the party of organized violence." At 60, Sandoval is a solid, chunky, cold-eyed hombre

ROBERT WALTERS

The Issue Of Rain

MANCHESTER, N.H. (NEA) — Gone are the half-dozen presidential candidates, the scores of journalists representing major news organizations and the hundreds of citizens from throughout the country who gathered here in early January.

But more than memories remain for those who organized the three-day Citizen's Conference on Acid Rain because they accomplished what no other group of grass-roots activists has ever been able to achieve.

For more than a decade, promoters of various causes have vied with fascination and envy the attention lavished upon presidential primaries, especially the first and most highly publicized contest here in the Granite State.

Perhaps because the drastic reduction of acid rain is an idea whose time has come, the organizers of the conference here succeeded where others had failed and integrated their concerns with the primary process.

Six of the eight contenders for the Democratic presidential nomination came to deliver substantive speeches on the issue and more than 500 people from 27 states and Canada registered as participants in the meeting.

Those present included not only environmentalists but also sportsmen concerned about the effect of acid rain on the nation's fish and game, representatives of utilities whose power plants produce much of the pollution, and Appalachian coal miners concerned about the impact an acid rain cleanup would have on their jobs.

"We demonstrated that acid rain is a national problem, not merely a regional issue," says Jackie Tuxille, who chairs the New Hampshire Citizens' Task Force on Acid Rain — which sponsored the conference.

But she also acknowledges that a complex set of political problems remain as barriers to the passage of federal legislation which virtually all experts agree is necessary to solve the problem.

More than half of the pollutants which transform rain, snow and fog into toxic substances originate in the Midwest, but prevailing winds carry those materials into the lakes, streams and forests of the Atlantic and Gulf coasts, with the highest concentrations found here in New England.

As a result, the limited congressional debate on the issue to date has degenerated into finger-pointing among those regions. Even though almost a dozen different bills on acid rain have been introduced in the House and Senate, there is little likelihood that Congress will break a three-year impasse and approve legislation this year.

Resistance to remedial action is even stronger within the White House. Throughout most of his first three years in office, President Reagan has sided with recalcitrant industry officials who have alternately claimed that there is no scientific evidence of an acid rain problem or that resolving it would be too costly.

When William D. Ruckelshaus was sworn in last May as administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, he was told by Reagan that acid rain was one of four issues "that I would like you to address as quickly as possible."

The ensuing eight months have produced no administration initiatives, however, because Ruckelshaus and David A. Stockman, director of the Office of Management and Budget, have become entangled in a feud over the cost of a cleanup program.

The conference organizers invited Reagan, Ruckelshaus, Stockman and Vice President George Bush to address the meeting here, but all declined. An administration spokesman explained, "It would be hard for us to make a positive contribution," because "we don't have a position."

"It is time to quit looking for excuses and get the debate behind us," S. David Freeman, director of the Tennessee Valley Authority, proclaimed in a compelling conference speech here.

"We will be cursed by our children and our grandchildren," he added, "if we go down in history as the generation that poisoned our waterways and our forests while arguing over who did it and how much it might cost... to clean it up."

DON GRAFF

How To Go About Losing...

I can't think what I may have done to be so favored by Richard Viguerie.

Whatever, it certainly was not intentional.

Viguerie, you know, is the super-successful direct mail entrepreneur, publisher of Conservative Digest and keeper of the ideological flame for the hard right.

For some time I've been receiving complimentary copies of the digest, which can be entertaining as it goes about what it does best — cutting up conservatives whose credentials are deemed suspect. Vice President George Bush is worked over in the current issue.

Now Viguerie has branched out as a newspaper columnist, and again I made the mailing list.

In a recent release on the communist threat in the Americas, the following passage caught my attention:

"In the last 66 years, the communists have conquered 47 nations with a current combined population of 1.6 billion. Except for mainland China and a couple of other communist countries, all of the conquered nations are now part of the Soviet Empire."

Forget for the moment how that figure of 47 "conquered" nations can be justified — possibly by including such as Guyana, Mexico, Belize, Surinam, Panama, Venezuela and Colombia, which Viguerie elsewhere cites as left-leaning abettors of communism in the Americas — and consider only the primary exception mentioned.

"Who lost China?" was a question that for decades poisoned American political debate and distorted foreign policy.

Now we know. The Soviet Union, in quite probably the most damaging setback suffered by either side in the long East-West confrontation.

The Soviets aren't in such great shape on their other front, either, where the conquered are still technically part of the empire.

Look at it this way: If you were a Red Army commander with the assignment of advancing into Western Europe in the event of hostilities, how secure would you feel with the Poles right behind you?

The fact is that the Soviet success at empire building has been such that it can be said — and not all that facetiously — that the Soviet Union is today the only country in the world largely surrounded by hostile communist states.

The point to be made here is that they win some and they lose some, and so do we. There is only one China, in a class entirely by itself. But for an Ethiopia, there is a Somalia. For a Syria, an Egypt. For a Vietnam, an Indonesia.

It is a process of trade-off likely to continue indefinitely, unless ended by the unthinkable and unwinnable.

War.

It is also a process in which we hold the long-term advantage, if we only recognize it and pursue it with patience.

Peter Schaal Award

Rinkavage Becomes 56th Winner Of Oldest Annual Sports Award

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

When the Downtown Athletic Club of New York City huddled for the first time in 1935 and voted Jay Berwanger its first Heisman Memorial Trophy, Sanford's Peter Schaal was, no doubt, chuckling somewhere.

Schaal, who died in 1979, was not viewing the recognition of the nation's finest college football player with disdain. It's just that the Downtown Athletic Club was seven years behind the presentation of what is believed to be the nation's oldest annually-presented sports trophy.

Which had to make Schaal, a former sports editor of the Sanford Evening Herald, pretty happy. Because the award — which annually goes to Seminole High School's most valuable football player — is named after him.

The Peter Schaal Award. When the first Heisman went to Berwanger, a University of Chicago running back, Sanford's Elwyn Squires was accepting the eighth Peter Schaal Award.

When Lofton Edenfield stepped up to receive the first plaque in 1928 at the football awards banquet, he probably didn't realize that 55 years later, Seminole High senior Ed Rinkavage would become the 56th recipient.

"I was kinda of surprised, I didn't know if I was going to get it," said Rinkavage. "I wanted to win it last year, but I was an offensive lineman then and I didn't think I had much of a chance."

"By moving to defense this year, I knew I had a better chance."

Rinkavage made the Peter Schaal Award one of his four goals for the season, three of which — the award, all-conference and all-county — he attained. The fourth, a college scholarship, is still up in the air although Valdosta State and Sioux Falls College are interested.

Schaal said his award should be given to the "football player the team could have least done without." Seminole coach Jerry Posey translates that, rightfully so, into the most valuable player.

"That would have to be Rinkavage," said Posey. "Ed had a great year at a new position (linebacker). In the games we won (4 of 6), he played well and usually led us in tackles."

Rinkavage shook off a slow start to finish the season second in the county in tackles. In one game alone, he made 15 tackles and three assists. Rinkavage, a strong 5-10, 200-pound middle linebacker, picked up all-conference and all-county honors against one of the best crop of linebackers this county has seen. And the blond-haired senior played hurt. He also won Optimist Club Player of the Week honors three times.

Despite the longevity of Schaal's award, it is still somewhat obscure. While researching past winners, I had to go back to 1973 before finding a list of the winners to that date. In 1980, there was no record of the winner, Nick Fisher.

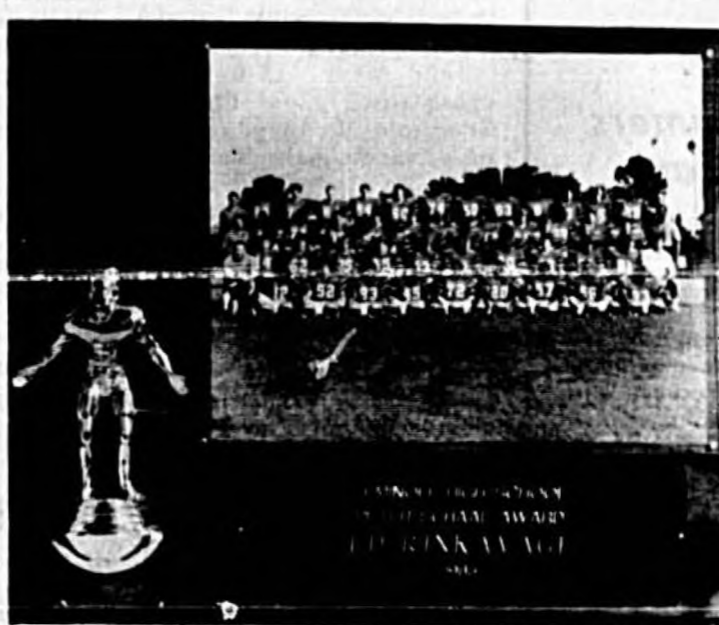

The history of the award is, indeed, interesting. There have been several double winners. Edenfield won it the first two years, Billy Fleming, a superb athlete for whom Seminole's gymnasium is named, won in 1942 and 1943, while bruising Willis Anderson was the winner in 1945 and 1946.

More recently, the athletic Whigham family has dominated the award. Not only did brothers Frank and Mark each win, but each won twice. Frank, who went on to a great career at Florida State, picked up the hardware in 1965 and 1966. Mark, who played defensive back at UCF, won in 1974 and 1975. A third brother, Tom, narrowly missed the award in 1970.

The Whigham brothers weren't the only relatives to take the award, though. Anderson's brother, Charles, won in 1949. George McClelland won in 1934 and brother Leland won two years later. Mike Whelchel, father of current Seminole quarterback Mike Jr., won in 1950 and brother John won in 1960.

A father-son combination also was honored. Jim Riser won in 1939 and 23 years later his son Butch won the award.

Schaal used to have a secret committee to pick the winner. Seminole principal Wayne Epps said he used to consult knowledgeable members of the sporting community on the award. "At least, he said he did," laughed Epps. "No one knows for sure. But he did ask me once who I thought should win the award."

Then and now. At the left is the 1959 trophy presented to Ray Lundquist, a standout Seminole running back. Lundquist, brother of Seminole baseball coach Bobby, said it's the best clock he's ever owned. Above, is the present-day trophy presented to Ed Rinkavage, complete with a color team picture of the 1983 Fighting Seminoles:

'I was kinda surprised. I didn't know if I was going to win it but I knew I had a better chance this year because I was on defense.'

— Ed Rinkavage,
56th Winner of the Peter Schaal Award.

Epps is primarily responsible for keeping the award going. He and Schaal were good friends and Epps has looked out for it over the past few years as an assistant principal and now as principal.

Now, the Seminole football coaching staff makes the selection.

Schaal's daughter, Orlandoan Sandra Hinson, said the award began when her father worked for a Sanford bank in the mid 1920s.

"Daddy was always a frustrated athlete himself," she said. "I think he just wanted to do something for the players at the high school."

Little did he know, 56 years later it would still be going strong.

Merthie — The Exception

Ex-Seminole 2nd Stringer Lifts SCC Past Santa Fe

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Seminole High School's second-string players usually spend their post-prep years in area gyms on Sunday afternoons. If not that fortunate, they wear out their soles on the blacktop down by Lake Monroe.

Meet Bernard Merthie — the exception.

Four years ago, Merthie was an awkward — but developing — 6-2 forward on coach Bill Payne's Fighting Seminole basketball team. He played about half the time, coming off the bench as the third forward on a team short on talent and long on inexperience.

No one gave this gangly left-hander too much chance of going past those Sunday afternoons and blacktop one-on-ones. No one that is but the most important person — Bernard Merthie himself.

A good student of the game, Merthie spent a year honing his skills, added three inches in height, a few pounds to his frame and won a spot as a walk-on at SCC last year. A broken finger slowed his progress somewhat but he eventually worked his way into the starting lineup on a team which won 20 games.

Although his role changed midway through this year, he now comes off the bench as a valuable sixth man. It's doubtful that Payne's Raiders would be in contention for first place in the Mid-Florida Conference without Merthie's all-around skills.

J.C. Basketball

He showed them off again Saturday night. Merthie popped off the bench to hit 5 of 6 floor shots for 11 points along, hand out four assists, and make six big steals to lead the Raiders to a big 78-74 victory over Santa Fe at the SCC Health Center before 101 fans.

The victory kept the 5-2 Raiders on the heels of 6-1 frontrunner Florida Junior and also put a little distance between the rest of the pack. Daytona Beach is 4-2 while Lake City is 4-3 and 16-10 Santa Fe fell to 3-4 halfway through the conference schedule. SCC, 16-9 overall, faces ineligible Central Florida Wednesday in a conference game which doesn't count before going to Daytona Beach Saturday.

Although Merthie prefers to start, he sees his fresh-blood role as a challenge. "I have to come in ready to play," he said Saturday. "If I don't play well...I'm coming out."

There was no chance of that Saturday. After jumping to an 18-8 lead, the Raiders relaxed and the Saints pulled within 18-12. Merthie then came off the bench and worked SCC's "Auburn Offense" perfectly, hitting a swift cutting Linny Grace for two layups and then adding a bucket himself for a 25-14 lead with 7:50 to play in the first half.

Four turnovers by the Raiders at the end of the first half, however, enabled the Saints to creep within six at halftime. Delvin Everett continued his offensive turnaround with 10 first-half points while Luis Phelps, Jimmy Payton and Grace each tallied six. Mike Summers was a one-man gang for Santa Fe with 19.

Again in the second half, turnovers cut the Raiders lead to two until Merthie put it together. With 15 minutes to go, he hit a soft one-hander, grabbed a key rebound, fed Grace for a bucket and scored again for a 50-44 lead.

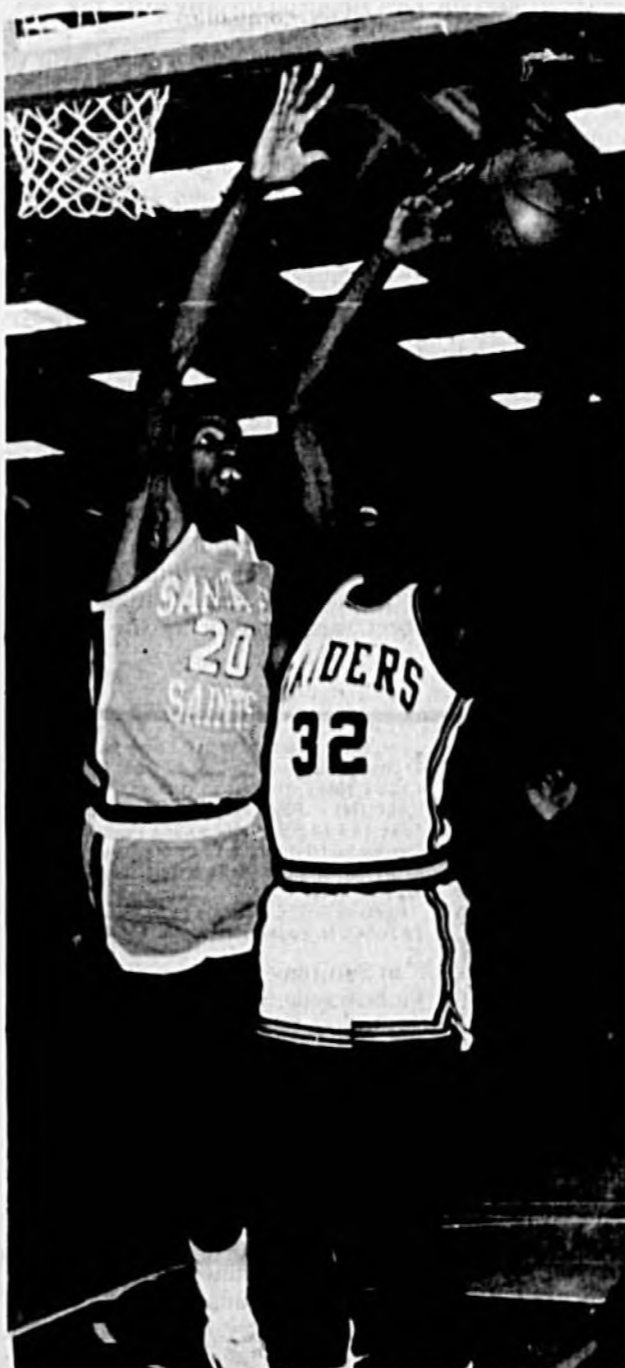

Five minutes later, he was the catalyst again, teaming with Payton and Grace for three quick steals and a 56-48 edge. "That little spurt definitely helped," said Payne. "And that second one should have put away the game."

The second one came with five minutes to play as Payton drew a charge, then handed out assists to Everett and Artis Johnson. Payton scored from long range for a 71-56 lead which should have sent the Saints packing.

But it didn't. Johnny Rogers and Jimmy Johnson began to blister the nets from downtown and Santa Fe cut to the lead to nine points. SCC then missed three straight bonus free throws. "We were worrying too much," said Payne about his usually-reliable free tossers. "When they started hitting everything it just snowballed."

The snowball continued to gather speed as Rogers and Johnson hit two more jumpers and two free throws to pull the Saints within

WCPX-TV Earns Disservice Award With All-Star Game Snub

This week's Community Disservice Award should be given to Orlando's own WCPX-TV.

You remember them, number six on your dial, number 100 in your heart.

Channel 6, here after referred to as "those guys," saw fit to not telecast Sunday's NBA All-Star Game. The CBS network was televising the game live across the country; well all across the country except for the Orlando market. The game would have been on at 2 p.m. in the afternoon.

In its place, those guys telecast a one hour special called "Athletes in Action," and the University of Florida-Mississippi basketball game.

What a blockbuster programming move by those guys. "Athletes in Action" was, I'm sure, an honorable program; but in the place of the NBA All-Star Game? Come on, give me a break.

And the Florida-Mississippi game. Well that's a real winner. Florida had an 8-7 record and Mississippi had a 5-11 record. Certainly not one of the hot rivalries in college basketball. The Gators are much better in the SEC where they trail just one game, but coach

Lou Stefano

Herald Sports Writer

Norm Sloan's gang slaughtered perennial doormat Mississippi by 30 points, which was expected.

Frankly, when I heard that those guys weren't going to televise the game, I thought it was a joke. The network had been advertising the game since Christmas time and I was going to consider it a late Christmas present.

I mean what better way to spend a Sunday afternoon, calmly of course. WHY AREN'T THEY TELEVISIONING THE GAME?????

According to one report, the game wasn't shown because those guys have a contract with the Southeastern Conference (SEC) to televise all SEC-Florida games. "We contracted for all the SEC-Florida

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar. I get to drooling just thinking about it.

I checked the Sunday newspaper and was optimistic that I would find the game listed, it wasn't. Still, I kept a glimmer of hope as I called the station to get the rundown. I knew I had been had when all I got was a busy signal. More people must have had the same idea.

After that I didn't even consider the alternative programming. They can't sucker me. They could have shown anything and I wouldn't have watched. Roots, *M*A*S*H* reruns, Gone With the Wind, Harlem Globetrotters, whatever, I still wouldn't have watched out of spite. Not even General Hospital, well maybe General Hospital — no not even that. I do have principles.

Now any self-respecting sports fan would have asked, calmly of course. WHY AREN'T THEY TELEVISIONING THE GAME?????

According to one report, the game wasn't shown because those guys have a contract with the Southeastern Conference (SEC) to televise all SEC-Florida games. "We contracted for all the SEC-Florida games, and this one conflicted with the All-Star game," said WCPX program manager Everett Hughes. "There is nothing we can do about it."

Nothing they could do about it. Those guys had to have known about this problem many months in advance and they still couldn't figure out a solution?

I've got a few ideas. How about calling the SEC offices and saying to the man in charge, "Hey the two games conflict, can we skip this one." Those guys do have lawyers and spokesmen don't they?

Or how about showing a delayed broadcast of the Florida-Mississippi game. Or even a delayed broadcast of the All-Star Game. They do it all the time with the U.S. Open golf and tennis coverages. They even did it with last year's NBA playoffs. Hey, I'm willing to compromise.

Another idea would have been to show the Florida-Mississippi game at 12 noon in place of the Arkansas-Villanova game that was shown. I'm sure the Florida basketball team would have moved the starting time of

Pamela A. Hattaway Weds D.E. Williams

Pamela Ann Hattaway and Dale E. Williams were married Saturday, Jan. 7, at 2 p.m., at the First Baptist Church of Sweetwater, Sweetwater Oaks, Longwood. The Rev. Dr. Joseph Vernon performed the double ring ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Hattaway of Altamonte Springs. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Roscoe Williams of Apopka, and the late Mr. Williams.

Mrs. Dale E. Williams

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride chose for her vows a formal candlelight lace gown, fashioned along the Victorian silhouette, lavishly embellished with pearl designs and reembroidered lace motifs. The controlled skirt gracefully cascaded into a sweeping chapel train. A lace and pearl cap secured her tiered veil of imported illusion. She carried a crescent bouquet of pink roses, pink carnations and three white orchids showered with trailing English lily.

Teri Hattaway attended her sister as maid of honor. She wore a Bill Blass cranberry off-the-shoulder chiffon gown and carried a crescent bouquet of roses, vanda orchids, pink carnations and trailing lily.

Bridesmaids were Julie Haines, Nicola Blackwell and Diane Blackwell, cousins of the bride. Their gowns and flowers were identical to the honor attendant's. During the ceremony, the bridesmaids were grey tuxedos with pink rose boutonnieres.

Ushers were Milt Williams and Jennifer Daugherty, both nieces of the bridegroom. Flower girl was Melissa Williams, niece of the bridegroom, and ring bearer was Bert Wright, cousin of the bride.

A reception followed the ceremony. The colors of cranberry and pink were carried out in the decor. One of the decorating highlights was an ice sculpture of a heart and two doves created by Bill Norris Jr. of Sanford and Chuluota.

Following a wedding trip to Puerto Rico the newlyweds are making their home in Altamonte Springs.

Men Who Batter Women Are Sick; Need Help

DEAR ABBY: On Christmas Eve my husband and I got into an argument and he hit me in my eye with his fist. It felt like he had knocked my eyeball back into my head, so I went to the emergency room where I was X-rayed. Luckily no bones were broken.

When I got home he hit me under the chin, causing a knot to appear, so I took my two kids and went to a friend's house for the night. He followed me, forced the door open and demanded that I go home with him. I refused, so he lighted the curtain with a cigarette lighter and left. Fortunately, my friend and I were able to put the fire out.

The next day when I went home, the place was a wreck. My clothes were all ripped up, lamps broken, etc.

When he came home he said he doesn't even remember hitting me. Then he said he was sorry. Well, being sorry doesn't help my face any. He could have blinded me or broken my chin.

I don't love him anymore and he sure couldn't love me and treat me this way, Abby. I don't want him here. Is there any way I can get him out and keep him out? And how can I keep him from bothering me? He's 26 and I'm 31.

ABUSED IN ATLANTA

DEAR ABUSED: Contact your nearest shelter for battered women. The people there not only provide abused women with temporary shelter, they tell them how to protect themselves from further abuse. Be prepared to get a restraining order against your husband. If he violates that order he will be locked up. He sounds like a sick man, but that doesn't excuse his brutal behavior. First, protect yourself and your children. Then insist that he be examined by a psychiatrist.

Please write again and let me know how you're doing. I care.

DEAR ABBY: A guy I work with said he was a little short just before Christmas, so he asked if I could let him have $50 until after the first of the year. I gave him the $50 and so far he hasn't said anything about it. Do you think he's forgotten?

BIGHEARTED

DEAR BIG: Not yet. But give him a little more time and he probably will.

DEAR ABBY: I had to laugh when I read your readers' suggestions on how to turn down a date without hurting a man's feelings. Most people recommended honesty.

Many long years ago, I was a showgirl in New York. A dear man asked me if I would go out with him. He was easily a head shorter than I was. I turned him down as gently as I could. It didn't say, "You're too short for me." I said "I'm too tall for you."

The next day I received two dozen long-stemmed roses with a card that read, "Can I help if I like long-stemmed roses? Thanks for your honesty." It was signed "Shorty."

It warmed my heart, so I called him up and asked if it was too late to change my mind. He said no. He took me out after the show that night, and the night after, and the night after, etc.

You guessed it, Abby. I married the guy, and if we make it until April of '84, we'll celebrate our 50th wedding anniversary.

NO SOMETIMES MEANS MAYBE

(If you put off writing thank-you notes or letters of sympathy because you don't know what to say, get Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send $2 and a long, stamped (37 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 38913, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.)

Blood Pressure Pills Not Forever

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm taking blood pressure pills, including Inderal and Dyazide. I'm also about 100 pounds overweight. I'm trying to lose weight, but I'm having a hard time. Once you get on high blood pressure pills, do you ever get off?

DEAR READER — Yes, many people on blood pressure medicine eventually get off. A report from last year's scientific sessions of the American Heart Association made this point. As many as half the people who were taking high blood pressure pills did not need to continue after a period of time.

There are many reasons for this. One, of course, is that people change their lifestyle and lose weight. I'm glad to hear you're making an effort to eliminate that excess body fat, because that just may be the ticket to improving your overall health. It may lower your blood pressure enough that you might be able to discontinue the medicine.

I think the most important thing people can do for high blood pressure is to get rid of excess body fat. In my opinion, that's more important than controlling salt intake. A sensible exercise program that includes walking may help you lose weight.

However, I wouldn't want anyone to stop taking medicine without his doctor's permission. Let your doctor decide if you should continue your blood pressure medicine or not.

I'm sending you the Health Letter 15-8, Your Vital Blood Pressure, which will explain to you what is important and what is safe for you. Others who want this issue can send with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read all the fine print on prepared foods because monosodium glutamate afece. I feel as though I have tight armor around my body. The tenseness may last all day, then suddenly I'm "free" again. I'm sure other people are affected this way and don't realize what's causing their discomfort. Why do they put MSG in so many

DEAR READER — If MSG affects you, it's wise to avoid it. But I must tell you it's simply a sodium (the same sodium in table salt) and glutamic acid, an amino acid found in many proteins that we eat. It's a perferacutal product. It has been used by the masses of the world for centuries.

The fact that it affects you does not mean MSG is dangerous or should not be used, any more than tomatoes should be banned because some people have vitamins to tomatoes.

Early studies casting doubt on the safety of MSG were not confirmed by later studies. But like any other food, there are some people who are intolerant to it. When that occurs, avoid it, although that is sometimes hard to do.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY JANUARY 31, 1984

There are strong possibilities you'll have more involvements this coming year that bring you before the public. Always conduct yourself in ways that will enhance your image.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) There is a chance that you are presently spending too much time on goals which may not gratify you once they are attained. Recheck your targets. What's in store for you where your work or career is concerned is revealed in Aquarius's Astro-Graph for the year ahead. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Others may find you difficult to please today because of your reluctance to honestly express what is really disturbing you. Open up a bit.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Screen carefully persons with whom you associate today. Avoid being too closely identified with one who is always stirring up trouble.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Objectives important to you may not be of equal interest to your companions today. They could disuade you from your goals.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Normally you're the type who tries to be helpful. However, today you might pretend to be unavailable to one who needs assistance.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) There is a possibility you may leave too much up to chance for your own good today. Probabilities could prove to be unreliable allies.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) An old issue which caused friction in your household may surface again today. Strive to treat it more tactfully this time.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Even though co-workers may do things that displease you today, try to look the other way. Caustic remarks or criticism could create serious problems.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be a trifle more security-conscious than usual where your prized possessions are concerned today. Carelessness may invite loss or theft.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Being too insistent upon doing things your way today can cause frustrations. Handle with tolerance conditions that inhibit your independence.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Actions motivated by spite or a desire to get even with another will backfire and leave you worse off than when you began.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) On occasion your better judgment has deserted you and you've been too generous to the wrong people. This might be one of those days.

heart, but had to win the second one. Then he ran off five diamond tricks and tried the spade finesse, since he saw no other way to get his ninth trick. The finesse lost and the defenders had discarded well, so he went down one."

Oswald: "If he had counted, he would have seen that he could get a second trick from the heart suit. He could tell that the fourth-best heart lead left East with two hearts higher than the five. One was the king. The other was sure to be the 10 or nine, since if West held Q-10-9 with one to three smaller ones, he would have made the standard lead of the 10."

Jim: "If South had done this counting, he would simply have won the first heart and led back his jack to establish dummy's eight of hearts as his ninth trick."

Oswald: "West might complicate things for South by leading a spade at trick three, but dummy's eight would force East's king, and the queen of spades would be his ninth trick. In all probability South would collect a 10th one somewhere."

Jim: "Here is a three no-trump contract. When South played the hand, he carefully ducked the first
